Cf. Würzburg L 532 (ARV 2 587, 54; 1660; Langlotz, KatWürzb pl. 195). I. bearded and naked, with club, on London B 193 (= H. 1883).

Uncertain

19. (= H. 1917*) Calyx-crater, Attic rf. Palermo, Mus. Naz. 13840. - ARV 2 613, 4; P. of Woolly Satyrs; Add 269; Schauenburg, K., Gymnasium 70, 1963, 126 pl. 9, 1-2. - About 450 B.C. - Herakles, naked, sitting on rock (frontal face) with dead lion at his feet; to l., seated king (Eurystheus?) and youth in pilos, chlamys, lionskin (!) and boots, with spears and bow (perhaps I.), standing before him.

b) Herakles and the Lernean Hydra

Attic Vases

20. (= H. 1998*) Neck-amphora, bf. Paris, Louvre E 851. - ABV 97, 24; Tyrrhenian Group; CVA 1 pls. 5 (35), 5; 7 (37), 4; Schauenburg, K., AJA 1971, 172 figs. 15-16. - 560-550 B.C. - Herakles and I. (helmet, corselet) attacking the Hydra with sword and torch respectively. Behind H., from l. to r., two horses with woman holding the reins, Hermes and Athena.

21. (= H. 2003) Neck-amphora, bf. Paris, Louvre F 386. - Haspels, ABL 238, 131; Diosphos P.; Schauenburg, o.c. 20, 173 figs. 17-18. - 500-490 B.C. - A: Herakles attacking Hydra with harpe; B: On the l., I. as warrior (helmet, corselet, greaves, sword hanging) shooting to l.; on the r., Athena hurrying to r., crab before her.

22.* Lekythos, bf. wg. Copenhagen, NM Chr. VIII. 946. - Haspels, ABL 234, 52; Diosphos P.; CVA 3 pl. 112, 2. - 500-490 B.C. - Herakles and I. (warrior as on 21, shield on ground) attack Hydra with harpe and torch respectively; Athena with owl behind Herakles.

23. (= H. 1702*/2502) Volute-crater, rf. Malibu, Getty Mus. 77.AE.11. - ARV<sup>2</sup> 186, 51-52: Kleophrades P.; Getty Mus. 4, 1977, 69 fig. 12; Getty Vases 2 (1985) 197 fig. 15; 201 fig. 20. - 500-490 B.C. - Only Hydra and I. preserved; I. (helmet, greaves, shield and spear in l. hand) attacks from r. with torch.

Other examples with I. are H. 1996. 1997. 1999-2002. 2004-2006. 2008. 2009. 2012-2015. 2017. 2018.

Non-Attic Vases

24.* Aryballos fr., Corinthian bf. Corinth C-71-321. From Corinth. - Amandry, P./Amyx, D. A., AntK 25, 1982, 102 no. 2 fig. 1, 2 pl. 18, 2; Amyx, CVP 558, 8. - 610-600 B.C. - I. (inscr. FIOAAFOE), beardless, in short chiton, attacking the Hydra with a harpe from the r.

25. (= H. 2011 with bibl.) Aryballos, Corinthian bf. Athens, Kanellopoulos Mus. 392. - Amandry/Amyx, o.c. 24, no. 3 fig. 1, 3; Amyx, CVP 559, 13. - About 600 B.C. - Herakles and I. (as on 24), both named, attack the Hydra with sword and harpe respectively. Club and bow behind Herakles, horse behind I. Arrow on snake body.

26.* Skyphos, Corinthian bf. Paris, Louvre CA 3004. - Lorber, Inscriften no. 37 pl. 9; Amandry/Amyx, o.c. 24, no. 13 fig. 2, 13; Amyx, CVP 561, 19 pl. 73, 2. - 580-570 B.C. - On the l., Herakles attacking Hydra with club; behind him, chariot and Athena with oinochoe. On the r., I. (as on 24), inscr. FIOAAE, with harpe.

Cf. also H. 1990-1995; cup fr. Bonn 697.82 (Amandry/Amyx, o.c. 24, no. 11 fig. 2, 11 pl. 18, 3); dinos fr. Athens, NM, from Vari (ArchEph 1970, 86-113 fig. 1 pl. 33).

27.* (= H. 2015a) Cup fr., Laconian bf. Samos, Mus. K 176. From Samos. - Stibbe, LakVas no. 206a pl. 68, 3; Hunt P.; Pipili, LacI no. 6 fig. 5. - About 560 B.C. - Herakles on the l. (only l. arm preserved) grasping snake body; I., beardless, inscr. FIOAAE, on the r.

Other non-Attic vases: H. 2007 (Eretrian bf.; I. with sword like Herakles). 2016 (Caeretan; I. at l., beardless, with harpe). 2010 (Apulian rf.; I. with torch and sword).

Other works

28. (= H. 2019* with bibl.) Bronze fibula. London, BM 3205. From Boeotia. - Brommer, Herakles<sup>2</sup> pl. 11; Pittschen, Sagendarstellungen 147 SB 28. - About 700 B.C. - On the l. half of the fibula, Herakles (only lower part preserved) with sword grasping all Hydra heads; beneath Herakles, a small I. with harpe; crab.

Cf. the fibulae H. 2020 and Heidelberg Univ., with I. on the l. I. appears also on the reliefs H. 2021-2025.

29. (= H. 2031; H. [Dodekathlos] 1697) Chest of Kypselos. - Paus. 5, 17, 11. - Probably 2nd quarter of 6th cent. B.C. - Herakles shooting at Hydra; Athena behind him. The I. in chariot believed by Paus. to belong to the adjacent Games for Pelias was probably part of the Hydra scene.

c) Herakles and the Erymanthian Boar

(i) Herakles wrestling with the Boar

30.* Neck-amphora, Attic bf. Würzburg, Wagner-Mus. L 182. - ABV 327, 4: Long-Nose P.; Langlotz, KatWürzb pl. 54. - About 520 B.C. - Herakles and the boar between I. (bearded, chitoniskos, holding club, sword hanging) on the l. looking away from the scene and Athena on the r. moving r. and looking back at the fight.

Cf. Bologna 64 (CVA 2 pl. 38, 3) and Germany, Private (Hornbostel, W., Aus der Glanzzeit Athens [1986] 61 no. 22; I. in corselet, with club); Paris, Louvre F 213 (ABV 369, 110; CVA 3 pl. 26, 4; I. wrapped in himation); Boulogne 64 (I. in corselet, with spear).

(ii) Herakles delivering the Boar to Eurystheus

31.* Neck-amphora, Attic bf. New York, MMA 06.1021.88. - ABV 282, 1: Group of Toronto 305; CVA 4 pl. 26. - About 520 B.C. - Herakles delivering the boar to Eurystheus between I. on the l. (bearded, in chitoniskos, holding club and bow) and Athena on the r.

Cf. Heidelberg S 180 (ABV 692; CVA 1 pl. 34, 4); H. 2123. I. with club only: Tarquinia 1503 (Para 145, 5bis; CVA 1 pl. 10, 1); London B 161 (= Athena 518); Mississippi Univ. 1977.3.63 (AJA 60, 1956, pl. 8, 36, 40; beardless). In corselet holding club: H. 2125. 2127. In himation holding club: Copenhagen, NM 3858 (ABV 290, 1; CVA 3 pl. 107, 2).

32.* Neck-amphora, Attic bf. Toronto, ROM 927.39. 2 (305). - ABV 282, 2: Group of Toronto 305; CVA 1 pls. 11, 3; 12, 3. - 520-510 B.C. - Herakles delivering the boar; I. at l., bearded, in chiton and himation, holding spears, quiver on back; Athena on the r.

Cf. H. 2117 (in corselet, with spears).

d) Herakles and the Kerynitian Deer

The youth in chlamys and petasos, with spears, standing next to Athena and watching Herakles on H. 2197 (= Artemis 1317, = Apollon 1053), is probably I. The youth with bow and arrows on H. 2189 is more likely to be Apollo than I.

e) Herakles and the Stymphalian Birds

33. (= H. 2244) Neck-amphora, Attic bf. Paris, Louvre F 387. From Vulci. - Haspels, ABL 238, 132: Diosphos P.; Pottier, Vases Louvre pl. 87 (B); Flacelière, R./Devambez, P., Héraclès, images et récits (1966) pl. 7; HDHG (Rouen) 222-223 no. 90. - Early 5th cent. B.C. - A: Herakles fighting the birds to the r.: B: I. (helmet, corselet, sword hanging) fighting to the l., sling in l. hand; spears and shield on ground.

Cf. H. 2243 (I. with bow in one hand, sling in the other).

A very uncertain case is the bronze fibula H. 2280 showing two (male?) figures each holding a bird.

f) Herakles and the Cretan Bull

34. (= H. 2329*) Amphora, Attic bf. Munich, Antikenslg. 1407 (J. 614). From Vulci. - ABV 290: Circle of Antimenes P.; Add<sup>2</sup> 75; CVA 1 pl. 37, 2; Boardman, ABFH fig. 194. - About 510 B.C. - Herakles tying the bull; on the l. I., bearded, naked, cloak over extended l. arm, holding club; another club beside him.

35.* Bell-crater, Apulian rf. Naples, Mus. Naz. 81410 (H 2865). From Bari. - RVAp I 133, 292: P. of Naples 2865; Moret, Ilioupersis pl. 76, 1. - 370-360 B.C. - Herakles attacking the bull with club, crowned by a Nike, between I. at l. (youth in cloak and pillos, holding spear and shield) and Athena at r.

36. (= H. 2346*) Volute-crater, Apulian rf. Ruvo, Mus. Jatta 1097. From Ruvo. - RVAp I 417, 16: Lycurgus P.; RVAp Suppl. I 56; Sichtermann, SlgJatta K 72 pls. 120; 122, 1. - Around 350 B.C. - On the neck, Herakles wrestling with the bull; Athena seated at l.; I. (youth in cloak, holding club and quiver), seated woman and Eros at r.

Other examples with I. watching the fight: Bf., H. 2309. 2323. 2341 (three l.). 2343. Baltimore 48.251 (ABV 491, 54). London B 441 (ABV 563, 575). Nicosia 1968/V.30/348. Parma C 139 (CVA 1 pl. 19 [2020], 1-2). Rf., H. 2350. 2352. Leningrad B 2680 (ARV<sup>2</sup> 1337, 5; RA 1982, 114-115 fig. 3).

g) Herakles and the Amazons

37. (= Amazones 1*) Alabastron, Corinthian bf. Once Imbros. From Samothrace. - Fredrich, C., AM 1908, 112 fig. 32; Payne, NC 130. 161. 283 no. 366; Bothmer, Amazons 3 no. 4; Lorber, Inscriften no. 24 fig. 19; Amyx, CVP 557, 4. - Late 7th cent. B.C. - Three Amazons, named, fighting against three Greeks named Herakles, I. (inscr. [or miscopied] AIOAAE instead of FIOAAE) and Menoitias (?).

I. may also be present in the fight on → Amazones 16* (Bothmer, Amazons 12-13) and in the more peaceful → Amazones 780 (= H. 2461) and Switzerland, Branca Coll. (RVAp II 476, 5 pl. 169, 1-2). It is also possible that the I. (inscr. IOAEO) in a chariot on the reverse of the cup → Amazones 62* is associated with the Amazonomachy on the obverse.

h) Herakles and Geryon

The only example with I. present is H. 2501 (= Eurytion II 44) where I., named, stands fully armed watching the fight. It is not at all certain if he was also present on the west side of the Athenian Treasury at Delphi (metope 28 with a warrior may not belong to the Geryon series; see H. 2506/Eurytion II 52).

The helmeted charioteer in a frontal chariot on side B of → Geryoneus 16* (= Eurytion II 47, = Athena 512) has been associated with the Herakles scene on A (Lippold, G., JdI 67, 1952, 81-83; Scheffold, SB II 117; Brize, P., Die Geryoneis des Stesichoros und die frühe griechische Kunst [1980] 43) but might well be a separate picture (cf. Robertson, C. M., CIQ 63, 1969, 208-209).

i) Herakles and Kerberos

A male figure present apart from the usual deities on some Attic bf. vases might be I. See H. 2585 (youth with bow). 2594 (youth with spear). 2592 (man with bow and club). 2607 (man in chlamys and petasos). Lekythos D. J. Coll., Ostwestfalen (Korzus, B., ed., Griechische Vasen aus Westfälischen Sammlungen [1984] 194 no. 75; warrior in full armour with spears and shield).

j) Herakles and the Hesperides

38. (= H. 2717*) Hydria, Attic rf. London, BM E 224. - ARV<sup>2</sup> 1313, 5: Meidias P.; CVA 6 pl. 91 (366); Arias/Shefton/Hirmer pl. 214; Burn, L., The Meidias Painter (1987) 15-25 pls. 1-3. - About 410 B.C. - Herakles seated, Hesperides, I. (inscr. IOAEΩE) in chlamys, with spear, moving r. and looking back.

39.* (= H. 2723) Hydria, Attic rf. New York, MMA 24.97.5. - Richter/Hall no. 171 pl. 166; Metzger, Représentations pl. 27, 4. - About 350 B.C. - Herakles and an Hesperid on either side of tree. With I. (mantle loosely draped), two more Hesperides, Pan, a satyr and a Nike flying towards Herakles.

Other examples with another male figure (I.?) are the bf. H. 2716 (warrior) and the rf. H. 2718 (youth with spear) and 2726 (youth in himation leaning on staff).

D. Iolaos in Herakles' expedition to Troy

a) Herakles sacrificing to Chryse

One of the young companions of Herakles in the few Attic rf. representations of the scene might be I.: → Chryse I 2* (inscr. IOAJEΩN?). 3*. 4*. 5. and cf. H. 2789 with a sacrifice which might also be for Chryse.

b) Herakles rescuing Hesione

40. Column-crater, Corinthian bf. Boston, MFA 63.420. From Cerveteri. - BullMFA 61, 1963, 159 fig. 10; The Trojan War in Greek Art. A Picture Book. Museum of Fine Arts Boston (1965) pl. 2; Scheffold, SB II 139 fig. 181. - 560-550 B.C. - Herakles shooting at the Ketos in the presence of Hesione. Behind Herakles, chariot turned l.; the charioteer (long dress, helmet) is presumably I.

c) The fight at Troy

The East pediment of the temple of Aphaia on Aegina (= H. 2792) is usually interpreted as Herakles' Trojan War. The youth who runs to help in front of the shooting Herakles has been identified with I.

E. Iolaos in scenes of Herakles with other adversaries

a) Herakles and Acheloos

41. (= Acheloos 228) Statuary group in wood and gold once in the Megarian Treasury at Olympia. Lost.

— Paus. 6, 19, 12: by the artist Dontas (a corruption for Medon?). — Late 6th cent. B. C. — Paus. mentions as spectators of the fight Athena, Deianeira, Zeus and Ares. The last two might actually have been Oineus and an armed I. respectively (Isler, H. P., Acheloos [1970] 107; Beck, I., Ares [1984] 77. 138–139; Brommer, Herakles II 74). Cf. the seated old man and warrior on London B 313 (= Acheloos 248*).

b) Herakles and Alkyoneus

A warrior sometimes helping Herakles (→ Alkyoneus 11*. 16) is usually regarded as Telamon after Pindar's passage (N. 4, 25). I., however, also took part in the expedition against Troy during which the event took place. See also the rf. volute-crater Malibu 84.AE.974 (GettyMusJ 13, 1985, 170 no. 24) on the neck of which a warrior (Telamon or I.?) drives away Alkyoneus' cattle while Herakles attacks the sleeping giant.

c) Herakles and Antaios

A warrior, perhaps I., is present on → Antaios I 6 and 9.

d) Herakles and Apollo struggling over the tripod

42.* (= Apollon 1037, = Artemis 1310, = H. 3034) Column-crater, Attic bf. New York, MMA 07.286.78. — v. Bothmer, D., in Festschr. F. Brommer (1977) 52–53 no. 16 pls. 17–18. — 530–520 B. C. — Herakles and Apollo flanked by chariots driven by I. (beardless, wearing corselet over charioteer's dress) on the r. and → Lykomedes on the l., both turning to watch the struggle. Behind the chariots, Artemis on the l. and Athena on the r. All names inscribed.

43. (= H. 3027*) Cup, Attic rf. Rome, Villa Giulia 27250. From Todi. — ARV<sup>2</sup> 124, 8: Nikosthenes P.; CVA 2 pls. 24; 25, 2–3; 26, 2; v. Bothmer, o.c. 42, no. 18. — About 520–510 B. C. — Herakles and Apollo struggling over the tripod. On the l., chariot driven by youth wearing helmet, probably I. Beyond horses, Athena running towards Herakles.

The central group of the east pediment of the Siphnian Treasury at Delphi (= H. 3026 = Apollon 1038) is flanked by a pair of shorter figures and chariots. One of the small figures on the r. has been identified as I. (v. Bothmer, o.c. 42, 52). Cf. the anonymous male figures on the r. of Herakles on the lekythoi H. 3040–3042 (on 3041 it is a hoplite).

e) Herakles and the Kentauroi

(i) Herakles and Pholos

Anonymous spectators occasionally flank the scene. On lekythoi there is often, as in other scenes, a youth present, sometimes moving away. When he is given a club, as on Copenhagen, NM Chr. VIII. 948 (Haspels, ABL 247, 8; CVA 3 pl. 111, 18), we are entitled to call him I. A bearded man in chiton, chlamys, petasos, with spear (I.?) stands behind Pholos on New York, MMA 41.162.2 (CVA 4 pl. 49, 1–2).

(ii) Herakles fighting the Kentauroi

Herakles is not normally assisted by a companion in this fight. In the two exceptions below there is probably a confusion with the battle of Lapiths and Centaurs (cf. the fallen hoplite on Würzburg L 198: ABV 224, 1; Langlotz, KatWürzb pl. 51):

44.* (= H. 1426 [other side]) Cup, Attic rf. Los Angeles, County Mus. 50.8.15 (A 5933.50–21). — ARV<sup>2</sup> 125, 11: Nikosthenes P. (signed by the potter Pamphaios); Add<sup>2</sup> 176; CVA 1 pls. 37, 1; 38, 1. — 510–500 B. C. — Herakles with sword and a young companion, perhaps I. (naked, holding Boeotian shield and spear), fight back to back against three centaurs; cloak and quiver hang.

45. Bell-crater, Campanian rf. Tübingen 673 (F 46). — LCS 314, 635: Near the Caivano P.; Watzinger, KatTübingen 65 pl. 44; Schauenburg, K., AntK 5, 1962, pl. 22, 2. — 3rd quarter of 4th cent. B. C. — Herakles in lionskin, with club in r. hand and bow in l., fights two centaurs, one of whom is collapsing. To l., young warrior, perhaps I., in pilos, short chiton, chlamys, greaves, carrying a shield and brandishing a spear.

f) Herakles and Kyknos

46. (= Apollon 922, = Ares 42*, = Halios Geron 1*) Oinochoe, Attic bf. Berlin (DDR), Staatl. Mus. F 1732 (signed by potter Kolchos). From Vulci. — ABV 110, 37: Lydos; Para 44, 48; Add<sup>2</sup> 30; Schefold, SB II 136 fig. 176; Boardman, ABFH fig. 68; Brommer, Herakles II pl. 28. — 3rd quarter of 6th cent. B. C. — Herakles fights Ares over the dead Kyknos with Zeus intervening and Athena helping Herakles. On either side a chariot moving away (the charioteers, both bearded, are named IOA[EOΣ] and ΦO[BJOΣ]. Poseidon and Apollo beyond each chariot. Halios Geron and Dionysos flank the scene.

Chariots driven by anonymous charioteers (presumably I. and Phobos after 46) flank the central group on: amphora London B 212 (ABV 297, 1; CVA 4 pl. 51 [196], 1a); crater fr. London B 365 (Brommer, Vasenlisten<sup>3</sup> 105 A 18); dinos Vienna IV 4603 (3619) (ABV 140, 3; Brommer, Vasenlisten<sup>3</sup> 106 A 13); volute-crater fr. Athens, Acr. 655 and Stathatou Coll. (ABV 289, 26; BCH 79, 1955, 177 ff. figs. 1–2 pls. 5–6; the charioteer behind Athena is a warrior); cup Tarquinia RC 2066 (ARV<sup>2</sup> 126, 23; CVA 1 pl. 6, 2; Ares' charioteer is named Phobos); volute-crater Rome, Villa Giulia (ARV<sup>2</sup> 206, 131; Il Mus. Naz. Etr. di Villa Giulia [1980] 140 fig. 177). Simon (Simon/Hirmer, Vasen 67) suggested that the two warriors fighting on the dinos Louvre E 874 by the Gorgon P. (ABV 8, 1; Para 6; Arias/Shefton/Hirmer, pl. 37 below) are Herakles and Kyknos, the chariots on either side being driven by I. and Phobos (both with shield on their back and turning to watch the fight).

47. Lekythos, Attic bf. Athens, NM 497. — Haspels, ABL 27; Karouzou, S., AM 56, 1931, 99–100 Beil. 44 no. 2. — 3rd quarter of 6th cent. B. C. — Herakles fighting Kyknos with Zeus intervening; Ares on the r. and Athena on the l.; horseman on either side; on the far l., behind the horse, man with spear. The horsemen probably stand for the chariots on the works above, but the presence of the spearman on the side of Herakles suggests that he might be I.

Riders instead of chariots also flank the central group on Copenhagen, NM 3877 (ARV<sup>2</sup> 63, 87; CVA 3 pl. 138, 1c). Beazley suggested that the warrior with horse by each handle on side B of London E 8 (ARV<sup>2</sup> 63, 88; Bruhn, A., Oltos [1943] figs. 44–45; Schefold, SB II 137 fig. 178) might belong to the Kyknos scene of A.

48. Hydria, Attic bf. London, BM 1843.11–3.49 (B 329). From Vulci. — ABV 334, 1: A. D. P.; Add<sup>2</sup> 91; CVA 6 pl. 89, 3. — c. 510 B. C. — On the shoulder, Herakles fighting Kyknos with Athena (not Zeus) intervening. On either side a warrior (helmet, corselet, Boeotian shield, spear) in a fighting attitude, presumably Ares on the r. and I. (?) on the l.

A warrior, perhaps I., appears behind Herakles on the hydria Munich 1716 (ABV 362, 25) and the lekythos fr. MonAnt 11, 1901, 462 figs. 156–157. A warrior flees behind Herakles (then not I.?) on the neck-amphora Tarquinia RC 979 (ABV 284, 3; CVA 1 pl. 8 [1140], 1).

g) Herakles and Nereus (?)

On side B of the bf. skyphos Philadelphia MS 5481 (Haspels, ABL 253, 1; Luce, S. B., AJA 26, 1922, 174–175 figs. 1–2; Allentown Art Museum, Aspects of Ancient Greece [1979] 52–53 no. 23) with Herakles attacking a figure usually interpreted as Nereus (Brommer, Vasenlisten<sup>3</sup> 205: Syleus?) on A, a bearded man with bow and arrows in one hand and club in the other, presumably I., walks to the r. between Hermes and Athena.

h) Herakles and Nessos

A warrior who might be identified as I. is present together with an old man (Oineus?) on the lekythos Munich, Antikenslg. 1905 (Schiffler, B., Die Typologie des Kentauren [1976] pl. 2 A 78).

i) Herakles and Omphale

The youth with a rhyton standing next to Herakles and Omphale on a Roman mosaic from Thina in Tunis, Bardo 2788 (Yacoub, M., Le Musée du Bardo [1970] 86 no. 2788; Poinssot, BullArchCTH 1936–37, 120–121; Dunbabin, Mosaics 273 no. 3) is probably a young Bacchus and not I. who never appears in the scene. A youth who could be I. is present on H. 1537* showing, according to Lullies (AM 65, 1940, 13 no. 4. pl. 12, 1), Herakles and Omphale, but this interpretation is very improbable; Schauenburg (RhM 102/103, 1959/60, 66–67) suggests a simple homecoming of Herakles.

j) Herakles and Triton

The only possible case of an I. watching the fight is on the amphora Naples SA 116 (CVA 1 pl. 1 [945], 3–4; Ahlberg-Cornell, G., Herakles and the Sea-Monster in Attic Black-Figure Vase-Painting [1984] 112 cat. no. III 2 B), where a bearded man in chiton and mantle gesticulates on the l.

k) Herakles fighting a snake

Herakles and I. (warrior) both armed with a club attack a snake in the usual Hydra scheme on H. 2822. Cf. the strange amphora Louvre E 707 (AA 1971, 172–175 fig. 20).

l) «Herakles» and «Iolaos» fighting a Chimaera

49. Amphora, Attic bf. London, BM B 162. From Vulci. — ABV 306, 29: Swing P.; Add<sup>2</sup> 81; Schefold, SB II 87 fig. 103; Böhr, E., Der Schaukelmaler (1977) no. 20 pl. 23. — About 530 B. C. — A man with club on the r. (Herakles?) and another with harpe on the l. (I.?) fight a Chimaera. (A = H. 2122.)

F. Iolaos with Herakles in other scenes

a) Herakles with gods

(i) Herakles' Apotheosis

For I. as charioteer in scenes of Herakles' Apotheosis or others which are difficult to interpret see above Section B. In some late-6th-cent. Apotheosis scenes I. may follow on foot:

50. Hydria, Attic bf. Paris, Louvre F 50. From Etruria. — ABV 277, 8: Manner of Antimenes P.; Add<sup>2</sup> 72; CVA 6 pl. 67, 2. — 520–510 B. C. — Herakles with club in chariot to r.; Athena mounting holding the reins. I., bearded, carrying club, follows on foot. With Apollo, Artemis and Hermes.

51.* Column-crater, Attic bf. Providence, Rhode Island School of Design 29.140. — CVA 1 pl. 11, 1. — 520–510 B. C. — Herakles mounting chariot. I., beardless, follows with club and bow. With Athena, Dionysos and Apollo.

See also H. 2895 (club). Apollon 836* (club). Boulogne 417 (club and bow). Cf. H. 2892 (I. with spear standing beyond the chariot). It is not certain whether I. is intended in the 4th-cent. H. 2918 where a man in chlamys and petasos above r. watches H. being driven by a Nike over the pyre.

(ii) Herakles in conversation or shaking hands with gods

WITH ATHENA

52.* Neck-amphora, Attic bf. Cerveteri, Mus. — Moretti, M., Cerveteri (1978) 60 fig. 84: Class of Cab. Méd. 218. — 510–500 B. C. — Herakles and Athena facing. To r., I. bearded, in corselet and chiton, sword hanging, holding club.

53. (= H. 3186*) Amphora, Attic rf. Vatican 16573. From Vulci. — ARV<sup>2</sup> 182, 3: Kleophrades P.; Schefold, SB IV 183 fig. 222. — About 500 B. C. — Herakles shakes hands with Athena. Behind Herakles, I. wearing corselet and greaves and holding helmet and spear.

See also H. 3123–3125. 3135 (I. in the middle; Herakles seated). 3144 (all seated). With other figures present: H. 3176. 3404.

WITH ATHENA AND HERMES

54.* (= H. 3119) Neck-amphora, Attic bf. Würzburg, Wagner-Mus. L 188. — ABV 269, 44: An-

– Paus. 6, 19, 12: by the artist Dontas (a corruption for Medon?). – Late 6th cent. B.C. – Paus. mentions as spectators of the fight Athena, Deianeira, Zeus and Ares. The last two might actually have been Oineus and an armed I. respectively (Isler, H. P., Acheloos [1970] 107; Beck, I., Ares [1984] 77. 138–139; Brommer, Herakles II 74). Cf. the seated old man and warrior on London B 313 (= Acheloos 248*).

b) Herakles and Alkyoneus

A warrior sometimes helping Herakles (→ Alkyoneus 11*. 16) is usually regarded as Telamon after Pindar's passage (N. 4, 25). I., however, also took part in the expedition against Troy during which the event took place. See also the rf. volute-crater Malibu 84.AE.974 (GettyMusJ 13, 1985, 170 no. 24) on the neck of which a warrior (Telamon or I.?) drives away Alkyoneus' cattle while Herakles attacks the sleeping giant.

c) Herakles and Antaios

A warrior, perhaps I., is present on → Antaios I 6 and 9.

d) Herakles and Apollo struggling over the tripod

42.* (= Apollon 1037, = Artemis 1310, = H. 3034) Column-crater, Attic bf. New York, MMA 07.286.78. – v. Bothmer, D., in Festschr. F. Brommer (1977) 52–53 no. 16 pls. 17–18. – 530–520 B.C. – Herakles and Apollo flanked by chariots driven by I. (beardless, wearing corselet over charioteer's dress) on the r. and → Lykomedes on the l., both turning to watch the struggle. Behind the chariots, Artemis on the l. and Athena on the r. All names inscribed.

43. (= H. 3027*) Cup, Attic rf. Rome, Villa Giulia 27250. From Todi. – ARV<sup>2</sup> 124, 8: Nikosthenes P.; CVA 2 pls. 24; 25, 2–3; 26, 2; v. Bothmer, o.c. 42, no. 18. – About 520–510 B.C. – Herakles and Apollo struggling over the tripod. On the l., chariot driven by youth wearing helmet, probably I. Beyond horses, Athena running towards Herakles.

The central group of the east pediment of the Siphnian Treasury at Delphi (= H. 3026 = Apollon 1038) is flanked by a pair of shorter figures and chariots. One of the small figures on the r. has been identified as I. (v. Bothmer, o.c. 42, 52). Cf. the anonymous male figures on the r. of Herakles on the lekythoi H. 3040–3042 (on 3041 it is a hoplite).

e) Herakles and the Kentauroi

(i) Herakles and Pholos

Anonymous spectators occasionally flank the scene. On lekythoi there is often, as in other scenes, a youth present, sometimes moving away. When he is given a club, as on Copenhagen, NM Chr. VIII. 948 (Haspels, ABL 247, 8; CVA 3 pl. 111, 18), we are entitled to call him I. A bearded man in chiton, chlamys, petasos, with spear (I.?) stands behind Pholos on New York, MMA 41.162.2 (CVA 4 pl. 49, 1–2).

(ii) Herakles fighting the Kentauroi

Herakles is not normally assisted by a companion in this fight. In the two exceptions below there is probably a confusion with the battle of Lapiths and Centaurs (cf. the fallen hoplite on Würzburg L 198: ABV 224, 1; Langlotz, KatWürzb pl. 51):

44.* (= H. 1426 [other side]) Cup, Attic rf. Los Angeles, County Mus. 50.8.15 (A 5933.50–21). – ARV<sup>2</sup> 125, 11: Nikosthenes P. (signed by the potter Pamphaios); Add<sup>2</sup> 176; CVA 1 pls. 37, 1; 38, 1. – 510–500 B.C. – Herakles with sword and a young companion, perhaps I. (naked, holding Boeotian shield and spear), fight back to back against three centaurs; cloak and quiver hang.

45. Bell-crater, Campanian rf. Tübingen 673 (F 46). – LCS 314, 635: Near the Caivano P.; Watzinger, KatTübingen 65 pl. 44; Schauenburg, K., AntK 5, 1962, pl. 22, 2. – 3rd quarter of 4th cent. B.C. – Herakles in lionskin, with club in r. hand and bow in l., fights two centaurs, one of whom is collapsing. To l., young warrior, perhaps I., in pilos, short chiton, chlamys, greaves, carrying a shield and brandishing a spear.

f) Herakles and Kyknos

46. (= Apollon 922, = Ares 42*, = Halios Geron 1*) Oinochoe, Attic bf. Berlin (DDR), Staatl. Mus. F 1732 (signed by potter Kolchos). From Vulci. – ABV 110, 37: Lydos; Para 44. 48; Add<sup>2</sup> 30; Schefold, SB II 136 fig. 176; Boardman, ABFH fig. 68; Brommer, Herakles II pl. 28. – 3rd quarter of 6th cent. B.C. – Herakles fights Ares over the dead Kyknos with Zeus intervening and Athena helping Herakles. On either side a chariot moving away (the charioteers, both bearded, are named IOA[EOΣ] and ΦO[B]OΣ). Poseidon and Apollo beyond each chariot. Halios Geron and Dionysos flank the scene.

Chariots driven by anonymous charioteers (presumably I. and Phobos after 46) flank the central group on: amphora London B 212 (ABV 297, 1; CVA 4 pl. 51 [196], 1a); crater fr. London B 365 (Brommer, Vasenlisten<sup>3</sup> 105 A 18); dinos Vienna IV 4603 (3619) (ABV 140, 3; Brommer, Vasenlisten<sup>3</sup> 106 A 13); volute-crater fr. Athens, Acr. 655 and Stathatou Coll. (ABV 289, 26; BCH 79, 1955, 177 ff. figs. 1–2 pls. 5–6; the charioteer behind Athena is a warrior); cup Tarquinia RC 2066 (ARV<sup>2</sup> 126, 23; CVA 1 pl. 6, 2; Ares' charioteer is named Phobos); volute-crater Rome, Villa Giulia (ARV<sup>2</sup> 206, 131; Il Mus. Naz. Etr. di Villa Giulia [1980] 140 fig. 177). Simon (Simon/Hirmer, Vasen 67) suggested that the two warriors fighting on the dinos Louvre E 874 by the Gorgon P. (ABV 8, 1; Para 6; Arias/Shefton/Hirmer, pl. 37 below) are Herakles and Kyknos, the chariots on either side being driven by I. and Phobos (both with shield on their back and turning to watch the fight).

47. Lekythos, Attic bf. Athens, NM 497. – Haspels, ABL 27; Karouzou, S., AM 56, 1931, 99–100 Beil. 44 no. 2. – 3rd quarter of 6th cent. B.C. – Herakles fighting Kyknos with Zeus intervening; Ares on the r. and Athena on the l.; horseman on either side; on the far l., behind the horse, man with spear. The

horsemen probably stand for the chariots on the works above, but the presence of the spearman on the side of Herakles suggests that he might be I.

Riders instead of chariots also flank the central group on Copenhagen, NM 3877 (ARV<sup>2</sup> 63, 87; CVA 3 pl. 138, 1c). Beazley suggested that the warrior with horse by each handle on side B of London E 8 (ARV<sup>2</sup> 63, 88; Bruhn, A., Oltos [1943] figs. 44–45; Schefold, SB II 137 fig. 178) might belong to the Kyknos scene of A.

48. Hydria, Attic bf. London, BM 1843.11–3.49 (B 329). From Vulci. – ABV 334, 1: A. D. P.; Add<sup>2</sup> 91; CVA 6 pl. 89, 3. – c. 510 B.C. – On the shoulder, Herakles fighting Kyknos with Athena (not Zeus) intervening. On either side a warrior (helmet, corselet, Boeotian shield, spear) in a fighting attitude, presumably Ares on the r. and I. (?) on the l.

A warrior, perhaps I., appears behind Herakles on the hydria Munich 1716 (ABV 362, 25) and the lekythos fr. MonAnt 11, 1901, 462 figs. 156–157. A warrior flees behind Herakles (then not I.?) on the neck-amphora Tarquinia RC 979 (ABV 284, 3; CVA 1 pl. 8 [1140], 1).

g) Herakles and Nereus (?)

On side B of the bf. skyphos Philadelphia MS 5481 (Haspels, ABL 253, 1; Luce, S. B., AJA 26, 1922, 174–175 figs. 1–2; Allentown Art Museum, Aspects of Ancient Greece [1979] 52–53 no. 23) with Herakles attacking a figure usually interpreted as Nereus (Brommer, Vasenlisten<sup>3</sup> 205: Syleus?) on A, a bearded man with bow and arrows in one hand and club in the other, presumably I., walks to the r. between Hermes and Athena.

h) Herakles and Nessos

A warrior who might be identified as I. is present together with an old man (Oineus?) on the lekythos Munich, Antikenslg. 1905 (Schiffler, B., Die Typologie des Kentauren [1976] pl. 2 A 78).

i) Herakles and Omphale

The youth with a rhyton standing next to Herakles and Omphale on a Roman mosaic from Thina in Tunis, Bardo 2788 (Yacoub, M., Le Musée du Bardo [1970] 86 no. 2788; Poinssot, BullArchCTH 1936–37, 120–121; Dunabin, Mosaics 273 no. 3) is probably a young Bacchus and not I. who never appears in the scene. A youth who could be I. is present on H. 1537* showing, according to Lullies (AM 65, 1940, 13 no. 4. pl. 12, 1), Herakles and Omphale, but this interpretation is very improbable; Schauenburg (RhM 102/103, 1959/60, 66–67) suggests a simple homecoming of Herakles.

j) Herakles and Triton

The only possible case of an I. watching the fight is on the amphora Naples SA 116 (CVA 1 pl. 1 [945], 3–4; Ahlberg-Cornell, G., Herakles and the Sea-Monster in Attic Black-Figure Vase-Painting [1984] 112 cat. no. III 2 B), where a bearded man in chiton and mantle gesticulates on the l.

k) Herakles fighting a snake

Herakles and I. (warrior) both armed with a club attack a snake in the usual Hydra scheme on H. 2822. Cf. the strange amphora Louvre E 707 (AA 1971, 172–175 fig. 20).

l) «Herakles» and «Iolaos» fighting a Chimaera

49. Amphora, Attic bf. London, BM B 162. From Vulci. – ABV 306, 29: Swing P.; Add<sup>2</sup> 81; Schefold, SB II 87 fig. 103; Böhr, E., Der Schaukelmaler (1977) no. 20 pl. 23. – About 530 B.C. – A man with club on the r. (Herakles?) and another with harpe on the l. (I.?) fight a Chimaera. (A = H. 2122.)

F. Iolaos with Herakles in other scenes

a) Herakles with gods

(i) Herakles' Apotheosis

For I. as charioteer in scenes of Herakles' Apotheosis or others which are difficult to interpret see above Section B. In some late-6th-cent. Apotheosis scenes I. may follow on foot:

50. Hydria, Attic bf. Paris, Louvre F 50. From Etruria. – ABV 277, 8: Manner of Antimenes P.; Add<sup>2</sup> 72; CVA 6 pl. 67, 2. – 520–510 B.C. – Herakles with club in chariot to r.; Athena mounting holding the reins. I., bearded, carrying club, follows on foot. With Apollo, Artemis and Hermes.

51.* Column-crater, Attic bf. Providence, Rhode Island School of Design 29.140. – CVA 1 pl. 11, 1. – 520–510 B.C. – Herakles mounting chariot. I., beardless, follows with club and bow. With Athena, Dionysos and Apollo.

See also H. 2895 (club). Apollon 836* (club). Boulogne 417 (club and bow). Cf. H. 2892 (I. with spear standing beyond the chariot). It is not certain whether I. is intended in the 4th-cent. H. 2918 where a man in chlamys and petasos above r. watches H. being driven by a Nike over the pyre.

(ii) Herakles in conversation or shaking hands with gods

WITH ATHENA

52.* Neck-amphora, Attic bf. Cerveteri, Mus. – Moretti, M., Cerveteri (1978) 60 fig. 84: Class of Cab. Méd. 218. – 510–500 B.C. – Herakles and Athena facing. To r., I. bearded, in corselet and chiton, sword hanging, holding club.

53. (= H. 3186*) Amphora, Attic rf. Vatican 16573. From Vulci. – ARV<sup>2</sup> 182, 3: Kleophrades P.; Schefold, SB IV 183 fig. 222. – About 500 B.C. – Herakles shakes hands with Athena. Behind Herakles, I. wearing corselet and greaves and holding helmet and spear.

See also H. 3123–3125. 3135 (I. in the middle; Herakles seated). 3144 (all seated). With other figures present: H. 3176. 3404.

WITH ATHENA AND HERMES

54.* (= H. 3119) Neck-amphora, Attic bf. Würzburg, Wagner-Mus. L 188. – ABV 269, 44: Antimenes P.; Langlotz, KatWurzb pl. 53. – 520–510 B.C. – Herakles with bow and club facing Athena. Behind the latter, Hermes and I., bearded, in corselet and chitoniskos, holding club.

See also H. 3121. Boston 97.205 (CVA I pl. 41, 2). With one more woman (Hebe?): H. 3120. With Dionysos: Munich 1576 (CVA 8 pls. 386, 4; 390, 1).

WITH ZEUS

A youth in pilos, corselet and boots watching Herakles shake hands with Zeus (?) on H. 3371 might be I. He is probably not intended in the white-haired man pouring a libation on H. 3373.

(iii) Scenes of homage to Herakles

Anonymous youths regularly appear in scenes of Herakles honoured by gods, heroes or mortals in an undefined setting which are particularly popular in the late 5th–early 4th cent. B.C. A single youth present is likely to be I.: H. 1566. 1568. 1571. 3149. 3326–3328. 3409. 3410. 3461. 3462. 3464. 3466. 3472. 3490–3492. Athens, Kanellopoulos (ex Tyne-mouth, Wilfred Hall; Trendall, ESIVP 41, 417; LCS 92, 479); Leningrad 361 (Trendall, ESIVP 40, 379; LCS 88, 428; AuA 10, 1961, pl. 20, 36). Cf. the early-5th-cent. B.C. H. 3162/3318 with I. (bearded, in petasos and chlamys, with spear) shaking hands with Hermes. Two youths attending might be the Dioskouroi: H. 3403. 3406/3325. 3474. 3482. The many youths on H. 3407–3408 remain anonymous.

(iv) Gigantomachia

Zeus, who regularly appears in the same chariot as Herakles, is replaced on → Gigantes 124 and 125 by a hoplite who, however, cannot be I. who has nothing to do with the Gigantomachy.

b) Iolaos with Herakles' wives and children

55. (= H. 1679*) Bell-crater, Attic rf. Munich, Antikenslg. 6026 (WAF 2398). – ARV<sup>2</sup> 1446, 3: Pourtalès P.; Para 492; Metzger, Recherches pl. 32, 2. – About 380 B.C. – In an open space (herm, tree) Herakles leaning on club and Deianeira, seated, with Hyllos. On the l., man seated; on the r., a woman with phiale and oinochoe and a youth (I.). Metzger calls I. the man at l., but he is probably Oineus (thus Brommer, Herakles II, 121).

The charioteer looking round on side B of H. 1674* might be I., connected with the scene of Herakles with Oineus, Deianeira and child on A. A beardless I. (inscr. IOAHOΣ) is a witness of Herakles' madness on H. 1684* (= Alkmene 18*).

c) Herakles as symposiast

56. (= H. 1490*) Hydria, Attic bf. Athens, NM 564. – ABV<sup>3</sup> 329, 4: Madrid P.; Heydemann, H., Griechische Vasenbilder (1870) pl. 3, 1. – 520–510 B.C. – Herakles reclines with kantharos; seated before him, Dionysos and Athena; seated behind him, I., bearded, in himation, holding club.

57. Neck-amphora, Attic bf. London, Market. – Christies 16 July 1985, 95 no. 419: Manner of Antimenes P. – 520–510 B.C. – Herakles reclining; Athena with flower standing before him; bearded man in corselet (I.?) standing l.

Cf. H. 1486* (I., bearded, named IOAEOΣ, behind Athena on the r.). 1493 (seated before Herakles). 1519 (man seated with helmet, phiale and spear: Ares rather than I.). The two men reclining (quiver and bow hanging) on H. 1518. 1520 and London B 497 (ABV<sup>3</sup> 377, 243) might be Herakles and I.

d) Other scenes

(i) Herakles in a sanctuary

A youth with spears or club, perhaps I., attends on H. 1369. Boston 21.272. H. 1373* (= Athena 442/Hedone 3). Paris, Rodin TC 1 (= Hedone 4). H. 1374. 1380*.

Two youths, two satyrs and a bearded man (I. according to Mingazzini and Metzger) are present on Rome, Villa Giulia 3619 (ARV<sup>2</sup> 1420, 7; Mingazzini, MemLinc 6.1, 1925/26 no. 261 pl. 8, 2; Metzger, Représentations 226 no. 62).

(ii) Herakles at Eleusis

Herakles' youthful companion holding a bakchos, one hand raised, on H. 1401* is perhaps I. or one of the Dioskouroi who were initiated early like Herakles.

(iii) Herakles mousikos

I. (bearded, short chiton) carries Herakles' club on H. 1460. He may also be recognized on both sides of H. 1475* although characteristic attributes are lacking.

(iv) Other

H. Hoffmann identified two figures on the Panagurishite gold amphora as Herakles and I. in a scene of divination (RM 65, 1958, 132–135 fig. 5) but the interpretation is very uncertain.

G. Iolaos and the Herakleidae

For I. with the children of Herakles seeking the protection of Athens see → Herakleidae 2*. 3. Also, → Akamas et Demophon 21* where I. watches a dead girl (Makaria?) in the presence of a king (Demophon?).

H. Other scenes with Iolaos

58.* Stemless cup fr., Attic rf. Oxford, Ashm. Mus. G 138.14. From Naukratis. – ARV<sup>2</sup> 1252, 49: Eretria P.; CVA I pl. 39, 5; Lezzi-Hafter, A., Der Eretria-Maler (1988) no. 290 pl. 187a. – About 430 B.C. – Only I. (inscr. IOAEOΣ) is preserved, turned l., his foot resting on something; he is bearded and shown as a warrior (helmet, corselet over chiton, holding spear). 59.* Coin, AE, Agyrion (Sicily), after 241 B.C.

(Head). – Head, HN<sup>2</sup> 125; SNG Copenhagen 131. – Obv.: Head of Herakles. Rev.: I. burning the Hydra heads.

60. East pediment of temple of Athena in Tegea. – Paus. 8, 45, 6. – 2nd quarter of 4th cent. B.C. – Paus. describes the scene as that of the Calydonian Boar Hunt with Atalante, Meleagros, Theseus, Telamon, Peleus, Polydeukes and Iolaos among other heroes.

COMMENTARY

I.'s first appearance in both art and literature is as Herakles' active helper in the killing of the Hydra. In the earliest scenes (bronze fibulae 28. → H. 2020; bronze tripod leg → H. 2025; Corinthian vases 24–26. → H. 1990–1992. 1994–1995) he is always armed with the harpe, a weapon which is, however, unknown in early Attic works. The earliest Attic vases showing the scene, of the second quarter of the 6th cent., have him either with the torch (20), as mentioned by the much later literary sources, or merely attending as Herakles' charioteer (→ H. 1996–1997), in the way he appears on the Acropolis pediment (→ H. 2021) and presumably also on the Kypselos Chest (29). Another early appearance of I. is on the Corinthian 37 where he fights the Amazons alongside Herakles, and he may also be present in an early Attic Amazonomachy (→ Amazones 16*). In another early scene both he and Herakles, each armed with a club, are involved in the killing of an anonymous snake (E. k). In his characteristic role as Herakles' charioteer he drives Herakles on a few Attic vases of c. 560–550 B.C. (6. → H. 2877–2878) which are usually regarded as showing the hero's journey to Olympus. He is also shown as a charioteer in the rescue of Hesione on the Corinthian 40 (and cf. the few Hydra scenes above). Finally, I. attends Herakles in the earliest rendering of him as a single symposiast (→ H. 1486*, c. 550 B.C.). I.'s presence here indicates that the setting of such scenes is probably terrestrial.

Herakles' popularity in the second half of the 6th cent., particularly on Attic vases, is responsible for I.'s frequent appearance in this period. He continues to assist Herakles in the killing of the Hydra, a subject which is not as popular as in the previous period. He is usually shown with the torch (22. 23. → H. 2002. 2004. 2014. 2015. 2017. 2018; relief → H. 2022) but he may also use the old harpe (→ H. 1999–2001. 2013; Caeretan → H. 2016) or the sword (→ H. 2012). On the early 5th cent. 21 he is shooting. I. is also prominent on two vases which show the Birds episode (33. → H. 2243), armed with a sling in one and with a sling and a bow in the other. There is no literary evidence for I.'s participation in this deed. Another occasion in which he might be recognized as Herakles' active companion is the fight against Kyknos: the warrior fighting on Herakles' side on two Archaic vases (47–48) is perhaps I. In the Alkyoneus scenes it is usually Telamon who is recognized as Herakles' companion (E. b), although I. also took part in the expedition. I. might also appear fighting on Herakles' side in a Centauromachy (44), or at Troy (D. c). Finally, in the odd 49 two men who look like Herakles and I. are shown attacking a Chimaera.

In most of the main fights of Herakles, with the Lion (12–18), the Boar (30–32), the Bull (34), Geryon (C. h), Nereus (?) (E. g), Acheloos (41), I. may appear carrying the hero's weapons (usually the club or the club and bow) or merely watching without these. He also attends Herakles in some other scenes, mainly non-narrative, which are popular in the late 6th cent.: Herakles in conversation with gods (52–54), as symposiast (56–57), as musician (F. d [iii]), leaving for a journey, probably that to Olympus (50–51), or, unusually, tying his lionskin (1).

As a charioteer, he continues to drive Herakles in what is usually regarded as the hero's apotheosis (8–11). He drives the chariot while Herakles fights Kyknos (46) or waits in it during the struggle for the tripod (42–43), or on the obverse of an Amazonomachy (→ Amazones 62*), of a fight against Geryon (C. h) or of a family scene (→ H. 1674*).

In the later 5th and 4th cent. the scenes in which I. appears are much fewer. He helps in a rare Hydra scene where he uses the torches (→ H. 2009), fights the Calydonian Boar (60) and may be present in the sacrifice to Chryse (D. a). As a mere spectator, he is present in idyllic scenes like the Hesperides 38–39, and perhaps in a fight with the Deer (C. d), the family group 55 and scenes of homage to Herakles (F. a [iii]). As a charioteer, he may drive Herakles to Olympus (7. → H. 1417/2932).

On South Italian vases, I. is present in a Hydra scene carrying a torch and a sword (→ H. 2010), might be recognized in a Centauromachy (45), or is a mere spectator in scenes such as Herakles' encounter with the Bull (35–36) or the Amazons (→ H. 2461). He is also present in two stories, both treated in plays by Euripides, which appear only in South Italian vase-painting: Herakles' madness (→ H. 1684*) and the Herakleidae seeking the protection of Athens (G).

I.'s popularity in Sicily and particularly his cult in Agyrion has led to his identification on three coin types of this city, one of the 4th cent. B.C. (3), the other two later (4. 59).

It is interesting to note that, apart from the Hydra scene on the Hephaisteion metope (→ H. 2023), I. is absent from all other Dodekathlon scenes, presumably because in such scenes Herakles is the focus of the composition.

I. is very often depicted as a warrior in Archaic art, whether fighting next to Herakles (20–23. 33. 37), standing as a spectator in the latter's deeds (13–14. 41), accompanying him on other occasions (52–54. 57) or driving his chariot (6. 9. 40. 42. 43). When he is fully armed, with helmet, and not carrying any of Herakles' attributes, he may easily be confused with Ares (cf. Beck, I., Ares [1984] 138–142; cf. E. a). When not shown as a warrior he is usually dressed in a short chiton or in the charioteer's long dress; in a few cases he is naked. In Classical Attic or South Italian vases he is usually in chlamys and petasos (or pilos), suitable for a participant in expeditions, carrying spears. The odd 19 where he wears Herakles' lionskin is unique (but cf. also → H. 2350).

I. is always shown as a youth on Corinthian vases (in contrast to the bearded Herakles) and the Laconian 27 follows Corinth. In early Attic bf. however, he is usually bearded; in late Archaic art he is either bearded or not, indiscriminately. From the Classical period onwards he is a youth (two rare exceptions are → H. 2350, where he watches the fight against the Bull, and the fragment 58), unless shown with the Herakleidae, since this episode took place late in his life.

MARIA PIPILI

VILE

(Vilae, Vile) The Etruscan form of the name → Iolaos, attested on ten Etruscan mirrors (I. 2. 4. 12. 14. 15. 18. 21. 30. 32) and one vase (31) dating from the 4th to the 2nd cent. B. C. (on the vase and on one mirror [32] inscribed erroneously instead of the names *Viphicle [→ Iphikles] and Hercle [Herakles] respectively). Like most other Etruscan names which are borrowed from the Greek, the name V. comes from Doric, maintaining the initial F of the Doric type Filāa(F)os (for Doric influence on Etruscan presumably through Corinthian traders and Dorian colonists of South Italy see de Simone, Entlehnungen II 304 ff. 320 ff.).

Apart from the inscribed works there are several others where, in spite of the lack of characteristic attributes, V. may be recognized with certainty as the youthful companion of Hercle (→ Herakles/Hercle), appearing alone with him or with other figures, particularly deities.

The mythical coloniser of Sardinia, it is probably from there and from the Greek cities of Magna Graecia that V. came to Etruria. He was an important figure in Etruscan religion and seems to have been associated, like Hercle, with water and springs. It is also possible and indicative of V.'s popularity in Etruria that, as Heurgon suggested, the cognomen Violens which appears in the family of the Volumnii of Perugia came from the name V., as did also probably Monte Vile, a hill near the grave of the Volumnii where there might have been a sanctuary of V.

BIBLIOGRAPHY: Bayet, J., Hercle (1926) 170–186 and passim; de Simone, Entlehnungen I 66–67; II passim; Enking, R., RE VIII A 2 (1958) 2134–2135 s. v. «Vilae, Vile»; Fiesel, E., Namen des griechischen Mythos im Etruskischen (1928) 13–14 and passim; Fischer-Graf, U., Spiegelwerkstätten in Vulci (1980) 55–56. 63–64. 93. 106. 123; Heurgon, J., «A propos du cognomen Violens et du tombeau des Volumnii», ArchCl 10, 1958, 151–159; Pauli, W., ML VI (1924–37) 320 s. v. «Vilae, Vile»; Pfiffig, Rel-Etr 340–346 (= Pfiffig 1); Pfiffig, A. J., Herakles in der Bilderwelt der etruskischen Spiegel (1980) 12–13 (= Pfiffig 2); Rebuffat-

Emmanuel, D., Le miroir étrusque d'après la Collection du Cabinet des Médailles (1973) 471–474. 513–521; Stibbe-Twist, A., «Herakles in Etrurien», in Thiasos (1978) 80–106, esp. 83–84.

CATALOGUE

A. Vile with Herakles (Hercle) alone

1. (= Herakles/Hercle 88*) Bronze mirror. Perugia, Mus. Naz. 998. – Gerhard, EtrSp II pl. 128; Del Chiaro, M., AJA 59, 1955, 283–284 pl. 80, 7; de Simone, Entlehnungen I 66 (4); Rebuffat-Emmanuel 474. 514–519; Fischer-Graf 106 V 88. – Around 300 B. C. – Standing opposite one another Herakles (Hercle) on the r. (lionskin, club, r. foot on amphora) and V. (inscr. Pile [Gerhard] or Vile [de Simone]) on the l. (cloak over shoulders, spear and shield). Del Chiaro suggested improbably that Pile stands for Pelias and connected the scene with an episode of the Argonaut expedition.

2.* (= Herakles/Hercle 140) Bronze mirror. Brussels, Mus. Roy. R 1286 (837). From Praeneste (?). – Gerhard, EtrSp IV pl. 336; de Simone, Entlehnungen I 66 (7); Lambrechts, R., Les miroirs étrusques et prénestins des Musées Royaux d'Art et d'Histoire à Bruxelles (1978) 223–227 no. 36. – 4th cent. B. C. – Herakles (Hercle) on the l. (club, bow) and V. ([V]il[a]e) on the r. (himation, spear and shield), both seated and facing each other.

3.* (= Herakles/Hercle 142) Bronze mirror. Once Barberini Coll. – Gerhard, EtrSp IV pl. 337, 1. – Around 300 B. C. – Facing each other Herakles on the r. (lionskin, club) and V. on the l. (chlamys over shoulder, sword hanging, spear and shield). Altar next to Herakles.

For a similar composition see: Mirror Brussels, Mus. Roy. R 1287 (838); → Herakles/Hercle 141;

Vile 3

Gerhard, EtrSp V 83 no. 64d; Lambrechts, o.c. 2, 229–232 no. 37 (Herakles seated at r., V. at l., one hand on Herakles' thigh, the other raised). Mirror once Westropp Coll.; → Herakles/Hercle 142a; Gerhard, EtrSp IV pl. 337, 2 (Herakles standing at r., V. seated at l., one hand on Herakles' shoulder; column between them). Gold necklace relief pendants London BM 2285; → Herakles/Hercle 143; Marshall, BMJewellery 262–263 pl. 46 (at l. Herakles seated, at r. V. half seated holding a spear). Cf. also the mirror Boston, MFA 92.2740; → Herakles/Hercle 145c; Comstock/Vermeule, Bronzes Boston 262–263 no. 377 (Herakles and Apollo); Fischer-Graf 107 V 91 (Herakles and Hermes); unless the partly damaged seated figure (chlamys, staff) who faces Herakles wore a petasos, he is not distinguishable from the V. of the works above.

B. Vile with Herakles (Hercle) and a deity

a) Vile with Herakles (Hercle) and Hermes (Turms)

4.* (= Herakles/Hercle 90) Bronze mirror. Lost. From Belora (Valdichiana). – Gerhard, EtrSp II pl. 127; de Simone, Entlehnungen I 66 (5); Rebuffat-Emmanuel 513–519; Pfiffig 2, 60–61 no. 15. – 3rd cent. B. C. – Hermes (Turms) between Herakles (Hercle) on the l. (cup, club, l. foot on amphora) and V. (Vilae) on the r. (chlamys over shoulder, strigil, hand on Hermes' shoulder). Fountain behind Herakles.

Vile 4

5. (= Herakles/Hercle 90a*) Bronze mirror. Bologna, Mus. Civ. It. 1072 (Coll. Univ. 278). From Praeneste. – Gerhard, EtrSp II pl. 131; Rebuffat-Emmanuel 513. 518–519 pl. 89; Pfiffig 2, 62–63 no. 16; CSE Bologna 1, 30–32 no. 12 fig. 12a–d. – 3rd quarter of 4th cent. B. C. – Hermes standing between Herakles at r. (lionskin, club, foot on amphora) and V. at l., seated on rock, in chlamys and holding staff. Hermes has his head turned towards V. Gerhard (EtrSp III 127) calls the seated figure Apollo.

V. with Herakles, Hermes and Athena on 17.

b) Vile with Herakles (Hercle) and Athena (Menerva)

6. (= Herakles/Hercle 138) Bronze mirror. Vienna, Kunst. Mus. VI 2774. – Eichler, F., Führer durch die Antikensammlung (1926) 54 pl. 8b; Noll, R., ÖJh 29, 1935, 163–166 fig. 61. – 4th cent. B. C. – Athena between Herakles seated on the l. (lionskin, club) and V., naked, seated on the r.

7.* (= Athena/Menerva 192, = Herakles/Hercle 135) Bronze mirror. Lost. Once Mannheim, Hofantiquarium. From Orvieto. – Gerhard, EtrSp V pl. 63, 1; Fischer-Graf 63 V 40 pl. 17, 2; CSE Bundesrepublik Deutschland 1, 71–72 no. 46. – 4th cent. B. C. – Herakles (lionskin, club) standing between Athena on the l. and V. on the r. (chlamys, hand on Herakles' shoulder).

Vile 7

8. (= Herakles/Hercle 92*) Bronze mirror. Once Rome, Martinetti Coll. From Praeneste. – Gerhard, EtrSp V pl. 63, 2; Mansuelli, G., StEtr 15, 1941, pl. 12, 1; Rebuffat-Emmanuel 516. – Late 4th cent. B. C. – Athena between Herakles on the l. (lionskin, club) and V. on the r. (spear which looks like a kerykeion, chlamys over shoulder), each with foot on amphora. Fountain behind Herakles.

Similar are the calyx-crater once in Rome (→ Athena/Menerva 184; Beazley, EVP pl. 11, 2) and the mirrors Paris, Cab. Méd. 1288 (→ Athena/Menerva 191*); Gerhard, EtrSp II pl. 154; V. on the r. in chlamys, with sword, one hand on Athena's shoulder, Berlin Fr. 133 (→ Herakles/Hercle 137; Gerhard, EtrSp II pl. 163; V. at l. in chlamys, boots and spiked crown) and once Perugia (→ Herakles/Hercle 115b; Gerhard, EtrSp V 221 no. 17; Herakles in the middle, V. on the l. inscribed erroneously Turan).

Uncertain

9. (= Herakles/Hercle 265) Bronze mirror. Rome, Villa Giulia 24888. - Gerhard, EtrSp IV pl. 338, 1; Rebuffat-Emmanuel 472; Fischer-Graf 93 V 60. - Late 4th cent. B.C. - Herakles with club standing between a woman in himation (Athena?) on the r. and V. (?) seated on the l. The woman has been identified as Alkmene by Gerhard and Rebuffat-Emmanuel and as Athena by Fischer-Graf. Compare → Alkmene 19 (woman in himation between Herakles and a youth with pilos, perhaps Hermes).

The boy with Herakles and Athena on the mirrors Frankfurt X 15224 (→ Herakles/Hercle 136) and Madrid (→ Athena/Menerva 188*) is too young to be V.

V., Herakles and Athena with more deities on 13 (with Nike and Aphrodite), 15 (with Ares), 16 (with Aphrodite), 17 (with Hermes).

c) Vile with Herakles (Hercle) and Eros

10.* (= Herakles/Hercle 144) Bronze cista feet («Ficoroni cista»). Rome, Villa Giulia 24787. From Praeneste. - Dohrn, T., Die Ficoronische Ciste (1972); Fischer-Graf 121-124; CP II 1 (1986) 64-65 K 31, 1-2 pl. 38 a-b (one of the three feet is a modern replacement). - 3rd quarter of 4th cent. B.C. - Eros between V. seated l. in chlamys holding staff and Herakles at r. with club. Herakles is leaning forward and has one hand on Eros' shoulder; Eros looks at V.

Uncertain

11. (= Dioskouroi/Tinas Cliniar 49**) Bronze mirror. Paris, Cab. Méd. 1321. - Gerhard, EtrSp V pl. 9, 1; Rebuffat-Emmanuel 206-209. 509-510 pl. 39; Fischer-Graf 106-107 V 89. - 3rd cent. B.C. - Winged figure with club between two naked youths, one with shield, the other with spear. Perhaps Eros holding Herakles' club between Herakles at l. and V. at r. Rebuffat-Emmanuel and R. de Puma (→ Dioskouroi/Tinas Cliniar 49) interpret the figures as a winged Herakles between the Dioskouroi; Körte (Gerhard, EtrSp V 15) as Hermes between two warriors.

d) Vile with Herakles (Hercle) and Mean

12. (= Herakles/Hercle 410) Bronze mirror. Vatican, Mus. Greg. Etr. 12639. From Vulci. - Gerhard, EtrSp II pl. 142; de Simone, Entlehnungen I 66 (2); Rebuffat-Emmanuel 472 n. 4; 516. - 4th cent. B.C. - Herakles (Hercle) with lionskin, club and phiale in r. hand between a winged Mean (boots, cloak over shoulder) who crowns him on the r. and V. (Vile) seated on the l. (cloak over shoulder, boots, hand raised). All names inscribed.

C. Vile with Herakles (Hercle) and more deities

13. (= Athena/Menerva 185*, = Herakles/Hercle 412) Bell-crater, Faliscan rf. Rome, Villa Giulia 6364. From Corchiano. - Beazley, EVP 70-73: Nepi

Group; Deppert, K., Die rotfigurigen faliskischen Vasen (unpublished Diss. Frankfurt, 1954) pls. 37b-c. 38a. 48f. - Early 4th cent. B.C. - Herakles seated with kantharos among Aphrodite (?) seated playing with goose, Nike, Athena, and a youth in chlamys carrying spears, presumably V., on the r.

14. (= Apollon/Aplu 62, = Artemis/Artumes 44*, = Herakles/Hercle 159) Bronze mirror. Once Florence, Private Coll. From Bagnoregio. - Gerhard, EtrSp V 219-220 no. 16; de Simone, Entlehnungen I 66 (6); Pfiffig 2, 84-85 no. 26. - 3rd cent. B.C. - Herakles (Hercle) standing in the middle (phiale in one hand, club in the other) one foot on boar; on the l. Artemis (Artumes) and Apollo (Aplu); on the r. youth in himation holding spear (Marisherles) and V. (Vile), seated, also in himation and with spear.

15. (= Ares/Laran 26*, = Herakles/Hercle 118) Bronze mirror. Berlin (West), Staatl. Mus. Fr. 130. - Gerhard, EtrSp III pl. 255c; de Simone, Entlehnungen I 67 (9); Rebuffat-Emmanuel 472-473. - 2nd cent. B.C. - From l. to r., V. (Vile) seated (partly missing), Athena (Menerva) standing turned towards him, Herakles (Hercle) standing with club and Ares (Laran) seated. All names inscribed.

16. (= Aphrodite/Turan 34, = Herakles/Hercle 119) Bronze mirror. Karlsruhe, Bad. Landesmus. F 1868. From Città di Castello (near Perugia). - Gerhard, EtrSp V 82-83 no. 64c; Schumacher, K., Beschreibung der Sammlung antiker Bronzen (1890) 217 no. 233a pl. 24a. - 4th cent. B.C. - Herakles (Hercle) embraces Aphrodite (Turan) between Athena (Menerva) on the l. and a young warrior (helmet, corselet, spear and shield), presumably V.

17. (= Athena/Menerva 202, = Herakles/Hercle 91*) Four bone relief plaques once attached to a box (?). Palestrina, Mus. Naz., formerly Rome, Villa Giulia 13248 (Vile), 13250 (Hermes), 13251 (Herakles), and once Coll. E. Brummer (Athena). From Praeneste. - Ducati 458 pl. 218 fig. 537 (Hermes and Herakles); Giglioli pl. 306, 3 (Herakles and Vile; the plaques in between do not belong to this group); Bonfante Warren, L., AJA 68, 1964, pl. 15 fig. 12 (all four plaques after the first publication); Huls, Y., Ivoires d'Etrurie (1957) 81-82; The Ernest Brummer Collection II (1979) 281 no. 657 (Athena). - First half of 4th cent. B.C. - From l. to r., Hermes, Herakles (corselet, chiton, lionskin, club, one foot on amphora), Athena, a warrior (chiton, corselet, chlamys, greaves, spear), presumably V. Fountain (lion-head spout) between Herakles and Athena.

D. Vile in Herakles' introduction to Olympus

18.* (= Herakles/Hercle 397) Bronze mirror. Paris, Cab. Méd. 1283. - Gerhard, EtrSp IV pl. 346; de Simone, Entlehnungen I 67 (10); Rebuffat-Emmanuel 33-39. 471-474 pl. 1. - 2nd cent. B.C. - From l. to r., Herakles (Hercle) wearing boots and holding club, Hera (Uni), Zeus (Tinia) seated and V. (inscr. Aile for Vile) in Phrygian cap, chlamys, boots, leaning forward, one foot on rock.

UNCERTAIN

19. (= Acheloos 117*, = Herakles/Hercle 396*) Bronze mirror. Rome, Villa Giulia 12988. From Praeneste. - Gerhard, EtrSp IV pl. 347; Helbig* III no. 2974. - 1st half of 4th cent. B.C. - From l. to r., a small-size Herakles (lionskin, club), Zeus seated, Hera standing and a figure in himation holding a flower (?), more likely a woman (Hebe?; cf. Dohrn in Helbig*) than a youth.

E. Vile in scene of Herakles suckled by Hera

20. (= Herakles/Hercle 402a*) Bronze mirror. Bologna, Mus. Civ. It. 1075 (Coll. Univ. 275). - Gerhard, EtrSp II pl. 126; Bayet 53. 150-154; Renard, M., in Hommages J. Bayet (Coll. Latomus 70, 1964) 611 no. 1 pl. 30, 1; Dohrn, T., RM 73/74, 1966/67, 22-24 fig. 2; Fischer-Graf 54-56 V 34 pl. 14, 2; Pfiffig 2, 28 cover ill.; Sassatelli, G., CSE Bologna 1, 37-38 no. 15 fig. 15a-f. - Middle of 4th cent. B.C. - Herakles suckled by Hera watched by a youth in chlamys on the r. who has his r. hand on Hera's shoulder. The youth has rightly been identified as V. by Bayet, Renard, Fischer-Graf, Sassatelli and others. Gerhard (EtrSp III 125) and Dohrn call him Ares, while Pfiffig (Pfiffig 1, 345; Pfiffig 2, 28) Apollo. Compare the two youths in chlamys on a lost terracotta medallion from Praeneste (→ Herakles/Hercle 400), a duplicate V. according to Cook, Zeus III 89 n. 1. On a Faliscan rf. crater in the Villa Giulia (→ Herakles/Hercle 401) a seated youth in petasos with spears watches (a Dioskourous?; cf. Schauenburg, K., Gymnasium 70, 1963, 129).

F. Vile without Herakles in a divine assembly

21. (= Dioskouroi/Tinas Cliniar 54*) Bronze mirror. Once Rome, Lovatti Coll. From Vitorchiano (near Viterbo). - Gerhard, EtrSp III pl. 255B; de Simone, Entlehnungen I 66 (8). - About 300 B.C. - Athena (Menerva) and youth with spears, chlamys over shoulder, boots (Pultuce) standing between two seated youths in Phrygian caps and boots who lean on altars. The latter are inscribed Vile and Castur but are almost certainly meant as the Dioskouroi, Pultuce and Castur. The name Vile might then have been intended for the youth erroneously inscribed Pultuce.

G. Vile in Herakles' Labours

a) Herakles and the Lion

22.* (= Acheloos 229 [other side], = Herakles/Hercle 169) Neck-amphora, bf. Florence, Mus. 80675. From Saturnia. - Camporeale, G., StEtr 36, 1968, 31-34 pl. 2; Michelucci, M., in Cristofani, M. (ed.), Gli Etruschi in Maremma (1981) 111 fig. 81. - About 500 B.C. - Herakles struggling with the lion; V. with club and curved stick on the l.

23. (= Herakles/Hercle 185*) Neck-amphora, bf. Richmond, Virginia Mus. 62.1.8. - Ancient Art in the Virginia Museum (1973) no. 133. - 1st quarter of 5th cent. B.C. - Herakles attacks the lion, while V. watches with raised hand on the r.

b) Herakles and the Hydra

24.* (= Herakles/Hercle 199) Hydria, bf. Paris, Louvre CA 2510. - Beazley, EVP 16, 2 (with wrong inv. no.): P. of Vatican 238; Maffre, J.-J., RLouvre 1985, 87 fig. 6a-b. - About 500 B.C. - Herakles attacks the Hydra from the l. with his club; V. on the r. grasps one of the snake heads.

25.* Many à jour reliefs of bronze cista feet, e.g.: a) Hamburg, Mus. KG 1925.185. b) Munich, Antikenslg. 3399. - CP II 1, 24 K 2, 4. 5 pl. 4d-f. - Around 500 B.C. - Herakles attacks the Hydra from the l. with his club; V. (short chiton, corselet, greaves) attacks from the r. with sword. Other examples: CP II 1, 23-25 K 2, 1-3 (= Herakles/Hercle 200). 6-10 pls. 4a-c. 5. 6a.

c) Herakles and the Amazons

26. (= Amazones Etruscae 14*, = Herakles/Hercle 242) Bronze mirror. Toronto, ROM 919.26.31. From Castel d'Asso. - Gerhard, EtrSp V 69 pl. 56; Matteucig, G., AJA 50, 1946, 63 fig. 4, 64-65; Fischer-Graf 93 V 61. - Late 4th cent. B.C. - Herakles attacks an Amazon in the presence of a man seated l. with spear and shield, presumably V.

H. Vile (?) in other deeds of Herakles

a) Herakles and the Centaurs

27. (= Herakles/Hercle 278) Amphora, bf. Florence, Mus. 78738. From Cortona. - Magi, A., StEtr 21, 1950/51, 375-377 figs. 1-2. - 1st quarter of 5th cent. B.C. - In a continuous frieze all around the vase Herakles (club and bow) and another man (sword and shield), perhaps V., fight the Centaurs.

b) Herakles and Kyknos

28. (= Ares/Laran 14, = Athena/Menerva 203, = Gigantes 406, = Herakles/Hercle 295*) Amphora, bf. Vatican, Guglielmi Coll. G 91. From Vulci. - Beazley, EVP 2 pl. 3, 3-4; Micali P.; Vian, F., REA 51, 1949, 31-32 pl. 3, 1-4; Spivey, N., The Micali Painter and his Followers (1987) 20 no. 110 pl. 21a. - About 500 B.C. - Herakles followed by Athena and a warrior fights against two warriors, a female warrior and another warrior attacked by a bird to whom runs a winged female figure. E. Simon (→ Ares/Laran 14), G. Colonna (→ Athena/Menerva 203), F. Vian (→ Gigantes 406) and Sh. Schwarz (→ Herakles/Hercle 295) interpret the scene as the fight of Herakles and Kyknos: Herakles is assisted by Athena and V., while Kyknos by Ares, Aphrodite (?) or his mother, Phobos and a winged daemon (Lasa?). Beazley and Spivey see the scene as a Gigantomachy.

29. (= Ares/Laran 13*, = Herakles/Hercle 294) «Pontic» amphora, bf. Heidelberg, Univ. 59/5. - CVA 2 pls. 55, 1-2; 56, 1-3; Hampe, R./Simon, E., Griechische Sagen in der frühen etruskischen Kunst (1964) 8-10 pls. 2, 1; 3, 1; 4. - 3rd quarter of 6th cent. B.C. -

Side A shows Herakles against Kyknos assisted by Ares. The two chariots on side B have been plausibly connected by Hampe and Simon with A and seen as the chariots of Herakles and Kyknos led by V. and Phobos respectively.

c) Herakles and Alkyoneus

In the Alkyoneus story Herakles' occasional companion in Greek art is identified with Telamon rather than with Iolaos (→ Alkyoneus 11*. 16). In Etruscan art two men (then Herakles and Telamon?) are involved in the episode on the vases Paris, Louvre E 631 (= Herakles/Hercle 230/246/274; side A, Herakles attacks Alkyoneus; side B, two men follow a bull, probably to be connected with A) and Cambridge G 43 (= Alkyoneus 34*; two warriors with spears approach Alkyoneus).

I. Vile and Herakles wrongly associated with the Minotaur

30. (= Ariadne/Ariatha 4*, = Herakles/Hercle 330) Bronze mirror. Lost. From Civita Castellana. – Körte, G., in Strena Helbigiana (1900) 164–170 fig.; de Simone, Entlehnungen I 66 (3). – Late 4th or early 3rd cent. B.C. – From l. to r., Minos (Mine) seated, Athena (Menrva), V. (Vile) in corselet, chiton and chlamys, holding a spear, Ariadne (Ariatha), Herakles (Hercle) seated and dead Minotaur (Thevru Mines).

J. Figures erroneously inscribed Vile

31. (= Alkmene 12, = Herakles/Hercle 152, = Iphikles 7*) Stamnos, rf. Florence, Mus. 70528 (1968). From Orvieto. – Beazley, EVP 52, 1 pl. 10, 1: Settecami P.; de Simone, Entlehnungen I 66 (1); Image et céramique grecque (Rouen, 1983) 124 fig. 5. – Early 4th cent. B.C. – Infant Herakles wrestling with the snakes in the presence of Alkmene into whose arms flees Iphikles (inscribed Vile instead of *Viphi- cle); on the r. woman with distaff and spindle (maid?); at a window over the scene, Zeus and Hera.

32. (= Althaia 1*) Bronze mirror. Bloomington, Indiana Univ. Art Mus. 74.23. – Bonfante, L., StEtr 45, 1977, 149–168 pls. 21–23; CSE U.S.A. 1 (Mid-western Colls.) 18–20 no. 4. – Last quarter of 4th cent. B.C. – In the exergue, under the scene of the Judgment of Paris, a small naked boy squatting on an altar (?) holding two serpents. The inscription Vilae is obviously a mistake, since the image is that of the infant Herakles (Hercle) wrestling with the snakes.

COMMENTARY

The earliest appearance of V. in Etruscan art is on a few black-figure vases dating from about 550 to 475 B.C. and showing some of Herakles' deeds: he is present in the fight with the Lion (22. 23), the killing of the Hydra (24) and perhaps also in the Centauromachy

(27) and the Kyknos episode (28. 29). A series of bronze cista feet of c. 500 B.C. also has the Hydra scene (25). None of these works is inscribed but it is logical to identify Herakles' companion as V. In the Hydra, Centaur and Kyknos episodes V. takes an active part in the scene: on 24 he grasps one of the Hydra heads and on 25, where he is dressed as a warrior (corselet, greaves), he attacks the monster with a sword; on 27 the man who fights the Centaurs together with Herakles is armed with a sword and a shield; on 28 a fully armed warrior follows Athena and Herakles in the fight against Kyknos. In the Kyknos story V. probably appears as a charioteer as well (29), a role so characteristic of Iolaos in Greek art in general and in the Kyknos story in particular. This would be the only depiction of V. as a charioteer in Etruscan art. Finally, V. is a mere spectator in the lion episode (carrying Herakles' club and a curved stick on 22, raising a hand in surprise on 23), as well as on a bronze mirror of the 4th cent. B.C. showing the Amazonomachy (26).

Most representations of V. belong to the period from the late 5th/early 4th cent. to the 2nd cent. B.C. and show V. either with Herakles alone or with Herakles and one or more deities. Most are on bronze mirrors but there are also a bronze cista foot (10), a series of bone reliefs (17), two vases (13. → Athena/Menrva 184) and a necklace gold pendant (→ Herakles/Hercle 143). On some mirrors V. is identified by an inscription and this helps to recognize him on other similar non-inscribed works. On the mirrors and the few other works which are contemporary with them V. appears as a youth (the only exception is 26), either naked or wearing a chlamys (or more rarely a himation). On 12. 21 and → Herakles/Hercle 137 he is in chlamys and boots and on 18 he wears a Phrygian cap as well in the type of a Dioskouros. Sometimes he is shown with a corselet (17. 30; cf. 25) and once with a helmet as well (16; cf. 28). He is usually holding a spear and a shield (1. 2. 3. 16. 26) or just a spear (8. 11. 13. 14. 17. 21. 30. → Herakles/Hercle 143), a staff (5. 10. → Herakles/Hercle 145c) or a sword (→ Athena/Menrva 191*) and once he is shown as an athlete holding a strigil (4).

The relative frequency of Vile's depiction on mirrors and the iconography of these attest his importance in Etruscan religion. In spite of the lack of characteristic attributes he is not a secondary figure in these works (for the opposite view see Rebuffat-Emmanuel 472–473. 517 with n. 2). When he appears with Herakles alone the two are shown as equals, facing each other in conversation, often in physical contact (7. 9; → Herakles/Hercle 115b. 141. 142a). A column (→ Herakles/Hercle 142a) or an altar (3) may indicate a sanctuary of one or other or a common cult-place. The most popular composition on mirrors, since it is well adapted to their shape, is that of three figures, a deity usually in the middle and Herakles and V. on either side seated or leaning towards the centre. Sometimes the deity faces V. and not Herakles, as if V. were a more important figure (thus Hermes on 5, Athena on 6, Eros on 10 and, in a different composition, Zeus and Hera on 18, which makes the scene look more like an introduction of V. to Olympus). On some mirrors where the god is turned towards Herakles, we may find V. with his hand on the god's shoulder (Hermes' on 4, Athena's on → Athena/Menrva 191, Hera's on 20) in a familiar gesture which may indicate his high standing.

Finally, V. often accompanies Herakles in those scenes which show the hero in connection with an amphora or a fountain (1. 4. 5. 8. 17; Hermes or/and Athena may also be present). These scenes have usually been regarded as indicative of Herakles' association with water and springs in Etruria (Rebuffat-Emmanuel 514–517 sees them as athletic scenes in which the amphora is the prize). It is possible that the presence of V. in many such scenes (see in particular 8 where V. has his foot on an amphora just like Herakles) indicates his own association with water and fountains in Etruscan religion.

MARIA PIPILI

IOLE I

(Ἰόλη, Ἰόλα in 1, Ἰόλας in 2, Iole) The youngest child and only daughter of → Eurytos (I) – the famous king of Oichalia – and of Antioche or Antiope. Sister of → Deion, → Klytios (I), → Toxeus (I) and → Iphitos (I). Herakles won her as a prize in the archery contest set up by her own father. Since Eurytos refused to give her to him, Herakles destroyed Oichalia and held her captive. Deianeira, Herakles' wife, jealous of I., gave him the poisoned mantle which killed him. Herakles, on the pyre entrusted I. to the care of Hyllus.

LITERARY SOURCES: For the different locations of Oichalia and the discrepancy in the number and names of I.'s brothers, cf. → Eurytos (I). According to Hes. ehoiai (fig. 26, 31a Merkelbach/West) her mother was Antioche or perhaps Antiope; she was the youngest of Eurytos' children. The epithet ξανθή, blond (Hes. l.c.; Strabon 14, 1, 18 p. 638) is a conventional way to mention her beauty. Herakles' love for I., the archery contest which Herakles won, Eurytos' refusal to give his daughter to him and the hero's vengeance, were to be the main subject of the lost poem Οἰχάλιας ἄλωσις (The Conquest of Oichalia) attributed to Kreophylos the Samian (Davies EGF pp. 149–153; Bernabé PEG 161–164). It was possibly the source used for representations (Robert, Heldensage 2, 583). The sole extant line alludes to a dramatic dialogue between Herakles and I.: «Ἰὼ γόναι, αὐτὴ ταῦτά γ' ἐν ὀφθαλμοῖσιν ὄρηαι» The subject was treated possibly by Panyassis of Halikarnassos in his Herakleia at the beginning of the 5th cent. B.C. (no evidence preserved; Huxley, G., Greek Epic Poetry [1969] 177 ss.) and by Pherekydes of Athens (FGH 3 F 82a), in the 1st half of the same cent. According to him, Herakles had requested that I. should marry Hyllus. Ion of Chios, a tragic poet active in Athens about the middle of 5th cent., treats the epic subject in his Eurytidai (TrGF 19 F 10–13a). Soph. Trach. and Bakchyl. dith. 16 deal with Deianeira's jealousy when the arrival of captive I. is announced (Bakchyl. o.c. 23–30). In Soph. Trach. 856–862, I. is the bride, won by his spear, that victorious Herakles takes home. The goddess Kypris is responsible. Equally, the drama stresses Eros' role as the god solely responsible for Eurytos' death and the conquest of Oichalia (351–357). Herakles on the pyre, commands his son to take I. as his wife (1220–1228), an echo of the treatment in Pherekydes. Hyllus regards I. as the person who caused his mother Deianeira's death and Herakles' end (1233–1234). In Eur. Hipp. 546, I. is called an unyoked filly that was given to Herakles by Kypris. In all these versions madness and destruction accompany love. In Hyg. fab. 35, I. endured with firm heart the killing of her parents by Herakles, in her presence and in spite of her entreaties. In Ps.-Plut. Par. 13, 308f (FGH 60 F 1), I. jumped from the walls of Oichalia in order to escape Herakles, but her clothes filled with the wind prevented injury. This is likely to be a later addition to the myth.

For the etymology of I., see Neumann, Appendix to Olmos.

BIBLIOGRAPHY: For a more complete bibliography see → Eurytos I. Beazley, J. D., «Brygan Symposia», in Studies D. M. Robinson II (1953) 66–82; Bernhard, ML II 1 (1890–94) 289–290 s.v. «Iole»; Isler-Kerényi, C., Stamnoi (1976/77) 36–42; Olmos, R., «Die Einnahme von Oichalia», MM 18, 1977, 130–147, with an epigraphical appendix by G. Neumann, 148–150; Robert, Heldensage 2, 585–586; Schefold, SB II 148–150.

CATALOGUE

A. Herakles meets Iole banqueting in Oichalia

1.* (= Deion 1* with further refs., = Eurytos I I with bibl., = Iphitos I I) Column crater, Corinthian. Paris, Louvre E 635. From Cerveteri. Simon/Hirmer, Vasen pl. XI. – Early Corinthian: 600–590 B.C. – Banquet given by Eurytos and his sons in honour of Herakles. I. (FIOAA), depicted with white flesh, has long hair, and is walking to the r. in front of the klinai of Iphitos and Herakles. She turns to face her family while holding her red mantle with both hands in a gesture of aidōs, chastity. When Herakles sees her, he seems about to rise from the couch.

B. Archery contest and Herakles' vengeance

2.* (= Antiphonos 1* with bibl., = Eurytos I 3 with bibl., = Iphitos I 3*) Amphora, Attic bf. Madrid, Mus. Arch. 10916. From Vulci. – ABV 508: near the Sappho P.; Add 126. – About 500–490 B.C. – In the same scene the contest for I.'s hand and Herakles killing the Eurytidai. I. (IOAEAS) depicted with white flesh, long hair, dressed in chiton and himation at the r. of the scene watches the killing of her family. She extends her arms, powerless. Near her is the target with the arrows stuck in it, alluding to the contest.

3. (= Eurytos I 4 with bibl., = Iphitos I 4) Cup fr., Attic rf. Palermo, Mus. Reg. V 653. From Chiuse. – ARV<sup>2</sup> 73, 30; 1623: Epiktetos; Add<sup>2</sup> 168. – About 510–500 B. C. – The scene is composed in the opposite direction to the scene on 2. Of I., at the l., remains only the lower part of her body. She is dressed in chiton and himation. At the r., part of Herakles shooting. Since the Eurytidai are turning their faces towards I., while running to the r. with their bows and arrows ready, we may suppose that they are astonished by the target near I., with the arrows, as on 2, 4, and 5. Eurytos runs ahead of them, standing between them and Herakles.

4. (= Eurytos I 2/5* with bibl., = Iphitos I 5) Cup fr., Attic rf. Athens, Nat. Mus. Acr. 288. From the Athenian Acropolis. – ARV<sup>2</sup> 370, 7: Brygos P.; Add<sup>2</sup> 224. – 490–480 B. C. – A: Eurytos and his sons run to the r. turning their heads towards I., as on 3. By I.'s head an arrow. I. is poorly preserved, dressed in tunic and mantle, with parts of her hand and wrist raised to her chin.

5. (= Eurytos I 7* with bibl., = Iphitos I 7) Stamnos, Attic rf. Once Basle market. – Isler-Kerényi 36–42 figs.: Eucharides P. – 490–480 B. C. – A: Herakles to l., about to shoot again towards I. Before him an archer with Phrygian cap and Eurytos as king, turning his head back to I. She wears chiton and himation and holds a flower in her l. hand. On her breast a strange target in which an arrow is stuck.

COMMENTARY

I. is depicted on only five Greek vases from the archaic period, in scenes always related to the Capture of Oichalia, a poem that directly or indirectly is to be considered their source of inspiration. The earliest representation, the Corinthian crater I of the beginning of the 6th cent. B. C., places the origin of the story in a magnificent and aristocratic atmosphere, at a banquet in Eurytos' palace. (On hybris as a recurrent theme in this subject, already present in the banquet, cf. comm. to → Eurytos I, and → Iphitos I). The unusual presence of I. inspires sudden love in Eurytos' guest, Herakles, who rises from his couch. The reason for the presence of I. at the men's banquet is not known, but it reminds one of → Iphigeneia's presence at the symposium in Agamemnon's palace, to sing a Paean in honour of the guests (Aischyl. Ag. 243–247; Beazley 82 n. 29). The young girl reacts by wrapping herself up in the red himation, a feminine gesture, similar to → Penelope's when she entered the suitors' room (cf. Hom. Od. I, 334; 21, 65). The double movement of I.'s figure demonstrates the tension of the drama: on the one hand her family ties, on the other Herakles' appeal.

The archery contest for I.'s hand, and Herakles' vengeance caused by Eurytos' refusal to give her to him, is the subject of the other representations (2–5), on Attic vases almost a century after the Corinthian, between 510 and 480 B. C. On the simultaneous representation of the contest and vengeance cf. comm. to → Eurytos I. Like → Achilles in the first book of the Iliad, deprived of Briseis by Agamemnon, and therefore of his honour, Herakles is also dishonoured when not given his corresponding τιμή, I. That is why she appears associated with the target with stuck arrows, since she is the prize (2, 4, 5, and probably also 3). The stuck arrow on a strange target on her own breast on 5, alludes to the winner's immediate possession of the νόμιον; target and woman are the same thing. On these vases Eurytos' family interposes again between Herakles and I.: she stands in front of Herakles, at the opposite end of the scene. She contemplates the fight, powerless or vividly gesticulating (2, ca. 500–490 B. C.), or containing her sorrow with more restrained gestures on later vases (4, 5, 490–480 B. C.). On 5, the stamnos by the Eucharides P., the look between I. and her father shows the intimate tension between them, in contrast to the brothers' lively movement and the imminent vengeance: the silent dialogue between father and daughter alludes to the decision about I.'s fate. But we are not sure whether she is here participating (cf. Hyg. fab. 35) or just respecting her father's decision. The vigorous action of the men contrasts with the hieratic I., depicted like a kore. On 5, and perhaps also on 4, she holds a flower to express her beauty, charis. Her beauty, referred to in the literary sources, is expressed in the conventional contemporary fashion: she also has her long hair tied with a band on 5, and, as a princess, she wears a rich peplos and himation.

RICARDO OLMOS

IOLE II → Amazones 764

IOLEIA

(Ἰολεία) «Veilchen», Mänamenname (→ Mainades) in einer Vaseninschrift.

I.* Kelchkrater, att. rf. Athen, Nat. Mus. 12594. – Fränkel, Namen 51. 102 Nr. 0; Nicole 263–264 Nr. 1138 Taf. 20. – Lagernder Dionysos, heranfliegender Eros mit Kranz. L. steht die Mänade → Mainas, r. I. (IOLEIA) (Stephane im hochgesteckten Haar, r. Fuß hochgestellt, hält I. Thyrsos und r. eine Schale mit Früchten) im Blickkontakt mit Dionysos.

ANNELIESE KOSSATZ-DEISSMANN

ION

(Ἴων, Ion) Sohn des → Xouthos, Bruder des Achaïos, Enkel des Hellen, des Stammvaters der Hellenen. Die Brüder I. und Achaïos sind die eponymen

Heroen der Ioner und der Achäer in einem Stammbaum, der in nachhomerischer Zeit, wohl im 7. Jh. v. Chr., entstanden ist. Die Eponymen der beiden anderen griechischen Hauptstämme, Doros und Aiolos, sind dagegen Brüder des Xouthos, der selbst kein namentgebender Heros ist. In der attischen, durch Eur. Ion und Plat. Euthd. 302c bezeugten Version unterscheidet sich I. von den anderen Heroen des Stammbaums dadurch, daß er neben dem menschlichen Vater einen göttlichen hat: → Apollon. Dieses Phänomen ist für eine ganze Reihe von Heroen typisch – man denke an → Herakles oder → Theseus – und sollte nicht durch rationalistische Konstruktionen (Xouthos angeblicher Beiname des Apollon) oder als bloße Erfindung des Euripides abgetan werden. Erfindung des Euripides ist freilich Doros als Bruder des I., was sich aber nicht durchgesetzt hat (Eur. Ion 1589–1591): Doros ist sonst, wie in den hesiodeischen Katalogen, Sohn des Hellen und Bruder, nicht Sohn des Xouthos. – Mutter des I. war die attische Prinzessin → Kreusa (I), Tochter des → Erechtheus; für den Namen seiner Gattin ist Helike überliefert, die eine Tochter des peloponnesischen Königs Selinus war. Nach den vier Söhnen des I. – Geleon, Hoples, Argades, Aigikores – waren die vier attisch-ionischen Urphylen benannt. Mit diesen wurde I. in Samos gemeinsam kultisch verehrt, wie dort gefundene Horossteine zeigen. Die Annahme von Carl Robert, I. habe keinen Kult gehabt (Heldensage<sup>4</sup> II 148), ist also widerlegt. Auch das von Paus. I, 31, 3 erwähnte Grab des I. im ostattischen Demos Potamoi spricht für Heroenkult. Nach einer von demselben Autor 7, 1, 5 überlieferten Sage (zum Teil wohl nach Eur. Erechtheus, → Chthonia) soll I. den Athenern von der Peloponnes her gegen die Eleusiner (und Thraker) zu Hilfe gekommen und gefallen sein. Der Beiname seines Vaters Apollon, Boedromios, wird in anderen Quellen damit in Verbindung gebracht. Vor allem aber stand Apollon als Patroos, wie er in Athen, auf Delos und in Kleinasien verehrt wurde, mit I. in Verbindung. Er war identisch mit dem Apollon Pythios und Hypoakraios, der am Nordwesthang der Akropolis einen uralten Höhlenkult besaß. Dort soll Kreusa den von Apollon empfangenen Sohn I. ausgesetzt haben.

LITERARISCHE QUELLEN: Hauptquelle ist Eur. Ion, ein Spätwerk, dessen genaue Ausführungszeit nicht feststeht. Es ist auch unbekannt, ob die für Sophokles überlieferten Titel Ion und Kreusa früher oder später als die Tragödie des Euripides waren und ob sie zu einem einzigen Drama oder zu zweien gehörten; vgl. TrGF IV p. 308–309. 321–324. Im Prolog von Eur. Ion schildert Hermes, wie er auf Geheiß des Apollon den ausgesetzten Sohn der Kreusa aus der Akropolis-Höhle, wohl der ältesten Kultstätte des Apollon in Athen, nach Delphi trug. Hermes sagt voraus, daß I. der Ktistes der kleinasiatischen Ioner sein wird (74). Athena, die am Schluß als dea ex machina erscheint, spricht von der ionischen Kolonisation der Kykladen und der kleinasiatischen Küste (1581–1588). – Die hesiodeischen Ehoiai sind in bezug auf den Stammbaum der Hellenen durch Neufunde erweitert. Zu fig. 9 und 10 Merkelbach/West tritt nun fig. 10a Solm-

sen/Merkelbach/West (1983<sup>2</sup>). Doros, Aiolos und Xouthos als Söhne des Hellen sind ebendort und bei Hdt. I, 56 verankert, ebenso bei den späteren Autoren. Hdt. 8, 44 nennt den I. Strataches, was vielleicht mit dem athenischen Amt des Polemarchos gleichgesetzt werden kann (Oldfather, Strasburger). Der Polemarch richtete nämlich das Apollonfest der Boedromia aus, die nach der Hilfe des I. für die Athener im eleusinisch-thrakischen Krieg genannt sein sollten (Etym. m. s. v. Boedromion). Hdt. 5, 66 sowie Eur. Ion 1575–1581 und Aristot. Ath. pol. 41, 2 bringen die Namen der vier attischen Urphylen mit den Söhnen des I. zusammen. Der Name seiner Gattin Helike ist bei Paus. 7, 1, 3–4 überliefert. Kult des I. in Samos: Barron, J. P., «Religious Propaganda of the Delian League», JHS 84, 1964, 37; vgl. Meiggs, R., The Athenian Empire (1972) 298. Die Testimonia zu I. sind zum Teil bei Prinz gesammelt (Nr. 209. 210. 212. 213. 216. 217), der allerdings die Neufunde zu den hesiodeischen Katalogen noch nicht verwendet und viel zu sehr der überholten Meinung von Carl Robert (Heldensage<sup>4</sup> II 149) anhängt: «Für Sage, Poesie und Kunst bleibt Ion eine Null». Eine gute neue Behandlung der I.-Sage findet sich bei Parker, der zu Recht betont, daß der Beiname des Apollon Patroos ohne I. nicht erklärbar sei. Höhle des Apollon Hypoakraios: Travlos, Top. Ath. 91–95; dort auch die Quellen für die Gleichsetzung dieses Gottes mit dem Apollon Patroos und Pythios.

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Ermatinger, E., Die attische Autochthonensage bis auf Euripides (1897) 112–142; v. Geisau, H., KlPäuly II (1967) 1434 s. v. «Ion I»; Meyer, E., Forschungen zur Alten Geschichte I (1892) 144–150; Oldfather, W. A., RE IX 2 (1916) 1857–1860 s. v. «Ion 3»; Parker, R., «Myths of Early Athens», in: Bremmer, J., Interpretations of Greek Mythology (1987) 206–207; Prinz, E., Gründungsmythen und Sagenchronologie (1979) 356–370. 446–450 (Testimonia); Richard, J.-Ch.: vgl. Bibliographie zu → Ianus; Robert, Heldensage<sup>4</sup> II 145–149; Strasburger, G., Lexikon zur frühgriech. Geschichte (1984) 196. 369; Stoll, H. W., ML II 1 (1890–94) 290–92 s. v. «Ion I»; Toepffer, I., Attische Genealogie (1889) 113. 261. 267.

Speziell zum Ion des Euripides: Imhof, M., Euripides' Ion. Eine literarische Studie (1966); Lesky, A., Die tragische Dichtung der Hellenen (1972) 425–437; Owen, A. S., Euripides Ion with introduction and commentary (1939); Schauenburg, K., «Kreusa in Delphi», AA 1988, 633–651; Schmidt, M., «Ein Danaidendrama(?) und der euripideische Ion auf unteritalischen Vasenbildern», in Studies in Honour of A. D. Trendall (1979) 163–169; Webster, T. B. L., The Tragedies of Euripides (1967) 202–204. 293–294; Weitzmann, K., ArtBull 25, 1943, 298–303; v. Wilamowitz-Moellendorf, U., Euripides Ion (1926).

KATALOG

Zur Verfolgung der Mutter des I., Kreusa, durch Apollon, die nicht inschriftlich gesichert ist: → Kreusa (I). Die Rettung des ausgesetzten I. durch Hermes auf Geheiß des Apollon ist bisher in den Darstellungen nicht nachgewiesen. Sie könnte dort dargestellt sein, wo das Kind aus ikonographischen Gründen nicht Dionysos genannt werden kann; zum Problem Kossatz-Deißmann, A., in Festschr. A. Cambitoglou (im Druck). – Ein Teil der hypothetisch auf I. gedeuteten Denkmäler ist bei Schmidt 167 Anm. 35 gesammelt.

Von den Nummern des folgenden Katalogs ist keine ganz gesichert, doch ist die Deutung von 2 durch M. Schmidt allgemein anerkannt.

A. Ion im Kreis seiner athenischen Verwandten beim Streit um Attika

1. (= Erysichthon II 4 mit Lit. und Querverweisen) Figur E im Westgiebel des Parthenon. – Brommer, F., Die Skulpturen der Parthenongiebel (1963) 35. 167 Taf. 64, 1; 90, 1. Am besten in der Zeichnung von Carrey erhalten, allerdings auch dort ohne Kopf. Durch sie konnte ein Torso im Akropolismuseum zugewiesen werden (Brommer Taf. 90, 1). Zur Situation, in der sich die Figuren in der I. Hälfte des Westgiebels befinden: Simon, E. in Tainia, Festschr. R. Hampe (1980) 243–244. Es ist eine «Sintflutsituation», denn Poseidon droht Attika zu überschwemmen. Die Figuren suchen verzweifelt Halt beieinander. Der junge Mann (nicht Knabe) E bricht in die Knie, stützt die Rechte auf die neben ihm zusammensinkende matronale Frau und streckt die Linke abwehrend zur Giebelmitte hin, wo Amphitrite mit ihren Seeungeheuern heranzieht. Eine jüngere Frau sucht ihm vom Hintergrund her Halt zu geben. Wenn man die bis vor wenigen Jahren noch im Giebel befindliche Gruppe B/C als Kekrops mit einer Tochter erklärt, so ist in E → Erysichthon (II) zu sehen, der einzige Sohn des Kekrops, mit seinen Schwestern (→ Aglauros, Herse, Pandrosos). Wenn man mit R. Hampe (vgl. → Chthonia 1) in der Figur B jedoch → Erechtheus sieht, was mir trotz des Verdikts von U. Kron (→ Erysichthon II 4 und sonst) möglich erscheint, so kann E der Enkel des Erechtheus, I., sein, der wahrscheinlich in der Erechtheus-Tragödie des Euripides auftritt (→ Chthonia). Die ihn umgebenden Frauen sind dann nicht die Kekropstöchter, sondern Praxithea und Kreusa.

B. Ion als Tempeldiener des delphischen Apollon

2. (= Aphrodite 1532, = Apollon 326* mit Lit., = Chryses I 14, = Eros 928) Volutenkrater, apul. rf. Ruvo, Mus. Jatta 1097. – Mittleres 4. Jh. v. Chr. – Am Altar vor einem ionischen Tempel, in dem eine Statue des Apollon steht, wird ein Stieropfer dargebracht. Am Altar steht ein langlockiger Knabe mit einem bindengeschmückten Lorbeerzweig, den M. Schmidt als I. deutet. Der Opfernde ist dann Xuthos, der aus Freude über den angeblich wiedergefundenen Sohn, dem er feierlich den Namen Ion gibt (Eur. Ion 661), ein Stieropfer darbringt; und die Frau I. ist Kreusa mit dem Chor der euripideischen Tragödie. Ob der vor dem Tempel betende Greis der alte Pädagoge des Erechtheus ist (Eur. Ion 725), bleibe dahingestellt, ebenso die Deutung der I. Sitzenden als → Asia durch M. Schmidt. Ich möchte sie für Artemis halten, die auch sonst auf Vasen des 4. Jh. eine Phrygermütze trägt (vgl. → Artemis 1097a*. 1334*. 1375*. 1392*). Durch das Fehlen der Athena, die als dea ex machina bei Euripides eine wichtige Rolle spielt, wird das Geschehen weniger athenisch als panhellenisch akzentuiert, was dem Entstehungsort und der Zeit der Vase besser entspricht. Vielleicht ist der vor Apollon betende königliche Greis Hellen, Vater des Xuthos und Stammvater der Hellenen.

3. (= Apollon/Aplu 48* mit Lit., = Chrysis I 7 mit Lit. und Querverweisen) Praenestische Ciste («Cista Barberini»). Rom, Villa Giulia 13199. – Drittes Drittel 4. Jh. v. Chr. – Vor dem an seinem Omphalos thronenden Apollon Pythios steht betend ein vornehmer Krieger. Dem Apollon ist im Hintergrund ein Knabe zugeordnet, dessen Beine und I. Hand von dem Gott überschritten werden. Er ist nackt, mit Fackelfrisur, und dient dem Apollon, der in der Rechten eine Phiale vorstreckt, als Ministrant. Wenn man in dem Krieger, der um ein Orakel bittet, in der herkömmlichen Interpretation Laios oder Ödipus sieht, bleibt der Knabe unbenannt. Diese Deutung ist aber nicht zwingend, denn außer dem Raub des Chrysis I 7 ist auf der Ciste noch das Parisurteil (→ Parisid iudicium, → Iris I 136) abgebildet, also eine Szene aus einem ganz anderen Sagenkreis. Deshalb muß auch die dritte Szene inhaltlich nicht mit dem übrigen Fries übereinstimmen. Chrysis I 7 war nicht Kultdiener des Apollon, wohl aber I., den ich in dem Knaben erkenne (vgl. Jdl 93, 1978, 207 Anm. 35). Der Orakelsuchende ist dann Xuthos aus dem Drama des Euripides. I. ist zu nahe an den Gott herangerückt. In der Vorlage dürfte er eine Kanne zum Füllen von dessen Phiale gehalten haben.

AUSZUSCHIEDEN

4. (= Alkestis 56, = Hippothoon 5) Silberschale, 1903 in Kasachstan bei Kustanai gefunden. Leningrad, Ermitage. – Weitzmann 298–303 Abb. 1. 5–8 und Illustrations in Roll and Codex (1970) passim hat das Verdienst, dieses spätantike Gefäß mit dem griechisch-römischen Kulturkreis verbunden zu haben. Seine Deutung der Szenen auf verschiedene Tragödien des Euripides (Alkestis, Bakchai, Alope und Ion) ist trotz der partiellen Zustimmung von M. Schmidt (→ Alkestis 56) zurückzuweisen. Für die Deutung des Mittelbildes (Abb. 8) auf Kreusa und den alten Diener und eines Teiles des Frieses (Abb. 7) auf Ion, Kreusa und Chorführerin fehlt jeder Anhalt. Die verschiedenen Szenen der Schale hängen deutlich als fortlaufende Erzählung zusammen; es handelt sich wahrscheinlich, wie an anderer Stelle gezeigt werden soll, um die Illustration eines Romanes.

KREUSA UND XUTHOS IN DELPHI, ION FEHLT:

5. Zwei apul. Lutrophoren, a) Tarent, Mus. Naz. (RVAp II 499, 57 Taf. 179, 1–2; Dareiosmaler; Schauenburg 635 Abb. 4); b) ehem. Basel, Kunsthandel (Gal. Palladion; Schauenburg 634 Abb. 1–2; Dareiosmaler) lassen sich durch die Inschrift Kreusa im Zentrum von a wenigstens allgemein deuten. Es dürfte sich um den Ion des Euripides (Schauenburg) oder um die Kreusa des Sophokles (Simon bei Schauenburg 647 Anm. 81) handeln. Das Elternpaar tritt jedoch ohne I. auf.

KOMMENTAR

Darstellungen des I. in der antiken Kunst sind selten. Einige bei M. Schmidt verzeichnete «Illustrationen» sind problematisch (vgl. zu 4). Aus dem im Zusammenhang mit dem attisch-ionischen Seebund errichteten I.-Kult auf Samos geht hervor, daß I. im 5. Jh. v. Chr. ein Heros war, unter dessen Vorzeichen sich Athen mit seinen ionischen Verbündeten treffen konnte. R. Meiggs, The Athenian Empire (1972) 298 betont zu Recht, daß Euripides mit seinem Ion-Drama «had more than Athenians in mind; there would be allies as well in the audience». Diese Bundesgenossen gingen nicht nur ins Dionysos-Theater, sondern auch auf die Akropolis. Wenn sie in der Figur E des Westgiebels I. sehen konnten (1), so handelte es sich nicht um eine lokalathenische, sondern um eine panhellenische Sage, deren Wurzeln aber in attischem Boden ruhten. Eine solche Darstellung wäre des perikleischen Zeitalters würdig gewesen. Auf dem Volutenkrater des Lykurgosmalers (2) ist das Drama des Euripides so abgewandelt, daß Athens Rolle zurückgedrängt erscheint. Athena fehlt – fehlte sie auch in großgriechischen Aufführungen des Ion? Wir wissen es nicht, doch es erscheint durchaus möglich, daß an der Schwelle zum Hellenismus jenes Drama aktualisiert wurde. M. Schmidt hat zu Recht Reden des Isokrates zur Deutung herangezogen. Wenn die oben versuchte Benennung des Greises stimmt, wäre der Stammvater der Hellenen selbst in der Neufassung des Ion aufgetreten. Dem großgriechischen Bereich, dem 2 angehört, ist auch 3 in Stil und Inhalt verpflichtet. Für die Latiner in Praeneste und Rom, für die diese Cisten graviert wurden, kam es aber weniger auf I. als auf den auch in Latium hoch verehrten Apollo Pythios an (→ Apollon/Apollo).

ERIKA SIMON

IONIOS

(Ἰόνιος) Illyrischer Held, nach dem das Ionische Meer, das in der Antike auch einen Teil der Adria mit einschloß, benannt wurde.

LITERARISCHE QUELLEN: Nach Theop. ist Ionios ein Illyrier (FGH I 15 F 128a–b), Sohn des Adrias (F 128c), und stammt aus Issa (F 129). Bei App. div. 2, 39 wird I., Sohn des Dyrrhachos, von Herakles aus Versehen erschlagen und seine Leiche im Meer bestattet.

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Brunšmid, J., «Die Inschriften und Münzen der griechischen Städte Dalmatiens», Abh. des Archäologisch-Epigraphischen Seminars der Univ. Wien 13, 1898, III–IV. 30–31. 58–61. 67–68; Cambi, N./Kirigin, B./Marin, E., RdA 4, 1980, 81–89; Gorini, G., «Monete greche riconiate in Illiria», in Attes du 9<sup>e</sup> Congrès int. de numismatique, Berne, 1979 (1982) 141–146; Katičić, R., «Jonios der Illyrier», Godišnjak Centra za balkanološka ispitivanja 11, 1973, 185 ff.; Rendić-Miočević, D., «IONIOΣ (TO ΓΕΝΟΣ ΙΑΛΥΠΙΟΣ) and the Graeco-Illyrian Coinage», in Festschr. G. Novak (1970) 347–376 (serbo-kroatisch mit englischer Zusammenfassung); Schultz, A./Stoll, H. W., ML II 1 (1890–94) 292 s. v. «Ionios»; Visonà, P., «Early Greek Bronze Coinage in Dalmatia and the Škadijivac Hoard: A Reappraisal of IGCH 418–420», in Attes du 9<sup>e</sup> Congrès int. de numismatique, Berne, 1979 (1982) 147–155; Weicker, G., REIX 2 (1916) 1895 s. v. «Ionios I».

KATALOG

Münzen

1.* AE, Issa oder Pharos, 4./3. Jh. v. Chr. – Brunšmid 60 Nr. 1–3 Taf. 3, 56; 4, 57–58; 61 Nr. 6 Taf. 4, 62; MacDonald, Hunter II 8 Nr. 1 Taf. 31, 12; SNG Copenhagen 538–539; Rendić-Miočević 351 Abb. 1; 357 Abb. 7–8; 358 Abb. 10; 369 Typ A Taf. 1–2; Gorini 141–143; Visonà 147–155. – Vs.: jugendlicher Kopf mit Tanie. IONIO. Rs.: Delphin.

2.* AE, Issa oder Pharos oder Herakleia in Illyrien, 4./3. Jh. v. Chr. – BMC Thessaly to Aetolia 84, 1 Taf. 15, 9; Brunšmid 61 Nr. 5 Taf. 3, 60; 4, 61; Rendić-Miočević 359 Abb. 12–14; 361 Abb. 15; 369 Typ C Taf. 4; Gorini 141–143; Visonà 147–155. – Vs.: Bärtiger Kopf nach I. IONIO oder IONIOΣ. Rs.: Löwenkopfhaut oder Kopf des Zeus.

3.* AE, Issa, 4./3. Jh. v. Chr. – BMC Thessaly to Aetolia 82, 10–11 Taf. 15, 3; Brunšmid 67–68 Nr. 33–37 Taf. 5, 85–89; SNG Copenhagen 540; Rendić-Miočević 353 Abb. 2; 369 Typ B Taf. 3, 1; Visonà 147–155 Tf. 24, 6. – Vs.: jugendlicher männlicher Kopf, bekränzt oder unbekränzt, nach r. Rs.: Delphin über Wellen oder Kantharos.

KOMMENTAR

Verschiedene Münztypen (1–3) zeigen einen männlichen Kopf, der meist mit der Legende IONIO versehen ist (1–2). Aufgrund dieser Beischrift wird der Kopf von Brunšmid, Schultz/Stoll und Weicker mit Ionios und genauer mit der gleichnamigen mythologischen Person identifiziert, die nach Legenden angeblich in dieser Gegend lebte, in der auch unsere

IONE

(Ἰώνη, Ἡώνη) Néréide (→ Nereides). Le nom Ἡώνη figure dans deux des quatre listes antiques de Néréides: Hes. theog. 255; Apollod. bibl. 1 (12) 2, 7; Apollod. mentionne en outre Ἰώνη comme Néréide distincte d'Ἡώνη. Cf. REXVII 1 (1936) 3–4 s. v. «Nereiden».

1. Mosaïque. Aquilée, Mus. Arch. D'Aquilée. – Brusin, G., NotSc 5<sup>e</sup> sér. 20, 1923, 227. – III<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. – Panneau très fragmentaire d'un ensemble qui comportait d'autres représentations de Néréides (→ Klymene I, → Thetis); il ne subsiste que la fin du nom du personnage (inscr. [Ἰ]ου Ἡ[ἰ]ώνη, qui ne permet pas de décider entre les deux noms possibles), ainsi que la main dr. et quelques parties squameuses du → Triton qu'il chevauchait.

JEAN CH. BALTZ

Münzen geschlagen wurden. Rendić-Miočević S. 371 argumentierte dagegen, daß der Name auf den Münzen in den Genitiv gesetzt wurde und daß in solchen Fällen in der Regel auf eine lebende Person angespielt wurde, sei es der Münzmeister oder – wie auf etwa gleichzeitigen Münzen der naheliegenden Städte Dyrrhachion oder Pharos – der dort regierende Herrscher Mounios oder Ballaios. Daher stellte Rendić-Miočević die These auf, daß in dem Dargestellten ein auf Issa lebender Dynast zu erkennen wäre. Gorini S. 141 wies aber darauf hin, daß bei einer erneuten Überprüfung eines Exemplars im Britischen Museum in London (= BMCThessaly etc. 81, 1 Taf. 15, 9; hier 2), Herr Dr. Price eindeutig IONIOΣ lesen konnte und so zumindest hier kein Genitiv angenommen werden kann. Damit erscheint jedoch die ältere Interpretation viel wahrscheinlicher, wie sie auch kürzlich Visonà S. 151 wieder aufnimmt, daß auf diesen Münzen die mythologische Gestalt des I. zu erkennen ist.

RAINER VOLLKOMMER

IONOPOLIS → Glykon 20

IORDANES → LIMC Suppl.

IOULIOPOLIS → LIMC Suppl.

IPHIANASSA → Iphigeneia

IPHIDAMAS

(Ἰπιδάμας) Fils du Troyen → Antenor (I) et de → Theano (I), fille du roi de Thrace Cissée (Kisseus). Il fut élevé par celui-ci, dont il épousa une autre fille. Il participa à la guerre de Troie avec douze navires et fut tué par → Agamemnon. Homère (Il. 11, 221–247) décrit le duel avec beaucoup de détails.

I. (= Agamemnon 72) Coffre de Cypsélos, œuvre en bois sculpté orné d'or et d'ivoire, perdue, connue par la description de Pausanias. – Paus. 5, 19, 4; Jones, H. S., «The Chest of Kypselos», JHS 14, 1894, 30–80 (surtout 74); v. Massow, W., «Die Kypseloslade», AM 41, 1916, 1–117 (en particulier 84); Friis Johansen, Iliad 245, 5; Schefold, Sagenbilder 68 fig. 26; Papachatzis, Paus. Messeniaka, Eliaka 295 n. 2; 296. – Vers 550 av. J.-C. – Agamemnon et → Koon combattent au-dessus du cadavre d'I.; sous les personnages, des inscr. confirmaient leur identité.

ALIKI KAUFFMANN-SAMARAS

IPHIDAME → Hypermestra 5

IPHIGENEIA

(Ἰπυγένη, variantes principales Iphianassa? [Ἰπιδάσσα], Iphimédé [Ἰπυμέδη], Iphigoné [Ἰπυγόνη]; en latin Iphigenia, Iphianassa) D'une part ancienne divinité liée à → Artemis et épicièle d'→ Hekate, d'autre part héroïne légendaire, fille d'→ Agamemnon et de Clytemnestre (→ Klytaimnestra), sœur d'→ Orestes. Selon une version plus rare, fille d'→ Helene et de → Theseus, née à Aphidna, confiée ensuite par Hélène à Clytemnestre qui la fait passer pour son enfant. Selon les prédictions de → Kalchas, qui invoque les exigences d'Artémis, I. devait être sacrifiée à Aulis afin que la flotte grecque, bloquée par des vents contraires, puisse partir pour Troie. Amenée à Aulis sous le prétexte d'y épouser → Achilleus, I. y est conduite par force à l'autel d'Artémis, ou au contraire s'y rend volontairement. Elle est sauvée in extremis par la déesse qui lui substitue une biche ou une ourse (version brauronienne). Selon la seconde partie de la légende, Artémis aurait secrètement transporté I. en Tauride (Crimée) où elle devint sa prêtresse, gardienne du sanctuaire et chargée du sacrifice. C'est là qu'Oreste (accompagné de → Pylades), auquel Apollon avait enjoint de voler la statue d'Artémis, retrouve sa sœur. Après plusieurs péripéties, tous trois sont sauvés: Oreste, avec Pylade, ramène en Grèce sa sœur et la statue de la déesse, et I. devient prêtresse du sanctuaire d'Artémis à Brauron.

SOURCES LITTÉRAIRES: Sans aucun doute I. a été une déesse tout comme elle a été une héroïne. Les témoignages qui nous sont parvenus sont plus nombreux pour l'héroïne que pour la déesse mais il est impossible de les tenir entièrement séparés si l'on veut comprendre l'importance du personnage et l'évolution de son iconographie. Pour les Anciens en effet, pareille ambiguïté ne posait pas de problème: ils expliquaient les «aventures» de l'héroïne par son caractère de déesse qui lui avait finalement permis d'échapper à la mort. En dépit de cela, I. est certainement intimement liée à la mort et au sacrifice, son existence même ne s'explique point autrement. Les études au sujet de l'ancienneté de son nom ne sont pas concluantes: elle en porte d'ailleurs plusieurs. Une Iphimedeia était connue dans les inscriptions de Pylos (I-pe-me-de-ja, PY 172 = Tn 316: Ventris, M./Chadwick, J., Documents in Myc. Greek 2 [1973] 286–288; Neumann, G., Münch. Stud. zur Sprachwiss. 46, 1985, 165–171 avec bibl.), dont l'identification demeure douteuse. L'absence de W initial rend difficile sa mise en relation avec I. Cependant chez Hésiode, dans le Catalogue des femmes (Hes. fig. 23a, 17 Merkelbach/West), le nom Iphimédè désigne bien I. et son sacrifice à Aulis est clairement mentionné. I. ne figure pas dans les poèmes homériques, à moins que l'Iphianassa, fille d'Agamemnon, ne lui soit identique, ce qui a été contesté avec raison (Hom. Il. 9, 145). Enfin I. est appelée Iphigoné chez Euripide (El. 1023). Sur I-φi (force) cf. Chantraine 469 s. v. ig. Pour diverses étymologies, cf. Kjellberg 2588. I. est généralement considérée comme la fille d'Agamemnon et de Clytemnestre, mais une variante de la légende veut en faire une fille de Thésée et d'Hélène, née à Aphidna, qu'Hélène aurait ensuite confiée à Clytemnestre (Paus. 2, 22, 6).

Il semble bien que le sacrifice d'I. à Aulis ne paraît ni dans l'Iliade ni dans l'Odyssée (en dépit de Hom. Il. 1, 106–108); ce sont les Chants Cypriens, connus par l'intermédiaire du résumé de Proclus (Davies EGF p. 32, l. 55–63), qui nous donnent la première version détaillée de l'épisode d'Aulis; ils relatent la colère d'Artémis, irritée par Agamemnon (meurtrier d'une biche de la déesse ou s'étant vanté de la surpasser à la chasse), qui empêche le départ de la flotte grecque, et la prophétie de Calchas qui ordonne le sacrifice d'I. amenée sur les lieux sous le faux prétexte d'épouser Achille; à la dernière minute Artémis aurait ensuite transporté I. en Tauride et l'aurait rendue immortelle; à sa place une biche aurait été sacrifiée à Aulis. L'animal de substitution, la biche d'après les Chants Cypriens, est celui qui sera le plus souvent mentionné dans les textes ultérieurs et constamment représenté dans l'iconographie; mais la légende locale de Brauron y substitue une ourse (cf. Phanodemos, FGH 325 F 14 et Schol. Aristoph. Lys. 645). Cependant c'est à partir des récits des poètes tragiques que la légende du sacrifice d'I. sera développée et que divers épisodes, dont nous n'avons pas trace auparavant, seront mentionnés. Eschyle et Sophocle avaient écrit des tragédies intitulées Iphigénie mais dont on sait peu de chose: Eschyle, TrGF III p. 213–214, et Sophocle, TrGF IV F 305–312. Comment le sacrifice de l'héroïne y était-il accompli? Peut-être encore par Agamemnon lui-même, comme l'indiqueraient les Chants Cypriens, quoique cela ne soit pas expressément rapporté. L'Agamemnon d'Eschyle (v. 209–210) atteste clairement que l'acte a été accompli par le roi lui-même. La légende est développée chez Euripide et un certain nombre d'épisodes sont ajoutés. Dans Iph. T. le prologue donne un récit plus détaillé que celui des Chants Cypriens (v. 6–30) et c'est toujours Agamemnon qui est le sacrificateur (v. 359–371). Dans Iph. A. – tragédie dont l'authenticité des derniers vers est très controversée (1531–1629) (cf. Séchan, Etudes 374 et Jouan 61–74) –, diverses modifications de la légende initiale semblent avoir été effectuées. Sont-elles dues à Euripide lui-même, ou bien, puisque la pièce est posthume, représentée en 405, un an après la mort du poète, seraient-elles dues à son fils ou encore ajoutées ultérieurement? Quoi qu'il en soit, alors que chez les prédécesseurs d'Euripide l'héroïne allait au sacrifice contre son gré, et mourait en dépit de ses supplications (Aischyl. Ag. 228–230), chez Euripide, I. supplie tout d'abord son père de l'épargner, Clytemnestre convainc Achille, le fiancé d'I., d'empêcher que s'accomplisse l'immolation de sa fille et Agamemnon lui-même, au début, essaie d'empêcher l'arrivée de l'héroïne en confiant une lettre à un messager qui doit la remettre à Clytemnestre; cette lettre est interceptée par Ménélas et les préparatifs du sacrifice s'achèvent sur les injonctions du devin Calchas. Après maints épisodes vient le revirement, I. se déclare prête à être sacrifiée pour sa patrie et s'avance héroïquement vers l'autel (1551–1560). Mais c'est au moment où Calchas lui-même, ou encore le prêtre (1578), va frapper, que se produit le prodige et qu'à la place d'I. une biche est immolée. Dans cette version euripidéenne, il n'est point question du transfert de l'héroïne en Tauride, auquel cependant le poète avait dédié une autre tragédie, Iph. T., représentée probablement dès 414. Le sujet en est fort différent puisqu'il concerne l'arrivée d'Oreste et de Pylade dans le sanctuaire d'Artémis en Tauride dont I. est devenue la prêtresse. Il y est aussi question du sacrifice en Aulide mais toute une série d'épisodes – arrivée d'Oreste et de Pylade prisonniers, lettre confiée à Pylade pour informer à Argos Oreste du sort d'I., scène de reconnaissance et enfin fuite d'I., de son frère et de son compagnon emmenant la statue d'Artémis – y sont narrés. Une fois de plus, alors que → Thoas, roi des Taures, veut tuer les fugitifs, le poète doit faire intervenir un prodige: ici c'est l'apparition d'Athéna qui ordonne à Oreste d'instaurer le culte d'Artémis Tauropole à Halae (1456–1461) et à I. de devenir porte-clé du temple d'Artémis de Brauron (1462–1467). On pourrait croire qu'il s'agit là d'une de ces inventions dont Euripide est coutumier, mais les fouilles récentes des sanctuaires d'Artémis à Brauron et d'Artémis Tauropole à Halae ont confirmé l'ancienneté de la version euripidéenne (cf. Kahil, L., dans Greece and Italy in the Classical World. Acta of the XI International Congress of Classical Archaeology, London 3–9 Sept. 1978 [1979] 75–76 et n. 4).

Une tragédie de Sophocle, Chryses (TrGF IV F 726–730), mentionne un épisode peu connu postérieur au départ d'I. et d'Oreste et Pylade poursuivis par Thoas et qui se situe chez Chrysès, prêtre d'Apollon Smintheus (cf. infra 87 et p. 729; → Chryses II).

Les textes postérieurs n'ajouteront que peu au récit des Tragiques. Les plus importants, rassemblés par Croisille, J.-M., Latomus 1963, 222–225, qui les subdivise en I. non consentante et Agamemnon sacrificateur et en I. consentante et Agamemnon voilé, sont ceux de Lucrèce 1, 84–100, où l'héroïne, appelée Iphianassa, est menée de force à l'autel pour être immolée par son père Agamemnon, et d'Ov. met. 12, 27–34, où I. est consentante. D'autres textes d'époque romaine font allusion au tableau de Timanthe qui aurait représenté le sacrifice d'I. en présence de Calchas, d'Ulysse et de Ménélas, alors qu'Agamemnon voilé ne pouvait supporter le regard de sa fille: Val. Max. 8, 11, 6; Quint. inst. 2, 13, 13; mais aussi Plin. nat. 35, 73. La légende est également évoquée par Hyg. fab. 98.

Culte

Un culte d'I. est attesté pour la Grèce et, également, pour la Tauride. Partout I. y est liée à Artémis, ainsi à Hermione où une Artémis appelée I. possédait un sanctuaire (Paus. 2, 35, 1), à Mégare où se trouvait un héros d'I., qui y serait morte (Paus. 1, 43, 1); à Aigira, dans le temple d'Artémis, Paus. 7, 26, 5 mentionne la présence d'une ancienne statue d'I. et en conclut, peut-être avec raison, que le temple appartenait originellement à cette dernière. Mais c'est à Brauron, en Attique, dans le sanctuaire d'Artémis Brauronia, que le personnage d'I. est le plus fermement ancré; en fuyant la Tauride, elle y aurait apporté la statue d'Artémis (Paus. 1, 33, 1). Devenue prêtresse d'Artémis, porte-clé de son sanctuaire, c'est là qu'elle devait être enterrée et que les vêtements des femmes mortes en couches lui étaient consacrés (Eur. Iph. T. 1464-1467). La tombe d'I. à Brauron était un cénotaphe selon Euphorion frg. 91 Powell = Schol. Aristoph. Lys. 645. Ces quelques textes soulignent le caractère chthonien du culte d'I. qui se manifeste également dans son assimilation à Hécate (Paus. 1, 43, 1, qui l'attribue au Catalogue des Femmes d'Hésiode, frg. 23b Merkelbach/West). La même assimilation apparaît également chez Stésichore, dans son Orestie (Page PMG frg. 215). Sous le nom d'Iphimédé, I. est aussi chez Hésiode assimilée à Artémis Enodia (frg. 23a Merkelbach/West). Enfin, d'après Hdt. 4, 103, les Taures sacrifiaient à la Vierge (taurique) les naufragés et les prisonniers grecs: cette divinité, d'après les Taures eux-mêmes, aurait été I., fille d'Agamemnon. En ce qui concerne les cultes d'I., il apparaît ainsi que l'aspect funéraire y est partout prédominant et que le lien entre l'I. de Grèce et celle de Tauride est connu depuis une haute époque, même dans les manifestations cultuelles (cap Parthénion du Bosphore?). Il faut rappeler ici que les fouilles récentes en Attique ont largement confirmé les textes anciens (cf. supra p. 707) qui nous sont parvenus et infirmé les doutes maintes fois exprimés sur l'existence de deux sanctuaires d'Artémis sur la côte Est de l'Attique dont l'un, celui de Brauron, est plus spécialement lié à I. (contra, entre autres, Kjellberg 2590-2591).

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Albin, U., «L'Ifigenia in Tauride e la fine del mito», PP 38, 1983, 105-112; Ambrosetti, G., EAIV (1961) 93-96 s. v. «Ifigenia»; Armstrong, D./Ratchford, E. A., «Iphigeneia's Veil: Aeschylus Agamemnon 228-48», BICS 32, 1985, 1-12 pl. 1-2; Boegehold, A. L., «A Signifying Gesture: Euripides, Iphigeneia Taurica 965-66», AJA 93, 1989, 81-83; Brelich, A., Paides e Parthenoi (1969) 242-249; Burkert, W., Homo necans (1971) 77-79 et passim; Cambitoglou, A., AntK 13, 1975, 56-66; Clement, P., «New Evidence for the Origin of the Iphigeneia Legend», AntCl 3, 1, 1934, 393-409; Croisille, J. M., Latomus 22, 1963, 209-225 pl. 25-30; Cunningham, M. L., «Aeschylus, Agamemnon 231-247», BICS 31, 1984, 9-12; Curtius, L., «Orest und Iphigeneia in Tauris», RM 49, 1934, 247-294; v. Geisau, H., KIPauly II (1967) 1447-1448 s. v. «Iphigeneia»; Graf, F., «Das Götterbild aus dem Taurerland», AntW 10/4, 1979, 33-41; Henrichs, A., dans Le sacrifice dans l'Antiquité (Entretiens sur l'Antiquité classique) 27, 1980, 195-242; Huys, M., «Euripide, Iphigénie à Aulis, v. 1284-91 et la montagne où l'enfant exposé devait périr», EtCl 54, 1986, 135-146; Jenkins, I., «Is there Life after Marriage? A Study of the Abduction Motif in Vase Paintings of the Athenian Wedding Ceremony», BICS 30, 1983, 137-145; Jouan, F., «Autour du sacrifice d'Iphigénie» dans Texte et Image. Actes du Colloque International de Chantilly 13-15 octobre 1982 (1984) 61-74 pl. 18-20; Kjellberg, A. L., RE IX 2 (1916) 2588-2622 s. v. «Iphigeneia»; Lefkowitz, M. R., «Was Euripides an Atheist?», SiItal V/2, 1987, 149-165; Lloyd-Jones, H., «The Robes of Iphigeneia», ClRev 2, 1952, 132-135; idem, «Artemis and Iphigeneia», JHS 103, 1983, 87-102; Löwy, E., «Der Schluss der Iphigeneia in Aulis», OeJh 24, 1929, 1-41; Macchiore, V., «Nuova rappresentanza vascolare del mito di Oreste», WJh 12, 1909, 318-326; Papachatsis, N., ArchDelt 33, 1978 (1984) 1-23 et 389; Philippart, H., «Iconographie de l'Iphigénie en Tauride» d'Euripide, RBPhil 4, 1925, 5-33; Prag, A. N. J. W., The Oresteia (1985) 61-67; Preller/Robert, GrMyth 513, 1096-1105, 1327-1334; Robert, C., «Iphigeneia in Tauris», AZ 33, 1875, 133-148; Roberts, S. R., The Attic Pyxis (1978) 184-187; Sale, W., «Tempel-Legends of the Arkteia», RhM 118, 1975, 265 sqq.; Seaford, R., «The Tragic Wedding», JHS 107, 1987, 106-130; Séchan, L., «Le sacrifice d'Iphigénie», REG 44, 1931, 392-421; Séchan, Études 369-388, 603-604; Solmsen, F., «The Sacrifice of Agamemnon's Daughter in Hesiod's Ehoëa», AJPh 102, 1981, 353-358; Sourvinou-Inwood, Chr., «The Sacrifice of Iphigeneia in Aeschylus' Agamemnon: Ancient Meanings and Modern Constructs» (à paraître); Stinton, T. W. L., «Iphigeneia and the Bears of Brauron», ClQ 70, 1976, 11-13; Stoll, H. W., ML II 1 (1890-94) 298-305 s. v. «Iphigeneia»; Studniczka, F., «Artemis und Iphigeneia», AbhLeipzig 37 n° 5 (1926); Tosi, T., «Rappresentanze del sacrificio d'Iphigeneia», Studi e Materiali, repris dans Scritti di Filol. e di arch. (1957) 115-148; Trendall/Webster, Illustrations 91-94; Weitzmann, K., Illustrations in Roll and Codex (1947) 20-25, 44-46, 159-160 (= Weitzmann 1); Weitzmann, K., Hesperia 18, 1949, 184-185 pl. 28, 36 (= Weitzmann 2); Wernicke, K., RE II 1 (1896) 1335-1440 s. v. «Artemis».

I. Époque grecque

CATALOGUE

A. Iphigénie à Aulis

a) Iphigénie est traînée au sacrifice

1. * * Énochoé attique à f. r. Kiel, Univ. B 538. - Lezzi-Hafter, A., AntK 29, 1986, 94: probablement du P. de Schuwalow; Freyer-Schauenburg, CVA 1, 80-83 pl. 39 (2704) 1-4; 40 (2705) 1-4 (bibl.). -

Iphigeneia 1

430-420 av. J.-C. - I. est traînée par un jeune guerrier imberbe vers un autel de pierres sur lequel sont placées deux bûches et où l'attend un guerrier barbu (chitoniskos ceinturé, sorte d'himation dont les pans sont retenus par la ceinture) qui tient une épée dégainée dans la main g. L'héroïne a les genoux à demi fléchis, les bras écartés et se laisse emmener sans force. Elle est vêtue d'un fin chiton plissé avec deux bandes croisées sur la poitrine, et coiffée d'une large stéphané décorée d'une double rangée de points et de petites pointes. Le jeune guerrier (chitoniskos, cuirasse et baudrier) la tient par la taille de la main g. et probablement par l'épaule de la main dr. A dr. Artémis (chiton, manteau, arc sur le dos), tournée vers la scène; sur la main g. elle porte une toute petite biche debout, les pattes légèrement pliées. Il est difficile de donner un nom aux deux guerriers qui entourent I. Celui de dr. est soit → Teukros, soit Agamemnon, celui de g. ne saurait être Achille qui, d'après la tradition, veut empêcher le sacrifice d'I.

INTERPRÉTATION POSSIBLE

2. * (= Kalchas 21) Cratère protoattique fr. Boston, MFA 6.67. Prov. inconnue. - Vermeule, E./Chapman, S., AJA 75, 1971, 285-293 pl. 69-70; Jouan 64-65 pl. 18, 1; Prag, A. J. N. W., The Oresteia (1985) 63, 148 H 1; Morris, S. P., The Black and White Style (1984) 30-31, 43, 69-70, 124 n° 2 pl. 16. - 650-630 av. J.-C. P. de l'amphore de Nessos de New York. - A: une femme couchée sur le dos (on voit le bas de sa longue robe à ourlet brodé et ses pieds blancs pointés vers le ciel) est emportée par plusieurs hommes qui marchent vers la g. Il ne reste que trois d'entre eux: celui de dr., presque complet, n'est pas un guerrier; le deuxième, en partie caché par le corps de la femme, semble être une réplique du précédent; du troisième, qui devait tenir la femme à hauteur des hanches ou de la poitrine (?), il ne subsiste qu'une partie de la jambe et du pied g. La place est suffisante pour ajouter au moins un personnage. B: il ne semble y avoir eu qu'une seule figure, entre des palmettes: un homme barbu retournant la tête.

Ce vase représente une scène rare, le sacrifice d'une femme, et il est à rapprocher de celui de Polyxène tel qu'il est figuré sur l'amphore tyrrhénienne de Londres, BM 97.7-27.2. L'attitude de la femme est comparable mais l'on a songé à d'autres personnages, notamment I. (pour les différentes interprétations, cf. Vermeule/Chapman 291 n. 17, mais seules Polyxène et I. doivent être retenues). En effet, Polyxène a le visage tourné vers la terre afin qu'on lui tranche la gorge au-dessus de la tombe d'Achille; ici, au contraire, les pieds sont pointés vers le ciel. On pourrait supposer que la femme n'est pas encore au-dessus de l'autel, ou encore qu'elle ne reste pas passive et se retourne: cette attitude conviendrait mieux à I. (cf. Aischyl. Ag. 228), dont ce serait alors la première représentation du sacrifice. En faveur de cette interprétation, nous pouvons remarquer que les hommes qui la portent ne sont pas des guerriers et évoquent les serviteurs d'Aulis (Aischyl. Ag. 231). Mais Vermeule va probablement trop loin en voulant reconnaître, dans le personnage barbu de la face B, Calchas qui prévoit les ennuis qui attendent les Grecs. Saladino (→ Kalchas 21) pense que si Calchas apparaît, ce serait l'un des trois hommes de la face A.

Quoique le sacrifice d'I. ait été décrit par Stasinos dans les Kypria et celui de Polyxène par Arktinos dans l'Ilioupersis, les deux épisodes sont rarement figurés: les peintres semblent avoir évité ces scènes «barbares» (cependant, selon Jouan, le sacrifice de Polyxène est plus souvent représenté). Pourtant, ce vase appartient au Protoattique moyen, époque où les représentations mythologiques apparaissent et où l'histoire des Atrides semble assez fréquemment illustrée (mort d'Égisthe, défilé des Prétendants...).

b) Iphigénie est «conduite» au sacrifice

3. * * Lécythe à f. bl. Palerme, Mus. Reg. NI 1886. De Sélinonte. - ARV 2 446, 226: Douris; Add 2 241; Gábrici, E., MonAnt 32, 1927, 331 fig. 142 pl. 94; Marconi, P., Il Mus. Naz. di Palermo (1936) pl. 60, 1-2; Kurtz, D. C., Attic White Lekythoi (1975) 140 pl.

Iphigeneia 2

Iphigeneia 3

10, 1; Mertens, J. R., Attic White Ground, Its Development (1977) 206 pl. 39, 3; Roberts, S., The Attic Pyxis (1978) 185 pl. 104, 3; Kahil, L., dans Acta XI Congr. Arch. Class. London 1978 p. 82; Jouan 65 fig. 2. – Vers 470 av. J.-C. – I. (inscr.) vers la dr., en chiton transparent, soulève de la main g. un pan de son himation au-dessus de l'épaule; elle avance, tête légèrement baissée, et suit Teucros (inscr.) qui la mène vers un autel (inscr. AP, probablement Artémis) derrière lequel se trouve un palmier. Teucros marche en se retournant vers I., l'épée dégainée dans la main g., et en l'attirant (?) par son himation de la main dr. Derrière I. un second guerrier, l'épée dégainée dans la main dr. L'interprétation précise de cette scène qui évoque les v. 1433-1471 d'Eur. Iph. A., où I. accepte héroïquement le sacrifice, diffère selon les auteurs. En effet la façon dont l'héroïne soulève son voile rappelle le geste de la fiancée et, pour certains, le stratagème employé par Agamemnon pour attirer sa fille à Aulis sous prétexte de la marier à Achille: cf. Jouan, mais aussi Cunningham, M. L., BICS 31, 1984, 11 fig. 1. D'autres assimilent l'image de la «conduite de la fiancée» à une mort symbolique: Foley, M. P., Arethusa 15, 1982, 168-173; Jenkins, I., BICS 30, 1983, 141 fig. 2.

4. (= Agamemnon 31 avec bibl., = Kalchas 8) Peinture, perdue, de Timanthe de Kythnos. – Reinach, RecMilliet 244-249 n°s 305-309 (avec les différents textes antiques); Löwy 5. 33-40; Weitzmann 2, 190-191; Jouan 71-72; Elvira, M. A., ArEspArq 54, 1981, 17-20 fig. 9 (reconstitution). – Milieu du IV<sup>e</sup> s. av. J.-C. – Nous n'avons de cette peinture que des descriptions succinctes, les plus connues étant celles de Plin. nat. 35, 73, de Cic. or. 22, 74, et de Quint. inst. 2, 13, 13. I. y était représentée debout devant l'autel, sur le point d'être immolée en présence de divers personnages dont Agamemnon (la tête voilée), Calchas, Ulysse, Ménélas et Ajax. Concernant l'influence qu'a pu avoir cette célèbre peinture, les avis sont partagés en deux tendances, résumées par S. de Caro (BollArte 169, 1984/1, 42. 49 n. 17-18): les uns (Amelung, Pfuhl, Löwy, Lippold, Rumpf, Hafner, Moreno) cherchent dans l'autel de Cléoménès (42) un reflet de cette peinture, se fondant surtout sur la présence d'Agamemnon voilé; d'autres (Michaelis, Klein, Buschor, Studniczka, Curtius, Dragendorff, Götze, Fuchs, Simon) pensent au contraire que le modèle de l'autel de Cléoménès serait un relief attique perdu, de type «Orphée, Eurydice, Hermès» de Naples. On a voulu trouver aussi des reflets de cette peinture sur la mosaïque d'Ampurias 39 (Weitzmann) ou la peinture de la Maison du Poète Tragique (38).

4bis. Peinture perdue de Kolotès de Téos représentant aussi le sacrifice d'I. – Quint. inst. 2, 13, 13. – Rien ne nous est parvenu au sujet de ce tableau, si ce n'est l'indication de Quintilien qui donne Timanthe comme vainqueur de Kolotès.

c) Documents à séquence narrative

Reliefs de pierre

5.* (= 26, = Kalchas 24) Deux plaques à reliefs. Termessos (Pisidie), in situ. Appartenant vraisemblablement à la décoration d'un temple. – Lanckoronski, C., Les villes de la Pamphylie et de la Pisidie II (1893) 45-46 fig. 5; Studniczka 46-51 fig. 30; Weitzmann 2, 184-188 pl. 28, 12; Staehler, K., AA 83, 1968, 280-289. – Vers 120 av. J.-C. (Staehler). – Les deux plaques ne sont pas jointives et représentent deux épisodes de la légende d'I. L'une figure trois personnages: à g. deux femmes drapées, en chiton et himation, se font face, la première tenant vraisemblablement un objet, la seconde, tournée vers la g., debout sur une base. A dr. un jeune homme nu, de trois quarts vers la g., s'appuie de la main dr. sur une lance; son himation est rejeté dans le dos. L'interprétation est difficile: pour Weitzmann il pourrait s'agir à g. d'I., au centre de Clytemnestre et à dr. d'Achille, mais il est fort improbable que Clytemnestre soit placée sur une base. Staehler préférerait voir au centre I. face à une servante, et à dr. Pylade; il s'agirait alors d'une scène figurant I. en Tauride: Pylade attendant la lettre d'I. La seconde plaque montre à dr. I., vêtue d'un chiton cein-turée à colpos; son bras dr. est plié, la main levée vers la tête légèrement baissée; peut-être était-elle voilée (le haut du personnage est assez abîmé). Au centre un autel derrière lequel se trouve Artémis, en chiton court, qui retient de la main g. un cerf bondissant: c'est lui qui sera sacrifié à la place de l'héroïne. A l'extrême g., traces d'un personnage dans lequel on a voulu reconnaître Calchas ou Agamemnon. D'autres scènes concernant le mythe d'I. ont probablement été représentées sur cette frise.

Iphigeneia 5

Bols à reliefs en terre cuite

6.* (= Agamemnon 32*) New York, MMA 31.11.2. – Richter, G. M. A., The Metropolitan Museum of Art, Handbook of the Greek Collection (1953) 131 fig. 111a. c; Weitzmann, K., Ancient Book Illumination (1959) 65 fig. 74; Sinn, Becher 109-110 n° MB 52 pl. 1, 2; 22, 1-2; 23, 1-3. – 1<sup>re</sup> moitié du II<sup>e</sup> s. av. J.-C. – Sur le pourtour du bol, cinq scènes correspondant au début de l'Iph. A. d'Euripide: 1) v. 111: Agamemnon remet au serviteur, à g., une lettre pour Clytemnestre dans laquelle il lui demande de ne pas envoyer I. à Aulis. 2) v. 303-313: Ménélas, vers la dr., intercepte le serviteur et lui subtilise la lettre. 3) v. 320-326: Ménélas montre la lettre à Agamemnon et lui reproche

d'avoir passé outre la décision prise par les chefs grecs. Il tient la lettre ouverte en main. 4) v. 414-441: le messager, à g., annonce à Agamemnon l'arrivée d'I. 5) v. 613-630: Oreste et I. (IPHIGENEIA) arrivent sur un char, Électre les aide à en descendre; un écuyer près des chevaux. Les inscriptions sont données en détail par Sinn, dont nous suivons la description.

7. (= Agamemnon 33) Athènes, Mus. Nat. 22633. Du Pirée. – Sinn, Becher 110 n° MB 53 pl. 1, 1; 22, 3; 23, 5-9; Sakellariou, M. B., Makedonia (1982) 90 fig. 53-54. – Même date que 6. – Mêmes scènes que sur 6.

8.* (= Agamemnon 34, 1) Berlin, Staatl. Mus. 3161 q. D'Anthédon. – Séchan, Études 369 fig. 107; Courby, Vases à reliefs 293; Weitzmann 1, 20. 44-45 fig. 10; Hausmann, Reliefsbecher 53 n° HB 10a pl. 22, 1-2; 29, 2; Weitzmann, o.c. 6, 64-65 fig. 73; Sinn, Becher 111 n° MB 55 fig. 9, 1. – Même date que 6. – L'artiste a indiqué sa source: ΕΥΡ[ΙΠΙΔΟΥ] ΙΦΙΓΕΝΕΙΑΣ et les noms de tous les personnages sont inscrits. Cinq scènes: 1) v. 623-680: arrivée de la famille d'Agamemnon: Clytemnestre, vers la g., caresse la tête d'Oreste enfant tandis qu'I. se précipite vers Agamemnon assis sur un trône, le pied dr. posé sur un tabouret, la main dr. levée à son visage en un geste d'angoisse.

Iphigeneia 6

Iphigeneia 8

2) v. 819-854: Clytemnestre s'entretient avec Achille qui esquisse un geste de surprise. 3) v. 866-895: Clytemnestre esquisse un geste de consternation devant le récit du vieux serviteur qui lui annonce le sort d'I. 4) v. 1338-1344: à g. Achille appuyé sur sa lance, au centre Clytemnestre, à dr. I. qui se détourne, soulevant un pan de son chiton. 5) v. 1211-1252: I. supplie son père dont la tête est voilée de son manteau en signe de deuil. Le petit Oreste s'agenouille devant le roi et fait un geste de supplication. A g. Clytemnestre se détourne, la tête voilée. Les deux dernières scènes sont interverties et ne suivent pas l'ordre de la pièce.

9.* (= Agamemnon 34, 2) Athènes, Mus. Nat. 2114. De Béotie. - Hausmann, Reliefbecher 53 n° HB 10b pl. 21, 1-2; Sinn, Becher 112 n° MB 56 fig. 9, 2. - Même date que 6. - Mêmes scènes que sur 8, tous les noms sont inscrits.

10. (= Agamemnon 34, 3). Bruxelles, Mus. Roy. A 893. - Courby, Vases à reliefs 293 fig. 53; CVA 3, pl. 1 (139), 1; Hausmann, Reliefbecher 53 n° HB 10c; Sinn, Becher 112 n° MB 57. - Même date que 6. - Mêmes scènes que sur 8 et 9.

Weitzmann 1, 20-25, 44-66 et Ancient Book Illumination 64-67, note que les bols 6 et 7 illustrent le début de la pièce alors que 8, 9 et 10 se rapportent à la suite. La fin du drame ne semble pas être illustrée sur ces bols si l'on s'en tient à l'état actuel des découvertes.

Un extrait de la scène représentée sur les bols 6-10 apparaît sur un fr. de bol de Volos (Sinn, Becher 111 MB 54 pl. 23, 4): seul Ménélas, à genoux, tenant la lettre ouverte, y est figuré.

Sur tous ces bols (6-10) les noms des personnages sont inscrits: celui d'I. sous la forme Iphigeneia, sauf en 7 où on lit deux fois EIPHIGENEIA. En 8-10, la pièce d'Euripide est citée: Euripidou Iphigeneias.

d) Substitution de la biche

11.* (= Agamemnon 30*, = Artemis 1373, = Kalchas 23) Cratère à volutes apulien. Londres, BM F 159. Du Basilicate. - RVAp I 204, 104: associé à l'œuvre du P. de l'Ilioupersis; RVAp Suppl. 1, 25; FR III 165 fig. 80; Jouan 67 pl. 19, 2. - 370-355 av. J.-C. - Au registre supérieur, Apollon et Artémis. En bas à dr. I. s'avance vers l'autel. Sa silhouette se superpose à celle d'une biche dressée sur ses pattes postérieures, au second plan, et dont la tête, les pattes et l'arrière-train sont figurés. Un sacrificateur (Agamemnon plutôt que Calchas), debout près de l'autel, un sceptre dans la main g., brandit de la main dr. un large couteau au-dessus de la tête d'I. et de celle de la biche. A g. de l'autel, un jeune homme et une femme: Jouan suggère d'y reconnaître Achille (ou un acolyte) et Clytemnestre.

Iphigeneia 9

Il pense également que le moment représenté serait celui de l'ablation de la boucle, prélude au sacrifice, mais la présence de la biche évoque plutôt l'immolation de la victime.

12.* (= 50, = Artemis 1374*, = Artemis/Diana 337* - avec bibl.) Groupe de marbre fr. Copenhague, Glypt. 481-482. 482a. De la Villa Spithoever (jardins de Salluste). - Œuvre de la Grèce de l'est. Début du III<sup>e</sup> s. av. J.-C. (Bieber); vers 150 av. J.-C. (Lippold); vers 50 av. J.-C. (Simon). - I., vêtue d'un chiton ceinturé qui en glissant découvre le sein dr. et une partie des hanches, tombe, soutenue par Artémis. De la biche, il ne subsiste que le cou et la tête cornue. Pour la reconstitution, - Artemis/Diana 337.

REPRÉSENTATION INCERTAINE

13.* Vase à tête plastique. Matera, Mus. Naz. Ridola 11013. De Timmari. - RVAp II 616, 92: associé à l'œuvre du P. de Darius et du P. des Enfers; Lattanzi, E., Il Mus. Naz. Ridola di Matera (1976) 123 pl. 42, 1. - 330-320 av. J.-C. - Tête féminine? ou masculine (Ac téon selon Lattanzi) qui porte sur le front une paire de petites cornes. Sur le rhyton lui-même, une Amazone assise à g. avec phiale et feuille de lierre. Trendall suppose qu'il pourrait s'agir d'une tête d'I. et d'une allusion à la substitution de la biche à Aulis.

B. Iphigénie en Tauride

a) Arrivée d'Oreste et de Pylade prisonniers

Vases apuliens (15?)

14.* Cratère en cloche. Pavie, Mus. Civ. - RVAp I 130, 265: P. d'Iris; Macchiolo 318-326 fig. 158; Philippart 10 n° 2; Séchan, Études 381 fig. 110; Cambitoglou 57 (B), 60 pl. 25, 3. - Vers 365-360 av. J.-C. - La composition est réduite à trois personnages et l'autel n'est qu'une petite construction derrière I. Oreste (pilos, chlamyde, sandales), les mains liées derrière le dos, est amené par un garde devant I. Le costume d'I. (épaisse couronne d'où pend un voile, chiton et himation, boucles d'oreilles, bracelets) et la clé du sanctuaire qu'elle tient de la main g. se retrouveront sur presque tous les vases suivants. Elle tend la main dr., probablement pour intimer l'ordre de délier la victime destinée à Artémis (Eur. Iph. T. 468-469).

15. Amphore. Naples, Mus. Naz. SA 24 (peut-être perdu). Du Basilicate. - Philippart 10 n° 1; Séchan, Études 381 fig. 109. - Oreste et Pylade nus, ligotés, conduits par trois gardes, s'avancent derrière un guerrier qui tend la main vers I., assise à g., appuyée sur un sceptre, et qui se retourne vers les arrivants. Restaurations modernes et repeints.

Intailles

16. Pâte de verre noire. Berlin, Staatl. Mus. FG 792. D'Italie. – Furtwängler, Beschreibung 56 n° 792 pl. 10; Philippart 13 n° 11. – Travail italique (Furtwängler). – Autel au centre, à g. Oreste et Pylade enchaînés, à dr. I. qui fait un geste vers eux.

17. Pâte de verre brune fr. Berlin, Staatl. Mus. FG 792. D'Italie. – Furtwängler, Beschreibung 56 n° 793; Philippart 13 n° 12. – Travail italique (Furtwängler). – Oreste et Pylade enchaînés devant I. qui porte sa main dr. au menton.

b) Premier entretien entre Iphigénie, Oreste et Pylade

18.* (= Artemis 1380 avec bibl.) Amphore apulienne. Naples, Mus. Naz. 82113 (H 3223). De Ruvo. – RVAp I 193, 3: P. de l'Ilioupersis; FR III 165 fig. 79 pl. 148; Philippart 10 n° 3 fig. 1; Trendall/Webster, Illustrations III 3, 28; Cambitoglou 59. – 370–360 av. J.-C. – Oreste (inscr.), armé du glaive, est assis sur un autel derrière lequel pousse un laurier. Tête baissée, les mains croisées sur un bâton, il paraît affligé. A dr. I. (inscr.) lui adresse la parole, tenant à la main la clé du sanctuaire. A g. Pylade debout, appuyé sur son bâton, attentif à ce que dit I., porte une main à sa tête. Derrière I. une servante du temple porte sur la tête un plateau chargé de branches et tient une cœnochoé. Au registre supérieur, Apollon, Artémis et le temple, portes entrouvertes.

Selon Séchan et Philippart, on pourrait rapprocher cette scène du passage d'Eur. Iph. T. 617–637: Oreste s'est offert pour mourir à la place de Pylade et il a été convenu que ce dernier porterait à Argos la lettre d'I. Celle-ci, émue, profère des paroles de consolation. Les branches et le vase qu'apporte la servante vont probablement servir à consacrer la victime.

c) Remise du message

19.* (= Artemis 1376 avec bibl.) Cratère en calice attique à f.r. Ferrare, Mus. Naz. T 1145 (3032). De Comacchio. – ARV<sup>2</sup> 1440, 1: P. d'Iphigénie; Add<sup>2</sup> 377; Aurigemma, S., Dedalo 12, 1932, 409–429; Trendall/Webster, Illustrations III 3, 27; Alfieri, Spina fig. 276–277. – 390–380 av. J.-C. – Au centre, le temple d'Artémis est évoqué par une légère construction qui abrite la statue de la déesse. Des couronnes et des bandelettes sont suspendues dans le champ et une table à offrandes est placée devant l'idole. I. (couronne de feuillage, chiton, himation), à g., descend les gradins du temple; elle tient la clé de la main g. et tend de la dr. la lettre à Pylade assis sur un rocher à un niveau inférieur. En bas Oreste et Thoas. Au-dessus du roi, près du temple, une servante porte une phiale et une corbeille à offrandes, peut-être pour évoquer le moment où I. quitte le sanctuaire avec la statue pour la purifier. En haut à g. Artémis (?) et un jeune homme en costume barbare qui tient une couronne. A l'extrême dr. en haut, un autre jeune homme, nu, assis, tenant une ténia, se retourne vers la scène en faisant un geste de stupeur.

Iphigeneia 20

20.* (= Artemis 1377* avec bibl.) Amphore de l'anc. coll. Buckingham,auj. perdue, apulienne (?). – Philippart 12 n° 6; Cambitoglou 58. 64. – Milieu du IV<sup>e</sup> s. av. J.-C. – Devant un temple, I. (chiton brodé, haut diadème, voile), la clé dans la main g., remet à Pylade prêt pour le départ (pilos, chlamyde, endromides, deux lances) son message fermé par une cordelette. A g. Oreste, lui aussi vêtu d'une chlamyde et armé de deux lances, est debout, appuyé à un loutérion, le visage tourné vers les précédents. A dr. d'I. une servante apporte des objets dans un plat. En haut, de part et d'autre du temple, un Satyre (→ Silenos, Silenoi) et Artémis. Le dessin semble suspect à Cambitoglou.

21.* Cratère en cloche fr. apulien. New York, Atlantis Antiquities, Greek and Roman Art (1990). – P. de Boston 00.348 (Trendall), vers 350 av. J.-C. – A g. le temple, avec la statue d'Artémis en partie visible. I. (fin chiton, haute couronne ornée de palmettes, voile descendant dans le dos et passant sur le bras dr.) tient la clé de la main g. et tend la lettre à Pylade (pétase, chlamyde, deux lances). Au-dessous, Oreste (pilos, chlamyde) assis tient une lance, un chien assis devant lui. En haut à dr. Artémis (chiton long, peau de bête) arrive sur un char tiré par deux panthères. En dessous un jeune homme tient un félin au-dessus d'un loutérion.

22.* (= Artemis 1379 avec bibl.) Cratère en calice apulien. Moscou, Mus. Pouchkine 504. – RVAp II 478, 8: Gr. de l'Iphigénie de Moscou; Philippart 11 n° 5; Trendall/Webster, Illustrations III 3, 30a; Cambitoglou 57. 61–62. – 345–340 av. J.-C. – Sous un édifice à quatre colonnes ioniques, I. (cheveux longs en partie relevés en chignon, chiton et himation brodés) est debout, appuyée à la statue d'Artémis, la clé du temple dans une main et élevant dans l'autre le message que va prendre Pylade (costume de voyageur). A dr. du temple, Artémis assise sur un autel et Apollon tenant le laurier de la main g. Devant le temple se trouvent différents récipients et un carquois.

23.* (= Artemis 1378* avec bibl., = Athena 629, = Iris I 158 avec bibl.) Amphore apulienne. Leningrad, Ermitage B 1715A (St 420). – RVAp II 863, 18: P. de Baltimore; Trendall/Webster, Illustrations III 3, 29; Cambitoglou 57. 60–61. – 330–320 av. J.-C. – Au centre, dans un petit édifice ionique, se trouve I. (cheveux longs, chiton brodé, himation), debout auprès d'un autel qui supporte la statue d'Artémis. Elle tient d'une main la clé du sanctuaire et de l'autre relève son voile tout en tenant le message, la tête inclinée vers Pylade (pétase, chlamyde, bottes) debout, appuyé sur son bâton. Un peu plus bas Oreste, les cheveux dénoués, est appuyé à un bassin d'eau lustrale dans une attitude affligée. En haut à g. Iris et Athéna, à dr. Artémis et Hermès. Plus bas un guerrier scythe (costume oriental) et une femme. Au niveau inférieur, un autre guerrier scythe est assis auprès d'une femme et un troisième tend une couronne à un chevreuil, ce qui convient à un sanctuaire d'Artémis.

24.* Cratère à volutes. Anc. Bari, marché de l'art. – Attr. au P. de Darius (Trendall). – Au centre, dans un naïskos au plafond duquel sont suspendues des armes, près d'une statue d'Artémis dressée sur un socle, I. (haute couronne, cheveux longs, chiton, himation) tient la clé du temple de la main g. et lève la lettre de la main dr. A dr. en haut Artémis et un jeune homme; au-dessous une grande coupe renversée et Oreste nu, la chlamyde sur l'épaule, portant une lance et une épée au fourreau de la main g. et son pilos de la main dr. A g. en haut une jeune femme debout face à Apollon assis; au-dessous Pylade debout, appuyé sur la lance (chlamyde et pilos dans le dos). En bas, sous le naïskos, deux jeunes gens assis, séparés par un trépied posé sur un socle, se regardent; celui de g. tient une lance, celui de dr. joue avec un chien.

25.* Amphore à col campanienne. Sydney, Nicholson Mus. 51.17. – LCS 406, 305 pl. 160, 4–5: P. de la libation; LCS Suppl. 2, 220; Trendall/Webster, Illustrations III 3, 30b; Cambitoglou 56–66 pl. 25, 2. – 3<sup>e</sup> quart du IV<sup>e</sup> s. av. J.-C. – Scène très simplifiée: le temple est réduit à deux colonnes ioniques avec un autel sur lequel flambe un feu; un bouclier votif est suspendu au plafond. I. (haut diadème, voile, chiton), debout à dr., tient dans la main g. la clé du temple et tend la lettre à Pylade qui, debout face à elle, s'apprête à la prendre. Il est vêtu d'une chlamyde, coiffé d'un pilos et s'appuie sur une lance. Le sang des victimes est représenté par des taches de peinture jaune diluée sur le corps de l'autel.

26. (= 5* avec bibl.) Deux plaques à reliefs de Termessos (Pisidie), in situ. L'une des deux plaques représenterait I. face à une servante et Pylade attendant qu'on lui remette la lettre.

d) Deuxième entretien entre Oreste et Iphigénie

27.* (= Artemis 1375* avec bibl.) Cratère en cloche campanien. Paris, Louvre K 404 (L 112). – LCS 321, 702: P. de Caivano; Philippart 12 n° 8; Cambitoglou 57 B. 62–63. – 330–320 av. J.-C. – Le sanctuaire est figuré par deux portes entrouvertes surmontées d'un fronton et reliées par un toit, ce qui donne un effet scénique. Devant l'une des portes se dresse la statue d'Artémis, sur le seuil de l'autre, à dr., se tient I. (bijoux, chiton, himation ramené sur la tête, chaussures) qui relève son vêtement sur l'épaule de la main dr. et s'adresse à Oreste et Pylade. Tous deux se trouvent devant le bâtiment, sur une ligne de sol représentée par des points; ils sont nus, armés d'un glaive et d'une lance.

La scène représentée ici serait le dialogue entre Oreste et I. en présence de Pylade (Iph. T. 989–1055), lorsque tous trois cherchent un moyen de fuir la Tauride.

REPRÉSENTATION INCERTAINE

28. Fr. de relief. Izmir, Mus. Arch. 1002. De Pergame. – Kleiner, G., AM 71, 1956, 202–205 Beil. 113–114. – II<sup>e</sup>–I<sup>er</sup> s. av. J.-C. – A g. une figure féminine drapée debout vers la dr., précédée d'un guerrier en train de ligoter (?) un jeune homme nu, la chlamyde rejetée derrière les épaules. Selon Kleiner, il s'agit non pas d'un fr. de la frise de Téléphe, de l'autel de Pergame, mais plutôt d'un relief représentant I. et Oreste (?) sur le point d'être ligoté à la demande de celle-ci, au moment même où elle prépare leur fuite (Iph. T. 1204).

e) Fuite des prisonniers et d'Iphigénie

29.* Amphore à col campanienne. Leningrad, Ermitage B 2080 (W 1033). De Capoue. - LCS 338, 790 pl. 131, 6: P. d'Ixion; Philippart 12 n° 7; Beazley, J. D., JHS 63, 1943, pl. 1, 2; Trendall/Webster, Illustrations III 3, 32; Cambitoglou 57 C. 64. - 330-320 av. J.-C. - Devant le temple qui domine la composition Oreste, Pylade et I. s'enfuient: l'un scrute l'horizon, les deux autres se retournent pour s'assurer qu'ils ne sont pas suivis. I. (courts cheveux bouclés, chiton, himation) porte la statuette d'Artémis au creux du bras g. Oreste et Pylade sont nus, coiffés d'un pétase et simplement drapés d'une chlamyde. En haut à dr. un morceau de draperie et une tête coupée sont suspendus, rappelant à quel sort Oreste a échappé.

f) Iphigénie en Tauride, scène indéterminée

30. Peinture perdue, de Timomachos de Byzance. - Pfuhl, MuZ § 899-901; Séchan, Études 380; Rizzo, PER 44-45. - I<sup>er</sup> s. av. J.-C. (?). - Plin (nat. 35, 136) ne décrit pas cette peinture mais dit simplement que Timomachos avait peint Oreste et I. en Tauride. Certains auteurs ont tenté de préciser la scène: C. Robert (AZ 33, 1875, 147-148) pensait que le peintre avait évoqué la première rencontre d'I. et des prisonniers, mais Pfuhl et Rizzo, préférant voir dans la peinture de la Casa del Citarista (59) un reflet de l'œuvre de Timomachos, estiment qu'il s'agirait plutôt de la préparation de la fuite, I. quittant le temple avec la statue pour la purifier, en présence de Thoas et des deux prisonniers.

REPRÉSENTATION INCERTAINE

31.* (= Erinyes 39*) Amphore à col campanienne. Capoue, Mus. Camp. 7559 (P. 14). - LCS 331, 757: P. de Carlsruhe B 2400; CVA I pl. 20 (528), 4: Schauenburg, K., Jdl 71, 1956, 86 n. 80. - 325-300 av. J.-C. - Au centre un personnage probablement masculin, vêtu d'un long chiton à manches et d'un manteau, chaussé, est assis sur un siège à dossier recouvert d'une pardalide et posé sur un degré. La tête baissée dans une attitude pensive, il porte la main dr. au menton et tient de la main g. une épée au fourreau. Un jeune homme nu (pilos, chlamyde, chaussures) debout s'adresse à lui. Debout à dr., une femme (péplos ceinturé à apotypygmata, la tête couverte d'un long manteau qui descend jusqu'aux pieds, chaussures, bracelets) pose la main dr. sur l'épaule g. du jeune homme assis. Au-dessus apparaît un buste d'Erinyes. Différentes interprétations ont été proposées. Seul Schauenburg tente de reconnaître Oreste, Pylade et I., mais cela semble peu probable.

C. Iphigénie avec divinités ou autres personnages

32.* (= Helene 380* avec bibl.) Pyxis attique à f. r. Londres, BM E 773. D'Athènes. - ARV<sup>2</sup> 805, 89; 1670: succ. de Douris; Add<sup>2</sup> 291; Jouan 65 pl. 18, 3. - I. (inscr.), debout dans l'embrasement d'une porte, vêtue d'un chiton, ajuste la ténia qui enserre ses cheveux et

regarde → Danae (inscr.) qui s'approche, sortant un collier d'un coffret. Les autres personnages sont Hélène (inscr.), Clytemnestre (inscr.), Cassandre (inscr.; → Cassandra I) et une autre femme.

INTERPRÉTATION PROBABLE

33. (= Apollon 865, = Artemis 1225* avec bibl.) Relief de marbre fr. Brauron, Mus. 1180. De Brauron. - Kahil, L., «Le relief des dieux» du sanctuaire d'Artémis à Brauron...» (à paraître dans Mélanges A. Cambitoglou). - Vers 420 av. J.-C. - Zeus trônant, Léo et Apollon debout. I.-Hécate court vers la g. en se retournant, la main dr. baissée tendue en avant, la main g. levée; elle tenait très probablement des torches et précédait Artémis qui arrivait sur un char tiré par des cervidés.

COMMENTAIRE

Comme tous les héros ou héroïnes de la guerre de Troie, I. a défrayé la chronique littéraire et iconographique de l'antiquité classique. Son personnage, à la fois divin et héroïque, qui a fait l'objet de bien des discussions de spécialistes de la religion grecque, a connu des périodes de grande popularité, non point tant parmi les artistes de Grèce propre qu'en Italie méridionale et plus tard à l'époque romaine. La dualité de sa nature, fille d'Agamemnon d'une part, ancienne divinité abaissée au rang de prêtresse d'Artémis d'autre part, a donné lieu à maintes hypothèses que les découvertes récentes de l'archéologie permettent peut-être de clarifier. Il apparaît en effet que certains sanctuaires d'Artémis, celui de Brauron sans aucun doute, mais aussi très probablement ceux d'Halae et d'Aulis, lui vouaient un culte dont la caractéristique principale est d'être un culte chthonien, funéraire. Ceci apparaît clairement dans le texte de l'Iph. T. d'Euripide où les vêtements des femmes mortes en couches sont dédiés à I. alors que les inscriptions témoignent que les femmes ayant eu une heureuse délivrance font des offrandes à Artémis (cf. Sources littéraires, culte). C'est en effet à la déesse Artémis qu'I. est intimement liée, soit qu'on la considère comme une hypostase à caractère funéraire de cette divinité (et elle peut alors prendre le nom d'I.-Hécate), soit que plus simplement elle soit devenue la prêtresse d'Artémis. Dans l'un comme dans l'autre cas, héroïne ou ancienne divinité, le personnage d'I. est entièrement axé sur sa mort. La légende veut en effet que, sacrifiée par Agamemnon afin que des vents propices permettent aux Grecs de quitter enfin la rade d'Aulis, elle ait été enlevée à la dernière minute par la déesse Artémis et qu'à sa place une biche (à Brauron, une ourse) ait été sacrifiée. A partir de ce moment, la légende d'I. se passe dans un pays lointain et mythique, en Tauride, sur les bords de la mer Noire où elle devient la prêtresse d'Artémis, la gardienne de son temple. Ici aussi elle est porte-clés, comme elle le sera à Brauron. L'épisode brauronien serait ainsi le dernier moment connu de son existence.

Les auteurs anciens antérieurs aux Tragiques ne sont pas prolixes sur son histoire: celle-ci se divise essentiellement en deux grands épisodes, son sacrifice à Aulis, et son séjour en Tauride, ce dernier épisode étant lui-même subdivisé selon la légende telle qu'elle nous est rapportée dans l'Iph. T. d'Euripide. Leur illustration, qui n'est peut-être pas des plus riches à l'époque grecque, a cependant joué un grand rôle, d'une part au cours du IV<sup>e</sup> s. en Italie méridionale, et d'autre part dans le monde romain.

Iphigénie à Aulis

Le sacrifice d'I., en présence ou non d'Artémis, est peut-être déjà figuré à une très haute époque si l'on peut vraiment reconnaître l'héroïne sur le cratère de Boston 2 qui se situe au milieu du VII<sup>e</sup> s., à un moment où foisonnent pour la première fois les représentations légendaires, et parmi elles celles des légendes troyennes. Cependant cette représentation n'est pas typique de ce que sera l'iconographie future. Celle-ci se développera sous deux variantes, qui sont d'ailleurs assez difficiles à distinguer. On a voulu les relier aux deux versions développées, l'une chez Eschyle et chez Euripide Iph. T., d'une I. refusant la mort et comme entraînée au sacrifice, l'autre, chez Euripide Iph. A., d'une I. se rendant d'elle-même à l'autel, fière de servir sa patrie. Malheureusement, il est difficile dans l'iconographie, d'ailleurs rare, de ce premier épisode de la légende d'I., d'opérer ces distinctions: l'art grec différencie à peine les deux schémas, «I. entraînée au sacrifice» et «I. conduite sur le lieu du sacrifice», qui ne varient que par des nuances. C'est seulement en 1 - puisque 2 demeure incertain - que la force semble être employée pour amener I. devant l'autel. On songe évidemment au passage d'Aischyl. Ag. 231-238 où l'héroïne, en dépit de ses prières, est «saisie, soulevée, cependant qu'un bâillon fermant sa belle bouche arrêtera toute imprécation»... «telle une chèvre au-dessus de l'autel, couverte de ses voiles et désespérément s'attachant à la terre». Le sacrificateur, qui demeure anonyme, a le glaive dégainé, tandis qu'à dr. Artémis est présente, portant la toute petite biche symbole de la future substitution. En 3 nous avons au contraire le schéma de la «conduite de la fiancée» où I. soulève le voile de son épaule tandis qu'elle est conduite vers l'autel d'Artémis par Teucros et un autre guerrier. La violence se manifeste seulement par la présence des deux épées dégainées que tiennent les guerriers. En 11 et peut-être en 12 la substitution de la biche est en train de s'accomplir ou même est déjà accomplie: le personnage d'I. est en quelque sorte doublé par une grande biche qu'Agamemnon lui-même (?) est en train de sacrifier. En 11, outre Artémis, dont la présence est indispensable (en 3 l'autel est surmonté de son nom), et peut-être Apollon, des personnages annexes que nous ne pouvons guère identifier, un jeune homme et une jeune femme, assistent à la scène. En 12 il est difficile de décider quel moment de l'épisode est figuré, l'immolation du cerf ou au contraire l'enlèvement d'I. vers la Tauride (cf. 38).

Les bols «mégariens» 6-10 se rattachent étroitement à des épisodes rapportés par Euripide dans Iph. A. La source est d'ailleurs indiquée en 8-10. Alors que 6-7 illustrent le début de la pièce, 8-10 se rapportent à la suite de la tragédie. Les épisodes figurés ne sont pas seulement ceux qui apparaissent réellement sur la scène, mais aussi ceux qui sont narrés par les messagers. Le sacrifice lui-même n'est jamais figuré. C'est ici d'ailleurs qu'apparaît pour la première fois le personnage d'Agamemnon tête voilée.

Ce groupe de documents atteste la grande popularité à cette époque d'Euripide, dont une série d'œuvres ont été illustrées, quoique l'Iphigénie en Aulide, probablement achevée seulement après sa mort (cf. aussi Sinn, Becher 54), ait été fortement critiquée déjà dans l'antiquité. Le choix des thèmes figurés sur les bols à reliefs, en particulier sur ceux trouvés dans le nord de la Grèce, ne correspond donc pas aux pièces qui ont connu le plus de succès durant la vie du poète. Sinn (p. 57-58) en conclut que l'Iphigénie en Aulide a dû être composée pendant le séjour du poète à Pella en Macédoine.

Iphigénie en Tauride

Il est curieux de constater que le séjour d'I. en Tauride et les épisodes divers concernant l'arrivée d'Oreste et de Pylade, la reconnaissance du frère et de la sœur, la remise du message, le deuxième entretien entre Oreste et I. et la fuite d'I., sont quasiment ignorés de l'art attique à l'époque grecque. Ils figurent une seule fois sur un vase à figures rouges (19), daté du 1<sup>er</sup> quart du IV<sup>e</sup> s. Ce vase présente cependant toutes les caractéristiques que nous retrouvons dans la peinture apulienne et plus généralement dans la peinture d'Italie méridionale dans le courant du IV<sup>e</sup> s. Comme cette dernière, il est inspiré par la tragédie d'Euripide, Iph. T. L'héroïne apparaît comme prêtresse d'Artémis, dont la statue est figurée à l'intérieur de son naïskos, remettant une missive à Pylade en présence d'Oreste, de Thoas, d'un Scythe et de deux personnages féminins qui demeurent à déterminer. Artémis elle-même est peut-être figurée en haut à gauche. Tous les autres documents appartiennent au domaine de l'Italie méridionale et présentent, en dépit des divers épisodes figurés, des caractères communs: on y voit le sanctuaire d'Artémis plus ou moins élaboré, allant du simple naïskos au véritable temple orné d'acrotères (18, 22-23), figuré parfois avec une porte entrouverte (18, 27), à l'intérieur duquel, à une exception près, se trouve toujours la statue d'Artémis, soit sous forme de xoanon (21-22) soit au contraire en Artémis chasse-resse en chiton court et bottes, le carquois sur l'épaule (24), la torche en main (23), mais aussi l'arc (27) et la lance (23). En 29 la statue de la déesse n'est qu'une petite statuette (cf. aussi Kahil, → Artemis p. 743). Sur la plupart des représentations, la déesse est d'ailleurs représentée une seconde fois assistant à la scène, parfois en compagnie d'Apollon. Elle peut porter une (23) ou deux lances, un arc (24, 27) ou arriver dans un char traîné par deux félins (panthères?) (21). Rarement I. est figurée toute seule, accueillant Oreste et Pylade (14), mais toujours porte-clé d'Artémis. C'est seulement au moment de leur fuite, sur le vase campanien 29, que l'héroïne a abandonné sa clé et qu'elle s'est saisie du petit xoanon de la déesse qu'elle doit transporter en Attique. Le problème qui a maintes fois été posé au sujet de ces représentations et que l'on peut aussi se poser pour les deux reliefs de Termessos (5. 26) est celui de l'influence plus ou moins directe jouée par le théâtre d'Euripide. Il est indéniable que les illustrations de l'Iph. T. ne font leur apparition qu'à la fin du V<sup>e</sup> s. et qu'elles reflètent très certainement l'impact considérable exercé par la tragédie euripidéenne, non pas tant en Grèce propre (cependant la rareté de notre documentation n'est peut-être que l'effet d'un hasard) qu'en Italie méridionale où les artistes locaux ont représenté si fréquemment divers épisodes reflétant l'atmosphère de la pièce. Deux théories ont été défendues à ce sujet: alors que Webster et Trendall (92-94) sont en faveur d'une influence directe, Cambitoglou (65-66) préfère reconnaître dans l'imagerie d'Italie méridionale des épisodes de la légende euripidéenne plutôt que des représentations de différentes scènes telles qu'elles étaient figurées au théâtre même. Cette opinion paraît la plus vraisemblable, particulièrement en raison de la multiplicité des personnages si fréquente sur les vases apuliens et qui semble suggérer l'atmosphère générale de la pièce, plutôt qu'illustrer la scène d'un acte précis. S'y ajoute parfois l'imagination des artistes (ainsi en 21, l'arrivée d'Artémis sur le char tiré par les panthères et le jeune félin soulevé au-dessus d'une vasque) qui ne correspond point à un événement quelconque relaté par les textes. Cette remarque peut d'ailleurs s'appliquer très généralement à l'invention des peintures, surtout des peintures apuliens: elle ne diminue en rien l'influence que le théâtre, et en particulier celui d'Euripide, a exercée en Grande Grèce et ailleurs, tout en laissant les artistes maîtres de leur propre imagination.

Le vêtement et la coiffure d'I. varient sensiblement avec le style des représentations et leur époque, et aussi avec les divers épisodes illustrés. Les rares documents attiques qui nous sont parvenus et qui figurent I. en Aulide, à l'exception de 2, à la fois trop incertain et trop fragmentaire, représentent l'héroïne vêtue d'un fin chiton ceinturé avec bandes croisées en 1, finement plissé et couvert d'un himation en 3; sur la pyxide 32 qui montre une scène de gynécée, elle porte un chiton à colpos. Sa coiffure, peu visible en 1, comporte une stéphané décorée d'une double rangée de points et de petites pointes, en 3 ses cheveux longs tombent sur ses épaules et sont maintenus par une mince couronne, elle aussi décorée. Sur les bols mégariens (6-10), I. est vêtue d'un chiton et drapée dans un himation qui, en 6-7, lui recouvre la tête. En 8-10, l'héroïne est figurée deux fois portant le même costume. En 12, I. porte un chiton qui a glissé et laisse découverte une partie de son corps tandis qu'en 5, dont l'interprétation est controversée, les deux personnages féminins qui pourraient représenter I. sont vêtus d'un chiton et d'un himation.

Les documents qui figurent I. en Tauride et qui, à l'exception du cratère attique 19 et du relief 26, proviennent tous d'ateliers d'Italie méridionale, la représentent vêtue et coiffée d'une manière plus riche. Elle porte un chiton fréquemment orné de broderies (18-20. 22. 23. 27), mais il peut aussi être simple, et à plis fins (14. 21. 24-25. 29); il est souvent partiellement couvert d'un himation (14. 18-19. 21. 23-24.

29). Elle porte un long voile sur la tête, à moins que ce ne soit son himation, en 21. 24-25. 27. Sa chevelure est généralement longue et retombe sur ses épaules à l'exception de 19. 21. 29; ses cheveux sont entièrement cachés par un voile en 27. En 19 elle ne porte que le chignon mais souvent, ailleurs, le chignon s'ajoute aux longues mèches: ainsi en 18. Une haute coiffure – calathos décoré ou couronne – peut maintenir son voile (14. 20-21. 24-25). Sur toutes ces représentations, I. est fréquemment parée de bijoux et porte des bracelets. Dans les scènes qui la figurent en Tauride, son attribut de prêtresse d'Artémis et gardienne du temple est toujours une grande clé qu'elle porte de la main g., ce qui laisse libre sa main dr. qui souvent tient ostensiblement le message qu'elle doit remettre à Pylade (19-25). Mais, dans la préparation à la fuite (27) et la fuite elle-même (29), l'héroïne est évidemment figurée sans sa clé.

Les discussions maintes fois reprises sur l'interprétation qu'il faut donner aux costumes que portent les protagonistes des scènes figurant I. en Tauride, costume de théâtre pour elle-même, pour Thoas, pour les Scythes (18-23. 27) ne semblent point avoir apporté de solution définitive. Sans nier l'influence très nette de la tragédie d'Euripide – et la chronologie même des documents en est une confirmation –, il me paraît plus vraisemblable d'y voir plus simplement les vêtements si richement brodés que portent les Orientaux dans les représentations grecques de l'époque et principalement en Italie méridionale. Notons que le costume de la déesse Artémis est d'ailleurs lui aussi richement brodé (22-24. 27), tandis que les deux visiteurs grecs, Oreste et Pylade, sont toujours figurés dans leur costume de voyageurs. Rien n'indique une allusion à un costume théâtral.

L'absence de toute représentation du sacrifice d'I. en Italie méridionale, dans les documents iconographiques qui sont parvenus jusqu'à nos jours, est difficile à expliquer; elle témoigne aussi de l'absence d'influence de la peinture de Timanthe (4) qui aurait cependant eu un grand retentissement à l'époque romaine (cf. infra).

Les deux documents 32 et 33 méritent que l'on s'y arrête plus longuement. La représentation de la pyxide attique 32, où I. apparaît par la porte entrouverte, concorde avec l'iconographie de la «préparation au mariage» qui montre fréquemment la jeune mariée attendant devant la maison; les personnages qui l'entourent ici sont, à l'exception de Danaë, étroitement liés à la guerre de Troie dont I. est la victime: Hélène, Clytemnestre, Cassandre. Elle est à comparer au lécythe de Douris (3) – dont elle est d'ailleurs proche par la date – et qui figure le sacrifice même d'I. selon le schéma de la «conduite de la fiancée». En 32 les spectateurs connaissent par avance la transformation en sacrifice du mariage projeté de l'héroïne (avec Achille) qu'Euripide a exploitée dans Iph. A.; il n'est pas possible d'entrer ici dans les multiples discussions suggérées par le rapprochement du lécythe de Douris 3 avec le texte de l'Ag. d'Eschyle (v. 238-249). Il s'agit évidemment d'une équivalence qui se retrouve fréquemment dans le rituel de la religion grecque entre ma-riage et mort et qui s'exprime également dans l'emploi ambivalent de la loutrophore, vase de mariage, mais aussi offrande aux jeunes femmes mortes avant leur mariage, les futures épouses d'Hadès. Ce rite de passage symbolisé par le personnage d'I. (déesse et héroïne) est le plus important de la vie féminine et s'exprime en Attique par le rituel de l'Ourse, l'arkteia, des fillettes de Brauron et peut-être de Mounychia.

Quant à l'admirable relief de Brauron (33), il symbolise vraisemblablement l'alliance d'I., prêtresse d'Artémis, non seulement avec celle-ci, mais aussi avec Hécate elle-même, si proche d'Artémis, dont le caractère chthonien s'exprime dans le rituel de Brauron.

LILLY KAHIL

(Catalogue: LILLY KAHIL avec la collaboration de NOËLLE ICARD)

II. Epoque romaine

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Croisille, J.-M., «Le sacrifice d'Iphigénie dans l'art romain et la littérature latine», Latomus 22, 1963, 209-225; Curtius, L., «Orest und Iphigenie in Tauris», RM 49, 1934, 247-294; de Caro, S., «Ifigeneia in Aulide su una brocca fittile da Pompei», BollArte 69, 1984/1, 39-50; Jouan, F., «Autour du sacrifice d'Iphigénie», dans Texte et Image (1984) 61-74 pl. 18-20; Löwy, E., «Der Schluß der Iphigenie in Aulis», OeJh 24, 1929, 1-41; Parra, M. C., «Tre marmi antichi a Livorno (e i sarcofagi di Ifigenia in Tauride)», Prospettiva 13, 1978, 50-58; Philippart, H., «Iconographie de l'Iphigénie en Tauride d'Euripide», RBPhil 4, 1925, 5-33; Robert, C., «Iphigeneia in Tauris», AZ 1876, 133-148; Weitzmann, K., «Euripides Scenes in Byzantine Art», Hesperia 18, 1949, 177-192 pl. 27-29. 33-36.

CATALOGUE

A. Iphigénie seule

Peintures murales

34.* Klagenfurt, Landesmus. für Kärnten. Du Magdalensberg. – Kenner, H., Gymnasium 74, 1967, 437-444 pl. 17-18; eadem, AntW 1, 1970, 42-46 fig. 2; Piccottini, G., Die Römer in Kärnten (1989) 188 pl. 1. – 20-15 av. J.-C. – I. debout, en costume de prêtresse (tunique longue et manteau, couronne de laurier et rangées de perles ornant la chevelure qui tombe sur les épaules), porte la statuette d'Artémis sur le bras g. et tient un rameau de la main dr. baissée. Des fr. de six autres personnages laissent supposer que dans la même pièce étaient représentées, autour de → Dionysos (dont subsiste le buste), d'autres grandes figures de la tragédie antique.

35. Stabies, villa San Marco, pièce n° 30. – Elia, O., Pitture di Stabia (1957) 45-46 pl. 18; Barbet, A., La peinture murale romaine (1985) 192-193 fig. 131. – 4<sup>e</sup> style, après 62 ap. J.-C. – I., vêtue d'un long chiton et d'un manteau, les cheveux ceints d'une couronne de feuilles mêlées de perles, tient la statuette d'Artémis, en forme de palladion, sur la main g. et de la dr. baissée un flambeau.

B. Iphigénie à Argos (interprétation incertaine)

36. Peinture sur stuc. Naples, Mus. Naz. 9022. D'Herculanum. – Helbig, Wandgemälde n° 1435; Guida Ruesch n° 1471; Bendinelli, G., RendPontAcc 18, 1941-42, 143-153 fig. 1; Schefold, La peinture pompéienne (1972) 127 pl. 14; Jouan 65-66. – Vers 25 av. J.-C. – Ag. une femme assise sur un fauteuil pose la main sur l'épaule d'une jeune fille accoudée sur le bras du fauteuil. Toutes deux regardent la scène qui se déroule à dr. d'un pilastre qui occupe le centre du tableau: une jeune femme est en train d'arranger la coiffure d'une toute jeune fille en tunique longue et manteau, représentée au premier plan. A dr. un guéridon sur lequel est posé un coffret; sous le guéridon une loutrophore. Bendinelli suggère d'interpréter la scène comme les préparatifs du mariage d'I. en présence de Clytemnestre. Le tableau qui fait pendant représenterait Achille.

C. Iphigénie à Aulis

a) Avant le sacrifice

37.* Mosaïque. Antakya, Mus. Hatay 961. D'Antioche, Maison d'Iphigénie. – Levi, Antioch 119-126 pl. 22; Balty, J., dans ANRWII 12/2 (1981) 372-373. – Ép. sévérienne. – Au centre Clytemnestre entoure de son bras dr. les épaules d'I. qu'elle regarde. La jeune fille, drapée dans un manteau blanc qui lui couvre les cheveux, regarde Agamemnon avec tristesse; sa main g., dissimulée par le manteau, est levée vers le visage et de la dr., également cachée, elle soulève un pan de sa draperie. A dr. Agamemnon en costume de scène, un sceptre à la main g., tend la main dr. vers sa fille. Arrière-plan architectural avec frons scaenae.

b) Iphigénie conduite au sacrifice

38. (= Agamemnon 41*, = Artemis/Diana 48, = Kalchas 9 – avec bibl.) Peinture murale. Naples, Mus. Naz. 9112. De Pompéi VI 8, 13 (Casa del Poeta Tragico). – Croisille 217-219 pl. 25, 1; de Caro 41 fig. 15; Jouan 69 pl. 19, 5. – Ép. de Vespasien. – Au centre I., le haut du corps nu, les jambes couvertes d'une draperie, les deux bras levés, est emportée vers l'autel (figuré à l'extrémité dr.) par deux hommes (Ulysse et Diomède?). A dr. Calchas; à g., se détournant de la scène centrale, Agamemnon voilé devant un pilier surmonté d'une statuette d'Artémis. Dans le ciel, à g., I., la draperie gonflée par le vent, est emportée par une biche cornue vers la dr. où l'attend Artémis, derrière un nuage.

39.* (= Agamemnon 42, = Apollon/Apollo 487, = Artemis/Diana 339, = Kalchas 10, – avec bibl.) Mosaïque. Ampurias, Mus. Monográfico de las Excavaciones. D'Ampurias. – de Caro 41 fig. 16; Jouan 70 pl. 20, 2; Blázquez Martínez, J. M./Lopez Monteagudo, G./Neira Jimenez, M. L./San Nicolas Pedraz, M. P., ArEspArq 59, 1986, 101-102 fig. 1. – 1<sup>er</sup> s. ap. J.-C. ou fin de l'ép. impériale? – Au premier plan, l'autel et un jeune homme nu portant un linge et un plateau. I., drapée dans un manteau blanc qui lui couvre les cheveux, le visage incliné, les yeux baissés, est conduite vers l'autel par Ulysse qui la tient par la main. A g. Ménélas ou Diomède (plutôt que Calchas) lève la main dr. devant ses yeux. Près d'Ulysse, à dr., Calchas dissimule son épée sous son manteau; plus loin Agamemnon, une lance à la main, se détourne de la scène. À g. une colonne contre laquelle est posé un bouclier et derrière laquelle apparaît un jeune homme nu: Achille? A dr., derrière un arbre, un guerrier grec. A l'arrière-plan, quatre autres personnages devant une tenture. Au ciel, à dr., Artémis avec une biche cornue.

Iphigeneia 40

c) Calchas coupe les cheveux d'Iphigénie

Peinture murale

40.* (= Kalchas 11 avec bibl.) Pompéi VI 5, 2, (Casa del Vico di Modesto), détruite. - Croisille 215 pl. 25, 2; de Caro 41 fig. 14; Jouan 69 pl. 20, 1. - Ép. de Vespasien. - Au centre I., les cheveux défaits (couronne de laurier, tunique longue), la main g. levée vers le visage incliné, fait un pas vers Calchas qui s'apprête à lui couper de son épée une longue mèche de cheveux. Entre eux un autel bas. A g., tournant le dos à I., Agamemnon (?) assis, drapé et voilé, devant le mur d'un temple.

Stuc

41.* (= Kalchas 12 avec bibl.) Rome, «Basilique souterraine» de la Porte Majeure. - Croisille 211 pl. 27, 4; Mielsch, Stuckreliefs 119 K 16; de Caro 41; Jouan 69. - Vers 40 ap. J.-C. - I. et Calchas, comme sur 40.

Reliefs

42.* (= Alkestis 70, = Kalchas 13) Autel de marbre, signé de Cléoménès. Florence, Uff. 612. - Mansuelli, ScultUff 1 n° 116; Croisille 212 pl. 19, 11; Froning, Schmuckreliefs 132-140 pl. 48-49; de Caro 41 fig. 13; Jouan 68 pl. 19, 3. - 2<sup>e</sup> moitié du I<sup>er</sup> s. av. J.-C. - Au centre du groupe principal I., vêtue d'un pé-

Iphigeneia 42

plos et voilée, est tournée vers la g., la main dr. levée vers le visage, le bras g. ramené sur la poitrine. Face à elle Calchas, l'épée dans la main dr., lui relève sur le front un pan de son voile. Derrière I. un jeune homme nu (Achille?) la conduit par le bras. A dr., tournant le dos à la scène, Agamemnon voilé se tient près d'un platane. A g. un jeune homme porte un plateau chargé de fruits.

43.* (= Kalchas 14) Oscillum fr. de marbre. De Bol-sena. - Balland, A./Goudineau, C., MEFRA 79, 1967, 567-583 fig. 1; Jouan 68 pl. 19, 4. - Ép. augustéenne. - I. est debout vers la g., le visage incliné, le menton appuyé sur la main dr., le bras g. ramené sous la poitrine. Elle est vêtue d'un péplos, ses cheveux sont ceints d'une bandelette et un voile lui couvre la nuque. De Calchas ne sont conservés que les deux bras, le dr. levant un glaive court, la main g. saisissant sur le front d'I. une mèche de cheveux. Entre les deux personnages un autel rustique.

44.* (= Kalchas 15) Fr. de céramique arétine. Anc. Dresde, Staatl. Kunstslg. Zv 679.94. - Amelung, W., RM 22, 1907, 344; Dragendorff, H., Arretina, SbHeidelb 1935-36, 2. Abh., 9-16 pl. 2; Balland/Goudineau, o.c. 43, 574-577 fig. 4; de Caro 41 fig. 12; Jouan 68. - Début de l'ép. impériale. - Même représentation que sur 43, mais I. et Calchas (dont ne subsistent, comme sur l'oscillum, que les avant-bras et le couteau) sont nettement séparés par l'autel.

45.* (= Kalchas 16) Fr. de céramique arétine. New York, MMA 17.194.2012. - Dragendorff, o.c. 43, 10-11 pl. 1, 6; CVA 1 pl. 46 (458), 8; Balland/Goudineau, o.c. 43, 577. - Ép. augustéenne. - Même représentation que sur 44. Seules sont conservées la partie supérieure du corps d'I. et la main dr. de Calchas avec la poignée du glaive.

46.* (= Kalchas 17) Cenochoé de terre cuite à reliefs. Pompéi, dépôt de fouilles 10901. De Pompéi II 8, 2. - De Caro 39-50 fig. 1. 4-9. - Début de l'ép. impériale. - Calchas, debout à côté de l'autel où brûle une flamme, lève son épée vers le front d'I.; la jeune fille, debout face à lui, vêtue d'un long péplos, a les bras baissés, mains jointes, le visage incliné. Derrière elle un jeune homme nu, qui a passé les deux bras autour de son buste, la conduit vers l'autel. Derrière ce groupe, à dr., Agamemnon debout vers la g., drapé et voilé, appuyé sur un bâton. Aux deux extrémités un jeune homme nu de profil à dr. appuyé sur un bâton.

47.* (= Kalchas 18) Coffret d'ivoire, dit «coffret de Veroli», panneau dr. de l'un des longs côtés. Londres, Victoria and Albert Mus. - Weitzmann 177-178 pl. 27, 7; idem, Greek Mythology in Byzantine Art (1951) 169-174 fig. 214; Beckwith, J., Victoria and Albert Museum. The Veroli Casket (1962) 14-15 pl. 10-11 et frontispice; Simon, E., Jdl 79, 1964, 330-334 fig. 27; de Caro 41 fig. 18; Jouan 70 pl. 20, 3. - Vers 1000 ap. J.-C. - Le groupe central montre Calchas, I., le jeune homme qui la conduit et le serviteur de g. comme sur 42. Le serviteur de g. est redoublé à dr. par une figure symétrique. À g. un homme barbu assis (Agamemnon pour Jouan, → Asklepios pour Weitzmann et Beckwith, → Zeus pour Simon), à dr. une femme nourrissant un serpent (→ Hygieia pour Weitzmann et Jouan, → Persephone pour Simon).

d) Sacrifice d'Iphigénie: interprétations douteuses

Gemmes

48.* (= Kalchas 28) Sardoine. Berlin-Ouest, Staatl. Mus. FG 488. - AGD II n° 316. - Ép. républicaine. - Un homme barbu cuirassé (Agamemnon ou Calchas?) lève son couteau au-dessus d'une jeune fille (I.?) qui lui tourne le dos, agenouillée, les mains liées, derrière un autel; de l'autre main il tient une coupe remplie de fruits. I. est vêtue d'un chiton et a les cheveux courts.

49.* Pâte de verre. Vienne, Kunsthist. Mus. XI B 291. - AGOe II n° 667 pl. 16. - Milieu du I<sup>er</sup> s. av. J.-C. - Un homme barbu en exomis (Calchas?), tenant un couteau et une coupe remplie d'offrandes, debout devant un autel derrière lequel est figurée I. (?), de petite taille, drapée et voilée.

e) Intervention d'Artémis

50.* (= 12*, = Artemis 1374*, = Artemis/Diana 337* avec bibl.) Groupe de marbre fr. Copenhague, Glypt. 481, 482, 482a. De la Villa Spithoever (Jardins de Salluste). – Début du III<sup>e</sup> s. av. J.-C. (Bieber), vers 150 av. J.-C. (Lippold), milieu du I<sup>er</sup> s. av. J.-C. (Simon). – Il ne reste que les torsos d'I. et d'Artémis et des fr. de l'animal: Artémis, qui tenait de la main dr. un cerf par les cornes, devait, de la g., saisir I. chancelante, vêtue d'un chiton à ceinture qui laisse découvert le côté dr. du corps. Pour la reconstitution, → Artemis/Diana 337.

Iphigeneia 46

51. (= Artemis/Diana 338* avec bibl.) Groupe de marbre. Rome, Mus. Cap. 9778. Du sanctuaire de Jupiter Dolichéus sur l'Aventin. – Milieu du II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. – Artémis se dirige rapidement vers la dr., tenant de la main dr. un animal (bouc?) par les cornes, une torche à la main g. A ses pieds, derrière sa jambe g., est assise I., représentée à une très petite échelle; vêtue d'un péplos, le sein dr. découvert, les cheveux défaits, elle regarde Artémis, levant vers elle la main dr. Derrière I. un autel.

Voir aussi 38.

C. Iphigénie en Tauride

a) Oreste et Pylade sont conduits devant Iphigénie

Peintures murales

52.* Peinture fr. Naples, Mus. Naz. 111439. De Pompéi V 1, 26 (Casa di L. Cec. Giocondo). – Robert 133-134 pl. 13; Guida Ruesch n° 1312; Philippart 18 n° 25; Schefold, WP 66; Barriello, M. R./Lista, M./Pappalardo, U./Sampaolo, V./Ziviello, C., Le Collezioni del Mus. Naz. di Napoli (1986) n° 87. – 3<sup>e</sup> style, vers 40-50 ap. J.-C. – I., couronnée de laurier et de perles, vêtue d'une tunique longue et drapée dans un voile, apparaît, suivie de trois servantes, entre les colonnes du temple. De sa main dr. levée elle écarte un pan du voile, de la g. elle relève sur la jambe les plis de sa tunique. A sa g. une jeune servante tient une épée et une hydrie. En contrebas, à g., est partiellement conservé le groupe d'Oreste et de Pylade comme sur 59.

53.* Naples, Mus. Naz. 9538. D'Herculanum. – Helbig, Wandgemälde n° 1334; Guida Ruesch n° 1313; Reinach, RépPeint 170 n° 2; Philippart 18 n° 26 fig. 3. – A g. Oreste et Pylade enchaînés sont conduits par un garde taure. A dr. I. debout les regarde (tunique longue, voile soulevé par le vent); derrière elle deux servantes s'affairent près de l'autel (?). Au centre une table sur laquelle est posée une statuette.

Reliefs

54.* Relief de pierre. Sens, Mus. Municipal 98-99-100. D'Agedincum (Sens). – Espérandieu, Recueil IV n° 2760; Curtius 248-250 fig. 2; Toynbee, J. M. C., Latomus 36, 1977, 391 fig. 22; Froning, H., JdI 95, 1980, 335-336 fig. 11. – Fin du I<sup>er</sup> s. – 1<sup>re</sup> moitié du II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. – Au centre Oreste est conduit vers l'autel par Thoas ou l'un de ses soldats. A dr. de l'autel I. drapée et voilée s'éloigne vers la dr. tout en se retournant vers son frère vers lequel elle lève un rameau de laurier. Sur la face g. du relief, Ulysse et Calchas. Voir aussi 75. 79-82.

INTERPRÉTATION INCERTAINE

55. Gemme, pierre noire. Göttingen, Univ. G 425. – AGDIII n° 275. – Début du I<sup>er</sup> s. ap. J.-C. – Oreste (?) et Pylade (?), les mains liées derrière le dos, debout devant I. (?), en longue robe, qui porte une main à son visage.

b) La reconnaissance entre Iphigénie et Oreste

Sarcophages de marbre romains

56. (= 75 [face princ.] avec bibl.) Petits côtés g. et dr. Munich, Glypt. GL 363. – Côté dr.: I. (tunique longue et manteau), debout vers la dr., lève une tablette; à ses pieds une hydrie. Oreste et Pylade s'avancent vers elle à grandes enjambées. Derrière I. un guerrier taure. Même scène, mais inversée, sur le côté g., fr.

57.* (= 68 [couverture]) Petit côté g. fr. New York, MMA 28.57.8a-d. – McCann, A. M., Roman Sarcophagi in the Metropolitan Museum of Art (1978) n° 7 fig. 57; Koch/Sichter mann, RömSark 171 n. 6. – 150-160 ap. J.-C. – Même scène que sur 56. Seuls sont conservés le haut du corps d'I., le profil d'Oreste et une jambe de Pylade.

Voir aussi 77. 80. 82-84.

Toreutique

Voir 85.

c) Iphigénie emporte la statuette d'Artémis et/ou demande à Thoas la permission de la purifier dans la mer

Peintures murales

58. (= Artemis/Diana 47) Pompéi III 4, 4 (Domus Pinari Cerealis). – Schefold, WP 59; idem, VergP 114 pl. 78. – 4<sup>e</sup> style, ép. néronienne. – Au centre, en haut des marches du propylon du temple, apparaît I. (couronnée et vêtue d'une longue tunique), un rameau à la main dr., la statuette d'Artémis sur le bras g., entourée de deux compagnes. Au premier plan, à g. Thoas assis avec un garde, à dr. Oreste et Pylade debout, les mains liées dans le dos.

59.* Naples, Mus. Naz. 9111. De Pompéi I 4, 25 (35) (Casa del Citarista). – Guida Ruesch n° 1314; Philippart 20-21 n° 30 fig. 4; Curtius, WP 244-245 fig. 142-143; Schefold, WP 16; idem, La peinture pompéienne (1972) 174-175 pl. 34. – 4<sup>e</sup> style, vers 65 ap. J.-C. – A g. Oreste et Pylade debout, les mains liées dans le dos, surveillés par un garde. A dr. Thoas assis avec un soldat. Entre les deux groupes, un autel contre lequel est posée une torche, et une hydrie. A l'arrière-plan, au centre, I. (dont la tête manque) apparaît en haut des marches du temple, la statuette d'Artémis dans la main g.; à sa g. un autre autel.

60.* Pompéi IX 8, 3 et 6 (Casa del Centenario). – Philippart 20 n° 27; Lippold, Gemäldekopien pl. 9, 48; Schefold, WP 278-279. – 4<sup>e</sup> style. – A dr. I. apparaît sur les marches du temple, vêtue d'un chiton long et d'un manteau rabattu sur les cheveux, portant sur la main g. la statuette d'Artémis, dissimulée sous les plis du manteau. A g. Oreste et Pylade, l'un assis sur un autel élevé sur lequel l'autre s'appuie.

61.* Pompéi VI 15, 1 (Casa dei Vettii). – Philippart 20 n° 29 fig. 2; Curtius, WP 249-250 fig. 146; Schefold, WP 147. – 4<sup>e</sup> style. – À g. Oreste et Pylade, l'un assis, l'autre debout, accoudé. Au centre I., la statuette d'Artémis dans la main g., allume une torche sur un petit autel; derrière elle une petite servante soulève un pan de son manteau. A dr. Thoas assis la regarde.

62.* Pompéi IX 5, 14-16, partiellement détruite. – Robert, SarkRel II fig. p. 181; Philippart 20 n° 28; Schefold, WP 260. – A g. I. (couronne, tunique longue, manteau), tenant sur la main dr. une statuette en forme de palladion, approche une torche (?) d'un autel sur lequel brûle un feu. A dr. Oreste et Pylade marchent vers l'autel.

Voir aussi 34-35.

Iphigeneia 62

INTERPRÉTATION INCERTAINE

63. Pompéi VI 9, 6-7 (Casa dei Dioscuri), détruite. – Helbig, Wandgemälde n° 1336 b; Reinach, RépPeint 170, 4; Philippart 24 n° 37; Schefold, WP 117. – Ép. néronienne. – Au centre I. (couronne de lierre, chiton, manteau), tenant une statuette en forme de palladion sur le bras g., entre Oreste et Pylade armés.

64. Peinture fr. Éphèse, Hanghaus 2. – Strocka, V. M., Gymnasium 80, 1973, 368.372 fig. 3; idem, Die Wandmalerei der Hanghäuser, Ephesos VIII 1 (1977) 48.54 fig. 68. – 2<sup>e</sup> moitié du II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. – Il s'agit vraisemblablement d'une illustration d'un passage d'Eur. Iph. T. (inscr. [IPHIGENEIA]: à g. I. (?), dont la tête manque, en long vêtement à ceinture. A dr. Thoas (?) dont le masque tragique est tourné vers la dr. I., surélevée par rapport à Thoas, se tient probablement sur les marches du temple d'Artémis. Entre elle et Thoas pouvait se tenir un troisième personnage disparu.

Mosaïque

65. Rome, Antiquarium Comunale. De Rome. – Bevilacqua, G., BullCom 86, 1978-79, 39-46 pl. 16. 18-19. – Fin du II<sup>e</sup>-début du III<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. – A g. Oreste est assis sur un autel cubique contre lequel est posée une tablette. Il regarde I., debout devant lui, vêtue en prêtresse (tunique pourpre sous un vêtement à ceinture et un manteau blanc, voile bleu, couronne de feuilles d'or). Tenant sur sa main dr. la statuette d'Artémis, la main g. sur la hanche, elle regarde Oreste. Un arrière-plan architectural sommaire pourrait figurer le temple d'Artémis.

Textile

66. (= Artemis [in per. or.] 33, = Artemis/Diana 340* avec bibl.) Tissu de laine, soie et lin. Francfort, Mus. für Kunsthandwerk 3610. D'Antinoë. – Weitzmann, Spirituality n° 218. – VI<sup>e</sup>-VII<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. – Au centre, au-dessus de son autel, Artémis. A g. I. drapée et voilée, la main g. tendue, tient de la dr. un couteau. Face à elle, symétriquement, Thoas ou un garde taure; de part et d'autre de l'autel Oreste et Pylade agenouillés, les mains liées derrière le dos.

Sarcophage de marbre attique

67.* Deux fr. Oxford, Ashm. Mus. 105 et 117. – Michaelis, AncMn n° 105. 117; Robert, SarkRel III 1 n° 36; Ashmole, B., dans Essays in Memory of K. Lehmann (1964) 25-26 fig. 1; Koch/Sichter mann, RömSark 402. – Début du 3<sup>e</sup> quart du II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. – À g. Thoas assis vers la dr., accompagné de deux gardes taures. A dr. I. debout de face devant le temple, près de l'autel. Vêtue d'un chiton et d'un himation, elle porte sur le bras g. la statuette d'Artémis et lève de la main dr. un rameau. A sa dr. une jeune servante porte une corbeille ou un plat de fruits.

Sarcophages de marbre romains

Voir 77. 83-84.

d) Le combat sur le rivage et/ou l'embarquement

Sarcophages de marbre romains

68. (= 57 [côté g.]) Couverture fr. New York, MMA 28.57.8a-d. – McCann, A. M., o. c. 57, n° 7 fig. 55. – 150-165 ap. J.-C. – Seule est conservée la partie dr. du couvercle, avec la scène de l'embarquement: Oreste (ou Pylade) franchit la passerelle du bateau où l'attend I. debout, voilée, accompagnée d'une servante et d'un marin. A g. le bouclier de Pylade (ou d'Oreste) qui est encore en train de combattre les Taures. Un autre fr. montre les jambes d'un guerrier tombé à terre.

Voir aussi 74-79. 82.

Reliefs provinciaux

69.* Fr. de sarcophage en pierre. Budapest, Mus. Nat. Hongrois 62.84.2. D'Aquincum. – Robert, SarkRel III 3 n° 311; Goddard King, G., AJA 37, 1933, 72 pl. 13, 2; Erdélyi, G., A Romai Köfaragás és Kőszobrászat Magyarországon (1974) fig. 75b; Toynbee, o. c. 54, 389 fig. 23. – II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. – A dr. Oreste (ou Pylade), à la poupe du bateau, se penche pour saisir I. par les bras. Celle-ci, vêtue d'une tunique longue, le manteau gonflé par le vent, se hâte vers la passerelle. A g. Pylade (ou Oreste), l'épée dégainée, debout à côté du cadavre d'un Taure. A l'arrière-plan le temple d'Artémis.

70. * Fr. de sarcophage de marbre. Marseille, Académie. – Robert, SarkRel II n° 174; Espérandieu, Recueil I n° 120 («enlèvement d'Hélène»); Toynbee, o. c. 54, 391. – I. (tunique longue, manteau gonflé par le vent), la statuette d'Artémis sur l'épaule g., monte sur la passerelle du bateau à la poupe duquel Oreste (ou Pylade) lui tend les mains. A l'angle g. la tête d'un Taure gisant au pied d'un arbre.

Iphigeneia 70

71. * Relief de marbre ornant le tombeau des Prisciani. Šempeter-Celeia, in situ, inv. 601. – Klemenc, J./Kolšek, V./Petru, P., Antične grobnice v Šempetru (1972) pl. p. 63; Toynbee, o. c. 54, 390-391. – A dr. I., drapée dans un manteau, tête retournée, franchit la passerelle du bateau dans lequel Oreste (ou Pylade) l'aide à monter. A g. Pylade (ou Oreste), saisissant par les cheveux un Taure tombé à terre, le menace de son épée. Un autre relief du même monument montre Oreste et Pylade de part et d'autre de l'autel d'Artémis, l'un d'eux écrivant une lettre comme sur 85, mais I. est absente. Un troisième relief (86) montre une scène plus difficile à interpréter.

72. Stèle funéraire fr. Szombathely, Mus. Savaria. De Ják. – Erdélyi, G., ArchErt 77, 1950, 72-77 pl. 16, 2; Kádár, Z., dans Le rayonnement des civilisations gr. et rom. sur les cultures périphériques (1965) 383-384 pl. 89, 3; Toynbee, o. c. 54, 389-390. – II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. – Ne subsiste qu'I. à demi nue fuyant vers la g., les deux bras tendus, le pied dr. posé sur le cadavre d'un Taure.

73. * (= Artemis/Diana 52b/410 avec bibl.) Fronton de grès provenant d'un monument funéraire. Bonn, Rhein. Landesmus. U 194. De Frenz. – Toynbee, o. c. 54, 391. – I. drapée et voilée, portant de la main g. la statuette d'Artémis, se dirige vers un bateau dont on aperçoit la poupe à dr. Elle est entourée par Oreste et Pylade qui se dirigent aussi vers le bateau, tous deux armés d'un poignard. À l'extrémité g. un autel avec une biche; à l'arrière-plan, derrière I., le temple d'Artémis.

Toreutique
Voir 85.

e) Documents à caractère narratif

Sarcophage de marbre attique

74. * Deux fr. Thèbes, Mus. 109 (?). De Thespies. – Début du III<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. – Giuliano, A., Il commercio dei sarcophagi attici (1962) n° 129; Giuliano, A./Palma, B., La maniera ateniese di età romana. I maestri dei sarcophagi attici, StudMisc 24 (1975-76 [1978]) 47-48 n° 2 pl. 52, 128; Koch/Sichter mann, RömSark 402-403 fig. 434-435. – Début du III<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. – L'un des fr. montre Thoas ou un guerrier taure qui semble allumer une torche sur l'autel d'Artémis; à l'arrière-plan le temple de la déesse. L'autre fr. montre I. franchissant vers la dr. la passerelle du bateau, la statuette d'Artémis sur l'épaule g.; à la poupe Oreste (ou Pylade) lui tend les bras.

Sarcophages de marbre romains

TYPE A

75. * (= 56 [côtés g. et dr.], = Erinys 80*) Face principale. Munich, Glypt. GL 363. – SarkRel II n° 167; Koch/Sichter mann, RömSark 171 fig. 195; Parra 53-55 fig. 14-14a. – 140-150 ap. J.-C. – Quatre épisodes se succèdent de g. à dr. (sans respecter totalement la chronologie). A: Oreste et Pylade sont conduits auprès d'I. A g. un arbre aux branches duquel sont suspendues les têtes de deux étrangers sacrifiés, la statuette d'Artémis sur un socle et l'autel devant le temple. I. (tunique longue), l'épée à la main g., se dirige vers l'autel tout en se retournant vers Oreste et Pylade enchaînés, conduits vers elle par un Taure. B: Oreste, frappé de folie, est assis à terre, soutenu sous les épaules par Pylade; à dr., derrière une éminence, une Erinys. C: le combat sur le rivage. I. (cheveux défaits, tunique longue) debout, la statuette d'Artémis sur le bras g., regarde les combattants: Oreste (ou Pylade) s'attaque à deux Taures, l'un debout, l'autre tombé à la renverse. D: l'embarquement. Oreste (ou Pylade) franchit la passerelle du bateau à la poupe duquel se tient I. voilée, entraînée vers la dr. par un compagnon.

76. * Fr. Paris, Louvre Ma 1607. – Robert, SarkRel II n° 169; Baratte/Metzger, SarkLouvre n° 39. – 140-150 ap. J.-C. – Deux scènes partiellement conservées: à g. la folie d'Oreste comme sur 75 (B), à dr. le combat sur le rivage auquel assiste I. comme sur 75 (C).

77. (= Artemis/Diana 52*, = Aigisthos 34 [cuve], = Erinys 36 [cuve] – avec bibl.) Couvercle. Vatican, Mus. Greg. Prof. 10450. De Rome, Porta Viminalis. – Robert, SarkRel II n° 155; Sichter mann/Koch, MythSark n° 53 pl. 138-139; Koch/Sichter mann, RömSark 171 n. 4; Parra 55-56 fig. 17. – 140-150 ap. J.-C. – Quatre épisodes de g. à dr. A: la reconnaissance entre I. et son frère comme sur 56, mais le guerrier taure est à dr.; à g. le temple d'Artémis et l'autel comme sur 75 (A). B: I., la statuette d'Artémis sur le bras g., se dirige vers la g., suivie d'Oreste et Pylade enchaînés, vers lesquels elle se retourne; un Taure escorte les prisonniers; à l'extrémité dr. Thoas dont le geste, main ouverte, montre qu'il vient d'accorder sa permission à I. C: le combat sur le rivage comme sur 75 (C), mais I. est absente. D: l'embarquement comme sur 75 (D) mais I., tournée vers la dr., porte la statuette d'Artémis.

78. Deux fr. de couvercle. a) Leningrad, Ermitage A 259. b) Rome, Mus. Cap. – Robert, SarkRel II n° 170 (a); Saverkina, I. I., Römische Sarkophage in der Ermitage (1979) n° 8 pl. 20 (a); Koch/Sichter mann, RömSark 171 n. 7 (a); Robert, SarkRel II n° 170a (b). – Vers 150 ap. J.-C. – a: le combat sur le rivage comme sur 75 (C) et Oreste ou Pylade franchissant la passerelle du bateau, comme sur 75 (D). b: I. dans le bateau avec un compagnon comme sur 75 (D).

79. * Couvercle. Rome, Mus. Naz. Rom. 106467. De Rome, Via Salaria. – Helbig<sup>4</sup> III n° 2137; Sichter mann/Koch, MythSark n° 54 pl. 133-134; Koch/Sichter mann, RömSark 171 n. 5; Parra 56 fig. 18. – 150-160 ap. J.-C. – Trois épisodes de g. à dr. A: Oreste et Pylade conduits devant I. comme sur 75 (A), mais avec deux gardes taures. B: la folie d'Oreste comme sur 75 (B). C: le combat sur le rivage comme sur 75 (C).

80. Fr. de couvercle. Malibu, Getty Mus. 71.AA.266. – Koch, G., Roman Funerary Sculpture, Cat. of the Collections (1988) 14 n° 5. – Vers 160 ap. J.-C. – Trois épisodes de g. à dr. A: Oreste et Pylade conduits par un Taure devant I. (presque entièrement disparue), comme sur 75 (A). B: la reconnaissance entre I. et Oreste comme sur 75, mais sans garde taure. C: la folie d'Oreste comme sur 75 (B).

81. Deux fr. a) Rome, Villa Albani. b) Vatican, Mus. Chiaramonti. – Robert, SarkRel II n° 168 (a); Wrede, H./Harprath, R., Der Codex Coburgensis (1986) n° 68 fig. 36 (a-b). – a: Oreste et Pylade conduits vers I. comme sur 75 (A) avec l'adjonction d'un garde taure derrière I. b: l'extrémité dr. de la scène précédente et la folie d'Oreste comme sur 75 (B).

TYPE B

82. * Weimar, Staatl. Kunstlg. Schlossmus. G 1744. – Robert, SarkRel II n° 172; Weitzmann, K., AntK 7, 1964, 42-47 fig. 1 pl. 12, 1; Parra 55 fig. 15. – 2<sup>e</sup> moitié du II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. – Quatre épisodes de g. à dr. A: la reconnaissance entre I. et Oreste comme sur 56: B: Oreste et Pylade sont conduits vers la dr. par un guerrier scythe devant I. (tunique longue et manteau) qui se tient, les mains jointes, à côté de l'autel derrière lequel est figurée la statuette d'Artémis sur un socle; à l'arrière-plan un arbre auquel est suspendue la tête d'un prisonnier. C: le combat sur le rivage. Oreste ou Pylade, l'épée dégainée, debout à côté du cadavre d'un Taure; à côté de lui un autre guerrier taure debout. D: l'embarquement. I., la statuette d'Artémis sur l'épaule g., franchit la passerelle, aidée par Oreste ou Pylade qui, debout à la poupe, la saisit par le bras.

TYPE C

83. * Berlin-DDR, Staatl. Mus. SK 845. – Robert, SarkRel II n° 177; Parra 55-56 fig. 16; Koch/Sichter mann, RömSark fig. 194. – II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. – Trois épisodes de g. à dr. A: la reconnaissance entre I. et Oreste comme sur 56 mais avec une servante derrière I. et deux guerriers taures à côté d'Oreste et Pylade. B: les adieux de Pylade à Oreste. Oreste, surveillé par deux Taures, est assis sur un rocher, le manteau rabattu sur la tête; Pylade se tient debout devant lui. C: I. demande à Thoas la permission d'aller purifier la statuette. Thoas est assis à l'extrémité dr., accompagné d'un garde. I. est debout devant lui, vêtue d'une tunique longue, le manteau ramené sur les cheveux, tenant une torche enflammée à la main dr. et la statuette d'Artémis sur la main g. Elle est suivie à g. par Oreste et Pylade enchaînés, conduits par un garde taure (selon le schéma de 82 B).

84. * Weimar, Staatl. Kunstlg. Schloßmus. G 1745. – Robert, SarkRel II n° 178. – Les trois épisodes A, B, C comme sur 83, avec quelques variantes: la servante est absente de A, deux gardes conduisent Oreste et Pylade en C, Thoas est accompagné de deux Taures et derrière I. sont représentés le temple d'Artémis et l'autel.

Toreutique

85. * (= Apollon 929) Cratère de bronze. Varna, Mus. Arch. De Balčik (Dionysopolis). – Škorpil, K., OeJh 15, 1912 Beibl. 112 n° 10; idem, BullInstArchBulg 9, 1930-31, 58-68. 87 fig. 45-49; Curtius 247-294; Schindler, W., Wiss. Zeitschrift der Humboldt-Universität zu Berlin, Ges.- u. Sprachwiss. Reihe 25, 1976, 475-483; idem, Klio 622, 1982, 99-104 fig. 1-9; Froning, o. c. 54, 334-335 fig. 10. – Fin de l'ép. de Tibère – début de l'ép. de Claude (Curtius), 23-12 av. J.-C. (Schindler). – La scène principale se situe près du sanctuaire d'Artémis, figuré à l'arrière-plan. I. (tunique longue, manteau) debout à côté de l'autel lève la main dr. vers Pylade qui, à dr. de l'autel, est en train d'écrire la lettre qu'elle lui dicte. Derrière I., à g., une servante; une autre, près de l'autel, tient un grand vase. A g. Oreste vu de dos, enchaîné près d'un arbre. La scène suivante vers la dr. est très lacunaire. Un guerrier taure conduit les prisonniers (dont un seul subsiste). La troisième scène montre le combat sur le rivage et l'embarquement. Oreste et Pylade sont à la poupe du bateau dans lequel I. est assise vers la dr., entièrement voilée. Sur le rivage, Apollon s'interpose entre les fugitifs et Thoas, que suivent deux guerriers taures; deux autres se dirigent vers la g., tête retournée.

Iphigeneia 85

f) Scène difficile à interpréter

86. Relief de marbre ornant le tombeau des Prisciani. Šempeter-Celeia, in situ, inv. 2. – Klemenc/Kolšek/Petru, o.c. 71, 25 n° 2 (fig. p. 29); Toynbee, o.c. 54, 388–389 fig. 21. – A g. un homme barbu semble allumer une torche sur un autel. Au centre une femme (?) voilée, vêtue d'une longue tunique, lève de la main dr. un rameau. A dr. un homme agenouillé vers la g. plaie à terre une biche de la main g. et lève la main dr. Le personnage de g. a la même attitude que le guerrier taure sur 74, la femme du centre ressemble à l'I. de 54 et à celle de 64. Comme deux autres reliefs du monument de Šempeter (voir 71) la scène se situe en Tauride bien que la présence de la biche ait conduit certains à l'interpréter comme le sacrifice d'I. à Aulis (Klemenc, Toynbee); mais la biche est parfois représentée près de l'autel d'Artémis en Tauride (73; voir aussi 23).

D. Iphigénie, Oreste et Pylade dans le sanctuaire d'Apollon Smintheus

87.* (= Apollon 355, = Apollon/Apollo 498 avec bibl., = Artemis/Diana 341 avec bibl., = Chryses II 1) Canthare d'argent à reliefs. Londres, BM 1960.2-1.1. – Stenico, A., dans Arte in Europa. Scritti di storia dell'arte in onore di E. Arslan (1966) 29–31 fig. 3. – 4<sup>e</sup> quart du I<sup>er</sup> s. av. J.-C. – Sous le platane d'Apollon Smintheus et tournant le dos à la statuette du dieu sont assis Oreste (ou Pylade) et I. prostrée, le manteau entièrement rabattu sur sa tête inclinée; sur ses genoux repose la statuette d'Artémis. Devant elle Pylade (ou Oreste) debout, plus loin à dr. Chryséis et Chrysès, puis Thoas et un guerrier.

Plusieurs fr. de céramique arétine proviennent de représentations identiques (voir liste dans Stenico 32–35 fig. 11–12), p. ex.:

88. Fr. de céramique arétine. Arezzo, Mus. Arch. – Stenico, o.c. 87, 34 n° 11 fig. 11 E; Froning, o.c. 54, 337 fig. 14. – Sans doute atelier de Rasinius, vers 10 av. J.-C. – I. assise et Oreste (ou Pylade) debout, comme sur 87.

COMMENTAIRE

Les deux épisodes majeurs de l'histoire d'I., le sacrifice d'Aulis et la reconnaissance entre I. et son frère en Tauride, ont été inégalement illustrés dans l'art romain: moins du tiers des documents recensés dans le catalogue concerne le premier et on notera en particulier que l'iconographie des sarcophages semble totalement ignorer le sacrifice d'I. tandis qu'elle fait une large part aux événements de Tauride.

Un seul document, le pinax peint d'Herculanum 36, pourrait représenter l'épisode qui précède juste le départ pour Aulis: on y verrait la jeune fille à Argos, près de sa mère et de ses sœurs, en train d'être parée pour son mariage auquel ferait aussi allusion la loutrophore posée au sol. Toutefois rien ne prouve que la scène représentée soit mythologique et l'interprétation demeure très incertaine. Beaucoup plus vraisemblable est celle que donne D. Levi à la mosaïque d'Antioche 37: clairement située dans un contexte théâtral, cette scène a été rapprochée des vers 1122–1123 d'Eur. Iph. A. où, peu avant le sacrifice, Agamemnon voit sortir sa fille en larmes, voilée, aux côtés de Clytemnestre.

Parmi les représentations du sacrifice, deux documents se distinguent par le sujet même comme par le nombre des personnages représentés: la peinture de la Maison du Poète Tragique 38 et la mosaïque d'Ampurias 39. La peinture est le seul document d'époque romaine qui reprenne le motif ancien d'une I. non consentante: la jeune fille y est emportée vers l'autel par deux hommes qui la soulèvent à bras-le-corps, exactement comme sur les urnes étrusques (I. in Etruria 3–15); mais à la différence de ces dernières le sacrificeur est Calchas, non point Agamemnon qui, sur la peinture, se détourne, voilé, selon le célèbre motif timanthéen (voir 4). L'identité des deux hommes qui portent I. est difficile à préciser: rien ne permet de confirmer l'identification couramment admise – Ulysse, barbu, et Diomède, imberbe – sinon la comparaison avec certaines urnes étrusques où l'un des deux hommes porte le pilos. L'intervention d'Artémis, qui n'est pas un élément fondamental des représentations romaines du sacrifice d'I., est clairement indiquée sur le tableau pompéien, où la déesse apparaît émergeant des nuages; toutefois il est difficile de savoir si la jeune femme qui chevauche la biche à l'angle opposé n'est, comme on l'a cru longtemps, qu'une acolyte de la déesse, ou n'est pas plutôt I. elle-même, enlevée vers la Tauride par l'animal (voir le Commentaire à → Artemis/Diana p. 847). Le groupe de marbre 50 pourrait représenter le moment qui précède juste cet enlèvement, encore qu'il soit difficile de savoir si le cerf était destiné à être sacrifié sur l'autel à la place d'I., ou s'il devait emporter I. vers la Tauride comme cela semble être le cas sur la peinture pompéienne. Quant au groupe sculpté 51, s'il fait certes allusion à l'intervention d'Artémis, l'inspiration en est très différente: le mythe y est relégué à l'arrière-plan et I. n'y est qu'une figure mineure, dominée par l'imposante stature d'Artémis.

Le seul autre document d'époque romaine qui fasse allusion à l'intervention d'Artémis est la mosaïque d'Ampurias 39 qui présente, avec un nombre exceptionnellement élevé de personnages, la version iconographique du sacrifice la plus courante, celle de l'I. consentante – encore I. n'y avance-t-elle pas librement vers l'autel, mais précédée par Ulysse, identifié ici grâce à son pilos, qui la tient par la main. I. est enve-loppée dans un ample manteau à plis orangés, qui est le costume traditionnel de la mariée romaine. Agamemnon, reconnaissable à son sceptre, n'a pas la tête voilée ni le geste qui le caractérisaient sur le tableau de Timanthe; il se détourne néanmoins de la scène. Les identifications des autres personnages, sauf celle de Calchas qui dissimule son épée sous son manteau, demeurent très hypothétiques.

Toutes les autres représentations du sacrifice (40–47) constituent une série iconographique homogène, caractérisée par le petit nombre des personnages annexes, voire par leur absence, autour d'un groupe central restreint où l'on voit I. prêter la tête au couteau de Calchas pour l'ablation propitiatoire d'une mèche de ses cheveux. La longévité de cette série – les œuvres s'étagent du I<sup>er</sup> s. av. J.-C. (42) au X<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. (47) – et la variété des supports témoignent de l'impact du modèle original dont toutes découlent plus ou moins directement. Le document le plus ancien de cette série est l'autel à reliefs signé de Cléoménès (42) qui présente, outre le groupe I. – Calchas, un jeune homme nu qui conduit I. et dont l'identité demeure incertaine (Achille?), Agamemnon voilé, qui tourne le dos à la scène, et un serviteur anonyme. L'origine de ce monument a suscité bien des discussions: certains, dont Löwy, ont voulu y voir une reproduction de la peinture de Timanthe 4, surtout en raison de l'attitude d'Agamemnon; d'autres, avec Dragendorff, l'imitation d'un relief néo-attique à trois personnages, dérivant lui-même d'une œuvre attique d'époque classique. Plus récemment Froning a montré que le modèle pourrait n'être que d'un siècle plus ancien que l'autel lui-même, qu'elle place dans la 2<sup>e</sup> moitié du I<sup>er</sup> s. av. J.-C.

L'œnochoé de Pompéi 46 présente un groupement de personnages très proche de celui de l'autel de Cléoménès, avec quelques variantes: l'adjonction d'un autel entre Calchas et I., ce qui écarte les deux personnages l'un de l'autre, et surtout l'inversion du personnage d'Agamemnon, tourné cette fois-ci vers le groupe central tandis que les deux jeunes gens des extrémités reproduisent, eux, l'attitude de l'Agamemnon de l'autel de Cléoménès. Les deux fragments de céramique arétine 44–45, dont découle vraisemblablement l'image de l'oscillum 43, isolent les deux personnages centraux que sépare, comme sur 46, un autel bas. Ce groupe est inversé sur le stuc de la Basilique de la Porte Majeure 41 et sur la peinture 40 où l'autel – si le dessin est exact – était figuré et où l'on note à g. la présence d'un homme voilé assis, probablement Agamemnon. Au début du X<sup>e</sup> s. un relief d'ivoire byzantin (47) reproduit à nouveau la disposition des personnages de l'autel de Cléoménès, à l'exception d'Agamemnon, remplacé par un porteur d'offrandes qui fait pendant à celui de g.

Sur tous les documents de cette série, l'attitude d'I. ne varie guère: la tête voilée, inclinée, appuyée sur la main levée au menton tandis que l'autre main est généralement ramenée sous la poitrine, évoque sa douloureuse résignation; seule l'œnochoé 46 la montre tête découverte et les bras baissés le long du corps, attitude qui rappelle l'I. du cratère apulien du British Museum (11). La jeune fille porte invariablement un péplos et, sauf sur 46 et peut-être 40, un long voile ramené sur ses cheveux. Seuls 47 et peut-être 40 la montrent couronnée mais ce détail, que l'on a parfois rapproché des v. 1477–1478. 1512. 1567 d'Eur. Iph. A., n'est pas très significatif sur 47 où tous les personnages sont couronnés. Lorsqu'I. est accompagnée à l'autel par un jeune homme, elle peut être conduite par un bras (42. 47), ou soutenue par le buste (46), ce qui accentue sans doute l'effet dramatique. L'identité de ce jeune homme est difficile à préciser: le nom le plus souvent avancé est celui d'Achille, encore que le v. 1462 d'Eur. Iph. A. laisse entendre qu'un simple serviteur conduit la victime au sacrifice. On se gardera toutefois de chercher une correspondance trop étroite entre la tragédie et les œuvres d'art, où paraissent se mêler diverses sources d'inspiration – le thème de l'ablation de la boucle, presque omniprésent dans les représentations romaines du sacrifice d'I., n'est pas évoqué par Euripide.

Tandis que les sarcophages illustrent en un cycle narratif les événements de Tauride, depuis l'arrivée d'Oreste jusqu'au départ des fugitifs en bateau, l'art pictural n'en a retenu, semble-t-il, que deux temps forts: l'arrivée d'Oreste et Pylade devant la prêtresse et leur départ avec I., qui emporte la statuette d'Artémis. En fait la mise en place des personnages et leurs attitudes ne varient guère selon que l'un ou l'autre moment est représenté: sur 52, 58–60, I. apparaît en haut des marches du temple, généralement accompagnée de servantes, Oreste et Pylade enchaînés étant figurés en contrebas, à dr. ou à g. Seules la présence de Thoas (58–59) et la statuette d'Artémis dans les bras d'I. (58–60) permettent de différencier les deux épisodes. La peinture 61 montre une composition très proche mais plus sobre, sans arrière-plan architectural; d'une main I. porte la statuette d'Artémis, de l'autre elle allume une torche sur un autel, comme sur 62 où la composition est restreinte aux trois personnages principaux, I. et les deux prisonniers. Sur la plupart de ces peintures, I. a une stature imposante qu'accentue encore son apparition solennelle en haut des marches du temple et qui la différencie de la toute jeune fille représentée sur les images du sacrifice. Elle porte invariablement le costume de la prêtresse – tunique longue que recouvre un épais manteau – et ses cheveux sont généralement ceints d'une couronne de feuillages auxquels se mêle parfois un rang de perles (52); c'est ce costume et cette coiffure qui la caractérisent encore comme prêtresse sur la peinture du Magdalensberg (34) et celle de Stabies (35) où elle apparaît seule, portant, comme sur 61, l'image d'Artémis et la torche.

Une seule mosaïque, de provenance romaine (65), se rapporte aux événements de Tauride. La scène est réduite à deux personnages: Oreste est assis sur l'autel tandis qu'I. s'avance vers lui, composition que l'on peut rapprocher de celle de l'amphore 18; mais là s'arrête la comparaison entre les deux œuvres: le vase montre le moment qui précède juste la reconnaissance entre I. et son frère tandis que sur la mosaïque la reconnaissance vient d'avoir lieu – la tablette par laquelle Oreste a appris l'identité de sa sœur est posée contre l'autel et I., qui vient d'enlever à l'intérieur du temple la statuette d'Artémis, invite Oreste à la suivre. On notera, comme sur les peintures, la silhouette imposante d'I. et son costume sacerdotal – tunique longue que recouvre un lourd manteau, voile et couronne de feuillages.

Un assez grand nombre de sarcophages sculptés dans les ateliers romains dans le courant du II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. est consacré à l'évocation des divers épisodes de Tauride, illustrés, à la manière d'une bande dessinée, en une succession d'images placées tantôt sur la cuve (56. 75–76. 81–84), tantôt sur le couvercle (57. 68. 77–80) dont le champ étroit et allongé se prêtait mieux encore à ce type d'illustration. Deux de ces couvercles (68. 77) correspondent à des cuves dont les reliefs illustrent le double meurtre d'Égisthe et de Clytemnestre: les épisodes de Tauride s'inscrivaient donc dans un cycle plus complet dont le héros principal était Oreste plutôt qu'I. Une comparaison entre les différents exemplaires permet d'isoler plusieurs motifs originaux dont la juxtaposition ne respecte pas nécessairement l'ordre chronologique. Sur une première série de monuments (type A: 75–81), dont le sarcophage de Munich 75 apparaît comme le chef de file, sont combinés la scène de la folie d'Oreste, l'arrivée des prisonniers devant I., la reconnaissance entre I. et son frère, le combat sur le rivage et l'embarquement. L'arrivée des prisonniers se situe devant le sanctuaire d'Artémis près duquel I., qui tient prête l'épée du sacrifice, les accueille; à côté du sanctuaire, un arbre auquel sont suspendues les têtes des précédentes victimes, détail qui apparaît déjà sur l'amphore campanienne 29. La scène de la reconnaissance reproduit invariablement le même schéma: Oreste et Pylade se précipitent à vive allure vers I. qui leur tend une tablette. I., la statuette d'Artémis dans les bras, assiste, sauf sur 77, au combat contre les Taures. Elle est ensuite à nouveau figurée dans la scène de l'embarquement: entièrement voilée, alors que les autres épisodes la montrent tête nue, elle se tient à la poupe du bateau, serrant contre elle la statuette d'Artémis, tandis que son frère ou Pylade franchit la passerelle. Thoas n'apparaît pas sur ces reliefs, sauf sur 77 où la scène de la folie d'Oreste est remplacée par un tableau où l'on voit I., suivie des deux prisonniers, s'éloigner de Thoas pour aller purifier dans la mer la statuette d'Artémis. Sur le même monument sont confondues l'arrivée des prisonniers et la scène de la reconnaissance.

Le sarcophage de Weimar 82 (type B) reprend, pour la scène de la reconnaissance, le même «carton» que les sarcophages du type A. Mais les autres épisodes diffèrent sensiblement: la scène de l'arrivée des prisonniers est inversée et I. n'est pas armée pour le sacrifice. L'épisode du combat sur la plage est très réduit, I. n'y assiste pas et c'est elle, cette fois-ci, et non pas Oreste ou Pylade, qui franchit la passerelle du bateau, aidée par un de ses compagnons déjà à bord.

Un troisième groupe de sarcophages, 83–84 (type C), qui conserve le même «carton» que ceux du type A pour la scène de la reconnaissance, montre au centre les adieux de Pylade à Oreste et donne un développement plus important à la scène de dr. où I. s'adresse à Thoas. La disposition des personnages rappelle celle des peintures pompéiennes (en particulier 59): au centre I., qui porte ici, avec la statuette d'Artémis, une longue torche, à g. le groupe des deux prisonniers debout, à dr. Thoas assis; mais en raison de la disposition linéaire des personnages I. n'a pas l'allure majestueuse, quasi divine, que lui avaient donnée les peintres pompéiens en la surélevant sur les marches du temple.

Seuls nous sont parvenus deux sarcophages attiques, tous deux fragmentaires, relatifs aux épisodes de Tauride. Le fr. d'Oxford 67 met en scène I. et Thoas dans une composition qui ne semble pas avoir de parallèle dans les ateliers romains: I., qui vient de sortir du temple, se présente seule devant Thoas, comme dans la version transmise par Eur. Iph. T. 1156–1206; sur le bras g. elle tient l'image d'Artémis et lève de la main dr. un rameau probablement destiné aux rites de purification qu'elle doit accomplir. L'un des fragments du sarcophage de Thèbes 74 montre I. franchissant la passerelle du bateau, aidée par l'un de ses compagnons, selon le même «carton» que le sarcophage de Weimar 82; sur l'autre fragment, un Taure est en train d'allumer une torche sur un autel, à l'extérieur du temple: ce motif n'a pas non plus de parallèle dans les ateliers romains; on songe aux v. 1214–1216 d'Eur. Iph. T. où I., avant de s'éloigner vers le rivage, recommande à Thoas de rester près du temple et de le purifier par la torche.

L'art provincial, représenté presque exclusivement par des reliefs funéraires, semble avoir privilégié, parmi les épisodes de Tauride, le départ des fugitifs (69–73). Le schéma adopté est généralement celui du sarcophage de Weimar 82. On notera que la statuette d'Artémis est omise sur 69, 71 et 72. Le relief de Bonn 73 utilise un schéma plus original où I. se dirige vers le bateau, encadrée par Oreste et Pylade. Le relief de Sens 54 montre une autre scène, qui est à rapprocher de celle de l'arrivée des prisonniers sur les sarcophages romains du type A, mais I. y lève un rameau comme sur le sarcophage attique 67. Le même geste apparaît encore sur l'un des reliefs du monument funéraire de Sempeter (86), dans une scène difficile à interpréter: un Taure allume une torche sur un autel comme sur le sarcophage attique 74 et l'on pourrait donc penser aux rites de purification; mais comment expliquer la présence de l'homme agenouillé qui plaque au sol une biche, sinon par une contamination avec l'épisode du sacrifice d'I.?

Le cratère de bronze à reliefs 85 découvert sur les bords de la Mer Noire permet à cet égard d'entrevoir comment certains motifs utilisés par les toreutes au début de l'époque impériale ont pu aisément circuler et parvenir à la connaissance des sculpteurs de divers ateliers provinciaux. Comme les sarcophages romains, le cratère de Varna illustre en une frise continue plusieurs épisodes de Tauride. La scène de la reconnaissance, qui y occupe une large place, ne suit pas la version transmise par les sarcophages: au lieu de remettre à Pylade une lettre déjà écrite, I. lui en dicte le contenu qu'Oreste, les mains liées, écoute. Or on trouve cette scène partiellement reproduite sur un autre relief du monument funéraire de Sempeter (voir 71) d'où, cependant, I. est absente, ce qui enlève à la scène sa signification d'origine. Le cratère de Varna présente ensuite une scène lacunaire, dont ne subsiste que le groupe du guerrier taure conduisant un prisonnier: on retrouve exactement le même groupe sur le relief de Sens 54. La scène du combat sur le rivage et celle du départ en bateau ne trouvent en revanche aucun écho dans la sculpture, pas plus d'ailleurs que dans la tradition littéraire: Oreste et Pylade sont déjà dans le bateau, avec I. assise, entièrement drapée, tandis qu'Apollon – et non pas Athéna comme dans Eur. Iph. T. 1435–1489 – s'interpose entre Thoas et les fugitifs.

Les événements postérieurs au départ de Tauride sont illustrés par un très petit nombre de documents, le canthare d'argent 87 et plusieurs répliques en céramique arétine (88), tous datés, comme le cratère de Varna, de l'époque augustéenne. Oreste et I. fuyant la Tauride ont cherché asile dans le sanctuaire d'Apollon à Sminthe; Chrysès, le prêtre d'Apollon, est sur le point de les livrer à Thoas lorsque sa mère Chryséis lui révèle qu'il est le demi-frère d'I. et Oreste. Il s'agit ici de l'unique illustration de cet épisode, que Sophocle avait mis en scène dans sa tragédie perdue Chrysès (TrGF IV F 726–730) et qui fut repris par la suite par Pacuvius (TF I. 76–112; voir aussi Hyg. fab. 120–121). On notera ici l'attitude d'I. prostrée sous son voile, comme elle l'est lors de la fuite en bateau sur le cratère de Varna 85. L'existence de plusieurs fragments de céramique arétine reproduisant l'image du canthare en argent illustre bien comment la céramique pouvait diffuser à de multiples exemplaires des motifs susceptibles de servir ensuite de modèles dans les ateliers de sculpture (voir aussi, à ce sujet, 43–45).

Comme pour la scène du sacrifice d'I., figurée au X<sup>e</sup> s. sur un ivoire byzantin, une illustration tardive de l'histoire d'I. en Tauride est parvenue jusqu'à nous: le tissu copte 66 montre les principaux protagonistes – I., Thoas, Oreste et Pylade – disposés symétriquement autour de l'effigie centrale d'Artémis, figurée à la même échelle qu'eux comme si, descendue de son piédestal, elle intervenait directement dans la scène. Malgré les tentatives de Weitzmann, qui a rapproché cette image de la scène centrale du sarcophage de Weimar 82, il me paraît difficile d'établir pour ce document tardif une filiation avec les sarcophages romains.

Epoque grecque: LILLY KAHIL
(catalogue: LILLY KAHIL avec la collaboration de NOËLLE ICARD)
Epoque romaine: PASCALE LINANT
DE BELLEFONDS

IPHIGENEIA (IN ETRURIA)

Der etruskische Name der Iphigenie ist nicht überliefert, da ihr Mythos vor allem auf Denkmälern ohne Namensbeischriften dargestellt wurde. Da aber für ihre Eltern und ihren Bruder etruskische Namensformen belegt sind (Achmemrun, Clutnsta, Urste), ist es wahrscheinlich, daß es auch für ihren Namen eine solche Form gab.

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: enthält nur Lit. speziell zu etruskischen Monumenten, im übrigen s. Bibl. zu → Iphigeneia. – Bonfante, L., «Un'urna chiusina con «têtes coupées» a New York», in Studi ... G. Maetzel I (1984) 143–150 (= Bonfante 1); eadem, «Human Sacrifice on an Etruscan Funerary Urn», AJA 88, 1984, 531–539 (= Bonfante 2); Brunn, Rilievi I 40–52. 106–112; Dareggi, G., Urne del territorio perugino. Quad. dell'Ist. di Arch. dell'Univ. di Perugia I, 1972, 34–35; Heurgon, J., «D'Iphigénie à Troïlos (notes sur la substitution des victimes de sacrifices sur des urnes de Chiusi)», in Studi ... G. Maetzel II (1984) 317–320; Pairault, F.-H., Recherches sur quelques séries d'urnes de Volterra à représentations mythologiques (1972) 142–144 Taf. 37–45. 88–96; Rebuffat, R., MEFRA 84, 1972, 530–535.

KATALOG

I. Opferung und Entrückung der Iphigenie

1.* (= Agamemnon 35*, = Artemis/Artumes 61*, = Artemis/Diana 336, = Kalchas 19* mit Lit.) Praenestinsche Ciste. Rom, Villa Giulia 13141. Aus Praeneste. – Helbig* III Nr. 2979 (Dohrn); Schefold/Jung, SB V 151 Abb. 134; CP I 2 (im Druck). – 4. Viertel 4. Jh. v. Chr. – I. steht, frontal gesehen, nackt vor der Folie ihres Mantels, den sie noch in beiden Händen hält, im Begriff, ihn ganz herabgleiten zu lassen. R. von ihr der Hirsch, dann Kalchas mit gezücktem Opferschwert, Artemis, Klytaimestra, Agamemnon und ein junger Krieger mit einem Speer, l. ein gebeugt, trauernd?, dastehender Jüngling mit Schwert und zwei Speeren und ein gepanzerter Krieger mit einem Pferd.

2. (= Agamemnon 40* mit Lit., = Kalchas 25 mit Lit.) Nenfrosarkophag. Rom, Villa Giulia 15531. Aus Tuscania. – Helbig* III Nr. 2495 (Dohrn). – 3. Jh. v. Chr. – R. sitzt I., den Kopf trauernd in die r. Hand gestützt, auf dem Altar. Ihr Unterkörper ist von einem Mantel verhüllt. In der Mitte ein bärtiger Mann in einem Himation (Agamemnon?, Kalchas?); mit der Linken packt er I. an der Schulter, mit der Rechten schwingt er das Opferrmesser (nicht erhalten). L. am Boden kauern ein Trauernder (Pädagoge?).

Travertinurnen aus Perugia

3.* Perugia, Mus. Naz. 18. – Brunn, Rilievi I 41 Taf. 36, 3. – 2. Jh. v. Chr. – I. wird von einem gepanzerten bärtigen Krieger (mit Pilos, Odysseus?) über den Altar gehalten. Sie wendet sich mit beiden Armen gestikulierend an den r. vom Altar stehenden bärtigen Krieger (Agamemnon), der eine Phiale über ihrem Kopf ausgießt. R. und l. zwei Frauen in «Furientracht» (Rock und Kreuzbandgürtung über nacktem Oberkörper, Stiefel): die l. hält das Hirschkalb, die r. faßt Agamemnon an der Schulter (Artumes? und eine ihrer Nymphen?).

Sehr ähnlich: a) Perugia (= Agamemnon 36), Agamemnon trägt ebenfalls einen Pilos und hält das Opferschwert in der Linken.

Variante 1, die rechte Dämonin hat den r. Arm erhoben: b) Perugia, Mus. Naz. 46 (Brunn, Rilievi I Taf. 35, 2; Löwy 22 Abb. 14; Pairault Taf. 39), ferner Brunn, Rilievi I 41 Nr. 35, 2a. b; c) Perugia, Mus. Arch. 236 (Pairault Taf. 37); d) Perugia, Mus. Arch. 343 (Pairault Taf. 41); e) Papiano, Privatbesitz (Dareggi 34–35 Nr. 3 Taf. 2, 1).

Variante 2, die rechte Dämonin hält eine Fackel: f) Perugia, ehem. San Pietro = Perugia, Mus. Naz. 16? (Brunn, Rilievi I 41 Taf. 35, 1; Pairault Taf. 38).

Variante 3, statt der beiden Dämoninnen zwei junge Männer mit schräg nach unten gerichteten Speeren: g) Perugia, Mus. Naz. 281 (Brunn, Rilievi I 42 Taf. 37, 5; Pairault Taf. 40).

4. Rom, Villa Giulia 50313. Aus Perugia, Necropoli del Palazzone. – Brunn, Rilievi I 45 Taf. 41, 11; Helbig<sup>4</sup> III Nr. 2492 (Dohrn). – 2. Jh. v. Chr. – Mittelgruppe ähnlich 3, Agamemnon ohne Panzer. L. die Dämonin mit dem Hirsch, r. ein stehender und vor ihm ein am Boden kauender Mann. Letzterer faßt sich in Schrecken und Trauer mit der Rechten an den Kopf, mit der Linken stützt er sich auf den Boden; er wirkt, als ob er gerade erst zu Boden gestürzt sei.

5.* (= Artemis/Artumes 63*) Perugia, Mus. Naz. 43, ehem. Giardino Meniconi. – Brunn, Rilievi I 46 Taf. 42, 14; Löwy 26–28 Abb. 20; Rebuffat 530–533 Abb. 10a. 11. – Untere Figurenreihe wie 3, die linke «Dämonin» (Artumes) hat einen Köcher. Darüber eine zweite Figurenreihe: von r., eine Tympanon-Spielerin, ein Flötenbläser, eine frontal gesehene Frau, die mit beiden Händen in ihre langen, offenen Haare greift, eine Dienerin, die sie stützt, und ein Opferdiener mit Beil.

Sehr ähnlich (Artumes ohne Köcher, in der oberen Reihe statt der Tympanon- eine Kitharapspielerin; der Diener mit dem Beil fehlt): a) Perugia (Brunn, Rilievi I 46 Taf. 42, 13; Rebuffat 530–531 Abb. 9b), ferner Brunn, Rilievi I 46 Nr. 42, 13a. b.

Variante, in der unteren Reihe l. hinter Artumes eine Frau, die mit der Linken in ihr Haar faßt, in der oberen Reihe nur Opferdiener und Musikanten (von l.: mit Tuch, mit Tablett mit Kuchen, mit Kanne, mit Flöte, mit Kithara): b) Perugia, Mus. Naz. (Brunn, Rilievi I Taf. 43, 17; Löwy 27 Abb. 21).

6. (= Agamemnon 37*) Rom, Villa Giulia 50311. Aus Perugia. – Brunn, Rilievi I 44–45 Taf. 40, 10; Löwy 25 Abb. 19; Helbig<sup>4</sup> III Nr. 2492 (Dohrn); Pairault 46 Anm. 3; 102 Taf. 15–17 (Atelier de la fleur et des ondes). – Mitte 2. Jh. v. Chr. – Mittelgruppe ähnlich 3–5, neben Agamemnon kniet eine Frau (Klytaimestra), die ihre Arme flehend zu ihm emporstreckt, hinter ihr ein mit einer Schreckensgeste nach r. entweichender Mann, der einen unklaren Gegenstand (Stein?) in der Rechten hält. L. ein zu Boden gestürzter nackter Mann (vergleichbar der Figur r. auf 4), der von einem Diener festgehalten wird. In einer oberen Reihe, auf leicht differierendem Niveau, l. die Dämonin mit dem Hirsch, ein Opferdiener mit einem Tablett, eine Dämonin mit einer Fackel, zwei Männer und eine Gestalt mit verhülltem Haupt.

Ähnlich, etwas weniger Figuren in der oberen Reihe, z. T. auch zerstört: a) Perugia, Mus. Naz. 49

(Atelier de la fleur et des ondes, Brunn, Rilievi I 43 Taf. 39, 9; Löwy 24–26 Abb. 16, 18; Pairault 46 Anm. 3; 102 Taf. 18; Dareggi Taf. 45).

7. Perugia, Mus. Naz. 330 (chem. 127). – Pairault Taf. 42. – 2. Hälfte 2. Jh. v. Chr. – Die Hauptfiguren der unteren Reihe ähnlich 6, ohne den Diener l. und den nach r. Entweichenden am r. Rand; der zu Boden Gestürzte trägt Chiton und Chlamys. Dahinter, d. h. in der oberen Reihe, die beiden Dämoninnen (wie auf 3b–e).

Sehr ähnlich: a) Perugia, Mus. Naz. 394 (Brunn, Rilievi I 42 Taf. 37, 6), ferner Brunn, Rilievi I 43 Nr. 37, 6a.

Variante 1, mit weiteren Figuren in der oberen Reihe, der zu Boden Gestürzte mit Diener wie auf 6: b) Rom, Villa Giulia 50312 (Brunn, Rilievi I 48 Taf. 45, 20; Helbig<sup>4</sup> III Nr. 2492 (Dohrn)).

Variante 2, ähnlich, der Gestürzte ohne Diener: c) Perugia, Mus. Naz. (Brunn, Rilievi I 43 Taf. 38, 7).

Variante 3, ähnlich Variante 1, statt der knienden Frau r. ein Mann: d) Perugia, Mus. Naz. (Brunn, Rilievi I 43 Taf. 38, 8; Heurgon 318–319 Taf. 2b).

8. Perugia, Casa del S. Cuore (ex Villa Monti) 14. – Brunn, Rilievi I 48 Taf. 44, 19; Dareggi, G., StEtr 37, 1969, 472 Nr. 11 Taf. 118a. – 2. Hälfte 2. Jh. v. Chr. – In der vorderen Reihe alle Figuren wie auf 6 (der Mann r. mit Speer wie auf 3g), dazu, direkt hinter Odysseus, die Hirschkalbträgerin. In der oberen Reihe Musikanten und weitere Männer.

Sehr ähnlich, der Gestürzte ohne Diener: a) Perugia, Mus. Naz. 279 (Brunn, Rilievi I 48 Nr. 44, 19a; Pairault Taf. 43).

Variante, ohne die äußersten Figuren der vorderen Reihe, in der oberen Reihe auch Opferdiener mit Beil, Kanne und Tablett: b) Vatikan, Mus. Greg. Etr. 13902 (Brunn, Rilievi I 47 Taf. 44, 18; Pairault Taf. 45).

9.* Perugia, Mus. Naz. 348. – Pairault Taf. 44; Dareggi Taf. 46. – 1. Hälfte 1. Jh. v. Chr. – In der vorderen Reihe zu Seiten der Mittelgruppe nur die kniende Frau r. und eine kniende Figur l.; in der oberen Reihe von l. Hirschkalbträgerin, Frau mit offenen Haaren (wie 5), Mann und Flötenbläser.

Variante, der Mann vorne l. steht; in der oberen Reihe fehlt die Frau mit den offenen Haaren: a) (chem.?) Villa Sorbello in Pischello (Brunn, Rilievi I 47 Taf. 43, 16).

10. Perugia, (chem.?) Villa di Compresso. – Brunn, Rilievi I 45 Taf. 41, 12; Rebuffat 530–531 Abb. 9a. – 2. Jh. v. Chr. – In der vorderen Reihe neben der Mittelgruppe nur die Hirschkalbträgerin und die kniende Frau, oben r. eine Flötenbläserin, oben l. eine Frau mit wehendem Schleier.

11. Perugia, Mus. Naz. inv. Palazzone 55. Aus Perugia, Necropoli del Palazzone. – Brunn, Rilievi I 47 Taf. 43, 15; Galli, E., Perugia, Il Mus. Funerario del Palazzone all'Ipogeo dei Volumni (1921) 54–57 Abb. 27. – 2. Hälfte 2. Jh. v. Chr. – I. wird von zwei Männern getragen, der Opfernde mit der Phiale hat keinen Panzer. L. die Hirschkalbträgerin, r. die kniende Frau und ein Diener, in der oberen Reihe Opferdiener, Musikanten und die Frau mit den offenen Haaren, die von einer Dienerin gestützt wird.

12. Perugia, (chem.?) Villa Antinori a Monte Vile. – Brunn, Rilievi I 49 Taf. 45, 21. – 2. Jh. v. Chr. – Der zweite Träger der I. steht hinter ihr und faßt sie an den Achseln; r. die Kniende mit Dienerin, l. ein zu Boden Stürzender mit Diener. In der oberen Reihe l. die Hirschkalbträgerin und weitere, zerstörte Figuren.

Volterraner Alabasterurnen

13. (= Agamemnon 38a*, = Artemis/Artumes 65) Ehem. Mannheim, Reiß-Mus. (im Krieg verbrannt). – Brunn, Rilievi I 50 Taf. 46, 24; Löwy 28 Abb. 22. – 2. Hälfte 2.–Anfang 1. Jh. v. Chr. – I. (Haltung ähnlich wie 3–12) wird von drei Männern in kurzem Chiton über den Altar gehalten. Der Opfernde mit Phiale und Opfermesser ähnlich wie auf 3–12, aber ohne Panzer, r. neben ihm ein Krieger mit Schild und Lanze, ganz r. eine geflügelte Dämonin in «Furientracht» (vgl. 3) mit Torques, die das Hirschkalb trägt. Von l. stürzt mit ausgebreiteten Armen eine Frau (Klytaimestra) auf die Mittelgruppe zu. Zwei Diener versuchen sie zurückzuhalten.

Sehr ähnlich: a) Volterra, Mus. Guarnacci 457 (Brunn, Rilievi I 50 Taf. 46, 23; Catani, G., CUE II 2, 88 Nr. 99 Abb.).

Variante, I. wird von zwei Männern getragen: b)* Volterra, Mus. Guarnacci 512 (= Agamemnon 38b mit Lit.).

14. Florenz, Mus. Arch. 5754. – Brunn, Rilievi I 51 Taf. 47, 25. – 2. Hälfte 2. Jh.–Anfang 1. Jh. v. Chr. – Zwischen dem Opfernden und der Hirschträgerin auf einem dem Altar gleichenden Unterbau eine viersäulige Aedícula, in deren Mitte ein Omphalos steht, um den sich eine Schlange windet. Linkes Viertel der Urne weggebrochen, das Erhaltene wie auf 13b.

15. Volterra: Aus Volterra, «piccola tomba Inghirami». – Brunn, Rilievi I 50 Taf. 46, 22. – Spätes 2./Anfang 1. Jh. v. Chr. – Linker Teil ähnlich 13b, der Opfernde hält eine Keule, neben ihm ein Pferd. Die Hirschträgerin fehlt.

Chiusinische Alabasterurnen

16.* (= Agamemnon 39*, = Artemis/Artumes 62, = Kalchas 20) Chiusi, Mus. Naz. 955 (ex Paolozzi). – Brunn, Rilievi I 51 Taf. 47, 26; Rebuffat 532 Abb. 10b; 534; Heurgon 319 Taf. 2a. – 2. Jh. v. Chr. – Der Opfernde in Panzer und Chiton ähnlich wie auf 3–15, die Schale tiefer haltend, neben ihm eine Frau.

Iphigeneia (in Etruria) 16

R. von ihm am Boden kniend ein Bärtiger in Chiton und Mantel, erschreckt die Arme hehend; ganz r. ein Krieger. L. vom Altar eine kniende Gestalt, die ein Tier (Hirschkalb?) mit den Vorderbeinen über den Altar hält. Ganz l. eine kniende Frau, ebenfalls mit einer Geste des Erschreckens auf das Geschehen reagierend, hinter ihr ein Krieger. Über der Gestalt mit dem Opfernde eine Frau, deren Kopf von einem bogenförmig sich bauschenden Mantel umgeben ist, Artumes?. Sie faßt mit ihren Armen ein Mädchen in kurzem Chiton und Stiefeln, I. Aus der Haltung der I. wird deutlich, daß die Gruppe emporschwebend gedacht ist.

DEUTUNG UNSICHER, WENIG WAHRSCHEINLICH

17. (= Geryoneus 19 [anderer Fries] mit Lit.) Kolonettenkrater, etrusko-korinthisch. Cerveteri, Mus. Naz., ehem. Rom, Villa Giulia 19539. Aus Cerveteri. – Krauskopf, ThebSag 28 Taf. 16; Fischer-Hansen, T., in: Studia Romana in honorem P. Krarup septuagenarii (1976) 20–26 Abb. 1–2; Prayon, F., RM 84, 1977, 194–195 Taf. 100; Prag 62 Taf. 42a; CerEtr 132 Abb. 85; 289–291 mit Lit. – 580/70 v. Chr. – Ein Mann trägt in seinen Armen eine Frau die Stufen eines Altars empor. Über dem Altar Kopf und Arme eines sonst durch den Bau verdeckten oder aus ihm emporsteigenden Mannes (Schatten des Achill?, Todesdämon?). R. eine Frau mit einer Phiale. Wenn die Szene einen griechischen Mythos darstellt, ist eher an die Opferung der Polyxena zu denken (Fischer-Hansen, Martelli).

18. (= Apollon/Aplu 8* mit Lit.) Bemalte Tonplatte der «Campana»-Serie. Paris, Louvre S 4033. – 530/20 v. Chr. – Hinter Aplu ein Flügeldämon, der eine in einen Mantel gehüllte Frau trägt. Zur Deutung s. Kommentar zu Aplu, S. 353.

Vgl. auch → Kalchas 22 (Deutung auf I.: Prag a. O. 65. 149 H 3 Taf. 40a–b).

II. Iphigeneia und Orest in Tauris

Chiusinische Alabasterurnen

19.* (= Cacu 7a mit Lit., = Erinyes 78) Siena, Mus. Arch. 730. Aus Sarteano. – Brunn, Rilievi I 107 Taf. 84, 2; Pairault 143 Taf. 92–93; Artigianato artistico in Etruria, Cat. mostra Chiusi-Volterra 1985, 48 Nr. 25 Abb.; Bonfante 1, 144 Taf. 3a; Bonfante 2, Taf. 70, 4. – Ende 3./Anfang 2. Jh. v. Chr. – In der Bildmitte sitzen Rücken an Rücken Orest (l.) und Pylades, beide nackt. Vor Orest, der in sich zusammengesunken, den Kopf in die l. Hand gestützt, am Geschehen keinen Anteil nimmt, steht in ähnlich bedrückter Haltung I., nackt bis auf einen den Rücken bedeckenden Mantel und ein Kreuzband über der Brust. In der Hand hält sie ein Schrifttäfelchen. Pylades werden gerade von einem von r. herantretenden Mann die Hände entfesselt. Ganz r. ein Krieger mit Schwert. Im Hintergrund wird zwischen Orest und Pylades der Kopf eines Pferdes sichtbar; vor ihnen kauert am Boden eine schlafende Erinyes, die ein Schwert hält. Ganz l. eine Frau in «Furientracht» mit einem Schwert und einem runden Tablett.

20. (= Cacù 7c mit Lit., = Erinyes 79*) Florenz, Mus. Arch. 5777. Aus Chiusi. – Brunn, Rilievi I 106–107 Taf. 84, 1; Pairault 143 Taf. 91a; Artigianato, a. O. 19, 48 Nr. 26 Abb. (S. 79); Bonfante I, 144 Taf. 2b; Bonfante 2, Taf. 70, 3. – Ende 3. Jh. v. Chr. – Ähnlich 19, Orest und Pylades sitzen auf einem Altar, hinter dem (an der Stelle des Pferdekopfes auf 19) eine Säule mit einem Gefäß zu erkennen ist. Vor dem Altar eine Amphora. Die schlafende Erinyes fehlt; anstelle des Mannes neben Pylades hier eine Flügeldämonin mit einer Fackel. Pylades hält ein Täfelchen (oder Schwertgriff?).

21. (= Cacù 7b mit Lit.) Kopenhagen, Glypt. H 298. Aus Città della Pieve. – Pairault 143 Taf. 89. – Ende 3./Anfang 2. Jh. v. Chr. – Hauptgruppe ähnlich 19, vor dem Altar Amphora wie auf 20. R. von Pylades ein zu Boden Stürzender, ein Mann, der ein Pferd heranzuführt, und ein Krieger.

Reduzierte und mißverständene Variante: → Cacù 6*: «Pylades» hält eine Kithara.

22.* New York Univ. Collection. – Brunn/Körte, Rilievi II 2, 184 Nr. 8a; Rees Clifford, H., AJA 41, 1937, 300–311 Abb. 1; Bonfante I, 143–150 Taf. 1; Bonfante 2, 531–539 Taf. 70, 1–2. – Anfang 2. Jh. v. Chr. – Orestes sitzt in ähnlicher Haltung wie auf 19–21 auf einem kleinen Altar; Pylades, mit einem Schrifttäfelchen in der Hand, steht neben ihm. Vor Orest I., in Chiton und Mantel, ebenfalls mit einem Schrifttäfelchen in der Hand. R., größtenteils weggebrochen, eine weitere weibliche Figur. Hinter Orest, auf einem hohen, altarähnlich abschließenden Pfeiler zwei Köpfe, die dieselbe Binde im Haar tragen wie Orest und Pylades. Zwischen den Köpfen ein dreifüßiges Tischchen.

DEUTUNG UNSICHER

23. Verschollen. – Brunn/Körte, Rilievi II 2, 183 Taf. 78, 8; Rees Clifford, a. O. 22, 302 Abb. 2; 306–309; Bonfante I, 145–146 mit Anm. 13 Taf. 2a. – 1. Hälfte 2. Jh. v. Chr.? – Die Gruppe Orest?–I.? ähnlich wie auf 22, Orest bärtig. Beide halten ein Schwert. Pylades? sitzt ebenfalls auf dem Altar; er hält einen undeutlich gezeichneten kleinen Gegenstand in der Linken. Neben ihm eine Frau mit Schwert.

DEUTUNG UNWAHRSCHEINLICH

24. Sard-Skarabäus. London, BM 950. – Furtwängler, AG I Taf. 24, 4; III 230; Walters, BMGems Nr. 950 Taf. 14; Zoff, EtrSk 190 Nr. 1146. – Spätes 4.–3. Jh. v. Chr. – Ein nackter Mann, der sich mit einem großen Schritt auf eine r. stehende Frau zubewegt hatte, wird von einem Bärtigen in langem Gewand an einem Arm gepackt und mit einigem Kraftaufwand (man beachte die Stellung seiner Beine) zurückgehalten. Die Frau, die einen langen Chiton trägt, hält in der einen Hand eine Peitsche mit zwei Riemen (so Walters a. O.) oder ein Seil oder eine Binde, deren beide Enden herunterhängen. Die andere Hand streckt sie nach dem jungen Mann aus; vielleicht berührt sie seinen anderen lose herabhängenden Arm. In diesem Fall ließe sich die Szene so verstehen, daß sowohl der ältere Mann wie die Frau versuchen, den jungen festzuhalten und eventuell zu fesseln. Man könnte sich aber auch vorstellen, daß der Jüngling auf die Frau zulaufen will und der Bärtige versucht, ihn daran zu hindern. Auf keinen Fall ist ein Gefangener dargestellt, der vor die Frau geführt wird – Orest und Pylades haben in den vielen Bildern der entsprechenden Szene (→ Iphigeneia 14–17, 52–62) im übrigen immer auf dem Rücken gefesselte Hände. Weder in der literarischen noch in der bildlichen Überlieferung der Sage von I. in Tauris ist eine Szene zu finden, die der hier dargestellten entspräche.

KOMMENTAR

Die Geschichte der I. ist in Etrurien anscheinend erst in hellenistischer Zeit dargestellt worden; bis jetzt haben sich Bilder fast nur auf Aschenurnen nordetruskischer Werkstätten gefunden. Nur in Praeneste war die Opferung der I. schon früher, noch im 4. Jh., dargestellt worden (1). Der Figurenfries der Ciste 1 orientiert sich, wie am deutlichsten die Gestalt der Artemis in skythischer Tracht (vgl. vor allem → Artemis 1375* = Iphigeneia 27), aber etwa auch die Frau im Fenster (Klytaimestra?) zeigen, an großgriechischen Vorbildern; es wurden aber wohl eher einzelne Figuren als die ganze Szene von dort entlehnt. Daß I. vor der Opferung alle Gewänder ablegt, ist in der griechischen Kunst nie dargestellt worden; die Wahl des Motivs mag mit einer Vorliebe des Cistengravers für die Wiedergabe nackter Frauenkörper zusammenhängen. Eine ähnliche Figur findet sich auch in anderem Kontext, bei der Wiedergabe von Badeszenen (→ Helene/Elina 41, = Altria/Alsir 2* = Chryseis I 2; → Helene/Elina 42 = Chryseis I 1; auch CPI 1 Taf. 114, 22b). Andererseits ist das Motiv des die Vorbereitungen zum Opfer gespannten, aber nicht mit sichtbaren Anzeichen von Trauer beobachtenden Agamemnon, der wie eine Repertoire-Figur wirkt, offensichtlich so eng mit seiner Gestalt assoziiert gewesen, daß die Figur auch in andere Szenen übernommen wurde, mit der dort notwendigen erklärenden Beischrift Agamemnon; der junge Krieger mit dem Pferd erscheint dort ebenfalls, als Ajax Ilios (CPI 1 Taf. 192, 45n; 191, 45l; → Doxa I = Istor I). Wie schon G. Bordenache (CPI 1, 149) betont hat, hatten beide Cistengraver offensichtlich dieselbe Vorlage vor Augen, aus der sie Figuren für ihren Bedarf auswählten. Der Agamemnon der Cisten wirkt in seiner Haltung wie eine schwächere Variante des mit verhülltem Haupt trauernden auf dem Iphigenie-Fresko aus der Casa del Poeta Tragico (→ Iphigeneia 38 = Agamemnon 41*); dagegen haben die anderen Personen der Ciste 1 nichts mit der Bildtradition zu tun, die sich in dem Fresko dokumentiert.

Das Bild der Nebenseite eines Sarkophags aus Tarquinia (2), die älteste erhaltene etruskische Darstellung der Opferung der I., steht mit dem Motiv der auf dem Altar sitzenden I. ebenfalls außerhalb aller uns bekannten Bildüberlieferungen; der Opfernde kann hier Kalchas oder Agamemnon sein (zu dem am Boden Hockenden s. → Agamemnon 40*).

Auf den hellenistischen Urnen 3–16 findet sich keine einzige der Figuren der Ciste wieder; dagegen haben sie mit dem Fresko aus Pompeji ein wesentliches Motiv gemeinsam: nur dort und auf den Urnen 3–15 wird I. von einem (3–10) oder mehreren (zwei: 11, 12, 14, 15; drei: 13) Männern über den Altar gehalten, wobei sie ihre Arme flehend entweder dem Opfernden (3–15) entgegen- oder – wie auf dem Fresko – zum Himmel, zu den Göttern emporstreckt. Von den Trägern ist einer auf vielen Urnen (3, 3b–7a, 7c, 8a–9a) und dem Fresko durch einen Pilos als Odysseus erkenntlich. Damit enden aber die Gemeinsamkeiten zwischen Fresko und Urnen schon beinahe. Der Opfernde mit der Phiale ist eine Repertoirefigur der Urnenwerkstätten; mit erhobener Phiale stehen z. B. auch die Priesterin auf den Urnen, die die Gruppe Priesterin–Gefangener verdoppeln (s. unten), und der Mann (Porsenna?), der ein wolfsköpfiges Ungeheuer beschwört (→ Olta, Lit. auch → Hades/Aita, Calu VI b). Auf den I.-Urnen trägt der Opfernde meist einen Panzer (3–3g, 5a–7b, 7d, 10, 12, 16), sonst oft kurzen Chiton und Chlamys, was ebenfalls zu Agamemnon weit eher als zu Kalchas paßt (vgl. zu dieser Tracht auch die attische Kanne → Iphigeneia 1). Eine als trauernder Vater interpretierbare Figur fehlt, mit Ausnahme der chiusinischen Urne 16 (s. unten), in allen Bildern; die Überlegung, daß eher Kalchas als Agamemnon weggelassen werden kann, unterstützt die Deutung des Opfernden als Agamemnon (s. auch, ausführlicher, im Kommentar zu Agamemnon S. 275–276). Auf fast allen Peruginer Urnen sind – in der einfachen fünffigurigen Komposition von 3 rechts und links vor der Mittelgruppe, bei mehrfigurigen Bildern manchmal auch in der oberen Reihe – zwei Frauen in der Tracht etruskischer Dämoninnen anwesend. Eine trägt das Hirschkalb, das anstelle von I. geopfert werden wird, die andere faßt in der sinnvollsten Variante ihrer variierenden Haltung (3) Agamemnon an der Schulter, um ihm Einhalt zu gebieten. Die Hirschkalbträgerin ist auf 5 durch den Köcher als Artumes gekennzeichnet (zu Artemis mit einem Hirschkalb in den Händen vgl. auch → Iphigeneia 1); auf 16 kann sie auf keinen Fall Artumes sein. Auch in der Dämonin der Volterranner Urnen (13–14) wird man kaum Artumes erkennen können (ausführlicher zum Problem Kommentar → Artemis/Artumes S. 791–792).

Eine gewisse Parallele zu dem bereits genannten Fresko aus Pompeji (→ Iphigeneia 38 = Agamemnon 41*) besteht in der Zweizahl der zu Hilfe kommenden Figuren auf den Peruginer Urnen, auch wenn die Frau mit dem Hirsch in dem Fresko anders zu interpretieren ist (1., s. → Artemis/Diana 48).

Von den anderen Figuren, die zu dem Grundschema hinzugefügt werden können, ist eine sicher benennbar: Klytaimestra. Auf Peruginer Urnen (6–7c, 8–12) kniet sie rechts neben Agamemnon und faßt ihn am linken Arm, in dem er das Opferschwert hält; auf Volterranner Urnen (13, 15) stürzt sie von links herbei und wird von zwei Dienern zurückgehal-ten. Auch die Frau mit aufgelösten Haaren in der oberen Reihe einiger Peruginer Urnen (5, 5a, 9, 11), die oft von anderen gestützt wird (5, 5a, 11), muß Klytaimestra sein, ebenfalls die links stehende auf 5b und die zu Boden gesunkene auf der chiusin. Urne 16. Eine Frau mit wehendem Schleier auf 10 wird in Analogie zu einer verwandten Figur, die auf Troilos-Urnen an ähnlicher Stelle erscheint, von Rebuffat als Nyx interpretiert (Rebuffat 517–534, Troilos-Urnen: a. O. Abb. 2, 3a, 4, 5.). Da aber Artumes auf der chiusin. Urne 16 und auf dem pompejanischen Fresko von einem ähnlichen Schleier umgeben ist, besteht kein Anlaß, die frühere Deutung dieser Figur als Artumes aufzugeben; offensichtlich kann der Schleier auch zu Artumes/Diana gehören.

Die figurenreichen Peruginer Urnen, die die Opferszene am stärksten variieren, fügen in der oberen Reihe neben den bereits erwähnten Personen eine ganze Anzahl weiterer Figuren hinzu, die mit verschiedenen Opfergeräten und Musikinstrumenten beim Opfer assistieren; in den griechischen und den von griechischen Vorlagen abhängigen römischen Bildern findet sich nur eine einzige von ihnen, ein junger Mann mit einem Tablett oder Opferkorb, wieder. Alle anderen gehören, wie schon E. Löwy (27–28) erkannt hat, zum üblichen Personal italischer und römischer Opferszenen.

Eine Figur, die mit kleineren Variationen häufig wiederkehrt, ist schwer zu erklären: ein zu Boden gestürzter (4, 6–9, 12), manchmal von anderen festgehaltener (6, 6a, 7c, 8, 12) junger Mann. Als Pendant zur knienden Klytaimestra (auf 6–7b, 8–9, 12) möchte man auch ihn als einen derjenigen interpretieren, die vergeblich das Opfer irgendwie aufzuhalten versuchten, und müßte dann an Achill denken, auch wenn literarisch keine Szene überliefert ist, in der Achill in einer solchen Haltung erscheinen könnte. O. Ribbeck (Die römische Tragödie [1875] 99–102) hat als erster gesehen, daß diese Figur sich manchmal auf einen Stein stützt, und daß einmal (6) ihr gegenüber eine weitere Figur mit einem Stein in der Hand dargestellt ist, und deshalb an die Szene Eur. Iph. A. 1350–1356 gedacht, in der das griechische Heer Achill mit Steinigung droht, wenn er I. verteidige (weitere Diskussion bei Löwy 24). Wenn tatsächlich bei der Figur auf den Urnen die Erinnerung an eine solche Szene mitspielen sollte, dürfte die Darstellung des durch Steinwürfe getroffenen (?) oder jedenfalls am weiteren Eingreifen gehinderter Achilleus eine Erfindung der Etrusker sein; in dieser Form dürfte die Gestalt kaum in einer griechischen Vorlage zu finden sein. Überhaupt hat es wohl keinen Sinn, für alle Gestalten eine direkte Vorlage in der griechischen Bildkunst oder auch eine indirekte in der griechischen Literatur zu suchen. Die Urnen illustrieren die Geschichte der I., wie sie den entwerfenden Etruskern aus einer oder aus mehreren literarischen Fassungen bekannt war; dabei werden sowohl Gestalten der griechischen Bildtradition wie auch Repertoire-Figuren der Urnenwerkstätten verwendet – so entstammt z. B. die über den Altar gehaltene I. dem griechischen, der Opfernde dem einheimischen Bildrepertoire.

Auch die schon mehrfach herangezogene chiusinische Urne (16), die als einzige einen etwas späteren Augenblick, die Entrückung der I., zeigt, bietet eine in sich sinnvoll erklärbare Kombination der Hauptpersonen. Ihre Figuren entnimmt sie allerdings sehr verschiedenen Vorlagen, daraus resultieren einige Mißgriffe bei deren Bekleidung. Die am Boden knienden, mit Gesten des Erschreckens auf das Geschehen reagierenden Gestalten können Klytaimestra und Agamemnon sein. Dann kann freilich der Opfernde nicht I.'s Vater, sondern nur → Kalchas sein; er trägt aber den Panzer, wie in den Peruginer Reliefs, in denen Agamemnon selbst das Opfer vollzieht. Die Figur, die getragen wird, ist wie Artumes mit kurzem Chiton bekleidet, vielleicht verwechselt mit der Tragenden in einer Vorlage? Kriegerfiguren sind zum Auffüllen der Szene verwendet. Wirklich unsinnig sind selbst in einer derart zusammengewürfelten Kombination auf einer Urne geringer Qualität nur einige Details (so etwa der Panzer bei Kalchas, während Agamemnon in Chiton und Mantel auftritt).

Daß die letzten Endes verhinderte Tötung der I. ein geeignetes Thema für die Sepulkralkunst war, ist evident; sie gibt ein Beispiel für ein Weiterleben in einer anderen Sphäre nach dem scheinbaren Tod. Warum das Thema vor allem in Perugia so beliebt war, läßt sich nicht weiter erklären; die Urnenwerkstätten hatten die Szene offensichtlich in einer Art Massenproduktion vorrätig.

Nur in Chiusi wurde dagegen eine zweite I.-Szene dargestellt, die Szene, in der I. in Tauris Pylades einen Brief überreicht und dann Orest als ihren Bruder erkennt (19-23). Daß einige Figuren dieser Szene ähnlich auch für andere Themen, z. B. für den Überfall der Brüder Vibenna auf den Seher Cacus, verwendet wurden (→ Cacus 2-5), hat moderne Interpreten und z. T. auch schon die Urnenbildhauer selbst in Verwirrung gebracht. Durch die schlafende Brinys im Vordergrund, die entlehnt ist aus Darstellungen von Orest in Delphi (→ Brinys 46*, 47, 49, 63), ist die Szene auf der Urne 19 eindeutig auf den Orest-Mythos festgelegt – schlafende Dämonen sind aus keiner anderen Szene bekannt. Auch die Dämonin links mit dem Opfertablett paßt nur in eine Opferszene und nicht zur Gefangennahme des Cacus (zu dieser Deutung s. die im Artikel Cacus zitierten Aufsätze von J. P. Small). Die Nacktheit der Priesterin I. überrascht; vielleicht wurde hier ein I.-Typus aus einer Opferszene wie der der Ciste 1 verwendet. Daß I. gemeint sein muß, wird deutlich durch den Brief, den sie noch in der Hand hält, während rechts – in einer Zusammenziehung mehrerer aufeinanderfolgender Szenen – schon die Gefährten des Orest Pylades von seinen Fesseln lösen. Eine ähnliche Szenenkombination wird auch auf den Urnen 20-21 dargestellt; auf 20 hält Pylades den Brief, auf 21 hat er bereits ein Schwert. I.- und Cacus-Bilder hat der Verfertiger einer Urne in Berlin (→ Cacus 6*) vermischt. In einer anderen Variante der Szene (22) fehlen die ins Heiligtum stürmenden Gefährten; I. ist passender bekleidet; die Binden, die Orest und Pylades im Haar tragen, zeigen an, daß ihnen dasselbe Schicksal bevorsteht wie anderen Opfern, deren Köpfe auf einer Art Altar im Hintergrund liegen. Sehr differenziert ist die Haltung des Orest und des Pylades wiedergegeben. Die Frau rechts muß als eine der Dienerinnen verstanden werden, die I. auch in vielen römischen Darstellungen der Szene begleiten (→ Iphigeneia 52, 53, 58, 61, 67, 83, 85; vgl. auch schon 18-20). Schematischer ist dieselbe Szene auf 23 dargestellt, wo Orest, wenn die alte Zeichnung richtig ist, unsinnigerweise ein Schwert hält. Aus solchen Bildern wurde wohl ein Bildtypus hergeleitet, der einen gefesselten Gefangenen und eine Priesterin mit einer Opferschale und meist auch einem Messer in schematischer Verdoppelung zeigt (Volterranner und chiusinische Urnen: z. B. Brunn/Körte, Relievi II 2, 179-183 Taf. 75-78, 7; Pairault 143-144 Taf. 33, 88, 95-97a; CUE I I Nr. 50, 104, 106, 115, 133; Artigianato, a. O. 19, 61 Nr. 53). In seltenen Fällen sind in diesem Bildtypus noch Details aus dem Orest-Mythos enthalten, etwa wenn der stehende Gefährte des Sitzenden auf der Urne Volterra 208 (Brunn/Körte, Relievi II 2 Taf. 76, 4) ein Schrifttäfelchen hält; da aber sonst nirgends irgendein Hinweis auf eine Unterbrechung des bereits eingeleiteten Opfers zu entdecken ist, kann hier nicht mehr die Orest-Sage gemeint sein. Sowenig wie die Urnen mit der Opferung und Entrückung der I. lassen sich diejenigen, die I. und Orest in Tauris darstellen, auf eine bestimmte griechische Vorlage in Bildkunst oder Literatur zurückführen. Sie gestalten die Szene relativ frei und schmücken sie zuweilen sogar mit Details aus, die aus einem ganz anderen kulturellen Umfeld entlehnt sind; so sind z. B. die abgeschlagenen Köpfe auf 22, die L. Bonfante (I, 148-149; 2, 536-537) aus keltischen Einflüssen herleitet, sehr gut zur Charakterisierung des barbarischen Heiligtums in Tauris geeignet.

INGRID KRAUSKOPF

IPHIKLES

(Ἰφικλῆς, Iphicles) Son of → Amphitryon and → Alkmene, much overshadowed in mythology by his illustrious twin-brother → Herakles and his son → Iolaos, faithful companion and aid to his uncle, Herakles.

One night, before the consummation of her marriage, Zeus came to Alkmene disguised as her husband Amphitryon and begat upon her Herakles; a little while later Amphitryon himself embraced his wife and begat I. As a result Alkmene gave birth to twins. The difference between the two boys was decisively established when as babies they were attacked by serpents, sent either by Hera to destroy Herakles or, according to a rationalizing theory, placed in the cot with the babies by Amphitryon in order to establish which child was his. Herakles, true to his nature, immediately seized and dispatched the monsters (→ Herakles 1598-1664), while I. cried out in terror and tried to flee into his mother's arms.

Little is recorded of I.'s later life. He married Automedusa, who bore him Iolaos, and was later given the younger daughter of Kreon to wife. He is occasionally included in great heroic group expeditions such as the voyage of the Argonauts (→ Argonautai) and the hunt of the Kalydonian boar (→ Meleagros), but is by no means always thought of as a member of the party. He died assisting his brother Herakles in one of his wars, either fighting the sons of Hippokoon or fighting Augeas and the Eleans.

LITERARY SOURCES: Hes. sc. 37-56, 87-94 is our earliest extant source to mention I. He tells how Zeus and Amphitryon both shared the bed of Alkmene on the same night and how she brought forth the twins, Herakles and I., the first the son of Zeus, the second that of Amphitryon, as unlike in spirit and strength as they were in paternity. He further mentions that I. was the father of Iolaos and that I. left home and parents to serve the wicked Eurystheus, a course he later regretted.

Pherekydes (FGH 3 F 13 b-c) agrees with Hes. sc. 37-56 that Amphitryon embraced Alkmene on the same night as Zeus, but Theokr. 24 and Apollod. bibl. 2, 4, 8 consider Herakles the elder by a night. Pind. P. 9, 84-89 simply refers to the «single birth» of the twins that Alkmene bore.

Many authors (→ Herakles, LIMCIV pp. 827-828) tell of Herakles' infant feat of strangling the snakes sent to destroy him by Hera without mentioning I. at all; when he is mentioned it is to contrast his mortal parentage and understandable terror with the heroic initiative taken by Herakles, as in Theokr. 24, Apollod. bibl. 2, 4, 8 and Plaut. Amph. 1098-1124.

According to Pherekydes (FGH 3 F 69), who appears to be the earliest extant source to mention I. in this episode, the snakes were not sent by Hera at all, but used by Amphitryon as a trial to distinguish his child from the child of Zeus.

Only Apollod. bibl. 1, 8, 2 mentions I.'s participation in the hunt of the Kalydonian boar (Ov. met. 8, 299 ff. and Hyg. fab. 173 include Iolaos, not I.). Diod. (4, 49, 3) is alone in mentioning I. among the Argonauts when he is sent by Herakles to make demands of Laomedon in Troy in the course of the homeward voyage.

Apollod. bibl. 2, 4, 11 recounts that after the defeat of the Minyans, Kreon gave his elder daughter as a wife to Herakles and his younger daughter to I., who already had a son, Iolaos, by Automedusa, daughter of Alkathoos.

As to his end, Apollod. bibl. 2, 7, 3 and Diod. 4, 33, 6 say that I. died fighting in Herakles' war against the sons of Hippokoon, but Paus. 8, 14, 9 says he died in Pheneus fighting Augeas and the Eleans. (Diod. 4, 33, 2 mentions his leaving Tiryns with Herakles, Alkmene and Iolaos to live in Pheneus).

BIBLIOGRAPHY: Conticello, B., EAAIV (1961) 92-93 s. v. «Iphicles»; Kroll, W., RE IX 2 (1916) 2018 s. v. «Iphikles»; Stoll, H. W., ML II 1 (1890-94) 305 s. v. «Iphikles»; Woodford, S., «The Iconography of the infant Herakles strangling snakes», in ICG (Rouen) 121-129.

CATALOGUE

I. Iphikles, frightened, accompanies infant Herakles strangling snakes

a) Iphikles and Herakles alone or with Alkmene only

Coins

1. (= Herakles 1663* with bibl.) EL stater, Kyzikos. - 450-400 B. C. - Baby I. kneels to r., reaches out to r., imploring help. Herakles, kneels to l., strangling snakes.

2. (= Herakles 1664* with bibl.) AE, contorniate, 4th cent. A. D. - Baby I. (?) in the arms of a woman (Alkmene?) at r., moving r., while infant Herakles kneels to l., strangling snakes.

b) Iphikles with infant Herakles strangling snakes and several others

Attic cf. vases

3. (= Alkmene 8* with bibl., = Athena 522, = Herakles 1650) Stamnos. Paris, Louvre G 192. - ARV<sup>2</sup> 208, 160: Berlin P.; Add<sup>2</sup> 195; Woodford fig. 1. - About 480 B. C. - Two babies on kline, I. to r., back view, rushing into the arms of a woman (Alkmene), looking back to l. at Herakles, strangling snakes. Far r., man with hand raised (Amphitryon); l. Athena and a woman with hand raised, matching Amphitryon.

4. (= Alkmene 9 with bibl., = Herakles 1651*) Column crater. Perugia, Mus. Naz. 73. - ARV<sup>2</sup> 516: near Mykonos P.; Woodford fig. 2. - About 475 B. C. - Two babies on kline, I. to r., back view, reaching to r., looking back to l. at Herakles, strangling snakes. At r., woman fleeing (Alkmene); at l. Athena and Amphitryon.

5.* (= Alkmene 10 with bibl., = Herakles 1652) Cup fr., wg. tondo. Leipzig, Univ. T 3365. - ARV<sup>2</sup> 559, 151: Pan P. - About 470 B. C. - I., apparently front view, to r. of Herakles, strangling snakes. Woman fleeing to r. (Alkmene?); another to l.; far l., a man (Amphitryon?). Possibly Athena to l. of babies.

6.* (= Alkmene 11* with bibl., = Herakles 1653 with bibl.) Hydria. New York, MMA 25.28. From Capua. - ARV<sup>2</sup> 1110, 41: Nausikaa P.; Woodford fig. 3. - 460-450 B. C. - Babies on kline, Athena behind them. I., front view, reaching to r., looking to r. toward woman (Alkmene) fleeing r. Herakles, to l. of I., strangling snakes. Far l., Amphitryon approaches with drawn sword.

Etruscan cf. vases

7.* (Alkmene 12, = Herakles/Heracle 152 with bibl.) Stamnos. Florence, Mus. Arch. 70528. - From Orvieto. - EVP 52 pl. 10, 1: Settecimini P.; de Simone, Entlehnungen 66 (1); Woodford fig. 5. - 4th cent. B. C. - I. (by mistake inscribed Vile = Iolaos) l. of centre, standing, rushes into the arms of Alkmene, far l., looking fearfully back at the snakes, one of whom, Herakles, kneeling to r. is dispatching. Far r., maid-servant. Above, in window, Zeus and Hera.

8. (= Apollon/Aplu 51* with further refs., = Heracles 152a) Volute krater, Faliscan. London, BM F 479. From Falerii. - EVP 92-94 pl. 21, 1; 22, 1: Nazzano P. - About 380 B. C. - I. centre, r., below, hands raised toward a nurse above him to r., while he looks fearfully back at the snakes, one of which Herakles, below, is strangling. Far l., Artemis and Hermes, far r. Athena. Above, l. to r. Hera and Zeus, flanked by flying Eros, Apollo, nurse, reaching down toward I., and Dionysus.

Roman Wall Paintings

9. (= Alkmene 14 with bibl., = Herakles 1655) Pompei VII, 3, 10. Lost. - Schefold, WP 176; OeJh 16, 1913, 170 fig. 87; Woodford fig. 12. - 1st cent. A. D. - Herakles, centre foreground, on the floor, strangling snakes. At r., woman rushing to r., looking back to l., holding baby I., who looks and reaches to l. Centre, seated man on throne (Amphitryon?); at l., Athena, standing calmly.

Iphikles 9

10. (Alkmene 16* with bibl., = Herakles 1657) Naples, Mus. Naz. 9012. From Herculaneum. - Woodford fig. 13. - About 70 A. D. - Herakles, centre foreground, on the floor, strangling snakes. At l. paidagogos, holding I., back view, legs to l., but head turned r. to look at Herakles. Centre, behind Herakles, a woman (Alkmene), fleeing r.; at r., a man on a throne drawing his sword (Amphitryon).

II. Iphikles and Linos

Attic rf. vase

11. (= Herakles 1666* with bibl.) Skyphos. Schwerin, Staatl. Mus. 708. From Cerveteri. - ARV<sup>2</sup>

862, 30: Pistoxenos P.; Add<sup>2</sup> 298. - About 470 B. C. - I. seated on a stool to r. playing the lyre and attending to the instruction offered by Linos, seated on a klismos to l. Both names are inscribed.

COMMENTARY

Although Iphikles apparently participated in heroic exploits during his later life, his appearances in art are restricted to his childhood, normally in company with his more celebrated twin brother Herakles and in a very subordinate role. Thus, his fear of the snakes which Hera sent to attack Herakles in babyhood helps to identify (by contrast) the heroic son of Zeus, who wastes no time crying and fleeing into his mother's arms but sets about strangling the intrusive monsters without hesitation. Similarly I. appears as the docile student of music attentively listening to Linos, while Herakles is shown approaching, round eye fiercely glowing, ready to teach the teacher a lesson he will not be able to forget.

The earliest extant representation of I. in the company of the infant Herakles strangling snakes is on the vase by the Berlin Painter in the 1st quarter of the 5th cent. B. C. (3), and is followed quickly by a number of other Attic vase paintings (4-5, 6). (I. also appears early with his illustrious brother strangling snakes on an electrum coin from Kyzikos, 2nd half of 5th cent. [1].) I. is present in two Etruscan vase paintings of the 4th cent. B. C. depicting the same subject (7, 8). He is also included in some (though not all) many-figured scenes on Roman wall paintings of the 1st cent. A. D. depicting the infant Herakles strangling snakes (9, 10), and seems to make his last extant appearance in this context on a 4th cent. A. D. contorniate (2).

One other event from his childhood is portrayed in Attic vase painting around 470 B. C., his music lesson at the hands of Linos (11). Here again I. is a foil to Herakles. He is the docile, good pupil, who provides the contrast with Herakles, whose very different approach to his master is yet to come (→ Herakles 1666-1673).

In art as in literature and myth, I. is a minor character, subordinate to his greater twin-brother. There do not appear to be any extant three-dimensional representations of him. Perhaps the only iconographical peculiarity to be noticed is the fact that he is often (though not always) represented in back view, looking behind him (3, 4, 10).

SUSAN WOODFORD

IPHIKLOS → Peliou athla

IPHIMEDE I → Iphimedeia

IPHIMEDE II → Iphigeneia

IPHIMEDEIA

(Ἰφιμέδεια) appelée aussi Iphimédé (Ἰφιμέδη). Fille de Triops et femme d'Aloée (Alôeus), mère des Aloades (→ Aloadaï) Otos et Éphialtès, et d'une fille, Pancratis.

SOURCES LITTÉRAIRES: Une tablette de Pylos PY 172 = Tn 316 mentionne une i-pe-me-de-ja en tant que titulaire d'un sanctuaire. Selon Ventris/Chadwick, il pourrait s'agir d'une divinité préégrecque dont le nom aurait été modifié par l'étymologie populaire. Cf. Ventris, M./Chadwick, J., Documents in Mycenaean Greek<sup>2</sup> (1973) 286-288, 462-464. Son identification à I. n'est pas assurée; → Iphigeneia, Sources litt. (avec bibl.).

Hom. Od. 11, 305-320, dans l'épisode de la nekyomanteia, évoque I. et ses amours avec → Poseidon, dont elle eut deux fils, Otos et Éphialtès, les Aloades, au destin tragique. Cf. Simon, E., → Aloadaï, Lit. Quellen.

L'union d'I. avec le dieu se réalisa de la manière suivante: amoureuse, I. alla souvent dans la mer, versant de l'eau dans son sein tant et si bien que Poséidon finit par exaucer ses vœux. Otos et Éphialtès n'auraient donc eu en Aloée qu'un père «humain», voire même en I. seulement une mère nourricière (Hes. frg. 19 Merkelbach/West; Eratosth., FGH 241 F 35). Pour les autres traditions de paternité des Aloades, cf. Simon, ibidem.

I. eut d'Aloée une fille, Pancratis, laquelle fut enlevée avec sa mère par des pirates thraces établis sur l'île de Strongylé (Naxos), alors qu'elles célébraient les fêtes de → Dionysos en Achaïe sur le mont Dios ou, selon d'autres sources, en Thessalie. Leurs ravisseurs Sikélos et Hékétoros (nommés Skellis et Agassaménos chez Parth. 19 = Andriskos, FGH 500 F 2, texte corrompu) se battirent pour obtenir Pancratis, dont la beauté était exceptionnelle, et finirent par s'entretenir. Agassaménos, le roi des Thraces de Naxos, s'appropriera alors Pancratis et attribua I. à l'un de ses amis (Diod. 5, 50, 6-7).

Aloée dépêcha ses deux fils Otos et Éphialtès à Naxos avec pour mission de libérer leur mère et leur sœur: ils battirent les Thraces, les expulsèrent de Naxos et régnèrent sur l'île, avant de mourir tragiquement (Pind. P. 4, 88-89; Diod. 5, 51, 1-2; Schol. Hom. Il. 5, 385b Erbse; Hyg. fab. 28). On montrait encore la tombe d'I. et des Aloades à Anthédon à l'époque de Pausanias (Paus. 9, 22, 6).

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Conticello, B., EAA IV (1961) 179 s. v. «Iphimedeia»; Eitrem, S., RE IX 2 (1916) 2022-2023 s. v. «Iphimedeia»; Stoll, H. W., ML II 1 (1890-94) 308-309 s. v. «Iphimedeia».

1. Peinture murale (disparue) représentant la Nekyia. Delphes, Lesché des Cnidiens. Œuvre de Polygnote de Thasos. - Robert, C., Die Nekyia des Polygnote, 16. HallWPr (1892) 8. 23. 31. 62; Weizsäcker, P., Polygnots Gemälde in der Lesche der Knidier in Delphi (1895) 38. 61; Felten, W., Attische Unterweltdarstellungen des 6. und 5. Jh. v. Chr. (1975) 76; Papachatzis, Paus. Boiotika, Phokika 144 n. 2; 406 n. 2. - 2<sup>e</sup> quart du V<sup>e</sup> s. av. J.-C.

- Selon Paus. 10, 28, 8, non loin d'→ Eurynomos se trouvaient figurées ensemble → Auge et I., laquelle ne fait l'objet d'aucune description.

JEAN-ROBERT GISLER

IPHIS

(Ἴφης) Achilleussklavin und Geliebte des Patroklos.

LITERARISCHE QUELLEN: Achilleus hatte in Skyros I. als Sklavin erbeutet und sie seinem Freund Patroklos zur Geliebten gegeben. Als die Presbeia Achill verläßt, ruht er im Zelt mit → Diomedes, während ihm gegenüber Patroklos mit I. liegt (Hom. Il. 9, 666-668). Sonst ist I. nur bei Philostr. her. 33, 43 Lannoy genannt.

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Conticello, B., EAA IV (1961) 179 s. v. «Iphis»; Stoll, H. W., ML II 1 (1890-94) 310 s. v. «Iphis 2»; Weicker, G., RE IX 2 (1916) 2024-2025 s. v. «Iphis 2 Nr. 1».

KATALOG

1. (= Briseis 53, = Diomedes 1). Iliupersisgemälde des Polygnote. Delphi, Lesche der Knidier. Nicht erhalten. - Um 460 v. Chr. - Paus. 10, 25, 4 beschreibt, daß I. (Namensbeischrift) vor den beiden anderen Achilleussklavinnen → Briseis und → Diomedes stand und mit diesen gemeinsam die Schönheit der Helena bei der Einschiffung der Griechen nach der Zerstörung Trojas bewunderte.

MÖGLICHE DARSTELLUNG

2. (= Achilleus 446* mit Lit.) Pelike, fr., att. rf. Paris, Louvre G 374. - Isler-Kerényi, C., AntK 26, 1983, 131 und passim Taf. 31.- Gesandtschaft an Achill. Hinter dem sitzenden zürnenden Achill stehen zwei Frauen (Köpfe und Teile der Oberkörper nicht erhalten, früher ergänzt), für die Robert, C., AZ 1881, 141 die Benennung I. und Diomedes vorschlägt. Meist werden in den Presbeiabildern keine Frauen dargestellt. Die Deutung auf diese beiden Achilleussklavinnen wäre möglich, da beide bei Hom. Il. 9, 665. 667 nach dem Weggang der Presbeia im Zelt des Achill anwesend waren, was dann hier zu einem Bild vereint wäre.

AUSZUSCHIEDENDE DARSTELLUNG

3. (= Achilleus 487/603 mit Lit. und Beschreibung, = Briseis 20, = Hektor 72*) Volutenkrater, apul. rf. Neapel, Mus. Naz. 81393 (H 3254). Aus Canosa. - RVAp II 495, 39: Dareiosmaler. - Um 340/30 v. Chr. - Scheiterhaufen des Patroklos mit Schleifung des Hektor und Opferung der Trojaner. Für die junge Frau in der untersten Zone, die aus einer Hydria Wasser in ein Becken gießt, schlägt Heydemann im Neapler Vasenkatalog die Benennung I. vor, doch wies bereits Hauser in FR II 159 darauf hin, daß es unnötig sei, diesem Mädchen und seiner Gefährtin Namen zu geben. Da viele Namen in Frage kämen, scheint mir jegliche Benennung hypothetisch.

KOMMENTAR

Gesichert ist die Darstellung der Patroklosgeliebten nur auf dem Wandgemälde 1 aufgrund der Beischrift. Auf 2 ist ihre Wiedergabe möglich, auf 3 sehr unsicher. I. wurde in der antiken Literatur nur selten genannt und ist wohl auch – wie Diomedes – deshalb kaum in der Bildkunst dargestellt worden. Als Achilleussklavin spielt vielmehr Briseis die größere Rolle. Zwar wäre die Anwesenheit der I. in Szenen mit Achilleus und Patroklos möglich, doch ließe sie sich dann mangels einer eigenen Ikonographie kaum benennen. So könnte man erwägen, ob die mit Achilleus am Totenbett des Patroklos trauernde Frau (→ Briseis 13–18) I. ist. Doch ist die Trauer um Patroklos auch für Briseis belegt (Hom. Il. 19, 282–301).

ANNELIESE KOSSATZ-DEISSMANN

IPHITO → Amazonas 5. 20

IPHITOS I

(Ἰπίτος, Ἰφίτος [I. 9]) Sohn des → Eurytos (I), des Königs von Oichalia, und der Antioche oder Antiope, und Bruder des → Deion, → Klytios, → Toxeus und der → Iole (I). Mit Klytios nahm er an der Argonautenfahrt teil. Er war ein berühmter Bogenschütze. Den Bogen Apollons erbte er von seinem Vater Eurytos und machte ihn seinerseits dem Odysseus zum Geschenk. Nach einer Version starb er durch die Hand Herakles', während er als Gast bei diesem in Tiryns weilte. Eine andere Version bringt seinen Tod in Verbindung mit der Einnahme von Oichalia durch Herakles, nachdem dieser mit Eurytos und seinen Söhnen einen Wettstreit im Bogenschießen ausgetragen und als Preis Iole erhalten hatte.

LITERARISCHE QUELLEN: Über die verschiedenen Lokalisationen von Oichalia und die unterschiedlichen Überlieferungen von Anzahl und Namen der Brüder des I. siehe → Eurytos (I). Über den Mythos der Einnahme von Oichalia, das dem Kreophylos von Samos zugeschriebene Epos Οἰχάλιας ἄλωσις vgl. ebenfalls → Iole (I) (die Fragmente in Davies EGF p.

149–153; Bernabé PEG p. 161–164). I. war ein berühmter Bogenschütze; den Bogen hatte er von seinem Vater geerbt, welcher ihn von Apollon erhalten hatte. I. wiederum machte Bogen und Köcher dem Odysseus zum Geschenk (Hom. Od. 21, 11–14). Die Version vom Tod des I., welche Od. 21, 24–30 berichtet, ist, trotz der Vermutung Furtwänglers (a. O. 10), in der Ikonographie nicht belegt, sowenig wie andere Versionen seines Todes. Soph. Trach. 269–280; Diod. 4, 31, 2–3; Apollod. bibl. 2, 6, 2 berichten in mehreren Varianten, daß I., auf der Suche nach der von Autolykos geraubten Herde seines Vaters, von Herakles von der Mauer der Burg Tiryns gestoßen wurde (vgl. Robert, Heldensage 2, 586). Herodotos von Herakleia, FGrH 31 F 37, und Pherekydes von Athen, FGrH 3 F 82, zwei mit den attischen Darstellungen des Mythos (3–7) nahezu gleichzeitige Autoren, berichten dagegen, daß die Rache des Herakles unmittelbar auf die Ablehnung des Eurytos, ihm seine Tochter nach dem siegreichen Bogenschießen zu überlassen, folgte, und er alle Söhne des Eurytos, einschließlich I., tötete, was die Erzählung sehr nah an die erwähnten attischen Darstellungen rückt. Das Thema enthält in seiner Synthese den zentralen Kern der Οἰχάλιας Ἀλώσις des Kreophylos von Samos. Daß Iole sich während des Banketts in Herakles verliebte, dürfte Teil des ursprünglichen Mythos gewesen sein, aber es sind keine so frühen literarischen Hinweise erhalten wie die Darstellungen. Die Hybris, welche aus dem Trinkgelage entsteht, wird von Autoren des 5. Jh. nahegelegt, sowie durch die oben erwähnten Abbildungen: Soph. Trach. 268–269 berichtet, wie Eurytos den vom Wein betrunkenen Herakles (φρονιμένος) vom Bankett verweist (s. 2); Ion von Chios, Tragödiendichter in Athen, erzählt in seinen Eurytidai (TrGF I<sup>2</sup> 19 F 10) vom maßlosen Genuß des Weines (οἶνον ὑπερφιάλον) (vgl. das Bankett auf 1).

Nur einige viel spätere Texte als die erhalten gebliebene Darstellung 8 berichten von der Teilnahme des I., zusammen mit seinem Bruder → Klytios, an der Argonautenfahrt (Apoll. Rhod. 1, 86–89; Hyg. fab. 14, 8). Für seine Teilnahme an den Leichenspielen für Pelias (→ Peliou athla) gibt es keine lit. Zeugnisse; bei Stesich. (Page PMG fig. 179b) und Simonides (a. O. fig. 564) siegt → Meleagros mit dem Wurfspeer, also in der Disziplin, an der nach dem ikonographischen Zeugnis 8 auch I. teilnahm. S. auch Komm.

Für die Etymologie von I. als **Ἰφίτι-τιμος*, «der für seine Kraft Berühmte», vgl. Neumann, Anh. zu Olmos, 148–149 (nach Athanassakis A., Glotta 49, 1971, 1–20 könnte das homerische Epitheton ἰφθίμος gleichen Ursprungs sein). Vgl. Komm. zu 9.

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Für eine umfassendere Bibl. → Eurytos I; Beazley, J. D., «Brygan Symposia», in Studies Robinson II (1953) 66–82; Furtwängler, A., ML 12 (1886–90) 2233–2234 s. v. «Herakles»; Isler-Kerényi, C., Stamnoi (1976–77) 36–42; Olmos, R., «Die Einnahme von Oichalia», MM 18, 1977, 130–147, mit einem epigraphischen Anhang von G. Neumann, 148–150; Richter, G. M. A., «A new Euphronios Cylix in the Metropolitan Museum of Art», AJA 20, 1916, 125 ff.; Robert, Heldensage 2, 579–581; Schefold, SB II 148–150; Weniger L., ML II 1 (1890–94) 310–314 s. v. «Iphitos 2».

KATALOG

A. Iphitos in der Episode der Einnahme von Oichalia

1. (= Deion 1*, = Eurytos I 1*, = Iole I I mit Lit.) Kolonettenkrater, korinth. Paris, Louvre E 635. Aus Cerveteri. – Frühkorinthisch: 600–590 v. Chr. – Bankett, von Eurytos und seinen Söhnen zu Ehren des Herakles veranstaltet. I. befindet sich, zurückgelehnt auf einer Kline, neben Herakles. Zwischen beiden schreitet Iole.

2.* (= Bousiris 3I [B], = Herakles 2794 [B]) Schale, att. rf. New York, MMA 12.231.2. – ARV<sup>2</sup> 319, 6: Onesimos, «early», Töpfer Euphronios; Add<sup>2</sup> 214; Richter 125–133; Richter/Hall Nr. 39 Taf. 38; Olmos Taf. 35c. – 500–485 v. Chr. – A: Der Streit des Herakles mit dem Eurytiden während des Banketts. Herakles versetzt Klytios, einem der Söhne des Eurytos, einen Faustschlag; dieser taumelt, bevor er zu Boden fällt. Drei Gefährten eilen ihm zu Hilfe, einer von ihnen mit Pantherfell und Keule; ein zweiter, mit einem Bogen in der r. Hand – vielleicht will er ihn außer Reichweite des Herakles bringen – ist I. (Beischr. ΙΦΙΤΙ.). Da es sich um eine fr. Figur handelt, wissen wir nicht mit Sicherheit, ob er den l. Arm ausstreckt, um den Helden zurückzuhalten (zur Haltung vgl. 7). Der dritte nimmt, ebenso wie Herakles, die Stellung für einen Faustkampf ein. Über den Kline und auf dem Boden liegen die Umhänge der Banketteilnehmer.

3.* (= Antiphonos 1* mit Lit. = Eurytos I 3, = Iole I 2) Amphora, att. sf. Madrid, Arch. Mus. 10916. Von Vulci. – ABV 508: nahe dem Sapphomaler; Add<sup>2</sup> 126; Olmos 134–137. – Etwa 500–490 v. Chr. – In der gleichen Szene der Streit um Ioles Hand und die Rache des Herakles, indem er die Eurytiden tötet. Es ist schwierig zu entscheiden, auf welchen der beiden Kämpfer, die Herakles' Pfeile niedergestreckt haben, sich der zwischen ihnen geschriebene Name ΙΦΙΤΟΣ bezieht. Wahrscheinlich gehört er zum l. Krieger, zu Füßen des Herakles, da der Name näher von dessen Gesicht ausgeht (contra: Neumann, Anhang zu Olmos 148–149). Dieser Held hat langes Haar und einen markanten Bart. Er ist als griechischer Krieger gekleidet, trägt aber als Waffe Bogen und Gorytos, der an seiner Seite hängt. Der Gefährte, zur Rechten liegend, welcher letztlich auch I. sein könnte, trägt eine phrygische Mütze und ist mit einem Schwert gegürtet.

4. (= Eurytos I 4 mit Lit., = Iole I 3) Schale, fr., att. rf. Palermo, Mus. Reg. V 653. Aus Chiusi. – ARV<sup>2</sup> 73, 30; 1623; Epiktetos; Add<sup>2</sup> 168. – Ungefähr 510–500 v. Chr. – A, Bewegungsrichtung umgekehrt wie jene auf 3: I. befindet sich Iole, r. Herakles, einen Pfeil schießend. Die Eurytiden, den Kopf zu Iole gewandt, laufen nach r., Pfeil und Bogen in den Händen bereit haltend. Möglicherweise blicken sie mit Erstaunen zur Zielscheibe neben Iole, wo Herakles' Pfeil steckt, wie in 3, 5 und 7. Eurytos geht vor ihnen her und stellt sich vor Herakles. Einer von ihnen ist I., auf keine besondere Art charakterisiert (langer Bart und Haupthaar, außer dem ersten Bogenschützen bedeckt mit Sakkos, und langer Chiton, mit einem Raubtierfell gegürtet).

5. (= Eurytos I 2*/5* mit Lit., = Iole I 4) Schale, fr., att. rf. Athen, Nat. Mus. Akkr. 288. Von der Athener Akropolis. – ARV<sup>2</sup> 370, 7: Brygosmaler; Add<sup>2</sup> 224. – 490–480 v. Chr. – A: Eurytos und seine Söhne laufen nach l. und wenden, wie auf 4, ihre Köpfe zu Iole. Bei Ioles Kopf befindet sich ein Pfeil. Ein Sohn des Eurytos liegt auf dem Boden von Herakles, zwei weitere laufen wahrscheinlich hinter Eurytos, mit Bogen, Pfeilen und Gorytos. Sie sind mit einem feinen Chiton bekleidet, Bart und Haare sind lang, und sie tragen die Gürtel der Banketteilnehmer. I. ist einer von ihnen, aber nicht gekennzeichnet.

6. (= Eurytos I 6) Schale, fr., att. rf. Paris, Cab. Méd. L 243, L 46, L 48, 600. – ARV<sup>2</sup> 370, 8: Brygosmaler; Beazley 73 ff. Taf. 28. – Sehr fragmentarischer Zustand; die Szene steht in Bezug zu jenen auf 3–5. Es ist schwierig, hier die Figur von I. zu erkennen.

7. (= Eurytos I 7* mit Lit., = Iole I 5) Isler-Kerényi 36–42 Abb.: Eucharidesmaler. – 490–480 v. Chr. – Die Szene ist auf beide Seiten der Vase verteilt. A: l. Herakles, im Begriffe in Richtung Iole zu schießen. Dahinter ein Kämpfer mit phrygischer Mütze, Chiton mit feinen Falten, mit langem Bart und Bogen, sich vor Herakles stellend; er versucht mit dem ausgestreckten r. Arm zu verhindern, daß der Held ein zweites Mal schießt; es könnte sich hierbei um I. handeln (s. Komm.). Eurytos wendet seinen Kopf zu Iole. B: drei Bogenschützen im Tumult.

B. Iphitos nimmt an den Spielen zu Ehren des Pelias teil

8.* (= Amphiaraios 2* mit Lit., = Atalante 62 mit Lit., = Kapaneus 6 mit Lit.) Dinos, fr., att. sf. – Athen, Nat. Mus. Akkr. 590 (15466). Von der Athener Akropolis. – 575–560 v. Chr. – In einem durchgehenden Fries verschiedene Szenen der Leichenspiele für Pelias, von denen u. a. ein Teil des Wettkampfs im Speerwurf erhalten ist. Ein Held (fr.) schickt sich an, den Speer zu werfen. Dahinter machen sich zwei nackte und bärtige Männer bereit, jeder mit zwei kurzen Lanzen. Aufmerksam verfolgen sie den Wurf ihres Gefährten und gestikulieren mit der Hand. Einer der beiden, möglicherweise derjenige vor dem Betrachter, in roter Fleischfarbe, ist I. (Beischr. ΙΦΙΤΟΣ). Vor ihnen ein Lebes als Siegespreis; weitere Teilnehmer mit Speeren stehen hinter ihnen.

C. «Iphitos» in einem heroischen Kampf

9.* (= Daipylos 1 mit Lit.) Kolonettenkrater, fr., kor. sf. – Leipzig, Univ. T 4849, verschollen. Aus Cerveteri. – Lorber, Inchriften Nr. 147 Taf. 44. – Heldenkämpfe mit Namensbeischriften: eine Quadriga und drei Hoplitenpaare in Monomachien. In einem der Einzelkämpfe stehen sich Eurytion (Beischr. EY-PYTION) und I. (Beischr. ΙΦΙΤΟΣ) gegenüber. Nach l. durchbohrt Eurytion mit der Lanze den geschuppten

Schild von I., der sich mit einem Knie auf den Boden stützt. Hinter I. erkennt man Reste einer Quadriga. Die Namen beider Kämpfer sind rein episch und werden hier als Topos verwendet, der heroischen Resonanz beider Persönlichkeiten wegen, d. h. sie sind bereits losgelöst von den mythischen Figuren Eurytos und I., Vater und Sohn, von Oichalia. Siehe Komm.

D. Falsche Zuordnung: nicht Iphitos

10. (= Ismene I 6* mit Lit.) Schale, rf. wgr. Paris, Louvre G 109. – Furtwängler, A., ML I 2 (1886–90) 2233 s. v. «Herakles»; Pottier, MonPiot 2, 1895, 52 Abb. 3; Waiblinger, A., RA 1972, 233–242 Abb. 1–4. 9. – Nahe Onesimos, 490–480 (Waiblinger). – Entgegen der früheren Interpretation Furtwänglers, der in der Szene den Angriff des Herakles auf den in einer Liege zurückgelehnten I. sah, als dieser Gast des Helden war, basierend auf der Inschrift HEP und Hom. Od. 21, 21–30, deutet Waiblinger das Thema als den Tod von Ismene durch Tydeus. Bei der zurückgelehnten Figur in der Liege handelt es sich, wenn auch nur fragmentarisch erkennbar, in der Tat um eine Frau. Es kann deshalb nicht I. sein.

KOMMENTAR

Die bekannten Darstellungen von I. entstehen vor allem in der archaischen Zeit. Die wichtigste Gruppe von ihnen zeigt Episoden der Einnahme von Oichalia durch Herakles. Auf I. nimmt I. am Bankett teil, das sein Vater Eurytos in Oichalia zu Ehren des Herakles gibt (→ Eurytos I, → Iole I). I. hat sich allein auf einem prachtvollen Liegebett zurückgelehnt, als seine Schwester Iole die Szene betritt. Zu seiner Rechten, am Ende des Raums, befindet sich Herakles. Im Verhältnis zu Eurytos, seinem Gastgeber, der im Zentrum der Szene zurückgelehnt sitzt, nimmt Herakles offenbar eine für einen Gast unangemessene Randposition ein. Dies kann als Hinweis auf die Geringschätzung, mit der er vom König behandelt wurde, und auf die latente Spannung im Saal verstanden werden. Die Schale des Onesimos (2) zeigt die Hybris bei dem Streit, der während eines Banketts zwischen Herakles und den Eurytiden entfesselt wurde: erhalten sind nur die Namen des I. und seines Bruders Klytios, zu beiden Seiten der Helden. I. hält einen Bogen in seiner Rechten, wohl kaum, um ihn damit anzugreifen, möglicherweise, um jenen außer Reichweite des wütenden Herakles zu halten. Einige zeitlich nach diesen Darstellungen verfaßte Texte, wie Soph. Trach. 268–269 oder ein Vers des Tragödiendichters Ion von Chios, weisen auf die Maßlosigkeit der Tischgenossen beim Genuß des Weines hin. Auf der Innenseite dieser Schale des Onesimos begibt sich Herakles zum Bankett, begleitet von einem pais mit großem Weinschlauch: die Beziehung des Weines zu dem Streit kann vielleicht in der assoziativen Aufeinanderfolge beider Bilder nachempfunden werden.

Eine Gruppe von fünf Darstellungen auf attischen

Vasen (3–7), die in einem Zeitraum von etwa dreißig Jahren entstanden (ca. 510–480 v. Chr.), läßt das heroische Thema in Athen wiederaufleben. Alle haben den gewalttätigen Wettstreit des Herakles beim Bogenschießen um Iole, der im Palast des Eurytos stattfand, zum Inhalt, und die tödliche Rache des Helden an den Eurytiden (→ Eurytos I). Wahrscheinlich gibt es eine Beziehung zwischen dem Bankett, in welchem die Ursache oder Vorbedingung der Hybris liegt (s. dazu lit. Quellen und → Eurytos I, Komm.), und deren Ausgang in dem Kampf mit dem Bogen: einerseits finden wir den Streit in dem Bankettsaal auf der Schale des Onesimos (2), aber vor allem die noch deutlicheren Hinweise auf der Schale des Brygosmalers in Athen (5) sind es, die diese Assoziation zulassen; im Medaillon wird die gespannte Atmosphäre zwischen Herakles und dem liegenden Eurytos vermittelt (vgl. → Eurytos I 2*). Auf der Außenseite derselben Schale trägt einer der Bogenschützen noch die Bänder des Banketts um den Kopf gewickelt. Auf der andern Schale des Brygosmalers (6), die nur sehr fragmentarisch erhalten ist, findet der Wettstreit im selben Palastgebäude des Eurytos statt, vielleicht sogar im gleichen Bankettsaal, worauf der Schaft einer Säule schließen läßt.

Es ist wahrscheinlich, daß hier der griechische Mythos den historischen Hintergrund zum Ausdruck bringt, die Konfrontation zwischen Griechenland und dem Orient: Herakles kämpft mit Helden, die, obwohl in der mythologischen Tradition eindeutig von griechischer Herkunft (über die Lokalisierung von Oichalia vgl. → Eurytos I, lit. Quellen), durch einige Merkmale und Wesenszüge als Barbaren charakterisiert sind. So respektieren sie nicht die Gesetze der Gastfreundschaft, geben sich widerstandslos der Hybris hin und trinken im Übermaß; Aussehen und Tracht sind halb orientalisches und barbarisch, und sie sind, ebenso wie Skythen und Orientalen, Experten im Kampf mit dem Bogen, was sie in Gegensatz zum hoplitischen Ideal der archaischen Aristokratie stellt. Eine Palme (auf 5) deutet sogar auf eine exotische Landschaft hin. Entgegen dem heroischen Einzelkampf, der Monomachia, widersetzen sich die Eurytiden Herakles auf diesen Schalen in einer tumultartigen Szene. I. wird zwischen ihnen kaum hervorgehoben (2, 7), er erscheint nur als einer in der Gruppe der Bogenschützen (3–5) (vgl. unten). Es ist sicher kein Zufall, daß der Mythos seinen Höhepunkt genau in den Jahren erfährt, in welchen einerseits die Abbildungen skythischer Bogenschützen sich in Attika großer Beliebtheit erfreuten (mit der dem Gebrauch des Bogens innewohnenden Ideologie), und zum anderen die persische Bedrohung herrschte. Paradoxerweise dienten diese Bilder des griechischen Mythos dazu, die griechische Identität – Herakles – gegenüber der unbestimmten barbarischen und exotischen – Eurytiden – abzuheben.

Die Szene der Hybris, welche zwei aufeinanderfolgende Momente der Sage, den Wettstreit und die Rache, zu einem einzigen Bild verschmilzt, ist eindeutig auf 3 dargestellt, wo wir I., durch eine Inschrift dokumentiert, zu Füßen des Herakles niedergestreckt liegen sehen (zur Diskussion, bei welchem der beiden gefallenen Krieger es sich um I. handelt, vgl. 3). Über die Versionen des Todes von I. vgl. lit. Quellen. Weder auf dieser Schale, noch weniger auf den anderen (4, 5, 7) finden wir eine klare Unterscheidung zwischen I. und seinen Brüdern und Mitstreitern. Auf mehrdeutige Art sind sie durch griechische und orientalische Tracht charakterisiert: einige tragen phrygische Mützen (in 3, 4, 7), Bogen und Gorytos, aber auch Schwert und den kurzen griechischen Chiton des Hopliten (wie in 3) oder einen feinen Faltenchiton (4, 5, 7) mit einem exotischen Raubtierfell darüber (4). Insofern sind die Bilder, in ideologischer und formaler Hinsicht, teilweise beeinflusst von der Figur des skythischen Bogenschützen. Die Maler betrachten den Mythos also auf exotische Weise, was auch für die Ikonographie jener Epoche charakteristisch ist. Die Hybris der Eurytiden steht im Gegensatz zu Herakles und findet ihren formalen Ausdruck in den langen Bärten und Haaren als typische Merkmale maßloser Persönlichkeiten, ähnlich den Giganten (vgl. → Alkyoneus oder → Antaios I). Es läßt sich jedoch eine gewisse Differenzierung von I. auf 2, vielleicht auch auf 7 feststellen, als der versöhnlichsten Figur, welche die Raserei des Herakles zu verhindern sucht, was mit der Version von Apollod. bibl. 2, 6, 1 übereinstimmen würde.

Nur eine einzige bekannte Darstellung (8) dokumentiert die Teilnahme des I. an den Spielen bei den Totenfeiern zu Ehren des Pelias, und zwar beim Speerwerfen. Diese Schale liefert uns aus einer frühen Epoche (um 570 v. Chr.) die Bestätigung für die Teilnahme des Helden an der Argonautenfahrt, von der wir nur durch ihre Erwähnung in der Argonautika von Apoll. Rhod. 1, 86 und Hyg. fab. 14, 8 Kenntnis hatten.

Die Darstellung des I. auf einem korinthischen Krater (9), zusammen mit anderen Kriegeren in einer Monomachie gegen Eurytos (hier Eurytion), beide durch eine Inschrift benannt, verdient höchstes Interesse bei der Forschung nach dem verlorenen mythischen Inhalt des Themas; der epische Wert des Namens dagegen ist erhalten geblieben. Tatsächlich ist keine Quelle bekannt, die von einer Konfrontation des Vaters mit dem Sohn berichtet. Die beiden Namen dienen hier wahrscheinlich nur als heroisierende Betitelung und stehen in keinerlei Beziehung zu dem ursprünglichen Mythos. Vgl. lit. Quellen zur heroischen Etymologie des Namens Iphitos.

Über den Tod des I. als Gast des Herakles, wie ihn Hom. Od. 21, 22–30 (vgl. lit. Quellen) erwähnt, kennen wir kein ikonographisches Dokument: das Medaillon der Schale 10 steht nicht, wie Furtwängler vermutete, in Bezug zu diesem Thema, sondern sehr wahrscheinlich zum Tod der Ismene durch Tydeus.

RICARDO OLMOS

IRIS I

(Ἥρις, Ἥρις, Iris) Göttliche Botin, die vor allem Aufträge des obersten olympischen Paares, Zeus und Hera, ausführt. Sie übermittelt die göttlichen Entscheidungen den Göttern und vor allem den Menschen und wechselt somit zwischen olympischem und irdischem Schauplatz, weshalb sie in der Bildkunst meist als Flügelfrau dargestellt wird und als Attribut den Botenstab hält. Personifikation des Regenbogens.

LITERARISCHE QUELLEN: Homer erwähnt I. nur in der Ilias, nicht in der Odyssee (indirekt jedoch Od. 18, 6–7; in der Od. ist ausschließlich Hermes der Götterbote). Die Göttin führt zahlreiche Aufträge des Zeus aus: Il. 2, 786–806 (Zeus schickt I. in anderer Gestalt zu den Troern); 8, 398–425 (sie wird zu Athena und Hera gesandt); 11, 185–210 (zu Hektor); 15, 157–207 (zu Poseidon); 24, 143–188 (zu Priamos mit der Aufforderung, Hektor auszulösen). Seltener bedient sich Hera, zu deren spezieller Botin I. erst später avanciert, in der Ilias der I.: 18, 166–202 sendet Hera I. heimlich vor Zeus zu Achilleus. Auf die Verbindung beider könnte vielleicht schon 15, 55 weisen, wo Zeus Hera befiehlt, zu den Göttern zu gehen und I. zu ihm auf den Ida zu schicken. Daneben handelt I. aber auch oft selbständig: 3, 121–140 (I. geht zu Helena und fordert sie auf, bei der Mauerschau dem Zweikampf Menelaos–Paris zuzusehen); 5, 352–369 (sie führt die verwundete Aphrodite aus der Schlacht, bringt sie zum Wagen des Ares und lenkt diesen zum Olymp; anschließend versorgt sie die Pferde); 23, 194–212 (I. erhört das Gebet des Achilleus an die Winde. Sie eilt ins Haus des Zephyros und überredet die Winde, zu Achilleus zu gehen und den Scheiterhaufen des Patroklos anzufachen).

Bei ihren Botengängen nimmt I. oft andere Gestalt an: zu Helena geht sie in Gestalt von deren Schwester Laodike (Il. 3, 121–140); zu den Troern als der Priamide Polites (Il. 2, 786–806); zu Hypnos als dessen Mutter Nyx (Nonn. Dion. 31, 106–198); zu Lykurgos als Ares (Nonn. Dion. 20, 184–291) und zu Dionysos als Hermes (Nonn. Dion. 20, 261–291).

Homer versteht I. mit Beiworten, die ihre Schnelligkeit mit Flügeln und Füßen charakterisieren: ἄνεα (Il. 15, 168); ποδὴνεμος (15, 200); χρυσόπτερος (8, 398); ἀελλόπος (8, 409); ταχέα (11, 186).

Vermutlich kannte auch Homer schon I. als Regenbogen. Il. 11, 27 beschreibt er einen Panzerschmuck mit drei gläsernen Schlangen, welche sich zum Hals gleich den Regenbogen (ἵρισιν) erheben. Jedoch erwähnt Homer noch keine Genealogie der I. Hes. theog. 265–269. 780 nennt als Eltern der I. Thaummas (Sohn des Pontos und der Ge) und die Okeanide Elektra, als Geschwister Harpyien und als Gatte Zephyros (cf. Hom. Il. 23, 200), der sonst auch als Ehemann der anderen Harpyien vorkommt. Eltern, Großeltern, Geschwister und Gatte weisen auf die Zusammengehörigkeit des wundersamen (Thaummas) Regenbogens mit Licht, Wasser und Regenwind hin. Als weitere wichtige Funktion der I. überliefert Hes. theog. 784–786, daß I. in einer goldenen Kanne das Styxwasser zum Göttereid heraufholt. Eros als Sohn von I. und Zephyros ist zuerst bei Alkaios bezeugt (frg. 327 Voigt).

Als Götterbotin tritt I. auch in den homerischen Hymnen auf: 2, 314–324 (Zeus beauftragt I., Demeter zu den Göttern zu bringen); 3, 102–114 (I. wird unter dem Versprechen eines Halsbandes von den um die kreiende Leto versammelten Götinnen ausgesandt, damit sie ohne Wissen der Hera die Eileithyia zur Hilfe herbeihole).

Mit der Bevorzugung des Hermes als Zeusbote wird I. zunehmend die Gesandte der Hera. Im nicht erhaltenen Satyrspiel Iris des Achaïos vereitelte I. wohl, auf Anweisung der Hera, Opfer an Dionysos und wurde deshalb von den Satyrn verfolgt und belästigt (TGF I 20 F 19–23; Simon 2, 125–129). Bei Eur. Herc. 822–873 führt I. zwar im Auftrag der Hera Lyssa herbei, bezeichnet dies dann aber als eigene Tat und stellt sich auf eine Stufe neben Hera. Ganz ergeben ist I. der Hera bei Kall. h. 4, 226–239: sie sitzt wie ein müder Jagdhund an deren Thron, schläft dort und legt nie Gürtel und Schuhe ab, um immer dienstbereit zu sein. Anders als im genannten hom. Hymnus, wo I. unbemerkt von Hera die Eileithyia zur kreienden Leto holt, wacht I. bei Kall. h. 4, 66–67 in Heras Auftrag darüber, daß keine Stätte der Leto Aufnahme gewähre. Wie eine Kammerzofe bereitet sie bei Theokr. 17, 133–134 das Brautbett für Hera und Zeus.

Da I. das Styxwasser für den Göttereid holt (s. o. und weiter auch Apoll. Rhod. 2, 286–300: I. rettet beim Phineusabenteuer ihre Schwestern, die Harpyien, vor den Boreaden und bringt dabei eine Libation mit Styxwasser dar), hat sie Beziehungen zur Unterwelt. Verg. Aen. 4, 693–705 erbarmt sich Iuno der sterbenden Dido und schickt I. zu ihr. Diese schneidet Didos Haar ab, um es dem Totengott für Didos Erlösung zu bringen. Als Iuno in die Unterwelt geht, um die Erinnyen gegen Athamas zu hetzen, wird sie nach ihrer Rückkehr von I. mit Tau entsühnt (Ov. met. 4, 480).

Zu I.'s Diensten für Iuno gehört auch, daß sie den nemeischen Löwen mit ihrem Gürtel, dem Regenbogen, fesselte und ihn vom Himmel ins Gebirge bringt (Ps.-Plut. fluv. 18 [Davies EGF p. 142]). Nach Verg. Aen. 9, 2–19 sendet Iuno I. mit einem Auftrag zu dem Aeneasgegner Turnus. Bei Ov. met. 11, 585 nennt Iuno die I. ihre «fidissima nuntia vocis», ja sie kann sogar den Beinamen Iunonia führen (met. 14, 85), da sie hauptsächlich als Trabantin der Iuno auftritt (vgl. Nonn. Dion. 20, 184–291; 31, 106–198 u. a. Stellen). Nach ihrer Abstammung wird sie auch oft Thaumantea virgo oder Thaumantias genannt: Verg. Aen. 9, 5; Ov. met. 4, 480; 14, 845; Colum. 10, 292; Stat. Theb. 10, 123; idem, Ach. 1, 220; idem, silv. 3, 3, 81; 5, 1, 107; Val. Fl. 7, 398; 8, 116.

Als Regenbogen beschreibt Ov. met. 1, 270 die in bunteste Farben gekleidete I., welche das Wasser emporzieht und den Wolken Nahrung spendet. Auch 11, 589–590 spricht er vom bunten Kleid der I.: induitur velamina mille colorum Iris et arcuato caelum curvamine signans... Als Regenbogen steht I. zur Feuchtigkeit in Beziehung. Bei Hom. Il. 24, 77–88 springt I. ins Meer und taucht hinab zu einer Grotte, um Thetis eine Botschaft zu überbringen. Sie holt das Styxwasser, der regenbringende Zephyros ist ihr Gatte (s. o.), als Bruder wird der Flußgott Hydaspes erwähnt (Nonn. Dion. 26, 359–365), und sie wird auch selbst als Fluß genannt: Apoll. Rhod. 2, 367. 963; Anth. Pal. 9, 668, 7 (Beschreibung des Eros-[sic]gartens, worin der Fluß I. fließt). Bei Claudian rapt. Pros. 3, 1–5 ruft sie die Flußgötter zu einer Versammlung. Auch ihre Beziehung zu den Winden spielt in der späteren Literatur noch eine Rolle. Bei Q. Smyrn. 12, 189–195 läßt Zeus von I. die Winde an seinen Wagen spannen, 14, 467–479 wird I. von Athena zu Aiolos geschickt, um die Winde zu holen.

Zwar überwacht I. im Auftrag des Zeus die Opfer der Menschen (Aristoph. Aves 1202–1259, wo I. jedoch in Ausübung dieses Amtes verlacht und verjagt wird), doch ist über eine kultische Verehrung der I. selbst wenig bekannt. Hom. Il. 23, 198–212 (I. will ins Äthiopienland eilen, da dort Hekatomben geopfert werden, damit sie mit den Unsterblichen speise) ist wohl kein Hinweis auf einen Kult der I., zumal hier einer größeren Göttergemeinschaft geopfert wird. Lediglich Semos von Delos (FGH 396 F 5) berichtet, daß auf der Hekate-Insel die Delier der I. bestimmte Kuchen (basyriai) opfern. Weicker 2038 vermutet, daß dieser Kult vielleicht mit dem benachbarten Delos zusammenhängt, da I. hier der gebärenden Leto half (vgl. Hom. h. 3, 102–114).

Der Name I. fand bereits in der Antike wie auch heute vielfältige, doch nicht gesicherte Erklärungen, mit denen man meist das Wesen der I. als Götterbotin oder Regenbogen zu umschreiben suchte, s. zur Etymologie weiter Weicker 2037–2038; Osthoff 44–74.

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Arafat, K. W., BICS 33, 1986, 127–133; Arnold, B., De Iride dea vasis depicta (Diss. Upsala 1886); Bergstedt, H., De Iride in vasis depicta. Studia archaeologica com. acad. Upsalae (1881); Boetzkies, R., Das Kerykeion (Diss. Münster 1913) 10–13; Boyer, C. B., The Rainbow. From Myth to Mathematics (1959) passim; Fasce, S., EncVirg III (1987) 22–24 s. v. «Iride»; Friederichs, K., De Iride dea veterum artificum monumentis illustrata (Diss. Göttingen 1892); Gazaille, M., Iris. Déesse au caducée (Thèse de doctorat inédite, Université Laval Québec 1973); eadem, «Deux représentations d'Iris inspirées l'une d'Hésiode et l'autre de Théocrite», in Mélanges M. Lebel (1980) 103–109 (= Gazaille 2); Gualandi, G., EAA IV (1961) 220–222 s. v. «Iride»; Hentze, G., «Das Auftreten der Iris im 2., 3. und 5. Gesang der Ilias», Philologus 62, 1903, 321–328; Isler-Kerényi, C., Nike (1969) 40–43 und passim; Kenner, H., ÖJh 31, 1939, 81–95; Mayer, M., ML II 1 (1890–97) 320–357 s. v. «Iris 1»; Neuser, K., Anemoi (1982) 133–138; Osthoff, H., «Etymologische Beiträge zur Mythologie und Religionsgeschichte, 3. Iris», in ARW 11, 1908, 44–74; Renel, Ch., «L'arc-en-ciel dans la tradition de l'Antiquité», Revue de l'hist. des religions 46, 1902, 67–80 (zu I. als Regenbogen); Schauenburg, K., «Flügelgestalten auf unteritalischen Grabvasen», JdI 102, 1987, 228–232; Schwarz, G., «Iris und Ganymed auf attischen Vasenbildern», ÖJh 51, 1976, 1–10; Simon, E., Opfernde Götter (1953) 62–65 und passim (= Simon 1); eadem, in The Eye of Greece (Festschr. M. Robertson, 1982) 125–129 (= Simon 2); Weicker, G., REIX 2 (1916) 2037–2043 s. v. «Iris 1».

KATALOG

GLIEDERUNG

A. Literarisch überlieferte Irisdarstellungen

I–2

B. Iris allein .....	3–37
C. Iris mit anderen Göttern .....	38–123b
1. Iris und Zephyros .....	38–41
2. Iris als Ministrantin von Zeus und (oder) Hera .....	42–67
3. Iris und Hera in anderen Szenen ...	68–75
s. weiter: 78. 97. 111. 122. 129–133. 151. 152. 157
4. Iris und Zeus in anderen Szenen ...	76–80
s. weiter: 68. 74. 82. 88. 89. 99. 100. 103. 157a
5. Iris und Hermes .....	81–89
s. weiter: 54. 78. 79. 94. 100. 122. 127–136. 154. 157a. 158. 159
6. Iris und Athena .....	90–94
s. weiter: 135. 158. 159
7. Iris in der Apollonsage .....	95
s. weiter: 91. 154. 160. 161
8. Iris in der Gigantomachie .....	96–97
9. Iris und Astralgötter .....	98
10. Iris bei der Schmückung der Pandora .....	99
11. Iris beim Streit um Adonis .....	100
12. Iris bei einer Götterhochzeit .....	101
s. auch weitere Hochzeitsszenen: 75. 84. 124–126
13. Iris im eleusinischen Kreis .....	102–103
s. weiter: 100. 153
14. Iris beim Streit um das attische Land .....	104
15. Iris im dionysischen Kreis .....	105–123
16. Iris und Amphitrite: s. 85. 104
17. Iris und Aphrodite: s. 128
18. Iris (?) – Dodekathēoi .....	123a
19. Iris bei Styx? .....	123b
D. Iris im Heroenkreis und weiteren mythischen Szenen .....	124–167a
1. Iris im trojanischen Sagenkreis ...	124–146
a) Hochzeit Peleus–Thetis .....	124–126
b) Parisurteil .....	127–136
c) Iris in weiteren trojanischen Szenen .....	137–146
2. Iris und Herakles .....	147–153
s. auch: 70. 88
3. Iris–Telephos .....	154
4. Iris–Salmonēus .....	155
5. Iris–Ixion .....	156–157
5a) Iris–Tod des Hippolytos .....	157a
6. Iris–Iphigenie in Tauris .....	158
7. Iris–Niobiden .....	159
8. Iris beim Streit um Marpessa .....	160–161
9. Iris verfolgt einen Jüngling (Ganymed?) .....	162–166
10. Iris wird von Kentauren überfallen ..	167
11. Iris und Turnus .....	167a
E. Iris in ungedeuteten Szenen .....	168–175

I. kann auf vielen Darstellungen nicht sicher benannt werden, da sie keine spezielle Ikonographie hat, sondern typologisch mit anderen Flügel Frauen, vor al-

lem → Nike, verwandt ist. Selbst ihr wichtigstes Attribut, des Kerykeion, kommt ebenfalls in Nike-Wiedergaben vor. Die gemeinsame Typologie von I. und Nike hat wohl ihre Ursache darin, daß auch beider Funktion ähnliche Aspekte aufweist. Beide bezeichnen das Ende des Kampfes und dessen Entscheidung. I. übermitteln das Urteil der Götter über das menschliche Los, während Nike – nach den Ausführungen von Isler-Kerényi 41–42 – auf die Entscheidungen weist, die sich Menschen selbst erkämpfen müssen. Symbol für das Ende des Kampfes ist das Kerykeion, das Zeichen der Unverletzlichkeit des Heroldes, das somit beiden zukommt, da I. wie Nike den Stillstand eines Kampfes herbeiführen können. Daß beide Göttinnen geflügelt sind, hängt mit der Vorstellung ihrer raschen Fortbewegung von einem Schauplatz zum anderen zusammen. Sicher benennen läßt sich I. somit nur auf den Bildern, deren Deutung sich durch den mythischen Kontext oder durch Schriftquellen ergibt. Bei Einzeldarstellungen ist die Deutung dagegen hypothetisch. Die folgende Auswahl der Einzelbilder beschränkt sich daher auf inschriftlich gesicherte Darstellungen und Wiedergaben der Flügel Frau mit Kerykeion, wobei jedoch auch diese – wenigstens ab dem 5. Jh. – aus den genannten Gründen keine sicheren I.-Darstellungen sind. Vgl. weiter → Nike. Zum Problem der Unterscheidung I. oder Nike s. auch Arafat 127–133.

Bei der Gliederung des Kataloges ergab sich die Schwierigkeit der Einordnung bestimmter Darstellungen. Häufig hat I. keinen Bezug zum wiedergegebenen Mythos, sondern ist als Trabantin einer Gottheit zugeordnet. Der leichteren Auffindbarkeit willen werden die betreffenden Denkmäler trotzdem meist nach ihrem Hauptthema aufgeführt. Um Wiederholungen zu vermeiden, sollen Querverweise im Inhaltsverzeichnis und vor den einzelnen Kapiteln auf weitere Darstellungen aufmerksam machen.

Wenn in der Beschreibung nicht anders vermerkt, ist I. immer geflügelt.

A. Literarisch überlieferte Irisdarstellungen

1. (= Biris I mit Lit.) Amykläischer Altar, nicht erhalten. – Spätes 6. Jh. v. Chr. – Es ist unsicher, ob die bei Paus. 3, 19, 3 genannte Darstellung einer Biris auf I. zu beziehen ist, wie teilweise angenommen wurde (das B des überlieferten Paus.-Textes wäre dann eine Wiedergabe des archaischen Digammas [s. 4]; vgl. weiter → Biris).

2. Gemälde, unvollendet und nicht erhalten. – Plin. nat. 35, 145 bemerkt verwundert, daß unfertige Bilder mehr geschätzt werden als vollendete und nennt in diesem Zusammenhang das Bild einer I. vom Maler Aristeides (4. Jh. v. Chr.); s. zu Aristeides: EAA I (1958) 641–642 s. v. «Aristeides» (Orlandini, P.).

B. Iris allein

(auch Darstellungen, auf denen nur I. allein erhalten ist)

Reliefs

3.* Metope, Kalkstein, fr. Paestum, Mus. Naz. Vom Heraion an der Selemündung. – Zancani/Zanotti, Sele II 237–249 Nr. 20 Taf. 41. 81; van Keuren, The Frieze from the Hera I Temple at Foce del Sele (1989) 103–109 Taf. 30 (Deutung auf → Eris, weshalb van Keuren die Metope auch an einer anderen Position plziert als Zancani/Zanotti und Simon). – Um 550 v. Chr. – Stark zerstört. Nach r. rennende Flügelfrau (kurzer Chiton, Flügelschuhe) im Knielaufschema. Oberkörper in Vorderansicht, Kopf im Profil nach r. (deshalb wohl keine Gorgo). Die Figur scheint mit beiden Händen eine Scheibe vor ihren Körper gehalten zu haben. In Analogie zu anderen (Sonnen-) Scheibenträgern, die jedoch noch ein Kerykeion als Attribut haben (vgl. 5. 11), deuten Zancani/Zanotti als I. Es wurde vorgeschlagen, die Metopen mit den Satyrn, die Hera verfolgen, mit der I.-Darstellung zu verbinden: Simon, E., JdI 82, 1967, 291.

3a.* Arula, Kassel, Staatl. Kunstlg. Aus Slg. Die-richts. – Funde aus der Antike. Slg. Paul Dierichs, Kassel (1981) Nr. 54 mit Abb. und Lit. (P. Gercke). – Um 500 v. Chr. – Auf der Vorderseite dieses reliefierten Tonalträgers, das wohl aus Sizilien stammt, ist eine Flügelfrau (Schulterflügel und Flügelschuhe) im kurzen Gewand dargestellt. Sie eilt im Knielaufschema nach r., der Oberkörper ist frontal wiedergegeben. In ähnlicher Weise erscheinen auf den sizilischen Arulae öfter Gorgonen (→ Gorgo, Gorgones 256. 257), doch halten diese immer Attribute. Da Nike eher langgewandete wäre, wird für die Kasseler Arula mit Recht die Deutung auf I. erwogen.

Malerei

4.* Metope, fr., Terrakotta. Athen, NM 13404. Aus Thermos. – AntDenk II 5, 7 Nr. 3 Taf. 52 A 3. – 7./6. Jh. v. Chr. – Von den bemalten Metopen der kleineren Serie zeigte eine die nach l. gewandte, stehende I. (Beischr. FIPIΣ). Erhalten ist nur der Hinterkopf mit dem langen Haar sowie ein Teil des Sichelflügels.

Gemmen (griech. und etr.)

Sämtliche Darstellungen (5–8) sind wohl für I. auszuschließen.

5. Chazeldon, skarabäoid, griech. Oxford, Ashm. Mus. 1966.595. Aus Zypern. – Boardman/Vollenweider, CatGemsOxford I Nr. 60 Taf. 12 (mit Lit.); van Keuren, a. O. 3, 104 Taf. 31a (s. ebendort 104–108 allgemein zur Deutung der geflügelten Scheibenträger). – 4. Viertel 6. Jh. v. Chr. – Sechsfügelige Gottheit (auch Kopf und Schuhe geflügelt) im langen Gewand nach r. laufend. Sie hält eine Scheibe oder Kugel mit Strahlen in den Händen. Vor ihr Kerykeion. Einfluß orientalischer Gottheiten. Boardman: «Greek version of the eastern sun deity». Das Kerykeion deute auf I. oder Hermes. S. weiter Boardman, AGGems 32–33.

6. Karneol-Skarabäus. London, BM 467. Aus Marion (Zypern). – Boardman, AGGems 81 Nr. 206; 83 Taf. 13 (mit Lit.). – Um 480 v. Chr. – Laufende Flügelfrau (langes Gewand, Flügel an den Füßen), die eine Hand erhoben, in der gesenkten anderen eine Schale haltend, als I. gedeutet.

7. Karneol-Skarabäus, etr. Oxford, Ashm. Mus. 1965.356. – Boardman/Vollenweider, CatGemsOxford I Nr. 241 Taf. 40 (mit Lit.). – Spätes 5. Jh. v. Chr. – Flügelfrau (langes Gewand) in Profilansicht beugt sich nach vorn und hebt einen runden Gegenstand hoch, vielleicht keine Scheibe, sondern ein Gefäß. Vorge-schlagene, aber nicht überzeugende Deutung: I. fülle ihre goldene Kanne an der Styx nach Hes. theog. 784–786. Diese Deutung könnte aber für 123b zu treffen.

8. Karneol-Skarabäus, etr. London, Slg. Ionides. Aus Tarquinia. – Boardman, J., Engraved Gems. The Ionides Collection (1968) 16–17. 92 Nr. 7 Abb. – Um 400 v. Chr. – Flügelfrau füllt Kanne an einem Löwenkopfwasserspeier. Deutung: I. hole Styxwasser, vgl. zu 7. Zu weiteren Deutungsvorschlägen s. auch Mayer-Prokop, I., Die gravierten etruskischen Griffspiegel archaischen Stils (1967) 68–70 (Nike); → Eos/Thesan 10a. b (mit Lit.); Simon, E., GGA 232, 1980, 202–203 (Thesan); Simon weist darauf hin, daß es kein etruskisches Äquivalent zu I. gibt.

Toreutik

9. Gravierung auf chalkidischem Bronzeshelm. Früher Neapel, Slg. Santangelo. – Mayer 350 Abb. 6; Kunze, E., OlympBer 9 (im Druck). – I. (ungeflügelt, Kerykeion, Flügelschuhe, Stephane im langen Haar, Chiton, Mantel), nach l. laufend.

Münzen

10. AR Statere, Karien, unbestimmte Münzstätten (früher Mallos zugeschrieben), 480–450 v. Chr. – BMCLycaonia, etc. 96–97, 5–11 Taf. 16, 1–7; Robinson, E. S. G., NC 1936, 265–273 Taf. 14, 1–5; SNGv. Aulock 2347–2350; Troxell, H. A., «Winged Carians», in Essays in Honor of M. Thompson (1979) 257–268. – Vs.: Weibliche Flügelfigur (Chiton) – meist mit zurückgewandtem Kopf – im Knielauf nach l., beide Unterarme ausgebreitet, hält Kranz und Kerykeion. Vielleicht I. Rs.: Quadratum incusum mit dreieckiger konischer Erhebung, daneben verschiedenes Beiwerk.

11. AR Statere, Mallos, Anfang 4. Jh. v. Chr. – BMCLycaonia, etc. 97–98, 12–18 Taf. 16, 8–13; Babelon, Traité II Taf. 137; Zancani/Zanotti, Sele II 247–249 Abb. 54; Boardman, AGGems 32–33; SNGv. Aulock Nr. 5705–5710. – Vs. (seltener Rs.): Männliches Flügelwesen im Knielauf nach r. (SNGv. Aul. 5705 nach l.) Oberkörper nackt, Unterkörper mit langem Gewand bekleidet, hält mit beiden Händen Sonnenscheibe (mit Stern verziert) vor den Körper. Vor der Figur zuweilen Kerykeion. Rs.: Schwan und kleiner Fisch. Beischrift MAP sowie teils aramäische Schriftzeichen. Während zuvor in Mallos ein männlicher Gott (Hermes?) in diesem Typus dargestellt wurde, werden die Figuren des früheren 4. Jh. als weiblich gedeutet (jedoch m. E. nicht immer eindeutig zu erkennen), wobei dann wegen des Kerykeion die Benennung I. möglich wäre. I. hätte dann im östlichen Raum Aspekte einer Gestirn- und Lichtgottheit, was bei ihrer Beziehung zum Regenbogen vorstellbar wäre. Diese Ikonographie müßte dann nach Westen transferiert worden sein, wenn man die Scheibenträgerin auf den Gemmen (5. 7) und in Foce del Sele (3) auch I. benennen will.

Attisch schwarzfigurige und weißgrundige Vasen

11a.* Amphora. Malibu, Getty Mus. 86.AE.77. – CVA I Taf. 40, 4. – 530/20 v. Chr. – In einem Schulterbild rennende Gorgo, im anderen nach r. laufende I. (kurzer Chiton, Nebris) mit zurückgewandtem Kopf und ausgebreiteten Armen.

12. Amphora, panath. New York, MMA 1956.171.4. – ABV 291; Para 127, 1: Maler der Warschauer Preisamphora; CVA 3 Taf. 40 (572) 1. – Um 520 v. Chr. – Die Athena Promachos trägt als Schildzeichen ein laufendes Flügelwesen, für das die Deutung I. vorgeschlagen wurde. Ein Kerykeion ist nicht zu erkennen. Innerhalb der Schildzeichen auf panathenäischen Amphoren scheint diese Darstellung singulär.

13. Amphora. Basel, Antikenmus. Lu 26. – Para 140, 4: Klasse von Cab. Méd. 213; Add 86; Berger/Lullies, SlgLudwig I 71–74 Nr. 26. – Um 510 v. Chr. – Im Halsbild ist auf beiden Seiten eine nach r. laufende, zurückblickende Flügelfrau dargestellt (kurzer Chiton, Fell, Flügelschuhe), I.?

14. Olpe. Paris, Inst. d'Art et d'Archéologie RS 175. – Para 268: Maler von Vatikan G 49. – Um 500 v. Chr. – Flügelfrau im kurzen Gewand nach r. laufend, sich umblickend; vielleicht I.

15. Schale. Paris, Louvre C 10455. – ABV 653, 5: Campana-Maler; Add 146; CVA 10 Taf. 118 (753) 10. – 500/490 v. Chr. – Im Innenbild nach r. laufende Flügelfrau (kurzer Chiton, Flügelschuhe), I.?

16.* Lekythos, Six-Technik. Paris, Louvre MNB 912. Aus Griechenland. – Six, J., GazArch 1888, 204 Nr. 17 bis; Mayer 350 Abb. 7; Haspels, ABL 235, 76 Taf. 38, 4: Diosphosmaler; Kurtz, D. C., Athenian White Lekythoi (1975) 158 Nr. 2d (zum Ornament). – Um 500/490 v. Chr. – I. (Band über Krobylos, Chiton) r. Kerykeion, l. Schreiftafel, läuft nach r. I. begegnet öfters als Beförderin einer geschriebenen Botschaft.

17.* Ständer, fr. Eleusis, Mus. 1223. Aus Eleusis. – ABV 400, 3: Dikaismaler; Talcott, L., Hesperia 5, 1936, 65–66 Abb. 5; Hampe, R., Antike 15, 1939, 173 Abb. 5; Isler-Kerényi 39. 40. 138 Nr. 66. – Um 490 v. Chr. – I. (Band über Krobylos, Chiton, schräges Mäntelchen) läuft mit ausgebreiteten Flügeln nach r. Ihr Körper ist in Dreiviertelansicht dargestellt, der Kopf nach l. gewendet. Die l. Hand ist erhoben. In der gesenkten r. Kerykeion.

Attisch rotfigurige und weißgrundige Vasen

18.* Hydria. Warschau, Nat. Mus. 142289. Aus Cerveteri. – ARV 271, 3: Maler von Goluchow 37; Add 206; CVA Goluchow Taf. 20 (20) 1. – Um 490 v. Chr. – I. (Chiton, Mantel, Kranz im offenen Haar) eilt mit zurückgewandtem Kopf nach l. Hält l. Kerykeion.

19.* Nolan. Amphora. Karlsruhe, Bad. Landes-

mus. B 95 (203). Aus Nola. – ARV 202, 73: Berliner Maler; CVA 1 Taf. 15, 1 (Nike); Thimme, J., Griech. Vasen. Bildhefte des Bad. Landesmus. 4 (1975) Nr. 44. – Um 490/80 v. Chr. – Nach r. eilende Flügelfrau (Chiton, Band im langen Haar), Kopf nach l. gewendet und zurückblickend; in der Rechten Kerykeion. Vielleicht I. Isler-Kerényi, C., AntK 14, 1971, 25–31 bes. 29 bevorzugt beim Berliner Maler die Deutung der einzelnen Flügelfrau als Nike.

20.* Lekythos. Palermo, Mus. Naz. V 679. Aus Selinunt. – ARV 423, 122: Maler der Pariser Gigantomachie; CVA 1 Taf. 25 (682) 3. – 490/80 v. Chr. – I. (Flügel, Kerykeion, eine Spende auf einen Altar gibend) steht frontal und wendet ihren Kopf nach l. R. ein Schmel mit Kissen.

21.* Schale, fr. Basel Slg. Cahn HC 66. – ARV 478, 307: Makron. – 490/80 v. Chr. – I. (?) mit Kerykeion nach l. eilend.

22.* Schale. Ehem. London, Kunsthandel. Sotheby's 13./14. 7. 1981, 128 Nr. 275: Eucharidesmaler. – Um 490/80 v. Chr. – Im Medaillon: I. (hochgebundenes Haar, Kerykeion, Schreiftafel) steht (sich umblickend) vor einem brennenden Altar.

23. Lekythos. New York, MMA 41.162.7. – CVA Fogg und Gallatin Taf. 58 (406) 3; 61 (409) 2: Art des Berliner Malers. – Um 480/70 v. Chr. – Im Schulterbild nach l. fliegende I. (?), Chiton, Haube; hält Phiale und Kanne.

24. Schale, fr. Heidelberg, Univ. 69 (B 15). – ARV 370, 12: Brygosmaler; Kraiker, W., Die rotfig. attischen Vasen (1931) 22–23 Taf. 11, 69. – Um 480 v. Chr. – Erhalten ist nur der Rest eines Frauenkopfes mit Binde im Haar und davor ein Stück des Flügels (die Namensbeischrift läßt sich zu I. ergänzen). Die Göttin lief mit zurückgewandtem Kopf nach r. Über den mythischen Kontext läßt sich nichts Näheres aussagen. Verfolgung durch Satyrn?

25.* Schale. Budapest, Mus. Beaux-Arts 50.89. – ARV 379, 141: Brygosmaler; Szilágyi, J. G./Castiglione, L., Griech.-röm. Slg. Budapest. Führer (1957) 28 Titelbild; Szilágyi, J. G./Szabó, M., Antik Kiállítás-Vezető (1974) 44 Abb. 26; Szilágyi, J. G., Antik Művész-Vezető (1979) 17.18. Abb. 11. – Um 480 v. Chr. – Spendende Flügelfrau (Chiton, Mantel, Stephane, Phiale, Kanne) nach r. gewandt vor einem Altar. Hinter ihr lehnt ein Kerykeion. Wohl I.

26. Hydria. München, Antikenslg. 2430 (J. 351). Aus Vulci. – ARV 497, 9: Oreithyamaler; 1656; CVA 5 Taf. 229, 1. 2; Gazaille 2, 107 m. Anm. 23. – 480/70 v. Chr. – Flügelfrau (Chiton, schräger Mantel, Stephane, l. Kerykeion, r. Kanne) schwebt, sich umblickend, nach r.

27.* Amphora. Berlin (West), Staatl. Mus. F 2163. – ARV 409, 47: Briseismaler; Para 371; Add 233; GGK, Führer Berlin 128. – 480/70 v. Chr. – I. frontal stehend (Chiton, Mantel, Haube, Flügel, Kerykeion).

28. Amphora. Dresden, Staatl. Kunstlg. 291. – ARV 654, 8: Charmidesmaler. – Um 470 v. Chr. – I. (Kerykeion) rennt – sich umblickend – nach r.

29.* Oinochoe. New York, MMA 1906.1021.93. – Um 470 v. Chr. – I. (Gewand, Sakkos) kniet nach r. und hält Kerykeion und Schreibgerät.

30. Lekythos. Ehem. Paris, Kunsthandel. Aus Sizilien. – Antiquités égyptiennes, grecques et romaines. Auktionskat. Slg. Lambros und Dattari (Paris 1912) 11 Nr. 52 Taf. 7. – Um 470 v. Chr. – I. (Flügel, l. Kerykeion, r. Ranke) frontal stehend.

31.* Lekythos, weißgr. Malibu, Getty Mus. 86.AE.249. – ARV<sup>2</sup> 686, 193: Bowdoin-Maler; Para 406; Ars Antiqua 2 (1960) 57 Nr. 158 Taf. 58; Greek Vases. M. and W. Bareiss Coll. Ausstellungskat. Malibu (1983) 77 Nr. 125. – 470/60 v. Chr. – Flügel Frau in Chiton und dunklem Mantel (Haar mit Binde hochgebunden) steht nach r. gewandt vor einem Omphalos. In der r. Hand hält sie die Spendekanne, in der l. das Kerykeion; vielleicht I. Der Bowdoin-Maler stellte auf seinen Lekythen häufig Flügel Frauen dar, deren Deutung jedoch meist offenbleiben muß. Teilweise tragen sie ein Kerykeion wie etwa:

a) Oinochoe. Neapel, Mus. Naz. H 3122. Aus Nola. – ARV<sup>2</sup> 689, 258; Schauenburg, K., AM 90, 1975, 98 Anm. 9 Taf. 28, 4 (nach r. eilend).

b) Lekythos. Paris, Kunsthandel (Segredakis). – ARV<sup>2</sup> 679, 42.

c) Lekythos. Tarent, Mus. Naz. 52289. Aus Tarent. – ARV<sup>2</sup> 680, 59; de Juliis, E./Loiacono, D., Taranto. II Mus. Arch. (1985) Taf. 238, 268. – Vor einem Altar stehend.

32. Lekythos. Ehem. Basel, Kunsthandel. – MuM Sonderliste R (1977) Nr. 53 (Maler der Lekythos Yale). – Um 460 v. Chr. – Flügel Frau (langes Gewand, Binde im langen Haar, mit Kerykeion) nach r. laufend.

33.* Skyphos. Paris, Cab. Méd. 841. – ARV<sup>2</sup> 889, 164: Penthesileamaler; Millin, A. L., Peintures de vases antiques... (1808) I 113 Nr. 4 Taf. 62. – Um 460 v. Chr. – I. (langer Chiton, Mantel, Flügel, Kerykeion, Stephane im langen Haar) läuft nach r. Ziel ihres Laufes ist wohl der bärtige Mann auf der Gegenseite.

34.* Lekythos. Oxford, Ashm. Mus. 1936.611. – ARV<sup>2</sup> 624, 80: Villa Giulia-Maler. – Um 460/50 v. Chr. – I. (ungeflügelt, Chiton, Mantel, Sakkos, hält Kerykeion und Schreibtafel) läuft, sich umblickend, nach r.

35. Lekythos. Neapel, Mus. Naz. H 3216. – ARV<sup>2</sup> 697, 28: Ikarosmaler (slightly restored). – Um 460/50 v. Chr. – Schwebende I. (Chiton, Mantel, hält Ranke und Schreibgerät).

36.* Lekythos, wgr. Berlin (DDR), Staatl. Mus. F 2248. Aus Athen. – ARV<sup>2</sup> 756, 62: Tymbosmaler; Benndorf, GSV 44 Taf. 27, 2. – I. (Flügel, Flügelstiefel, kurzer gegürteter Chiton, l. Kerykeion, r. Hand auf die Hüfte gestützt) vor einem einfachen Altar.

Böotisch rotfigurige Vase

37. Glockenkrater. München, Antikenslg. 3059. – Lullies, R., AM 65, 1940, 24 mit Anm. 2 Taf. 28. – Ende 5. Jh. v. Chr. – Nach l. schwebende I. mit Kerykeion.

Unteritalische Vase

37a)* Pelike, pastan. rf. Neapel, Privatslg. (2) 4-18-2. – RVP 381, 135 Taf. 239b. c. – Geflügelte I. mit Kerykeion in der r. Hand nach l. laufend. Auf der Gegenseite Frau mit Thyrsos, Phiale und Kranz.

C. Iris mit anderen Göttern

1. Iris und Zephyros

(Deutung bei 38–41 möglich, aber nicht gesichert)

38.* Bronzener Spiegelgriff. London, BM 1923.5-14.1. – Greifenhagen, A., Griechische Erotica (1957) 36–38 Abb. 28. – Anfang 5. Jh. v. Chr. – Aus eine Blüte steigt ein Paar empor. Der Jüngling (mit Kranz) fliegt nach r., das Mädchen (beide mit Flügelschuhen) mit ausgebreiteten Armen nach l. Nach Greifenhagen wohl eher I. und Zephyros als Eros und Nike.

39. (= Aphrodite 1189/1329*) Lokrisches Tonrelief. Tarent, Mus. Naz. IG 8326. – Schefold, SB III 70 Abb. 83 (mit anderer Deutung); Neuser 133–140 Z 11. – Um 460 v. Chr. – Zwei Flügelwesen ziehen den Wagen der Aphrodite. Weiter Hermes. Simon, E., Geburt der Aphrodite (1959) 37–38 sieht hier in Analogie zu späteren tarentinischen Arulae, auf denen das gleiche Motiv verwendet ist, aber zusätzlich Meereswellen angegeben sind (40), ebenfalls die Meerfahrt der Aphrodite. Da bei Hom. h. 6, 3–4 überliefert ist, daß Zephyros die meergeborene Aphrodite ans Land nach Zypern trieb, erwägt Simon für das Flügelpaar die Deutung auf I. und Zephyros, die Eltern des Eros (s. lit. Quellen). Anders Prückner, H., Die lokrischen Tonreliefs (1968) 26–27 (Eros und Nike). Dagegen auch nicht überzeugend Neuser, da sie postuliert, das Paar müsse in mythologischem Zusammenhang zu Aphrodite stehen, was aber nach ihrer Meinung bei I. nicht der Fall sei. Vgl. aber die Beziehung beider zu Eros und Hom. Il. 5, 352–369, wo I. der Aphrodite Beistand leistet.

40. (= Aphrodite 1190* mit Lit.) Tonaltären, tarentinisch, in mehreren Repliken überliefert. – Neuser 137–138 Z 12–13. – Spätes 5. Jh. v. Chr. – Aphrodite fährt in einem von Flügelwesen gezogenen Wagen übers Meer. Simon, a. O. 39, 37–38 deutet das Paar Zephyros und I. Zustimmend Prückner, a. O. 39, 27; anders Neuser.

41. Bronzeattaschen von Hydrien, in mehreren Exemplaren und Varianten überliefert. – Diehl, E., Die Hydria (1964) 221 B 185–B 190 (mit Lit.); Neuser, 138–140 Z 14–19; Schefold, SB III 199 Abb. 271 (mit anderer Deutung). – 4. Jh. v. Chr. – Flügeljüngling und Flügelmädchen in ruhiger Haltung. Nach Simon, a. O. 39, 38 I. und Zephyros. Zustimmend Diehl; dagegen Neuser.

2. Iris als Ministrantin von Zeus und (oder) Hera (auch in anderen Opferszenen mit Hera)

Als Ministrantin ist I. ebenfalls kaum von Nike zu unterscheiden, da Opfer- und Spendegeräte auch Attribute der Nike sind. Vielleicht lassen sich durch den jeweiligen Kontext Kriterien für die Benennung finden. Bei Spendeszenen in Gegenwart von Kriegern dürfte die Flügel Frau Nike sein, bei Zeus und Hera wohl I., weshalb der Katalog hier auf diese Darstellungen beschränkt ist. Denn I. ist persönliche Botin und Trabantin der Hera und deshalb prädestiniert dafür, ihrer Herrin zu libieren. Weiter bezieht sich das gemeinsame Opfer von Zeus und Hera wohl auf deren Hieros Gamos, wie Simon 1, 58–65 aufgezeigt hat. Dieser Treueeid wurde bei Styxwasser geschworen, das den antiken Quellen zufolge (s. o.) von I. für Götterei herbeigeht wurde, s. dazu das Vasenbild 123b. Dagegen stellt Arafat die Benennung I. für diese Szenen in Frage.

Die Deutung der einschenkenden Flügel Frau (auch mit Kerykeion) bei anderen Göttern muß offenbleiben. Diese Darstellungen wurden ihres hypothetischen Charakters wegen hier nicht aufgenommen. Vgl. weiter → Nike. Als weitere Schwierigkeit kommt hinzu, daß I. (ohne Flügel und Kerykeion, mit Kanoun als Attribut, gesichert durch Namensbeischrift) in einer Opferszene mit Zeus und Hera auftritt (56). Dies ließe die Möglichkeit zu, auch in anderen ministrierenden (ungeflügelten) Göttinnen I. zu erkennen. Weiter wird die Problematik der ministrierenden Flügel Frau noch dadurch erschwert, daß diese – obwohl geflügelt – in einer Darstellung Hebe benannt ist (→ Herakles 2859/3305).

Hera und Zeus beim Opfer, Iris als Ministrantin (wenn nicht anders vermerkt, ist I. immer geflügelt, langgewandert und hält eine Kanne)

Attisch rotfigurige Vasen

42.* (= Hera 211*) Amphora. München, Antikenslg. 2304. – Um 500 v. Chr. – Kurzes Gewand, Flügelschuhe, hält außer Kanne noch Phiale.

43. (= Hebe 129, = Hera 213) Hydria. Verschollen, ehem. Slg. Pembroke. – Um 490 v. Chr. – I. (mit Haube) gießt Hera ein.

44. (= Hera 215*) Pelike. Bologna, Mus. Civ. 161. – Um 490/80 v. Chr. – I. gießt der Hera ein.

45. (= Hera 227*) Stamnos. Leningrad, Ermitage B 1597 (St. 1712). – Um 490 v. Chr. – In der Mitte stehend; Haube, faßt mit der Linken an ihr Gewand.

46. (= Hebe 134* mit Querverweisen, = Hera 216) Schale. London, BM E 67. Aus Vulci. – Um 480 v. Chr. – Wohl nicht Hieros Gamos, sondern vielleicht Abschied des Ares. I. (Haube) ministriert Hera.

47.* (= Hera 228) Stamnos. Paris, Louvre G 181. Aus Nola. – Um 480/70 v. Chr. – I. steht r., gießt dem Zeus ein, faßt mit der Linken an ihr Gewand.

48. (= Hera 225*) Pelike. Vatikan, Astarita 731. – 480/70 v. Chr. – I. (mit Kanne) in der Mitte.

49.* (= Hera 218) Hydria. Tübingen, Univ. 5603. – Um 470 v. Chr. – Deutung des opfernden Paares auf Zeus und Hera nicht ganz sicher. I. schenkt dem Gott ein.

50. (= Hera 219*) Stamnos, fr. München, Antikenslg. SL 408. – Um 470 v. Chr. – Haube, faßt mit der L. an ihren Mantel, gießt Zeus ein.

51. (= Hera 221) Stamnos. Bochum, Univ. S 258. – Um 470 v. Chr. – Mit Kerykeion, gießt Zeus ein.

52. (= Apollon 859*, = Hera 220) Stamnos. Paris, Louvre G 370. – Um 460 v. Chr. – Mit Apollon. I. (Haube) faßt mit der L. an ihr Gewand; gießt Zeus ein.

53. (= Hebe 124, = Hera 222*) Kolonettenkra-

ter. New York, Slg. Woodner. – Schefold, SB III 219 Abb. 300. – Um 460 v. Chr. – Mit Hermes. I. gießt Zeus ein; während ihre l. Hand von Hera gedrückt wird.

54. (= Hera 223*, = Hermes 747) Hydria. Leiden, Rijksmus. PC 73. Aus Vulci. – 460/50 v. Chr. – I. bekränzt sitzenden Zeus. Mit Hermes.

55. (= Hera 230*) Schale, fr. Paris, Louvre C 10564 und S 1322. – Um 470 v. Chr. – Mit Hermes und Poseidon. I. mit Kanne.

56. (= Hera 231) Pyxis. Berlin (DDR), Staatl. Mus. V. I. 3308. Aus Attika. – Schelp, J., Das Kanoun (1975) 52 mit Anm. 401; 89 K 88. – 460/50 v. Chr. – Mit Nike. I. (Namensbeischrift; ungeflügelt, trägt Kanoun) läuft, sich umblickend, nach l.

57. (= Hera 232*) Pelike. Vatikan. Aus der Nähe von Norcia. – 460/50 v. Chr. – Hält Kanne und Leier.

58.* (= Hera 233, = Hermes 748) Kolonettenkrater. San Simeon, State Hist. Mon. 9855. – Mit Hermes. I. hält Phiale.

59. (= Hera 226*) Hydria. Laon, Mus. Arch. Mun. 37.1027. – Um 450 v. Chr. – Mit Kerykeion.

60.* (= Hera 224) Glockenkrater. Perugia. Mus. Naz. Aus Orvieto. – Um 450 v. Chr. – I. (Haube) faßt mit der L. an ihr Gewand. Mit Göttin l.

Iris ministriert Hera oder Iris und Hera in anderen Opferszenen (ohne Zeus)

Attisch rotfigurige Vasen

61.* (= Hera 395) Lekythos. Providence, Rhode Island School of Design 35.707. Aus Gela. – Um 480 v. Chr. – I. (Kopfbedeckung, Kerykeion) gießt Hera ein.

62. (= Hera 392) Lekythos. Ehem. Neapel, Slg. Hamilton. – Um 480 v. Chr. – I. (Haube) gießt Hera ein.

63. (= Hera 393*) Skyphos. Berlin (DDR) Staatl. Mus. F. 2317. Aus Nola. – Um 460 v. Chr. – I. (Haube) hält statt Kanne Ranke und hebt mit der Linken ihr Gewand hoch.

64. (= Hera 401) Pelike. Cologny (Schweiz), Slg. Bodmer.

65. (= Hera 406*) Oinochoe. London, BM E 523. Aus Vulci.

66. (erwähnt zu → Hera 400) Kolonettenkrater. Frankfurt, Mus. f. Vor- und Frühgesch. β 395. – I. (Phiale) zwischen Hera und weiterer Göttin. Vgl. auch → Hera 400*.

Unteritalische Vase

67. (= Hera 394) Glockenkrater, campan. rf. Tenri (Japan), Tenri Sankokan Mus. E 114. – 330/20 v. Chr. – I. hält Kranz und Opferschale mit Früchten.

3. Iris und Hera in anderen Szenen

(außer Parisurteil)

Zu Iris und Hera s. auch: 78. 97. 111. 122. 129–133. 151. 152. 157.

Skulptur

68.* (= Dodekathēoi 4a* mit Querverweisen, = Hebe 131, = Hera 208*) Ostfries des Parthenon.

London, BM. Aus Athen, Akropolis. – Schefold, SB III 221 Abb. 302. – Um 440 v. Chr. – Innerhalb der Götterversammlung das sitzende Paar Zeus und Hera im Typus einer Hieros Gamos-Darstellung. Zur Rechten der Hera steht eine junge Flügelfrau im langen Gewand (Körper frontal, Kopf im Profil nach l.), die mit ihrer Linken zum Kopf greift, während die Rechte vor dem Körper liegt und vielleicht ein Attribut hielt. Ihre Geste wollte man so erklären, daß sie gerade von einem Flug angekommen sei und nun Gewand und Haar ordne. Vielleicht hielt sie in der Rechten ein Band, um ihre Haare hochzubinden. Sie blickt nicht zu Hera, sondern hält nach Simon 1, 63 nach dem Panathenäenzug Ausschau. Ihre Deutung ist umstritten. Aufgrund der Flügel wird es kaum Hebe sein, sondern Nike oder I., wobei die Nähe zu Hera für I. spricht, die auch sonst mit dem Hieros Gamos von Zeus und Hera verbunden ist, vgl. Simon, E., AM 97, 1982, 127. Gegen die I.-Deutung zuletzt Mark, I. S., Hesperia 53, 1984, 304–312 (Nike).

69. (= Hera 407*, = Hermes 750) Relief am Stadttor von Thasos (sog. Zeus-und-Hera-Tor). – 4. Jh. v. Chr. – Darstellung schlecht erhalten. Neben der thronenden Hera steht eine Flügelfrau in Vorderansicht (Attribut nicht erkennbar), wohl I.

Vasenmalerei

70.* (= Hera 390, = Herakles 1915) Amphora, att. sf. New York, MMA X.21.15 (G. R. 523). – Hera sendet I. (Flügel, kurzes Gewand, Flügelschuhe, hält in der Rechten einen Stab, dessen oberes Ende nicht dargestellt ist, Kerykeion?) mit dem nemeischen Löwen zu Herakles aus (vgl. Hes. theog. 327–328). Die Gegenseite der Vase zeigt Herakles im Kampf mit dem Löwen.

71. (= Hera 408*) Schale, att. rf. London, BM E 122. – Wenn die stehende Göttin Hera ist, dann dürfte es sich bei der auf sie zulaufenden Flügelfrau um I. handeln.

72. (= Hera 410*) Glockenkrater, lukan. rf. Tarent, Mus. Naz. 118371. Aus Manduria. – Um 400 v. Chr. – Thronende Göttin und Flügelfrau, von der nur wenig erhalten ist, wohl Hera und I.

73. (= Hera 409*) Glockenkrater, lukan. rf. Orvieto, Mus. Faina 2633. – Um 400 v. Chr. – I. (Flügel, Kerykeion) sitzt auf Steinen. Vor ihr steht Hera.

74. (= Astra 75 mit Lit., = Hera 391*, = Helios 116) Skyphos, apul. rf. Ruvo, Mus. Jatta 31. Aus Ruvo. – 330/20 v. Chr. – Unten Dionysos und Ariadne auf Wagen sowie Gestirngötter; oben Götterfries: am l. Rand lehnt Hera am Louterion. I. (nicht ganz erhalten; Flügel, kurzes Gewand, Stiefel) steht neben ihr und redet auf sie ein. R. von I. thronender Zeus, Hermes und Helios.

Wandmalerei

75.* (= Hera 210* mit Lit., = Hypnos/Somnus 157 mit Lit., = Iuno 286) Gemälde. Neapel Mus. Naz. 9559. Aus Pompeji VI 8, 3 (Casa del Poeta tragico). – Schefold, SB III 224 Abb. 307; Gazaille 2, 103–109 Abb. 1. – Neronisch. – Hieros Gamos von Hera oder Rhea auf dem Ida. I. (Flügel) fungiert als Brautführerin. Sie hat die Braut am Arm gefaßt und geleitet sie zu dem Bräutigam.

4. Iris und Zeus in anderen Szenen

Zu Iris und Zeus s. auch 68. 74. 82. 88. 89. 99. 100. 103.

Skulptur

76. Nordmetope 31 vom Parthenon. Athen, Akropolis. – Praschniker, C., Parthenonstudien (1928) 31–33 Abb. 22–24; 132–136 Abb. 85; Brommer, F., Die Metopen des Parthenon (1967) 58–59 Taf. 129 (mit Lit.); Berger, PartheDokMet 47–48 Taf. 32–33. 36, 2 (mit Lit.). – Um 440 v. Chr. – Darstellung stark zerstört. L. sitzt eine Person auf einem Felsen. Vor ihr steht eine Flügelfrau in Vorderansicht, den Kopf nach l. zu der sitzenden Figur gewendet. Ihr Gewand war vermutlich kurz, und sie hielt vielleicht ein Attribut in der l. Hand. Meist folgt man der Deutung von Praschniker auf Zeus und I. (auch Zeus und Eris wurde vorgeschlagen, s. die Lit. bei Berger).

Apulisch rf. Vasen

77.* Kraterfr. Genf, Privatbes. – Aellen, Ch./Cambitoglou, A./Chamay, J., Le Peintre de Darius et son milieu (Ausstellung Genf 1986) 172–173 mit Abb.: Dareiosmaler. – Um 330 v. Chr. – R. Unterkörper des thronenden Zeus, l. weibliche Figur in Seitenansicht (Kopf und Rücken nicht erhalten). Der kurze Chiton und die Flügelschuhe könnten auf I. deuten. R. von Zeus thronte vielleicht Hera.

78. Volutenkrater. Ehem. Brüssel, Kunsthandel. – RVAp Suppl. 1, 152 Nr. 23c Taf. 27, 1: Baltimore-Maler; Schauenburg, K., RM 91, 1984, 366 Anm. 65 Taf. 108. – Um 320 v. Chr. – Zweizonige Darstellung: unten dionysischer Zug mit Pantherwagen, oben Götterfries. Zwischen dem thronenden Götterpaar Zeus und Hera steht I. (Flügel, Kerykeion, kurzes Gewand, Stiefel) und ist zu Zeus gewendet, als ob sie auf einen Auftrag warte. Zeus blickt jedoch zur anderen Seite und ist im Gespräch mit Athena. Dagegen steht Hermes neben Hera und ist zu dieser gewendet.

79. Volutenkrater. Okayama, Kurashiki Ninagawa-Mus. – RVAp II 863, 14: Baltimore-Maler; Simon, E., The Kurashiki Ninagawa Museum (1982) 126–128 Nr. 64 Abb. – 330/20 v. Chr. – Unten Amazonomachie, oben Götterfries: Zeus thront am r. Rand und ist von seinen beiden Boten Hermes (l.) und I. (r., geflügelt, Kerykeion, kurzer Chiton, Stiefel, ein Bein hochgestellt; zu ihr springender Hund) flankiert.

80.* Volutenkrater, fr. Foggia, Mus. Civ. 132732. – RVAp II 866, 28: Baltimore-Maler; Schauenburg, a. O. 78, 386 Anm. 190 Taf. 123, 1. – Um 320 v. Chr. – Thema der Darstellung wie auf 78: Götterfries oberhalb von Dionysos und Ariadne im Pantherwagen. Auch hier spricht der thronende Zeus mit Athena, während I. (Flügel, Stiefel, kurzes Gewand, Kerykeion) zu seiner Linken wartet.

5. Iris und Hermes

Iris und Hermes treten noch auf weiteren Darstellungen gemeinsam auf: 54. 78. 79. 94. 100. 122. 127–136. 154. 158. 159.

a) Iris trägt das Hermeskind

81. (= Hermes 734*) Hydria, att. rf. München, Antikenslg. 2426. Aus Vulci. – ARV<sup>2</sup> 189, 76: Kleophradesmaler; 1632; Para 341; CVA 5 Taf. 227, 2; 228, 2; Schefold, SB III 47 Abb. 54. – Um 470 v. Chr. – I. (Stephane im langen Haar, Kerykeion) läuft mit einem kleinen Knaben im Arm nach r. Der Junge wird als Herakles oder Hermes gedeutet, wobei die Benennung Hermes in Analogie zu 82 vorzuziehen ist.

82.* (= Hermes 735) Skyphos, fr., att. rf. Tübingen, Univ. 1600 (E 106). – ARV<sup>2</sup> 974, 27: Lewis-Maler; Add<sup>2</sup> 309; Watzinger, KatTübingen 48 E 106 Taf. 28; Smith, H. R. W., Der Lewismaler (1974) Taf. 23a; Schefold, SB III 47 Abb. 55. – Um 450 v. Chr. – Von I. ist nur der Oberkörper erhalten, so daß sich nicht mehr feststellen läßt, ob I. ein Kerykeion hielt. I. ist nach l. gewandt und hält den kleinen Hermes (Kerykeion) im Arm. Sie bringt ihn zu Zeus (l., nur Zepter erhalten), damit er als ihr Nachfolger in sein Amt als Zeusbote eingesetzt werde.

b) Iris und Hermes in anderen Darstellungen

83. Amphora, att. sf. Hillsborough, Slg. Hearst. – Raubitschek, I. K., The Hearst Hillsborough Vases (1969) 38–41 Nr. 9. – Um 520 v. Chr. – Beide Götterboten (Kerykeia) stehen sich gegenüber. Sie sind im Handschlag miteinander verbunden. I. trägt über ihrem Peplos den Ependytes.

84.* Lebes gamikos, att. sf. Athen, Agora P 7893 und P 7897. – Shear, T. L., AJA 40, 1936, 412 Abb. 9; idem, Hesperia 6, 1937, 372 Abb. 36; 373; Kenner 92 Abb. 33; 93 Anm. 89; Agora 23 (1986) 167 Nr. 516 Taf. 49. – Spätes 6. Jh. v. Chr. – Rennende I. (unter dem Henkel dargestellt; Flügelschuhe, kein Kerykeion) und Hermes führen einen Hochzeitszug an.

85. (= Amphitrite 29 mit Lit., = Hermes 740) Lekythos, att. sf. New York, MMA 1941.162.34. – ABV 507, 5: Sapphomaler; Add<sup>2</sup> 126. – 490/80 v. Chr. – Amphitrite auf Flügeln über Meer fahrend. Dem Gespann voraus eilt eine ungeflügelte Göttin mit Flügelschuhen, vielleicht I., während Hermes hinterherläuft.

86.* Lekythos, att. sf. Baltimore, Walters Art Gall. 48.230. – ABV 550, 318: Haimongruppe. – Um 500 v. Chr. – R. Hermes, l. I. (geflügelt).

87. (= Hermes 737) Lekythos, att. sf. University, Univ. of Mississippi 77.3.82. Aus Attika. – Para 248: Diosphomaler; Haspels, ABL 235 Nr. 67; CVA Baltimore, Robinson Coll. Taf. 38 (171) 7; Kurtz, a. O. 16, 98 mit Anm. 5; SouthernColls 24–25 Nr. 5. – 500/490 v. Chr. – Hermes und I. (kurzer Chiton, Flügel, Flügelschuhe, Kerykeion, Kasten in der Hand) laufen, im Gespräch verbunden, nach r. Sinnlose Inschriften.

88. (= Hermes 741*) Stamnos, att. rf. Paris, Louvre G 192. Aus Vulci. – ARV<sup>2</sup> 208, 160: Berliner Maler; 1633; Para 343; Add<sup>2</sup> 195; CVA 6 Taf. 55

(434) 3; Philippaki, B., The Attic Stamnos (1967) Taf. 62, 3. – Um 480 v. Chr. – Zeus steht in der Mitte und hat seine beiden Boten ausgesandt: Hermes eilt nach l., I. (Flügel, Kerykeion) schwebt nach r. Vielleicht hängt die Darstellung mit der Gegenseite (schlangenvürgender Herakliskos, → Herakles 1650 = Alkmene 8*) zusammen, d. h., daß die Boten vielleicht die Rettung des Zeussohnes überwatchen sollen.

89.* Stamnos, att. rf. Ehem. London, Kunsthandel. – Sotheby's 5. 7. 1982 Nr. 344: Achilleusmaler; Sotheby's 10./11. 7. 1989 Nr. 249. – Um 450 v. Chr. – In der Mitte steht ein bärtiger Gott mit Zepter, wohl Zeus. Von r. eilt Hermes herbei, während I. (Flügel, Kerykeion) nach l. ausgeschickt wird. I. blickt zu Zeus zurück. Die vorgeschlagene Deutung auf Plouton überzeugt nicht.

6. Iris und Athena

Zu Iris und Athena s. auch 135. 158. 159.

90. (= Athena 357 mit Lit., = Eileithyia 14*, = Hephaistos 200 mit Lit.) Hydria, att. rf. Paris, Cab. Méd. 444. Aus Nola. – ARV<sup>2</sup> 1112, 3: Maler von Tarquinia 707. – Um 470 v. Chr. – Geburt der Athena. Unter den anwesenden Göttern am l. Rand eine Flügelfrau (ohne Attribute, macht eine erstaunte Gebärde): I. oder eine andere geflügelte Göttin.

90a.* Kelchkrater, att. rf. Paris, Louvre G 165. Aus Etrurien. – ARV<sup>2</sup> 601, 21: Niobidenmaler; Add<sup>2</sup> 266; Pottier, VasesLouvre III Taf. 126; CVA 2 Taf. 23 (93) 1. 2. – 470/60 v. Chr. – Ausfahrt der Athena. Die Göttin besteigt einen Wagen, neben dem ein Krieger steht (Ares? Heros?). Dem Gespann schwebt eine Flügelfrau mit Kerykeion voran, vielleicht I. Im Hintergrund deutet eine Säule ein Gebäude an.

91. (= Apollon 978) Volutenkrater, att. rf. Ferrara, Mus. Naz. T. 6 C VP. Aus Spina. – ARV<sup>2</sup> 1033, 1679; Para 442. 444: Polygnotosgruppe; Add<sup>2</sup> 318. – Um 440 v. Chr. – Delphisches Heiligtum mit Apollon. R. Athena mit I.

92.* Kelchkrater, apul. rf. Richmond, Virginia Mus. 81.81. – RVAp Suppl. 1, 55, 34a Taf. 6, 1–3: Maler der Dubliner Situlen oder Umkreis; Mayo, Vases-MagnaGraecia 111–112 Nr. 34. – Um 350 v. Chr. – Unten Amazonomachie, oben Götterfries: r. sitzt Athena, vor ihr steht eine Flügelfrau (Kerykeion, Stiefel) und präsentiert ihr einen Kranz. I. oder Nike.

93.* (= Artemis 1040) Oinochoe, apul. rf. Tarent, Mus. Naz. 8855. – RVAp II 873, 74: Baltimore-Maler. – 330/20 v. Chr. – Athena mit I. und Artemis.

94.* Volutenkrater, apul. rf., Ehem. London, Kunsthandel. – Sotheby's 10.–11. 12. 1984, Nr. 369: Baltimore-Maler. – 330/20 v. Chr. – Unten Amazonomachie, darüber Götterfries: im Zentrum sitzt Athena. Ihr zugewandt steht I. (hochgestelltes Bein, Flügel, Stiefel, kurzes Gewand, Kerykeion). L. thronende Frau mit Kreuzfackel (Persephone?), r. Sitzende mit Sonnenschirm (Aphrodite), der Hermes einen Kranz reicht. Die Darstellung erinnert an den Streit zwischen Persephone und Aphrodite um Adonis, bei dem auch I. und Hermes auftreten können (vgl. 100), doch würde man dann anstelle von Athena Zeus erwarten.

7. Iris in der Apollonsage

Zu Iris und Apollon s. auch 91. 154. 160. 161.

95. (= Demeter/Ceres 151* mit Lit. und Querverweisen) Sarkophagdeckel. Rom, Villa Borghese. Über einem nicht zugehörigen Herakles-Sarkophag eingemauert und stark ergänzt. – Schefold, SB III 45 Abb. 51. – Antoninisch. – Geburtssage von Apollon und Artemis in drei Szenen aufgegliedert. Im r. Teil Versammlung von Göttinnen (Demeter am Korb erkennbar). – Von r. kommt eine junge Frau (kurzgewand, Stiefel, Velificatio) bittend herangelaufen, vielleicht I., welche die Eileithyia zu der kreißenden Leto holen will (nach Hom. h. Ap. 102–114). Bei I. nur der l. Arm ergänzt.

8. Iris in der Gigantomachie

96. (= Hermes 830 mit Lit.) Skyphos, att. rf. Paris, Louvre G 66. – ARV<sup>2</sup> 126, 25: Nikosthenesmaler; Para 333; Add<sup>2</sup> 176; Pottier, Vases Louvre II 149–150 Taf. 96. – Um 500 v. Chr. – Darstellung teils zerstört. R. von einer Säule nach r. laufende I. (mit Kerykeion, Oberkörper nicht erhalten). Vor ihr Herakles und Gigant am Boden. Weiter Göttin, Hermes, Athena, Gigant, Ge. Die beiden Götterboten sind hier den Hauptkämpfern Athena und Herakles zugeordnet.

97. (= Gigantes 24* mit Lit. und Querverweisen, = Hera 371 mit Lit.) Pergamonfries, Ostseite, nur wenig erhalten. Berlin (DDR), Staatl. Mus. Aus Pergamon. – 190/160 v. Chr. – Hera lenkt das Gespann des Zeus und war von einer Flügelfrau begleitet, von der nur ein großer Flügel erhalten ist. Die Figur befand sich l. von Hera. Sie kämpfte nicht gegen einen Giganten, sondern begleitete Hera. Simon, Pergamon 20: I.

9. Iris und Astralgötter

98. (= Eos 39* mit Lit.) Volutenkrater, fr. apul. rf. Tarent, Mus. Naz. Aus Gravina. – RVAp II 1023. 1024, 40: seemed to reflect something of the style of the Arpi Painter and of BM F 278. – 320/10 v. Chr. – Der oberste Fries auf dem Bauch des Gefäßes zeigt l. eine sitzende Frau, r. von ihr I. (Flügel, Kerykeion, kurzes Gewand, Stiefel), die einer weiteren sitzenden Frau (wohl Selene wegen der Scheibe hinter ihrem Kopf) mit Eros zugewandt ist. R. stehender Helios mit Strahlenkranz und Flügelfrau mit Pferd, vielleicht Eos. Über den Figuren Sterne. I. ist hier bei den Astralgötterheiten vielleicht nicht als Botin, sondern als Personifikation des Regenbogens zugegen.

10. Iris bei der Schmückung der Pandora

99.* (= Anesidora 2 mit Lit., = Hera 345 mit Lit. und Querverweisen, = Hermes 742) Kelchkrater, att. rf. London, BM E 467. Aus Altamura. – ARV<sup>2</sup> 601, 23: Niobidenmaler; Para 395; Add<sup>2</sup> 266. – Um 460 v. Chr. – In der oberen Zone Götterversammlung anlässlich der Schmückung der Pandora. Anwesend sind dabei auch beide Götterboten, Hermes und I. (kurzes Gewand, Flügelschuhe, Kerykeion; steht hinter dem Thron des Zeus). Beide führen hier wohl Aufträge des Zeus aus, denn Pandora wurde auf Befehl des Zeus erschaffen und auf dessen Geheiß hin dem Epimetheus übergeben.

11. Iris beim Streit um Adonis

100.* Volutenkrater, apul. rf. Genf, Privatslg. – Schauenburg, a. O. 78, 369–370. 373. 381. 384 Taf. 110, 1–2: Baltimore-Maler; Aellen/Cambitoglou/Chamay, a. O. 77, 215–224 Abb. – 330/320 v. Chr. – Obere Zone: I. vom thronenden Zeus Aphrodite, der Hermes eine Nachricht überbringt, sowie Adonis mit Eros. R. von Zeus stehen Persephone und I. (Flügel, kurzes, über Kreuz gegürtetes Gewand, Stiefel, Kerykeion). Zeus fällt beim Streit der Göttinnen, Aphrodite und Persephone, um Adonis einen Schiedsspruch, den hier offenbar die beiden Götterboten Hermes und I. der jeweiligen Göttin übermitteln.

12. Iris bei einer Götterhochzeit

Iris in weiteren Hochzeitsszenen s. auch 75. 84. 124–126.

101. (= Apollon 850 mit Lit., = Artemis 1010/1161 [Fuß], = Hermes 699) Lebes gamikos, att. rf. Athen, Nat. Mus. 1172 (CC 1229). Aus Ampelokipi. – ARV<sup>2</sup> 585, 33: earlier mannerist; Kenner 93 Abb. 34. – Um 470 v. Chr. – Hochzeitszug mit Göttern. Der Zug wird von der rennenden, kerykeiontragenden I. (unter dem Henkel) angeführt.

13. Iris im eleusinischen Kreis

S. weiter 100. 153.

102.* (= Keleos I mit Lit. und Querverweisen) Schale, att. rf. Frankfurt, Liebieghaus St V 7. Aus Vulci. – ARV<sup>2</sup> 386: nahe dem Castelgiorgio-Maler; 1649; Para 521; Add<sup>2</sup> 229; Schefold, SB III 50 Abb. 59; Schwarz, G., Triptolemos (1987) 38 V 56; 100–108 Abb. 11b (mit Lit.). – 490/80 v. Chr. – Aussendung des Triptolemos in Gegenwart eleusinischer Gottheiten, die teilweise Abschiedsspenden darbringen. Die Frau mit Phiale hinter Triptolemos (Metaneira?) ist eine Flügelfrau (mit Kanne, wahrscheinlich I.) zugewandt. I. ist hier wohl nicht anstelle von Hermes wiedergegeben, der sonst öfter bei der Triptolemosausfahrt vorkommt (s. Schwarz a. O. Index s. v. Hermes). Denn Hermes ist dort weniger als göttlicher Bote, sondern eher als Vater des Keryx aufzufassen. Auch I. tritt hier nicht als Botin, sondern als Ministrant auf. Willemsen, F., AM 69/70, 1954/55, 33–40 Taf. 1–2 ergänzte einen weiblichen Torso aus Eleusis (um 490 v. Chr.) zu einer Flügelgöttin und erwägt aufgrund der Darstellung auf dieser Frankfurter Schale die Zugehörigkeit zu einem Giebel, in dem vielleicht die Triptolemosausfahrt dargestellt war. Doch deutet er den Torso als Nike. Falls der – sehr hypothetische – Rekonstruktionsvorschlag zutrifft, so wäre wie auf der Schale wohl eher I. gemeint.

103. (= Aphrodite 1378 mit Lit., = Demeter 313 mit Lit., = Helios 113, = Hera 343) Volutenkrater, apul. rf. Neapel, Mus. Naz. 81667 (H 3256). Aus Ruvo. – RVAp II 495, 40 Taf. 176, 2: Dareiosmaler. – Um 330 v. Chr. – A: dreizonige Darstellung: unten Koreraub, in der Mitte Korybanten, oben Götterfries. Im mittleren Fries steht I. am Rand neben einem Korybanten I. (Flügel, kurzes Gewand, Stiefel, Kerykeion). Sie verbindet diese Zone mit dem oberhalb von ihr dargestellten Zeus, dessen Willen sie hier dem Korybanten deutlich macht. Denn Zeus ist mit dem Raub einverstanden und will eine Verfolgung verhindern. So läßt er dem Korybanten durch I. Einhalt gebieten.

14. Iris beim Streit um das attische Land

104.* (→ Athena 234*) Figur N aus dem Parthenon-Westgiebel. London, BM. – Brommer, F., Die Skulpturen der Parthenongiebel (1963) 45–47 Taf. 111–113; Berger, E., et al. AntK 19, 1976, 126–127 Taf. 29, 3; idem, AntK 20, 1977, 128–129; Brommer, F., Die Parthenonskulpturen (1979) 42–43 Taf. 122. 123, 1. 2; Simon, E., in Tainia. Festschr. R. Hampe (1980) 244–245; Boardman, J./Finn, D., The Parthenon and its sculptures (1985) Taf. 23. – Um 440/432 v. Chr. – Figur nicht vollständig erhalten; ebenso ist ihre genaue Position in der r. Giebelseite nicht eindeutig geklärt. Weiblicher Torso in starker Bewegung nach l. Die Einlaßspuren auf dem Rücken deuten darauf hin, daß die Figur Flügel trug. Ihr dünnes Gewand wird vom Wind an den Körper gedrückt, der durch das feine Faltengeriesel hindurch sichtbar ist. Weitere Fragmente wurden hypothetisch mit dieser Statue verbunden (s. Berger und Brommer). Im Westgiebel war der Streit zwischen Athena und Poseidon um das attische Land dargestellt. Beide Götter kamen mit Gespannen, die von Wagenlenkern gefahren wurden. Der Sage nach greift Zeus in den Streit ein, in dem er u. a. durch Hermes Einhalt gebieten läßt. In der l. Giebelhälfte bremst Hermes die Fahrt der Wagenlenkerin der Athena (Nike?), in der r. I. die des Poseidon (Amphitrite als Wagenlenkerin).

15. Iris im dionysischen Kreis

Im letzten Viertel des 6. Jh. setzen Vasenbilder ein, die eine Flügelfrau von Satyrn umgeben zeigen. Spätere Darstellungen klären darüber auf, daß die Satyrn die Göttin verfolgen und belästigen. Es muß sich um I. handeln, wie die Namensbeischrift bei I. und auch die Präsenz der Hera auf der Brygosschale (111) zeigen. Dies ist zugleich die ausführlichste Wiedergabe, aus der sich die Handlung am besten erschließen läßt. Sie wird von Simon 2, 125–129 folgendermaßen rekonstruiert: Hera ist Dionysos feindlich gesonnen und schickt ihre Botin I. aus, um Opfer an Dionysos zu verhindern bzw. die Opferstücke vom Altar zu rauben. Doch die Satyrn wollen dies als treue Diener ihres Herrn nicht zulassen und greifen ein, indem sie I. fangen und ihr Gewalt antun wollen. So spielt I. auch in dieser Geschichte wiederum die Rolle der Heratrabantin. Literarische Quellen zu diesem Stoff sind nicht erhalten, doch muß das Thema auf ein Satyrspiel zurückgehen. Vielleicht wurde es in mehreren Dramen verwendet. Denn die Geschichte könnte auch wieder Thema eines späteren Satyrspiels mit dem Titel Iris (nur wenige Fragmente erhalten) von Achaïos (2. Hälfte 5. Jh. v. Chr.) gewesen sein (s. weiter Simon 2, 125–129). Auf die Funktion der I. als Überwacherin von Opfern spielt auch Aristoph. Aves 1202–1259 an. Die von Satyrn bedrohte Flügelfrau wird in der Literatur auch zuweilen nicht überzeugend als Nike gedeutet.

a) Iris und Satyrn

Attisch schwarzfigurige Vasen

105. Lekythos. Ehem. London, Kunsthandel. – Haspels, ABL 208, 52 (Gela-Maler); Sotheby's 23. 7. 1930 Nr. 119 Taf. II; Brommer, Satyrspiele<sup>2</sup> 73 Nr. 28. – 4. Viertel 6. Jh. v. Chr. – In der Mitte sitzt eine Flügelfrau, r. wegeilender Satyr.

106. Schale, fr. Bern, Slg. Lifschitz. – Brommer, F., GettyMusJ 6/7, 1978/79, 144 Nr. 4 (28a). – 4. Viertel 6. Jh. v. Chr.

107.* Augenschale. Cleveland (Ohio), Mus. of Art 26.514. – ABV 630, 3: dem Pittsburgh-Maler vergleichbar; Add<sup>2</sup> 145; CVA I Taf. 20 (700) 3; 22 (702) 1; Brommer, a. O. 106, 144 Nr. 7 (28d). – 520/10 v. Chr. – Auf beiden Außenseiten zwischen den Augen laufende Flügelfrau, r. und l. je ein Satyr.

108. Augenschale. Ehem. Mailand, Kunsthandel. – Finarte (Auktion 14. 3. 1963) 54–55 Nr. 65 Taf. 29; Brommer, a. O. 106, 144 Nr. 5 (28b). – Um 500 v. Chr. – Darstellung auf beiden Seiten ähnlich wie 107.

109. Augenschale. Sarasota (Florida), Ringling Mus. Aus Zypern. – ABV 636, 52: Maler von Oxford 237; Add<sup>2</sup> 145; Brommer, a. O. 106, 144 Nr. 6 (28c). – Um 480 v. Chr. – Darstellung auf einer Seite ähnlich wie 107.

Attisch rotfigurige Vasen

110. (= Aias II 105 [A]) Schale. Boston, MFA 1908.30a und Fr. Louvre S 1378. – Aus Vulci. – ARV<sup>2</sup> 135: weiterer Umkreis des Nikosthenesmalers; 1628; Add<sup>2</sup> 177; Brommer, Satyrspiele<sup>2</sup> 26 Abb. 17. 27–28. 73 Nr. 29; Vermeule, E., AntK 12, 1969, 13 Nr. 12 Taf. 10, 3. – Um 500 v. Chr. – Die Darstellung ist nicht vollständig erhalten. Seite B zeigt in der Mitte einen Altar, dahinter die nach r. rennende I. (geflügelt, Flügelschuhe, Opferstück in der Hand). Fünf Satyrn (drei von l., zwei von r., der eine mit peltaförmigem Schild) greifen sie an.

111. (= Dromis I*, = Dionysos 791 mit Lit. und Querverweisen, = Hera 327 [A], = Hermes 752 [A] mit Querverweisen, = Hydris I [A]) Schale. London, BM E 65. Aus Capua. – ARV<sup>2</sup> 370, 13: Brygosmaler; Para 365; Add<sup>2</sup> 224. – 490 v. Chr. – Die Darstellung erstreckt sich auf beide Seiten. Alle Figuren mit Namensbeischriften. Auf A wollen sich die Satyrn an Hera heranschleichen, der jedoch Hermes und Herakles beistehen. Auf B hat Dionysos drei Satyrn nach I. ausgeschickt, die bereits ein Opferstück vom Altar genommen hat und wegrennt (mit Kerykeion). Zwei der Satyrn haben sie bereits eingeholt und halten sie festgepackt.

112. Schale. Freiburg, Kunsthandel. – Kunst der Antike (Gall. G. Puhze) 4 (1982) 19 Nr. 200; Brommer, F., GettyVases I (1983) 120 Nr. 361. – 490/80 v. Chr. – Zwei Satyrn rennen auf I. in der Mitte zu (r. Kerykeion, mit der Linken ans Gewand fassend, eilt sich umblickend nach r.).

113. Skyphoschale. Berlin (DDR), Staatl. Mus. F 2591. Aus Nola. – ARV<sup>2</sup> 888, 150: Penthesileamaler; 1673; v. Lücken, G., Griechische Vasenbilder (1921) Taf. 10; Brommer, Satyrschale 26 Abb. 18. 28–29. 73 Nr. 32. – Um 460 v. Chr. – I. (mit Kerykeion und Opferstück) eilt sich umblickend nach r. R. und l. je ein Satyr. Der r. Satyr hat sie bereits am Arm gepackt. Auf der Gegenseite Dionysos mit zwei weiteren Satyrn.

114. Skyphos. Paris, Cab. Méd. 840. Aus Apulien. – ARV<sup>2</sup> 888, 154: Penthesileamaler («restored»); Brommer, Satyrschale 27 Abb. 19; 28. 73 Nr. 33. – I. (mit jeder Hand einen Gewandzipfel hochhebend) läuft nach r. L. und r. ein Satyr.

115. Schale. Ehem. New York, Kunsthandel. – ARV<sup>2</sup> 863, 2: Art des Pistoxenosmalers; 1673. – Um 470 v. Chr. – Die eine Seite zeigt I. mit Kerykeion und Opferstück nach r. laufend, die andere den hinter ihr hereilenden Dionysos. Beazley: Ausschnitt aus einer Szene ähnlich wie 111.

116. Schale. Ehem. London, Kunsthandel. – Christie's 10. 12. 1986 Nr. 217: Ancona-Maler. – Um 460 v. Chr. – Auf der einen Seite wird I. (mit Kerykeion und Opferstück) von vier Satyrn belästigt, auf der anderen Dionysos, Mänade und weitere Satyrn am Altar.

117. Schale. Tarquinia, Mus. Naz. RC 1122. Aus Tarquinia. – ARV<sup>2</sup> 953, 45: Angular P.; Brommer, Satyrschale 73 Nr. 30. – 460/50 v. Chr. – I. (Chiton, Himation, Sakkos) sitzt nach r. auf einem Felsen. Sie macht mit der R. eine Redegeste und ist den beiden sie umgebenden Satyrn weit überlegen. Diese scheinen von der Göttin eingeschüchtert worden zu sein. Das Thema «Satyrn nahen einer Frau» hat der Maler auch auf der anderen Außenseite und im Innenbild dargestellt. Es ist zu überlegen, ob die Frau auf der Außenseite vielleicht Hera sein könnte.

118. Rhyton. Bonn, Akad. Kunstmus. 545. – ARV<sup>2</sup> 766, 4: Art des Sokratesmalers; CVA I Taf. 24 (24) 2–4; Brommer, Satyrschale 73 Nr. 34a. – 450/40 v. Chr. – Drei Figuren: Mänade, Silen, Flügelfrau mit Fackeln (I.).

119. Kraterfr. Thessaloniki, Arch. Mus. Ol. V 280. Aus Olynth. – Robinson, D. M., Olynthus V (1933) 154 Nr. 280 Taf. 125; Brommer, Satyrschale 73 Nr. 34. – Mitte 4. Jh. v. Chr. – Flügelfrau, wohl I. (Gegenstände in ihren Händen nicht näher zu deuten) in Vorderansicht, Kopf nach r. zu einer sitzenden Figur gewandt, von der nur wenig erhalten ist (Hera?). Von l. schleicht ein Satyr heran.

Unteritalische Vase

120. * Glockenkrater, apul. rf. Vatikan 17962. – RVAp I 130, 262: Irismaler; Trendall, Vat 81 U 14 Taf. 23g; Brommer, a. O. 106, 144 Nr. 8 (34a). – Um 360 v. Chr. – Neben einer äolischen Säule kniet ein Satyr, der sich mit erhobenen Händen gegen eine von l. herbeilaufende Flügelfrau wehrt. I. attackiert Satyr?

b) Iris in anderen dionysischen Szenen

121. Kyathos, att. sf. Omaha, Joslyn Art Mus. 1963.484. – Para 260: nahe dem Theseusmaler (Nike); MuM Auktion 22, 1961, 77 Nr. 146 Taf. 46; CVA I Taf. 28–29. – Um 490 v. Chr. – Wagenbestiegender Dionysos mit Thiasos und Hermes. Neben dem gespannten Flügelgöttin mit Kanne und Spendschale, I.?

122. (= Aphrodite 1354* mit Lit., = Dionysos 664* mit Querverweisen, = Hera 323 mit Lit., = Hermes 369) Hydria, att. rf. Berkeley, Lowie Mus. 8.3316. – ARV<sup>2</sup> 1343, 1; 1691: Semelemaler; Add<sup>2</sup> 367. – Um 390 v. Chr. – Geburt des Dionysos. I. (kurzes Gewand, Stiefel, Kopf Flügel, Kerykeion) schleicht – von Hera ausgesandt – vorsichtig von r. heran, um den neugeborenen Knaben zu rauben. Doch ist Hermes ihr bereits zugekommen und hat das Kind an sich genommen.

123. Dinos, apul. rf. Ehem. London, Kunsthandel. – RVAp Suppl. 1, 80 Nr. 106a Taf. 16, 1. 2: Dareiosmaler; Sotheby's 10./11. 7. 1989 134–135 Nr. 265 Abb. – Um 330 v. Chr. – Sitzender Gott mit Widderhörnern, neben ihm I. (kurzgewandete Flügelfrau, Stiefel, hält Kerykeion und Zweig), weitere Satyrn und Mänaden. Deshalb vielleicht eher Dionysos als Ammon.

16. Iris und Amphitrite

Siehe 85. 104

17. Iris und Aphrodite

Siehe 128.

18. Iris (?) – Dodekathoei

123a) (= Hera 355, = Helios 119 mit Lit.) Marmorrelief, sog. Tribune d'Echmun. Beirut, Mus. Aus Sidon, Echmunheiligtum. – Stucky, R., Tribune d'Echmun, AntK 13. Beih. (1984) 18–19 Taf. 4, 2; 6, 1; 16, 1. 2. – 4. Jh. v. Chr. – Dreiseitiges Relief mit Darstellung einer Götterversammlung, die l. und r. von je einer auswärts fahrenden Quadriga mit Wagenlenker eingerahmt wird. Beide tragen die charakteristische Wagenlenkertracht. Ihr Geschlecht ist nicht zu bestimmen. Stucky denkt an die beiden Götterboten Hermes und I. oder an eine kosmische Rahmung durch Helios und Selene.

19. Iris bei Styx?

123b) Pelike, att. rf. Polygyros, Mus. Ehem. Slg. Lampropoulos. – Makedonika 15, 1975, 222 Taf. 140a. – Um 470 v. Chr. – Von r. läuft eine Flügelfrau (Chiton, Mantel, Sakkos) heran. Sie hält in der Linken ein Kerykeion und macht mit der Rechten eine Gruß- oder Redegeste zu der ihr gegenüberstehenden Frau. Diese präsentiert Kanne und Spendschale. I. holt bei Styx das Libationswasser für die Götter ab (vgl. Hes. theog. 784–786)? (Deutung E. Simon mündlich).

D. Iris im Heroenkreis und in weiteren mythischen Szenen

1. Iris im trojanischen Sagenkreis

a) Iris bei der Hochzeit Peleus–Thetis

124. * (= Demeter 474 mit Lit. und Querverweisen, = Hermes 405, = Hestia 4) Dinos, att. sf. London, BM 1971.11–1.1. – Para 19, 16bis: Sophilos; Add<sup>2</sup> 10; Bakir, G., Sophilos (1981) 5–6 A 1 Taf. 1; Williams, D., GettyVases I (1983) 9 mit Anm. 4; 11 Abb. 2; 22–23 Abb. 26. – Um 580 v. Chr. – I. schreitet an der Spitze eines Götterzuges nach r., um diesen zur Hochzeit von Peleus und Thetis zu geleiten. Peleus steht schon vor seinem Haus zum Empfang der Gäste bereit. I. (mit Namensbeischrift, ungeflügelt) trägt rote Flügelschuhe und einen kurzen roten Chiton mit einer Brustplatte und Kreuzschnürung. In der R. hält sie einen langen Stab, wohl ein Kerykeion, dessen achtförmige Spitze vom Kantharos des Peleus verdeckt ist.

125. (= Chariklo I 1*, = Demeter 473 mit Lit. und Querverweisen, = Hestia 3) Dinos, att. sf. fr. Athen, Nat. Mus. 15163 (Akr. 587). Von der Akropolis. – ABV 39, 15: Sophilos; 681; Add<sup>2</sup> 10; Bakir, a. O. 124, 1. 5. 13 A 2 Taf. 3g. – Um 580 v. Chr. – Darstellung wie auf 124. Auch hier geleitet I. (jedoch nicht ganz erhalten) den Götterzug nach r. I. (die Namensbeischrift war vermutlich wie bei den anderen Göttern r. von der Figur angebracht und ist deshalb nicht erhalten; ungeflügelt) trägt hier über dem Chiton noch ein Tierfell. Mit Flügelschuhen. In der R. hält sie den Heroldstab. Wie auf 124 ist das erste ihr folgende Götterpaar Hestia und Demeter.

126. (= Cheiron 42*, = Demeter 475 mit Querverweisen, = Hestia 5) Volutenkrater, att. sf. (sog. Françoisvase). Florenz, Mus. Arch. 4209. Aus Chiusi. – ABV 76, 1: Klitias und Ergotimos; Para 29; Add<sup>2</sup> 21; Detailabb. der I. bei Cristofani, M., et al., BollArte Ser. spec. 1 (1981) Abb. 133. – Um 570 v. Chr. – I. führt hier zusammen mit dem Kentauren Chiron den Götterzug nach r. an. Gegenüber von I. wie auf 124 Peleus vor seinem Haus. I. (Namensbeischrift, ungeflügelt) trägt wie auf 125 eine Nebris über ihrem kurzen Chiton und hält ein Kerykeion.

b) Iris im Parisurteil

GRIECHISCH

127. * (= Hermes 739 mit Lit.) Hydria, att. sf.

Berlin (DDR), Staatl. Mus. F 1895. Aus Vulci. – ABV 268, 31: Antimenesmaler; Add<sup>2</sup> 70. – 520/10 v. Chr. – Der Zug der Göttinnen zu Paris wird hier von beiden Götterboten angeführt. Hinter Hermes schreitet I. (ungeflügelt, mit Kerykeion).

128. Kanne, fr., att. rf. Mailand, Privatslg. (ehem. Basel, MuM). – Sosiasmaler, um 510 v. Chr. – Zug nach l. Hinter Aphrodite Flügelfrau mit nicht ganz erhaltenem Stab (Kerykeion?), die mit der Rechten an den Kopfschleier der Aphrodite faßt, I.?

129. (= Hera 430* mit Lit.) Pyxis, att. rf. Berlin (West), Staatl. Mus. F 4043. – ARV<sup>2</sup> 833, 47: Amphitritemaler. – Um 460 v. Chr. – I. (Sakkos, Flügel) hält für die ihr gegenüberstehende Hera ein Halsband bereit.

130. (= Eris 7, = Hebe I 52 mit Lit., = Hera 411 mit Lit.) Kelchkrater, att. rf. Leningrad, Ermitage IO.0.52 (St. 1807). Aus Kertsch. – ARV<sup>2</sup> 1185, 7: Kadmosmaler; Para 460; Add<sup>2</sup> 341. – Ende 5. Jh. v. Chr. – Unten Parisurteil; in der oberen Zone ist die Vorgeschichte dazu dargestellt: in der Mitte Themis im Gespräch mit Eris, l. gespannte Wagenlenkerin, r. neben Zeus weiteres Gespann (nicht vollständig erhalten) mit geflügelter Lenkerin, vielleicht I. (reichbestickter Peplos, Haarschmuck). Die beiden Wagenlenkerinnen gehören wohl eher zu Eris und Themis als zu den Göttinnen unten. I. wäre dann Themis zugeordnet.

131. (= Hermes 478*) Pelike, att. rf. Athen, Nat. Mus. 1181 (CC 1855). Aus Athen. – ARV<sup>2</sup> 1475, 5: Marsyasmler; Para 495; Schefold, UKV 38 Nr. 336 Taf. 36; Raab, I., Zu den Darstellungen des Parisurteils in der griechischen Kunst (1972) 181 B 27 (mit Lit.). – Um 330 v. Chr. – Oberhalb von Hera ist die Büste einer Flügelfrau dargestellt. Es könnte sich um I. handeln, die auch sonst im Parisurteil Trabanten der Hera ist.

132. (= Aphrodite 1437* mit Lit., = Hera 445 mit Lit.) Pelike, apul. rf. Deutschland, Privatbes. – RVAp II 502, 69: Dareiosmaler. – 340/30 v. Chr. – Unten Teilnehmer des Parisurteils, doch ohne Hera. Diese sitzt noch zaudernd oben und wird von I. (kurzes Gewand, Flügel, Stiefel) zum Gehen aufgefordert. Die kleine Flügelfrau mit der Binde unten r. neben Athena ist wohl Nike, die oft bei Agonen präsent ist.

133. (= Aphrodite 1442 mit Lit., = Hedone 9 mit Lit.) Amphora, apul. rf. Berlin (DDR), Staatl. Mus. F 3240. Aus Ceglie. – RVAp II 490, 23: Dareiosmaler; RVAp Suppl. 1, 68. – Um 340 v. Chr. – L. von Hera sitzt ein Flügelmädchen mit einem Alabastron in der Hand, wohl I., die das Salbgefäß für Heras Schönheitspflege bereithält.

134. (= Aphrodite 1435* mit Lit., = Hedone 14 mit Lit.) Hydria, apul. rf. Berlin (West), Staatl. Mus. F 3290. Aus Ceglie. – RVAp I 426, 58 Taf. 156, 3: Chama-Maler. – Um 330 v. Chr. – Unterhalb von Paris sitzt eine Flügelfrau nach r. gewandt (Stiefel, kurzer Chiton, hält r. eine Schale), vielleicht I.

135. Volutenkrater, apul. rf. Thonon, Kunsthandel. – RVAp Suppl. 1, 151, 15a: Baltimore-Maler; Numifrance Kat. 2 (1981) 4. 10–11 Nr. 16. – Um 330/20 v. Chr. – In der oberen Zone lehnt r. I. (Stiefel, kurzes Gewand, Kerykeion) an einem Pfeiler. Sie ist hier der Athena zugeordnet, auf die sie einredet, wie die Geste ihrer r. Hand zeigt.

ETRUSKISCH

136. (= Alexandros 15* mit Lit., = Aphrodite/Turan 16 mit Lit., = Athena/Menerva 243 mit Lit., = Eros [in Etr.] 33) Bronzeciste («Cista Barberini»). Rom, Villa Giulia 13199. Aus Palestrina. – Um 330 v. Chr. – Hinter Alexandros steht die geflügelte I.

c) Iris in weiteren trojanischen Szenen

Ankunft des Antilochos in Troja

137. (= Antilochos I 4* mit Lit.) Schale, att. rf. Berlin (DDR), Staatl. Mus. F 2264. Aus Vulci. – ARV<sup>2</sup> 60, 64: Oltos; Para 326; Add<sup>2</sup> 164–165. – Um 510 v. Chr. – Achilleus begrüßt Nestor und tritt als Fürsprecher für dessen Sohn Antilochos ein, der ohne Erlaubnis seines Vaters nach Troja gekommen ist. Er wird von Phoinix mit einem Wagen gebracht. Neben den Pferden steht I. (geflügelt; Namensbeischrift). Vielleicht bedeutet ihre Anwesenheit hier, daß Antilochos mit dem Einverständnis der Götter nach Troja kommt, wo er später den Opfertod für seinen Vater sterben wird.

Presbeia an Achilleus

138. Volutenkrater, apul. rf. Foggia, Mus. Civ. 132821. Aus Arpi. – RVAp II 866, 25: Baltimore-Maler; Schauenburg, a. O. 78, 360 Anm. 8 Taf. 96, 3. – Um 330/20 v. Chr. – Ein Naikos bezeichnet das Zelt des Achilleus, der, über die Wegnahme der Briseis grollend, auf einem Stuhl sitzt. Phoinix redet auf ihn ein, um ihn zum Kampf zu bewegen. Um den Naikos herum weitere Personen, dabei r. oben I. (geflügelt, Stiefel, kurzes Gewand, Kerykeion). Die Präsenz der I. läßt an Hom. Il. 18, 165–202 denken, wo I. noch vor der Waffenübergabe von Hera zu Achilleus geschickt wird, gleichsam als weitere Presbeia, damit sie ihn zum Kämpfen bewege. Somit wären hier zwei Presbeien angedeutet.

Übergabe der neuen Waffen an Achilleus

139.* (= Achilleus 528 mit Lit., = Hera 449 mit Lit.) Volutenkrater, apul. rf. Florenz, Soprintendenza Arch. della Toscana 114106. – RVAp II 864, 20: Baltimore-Maler. – Um 330/20 v. Chr. – A. obere Zone: Übergabe der neuen Waffen an Achilleus. R. von Thetis steht I. (geflügelt, Kerykeion, Stiefel, kurzes Gewand) neben einem Louterion. M. Schmidt (→ Achilleus 528) 55 Nr. 2 bringt die Präsenz der I. hier ebenfalls mit der zu 138 genannten Iliasstelle zusammen, in welcher der der Waffenübergabe vorausgehende Besuch der I. bei Achilleus geschildert wird.

140.* (= Achilleus 529 mit Lit.) Loutrophoros, apul. rf. Tarent, Mus. Naz. 9847 (früher Bari). – RVAp II 869, 44 Taf. 329, 1–3: Baltimore-Maler. – 330/20 v. Chr. – Im Schulterfries Nereiden mit den Waffen für Achilleus. In der Zone darunter sitzender Jüngling (Achilleus?) von zahlreichen Personen umgeben, von denen einige Waffen halten. Vor ihm steht – ihm zu-gewandt – I. (kurzes Gewand, Stiefel, Kerykeion, ein Tuch haltend) und redet auf ihn ein. Vielleicht auch hier Darstellung nach Hom. Il. 18, 165–202 mit anschließender Waffenübergabe, vgl. zu 138 und 139. Die Schwierigkeit der Deutung der gesamten Darstellung liegt jedoch darin, daß nicht nur weibliche, sondern auch männliche Waffenträger vorkommen.

Schleifung Hektors

141. (= Achilleus 592* mit Lit. und Beschreibung, = Automedon 14, → Hektor S. 491 mit Lit.) Amphora, att. sf. London, BM 1899.7–21.3. Aus Vulci. – ABV 330, 2: Priamosmaler; Para 146; Add<sup>2</sup> 89–90; Isler-Kerényi 40–42. 138 Nr. 64. – Um 520 v. Chr. – Die Flügelfrau, die dem Wagenlenker Einhalt gebietet, ist in Analogie zu anderen Darstellungen sicher I. Der beigeschriebene Name Konisos gehört wohl zum Wagenlenker. Diese Rolle der I. ist durch Schriftquellen nicht belegt. Bei Homer (s. lit. Quellen) wird Thetis zu Achilleus gesandt, um das Schleifen zu beenden, während I. zu Priamos geschickt wird, damit er sich auf den Weg mache, um Hektor auszulösen. Die Vasenmaler haben offenbar I. auch mit der Mission zu Achilleus betraut.

142. (= Achilleus 586* mit Lit., = Automedon 8) Hydria, att. sf. Boston, MFA 1963.473. – Para 164, 31 bis: Leagrosgruppe; Add<sup>2</sup> 96; Isler-Kerényi 40–42. 138 Nr. 70. – Um 510 v. Chr. – I. läuft von r. mit erhobenen Händen herbei. Da hier I. auf das trojanische Tor zuläuft, in dem Priamos und Hekabe stehen, könnte auch der Auftrag gemeint sein, wonach I. diese auffordert, Hektor auszulösen. Vielleicht hat der Vasenmaler aber auch hier beide Auftritte der I. (Schleifung und Besuch bei Priamos) zu einer Darstellung verbinden wollen.

143. (= Achilleus 588* mit Lit., = Automedon 10, → Hektor S. 491 mit Lit.) Lekythos, att. sf. Delos, Mus. B 6137 546. Aus Delos (Heraion). – ABV 378, 257: Leagrosgruppe (Painter S); Para 163; Add<sup>2</sup> 100; Isler-Kerényi 40–42. 138 Nr. 67. – Um 510 v. Chr. – I. steht vor dem Wagenkasten und gebietet gestikulierend dem Wagenlenker Einhalt.

144. (= Achilleus 590 mit Lit., = Automedon 12, → Hektor S. 491) Lekythos, att. sf. Krakau, Nat. Mus. XI. 1245. – ABV 380, 291: Leagrosgruppe; Para 163; Add<sup>2</sup> 100; Isler-Kerényi 40–42. 138 Nr. 69. – Um 510 v. Chr. – Von r. rennt I. herbei, um die Schleifung zu beenden.

145. (= Achilleus 595 mit Lit., = Automedon 17*, → Hektor S. 491 mit Lit.) Hydria, att. sf. München, Antikenslg. 1719. – ABV 361, 13: Leagrosgruppe; Para 161; Add<sup>2</sup> 95; Isler-Kerényi 40–42. 138 Nr. 68. – Um 510 v. Chr. – I. (hier mit Kerykeion) steht vor dem stehenden Gespann, um den Beginn der Schleifung zu untersagen.

Bergung des toten Memnon

146.* (= Eos 321 mit Lit.) Schale, att. rf. London, BM E 12. Aus Vulci. – ARV<sup>2</sup> 126, 24: Nikosthenesmaler; Para 333; Add<sup>2</sup> 176. – Um 500/490 v. Chr. – Thanatos und Hypnos bergen einen toten Krieger, dessen Benennung – Memnon oder Sarpedon – von der Deutung der von r. aufgeregt herbeieilenden Mutter (Eos oder Europa) abhängt. Doch wird es sich trotz fehlender Flügel eher um Eos handeln, da Europa sonst nicht bei der Rettung der Leiche ihres Sohnes Sarpedon dargestellt ist. Von l. läuft I. herbei (ungeflügelt, mit Kerykeion). Ihre Gegenwart hier weist darauf hin, daß der Tod des Memnon ein Ratschluß des Zeus war, da dieser eine Schicksalswägung zwischen Achilleus und Memnon vollzog, wobei das Todeslos auf Memnon fiel.

Bedrohung der Cassandra

146a) Amphora, att. rf. Cerveteri. – Brommer, Vasenlisten<sup>3</sup> 383, 11. – Aias und Cassandra. L. zuschauender Mann, dahinter Flügelfrau mit Kerykeion, wohl I. als Abgesandte der Götter. In anderen Darstellungen dieser Sage kann Hermes zugegen sein, → Aias II, → Cassandra.

2. Iris und Herakles

Zu Iris im Heraklesmythos s. auch 88.

Außerattische Vasen

147. (= Aphrodite 1510* mit Lit., = Herakles 2908* mit Lit.) Hydria, ionisch sf. Rom, Villa Giulia. Aus Caere. – Um 520 v. Chr. – Wagenbesteigende Göttin, wohl Athena, die den stehenden Herakles am Arm gepackt hat. Dem Gespann vorauslaufend Hermes und eine geflügelte Göttin mit Zepter, für die u. a. auch die Deutung I. vorgeschlagen wurde. Doch können in dieser Kunstlandschaft auch andere Göttinnen geflügelt dargestellt werden.

148. (= Ares/Laran 14 mit Lit. und Beschreibung, = Athena/Menerva 203) Amphora, etrusk. sf. Vatikan. Aus Vulci. – Un artista etrusco e il suo mondo. Il pittore di Micali (Ausstellung Rom 1988) 76 Nr. 30, bes. Farbtaf. 7, 2; Spivey, N. J., The Micali Painter and his Followers (1987) 20 Nr. 110 Taf. 21a. – Um 500 v. Chr. – Die Darstellung wurde verschieden gedeutet, u. a. als das Kyknosabenteuer des Herakles. Die anwesende Flügelföttin könnte die Zeusbotin I. sein, in der die Etrusker – so E. Simon, → Ares/Laran 14 – eine → Lasa gesehen haben mögen.

Attisch rotfigurige Vasen

149. (= Herakles 2473* mit Lit. und Querverweis) Schale, att. rf. Ehem. Noel des Vergers 137. Aus Vulci. – ARV<sup>2</sup> 62, 84: Oltos; 1622; Add<sup>2</sup> 165. – Um 510 v. Chr. – In der Mitte kämpft Herakles gegen Geryoneus. L. davon eilt eine ungeflügelte Göttin mit Kerykeion heran. Es muß sich um I. handeln. Sie wendet den Kopf zurück zu Athena. Ihre Anwesenheit hier, die literarisch nicht bezeugt ist, wurde verschieden gedeutet: Athena habe I. als Beistand zu Herakles gesandt oder I. übermittle einen Zeusbeschuß.

150.* (= Atlas 24 mit Lit. [B], = Hera 466 mit Lit. [A], = Herakles 2875 mit Lit. [A], = Hesperides 74) Stamnos, att. rf. Leningrad, Ermitage B 1559 (B 640, St. 1641). Aus Nola. – ARV<sup>2</sup> 639, 56: Providence-Maler; Para 514; Add<sup>2</sup> 274. – 470/60 v. Chr. – Beide Seiten gehören thematisch zusammen. A zeigt

die Einführung des Herakles in den Olymp, B den Hesperidenbaum mit einer Hesperide und einem alten Mann (zu dessen Benennung → Atlas 24). Zu diesem eilt von r. I. (geflügelt, Kerykeion) mit erhobener Hand heran, um eine göttliche Botschaft zu übermitteln.

151. (= Hera 467 mit Lit., = Herakles 3177 mit Lit.) Glockenkrater, att. rf. Omaha, Joslyn Art Mus. 1963.485. – ARV<sup>2</sup> 1163, 40: Maler von München 2335. – 430/20 v. Chr. – Aussöhnung zwischen Hera und Herakles vor dessen Aufnahme in den Olymp (anders: → Herakles 3177). Mit Athena und I. (geflügelt, hält Kerykeion, steht am r. Rand). Vielleicht übermittelte I. als Trabantin der H. vorher die Versöhnungsbereitschaft der Göttin.

Unteritalische Vasen

152. (= Hera 301* mit Lit., = Herakles 3344*) Lekythos, apul. rf. London, BM F 107. Aus Anzio. – RVAp I 395, 1 Taf. 137, 1: Suckling P.; Schefold, SB IV 131 Abb. 157. – Um 360 v. Chr. – Hera säugt den kleinen Herakles. R. hinter ihr steht eine Flügelfrau (Stiefel, kurzes Gewand mit kreuzweiser Schnürung). Der Stock, den sie mit der Linken faßt, könnte stellvertretend das Kerykeion bezeichnen. Sie befindet sich im Gespräch mit einer sitzenden Frau, Alkmene? Es handelt sich wohl um I., die hier einen Auftrag der Hera ausführte.

153.* (= Herakleidai 9* mit Lit., = Herakles 1409*, = Demeter 468) Volutenkrater, apul. rf. Princeton, Univ. Art Mus. 83.13. – RVAp Suppl. 1, 78, 41a Taf. 12, 1: Dareiosmaler; Schmidt, M., in Festschr. K. Schauenburg (1986) 169–174 Taf. 32, 1. – Um 330 v. Chr. – Medea im Heiligtum von Eleusis. Der Zusammenhang mit den weiter dargestellten Figuren ist schwierig zu deuten. R. unten stehen Herakles (als Myste) und die auf ihn einredende I. (Flügel, kurzes Gewand, Stiefel, Kerykeion). Schmidt sieht eine Verbindung zwischen den beiden Kindermördern Medea und Herakles. Sie macht auf Eur. Her. 822–874 aufmerksam. Vor dem Kindermord findet hier eine Unterredung zwischen I. und → Lyssa statt, wobei I. der Lyssa den Auftrag der Hera übermittle, Herakles in Wahnsinn zu versetzen. Auf dem Vasenbild fehlt Lyssa, und es findet eine direkte Unterredung zwischen der Herabotin I. und Herakles statt. Ob die beiden auf dem Altar sitzenden Kinder die der Medea oder des Herakles sind, sei hier nicht diskutiert. Schmidt deutet Medea zusammen mit den oben dargestellten eleusinischen Gottheiten hier als Heilerin des Herakles, wobei vielleicht die Einweihung des Herakles in die eleusinischen Mysterien für seine Rettung von Bedeutung sei.

3. Iris – Telephos

154. (= Agamemnon 18* mit Lit., = Apollon/Aplu 50, = Artemis/Artumes 75*) Kelchkrater, falisk. rf. Boston, MFA 1970.487. – Um 370 v. Chr. – Telephos mit Orest am Altar; Agamemnon mit seiner Familie sowie oben ein Götterfries: in der Mitte Apollon und Artemis, r. Zeus und Hermes. Von l. läuft I. heran (Flügel, kurzes Gewand, Stiefel, Kerykeion), um Apollon auf das gefährliche Geschehen unten aufmerksam zu machen. Weiter I. Athena.

4. Iris – Salmoneus

155.* Kolonettenkrater, att. rf. Chicago, Art Inst. 1889.16. Aus Nola. – ARV<sup>2</sup> 585, 29: unbestimmter Manierist; Para 393; Add<sup>2</sup> 263; Midwestern Colls 172–174 Nr. 98; Scheffold, SB III 158 Abb. 211. – Um 460 v. Chr. – Frevel des Salmoneus. Die Frau zu seiner Rechten könnte Sidero oder Tyro sein, die langgewandete Flügelfrau I., die einen Gewandzipfel hebt und sich umblickend nach I. läuft, I. Da Salmoneus sich gegen Zeus auflehnte und von ihm bestraft wurde, wäre es vorstellbar, daß I. hier einen Zeusauftrag ausführte, vielleicht dem Treiben des Salmoneus Einhalt gebot, wie man aus der Geste ihrer I. Hand schließen könnte. Auf der Gegenseite sind zwei weitere langgewandete Flügelfrauen dargestellt. Vielleicht sind dies Niken. Die Flügelfrau der Vorderseite dürfte wohl kaum zu ihnen gehören, sondern ist sicher I. Zur Verdopplung von Flügelfrauen s. auch: Aus der Glanzzeit Athens (Ausstellung Hamburg 1986) zu Nr. 57 (Hornbostel, W.).

5. Iris bei der Bestrafung des Ixion

156.* (= Bia et Kratos 2 mit Lit., = Erinyes 20, = Ixion 3* mit Lit.) Volutenkrater, apul. rf. Leningrad, Ermitage B 1717 (St. 424). Aus Ruvo. – RVAp II 930, 117: Maler von Louvre K 67. Simon, E., Öjh 42, 1955, 19 Abb. 9. – 330/20 v. Chr. – Hals: Bestrafung des Ixion. L. thront Zeus, daneben Bia oder Erinyes, Ixion am Rad, Hephaistos, I. (Flügel, nackter Oberkörper, kurzer Rock, Stiefel, Kerykeion). Sie überwacht als Vertreterin der hier nicht dargestellten Hera die Bestrafung des Ixion.

157. (= Hera 479 mit Lit., = Iuno 339, = Ixion 5 mit Lit.) Wandgemälde. Pompeji VI 15, 1 (Vettierhaus). – Archer, W. C., The Paintings of the Casa dei Vettii in Pompeii (Diss. Virginia 1981) 400–413. – Vespasianisch; wohl nach einem Vorbild des 4. Jh. v. Chr. – Hera überwacht die Bestrafung des Ixion. Neben ihr steht ihre Dienerin und Trabantin I. (in Gestalt eines jungen Mädchens, ungeflügelt, Nimbus) und spricht mit ihr über das Geschehen.

5a) Iris beim Tod des Hippolytos

157a) Volutenkrater, apul. rf. Toledo, Privatslg. – Im unteren Fries Hippolytossage: Hippolytos fährt auf seinem Gespann, weiter Lyssa, welche das Meerungeheuer antreibt. Oben Götterfries. Am r. Rand neben dem sitzenden Zeus steht I. auf ihr Kerykeion gestützt. Zeus selbst befindet sich im Gespräch mit seinem zweiten Boten, Hermes.

6. Iris bei Iphigenie in Tauris

158. (= Artemis 1378 mit Lit., = Athena 629 mit Lit., = Iphigeneia 23* mit Lit.) Volutenkrater, apul. rf. Leningrad, Ermitage B 1715A (St. 420). – RVAp II 863, 18: Baltimore-Maler; Schauenburg, a. O. 78, 372 mit Anm. 107 Taf. 117, 2. – Um 320 v. Chr. – Im Zentrum steht Iphigenie im Artemistempel von Tauris neben der Kultstatue. Zuseiten des Gebäudes Göt-ter: r. sitzend Artemis und Hermes; l. sitzt Athena, neben ihr steht I. (geflügelt, Stiefel, Kerykeion, das l. Bein hochgestellt). I. und ihr Pendant Hermes bilden symmetrisch den Rahmen der Szene. Zwar ist in der Iphigenie des Euripides weder ein Auftritt der I. noch des Hermes überliefert, sondern es tritt nur ein einfacher Bote auf, aber hier sind wohl beide göttliche Boten zugefügt, um auf die Beteiligung der Olympier in dieser Sage hinzuweisen. So erteilt etwa Athena in ihrer Schlußrede (1435–1474) zahlreiche Befehle wie die Überführung des Kultbildes nach Attika und die dortige Einsetzung der Iphigenie als Priesterin. Es ist gut möglich, daß sich die Vasenmaler mit der Gruppe Athena–I. auf dieser Vase I. als Mittlerin dieser Anordnungen dachten.

7. Iris bei der Tötung der Niobiden

159. (= Aphrodite 1535 mit Lit., = Apollon 1081, = Artemis 1351) Volutenkrater, apul. rf. Ruvo, Mus. Jatta 424. Aus Ruvo. – RVAp II 865–866, 24 Taf. 324, 2: Baltimore-Maler. – Um 330 v. Chr. – Oberhalb der Darstellung der Tötung der Niobiden Götterfries. Dabei steht am l. Rand, der sitzenden Athena zugewendet und mit ihr im Gespräch verbunden, I. (Flügel, Stiefel, kurzes Gewand, hochgestelltes Bein, Kerykeion). Daneben Hermes zu Leto gewandt.

8. Iris beim Streit zwischen Apollon und Idas um Marpessa

160.* Amphora, att. rf. London, BM 1895.10–31.1. – ARV<sup>2</sup> 583, 1: Maler von London 95; CVA 3 Taf. 4 (169) 1a; 12 (177) 4b (mit anderer Deutung); Drougou, S., Der attische Psykter (1975) 71; Mayer-Prokop, I., Die gravierten etruskischen Griffspiegel archaischen Stils. RM 13. Erg.-H. (1967) 48. – Um 460 v. Chr. – Idas und Apollon warben beide um Marpessa. Zeus greift in den Streit ein und läßt Marpessa selbst ihren Geliebten wählen. Diese entscheidet sich für den sterblichen Idas. Ausführlich ist die Geschichte auf einem att. rf. Psykter dargestellt (Drougou, a. O. 69–72). Dort ist Zeus selbst wiedergegeben, der seinen Boten Hermes aussendet, damit er den beiden Streitern den Willen des Zeus verkünde. Auf der Amphora fehlt Zeus, und Hermes ist durch I. ersetzt (frontal stehend, Kopf zu Apollon gewendet, kurzes Gewand, Flügel, Flügelschuhe, r. Hand auf die Hüfte gestützt, in der l. Kerykeion). I. hat hier den Beschluß des Zeus bereits übermittelt, und die Entscheidung ist schon gefallen. R. von I. geht Marpessa mit Idas weg, während I. Apollon allein von dannen geht.

161. (= Apollon/Aplu 22 mit Lit.) Bronzespiegel, etrusk. Ehem. Paris, Kunsthandel Feuarent. – Mayer-Prokop, a. O. 160, 15 S. 6. 48–49 Taf. 6, 2. – Um 450 v. Chr. – Flügelfrau zwischen den Streitern Idas und Apollon. Als Deutung wurde vorgeschlagen: geflügelte Marpessa, Nike, aber auch I. in Analogie zu 160.

9. Iris entführt im Auftrag des Zeus Ganymed?

Schwarz 1–10 stellte eine Anzahl von Vasenbildern zusammen, auf denen eine Flügelfrau mit Kerykeion in der Hand einen Jüngling verfolgt. In Anal-gie zu Darstellungen, auf denen Hermes im Auftrag des Zeus Ganymed entführt, erkennt Schwarz auf den betreffenden Vasen I. und Ganymed. Als literarische Vorlage für diese Version denkt sie an den Lyriker Ibykos, der Eos als Räuberin des Ganymed nannte (Page PMG frg. 289). Nach Meinung von Schwarz liegt hier eine Verwechslung von Eos und I. vor.

Die Verfolgung findet im Schema der Wiedergabe Eos/Tithonos bzw. Kephalos statt, weshalb die betreffenden Darstellungen auch häufig als Eos/Geliebter gedeutet wurden. Doch ist das Kerykeion als Attribut für Eos nicht sicher überliefert (auch → Eos 30 ist unsicher), so daß bei den folgenden Bildern die Deutung von Schwarz auf I. in Erwägung gezogen werden muß. Denn es ließe sich kaum erklären, warum Eos unter der Fülle der Verfolgungsdarstellungen nur auf wenigen Bildern ein Kerykeion halten sollte. Andererseits wäre jedoch zu klären, ob Ganymed als Jäger dargestellt werden kann.

162. (= Eos 231* mit Lit., = Ganymedes 83a) Schale, att. rf. Graz, Univ. – Um 480/70 v. Chr. – Flügelfrau (nur Oberkörper erhalten; Haube, Kerykeion) packt Knaben an der Schulter.

163. (= Eos 186* mit Lit., = Ganymedes 83d) Kolonettenkrater, att. rf. Syrakus, Mus. Reg. 53237. Aus Megara Hyblaea. – 470/60 v. Chr. – Flügelfrau mit Kerykeion verfolgt nach l. einen Jüngling. R. weglaufernder Gefährte. Beide Jünglinge mit Musikinstrumenten.

164.* (= Eos 128 mit Lit., = Ganymedes 83c) Kolonettenkrater, att. rf. Bologna, Mus. Civ. 183. Aus Bologna. – 470/60 v. Chr. – Flügelfrau mit Kerykeion verfolgt Jüngling, der nach l. zu einem stehenden Mann mit Szepter läuft. Wenn dieser Zeus ist (so Schwarz), so spräche dies weiter für I. und Ganymed.

165. (= Eos 187 mit Lit.) Schale, fr., att. rf. Barcelona, Mus. Arch. 4.320. Aus Ampurias. – Um 460 v. Chr. – Oberkörper beider Figuren nicht erhalten. Frau mit Stab (?) in der Hand verfolgt Jüngling nach l. Da sich nicht feststellen läßt, ob die Frau geflügelt war und ob der Stab das untere Ende eines Kerykeion ist, ist die Deutung auf I. unsicher.

166. (= Eos 132 mit Lit., = Ganymedes 83e) Strickhenkelamphora, att. rf. Neapel, Mus. di Capodimonte 959. – 440/30 v. Chr. – Verfolgung nach r. Die Göttin (Stephane) schwebt und hat beide Arme zu dem Jüngling ausgestreckt. Ihr Kerykeion ist zu Boden gefallen.

10. Iris wird von Kentauren überfallen

167.* Skyphos, att. rf. Florenz, Mus. Arch. 4218. – ARV<sup>2</sup> 191, 102: Kleophradesmaler; Add<sup>2</sup> 189; Beazley, J. D., Der Kleophrades-Maler (1933) 28 Nr. 76 Taf. 31; CVA 2 Taf. 69 (653); EAA I (1958) Farbt. nach S. 900; Scheffold, SB III 125 Abb. 157; Korshak, Y., Frontal Faces in Attic Vase Painting of the Archaic Period (1987) 65 Nr. 211; 119 Abb. 54. – Um 480 v. Chr. – I. (Kerykeion, Kopf [Sakkos] nach l. gewendet, Flügel) wird von mehreren Kentauren an Arm, Hals und Kopf gepackt. Die Geschichte ist nicht bekannt. Möglicherweise wurde I. in göttlichem Auftrag zu den Kentauren gesandt, von diesen aber nicht ernst genommen und dann – ähnlich wie in der Satyrge-schichte (vgl. 105–120) – tödlich angegriffen und belästigt.

11. Iris und Turnus

167a) Buchmalerei im Vergilius Romanus. Vatikan, Cod. Vat. Lat. 3867 fol. 74 v. – Rosenthal, E., The Illuminations of the Vergilius Romanus (1972) 43–46 Taf. 5. – 4./5. Jh. n. Chr. – Illustration zu Verg. Aen. 9, 2–19. R. die aus den Wolken herabschwebende I. (Flügel, knielanges Gewand, Schuhe, Nimbus). Ihre Arme sind zur Seite ausgebreitet. Mit beiden Händen faßt sie ein hinter ihrem Rücken entlanggeführtes Tuch. Über ihrem Kopf wölbt sich ein Regenbogen, der ihr als Personifikation zukommt. Sie blickt zu dem gewappneten Turnus, der neben einem Baum steht und zu dem sie von Iuno gesandt wurde. L. oben ein Gebäude.

E. Iris in ungedeuteten Szenen

168. Amphora, att. sf. Boston, MFA 1898.918. Aus Ferentino? – ABV 306, 41: Schaukelmaler; Para 132; Add<sup>2</sup> 81; CVA 1 Taf. 4 (626) 1; Böhr, E., Der Schaukelmaler (1982) 87 Nr. 63 Taf. 64 B. – Um 540 v. Chr. – Nach r. laufende Flügelfrau (sich umblickend) im kurzen Chiton und Tierfell, die von drei Zuschauern begrüßt wird. Zu weiteren Flügelfrauen vom Schaukelmaler und Umkreis s. Blatter, R., AA 1969, 70–72, der diese mit Isler-Kerényi als Eris deutet.

169.* Lekythos, att. sf. Ehem. Freiburg, Kunsthandel. – Kunst der Antike. Galerie G. Puhze Kat. Nr. 5, 20 Nr. 183. – Um 520/10 v. Chr. – Nach r. laufende Frau (sich umblickend) mit Doppelflügeln. R. und l. sitzender Mann mit Stock. Vielleicht I.

170. (= Eris 11 mit Querverweis) Hydria, att. sf. Paris, Louvre F 297. Aus Vulci. – ABV 333, 1: nahe dem Priamosmaler; Add<sup>2</sup> 91; CVA 6 Taf. 71 (410) 6; Kenner, a. O. 84, 92 mit Anm. 79; Isler-Kerényi 42. 139 Nr. 89; de la Genière, J., Mon Piot 63, 1980, 51 Abb. 14. – 520/10 v. Chr. – Im Schulterbild zwei aufeinander zufahrende Viergespanne. Dazwischen nach r. laufende Flügelfrau. Die Beischrift IOIE heißt wohl eher I. als Eris.

170a) Lekythos, fr., att. sf. Olympia, Mus. II 2752. – Ende 6. Jh. v. Chr. – Wagenbesteigender Mann, dem eine Flügelfrau (I.?) zugewendet ist. Vor den Pferden steht eine weitere Figur.

171.* Kolonettenkrater, att. rf. San Simeon, State Hist. Mon. 529–9–583 (5435, ehem. Hearst SSW 9956). – ARV<sup>2</sup> 523, 10: Orchard P. – Um 460 v. Chr. – Zwei Zweiergruppen: l. älterer Mann im Gespräch mit einer nach l. gewandten Flügelfrau (in der Rechten Phiale, mit der Linken gestikulierend), vielleicht I. R. daneben Frau mit Phiale und Zepher vor einem älteren Mann ähnlich dem am l. Rand.

172.* Schale, att. rf. Cambridge (Mass.), Sackler Mus. (ehem. Fogg) 1925.30.130. Aus Capua. – ARV<sup>2</sup> 881, 29: Penthesileamaler; Add<sup>2</sup> 301; Buitron, D. M., Attic Vase Painting in New England Collections (Ausstel-lung Harvard Fogg Art Mus. 1972) 114–115 Nr. 62. – Um 460 v. Chr. – Beide Vasenseiten gehören zusammen. Auf B steht am r. Rand die gestikulierende I. (Flügel, Kerykeion, langes Gewand). Offenbar hat sie den göttlichen Auftrag, den in der Mitte dargestellten Krieger zu einer Schlacht abzuholen. L. der über den Abschied betübte Vater. Auf A steht I. (Flügel, Kerykeion) in der Mitte. Sie blickt nach r. zu einem Krieger, der sich vorbeugt, um einen Zweig abzulegen. Es handelt sich wohl um denselben Krieger wie auf der Gegenseite, wie man aus dem Schildzeichen (Auge) schließen darf, das auf der anderen Seite als Zeichen auf der Schilddecke begegnet. I. führt den Krieger mit ihrer ausgestreckten Hand als Schutzflehenden bei dem I. sitzenden König ein (wohl nicht Zeus?). Beazley, J. D., JHS 47, 1927, 148: Krieger legt nach dem Perserkrieg Dankopfer an Zeus nieder.

173.* Oinochoe, att. rf. Brüssel, Mus. Roy. A 720. – ARV<sup>2</sup> 775, 3: Maler der Brüsseler Oinochoen; CVA 2 Taf. 5 (74) 2a. – Flügel Frau (Kerykeion) läuft, sich umblickend, nach r. (I.?). R. ein Mann.

174.* Schale, att. rf. fr. Heidelberg, Univ. W 32b (156). – ARV<sup>2</sup> 926, 19: Maler von Brüssel R 330; Add<sup>2</sup> 306; Kraiker, W., Die rotfig. att. Vasen (1931) 43–44 Nr. 156 Suppl.-Taf. 9. – Fr. b: Zwei Zweiergruppen. L. Oberkörper eines bärtigen Mannes mit Zepter, vor ihm Frau mit Kästchen. R. Flügel Frau (Kerykeion, Sakkos, Mantel über dem Chiton, I.?), im Gespräch mit einem bärtigen Mann.

175. (= Dike 12 mit Lit., = Erinys 15*) Volutenkrater, apul. rf. Paris, Louvre N 3153. – RVAp II 908, 2: Capodimonte-Maler. – Ende 4. Jh. v. Chr. – Grabzene: Krieger mit Pferd im Naikos. Um das Gebäude herum sind verschiedene Figuren angeordnet. Die beiden Krieger mit den Binden am Bein können nicht – wie bisher gedeutet – die Herakliden sein, da es sich um keine Unterweltsszene handelt und diese als unbewaffnete Kinder mit Brust-, nicht Beinbinden, dargestellt sein müßten. Bei der oben r. sitzenden Flügel Frau (kurzes Gewand, Stiefel), die eine Schwertscheide in der Hand hält, wurde in der bisherigen Lit. nicht erkannt, daß sie in der anderen Hand ein Kerykeion trägt, weshalb die vorgeschlagenen Deutungen (→ Dike; → Erinys) nicht überzeugen. Es dürfte sich um I. oder vielleicht auch um Nike handeln, die das Schwert des verstorbenen Kriegers trägt.

KOMMENTAR

Iris zählt wie die Flußgötter zu den niederen Gottheiten der Griechen. Sie überbringt Botschaften zu den Göttern untereinander und von den Göttern zu den Menschen. Wegen dieses Hin- und Hereilens bei ihrer Mitteltätigkeit stellte man sich I. geflügelt vor. Sie ist bei Homer vor allem persönliche Botin des Zeus und wird später, nachdem Hermes an ihre Stelle getreten ist, Trabantin der Hera. Kultische Verehrung genoss sie wenig. Ikonographisch gleicht sie der Nike – beide sind geflügelt und tragen das Kerykeion als Attribut –, was mit einer gemeinsamen Funktion beider Gottheiten, dem Heroldsamt im Krieg, zusammenhängt. Deshalb können beide auf vielen Bildern nicht voneinander geschieden werden, vor allem bei Einzeldarstellungen und in Opferszenen. Für die ministrierende Flügel Frau könnte noch eine dritte Benennung in Betracht gezogen werden, denn dieser ist einmal bei einer Libation für Zeus und Hera der Name Hebe beigeschrieben (→ Herakles 2859/3305). Da Hebe jedoch in der Regel ungeflügelt dargestellt wird, dürfte es sich hier um eine singuläre Darstellung der geflügelten Hebe handeln, der der Maler wohl eben wegen dieser Singularität den Namen beigeschrieben hat, so daß die Deutung Hebe für andere dem Zeus und der Hera ministrierende Flügel Frauen, die nicht inschriftlich benannt sind, kaum in Frage kommt. Die Flügel Frau als Botin in mythischen Szenen wird eher I. als Nike sein, zumal die letztere auch selten in Mythen eingebunden ist. Nike scheint dagegen häufiger als Ministrantin in Opferszenen zu fungieren. Bei der gemeinsamen Spende von Zeus und Hera liegt jedoch die Deutung auf I. näher, wie Simon 1, 58–65 aufgezeigt hat. Wegen der Angleichung im Aussehen beider Göttinnen lassen sich auch nicht alle im Katalog zusammengestellten Denkmäler sicher auf I. deuten. Dort sind einerseits die Darstellungen aufgeführt, die in der Forschung auf I. bezogen wurden, sowie andererseits diejenigen, bei denen durch den Kontext der Bildszenen die Deutung auf I. wahrscheinlich ist.

I. ist auf den Denkmälern nur selten inschriftlich benannt: 4. 24(?). 56. 111. 124. 125(?). 126. 137. Die früheste gesicherte Darstellung ist die fragmentarisch erhaltene Metope von Thermos (4), die um 620 v. Chr. entstand. Die weiteren Beispiele gehören dem 6. Jh. und der späteren Zeit an. Es läßt sich verallgemeinernd beobachten, daß I. im 6. Jh. mit kurzem Gewand, im 5. Jh. langgewandete und im 4. Jh., besonders auf den unteritalischen Vasen – sie trägt dort die Tracht der Jägerin wie etwa auch die Erinys – wieder im kurzen Chiton dargestellt wurde. Häufig hat sie Flügelschuhe an (3. 9. 13. 15. 42. 77. 84. 85. 87. 99. 124. 125. 160) oder Stiefel (74. 78–80. 92. 95. 98. 100. 103. 122. 135. 138–140. 152–154. 158. 159). Auf 125. 126 und 168 trägt sie über ihrem Chiton ein Fell. In der Regel ist I. geflügelt, ungeflügelt ist sie nur auf 56. 124–127. 146. 149. 157, auf 122 ist sie zusätzlich mit Kopfflügeln ausgestattet. Mit den Händen lüpfte sie manchmal ihr Gewand (43. 45. 47. 49. 50. 52. 60. 62. 63. 112. 114. 155) oder hält in der Regel Attribute. Außer dem Kerykeion, Phiale und Kanne können dies sein: Schreibtafel (16. 22. 29. 34. 35), Scheibe (?) (3. 5. 7), Kanoun (56), Kasten (87), Teilstück eines Opfertieres (110. 111. 113. 115. 117), Ranke (30. 63), Obstschale (67), Fackel (118), Halsband (129), Alabastron (133), Kranz (54), Lyra (57). Wagenlenkerin ist sie einmal beim Parisurteil (130) und vielleicht bei einer Götterversammlung (123a). Auf 12 ist sie als Schildzeichen der Athena wiedergegeben.

Wenn auch für I. keine so umfangreiche eigene Sage existierte und damit auch keine Darstellungen vorkommen, in denen sie und ihr Mythos die Hauptrolle spielen, so ist sie doch auf vielen Monumenten im Verbund mit anderen Göttern und Heroen zu sehen. Die Bilder 38–41 zeigen sie vielleicht mit ihrem Gatten Zephyros, auf 38 beide allein fliegend, auf 39 und 40 beide den Wagen der Aphrodite ziehend und auf 41 als Liebespaar nebeneinander stehend.

Besonders ist sie mit dem olympischen Paar Zeus und Hera verbunden. Sie tritt hier als Ministrantin, meist mit Kanne, zuweilen mit Phiale für beide gemeinsam auf (42–60), ministriert auch Hera allein (61–67) und auch einer Frau aus dem eleusinischen Kreis bei der Aussendung des Triptolemos (102).

Neben den Libationsszenen hat sie vielfältige Beziehungen zu Hera: sie drückt ihr die Hand (53), ist Heras Trabantin bei der an eine Hieros-Gamos-Darstellung gemahnenden Szene am Parthenonfries (68), wie sie auch Brautführerin der Hera ist (75). Auf 69 und 73 erwartet sie Aufträge der Hera. Sie bringt auf ihr Geheiß den nemeischen Löwen zu Herakles (70), begleitet Hera beim Gigantenkampf (97) und ist ihr beim Parisurteil zugeordnet (129–133). Als Hera Opfer an Dionysos verhindern will, sendet sie I. aus, die Opferstücke zu rauben (111), ja sie beauftragte I. schon damit, den kleinen Dionysos nach seiner Geburt zu entführen (122). I. überwacht an Heras Stelle die Bestrafung des Ixion (156. 157), und auch ihrem weiteren Auftreten in Heraklesszenen liegt ein Auftrag der Hera zugrunde (151–153).

Für Zeus führt I. ebenfalls zahlreiche Botengänge aus oder ist im Gespräch mit ihm verbunden: So bei der Schmückung der Pandora (99), beim Streit zwischen Persephone und Aphrodite um Adonis (100) und beim Streit von Apollon und Idas um Marpessa (160. 161). Im Auftrag des Zeus scheint sie einen Knaben (Ganymed?) zu rauben (162–166), sie wird zu dem rasenden Salmoneus geschickt (155) und beim Koreraub zu den Korybanten (103). Als Poseidon und Athena um das attische Land streiten, sendet Zeus I. zu Amphitrite (104). I. bringt den kleinen Hermes zu Zeus, damit er als Götterbote eingesetzt werde (81. 82). Weitere Aufträge des Zeus erwartet und führt sie aus auf 74. 76–80. 88. 89.

Mit ihrem männlichen Pendant Hermes wurde I. öfter gemeinsam dargestellt: sie trägt ihn als Knaben auf dem Arm (81–82) und begleitet mit ihm Amphitrite übers Meer (85). Beide sind beim Parisurteil anwesend (127–136) oder können gemeinsam einen Hochzeitszug anführen (84). Auf 83 sind sie allein dargestellt und im Handschlag miteinander verbunden, auf weiteren Bildern treten beide Götterboten zusammen auf (54. 78. 79. 88. 89. 94. 100. 122. 123a[?]). Zuweilen stehen dabei beide im Dienst des Zeus (vgl. etwa 79. 88. 89. 100), oder sie können auch gegeneinander wirken, der eine als Gesandter des Zeus, der andere als der der Hera wie bei der Geburt des Dionysos (122).

Seltener ist I. mit Athena verbunden. Sie kann bei der Geburt der Göttin anwesend sein (90) und ist Athena einmal beim Parisurteil zugeordnet (135). In anderen Darstellungen ist I. im Gespräch mit Athena wiedergegeben (92. 94. 158. 159). Bei Iphigenie in Tauris (158) könnte man erwägen, daß Athena durch I. den Auftrag übermitteln lassen will, das Kultbild von Tauris nach Attika zu überführen. Doch tritt I. im entsprechenden Drama des Euripides nicht auf.

Ebenso selten ist I. mit Apollon dargestellt. Sie hält sich einmal im delphischen Heiligtum auf (91), macht Apollon auf die Geiselnahme des kleinen Orest durch Telephos aufmerksam (154) und holt die Eileithyia zur kreißenden Leto (95). Am wichtigsten ist ihre Rolle im Marpessamythos (160. 161), wo sie die Niederlage des Apollon und seinen Weggang überwacht. Jedoch ist diese Rolle durch die Schriftquellen nicht für I., sondern für Hermes überliefert.

An der Gigantomachie nimmt I. in der Regel nicht teil. Auf 97 ist sie als Trabantin der Hera zugegen, auf 96 ist ihre Rolle nicht genau zu deuten. Sie läuft hinter dem kämpfenden Herakles heran, was sich vielleicht so interpretieren ließe, daß sie diesen im Auftrag der Götter herbeigeht, da die Gigantomachie nur mit Hilfe des Herakles gewonnen werden konnte.

Auf die Beziehung der I. zur Unterwelt und zum Wasser des Styx könnte die Darstellung 123b weisen, für 7 und 8 scheint diese Deutung jedoch zu hypothetisch.

Es nimmt wunder, daß I. nur selten als Astralgöttin dargestellt wurde. Nur auf 98 ist sie im Kreis anderer Gestirngötter zugegen, doch ist sie dort nicht mit astralen Attributen ausgestattet, sondern trägt das Kerykeion und die gleiche Tracht wie auf den Bildern, auf denen sie als Götterbotin präsent ist. Auf einem pompejanischen Wandgemälde (157) und in einer Vergilillustration (167a) ist sie mit einem Nimbus versehen, wobei jedoch dort keine weiteren Gestirngötter wiedergegeben sind, sondern es handelt sich um mythische Szenen (Bestrafung des Ixion; Aufsuchung des Turnus). In dieser Buchmalerei ist auch der Regenbogen wiedergegeben. Sonst spielt I. als Personifikation des Regenbogens offenbar keine große Rolle für die antike Bildkunst.

I. kann in Hochzeitsszenen anwesend sein. Wie Hermes kann sie dort wohl als Anführer des Hochzeitszuges (Prohegetes) fungieren (84) bzw. die Braut dem Bräutigam zuführen (75). Bei der Thetishochzeit führt sie den Götterverein zum Palast des Peleus (124–126).

Auf einigen Darstellungen ist I. im eleusinischen Kreis wiedergegeben: sie überbringt Persephone den Beschluß des Zeus beim Streit um Adonis (100) und übermittelt beim Koreraub den Korybanten eine Botschaft (103). Bei der Ausfahrt des Triptolemos hält sie die Spendekanne für die Abschiedslibationen bereit (102) und überbringt in einer in Eleusis spielenden Szene dem Herakles eine Nachricht (153).

Aufträge der Hera bringen I. mit Dionysos und seinem Thiasos zusammen: sie soll den neugeborenen Gott entführen (122) und später Opfer an Dionysos verhindern, weshalb sie von den Satyrn verfolgt und belästigt wird (105–119). Analog zu dieser Sage muß es einen uns nicht erhaltenen Mythos gegeben haben, in dem I. mit einer Botschaft zu den Kentauren gesandt und dann von diesen auf ähnliche Weise belästigt wurde, wie wir aus einem Vasenbild schließen dürfen (167).

Zwei Darstellungen zeigen I. mit der wagenfahrenden Amphitrite (85. 104), und für Aphrodite ist nur ein Vasenbild zu nennen, auf dem diese mit I. verbunden ist (128): I. ordnet beim Parisurteil den Schleier der Göttin.

Im Heroenkreis ist I. häufig als Abgesandte der Götter zugegen. Am meisten begegnet sie dabei in trojanischen Szenen: sie geleitet den Götterzug zur Hochzeit Peleus-Thetis (124-126) und ist beim Parisurteil anwesend (127-136; dabei ist sie vor allem der Hera zugeordnet: 129-133; Athena: 135; Aphrodite: 128). Weiter ist I. anzutreffen bei der Ankunft des Antilochos in Troja (137), bei der Presbeia an Achilleus (138) sowie bei der Waffenübergabe (139. 140). Im Gegensatz zur Schilderung in der Ilias zeigt die Bildkunst sie bei Hektors Schleifung (141-145). Schließlich begegnet sie bei der Bergung des Memnon (146) und bei der Bedrohung der Cassandra (146a).

Bei Herakles kommt I. seltener vor: Kindheit des Herakles (88(?) 152), sie führt ihm den nemeischen Löwen zu (70), bei der Geryonie (149), bei den Hesperiden (150), bei der Aussöhnung des Herakles mit Hera (151) und als Botin bei Herakles in Eleusis (153).

In der römischen Sage wird sie mit einem Auftrag zum Äneasgegner Turnus geschickt (167a).

In zahlreichen weiteren Sagenbildern tritt sie als Götterbotin auf, wobei meist keine Schriftquellen zu ihrem Auftreten bekannt sind: Geiselnahme des Orest durch Telephos (154), Salmoneus (155), bei Ixion als Trabantin der Hera (156. 157), Iphigenie in Tauris (158), Niobiden (159), bei der Entführung eines Knaaben (162-166).

Zur chronologischen Verteilung der Themen läßt sich feststellen, daß aus dem 7. Jh. nur eine Darstellung überliefert ist, die I. allein zeigt (4). Bilder des 6. Jh. geben ebenfalls I. allein sowie in trojanischen Szenen, bei Herakles und mit Hermes wieder. Weiter setzen die Bilder ein, auf denen die Satyrn I. verfolgen. Neue Themen kommen im 5. Jh. hinzu. Hervorzuheben sind die Darstellungen der I. als Ministrantin für Zeus und Hera und ihre Verbindung mit Zephyros. Im 4. Jh. ist I. vor allem in Götterfriesen auf unteritalischen Vasen zugegen und bei vielen Themen der Heroensage. Aus hellenistischer Zeit ist ihre Wiedergabe am Pergamonaltar zu nennen (97) und an Denkmälern der römischen Epoche zwei Wandbilder (75. 157), ein Sarkophag (95) und eine Buchmalerei (167a).

Die im Katalog angeführten Stücke verteilen sich dabei auf folgende Gattungen: 31 attisch schwarzfigurige Vasen (12-17. 70. 83-87. 105-109. 121. 124-127. 141-145. 168-170a), 92 attisch rotfigurige Vasen (18-36. 42. 66. 71. 81. 82. 88-91. 96. 99. 101. 102. 110-119. 122. 128-131. 137. 146. 149-151. 155. 160. 162-167. 171-174), eine böotisch rotfigurige Vase (37), 30 unteritalische Vasen (37a. 67. 72-74. 77-80. 92-94. 98. 100. 103. 120. 123. 132-135. 138-140. 152. 153. 156. 158. 159. 175), 2 Münztypen (10. 11: Deutung unsicher), 4 Gemmen (5-8: Deutung ebenfalls unsicher), 4 etruskische Beispiele (136. 148. 154. 161), eine ionische Vase (147), ein Beispiel aus der Skulptur (104), 8 Reliefs (1. 3. 68. 69. 76. 95. 97. 123a), 2 Typen von Terrakottareliefs (39. 40), 4 Darstellungen der großen Malerei (2. 4. 75. 157), eine Buchillustration (167a) und 3 Beispiele der Toreutik (9. 38. 41). Die weitaus meisten Denkmäler, auf denen I. dargestellt ist, sind somit die attisch rotfigurigen Vasen, gefolgt von den schwarzfigurigen und den unteritalischen Vasen. Der größte Teil der Darstellungen insgesamt stammt aus der Zeit vom 6.-4. Jh. v. Chr.

Der Überblick über die Wiedergaben der I. zeigt, daß ihre wichtigste Rolle die der Götterbotin, der Ministrantin und auch der Heratrabantin ist. Es fällt auf, daß I. auf vielen Darstellungen mit Mythen zugegen ist, auf denen sich ihre Rolle nicht durch Schriftquellen erklären läßt. Sie ist hier eine Zufügung der Bildkunst. Ihre Anwesenheit soll das göttliche Einwirken auf die dargestellte Handlung andeuten, wobei dann I. als Mittlerin zwischen den Göttern und (vor allem dem einzelnen) Menschen aufgefaßt ist. So verlangt ihre Präsenz häufig keine bestimmte, auf das Geschehen bezogene Erklärung, sondern oft soll nur exemplarisch darauf hingewiesen werden, daß die dargestellten Handlungen dem (unerforschlichen) Willen und Ratschluß der Götter unterliegen. Die Gegenwart der I. soll damit in ganz allgemeinem Sinne auf die allen Menschen vorbestimmte Lenkung des Geschehens durch die Götter, vor allem durch Zeus, hinweisen.

ANNELIESE KOSSATZ-DEISSMANN

IRIS II

(Ἴρις) Personifikation des gleichnamigen Flusses in Kleinasien (Pontos), identisch mit dem heutigen Yeşil Irmak.

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Conticello, B., EAA IV (1961) 222 s. v. «Iris»; Danoff, Chr., KlPauly II (1967) 1453 s. v. «Iris 3»; Drexler, W., ML II 1 (1890-94) 357 s. v. «Iris 2»; Ruge, W., RE IX 2 (1916) 2045 s. v. «Iris 3».

Münzen von Amaseia (Pontos)

I.* AE, Faustina I. († 141 n. Chr.). - RecGén I 37 Nr. 22 Taf. 4, 18; Imhoof-Blumer, Fluß 257 Nr. 210 Taf. 7, 18. - Rs.: Nach I. gelagerter, nur mit einem Himantion bis zu den Hüften bekleideter, bärtiger I., die Rechte auf eine Schiffsprora gelegt, mit der Linken ein Schilfrohr schulternd und auf einen Felsen gelehnt.

Diese einzige bekannte Darstellung des I. auf Münzen von Amaseia, das an diesem Fluß liegt, folgt dem geläufigen kaiserzeitlichen Schema des gelagerten Flußgottes (→ Fluvii). Dieser ruht jedoch hier in origineller Weise nicht auf einem Quellgefäß, sondern auf einem Felsen. Diese besondere Charakterisierung soll wohl auf die markante Lage der Stadt Amaseia (des heutigen Amasya) an einem steilen Felsabhang hinweisen, an dem der Fluß vorbeifloß. Die Schiffsprora spielt des weiteren auf die Schiffbarkeit des Flusses an.

RAINER VOLKKOMMER

IRISIA

(Ἰρισία) Néréide dont le nom est connu par une inscription; son nom ne figure pas dans les listes (→ Nereides).

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Conticello, B., EAA IV (1961) 222 s. v. «Irisia»; Roscher, W. H., ML II 1 (1890-94) 357 s. v. «Irisia».

I. (= Choro I I*, = Erato III I*, = Glauke I 2 - avec bibl.) Coupe attique à f. r. Munich, Antikenslg. 2619A (J 331). De Vulci. - ARV<sup>2</sup> 146, 2; 1628: P. d'Epéleios; Add<sup>2</sup> 179; Schefold, SB II 190 fig. 256. - Vers 510 av. J.-C. - A: lutte de → Thetis et Pélée (→ Peleus) en présence de Néréides qui fuient de part et d'autre. Elles sont désignées par des inscriptions: Glauké, Choro, Erato, I., → Kymatothea. I. (diadème, chiton, himation, bracelet) court vers la dr. en se retournant; bras écartés, elle tient un poisson dans la main dr. Sous l'anse se trouve l'autel auprès duquel dansaient les Néréides avant l'assaut de Pélée.

Le nom d'I. signifie probablement «la chatoyante, la changeante». O. Jahn (Beschv. d. Vasensamm. König Ludwigs [1854] 97 n° 331) corrigeait son nom en [E]lpeia, à tort selon P. Kretschmer (Die griech. Vasenschriften [1894] 200 n. 2; 202) qui le rapproche de celui d'→ Iris (I).

NOËLLE ICARD-GIANOLIO

IRISIS → Briseis 54

ISIAURIA

(Ἰσαυρία) Personifikation der gleichnamigen Landschaft zwischen Pisidien im Westen, Lykaonien im Osten und Kilikien im Süden.

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Conticello, B., EAA IV (1961) 223 s. v. «Isauria»; Drexler, W., ML II 1 (1890-94) 358 s. v. «Isauria»; Ruge, W., RE IX 2 (1916) 2056 s. v. «Isauria»; Treidler, H., KlPauly II (1967) 1458-1459 s. v. «Isauria».

Münzen von Tarsos (Kilikien)

I.* AE, Septimius Severus (193-211 n. Chr.). - Kenner, F., Die Münzsammlung des Stiftes St. Florian in Ober-Österreich (1871) 153-155 Taf. 5, 12; BMCL Lycaonia, Isauria und Cilicia 193, 174; Forrer, L., The Weber Collection III 2 (1929) 663 Nr. 7660 Taf. 277; SNG v. Aulock 6001 = SNG Switzerland I 1023; Ziegler, R., Münzen Kilikiens in kleineren deutschen Sammlungen (1989) 92, 686 Taf. 33. - Rs.: Nach I. sitzende Tyche von → Tarsos mit Schleier und Mauerkrone, zu ihren Füßen nach I. schwimmender → Kydnos; von I. nähern sich der Stadtgöttin Isauria und → Kilikia und von r. → Lykaonia. Alle drei tragen ebenfalls einen Schleier und eine Mauerkrone. ΑΔΡΙ ΣΕΥΗΡΙΑΝΗΝ ΤΑΡΣΟΝ ΜΗΤΡΟ ΤΩΝ Γ ΕΠΑΡΧΕΙΩΝ ΚΙΛΙΚΙΑ, ΙΣΑΥΡΙΑ, ΛΥΚΑΟΝΙΑ.

Die personifizierte Landschaft von Isauria begegnet uns nur auf diesem Münztypus von Tarsos. Sie wird hier zusammen mit Kilikia und Lykaonia Tarsos, deren Hauptstadt mit Sitz des Landtages, huldigend dargestellt. Alle drei tragen Schleier und Mauerkrone, weisen aber kein individuell charakterisierendes Attribut auf und können nur durch die Beischriften als solche erkannt werden.

RAINER VOLKKOMMER

ISIS

(Ἰσις, Isis) Nom transcrit phonétiquement de l'égyptien (st) dont le signe caractéristique est le trône. Les égyptologues ne sont pas unanimes sur l'étymologie de ce nom (cf. LA III [1980] 186-188). Dès la fin de l'Ancien Empire, I. formait avec → Osiris un couple divin dont le mythe et le culte s'amplifièrent pour être universellement vénéérés, à l'époque où les Grecs connaissaient l'Égypte, par tous les Égyptiens (Hdt. 2, 42). Reconnue comme la déesse égyptienne par excellence et identifiée par ces derniers à → Déméter, à → Io (I), à Aphrodite (→ Aphrodite in periphéria or.), I. sera bientôt acceptée par les cités helléniques aux côtés de Sarapis, forme nouvelle du dieu syncrétiste Osiris-Apis-Pluton.

SOURCES LITTÉRAIRES: Les auteurs grecs, par un jeu d'équivalence subtil, attribuent à I. une ascendance hellénique: fille de Chronos et Rhéa (Diod. I, 13; Plut. de Is. et Os. 355d-f), ou de Zeus et Héra (Diod. I, 13); ou d'Hermès (Plut., o. c. 352a. 355d-f) ou même de Prométhée (Istros de Cyrène, FGH 334 F 43; Anticlide d'Athènes, FGH 140 F 13). Dans le mythe osirien dont Plutarque et Diodore de Sicile donnent un résumé succinct (Plut. de Is. et Os. 355d-358d; voir aussi Diod. I, 15-22), I. est la sœur et l'épouse d'Osiris, la sœur de → Nephthys et de Seth. Osiris, après avoir arraché l'Égypte à la barbarie, parcourut la terre pour la civiliser. Mais à son retour, il tomba dans les pièges de Seth et de ses complices qui l'enfermèrent dans un coffre et le jetèrent dans le Nil. Quand I. fut informée de ce malheur, elle se coupa une boucle de cheveux, et erra à la recherche du corps de son époux. Ses errances l'amènèrent jusqu'à Byblos, où le coffre avait été apporté par les flots et englobé dans le tronc d'un arbre dont le roi du pays fit faire une colonne de son palais. Après avoir récupéré non sans difficultés le précieux cercueil, I. le ramena avec elle. Puis, couvrant de son corps celui d'Osiris, elle conçut et mit au monde Harpocrate, Horus l'enfant (→ Harpokrates, → Horos). Mais Seth repéra un jour le corps d'Osiris qu'I. avait déposé dans un endroit retiré, le coupa en quatorze (Plut. de Is. et Os.) ou vingt-six morceaux (Diod. I, 21) et les dispersa. De nouveau, I. partit à leur recherche et éleva un tombeau chaque fois qu'elle découvrait un morceau du cadavre, d'où le nombre impressionnant des tombeaux d'Osiris. I. assura, quant à elle, le triomphe de son fils Horus sur Seth. Le mythe osirien mentionné dans plusieurs

renden Amphitrite (85. 104), und für Aphrodite ist nur ein Vasenbild zu nennen, auf dem diese mit I. verbunden ist (128): I. ordnet beim Parisurteil den Schleier der Göttin.

Im Heroenkreis ist I. häufig als Abgesandte der Götter zugegen. Am meisten begegnet sie dabei in trojanischen Szenen: sie geleitet den Götterzug zur Hochzeit Peleus-Thetis (124-126) und ist beim Parisurteil anwesend (127-136; dabei ist sie vor allem der Hera zugeordnet: 129-133; Athena: 135; Aphrodite: 128). Weiter ist I. anzutreffen bei der Ankunft des Antilochos in Troja (137), bei der Presbeia an Achilleus (138) sowie bei der Waffenübergabe (139. 140). Im Gegensatz zur Schilderung in der Ilias zeigt die Bildkunst sie bei Hektors Schleifung (141-145). Schließlich begegnet sie bei der Bergung des Memnon (146) und bei der Bedrohung der Cassandra (146a).

Bei Herakles kommt I. seltener vor: Kindheit des Herakles (88(?) 152), sie führt ihm den nemeischen Löwen zu (70), bei der Geryonie (149), bei den Hesperiden (150), bei der Aussöhnung des Herakles mit Hera (151) und als Botin bei Herakles in Eleusis (153).

In der römischen Sage wird sie mit einem Auftrag zu dem Äneasgegner Turnus geschickt (167a).

In zahlreichen weiteren Sagenbildern tritt sie als Götterbotin auf, wobei meist keine Schriftquellen zu ihrem Auftreten bekannt sind: Geiselnahme des Orest durch Telephos (154), Salmoneus (155), bei Ixion als Trabantin der Hera (156. 157), Iphigenie in Tauris (158), Niobiden (159), bei der Entführung eines Knaben (162-166).

Zur chronologischen Verteilung der Themen läßt sich feststellen, daß aus dem 7. Jh. nur eine Darstellung überliefert ist, die I. allein zeigt (4). Bilder des 6. Jh. geben ebenfalls I. allein sowie in trojanischen Szenen, bei Herakles und mit Hermes wieder. Weiter setzen die Bilder ein, auf denen die Satyrn I. verfolgen. Neue Themen kommen im 5. Jh. hinzu. Hervorzuheben sind die Darstellungen der I. als Ministrantin für Zeus und Hera und ihre Verbindung mit Zephyros. Im 4. Jh. ist I. vor allem in Götterfriesen auf unteritalischen Vasen zugegen und bei vielen Themen der Heroensage. Aus hellenistischer Zeit ist ihre Wiedergabe am Pergamonaltar zu nennen (97) und an Denkmälern der römischen Epoche zwei Wandbilder (75. 157), ein Sarkophag (95) und eine Buchmalerei (167a).

Die im Katalog angeführten Stücke verteilen sich dabei auf folgende Gattungen: 31 attisch schwarzfigurige Vasen (12-17. 70. 83-87. 105-109. 121. 124-127. 141-145. 168-170a), 92 attisch rotfigurige Vasen (18-36. 42. 66. 71. 81. 82. 88-91. 96. 99. 101. 102. 110-119. 122. 128-131. 137. 146. 149-151. 155. 160. 162-167. 171-174), eine böotisch rotfigurige Vase (37), 30 unteritalische Vasen (37a. 67. 72-74. 77-80. 92-94. 98. 100. 103. 120. 123. 132-135. 138-140. 152. 153. 156. 158. 159. 175), 2 Münztypen (10. 11: Deutung unsicher), 4 Gemmen (5-8: Deutung ebenfalls unsicher), 4 etruskische Beispiele (136. 148. 154. 161), eine ionische Vase (147), ein Beispiel aus der Skulptur (104), 8 Re-

liefs (1. 3. 68. 69. 76. 95. 97. 123a), 2 Typen von Terrakottareliefs (39. 40), 4 Darstellungen der großen Malerei (2. 4. 75. 157), eine Buchillustration (167a) und 3 Beispiele der Toreutik (9. 38. 41). Die weitaus meisten Denkmäler, auf denen I. dargestellt ist, sind somit die attisch rotfigurigen Vasen, gefolgt von den schwarzfigurigen und den unteritalischen Vasen. Der größte Teil der Darstellungen insgesamt stammt aus der Zeit vom 6.-4. Jh. v. Chr.

Der Überblick über die Wiedergaben der I. zeigt, daß ihre wichtigste Rolle die der Götterbotin, der Ministrantin und auch der Heratrabantin ist. Es fällt auf, daß I. auf vielen Darstellungen mit Mythen zugegen ist, auf denen sich ihre Rolle nicht durch Schriftquellen erklären läßt. Sie ist hier eine Zuhilfenahme der Bildkunst. Ihre Anwesenheit soll das göttliche Einwirken auf die dargestellte Handlung andeuten, wobei dann I. als Mittlerin zwischen den Göttern und (vor allem dem einzelnen) Menschen aufgefaßt ist. So verlangt ihre Präsenz häufig keine bestimmte, auf das Geschehen bezogene Erklärung, sondern oft soll nur exemplarisch darauf hingewiesen werden, daß die dargestellten Handlungen dem (unerforschlichen) Willen und Ratschluß der Götter unterliegen. Die Gegenwart der I. soll damit in ganz allgemeinem Sinne auf die allen Menschen vorbestimmte Lenkung des Geschehens durch die Götter, vor allem durch Zeus, hinweisen.

ANNELIESE KOSSATZ-DEISSMANN

IRIS II

(Ἥρις) Personifikation des gleichnamigen Flusses in Kleinasien (Pontos), identisch mit dem heutigen Yeşil Irmak.

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Conticello, B., EAA IV (1961) 222 s. v. «Iris»; Danoff, Chr., KIPauly II (1967) 1453 s. v. «Iris 3»; Drexler, W., ML II 1 (1890-94) 357 s. v. «Iris 2»; Ruge, W., RE IX 2 (1916) 2045 s. v. «Iris 3».

Münzen von Amaseia (Pontos)

I. * AE, Faustina I. († 141 n. Chr.). - RecGen I 37 Nr. 22 Taf. 4, 18; Imhoof-Blumer, Fluß 257 Nr. 210 Taf. 7, 18. - Rs.: Nach I. gelagerter, nur mit einem Himantion bis zu den Hüften bekleideter, bärtiger I., die Rechte auf eine Schiffsprora gelegt, mit der Linken ein Schilfrohr schulternd und auf einen Felsen gelehnt.

Diese einzige bekannte Darstellung des I. auf Münzen von Amaseia, das an diesem Fluß liegt, folgt dem geläufigen kaiserzeitlichen Schema des gelagerten Flußgottes (→ Fluvii). Dieser ruht jedoch hier in origineller Weise nicht auf einem Quellgefäß, sondern auf einem Felsen. Diese besondere Charakterisierung soll wohl auf die markante Lage der Stadt Amaseia (des heutigen Amasya) an einem steilen Felsabhang hinweisen, an dem der Fluß vorbeifloß. Die Schiffsprora spielt des weiteren auf die Schiffbarkeit des Flusses an.

RAINER VOLKKOMMER

IRISIA

(Ἥρις) Néréide dont le nom est connu par une inscription; son nom ne figure pas dans les listes (→ Nereides).

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Conticello, B., EAA IV (1961) 222 s. v. «Irisia»; Roscher, W. H., ML II 1 (1890-94) 357 s. v. «Irisia».

I. (= Choro I 1*, = Erato III 1*, = Glauke I 2 - avec bibl.) Coupe attique à f.r. Munich, Antikenslg. 2619A (J 331). De Vulci. - ARV<sup>2</sup> 146, 2; 1628: P. d'Epéleios; Add<sup>2</sup> 179; Schefold, SB II 190 fig. 256. - Vers 510 av. J.-C. - A: lutte de → Thetis et Pélée (→ Peleus) en présence de Néréides qui fuient de part et d'autre. Elles sont désignées par des inscriptions: Glauké, Choro, Erato, I., → Kymatothea. I. (diadème, chiton, himation, bracelet) court vers la dr. en se retournant; bras écartés, elle tient un poisson dans la main dr. Sous l'anse se trouve l'autel auprès duquel dansaient les Néréides avant l'assaut de Pélée.

Le nom d'I. signifie probablement «la chatoyante, la changeante». O. Jahn (Beschr. d. Vasensamm. König Ludwigs [1854] 97 n° 331) corrigeait son nom en [Ἠλπεσία, à tort selon P. Kretschmer (Die griech. Vasenschriften [1894] 200 n. 2; 202) qui le rapproche de celui d'→ Iris (I). NOËLLE ICARD-GIANOLIO

IRISIS → Briseis 54

ISAURIA

(Ἰσαυρία) Personifikation der gleichnamigen Landschaft zwischen Pisidien im Westen, Lykaonien im Osten und Kilikien im Süden.

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Conticello, B., EAA IV (1961) 223 s. v. «Isauria»; Drexler, W., ML II 1 (1890-94) 358 s. v. «Isauria»; Ruge, W., RE IX 2 (1916) 2056 s. v. «Isauria»; Treidler, H., KIPauly II (1967) 1458-1459 s. v. «Isauria».

Münzen von Tarsos (Kilikien)

I. * AE, Septimius Severus (193-211 n. Chr.). - Kenner, F., Die Münzsammlung des Stiftes St. Florian in Ober-Österreich (1871) 153-155 Taf. 5, 12; BMC Lycaonia, Isauria and Cilicia 193, 174; Forrer, L., The Weber Collection III 2 (1929) 663 Nr. 7660 Taf. 277; SNG v. Aulock 6001 = SNG Switzerland I 1023; Ziegler, R., Münzen Kilikiens in kleineren deutschen Sammlungen (1989) 92, 686 Taf. 33. - Rs.: Nach I. sitzende Tyche von → Tarsos mit Schleier und Mauerkrone, zu ihren Füßen nach I. schwimmender → Kydnos; von I. nähern sich der Stadtgöttin Isauria und → Kilikia und von r. → Lykaonia. Alle drei tragen ebenfalls einen Schleier und eine Mauerkrone. AAPI ZEYHPANHN TAPZON MHTPO TON Γ EIIAPXEION KIAIKIA, IZAYPIA, AYKAONIA.

Die personifizierte Landschaft von Isauria begegnet uns nur auf diesem Münztypus von Tarsos. Sie wird hier zusammen mit Kilikia und Lykaonia Tarsos, deren Hauptstadt mit Sitz des Landtages, huldigend dargestellt. Alle drei tragen Schleier und Mauerkrone, weisen aber kein individuell charakterisierendes Attribut auf und können nur durch die Beischriften als solche erkannt werden. RAINER VOLKKOMMER

ISIS

(Ἥις, Isis) Nom transcrit phonétiquement de l'égyptien (st) dont le signe caractéristique est le trône. Les égyptologues ne sont pas unanimes sur l'étymologie de ce nom (cf. LÄ III [1980] 186-188). Dès la fin de l'Ancien Empire, I. formait avec → Osiris un couple divin dont le mythe et le culte s'amplifièrent pour être universellement vénérés, à l'époque où les Grecs connaissaient l'Égypte, par tous les Égyptiens (Hdt. 2, 42). Reconnue comme la déesse égyptienne par excellence et identifiée par ces derniers à → Déméter, à → Io (I), à Aphrodite (→ Aphrodite in periphéria or.), I. sera bientôt acceptée par les cités helléniques aux côtés de Sarapis, forme nouvelle du dieu syncrétiste Osiris-Apis-Pluton.

SOURCES LITTÉRAIRES: Les auteurs grecs, par un jeu d'équivalence subtil, attribuent à I. une ascendance hellénique: fille de Chronos et Rhéa (Diod. 1, 13; Plut. de Is. et Os. 355d-f), ou de Zeus et Héra (Diod. 1, 13); ou d'Hermès (Plut., o. c. 352a. 355d-f) ou même de Prométhée (Istros de Cyrène, FGH 334 F 43; Anticlide d'Athènes, FGH 140 F 13). Dans le mythe osirien dont Plutarque et Diodore de Sicile donnent un résumé succinct (Plut. de Is. et Os. 355d-358d; voir aussi Diod. 1, 15-22), I. est la sœur et l'épouse d'Osiris, la sœur de → Nephthys et de Seth. Osiris, après avoir arraché l'Égypte à la barbarie, parcourut la terre pour la civiliser. Mais à son retour, il tomba dans les pièges de Seth et de ses complices qui l'enfermèrent dans un coffre et le jetèrent dans le Nil. Quand I. fut informée de ce malheur, elle se coupa une boucle de cheveux, et erra à la recherche du corps de son époux. Ses errances l'amènèrent jusqu'à Byblos, où le coffre avait été apporté par les flots et englobé dans le tronc d'un arbre dont le roi du pays fit faire une colonne de son palais. Après avoir récupéré non sans difficultés le précieux cercueil, I. le ramena avec elle. Puis, couvrant de son corps celui d'Osiris, elle conçut et mit au monde Harpocrate, Horus l'enfant (→ Harpocrates, → Horos). Mais Seth repéra un jour le corps d'Osiris qu'I. avait déposé dans un endroit retiré, le coupa en quatorze (Plut. de Is. et Os.) ou vingt-six morceaux (Diod. 1, 21) et les dispersa. De nouveau, I. partit à leur recherche et éleva un tombeau chaque fois qu'elle découvrait un morceau du cadavre, d'où le nombre impressionnant des tombeaux d'Osiris. I. assura, quant à elle, le triomphe de son fils Horus sur Seth. Le mythe osirien mentionné dans plusieurs textes souligne surtout la recherche et la découverte du corps d'Osiris par I., épisodes qui sont consacrés par les festivités dont certains philosophes et Pères de l'Eglise parlaient avec ironie.

Les textes fournissent aussi de précieux renseignements sur l'imagerie d'I. Elle porte sur sa tête deux cornes de vache ou un croissant de lune (Hdt. 2, 41; Plut. de Is. et Os. 372d; Ail. nat. 10, 27) – parce qu'on voulait lui donner l'aspect de la lune et que les Egyptiens lui consacraient la vache (Diod. 1, 11, 4) – sur son front, des épis de blé (Apul. met. 11, 4; Ov. met. 9, 688–690) ainsi que la coiffure dite dépouille de vautour parce que consistant précisément en une tête et en un plumage de cet oiseau (Ail. nat. 10, 22); compte tenu de sa disposition, nous la décrirons plus brièvement comme «vautour accouvé». I. possède des cheveux épars (Philostr. ep. p. 349 Kayser: λυσίχομος; Apul. met. 11, 3). Elle porte des vêtements aux couleurs bigarrées (pour symboliser la lumière et les ténèbres, le jour et la nuit, le feu et l'eau, la vie et la mort, le commencement et la fin: cf. Plut. de Is. et Os. 382c–d), ornés d'emblèmes astraux (Apul. met. 11, 3); elle peut aussi revêtir des habits noirs (Orph. h. 42, 9: μελανηρόπος). Ses vêtements sont en lin (Tib. 1, 3, 30; Ov. ars 1, 77; met. 1, 747; Pont. 1, 1, 51–52; Philostr. ep. p. 361 Kayser). Sa «stola» sacrée est assez caractéristique pour qu'on puisse la reconnaître facilement, comme dans le cas de Cléopâtre qui s'habilla avec ce vêtement et se fit appeler «nea Isis» (Plut. Ant. 54) ou dans le cas de l'apparition de la déesse à Lucius (Apul. met. 11, 4). Ses pieds sont chaussés de sandales de palme (Apul. met. 11, 4). Dans l'apparition décrite par Apulée, I. tient dans sa main droite un sistre et dans la gauche un serpent uræus (Apul. met. 11, 4; Serv. Aen. 8, 696).

Les monuments iconographiques d'I. se comptent par milliers et les inédits sont nombreux. Dans le catalogue qui va suivre, nous avons opéré un choix, surtout en ce qui concerne les terres cuites, les lampes et les monnaies.

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Au sujet d'Isis et de son culte hors d'Egypte, on trouvera une bibliographie récente et abondante ainsi qu'un état des questions concernant les sujets abordés dans quatre articles de ANRW II 17, 3 (1984): Metzger, M., «A Classified Bibliography of the Graeco-Roman Mystery Religions», 1329–1339 et 1409–1411; Malaise, M., «La diffusion des cultes égyptiens dans les provinces européennes de l'Empire romain», 1615–1691; Leclant, J., «Aegyptiaca et milieux isiaques. Recherches sur la diffusion du matériel et des idées égyptiennes», 1692–1709; Tran tam Tinh, «Etat des études iconographiques relatives à Isis, Sérapis et Sunnaoui Theoi», 1710–1738 (= Tinh, ANRW). Pour la période 1940–1969, cf. Leclant, J. (Leclant, J./Clerc, G. à partir du tome III), Inventaire bibliographique des Isia. (IBIS), EPRO 18 I–III (1972, 1974, 1985) (= Leclant, IBIS). Nous ne mentionnons donc ci-dessous que les publications les plus importantes et le plus souvent citées.

Monographies et études de caractère général: Bergman, J., Ich bin Isis. Studien zum memphitischen Hintergrund der griechischen Isis-Aretalogien (1968); idem, L'Ä III (1980) 186–203 s. v. «Isis»; Dietrich, D., Der hellenistische Isiskult als kosmopolitische Religion und die sogenannte Isismission (thèse Leipzig 1966); Drexler, W., ML II 1 (1890–94) 360–348 s. v. «Isis»; Dunand, F., Le culte d'Isis dans le bassin oriental de la Méditerranée, EPRO 26 I–III (1973) (= Dunand, Isis); Heyob, Sh. K., The Cult of Isis Among Women in the Graeco-Roman World, EPRO 51 (1975); Hölbl, G., L'Ä VI (1985) 920–969 s. v. «Verehrung ägypt. Götter im Ausland, bes. griech.-röm. Zt.»; Hopfner, Th., Fontes historiae religionis Aegyptiacae I–V (1922–1925); Kolta, K. S., Die Gleichsetzung ägyptischer und griechischer Götter bei Herodot (thèse Tübingen 1968); Lafaye, G., DA III 1 (1899) 577–586 s. v. «Isis»; Leclant, J., «Isis, déesse universelle et divinité locale, dans le monde gréco-romain», dans IconogrCl 341–353; Merkelbach, R., Isisfeste in griechisch-römischer Zeit, Daten und Riten (1963); Michailidis, G., «Contribution à l'étude de la Grande Déesse en Egypte» II, BullInstEg 37, 1954/55 [1956] 191–213 et pls. 1–26; Müller, D., Ägypten und die griechischen Isis-Aretalogien (1961); Müller, H. W., Der Isiskult im antiken Benevent und Kat. der Skulpturen aus den ägypt. Heiligtümern im Mus. del Sannio zu Benevent (1969) (= Müller, Isis); Pesce, G., Il libro delle sfingi. Il culto dei massimi dèi dell'Egitto in Sardegna (1978); Roeder, G., REIX 2 (1916) 2084–2132 s. v. «Isis»; Solmsen, F., Isis Among the Greeks and Romans (1979); Tran tam Tinh, V., Essai sur le culte d'Isis à Pompéi (1964) (= Tinh, Isis Pompéi); Tran tam Tinh, «Isis une et tout», DOCampanie (cf. ci-dessous) 199–234; Tran tam Tinh, «L'acculturation des divinités grecques en Egypte», dans IconogrCl 355–364; Tschudin, P., Isis in Rom (1962); Turcan, R., Les cultes orientaux dans le monde romain (1989) 77–127; Vidman, L., Isis und Sarapis bei den Griechen und Römern (1970); Vidman, L., «Isis und Sarapis», dans Vermasere, M. J. (éd.), Die orientalischen Religionen im Römerreich, EPRO 93 (1981) 121–149; Witt, R. E., Isis in the Graeco-Roman World (1971); Walters, E. J., Attic Grave Reliefs that represent Women in the Dress of Isis, Hesperia Suppl. 22 (1988).

Principales sources iconographiques: Breccia, E., Monuments de l'Egypte gréco-romaine II 1–2. Terrecotte figurée grecque et gréco-égyptienne del Museo di Alessandria (1930–1934) (= Breccia, Mon. II 1–2); Drexler, W., «Der Isis- und Sarapis-Cultus in Kleinasien», NumZ 21, 1889, 1–234; Dunand, F., Religion populaire en Egypte romaine, EPRO 76 (1979) (= Dunand, Relig. pop.); ExpSieglin II 2 (1924); Grenier, J.-C., Anubis alexandrin et romain, EPRO 57 (1977) (= Grenier, Anubis); Hornbostel, W., Sarapis, EPRO 32 (1973) (= Hornbostel, Sarapis); Kaufmann, C. M., Graeco-ägyptische Koroplastik (1915) (= Kaufmann [1915]); Perdrizet, P., Les terres cuites grecques d'Egypte de la collection Fouquet (1921) (= Perdrizet, Terres cuites Fouquet); Tran tam Tinh, Le culte des divinités orientales à Herculaneum, EPRO 17 (1971) (= Tinh, DOHerculaneum); idem, Le culte des divinités orientales en Campanie, EPRO 27 (1972) (= Tinh, DOCampanie); idem, Sérapis debout, EPRO 94 (1983) (= Tinh, Sérapis debout); Weber, W., Die ägyptisch-griech. Terrakotten, Königl. Museen zu Berlin (1914). – Voir aussi la bibliographie spécifique à chacun des syncrétismes étudiés et placée en tête des sections relatives.

La fortune d'I. dans le monde occidental: Baltrušaitis, J., La quête d'Isis. Essai sur la légende d'un mythe (1967, rééd. 1985).

CATALOGUE

SOMMAIRE

I. Isis seule	I–129
A. Isis debout	I–78
1. Isis vêtue d'une robe et d'un himation collants	I–8
2. Isis vêtue du chiton et de l'himation formant le nœud isiaque	9–36
a) Tenant un serpent uræus dans la main droite et une situle dans la gauche	9–11
b) Tenant un uræus dans la main droite et divers attributs dans la gauche (lorsque celle-ci est conservée)	12–17
c) Tenant un sceptre dans la main droite et divers attributs dans la gauche (lorsque celle-ci est conservée)	18–20

d) Tenant une corne d'abondance sur le bras gauche baissé	21–26
e) Agitant un sistre de la main droite et tenant une situle dans la gauche	27–30
f) Ayant tenu des attributs perdus	31–36
3. Isis vêtue d'un costume sans nœud	37–45
a) Tenant divers attributs	37–43
b) Ayant tenu des attributs perdus	44–45
4. Isis représentée la tête couverte d'un voile	46–61
a) Avec le nœud isiaque entre les seins	46–58
b) Sans nœud isiaque	59–61
5. Figures d'Isis orientalisantes ou archaïsantes	62–63
6. Figures fragmentaires	64–76
7. Isis debout, dans des scènes mythologiques ou «liturgiques»	77–78
B. Isis assise	79–92
C. Bustes d'Isis	93–129
1. Avec nœud isiaque	93–125
2. Sans nœud isiaque	126–127
3. Avec la tête voilée	128–129
II. Isis en compagnie d'autres divinités	130–210
A. Isis et Sarapis	130–162
B. Isis, Sarapis et Harpocrate	163–171
C. Isis et Harpocrate	172–183
D. Isis, Sarapis et Anubis	184–185
E. Isis et Anubis	186–187
F. Isis, Harpocrate et Anubis	188–189
G. Isis, Sarapis, Harpocrate et Anubis	190–191
H. Isis, Sarapis, Harpocrate, Anubis et Hermanubis	192
I. Isis, Harpocrate et Osiris	193
J. Isis, Sarapis et Apis	194
K. Isis, Sarapis, Anubis et Apis	195
L. Isis et Horus	–
M. Isis, Sarapis et Horus	196
N. Isis, Harpocrate et Horus	–
O. Isis, Anubis, Horus et Apis	–
P. Isis, Sarapis, Harpocrate, Horus et Ammon-Ré (?)	–
Q. Isis, Sarapis, Harpocrate et Nil	–
R. Isis, Harpocrate et Nephthys	–
S. Isis et Bès	–
T. Isis, Sarapis, Harpocrate et Bès	–
U. Isis, Sarapis, Hathor et Bès	197
V. Isis, Sarapis et Anoukis	198
W. Isis, Sarapis et Déméter	199–201
X. Isis, Sarapis, Harpocrate et Déméter	202–203
Y. Isis, Sarapis, Harpocrate et Dionysos	204
Z. Isis, Sarapis et les Dioscures	205
A'. Isis, Sarapis, les Dioscures, Junon et Jupiter Dolichénien	206–207
B'. Isis, Sarapis et Apollon	–
C'. Isis, Chnoum et Déméter	208
D'. Isis, Anubis et Minerve	–
E'. Isis et Ammon	–
F'. Isis et Io	–
G'. Isis et Hélios	209
H'. Isis, Harpocrate et Hespéros	210
I'. Isis et Kaystros	–
III. Isis lactans	211–248
A. Isis trônant allaitant Harpocrate	211–236
B. Isis surgissant d'un calice de feuilles d'acanthé, allaite Harpocrate	237
C. Isis surgissant d'un panier, allaite Harpocrate	238–239
D. Isis debout, portant Harpocrate sur son bras gauche	240–241
E. Isis-Thermouthis allaitant	242–243
F. Isis trônant, allaitant le bœuf Apis	244–247
G. Isis debout, allaitant le bœuf Apis	248
IV. Formes syncrétiques d'Isis	249–364
A. Isis-Aphrodite	249–259
1. Isis-Aphrodite coiffée d'un diadème à palmettes rayonnantes, portant un collier à pendentifs, les bras tendus	249
2. Isis-Aphrodite coiffée d'un diadème, les bras levés au niveau des épaules, sans collier	250–251
3. Isis-Aphrodite coiffée du vautour accouvé	252
4. Isis-Aphrodite anadyomène, les mains portées à ses cheveux	253
5. Isis-Aphrodite pudique, coiffée d'un diadème	254
6. Isis-Aphrodite pudique, coiffée du vautour accouvé, vêtue d'une tunique collante	255
7. Isis-Aphrodite du type «anasyroménè», relevant sa tunique	256–257
8. Isis-Aphrodite les bras baissés le long du corps, coiffée d'une couronne de fleurs surmontée d'un modius	258
9. Isis-Aphrodite accroupie	259
B. Isis-Déméter	260–264
1. Isis-Déméter debout, tenant des épis de blé	260–261
2. Isis-Déméter debout, tenant une torche	262–264
C. Isis-Io	265–268
1. Mythe d'Isis et Io	265–266
2. Isis-Io	267–268
D. Isis Pelagia	269–302
1. Isis Pelagia debout, de profil, tenant des deux mains une voile	269–297
2. Monuments mutilés d'interprétation incertaine	298–301
3. Monuments d'interprétation douteuse	302
E. Isis-Fortuna	303–318
1. Isis-Fortuna debout	303–315
a) Isis-Fortuna vêtue du chiton et de l'himation avec nœud isiaque	303–306
b) Isis-Fortuna vêtue du chiton et de l'himation sans nœud isiaque	307–311
c) Isis-Fortuna vêtue d'un chiton serré laissant le sein gauche nu et drapée de l'himation	312

- d) Isis-Fortuna vêtue du chiton et de l'himation qui descend de l'épaule droite ..... 313
- e) Isis-Fortuna vêtue d'une draperie couvrant seulement l'épaule gauche et la jambe droite ..... 314-315
2. Isis-Fortuna assise ..... 316-318
- F. Isis panthée ..... 319
- G. Isis-Sothis ..... 320-331
- H. Isis-Thermouthis ..... 332-364
1. Isis-Thermouthis sous la forme d'un uræus ..... 332-340
2. Isis-Thermouthis et Agathodaimon sous la forme de serpents, face à face ..... 341-344
3. Isis-Thermouthis sous la forme d'un uræus, avec un buste de femme ..... 345-352
4. Isis-Thermouthis et Sarapis-Agathodaimon sous la forme de serpents, avec des bustes humains ..... 353-359
5. Isis-Thermouthis vêtue d'une tunique courte et de l'himation avec nœud isiaque ..... 360-364
- I. Isis-Artémis ..... -
- J. Isis-Athéna ..... -
- K. Isis-Bastet ..... -
- L. Isis-Baubo ..... -
- M. Isis-Besit ..... -
- N. Isis-Boubastis ..... -
- O. Isis-Euthénia ..... -
- P. Isis-Noreia ..... -

I. Isis seule

A. Isis debout

1. Isis vêtue d'une robe et d'un himation collants

Les vêtements forment, entre les seins, le nœud dit isiaque (critère d'identification d'I., il est formé par l'entrelacement de la pointe du tissu qui descend de l'épaule droite avec la lisière transversale barrant la poitrine; cf. commentaire). Les bras sont baissés, le long du corps.

1. Relief en stuc. Pompéi, façade du Megaron de l'Iseum, in situ. - Tinh, Isis Pompéi 35 pl. 1, 2. - Visage abîmé.

Statues de type égyptien adossées ou non à un pilier

2. Statue colossale en granit. Alexandrie, Sérapeum. Découverte dans le port d'Alexandrie. - Fraser, P. M., Ptolemaic Alexandria I (1972) 20 et n. 126; Witt 70 pl. 13. - Ep. hellénistique. - La coiffure et la partie inférieure des jambes manquent.

3.* Granit. Le Caire, Mus. Egypt. CG 27471. De Naucratis. - Edgar, CatGénCaire. Greek Sculpture (1903) n° 27471 pl. 9. - Ep. hellénistique. - I. tient le signe ankh (signe de vie) dans la dr., un lotus dans la g.

4.* Basalte. Le Caire, Mus. Egypt. CG 27473. - Edgar, o. c. 3, n° 27473 pl. 9. - Sans pilier; I. tient une fleur dans la dr.

5.* a) Granit. Alexandrie, Mus. Gréco-Rom. 344. - Inédit. - I. tient le signe ankh dans la g. - b) Marbre. Alexandrie, Mus. Gréco-Rom. 1616. D'Alexandrie. - Inédit. - La tête et les jambes manquent. - c)* Basalte. Alexandrie, Mus. Gréco-Rom. 3220. - Inédit. - La tête et les bras manquent.

6.* Granit. Munich, Ägypt. Slg. Gl. WAF 26b. De Rome, des environs de la Villa Albani. - III<sup>e</sup> s. av. J.-C. - Stricker, B. H., Oudheikundige Mededelingen van het Rijksmus. van Oudheden te Leiden 41, 1960, 30 n° 3 pl. 21, 3; Müller, H. W., Staatl. Slg. ägypt. Kunst (1976) 204 n° 123 fig. - I. acéphale, tenant un manche de sistre dans la dr., le signe ankh dans la g.

7.* Basalte. Vatican, Mus. Greg. Egizio 107. De Tivoli, Villa Hadriana. - v. Bissing, F. W. Frh., Ägypt. Kultbilder der Ptolomaier- und Römerzeit (1936) 12 pl. 3, 8; Botti, G./Romanelli, P., Le sculture del Mus. Greg. Egizio (1951) 99 n° 148 pl. 69; Stricker, o. c. 6, 30 n° 11 pl. 22, 4; Helbig<sup>4</sup> I n° 483; Pesce 33 fig. 1. - Ep. hellénistique récente. - I. tient le signe ankh dans la dr. et un lotus dans la g.

8.* Gabbro. Leyden, Rijksmus. F 1960/3,1. - Stricker, o. c. 6, 20 fig. 5 pls. 19-20. - I. acéphale; sur le pilier, dédicace en grec d'un certain Dionysios fils d'Apaouer, en reconnaissance à I.

Pour d'autres monuments semblables, cf. Stricker, o. c. 6, 29-30 pls. 21-22.

2. Isis vêtue du chiton et de l'himation formant le nœud isiaque

Sauf indication contraire, Isis est coiffée du basileion (couronne hathorique formée du disque solaire entouré de cornes de vache et flanqué, entre autres, de plumes ou d'épis de blé), emblème isiaque par excellence; nous ne signalons donc que les éléments de coiffure complémentaires.

a) Tenant un serpent uræus dans la main droite et une situle dans la gauche

9. Statue de marbre. Alexandrie, Mus. Gréco-Rom. P.440. De Ras el Soda, Iseum, trouvée sur le podium du sanctuaire. - Adriani, A., AMAlex 1935-1939 (1940) 139 pl. 55, 1 et 58 (en haut à droite). - Début II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - I. coiffée d'un diadème surmonté du basileion; son pied g. est posé sur un petit crocodile; himation relevé sur le bras g.

Statuettes

10.* Bronze. a) Athènes, Mus. Nat. 677. - Inédit. - Ep. romaine. - I. avec le vautour accouvé; l'himation pend du côté droit; l'uræus est couronné d'un disque. - b)* Munich, Ägypt. Slg. AS 4202. - Müller, o. c. 6, 219. - I<sup>er</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - Mêmes coiffure et vêtement que a; tête de l'uræus cassée.

11.* Terre cuite. a) Berlin-Ouest, Staatl. Mus. 9944. - Weber n° 27 pl. 3. - Ep. romaine. - I. porte aussi un diadème; himation relevé sur le bras g. - b) Berlin, Staatl. Mus. T. C. 4565. - Weber n° 28 pl. 3. - Coiffure cassée au-dessus du diadème; himation comme a; à côté d'I., pilastre supportant un vase. - c)* Francfort, Liebieghaus 2400.1177. - Kaufmann (1915) 47 pl. 15, 85; Bayer-Niemeier, E., Griechisch-römische Terrakotten (1988) 131-132 n° 216 pl. 41, 5. - Similaire à b. - Cf. aussi Kaufmann, o. c. pl. 15, 84, 86 (localisation actuelle inconnue). - d) Anc. coll. Schreiber. - ExpSieglin II 2, 125 n° 7 pl. 42, 7. - Avec une tête n'appartenant pas à cette statue; himation comme b; I. est debout sur un crocodile. - e) Oslo, Univ., coll. Ustinov UT 104. - Skupinska-Løvset, I., The Ustinov Collection. Terracottas (1978) 118 n° UT 104 pl. 17. - Himation comme b.

b) Tenant un uræus dans la main droite et divers attributs dans la gauche (lorsque celle-ci est conservée)

Monnaies

12. AE, nome de Bousiris, Hadrien, 126/127 ap. J.-C. - Milne 1223. - Rv.: I. tient un bélier de la g.

13. AE, nome de Memphis, Antonin le Pieux, 144/145 ap. J.-C. - BMC Alexandria 346, 25; Dattari 6302 pl. 36; Geissen, AlexKaisermünzen IV 3489. - Rv.: I. tient l'uræus dans la g. et un sceptre dans la dr.; derrière elle, un bélier; himation relevé sur le bras g.

Statuettes de bronze

14. Le Caire, Mus. Egypt. CG 27674 (= JE 25337). - Edgar, CatGénCaire. Greek Bronzes (1904) n° 27674 pl. 4. - Le bras dr. est mutilé, le g. baissé tient des épis (?).

15.* a) Baltimore, Walters Art Gall. 54.497 et 54.2016. - Steindorff, G., Cat. of the Egypt. Sculpture in the Walters Art Gall. (1946) n° 416-417 pl. 72. - Le bras g. manque dans les deux cas et a été remplacé (dans le second) par le bras dr. (!) d'une autre statue. - b)* Brooklyn, Brooklyn Mus. 05.395. - Late Egyptian and Coptic Art (1943) 18 pl. 23. - Le bras g. manque. - Les exemples suivants appartiennent vraisemblablement au même type: c) Alexandrie, Mus. Gréco-Rom. 19412. - Inédit. - Le bras dr. est mutilé, le bras g. tendu. - d) Paris, Louvre Br 789. - De Ridder, BrLouvre I n° 789; Reinach, RépStat II 422, 9. - Bras cassés.

16.* Lyon, Mus. Beaux-Arts L 274. - Boucher, S., Bronzes romains figurés du Mus. des Beaux-Arts de Lyon (1973) 39-40 n° 63. - Avec un uræus sur le disque solaire; dans la main g. avancée, une grenade? (plutôt une situle selon S. Boucher); himation relevé sur le bras g.

Moule

17. Plâtre. Le Caire, Mus. Egypt. CG 32050. - Edgar, CatGénCaire. Greek Moulds (1903) n° 32050 pl. 22. - Partie supérieure du corps; I. avec le vautour accouvé; le bras dr. manque dans le moule car il devait être tendu vers l'avant.

c) Tenant un sceptre dans la main droite et divers attributs dans la gauche (lorsque celle-ci est conservée)

Monnaies

18. a) AE, Perinthos (Thrace), Claude (41-54 ap. J.-C.). - Schönert, E., Die Münzprägung von Perinthos (1965) n° 224-226 pl. 9. - Rv.: I. s'appuie du bras g.

sur son sceptre et tient un sistre dans la main dr.; auprès d'I., un autel. - b) AE, Lebedos (Ionie), Sabina († 137 ap. J.-C.). - Imhoof-Blumer, KIM I 74 n° 15. - Rv.: avec un sistre (?) dans la dr. - c) AE, Tios (Bythinie), Marc Aurèle César (138-161 ap. J.-C.). - SNG v. Aulock 944. - Rv.: avec un sistre dans la dr. - d) AE, Philadelphia (Lydie), époque de Septime Sévère (193-211 ap. J.-C.). - BMC Lydia 191, 29 pl. 21, 11. - Av.: Sénat romain; Rv.: I. tient un sistre de la g. - e) AE, Thyatira (Lydie), Septime Sévère (193-211 ap. J.-C.), Geta (211-212 ap. J.-C.). - BMC Lydia 301, 53; 311, 109. - Av.: buste de Sarapis; Rv.: I. agitant un sistre de la dr. et s'appuyant sur un sceptre de la g.

19. Bi, Alexandrie, Hadrien, 120/121 ap. J.-C. - Dattari 1405 pl. 17. - Rv.: I. tient une double corne d'abondance dans la g.

Statue

20. Marbre blanc. Délos, Sérapeum C, sanctuaire d'Isis, in situ. - Horn, R., Stehende weibliche Gewandstatuen (1931) 77 pl. 29; Marcadé, MusDélos 429 pl. 57; Walters 15. 63 n. 48. - 128/127 av. J.-C. - La tête, les bras et le bas des jambes manquent; d'après la pose et le déhanchement, I. devait s'appuyer avec le bras g. sur le sceptre.

d) Tenant une corne d'abondance sur le bras gauche baissé

Un pan de l'himation est relevé sur le bras gauche

Statues

21. Marbre. a) Délos, Mus. A 2255. Du Sérapeum de Délos (?). - Marcadé, MusDélos 430 pl. 57. - II<sup>e</sup> s. av. J.-C. - La tête et le bras dr. manquent; le pan de l'himation qui forme le nœud tombe de l'épaule g. - b) Délos, Mus. A 378. - Marcadé, MusDélos 431 pl. 57. - II<sup>e</sup> s. av. J.-C. - La tête et les bras manquent mais les traces de la corne d'abondance sont visibles. Pour des statuettes fragmentaires semblables à Délos, cf. ibid. 430-431 pl. 57.

22.* Marbre blanc. Alexandrie, Mus. Gréco-Rom. 11311. - Adriani, Rep A-II 38 n° 147 pl. 72, 239. - II<sup>e</sup> s. av. J.-C. - I. acéphale, les bras en partie cassés.

23.* Basalte noir. Alexandrie, Mus. Gréco-Rom. 23840. De Canope. - Breccia, E., Le musée gréco-romain 1925-1931 (1932) 17 pl. 7, 25; Adriani, Rep A-II 37-38 n° 145 pl. 72, 237. - I<sup>er</sup>/II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - I. acéphale, la corne d'abondance mutilée, le bras dr. (cassé) pendait le long du corps.

24. Granit noir. Alexandrie, Mus. Gréco-Rom. 23841. De Canope. - Adriani, Rep A-II 38 n° 146 pl. 72, 238. - I<sup>er</sup>/II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - I. acéphale, la corne d'abondance mutilée, la main dr. baissée tenant un objet indistinct.

25. Calcaire blanc. Louqsor, dans le temple dont l'inscription porte une dédicace à Sarapis-Hélios. - Leclant, J., Orientalia N. S. 20, 1951, 456 pl. 45, 1; 47; Dunand, F., BIFAO 81, 1981, 135-139 pls. 27. 31-32; Leclant, J., dans IconogrCl 341-343 fig. 1; Walters 7 n. 14; 112 pl. 52d. - Vers 126 ap. J.-C. - La tête et les bras manquent; traces de la corne d'abondance sur l'épaule g.; la main dr. baissée devait tenir une patère.

26.* Marbre blanc. Salamine, Mus. Sal.st.8. De Salamine. - Karageorghis, V., Sculptures from Salamis I (1964) 25 n° 16 pl. 23, 1-2. - II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - I. acéphale, traces de la corne d'abondance.

e) Agitant un sistre de la main droite et tenant une situle dans la gauche

Monnaies

27.* a) AE, Aizanoi (Phrygie), ép. impériale. - SNG Copenhagen 63. - Av.: buste de Sarapis. - b) AE, Dokimeion (Phrygie), ép. impériale. - SNG Copenhagen 356. - Av.: buste de Sarapis. - c) AE, Synnada (Phrygie), I<sup>er</sup>/III<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - BMC Phrygia 397, 27. - Av.: tête du héros Akamas. - d) AE, Amorion (Phrygie), ép. de Marc Aurèle (161-180 ap. J.-C.). - BMC Phrygia 48, 10 et 11; SNG v. Aulock 3394. - Av.: tête de Sarapis. - e) AE, Bizye (Thrace), Faustine II († 175 ap. J.-C.), Otacilia († 249 ap. J.-C.). - Jurukova, J., Die Münzprägung von Bizye (1981) n° 28 pl. 5; n° 151 pl. 25. - Rv.: I. tient le sistre dans la g. et la situle dans la dr. - f) AE, Temenothyrai (Phrygie), Lucilla († 183 ap. J.-C.). - SNG v. Aulock 4005. - g) AE, Bageis (Lydie), règne de Septime Sévère (193-211 ap. J.-C.) ou ép. plus tardive. - BMC Lydia 32, 10. - Av.: buste de Sarapis. - h) AE, Kolossai (Phrygie), règne de Septime Sévère (193-211 ap. J.-C.) ou ép. plus tardive. - BMC Phrygia 155, 6-7. 8 pl. 19, 6; SNG v. Aulock 3767. - Av.: buste de Sarapis. - i) AE, Themisonion (Phrygie), ép. de Septime Sévère (193-211 ap. J.-C.) à Philippe I<sup>er</sup> (244-249 ap. J.-C.). - BMC Phrygia 419, 7 pl. 49, 3; SNG v. Aulock 4016. - Av.: buste de Sarapis. - j) AE, Briana (Phrygie), ép. de Septime Sévère (193-211 ap. J.-C.). - BMC Phrygia 109, 1 pl. 13, 8; SNG v. Aulock 3520. - Av.: buste de Sarapis. - k) AE, Saïttai (Lydie), ép. de Caracalla (198-217 ap. J.-C.) à Gallien (253-268 ap. J.-C.). - BMC Lydia 214, 14. - Av.: tête d'Héraklès. - l) AE, Hyrgaleis (Phrygie), ép. de Caracalla (198-217 ap. J.-C.) à Sévère Alexandre (222-235 ap. J.-C.). - BMC Phrygia 274, 6 pl. 33, 4. - Av.: buste de Sarapis. - m) AE, Hierapolis (Phrygie), ép. de Trajan (98-117 ap. J.-C.) à Caracalla (198-217 ap. J.-C.). - BMC Phrygia 232, 29-31; SNG v. Aulock 3623-3624. - Av.: buste de Sarapis. - n) AE, Prymnessos (Phrygie), Lucius Verus (161-169 ap. J.-C.). - Imhoof-Blumer, KlM I 286, 2; BMC Phrygia 366, 28. - o) AE, Serdica (Thrace), Marc Aurèle (161-180 ap. J.-C.), Lucius Verus (161-169 ap. J.-C.). - Ruzicka, L., «Die Münzen von Serdica», NumZ 48 (N. F. 8), 1915, 9 n° 1 pl. 3, 1; 11-12 n° 17-18. - p) AE, Anchiale (Thrace), début III<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - Münzer, F./Strack, M. L., Die antiken Münzen von Thrakien (1912) n° 409 pl. 5, 33. - Av.: buste de Sarapis. - q) AE, Tripolis (Lydie), III<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - BMC Lydia 369, 33. - Av.: buste de Sarapis; Rv.: I. porte un modius au lieu du basileion.

Statues et statuettes

28.* Statue de bronze. Naples, Mus. Naz. 110605. De Pompéi VI 3, 8 (maison de C. Memmius Auctus). - Pompeii. Leben und Kunst in den Vesuvstädten (Expos. Essen 1973) 130 n° 161; Pompeii (Expos. Paris 1973) n° 98. - I<sup>er</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - Un modius orné d'un uræus rem-place la dépouille de vautour; I. tenait peut-être un sistre dans la dr. perdue.

29. Statue de marbre, frs. Sarsina, Mus. Arch. - De Sarsina (prov. de Forlì). - Mansuelli, G. A., RM 73/74, 1966/67, 166-169 pl. 59, 3-4. - I<sup>er</sup> moitié II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - I. acéphale; bras dr. mutilé; statue restaurée à tort comme Anubis avec un fr. de tête de chien: Grenier, Anubis 142 n° 217.

30.* Statuettes de terre cuite. a) Alexandrie, Mus. Gréco-Rom. 7829. 7830. 7939. 7941. 22168. - Brecchia, Mon II 2 n° 30 pl. 6, 18 (Inv. 7830); 6, 21 (Inv. 22168); 7, 24 (Inv. 7941). - Le basileion est flanqué de deux épis; I. est en outre drapée d'une stola et d'une guirlande de fleurs en sautoir. - b) Anc. coll. Fouquet. - Perdrizet, Terres cuites Fouquet 109-110 n° 284 pl. 16. - Similaire à a. - c) Anc. coll. Bircher. - ExpSieglin II 2 (1924) 5-6 n. 1 fig. 3. - d)* Le Caire, Mus. Egypt. JE 65599. Du Kôm Ouchim. - Dunand, Relig. pop. 188 n° 64. - Sans situle. - e) Coll. privée. - Spätantike und frühes Christentum (Expos. Francfort 1983) 509-510 n° 117 fig. - I. tient en outre un uræus dans la dr.

f) Ayant tenu des attributs perdus

Statues de marbre

31.* Tunis, Bardo C.982. De Carthage. - Reinach, RépStat III 124, 4; Cat. du Mus. Alaoui, Suppl. [I] (1910) 52, C.982 pl. 32, 1; Walters 7 n. 14; 53 pl. 52b. - I. coiffée d'un large diadème orné d'un disque; les bras manquent.

32.* Vienne, Kunsthst. Mus. I 1165. (anc. coll. du château du Catajo), «I. du Catajo». - Laurenzi, L., RM 54, 1939, 45-46 figs. 5-6 pl. 13; Felletti Maj, B. M., EAA IV (1961) 236 fig. 284; Pesce 56-57 fig. 4; Tinh, ANRW 1724 pl. 5, 7; Walters 14 n. 63. - I<sup>er</sup> s. av. J.-C. - Les bras et les mèches de cheveux sur le front sont restitués, le pied g. est rapporté, la partie postérieure n'est pas travaillée.

33.* Naples, Mus. Naz. De Pompéi. - Spinazzola, Pompei II fig. 740; Tinh, ANRW 1724 pl. 6, 8. - I<sup>er</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - Bras dr. levé (tenant un sceptre?), coude g. sur un pilier.

34.* Rome, Mus. Naz. Rom. 125.412. De Rome, Villa Grandi de la Porta Latina (trouvée en 1938). - I. coiffée d'un bandeau orné d'un disque sur un croissant; mèches libyennes, chiton et himation frangé avec nœud isiaque, les deux mains baissées.

35. Madrid, Prado. - Reinach, RépStat I 613, 4; Blanco, A., Cat. de la escultura (1957) 39 n° 36E. - Tête, bras, pieds et attributs sont modernes; restaurée en I. tenant sistre et situle.

Statuettes de bronze

36.* a)* Baltimore, Walters Art Gall. 54.2013. - Steindorff, o. c. 15a, n° 418 pl. 72. - I. porte le pschent (= couronne double) au-dessus de la dépouille de vautour et tient une situle (?) dans la g. baissée; dr. cassée. - b) Berlin-Ouest, Staatl. Mus., Ägypt. Mus. 8285. - Ägypt. Mus. Berlin (1967) 103 n° 1001 fig. - Ep. hellénistique. - Coiffée de la seule dépouille de vautour; les bras manquent.

3. Isis vêtue d'un costume sans nœud

a) Tenant divers attributs

37.* Gemmes. a)* Jaspe. Berlin-Ouest, Staatl. Mus., Ägypt. Mus. 9777. - Philipp, H., Mira et Magica (1986) 60 n° 65 pl. 17. - II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - I. tenant de la droite une situle et de la g. un sistre: c'est donc l'empreinte qui prévaut sur l'objet puisqu'elle donne la représentation correcte avec le sistre dans la dr. - b)* Cornaline. Berlin-Ouest, Staatl. Mus., Ägypt. Mus. 9824. - Philipp, o. c. 60-61 n° 66 pl. 17. - II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - Similaire à a mais avec la situle au bras droit et une patère supportant un uræus sur le plat de la même main; cf. la remarque faite sous a.

Monnaies

38. AE, nome de Hypselis, Hadrien, 126/127 ap. J.-C. - BMC Alexandria 363, 101-102; Dattari 6277 pl. 35; Geissen, AlexKaisermünzen IV 3402. - Rv.: I. tenant un bélier de la dr., un sceptre dans la g.

39. AE, nome de Gynaikopolis, Hadrien, 126/127 ap. J.-C. - Dattari 6244 pl. 35; Geissen, AlexKaisermünzen IV 3391. - Rv.: I. tenant un bélier de la dr., son vêtement de la g.

40. AE, nome de Metelis, Hadrien, 126/127 ap. J.-C. - Dattari 6320 pl. 35; Geissen, AlexKaisermünzen IV 3412. - Rv.: I. tenant des épis de la dr. et un faucon (?) de la g.

41. AE, Naucratis, Antonin le Pieux, 144/145 ap. J.-C. - BMC Alexandria 350, 41; Dattari n° 6409 pl. 36; Geissen, AlexKaisermünzen IV 3439. - Rv.: I. tient un sceptre de la main g. et un serpent sur la main dr.

Statue et statuette

42. Cherchel. Trouvaille locale. - Gsell, S., Cherchel (1952) 43 n° 2 fig. p. 42. - Traces de l'emblème sur la tête; chiton et himation en sautoir de l'épaule dr. à l'aisselle g.; situle dans la main g. baissée; le bras dr. manque.

43.* Bronze. Paris, Cab. Méd. 635. - Babelon/Blanchet, BiblNatBronzes n° 635. - I. vêtue d'un himation, coiffée d'un basileion simplifié, tenant une corne d'abondance de la g. et un objet disparu dans la dr. tendue.

b) Ayant tenu des attributs perdus

44. Statue de marbre blanc. Tripoli, Mus. Arch. 25. De l'Iseum de Sabratha. - I. coiffée d'un disque entre deux cornes et tenant un objet cassé dans la g.; le bras dr. manque.

45. Statue. Leptis Magna, Mus. Arch. Du Sérapéum local. - I. (?) coiffée du modius, un pan de l'himation relevé sur le bras g.; la main dr. est cassée.

4. Isis représentée la tête couverte d'un voile

Sauf indication contraire, I. est représentée debout, la tête couverte d'un voile frangé, vêtue du chiton et drapée dans l'himation. La plupart de ces monuments sont mutilés, restaurés parfois sans raisons en I. tenant de la main dr. un sistre et de la g. une situle.

a) Avec le nœud isiaque entre les seins

46. Monnaie. AE, Tralleis (Lydie), Gordien III (238-244 ap. J.-C.). - BMC Lydia 355, 172 pl. 37, 10. - Rv.: I. porte le basileion, tient le sistre dans la dr. et la situle dans la g.

Statues de marbre

47.* Athènes, Mus. Nat. MN 1617. De Laconie. - Kahil, L., dans Laodicée du Lycos. Le Nymphée, campagnes 1961-1963 (1969) 191 pl. hors-texte; Walters 83. 104-105 pl. 34c-d. - Les bras et les pieds manquent. 48. Pamukkale, Mus. Arch. De Laodicée du Lycos. - Kahil, o. c. 47, 189-192 n° 1 pls. 61-63; Tran tam Tinh, dans Mél. ... M. Lebel (1980) 339-350 figs. 3-6; Walters 81 n. 93. - L'emblème est cassé, les bras manquent.

49. Salamine, Mus. Sal.st.13. De Salamine (Chypre), près de la palestine. - Karageorghis, V., Sculptures from Salamis I (1964) 26-27 n° 17 pl. 23, 3-4; Walters 81 n. 93. - La tête et les bras manquent.

50. Rome, Mus. Cap. 744. - Stuart Jones, Sculpt-MusCap 354 n° 15 pl. 88; Helbig II n° 1433; Felletti Maj, B. M., EAA IV (1961) 239 fig. 286; Nilsson, GrRel 3 II 631 pl. 8, 2; Pesce 34 fig. 28; Walters 80. 112 pl. 31a-b. - I<sup>er</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - Emblème, mains et attributs restaurés; il s'agit probablement d'une prêtresse isiaque et non d'I.

51. Rome, Mus. Torlonia. - Visconti, P. E., Cat. del Mus. Torlonia (1883) n° 31. - Voile frangé sur les épaules; tête, pieds et bras restaurés (en Cérès).

52.* Rome, Pal. Cons. De Rome, nymphée de l'Esquilin. - Stuart Jones, SculptPalCons 84 n° 15 pl. 30; Pietrangeli, C., Musei Capitolini. I monumenti dei culti orientali (1951) 25 n° 2; Horn, o. c. 20, 41-42 pl. 16, 1; Tran tam Tinh, o. c. 48, 346 fig. 9; Walters 17 n. 82. - II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - Voile frangé sur la tête et les épaules; les bras manquent.

53.* a) Naples, Mus. Naz. 6372. De Naples. - Tinh DOCampanie 63-65 n° IS. 16 figs. 1-2; Walters 11 nn. 72-73 pl. 7d. - II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - Voile frangé; les bras et les attributs sont modernes. - b)* Vienne, Kunsthst. Mus. I 158. De la région de Naples. - Tinh, DOCampanie 65-66 n° IS. 17 fig. 3; Osiris, Kreuz und Halbmond (Expos. Stuttgart et Hanovre 1984) 151 n° 126 fig. p. 153. - II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - Similaire à a.

54. De Regina (act. Reina). - García y Bellido, A., Esculturas romanas de España y Portugal (1949) 151-152 n° 161 pl. 121. - II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - I. acéphale; voile frangé sur les épaules; les bras manquent.

55. Burgos, Mus. Arch. De Clunia. - García y Bellido, o. c. 54, 152-153 n° 163 pl. 123; idem, Les religions orientales dans l'Espagne romaine, EPRO 5 (1967) 117-118 n° 24 pl. 13. - II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - Trou sur la tête pour y fixer l'emblème; le voile descend très bas dans le dos; les bras manquent.

56. Valladolid, Mus. Arch. 6.475. - García y Bellido, o. c. 54, 152 n° 162 pl. 122. - II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - I. acéphale, voile frangé sur les épaules, les bras manquent.

57. Leningrad, Ermitage A 120. - Waldhauer, Skulpt III (1936) 56 n° 303 fig. 50. - II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - I.

acéphale, voile frangé sur les épaules; les bras manquent.

58.* Vienne, Kunsth. Mus. I 1171. - Les bras manquent.

Cf. aussi 128. 129. 153. 182. 264. 311t.

b) Sans nœud isiaque

59. Héraclion, Mus. Arch. 260. De Gortyne. - Salditt-Trappmann, R., Tempel der ägypt. Götter in Griechenland u. an der Westküste Kleinasien, EPRO 15 (1970) 58-59 fig. 48; Dunand, Isis II 75-76 pl. 23, 1; Tinh, ANRW 1724 pl. 3, 5; Walters 73-74. 112. 126 (index s.v.) pl. 19c-d. - I<sup>er</sup>/II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - Emblème, cheveux calamistrés, sistre dans la main dr.

Cf. aussi une statue acéphale trouvée également à Gortyne, avec le même drapé et une guirlande de fleurs en sautoir: Porro, G. G., BollArte 7, 1913, 358 fig. 9; Dunand, Isis II pl. 26.

60. Thessalonique, Mus. Arch. 843. Du Sérapeum de Salonique. - Salditt-Trappmann, o.c. 59, 50 fig. 44; Dunand, Isis II pl. 16, 1; Walters 74 et n. 47. - II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - I. acéphale; la pose et le drapé sont semblables à ceux de l'I. de Gortyne.

61.* Rome, Mus. Naz. Rom. 126.380. De Rome, Passo Corese (trouvée en 1953). - II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - I. coiffée de deux épis sur un croissant, chiton ceint à la taille et himation drapé en sautoir, sans nœud isiaque; main dr. (tendue) et bras g. manquent.

5. Figures d'Isis orientalisantes ou archaïsantes

Statues de marbre blanc

62.* Naples, Mus. Naz. 976. De Pompéi, temple d'Isis. - EAA IV (1961) 237 fig. 285; Tinh, Isis Pompéi 156 n° 81 pl. 13; Pompei AD 79 (Expos. Londres 1976/1977) n° 202 fig.; Walters 112. - I<sup>er</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - Figure tranchant par son originalité: pose hiératique mais jambe dr. en avant, tunique collante mais avec de menus plis, chevelure frisée retenue par une guirlande de cinq fleurs, la main g. tenant le signe ankh et la dr. tendue, le manche d'un objet (sistre?).

63. Cyrène, Mus. 14.273. De Cyrène, Iseum de l'Acropole. - Paribeni, ScultCirene n° 411 pl. 175. - Peut-être ép. romaine. - Image du type xoanon; la partie inférieure du corps est serrée par un reticulatum. La tête est surmontée d'un disque sur lequel est plaqué un uræus en relief; le disque est sur un croissant. Le drapé semble grec; les bras tenant les sceptres sont figés à l'égyptienne.

6. Figures fragmentaires

Statues de marbre

64. Cos, Mus. - Laurenzi, L., ASAtene 33/34 (N. S. 17/18), 1957, 92-93 n° 48 fig. - Torse seul, chiton avec nœud.

65. Samos, Mus. de Samos. - Horn, Samos XII (1972) 118 n° 86a pl. annexe 10. - Ep. romaine. - I. acéphale; chiton et himation avec nœud, les bras le long du corps.

66. Marbre pentélique. Cyrène, Mus. 14.274. - Paribeni, ScultCirene n° 412 pl. 180. - Ep. hellénistique? - Corps de la statue, très élancé, avec nœud isiaque et éventail de plis; la tête, le haut du torse et les bras manquent.

67. Marbre pentélique. Cyrène, Mus. 14.275. - Paribeni, ScultCirene n° 414 pl. 180. - Ep. romaine. - Himation avec nœud isiaque et un pan en sautoir de l'aine dr. à l'épaule g.; le visage, les bras et les jambes manquent. Cf. aussi ibid. n° 413 pl. 180 (buste acéphale en marbre parien).

68. Londres, BM 61.11-27.84. De Cyrène, temple d'Aphrodite. - Reinach, RépStat III 124, 5; CSIR Great Britain II 1, 23-24 n° 45 pl. 18. - II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - Himation avec un grand nœud; la tête et les bras manquent.

69. Loc. inc. - Coll. de feu J. P. Lambros d'Athènes et de G. Dattari du Caire. Antiq. égypt., grecques et rom., Paris, Hôtel Drouot 17-19. 6. 1912, n° 338 pl. 38. - II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - Tête abîmée, nœud isiaque; les bras manquent.

70. Ostie, Mus. Ostiense. D'Ostie. - II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - Himation avec nœud isiaque; la tête, le bras g. et la main dr. manquent.

71. Naples, Mus. Naz. - Levi, A., MonAnt 28, 1922, 157-170 figs. 1-3; Walters 17 n. 84; 112 pl. 52e. - Nœud isiaque et grande stola en sautoir; la tête, les mains et une partie des jambes manquent.

72. Vatican, Mus. Greg. Etr. - Amelung, Skulpt-VatMus I 756 n° 654 pl. 81. - Horn, o.c. 20, 41 pl. 17, 3. - II<sup>e</sup> s. av. J.-C. - I. acéphale, grand nœud isiaque, mèches ondulées; bras et jambes manquent.

73.* Paris, Louvre MNE 439. De France, Massif Central (?). - Tran tam Tinh, «Une statuette d'Isis-Ourania», RA 1970, 2, 283-296 figs. 1-5. - III<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. (?). - I. acéphale, sans bras dr., main g. ni jambes; vêtue d'une longue tunique ornée d'étoiles, serrée à la taille par une large ceinture et image de kourotrophe sur la poitrine (l'auteur pense à Isis-Ourania).

74. Toulouse, Mus. Saint-Raymond 30.307. De la Villa de Chiragan. - Leclant, J., dans IconogrCl 341-342 fig. 2. - II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - I. acéphale, chiton et himation avec nœud; les bras manquent.

75. Toronto, ROM 925.13.42. - II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - La tête et les bras manquent.

76. Ann Arbor, Kelsey Mus. 8196. 25941. De Karanis, temple nord et grenier. - Guardians of the Nile (1978) 34 n° 24. - Milieu II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - Tête abîmée, perruque, nœud isiaque; bras et jambes manquent.

7. Isis debout, dans des scènes mythologiques ou «liturgiques»

77.* Peinture murale. Naples, Mus. Naz. 8929. De Pompéi, temple d'Isis. - Tinh, Isis Pompéi 143-144 n° 47 pl. 10, 1. - I. debout sur un bateau tirant des deux mains un autre bateau sur lequel est posé une caisse cubique jaune; sur le devant de la caisse, un oiseau noir (une hirondelle symbolisant Osiris mort). I. est coiffée d'une fleur de lotus, vêtue d'une tunique et d'un manteau avec stola noire en sautoir.

78. (= Anubis 45**) Médaillon d'applique sur vase en terre cuite. New York, MMA 17.194.870. D'Orange. - Willeumier/Audin, Médaillons 30 n° 17; Audin, A./Vertet, H., Gallia 30, 1972, 250 fig. 11; Grenier, Anubis 162 n° 262 pl. 36. - II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - Dans un char tiré par deux prêtres au crâne rasé, I. - ou prêtresse isiaque - dans un costume avec stola en sautoir agite un sistre de la dr.; sur la droite, un homme en Anubis.

Pour d'autres fragments du même type, cf. Alföldi, A., JbAC 8/9, 1965/1966, 71 pl. 9, 2. 5; Audin, A./Vertet, H., o.c. 246 sqq. figs. 7-10.

B. Isis assise

Monnaies

79.* AE, Alexandrie, Hadrien, 133/134 ap. J.-C. - BMC Alexandria 89, 759-760 pl. 16; Dattari 1748 pl. 17; Geissen, AlexKaisermünzen II 1116; IV 3488 (imitation). - Rv.: tête coiffée d'un uræus, chiton et himation avec nœud, tenant un sistre dans la dr. et un sceptre court dans la g.

80. AE, Alexandrie, Marc Aurèle, 171/172 ap. J.-C. - Dattari 3472. - Rv.: I. (?) tenant une corne d'abondance de la g. et un sceptre de la dr.

Statues

81.* Marbre. Fiesole, Mus. Arch. 21. De l'acropole de Fiesole. - De Agostino, A., Fiesole, Itinerari 83 (1949) 29-30 n° 21 fig. 25; (1962) 60 n° 21 fig. 58. - I. acéphale, assise sur un rocher, le menton probablement appuyé sur la main g., la dr. tenant des épis, une situle suspendue au coude g.; sur la base, dédicace à Isis Taposiris.

82. Calcaire. Cologne, Röm.-Germ. Mus. 29.306. De Cologne, église Ste Ursule. - Fremersdorf, F., Urkunden zur Kölner Stadtgesch. aus röm. Zeit (1963) 69 pl. 147; Römer am Rhein (Expos. Cologne 1967) 168 n° A 118; Grimm, G., Die Zeugnisse ägypt. Religion und Kunstelemente im röm. Deutschland, EPRO 12 (1969) 132-134 n° 14 pls. 19-21. - Début III<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - Femme acéphale, sans signe ni attribut distinctifs, assise sur un trône; sur la base: ISIDI INVICTE.

83.* Marbre. Dresde, Staatl. Kunstlg. ZV 2600 (A 81). - I. acéphale, coiffure libyenne, nœud isiaque, les mains et le bas des jambes manquent.

84. Pierre noire. Paris, Mus. Rodin. - Inédit. - I. trônant, deux trous sur la tête pour l'emblème (manquant), le menton appuyé contre la main dr., la g. baissée; chiton et himation avec nœud isiaque.

Statuettes de terre cuite

85. a) Le Caire, Mus. Egypt. JE 43540 (= 15.3.22.1). De Mit Rahineh. - Dunand, Relig. pop. 178 n° 38 pl. 24. - I. avec diadème et basileion, himation avec nœud isiaque, stola et guirlande en sautoir de g. à dr., assise sur un tabouret, la tête appuyée contre la main dr., une situle suspendue au poignet g., la main g. tenant des épis (?). - b) Le Caire, Mus. Egypt. JE 55242. De Memphis. - Dunand, o.c. 177-178 n° 37 pl. 24. - Similaire.

86.* Le Caire, Mus. Egypt. CG 26946. - Dunand, Relig. pop. 171-172 n° 21 pl. 15. - I. assise en tailleur sur une corbeille; himation avec nœud isiaque, tenant de la dr. un sistre, de la g. un vase rond.

87.* Le Caire, Mus. Egypt. CG 26945. - Dunand, Relig. pop. n° 23 pl. 16. - Semblable avec une tête de chat émergeant au-dessus de l'épaule g.

Statuettes de bronze

88.* Berlin-Ouest, Staatl. Mus., Ägypt. Mus. 12674. - I. trônant, appuyant son menton sur la dr.; pilastre avec uræus à la partie inférieure.

89. Londres, Mus. of London. Trouvée dans la Tamise. - I<sup>er</sup>/II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - I. coiffée du disque entre les cornes, vêtue de l'himation avec nœud isiaque, appuie son menton sur sa main dr.

90. (= Euthenia 27*) Paris, Cab. Méd. 617. D'Alexandrie. - Babelon/Blanchet, BiblNatBronzes n° 617. - I. assise sur un sphinx, avec nœud isiaque, la main dr. levée tient des épis; le bras g. est mutilé.

91. Stuttgart, Landesmus. 3.800. - Inédit. - I. trônant, coiffure libyenne, emblème et bras cassés, nœud isiaque.

92.* Vatican, Mus. Greg. Egizio 15624. - Helbig<sup>4</sup> I n° 275. - I. portant chiton et himation avec nœud isiaque, une situle au poignet g., la main g. tenant sans doute des épis, le bras dr. cassé. La tête (avec vautour accouvé) est antique mais n'appartient pas à cette statue.

C. Bustes d'Isis

1. Avec nœud isiaque

93. Relief en marbre. Rome, Mus. Cap. 2448. De Rome, environs du théâtre de Marcellus. - Parlasca, K., RM 71, 1964, 195-202 pls. 56. 57, 1; 58, 1-2; Helbig<sup>4</sup> II n° 1184. - I. de profil vers la dr., la tête tournée vers l'arrière en direction d'un épi; tête ceinte d'un bandeau; himation avec nœud isiaque sans chiton.

94.* Bracelet d'or gravé. Oxford, Ashm. Mus. 1926.98. De Tuhk el-Qarmus (Delta). - Ep. hellénistique. - I. coiffée d'un disque entre deux cornes.

95. Gemme. Pâte de verre. Alexandrie, Mus. Gréco-Rom. 6043. 6049. - Botti, G., Cat. des mon. exposés au Mus. gréco-romain d'Alexandrie (1900) 150 n° 2539. 2545. - Buste d'I. à g.

96.* Gemme. Jaspe rouge. Bloomington, Indiana Univ. 64.70.48. - Ancient Gems from the Coll. of B. Y. Berry (1968) 60 n° 109. - Buste d'I. à dr. avec emblème sur le front.

97.* Gemme. Agate. Bloomington, Indiana Univ. 66.33.5. - o.c. 96, 113 n° 206. - Buste d'I. à dr.; emblème légèrement stylisé avec cornes et plumes.

98. Poignée de lampe. Terre cuite. Anc. coll. Osborne. - Osborne, A., Lychnos et lucerna (1924) 17 n° 94. - I<sup>er</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - Buste d'I. sur piédouche; au revers, basileion gravé.

99. Poignée de lampe. Terre cuite. Tübingen, Arch. Inst. Sch. 5692/25. - Cahn-Klaiber, E.-M., Die antiken Tonlampen des arch. Inst. der Univ. Tübingen (1977) 354 n° 229 pl. 21. - Emblème cassé.

100. Lanterne. Terre cuite. Anc. coll. Fouquet. – Dunand, F., DHA 2, 1976, 71 pl. 1. – Ep. romaine. – Lanterne cylindrique à toit en forme de coupole flanquée de deux torches; sur le devant, buste d'I.

101. Moule de plâtre. Le Caire, Mus. Egypt. CG 32056. – Edgar, o. c. 17, n° 32056 pl. 8. – Buste d'I. de trois quarts.

Monnaies

102. AE, Alexandrie, Galba, 68/69 ap. J.-C., Othon, 69 ap. J.-C., Vitellius, 69 ap. J.-C., Vespasien, 71/72 à 74/75 ap. J.-C., Domitien (81-96 ap. J.-C.), Trajan (98-117 ap. J.-C.), Hadrien (117-138 ap. J.-C.), Antonin le Pieux (138-161 ap. J.-C.). – BMC Alexandria 24, 202, 203; 26, 214, 215; 36, 302, 304; Dattari 320, 321, 333, 334, 380-386, 504-507, 920, 1746, 2640, 2641; Milne 356, 370, 379, 420, 421, 427, 428, 433-435, 438, 439. – Rv.: I. coiffée d'un disque entre deux cornes.

103. Bi, Alexandrie, Nerva, 96/97 ap. J.-C., Hadrien, 119/120 à 121/122, 123/124, 125/126 et 126/127 ap. J.-C., Antonin le Pieux, 138/139 ap. J.-C. – BMC Alexandria 74, 624 pl. 16; 131, 1110; Dattari 634, 1394-1401 pl. 17; 1402; Milne 538, 937, 972, 1014, 1015, 1049, 1058, 1150, 1204, 1614. – Similaire à 102.

104. AE, Alexandrie, Domitien, 82/83 et 83/84 ap. J.-C., Otacilia († 249 ap. J.-C.), Maximien II (293-311 ap. J.-C.). – BMC Alexandria 36, 303 pl. 16; Dattari 4985 pl. 17; Milne 467, 472. – Rv.: I. coiffée du même emblème posé entre deux épis de blé.

105.* Bi, Alexandrie, Héliogabale, 219/220 ap. J.-C., Iulia Paula († 218 ap. J.-C.), Sévère Alexandre, 232/233 et 233/234 ap. J.-C., Iulia Mamaea († 235 ap. J.-C.), Maximinus, 237/238 ap. J.-C., Philippe I<sup>er</sup> (244-249 ap. J.-C.), Otacilia († 249 ap. J.-C.), Gallien, 266/267 et 267/268 ap. J.-C., Salonina, 266/267 ap. J.-C., Dioclétien (284-305 ap. J.-C.), Galère Maximien (293-311 ap. J.-C.), Constance I<sup>er</sup> (293-306 ap. J.-C.). – BMC Alexandria 224, 1751, 1752; 256, 1982, 1983; 262, 2029 pl. 16; 294, 2268 pl. 16; Dattari 4165 pl. 17; 4223, 4313, 4314 pl. 17; 4495, 4496, 4579, 4888, 4986, 5336, 5710, 5711, 6072, 6143; Milne 2781-2783, 3118-3120, 3153, 3154, 3282, 4142-4144, 4172; Geissen, AlexKaiser-münzen III 2362, 2488, 2535, 2980. – Rv.: I. coiffée d'un disque surmonté de plumes.

Bustes en ronde bosse

106. Bronze. Athènes, Mus. Nat. 692. – Inédit. – Ep. romaine. – Buste d'I. sur un sistre.

107. Terre cuite. Alexandrie, Mus. Gréco-Rom. 9434. – Breccia, Mon. II 1, n° 232 pl. 24, 10. – I. coiffée du basileion. – Pour d'autres figurines semblables du même musée, cf. ibid. pl. 24, 13-16; ces figurines étaient souvent des manches de lampes.

108. Terre cuite. Dresde, Staatl. Kunstslg. – Exp-Sieglin II 2 (1924) 89-90 pl. 6, 1. – Buste d'I. avec basileion posé sur une corolle végétale.

109.* Albâtre. Alexandrie, Mus. Gréco-Rom. 3410. – Botti, o. c. 95, 19 n° 149. – I<sup>er</sup> s. ap. J.-C. – I. avec himation frangé.

110. Plâtre. Alexandrie, Mus. Gréco-Rom. 16159 (autrefois Le Caire, Mus. Egypt. CG 27604). – Edgar, o. c. 3, n° 27604 pl. 32; Adriani, Rep A-II 44 n° 161 pl. 78, 258. – Milieu II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. – I. avec himation frangé; très restaurée.

111.* Bronze. Alexandrie, Mus. Gréco-Rom. 22288. De Canope. – Breccia, o. c. 23, 18 n° 14 pl. 7, 27. – Ep. hellénistique. – I. (?) coiffée de deux plumes ornées d'un disque.

112. Bronze. Le Caire, Mus. Egypt. CG 27855. – Edgar, o. c. 14, n° 27855 pl. 17. – Haut basileion. – Cf. aussi de Ridder, BrLouvre I n° 374-375; II n° 3286.

113. Poids de balance en cuivre. Alexandrie, Mus. Gréco-Rom. 6169. D'Alexandrie. – Botti, o. c. 95, 137 n° 2379. – Avec basileion. – Cf. aussi Bruxelles, Mus. Royaux A 608. A 1627. A 2160, tous similaires.

114. Applique (?) de bronze. Boston, MFA 03.1662. De Dendera. – Comstock/Vermeule, Bronzes Boston 462 n° 675. – Avec basileion.

115. Plaque d'incrustation de bronze. Paris, Louvre E 25949. De Syrie. – Vandier, J., RLouvre 18, 1968, 318 fig. 10. – I<sup>er</sup>/II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. – Buste d'I. à dr. avec couronne hathorique sur la tête et basileion sur le front; style égyptisant.

116. Bronze. Leningrad, Ermitage. De Gorgippia (Russie méridionale). – Kobylina, M. M., Divinités orientales sur le littoral nord de la Mer Noire, EPRO 52 (1976) 46 n° 10 pl. 37; Derksen, J. J. V. M./Vermaseren, M. J., «Isis kosmokrator», dans Alessandria e il mondo ellenistico-romano, Studi A. Adriani III (1984) 432 pl. 76, 7. – Buste d'I. sur un petit globe; grand basileion.

117.* Marbre blanc. Constanța, Mus. Arch. 2002. De Tomis. – Canarache, V., et al., Tezaurul de sculpturi de la Tomis (1963) 46-51 n° 7 figs. 21-24; résumé français p. 135 n° 7; Bordenache, G., Studii Clasice 6, 1964, 175-176 figs. 20-21; Canarache, V., Le musée d'archéologie, Constantza (1967) 52 fig. – I<sup>er</sup>/II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. – Emblème cassé.

118.* Bronze. Turnu Severin, Muzeul Regiunii II 9173. De Drobeta. – Berciu, I./Petulescu, C. C., Les cultes orientaux dans la Dacie méridionale, EPRO 54 (1976) 30 n° 10 frontispice. – Buste d'I. sur une corolle d'acanthé, haut basileion.

119. Terre cuite. Catane, Mus. Civ. 5988. De Centuripe. – Avec emblème.

120. Applique (?) de bronze. Vatican, Mus. Greg. Etr. 20614. – Inédit. – Tête surmontée d'un disque entre deux cornes.

121. Bronze. Paris, Cab. Méd. 640. 641. – Babelon/Blanchet, BiblNatBronzes n° 640. 641. – Ep. romaine. – Avec basileion.

122. Bronze. Paris, Cab. Méd. 639. – Babelon/Blanchet, BiblNatBronzes n° 639. – Ep. romaine. – I. coiffée d'un modius surmonté de deux épis à leur tour flanqués de deux uræi.

123. Bronze. South Hadley (Mass.), Mount Holyoke College CG 10.1965. – Mitten, D. G./Doeringer, S. F., Master Bronzes from the Classical World (1967) 278 n° 270 fig.; Derksen/Vermaseren, o. c. 116, 432. – II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. – Buste d'I. sur une corolle d'acanthé, basileion orné d'un uræus (cassé).

124.* Terre cuite. Amsterdam, coll. privée. – Derksen/Vermaseren, o. c. 116, 430-432 pl. 76, 1-5. – Buste d'I. sur un petit globe; sur la tête, une grenade et un grand croissant.

125. Terre cuite. Anc. coll. Fouquet. – Perdrizet, Terres cuites Fouquet 26 n° 80 fig. – Buste d'I. sortant d'une corbeille: cheveux calamistrés, main dr. levée tenant un sistre, main g. tenant une petite amphore.

2. Sans nœud isiaque

126. Statuette de bronze. Réthymnon, Mus. De Hagia Galéné (Crète). – Platon, N., ArchDelt 16, 1960, B 257 pl. 225a; Dunand, Isis II 210 pl. 29. – I. coiffée d'un haut diadème surmonté d'un croissant de lune, d'un disque et de trois épis.

127.* Patère de pierre. Alexandrie, Mus. Gréco-Rom. 26724. – I. avec basileion.

3. Avec la tête voilée

128.* Poignée de lampe en terre cuite. Tübingen, Arch. Inst. H.S./II-2040. – Cahn-Klaiber, o. c. 99, 347 n° 204 pl. 19. – I. avec nœud isiaque.

129. Vase plastique. Naples, Mus. Naz. 116.660. De Pompéi IX 6, s. n. (boutique). – Tinh, Isis Pompéi 175 n° 144 pl. 20, 1. – II<sup>e</sup> moitié I<sup>er</sup> s. ap. J.-C. – I. avec basileion et nœud isiaque.

II. Isis en compagnie d'autres divinités

A. Isis et Sarapis

130. Peinture murale. Pompéi, temple d'Isis. – Tinh, Isis Pompéi 145 n° 51 pl. 8, 1. – 63-79 ap. J.-C. – I. et Sarapis trônant (il ne reste que la partie figurant Sarapis [Naples, Mus. Naz. 8927]); I., couronnée d'une fleur de lotus, vêtue d'une tunique blanche et d'un manteau bleu drapé sur l'épaule g., sans nœud isiaque; elle ne semble pas avoir d'attributs.

Reliefs

131. Coupe à reliefs. Stéatite. Munich, Ägypt. Slg. ÄS 5972. – Staatl. Slg. Ägypt. Kunst 2 (1976) 199 fig. – I<sup>er</sup> s. ap. J.-C. – I., à g. avec basileion et nœud isiaque; Sarapis à dr. avec modius. – Voir aussi ibid. 217, ÄS 2006.

132.* Coupe à reliefs. Serpentine. Le Caire, Mus. Egypt. CG 18755. – v. Bissing, CatGénCaire. Steingefäße (1907) 162 n° 18755; Hornbostel, Sarapis 287 fig. 306a. – Bustes sur nénuphar: à g., I. avec basileion et nœud; à dr., Sarapis avec modius.

133. Patères. Serpentine. a) Paris, Louvre MA 2734 (= N 5275 = MN 1407). – Tran tam Tinh, «Isis et Sérapis se regardant», RA 1970, 1, 71 n. 3 fig. 25; Hornbostel, Sarapis 287 fig. 307a. – A g., Sarapis, à dr., I. – b) Berlin-Ouest, Staatl. Mus., Ägypt. Mus. 12739. – Ägypt. Mus. Berlin (1967) n° 1016 infra. – Similair à a avec, au revers, un gorgoneion dans le médaillon central.

134. Autel. Bronze. Brooklyn, Mus. 37.1614E. De Tell el-Yahûdiya (Delta). – Late Egyptian Coptic Art (1943) 19 pls. 27-28. – III<sup>e</sup>/IV<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. – De chaque côté d'un uræus disposé dans un édifice, bustes d'I. et de S. légèrement tournés vers l'intérieur. – Pour un autel similaire avec les bustes d'I. et Harpocrate, cf. 172.

135.* Os. Bruxelles, Mus. Roy. R 1515. De Cerveri. – Tinh, Sérapis debout 108-109 n° IB 7 fig. 33. – I. et Sarapis de chaque côté d'Isis-Thermouthis; I. sans emblème sur la tête s'appuie du bras dr. sur le sceptre et tient dans la g. une situle.

Gemmes

136.* Grenat. Chicago, Univ., Oriental Inst. A 29790. – Hornbostel, Sarapis 136 fig. 62. – III<sup>e</sup> s. av. J.-C. – Côte à côte et tournés vers la g., bustes d'I. coiffée du basileion et de Sarapis coiffé de la couronne atef (= couronne de Haute-Egypte, flanquée de deux plumes d'autruche, l'ensemble étant disposé au-dessus de deux cornes de bélier).

137.* Camée. Onyx. Vienne, Kunsthist. Mus. IX A 8. – Eichler, F./Kris, E., Die Kameen im Kunsthist. Mus. (1927) n° 32 pl. 12; Hornbostel, Sarapis 136 fig. 66; Osiris..., o. c. 53b, 151 n° 125 fig. – I<sup>er</sup> s. ap. J.-C. – Semblable à 136 mais bustes tournés vers la dr.

138.* Cornaline. Munich, Münzslg. – AGDI 1 n° 374 pl. 44. – I<sup>er</sup> s. ap. J.-C. – Semblable à 136 mais Sarapis est coiffé du modius.

139. Cornaline. Paris, Cab. Méd. – Chabouillet, BiblNatCamées n° 2016; Hornbostel, Sarapis 136 fig. 65. – II<sup>e</sup>/III<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. – Semblable à 138 mais I. est coiffée de deux hautes plumes.

140. Jaspe. Caracal, Mus. 1670. De Romula. – Berciu/Petulescu, o. c. 118, 32 n° 16 pl. 10. – II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. – Semblable à 138 mais I. est coiffée d'un disque et de deux plumes.

141.* Cornaline. Munich, Münzslg. – AGDI 3 n° 2674 pl. 249. – III<sup>e</sup>/IV<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. – I. à g. et Sarapis à dr., face à face, tous deux coiffés d'un modius.

Bague et médaillon en or

142. Londres, BM 95. – Marshall, BMFingerRings n° 95 pl. 4; Boardman, GGFR 372 fig. 1011; Hornbostel, Sarapis 135 fig. 61. – III<sup>e</sup> s. av. J.-C. – Semblable à 136.

143. Brooklyn, Brooklyn Mus. 73.85. – Cleopatra's Egypt. Age of the Ptolemies (Expos. Brooklyn 1988) n° 102 fig. et pl. 29; Kleopatra (Expos. Munich 1989) n° 98 pl. – Règles de Ptolémée IV (222-205 av. J.-C.) ou Ptolémée V (205-180 av. J.-C.). – A g., I. avec emblème et nœud isiaque, à dr. Sarapis avec couronne atef.

Monnaies

144. AR tétradrachme, Sidon, Ptolémée IV (222-205 av. J.-C.). – Franke/Hirmer, GrMünze 2 pl. 220, 808; Hornbostel, Sarapis 141 n. 3 fig. 68; SNG Copenhagen 197, 198. – Av.: semblable à 136 mais bustes tournés vers la dr., I. coiffée du basileion sur deux épis; Rv.: aigle sur foudre.

145.* AR statère, Ptolémée VI (180-145 av. J.-C.). - BMC Ptolemies 79, 7 pl. 18, 8. - Av.: semblable à 144; Rv.: aigle.

146. AE, Alexandrie, Hadrien, 133/134 ap. J.-C., Antonin le Pieux, 141/142 et 153/154 ap. J.-C., Sévère Alexandre, 230/231 ap. J.-C., Julia Mamaea († 235 ap. J.-C.). - BMC Alexandria 88, 746 pl. 14; 226, 1764 pl. 14; Dattari 2855 pl. 23; Milne 1719. 2223. 3045; Geissen, AlexKaisermünzen II 1414. 1715; Hornbostel, Sarapis 143. 144-145. 146 fig. 69. 72. - Rv.: semblable à 141 mais avec bustes orientés vers la dr.

147. Bi, Alexandrie, Annia Faustina (218-222 ap. J.-C.), Héliogabale, 221/222 ap. J.-C., Maximinus I<sup>er</sup>, 236/237 ap. J.-C., Philippe I<sup>er</sup>, 245/246 ap. J.-C., Maximianus I<sup>er</sup>, 295/296 ap. J.-C. - BMC Alexandria 199, 1553; 201, 1562; 213, 1666. 1667; 230, 1797; 335, 2619; Milne 2854. 2855. 3176. 3177. 3247-3249. 3616. 5231-5233; Geissen, AlexKaisermünzen III 2574. - Rv.: semblable à 146.

148.* Bi, Alexandrie, Saloninus Caesar, 259/260 ap. J.-C. - BMC Alexandria 297, 2289 pl. 14; Dattari 5367 pl. 23; Milne 4023; Geissen, AlexKaisermünzen III 3010. - Rv.: semblable à 138 mais Sarapis a un sceptre.

149. AE, Alexandrie, Antonin le Pieux (138-161 ap. J.-C.). - Dattari 2377 pl. 23. - Rv.: bustes affrontés de Sarapis (à g., avec modius) et d'I. (à dr. avec basileion).

150. AE, Aigeai (Cilicie), Commode, 187/188 ap. J.-C. - BMC Lycaonia, Isauria and Cilicia 23, 23 pl. 4, 7. - Rv.: semblable à 149, mais avec intervention des bustes.

151. AE, Eirenopolis (Cilicie), Caracalla, 214/215 ap. J.-C. - SNG v. Aulock 5593. - Rv.: semblable à 149.

152. AE, Laodicée (Phrygie), Trébonien Galle (251-253 ap. J.-C.). - Kenner, F., NumZ 4, 1872 [1875], 244-246 pl. 10, 6. - Rv.: semblable à 149 mais avec intervention des bustes.

153. AE, Temenothyrai (Phrygie), ép. de Philippe I<sup>er</sup> (244-249 ap. J.-C.). - BMC Phrygia 410, 13. - Av.: buste de Roma; Rv.: Sarapis trônant; devant lui, I. voilée, agite de la g. un sistre et s'appuie de la dr. sur un sceptre.

Vases plastiques de terre cuite

154.* a) Munich, Ägypt. Slg. AS 3991. - Staatl. Slg. Ägypt. Kunst<sup>2</sup> (1976) 253-254; Cleopatra's Egypt..., o.c. 143, n° 103 (avec bibl.) fig.; Kleopatra..., o.c. 143, n° 99 fig. - I<sup>er</sup> s. av./I<sup>er</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - A dr., I. parée d'un collier, vêtue d'un himation dont le nœud isiaque est sur l'épaule; à g., Sarapis représenté tel un noir, avec cheveux frisés. - b) Leyden, Rijksmus. AT 29. - Pour d'autres documents similaires, cf. ExpSieglin II 3 (1927) 90. 205 fig. 105e (Tübingen, Univ., Inst. Arch.); 205 pl. 29, 6 (anc. coll. Schreiber); 203 pl. 28, 1 (anc. coll. Herold - v. Sieglin); Cleopatra's Egypt..., o.c. 143, n° 103; Kleopatra..., o.c. 143, n° 99.

Lampes de terre cuite

155.* Toronto, ROM 907.1.8. - Hayes, J. W., Ancient Lamps in the Royal Ontario Museum I (1980) n° 298 pl. 37; Tinh, Sérapis debout 95 n° IA 14 fig. 14. - II<sup>e</sup>/III<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - I. tenant dans sa dr. une situle (?), dans sa g. une corne d'abondance et Sarapis tenant sa main dr. au-dessus du Cerbère tricéphale.

156. Carthage, Mus. 08.35. De Bordj Djedid. - Deneauve, J., Lampes de Carthage (1969) 202 n° 981. - II<sup>e</sup>/III<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - Bustes de Sarapis et d'I., côte à côte et tournés vers la dr.

157. Ostie, Mus. Ostiense 2146. D'Ostie, nécropole de l'Isola Sacra. - Jucker, H., Das Bildnis im Blätterkelch (1961) 187 n. 11 fig. 88; Tinh, o.c. 133a, 59-61. 68 fig. 9. - Poignée plastique supportant les bustes d'I. (coiffée du basileion) et de Sarapis (coiffé du modius) se donnant l'accolade.

158. a) Paris, Louvre Cp 4855. - Tinh, o.c. 133a, 61 figs. 4. 5. 8. - Semblable à 157 mais I. et Sarapis ne se donnent pas l'accolade. - b) Londres, BM 1950.1-4.3; 1814.7-4.59; 1814.7-4.111. - Bailey, BMLamps II 398 Q 1446 - Q 1448 pl. 91. - Semblables à a. - Voir aussi une pièce de Paris, Cab. Méd.: Tinh, ibid. 61 fig. 7.

159. Médaille de lampe. Tunis, Bardo K.813. D'El Djem. - Cat. du Mus. d'Alaoui, Suppl. [I] (1910) 189 n° K.813; Tinh, o.c. 133a, 63 fig. 10. - II<sup>e</sup>/III<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - Bustes affrontés d'I. et de Sarapis. Plusieurs dizaines de lampes semblables ont été retrouvées, surtout en Afrique du Nord: cf. ibid. 63 sqq. figs. 11-21; Budde, L., «Julian-Helios Sarapis und Helena-Isis», AA 87, 1972, 630-642; Derksen, J. J. V. M., dans Homm. à M. J. Vermaseren I, EPRO 68 (1978) 296-304 pls. 41. 42.

Médailles d'applique de vases en terre cuite

160.* Arles, Mus. Lapidaire d'Art Païen P.663. - Wuilleumier/Audin, Médailles 169 n° 335 fig.; Tinh, o.c. 133a, 73 fig. 23. - II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - Bustes affrontés d'I. (à g. avec basileion) et de Sarapis (à dr. avec modius); entre eux, fleurs et épis. - Ces médailles décoraient les vases fabriqués surtout aux II<sup>e</sup> et III<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. dans la vallée du Rhône (Wuilleumier/Audin, o.c. 118-173).

161.* Augsburg, Röm. Mus. VF 66/2. De Westheim, dans un atelier de potier. - Alföldi, A., dans Lavreae Aquincenses mem. V. Kuzsinszky I (1938) 314-315. 326 n° 1 pl. 59, 1; idem, o.c. 78, 66 pl. 15, 1; Grimm, G., o.c. 82, 226 n° 139, 4 pl. 45; Cysz, W., «Modelltöpfer in der römischen Ziegelei von Westheim bei Augsburg», dans Forschungen zur Provinzialröm. Archäol. in Bayerisch-Schwaben (1985) 154-157. 184 n° 12 fig. 6, 2. - Début III<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - Bustes similaires; entre eux, un épi. Pour d'autres médailles semblables, en Pannonie et en Germanie, cf. Alföldi, Lavreae... 312-341; idem, o.c. 78, pl. 15, 4. 5; Grimm, o.c. 82, n° 136-138.

Moule de terre cuite

162. Berlin, Staatl. Mus. De Troie. - Alföldi, o.c. 78, 66 pl. 7, 3. - Bustes affrontés de Sarapis (à g.) et d'I. (à dr.); entre eux, vase et fleurs de lotus.

Cf. aussi 330. Pour un document réunissant I. et Sarapis-Ammon, → Ammon 152.

B. Isis, Sarapis et Harpocrate

163. (= Harpocrates 377* avec bibl.) Peinture murale. De Pompéi VI 2, 14 (Casa delle Amazoni), in situ. - Tinh, Isis Pompéi 127-128 n° 13 pl. 19, 1. - Dans une niche peinte, I., Sarapis et Harpocrate debout; I. est couronnée d'une fleur de lotus, tient une corne d'abondance de la g. et un sistre de la dr.

164. (= Harpocrates 380b*) Coupe à reliefs. Serpentine. Le Caire, Mus. Egypt. CG 18756. - v. Bissing, o.c. 132, n° 18756 pl. 8. - Buste de Sarapis (à g.) et d'I. sans nœud isiaque à dr.; au centre, Harpocrate assis de face, une corne d'abondance dans la g.

165.* Lampe polylychne en terre cuite, en forme de navire. Ostie, Mus. Ostiense 3218. D'Ostie. - NSc 1909, 118 n° 7 fig. 2; Picard, Ch., RA 1962, 2, 230 fig. 4; Witt pl. 37; Hornbostel, Sarapis 307 n. 1 fig. 323. - I<sup>er</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - Sur le pont, I. debout, un sistre dans la dr., la main g. levée tenant une ciste avec uræus; sur la poupe et la proue, bustes de Sarapis et d'Harpocrate.

166. (= Harpocrates 388) Moule fr. Châtillon-sur-Seine, Mus. Arch. De Vertillum. - Alföldi, o.c. 78, 71 n° 10 pl. 15, 2; Vertet, H., Gallia 27, 1969, 100 n. 26. - I. assise sur un bateau, en face de Sarapis; entre eux, Harpocrate.

167. (= Harpocrates 379 avec bibl.) Relief de bronze. Pompéi, Antiquarium 1090/4. D'une villa rustica de Pompéi. - Tinh, Isis Pompéi 172 n° 136 pl. 9, 1. - I. et Sarapis de part et d'autre d'Harpocrate debout sur un autel; I., coiffée d'une fleur de lotus, agite un sistre de la dr. et tient un rameau d'olivier de la g.; sans nœud isiaque.

168. (= Harpocrates 390) Monnaie. AE, Apollonia Mordiaion (Lycie), Caracalla (198-217 ap. J.-C.). - BMC Lycia 202, 3 pl. 33, 4. - Rv.: I. avec sistre dans la dr. et situle dans la g. face à Sarapis trônant; derrière lui, Harpocrate.

169. (= Harpocrates 389* avec bibl.) Monnaie. AE, Alexandrie, Hadrien, 133/134 ap. J.-C., Antonin le Pieux, 157/158 ap. J.-C. - BMC Alexandria 88-89, 749 pl. 14; Dattari 1843 pl. 23; Milne 1411. 2355. 2356; Geissen, AlexKaisermünzen II 1129. - Rv.: bustes affrontés de Sarapis (à g. avec modius) et d'I. (à dr. avec basileion); entre eux, Harpocrate nu, debout; au-dessous, aigle aux ailes déployées.

170. (= Harpocrates 391) Monnaie. AE, Nicomedia (Bithynie), Philippe I<sup>er</sup> (244-249 ap. J.-C.), Otacilia († 249 ap. J.-C.). - SNG v. Aulock 7123. 7124; Hornbostel, Sarapis 155-156. 316 fig. 87b. - Rv.: similaire à 169.

171.* Statuette de bronze. Berlin-Ouest, Staatl. Mus., Ägypt. Mus. 8871. - Tinh, Sérapis debout 115-116 n° IB 30 fig. 44. - III<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. (?) - De g. à dr.: I., Harpocrate et Sarapis debout sur une plaque rectangulaire; I. tient un sistre dans la dr. et une situle dans la g.

Pour d'autres documents, → Harpocrates 377-393.

C. Isis et Harpocrate

172. Autel en terre cuite fr. Alexandrie, Mus. Gréco-Rom. 6489. D'Alexandrie, nécropole occidentale. - Sur un côté, I. coiffée du basileion; sur l'autre, buste d'Harpocrate. - Pour un autel similaire avec les bustes d'I. et de Sarapis, cf. 134.

173.* Relief sur patère de stéatite. Athènes, Mus. Benaki 8248. - Tran tam Tinh, RA 1972, 2, 334 fig. 19. - Bustes de Sarapis (à g. avec modius) et d'I. (à dr. avec basileion); au centre, Harpocrate.

174.* Relief de marbre. Le Caire, Mus. Egypt. JE 47108. - Grimm, G., Kunst der Ptolemäer- u. Römerzeit im Ägypt. Mus. Kairo (1975) 22 n° 33 pl. 67. - I. coiffée d'un disque entre deux cornes, costume sans nœud, tenant dans sa dr. un bouquet d'épis et de lotus; derrière son épaule dr., surgit Harpocrate, coiffé du pschent.

175. Relief de marbre. D'Ascalon. - Savignac, R., RBibl 2, 1905, 426-428 pl. Avi-Yonah, M. (éd.), Encyclopedia of Archaeol. Excav. in the Holy Land I (1975) 127-128 fig. - I. coiffée d'un modius sur lequel est posé le basileion; le nœud frangé est fait de deux pointes qui forment un X devant le corps; derrière l'épaule dr., Harpocrate debout, vêtu.

176.* Gemme de prase (variante de calcédoine). Berlin-Ouest, Staatl. Mus., Ägypt. Mus. 9822. - Philipp, o.c. 37a, 61 n° 67 pl. 17. - II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - Similaire à 37a; derrière I., un rameau; à la g. d'I. (sur l'original), Harpocrate nu, debout.

177. Tessère, Alexandrie, ép. impériale. - Milne 5411. - Av.: Nil couché; Rv.: I. portant Harpocrate.

Monnaies

178. AE, Alexandrie, Trajan, 113/114 ap. J.-C. - Dattari 926 pl. 17. - Rv.: I. trônant, coiffée du basileion, tenant un sceptre de la g., couronnant de la dr. Harpocrate nu, debout auprès de sa jambe dr. et portant une corne d'abondance.

179. AE, Alexandrie, Trajan, 109/110 ap. J.-C. - Dattari 921 pl. 17. - Rv.: I. sans nœud isiaque, tenant un sistre de la dr. et tendant la g. vers Harpocrate assis sur un lotus planté en terre.

180.* AE, nome de Memphis, Hadrien, 126/127 ap. J.-C. - BMC Alexandria 346, 21. 22; Dattari 6299 pl. 35; Milne Addenda p. 131 n° 1223*; Geissen, AlexKaisermünzen IV 3411. - Rv.: I., avec le vautour accouvé et le basileion, tenant un uræus dans la dr. et, sur la g. tendue, Harpocrate (?) dont ne subsistent sur l'exemplaire illustré ici que les jambes et le bas du vêtement.

181. AE, nome de Phthempht, Hadrien, 126/127 ap. J.-C. - BMC Alexandria 351, 47; Dattari 6350 pl. 35; Geissen, AlexKaisermünzen IV 3420. - Rv.: I. tient de la main g. un lotus sur lequel est assis Harpocrate; la dr. est baissée.

Statue, statuette

182. (= Harpocrates 364*) Marbre. Munich, Glypt. 250. De Rome. - Reinach, RépStat I 612, 5; Dunand, Isis I pl. 30; Walters 70. 127 (index s.v.) pl. 7b. - I. voilée; sa tête et ses bras manquent; à sa dr., Harpocrate debout, tenant une corne d'abondance.

183. Bronze. Le Caire, Mus. Egypt. CG 27669. – Edgar, o. c. 14, n° 27669 pl. 4. – Ép. hellénistique. – Dans la g., un lotus sur lequel est assis Harpocrate. – Pour d'autres bronzes semblables du même musée, mais dont il ne reste que le bras g. porteur d'Harpocrate, cf. ibid. n° 27676-27677 pl. 4.

Pour d'autres documents, → Abraxas 47; → Harpokrates 359-367.

D. Isis, Sarapis et Anubis

184. (= Anubis 48) Relief de marbre. Londres, BM. D'Erythrées (Ionie). – Waldstein, C., JHS 7, 1886, 249 n° 5 pl. C (en haut); Dunand, Isis III 73; Hornbostel, Sarapis 336 fig. 356; Mitropoulou, E., Five Contributions to the Problems of Greek Reliefs (1976) 31 fig. 10; Grenier, Anubis n° 231 pl. 21. – I. tenant le sceptre de la dr., debout devant Sarapis trônant, accompagné d'Anubis.

L'on peut rapprocher le relief de Rhodes, Mus. 5900 (= Hera 264*) de la fin du II<sup>e</sup> s. av. J.-C.: cf. Cook, Zeus III 2, 1035 fig. 831; Laurenzi, o. c. 32, 45 fig. 4; Mitropoulou, o. c. 31 fig. 8; Walters p. 14. – I. (?) debout devant un dieu trônant (Sarapis?), la main dr. contre la hanche; relief usé. Pour une interprétation différente de ce document, → Hera 264.

185. (= Anubis 50*) Moule en terre cuite. Quarto d'Altino, Mus. Naz. 2631. D'Altino (prov. de Venise). – Blanck, H., AA 1968, 573 fig. 35; Grenier, Anubis n° 265. – Bustes affrontés d'I. tenant le sistre et de Sarapis; entre eux, tête canine d'Anubis.

Pour d'autres documents, → Anubis 46-50 et commentaire.

E. Isis et Anubis

186. (= Anubis 51) Peinture murale fr. Chieti, Mus. Naz. D'Alba Fucens (prov. de L'Aquila), zone du temple d'Hercule, matériaux de remblai. – Mertens, J., FA 16, 1961, n° 4569; Visscher, F. De, Bull. Cl. des Lettres Acad. Roy. de Belgique 48, 1962, 180; idem, et al., MonAnt 46, 1963, 383-384; Malaise, M., Inventaire préliminaire des doc. égypt. découverts en Italie, EPRO 21 (1972) 52; Grenier, Anubis n° 246. – Fin I<sup>er</sup> s. ap. J.-C. – Nombreux fr. d'une décoration de type nilotique dont un au moins comporte la représentation d'I. et d'Anubis.

187.* Lampes de terre cuite. a)* (= Anubis 53a) Carthage, Mus. 08.13. De Bordj Djedid. – Deneauve, o. c. 156, 192 n° 904 fig. pl. 82; Grenier, Anubis n° 253 pl. 30a. – Bustes d'Anubis (à g. avec caducée) tournés vers I. (à dr. avec basileion) qui détourne la tête. – b) (= Anubis 53b). Aix-en-Provence, Univ. de Marseille. – Euzennat, M./Salviat, F., Les découvertes archéol. de la Bourse à Marseille (1968) 45 fig. p. 2; Leclant, IBIS II pl. 2; Grenier, Anubis n° 254 pl. 30b. – Similaire à a.

Pour d'autres documents, → Anubis 52. 54 et commentaire.

F. Isis, Harpocrate et Anubis

Lampes en terre cuite

188. (= Anubis 60i) Göttingen, Univ. De Boscoreale. – Klumbach, H., dans Helvetia Antiqua. Festschr. E. Vogt (1966) 175 fig. 6, 1. – I. entre Harpocrate et Anubis; I. est coiffée d'une fleur de lotus, tient une corne d'abondance de la g. et une patère (?) dans la dr. – Voir aussi Tinh, Isis Pompéi 170-171 n° 132. 133 pl. 21, 1.

189. (= Anubis 60d) Naples, Mus. Naz. 19.301. – Tinh, Isis Pompéi 171 n° 133b pl. 22, 2; Grenier, Anubis n° 256f. – I. entre Harpocrate et Anubis; I., coiffée d'une fleur de lotus, tient un sistre de la g. et une patère de la dr. – Pour cette série très connue, → Anubis 59. 60a-60x. 61*; Harpokrates p. 439 section A 3; cf. aussi Grenier, o. c. n° 256.

Pour un autre document, → Anubis 72* et commentaire.

G. Isis, Sarapis, Harpocrate et Anubis

190. (= Anubis 55* avec bibl.) Peinture murale. De Pompéi VI 16, 7 (Casa degli amorini dorati), in situ. – Tinh, Isis Pompéi 129-130 n° 17 pl. 15, 1; Grenier, Anubis n° 241. – 63-79 ap. J.-C. – De g. à dr., Sarapis, I., Harpocrate et Anubis debout; I. vêtue d'une tunique et d'une stola en sautoir, coiffée d'une fleur de lotus, tient de la dr. levée un sistre; le bras g. est baissé.

191.* (= Anubis 57*) Médaille d'applique. Augsburg, Röm. Mus. VF 66/10. De Westheim. – Alföldi, o. c. 161, 314-315. 327 n° 4 pl. 60, 1-1a; Grimm, o. c. 82, 224-227 n° 139, 1 fig. 39 pl. 44; Czysz, o. c. 161, 154-157. 183 n° 11 fig. 6, 1. – I. et Sarapis allongés sur une klinè; à g., Anubis et Harpocrate.

Pour d'autres documents, → Anubis 56. 58* et commentaire; → Hermanubis, après 30 («représentation à écarter»).

H. Isis, Sarapis, Harpocrate, Anubis et Hermanubis

192. Statuettes de terre cuite. a) (= Hermanubis 18) Anc. coll. Bircher. D'Alexandrie. – ExpSieglin II 2 (1924) 14 fig. 1. – I. sur une klinè avec Hermanubis, Anubis, Harpocrate et Sarapis. – b) Paris, Louvre E 14371. – I. avec les mêmes divinités à part Hermanubis remplacé par Osiris.

I. Isis, Harpocrate et Osiris

193. (= Harpokrates 373*) Relief sur patère de stéatite. Berlin-Ouest, Staatl. Mus., Ägypt. Mus. 19579. – Ägypt. Mus. Berlin (1967) n° 1016 fig. – II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. – Au-dessus d'un lotus incisé, trois bustes en relief: I. (à g.) avec basileion et nœud isiaque, Harpocrate (au centre) coiffé du pschent et Osiris imberbe (à dr.), coiffé de deux plumes.

J. Isis, Sarapis et Apis

194.* Relief de marbre. Londres, BM 2150. De Rhodes (?). – Cook, Zeus III 2, 1036 fig. 832; Laurenzi, o. c. 32, 44 fig. 3; Dunand, Isis III 23-24 pl. 5; Hornbostel, Sarapis 335-336 fig. 355; Mitropoulou, o. c. 184, 31 fig. 9; Grenier, Anubis n° 230 pl. 20. – Fin II<sup>e</sup> s. av. J.-C. – I. acéphale, un long sceptre dans la g., la dr. contre la hanche (?), se tient debout à g. de Sarapis trônant; entre eux, bœuf debout (Apis?).

Pour d'autres documents, → Apis 33*. 34*; → Bès 63* (?) avec Bès en plus des autres divinités; pour Isis allaitant Apis: → 244-248; → Apis 30*.

K. Isis, Sarapis, Anubis et Apis

195.* (= Apis 13 avec bibl.) Autel. Pythagoreion, Mus. De Samos. – Horn, Samos XII (1972) 209-212 n° 173 pls. 80-82; Hornbostel, Sarapis 341-342. – I<sup>er</sup> s. av. J.-C. – I. coiffée d'un grand disque entre deux cornes, s'appuie de la dr. sur un sceptre, la g. sur la hanche, debout entre le bœuf Apis et Sarapis trônant, ce dernier accompagné d'Anubis.

L. Isis et Horus

→ Horos 29-35.

M. Isis, Sarapis et Horus

196. (= Horos 7*) Le Caire, Mus. Egypt. JE 40715. – Kraus, Th., MDIK 19, 1963, 97-98 pl. 15; Tinh, Sarapis debout 89-90 n° IA 2 fig. 2. – De g. à dr., I., Horus et Sarapis (accompagné du Cerbère tricéphale, assis à sa dr.), debout dans un naos à fronton arqué; les attributs dans les mains baissées d'I. ont disparu.

N. Isis, Harpocrate et Horus

→ Horos 8 et commentaire.

O. Isis, Anubis, Horus et Apis

→ Anubis 65 (?); → Horos 47 (= Anubis 68*) et commentaire.

P. Isis, Sarapis, Harpocrate, Horus et Ammon-Rê (?)

→ Horos 6 et commentaire.

Q. Isis, Sarapis, Harpocrate et Nil

→ Harpokrates 394.

R. Isis, Harpocrate et Nephthys

→ Harpokrates 369*. 370; au sujet de Nephthys, → Abraxas 54*.

S. Isis et Bès

→ Bès 48*. 63* (?) et commentaire.

T. Isis, Sarapis, Harpocrate et Bès

→ Bès 12*.

U. Isis, Sarapis, Hathor et Bès

197.* (= Hathor 39) Vase à reliefs de terre cuite. Berlin-Ouest, Staatl. Mus., Ägypt. Mus. 22829. – Ägypt. Mus. Berlin (1967) n° 1015 fig.; Tinh, RA 1972, 2, 327-328. 339-340 figs. 7-8. – Fin I<sup>er</sup>/début II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. – Bustes en relief d'I. (au centre, coiffée de l'emblème huthorique, avec cheveux calamistrés, nœud isiaque), de Sarapis (à g.), d'Hathor (à dr.) et Bès en pied (à l'extrême gauche).

V. Isis, Sarapis et Anoukis

198.* Relief sur patère. Londres, BM 38517. – Parlasca, K., dans Das römisch-byzant. Ägypten, Symposium Trier 1978 (1983) 158 pl. 24, 4. – II<sup>e</sup> s. av. J.-C. – Sarapis coiffé du modius entre Anoukis (à g.) avec une couronne de plumes et I. (à dr.), coiffée du basileion; en bas, lotus entre deux enfants nus.

W. Isis, Sarapis et Déméter

199. (= Alexandria 77*) Relief sur patère de serpentine. Paris, Louvre MA 2733. – Hornbostel, Sarapis 288 fig. 308a. – Sarapis entre I. avec basileion et Déméter (?) ou Alexandrie (?) selon Hornbostel, o. c.

200.* Lampes de terre cuite. a)* Poignée de lampe fr. Anc. coll. Fouquet. – Perdrizet, Terres cuites Fouquet 78 n° 186 pl. 48; Hornbostel, Sarapis 304 fig. 320. – I<sup>er</sup> s. ap. J.-C. – I. (avec basileion et corne d'abondance dans la g.) et Déméter de part et d'autre de Sarapis trônant. – b) Alexandrie, Mus. Gréco-Rom. 8578. – Hornbostel, Sarapis 304 fig. 319. – II<sup>e</sup>/III<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. – Similaire à a.

201. Médaille de stuc. Marché des ant. – Hornbostel, Sarapis 304. 481 fig. 373. – I. (avec corne d'abondance) et Déméter de part et d'autre de Sarapis trônant.

Pour un autre document réunissant I., Sarapis et Déméter, → 280.

X. Isis, Sarapis, Harpocrate et Déméter

202.* Lampe de terre cuite fr. (poignée). Athènes, Mus. Nat. coll. Benaki M<sup>n</sup> 830. - Tinh, Sérapis debout 249 n° V 13 fig. 269. - 1<sup>re</sup> moitié I<sup>er</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - De g. à dr., en position debout, Déméter voilée, Harpocrate nu, Sarapis avec himation et I. coiffée du basileion, avec nœud isiaque, une corne d'abondance dans la main g. et levant la main dr. pour couronner Sarapis.

203. Monnaie. AE, Bizye (Thrace), Philippe I<sup>er</sup> (244-249 ap. J.-C.). - Jurukova, o. c. 27e, n° 136 pl. 22, 136. - Rv.: Sarapis trônant au centre, la dr. tendue au-dessus du Cerbère tricéphale; à sa g., Déméter tenant un flambeau; à sa dr., I. tenant un sistre dans la dr. et une corne d'abondance dans la g.; entre elle et Sarapis, Harpocrate tenant une corne d'abondance.

Pour d'autres documents, → Harpokrates 397.

Y. Isis, Sarapis, Harpocrate et Dionysos

204. (= Dionysos/Bacchus 126*, = Harpokrates 395) Relief de marbre. Paris, Louvre MA 3128 (MND 932). De Thuburbo Majus (Tunisie). - Michon, E., MonPiot 25, 1921/22, 229-236 pl. 18; Hornbostel, Sarapis 214 fig. 160; Tinh, Sérapis debout 261-262 n° VI 2 fig. 290. - 1<sup>re</sup> moitié II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - I. (avec basileion et sistre dans la dr.) accompagnée de Sarapis, Harpocrate et Dionysos; la main g. d'I. est cachée par les autres personnages.

Z. Isis, Sarapis et les Dioscures

205.* Lampe de terre cuite en forme de navire. Londres, BM Q 2722. De Pouzzoles. - Bailey, BMLamps III Q 2722 fig. 28 pl. 80; Tinh, DOCampagne 52-54 n° IS.4 fig. 31. - 1<sup>re</sup> moitié I<sup>er</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - Sur la proue, I. avec une corne d'abondance dans la g., couronnant Sarapis debout, tenant un gouvernail; sur le pont, les Dioscures, figure grotesque et inscription; sous le navire, inscription en l'honneur de Hélios-Sarapis.

A'. Isis, Sarapis, les Dioscures, Junon et Jupiter Dolichénien

206. (= Dioskouroi/Castores 115*, = Iuno 110) Relief dolichénien de marbre. Rome, Mus. Cap. 9747. De Rome, Dolichenum de l'Aventin. - Colini, A. M., BullCom 63, 1936, 152 n° 16 pl. 4; Merlat, Répertoire des inscr. et mon. figurés du culte de Jupiter Dolichénus (1951) 166-168 n° 185 pl. 19; Pietrangeli, o. c. 52, 40 n° 24 pl. 8; Hornbostel, Sarapis 225 fig. 190; Hörig, M./Schwertheim, E., Corpus Cultus Iovis Dolicheni (CCID), EPRO 106 (1987) n° 365 pl. 77. - 2<sup>e</sup> moitié II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - Sur les côtés, Jupiter Dolichénien et Junon debout respectivement sur un taureau et une biche; au centre, bustes d'I. et de Sarapis sur l'aigle au-dessus d'un autel; dans les angles, bustes des Dioscures. I. est coiffée du basileion et drapée dans un himation frangé avec nœud isiaque.

207. (= Dioskouroi/Castores 84 avec bibl., = Iuno 113 avec bibl.) Relief dolichénien de marbre. Rome, Mus. Cap. 9750. De Rome, Dolichenum de l'Aventin. - Colini, o. c. 206, 152 n° 17 fig. 9; Merlat, o. c. 206, 202-205 n° 206 pl. 22, 1; Pietrangeli, o. c. 52, 52 n° 38; Hornbostel, Sarapis 307 n. 1 fig. 330; Tinh, Sérapis debout 174-175 n° IVB 1 fig. 130; Hörig/Schwertheim, o. c. 206, n° 386 pl. 87. - 1<sup>re</sup> moitié III<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - I. et Sarapis en compagnie de Jupiter Dolichénien et Junon ainsi que des Dioscures; I. est coiffée du basileion et d'un croissant de lune et tient une couronne ou une situle (cf. Merlat o. c.) de la g. et un sistre de la dr.

B'. Isis, Sarapis et Apollon

→ Apollon 806; cf. aussi 288 et Apollon/Apollo, commentaire p. 438.

C'. Isis, Chnoum et Déméter

208.* Relief sur patère fr. Londres, BM 38513. - Parlasca, o. c. 198, 158 pl. 25, 1. - II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - Bustes d'I. coiffée du basileion (à g.), de Chnoum criocephale (au centre) et d'une déesse coiffée du modius, à dr. (sans doute Déméter).

D'. Isis, Anubis et Minerve

→ Anubis 67* (= Athena/Minerva 98 avec renvois).

E'. Isis et Ammon

→ Ammon 117, 174*.

F'. Isis et Io

→ 265. 266.

G'. Isis et Hélios

209.* Relief sur plaque rectangulaire de bronze. Paris, Cab. Méd. 121. Babelon/Blanchet, BiblNat-Bronzes n° 121; Thompson, D. B., Ptolemaic Oinochoai and Portraits in Faience (1973) 64 pl. 70b. - 1<sup>er</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - Entre deux piliers galbés, bustes d'Hélios (radié) à g. et d'I.-Séléné (avec basileion) à dr.; tous deux tiennent un sceptre.

H'. Isis, Harpocrate et Hespéros

210.* (= Harpokrates 304) Peinture murale. Naples, Mus. Naz. 8836. De Pompéi IX 3, 15. - Tinh, Isis Pompéi 148 n° 59 pl. 17. - 62-79 ap. J.-C. - I. ailée, coiffée d'un grand croissant, tenant de la g. une corne d'abondance, de la dr. un sistre et posant son pied dr. sur un globe contre lequel s'appuie un gouvernail. Devant elle s'avance au galop un cavalier nimbé et radié (Harpocrate-Hélios?) et derrière elle, un petit génie nu, ailé tenant une grande torche (Hespéros?).

I'. Isis et Kaystros

→ Kaystros I 4*.

III. Isis lactans

Les monuments représentant Isis lactans sont très nombreux. Nous ne faisons ici qu'un choix représentatif des documents les mieux connus presque tous publiés dans: Tran tam Tinh, Isis lactans, EPRO 37 (1973) (= Tinh, IL 1); idem, «De nouveau Isis Lactans», dans Homm. à M. J. Vermaseren III, EPRO 68 (1978) 1231-1268 pls. 226-249 figs. 1-56 (= Tinh, IL 2); cf. aussi Müller, H. W., «Isis mit dem Horuskinde», MJBK 14, 1963, 7-38.

A. Isis trônant allaitant Harpocrate

Sauf indication contraire, I. est coiffée du basileion, vêtue du chiton qui laisse le sein gauche nu et est drapée dans l'himation avec un nœud isiaque; elle offre de la main dr. le sein g. à Harpocrate qu'elle porte de son bras g.

211. Peinture murale. Karanis, in situ (?). De Karanis, maison B 50, chambre E. - Boak, A. E. R./Peterson, E. E., Karanis. Seasons 1924-28 (1931) 34 fig. 49; Toynbee, A., The Crucible of Christianity (1969) fig. p. 237; Tinh, IL 1, 72 n° A-24 fig. 48. - IV<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - Emblème partiellement effacé, la partie inférieure du corps manque.

212. Relief sur plaquette en or repoussé. Paris, Louvre E 14268 = AO 2097. De Mésopotamie. - Tinh IL 1, 68-70 n° A-20 figs. 42, 43. - II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - Au centre, Sarapis étendu sur une klinè; à g., I.-Thermouthis; à dr., I. lactans.

213. Relief en os fr. Athènes, Mus. Benaki 19014. - Tinh, IL 1, 71 n° A-22 fig. 45; Marangou, L., Bone Carvings from Egypt I (1976) 119 n° 183 pl. 53e. - Ep. romaine. - I. elle-même en grande partie mutilée.

214. Poignée de lampe en terre cuite. Alexandrie, Mus. Gréco-Rom. 6485. D'Alexandrie. - Tinh, IL 1, 97 n° A-62 fig. 86. - I<sup>er</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - Le trône est posé sur une corolle d'acanthé. Voir aussi ibid. figs. 84-93; Tinh, IL 2, pl. 235 figs. 20-21.

215. Lampes en terre cuite. a) Paris, Louvre E 22477. - Tinh, IL 1, 104 n° A-76 fig. 99. - II<sup>e</sup>/III<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - Le trône est flanqué de deux défenses d'éléphant. Voir aussi ibid. figs. 94-101; Tinh, IL 2, pls. 236-238 figs. 22-26. - b) Paris, Cab. Méd. 1894. - Hellmann, M.-Ch., Lampes antiques de la Bibl. Nat. I Coll. Froehner (1985) n° 45 fig. - II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - Semblable à a. Voir aussi Tinh, IL 1, 107 n° A-82 figs. 105, 106.

216.* Bague en or. Berlin-Ouest, Staatl. Mus., Ägypt. Mus. 7999. - Ägypt. Mus. Berlin (1967) 102, sous le n° 998; Tinh, IL 1, 150 n° A-137 fig. 127. - I. assise sur un trône égyptisant. Voir aussi ibid. 150-151 n° A-138.

Monnaies

217. AE, Alexandrie, Trajan, 108/109 ap. J.-C. - Milne 594. - Rv.: I. est coiffée d'un disque entre deux cornes.

218.* AE, Alexandrie, Hadrien, 131/132 ap. J.-C., Antonin le Pieux, 141/142, 146/147 et 147/148 ap. J.-C. - Dattari 2648, 2649; Milne 1721. 1918-1920. 1965. - Rv.: I. coiffée du basileion; Harpocrate tient un lotus dans la main g. - Semblable mais sans lotus: Antonin le Pieux, 146/147 ap. J.-C. - Geissen, AlexKaisermünzen II 1547, 1548.

219.* AE, Alexandrie, Hadrien, 131/132 ap. J.-C. - BMC Alexandria 90, 761; Dattari 1750 pl. 17; Milne 1345; Geissen, AlexKaisermünzen II 1045. - Rv.: semblable à 218; deux faucons sont debout sur les angles du trône; devant I., une palme. - Même motif sans palme: Hadrien, 131/132 ap. J.-C. - BMC Alexandria 90, 762 pl. 16; Dattari 1749; Milne 1346; Geissen, o. c. II 1046. - Même motif avec un griffon derrière I.: Trajan, 108/109 ap. J.-C. - Dattari 923; Milne 594; Geissen, o. c. I 491.

220. a) Bi, Alexandrie, Hadrien (117-138 ap. J.-C.), Antonin le Pieux, 159/160 ap. J.-C. - BMC Alexandria 90, 763; 115, 990 pl. 16; Dattari 1752. 2257-2259; Milne 2403-2406; Geissen, AlexKaisermünzen II 1841-1843. - Rv.: semblable à 219 (première variante) mais avec un seul faucon sur le dossier du trône. - b) AE, Alexandrie, Marc Aurèle, 169/170 ap. J.-C. - Geissen, AlexKaisermünzen III 2073. - Rv.: semblable à a.

221.* a)* AE, Alexandrie, Antonin le Pieux, 144/145 et 146/147 ap. J.-C. - Dattari 2650 pl. 17; 3473 bis; Milne 1695; Geissen, AlexKaisermünzen II 1473, 1549. - Rv.: semblable à 218 (première variante); devant I., un autel. - b) AE, Alexandrie, Marc Aurèle, 173/174 ap. J.-C. - Dattari 3474 pl. 17; Milne 2610. - Rv.: semblable à 218; devant I., un étendard.

222. AE, Alexandrie, Antonin le Pieux, 138/139 ap. J.-C. - Dattari 2643 pl. 17. - Rv.: semblable à 220a; avec un vase devant I.

223.* AE, Alexandrie, Hadrien, 135/136 ap. J.-C., Antonin le Pieux, 141/142 à 143/144 et 148/149 ap. J.-C. - BMC Alexandria 102, 878; 142, 1194 pl. 28; 1195; Dattari 1955, 3039-3041, 3043, 3045 pl. 29; 3046; Milne 1495, 1767, 1768, 1770, 2021-2023; Geissen, AlexKaisermünzen II 1419, 1420, 1454, 1455, 1609-1613; Handler, S., «Architecture on the Roman Coins of Alexandria», AJA 75, 1971, 61-63 pl. 11, 5-6. - Rv.: I. allaitant Harpocrate dans un temple aux chapiteaux lotiformes et au fronton arqué; Harpocrate tenant une fleur de lotus. - Variante sans lotus: Antonin le Pieux, 141/142 et 144/145 ap. J.-C. - Dattari 1954, 3044; Milne 1839; Geissen, o. c. II 1485.

224. AE, Alexandrie, Antonin le Pieux, 143/144 et 148/149 ap. J.-C. - Dattari 3049; Milne 1769. 2018 pl. 4; Geissen, AlexKaisermünzen II 1614. 1615; cf. Handler, o. c. 223, 61-63. - Rv.: semblable à 223; devant I., une palme.

225.* AE, Alexandrie, Antonin le Pieux, 148/149 ap. J.-C. - Milne 2019 pl. 4; 2020; Handler, o. c. 223, 61-63 pl. 11, 7. - Rv.: semblable à 223; devant I., un vase sur une colonne.

226. AE, Alexandrie, Trajan, 108/109 ap. J.-C. - Dattari 1139; Milne 601; cf. Handler, o. c. 223, 61-63. - Rv.: semblable à 225, avec deux faucons sur le dossier du trône.

Statues de pierre

227.* Calcaire. Alexandrie, Mus. Gréco-Rom. 3377. - Adriani, Rep A-II, n° 142 pl. 71; Tinh, IL 1, 58-59 n° A-7 fig. 26. - I<sup>er</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - I. acéphale.

228.* Marbre blanc. Antalya, Mus. Arch. A.3279 + A.3070. De Pergé. - Tinh, IL 1, 53-54 n° A-1 figs. 15, 16; Tinh, IL 2, pl. 226 fig. 1; Özgür, E., Skulpturen des Museums von Antalya I (1987) n° 27; Antalya Museum (1988) 79 et 203 n° 95. - II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - Avec nœud isiaque au-dessus du sein droit.

229.* (= Agathodaimon 14* avec bibl.) Grès gris. Berlin-Ouest, Staatl. Mus., Ägypt. Mus. 20004. De Carinola, en Campanie. - Müller, H. W., MJBK 14, 1963, 10. 25 figs. 18-20; Tinh, IL 1, 57-58 n° A-5 figs. 20-22. - II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - I. acéphale; sphinx couchant sur le siège, de part et d'autre d'I.; griffon sur les côtés du trône; derrière le trône, serpents affrontés (I.-Thermouthis et Agathodaimon).

230.* Serpentine. Munich, Ägypt. Slg. 4201. De Mata'na el-Asfûn (Haute-Egypte). - Müller, o. c. 229, 20 n° 6 figs. 1. 14, 17; Staatl. Slg. Ägypt. Kunst (1976) 221 fig.; Tinh, IL 1, 60 n° A-9 figs. 28, 29; Cleopatra's Egypt..., o. c. 143, n° 101 fig.; Kleopatra..., o. c. 143, n° 97 pl. - Ep. romaine. - Harpocrate mutilé.

231.* Calcaire. Berlin-Ouest, Staatl. Mus., Dahlem-Mus. (Frühchristlich-Byzantinische Sammlung) J.19/61. D'Esh Sheikh Ibâda (Antinoé). - Tinh, IL 1, 54-55 n° A-2 fig. 17. - IV<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - L'emblème manque.

Statuettes de terre cuite

232. Beyrouth, Mus. Nat. Kh.223 et Kh.224. De Kharayeb. - Tinh, IL 1, 75-76 n° A-27 et A-28 figs. 54 et 55. - II<sup>e</sup>/I<sup>er</sup> s. av. J.-C. - I. acéphale (Kh.223) et incomplète de la moitié supérieure du corps (Kh.224).

233.* Fr. Londres, BM 1938.3-14.1. - Hinks, R. P., BMQ 12, 1937/38, 74-75 pl. 27b; Tinh, IL 1, 75 n° A-26 fig. 53. - I<sup>er</sup> s. av. J.-C. - L'emblème, rapporté, manque.

234.* Herculanum, Antiquarium 1446. D'Herculanum, insula orientale II, boutique 5. - Tinh, DOHerculanum 56-58 n° 4 figs. 7, 8; Tinh, IL 1, 73-74 n° A-25 figs. 51, 52. - I<sup>er</sup> s. av./I<sup>er</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - I. porte un diadème orné de deux cornes.

235. Damas, Mus. Nat. C 3226. De Tafas (Syrie). - Tinh, IL 1, 77 n° A-29 fig. 56. - I<sup>er</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - I. vue de trois quarts.

236.* Poignée de lampe en forme de statuette.

Berlin-Ouest, Staatl. Mus., Ägypt. Mus. 8704. - Tinh, IL 1, 86-87 n° A-45 fig. 71. - I<sup>er</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - On compte plusieurs dizaines de poignées de ce type: cf. Tinh, IL 1, 79-93 n° A-31 à A-56 figs. 59-80; Tinh, IL 2, 1245-1249 n° A-199 à A-209 pls. 232-233 figs. 8-11.

B. Isis surgissant d'un calice de feuilles d'acanthé, allaite Harpocrate

237. Poignées plastiques de lampes en terre cuite. a) Alexandrie, Mus. Gréco-Rom. 10060. - Breccia, Mon. II 1 n° 237 pl. 24, 8; Tinh, IL 1, 166 n° B-1 fig. 149. - I<sup>er</sup>/II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - I. est coiffée du basileion, vêtue du chiton et de l'himation avec le nœud isiaque et offre le sein g. à Harpocrate. - b) Paris, Louvre Cp. 4715B. - Tinh, IL 1, 173 n° B-14 figs. 163-164. - Plus d'une soixantaine de monuments similaires sont conservés dans différents musées; ils sont tous de provenance égyptienne; voir Tinh, IL 1, 166-183 n° B-1 à B-37 figs. 149-180; Tinh, IL 2, 1255-1265, n° B-38 à B-64 pls. 239-246 figs. 27-51.

C. Isis surgissant d'un panier, allaite Harpocrate

238.* Statuette de terre cuite. Alexandrie, Mus. Gréco-Rom. 23196. - Breccia, Mon. II 2 n° 39 pl. 10, 38; Tinh, IL 1, 186-187 n° C-6 fig. 185. - I<sup>er</sup>/II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - Buste d'I. (coiffée du basileion) surgissant d'un panier d'osier couronnant une cuve évasée, posée sur une feuille d'acanthé.

239. Statuette de terre cuite. Alexandrie, Mus. Gréco-Rom. 22221. - Breccia, Mon. II 2 n° 41 pl. 9, 35; Tinh, IL 1, 186 n° C-5 fig. 184. - II<sup>e</sup>/III<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - I., coiffée du basileion, assise en tailleur sur un panier cylindrique en osier. - Une vingtaine d'exemplaires sont connus: cf. Tinh, IL 1, 184-192 n° C-1 à C-16 figs. 182-192; Tinh, IL 2, 1265 n° C-17 pl. 247 figs. 52-53.

D. Isis debout, portant Harpocrate sur son bras gauche

240. Statuette de terre cuite. Berlin, Staatl. Mus., Ägypt. Mus. 16150. - Weber 49 n° 26 pl. 2; Tinh, IL 1, 193-194 n° D-2 fig. 197. - II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - I. est coiffée du basileion et agite un sistre de la main dr. - Une demi-douzaine d'exemplaires similaires sont connus: cf. Tinh, IL 1, 194, n° D-3 et D-4 figs. 198-199; Tinh, IL 2, 1265-1267 n° D-9 à D-11 figs. 54-56.

241. Statuette en ivoire. Munich, Ägypt. Slg. AS 5532 (anc. Coll. W. Esch, Duisbourg). - Müller, o. c. 229, 28. 32 fig. 26; Tinh, IL 1, 193 n° D-1 fig. 196. - II<sup>e</sup>/III<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - I. acéphale, manteau avec nœud isiaque, seins nus.

E. Isis-Thermouthis allaitant

242.* Reliefs en calcaire. a) Le Caire, Mus. Egypt. 10.4.69.1. De Medinet Madi (Fayoum). - Bresciani, E., «La dea-cobra che allatta il cocodrillo a Medinet Madi», Aegyptus 55, 1975, 3-9 pl. 1. - Dans un naos, I. anguipède, coiffée d'un disque solaire entre deux cornes, avec nœud isiaque, tient de la dr. un sceptre et de la g. un crocodile auquel elle offre le sein g. - b)* Le Caire, Mus. Egypt. JE 52480. Probablement du Fayoum (voir bibl.). - Grimm, o. c. 174, 34 pl. 68; Leclant, dans IconogrCl 344-345 fig. 6.

243. Statuettes de terre cuite. a) Loc. inc. De Medinet Madi (Fayoum). - Tinh, IL 1, 195 n° D-5 fig. 200. - I<sup>er</sup>/II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - I. anguipède, coiffée du basileion, vêtue d'une tunique courte, offrant le sein g. à Harpocrate. - b) Alexandrie, Mus. Gréco-Rom. P.10790. - Tinh, IL 2, 1266-1267 n° D-11 pl. 249 fig. 56.

Pour I.-Th., cf. la section IV H (332-364).

F. Isis trônant, allaitant le bœuf Apis

244.* Intaille. Plasma. Berlin-Ouest, Staatl. Mus., Ägypt. Mus. 9820. - Weber 39 n. 42 fig. 15; Philipp, o. c. 37a, 58 n° 61 pl. 16; Kater-Sibbes/Vermaseren, o. c. 244, I n° 106 (Inv. 9451) et 141 (Inv. 7831) pl. 81. - I. trônant, coiffée du basileion mais sans nœud isiaque, offre le sein g. à Apis; Rv.: → Ptah debout.

Statuettes de terre cuite

245.* Alexandrie, Mus. Gréco-Rom. 7831*. 9451. - Breccia, Mon. II 2 n° 40 pl. 10, 37 et Mon. II 1 n° 239 pl. 48, 3; Kater-Sibbes/Vermaseren, o. c. 244, I n° 106 (Inv. 9451) et 141 (Inv. 7831) pl. 81. - I. trônant, coiffée du basileion, offre le sein g. à Apis.

246. Fr. Budapest, Mus. Beaux-Arts T.492. - Semblable à 245; à dr. d'I., un garçon joue de la syrinx.

247.* a) Le Caire, Mus. Egypt. CG 32853 (= JE 36592). Du Fayoum. - Dunand, Relig. pop. 170 n° 17 pl. 12; Kater-Sibbes/Vermaseren, o. c. 244, I n° 112 pl. 72. - Apis est debout sur un autel. - b)* Copenhague, Glypt. AE.I.N.1508. - Mogensen, La coll. égyptienne (1930) 119 n° A 204 et Album pl. 36; Kater-Sibbes/Vermaseren, o. c. 244, I n° 182 pl. 106. - Semblable à a. - c) De Memphis. - Engelbach, R., Riqqeh and Memphis VI (1915) 34 n° 79 pl. 61 (4<sup>e</sup> rang, 3<sup>e</sup> doc.). - Semblable à b.

Pour un autre document, → Apis 30*. Cf. aussi Kater-Sibbes/Vermaseren, o. c. 244, II n° 291. 575 pl. 206.

G. Isis debout, allaitant le bœuf Apis

248.* Statuette de terre cuite. Anc. coll. Fouquet. - Perdizet, Terres cuites Fouquet 53 n° 156 pl. 16; Kater-Sibbes/Vermaseren, o. c. 244, I n° 117 pl. 74. - I. avec le vautour accouvé et le basileion; derrière sa tête, grand nimbe circulaire; elle tient un uræus de la main dr., allaitant Apis debout sur un autel. - Cf. aussi Kater-Sibbes/Vermaseren, o. c. 244, I n° 187. 231 pl. 132; II n° 519.

IV. Formes syncrétiques d'Isis

A. Isis-Aphrodite

Les représentations d'I.-Aphrodite ont toutes le basileion sur la tête, ce qui permet de les considérer comme des expressions grecques d'un ancien syncrétisme égyptien. Dès le Nouvel Empire, I. s'identifiait avec Hathor, déesse de l'amour comme Aphrodite et s'appropriait la couronne de celle-ci (deux cornes supportant un disque). Dans le nouveau syncrétisme gréco-égyptien, l'emblème est isiaque, constitué notamment du disque sur deux cornes, surmonté de deux plumes.

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Hekler, A., «Alexandrinische Aphroditestatuetten», Oefh 14, 1911, 112-120; Condurachi, E., «Isis-Aphrodite. Beiträge zu einer Ikonographie der alexandrinischen Synkretismen», BullRoum 21, 1939, 33-53; Dunand, Relig. pop. 182-187; Jentel, M.-O., «Quelques aspects d'Aphrodite en Egypte et en Syrie à l'époque hellénistique et romaine», dans MythGrPér 151-155; Fleischer, R., «Eine Gruppe syrisch-phönizischer Bronzestatuetten-Basen», DamMitt 1, 1983, 31-42.

Il est sous-entendu, dans les descriptions ci-dessous, que la coiffure d'I.-A. comporte le basileion.

I. Isis-Aphrodite coiffée d'un diadème à palmettes rayonnantes, portant un collier à penditifs, les bras tendus

249.* Statuettes de bronze a)* Cologne, Röm.-Germ. Mus. - Reinach, RepStat II 1, 361, 10; Jentel 153 n. 16 pl. 3, 5. - I. tient de la g. Harpocrate assis sur un lotus et de la dr. un objet aujourd'hui disparu; collier sans amulette. - b) (= Aphrodite [in peripheria orientali] 85*) Paris, Louvre 1586 (= Br 12). De Basse-Egypte. - De Ridder, BrLouvre I n° 12 pl. 3; Hornbostel, Sarapis 241 n. 2 fig. 297; Jentel 152-153 pl. 2, 1. - Les mains aux doigts écartés ne tiennent pas d'attributs; collier avec amulette comportant trois figures: Harpocrate, Canope, Aphrodite anadyomène ainsi que séparément, un petit buste de Sarapis. - c) Berlin, Staatl. Mus., Ägypt. Mus. 13791. - Roeder, G., Ägypt. Bronzefiguren (1956) 260 § 315d pl. 37h; Jentel 152 n. 15 pl. 3, 3. - Similaire à a; collier avec une amulette difficilement identifiable. - d) Le Caire, Mus. Egypt. CG 27654. - Edgar, CatGénCaire. Greek Bronzes (1904) n° 27654, pl. 2; Condurachi 51 n° 41 fig. 10; Jentel 153 pl. 3, 2. - Similaire à b; collier avec croissant mais sans amulette figurée; les bras manquent. - e)* Paris, Mus. Rodin 227. - Rodin collectionneur (1967) n° 227 pl. 87; Jentel 153 pl. 2, 2. - Similaire à b; collier avec amulette de l'Aphrodite anadyomène; les bras manquent. - f) Anc. coll. de Clercq. - De Ridder, Coll. de Clercq III, Les bronzes (1905) 26 n° 2, pl. 1, 2; Jentel 152 n. 15 pl. 3, 4. - Similaire à b; les bras manquent et l'amulette du collier n'est guère reconnaissable. - g) (= Harpokrates 362) Bruxelles, Mus. Roy. A 487. - Jentel 152 pl. 1. - La tête et le torse sont seuls conservés; collier avec amulette figurant Harpocrate. – h) Bad Deutsch Altenburg, Mus. Carnuntinum 11956. De Carnuntum. – Fleischer, R., Die röm. Bronzen aus Österreich (1967) n° 231 pl. 116; Jentel 152 pl. 4, 1. – Il ne reste que la tête et le torse; collier avec amulette figurée.

2. Isis-Aphrodite coiffée d'un diadème, les bras levés au niveau des épaules, sans collier (type «pséliournène»)

250.* Statuettes de bronze a) Damas, Mus. Nat. C.7620. De Homs. – Abu-l-Faraj Al-Ush, M., et al., A Concise Guide to the Nat. Mus. of Damascus (1980) 88 fig. 3; Fleischer, DamMitt 1, 1983, 34 n° 15 pl. 7b. – I. tenant dans la g. un miroir; à ses pieds, un petit Eros. – b) Damas, Mus. Nat. – Zouhdi, B., Actes du IV<sup>e</sup> Colloque internat. sur les bronzes antiques (1977) 200 fig. 2. – I. tenant dans la g. un miroir. – c) Paris, Louvre. De Tortose. De Ridder, o. c. 249f, n° 106 pl. 21. – Similaire à b; bracelet au poignet; miroir cassé. – Cf. aussi de Ridder, o. c. n° 110. 114 pls. 22, 3 et 23, 3. – d)* Madrid, Mus. Arch. 2084. – Thouvenot, R., Cat. des figurines et objets de bronze (1927) 14 n° 22 pl. 3; Condurachi n° 28. – Le bras dr. tient le miroir (disparu) et le bras g. est baissé.

251. Statuette de terre cuite. Le Caire, Mus. Egypt. CG 26942. – Dunand, Relig. pop. 182 n° 50 pl. 31. – Torse nu, levant le bras dr. (mutilé), tenant une coupe dans la g.; collier avec pendentif; bracelet au poignet g.; amphore debout, à sa dr.

3. Isis-Aphrodite coiffée du vautour accouvé

252.* Statuettes de bronze a) (= Aphrodite [in periphéria orientali 212]) Angers, Mus. Pincé MTC 1122. Proviendrait de Tortose. – de Morant, H., Mus. Pincé, Art Grec/Romain (1956) 31; Lesueur-Laguerre, C., Angers, Mus. Pincé (1982) 10 pl. 7. – I. tient une pomme dans la g. levée. – b)* Berlin, Staatl. Mus., Ägypt. Mus. 7763. – Roeder, o. c. 249c, 259 § 315 pl. 38c. – Similaire à a. – c) Budapest, coll. Beöthy. – Hekler 114–115 n° 1 fig. 111a–b; Condurachi n° 33. – Bras levés. – d) Le Caire, Mus. Egypt. CG 27652 (= JE 27528) et CG 27653 (= JE 29151). – Edgar, Cat. GénCaire. Greek Bronzes (1904) n° 27652. 27653 pl. 2; Hekler 116 n° 5; Condurachi n° 37. 38. – Similaire à a. – e)* Londres, BM 134875. – Mitchell, T. C., BMQ 36, 1971/72, 141 pl. 59; Fleischer, o. c. 250a, 34 n° 16 pl. 7b. – I. tient une pomme dans la g. et une couronne dans la dr. – Pour un autre exemplaire semblable, cf. Walters, H. B., Select Bronzes, ... (1915) pl. 47, 2. – f) Paris, Louvre Br 386 (= MN 1577). – De Ridder, BrLouvre II n° 386 pl. 32. – g) Autrefois Paris, Mus. Guimet. – CRAI 1896, 155–160 pl. 6; Reinach, RépStat II 1, 341, 3; Hekler 117 n° 13; Condurachi n° 11. – I. tient une pomme dans la dr. levée et porte la g. à ses cheveux. – h) Anc. coll. de Clercq. De Tortose. – De Ridder, o. c. 249f, 78 n° 107 pl. 22, 1; Hekler 116 n° 10; Reinach, RépStat IV 213, 2; Condurachi n° 26. – I. se regardant dans un miroir tenu de la g.

4. Isis-Aphrodite anadyomène, les mains portées à ses cheveux

253.* Statuettes de terre cuite a) Alexandrie, Mus. Gréco-Rom. 23094. – Breccia, Mon. II 2 n° 8 pl. 1, 1; Dunand, ISIS 82 pl. 19. – I. porte en pendentif une figurine d'Hathor; deux petits Eros sont en train de poser sur sa tête un diadème surmonté du basileion. – b) Heidelberg, Univ., Ägypt. Inst. 961. – Osiris, ... o. c. 53b, n° 122 fig. – II<sup>e</sup> s. av. J.-C. – I. coiffée d'un diadème, d'une guirlande bourrelée et d'un basileion flanqué de deux boutons de lotus; à g. d'I., un enfant nu; traces de couleurs. – c)* Le Caire, JE 63552. De Tebtynis. – Dunand, ISIS I pl. 20, 2; eadem, Relig. pop. 186 n° 59 pl. 36. – Similaire à b mais une draperie couvre ses jambes.

5. Isis-Aphrodite pudique, coiffée d'un diadème

254.* Statuettes de bronze. a)* Londres, BM 1912.4–20.1. De Syrie. – Walters, o. c. 252e, pl. 47, 1; Condurachi n° 1. – I. avec large diadème dentelé. – b) Bruxelles, Mus. Roy. – Drexler, W., ML II 1, 495 fig.; Reinach, RépStat II 2, 422, 4. – Sans diadème. – c) Anc. coll. de Clercq. – De Ridder, o. c. 249f, 35 n° 22 pl. 4, 2; Condurachi n° 22. – I. est coiffée du vautour accouvé.

6. Isis-Aphrodite pudique, coiffée du vautour accouvé, vêtue d'une tunique collante

255.* Statuettes de bronzes. a)* Paris, Louvre Br 4409*; Br 4415; Br 4429. – De Ridder, o. c. 249f, 42 n° 39 pl. 6; n° 40 pl. 7; n° 117 pl. 25; Hekler 118 n° 19. 20. 21; Condurachi n° 2. 3 fig. 4; 48; Jentel 154 pls. 4, 3; 5, 2; 5, 5. – I. sans basileion; derrière la tête du vautour, six urai forment un polos. – b) Anc. coll. de Clercq. Peut-être d'Amrith. – De Ridder, o. c. 249f, 41 n° 38 pl. 5; Fleischer, o. c. 250a, 32 n° 5 pl. 6c. – Même coiffure que a. – Voir aussi Jentel 154 pl. 5, 4. – c) Marseille, Mus. Borély 2258. – Froehner, W., Cat. des antiq. grecques et romaines (1897) 153–154 n° 758; Condurachi n° 8; Jentel 154 n. 24. – d) Loc. inc. – Condurachi n° 5; Jentel 154 n. 24 pl. 4, 4 (et non 5, 1). – e) Loc. inc. – Hekler 117–118 n° 16 fig. 118; Jentel 154 n. 24 (avec bibl.) pl. 5, 1 (et non 4, 4). – Les avant-bras manquent.

7. Isis-Aphrodite du type «anasyroménè», relevant sa tunique

256.* Statuettes de terre cuite. a)* Le Caire, Mus. Egypt. CG 26964. – Dunand, Relig. pop. 186–187 n° 60 pl. 37. – I. coiffée d'une couronne bourrelée surmontée d'un haut modius orné du basileion; des deux maines elle relève sa tunique, découvrant son sexe. – b) Tübingen, Univ., Arch. Inst. – ExpSieglin II 2 (1924) 127 pl. 43, 5. – Similaire à a.

257.* Statuette de terre cuite. Le Caire, Mus. Egypt. CG 26965 (= JE 27675). – Dunand, Relig. pop. 187 n° 61 pl. 37. – I. avec coiffure complexe (deux couronnes de fleurs surmontées d'un objet conique) mais sans basileion, vêtue d'un himation avec nœud isiaque; elle relève sa tunique, découvrant son sexe.

8. Isis-Aphrodite les bras baissés le long du corps, coiffée d'une couronne de fleurs surmontée d'un modius

258.* Statuettes de terre cuite. a)* Berlin-Ouest, Staatl. Mus., Ägypt. Mus. 17643. D'Abusir el Meleq. – Weber 133 n° 201 pl. 20. – I. coiffée d'une couronne surmontée d'un haut modius orné du basileion; la poitrine est ornée de periammata. – Voir aussi Weber n° 202–205. – b)* Le Caire, Mus. Egypt. CG 32858. – Dunand, Relig. pop. 183 n° 52 pl. 33. – Le haut du modius est cassé. – Voir aussi ibid. n° 53–58 pls. 33–35 avec des coiffures démesurées par rapport à la tête. – c) Alexandrie, Mus. Gréco-Rom. 7809. 7810. – Breccia, Mon. II 2 n° 11. 12 pl. 4, 10. 11. – Cheveux calamis-trés, periammata; le haut du modius et le bas des jambes sont cassés. – d)* Anc. coll. Fouquet. – Perdrietz, Terres cuites Fouquet 4 n° 6 pl. 3 (à dr.). – Modius orné d'un basileion et flanqué de serpents coiffés respectivement du pschent et du basileion; periammata.

9. Isis-Aphrodite accroupie

259.* Relief en calcaire. Turin, Mus. Egizio Cat. 1668. – Fabretti, A., et al., Regio Museo di Torino [I] (1882) n° 1668; Adriani, Rep A-II 19 fig. 1; 27 n° 106. – I. accroupie dans un naïskos égyptien couronné d'uræi, un genou fléchi au-dessus d'un crocodile.

Pour d'autres documents, → Aphrodite 500*, Aphrodite (in periphéria orientali) 82* et commentaire p. 166.

B. Isis-Déméter

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Kolta, Gleichsetzung 42–51.

1. Isis-Déméter debout, tenant des épis de blé

260.* Statue de marbre. Vienne, Kunsthist. Mus. I 1173. – Ep. romaine. – I. vêtue du chiton et de l'himation avec nœud isiaque, tenant dans la main g. des épis; emblème isiaque cassé (?).

261.* Statuette de terre cuite. Amsterdam, Allard Pierson 7226. – I. avec himation et nœud isiaque; main dr. tenant des épis à la hauteur des épaules.

2. Isis-Déméter debout, tenant une torche

262. (= Demeter/Ceres 170*, = Harpokrates 396 avec bibl.) Relief votif de marbre. Rome, Mus. Cap. 4371. De Rome, Via della Conciliazione. – Pietrangeli, o. c. 52, 30–31 n° 15 pl. 9; Helbig<sup>4</sup> II n° 1185; Hornbostel, Sarapis 229–230 n. 2 (avec bibl.) fig. 191; Pesce 31 fig. 21. – II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. – Au centre, Sarapis trônant, la main dr. sur le Cerbère tricéphale auquel fait pendant un petit Harpocrate; à g. de Sarapis, I.-Déméter tenant une torche verticalement dans la dr. baissée et peut-être des épis dans la g.; elle porte un croissant sur le front (la coiffure manque); à dr. de Sarapis, I.-Korè, coiffée du modius orné d'un croissant, s'appuie de la dr. sur un sceptre et tenait un sistre dans la g. tendue.

263.* Statuettes de terre cuite. a)* Le Caire, Mus. Egypt. CG 26939. – Dunand, Relig. pop. 179 n° 40 pl. 26. – I. en mouvement vers la dr., tenant une torche oblique. L'emblème est composé d'un croissant (?) surmonté de plumes. – b) Anc. coll. Fouquet. – Perdrietz, Terres cuites Fouquet 108 n° 281 pl. 18. – Similaire à a.

264.* Statuettes de terre cuite. a) Alexandrie, Mus. Gréco-Rom. 22970. – Breccia, Mon. II 2 n° 143 pl. 48, 237. – Femme voilée, drapée de l'himation, coiffée d'un modius orné d'un disque, tenant de la main dr. une torche verticale. Voir aussi o. c. pls. 47, 233; 48, 236. 238. – b)* Le Caire, Mus. Egypt. CG 26933. – Dunand, Relig. pop. 179 n° 41 pl. 26. – I. voilée, modius orné d'un petit disque sur un croissant; elle tient de la main dr. une grande torche verticale. Voir aussi o. c. pl. 27.

Pour d'autres documents, → Ammon 174*; → Demeter p. 844 («Fonti letterarie»); 81* et commentaire p. 892; → Demeter/Ceres 171; → Horos 37. Cf. aussi un énigmatique médaillon de bronze découvert à Eleusis sur lequel la présence d'I.-Déméter est incertaine (Vanderpool, E., AJA 68, 1964, 293 pl. 91, 2).

C. Isis-Io

Une cinquantaine d'auteurs grecs et latins mentionnent le mythe d'Io, métamorphosée en vache, trouvant refuge en Egypte (pour le mythe d'Io, → Io I). L'association d'Io à I. est également évoquée par de nombreuses sources.

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Bernand, A., «Influences de l'Egypte et innovation d'Eschyle dans la représentation d'Io», Annals of the Faculty of Arts, Ain Shams University 3, 1955, 77–103 (cf. un résumé dans Leclant, IBIS I n° 97); Yalouris, N., «Le mythe d'Io», dans IconogrCl 3–23.

1. Mythe d'Isis et Io

265. (= Aigyptos 12 avec bibl., = Io I 65* avec bibl.; → Hermanubis après 30) Peinture murale. Naples, Mus. Naz. 9558. De Pompéi, VIII 7, 28 (mur nord-ouest de l'ecclésiasterion du temple d'Isis). – Schefold, K., Pompeianische Malerei (1952) 65 pl. 43; Tinh, ISIS 138–140 n° 40 pl. 6. – 63–79 ap.

J.-C. – Io, assise sur l'épaule g. d'un homme barbu émergeant de l'eau, tend sa dr. à I.; celle-ci, assise sur un rocher, est vêtue du chiton et de l'himation, porte un lotus dans les cheveux et tient de la g. un uræus; à ses côtés, un petit Harpocrate assis; à ses pieds, un crocodile; derrière elle, un homme et une femme agitent le sistre en signe de bienvenue.

266. (= Agyptos 13, = Io I 66* avec bibl.; → Hermanubis après 30) Peinture murale. Naples, Mus. Naz. 9555. De Pompéi VI 9, 1 (Casa del Duca d'Aumale). – Tinh, Isis Pompéi 128 n° 14 pl. 16, 2. – 63–79 ap. J.-C. – Semblable à 265 avec quelques variantes.

2. Isis-Io

267.* Gemme de jaspe rouge. Boston, MFA 69.1201. D'Égypte (Delta). – Vermeule, C., BullMFA 68, 1970, 208 fig. 15. – II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. – Femme tenant une torche, menant un cheval galopant.

268.* Statue. Tête de marbre blanc. Paris, Louvre MA 223. – Charbonneaux, SculptLouvre 146; Adriani, A., Testimonianze e momenti di scultura alessandrina (1948) 22 n° 79 pl. 16. – Milieu II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. – Chevelure libyenne, deux cornes sur le front, diadème orné d'un uræus dans un croissant de lune.

Il ne semble pas que d'autres représentations d'Io fassent allusion au syncrétisme d'I.-Io.

D. Isis Pelagia

Cette expression iconographique correspond peut-être aux titres d'I. Pelagia, d'I. Pharia, d'I. Euploia, d'I. des Ploiaphesia, du navigium Isidis, d'I. inventrice de la voile et de la navigation. Nous regroupons sous ce vocable les monuments qui représentent I. debout de trois quarts, une jambe en avant, tenant des deux mains une voile gonflée par le vent et dont l'extrémité inférieure est rattachée auprès du pied avancé; en général, elle porte le basileion sur la tête et son manteau flotte derrière elle. Sur les monnaies d'Alexandrie, à quelques exceptions près, elle tient un sistre dans la main droite.

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Alföldi, A., A Festival of Isis in Rome under the Christian Emperors of the IVth Cent. (1937); Bruneau, Ph., «Isis Pelagia à Délos», BCH 85, 1961, 435–446 (= Bruneau 1); idem, «Isis Pelagia à Délos (Compléments)», BCH 87, 1963, 301–308 (= Bruneau 2); idem, «Existe-t-il des statues d'Isis Pelagia?», BCH 98, 1974, 333–381 (= Bruneau 3); idem, «Isis Pelagia», BCH 102, 1978, 152–161 (= Bruneau 4); Castiglione, L., «Isis Pharia. Remarques sur la statue de Budapest», BullMusHong 34/35, 1970, 37–55; Bérard, C., «Modes de formation et modes de lecture des images divines: Aphrodite et Isis à la voile», dans Actes du Colloque sur les problèmes de l'image dans le monde méditerranéen classique, Lourmarin 1982 (1985) 163–171; Williams, E. R., «Isis Pelagia and a Roman Marble Matrix from the Athenian Agora», Hesperia 54, 1985, 109–119; Daumas, F./Mathieu, B., «Le phare d'Alexandrie et ses dieux: un document inédit», Mededelingen Koninkl. Acad. voor Wetenschappen, Letteren en Schone Kunsten van België, Kl. der Letteren, Academiae Analecta 49, 1987, 41–55.

1. Isis Pelagia debout, de profil, tenant des deux mains une voile

269.* Relief de marbre blanc. Délos, Mus. A 3187. De Délos, Agora des Italiens. – Bruneau 1, 437–438 fig. 3; Bruneau 3, 343 n° 1 fig. 4; Bérard 166–168 pl. 2, 4.

270. Relief de marbre blanc fr. Thasos, Mus. 2220. De Thasos. – Bruneau 2, 301–303 fig. 1; Bruneau 3, 343 n° 1. – II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. – Fr. dont il ne reste que les pieds.

271. Autel de marbre blanc. Thessalonique, Mus. 6976. De Pylaia. – Blanchaud, M.-H., «Un relief thessalonicien d'Isis Pelagia», BCH 108, 1984, 709–711 fig. 1a–b. – I. debout vers la dr., un sistre (?) dans la g.

272.* Disque de lampe fr. Délos, Mus. B 2984. De Délos, Sérapeum C. – Bruneau 1, 435–436 fig. 1; Bruneau 3, 343 n° 3 fig. 5; Bérard 168 pl. 2, 5. – II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. – Sans basileion.

273.* Lampe. Athènes, Mus. Nat., coll. Benaki M<sup>n</sup> 364. D'Alexandrie. – Bruneau 2, 303 fig. 2; Bruneau 3, 343 n° 4. – II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. – Le bateau n'est pas représenté.

Monnaies

274. AE, Alexandrie, Domitien, 90/91 et 91/92 ap. J.-C., Hadrien, 133/134 ap. J.-C., Antonin le Pieux (138–161 ap. J.-C.), Lucius Verus (161–169 ap. J.-C.). – BMC Alexandria 37, 305; Dattari 508, 509, 1754, 1755; Geissen, AlexKaisermünzen I 390, 391; II 1883, 2188. – Rv.: I. P. sans sistre.

275.* AE, Alexandrie, Hadrien, 123/124, 129/130, 132/133 et 133/134 ap. J.-C., Sabina, 131/132 ap. J.-C., Antonin le Pieux, 138/139, 140/141, 141/142, 146/147 et 147/148 ap. J.-C., Marc Aurèle (161–180 ap. J.-C.), Lucius Verus, 163/164 ap. J.-C. – BMC Alexandria 89, 750–754; Dattari 1403, 1753, 1756 pl. 17; 1757–1763, 2068, 2662–2664, 2667, 2668, 2670, 3730; Macdonald, Hunter III 338, 377, 473, 494; Milne 1372, 1412, 1413, 1607, 1921–1923, 1966–1968; Geissen, AlexKaisermünzen II 856, 1016, 1017, 1078, 1117–1119, 1265, 1353, 1396–1398, 1550, 1551, 1580. – Rv.: I. P. avec sistre. – Variante avec I. P. regardant en arrière: Hadrien, 133/134 ap. J.-C. – Geissen, AlexKaisermünzen II 1120.

276. Bi, Alexandrie, Hadrien, 123/124 et 124/125 ap. J.-C., Antonin le Pieux, 153/154 ap. J.-C. – Dattari 1403, 1404; Milne 2211; Geissen, AlexKaisermünzen IV 3463. – Rv.: I. P. sans sistre.

277. Bi, Alexandrie, Hadrien, 121/122, 123/124 et 136/137 ap. J.-C., Antonin le Pieux, 153/154 ap. J.-C., Marc Aurèle César, 153/154 ap. J.-C., Faustine II, 153/154 ap. J.-C. – BMC Alexandria 114, 989; 131, 1111, 1112; 132, 1113 pl. 16; 132, 1114–1117; 147, 1227; 162, 1326; Dattari 1403, 2261, 2262, 3161, 3250; Milne 1016, 1050, 1551, 2207–2210, 2212–2214; Geissen, AlexKaisermünzen II 856, 1693, 1694, 1970, 1971. – Rv.: I. P. avec sistre.

278.* AE, Alexandrie, Trajan, 111/112 ap. J.-C., Hadrien, 132/133 et 133/134 ap. J.-C., Antonin le Pieux, 138/139, 144/145 et 148/149 ap. J.-C., Faus-

tine II, 147/148 ap. J.-C., Marc Aurèle César 148/149 ap. J.-C. – BMC Alexandria 54, 450; 89, 755–758; 132, 1118, 1119 pl. 16; 132–133, 1120; 149, 1241–1243; 164, 1338; Dattari 935, 1764–1766, 1767 pl. 17; 1768, 2671–2679, 3204, 3289; Macdonald, Hunter III 355 pl. 87, 17; 356, 460; Milne 1373, 1374, 1414, 1416, 1417, 1440, 1608, 1827; Geissen, AlexKaisermünzen I 580; II 1121–1125, 1474, 1601–1608, 1913, 1943; IV 3470. – Rv.: I. P. avec ou sans sistre; à côté d'elle, le phare surmonté d'une statue.

279.* AE, Alexandrie, Trajan, 111/112 ap. J.-C. – BMC Alexandria 54, 451. – Rv.: I. P. entre les Dioscures.

280.* AE, Alexandrie, Trajan, 108/109 ap. J.-C., Hadrien, 134/135 ap. J.-C. – BMC Alexandria 66, 548; 103, 886 pl. 29. – Rv.: I. P. sur la proue d'un bateau sur lequel sont Sarapis trônant et Déméter.

281. AE, Alexandrie, Trajan (98–117 ap. J.-C.). – Dattari 936 pl. 17. – Rv.: I. P. sur un bige tiré par des hippocampes.

282. AE, Amastris (Paphlagonie), Faustine II († 175 ap. J.-C.). – RecGén I 1 (1925) 181 n° 108 pl. 20, 25. – Rv.: similaire à 274 (sans sistre).

283. AE, Anchialos (Thrace), début III<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. – Münzer/Strack, o. c. 27p, n° 408 pl. 5, 32. – Av.: buste de Sarapis avec modius; Rv.: I. P. sur une ligne de sol, avec un emblème isiaque fruste, tenant la voile.

284. AE, Aspendos (Pamphylie), Diaduménien († 218 ap. J.-C.), Macrin (217–218 ap. J.-C.). – Imhoof-Blumer, KIM 321 n° 452 pl. 10, 31; BMC Lycia 104, 85; SNG v. Aulock 4589. – Rv.: similaire à 275 (avec sistre).

285. AE hémi-chalque, Antioche, Antiochos IV Epiphane (175–164 av. J.-C.). – Babelon, Syrie 74 n° 575 pl. 13, 10; Bruneau 2, 303 fig. 3, type I. – Rev.: I. P. avec croissant de lune au lieu du basileion, sans manteau flottant.

286. AE, Byblos, Claude (41–54 ap. J.-C.), Commode (177–192 ap. J.-C.), Macrin (217–218 ap. J.-C.), Diaduménien († 218 ap. J.-C.), Héliogabale (218–222 ap. J.-C.). – BMC Phoenicia 99, 20; 100, 22, 23 pl. 12, 10; 24; 103, 39; 104, 44, 45, 46 pl. 12, 15; 107, 66, 67. – Rv.: sans manteau flottant.

287. AE, Ephèse (Ionie), Gordien III (238–244 ap. J.-C.). – BMC Ionia 113, 422. – Rv.: I. P. avec sistre (?).

288. AE, Ephèse (Ionie), Gordien III (238–244 ap. J.-C.). – SNG Copenhagen 549; Hölbl, G., Zeugnisse ägypt. Religionsvorstellungen für Ephesus, EPRO 73 (1978) 73 n° k β pl. 15, 2. – Rv.: I. P. avec sistre; derrière elle, le phare.

289. AE, Kymè (Eolide), Antonin le Pieux (138–161 ap. J.-C.), Valérien (253–260 ap. J.-C.), Gallien (253–268 ap. J.-C.). – Müller, Isis 18 pl. 6, 1A–C; SNG v. Aulock 1647. – Rv.: I. P. sans sistre.

290. AE, Magnesia (du Méandre, Ionie), Caracalla (198–217 ap. J.-C.), Sévère Alexandre (222–235 ap. J.-C.), Maximus (235–238 ap. J.-C.). – BMC Ionia 166, 58 pl. 19, 9; 168, 67A; 170, 81. – Rv.: I. P. avec sistre et situle.

291.* AE, Perinthos (Thrace), Sévère Alexandre

(222–235 ap. J.-C.). – Schönert, o. c. 18a, n° 782 pl. 48. – Rv.: I. P. à la proue d'un bateau, tenant les voiles; derrière, l'empereur (au centre) et Sarapis le couronnant de la dr.

292. AE, Phokaia (Ionie), Maximus (235–238 ap. J.-C.). – BMC Ionia 226, 156 pl. 23, 18. – Rv.: similaire à 274 (sans sistre).

293. AE, Rome, Faustine II († 175 ap. J.-C.). – Gnechi, Medagliani III n° 43 pl. 151, 4. – Rv.: I. P. tenant un sistre de la dr.; derrière elle, le phare et devant elle, une proue de bateau.

294. AE, Rome, monnaies émises à l'occasion des Vota Publica. a) Dioclétien (284–305 ap. J.-C.). – Alföldi n° 2 pl. 1, 1. – Rv.: I. P. tenant la voile. – b) Constantin (306–337 ap. J.-C.), Constance II (337–361 ap. J.-C.), Jovien (363–364 ap. J.-C.). – Alföldi n° 8 pl. 1, 6; n° 9 pl. 1, 7; n° 10 pl. 1, 13; n° 48 pl. 1, 42; n° 49 pl. 2, 2; n° 50 pl. 19, 37; n° 51 pl. 2, 7; n° 52 pl. 2, 9; n° 87 pl. 2, 30, 31 et 19, 40. – Rv.: I. P. tient la voile et regarde vers l'arrière (sauf sur les n° 50 et 51). – c) Constantin (306–337 ap. J.-C.). – Alföldi n° 12 pl. 1, 15. – Rv.: I. P. avec sistre dans la dr., levée et situle dans la g.; la voile est repliée sur la mâture. – d) 2<sup>e</sup> moitié IV<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. – Alföldi n° 330, n° 334 pl. 10, 7; n° 342 pl. 10, 16; n° 353 pl. 10, 29. – Av.: buste d'I. vers la g.; elle tient un sistre dans la main dr.; Rv.: I. P. sur le bateau, tenant la voile. – e) 2<sup>e</sup> moitié IV<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. – Alföldi n° 372 pl. 7, 25; n° 389 pls. 7, 22 et 20, 12. – Av.: côte à côte, bustes de Sarapis (au premier plan, avec modius) et d'I. (au second plan, avec fleur de lotus sur la tête); Rv.: I. P. sur le bateau, tenant la voile et regardant vers l'arrière.

Intailles, verres gravés, crétule

295. Gemmes de cornaline. a) Berlin-Ouest, Staatl. Mus., Ägypt. Mus. 9827. – Ägypt. Mus. Berlin (1967) 114 n° 1051 fig.; Philipp, o. c. 37a, n° 73 pl. 17; Bruneau 3, 344 n° 7. – II<sup>e</sup>/III<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. – I. P. sur une ligne de sol, vers la g., tient une voile gonflée; coiffure composée d'un élément central allongé flanqué de deux éléments plus petits (plumes ou disque entre cornes?). b) Vienne, Kunsthst. Mus. IX B 138. – AGOE I 144, 453 pl. 75. – Fin I<sup>er</sup> s. av./début I<sup>er</sup> s. ap. J.-C. – I. P. similaire à a; derrière elle, petit Harpocrate nu, tenant une corne d'abondance; inscription dans l'exergue: ERMEI.

296. Verres gravés. Le Caire, Mus. Egypt. – Abd El-Mohsen El-Khashab, Mélanges ... K. Michalowski (1966) 111–120 pl. 1, 1, 2; Bruneau 3, 343–344 n° 5 fig. 6. – Ep. impériale. a) Représentation sur deux registres: Déméter (avec torche et épis), Sarapis trônant et I. (avec sceptre dans la dr. et sistre dans la g.) au registre supérieur; I. P. (tenant la voile et un sistre), Harpocrate et I. (tenant un uræus) au registre inférieur; serpent uræus à l'extrême gauche, entre les deux registres. – b) Sur un même plan, I.-Déméter (avec torche et épis) suivie de deux Osiris-Canope tournés l'un vers l'autre et séparés par Poséidon (tenant un dauphin et le trident); tout à dr., I. P. tenant la voile et un sistre.

297. Crétule. Du nomophylakeion de Cyrène. – Maddoli, G., ASAtene 25/26, 1963/1964, 84 n° 262 fig. 16, 204; Bruneau 3, 344 n° 8 («identification douteuse»). — I. P. touche de la dr. une voile (?) et le bras g. supporte un objet en forme de croissant de lune.

2. Monuments mutilés d'interprétation incertaine

Statues de marbre

298. Budapest, Mus. Beaux-Arts. De Naples. — Castiglione 37-55 fig. 26; Szilágyi, J. G., BullMus-Hong 32/33, 1969, 19-30 figs. 22-25; Tinh, DOCampanie 67-68 n° IS.19 figs. 9-11; Bruneau 3, 361-363 figs. 13-15. — Ep. impériale. — La tête et les bras manquent.

299. Ostie, Mus. Ostiense 18141. D'Ostie, Isola Sacra. — Helbig<sup>4</sup> IV n° 3387; Zevi, F., Mus. Ostiense, Suppl. alla Guida (1971) 7-8; Bruneau 3, 370-371. — Femme vêtue, drapée et penchée en avant, la jambe gauche sur une excroissance.

300. Fr. Bénévent, Mus. del Sannio. De Bénévent. — Müller, Isis 83-85 n° 279 pl. 26; Bruneau 3, 365-370. — Il ne reste que les pieds d'un personnage sur un bateau.

301. Mariemont, Mus. Lévêque, P./Donnay, G., L'art grec du Mus. de Mariemont (1967) n° 87 fig. — Statue acéphale et sans bras d'une femme drapée d'un himation à nœud isiaque, un peu penchée en avant.

3. Monuments d'interprétation douteuse

302. Monnaie. AE, Alexandrie, Trajan, 108/109, 113/114 et 116/117 ap. J.-C. — Milne 707; Geissen, AlexKaisermünzen I 492. 713. 725. 726. — Rv.: déesse coiffée du basileion, drapée d'un himation gonflé dans le dos (identifiée par Milne et Geissen comme étant I.) serrant la main d'une autre déesse coiffée également du basileion et tenant un sceptre (éventuellement I.-Déméter et Euthénia?).

E. Isis-Fortuna

Sauf indication contraire, I.-F. est toujours coiffée du basileion et tient le gouvernail dans la main dr. et une corne d'abondance dans la g.

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: De Salvia, F., «Una lucerna della fabbrica di M. Novius Iustus al Mus. Civ. Arch. di Padova: Fortuna o Iside-Fortuna?», Boll. Mus. Civ. di Padova 76, 1987 (1989) 7-15.

1. Isis-Fortuna debout

a) Isis-Fortuna vêtue du chiton et de l'himation avec nœud isiaque

303.* Monnaies a)* AE, Alexandrie, Iulia Mamaea, 230/231 ap. J.-C., Otacilia, 248/249 ap. J.-C. — BMC Alexandria 226, 1763; 263, 2038; Geissen, AlexKaisermünzen III 2521. 2780. — Rv.: I.-F. porte le modius. — b)* Bi, Alexandrie, Philippe I<sup>er</sup>, 244/245, 245/246 et 248/249 ap. J.-C., Philippe II, 244/245 et 245/246 ap. J.-C., Gallien, 257/258 et 263/264 ap.

J.-C. — BMC Alexandria 255, 1972. 1973. 1974 pl. 11; 1975; 265, 2046. 2047; 287, 2199. 2200; Geissen, AlexKaisermünzen III 2714. 2722. 2752. 2789. 2898. 2919. — Rv.: I.-F. porte le modius.

304.* Statue de calcaire. Hambourg, Mus. KG 1968.38. — GBA 111, 1969, Suppl. n° 1201, 24 fig. 100; Hoffmann, H., AA 84, 1969, 324 fig. 5a-c; Walters 53 n. 177. — II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. — I. acéphale, nœud isiaque et vêtements stylisés; traces d'une corne d'abondance sur le bras g. et du gouvernail auprès de son pied dr.

305.* Statuettes de bronze. a)* Berlin-Ouest, Staatl. Mus., Ägypt. Mus. 7502. — Roeder, o. c. 249c, 263 § 323b; Ägypt. Mus. Berlin (1967) 1002 fig. — I.-F. tient une double corne d'abondance. — Cf. aussi o. c. pl. 38h. — b)* Bonn, Rhein. Landesmus. A 268. Probablement de Cologne. — Grimm, o. c. 82, 147 n° 29 pl. 25, 5. — La g. tient une corne d'abondance appuyée sur une colonne. — c)* Damas, Mus. Nat. C.5961. De Hama. — Abu-l-Faraj Al-Ush, et al., o. c. 250, 89 fig. 7. — Le basileion manque. — d)* Mariemont, Mus. B. 340. — Reinach, RépStat IV 146, 8; Lévêque, P., Les antiq. du Mus. de Mariemont (1952) 95 n° G.78. — I.-F. coiffée du modius surmonté d'un disque sur un croissant; double corne d'abondance. — e)* Naples, Mus. Naz. 5313. D'Herculanum. — Tinh, DOHerculanum 58-60 n° 5 fig. 9; Pesce 33 fig. 18. — I<sup>er</sup> s. ap. J.-C. — L'emblème isiaque est constitué d'un globe entre deux hautes plumes sur deux épis. — f)* Naples, Mus. Naz. 5310. D'Herculanum. — Tinh, DOHerculanum 60-61 n° 6 fig. 10. — I<sup>er</sup> s. ap. J.-C. — Le disque est orné de raies cruciformes; le gouvernail est cassé. — g)* Naples, Mus. Naz. 5312. De Pompéi. — Tinh, Isis Pompéi 160-161 n° 98 pl. 22, 1; Pompéi AD 79..., o. c. 62, n° 190 fig. — Le gouvernail manque. — h)* Pompéi, Antiquarium 430/4. De Pompéi. — Tinh, Isis Pompéi 160 n° 96. — Le gouvernail manque. — i)* St-Germain-en-Laye, Mus. Ant. Nat. III 78786. De Bois de Loëze (Saône-et-Loire). — Inédit. — j)* Malibu, Getty Mus. 71.AB.180. — Une croix est incisée sur le disque du basileion.

306. Statuettes de terre cuite. a) Alexandrie, Mus. Gréco-Rom. 7942. — Breccia, Mon. II 2, n° 10 pl. 7, 27. — I. acéphale. — b) Le Caire, Mus. Egypt. CG 27250 (= JE 26184). — Dunand, Relig. pop. 181-182 n° 48 pl. 30. — Emblème isiaque peu distinct.

b) Isis-Fortuna vêtue du chiton et de l'himation sans nœud isiaque

307.* Gemmes. a) Améthyste. New York, MMA 1881.6.187. — Richter, G., MetMusGems n° 368 pl. 47. — I<sup>er</sup>/II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. — b)* Munich, Münzslg. A.2365. — AGDI 3, n° 2919 pl. 283. — I.-F. avec modius; tient la corne d'abondance dans la droite et le gouvernail ainsi que des épis dans la gauche (au sujet de cette inversion, cf. 37a); face à elle, Nikè avec couronne et palme; l'une et l'autre sont sur une ligne de sol. — c) Chrysolithe. Coll. Ruthven 21. — Bonner, C., Studies in Magical Amulets (1950) 257 n° 23 pl. 2. — I.-F. coiffée de la couronne atef, debout dans un temple; Rv.: uræus avec couronne atef. — d) Jaspe. Coll. Bonner 46. — Bonner, o. c. n° 24. — Ag., Anubis avec situle dans la main g. et objet indistinct dans la dr., qu'il présente à I.-F., debout en face de lui; Rv.: uræus couronné.

308. Empreinte de sceau en terre cuite. De Paphos (Chypre). — Nicolaou, K., dans Homm. à M. J. Vermaseren II, EPRO 68 (1978) 851 n° 3 pl. 177, 3.

309. Lampe de terre cuite. Alexandrie, Mus. Gréco-Rom. 10145. — Inédit. — III<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C.

310. Monnaies. a) AE, Alexandrie, Trajan, 110/111 ap. J.-C., Antonin le Pieux, 152/153 ap. J.-C. — Dattari 1050. 2885 pl. 24; Milne 2193. 2194. — b) Bi, Alexandrie, Antonin le Pieux, 152/153 ap. J.-C. — BMC Alexandria 126, 1076.

311.* Statuettes de bronze. a) Syracuse, Mus. Reg. 22249. — Sfameni Gasparro, G., I culti orientali in Sicilia, EPRO 31 (1973) 173-174 n° 20 fig. 12. — b)* Naples, Mus. Naz. 5356. D'Herculanum. — Tinh, DOHerculanum 62-63 n° 9 fig. 12. — Voir aussi o. c. n° 13. 14. — I<sup>er</sup> s. ap. J.-C. — c) Naples, Mus. Naz. 220 et 25.383. De Pompéi. — Tinh, Isis Pompéi 154 n° 74 pl. 18, 1; 156 n° 80 pl. 12, 2. — I.-F. avec diadème et lotus sur la tête; le gouvernail manque (Inv. 220). I.-F. coiffée d'un diadème surmonté d'un croissant de lune et d'un basileion (Inv. 25.383). — Voir aussi o. c. 159-160 n° 92. 97. — d) Reggio Emilia, Mus. Civ. 210. De Reggio, Villa San Pellegrino. — Budischovsky, M.-Ch., La diffusion des cultes isiaques autour de la mer Adriatique, EPRO 61 (1977) 55-56 n° VII 8 pl. 31b. — Le gouvernail est mutilé. — e) Parme, Mus. Naz. B 472. De Velleia. — Budischovsky, o. c. 311d, 49-50 n° II 7 pl. 29a. — Les bras, la corne d'abondance et le gouvernail manquent. — f) Turin, Mus. di Antichità 822; 857; 867; 32478. D'Industria (prov. de Turin). — Genaille, N., RA 1975, 236-239 n° 12-15. — g) Aquilée, Mus. Naz. — Budischovsky, o. c. 311d, 136 n° 56 pl. 73a. — h) Trieste, Mus. Civ. 2.457. — De Trieste. — Lisičar, P., «Isis-Fortuna», Starinar 12, 1961, 130 fig. 8; Budischovsky, o. c. 311d, 164 n° I 8 pl. 82a. — L'emblème isiaque comporte un croissant de lune; le disque est quadrillé d'incisions. — i) Trieste, Mus. Civ. 3.440. De Trieste. — Lisičar, o. c. 311h, 131 fig. 10; Budischovsky, o. c. 311d, 165 n° I 11 pl. 83b. — I.-F. s'appuie de la dr. sur un tronc. — j) Pula, Mus. Arch. 4.620A. De Savudrija (Istrie). — Budischovsky, o. c. 311d, 167 n° III. — k) Priep, Narodni Muzej. De Priep ou des environs. — Düll, S., Die Götterkulte Nordmakedoniens in röm. Zeit (1977) 412 n° 274. — II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. — l) Belgrade, Mus. Nat. 2778/III. De Guberevac (Serbie). — Popović, Lj. B., et al., Antička bronza u Jugoslaviji (1969) n° 131 fig.; Veličković, M., Petits bronzes figurés romains au Mus. nat. (1972) n° 92 fig. — III<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. — m) Tata (Hongrie), Mus. 56.16.1. De Ács-Vaspuszta. — Wessetzky, V., Die ägypt. Kulte zur Römerzeit in Ungarn, EPRO 1 (1961) 52 fig. 20. — Gouvernail mutilé; croix sur le disque du basileion. — n) Vienne, Niederösterreich. Landesmus. V.20. Sans doute de Carnuntum. — Fleischer, o. c. 249h, 94-95 n° 114 pl. 60. — o) Bad Deutsch Altenburg, Mus. Carnuntinum 11960. De Carnuntum. — Fleischer, o. c. 249h, 94 n° 113 pl. 60. — p)* Lyon, Mus. Beaux-Arts A 2789. — Boucher, o. c. 16, n° 62 fig. — Basileion stylisé; le gouvernail manque. — q) Baltimore, Walters Art Gall. 54.973. — Hill, Cat. of Classical Bronze Sculpture (1949) 224 pl. 47. — r)* Boston, MFA 58.968. — Comstock/Vermeule, Bronzes Boston 109-110 n° 116. — I.-F. tient une double corne d'abondance. — s) Paris, Louvre N 5404 (= Br 796). — De Ridder, BrLouvre n° 796. — Avec double corne d'abondance. — t)* Berlin-Ouest, Staatl. Mus. Fr.1979. — Römisches im Antikenmus. (1978) 31-32 fig. 20. — III<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. — I.-F. a la tête voilée.

c) Isis-Fortuna vêtue d'un chiton serré laissant le sein gauche nu et drapée de l'himation

Sauf indication contraire, le chiton est maintenu par une ceinture, l'himation ramené sur le bras g.

312.* Statuettes de bronze. a)* Téhéran, Mus. Arch. 2437. Trouvé dans un temple de Laodécée (Mésopotamie). — Ghirshman, R., Iran, Parther und Sassaniden (1962) 18 fig. 23. — Ep. hellénistique (d'après Ghirshman). — b)* Luxembourg, Mus. de l'Etat 3-475. De Nicomédie (Turquie), palais de Dioclétien. — Bronzes figurés de l'époque romaine (1971) 13 n° 26. 44 fig. 26. — Le chiton laisse les seins à demi découverts; bras g. mutilé. — c) Herculanum, Antiquarium 1421. D'Herculanum, vestibule d'entrée de la palestra. — Tinh, DOHerculanum 61-62 n° 7 fig. 11. — I<sup>er</sup> s. ap. J.-C. — d)* Cologne, Röm.-Germ. Mus. N 4224. De Cologne. — Grimm, o. c. 82, 145-146 n° 26 pl. 24, 2. 3; Römer am Rhein (Expos. Cologne 1967) 225 n° C 114. — e) Douai, Mus. 573. De Bavai. — Faider-Feytmans, G., Recueil des bronzes de Bavai, Gallia Suppl. 8 (1957) 61 n° 77 pl. 19. — Le basileion au-dessus du diadème et le gouvernail manquent; la main g. prend appui sur un pilier. — f) Lyon, Mus. Beaux-Arts E 112. — Boucher, o. c. 16, 35-37 n° 59 fig. — I<sup>er</sup> s. ap. J.-C. — Gouvernail et corne d'abondance cassés; pilier sous la main g. — g) Baltimore, Walters Art Gall. 54.943. — Hill, o. c. 311q, n° 221 pl. 47. — I<sup>er</sup> s. ap. J.-C. — h)* Budapest, Mus. Nat. Hongrois 10, 1951, 109. De Solva (Esztergom). — Wessetzky, o. c. 311m, 50 fig. 18. — I.-F. tient une double corne d'abondance. — i)* Lyon, Mus. Beaux-Arts L 317. — Boucher, o. c. 16, 37-38 n° 60. — Avec double corne d'abondance; main g. posée sur une colonne; emblème isiaque et gouvernail. — j) Paris, Cab. Méd. Br 628. — Babelon/Blanchet, BiblNat-Bronzes n° 628 fig. — La double corne d'abondance est mutilée. — k) Paris, Cab. Méd. Br 631 et Br 632. — Babelon/Blanchet, o. c. n° 631 fig. 632. — Le chiton laisse une grande partie de la poitrine à découvert; double corne d'abondance. — l) Vatican, Mus. Greg. Egizio (coll. Grassi) 15618. — Helbig<sup>4</sup> I n° 269. — I. est coiffée d'un diadème et d'un calathos; avec une double corne d'abondance sur le bras g. appuyé sur une colonne.

d) Isis-Fortuna vêtue du chiton et de l'himation qui descend de l'épaule droite

313.* Statuettes de bronze. a)* Syracuse, Mus. Reg. 18520. — Sfameni Gasparro, o. c. 311a, 203 n° 122 fig. 25. — b) Catane, Mus. Civ. M.C.1851. — Sfameni Gasparro, o. c. 311a, 211-212 n° 152 fig. 30. — c) Naples, Mus. Naz. 5316. D'Herculanum. — Tinh, DOHerculanum 64-65 n° 14. — I<sup>er</sup> s. ap. J.-C. — d) Baltimore, Walters Art Gall. 54.747. De Boscoreale. — Hill, o. c. 311q, n° 223 pl. 5. — I<sup>er</sup> s. ap. J.-C. — e) Ancona, Mus. Naz. 580. De Sentinum (Sassoferrato, prov. d'Ancona). - Dall'Osso, I., Guida illustrata del Mus. Naz. di Ancona (1915) 385 fig.; Budischovsky, o. c. 311d, 36 I 3. - Gouvernail mutilé. - f) Parme, Mus. Naz. B 10. De Copermio (prov. de Parme). - Budischovsky, o. c. 311d, 50 n° III 1 pl. 28c. - II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - g) Aquilée, Mus. Naz. - Budischovsky, o. c. 311d, 136 n° 56 pl. 73a. - h) Trieste, Mus. Civ. 2466. D'Aquilée ou de Trieste. - Lisičar, Starinar 12, 1961, 131 fig. 9; Budischovsky, o. c. 311d, 165 n° I 10 pl. 83a. - i) Mainz, Mittelrhein. Landesmus. 5978. De Francfort/M. - Grimm, o. c. 82, n° 83 pl. 24, 4. - Bras dr. et gouvernail manquent. - j) Bonn, Rhein. Landesmus. A 268. Probablement de Cologne. - Grimm, o. c. 82, 147 n° 29 pl. 25, 5. - Avec un appui sous la main g., qui supporte une corne d'abondance mutilée. - k) Lyon, Mus. Beaux-Arts L 59. - Boucher, o. c. 16 n° 61 fig. - Avec un pilier sous le bras g. - l) Bâle, marché des ant. - MuM Sonderliste P (1976) 30 n° 66 fig. - I<sup>er</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - Un serpent s'enroule autour du bras dr. d'I.-F.

e) Isis-Fortuna vêtue d'une draperie couvrant seulement l'épaule gauche et la jambe droite

314. (= Agathodaimon 8*) Peinture murale. Pompéi IX 3, 10/12 (Pistrinum). - Tinh, Isis Pompéi 147 n° 58 pl. 14, 1. - 63-79 ap. J.-C. - A dr. d'une niche, Luna à cheval, tenant une grande torche; à g., I.-F. debout sur un globe, s'appuyant sur un pilastre sur lequel est un sistre; I.-F. est coiffée de deux grandes cornes et d'une fleur de lotus; elle est ailée, tient le gouvernail de la g. et la corne d'abondance de la dr. En bas, deux agathodaimones tournés vers un autel central.

315.* Statuettes de bronze. a) Naples, Mus. Naz. 2963. - Tinh, DOCampanie 212 fig. 19A. - I.-F. panthée, ailée, tenant une double corne d'abondance. - b)* Naples, Mus. Naz. 5350. - Tinh, DOCampanie 212 fig. 18. - I.-F. non ailée, avec une double corne d'abondance. - c)* Paris, Louvre Br 4425. D'Amrith (Syrie). - De Ridder, o. c. 249f, n° 138 pl. 29, 2; Tinh, DOCampanie 212 figs. 19B et 19C. - I.-F. ailée, portant un diadème tourelé, surmonté d'un croissant de lune et à l'arrière de la tête un casque; elle porte un carquois et un serpent s'enroule autour de son bras dr. et de la corne d'abondance. - d) Paris, Cab. Méd. Br 629 et Br 630. De Lyon (pour Br 629). - Babelon/Blanchet, BiblNatBronzes n°s 629 et 630. - Large emblème isiaque posé sur un croissant de lune, double corne d'abondance.

2. Isis-Fortuna assise

Sauf indication contraire, I.-F. est coiffée du basileion, vêtue du chiton et de l'himation; elle tient une corne d'abondance dans la main gauche et un gouvernail dans la droite.

316.* Gemme. Plasma. Berlin-Ouest, Staatl. Mus., Ägypt. Mus. 9821. - Ägypt. Mus. Berlin (1967) 114 n° 1052 fig. - I.-F. assise de trois quarts sur un trône, la tête coiffée du basileion.

317.* Monnaies. Bi, Alexandrie, Philippe II César, 246/247 ap. J.-C., Valérien I, 256/257 ap. J.-C., Gallien, 256/257 ap. J.-C., Salonina, 256/257 ap. J.-C., Valérien II César, 256/257 ap. J.-C. - BMC Alexandria 265, 2048; 287, 2201; 294, 2265; Dattari 5044. 5212. 5314; Geissen, AlexKaisermünzen III 2793. 2794. 2867. 2895. 2962. 2996. - Rv.: I.-F. coiffée du modius; l'himation forme le nœud isiaque. - Variante* avec palme dans le champ: Gallien, 264/265 et 267/268 ap. J.-C. - BMC Alexandria 287, 2202; Dattari 5268 pl. 24; Geissen, AlexKaisermünzen III 2925. 2954.

318.* Statuettes de bronze. a)* Avignon, Mus. Calvet J 145. - Rolland, H., Bronzes antiques de Haute Provence, Gallia Suppl. 18 (1965) 86 n° 145 fig. - Un serpent est enroulé autour du bras dr. d'I.-F. - b) Bologne, Mus. Civ. - Budischovsky, o. c. 311d, 65-66 n° IX 18 pl. 42a. - Le gouvernail manque. - c) Paris, Louvre N 5648 (= Br 797). - De Ridder, BrLouvre n° 797; Reinach, RépStat II 266, 7. - I.-F. assise sur une base rocheuse.

F. Isis panthée

319.** Statuettes de bronze. a) Herculaneum, Antiquarium 344. D'Herculaneum III 14 (Casa a graticcio). - Tinh, DOHerculaneum 56 n° 3 figs. 13. 14. - I. debout, ailée, coiffée de l'emblème isiaque surmonté de rayons; elle porte un carquois sur le dos, une double corne d'abondance dans la g. et un gouvernail dans la dr. - b)* Naples, Mus. Naz. 5326. - Tinh, DOCampanie 209 fig. 17. - Semblable à d; avec croissant de lune au sommet de l'emblème isiaque; I. est en outre coiffée d'un casque. - c) Parme, Mus. Naz. B.360. - Monaco, G., Il reale Mus. di Antichità di Parma (1940) fig. 30; Tinh, DOCampanie 210 fig. 19D. - I. a les cornes d'Io sur le front, est radiée, ailée et tient une corne d'abondance. - d) Lyon, Mus. Beaux-Arts L 25. - Boucher, o. c. 16, 42 n° 65 fig. - II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - I. coif-fée d'un emblème complexe (cornes, disque, plume), radiée, ailée; elle porte un carquois, une corne d'abondance et un gouvernail; un serpent s'enroule autour d'une colonette, à sa g. - e) Avignon, Mus. Calvet. - Rolland, o. c. 318a, 86 n° 144. Semblable à d. - f) Selçuk, Mus. Arch. D'Ephèse, Hanghaus II. - Hölbl, o. c. 288, 59 pl. 8, 1a-b. - II<sup>e</sup>/III<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - I. radiée, coiffée d'un emblème complexe composé du basileion et d'un oiseau, couverte de l'égide avec gorgoneion, portant un carquois sur le dos, une corne d'abondance dans la g. et un gouvernail dans la dr. baissée. - g) Hannover, Kestner-Mus. 3160. - Menzel, H., Römische Bronzen (1964) 19 n° 31 pl. 2. - Semblable à d. - h)* Loc. inc. (anc. coll. Charvet). - Cat. vente Charvet, Paris (7.5.1883) 172 n° 1831; Reinach, RépStat II 1, 263, 7. - I. ailée, tient de la g. une double corne d'abondance, de la dr. une bourse, des épis, un fruit et un gouvernail; un serpent s'enroule autour de son bras dr. Des bustes de Sol et Luna reposent sur le haut des ailes.

Isis 319 h

G. Isis-Sothis

Dès l'époque pharaonique, I. est identifiée avec Sothis, l'étoile Sirius des Grecs. Mais ce n'est qu'à l'époque romaine que l'on rencontre l'image d'I., coiffée du basileion, assise en amazone sur un chien courant.

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Clerc, G., «Isis-Sothis dans le monde romain», dans Homm. à M. J. Vermaseren I, EPRO 68 (1978) 247-281.

320. Peinture murale. D'Akhmîm (Haute-Egypte), antichambre de la tombe 3 de la nécropole. - Neugebauer, O./Parker, R. A., Egypt. Astronomical Texts III (1969) 100 n° 73 pl. 52; Clerc 264-265 pl. 34. - Ep. romaine. - Dans le médaillon central, I. tient de la dr. une fleur par sa tige et de la g. un sceptre papyriforme; tout autour, les signes du zodiaque.

321.* Relief. Fronton de marbre. Rome, Mus. Naz. Rom. Vraisemblablement de Cerveteri. - Lafaye, G., MEFRA 1, 1881, 192-214 pl. 6; Hommel, P., IstanbMitt 7, 1957, 13; Clerc 257 pl. 32. - I<sup>er</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - I. agite de la dr. un sistre et tient dans la g. une patère.

322. Relief de marbre. Szombathely (Hongrie), Iseum. - Wessetzky, o. c. 311m, 32-33 fig. 5; Clerc 258-259 pl. 33. - Fin II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - I. agite le sistre de la dr. et tient un plat de la g.

323.* Coupes en stéatite. a) New York, MMA 74.51.5027. De Chypre. - Myres, J. L., Handbook of the Cesnola Coll. of Ant. from Cyprus (1914) 268-270 n° 1545; Cesnola Coll. III pl. 114; Parlasca, o. c. 198, 153 pl. 20, 1. - I. tenant dans la dr. un objet indistinct. - b)* Londres, BM 38511. - Parlasca, o. c. 198, 157 pl. 24, 1. - I. tient dans la dr. une torche et dans la g. une corne d'abondance; au-dessous du chien, deux Eros. - c) Paris, Louvre AF 6867. - Desroches-Noblecourt, Ch., dans Livre du Centenaire de l'Inst. Franç. d'Arch. Orientale (1980) 20 fig. 19a-b; Parlasca, o. c. 198, 157

n. 73. - Semblable à b. - d) Zurich, marché des ant. (Galerie Nefer, en 1980). Parlasca, o. c. 198, 157 pl. 23, 2. - Dans le médaillon central, I. similaire à b, sans Eros; autour du médaillon, les signes du zodiaque.

324. Coupe à reliefs en faïence émaillée. Amsterdam, Allard Pierson. - Gallois, H. C., BullAntBesch 3, 1928, 11-12 fig. 8. - Ep. romaine. - I. tient un sistre de la dr. et une corne d'abondance (?) de la g.

Monnaies

325.* a)* AE, Alexandrie, Trajan, 109/110 et 112/113 ap. J.-C., Antonin le Pieux, 157/158 ap. J.-C., Faustine II († 175 ap. J.-C.). - BMC Alexandria 164, 1339; Dattari 927. 928. 2680. 2681 pl. 17; Milne 2356. 2358; Geissen, AlexKaisermünzen II 1804. 1884. - Rv.: I. tenant une corne d'abondance de la dr. et un sceptre de la g. - b) Bi, Alexandrie, Antonin le Pieux, 157/158 ap. J.-C. - BMC Alexandria 133, 1121 pl. 16; 1122. - Rv.: semblable à a.

326. AE, Alexandrie, Trajan, 109/110 ap. J.-C. - Dattari 929 pl. 17; Geissen, AlexKaisermünzen I 531. - Rv.: I. tenant une torche oblique.

327. Aigai (Eolide), Faustine II († 175 ap. J.-C.). - Drexler, W., NumZ 21, 1889, 37; Dunand, Isis III 90. - Rv.: I. tient une corne d'abondance de la dr. et un sceptre de la g.

328. AE, sesterce, Rome, Tarragone, Lyon, Vespasien 71/72 et 72/73 ap. J.-C. - BMC Emp II 123, † pl. 22, 7; 149, †; 189, 780 pl. 35, 3; 202, †; Alföldi, A., JAC 8/9, 1965/66, 58 pl. 4, 3; Clerc 255-256 pl. 31. - Rv.: Sur le fronton arqué de l'Iseum Campense, I. assise sur un chien courant à dr., agitant un sistre de la dr.

329. AE, Rome, a) Dupondius, Hadrien, 134-138 ap. J.-C. - BMC Emp III 485, *. - Rv.: I. agite un sistre de la dr. et tient un long sceptre de la g. - b) Médaille, Faustine I († 141 ap. J.-C.). - BMC Emp IV 255, *. - Rv.: I. n'a pas de sceptre.

330.* AE, Rome, émissions des Vota Publica, Julien l'Apostat (360-363 ap. J.-C.), Jovien (363-364 ap. J.-C.), Valentinien I<sup>er</sup> (364-375 ap. J.-C.) et anonymes du IV<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - Alföldi, o. c. avant 269, n° 66 pl. 2, 20; n° 82 pl. 19, 30; n° 90 pl. 3, 1 (= pl. 12, 16); n° 153 pl. 4, 9; n° 160 pl. 4, 22; n° 172 pl. 10, 33; n° 202 pl. 5, 38; n° 246 pl. 8, 34; n° 356 pl. 10, 30; n° 379 pl. 7, 34; n° 382 pl. 7, 37-38; n° 391 pl. 8, 39; Robertson, Hunter V 363, 7 pl. 77, A.7. - Av. des émissions anonymes: buste de Sarapis (n° 153. 160. 172. 208. 246), buste d'I. (n° 356), bustes de Sarapis et d'I. côte à côte (n° 379. 382. 391); Rv.: I. tenant un sistre de la dr. et un sceptre de la g.

331.* Statuettes de terre cuite. a) Berlin, Staatl. Mus. 9956. - Weber 51 n° 36 pl. 3; Clerc 268 fig. 1. - II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - I. a le nœud isiaque sur la poitrine; la dr. semble s'appuyer sur une corne d'abondance placée à côté et la g. tient des épis. Un disque radié surmonte la tête du chien. - b)* Le Caire, Mus. Egypt. CG 26924. - Dunand, Relig. pop. 177 n° 36 pl. 23. - Semblable à a. - c) Anc. coll. Fouquet. - Perdrizet, Terres cuites Fouquet 22 n° 76 pl. 16. - Seule la tête d'I. apparaît sur le dos du chien.

H. Isis-Thermouthis

Isis au corps de serpent est une figure combinée du syncrétisme égyptien Isis-Renenoutet mais avec des caractéristiques hellénistiques et romaines.

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Dunand, F., «Les représentations de l'Agathodaimon», BIFAO 67, 1969, 9-47; Broekhuis, J., De Godin Renenwetet (1971) 105-109; Bresciani, E., «La dea-cobra che allatta il cocodrillo a Medinet Madi», Aegyptus 55, 1975, 3-9; Deschênes, G., «Isis Thermouthis: à propos d'une statuette dans la collection du Prof. M. J. Vermaseren», dans Homm. à M. J. Vermaseren I, EPRO 68 (1978) 305-315 (= Deschênes 1); eadem, «Isis Thermouthis: exemple d'un biculturalisme», dans Mél. ... M. Lebel (1980) 363-370 (= Deschênes 2).

1. Isis-Thermouthis sous la forme d'un uræus

Sauf indication contraire, I.-Th. est toujours coiffée du basileion.

Reliefs

332. Marbre blanc. Alexandrie, Mus. Gréco-Rom. 3172. D'Alexandrie. - Dunand 11 n° 2 pl. 1B. - Uræus lové, dressé, coiffé d'un basileion.

333.* Calcaire. Alexandrie, Mus. Gréco-Rom. 3181. - Dunand 11 n° 3 pl. 1C. - Similaire à 332.

334.* (= Euthenia 34) Base votive de marbre blanc. Alexandrie, Mus. Gréco-Rom. 22156. De Kom el-Tawal, au sud du lac Mariout. - Breccia, o. c. 23, 57 pl. 36; Fraser, P. M., Berytus 15, 1964, 85-87 n° 15 pl. 14. - 131 ap. J.-C. (d'après la dédicace). - Sur la face principale, allégories d'Agros, Geouchia et → Prochreia; sur les faces latérales, Nil (côté dr.) et → Euthenia (côté g.) debout; sur la face postérieure, uræus en creux avec épis dans le repli de sa queue.

335. Stèle votive en calcaire. Turin, Mus. Egizio Cat. 7148. - Jentel, M.-O., dans Homm. à M. J. Vermaseren II, EPRO 68 (1978) 542 n° 8 pl. 118. - Sur la face principale, Sarapis debout; sur le revers, Tyché d'Alexandrie sur une kliné, buste d'Harpocrate et, dans un édicule, uræus dressé, avec un sistre dans les replis de sa queue.

336. Lampe de terre cuite (relief sur la poignée). Leningrad, Ermitage 224. - Waldhauer, O., Die antiken Tonlampen (1914) 41, 224 pl. 23. - 1<sup>er</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - Avec des épis dans les replis de la queue du serpent. Voir aussi les inédits Alexandrie, Mus. Gréco-Rom. 5093. 8209. 16629; Athènes, Mus. Nat., coll. Benaki Mn 796. 875.

Monnaies

337.* AE, Alexandrie, Hadrien, 134/135 ap. J.-C. - Dattari 2047-2050 pl. 32; Milne p. 131, 355*; Geissen, AlexKaisermünzen II 1193. 1194. - Rv.: Uræus dressé, avec disque solaire sur la tête, sans attributs.

338. AE, Alexandrie, Hadrien 131/132 ap. J.-C. - Milne 1348. - Rv.: uræus tenant un pavot et des épis.

339. AE, Alexandrie, Antonin le Pieux, 154/155 ap. J.-C. - Dattari 3813. 3814 pl. 32; Milne 2298. - Rv.: uræus tenant des épis de chaque côté.

340. AE, Alexandrie, Marc Aurèle, 171/172 ap. J.-C., Septime Sévère, 202/203 ap. J.-C. - Dattari 3605 pl. 32; Milne 2725. - Rv.: uræus tenant un sistre et des épis.

2. Isis-Thermouthis et Agathodaimon sous la forme de serpents, face à face

Sauf indication contraire, l'uræus est toujours coiffé du basileion et l'Agathodaimon du pschent.

341.* (= Agathodaimon 16) Relief de calcaire. Berlin, Staatl. Mus., Ägypt. Mus. 8164. - Dunand 12 n. 1 fig. 7. - I.-Th. (enlaçant un sistre) et Agathodaimon (enserrant des épis et un pavot) dans un naos de type égyptien; un vase est disposé entre eux.

Isis 341

342. (= Agathodaimon 18) Relief de calcaire. Le Caire, Mus. Egypt. CG 27528. - Edgar, CatGénCaire. Greek Sculpture (1903) 60 n° 27528 pl. 24; Dunand 21-22 n. 2 fig. 6. - Entre I.-Th. et Agathodaimon, un griffon qui pose sa patte sur une roue.

343. (= Agathodaimon 21*) Relief de marbre. Alexandrie, Mus. Gréco-Rom. R 356. - Breccia, o. c. 23, 18 n° 15 pl. 7, 28; Dunand 14 n° 9 pl. 3B. - I.-Th. avec un sistre dans les replis de sa queue; au centre, I. (?) avec un serpent enroulé autour du bras dr.

344.* Monnaies. Bi, Alexandrie. a)* Hadrien, 125/126 ap. J.-C. - BMC Alexandria 79, 668 pl. 26; Dattari 1552 pl. 31; Milne 1164-1166; Geissen, AlexKaisermünzen II 894. - Rv.: I.-Th. (à dr.) et Agathodaimon (à g.) enlacent dans leurs queues un sistre (I.-Th.) et un caducée (Agathodaimon); serrée entre eux, une massue. - b) Hadrien, 125/126 et 133/134 ap. J.-C. - BMC Alexandria 98, 844. 845 pl. 26; Dattari 1451. 1550. 1989 pl. 31; 1990. 1991; Milne 1424; Geissen, AlexKaisermünzen II 895. 1096-1098. - Rv.: semblable à a mais sans massue; I.-Th. enserrant deux pavots (Geissen 1096), un sistre (Geissen 1097), un sistre et un pavot (Geissen 1098).

3. Isis-Thermouthis sous la forme d'un uræus, avec un buste de femme

Sauf indication contraire, I.-Th. est coiffée du basileion.

345.* Relief de calcaire. Alexandrie, Mus. Gréco-Rom. 3171. - Dunand 10-11 n° 1 pl. 1A. - I.-Th. dans un naos cintré, portant un collier.

346. Relief sur autel de marbre. Sassari, Mus. Sanna. De Turris Libisonis (Sardaigne). - Mingazzini, P., Studi Sardi 12/13, 1952/1954, 1, 495-497 pls. 1-3; Malaise, o. c. 186, 315 I 1 pl. 63; Pesce 67 fig. 33. - Ep. romaine. - Sur la face principale, I.-Th. coiffée d'une fleur de lotus; sur la face dr., un chien (Sirius), sur la face g., un crocodile (Souchos) coiffés l'un et l'autre d'une fleur de lotus.

347.* Reliefs de terre cuite. a)* Le Caire, Mus. Egypt. CG 26929. - Dunand, Relig. pop. 175 n° 30 pl. 21; Deschênes 1, 306 n° 2 pl. 48, 1. - I.-Th., coiffée d'un diadème et du basileion, porte un collier et tient une torche; elle est posée sur un socle drapé et orné de deux sphinx ailés de face. - b) Amsterdam, Allard Pierson 7221. - Deschênes 1, 307 n° 9 pl. 51, 1. - Similaire à a. - Pour d'autres documents, cf. Deschênes 1, 306-308 n°s 1. 3-8. 10. 11 pls. 48-52.

348. Vacat.

349.* Monnaies d'Alexandrie. a)* AE, Domitien, 90/91 ap. J.-C. - Dattari 483 pl. 11; Geissen, AlexKaisermünzen I 376. - Rv.: I.-Th. tient une torche dans les replis de sa queue. - b) AE, Marc Aurèle, 175/176 ap. J.-C. - Dattari 3476 pl. 17. - Rv.: I.-Th. tient un sistre et des épis dans les replis de sa queue.

350.* Statuette de terre cuite. Le Caire, Mus. Egypt. 32855. D'El Bahnasa (= Oxyrhynchos). - Dunand, Relig. pop. 175-176 n° 31 pl. 21. - I. coiffée d'une couronne de fleurs bourrelée.

351. Lampe plastique de terre cuite. - Berlin, Staatl. Mus., Ägypt. Mus. 8694. - Weber 50 n° 32 pl. 3. - Sur la poitrine, amulette en forme de cœur.

352. Statuette de bronze. Alexandrie, Mus. Gréco-Rom. 25866. - Inédit. - I.-Th. coiffée du modius.

4. Isis-Thermouthis et Sarapis-Agathodaimon sous la forme de serpents avec des bustes humains

353. (= Agathodaimon 39*) Relief. Grand pied votif de marbre blanc. Turin, Mus. Egizio Suppl. 17137. D'Égypte. - Adriani, Rep A-II 50 n° 186 pl. 86. - Ep. romaine. - I.-Th. et Sarapis-Agathodaimon de chaque côté du pied; Harpocrate sur le talon; emblème isiaque d'I.-Th. cassé.

354.* Relief de calcaire. Leyde, Rijksmus. F 1960/9.1. D'El Bahnasa (Oxyrhynchos). - Hornbostel, Sarapis 297-298 fig. 310. - I.-Th. et Sarapis-Agathodaimon flanquant Canope-Osiris (→ Osiris-Kanopos); I.-Th. tient une torche, Sarapis (avec modius) des épis.

355. (= Agathodaimon 27) Lampe de terre cuite. Le Caire, Mus. Egypt. CG 26422. - Dunand, Relig.

pop. 252 n° 298 pl. 103. - I.-Th. (à g.) et Sarapis-Agathodaimon (à dr.) de part et d'autre d'Harpocrate debout.

356. Lampe de terre cuite. Alexandrie, Mus. Gréco-Rom. 5203. - Breccia, E., Alexandria ad Aegyptum (1914) 256 fig. 108. - Sur le médaillon, Harpocrate; sur les côtés, I.-Th. et Sarapis-Agathodaimon.

357. Relief de bronze. Alger, Mus. Nat. - Wuilleumier, P., Musée d'Alger Suppl. (1928) 60-61 pl. 9, 16. - I.-Th. et Sarapis-Agathodaimon de part et d'autre d'un buste d'Harpocrate.

358.* Gemme. Héliotrope. Munich, Münzslg. A.2042. - AGDI 3, 2663 pl. 248. - II<sup>e</sup>/III<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C.

359.* Statuette de bronze. Berlin-Ouest, Staatl. Mus., Ägypt. Mus. 20428. De Cyzique. - Ägypt. Mus. Berlin (1967) n° 997 fig. - 1<sup>er</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - I.-Th. et Sarapis-Agathodaimon entrelacés par leurs queues.

5. Isis-Thermouthis vêtue d'une tunique courte et de l'himation avec nœud isiaque

360.* Relief. Décor d'un pilastre de calcaire. Le Caire, Mus. Egypt. JE 67839. De Medinet Madi (Fayoum). - Vogliano, A., Un'impresa archeologica milanese ai margini orientali del deserto libico (1942) pl. 17; Adriani, Rep A-II 63 n° 213 pl. 99 figs. 328-329; Bresciani, E., Aegyptus 55, 1975, 7 pl. 2, 4. - Ep. romaine. - I.-Th. tient une corne d'abondance; côté dr., Harpocrate nu; côté g., pharaon (Aménemhat III, qui fit l'objet d'un culte dans le Fayoum à l'ép. gréco-romaine).

361. Relief de calcaire. De Medinet Madi (Fayoum), chapelle dédiée à Auguste. - Vogliano, o. c. 360, pl. 23. - Début 1<sup>er</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - Dans un naos, I.-Th. de face, tenant de la dr. une torche, de la g. une corne d'abondance.

Statuettes de terre cuite

362.* Londres, BM 37489. - Deschênes 2, 364-368 fig. 1. - Ep. romaine. - I.-Th. tient dans la dr. un uræus et dans la g. une situle. - Pour d'autres documents similaires, voir Dunand, Relig. pop. 174 n° 26. 27 pls. 18. 19 avec les exemples parallèles cités pour ces deux pièces.

363. Londres, BM 37495. - Deschênes 2, 363-368 fig. 2. - I.-Th. tient un uræus de la dr. et des épis de la g.; une situle est suspendue à son poignet g.

364.* Le Caire, Mus. Egypt. CG 26928. - Dunand, Relig. pop. 173 n° 24 pl. 17. - I.-Th. tient de la dr. une torche et de la g. des épis. - Pour d'autres documents similaires, voir Dunand, o. c. 173 n° 25 pl. 17 avec les exemples parallèles cités pour ces deux pièces.

Pour d'autres documents concernant I.-Th., cf. 135. 212. 229. 242. 243.

I. Isis-Artémis

→ Artémis 912-914e (?) et commentaire p. 618. 662; cf. Hölbl, o. c. 288, 84-85; cf. également Artemis/Diana 174* et commentaire p. 847.

J. Isis-Athéna

→ Athena, commentaire p. 1042. 1043; cf. Hölbl, o.c. 288, 63-64.

K. Isis-Bastet

→ Bastet 1*. 2* et commentaire.

L. Isis-Baubo

→ Baubo, commentaire p. 89.

M. Isis-Besit

→ Besit 5*. 8*. 12*. 14a. 14b*. 19* et commentaire.

N. Isis-Boubastis

→ Boubastis 1. 4*. 5* et commentaire; Wessetzky, V., «A Soproni Liszt Ferenc Múzeum Isis-Bubastis ol-tára» [Un autel d'I.-B. au Mus. F. Liszt de Sopron], Soproni Szemle 16, 1962, 358-361 (→ Hathor 42).

O. Isis-Euthénia

→ Euthenia 1*. 6. 9*-12*. 19*. 27* (= Isis 90). 34*. 49*. 50* et commentaire.

P. Isis-Noreia

Cf. Praschniker, C./Kenner, H., Der Bäderbezirk von Virunum (1947) figs. 64-66; Kenner, H., Oefh 43, 1956/58, 57-66. 97-98; Tinh, DOCampanie 202 n. 6.

INDEX

Principaux attributs d'Isis et autres éléments caractéristiques (à l'exclusion des parties constitutives des couronnes d'Isis)

Ailes (I. ailée): 210. 314. 315a. 315c. 319a. 319c-e. 319g-h

Amphores: cf. s. v. Vases

Animaux, bélier: 12. 13. 38-39; chat: 87; chien: 320-331. 346; crocodile: 9. 11d. 242. 259. 265. 346; éléphant (défenses): 215; faucon: 40(?). 219-222. 226; griffon: 219. 229. 342; hippocampe: 281; serpent (cf. aussi s. v. Uræus): 313l. 315c. 318a. 319b. 319d. 319g-h. 343; sphinx: 90. 229

Ankh (signe de vie): 3. 5. 6. 7. 62

Autel: 18a. 221a

Bateau (I. sur un): 165-166. 205; cf. aussi I. Pelagia (269-297. 300)

Bige: 281

Carquois: 315c. 319a-b. 319d-g

Ciste: 238-239

Collier: 154a. 249. 251. 345. 347a-b

Corne d'abondance: 21-26. 43. 80. 155. 163. 188. 200-203. 205. 210. 303-318. 314. 315c. 319b-g. 323b-d. 324(?). 325a-b. 327. 331a-b. 360. 361; double corne d'abondance: 19. 305a. 305d. 311r-s. 312h-l. 315a-b. 315d. 319a. 319h

Coupe: 251. 322 (plat)

Couronne: 207. 252e

Épis: 14(?). 40. 81. 90. 92-93. 160-161. 174. 260-262. 296b. 307b. 319h. 331a-b. 334. 336. 338-340. 344a(?). 349. 363-364

Étendard: 221b

Fleurs (cf. aussi s. v. Lotus, Pavot): 4. 30a-b (guirlande de fleurs). 160. 320

Fruits: 16 (grenade?). 124 (grenade). 252a-b (pomme). 252d-e (pomme). 252g (pomme). 319h

Globe: 116. 124. 210. 314

Gouvernail: 205. 210. 303-318

Grenade: cf. s. v. Fruits

Lotus: 3. 7. 162. 174. 181. 183

Massue: 344a

Miroir: 250a-d. 250h

Naos: 196. 242. 341. 345. 361

Nimbe: 248

Panier: 238-239

Patère: 25. 37b. 188(?). 189. 321(?)

Pavot: 338. 344b

Pendentif, amulette: 249. 251. 253. 351

Phare: section IV D

Pomme: cf. s. v. Fruits

Rameaux, palmes: 167. 176. 219-222. 224. 317

Rayons (I. radiée): 319a-g

Sceptre: 13. 18-20. 33(?). 38. 41. 63. 79-80. 135. 153. 178. 184. 194-195. 242. 262. 296a. 320. 325a-b. 327. 329a. 330

Sistre: 6. 18a. 18b(?). 18c-e. 27. 28(?). 29-30. 37a-b. 46. 59. 62(?). 79. 86. 106. 125. 153. 163. 165. 167-168. 172. 176. 179. 185. 189-190. 204. 207. 210. 240. 262. 271. 275. 277-278. 284. 287-288. 290. 293. 294c-d. 296a-b. 314. 321-322. 324. 328. 329a. 330. 335. 340-341. 343. 344a(?). 344b. 349

Situle: 9-11. 16(?). 27. 29-30. 36a(?). 37a-b. 42. 46. 81. 92. 135. 155(?). 168. 172. 176. 207. 290. 294c. 362-363

Torche: 262-264. 296b. 323b-d. 326. 347a-b. 349a. 354. 361. 364

Uræus (cf. aussi s. v. Serpent): 9-17. 30e. 37b. 41. 88. 180. 248. 265. 362-363 et section IV H (= 332-364: I.-Thermouthis)

Vases (cf. aussi s. v. Coupes, plats): 11b. 86. 125. 162. 222. 225-226. 251. 341

Végétaux (divers éléments): 108. 118. 123. 214. 237-238

Voile: 269-297 (I. Pelagia)

Éléments incertains: 24. 323a

Index des divinités et autres figures mythologiques

Agathodaimon: 229. 314. 341-344; Agros: 334; Alexandrie: 199(?); Ammon: section II E'; Ammon-Rê: section II P(?); Anoukis: 198; Anubis: 184-192.

195. 307d et sections II O. D'; Aphrodite: section IV A (249-269); Apis: 194(?). 195. 244-248 et section II O; Apollon: section II B; Bès: 197; sections II S. T; Canope: cf. s. v. Osiris-Canope; Chnôum: 208; Déméter: 199(?). 200-203. 208. 260-264 (I.-Déméter). 280. 296a. 296b (I.-Déméter). 302 (I.-Déméter); Dionysos: 204; Dioscures: 205-207. 279; Eros: 250. 253a. 323b-c; Euthénia: 302(?). 334; Geouchia: 334; Harpocrate: 163-183. 188-193. 202-204. 210(?). 211-241. 249a-b. 262. 265. 295b. 296a. 335. 353. 355-357. 360 et sections II N. P. Q. R. T; Hathor: 197. 253a; Hélios: 209; Hermanubis: 192a; Hespéros: 210(?); Horus: 196 et sections II L. N. O. P; Io: 265-268; Junon: 206-207; Jupiter Dolichénien: 206-207; Kaystros: section II I'; Korè: 262 (I.-Korè); Luna: 314. 319h; Minerve: section II D'; Nephthys: section II R; Nikè: 307b; Nil: 177. 334 et section II Q; Osiris: 192b. 193; Osiris-Canope: 249b. 296b. 354; Poséidon: 296b; Prochreia: 334; Ptah: 244; Sarapis: 18e. 27a-b. 27d. 27g-j. 271-m. 27p-q. 130-172. 184-185. 190-192. 194-207. 249b. 262. 280. 283. 291. 294e. 296a. 330. 335 et sections II P. Q. T. B'; Sarapis-Agathodaimon: 353-359; Sol: 319h; Tychè: 335. - Cf. aussi section IV pour les formes syncrétiques d'Isis.

COMMENTAIRE

Dans le cadre de cet article, il n'est nullement question des documents relatifs à I. de style purement égyptien, qu'ils aient été découverts dans la vallée du Nil même à l'époque hellénistique et romaine, ou qu'ils aient été importés d'Égypte dans les contrées classiques ou périphériques.

Hellénisation d'Isis

Quand et comment I. a-t-elle été hellénisée? La question est difficile. En effet, ni les sources littéraires ni la documentation archéologique ne permettent de le préciser. On reconnaît pourtant une certaine créativité «isiaque» au cours des III<sup>e</sup> et II<sup>e</sup> s. av. J.-C., soit dans l'élaboration d'une théologie arétalogique, soit dans les créations artistiques.

On rencontre globalement trois types iconographiques: 1°) I. égyptienne hellénisante avec quelques retouches selon le goût esthétique grec; 2°) I. hellénisée, conservant cependant dans son costume, sa couronne et partiellement dans ses attributs, des éléments égyptiens; 3°) I. totalement hellénisée gardant seulement soit l'emblème hathorique (disque entre deux cornes), soit surtout l'emblème isiaque appelé basileion (emblème hathorique surmonté de deux plumes et flanqué souvent de deux épis de blé).

I. égyptienne hellénisante, curieusement appelée aussi égyptisante, reconnue aisément grâce à son hiératisme et sa frontalité, se rencontre non seulement en Égypte à partir du III<sup>e</sup> s. av. J.-C. (2-6. 8) mais aussi en Italie aux I<sup>er</sup>/II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. grâce à l'intérêt très marqué des Romains pour ce qui venait d'Égypte (1. 7). La perruque ou la chevelure dite libyenne, le vautour accouvé sur la tête (15. 17. 183), l'uræus (10. 15. 28. 36. 183), le signe ankh (3. 6. 7), le sistre (6), le lotus (3. 7), le lotus sur lequel est assis Harpocrate (15. 183), la situle (10. 28) sont ses attributs préférés.

Parmi les formes syncrétiques, I.-Thermouthis, fusion des deux déesses égyptiennes I. et Renenoutet, se présente soit sous la forme d'un uræus couronné de l'emblème isiaque (332-344), soit sous celle d'un uræus avec buste féminin aux seins développés (345-359) et a souvent pour attributs le sistre (335. 340. 343. 344a[?]), les épis (334. 336. 338-340), les fruits de pavot (338), la torche (347. 349a), la massue (344a); soit enfin, sous la forte influence hellénique, elle prend une forme plus humaine avec toute la partie supérieure d'un corps de femme, habillée «à la grecque» (360-364) avec des attributs variés, épis de blé (364), torche (361. 364), uræus et situle (362-363), corne d'abondance (360-361).

Isis partiellement hellénisée, avec le costume «à l'isiaque» et le basileion constitue cependant la majeure partie des monuments. Depuis l'étude d'H. Schäfer («Das Gewand der Isis», Festschr. ... C. F. Lehmann-Haupt [1921] 194-206), les auteurs s'en tiennent pour l'essentiel à ses idées sur le vêtement isiaque (cf. Laurenzi, L., RM 54, 1939, 47-48; Breccia, Mon. II 2, 19): un ou des artistes grecs aux IV<sup>e</sup>/III<sup>e</sup> siècles av. J.-C. se sont inspirés de l'habillement égyptien pour créer le costume dit isiaque, constitué d'un chiton léger à manches courtes, et d'un himation souvent frangé, noué sur la poitrine. Ce nœud isiaque, qui constitue le critère pertinent d'identification d'I., est formé de l'entrelacement de la pointe du tissu qui descend de l'épaule droite avec la lisière transversale barrant la poitrine, créant en même temps une masse de plis du chiton entre les jambes et des plis rayonnants en éventail, de chaque côté de la poitrine. Selon le goût grec, ce nœud est plus léger, placé parfois d'une manière asymétrique plutôt du côté du sein droit. À partir de l'époque romaine, l'arrangement devient plus stéréotypé: le nœud deviendra un chou volumineux au centre de la poitrine, entre les seins, et l'extrémité pend amplement vers le bas.

Quant au terme basileion - terme déjà utilisé dans le décret de Canope (lignes 51-54) de 239/238 av. J.-C. (OGIS 90 l. 43; Bernand, A., Le delta égyptien d'après les textes grecs. 1. Les confins libyques III, MémInst-ArchO 91, 1970, 989 sqq.) ainsi que dans l'Inventaire délien de Metrophanès (Roussel, P., Les cultes égyptiens à Délos du III<sup>e</sup> au I<sup>er</sup> s. av. J.-C. [= Annales de l'Est 29-30, 1915-16] 231. 237; Seyrig, H., dans Mélanges Isidore Lévy [1955] [= Annuaire de l'Inst. de Philol. et d'Histoire Orientales et Slaves 13, 1953] 603-610) et traduit en latin par basileum dans l'Inventaire du temple de Nemi (Vidman, SIRIS n° 524) - nous l'utilisons pour désigner l'emblème isiaque. À la différence de l'époque pharaonique, le basileion n'apparaît plus comme une couronne coiffant la tête, mais comme un petit emblème fixé sur le sommet du crâne ou sur le devant du front. Sur certains monuments créés en Italie, le basileion est remplacé par une fleur de lotus (189-190). Au sujet du basileion, cf. en dernier lieu Malaise, M., «Histoire et signification de la coiffure hathorique à plumes», Studien zur Altägypt. Kultur 4, 1976, 215-236.

Les images hellénisées d'I. comportent soit ces deux caractéristiques, soit au moins l'une d'entre elles. Le prototype d'I. debout tenant une corne d'abondance fut créé vraisemblablement au III<sup>e</sup> s. av. J.-C., précédant l'apparition des images de reines en I. sur les oinchoai en faïence (Thompson, D. B., Ptolemaic Oinochoai and Portraits in Faience [1973] 58-59, 92-93 pls. D et 43-44). Cette iconographie, connue sur de nombreux documents datables du II<sup>e</sup> s. av. au II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. (21-26, 43, 155, 163, 188, 200-202, 205, 210), classe d'emblée I. parmi les divinités de la prospérité, dispensatrices des biens. Notons qu'elle diffère de l'image d'I.-Fortuna, I. majestueuse, tenant un sceptre, créée probablement au II<sup>e</sup> s. av. J.-C. dans un milieu grec en dehors d'Alexandrie (13, 18a, 19-20, 33, 38, 41, 135, 153, 184, 194-195), proclame sa puissance divine à l'instar des dieux souverains Zeus et Héra.

I. tient aussi d'autres attributs: un bélier (38-39), peut-être une grenade (16?), le lotus sur lequel est assis Harpocrate (179, 181), le sistre et la situle (27a-q, 29, 30a-d, 37, 46, 168, 171, 176, 207). Ce dernier schéma - I. tenant le sistre et la situle - est presque absent en Egypte, mais populaire ailleurs, notamment sur les monnaies d'Asie Mineure (27a-d, f-n, q; 46, 168), de Thrace (27e, o-p; 203) ainsi que sur des monuments fabriqués en dehors de l'Egypte romaine (29, 171), surtout à partir de la fin du I<sup>er</sup> s. ap. J.-C. Ce schéma semble être une modification du schéma égyptien d'I. tenant l'uraeus et la situle (9, 10, 11a, 30e). Est-il possible qu'on ait voulu remplacer l'uraeus par le sistre à cause de la difficulté de faire passer le message symbolique du cobra dans des milieux culturels non-égyptiens?

Sur la plupart de ces monuments, on reconnaît, malgré les variantes de la mode féminine, l'héritage de la coiffure libyenne. Cependant, les boucles ne sont plus ni étagées ni disposées à la manière d'une perruque, mais calamistrées ou ondulées et tombent plus librement dans le cou et sur les épaules. Ce n'est que sur les monuments tardifs, peut-être à partir du II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C., qu'I. porte sur sa tête un châle frangé (47-58, 182).

Les prêtresses d'I. semblaient également s'habiller «à l'isiaque» et tenaient aussi le sistre et la situle. Portaient-elles en outre le basileion, comme les vierges sacrées vouées au service de la princesse Bérénice d'après le décret de Canope (ligne 57)? La distinction entre celles-ci et la déesse elle-même pose de sérieux problèmes. En effet, l'I. de Smyrne du British Museum, datée du II<sup>e</sup> s. av. J.-C. (cf. Smith, BMSculpture I n° 639; Horn, o. c. 20, 40 pl. 16, 2; Pfuhl, E./Möbius, H., Die ostgriechischen Grabreliefs [1977] n° 376 pl. 61), est vêtue comme l'I. du Catajo (32) ou celle de Pompéi (33). Par contre, le drapé de la soi-disant «Isis du Capitole» est différent de même que celui des femmes isiaques figurées sur de nombreuses stèles funéraires attiques du II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. (cf. Conze, A., Die attischen Grabreliefs IV [1911-22] 54-61 pls. 420-425; Dunand, Isis II 145-148 pls. 1-8; Muehsam, A., «Attic Grave Reliefs from the Roman Period», Berytus 10, 1952-53, 51-114, pls. 12, 13, 4; 14, 2; Usman, M., «Le culte des dieux égyptiens sur le Bosphore thracien», Atti del VII Congresso internaz. di archeol. classica (1961) III 105-115 pls. 1-3; Comstock/Vermeule, SculptBoston n° 276) ou en dehors de l'Attique (Usman, o. c. pl. 1 fig. 1; Rosenbaum, E., A Cat. of Cyrenaican Portrait Sculpture [1960] n° 61 pl. 76, 1; n° 175 pl. 76, 2). Sur ces derniers monuments, le nœud isiaque, en forme d'un grand chou entre les seins, est fait avec les deux pointes du tissu qui descendent des épaules. Dans certains cas, une guirlande en sautoir pend de l'épaule gauche à la hanche droite. Sur les portraits funéraires, aucune prêtresse d'I. ne porte le basileion. C'est la raison pour laquelle nous pensons qu'à l'époque romaine au moins, il y avait une distinction entre la forme du nœud des représentations d'I. et de celui des prêtresses (Tinh, ANRW II 17, 3, 1726-1727).

I. totalement hellénisée forme un groupe plus libre. Le costume est purement grec, sans nœud isiaque (37-40, 42-43, 45, 163, 167, 176-177, 179, 181, 188-190, 207, 210). La chevelure, aux mèches généralement ondulées, flotte librement sur ses épaules. Les statues de Gortyne (59), de Thessalonique (60), de Cologne (82) ou encore les statuettes d'I.-Aphrodite (249-259) et d'I.-Fortuna (305, 308-310, 311a-t, 312-315) montrent qu'à un certain stade d'évolution, I. garde seulement le basileion comme symbole de son origine égyptienne, mais porte les mêmes attributs que dans le type précédent.

I. assise est relativement rare. Sur certains monuments (79, 84, 85a, 88) elle se présente comme une femme en deuil, du type de Déméter devant le rapt de Perséphone sur la façade de la tombe royale de Vergina. Sur la base de la statue de Fiesole, l'inscription l'appelle I. Taposiris (Vidman, SIRIS n° 564), évoquant l'endroit où se trouvait, d'après la tradition, le tombeau d'Osiris (Eudoxos, F 291 Lasserre; cf. Kees, H., RE IV A 2 [1932] 2259-2260). La peinture du sarcophagus de Pompéi (130) devrait évoquer l'épisode d'errance d'I. à Byblos: I. ramena le cercueil d'Osiris sur un bateau et, prenant la forme d'une hirondelle, elle pleura son mari (Plut. De Is. et Os. 357c). Les mystères de la mort d'Osiris étaient célébrés à Rome avec le symbole du sistre et de l'hirondelle (Min. Felix 22). Ce ne sont que de rares documents qui nous informent sur le mythe, peut-être caché aux non-initiés.

Dans une autre série, beaucoup plus abondante, I. mère est assise, allaitant son enfant. Il est évident qu'on trouve dans ce schéma l'héritage iconographique d'I. lactans pharaonique, mais l'expression stylistique est plutôt grecque. Si l'acte d'allaiter est anthropologiquement naturel, l'expression religieuse et symbolique incarnée dans l'iconographie est plus riche, car en allaitant, I. transmet à son fils la divinité et la vie. Les images d'I. assise allaitant se classent globalement dans trois groupes: I. sur un trône (211-236), I. sur une ciste (238-239) et I. surgissant d'une corolle d'acanthé (237b). Parfois, on voit la déesse allaiter aussi le bœuf Apis (244) ou le crocodile Souchos (242), actions peu compréhensibles aux yeux des non-Egyptiens et limitées à des manifestations plutôt locales.

Sur certaines représentations, le symbolisme est

parfois latent, parfois évident. La corolle d'acanthé supportant I. serait une forme d'hellénisation du lotus et évoquerait son rôle cosmique (cf. Jucker, o. c. 157); il en va de même pour le petit globe sous le buste d'I. (Hombert, P., «Sarapis Kosmokrator et Isis Kosmokrator», AntCl 14, 1945, 319-329). Parfois, I. accompagne Hélios sous la forme d'I.-Séléné (209).

Les formes synchrétiques d'Isis

Dans le domaine du syncrétisme religieux, l'iconographie semble refléter les auteurs anciens et les arétalogies (cf. Müller, D., Ägypten und die griech. Isis-Arétalogien [1961] et Bergman, J., Ich bin Isis [1968]) surtout celles de Medinet Madi [MM], d'Andros [A], de Kymè [K], de Maronée [Ma], d'Oxyrhynchos [Oxy] composées à l'époque ptolémaïque et romaine. I. est surtout la déesse civilisatrice. Éduquée par Hermès (Diod. I, 27), I. fit cesser l'anthropophagie (K 21), institua la justice et les lois (Diod. I, 14; MM I 6; K 52; Ma 24, 29; Oxy 205), enseigna l'agriculture (Diod. I, 15; Isid. orig. 8, 11, 84), les arts et les lettres (Isid. l. c.; K 3-4; Ma 2-24; MM I 8), inventa la civilisation en instituant le mariage (K 17-18; Ma 41-42), les règles de morale et les bonnes mœurs (K 25-30; Ma 30-31), la médecine (Diod. I, 25; Lyd. mens. 4, 32; Gal. I 1 p. 126 et 13 p. 774 Kühn). Déesse puissante, I. est souveraine du ciel, de la terre et des mers (Apul. met. II, 5; K 12-15; MM I 9-10), des vents et des tempêtes (Lukianos d. deor. 7); elle est guérisseuse de toutes les infirmités humaines (Diod. I, 25; MM I 30; II 7-8), salvatrice qui préserve les humains de la guerre, des périls de la navigation (Iuv. I 2, 18-28; Stat. silv. 3, 2, 107-110; MM I 31-34) et même de la mort (Apul. met. II, 5; MM II 7-8).

Les spéculations théologiques amenèrent les Grecs et les Romains à identifier I. avec Déméter (Hdt. 2, 59, 156; Diod. I, 13; Apul. met. II, 2, 5; 5, 3; Tert. apol. 16, 5); avec Io (Hdt. 2, 41; Diod. I, 24; Iuv. 9, 22-25; Ov. met. 9, 686-690 etc.), avec Artémis, Aphrodite, Athéna, Séléné et presque toutes les déesses grecques, thraces, syriennes, etc. (Apul. met. II, 5; Oxy 8-83). En somme, I. est la déesse aux multiples noms (polyonyme, myrionyme) et aux formes nombreuses (Apul. met. II, 5, 1; MM I 26; Oxy 9, 70, 97, 101; PLond I 121, 503). Des inscriptions grecques et latines confirment cette tradition littéraire, arétalogique et papyrologique (cf. Vidman, SIRIS 325, 351, 505, 639, 656, 692, 698, 721, 749, 808). Les inscriptions font aussi état de manifestations synchrétiques d'I.-Aphrodite, d'I.-Boubastis, d'I.-Diane, d'I.-Io, d'I.-Junon, d'I.-Némésis, d'I.-Hygieia, d'I.-Tyché ou d'I.-Fortuna (cf. Vidman, SIRIS index p. 342, 344; Tinh, DOCampanie 214-234).

L'interprétation allégorique considère I. comme la terre noire qu'arrose le Nil (Pherekyd., FGH 3 F 178; Plut. de Is. et Os. 363d, 366a; Orig. Cels. 5, 38; Serv. Aen. 8, 696; Héliodore, Aethiopica 9, 9), la terre fertile par opposition au désert.

Sur le plan de l'iconographie, l'«interpretatio Graeca» et l'«interpretatio Romana» exploitent surtout l'aspect religieux et théologique et négligent les épisodes mythologiques. Les représentations synchrétiques mettent surtout l'accent sur I.-Aphrodite, I.-Déméter, I.-Io et I.-Fortuna. Pour ces figures, l'iconographie est variée et le degré de popularité de chacune dépend de plusieurs facteurs.

Isis-Aphrodite

Le syncrétisme d'I.-Aphrodite fut préparé de longue date par une assimilation, à la Basse Époque égyptienne, de Hathor par I. Hathor, déesse de l'amour et du mariage est l'équivalent d'Aphrodite chez les Grecs. Comme tous les Hellènes, les Alexandrins vouaient un culte spécial à Aphrodite (Fraser, P. M., Ptolemaic Alexandria [1972] 197). Et le syncrétisme d'I.-Aphrodite s'effectuait ainsi grâce à un double apport, grec et égyptien.

I. fut assimilée à Aphrodite assez tôt, déjà au III<sup>e</sup> s. av. J.-C., à Alexandrie (Bernand, o. c. 925-928; Condurachi, BullRoum 21, 1939, 35-36) et en Thrace (Vidman, SIRIS 128). Les monuments figurés n'offrent cependant aucun critère de datation sûr. Plusieurs statuettes de bronze provenant de la Syrie semblent avoir été fabriquées dans ce pays (cf. Fleischer, R., DamMitt 1, 1983, 36). Le titre d'I.-Aphrodite-Astarté (cf. ID 2132) conviendrait à cette imagerie de type syro-phénicien, où I. est parée d'un imposant diadème et d'un grand collier, parfois avec pendentifs (249, 250, 254). Les artistes ont pris soin de surtout faire figurer sur ces diadèmes complexes le basileion, garant du syncrétisme (cf. Jentel, M.-O., MythGrRPér 151-155).

Les autres représentations semblent d'inspiration gréco-égyptienne. On y reconnaît l'imitation des types classiques d'Aphrodite, pudique (254), «anasyroménè» (256-257), anadyomène (253), «pséliouménè» (250-251), ou accroupie (259). I. porte parfois un voutour accouvé (252) perpétuant ainsi la tradition égyptienne, ou un simple basileion (253, 259) dérivé du nouveau symbolisme religieux alexandrin. Les periammata, les pendentifs, le calathos semblent appartenir à un symbolisme apotropaïque populaire.

De nombreuses terres cuites égyptiennes d'époque romaine représentent une femme nue, debout, les bras collés au corps, coiffée souvent d'un grand diadème bourrelé surmonté d'un haut calathos orné d'un basileion (258). Leur identité est incertaine: s'agit-il de concubines du mort comme le pensent certains auteurs (ExSieglin I 234; II 2, 47-48 pl. 30), de la déesse protectrice du mort (Weber 31) ou d'I.-Aphrodite (Perdrizet, Terres cuites Fouquet 1 sqq; Breccia, Mon. II 1, 17; Dunand, Relig. pop. 68)? Le fait que plusieurs d'entre elles portent le basileion plaide en faveur de l'identification avec la déesse, mais leur rigidité fait penser à l'héritage pharaonique des oushabtis.

Isis-Déméter

Le syncrétisme d'I.-Déméter est ancien (Hdt. 2, 59) mais se manifeste dans l'iconographie avec discrétion. En effet, les monuments spécifiques sont plutôt rares. Pour ne pas mettre toutes les figures de Déméter sous le vocable d'I., nous avons répertorié seulement les monuments les plus pertinents: les uns représentant la déesse, vêtue à l'isiaque, tenant des épis de blé

hathorique à plumes», Studien zur Altägypt. Kultur 4, 1976, 215-236.

Les images hellénisées d'I. comportent soit ces deux caractéristiques, soit au moins l'une d'entre elles. Le prototype d'I. debout tenant une corne d'abondance fut créé vraisemblablement au III<sup>e</sup> s. av. J.-C., précédant l'apparition des images de reines en I. sur les oinchoai en faïence (Thompson, D. B., Ptolemaic Oinochoai and Portraits in Faience [1973] 58-59, 92-93 pls. D et 43-44). Cette iconographie, connue sur de nombreux documents datables du II<sup>e</sup> s. av. au II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. (21-26, 43, 155, 163, 188, 200-202, 205, 210), classe d'emblée I. parmi les divinités de la prospérité, dispensatrices des biens. Notons qu'elle diffère de l'image d'I.-Fortuna. I. majestueuse, tenant un sceptre, créée probablement au II<sup>e</sup> s. av. J.-C. dans un milieu grec en dehors d'Alexandrie (13, 18a, 19-20, 33, 38, 41, 135, 153, 184, 194-195), proclame sa puissance divine à l'instar des dieux souverains Zeus et Héra.

I. tient aussi d'autres attributs: un bélier (38-39), peut-être une grenade (167), le lotus sur lequel est assis Harpocrate (179, 181), le sistre et la situle (27a-q, 29, 30a-d, 37, 46, 168, 171, 176, 207). Ce dernier schéma - I. tenant le sistre et la situle - est presque absent en Egypte, mais populaire ailleurs, notamment sur les monnaies d'Asie Mineure (27a-d, f-n, q; 46, 168), de Thrace (27e, o-p; 203) ainsi que sur des monuments fabriqués en dehors de l'Egypte romaine (29, 171), surtout à partir de la fin du I<sup>er</sup> s. ap. J.-C. Ce schéma semble être une modification du schéma égyptien d'I. tenant l'uræus et la situle (9, 10, 11a, 30e). Est-il possible qu'on ait voulu remplacer l'uræus par le sistre à cause de la difficulté de faire passer le message symbolique du cobra dans des milieux culturels non-égyptiens?

Sur la plupart de ces monuments, on reconnaît, malgré les variantes de la mode féminine, l'héritage de la coiffure libyenne. Cependant, les boucles ne sont plus ni étagées ni disposées à la manière d'une perruque, mais calamistrées ou ondulées et tombent plus librement dans le cou et sur les épaules. Ce n'est que sur les monuments tardifs, peut-être à partir du II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C., qu'I. porte sur sa tête un châle frangé (47-58, 182).

Les prêtresses d'I. semblaient également s'habiller «à l'isiaque» et tenaient aussi le sistre et la situle. Portaient-elles en outre le basileion, comme les vierges sacrées vouées au service de la princesse Bérénice d'après le décret de Canope (ligne 57)? La distinction entre celles-ci et la déesse elle-même pose de sérieux problèmes. En effet, l'I. de Smyrne du British Museum, datée du II<sup>e</sup> s. av. J.-C. (cf. Smith, BMSculpture I n° 639; Horn, o. c. 20, 40 pl. 16, 2; Pfuhl, E./Möbius, H., Die ostgriechischen Grabreliefs [1977] n° 376 pl. 61), est vêtue comme l'I. du Catajo (32) ou celle de Pompéi (33). Par contre, le drapé de la soi-disant «Isis du Capitole» est différent de même que celui des femmes isiaques figurées sur de nombreuses stèles funéraires attiques du II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. (cf. Conze, A., Die attischen Grabreliefs IV [1911-22] 54-61 pls. 420-425; Dunand, Isis II 145-148 pls. 1-8; Muehsam, A., «Attic Grave Reliefs from the Roman Period», Berytus 10, 1952-53, 51-114, pls. 12, 13, 4; 14, 2; Usman, M., «Le culte des dieux égyptiens sur le Bosphore thracien», Atti del VII Congresso internaz. di archeol. classica (1961) III 105-115 pls. 1-3; Comstock/Vermeule, SculptBoston n° 276) ou en dehors de l'Attique (Usman, o. c. pl. 1 fig. 1; Rosenbaum, E., A Cat. of Cyrenaican Portrait Sculpture [1960] n° 61 pl. 76, 1; n° 175 pl. 76, 2). Sur ces derniers monuments, le nœud isiaque, en forme d'un grand chou entre les seins, est fait avec les deux pointes du tissu qui descendent des épaules. Dans certains cas, une guirlande en sautoir pend de l'épaule gauche à la hanche droite. Sur les portraits funéraires, aucune prêtresse d'I. ne porte le basileion. C'est la raison pour laquelle nous pensons qu'à l'époque romaine au moins, il y avait une distinction entre la forme du nœud des représentations d'I. et de celui des prêtresses (Tinh, ANRW II 17, 3, 1726-1727).

I. totalement hellénisée forme un groupe plus libre. Le costume est purement grec, sans nœud isiaque (37-40, 42-43, 45, 163, 167, 176-177, 179, 181, 188-190, 207, 210). La chevelure, aux mèches généralement ondulées, flotte librement sur ses épaules. Les statues de Gortyne (59), de Thessalonique (60), de Cologne (82) ou encore les statuette d'I.-Aphrodite (249-259) et d'I.-Fortuna (305, 308-310, 311a-t, 312-315) montrent qu'à un certain stade d'évolution, I. garde seulement le basileion comme symbole de son origine égyptienne, mais porte les mêmes attributs que dans le type précédent.

I. assise est relativement rare. Sur certains monuments (79, 84, 85a, 88) elle se présente comme une femme en deuil, du type de Déméter devant le rapt de Perséphone sur la façade de la tombe royale de Vergina. Sur la base de la statue de Fiesole, l'inscription l'appelle I. Taposiris (Vidman, SIRIS n° 564), évoquant l'endroit où se trouvait, d'après la tradition, le tombeau d'Osiris (Eudoxos, F 291 Lasserre; cf. Kees, H., RE IV A 2 [1932] 2259-2260). La peinture du sarcophagus de Pompéi (130) devrait évoquer l'épisode d'errance d'I. à Byblos: I. ramena le cercueil d'Osiris sur un bateau et, prenant la forme d'une hirondelle, elle pleura son mari (Plut. De Is. et Os. 357c). Les mystères de la mort d'Osiris étaient célébrés à Rome avec le symbole du sistre et de l'hirondelle (Min. Felix 22). Ce ne sont que de rares documents qui nous informent sur le mythe, peut-être caché aux non-initiés.

Dans une autre série, beaucoup plus abondante, I. mère est assise, allaitant son enfant. Il est évident qu'on trouve dans ce schéma l'héritage iconographique d'I. lactans pharaonique, mais l'expression stylistique est plutôt grecque. Si l'acte d'allaiter est anthropologiquement naturel, l'expression religieuse et symbolique incarnée dans l'iconographie est plus riche, car en allaitant, I. transmet à son fils la divinité et la vie. Les images d'I. assise allaitant se classent globalement dans trois groupes: I. sur un trône (211-236), I. sur une ciste (238-239) et I. surgissant d'une corolle d'acanthé (237b). Parfois, on voit la déesse allaiter aussi le bœuf Apis (244) ou le crocodile Souchos (242), actions peu compréhensibles aux yeux des non-Egyptiens et limitées à des manifestations plutôt locales.

Sur certaines représentations, le symbolisme est

parfois latent, parfois évident. La corolle d'acanthé supportant I. serait une forme d'hellénisation du lotus et évoquerait son rôle cosmique (cf. Jucker, o. c. 157); il en va de même pour le petit globe sous le buste d'I. (Hombert, P., «Sarapis Kosmokrator et Isis Kosmokratora», AntCl 14, 1945, 319-329). Parfois, I. accompagne Hélios sous la forme d'I.-Séléné (209).

Les formes syncrétiques d'Isis

Dans le domaine du syncrétisme religieux, l'iconographie semble refléter les auteurs anciens et les arétologies (cf. Müller, D., Ägypten und die griech. Isis-Arealogien [1961] et Bergman, J., Ich bin Isis [1968]) surtout celles de Medinet Madi [MM], d'Andros [A], de Kymè [K], de Maronée [Ma], d'Oxyrhynchos [Oxy] composées à l'époque ptolémaïque et romaine. I. est surtout la déesse civilisatrice. Éduquée par Hermès (Diod. 1, 27), I. fit cesser l'anthropophagie (K 21), institua la justice et les lois (Diod. 1, 14; MM I 6; K 52; Ma 24, 29; Oxy 205), enseigna l'agriculture (Diod. 1, 15; Isid. orig. 8, 11, 84), les arts et les lettres (Isid. l. c.; K 3-4; Ma 2-24; MM I 8), inventa la civilisation en instituant le mariage (K 17-18; Ma 41-42), les règles de morale et les bonnes mœurs (K 25-30; Ma 30-31), la médecine (Diod. 1, 25; Lyd. mens. 4, 32; Gal. I 1 p. 126 et 13 p. 774 Kühn). Déesse puissante, I. est souveraine du ciel, de la terre et des mers (Apul. met. 11, 5; K 12-15; MM I 9-10), des vents et des tempêtes (Lukianos d. deor. 7); elle est guérisseuse de toutes les infirmités humaines (Diod. 1, 25; MM I 30; II 7-8), salvatrice qui préserve les humains de la guerre, des périls de la navigation (Iuv. 12, 18-28; Stat. silv. 3, 2, 107-110; MM I 31-34) et même de la mort (Apul. met. 11, 5; MM I 7-8).

Les spéculations théologiques amenèrent les Grecs et les Romains à identifier I. avec Déméter (Hdt. 2, 59, 156; Diod. 1, 13; Apul. met. 11, 2, 5; 5, 3; Tert. apol. 16, 5); avec Io (Hdt. 2, 41; Diod. 1, 24; Iuv. 9, 22-25; Ov. met. 9, 686-690 etc.), avec Artémis, Aphrodite, Athéna, Séléné et presque toutes les déesses grecques, thraces, syriennes, etc. (Apul. met. 11, 5; Oxy 8-83). En somme, I. est la déesse aux multiples noms (polyonyme, myrionyme) et aux formes nombreuses (Apul. met. 11, 5, 1; MM I 26; Oxy 9, 70, 97, 101; PLond I 121, 503). Des inscriptions grecques et latines confirment cette tradition littéraire, arétologique et papyrologique (cf. Vidman, SIRIS 325, 351, 505, 639, 656, 692, 698, 721, 749, 808). Les inscriptions font aussi état de manifestations syncrétiques d'I.-Aphrodite, d'I.-Boubastis, d'I.-Diane, d'I.-Io, d'I.-Junon, d'I.-Némésis, d'I.-Hygieia, d'I.-Tychè ou d'I.-Fortuna (cf. Vidman, SIRIS index p. 342, 344; Tinh, DOCampanie 214-234).

L'interprétation allégorique considère I. comme la terre noire qu'arrose le Nil (Pherekyd., FGH 3 F 178; Plut. de Is. et Os. 363d, 366a; Orig. Cels. 5, 38; Serv. Aen. 8, 696; Héliodore, Aethiopica 9, 9), la terre fertile par opposition au désert.

Sur le plan de l'iconographie, l'«interpretatio Graeca» et l'«interpretatio Romana» exploitent surtout l'aspect religieux et théologique et négligent les épisodes mythologiques. Les représentations syncrétiques mettent surtout l'accent sur I.-Aphrodite, I.-Déméter, I.-Io et I.-Fortuna. Pour ces figures, l'iconographie est variée et le degré de popularité de chacune dépend de plusieurs facteurs.

Isis-Aphrodite

Le syncrétisme d'I.-Aphrodite fut préparé de longue date par une assimilation, à la Basse Époque égyptienne, de Hathor par I. Hathor, déesse de l'amour et du mariage est l'équivalent d'Aphrodite chez les Grecs. Comme tous les Hellènes, les Alexandrins vouaient un culte spécial à Aphrodite (Fraser, P. M., Ptolemaic Alexandria [1972] 197). Et le syncrétisme d'I.-Aphrodite s'effectuait ainsi grâce à un double apport, grec et égyptien.

I. fut assimilée à Aphrodite assez tôt, déjà au III<sup>e</sup> s. av. J.-C., à Alexandrie (Bernand, o. c. 925-928; Condurachi, BullRoum 21, 1939, 35-36) et en Thrace (Vidman, SIRIS 128). Les monuments figurés n'offrent cependant aucun critère de datation sûr. Plusieurs statuette de bronze provenant de la Syrie semblent avoir été fabriquées dans ce pays (cf. Fleischer, R., DamMitt 1, 1983, 36). Le titre d'I.-Aphrodite-Astarté (cf. ID 2132) conviendrait à cette imagerie de type syro-phénicien, où I. est parée d'un imposant diadème et d'un grand collier, parfois avec pendentifs (249, 250, 254). Les artistes ont pris soin de surtout faire figurer sur ces diadèmes complexes le basileion, garant du syncrétisme (cf. Jentel, M.-O., MythGrRPér 151-155).

Les autres représentations semblent d'inspiration gréco-égyptienne. On y reconnaît l'imitation des types classiques d'Aphrodite, pudique (254), «anasyroménè» (256-257), anadyomène (253), «pséliouménè» (250-251), ou accroupie (259). I. porte parfois un vautour accouvé (252) perpétuant ainsi la tradition égyptienne, ou un simple basileion (253, 259) dérivé du nouveau symbolisme religieux alexandrin. Les periammata, les pendentifs, le calathos semblent appartenir à un symbolisme apotropaïque populaire.

De nombreuses terres cuites égyptiennes d'époque romaine représentent une femme nue, debout, les bras collés au corps, coiffée souvent d'un grand diadème bourrelé surmonté d'un haut calathos orné d'un basileion (258). Leur identité est incertaine: s'agit-il de concubines du mort comme le pensent certains auteurs (ExSieglin I 234; II 2, 47-48 pl. 30), de la déesse protectrice du mort (Weber 31) ou d'I.-Aphrodite (Perdrizet, Terres cuites Fouquet 1 sqq; Breccia, Mon. II 1, 17; Dunand, Relig. pop. 68)? Le fait que plusieurs d'entre elles portent le basileion plaide en faveur de l'identification avec la déesse, mais leur rigidité fait penser à l'héritage pharaonique des oushabtis.

Isis-Déméter

Le syncrétisme d'I.-Déméter est ancien (Hdt. 2, 59) mais se manifeste dans l'iconographie avec discrétion. En effet, les monuments spécifiques sont plutôt rares. Pour ne pas mettre toutes les figures de Déméter sous le vocable d'I., nous avons répertorié seulement les monuments les plus pertinents: les uns représentant la déesse, vêtue à l'isiaque, tenant des épis de blé

(260-261) les autres, Déméter voilée, coiffée du modius sur lequel figure discrètement un disque entre deux cornes ou simplement un croissant, et tenant une torche (263-264). Mais le syncrétisme d'I.-Déméter est plus diffus, grâce aux épis de blé ajoutés à l'emblème hathorique originel. Il s'opère surtout sous la forme ingénieuse d'un syncrétisme composite où la déesse des récoltes (Hermouthis) devient I. avec les attributs d'I. (sistre, situle, corne d'abondance) et de Déméter (torche, épis de blé). Cette théologie a été habilement formulée par Isidore de Medinet Madi: «souveraine Hermouthis, I. pure, sainte, grande, Déo au grand nom» (MM III 1-2), et concrétisée par la forme angipède de la déesse.

Isis-Io

Malgré sa popularité littéraire, I.-Io est peu connue dans l'iconographie - à moins que par convention nous ne reconnaissons Io que sous la forme d'une fille encore jeune avec des cornes sur le front (267-268). Pour Hérodote, l'image d'I. - femme avec des cornes de vaches - est identique à Io (Hdt. 2, 41). De fait, cette figuration égyptienne était d'abord celle de Hathor avant d'être celle d'I. Les peintures de l'Iseum et d'une maison de Pompéi (265-266) sont parmi les rares documents qui font allusion au mythe, mais ils ne représentent pas son aspect syncrétiste.

Isis Pelagia

«I. à la voile», connue au plus tôt sur une monnaie d'Antioche du II<sup>e</sup> s. av. J.-C. (285) et sur un relief de Délos du début du I<sup>er</sup> s. av. J.-C. (269), apparaît plus tard sur de nombreuses monnaies d'Alexandrie (274-281), de Rome (293-294), de plusieurs cités d'Asie Mineure (282, 284, 287-290), de Phénicie (286) et de Thrace (291), datant toutes de l'époque romaine, de Domitien à Gratien. Les reliefs (270-271), les intailles (295-296), les lampes en terre cuite (272, 273) et quelques sculptures fragmentaires d'identification difficile (298-301) sont également romains.

I. est représentée debout de profil, les mains tenant la voile gonflée par le vent. Le bateau est figuré sur quelques émissions d'Alexandrie sous Trajan et Hadrien (280), de Perinthos sous Sévère Alexandre (291), de Phocée (292). Parfois le phare est présent notamment sur les monnaies d'Alexandrie (278), de Phocée (292) et de Rome (293). Sur une série de monnaies frappées à Rome au cours de la seconde moitié du IV<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C., la légende ISIS FARIA sur l'avvers ne semble pas se référer directement à la figure du revers (cf. Alföldi, o. c. avant 269, 42-47), mais faire plutôt allusion à la fête du Navigium Isidis. Par contre, l'inscription EISIS ΦΑΡΙΑ se lit sur la base d'une statuette en bronze de Fortuna sans aucune caractéristique isiaque (De Ridder, o. c. 249f, n° 321, Vidman, SIRIS 358). L'iconographie devrait faire allusion à I. comme inventrice de la voile, de la navigation et déesse de la mer, appelée dans des dédicaces I. EUPLOIA (ID 2132, 2153), I. PELAGIA (SIRIS 34, 259, 274, 396, 764), I. PHARIA (Vidman, SIRIS 358, 403; Breccia, E., Iscrizioni greche e latine [1911] n° 103; Bernand, E., Inscriptions grecques et latines de Philae II [1969] n° 168). Protectrice de la navigation, salvatrice des marins et des voyageurs comme en témoignent les hymnes de Medinet Madi et Juvénal (12, 25-28), célébrée d'une manière particulière pendant les megala ploiaphesia ou le Navigium Isidis (Apul. met. 11, 9-17; cf. Alföldi, o. c. 42-58; Deubner, L., AM 37, 1912, 180-182; Bruneau, Ph., BCH 85, 1961, 442-446) l'image d'I. à la voile est peut-être l'une des manifestations de cette croyance.

Existe-t-il des statues d'I. à la voile? La question a été posée par Ph. Bruneau (BCH 98, 1974, 352-381). Le débat, animé dans les années 1970, montre la difficulté de résoudre le problème de l'origine du type à partir de la ronde bosse, étant donné l'état fragmentaire des monuments connus (298-301). De fait, nous ne connaissons rien sur l'image d'I. Pharia vénérée à Alexandrie, ni sur celle d'I. Euploia à Délos, ni enfin sur celle d'I. Pelagia à Corinthe, pour ne citer que les cas les mieux connus. Les représentations iconographiques révèlent une théologie et une typologie de lecture facile et évocatrice sans pour autant apporter de solution au problème posé. Peut-être est-il plausible d'accepter l'hypothèse émise par Ph. Bruneau (BCH 98, 1974, 381) et par M. Malaise (Les conditions de pénétration et de diffusion des cultes égyptiens en Italie, EPRO 22 [1972] 181) selon laquelle l'image d'I. déesse de la mer serait figurée également sous d'autres formes, notamment celle d'I.-Fortuna.

Isis-Fortuna

I.-Fortuna est sans doute la forme syncrétiste la plus populaire à l'époque romaine. La plupart des études semblent corroborer la thèse selon laquelle le syncrétisme s'effectua d'abord entre I. et Fortuna (Schefold, K., «Fortuna aus Augst», Ur-Schweiz 17, 1953, 41-50; idem, «Zur hellenistischen Theologie Alexandrias», Antidoron: Edgar Salin zum 70. Geburtstag [1962] 169) mais dans un milieu hellénique, notamment à Délos (ID 2072, 2073; Roussel, o. c. 148 n° 119, 120) où la déesse est invoquée sous le titre d'I. Tychè Protogeneia.

Fortuna, divinité de la chance individuelle, déesse des femmes, de la naissance et de la progéniture est primordialement différente de la Tychè grecque. Le rapprochement de ces deux divinités prépara leur assimilation par I. qui, d'une part, «a vaincu le destin», et, d'autre part, se déclare être la clairvoyante Fortune qui éclaire même les dieux de sa lumière.

Nouvelle Fortune, elle s'est dotée de tous les attributs de la Tychè-Fortuna, notamment la corne d'abondance et le gouvernail. Elle se distingue cependant de la Fortuna classique par son habillement avec nœud isiaque (303, 304, 306), et/ou grâce au basileion (304, 306-319). Rompant la monotonie des documents, on remarquera des I.-Fortuna qui abandonnent le costume isiaque classique pour adopter des costumes variés: a) chiton et himation sans nœud isiaque avec un pan ramené sur l'épaule ou le bras gauche (308-310, 311a-p, r, t), b) chiton serré à la taille par une ceinture et laissant nu le sein gauche (312a-e, h-k), c) chiton et himation tombant de l'épaule droite et drapant le corps (311q, 313a-l), d) draperie laissant presque tout le corps à découvert (314-315); dans cette dernière catégorie, I. est souvent ailée (315a, c) et porte parfois le carquois (315c).

Isis-Sothis

Bien que le syncrétisme soit d'origine égyptienne, l'imagerie d'I.-Sothis assise sur un chien courant semble apparaître tardivement, peut-être à l'époque romaine (Clerc, o. c. avant 320, 250-256). Le fronton arqué, figuré sur les sesterces de Vespasien en 71 ap. J.-C. (328) fait probablement allusion au temple d'I. reconstruit sur le Champ de Mars sous Caligula (37-41 ap. J.-C.). Peut-être est-ce lors de la reconstruction du temple après l'incendie de 80 ap. J.-C. que l'on érigea comme acrotère une statue de la déesse assise sur le chien, qui fera plus tard partie des prodiges dénonçant les crimes d'Héliogabale: «en signe d'horreur, I. détourna sa tête vers l'intérieur» (Cass. Dio 79, 10). Rome continua à émettre des monnaies avec l'image d'I.-Sothis jusqu'à la seconde moitié du IV<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. tandis qu'à Alexandrie, cette image figurait seulement sur les monnaies locales, de Trajan à Antonin (325a-b). Les autres monuments d'I.-Sothis sont aussi romains même les patères de pierre, semble-t-il. I. assise sur le chien tient le sistre (321-322, 324, 328, 329a, 330) qui aurait le pouvoir magique d'accroître les crues du Nil dont dépend la vie des Egyptiens, une torche (323b), un sceptre (320, 325a, 327, 329a, 330), une corne d'abondance (323b-d, 324[?], 325a, 327), des épis (331). I.-Sothis met l'accent sur l'allégorie de l'image du chien-étoile qui n'a de valeur réelle qu'en Egypte avec les crues du Nil. On se demande si sa présence à Rome et dans l'Empire était liée à une certaine «égyptomanie» ou plutôt à l'approvisionnement du grain de l'Egypte, nécessaire à l'annonce impériale.

Isis Panthée

Ces images rappellent la doctrine aréalogique propagée parmi les populations méditerranéennes, selon laquelle I. incarne toutes les déesses, qui jusqu'alors étaient connues sous des noms différents et des formes diverses. Dans la nouvelle iconographie, on regroupe dans I. seule les attributs les plus divers mais facilement reconnaissables: les ailes de Nikè-Victoria, le carquois d'Artémis-Diane, l'égide d'Athéna-Minerve, les épis de blé de Déméter-Cérès, la corne d'abondance et le gouvernail de Fortuna, sans parler, parfois, des cornes d'Io, des rayons d'Hélios-Sol, du croissant de Séléné-Luna, du serpent d'Hygie (319d-e, g-h), des signa panthea (Weisshäupl, R., «Panthetistische Denkmäler. Isis Panthea», Oefh 13, 1910, 176-193 figs. 90-107; Eichler, F., «Signum pantheum», Oefh 39, 1952, 21-27) et des lampes représentant une déesse assise rassemblant autour d'elle des dizaines d'attributs, parmi lesquels le sistre, rappellent la présence d'une divinité panthée qui pourrait porter le nom d'I. «una quae es omnia».

Isis avec d'autres divinités

I. fut admise, non sans réticence, dans le panthéon gréco-romain. Figure dominante du mythe osirien, elle est notamment représentée avec sa famille composée de Sarapis, d'Anubis et d'Harpocrate, parfois en présence d'autres divinités grecques: avec Sarapis (130-162), avec Sarapis et Harpocrate (163-171), avec Sarapis et Anubis (184-185), avec Sarapis; Harpocrate et Anubis (190-191), avec Sarapis et Apis (194), avec Sarapis, Apis et Anubis (195), avec Sarapis, Harpocrate et Déméter (202-203), avec Sarapis et Déméter (199-201, 280), avec Sarapis et les Dioscures (205), avec Sarapis, Harpocrate et Dionysos (204), avec Sarapis, Harpocrate, Anubis et Hermanubis (192a), avec Sarapis, Harpocrate, Anubis et Osiris (192b), avec Sarapis et Horus (196), avec Harpocrate (172-183), avec Harpocrate et Anubis (188-189), avec Harpocrate et Osiris (193), avec Sarapis, les Dioscures, Jupiter Dolichénien et Junon (206-207), avec Hélios (209), avec Luna (314, 319h), avec les Dioscures (279). La rareté de la présence d'Osiris montre le degré d'hellénisation du culte isiaque, malgré la montée tardive du culte d'Osiris (Vidman, L., Isis und Sarapis bei den Griechen und Römern [1970] 122, 173). La provenance des monuments iconographiques et épigraphiques complète les sources littéraires relatives à l'implantation du culte d'I. en dehors de l'Egypte aux époques hellénistique et romaine (cf. surtout Dunand, Isis et Malaise, M., ANRWII 17, 2, 1615-1691). Strabon fait mention de l'Iseum sur le littoral occidental du golfe persique (Strabon 16, 4, 7 p. 770), et de celui de Soloi de Chypre (14, 6, 3 p. 683). Plin. nat. 6, 174) et de l'Iseum de Césarée en Mauritanie (l. c. 5, 51). Selon le témoignage de Plin. le Jeune, il existait un temple d'I. à Nicomédie, détruit par un incendie (Plin. epist. 10, 33, 1). D'autres temples se trouvaient à Antioche où Séleucos IV fit envoyer de Memphis, Ptolémée III Evergète, une statue d'I. coiffée de cornes (Lib. or. 11, 114-115); à Smyrne où Aelius Aristide avait des visions (Aristeides or. 47 et 49), à Rhodes où Anthia et Habrocomès, les héros des Ephésiaques rendirent grâce à la «grande déesse salvatrice» après de multiples tribulations (Xénophon d'Ephèse 5, 13, 2-4; cf. 1, 6, 2). Pausanias fait état de plusieurs cités grecques qui honoraient I., notamment Athènes (1, 41, 3), Acrocorinthe (2, 4, 6), Kenchrées (2, 2, 3), Phlionte (2, 13, 7), Trézène (2, 32, 6), Méthane (2, 34, 1), Hermione (2, 34, 10), Tithorée (10, 32, 13-14, 18), etc.

Rome, au déclin de la République, interdit en vain l'implantation du culte d'I. (Varro ant. rer. div. fig. 46a et b Cardauns; Cass. Dio 40, 47, 3-4; 47, 15); celui-ci réussit à triompher des obstacles pour s'installer dans les sanctuaires (Lucanus 8, 831). Les poètes Tibulle (1, 3, 23), Properce (4, 5, 33-34) et Ovide (am. 2, 13, 7-11) font mention de la dévotion à I. de la part de personnes de leur connaissance, des historiens comme Tacite (hist. 4, 84), Suétone (Oth. 12) et les Scriptores Historiae Augustae nous gardent le souvenir de l'expansion du culte isiaque sous Caligula, Commode et les Sévères. Malgré la politique constantinienne qui sonna le glas du paganisme, l'image d'I. continue à figurer sur les monnaies romaines jusqu'à Théodose (Alföldi, o. c. avant 269) et hante encore la civilisation occidentale (cf. Witt 269-281). TRAN TAM TINH

ISMENE I

(Ἰσμήνη, Ὀϊσμήνη [3], Ἰσμήνη [4]; Ismene) Tochter des → Oidipous und der → Iokaste oder Euryganeia, Schwester von → Antigone, → Polyneikes und → Eteokles. I. wird seit dem 5. Jh. als die sanftere, eher zu Kompromissen bereite Schwester der Antigone geschildert, die nach der Vertreibung des Oidipous in Theben bleibt, aber die Verbindung mit ihm aufrecht erhält (Soph. Oid. K.) und im Konflikt der Antigone mit → Kreon (I) sich auf die Seite der Schwester stellt (Soph. Oid. t.). Ein anderes Schicksal hatte sie in der archaischen Literatur: als Geliebte des → Periklymenos, mit dem sie sich – wahrscheinlich in einem Tempel oder Heiligtum der Athena – trifft, wird sie von → Tydeus, der das Liebespaar überrascht, auf Geheiß der Athena getötet.

LITERARISCHE QUELLEN: Bei Aufzählungen der Kinder des Oidipous wird I. stets mit ihren drei Geschwistern genannt (die Quellen → Antigone, → Eteokles, → Iokaste). Über ihr weiteres Schicksal in den Epen des thebanischen Zyklus ist nichts bekannt, offensichtlich gab es aber in archaischer Zeit eine Version, in der sie von Tydeus getötet wird. Mimnermos soll erzählt haben, daß I., als sie sich dem Theoklymenos hingab, von Tydeus auf Geheiß der Athena getötet wurde (West IEG fig. 21, überliefert in der Hypothesis des Grammatikers Salustios zur Antigone des Sophokles). Nach Pherekydes (FGH 3 F 95) soll Tydeus sie bei einer Quelle getötet haben, die dann nach ihr Ismene benannt wurde (hier mag auch die Erinnerung an die gleichnamige Tochter des Flußgottes Asopos und den Fluß → Ismenos eingeflossen sein – zu dieser I.: → Ismene II und Bethe 2136 s. v. «Ismene 3»; Stoll 550 s. v. «Ismene 1»). Nimmt man die beiden Notizen zusammen, so ergibt sich folgende Geschichte: Tydeus überrascht I. außerhalb der Stadt an einer Quelle, wohl während eines Treffens mit ihrem Liebhaber Periklymenos (der überlieferte Name Theoklymenos wird mit Recht auf einen Irrtum des im 4. Jh. n. Chr. schreibenden Salustios oder seiner Quelle zurückgeführt, s. Robert 124; Hampe 11); die Episode muß sich während der Belagerung Thebens oder – was unwahrscheinlicher ist – schon während der Gesandtschaft des Tydeus (→ Septem, → Tydeus) abgespielt haben. Er tötet I., weil sie sich den Zorn der Athena zugezogen hat. Der Grund dieses Zorns kann nur das Liebesverhältnis mit Periklymenos gewesen sein; möglicherweise war I. Priesterin der Athena – vielleicht spielte auch der Ort der Liebesvereinigung, ein Heiligtum der Athena?, eine Rolle. Athena dürfte in Theben die Athena Onka gewesen sein, deren Heiligtum nahe bei dem gleichnamigen Tor vor der Stadt lag (Aischyl. Septem 486-487. 501-502; cf. Robert 127; Hampe 12).

Dieses Bild der I. ändert sich im 5. Jh. vollkommen durch die Dichtungen der Tragiker. I. überlebt nun zusammen mit Antigone den Angriff der Septem; sie steht meist völlig im Schatten ihrer energischen Schwester Antigone (zuerst: Aischyl. Septem 861-Ende, zur Problematik der Szene → Antigone). Als eigenen Charakter schildert sie vor allem Sophokles in der Antigone und im Oidipous in Kolonos, wo sie dem Vater und der Schwester, nach denen sie lange gesucht hat, aus Theben die Nachricht vom Streit der Brüder und von dem Orakel überbringt, das das Schicksal der Stadt mit dem des Oidipous verknüpft (Soph. Oid. K. 311-509). Sie wird dort zuerst von Kreon gefangen (818-819), ehe er sich auch der Antigone bemächtigt; nach der Freilassung (1097-1098) tritt sie nur noch zusammen mit Antigone auf.

Vom weiteren Leben der I. ist uns nichts bekannt – mit einer Ausnahme: Ion von Chios (Page PMG fig. 740) soll in einem Dithyrambos erzählt haben, wie sie zusammen mit Antigone von Laodamas, dem Sohn des Eteokles, in einem Heiligtum der Hera verbrannt wurde – wohl doch im Zusammenhang mit der Bestattung des Polyneikes (Lit. und Diskussion → Antigone).

In der uns erhaltenen nachklassischen Literatur bleibt I.'s Charakter und Schicksal blaß. Meist wird sie nur beiläufig erwähnt; in der Thebais des Statius hat sie einen Verlobten, Atys, der von Tydeus tödlich verwundet wird und, in die Stadt zurückgebracht, in Gegenwart der I. stirbt (Theb. 8, 554-654). I. bleibt in Theben zurück, als Antigone aufs Schlachtfeld eilt, und findet die tote Iokaste (11, 642-647); danach ist von ihr nicht mehr die Rede.

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Bethe, E., RE IX 2 (1916) 2135-2136 s. v. «Ismene 2»; Conticello, B., EAA IV (1961) 241-242 s. v. «Ismene» (enthält einige Irrtümer); Hampe, R., «Tydeus und Ismene», AntK 18, 1975, 10-16; Pfuhl, E., «Der Tod der Ismene», Hermes 50, 1915, 468-470; Robert, C., Oidipous I (1915) 121-129. 362-367. 461-462; Stoll, H. W., MLII I (1890-94) 550 s. v. «Ismene 2»; Waiblinger, A., «Remarques sur une coupe à fond blanc du Musée du Louvre», RA 1972, 233-242.

KATALOG

A. Ismene als Kind in einer Szene einer Oidipous-Tragödie

1. Kelchkrater, sizil. rf., → Antigone 1*, → Iokaste 5.

B. Ismene im «Oidipous auf Kolonos»

2.* Kelchkrater, apul. rf. Melbourne, Geddes Coll. A 5:3. – Sotheby 9.12.1985 Nr. 173; Trendall, RFSIS 88 Abb. 200: close to the De Schulthess P. – Mitte 4.

Jh. v. Chr. – Auf einem altarähnlichen Gebilde (an der Schwelle des Haines der Eumeniden: Soph. Oid. K. 188-196) sitzen der blinde weißhaarige Oidipous und seine beiden Töchter. Die rechte wendet sich, ängstlich an ihre Halskette fassend, zum Vater und zur Schwester um; die linke hat in einer weitausholenden Geste ihren Mantel mit der Linken gefaßt, ihr langer Chiton weht, als ob sie gerade noch in Bewegung gewesen wäre. L. ein Bärtiger mit Zepter, wohl Kreon, r. ein junger Mann in einer Chlamys, Polyneikes. R. oben eine Eriny, die hier eine doppelte Funktion hat: sie ist eine der Eumeniden, der der Platz heilig ist, und zugleich die Rächerin, die den Fluch, den Oidipous gegen Kreon und Polyneikes richtet, erfüllen wird.

In keiner Szene des Sophokles-Dramas treten Kreon und Polyneikes gemeinsam auf; dies erschwert auch die Identifizierung der beiden Schwestern. Denkt man an die Szene, in der Oidipous seinen Sohn verflucht (1348-1396), so wäre in der linken, heftig agierenden Schwester Antigone zu sehen, denn sie bittet unmittelbar danach Polyneikes, von seinem Kriegsplan abzulassen (1414-1446). Betrachtet man Kreon, so könnte man an die Szene 310-460 denken, in der Ismene ankommt und die Ankunft des Kreon und indirekt auch die des Polyneikes ankündigt. Dann wäre sie die linke Tochter, die gerade sprechen will; das merkwürdige Gebilde l. am Boden neben dem Altar könnte dann ihr Reishut sein, den sie gerade noch getragen hat (313-314).

C. Ismene und Tydeus

DEUTUNG DURCH INSCRIFTEN GESICHERT

3.* Halsamphora, spätkorinthisch. Paris, Louvre E 640. Aus Cerveteri. – Amyx, CVP 270, A6; 393-394. 588-589, 113: Tydeusmaler. Robert 121-124 Abb. 32; Payne, NC 141. 327 Nr. 1437 Taf. 40, 2; Scheffold, Sagenbilder 77 Farbt. V; Waiblinger 236-237 Abb. 5; Hampe 11-12 Taf. 1, 5; Simon/Hirmer, Vasen Taf. 29 Farbt. 14; Lorber, Inschriften Nr. 100 Taf. 26. – Um 560 v. Chr. – Rechts I. (HYEMENA) auf einer Kline, von einer Decke verhüllt, die ihren nackten Oberkörper freiläßt. Tydeus stürmt mit gezücktem Schwert von l. heran und packt I. am r. Arm; er wird ihr im nächsten Augenblick das Schwert in die Brust stoßen. Nach l. entflieht, sich umblickend, der nackte, waffenlose Periklymenos (weißes Inkarnat wie I.). Ganz l. ein Reiter (→ Klytos II).

4.* Skyphos-Frgte, att. sf. Athen, Nat. Mus. Ak. 603. Von der Akropolis. – Richards, G. C., JHS 13, 1892, 286 Taf. 11, 1; Graef/Langlotz I Nr. 603 Taf. 29; Robert 123-124 Abb. 33; Hampe 11 Taf. 1, 6. – 2. Viertel 6. Jh. v. Chr. – I. (HIEMENE), nackt bis auf einen um die Schultern gelegten Mantel, kniet auf einer erhöhten (nicht erhaltenen) Unterlage. Sie wird von einem Mann (schwarzes Inkarnat), zu dem sie – bittflehend? – den l. Arm erhebt, am r. Handgelenk gepackt. L. ein weißer Arm, der eine Lanze hält, wohl Athena. Auf einem weiteren Fragment die linksläufige Inschrift «./MEN/..», vielleicht zu «Periklymenos» zu ergänzen.

DEUTUNG AUFGRUND DER FIGUREN-KOMBINATION

5. (= Helene 246* mit Querverweisen und anderer Deutung) Skyphos, att. rf. Berlin (West), Staatl. Mus. 1970.9. – Knauer, E., BerlWPr 125 (1973) 12-15 Abb. 2-4. 12-13 (Menelaos-Helena); Hampe 10-16 Taf. 1, 2; 2, 1-2. – Um 480 v. Chr. – Vor einer aus vier dorischen Säulen bestehenden Architektur vier nach r. laufende Figuren: ein junger Mann, Periklymenos, der, nur mit einem Mantel bekleidet, dennoch ein Schwert umhängen hat. Er scheint im Fliehen innezuhalten, greift an sein Schwert und blickt sich um zu einer Frau in Chiton und Mantel, I., die gerade von ihrem Verfolger, einem bärtigen Hopliten mit gezücktem Schwert, Tydeus, eingeholt und an der Schulter gepackt wird. L. Athena, dem Krieger in gemäßigerem Schritt folgend. Unter den Henkeln je ein Altar.

DEUTUNG NICHT GESICHERT, ABER MÖGLICH

6.* (= Iphitos I 10) Schale, fr., att. wgr. Paris, Louvre G 109. – Pottier, E., Mon Piot 2, 1895, 52-56 Abb. 3 (Herakles-Iphitos); Philippart, H., Les coupes attiques à fond blanc (1936) 34-36 Nr. 18 Taf. 16 (Herakles-Eurytos); Waiblinger 233-242 Abb. 1-4. 9; Hampe 13; Wehgartner, I., Attisch weißgrundige Keramik (1983) 57 Nr. 24. – 490/80 v. Chr. – Ein nackter, bärtiger Mann hat eine Frau (am nackten Oberkörper deutlich eine weibliche Brust angegeben) an den Haaren gepackt und ist wohl dabei, ihr sein Schwert in die Brust zu stoßen (Unterarm und Schwert des Mannes nicht erhalten, aber Schwertgurt und -scheide sichtbar). Die Frau ist durch die Wucht des Angriffs und ihre heftige Abwehr von der Kline, auf der sie lag, schon halb herabgeglitten; sie ist nackt, war aber anscheinend mit einem Mantel oder einer Decke zugeeckt, die noch über ihren Beinen liegt.

DEUTUNG UNWAHRSCHEINLICH BZW. ABZULEHNEN (8)

7. (= Alkmaion 16 mit Lit.) Etr. (chiusin.) Aschenurne. Berlin (DDR), Staatl. Mus. 1285. – Brunn/Körte, Rilievi II 1, 25-27 Taf. 8a (Tydeus-I.); Robert 124-125 Abb. 34 (Menelaos-Helena); Hampe 13 Anm. 18; Small, P., Studies Related to the Theban Cycle on Late Etruscan Urns (1981) 27 Nr. 19; 92-99 Taf. 11a (Menelaos-Helena). – 2. Jh. v. Chr. – Die Mittelgruppe, ein Krieger mit gezücktem Schwert, der eine halbnackte, auf einer Kline liegende Frau am Haar packt, erinnert an 3, sämtliche Nebenfiguren (→ Alkmaion 16) passen nicht zur Tötung der I. Bei der Bedrohung der Helena durch Menelaos ließen sich zwar die Nebenfiguren erklären, doch gibt es auf der Urne keinerlei Hinweis darauf, daß der Krieger von seinem Mordplan Abstand nehmen könnte. Außerdem wird Helena in dieser Szene sonst nie auf einem Lager dargestellt (→ Helene 210-371; → Helene/Elina 17-26), so daß ikonographische Parallelen völlig fehlen.

8. (= Apollon 938*, = Hades 127 [Seite A]) Volutenkrater, apul. rf. Neapel, Mus. Naz. 81666 (H 3222). Aus Altamura. – RVAp 1431, 82: Umkreis des Lykurgosmalers; Small, a. O. 7, 94 Anm. 92. – Um 340 v. Chr. – Stark übermalt. B: In einer figurenreichen Szene, in der u. a. mehrere Paare, ein Satyr, Fakkelträger, Leier- und Flötenspieler sowie Hermes auftreten, bedroht ein Jüngling eine auf einem Felsen sitzende Frau (mit nacktem Oberkörper) mit einem Schwert. Der Kontext schließt eine Deutung auf die Tötung der I. aus.

C. Ismene und Antigone verfolgt durch Laodamas, Deutung abzulehnen

→ Antigone 23–25.

D. Ismene bei der Verurteilung der Antigone

9. (= Antigone 14* mit Lit., = Herakles 381) Amphora, apul. rf. Ruvo, Mus. Jatta 423. – RVAp I 403, 41 Taf. 142, 4. 350/40 v. Chr. – I. (ISMHNH) r. oberhalb von Kreon sitzend, in Chiton und Mantel, mit langen, offenen Haaren, ein Kästchen in der Linken haltend.

KOMMENTAR

I. ist anscheinend in der Antike nur in einer einzigen Szene als eine der Hauptfiguren dargestellt worden, in einer Szene, in der ihr in der Tat die wichtigste Rolle zufiel: zwei Vasen aus dem 2. Viertel des 6. Jh. zeigen ihre Ermordung durch Tydeus. Vollständig erhalten ist die korinthische Amphora 3: die Kline, auf der I. nackt unter einer Decke liegt, und der waffenlos und unbekleidet fliehende, mit I. durch die helle Hautfarbe kompositionell verbundene Periklymenos deuten die vorhergehende Szene an: Das Liebespaar ist von Tydeus überrascht worden; Periklymenos bleibt keine Zeit zu irgendeiner Art von Gegenwehr. Da Tydeus es aber nur auf I. abgesehen hat, kann ihr Liebhaber entkommen. Nur dies und keinesfalls ein feiges Entweichen soll durch die fliehende Gestalt ausgedrückt werden. Auf dem etwa gleichzeitigen attischen Gefäß (4) war außerdem gezeigt, daß Tydeus nicht aus eigenem Antrieb handelt: der weiße Arm einer ruhig stehenden Figur, die eine Lanze hält, kann nur zu Athena gehören, die, wie wir aus der Literatur wissen, durch I.'s Liebschaft beleidigt, Tydeus den Auftrag zum Mord gegeben hat. Auf dem attischen Fragment ist nichts erhalten, was auf den Ort des Geschehens hinwies. Die Kline auf 3, zu der der Maler – wohl dem aus Gelageszenen bekannten Schema folgend – noch ein Speisetischchen samt darunterliegendem Hund hinzugemalt hat, deutet einen Innenraum an. Diese »Ortsangabe« darf aber keinesfalls zu sehr strapaziert werden, denn der fliehende Periklymenos überschneidet den Reiter am linken Bildrand, der ja sicher schon »draußen« zu denken ist. Nicht der Ort der Handlung soll durch die Kline angezeigt werden, sondern daß I. gerade noch mit Periklymenos auf ihr gelegen hatte; ein Widerspruch zu der durch die Pherekydes-Notiz nahegelegten Lokalisierung des Geschehens vor den Mauern Thebens läßt sich aus der Kline nicht ableiten.

Der Triptolemosmaler hat auf dem Skyphos 5 das Geschehen deutlicher lokalisiert: Säulenreihe und Altar lassen auf ein Heiligtum schließen. Das überraschte Paar versucht zu fliehen; dabei hat Periklymenos zwar noch Schwert und Mantel ergreifen können, seine Lanze und vielleicht auch den links an einer Säule lehrenden Schild hat er zurückgelassen. Möglicherweise gehören die Waffen aber auch Tydeus, von dem man sich dann vorstellen müßte, daß er dem Paar hinter den Säulen aufgelauert hat. Von der Komposition her gehört der Schild jedenfalls auf die Seite von Tydeus und Athena: links das waffenstarrende »Angreiferpaar« von überlegener Größe – beide Helmbüschel überschneiden das Rahmenornament – rechts die nahezu wehrlos fliehenden, von denen einer, der Mann, entkommen wird. Diese wohlüberlegte Komposition paßt ebensogut zur Geschichte von Tydeus und I., wie sie bei der Bedrohung der Helena durch Menelaos unpassend wäre. Deiphobos kann unmöglich von den ins Haus eindringenden Griechen so sehr überrascht worden sein – in der zur Deutung herangezogenen Odysseestelle (8, 517–520) ist von Kämpfen die Rede –, daß er in einem ersten Erschrecken sich zur Flucht gewandt haben könnte. Außerdem hatte er ja bekanntlich keine Chance zu entkommen; ihn fliehend zu zeigen, könnte nur den Sinn haben, ihn als feig zu charakterisieren. Menelaos bedarf in dem Moment, in dem er Helena niederstoßen will, nicht der massiven Unterstützung der Athena, die durch die Gruppierung auf dem Skyphos 5 ausgedrückt ist. Wenn Athena sonst in die Helenaszene einbezogen ist, tritt sie zwischen Menelaos und Helena (→ Helene 250), oder sie erscheint als Palladion, zu dem Helena flüchtet (→ Helene 272bis. 359. 361–362), nie feuert sie Menelaos an.

Auf dem Skyphos 5 ist die Deutung der Szene durch die Anordnung der vier Figuren sehr wahrscheinlich gemacht; in dem Schaleninnenbild 6, das sich auf einem Ausschnitt, auf zwei Figuren, beschränken muß, wäre ähnliche Sicherheit nur durch Namensbeischriften zu erzielen. Die Kline auf 6 kann als Hinweis auf das vorhergegangene Liebeslager gemeint sein; zwingend ist – ohne den fliehenden Liebhaber – dieser Schluß nicht. Der Vasenmaler hat sein beachtliches Können darauf konzentriert, die Brutalität des Überfalls herauszuarbeiten. Wenn der Maler Tydeus gemeint haben sollte, war sein Thema vor allem dessen Wildheit und Grausamkeit, weniger die Bestrafung eines gegen Athena gerichteten Frevels; I. wäre dann hier mehr hilfloses Opfer als Frevlerin.

Die Erzählung vom Frevel der I. scheint schon im Lauf des 5. Jh. langsam in Vergessenheit geraten zu sein; sie wird später nur noch in gelehrten Kommentaren zu den Tragödien überliefert. Das Bild der I. hat sich offensichtlich unter dem Einfluß der Sophokles-Dramen, vor allem der »Antigone«, gewandelt; von nun an war sie meist die freundliche, weniger energische, passivere Schwester der Antigone, und als solche wurde sie mehr und mehr zur Nebenfigur, vollends in der Bildkunst (I. 9), die ja die Sophokles-Dramen kaum darstellte. Eine Ausnahme macht der erst kürzlich bekannt gewordene Kelchkrater 2 mit der Darstellung des Oidipous auf Kolonos, auf dem I. möglicherweise mehr als eine Nebenrolle zukommt (zum Problem der Identifizierung s. im Kat.). Auf der apulischen Amphora 9 mit einer Szene aus einem Antigone-Drama ist eine Repertoirefigur inschriftlich als I. bezeichnet; durch ihre langen, lockigen Haare und die präziöse Geste, mit der sie an ihr Gewand faßt, ist sie von Antigone abgehoben als die zwar schönere, aber unbedeutende Schwester. Später scheint sie überhaupt nicht mehr oder jedenfalls nur noch äußerst selten dargestellt worden zu sein; jedenfalls ist uns nichts erhalten. Daß die alte Geschichte vom bestraften Frevel der I. auf etruskischen Urnen (7) noch einmal aufgegriffen und in wenig geglätteter Weise wiedergegeben wurde – außer dem Krieger und der Frau auf der Kline paßt nichts zur I.-Episode, vor allem fehlt der fliehende Liebhaber –, ist äußerst unwahrscheinlich.

INGRID KRAUSKOPF

ISMENE II

(Ἰσμήνη) Quellnymphe in Theben, Tochter des Flußgottes → Asopos, Gemahlin des Argos, Mutter des Argos Panoptes (→ Io I), Grossmutter der → Io (I) durch Iasos (Apollod. bibl. 2 [5] I, 3).

LITERARISCHE QUELLEN: Wie ihr Vater Asopos wurde I. mit Argos und den dortigen argivischen Genealogien verknüpft (Apollod. bibl. 2 [5] I, 3; Hes. frag. 294 Merkelbach/West). Wahrscheinlich ist die Quellnymphe I. auch mit der thebanischen Heroine I. (→ Ismene I) zu verbinden, die dem gleichnamigen Ort an der Mündung des → Ismenos ihren Namen gab und als Athenas Priesterin oder Tempeldienerin im Athenaheiligtum mit dem Poseidonsohn → Periklymenos (Theoklymenos) buhlte, dann auf Athenas Befehl von → Tydeus getötet wurde. Nach Pherekyd., FGH 3 F 95 tötete Tydeus I. bei einer Quelle, die daraufhin den Namen der I. trug. Danach muß I. in der älteren thebanischen Sage größere Bedeutung gehabt haben als später in ihrer sekundären Verbindung mit der → Oidipous-Sage, in der sie als Schwester der → Antigone in deren Schatten steht. In der Ikonographie lassen sich zwei Traditionen verfolgen: die der Quellnymphe I. und die der Antigoneschwester I.

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Bethe, E., RE IX 2 (1916) 2136 s. v. »Ismene 3«; Stoll, H. W., ML II 1 (1890–94) 550 s. v. »Ismene I«.

KATALOG

A. Ismene beim Drachenkampf des Kadmos

1. (= Demeter 464 mit Lit. und Querverweisen, = Harmonia 2, = Kadmos I 19 mit Lit., = Ismenos

2*) Hydria, att. rf. Ehem. Berlin, Staatl. Mus. F 2634. Aus Vulci. – ARV<sup>2</sup> 1187, 33: Kadmosmaler; Add<sup>2</sup> 341. – Um 420 v. Chr. – I. und der Flußgott Ismenos als einzige Figuren ohne Namensbeischrift beim Drachenkampf des Kadmos. I. in Chiton und Himation, das sie wie Thebe (die Personifikation der zukünftigen Stadt) über den Hinterkopf gelegt hat, wodurch sie dieser angeglichen ist. Die Flußgötter, mit Hermes in der Henkelzone dargestellt, sind mit dem Rücken zur Handlung wiedergegeben und wenden nur ihren Kopf dem Geschehen zu. Sie fungieren als Zeugen des Kampfes, dem die Götter der Amphiktyonien beiwohnen.

2. (= Aphrodite 1414, = Harmonia 3, = Kadmos 19* mit Lit.) Hydria, att. rf. Leningrad, Ermitage T 1859.2 (St. 2189). Aus Taman. ARV<sup>2</sup> 1187, 2: Art des Kadmosmalers. – Um 400 v. Chr. – I. in fußlangem Chiton mit Kreuzbändern nahe beim Luterion stehend, mit der r. Hand auf das Knie von Thebe (?) gestützt, die ihren Arm durch eine der Schlangenwindungen gestreckt hat. Kadmos und Athena (mit Nike) im Gespräch sind umgeben von Hermes und den ismenischen Nymphen (Paus. I, 31, 4). Hinter Kadmos sitzt Harmonia (mit Diadem). Das Luterion bei I. kann die Quelle und/oder das Brautbad für die Hochzeit der Harmonia andeuten.

3. (= Kadmos I 19a) Hydria, att. rf. Thessaloniki, Arch. Mus. A 61, T 3387. Aus Ierisso (Akanthos). – Unpubliziert. – Anfang 4. Jh. v. Chr. – Wie auf 2 ist Kadmos' Drachenkampf zu einem vielfigurigen Bild geworden, auf dem die Bedeutung der Ortsgottheiten auffällt. Zu den Lokalpersonifikationen der ismenischen Nymphen kommt neu ein Altar hinzu, der sich zwischen Athena und der Figur auf dem Felsen, Thebe (?), befindet. Die Mittelgruppe wird r. und l. von zwei weiblichen Figuren gerahmt. Hinter Kadmos wohl Harmonia wie auf 1 und 2 und Aphrodite (?). Auf der anderen Seite I. und Dirke (?).

4. (= Fluvii 30 mit Lit., = Harmonia 6, = Ismenos 3, = Kadmos I 23*) Glockenkrater, paest. rf. Neapel, Mus. Naz. 82258 (H 3226). Aus Sant'Agata dei Goti. – RVP 85, 132; 95–96 Taf. 52: Asteas (Sign.); Trendall, PP 23 ff. – Um 360/50 v. Chr. – In der oberen Region Ismenos (IMHNOE [sic]), der alte weisshaarige Flußgott, hier als König mit Zepter dargestellt, und eine Quellnymphe (KPHNAIH). Da Ismenos neben Krenaie, der Personifikation der Quelle, erscheint, darf wohl diese Nymphe als I. bezeichnet werden (s. Kommentar). Zwischen beiden Flußgottheiten erscheint die Sonne. Unterhalb der Geländelinie, hinter der die lokalen Flußgötter als Halbfiguren sichtbar werden, findet der Drachenkampf des Kadmos (Beischr.) mit Athene und einer königlichen Thebe statt. Thebe stützt sich mit dem l. Ellenbogen auf den Drachenfelsen und entschleiert sich vor dem alteingesessenen Flußgott Ismenos und der Quellnymphe I.

5. (= Ananke 1*, = Harmonia 7*, = Kadmos I 24 mit Lit.) Lekanisdeckel, paest. rf. Basel, Antikenmus. BS 1421. – RVP 108–109, 141 Taf. 61: Asteas; RFSIS 201 Abb. 359. – Um 340/35 v. Chr. – Auf der Rückseite des zweigeteilten Deckelfrieses sind zwei inschriftlich bezeichnete Ortsnymphen, I. (ISMHN[H]) und Thebe, dargestellt. I. ist mit übergeürtetem Peplos und langlockigem Haar gezeigt. Sie legt ihre l. Hand auf die Schulter der r. anschließend sitzenden Frau mit Fackelfrisur (ohne Namensbeischrift). Für diese kommen nur Harmonia oder Dirke in Frage. Die von Trendall a. O. 108–109 irrtümlich angegebene Beischrift «Dirke» ist aber auf der Vase nicht vorhanden (s. dazu Schmidt, M., Gnomon, im Druck). Links hinter I. sitzt wiederum die sich entschleiende Thebe mit reichverzierter Gewand und Zepter. Sie wendet ihren Kopf zu dem in ihrem Rücken dargestellten Drachenfelsen, der zur anderen Seite des umlaufenden Bildfrieses mit Kadmos, Ananke und Athena überleitet.

6. (= Aphrodite 1415, = Harmonia 5*, = Kadmos 125* mit Lit.) Kelchkrater, paest. rf. Paris, Louvre N 3157. Aus Sant'Agata dei Goti. – RVP 143, 241 Taf. 90: Python. – Um 330 v. Chr. – I. steht r. hinter einem Steinhügel, aus dem der Drache hervorschnellt. I. mit Peplos und einem Zweig in der Linken entschleiert sich vor Kadmos. Hinter Kadmos erscheint Harmonia mit einer Spendeschale; in einer oberen Region Hermes, Aphrodite (mit Spiegel), Pan und ein Satyr. Alle tauchen als Halbfiguren hinter einem Hügel auf; zwischen Hermes und Aphrodite die Sonne.

7. (= Kadmos 126* mit Lit.) Hydria, camp. rf. Boston, MFA 1969.1142. – LCS Suppl. 3, 185, 139a: Whiteface P. – 340/30 v. Chr. – Über dem von Kadmos erlegten Drachen ist ein Gebäude mit geöffneten Türen dargestellt (Grabnaiskos?, Quellhaus? oder Eingang zur Kadmeia oder eines der Tore von Theben?). R. vom Gebäude sitzt eine halbnackte, weißbemalte Nymphe, wohl I., die zum toten Drachen herunterblickt. L. vom Gebäude sitzt eine weibliche Figur mit Spendeschale (Harmonia?) zur Begrüßung des siegreichen Kadmos, vgl. 6.

B. Ismene zwischen Nymphen und Chariten

8. (= Charis, Charites 41*) Votivrelief, Marmor. Neapel, Mus. Naz. 6725. Aus Herculaneum. – Guida Ruesch 145; Horn, R., Stehende weibliche Gewandstatuen in der hellenistischen Plastik, RM Erg.-H. 2 (1931) 13 Taf. 7. – Frühes 3. Jh. v. Chr. (Horn). – Sechs Mädchen in Frontalansicht halten sich an den Händen wie zu einem Reigentanz. Die ersten drei tragen fußlangen Chiton und Himation, die nächsten drei ungegürtete Peploi mit genähten Ärmeln. Alle tragen das Haar hochgebunden. Es sind drei Chariten und drei Nymphen, alle mit Namensbeischriften (Euphrosyne, Aglaia, Thalia; I., Kykai, Eranno). Die letzte der drei Nymphen hält ein Kind (Beischrift Telonnesos) an der Hand, das gleich gekleidet ist wie die erwachsenen Nymphen. Möglicherweise ist das Relief aufgrund des Mädchennamens mit der Insel Telos unweit von Rhodos zu verbinden.

KOMMENTAR

Es gibt nur wenige sichere I.-Darstellungen. Auf den att. Hydrien 1–3. ist I. nur in Analogie zum paest.

Lekanisdeckel 5 zu erschließen, auf dem sie durch Beischrift benannt ist und im ähnlichen Kompositionsschema auftritt wie auf 2. Alle behandelten Vasen gehören zu dem am Ende des 5. Jh. v. Chr. entwickelten vielfigurigen Bildtypus, der für die unteritalischen Vasenbilder übernommen wird. Auf diesem Bildtypus wird die Quellnymphe I. aus ihrer alten Position bei Quelle und Drache verdrängt und durch Thebe ersetzt. I. wird zur zuschauenden Naturgottheit an den Rand des Geschehens versetzt, auf 1 in die Henkelzone, auf 2 und 5 einer anderen beiwohnenden Figur (Thebe oder Harmonia) attributiv zugesellt. Bei den paest. Vasen wird sie in eine obere Region gestellt, wo sie dann als Halbfigur erscheint (4) oder als herunterschauende Sitzfigur (7) teilnimmt. Bei den Verbildlichungen der Kadmosage fällt die Bedeutung der Ortsgottheiten auf, die durch ihre Verdoppelung noch zusätzlich unterstrichen wird: z. B. Ismenos und Krenaie (4), I. und Ismenos (1), Thebe und I. (2, 5, Beischriften). Aus den klassischen Vasenbildern ist ersichtlich, daß der Kampf um die Quelle geführt wurde, und daß die Quelle durch die Nymphe repräsentiert wurde (→ Harmonia 1 und 4; → Kadmos 13, 15–18). Einen Hinweis auf die Bedeutung des Quellwassers gibt auch die Form des Bildträgers, fast alle Vasen mit diesem Thema sind Hydrien, Gefäße zum Wasserholen, wie Kadmos sie selbst benutzt, um das Opferwasser zu holen.

Der Name der Drachenquelle scheint mehrmals gewechselt zu haben. Sie hieß wohl ursprünglich Ares-Quelle, weil der Ort von einem Drachen bewacht wurde, der als Sohn des Ares galt (Apollod. bibl. 3 [22] 4, 3, cf. Paus. 9, 10, 5), dann wurde sie zur Ismene-Quelle, weil die thebanische Heroine I. dort getötet worden war, danach nannte man sie Dirke-Quelle, weil Amphion und Zethos die sterbende Dirke in die Quelle geworfen hatten (Apollod. bibl. 3 [44] 5, 5) oder weil die Asche der Dirke nach ihrer Schleifung und Verbrennung dort hineingestreut worden war (Eur. Antiope, Seek, G. A., Euripides VI [1981] 93 frg. 223, 77–82; Hyg. fab. 7).

Jeder neue Tod und jede neue Bestattung in der Quelle führte demnach zu einem neuen Quellnamen, zum Weiterleben der Seele der Toten als Numen des Gewässers. So kam es dazu, daß der Maler von 4 KPHNAIH (Quellnymphe) neben seine Figur schrieb. Diese unbedingte Benennung der lokalen Quelle bestätigt die Wichtigkeit der Ortsgottheiten in der Kadmosage. Die siegreiche Bekämpfung des Drachen führte zur Gründung Thebens und zum Besitz der Quelle, deren Hüter Drakon nach Palaiph. 3 Festa König der Thebaner gewesen sein soll. Erst als Herr der Quelle konnte Kadmos Kistes von Theben werden. Die Flußgottheiten I. und Ismenos waren bei diesem Kampf als Zeugen notwendig, weil Kadmos kein Göttersohn war.

Man muß sich fragen, ob das plötzliche Anwachsen der thebanischen Themen auf Vasen wie bei den Münzen auf die Machtstellung Thebens in diesen Jahrzehnten zurückgeführt werden kann, und ob mit dem betonten Hinweis auf die Flußgottheiten I. und Ismenos vielleicht zugleich auf das in jener Zeit wich-tige thebanische Geschlecht mit dem theophoren Namen Ismenias angespielt werden sollte.

GRATIA BERGER-DOER

ISMENOS

(Ἰσμενός, Ἰσμενός, Ismenus) Flußgott des gleichnamigen Flusses von Theben, der bei der Kadmeia entspringt und sich außerhalb Thebens mit der → Dirke-Quelle vereinigt.

LITERARISCHE QUELLEN: I. galt als Sohn von → Okeanos und → Tethys (Hyg. fab. praef. 6) oder als Sohn des → Asopos (Apollod. bibl. 3, [156] 12, 6) und der → Metope (Mutter von → Thebe) oder des → Apollon und der Melia, einer Nymphe, die im Tempel- und Orakelbezirk Ismenion mit Apollon I. zusammen verehrt wurde und mit diesem einen Sohn Ismenios zeugte (Pind. P. 11, 3–7; Paus. 9, 10, 5–6; Schol. Lykophr. 1211). Die Entstehung des Flusses I. wurde von den Mythographen auch mit dem Niobidenmythos verbunden, indem sie I. zu einem Sohn der → Niobe machten, die mit → Amphion, einem der Urkönige Thebens, verheiratet war. I. wurde von Apollon verwundet und soll sich in den später nach ihm benannten Fluß I. gestürzt haben (Apollod. bibl. 3 [45] 5, 6; Hyg. fab. 11; Ov. met. 6, 224–229; Ps.-Plut. fluv. 2, 1).

I. selbst gilt als Vater der zwei thebanischen Quellen Dirke und Strophie (Kall. h. 4, 75–77). In Theben war I. mit Apollon gleichgesetzt und besaß einen uralten bedeutenden Kult, was noch in dem von Paus. 9, 10, 2–6 überlieferten Zedernholzbild des ismenischen Apollon von Kanachos nachklingt. Später wurde I. Epiklesis des Apollon in Theben. In Eur. Suppl. 1214 wird Theben «die Stadt des I.» genannt.

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Eitrem, S., RE IX 2 (1916) 2144–2145 s. v. «Ismenos»; Fröning, H., Dithyrambos und Vasenmalerei in Athen (1971); Stoll, H. W., ML II 1 (1890–94) 551 s. v. «Ismenos»; Weiß, Flußg.

KATALOG

A. Ismenos beim Drachenkampf des Kadmos

1.* (= Kadmos 116 mit Lit.) Kolonettenkrater, att. rf. Rom, Villa Giulia. Aus Gualdo Tadino (Umbrien). – Um 440 v. Chr. – I. als bärtiger Greis mit Stock hinter Athena, wohl als einheimischer Zeuge beim Drachenkampf, mit Kadmos und der bereits mit Diadem gekrönten Harmonia auf dem Drachenfelsen.

2.* (= Demeter 464 mit Lit. und Querverweisen, = Harmonia 2, = Ismene II 1, = Kadmos 119 mit Lit.) Hydria, att. rf. Ehem. Berlin, Staatl. Mus. F 2634. Aus Vulci. – ARV 1187, 33: Kadmosmaler; Add 341; Weiß 167 Kat. II F 2. – Um 420/10 v. Chr. – I. als nackter Jüngling mit Hörnchen, nur mit einem Kranz im kurzen Haar, als beobachtender Zeuge beim Drachenkampf des Kadmos. Unter I. Hermes und Ismene. Die Quellnymphe erscheint als Pendant zu Apollon. Außer den beiden zuschauenden Personifikationen des Ortes wohnen dem Kampf Athena, Poseidon, Demeter, Kore, Apollon, Artemis, Hermes, Nike und Eros bei (alle mit Namensbeischriften). Ebenso sind Kadmos, Harmonia und →Thebe mit Beischriften versehen. Nur die zuschauenden Flußgötter sind nicht benannt, werden aber allgemein als solche gedeutet (vgl. Weiß 167 und 3).

Ismenos 2

3. (= Fluvii 30, = Harmonia 6, = Ismene II 4, = Kadmos I 23* mit Lit.) Kelchkrater, paestan. rf. Neapel, Mus. Naz. 82258 (H 3226). Aus Sant'Agata dei Goti. – RVP 85, 132; 95–96 Taf. 52: Asteas (sign.): Weiß 168 Kat. I F 3. – Um 360/50 v. Chr. – I. (IMHNOE [sic]) als alter, weißhaariger König mit Zep-ter und verziertem Gewand erscheint als Halbfigur hinter einer Geländewelle und wird Zeuge des Drachenkampfes von Kadmos. Wie auf 2 sind Athena, Thebe und eine zweite weibliche Personifikation des Ortes, eine Quellnymphe (KPHNAIE, →Ismene II 4) als Zeugen zugegen, alle mit Namensbeischriften.

B. Ismenos in Darstellungen der Aktaionsage

4. (= Aktaion 44*) Glockenkrater, apul. rf. Göteborg, Röhsska Konstslöjd Mus. 13–71. Holmberg, E., Röhsska Konstslöjd Arsok 1969/70, 42 Abb.; Kossatz, Dramen 151 K 50; Schauenburg, K., JdI 84, 1969, 44; Weiß 117. – Um 350 v. Chr. – I. jugendlich nackt auf Chlamys sitzend, mit Schilfstengel zwischen den Beinen, wohl als Zeuge bei der Bestrafung des Aktaion durch Artemis. Nach Kossatz, Dramen 155 liegt diesem Vasenbild die Tragödie Toxotides von Aischylos zugrunde. Sie bezeichnet den Jüngling hinter Artemis als Pan, obwohl er durch kleine weiße Stierhörner und das Schilfrohr deutlich als Flußgott gekennzeichnet ist und sich dadurch von dem tiergestaltigen Pan I. über dem Henkel, der gebogene Bockshörner hat, unterscheidet. C. Weiß 116 hat richtig erkannt, daß der Flußgott I. hier auch als Zeuge erscheint. Zur Zeugenrolle von Flußgöttern vgl. Weiß 137. Ähnlich dargestellt ist der menschengestaltige, jugendliche Flußgott → Acheloos 259* mit Namensbeischrift und der Flußgott mit Muschelhorn auf → Aphrodite 1495* (dort falsch als Pan beschrieben).

5.* (= Aktaion 112 mit Lit., = Gargaphia I mit Lit.) Stamnos, apul. rf. Paris, Cab. Méd. 949. – RVP 1429, 71 Taf. 158, 3–4: Umkreis des Lykurgosmalers. – Um 350 v. Chr. – I. dargestellt wie auf 4, anstelle des Schilfrohrs hält er einen Lorbeerstamm wie sonst Apollon, weil I. in Theben Epiklesis dieses Gottes ist. Die Szene scheint entweder im Heiligtum der Artemis Eukleia zu spielen, für die Skopas ein Kultbild geschaffen hat (Paus. 9, 17, 1), oder im Ismenion. Im Zentrum steht nämlich ein Ölbaum, unter dem Aktaion, nur an den Hörnchen über der Stirn kenntlich, friedlich mit seinem Hund spielt. I. ist durch einen Zweig des Ölbaumes Apollon angeglichen. Die Nymphe unterhalb von I. scheint mit Artemis über Aktaion Gericht zu halten. Wenn die Szene am Kultbild der Artemis Eukleia spielt, könnte es sich bei der Nymphe, die unter I. sitzt, um Eukleia, die Personifikation des guten Rufes, handeln (vgl. → Eukleia 2* im gleichen Standmotiv), die in Theben mit Artemis gleichgesetzt war, wie I. mit Apollon. Wahrscheinlich basiert das Vasenbild auf einer anderen Version des Aktaionmythos, in der Aktaion die Göttin für sich begehrt und im Gespräch mit Artemis und Eukleia von der Unmöglichkeit seines Wunsches überzeugt werden soll (Diod. 4, 81, 4).

6. (= Aktaion 106*, = Gargaphia 5) Sarkophag, stadtröm., Marmor. Paris, Louvre 459. Aus Torrenova. – SarkRel III 2–5 Taf. 1; Koch/Sichtermann, RömSark 135 Abb. 267; Baratte/Metzger, SarkLouvre 49–55 n° 15. – Um 125–130 n. Chr. – I. als jugendlicher, halbnackter Flußgott lagert, seinen l. Arm auf eine Hydria gestützt, aus der Wasser für das Bad der «kauernden» Diana fließt, oben l. am Bildrand der Reliefszene. Als sein Pendant erscheint die Halbfigur des Aktaion hinter dem Felsen, nach Diana in der Wassergrotte spähend. Auch in der zweiten Szene der Frontseite des Girlandensarkophages liegt I. (mit Schilfstengel im r. Arm) und sieht dem Tod des Jägers Aktaion zu.

C. Ismenos beim Tod der Niobiden (→ Niobe, → Niobidai)

7.* (= Gargaphia 4 mit Lit.) Wandgemälde, röm. Neapel, Mus. Naz. 111479. Aus Pompeji VII 15, 2. – Schefold, WP 206; v. Wilamowitz-Möllendorf, U., BdI 1874, 52–53; Weiß, Flußg 116. – Um 30/40 n. Chr. – Die Niobiden starben durch die Pfeile von Apollon und Artemis, und zwar die Knaben am Kithairon, die Mädchen in Theben. Auf dem Fresko in Neapel sitzt I. mit Schilfstengeln und Füllhorn neben einer Quellnymphe mit Zweigen (Dirke?) vor einem Felsen mit Tempel. Sie schauen dem Tod der Niobiden zu. Wilamowitz nennt die Quellnymphe → Gargaphia und die männliche Ortspersonifikation → Kithairon. Die beiden Lokalgottheiten werden sonst allgemein als → Dirke und I. gedeutet. Noch Ov. met. 6, 159 nennt die Bewohnerinnen von Theben in seiner Version des Niobidenmythos «Ismenides».

KOMMENTAR

Daß die Bedeutung des Flußgottes I. in Theben weit über die einer Ortspersonifikation hinausgegangen sein muß, bezeugt nicht nur sein Erscheinen auf den griechischen Vasen vom mittleren 5. Jh. v. Chr. an bis zu den römischen Monumenten des frühen 2. Jh. n. Chr., sondern auch die in religiöser Hinsicht wichtigste Sage, die I. als Sohn Apollons und Eponym des Flusses I. kennt. Neben I. steht → Ismene (II) und der Hügel Ismenos, auf dem Orakelstätte und Tempel des Apollon I. lagen.

Darstellungen des I. lassen sich mit Sicherheit nur für die Kadmosage und den Aktaionmythos nachweisen, wobei sich die Darstellung des I. in der Kadmosage von seiner Verbildlichung bei Tod und Bestrafung des Aktaion unterscheidet. Einerseits wird I. als alter, weißhaariger König (I. 3) charakterisiert, dem die in mythische Vorzeit zurückreichende Bedeutung anzusehen ist. Vor allem, wenn er mit Dirke (3. 7) dargestellt ist, wodurch auf seinen Herrschersitz «Stadt des I.» angespielt wird. Andererseits wohnt I. als jugendlicher, menschengestaltiger Flußgott, dessen Stierhörner mit Kranz oder Binde im Haar befestigt scheinen, einmal dem Drachenkampf des Kadmos (2), sonst Bestrafung und Tod des Aktaion bei (4. 5. 6). Ob der Bedeutungsgehalt des Flußgottes I. eine reine Lokalpersonifikation meint, oder die Zeugenrolle auch auf den Bildern miteinschließt, bleibt dahingestellt. Nicht erforscht ist das Auftreten von I. im Mythos der Niobiden und im Sagenkreis um → Pen-theus.

GRATIA BERGER-DOER

ISMINTHIANS → Maris

ISTHMOS

(Ἰσθμός, Isthmus) Personifikation de l'Isthme de Corinthe (→ Korinthos, → Kenchrias).

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Amandry, M., Le monnayage des deux v. corinthiens, BCH Suppl. 15 (1988); Conticello, B., EAA IV (1961) s. v. «Isthmos»; Drexler, W., ML II 1 (1890–94) 553–554 s. v. «Isthmos»; Grunauer-von Hoerschelmann, S., «The Severan Emissions of the Peloponnesus», Israel Numismatic Journal 67, 1982–83, 44; Imhoof-Blumer/Gardner, NumComm-Paus (repr. 1964) 10–15. 154–155 n° 1–2. 6 pl. B-C. FF (= NumCommPaus).

CATALOGUE

Monnaies de Corinthe, époque impériale

Isthmos debout, seul

1a)* AE semis pseud autonome, Tibère, 32/3 ou 33/4 ap. J.-C. – BMC Corinth n° 682–683; NumCommPaus 14 n° 6 pl. C XXXIII–XXXIV; SNG Copenhagen n° 257–258; Amandry 62–63, 176–177. – Av. I. nu, debout de face ou marchant vers la dr., la tête tournée à dr. ou à g., les mains abaissées sur deux gouvernails posés obliquement à terre. Rv. Pégase (→ Pegasos) à dr. ou à g.

1b)* AE semis pseud autonome, Tibère. – SNG Copenhagen n° 254–256. – Rv. I. semblable. Av. Mélé-certe (→ Melikertes Palaimon) chevauchant un dauphin à dr.

1c)* AE as pseud autonome, Galba, 68/9 ap. J.-C. – Amandry 75, 227–229. – Rv. I. semblable. Av. Tête à dr. de Neptune (→ Poseidon/Neptunus).

1d)* AE, émissions coloniales, Domitien (81–96), Marc Aurèle (161–180), Septime Sévère (193–211), Caracalla (198–217). – Löbbecke, A., ZfN 10, 1883, 75 n° 18; BMC Corinth n° 584 pl. 19, 5; NumCommPaus 14 n° 6 pl. C XXXV–XXXVI; SNG Copenhagen n° 370. – Rv. I. debout, semblable. Variantes dans la position des bras abaissés sur les deux gouvernails.

Isthmos debout devant l'autel de Mélécerte

2.* AE, Marc Aurèle. – BMC Corinth n° 612 pl. 20, 12; NumCommPaus 10–11 n° 1 pl. B IV. – Rv. I. nu, debout de face, la tête à g., la main g. appuyée sur un gouvernail, la dr. étendue au-dessus d'un autel cylindrique qui porte Mélécerte chevauchant dauphin; à g. un arbre.

Isthmos assis, seul

3a)* AE, Hadrien (117–138). – NumCommPaus 14 n° 6 pl. C XXXVII. – Rv. Dans un temple tétrastyle à fronton triangulaire, I. nu, assis à g. sur un rocher, la jambe g. avancée, la main g. abaissée sur un gouvernail; il relève le bras dr. sur sa tête, retournée vers la dr.

3b)* AE, Septime Sévère. – BMC Corinth n° 646 pl. 21, 10; NumCommPaus 14 n° 6 pl. C XXXVIII. – Rv. I. dans la même attitude, sans le temple.

4.* AE, Hadrien. – BMC Corinth n° 590 pl. 19, 10; NumCommPaus 14 n° 6 pl. C XXXIX. – Rv. I. assis à g. sur un rocher, le torse nu, le bas du corps drapé; de sa main dr., il tient devant lui un gouvernail renversé. Lég. COL IVL COR ou ISTHMVS.

5.* AE, Julia Domna (193–217). – NumCommPaus, suppl. 154–155 n° 6 pl. FFV. – Rv. Dans un temple circulaire flanqué de deux arbres et couvert d'un toit conique orné de dauphins, I. nu, assis à g. sur un rocher, tenant un gouvernail sur son bras g. et une patère dans sa main dr. avancée.

Isthmos assis, avec → Ino et/ou Mélécerte

6a)* (= Ino 17 avec bibl.) AE, Domitien. – Rv. I. nu est assis vers la dr. sur un rocher, le pied g. posé sur un dauphin, la main g. abaissée sur un gouvernail; devant lui, Ino se précipite, portant le petit Mélécerte.

6b)* AE, Septime Sévère. – BMC Corinth n° 647 pl. 21, 11; NumCommPaus 12 n° 2 pl. B XXII. – Rv. Type semblable, inversé: I. est assis vers la g.

6c)* AE, Septime Sévère. – NumCommPaus 14. – Rv. I. assis à g., tenant palme et gouvernail; devant lui, Ino et Mélécerte.

6d)* AE, Septime Sévère. – NumCommPaus 11 n° 1 pl. B X. – Rv. I. semblable, assis à g., le bras dr. abaissé; devant lui, Mélécerte debout sur son dauphin.

Description de tableau (réel ou imaginaire?)

7. Tableau décrit par Philostr. im. 2, 16, 4: I. est peint sous l'aspect d'un dieu, se renversant sur la terre et reliant l'Adriatique et la mer Egée; près de lui un jeune homme, vraisemblablement le Léchaion, et des jeunes filles personnifiant soit l'autre port de Corinthe, → Kenchreai, soit les Mers (→ Thalassa).

COMMENTAIRE

Mis à part le tableau (imaginaire?) que décrit Philostrate (7), la personification d'I. n'est attestée que dans l'iconographie monétaire de Corinthe à l'époque impériale: auparavant, malgré toute son importance pour le commerce de la cité, l'Isthme ne semble pas avoir été considéré comme une divinité locale.

Il est fort peu probable qu'on doive aussi le reconnaître sur des monnaies sévériennes de Mothone: il s'agit plutôt d'un dieu marin, vraisemblablement → Poseidon. A Corinthe d'ailleurs, l'I. d'une monnaie de Marc Aurèle (2) a exactement la même attitude que Poseidon sur d'autres séries contemporaines (Num CommPaus 10-11 n° 1 pl. B VI).

I. apparaît pour la première fois sur des émissions pseudautonomes frappées sous Tibère (1a-b), indifféremment au droit ou au revers. Il est figuré comme un jeune homme nu tenant deux gouvernails, un dans chaque main, qui pourraient représenter les deux ports de Corinthe, le Léchaion et Kenchréai. Le même type, avec de légères variations, est repris par la suite, jusqu'à l'époque des Sévères (1c-d).

Dans les quelques cas où I. est figuré avec d'autres personnages (2. 6a-d), il paraît être étroitement associé au mythe d'Ino et de Mélicerte. Peut-être ne faut-il pas accepter sans réserves l'opinion d'Imhoof-Blumer et de Gardner qui voient dans le type d'I. assis (3-6), fréquemment placé dans un temple (3a. 5), une copie de la statue de culte: en effet des représentations parallèles (par exemple celle d'→Hermès à Patras) se retrouvent à la même époque dans le monnayage d'autres ateliers. Et l'on ne peut savoir avec certitude si l'apparition d'I. dans l'imagerie monétaire reflétait des réparations faites au Diolcos ou aux deux ports de Corinthe.

CHARIKLEIA PAPAGEORGIOU

ISTOR

Name eines jungen Mannes auf:

1. (= Doxa I mit Lit.) Bronzeste, praenestinisch. New York, Pierpont Morgan Library BL-64. - Schoene, R., AdI 1870, 335-344; Peter, R., ML II 1, 554-555 s. v. «Istor»; CPI I Nr. 45 Taf. 189. 193. 194 mit Lit.; Wachter, R., Altlateinische Inschriften (1987) 136-141. - Spätes 4./frühes 3. Jh. v. Chr. - Vor einer Säule mit einem angehefteten Schrifttäfelchen «leces» zwei Pferde, l. von ihnen Aiax Ilios, r. zwei Personen, die nach l. auf ein unbestimmtes Ziel blicken: Soresios, ein nackter Krieger mit Schwert und zwei Lanzen, und Agamemnon (Acmeneno), der sich auf einen Stab stützt. Hinter ihnen, von Agamemnon durch ein Stallfenster mit zwei Pferdeköpfen getrennt, l. ein junger Mann in einem knielangen, wie ein Himation getragenen Mantel, der, nachdenklich vor sich hinblickend, die Hand zum Gesicht führt; neben ihm ein in einen Peplos gekleidete Frau, Lavis, die die Rechte in einem Redegestus (?) erhoben hat.

Die Beischrift I. wurde schon früh mit dem griechischen istor in Verbindung gebracht und die Figur darum als Seher oder Zeuge interpretiert (Schoene a. O. 339. 342). Als Beleg für istor wird schon von Schoene (342 Anm. 3) die Stelle Hom. Il. 23, 486 angeführt; aber erst Wachter ist aufgefallen, daß in derselben Zeile auch Agamemnon vorkommt: «Ἰστορα δ' Ἀτρεΐδην Ἀγαμέμνονα Σείλομεν ἄμφω». Agamemnon soll dort den Schiedsrichter spielen in einem Wortgefecht, das bei den Leichenspielen für Patroklos zwischen Idomeneus und Aias, dem Sohn des Oileus (Αἴας Οἰλήιος), über der Frage entstanden ist, wer in der gerade in der Ferne sichtbar werdenden Gruppe von Pferdegespannen der erste ist; dargestellt war diese Szene z. B. auf einem homerischen Becher (Sinn, Becher 82 MB 13). Daß auch Aiax Ilios auf der Ciste erscheint, bestätigt Wachters Vermutung, daß die Beischrift I. einem Vorbild entnommen ist, auf dem ΑΓΑΜΕΜΝΩΝ ΙΣΤΩΡ bei der Gestalt des Agamemnon zu lesen war (freilich kann es sich kaum um eine Vase gehandelt haben, wie Wachter vermutet). An Stelle des rätselhaften Soresios müßte man in diesem Vorbild Idomeneus oder Achilleus erwarten; auch der vom Graveur irrtümlich als I. bezeichnete junge Mann müßte dann einer der das Rennen beobachtenden Griechen sein. Die gleich an zwei Stellen ins Bild gebrachten Pferde können nicht zu den am Rennen beteiligten Gespannen gehören, passen aber dennoch zur Szene, denn als Siegespreise waren unter anderem Pferde und schöngegrüdete Frauen ausgesetzt (Hom. Il. 23, 260-261). In diesem Kontext erscheint die Frage zumindest erlaubt, ob Lavis, in der griechischen Form Lais vor allem als Hetärenname bekannt, nicht eine dieser für die Sieger bestimmten Sklavinnen sein könnte. Ihr reicher Schmuck erscheint für eine solche nicht ganz passend; aber der Graveur, der seine Vorlage ja auch in anderen Punkten nicht ganz verstanden hat und außerdem für seine Gestalten durchaus auch die auf den Cisten üblichen Typen verwendet (so ist es kein Zufall, daß Aias vollgerüstet und Agamemnon im Himation erscheint, vgl. Kommentar zu → Iphigeneia [in Etruria]), könnte auch bei der Ausstattung der Lavis sich an seinen gewohnten Figurentypen, d. h. an reichgeschmückten Frauen, orientiert haben.

INGRID KRAUSKOPF

ISTROS

(Ἰστρος, Ister, Hister) Nom d'origine thrace (Kretschmer, P., Glotta 11, 1921, 280) donné par les anciens - tout comme → Danuvius - au Danube, le grand fleuve européen. Le dieu-fleuve portait, naturellement, les deux noms (→ Fluvii).

SOURCES LITTÉRAIRES: D'après Strabon 7, 3, 13 p. 304-305 le cours supérieur du Danube, depuis les sources jusqu'aux cataractes (les Portes de Fer), était appelé → Danuvius, tandis que le dernier tiers de son cours, des cataractes au Pont-Euxin, s'appelait I. Hes. theog. 337-339 nous apprend qu'I. est le fils d'Océan (→ Okeanos) et de → Tethys. I. eut comme fils → Ak-taios (II) et Héloros (Philostr. her. 157 Lannoy). Pour d'autres références littéraires, → Danuvius.

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Brandis, C. G., RE IV 2 (1909) 2132-2133 s. v. «Danuvius 2»; Conticello, B., EAA IV (1961) 248-249 s. v. «Istros»; Drexler, W., ML II 1 (1890-94) 555-558 s. v. «Istros 1»; Imhoof-Blumer, Fluß 173-421; Kroll, W., REIX 2 (1916) 2269 s. v. «Istros 6»; Pick, B., Die antiken Münzen Nordgriechenlands I 1. Dacien und Moesien (1898) 139-179. 328-518.

CATALOGUE

Monnaie d'Istros (Moesia Inferior)

1.* (= Acheloos 98) AE, IV<sup>e</sup>-III<sup>e</sup> s. av. J.-C. (Preda-Nubar), vers 200 av. J.-C. (Pick). - Pick 152. 167, 468 pl. 2, 26; Babelon, Traité II 4, n° 1673 pl. 352, 24; Imhoof-Blumer, Fluß 218, 110-111 pl. 4, 3-4; Preda, C./Nubar, H., Histria III (1973) 38-40. 110-119 n°s 333-474 pl. 5, 2. - Av. Tête de face du dieu-fleuve I. barbu, portant des cornes de taureau. Rv. Aigle sur dauphin (l'emblème de la cité) et ethnique.

Monnaies impériales de Nicopolis ad Istrum (Moesia Inferior)

2.* AE, Antonin (138-161). - Pick 348, 1220. - Rv. Dieu-fleuve jeune, imberbe, le torse nu, couché, tenant des roseaux dans la main dr., s'accoudant de la g. à un vase d'où jaillit de l'eau. Au-dessous trois poissons? Ethnique.

3. AE, Commode, Septime Sévère, Caracalla, entre 180 et 217. - Pick 352, 1238; 356, 1260; 360, 1278; 407, 1553. - Rv. Comme 2, mais barbu et sans poissons.

4.* AE, Commode (180-192). - Pick 352, 1235 pl. 17, 31; Imhoof-Blumer, Fluß 232, 146 pl. 5, 3. - Rv. Comme 3, mais I. tient dans la dr. un bâton ou une rame (?).

5.* AE, Septime Sévère, 193-211. - Pick 356, 1258-1259; 371, 1333. - Rv. Comme 3, mais il a dans la g. des roseaux.

6.* AE, Septime Sévère. - Pick 366, 1310-1311 pl. 17, 34. - Rv. Comme 3, mais le bras dr. entoure un arbuste.

7. AE, Julia Domna. - Pick 391, 1459. - Rv. Comme 6, mais la tête est couronnée de roseaux.

8. AE, Septime Sévère. - Pick 358, 1266; 367, 1314; Imhoof-Blumer, Fluß 232, 147 pl. 5, 4. - Rv. Comme 2, sans poissons, mais la dr. (tenant un rameau ou un roseau) est appuyée sur le genou dr.

9. AE, Septime Sévère. - Pick 372, 1339; 381, 1391. - Rv. Comme 3, mais corne d'abondance dans la main dr. (1339) ou dans la g. (1391).

10. AE, Septime Sévère. - Pick 366, 1312. - Rv. Comme 3, mais dans le champ un navire.

11. AE, Septime Sévère, Caracalla et Géta, entre 193 et 212. - Pick 360, 1277; 420, 1623. - Rv. Comme 3, mais dans la dr. des épis.

12.* AE, Caracalla. - Pick 411, 1575 pl. 17, 33; Imhoof-Blumer, Fluß 232, 148 pl. 5, 5. - Rv. Comme 3, mais dans la dr. un rameau.

13.* AE, Macrin (217-218). - Pick 450, 1761 pl. 18, 1; Imhoof-Blumer, Fluß 234, 151 pl. 5, 8. - Rv. Dieu-fleuve jeune, imberbe, assis complètement nu; il pose la main dr. sur la proue d'un navire, et du bras g. s'accoude à un vase d'où coule de l'eau.

14. AE, Macrin. - Pick 451, 1763. - Rv. Comme 6, mais imberbe et tenant dans la g. un rameau.

15.* AE, Macrin, Diaduménien (217-218). - Pick 451, 1762; 460, 1807 pl. 18, 4; Imhoof-Blumer, Fluß 234, 153 pl. 5, 10. - Rv. Comme 13, mais le torse seul est nu, et I. tient dans la g. un rameau; au-dessous, hydrie ou urne.

16.* AE, Macrin, Diaduménien. - Pick 437, 1697-1698 pl. 18, 3; 461, 1809. - Rv. Dieu-fleuve imberbe, assis, le torse nu; dans la main dr. il tient un roseau ou un rameau; dans le champ, proue de navire.

17. AE, Diaduménien, Élagabal, de 217 à 222. - Pick 460, 1806; 487, 1949-1950. - Rv. Dieu-fleuve imberbe, assis ou étendu, la main dr. (qui tient parfois un rameau) posée sur le genou, la g. (parfois avec un rameau) appuyée sur une urne d'où s'écoule de l'eau, ou bien sur un rocher.

18. AE, Élagabal (218-222). - Pick 488, 1951 pl. 17, 35. - Rv. Dieu-fleuve barbu, demi-nu, assis vers la dr., tenant dans la dr. un rameau, dans la g. une rame. Dans le champ une proue.

19. AE, Gordien III (238-244). - Pick 510, 2067 pl. 18, 2; Imhoof-Blumer, Fluß 235, 154 pl. 5, 11. - Rv. Comme 13, mais barbu, et le torse seul dénudé.

20. AE, Gordien III. - Pick 510, 2068-2069 pl. 17, 32. - Rv. Dieu-fleuve barbu, demi-nu, étendu vers la g.; il tient dans la main dr. un rameau, et du bras g. s'appuie sur une hydrie.

Monnaies impériales d'Istros (= Histria, Moesia Inferior)

21. AE, Julia Domna. - Imhoof-Blumer, Fluß 230, 141. - Rv. Comme 20, mais I. tient dans la dr. un dauphin et dans la g. un roseau.

22.* (= Danuvius 7) AE, Élagabal. - Pick 176, 511; Imhoof-Blumer, Fluß 230, 142 pl. 5, 1. - Rv. Comme 20, mais I. est couronné de roseaux, et tient un poisson dans la dr. et un roseau dans la g.; dans le champ, un phare.

23.* AE, Gordien III. - Imhoof-Blumer, Fluß 231, 143 pl. 5, 2. - Rv. Comme 20 (dans la dr. un roseau).

24. (= Danuvius 8) AE, Tranquillina (241-244). - Pick 179, 530; Imhoof-Blumer, Fluß 231, 144. - Rv. Comme 20, mais I. est couronné de roseaux, la main dr. sur une proue de navire.

DOCUMENT DOUTEUX

25. AE, I<sup>er</sup>-III<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - Exemple unique (?), anc. Tulcea (Roumanie), coll. privée. - Ruzicka, L., NumZ 1917, 106, 483a. - Av. Tête barbe, la chevelure ondulée; lég. ΙΕΤΡΟΣ. - Rv. →Hermès debout; lég. ΙΕΤΡΙ-ΗΝΩΝ (légendes avec sigma lunaire).

IDENTIFICATION INCERTAINE

26.* AR, diverses dénominations, V<sup>e</sup>-IV<sup>e</sup> s. av. J.-C. - Pick 149-150 («dieu ou dieux des vents», →Venti). 159-166 n°s 405-457 pl. 2, 20-23; Head, HN<sup>2</sup> 274 («le soleil levant et le soleil couchant»); Moisil, C., Buletinul Societății Numismatice Române (București) 16/40, 1921, 110-112 (les dieux → Pontos et I.); Ruzicka, L., Cronica numismatică și arheologică (București) 4/1, 1923, 2-4 (les deux embouchures du fleuve); Babelon, J., dans Mél. Ch. Picard I (1949) 26 (comme Eckhel, les Dioscures [→ Dioskouroi]); Hommel, H., dans Festschr. F. Altheim I (1969) 271 (comme Vossius et Ruzicka, les deux embouchures du Danube, qui d'après les croyances antiques s'ouvraient dans l'Adriatique et la mer Noire); Hind, J. G. F., NC 1970, 7-17 (I.). Av. Deux têtes juvéniles, côte à côte et tête-bêche (habituellement, celle de dr. est renversée). De petites différences entre les émissions, surtout dans la chevelure. Rv. Aigle sur dauphin (emblème de la cité) et ethnique.

COMMENTAIRE

En l'absence de l'indication du nom (c'est le cas le plus fréquent) il est presque impossible de distinguer les représentations du «Danuvius» de celles de «I». On peut tenter – sans beaucoup de succès – une répartition géographique ou chronologique. Si «I.» apparaît beaucoup plus tôt (Hes.) que «Danubius» (Caes. Gall. 6, 25), bien des auteurs antiques connaissent et emploient les deux noms. Toutefois, à l'époque impériale romaine, on préfère «Danuvius». Aussi en rassemblant les représentations d'I. faut-il toujours étudier celles de Danuvius. Par exemple la scène célèbre de la colonne Trajane, avec l'image du dieu-fleuve (→ Danuvius 2), se déploie en aval des Portes de Fer: faut-il nommer le dieu-fleuve I., en suivant Strabon, ou bien Danuvius, comme c'est l'habitude à l'époque de Trajan? Il nous semble que les représentations d'un dieu-fleuve sur les monnaies d'Istros (Histria) et de Nicopolis ad Istrum, en raison du nom même des deux cités, doivent être considérées comme des images d'I.

On voit qu'à une époque reculée (IV<sup>e</sup>-III<sup>e</sup> s. av. J.-C.) nous pouvons peut-être reconnaître I., représenté selon le schéma d'Achéloos, avec des cornes de taureau (1). Sur les monnaies impériales I. a une tout autre iconographie, conforme à un type très répandu dès l'époque hellénistique et qui connaît un grand succès à l'époque impériale aussi: il est représenté barbu, le torse nu, assis ou étendu, s'accoudant à un vase d'où jaillit de l'eau. Parfois sa tête est couronnée; dans les mains il tient des roseaux, un bâton ou une rame, des rameaux, des épis, la corne d'abondance et, seulement sur les monnaies d'Istros 21-22, un poisson. Dans le champ on peut aussi voir des poissons, un navire ou une proue de navire sur laquelle se pose une main du dieu et, une fois (22), un phare. Mais il existe aussi d'autres représentations du dieu-fleuve sous les traits d'un jeune homme imberbe, parfois complètement nu; la position et les attributs sont les mêmes. I. apparaît imberbe seulement sur les monnaies de Nicopolis ad Istrum, pendant les règnes de Macrin, Diaduménien et Élagabal (13-17), mais sous Élagabal on connaît aussi des émissions avec le type barbu (18). Imhoof-Blumer, Flußg 233, est d'avis que les représentations imberbes doivent être considérées comme des personifications d'une rivière près de Nicopolis, Iantra. Pick, 343, ne se prononce pas («daß der bärtige Flußgott den gewaltigen Istros, der unbärtige den Nebenfluß darstellen sollte, muß dahingestellt bleiben»).

Parmi toutes les monnaies énumérées, le nom du dieu-fleuve n'apparaît écrit que dans un seul cas (25). Sans l'inscription, la tête représentée sur 25 demeurerait impossible à identifier (elle n'a aucun attribut caractéristique d'une personification de fleuve). Le diamètre (env. 2,7 cm) et la légende de rv. de 25 (avec le sigma lunaire) invitent à la dater de l'époque impériale romaine et, en l'absence de l'effigie impériale, il convient de penser plutôt au I<sup>er</sup> s. ou à la 1<sup>re</sup> moitié du II<sup>e</sup> s. Mais le caractère unique de la monnaie 25, dont nous ignorons où elle se trouve aujourd'hui, soulève des soupçons quant à son authenticité: Imhoof-Blumer, Flußg, en fait abstraction.

Les deux têtes masculines imberbes 26, représentation étrange et sans analogie dans le monnayage grec, ont suscité beaucoup d'identifications. Si l'attribution de ces têtes au Soleil-Apollon ou aux Dioscures est peu vraisemblable (→ Dioskouroi), les considérer comme des dieux des Vents ou la personification du Danube (même à deux embouchures) reste, tout au plus, une hypothèse. MIHAI BĂRBULESCU

ITALIA

(Italia, Italia) Il nome era dapprima limitato all'estremità del Bruzio, l'odierna Calabria, a sud della linea che congiunge i golfi di E. Eufemia e di Squillace. Al tempo di Erodoto e di Tuciddide nel suo ambito rientravano anche località più settentrionali quali Metaponto e Taranto. Nel IV sec. a. C. per Aristoxenos di Taranto vi appartenevano anche i Romani. Nel trattato stipulato con Cartagine nel 306 a. C. Roma si riservava l'Italia (intendendo la parte meridionale) come sfera d'influenza (Cassola 87; Philinos di Agrigento, FGrH 174 F 1). Per Catone le Alpi sono le mura d'Italia. Nella seconda guerra punica, in quanto teatro di operazioni militari, essa è assegnata come provincia ai consoli. In un momento imprecisato del II sec. a. C. (dal 133, in coincidenza con le assegnazioni agrarie di Tiberio Gracco secondo Cuntz, O., Polybius und sein Werk [1902] 27-34) il suo confine nord-orientale è segnato dal fiume Rubicone, non ancora identificato con certezza; dal 41 a. C. – per la sua riorganizzazione ad opera di Ottaviano – dal Varo ad occidente e dall'Arsa ad oriente: viene ora finalmente raggiunta la coincidenza della realtà geografica con la sua unità giuridica.

Con la riforma di Diocleziano la dioecesis Italiae fu divisa in una pars annonaria (settentrionale) ed una pars urbicaria (centro-meridionale).

Il nome veniva variamente spiegato: secondo Antiocho di Siracusa derivava dal nome del re degli Enotri Italos, secondo Ellanico di Mitilene dalla parola «vitulus», vitello, termine che, nella lingua dei Siculi, designava uno dei capi fuggiti dalla mandria di Gerione (→ Herakles sez. IV L; → Geryoneus), che Eracle stava portando dall'Occidente in Grecia (considerata etimologia popolare dal Radke 1483; cf. anche Fest. 94 Lindsay). Durante la guerra sociale gli alleati Italici elevano a loro capitale Corfinium, che chiamano Italica. Esso coniano pure monete, sulle quali appaiono le più antiche rappresentazioni dell'I. personificata.

Poiché nella mitica età dell'oro sul Lazio aveva regnato Saturno (→ Kronos/Saturnus), l'appellativo tratto dal nome del dio viene esteso dai poeti a tutta l'I., chiamata «Saturnia tellus» o «Saturnia arva» (Dion. Hal.: Σατορμία).

FONTI LETTERARIE: Hdt. I, 24; 3, 136; 4, 15; Hellan., FGrH 4 F 111; Thuk. 8, 91, 2; Antiochos di Siracusa, FGrH 555 F 5; Aristoxenos di Taranto fig. 17 Wehrli; Philinos di Agrigento, FGrH 174 F 1; Cato orig., HRR 3 fig. 85; Dion. Hal. ant. I, 34, 5.

Saturnia tellus: Enn. ann. 21 Skutsch (Saturnia terra); Verg. Aen. 8, 329; georg. 2, 173. Saturnia arva: Verg. Aen. I, 569. Σατορμία: Dion. Hal. ant. I, 34, 5.

BIBLIOGRAFIA: Cassola, F., I gruppi politici romani nel III sec. a. C. (1962) 84-86; Catalano, P., «Appunti sopra il più antico concetto giuridico di Italia», Atti Torino 96, 1961/62, 198-228; Conticello, B., EAA IV (1961) 250-251 s. v. «Italia»; Drexler, W., ML II 1 (1890-94) 558-563 s. v. «Italia»; Gabba, F., «Il problema dell'unità dell'Italia romana», in La cultura italiana. Atti del Convegno della Società Italiana di Glottologia, Pisa 1977 (1978) 11-28; Lepore, E., «L'Italia nella formazione della comunità romano-italica», Klarchos 5, 1963, 89-113; Letta, C., «L'Italia dei mores romani nelle Origines di Catone», Athenaeum 62, 1984, 3-30. 416-439; Mazzarino, S., Il pensiero storico classico II 1 (1973) 96-102. 212-232; Radke, G., KIPauly II (1967) 1482-1484 s. v. «Italia II»; Scherling, K., RE Suppl. III (1918) s. v. «Italia», con integrazioni di Philipp, H.

Sulle monete della Guerra Sociale: Belloni, G. G., Le monete romane dell'età repubblicana (1960) 101-107; Bleicken, J., «Coniuratio, die Schwurszene auf den Münzen und Gemmen der römischen Republik», JNG 13, 1963, 51-70; Campana, A., La monetazione degli insorti italici durante la guerra sociale (91-87 a. C.) (1987); Crous, J. W., in Corolla Curtius (1937) 217-224; Sydenham, CRR 89-95.

Sulle personificazioni (ma limitatamente all'arte greca): Hamdorf, Kultpersonifikationen 25-32; Shapiro, Personification. Etimologia: Walde/Hof. I (1938) 723 s. v. «Italia».

CATALOGO

A. Monete della Guerra Sociale

a) Con iscrizioni latine

1. AR, denario. – Sambon, A., Les monnaies antiques de l'Italie (1903) 228; Belloni 102, 579; Sydenham, CRR 90, 617; Campana 54, 6. – D.: testa femminile a d., con elmo alato, orecchini e collana; dietro di essa l'iscrizione ITALIA. R.: Dioscuri a cavallo in direzioni opposte; in esergo: ITALIA. – Altra simile, ma con iscrizione del monetiere C. Papius Mutilus, in alfabeto osco e suddivisa tra D. e R.: Sydenham, CRR 93, 635; Campana 53, 3-4; altra simile alla precedente, ma con iscrizione ITALIA in alfabeto latino al D.: Sambon 228, 216; Sydenham, CRR 93, 636 tav. 19; Belloni 106, 596; Campana 53, 5.

2. AR, denario. – Sambon, o. c. I, 229; Sydenham, CRR 90, 618; Belloni 102, 580; Campana 97, 116. –

D.: testa femminile a d., con diadema, orecchini e collana. R.: Victoria (→ Nike/Victoria) seduta a d. con ramo di palma in mano; in esergo l'iscrizione ITALIA.

3. AR, denario. – Sambon, o. c. I, 235; Sydenham, CRR 91, 620 tav. 19; Belloni 101, 981 tav. 31; Kent/Hirmer, RömMünze tav. 13, 45; Campana 62-64, 35-54. – D.: testa femminile a s., con corona d'alloro, orecchini e collana; iscrizione: ITALIA. R.: otto guerrieri, quattro per parte, prestano giuramento con la spada puntata verso un porcellino, tenuto al centro da un sacerdos fetialis inginocchiato. – Simile, ma con iscrizione in alfabeto osco VITELIU: Sydenham, CRR 626 (messo in dubbio da Campana 133, 5 E). – Simile, ma senza iscrizione: Sydenham, CRR 92, 629; Campana 56-60, 7-34. – Simile, con iscrizione ITALIA al D., e solo sei guerrieri al R.: Sydenham, CRR 91, 621a; Campana 73, 81.

4. AR, denario. – Sambon, o. c. I, 232; Sydenham, CRR 91, 622 tav. 19; Belloni 102, 988; Campana 94-95, 109-115. – D.: testa femminile a d., con corona d'alloro, orecchini e collana; dietro di essa l'iscrizione ITALIA. R.: figura femminile (I.?) seduta su scudi, rivolta a s., coronata da una Victoria. – Simile, ma senza iscrizione al D., e con iscrizione ITALIA in esergo al R.: Sydenham, CRR 91, 624 tav. 19; Campana 92-93, 106-108. Il tipo del R. riprende quello di denari romani di poco anteriori (Crawford, RRC n° 335/1a-c. 2), in cui la figura seduta sugli scudi è la personificazione di → Roma: Crous, J. W., in Corolla L. Curtius (1937) 217-224.

b) Con iscrizioni in alfabeto osco

5. AR, denario. – Sambon o. c. I, 227; Sydenham, CRR 92, 625; Belloni 104, 585; Campana 50, 1-2. – D.: testa femminile a d., con elmo alato e protomi di grifone, orecchini e collana. R.: Dioscuri a cavallo verso d.; in esergo l'iscrizione VITELIU.

6. AR, denario. – Sambon, o. c. I, 225; Sydenham, CRR 92, 627 tav. 19; Belloni 103, 969 tav. 31; Campana 99-106, 119-147. – D.: testa femminile a s., con corona d'alloro, orecchini e collana; dietro di essa l'iscrizione VITELIU. R.: soldato che calpesta un'insegna militare romana (o la lupa?).

c) Senza iscrizioni

7. AR, denario. – Sambon, o. c. I, 240; Sydenham, CRR 92, 630 tav. 19; Belloni 105, 588; Campana 120-121, 164-173. – D.: testa femminile a s. con elmo crestato ed egida, coronata da Victoria. R.: soldato che calpesta un'insegna militare romana, tro-paion (Scherling 1298; Campana: Minerva).

8. AR, denario. – Sambon o. c. I, 239; Sydenham, CRR 93, 632 tav. 19; Belloni 104, 1004 tav. 31; Kent/Hirmer, RömMünze tav. 13, 47; Campana 123-124, 174-182. – D.: testa femminile a d., con elmo ed egida, coronata da Victoria. R.: due personaggi in abito militare si stringono la mano; a d. l'akrostolion di una nave. Per le possibili esegesi del R.: Campana 125-126 (allusione all'alleanza tra la lega italica e Mitridate VI, oppure allo sbarco di C. Mario a Talamone nell'87 a. C., oppure alla pace di Dardano, che nell'85 a. C. concluse la prima guerra mitridatica).

B. Monete romane repubblicane

9.* (= Homonoia/Concordia 134 con bibl.) AR denario, Q. Fufius Calenus e, possibilmente, P. Mucius Scaevola Cordus, ca. 70 a. C. - Belloni XXXVI. 175, 1650-1652 tav. 44; Crawford, RRC 413, 403 tav. 50, 7. - D.: teste di Honos (= Honos 8) e → Virtus a d. (identificate da iscrizioni). R.: → Roma, rivolta a s., il piede d. su un globo, in abito amazzonio, e l'I., in abito lungo e con una cornucopia in mano, si stringono la mano.

C. Fertilità dell'Italia

10. (= Aurai 4*) Roma, Ara Pacis, pannello orientale sinistro. - Momigliano, A., JWarbInst 5, 1942, 228-231 (= Quinto contributo alla storia degli studi classici e del mondo antico II, Storia e Letteratura [1975] 847-855); Moretti, G., Ara Pacis Augustae (1948) tavv. 23-24; Galinski, G. K., AJA 70, 1966, 223-243; Simon, E., Ara Pacis Augustae (1967) 27; eadem, in Helbig<sup>4</sup> II n° 1937; Torelli, M., Typology and Structure of Roman Historical Reliefs (1982) 39-42; La Rocca, E., Ara Pacis Augustae (1983) 43-48; Simon, E., Augustus, Kunst und Leben in Rom um die Zeitwende (1986) 36-38 fig. 37; Zanker, P., Augustus und die Macht der Bilder (1987) 175-179 figg. 135-136; Settis, S., in Kaiser Augustus und die verlorene Republik (cat. mostra Berlino 1988) 413-414, 423, 425 Kat. 227. - 9 a. C. - Al centro una figura femminile di aspetto matronale, seduta verso d., con due bambini sulle braccia, il capo coperto dal mantello e cinto da una corona di fiori e frutti, e con altri frutti in grembo; ai suoi piedi una giovenca ed una pecora; ai lati, a s. piante palustri, a d. un cespoglio di spighe e papaveri. A s. una figura femminile seminuda seduta su di un cigno in volo, a d. un'altra figura femminile seminuda seduta su di una pistrice, entrambe velificantes, probabilmente due Aurai di terra e di mare. La figura centrale non corrisponde alla tipologia di → Ge, rappresenta di solito emergente con il busto dal suolo, ma ricorda piuttosto quella delle personificazioni locali. È possibile che, invece di → Tellus, essa rappresenti l'I. nello spirito dell'elogio virgiliano (Verg. georg. 2, 136-176): l'I. era stata oggetto di particolari cure da parte di Augusto ed appare un pendant appropriato alla personificazione di Roma sul pannello di destra. Il cigno dell'aura di s. ricorda quelli del fregio a girali del lato esterno dell'ara, che alludono al ritorno dell'età dell'oro e del regno di Saturno (→ Kronos/Saturnus), quali conseguenze della pax Augusta; caratteristico dell'abito di Saturno è il mantello che gli copre il capo. Se queste considerazioni sono fondate, l'I. appare allora come Saturnia Tellus, ed i due bimbi nelle sue braccia sono probabilmente → Karpoi, i frutti della terra; assieme agli animali ai suoi piedi, essi esaltano la fertilità. Ciò potrebbe anche spiegare la ricorrente proposta di riconoscervi → Tellus (La Rocca) o Terra Mater (Momigliano, Settis). La contrapposizione Roma-I., entrambe al centro della politica augustea, sembra però preferibile a quella, troppo astratta, di Roma-Tellus (semmai → Oikoumene). L'identificazione con I. è stata proposta da van Buren, A. W., JRS 3, 1913, 134-141; ad una molteplicità di significati: Pax-Venus-Tellus, pensano Galinski e Torelli (contra: Settis, o. c. 413); Zanker vi riconosce invece → Pax, iconograficamente assimilata a Tellus e Venus nelle sue funzioni di dea della fecondità.

D. Monumenti celebranti l'institutio alimentaria

11.* AE asse, dupondio e sesterzio, Traiano, zecca di Roma, 104-111 d. C. - BMC Emp III 184, 870-872 tav. 33, 2; Fittschen, K., AA 1972, 749 fig. 6; 750 n. 25, b. - R.: Traiano, togato, seduto verso s. su una sella curulis, tende la d. ad una donna stante dinanzi a lui, che posa la d. sul capo di un bambino e porta un secondo bambino sulla spalla. Iscrizione: ALIM ITAL.

12. Uno dei due «anaglypha Traiani». Roma, Curia Senatus. Dal Foro Romano. - Hammond, M., MAAR 21, 1953, 129-180; Nash, TopRom II 176 fig. 202; Rüdiger, H., APL 12, 1973, 167-168 tav. 68b; Torelli, o. c. 10, 91 tav. 4, 7 (con datazione in età traiana; riconosce nella scena un congiarium ed interpreta il gruppo come un monumento rilevante nella topografia del Foro). - Prima età adrianea. - La scena è ambientata nel Foro Romano: a s. adlocutio dell'imperatore su rostra aziazi, a d. il Marsias e la figus ruminialis. Tra di essi, sullo sfondo della Basilica Iulia, un monumento cui fa probabilmente riferimento l'imperatore nel suo discorso: su di una base poggia un gruppo scultoreo, che dobbiamo raffigurarci a tutto tondo. A d. l'imperatore seduto, togato, rivolto verso una donna stante dinanzi a lui, vestita classicamente con peplo e himation, che tiene con il braccio s. un bambino, mentre un secondo bambino doveva essere al suo fianco d. Si tratta certamente della personificazione dell'I., ed il rilievo celebra l'istituzione degli alimenta.

13.* Arco di Traiano, Benevento, rilievo interno destro (uscendo dalla città) del fornice. - Hassel, F. J., Der Traiansbogen in Benevent (1966) 9-10 tav. 1, 1; Fittschen, o. c. 11, 746 fig. 2; Rotili, M., L'arco di Traiano a Benevento (1972) 98 tav. 54, 65; Simon, E., «Die Götter am Traiansbogen zu Benevent» TrierWPr 1/2, 1979, 4 tav. 4, 1. - 114 d. C. - A s. l'imperatore con alcuni funzionari; il funzionario vicino al centro è in atto di distribuire il denaro ai beneficiari dell'institutio, rappresentati a d. Quattro figure femminili con corone turre, evidentemente personificazioni di città e regioni, appaiono sullo sfondo a d. Di esse quella più vicina al centro, in colloquio con il funzionario imperiale, è messa in risalto, oltre che dalla sua posizione, anche dal velo che le copre il capo; probabilmente si tratta della personificazione di I. (Hassel, Fittschen, Rotili: Beneventum).

E. Monete con l'imperatore restitutor Italiae

14.* AU aureo, Traiano, zecca di Roma, 106 d. C. - BMC Emp III 85, 404 tav. 15, 19; Fittschen, o. c. 11, 749 fig. 8; 750 n. 25; Simon, o. c. 13, 4 tav. 18, 5. 6. - R.: Traiano, togato, stante, con un rolo nella s., tende la mano d. all'I. inginocchiata, con corona turrata sul capo; tra di loro due bambini. Iscrizione: RESTITUTOR ITALIAE nell'esergo.

15. AR denario, Adriano, zecca di Roma. - BMC Emp III 352; stesso tipo anche sull'aureo RIC II 378, 328. Esso appartiene ad una serie dedicata alle province: v. Toynbee, J. M. C., The Hadrianic School (1934) 7-130. - R.: Adriano, togato, stante a d., rialza l'I. inginocchiata. Iscrizione: RESTITUTORI ITALIAE.

16.* AE sesterzio, Marco Aurelio, zecca di Roma, 172-173 d. C. - BMC Emp IV 629-630, 1449-1452 tav. 83, 2. - R.: a d. l'imperatore loricato tende la mano d. per rialzare l'I. inginocchiata davanti a lui, con una corona turrata sul capo. Iscrizione: RESTITUTORI ITALIAE. Stesso tipo anche sul sesterzio coniato a Roma nel 173-174: BMC Emp IV 634, *.

F. Scene di adventus

17.* AU aureo, Adriano, zecca di Roma, 134-138 d. C. - BMC Emp III 340, 788-792 tav. 62, 13-14; Toynbee, o. c. 15, 106-116 tav. 4, 26-31. - A d. I. stante con cornucopia, in atto di libare su un altare; a s. l'imperatore togato. Iscrizione: ADVENTUS AVG ITALIAE. Stesso tipo anche su asse, dupondio e sesterzio: RIC II 454, 888-889; Toynbee, o. c. 15, 106 n. 3, d. f tav. 4, 27, 29.

G. Italia seduta

18.* AR denario, Antonino Pio, zecca di Roma, 140-144 d. C. - BMC Emp IV 32, 214-215 tav. 5, 11; 36, 234-235 tav. 6, 7; 38, 246-250 tav. 6, 12; Conticello 250 fig. 295. - I. seduta su globo, rivolta a s., con corona turrata, cornucopia nella d. e scettro nella s. In alcune emissioni è esplicitamente identificata da un'iscrizione. Stesso tipo anche su dupondio e sesterzio: BMC Emp IV 190, *; 264-265, 1641-1646 tav. 39, 11; 277, 1719 tav. 41, 12.

19.* AE sesterzio, Commodo, zecca di Roma, 183-195 d. C. - BMC Emp IV 796, 549 tav. 105, 7; 799, 554-555 tav. 106, 2; 801, §. - Tipo simile al precedente; iscrizione ITALIA.

20. AR denario, Caracalla, zecca di Roma, 201-206 d. C. - BMC Emp V 209, *. - Stesso tipo del precedente. Iscrizione: INDVLGENTIA AVGG IN ITALIAM. Stesso tipo anche su denari di Settimio Severo, 201-210 d. C.: BMC Emp V 218, 339 tav. 35, 15.

21.* AE sesterzio, Geta, zecca di Roma, 211 d. C. - BMC Emp V 428, 45-46 tav. 66, 6. - R.: I. seduta a s., con scettro nella d. e cornucopia nella s. Ai suoi piedi, a s. una figura drappaggiata con cornucopia, seduta verso

s., a d. una figura seminuda recumbente verso d., con un vaso e delle canne(?).

H. Italia stante, sola

22.* AR denario, Adriano, zecca di Roma, 134-138 d. C. - BMC Emp III 347, 850-854 tav. 63, 14. - R.: I. stante a s., con scettro nella d. e cornucopia nella s. Iscrizione ITALIA. Il tipo appartiene ad una serie celebrante le province, per cui v. Toynbee, o. c. 15, 106-116 tav. 4, 24. Possibilmente già su denari e sesterzi di Traiano, zecca di Roma, 112-117 d. C.: BMC Emp III 96, 468-473 tav. 17, 6, 7; Fittschen, o. c. 11, 749 fig. 5; 750 n. 25, a: figura femminile stante di prospetto, con cornucopia nella s., corona di spighe sul capo, tiene con la d. un mazzo di spighe sopra la testa di un bambino togato.

23. Notitia Dignitatum. - Seeck, O., Notitia Dignitatum (1876) 108; Bibliothèque Nationale, Département des Manuscrits, Notitia Dignitatum Imperii Romani, reproduction réduite des 105 miniatures du manuscrit latin 9661 de la Bibliothèque Nationale (s. d.) n° 63; Berger, P. C., The Insignia of the Notitia Dignitatum. A Contribution to the Study of Late Antique Illustrated Manuscripts (1981) tav. 47. Per i manoscritti illustrati della Notitia: Alexander, J. J. G., in: Goodburn, R./Bartholomew, P. (ed.), Aspects of the Notitia Dignitatum, Papers Presented to the Conference in Oxford, 1974 (BAR Suppl. Series 15, 1976) 11-50. - IV sec. d. C. - Figura femminile nimbat, stante, riccamente vestita, che tiene in mano una lanx(?).

COMMENTO

Le raffigurazioni dell'I., relativamente scarse e tarde, sono di carattere diverso, a seconda del periodo storico cui appartengono. Le più antiche si trovano su monete di età tardo-repubblicana, ma coniate non a Roma, bensì dagli Italici ai tempi della guerra sociale (90-88 a. C., I-8). In accordo con la composizione etnico-linguistica della lega, ed a seconda pure della zecca, le monete portano l'iscrizione in alfabeto latino ITALIA oppure quella in alfabeto osco VITELIU, che consentono di identificare le teste femminili, dai tratti alquanto generici, ornate di collana e orecchini e talvolta di corona d'alloro (3, 4, 6), oppure, più marzialmente, coperta da un elmo (1, 5, 7, 8) con la personificazione dell'I. L'identificazione è possibile anche per alcune delle teste non accompagnate da iscrizione (7, 8), mentre in altri casi si tratta più probabilmente di altre divinità (→ Athena/Menerva 36). Queste prime raffigurazioni dell'I. presentano un aspetto nuovo: a differenza delle personificazioni di poleis, o entità geografiche (come → Hellas e → Salamis sul trono di Zeus ad Olimpia (Paus. 5, 11, 5; Hamdorf, Kultpersonifikationen 27), esse impersonano un concetto astratto quale può essere uno stato federale. Sulle monete che celebrano la riconciliazione tra Roma e gli alleati (9) l'I. ha invece il carattere di una normale personificazione geografica.

Talamone nell'87 a. C., oppure alla pace di Dardano, che nell'85 a. C. concluse la prima guerra mitridatica).

B. Monete romane repubblicane

9.* (= Homonoia/Concordia 134 con bibl.) AR denario, Q. Fufius Calenus e, possibilmente, P. Mucius Scaevola Cordus, ca. 70 a. C. - Belloni XXXVI. 175, 1650-1652 tav. 44; Crawford, RRC 413, 403 tav. 50, 7. - D.: teste di Honos (= Honos 8) e → Virtus a d. (identificate da iscrizioni). R.: → Roma, rivolta a s., il piede d. su un globo, in abito amazzonio, e l'I., in abito lungo e con una cornucopia in mano, si stringono la mano.

C. Fertilità dell'Italia

10. (= Aurai 4*) Roma, Ara Pacis, pannello orientale sinistro. - Momigliano, A., JWarblinst 5, 1942, 228-231 (= Quinto contributo alla storia degli studi classici e del mondo antico II, Storia e Letteratura [1975] 847-855); Moretti, G., Ara Pacis Augustae (1948) tavv. 23-24; Galinski, G. K., AJA 70, 1966, 223-243; Simon, E., Ara Pacis Augustae (1967) 27; eadem, in Helbig<sup>4</sup> II n° 1937; Torelli, M., Typology and Structure of Roman Historical Reliefs (1982) 39-42; La Rocca, E., Ara Pacis Augustae (1983) 43-48; Simon, E., Augustus, Kunst und Leben in Rom um die Zeitwende (1986) 36-38 fig. 37; Zanker, P., Augustus und die Macht der Bilder (1987) 175-179 figg. 135-136; Settis, S., in Kaiser Augustus und die verlorene Republik (cat. mostra Berlino 1988) 413-414. 423. 425 Kat. 227. - 9 a. C. - Al centro una figura femminile di aspetto matronale, seduta verso d., con due bambini sulle braccia, il capo coperto dal mantello e cinto da una corona di fiori e frutti, e con altri frutti in grembo; ai suoi piedi una giovenca ed una pecora; ai lati, a s. piante palustri, a d. un cespito di spighe e papaveri. A s. una figura femminile seminuda seduta su di un cigno in volo, a d. un'altra figura femminile seminuda seduta su di una pistrice, entrambe velificantes, probabilmente due Aurai di terra e di mare. La figura centrale non corrisponde alla tipologia di → Ge, rappresenta di solito emergente con il busto dal suolo, ma ricorda piuttosto quella delle personificazioni locali. È possibile che, invece di → Tellus, essa rappresenti l'I. nello spirito dell'elogio virgiliano (Verg. georg. 2, 136-176): l'I. era stata oggetto di particolari cure da parte di Augusto ed appare un pendant appropriato alla personificazione di Roma sul pannello di destra. Il cigno dell'aura di s. ricorda quelli del fregio a girali del lato esterno dell'ara, che alludono al ritorno dell'età dell'oro e del regno di Saturno (→ Kronos/Saturnus), quali conseguenze della pax Augusta; caratteristico dell'abito di Saturno è il mantello che gli copre il capo. Se queste considerazioni sono fondate, l'I. appare allora come Saturnia Tellus, ed i due bimbi nelle sue braccia sono probabilmente → Karpoi, i frutti della terra; assieme agli animali ai suoi piedi, essi esaltano la fertilità. Ciò potrebbe anche spiegare la ricorrente proposta di riconoscervi → Tellus (La Rocca) o Terra Mater (Momigliano, Settis). La contrapposizione Roma-I., entrambe al centro della politica augustea, sembra però preferibile a quella, troppo astratta, di Roma-Tellus (semmai → Oikoumene). L'identificazione con I. è stata proposta da van Buren, A. W., JRS 3, 1913, 134-141; ad una molteplicità di significati: Pax-Venus-Tellus, pensano Galinski e Torelli (contra: Settis, o. c. 413); Zanker vi riconosce invece → Pax, iconograficamente assimilata a Tellus e Venus nelle sue funzioni di dea della fecondità.

D. Monumenti celebranti l'institutio alimentaria

11.* AE asse, dupondio e sesterzio, Traiano, zecca di Roma, 104-111 d. C. - BMC Emp III 184, 870-872 tav. 33, 2; Fittschen, K., AA 1972, 749 fig. 6; 750 n. 25, b. - R.: Traiano, togato, seduto verso s. su una sella curulis, tende la d. ad una donna stante dinanzi a lui, che posa la d. sul capo di un bambino e porta un secondo bambino sulla spalla. Iscrizione: ALIM ITAL.

12. Uno dei due «anaglypha Traiani». Roma, Curia Senatus. Dal Foro Romano. - Hammond, M., MAAR 21, 1953, 129-180; Nash, TopRom II 176 fig. 202; Rüdiger, H., APL 12, 1973, 167-168 tav. 68b; Torelli, o. c. 10, 91 tav. 4, 7 (con datazione in età traiana; riconosce nella scena un congiarium ed interpreta il gruppo come un monumento rilevante nella topografia del Foro). - Prima età adrianea. - La scena è ambientata nel Foro Romano: a s. adlocutio dell'imperatore su rostra aziazi, a d. il Marsias e la figura ruminalis. Tra di essi, sullo sfondo della Basilica Iulia, un monumento cui fa probabilmente riferimento l'imperatore nel suo discorso: su di una base poggia un gruppo scultoreo, che dobbiamo raffigurarci a tutto tondo. A d. l'imperatore seduto, togato, rivolto verso una donna stante dinanzi a lui, vestita classicamente con peplo e himation, che tiene con il braccio s. un bambino, mentre un secondo bambino doveva essere al suo fianco d. Si tratta certamente della personificazione dell'I., ed il rilievo celebra l'istituzione degli alimenta.

13.* Arco di Traiano, Benevento, rilievo interno destro (uscendo dalla città) del fornice. - Hassel, F. J., Der Traiansbogen in Benevent (1966) 9-10 tav. 1, 1; Fittschen, o. c. 11, 746 fig. 2; Rotili, M., L'arco di Traiano a Benevento (1972) 98 tav. 54, 65; Simon, E., «Die Götter am Traiansbogen zu Benevent» TrierWPr 1/2, 1979, 4 tav. 4, 1. - 114 d. C. - A s. l'imperatore con alcuni funzionari; il funzionario vicino al centro è in atto di distribuire il denaro ai beneficiari dell'institutio, rappresentati a d. Quattro figure femminili con corone turrite, evidentemente personificazioni di città e regioni, appaiono sullo sfondo a d. Di esse quella più vicina al centro, in colloquio con il funzionario imperiale, è messa in risalto, oltre che dalla sua posizione, anche dal velo che le copre il capo; probabilmente si tratta della personificazione di I. (Hassel, Fittschen, Rotili: Beneventum).

E. Monete con l'imperatore restitutor Italiae

14.* AU aureo, Traiano, zecca di Roma, 106 d. C. - BMC Emp III 85, 404 tav. 15, 19; Fittschen, o. c. 11, 749 fig. 8; 750 n. 25; Simon, o. c. 13, 4 tav. 18, 5. 6. - R.: Traiano, togato, stante, con un rotolo nella s., tende la mano d. all'I. inginocchiata, con corona turrita sul capo; tra di loro due bambini. Iscrizione: RESTITUTOR ITALIAE.

15. AR denario, Adriano, zecca di Roma. - BMC Emp III 352; stesso tipo anche sull'aureo RIC II 378, 328. Esso appartiene ad una serie dedicata alle province: v. Toynbee, J. M. C., The Hadrianic School (1934) 7-130. - R.: Adriano, togato, stante a d., rialza l'I. inginocchiata. Iscrizione: RESTITVTORI ITALIAE.

16.* AE sesterzio, Marco Aurelio, zecca di Roma, 172-173 d. C. - BMC Emp IV 629-630, 1449-1452 tav. 83, 2. - R.: a d. l'imperatore loricato tende la mano d. per rialzare l'I. inginocchiata davanti a lui, con una corona turrita sul capo. Iscrizione: RESTITVTORI ITALIAE. Stesso tipo anche sul sesterzio coniato a Roma nel 173-174: BMC Emp IV 634, *.

F. Scene di adventus

17.* AU aureo, Adriano, zecca di Roma, 134-138 d. C. - BMC Emp III 340, 788-792 tav. 62, 13-14; Toynbee, o. c. 15, 106-116 tav. 4, 26-31. - A d. I. stante con cornucopia, in atto di libare su un altare; a s. l'imperatore togato. Iscrizione: ADVENTVI AVG ITALIAE. Stesso tipo anche su asse, dupondio e sesterzio: RIC II 454, 888-889; Toynbee, o. c. 15, 106 n. 3, d. f tav. 4, 27. 29.

G. Italia seduta

18.* AR denario, Antonino Pio, zecca di Roma, 140-144 d. C. - BMC Emp IV 32, 214-215 tav. 5, 11; 36, 234-235 tav. 6, 7; 38, 246-250 tav. 6, 12; Conticello 250 fig. 295. - I. seduta su globo, rivolta a s., con corona turrita, cornucopia nella d. e scettro nella s. In alcune emissioni è esplicitamente identificata da un'iscrizione. Stesso tipo anche su dupondio e sesterzio: BMC Emp IV 190, *; 264-265, 1641-1646 tav. 39, 11; 277, 1719 tav. 41, 12.

19.* AE sesterzio, Commodo, zecca di Roma, 183-195 d. C. - BMC Emp IV 796, 549 tav. 105, 7; 799, 554-555 tav. 106, 2; 801, §. - Tipo simile al precedente; iscrizione ITALIA.

20. AR denario, Caracalla, zecca di Roma, 201-206 d. C. - BMC Emp V 209, *. - Stesso tipo del precedente. Iscrizione: INDVLGENTIA AVGG IN ITALIAM. Stesso tipo anche su denari di Settimio Severo, 201-210 d. C.: BMC Emp V 218, 339 tav. 35, 15.

21.* AE sesterzio, Geta, zecca di Roma, 211 d. C. - BMC Emp V 428, 45-46 tav. 66, 6. - R.: I. seduta a s., con scettro nella d. e cornucopia nella s. Ai suoi piedi, a s. una figura drappaggiata con cornucopia, seduta verso

s., a d. una figura seminuda recumbente verso d., con un vaso e delle canne(?).

H. Italia stante, sola

22.* AR denario, Adriano, zecca di Roma, 134-138 d. C. - BMC Emp III 347, 850-854 tav. 63, 14. - R.: I. stante a s., con scettro nella d. e cornucopia nella s. Iscrizione ITALIA. Il tipo appartiene ad una serie celebrante le province, per cui v. Toynbee, o. c. 15, 106-116 tav. 4, 24. Possibilmente già su denari e sesterzi di Traiano, zecca di Roma, 112-117 d. C.: BMC Emp III 96, 468-473 tav. 17, 6. 7; Fittschen, o. c. 11, 749 fig. 5; 750 n. 25, a: figura femminile stante di prospetto, con cornucopia nella s., corona di spighe sul capo, tiene con la d. un mazzo di spighe sopra la testa di un bambino togato.

23. Notitia Dignitatum. - Seeck, O., Notitia Dignitatum (1876) 108; Bibliothèque Nationale, Département des Manuscrits, Notitia Dignitatum Imperii Romani, reproduction réduite des 105 miniatures du manuscrit latin 9661 de la Bibliothèque Nationale (s. d.) n° 63; Berger, P. C., The Insignia of the Notitia Dignitatum. A Contribution to the Study of Late Antique Illustrated Manuscripts (1981) tav. 47. Per i manoscritti illustrati della Notitia: Alexander, J. J. G., in: Goodburn, R./Bartholomew, P. (ed.), Aspects of the Notitia Dignitatum, Papers Presented to the Conference in Oxford, 1974 (BAR Suppl. Series 15, 1976) 11-50. - IV sec. d. C. - Figura femminile nimfata, stante, riccamente vestita, che tiene in mano una lanx(?).

COMMENTO

Le raffigurazioni dell'I., relativamente scarse e tarde, sono di carattere diverso, a seconda del periodo storico cui appartengono. Le più antiche si trovano su monete di età tardo-repubblicana, ma coniate non a Roma, bensì dagli Italici ai tempi della guerra sociale (90-88 a. C., 1-8). In accordo con la composizione etnico-linguistica della lega, ed a seconda pure della zecca, le monete portano l'iscrizione in alfabeto latino ITALIA oppure quella in alfabeto osco VITELIU, che consentono di identificare le teste femminili, dai tratti alquanto generici, ornate di collana e orecchini e talvolta di corona d'alloro (3. 4. 6), oppure, più marzialmente, coperta da un elmo (1. 5. 7. 8) con la personificazione dell'I. L'identificazione è possibile anche per alcune delle teste non accompagnate da iscrizione (7. 8), mentre in altri casi si tratta più probabilmente di altre divinità (→ Athena/Menerva 36). Queste prime raffigurazioni dell'I. presentano un aspetto nuovo: a differenza delle personificazioni di poleis, o entità geografiche (come → Hellas e → Salamis sul trono di Zeus ad Olimpia (Paus. 5, 11, 5; Hamdorf, Kultpersonifikationen 27), esse impersonano un concetto astratto quale può essere uno stato federale. Sulle monete che celebrano la riconciliazione tra Roma e gli alleati (9) l'I. ha invece il carattere di una normale personificazione geografica.

Nella politica augustea l'I. riveste un'importanza centrale; appare perciò assai seducente la proposta di riconoscerla, quale Saturnia Tellus, nella figura femminile contrapposta a Roma nel pannello sinistro del lato orientale dell'Ara Pacis (10).

L'I. appare su documenti di età traiana celebranti gli alimenta (11-13), una provvidenza statale in favore delle famiglie bisognose introdotta da Nerva (Ps. Aur. Vict. epit. 12, 4), o, più probabilmente, da Traiano (Plin. paneg. 26-28; Plin. epist. 7, 18; CIL IX 1455; XI 1147). Essa vi appare come una figura matronale, accompagnata dalla prole, accanto all'imperatore. Di questi uno, non conservato, doveva essere un gruppo statuario collocato nel Foro Romano, secondo la documentazione degli anaglyphi Traiani (12). L'unico monumento riferibile ancora a Nerva, un sesterzio in cui l'imperatore, seduto sulla sella curulis, tenda la mano ad una figura femminile accompagnata da due bambini, è un falso secondo l'autorevole opinione di H. Mattingly (BMC Emp III XLIX, 21; RIC 229, 92).

Sui documenti celebranti l'imperatore quale restitutor di una particolare regione (14-16), che appartengono ad una serie dedicata alle province, l'I. è assimilata iconograficamente alle province, prefigurando quel livellamento che sarà sancito dalla constitutio Antoniniana. Essa vi appare come una figura femminile inginocchiata, che viene rialzata dall'imperatore: coerentemente con l'assunto, l'iconografia è costante in tutta la serie (sulle emissioni adriane dedicate alle province: Toynbee, o. c. 15, 24-130).

Eguale livellamento è la serie adrianea che mostra sul rovescio le personificazioni delle varie province sole e stanti (22).

La signoria sul mondo, espressa dal tipo dell'I. seduta su globo con scettro e cornucopia, in voga da Antonino Pio ai Severi (18-21) era chiaramente un'illusione. Con gli inizi del III sec. d. C. la nostra documentazione si interrompe. L'I. farà però ancora una sporadica apparizione, definitivamente assimilata alle province, nella Notitia Dignitatum, conservataci da copie di età più tarda.

(Ricerca condotta con contributo del Ministero della Pubblica Istruzione, Roma)
FULVIO CANCIANI

ITALOS

(Ἰταλός) Satyrname auf einem römischen Relief. Die Schreibung mit Eta auf I beruht auf Iotazismus.

I. (= Admete I** mit Lit., = Bat[---]I mit Beschreibung, = Europe II 3, = Herakles 1516) Kleines Marmorrelief, «Tabula Albani» (alle vier Ecken ergänzt). Rom, Villa Albani 957. - Forschungen zur Villa Albani. Kat. der Bildwerke I (1989) 192 Nr. 60 Taf. 110 (H. U. Cain). - Spätantoinisch. - Heraklesrelief nach Art der Tabulae Iliacae. Unter den Satyrn und Mänaden, die den ausruhenden Herakles umgeben und die nach Ländern benannt sind, welche Herakles bei seinen Taten bereiste, ist auch der Satyr I. (HTA-ΛΟΞ). Er beugt sich nach vorn und steckt seinen Kopf in einen Trinknapf, den Herakles in seiner Linken hält.

ANNELIESE KOSSÄTZ-DEISSMANN

ITAS, ITE (etr., Idas) → Apollon/Aplu 20*, → Dioskouroi/Tinias cliniar 83*, → Marpessa, → Palamedes

ITHAIMENES

(Ἰθαίμηνος) Guerrier grec figurant dans l'Ilioupersis de Polygnote de Thasos dans la Leshé des Cnidiens à Delphes (Paus. 10, 25, 3).

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Conticello, B., EAA IV (1961) 276 s. v. «Ithaimenes»; Stoll, H. W., ML II 1 (1890-94) 565 s. v. «Ithaimenes».

I. Peinture murale (disparue) représentant l'Ilioupersis. Delphes, Leshé des Cnidiens. Œuvre de Polygnote de Thasos. - Robert, C., Die Ilioupersis des Polygnote, 17. HallwPr (1893) 3. 20. 38-39; Weizsäcker, P., Polygnots Gemälde in der Lesche der Knidier in Delphi (1895) 19; Papachatzis, Paus. Boiotika, Phokika 397. - 2<sup>e</sup> quart du V<sup>e</sup> s. av. J.-C. - Pausanias mentionne dans sa description «un certain» I. parmi les Grecs qui s'affairent autour des bateaux. I. se trouvait en dessous de → Phrontis et il transportait un vêtement (χομίζων ἐσθῆτα).

Ce document est le seul témoignage connu sur cet I., qu'il convient de ne pas confondre avec le Troyen I., père de Sthénélaos (Hom. II. 16, 586).

JEAN-ROBERT GISLER

ITOVIA

Unbekannte Frauengestalt, so benannt auf einer Münze eines unbekannten Prägeortes.

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Conticello, B., EAA IV (1961) 276 s. v. «Itovia»; Drexler, W., ML II 1 (1890-94) 569 s. v. «Itovia».

I. AE, As oder Dupondius (nach RIC) oder Sesterz (nach BMC), barbarisch, Faustina I. († 141 n. Chr.). - RIC III 170, 1204; BMC Emp IV 257. - Rs.: Nach I. stehende Frau, Weintrauben und Knotenstock haltend. ITOVIA S. C.

Die Münze wurde wohl in Germanien oder Gallien geprägt. Die Legende ITOVIA dürfte sich auf die abgebildete Figur beziehen. Wenn die Beischrift auf diesem Unikum richtig wiedergegeben worden ist, läßt sie auf alle Fälle bisher keine genaue Deutung zu.

Da die Figur aber mit spezifischen Attributen ausgestattet wurde, ist es durchaus möglich, daß es sich hier um eine Gestalt der keltischen oder germanischen Mythologie handelt.

RAINER VOLKKOMMER

ITYLOS, ITYS → Prokne et Philomela

IUCUNDITAS

Personifikation der freundlichen Gesinnung und der Liebenswürdigkeit. Das Bedeutungsfeld des Begriffes iucunditas umfaßt einerseits die geistige Haltung und innere Veranlagung eines Menschen, die sich in gutem und rechtem Benehmen äußert, andererseits den terminus technicus einer bestimmten Art und Weise des Sprechens und Schreibens. Auch zur Bestimmung äußerer Annehmlichkeiten wird der Begriff verwandt (z. B. iucunditas urbis).

Enge Beziehungen bestehen zu gaudium, hilaritas (→ Hilaritas), laetitia (→ Laetitia).

LITERARISCHE QUELLEN: Zum Begriff iucunditas s. ThLL VII 589-590 s. v. «iucunditas».

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Gnechi, F., I tipi monetari di Roma imperiale (1907) 71-72; Köhler, W., EAA IV (1961) 276-277 s. v. «iucunditas»; Steudinger, H., ML II 1 (1890-94) 573 s. v. «iucunditati Aug».

Münzen

I. AR Denar, Antiochia(?), Severus Alexander (222-235 n. Chr.), Unikum. - RIC IV 2, 92, 280; BMC Emp VI 219, 1073 (dort mit falscher Vs.-Legende und Orientierung der Rs. nach l. statt richtig nach r.). - Rs.: Nach r. sitzende weibliche Gestalt mit Globus (Apfel?) und Szepter. Legende: IVCVNDITATI AVG.

KOMMENTAR

In der Ikonographie der Münzprägung der römischen Kaiserzeit singuläre Darstellung einer sitzenden weiblichen Gestalt als Personifikation der I. Eine sinnvolle Verbindung zwischen Darstellung und Legende erscheint problematisch.

Die Beschreibung des von Gnechi 72 und BMC Emp VI 219 als irregulär angesehenen, offensichtlich uniken Stückes geht zurück auf eine bei Cohen, H., Description historique des monnaies frappées sous l'Empire Romain (1880-1892) IV 412 Nr. 105 aufgeführte Münze aus der heute nicht mehr existierenden Privatsammlung Dancoisne in St. Omer/Pas-de-Calais (Frankreich). Das Stück gehört mit Sicherheit nicht zu den offiziellen Produkten einer römischen Reichsmünzstätte, sondern scheint den Lokalprägungen des griechischen Ostens zuzuweisen zu sein. Zur Frage der in dieser Region tätigen Münzstätten in der ersten Hälfte des dritten Jahrhunderts n. Chr. vgl. BMC Emp VI 83 ff. Im Rahmen der historischen Ereignisse könnte die Münze zu Ehren von Severus Alexander ausgebracht worden sein (Rs.-Legende im dedizierenden Dativ), der sich im Vorfeld seiner militärischen Operationen gegen die Perser im Winter 232 n. Chr. in Antiochia am Orontes aufhielt.

Die diesem Stück entsprechende ikonographische Darstellung einer nach rechts sitzenden weiblichen Gestalt mit Globus (Apfel?) und Szepter findet sich auf zwei Prägungen des Elagabal für Julia Paula (219-220 n. Chr.) vom Typ VENVS GENETRIX aus den Münzstätten Rom (BMC Emp V 555, 177 Taf. 88, 15) und Antiochia (BMC Emp V 583, 323-325 Taf. 92, 14). Die von Köhler 277 hergestellte Verbindung zwischen I. und kaiserlichen Munera ist denkbar, jedoch nicht zweifelsfrei zu beweisen. Unrichtig hingegen seine Aussage, daß LAETITIA PVBLICA auf Münzen der römischen Kaiserzeit stets mit den gleichen Attributen abgebildet sei.

Eine Weihinschrift an die Musen, Flora und I., aufgrund welcher bei Forcellini VI 77 (s. v. «Laetitia») ein öffentlicher Kult in der Antike angenommen wird, ist modern (CIL V Falsae 415*; Franzoni, L., «Le origini della raccolta epigrafica...», in L'Accademia Filarmonica di Verona e il suo teatro [1982] 68 und Anm. 36 Abb.).

Vollständig gesicherte bildliche Darstellungen der I. als Personifikation sind somit in der griechisch-römischen Antike nicht faßbar.

HEINZ-JOACHIM SCHULZKI

IUDAEA

(Ἰουδαία, Iudaea) Personifikation des jüdischen Volkes und der röm. Provinz.

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Barag, D., «The Palaestian (Judea Capta) Coins of Vespasian and Titus...», NC 1978, 14-23; Brin, H. B., Cat. of Judaea Capta Coinage (1986), unkritische Materialsammlung; Hart, H. St. J., «Judea and Rome, the Official Commentary», Journal of Theological Studies 1952, 172-198; Kraay, C. M., «The IVDAEA CAPTA Sestertii of Vespasian», Israel Numismatic Journal 1, 1963, 45-46; Lederer, Ph., «Über eine Judaea-Münze», ZfN 40, 42-57; Mattingly, H., BMC Emp II (1930) xxxiii. xxxv. xlv. lxxvi; BMC Emp III (1936) clxxix-clxxx; Mildenberg, L., The Coinage of the Bar Kokhba War (Typos VI, 1984) 92-93. 97-99; Strack, Reichsprägung II (1933) 162-163; Toynbee, J. M. C., The Hadrianic School (1934) 117-121.

KATALOG

Münzen der späten Republik und der Kaiserzeit

A. Trauernde Iudaea zu Füßen eines Tropaeums

I.* AE, Zakyntos, C. Sosius Imperator, 36 v. Chr. - Bahrfeldt, M., JArchNum 11, 1908, 217 Taf. 13, 3. 4; BMC Rep II 508, 146 Taf. 114, 9. - Rs.: Tropaeum; l. kauende I., Kopf auf die l. Hand gestützt, r. gefesselt

ter gefangener Jude, zum Tropaeum aufblickend. Inschrift C. SOSIVS IMP. (Vs. Kopf des M. Antonius)

2.* AU Aurei, AR Denare, Rom, Vespasian, Ende 70 n. Chr. – BMC Emp II 5, 31 Taf. 1, 10–12; Mazzini, G., Monete imperiali romane I (1957) Taf. 71, 225; Robertson, Hunter I Taf. 31, 16; 32, 19. – Rs.: Unter einem Tropaeum I. nach r. kauern, Kopf verschleiert, Kinn auf die l. Hand gestützt. Im Segment IVDAEA.

3.* AU Aurei, AR Denare, Rom, Vespasian, 79 n. Chr. – BMC Emp II 44, 245–248 Taf. 7, 13–15. – Kleine I., Kopf aufgestützt, unter großem Tropaeum, an das Victoria einen Rundschild aufhängt.

4.* AU und AR, Rom, Titus, 80 n. Chr. – BMC Emp II 230, 36–41 Taf. 45, 4. – Tropaeum zwischen trauernder I. und gefesseltem Juden.

5.* AE As, Tarraco(?), Titus Caesar, 71 n. Chr. – BMC Emp II 192, 791 Taf. 36, 6. – Unter einem Tropaeum kauert die gefesselte I. Inschrift IVDEA CAPTA, SC.

6.* AE, Lokalprägung in Judäa, Titus Caesar, um 72 n. Chr. – Barag Taf. 3, 5; BMC Palestine 276–277 Taf. 31, 2; Kindler, A., Coins of the Land of Israel (1974) 108, 164. – Tropaeum zwischen Schild und kniender gefesselter I. Inschrift IOYΔΑΙΑΣ ΕΛΛΩΚΥΙΑΣ.

B. Stehende Iudaea neben Palmbaum

7.* AU Aurei, AR Denare, Lugdunum(?), Vespasian, 70–71 n. Chr. – BMC Emp II 79, 388–391 Taf. 13, 8, 9; Auktion Glendining London 1951 Ryan Coll., 1684 (Aureus); Hart Taf. 1, 18. – Gefesselte I. steht nach l. neben Palmbaum. Inschrift IVDAEA DEVICTA.

C. Trauernde Iudaea zu Füßen eines Palmbaums

8. AU Aureus, Rom(?), Vespasian, 70–71 n. Chr. – Auktion Glendining Ryan, a. O. 7, 1685; Hart Taf. 1, 19. – I. von Waffen umgeben. IVDAEA CAPTA.

9.* AE As, Rom, Vespasian, 70–71 n. Chr. – BMC Emp II 131, 604–608 Taf. 23, 10, 11; Hart Taf. 3, 10–13. – Wie 8, mit verschiedenen Waffen, Inschrift IVDAEA (oder IVDEA) CAPTA, SC. – Varianten: AE As, Vespasian und Titus Caesar, Rom, 77–78 n. Chr. BMC Emp II 173 § Taf. 30, 4 (Vespasian); 213–214, 862–865 Taf. 42, 1 (Titus).

10.* AE Semis, östliche Münzstätte(?), Titus, 79–81 n. Chr. – BMC Emp II 279, 259 Taf. 53, 9; Sutherland, C. H. V., NC 1944 Taf. 1, 15. – Trauernde I. kauert nach l. unter Palmbaum, daneben Waffen. Inschrift IVD CAP, (S)-C.

D. Gefesselte Iudaea zu Füßen eines Palmbaums

11.* AU Aurei, AR Denare, Rom, Vespasian, Ende 70 n. Chr. – BMC Emp II 6, 43 Taf. 1, 13; MuM Auktion 28, 1964, 301 (Aureus); Robertson, Hunter I Taf. 32, 20; Sotheby Zürich Auktion Metropolitan Mus. 1972, 59 (Aureus). – Zu Füßen eines Palmbaums kauert I., die Hände am Rücken gefesselt, nach r. Im Segment IVDAEA.

11a) AE As, spanische Münzstätte(?), Vespasian, Ende 70–71 n. Chr. – BMC Emp II 181 §, Taf. 32, 1 (Unikum, Wien). – Wie 11. Im Segment IVD CAPT, S-C.

E. Palmbaum zwischen trauernder Iudaea und gefesseltem gefangenen Juden

12.* AE Sesterzen, Rom, Vespasian und Titus Caesar, Ende 70–72 n. Chr. – BMC Emp II 115–116, 533–539 Taf. 20, 4–7; 117, 142 Taf. 20, 9; 185, 761–765 Taf. 33, 1–4; Hart Taf. 3, 2–6; Robertson, Hunter I Taf. 34, 90. – Zahlreiche Varianten: I. sitzt nach l. oder r., ihr Begleiter schaut sich manchmal um, viele Varianten auch in den umgebenden Waffen. Inschrift IVDAEA (oder IVDEA) CAPTA, SC.

13.* AE Sesterzen, Rom, Titus, 80–81 n. Chr. – BMC Emp II 256–257, 164–170 Taf. 48, 8–10; Hart Taf. 3, 7–9; Robertson, Hunter I Taf. 45, 40; Toynbee Taf. 17, 1–3. – Ähnlich 12, mit verschiedenen Stellungen von I. und dem Gefangenen. Inschrift IVD-CAP, S-C.

F. Palmbaum zwischen der trauernden Iudaea und dem Kaiser

14.* AE Sesterzen, Rom, Vespasian, Ende 70–71 n. Chr. – BMC Emp. 117, 543–546, Taf. 20, 8, 10; Hart Taf. 3, 1; Mazzini, a. O. 2, Taf. 71, 239; Robertson, Hunter I Taf. 34, 91; Toynbee Taf. 17, 11. – Trauernde I. nach r. zu Füßen des Palmbaums, l. die große Gestalt des Kaisers, in Panzer, auf Lanze gestützt, in der Linken Parazonium, Fuß auf Helm. Inschrift IVDAEA CAPTA, S-C. – Varianten: BMC Emp II 140, 631 Taf. 25, 1 (Titus Caesar); 196, 796; 197, 806; 202, 812 Taf. 37, 1, 7; 39, 1, gallische Münzstätten, 71–72 n. Chr.; BMC Emp II 206, 826 Taf. 40, 1, Rom, 77–78 n. Chr.

15.* AU Aurei, AR Denare, Rom, Vespasian und Titus Caesar, 70–71 n. Chr. – BMC Emp II 14, 78–15, 85, Taf. 2, 10, 14; Hart Taf. 1, 20; Mazzini, a. O. 2, Taf. 78, 644; Robertson, Hunter I Taf. 32, 35, 36. – Ähnlich 14, ohne Inschrift. – Varianten östlicher Münzstätten: BMC Emp II 107, 511 Taf. 18, 20.

G. Victoria an Palmbaum, zu dessen Füßen trauernde Iudaea

16.* AE Sesterz, Rom oder spanische Münzstätte, Vespasian, 70–71 n. Chr. – BMC Emp II 126, 582–585; 191, 785 Taf. 36, 1; Hart Taf. 2, 4, 5; Mazzini, a. O. 2, Taf. 78, 725; Toynbee Taf. 17, 12. – Victoria halbnackt nach r.; sie schreibt auf einen Rundschild, der an Palmbaum befestigt ist; zu Füßen des Palmbaums die kleine Figur der trauernden I. nach r. Inschrift: VICTORIA AVGVSTI, SC. – Varianten: BMC Emp II 184 * Taf. 32, 5; Toynbee Taf. 17, 13. Inschrift DEVICTA IVDAEA, SC.; Hart Taf. 2, 2; 4; I. sitzt unter dem Schild nach l. auf Waffen.

H. Iudaea und Jude als Schutzflehende vor dem Kaiser

17.* AE Sesterz, Rom, Vespasian und Titus Caesar, 72–73 n. Chr. – BMC Emp II 147, 652 Taf. 26, 2; Hart Taf. 4, 1, 2; Lederer Taf. 2, 1, 2; Mildenberg 93 Abb. 15; Toynbee Taf. 16, 17, 18. – Der geharnischte Kaiser steht nach l., Fuß auf Prora, in der Rechten kleine Victoria, die Linke auf Lanze gestützt; vor ihm kniet ein Jude und steht I., beide mit bittflehender Gebärde. L. Palmbaum. Inschrift nur SC.

I. Iudaea opfert vor dem Kaiser, von Kindern umgeben

18.* AE, Sesterzen und Asse, Rom, Hadrian, 130–132 n. Chr. – BMC Emp III 493, 1655–1661 Taf. 91, 14; 92, 8, 9; Hart Taf. 5, 1–4; Toynbee Taf. 5, 1–3. – I. als verschleierte Frau tritt nach l. vor einen Feueraltar, über den sie das Trankopfer ausgießt. Sie ist begleitet von zwei oder drei Knaben, die Zweige halten. Am Altar manchmal ein Opfertier. Von l. tritt der Kaiser in Toga heran, mit sprechender Gebärde. Inschrift ADVENTVI AVGVSTAEAE, SC. – Variante: Inschrift IVDAEA im Segment, S-C; BMC Emp III 512, 1757 Taf. 95, 3; Hart Taf. 5, 7.

J. Iudaea kniet vor dem Kaiser, von Kindern umgeben

19.* AE Sesterz, Rom, Hadrian, 130–132 n. Chr. – Auktion Christie London 1949 Fitzwilliam-Wentworth 128; Hart Taf. 5; 6; Strack Taf. 14, 719; Toynbee Taf. 5, 7. – Der Kaiser als Restitutor hebt die nach l. kniende I. auf; sie ist von drei kleinen Knaben begleitet, die Zweige halten.

K. Fälschlich als Iudaea bezeichnet

20. Panzerstatue eines flavischen Kaisers, Sabratha, Mus. – Caputo, G., QuadLibia I, 1950, Taf. 4; Niemeyer, H. G., Studien zur statuarischen Darstellung der röm. Kaiser (1968) Taf. 14, 1; Stemmer, K., Untersuchungen zur Typologie ... der Panzerstatuen (1978) Taf. 38, 1, 2. – Auf dem Panzer drei Figuren: Victoria schreibt auf Rundschild, der an Palmbaum befestigt ist. Neben dem Palmbaum gefesselter Gefangener. Unten auf Waffen liegende Gestalt in Tunica und Hosen, mit langen Haaren, die Hand schutzflehend erheben. Sie ist männlich, kann also nicht I. darstellen.

KOMMENTAR

Trauernde weibliche Gestalten zu Füßen eines Tropaeum kennt schon die klassisch-griechische Kunst, so z. B. eine Basis von der Athener Akropolis, Akr. 4071, um 410/400, Dörig, J., in Festschr. H. Bloesch, Antik Beih. 9 (1973) Taf. 8, 1 (Hinweis T. Hölscher). Aus dieser Tradition heraus erwächst in der römischen Ikonographie die Allegorie der besiegten Völkerschaft oder Nation. Auf Münzen ist sie vorgebildet in der Triumphserie Julius Caesars, 47–45 v. Chr., Crawford, RRC 468.

Auf I. zu beziehen ist das frühe Beispiel 1. C. Sosius, Parteigänger Marc Antons, später Stifter des Tempels des Apollo Sosianus in Rom, hatte 37 v. Chr. im Konflikt des Herodes I. gegen Antigonus Mattathias Jerusalem erobert und einen Triumph erhalten. Offen muß bleiben, ob die weibliche Gestalt unter dem Tropaeum der Prägung von Zakynthos eine «gefangene Jüdin» oder die Personifikation I. meint. Auf dieses Problem, d. h. auf die verwischenden Grenzen zwischen Repräsentantin und Personifikation eines Volkes in der römischen Kunst hat E. Künzl s. v. → Germania, LIMC IV 184, hingewiesen.

Eine breit gefächerte Darstellung der I. bietet die

Münzprägung des Vespasian und des Titus. Die Besiegung Judaeas mit der Vernichtung des jüdischen Aufstandes und der Zerstörung des Tempels in Jerusalem bildet das Hauptthema im Bildprogramm der Reichsprägung der beiden Kaiser. Der Tempel fiel am 26. September 70 n. Chr. Unmittelbar danach setzt in Rom die Bildserie in allen drei Metallen ein, mit den Inschriften IVDAEA CAPTA, IVDAEA DEVICTA oder einfach IVDAEA. In dem vorstehenden Katalog konnten längst nicht alle Bildvarianten berücksichtigt werden, die für einen bemerkenswerten Bilderreichtum der frühflavischen Münzprägung sprechen. Auch konnten die im BMC Emp II vorgeschlagenen, z. T. nicht mehr aktuellen Lokalisierungen der einzelnen außerrömischen Gepräge nicht aufgeführt werden. Dieses Bildprogramm enthält nicht nur Darstellungen der I., sondern viele andere Bilder, die den Sieg über Judaea feiern: Victorien, Triumphwagen, Tropaea (z. T. mit Inschrift DE IVDAEIS), Palmen usw. Interessanterweise wird auch das Schema I. unter Tropaeum in die lokale Münzprägung in Palästina aufgenommen (6, mit der griechischen Übersetzung von IVDAEA CAPTA), wo man doch bislang Rücksicht auf die Bilderfeindschaft der Juden in der Münzprägung genommen hatte. Im übrigen hat der Vasall Roms Agrippa II. Siegesbilder in seine lokalen Münzmissionen aufgenommen (Barag Taf. 4, 13–15; Kindler, a. O. 6, 59. 60. 63), allerdings nicht Darstellungen der I.

Titus als Augustus läßt noch einmal auf seinen Sesterzen die Erinnerung an den Sieg über Judaea aufleben, 80–81 n. Chr. (13). Unter Domitian wird dieses Bildprogramm von Prägungen auf dessen Germanensiege abgelöst, die sich ikonographisch an das Modell der IVDAEA CAPTA-Prägungen halten. So halte ich es mit G. Ch. Picard, Les trophées romains (1957) 358, für wahrscheinlich, daß das Relief auf der Panzerstatue in Sabratha (20) auf die Germanensiege Domitians zu beziehen ist, und nicht auf die IVDAEA CAPTA, wie oft behauptet wird.

Mit den Prägungen Hadrians (18, 19) ändert sich die Tonart in der Darstellung der I. vollkommen. Sie erscheint nicht mehr als Gefesselte, Trauernde oder Schutzflehende, sondern als verschleierte Opfernde. Hadrian hatte um 130 n. Chr. anstelle von Jerusalem die Colonia Aelia Capitolina gegründet. Auf dieses Ereignis bezieht sich die Darstellung. Sie unterscheidet sich in wesentlichen Zügen von der großen Serie der Adventus-Prägungen Hadrians der anderen Provinzen. Hier treten die Knaben als «die junge Proles» auf, «die in dem Lande aufwächst, nicht aber die jüdische, sondern die der griechischen Kolonisten» (Strack 162). Strack hat allerdings verkannt, daß die Iudaea-Prägungen Hadrians vor und nicht nach dem Barkochba-Aufstand (132–135 n. Chr.) geprägt wurden. Nach der Vernichtung dieses Aufstandes wurde die Provinz Iudaea zur Provinz Syria-Palaestina geschlagen und seitdem nicht mehr erwähnt. So erscheint sie z. B. nicht mehr im Provinzenprogramm der Münzprägung des Antoninus Pius.

HERBERT A. CAHN

IULIUS → Menses

IULUS → Askanios

IUNAM

Une des sept divinités figurées sur le relief des Dii Mauri de Vaga (→ Mauri dei).

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: AEpigr 1948, 114 (inscr.); Ben Abdallah, Z., dans De Carthage à Kairouan, cat. exp. Paris, Petit Palais (1982-83) 113-114 fig. 161; Bénabou, M., La résistance africaine à la romanisation (1976) 296-301; Camps, G., «L'inscription de Béja et le problème des Dii Mauri», RAfr 98, 1954, 234-258; idem, Berberes: aux marges de l'histoire (1980) 212-215, 227-228 fig. 95; Decret, F./Fantar, M. H., L'Afrique du Nord dans l'Antiquité (1981) 263-264; Février, J. G., BullArchCTH 1949, 649-655; Lambert, N., «Cultes septénaires en Afrique du Nord», dans Actes du 79<sup>e</sup> Congr. nat. des Soc. sav., Alger (1954) 207-236 fig. 3; Merlin, A., «Divinités indigènes sur un bas-relief romain de la Tunisie», CRAI 1947, 355-371; 357 fig. 1; Picard, G. Ch., Les religions de l'Afrique romaine (1954) 22-25 fig. 1; Salomonson, W., Mosaïques romaines de Tunisie n° 48 pl. 41.

I. (= Bonchor I*) Bas-relief rectangulaire. - Tunis, Bardo 3195. De Béja (Vaga), Tunisie. - II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - Les divinités sont juxtaposées, de face, sous une tenture qui paraît évoquer une tente et qui est suspendue en festons à trois palmiers. Ces arbres, ainsi que d'autres, émergent à l'arrière-plan, où ils font penser à un jardin ou une oasis. Devant la draperie de la tenture, derrière les personnages, sont fichées de hautes lances qui délimitent les sept compartiments occupés par les divinités. Quatre sont assises. La cinquième est debout. Aux extrémités les deux dernières sont des cavaliers figurés debout derrière leur monture tournée de profil vers le centre. Au-dessous sur un bandeau est gravée une inscription de deux lignes qui fournit les noms des sept divinités. Iunam désigne le dieu cavalier de l'extrême dr. Vêtu d'un manteau attaché par une fibule, il se dresse derrière un cheval harnaché avec muserolle et tête et couvert par une housse (ephippium) aux arçons bien marqués. Dans ce dieu cavalier comme dans celui qui lui fait pendant à l'extrême g. (sous le nom de → Macurtam), on peut sans doute reconnaître des dieux numides influencés par le groupe des Dioscures (→ Dioskouroi/Castores), voire assimilés à ceux-ci, et donc les interpréter comme l'expression romanisée de traditions religieuses indigènes.

MARCEL LE GLAY

IUNIUS → Menses

IUNO/UNI → Uni

IUNO

Divinità forse di origine latino-faliska, e comunque originaria dell'Italia centrale. La testimonianza di Varrone accrediterebbe un'origine sabina del culto a Roma (l.l. 5, 74): Tito Tazio avrebbe votato un altare a Lucina (probabilmente Iuno Lucina). Allo stesso Tito Tazio era attribuita la dedica di mense a Iuno nelle curiae (Dion. Hal. ant. 2, 50, 3). Sempre Varrone (l.l. 5, 158) ricorda che sul Quirinale, sede dei Sabini, era il Capitolium Vetus dove era un sacello dedicato a Iuppiter, Iuno e Minerva, più antico del santuario Capitolino. Si potrebbe aggiungere a queste testimonianze la curiosa circostanza che il santuario di Iuno Moneta fu eretto sull'Arce, dove era il palazzo del re Tito Tazio (Plut. Rom. 20, 5; Solinus I, 21).

La vecchia ipotesi di una possibile origine etrusca secondo l'equazione Uni-Iūnō, è ormai superata in quanto, a livello linguistico, è stato ribadito con convincenti argomentazioni che il latino non aggiunge una i- ad una vocale iniziale. Al contrario, la perdita della i- iniziale nel passaggio alla lingua etrusca è più volte attestata.

Iuno deriva dalla parola proto-indoeuropea h<sub>2</sub>ieuh<sub>2</sub>on- che vuol dire «persona vitale; giovane», da cui il latino iuvenis. Dalla forma più antica del teonimo, **Iūnī*, caduta in disuso già all'epoca dei primi testi indigeni, deriva il nome del mese Iunius. È possibile che i due teonimi siano coesistiti per un certo periodo di tempo, e che uno di essi sia stato adoperato come pendant femminile di Genius.

In origine, quindi, il culto è indipendente da quello greco di Hera, e la divinità rappresenta la funzione femminile di contro a quella maschile espressa da Genius; anzi, per maggiore precisione, la dea in origine proteggerebbe la giovane donna in età di generare. Di qui una delle sue funzioni basilari, attestata da numerose epiclesi (Cinxia, Unxia, Pronuba, Iugalis nel campo del matrimonio; Fluona, in quello della sessualità; Lucina in quello del parto).

A Iuno erano dedicate a Roma le calende di ogni mese, così come a Iuppiter erano dedicate le idi. La dea presiede, quindi, agli inizi; memoria di una fase precalendariale (c. d. calendario numano), quando l'inizio del mese coincideva con la luna nuova e tutto il mese era collegato alle fasi lunari, cui erano a loro volta collegati i cicli femminili (altra epiclesi della dea era Covella, collegato talvolta a cavus (la luna cava è la luna nuova) o a **covere-cavere* «sviare», su una base **coven-dla*).

È ormai possibile ipotizzare che il trasferimento del culto in Etruria fosse già attestato nel VII sec. a. C., se la documentazione proveniente dai recenti scavi sull'acropoli di Tarquinia offre, come sembra, testimonianza del nome Uni (Chiaramonte Treré, C., Gli Etruschi di Tarquinia [cat. Milano 1986] 178 ss.; eadem, Tarquinia: ricerche e prospettive, a cura di Bonghi Jovino M./Chiaramonte Treré, C. [1987] 79 ss.; Torelli 1987).

L'ipotesi che a Tarquinia sia giunto il culto laurentino di Iuno Kalendaria (su cui Macr. Sat. I 15, 18-19), analogo forse a quello romano di Iuno Co-vella, potrebbe aprire, se adeguatamente fondata, un campo nuovo alle indagini sulle origini latine della dea.

Sotto l'aspetto di divinità protettrice della fecondità muliebre il culto di Iuno è collegato molto spesso, nelle fasi più antiche, con quello di altre divinità con funzione salutare o afferenti alla sfera della procreazione. In un santuario recentemente indagato a Fontanile di Legnisina presso Vulci, è attestata la presenza del culto di Uni (Colonna, G., BollArte 48, 1988, 23 ss.), di Vei-Demetra, e anche di Apollo (statuetta in terracotta): vd. Massabò, B./Ricciardi, E., BollArte 48, 1988, 27 ss., spec. 32 ss. Il deposito votivo, riferibile ad un culto connesso con la sfera della riproduzione e delle nascite, è testimone esemplare di complessi raggruppamenti finora scarsamente analizzati nella loro polivalenza, dove l'aspetto salutare (Apollo medico, il cui culto ha ricevuto ampia diffusione nell'Italia centrale tirrenica [da ultimo Costantini, S., La romanizzazione dell'Etruria: il territorio di Vulci, a cura di Carandini, A., cat. Orbetello 1985, 74. Su tale valenza, e sul rapporto Apollo-Iuno, ha un certo interesse un rituale greco, forse di origine orientale, che collega Apollo con la luna nuova e con il settimo giorno del mese [ad es. a Sparta: Hdt. 6, 57, 2. Vd. Burkert, W., «Rešep-Figures, Apollon von Amyklai und die Erfindung des Opfers auf Cypern», GrazBeitr 4, 1977, 51 ss.]) è connesso a quello della fertilità e della iniziazione maschile e femminile. L'argomento, direttamente affiancato al complesso problema delle triadi, va comunque indagato più a fondo.

Ma le funzioni di Iuno vanno ben oltre la protezione delle donne in età mestruale. Come testimonia l'importante sacrificio di agnelle nella Regia ad opera della moglie del rex sacrorum, o la cerimonia religiosa offerta a Giunone dal pontifex minor nella curia Calabra (la correzione sul testo di Macrob. Sat. I, 15, 19 di Iunoni in Iano [Dury-Moyaers/Renard 183] non mi pare dimostrata), o ancora l'offerta di mense a Iuno Curitis nelle curie da parte di Tito Tazio, pare di intravedere fin dalle origini una valenza politica della dea, protettrice della gioventù atta alle armi, e quindi in possesso dei requisiti politici di accesso alle curie.

Di qui alcune epiclesi ben attestate in ambiente italico: Iuno Populona (da populus nell'accezione di gioventù atta alle armi) e, secondo una possibile interpretazione, Iuno Curitis (da curiae o forse da **co-uiria*, cioè «uomini raccolti in comunità»).

Di questo particolare aspetto di Iuno offre importantissima testimonianza la festa dei Lupercalia che avveniva il 15 febbraio. Il mese stesso era dedicato a Iuno (il 1 febbraio era, certo non casualmente, il dies natalis del tempio di Iuno Sospita nel Foro Olitorio); e secondo alcune fonti Iuno Februalis presiedeva alla festa nella quale i luperci, correndo seminudi, colpivano le donne con una frusta composta da strisce di pelle di capra («amiculum Iunonis») (Paul. Festi p. 75-76 L.). La cerimonia aveva la funzione di purificare («februare») il popolo e la cittadella del Palatino (Varro l.l. 6, 34). Si trattava, secondo la più comune opinione, di un rito d'adolescenza, destinato a quei giovani che, ormai acquisita la virilità e distaccati dall'infanzia, erano in grado di assumere gli attributi civili per entrare in modo definitivo nell'età adulta. Ma il rito era destinato anche alle donne, pronte a farsi colpire dalla frusta dei luperci per fuggire la sterilità. Mi sembra che Sabatucci colga nel segno quando ricorda che le donne «non debbono sottrarsi alla sessualità naturale in nome di una civile ma sterile castità, e, d'altra parte, i luperci sono la sessualità naturale personificata». Qui il rapporto con Iuno è esplicito; come è evidente, allo stesso modo, il valore politico della festa che individua il passaggio da uno stadio in cui la collettività è priva di una struttura sociale ad un'associazione civile fondata su regole comuni.

Entra in tal modo nell'analisi una seconda funzione di Iuno, solo apparentemente diversificata dalla prima. Si tratta in realtà di due aspetti complementari, ambedue riportabili alla difesa delle strutture portanti di ogni società: la riproduzione e la nascita da un lato, la formazione militare e politica dei giovani dall'altra, ambedue strumenti per la sopravvivenza della comunità civile. Ma il tema andrebbe approfondito cercando di individuare, ove possibile, la valenza primitiva del culto, dalla quale potrebbero essere scaturite le due funzioni.

Sotto tale aspetto, la funzione poliadica originaria di Iuno Regina a Veio, poi trasferita a Roma sull'Aventino, di Iuno Sospita a Lanuvio e di Iuno Curitis a Falerii (ed a Tivoli) assume un valore particolare. Se della prima conosciamo figurativamente assai poco, della seconda gli attributi bellici, scudo di tipo minoico-miceneo «ad otto», lancia, una sorta di egida di pelle di capro che copre anche il capo, la collegano, in certo senso, con la greca poliouchos, epiclesi comune sia ad Hera che ad Athena. Sarà anche vero che in origine la pelle di capro potesse essere simbolo di fertilità ed andasse riferita ad una società contraddistinta da un'economia pastorale. Ma l'immagine che di questa Iuno ci viene offerta in età storica è simile a quella di una promachos, la dea che accompagna i giovani nelle attività belliche, e la nebris assume la stessa funzione dell'egida.

Qui il rapporto tra Hera, principalmente Hera Argiva, e Iuno diventa più stretto.

Le fonti letterarie testimoniano con grande frequenza una diffusione del culto di Hera Argiva in Italia, dal Sele fino alla regione dei Veneti. La Sospita di Lanuvio è chiamata «Hera Argolis» (Ail. nat. I 1, 16); la Curitis di Tivoli «Iuno Argeia» (CIL XIV 3556); la Curitis di Falerii è detta «Hera Argeia» oppure «Iuno Argiva» (Dion. Hal. ant. I, 21, 1-2; Ov. am. 3, 13, 31). Le testimonianze sono troppo ampie per essere casuali.

Il culto di Iuno Curitis a Falerii aveva fortissime affinità con quello di Hera ad Argo (Dion. Hal. ant. I, 21, 2); il fatto era interpretato da Dionigi di Alicarnasso come segno di una precisa matrice pelasgica della città (come nel caso di Agylla-Caere, Pisae, Saturnia ed Alsium: Dion. Hal. ant. I, 20, 5). Si spiegavano in tal modo l'uso di armi belliche di tipo «argolico», la particolare struttura dei templi falisci e le immagini dei loro dei. Nel caso di Iuno le assonanze tra la Hera di Argo e la Iuno di Falerii andavano oltre: dalle cerimonie del sacrificio, alla funzione di donne consacrate al culto, alla funzione della «canephoros», non sposata, destinata a dare l'avvio al sacrificio, ai cori delle vergini. La suggestione di tali informazioni, assai forte, può essere rivista alla luce di altri dati.

«Argivi» erano considerati alcuni santuari di Hera in Magna Grecia. Uno dei più importanti era alle foci del Sele, non lontano da Poseidonia-Paestum. Secondo la tradizione era stato fondato dagli Argonauti capeggiati da Giasone; probabile segno, in chiave mitologica, di una frequentazione dell'area in età micenea, quindi molto prima della fondazione della colonia achea di Poseidonia. La dea del santuario era venerata, secondo una suggestiva ipotesi (Coarelli, F., Templi dell'Italia antica [1980] 12 ss.), nel duplice aspetto di dea madre e dea verginale e guerriera (un'iscrizione su una placchetta d'argento rinvenuta nell'Heraion della città, la c.d. Basilica, definisce Hera «protettrice degli archi», quindi delle armi). Aveva un fondamento argivo anche il culto di Hera del santuario di capo Lacinio presso Crotone, fondato da Eracle: la dea era una «Hoplosmia» (Lykophron 856-858).

Alla dea poliadica e guerriera si affianca la dea kourotrophos, aspetto complementare che nella maggioranza dei casi testimoniati prende il sopravvento, mentre la funzione bellica è trasferita su altre divinità.

Ma non mancano, anche in madrepatria, testimonianze essenziali sulla molteplice valenza della dea. Ad Elis essa era Hoplosmia, come a Crotone. A Platea la dea aveva nel suo tempio due statue, una come Nymphuomene, «la giovane che sta per diventare sposa», l'altra come Teleia, «la perfetta», «l'onnipotente» nella specifica accezione di pronuba (Paus. 9, 2, 7). A Stymphalos, la città arcadica sede di miti eraclei, Hera aveva tre templi, come Pais, «la fanciulla», come Teleia, «la perfetta», e come Chera, «la vedova» (Pind. O. 6, 88; Paus. 8, 22, 2). Ad Hermione in Argolide la dea era Parthenos, «la vergine» (Aristocles [Aristoteles?], FGH 436 F 1; Steph. Byz. s. v. Ἐρμιών). Si mescolano funzioni differenti, e la dea armata trova posto a fianco alla dea che, forse per un traslato più tardo, protegge le tre età della donna.

Si potrebbe supporre, per chiarire i termini della polivalenza della divinità, che in origine Hera fosse una divinità generatrice, ma di una natura intatta e non ancora resa abitabile dall'intervento dell'uomo; una posizione sotto alcuni aspetti antitetica a quella di Demetra che invece è protettrice della fertilità e della terra coltivata e delle produzioni non spontanee ma dovute al lavoro umano (sarebbe in tal modo interpretabile la comune presenza di Uni e di Vei nel santuario di Fontanile di Legnisina presso Vulci). Da questa base primordiale, che identifica Hera ad una potnia theron, sarebbero scaturite le ulteriori valenze, a partire da quella guerriera e verginale (come Athena).

Ci si domanda, pertanto, se il culto di Iuno in Italia centrale non sia stato già in tempi remoti influenzato dal culto di Hera Argiva e dalla sua originaria duplice funzione (via santuari della Magna Grecia che sembrano proporre una fondazione precoloniale). Sarebbe più concepibile il significato dell'aspetto guerriero, che in fase più tarda sarà trasferito anche in Italia centrale ad altre divinità, a favore di una più specifica fun-zione «materna». Si spiegherebbero anche gli attributi bellici, ed in particolare lo scudo «ad otto» di Iuno Sospita, che su suolo italico non ha lasciato altre tracce, ove si escludano gli ancilia dei Salii conservati nel sacrum Martis della Regia). Si potrebbe supporre un'analogia con quelle armi falische di tipo «argolico» ricordate da Dionigi, forse in ambedue i casi residui a carattere puramente rituale della panoplia micenea. Già la dea «palaziale» minoico-micenea della Media Età del Bronzo, la protettrice del sovrano, aveva uno scudo «ad otto» ed impugnava una lancia a guisa di una promachos (Nilsson, GrRel 1<sup>o</sup> 347 s.; Borchhardt, H., ArchHom, Kriegswesen I [1977] E 12 s.). Non necessariamente si deve riconoscere in essa Athena (o il Palladio) in base alla successiva fortunata trasformazione del modello. È probabile invece che una dea armata fosse venerata nei palazzi minoico-micenei con nomi differenti. In Omero, quando è ormai codificata la sua posizione privilegiata nel pantheon olimpico al fianco dello sposo Zeus, Hera è ancora una dea guerriera, con un ampio potere sulle forze cosmiche (Vermeule, E., ArchHom, Götterkult [1974] V 82 s.). La tradizione, che la considerava piuttosto kourotrophos ma non madre, le attribuiva talvolta, e forse non casualmente, Ares quale figlio.

Mancano, certo, ancora molti anelli alla catena dei rapporti tra Hera e Iuno; e probabilmente l'assimilazione dovette avvenire per gradi, se ancora nel santuario di Gravisca è testimoniato il culto di Hera, ma Uni viene alla ribalta su iscrizioni solo nel IV sec. a. C. (Torelli, M., «Il culto di Hera a Gravisca», PP 32, 1977, 435 ss.).

In compenso a Pyrgi le laminette auree di fondazione sono pertinenti al «luogo santo» di Astarte-Uni, con una assimilazione che accomuna la Iuno etrusca con Afrodite Urania (Die Göttin von Pyrgi. Archäologische, linguistische und religionsgeschichtliche Aspekte, Koll. Tübingen 1979 [1981]; Dury-Moyaers/Renard 196 ss.; Colonna, G., Santuari d'Etruria, cat. Arezzo [1985] 127 ss.). E tuttavia anche in questo caso le fonti greche riconoscono nel santuario una dea dal molteplice aspetto, assimilata talvolta a Leucotea, talaltra ad Ilizia. Mentre la seconda è epiclesi ben nota di Hera Argiva nella sua funzione di protettrice delle nascite, la prima può essere piuttosto collegata con un'iscrizione rinvenuta nei pressi del tempio A in cui si nomina «Thesan che è nel santuario di Uni». Thesan è l'etrusca Eos, imparentata con Mater Matuta che sappiamo essere assimilata a Leucotea. In ambedue i casi siamo in presenza di un tentativo di spiegazione delle complesse funzioni della Uni etrusca da parte greca. La dea sarebbe stata venerata nel tempio A nel suo aspetto matronale e ctonio, affine alla latina Iuno Lucina, mentre nel più antico tempio B avrebbe assunto l'aspetto di Astarte, più simile alla greca Afrodite Urania, dea della natura incontaminata e selvaggia, e contemporaneamente dea guerriera (vedi la presenza di prostitute sacre [scorta Pyrgensia: Lucil. frg. 1289 Krenkel], che sono un elemento caratteristico dei santuari di Astarte).

Nel tempo altri elementi più esterni collegarono la divinità greca e quella italica, ad esempio gli attributi, come la fiaccola di Iuno Lucina (identificata con Ilizia o con Hera Phosphoros: Dion. Hal. 4, 15) ed un fiore simile ad un'iris o ad un giglio (Hera come dea che presiede ai cicli mestruali: Müller/Wieseler, Denkmäler a. Kunst 2, 64 c). Un interessante raffronto è offerto dalle antefisse con la testa di Iuno Sospita recentemente scoperte a Satricum; in una serie la dea, in luogo delle più comuni orecchie di capro, mostra orecchie di bue. Si può ricordare la celebre formulazione omerica βοῶντις dipendente forse dal modello egiziano di Mut o di Hathor raffigurata con il capo o con le corna di mucca. In età arcaica, su uno specchio egiziano rinvenuto nel santuario di Hera a Perachora, la dea è identificata con Hathor; e l'iscrizione la venera come dea del cielo, datrice di vita e di salute (Payne, H., Perachora I 142 tav. 46, 2).

Un ulteriore importante rapporto tra Hera e Iuno può essere dedotto dai più antichi documenti figurati di Iuno Sospita. La dea è raffigurata in combattimento con una divinità maschile che mostra una iconografia simile, con la differenza che la nebris è di leone. Si tratta probabilmente di Hercules in lotta con Iuno Sospita. Manca qualsiasi documentazione in merito; ma non si può fare a meno di ricordare il particolare rapporto intercorrente tra Hera ed Herakles (il cui nome, come è ben noto, significherebbe «gloria di Hera»), di cui è rimasta più che una traccia nel mito e nei rituali greci. Secondo la tradizione, il santuario di Hera Lacinia presso Crotone era stato fondato da Eracle; nelle metope del santuario alle foci del Sele le fatiche di Eracle assumono un rilievo specifico. Giustamente è stato osservato che le tappe del viaggio mitico di Eracle in Occidente seguono il percorso miceneo quale esso è testimoniato dalle fonti letterarie e dalla documentazione archeologica; e molto spesso nei siti è stato impiantato il culto di Hera Argiva (Pugliese Carratelli, G., «Culti e dottrine religiose in Magna Grecia», in Santuari di Magna Grecia, IV ConvMGrecia 1964 [1965] 25 s.; Parisi Presicce). Evidentemente già nel VI sec. a. C. il calco tra Hera e Iuno aveva prodotto l'assimilazione del paretro di Iuno Sospita con Eracle. Va ricordato, a tal proposito, che il binomio Hera-Herakles è attestato anche nel complesso santuario di Pyrgi; e che a Tivoli, importante sede del culto di Iuno Curitis, la divinità poliadica era Hercules Victor (Hallam, JRS 21, 1931, 276 ss.; ma anche a Lavinio è attestata su un'iscrizione una dedica a Hercules Sanctus ed a Iuno Sospita: EphEpigr IX 605). Curatores del suo tempio erano i Salii che in particolari festività danzavano in suo onore (Latte 214 n. 3). Non è noto purtroppo se adoperavano anche in tale occasione gli ancilia che avevano la caratteristica forma «ad otto» testimoniata dallo scudo di Iuno Sospita (ma l'uso di tali scudi, per di più con decorazioni a spirali nella più pura tradizione micenea, è testimoniato anche da una pietra incisa fiorentina dove due personaggi — due Salii? — recano in processione, appesi ad una sbarra, un gruppo di ancilia: Alföldi, A., Der frührömische Reiteradel und seine Ehrenabzeichen [1952] 38 s. fig. 1).

Ancora un altro elemento è rilevante circa i rapporti tra Hera e Iuno. Il rito romano offerto alla dea era greco, aperto capite. Il culto alla maniera falisca, anch'esso considerato di derivazione greca, fu introdotto a Roma forse all'epoca delle guerre puniche (Liv. 21, 62, 8; 22, 1, 17-18; 27, 37). Greco, probabilmente, era anche lo schema del chorus composto da 27 fanciulle, come del sacrificio di 27 giovenche bianche (per la nascita di un androgino nel 125 a. C.: Phlegon di Tralles, FGH 257, p. 1179-1180). Molte cerimonie del sacrificio per Iuno Regina erano Graeco ritu (Maddoli 158 s.).

Camillo, prima della presa di Veio, invocò Apollo Pizio e Iuno Regina (Liv. 5, 21, 2-3). Anche il rapporto tra queste due divinità (collegate anche nel santuario di Fontanile di Legnisina presso Vulci, insieme con Vei-Demetra) meriterebbe forse un'attenzione maggiore; ambedue i culti a Roma, oltre ad essere di rito greco, includono la consultazione dei libri Sibillini da parte dei decemviri sacris faciundis, e la rappresentazione di ludi scaenici e di gare circensi; inoltre la celebre processione del 27 in onore di Iuno Regina (Liv. 27, 37, 11) prendeva l'avvio dal tempio di Apollo Medico.

V'è forse anche in questo caso memoria di legami più stretti in una fase arcaica, poi ridimensionati in epoca storica, sulla base di una comune matrice purificatoria.

La posizione del santuario principale della dea sull'Aventino rende credibile l'ipotesi di una forte coloritura plebea del culto, almeno nella prima e media età repubblicana. Un'ulteriore prova dell'importante funzione «politica» di Iuno è offerta non solo dalle cerimonie che si svolgevano in suo onore in occasione di gravi calamità pubbliche (come quelle che si svolsero durante la II guerra Punica, forse per placare la dea poliadica di Cartagine assimilata a Iuno Regina e nota con il nome di Caelestis), ma anche dal fatto che il culto era talvolta officiato da sacerdoti maschi, ad esempio nel caso di Iuno Curitis a Faleris dove il sacerdote era detto pontifex sacrorum (CIL XI 3100. 3125) o in quello di Iuno Covella a Roma.

La tradizione prevalentemente centro-italica del culto è anch'essa ben testimoniata. In tutti i casi conosciuti le epiclesi corrispondono a quelle già attestate a Roma stessa. A Pisaurum è documentato il culto di Iuno Regina e Iuno Lucina (CIL I 171-173); ad Aesernia ed a Teanum Sidicinum Iuno Populona (CIL IX 2630; X 4789-4791); a Tusculum, Terventum, Capua e Cales Iuno Lucina (CIL I 1200 [l'iscrizione, capuana, ricorda un culto a Iuno Lucina secondo i sacra Tuscolana]; CIL X 4660).

Per informazioni più dettagliate sulle epiclesi Sospita, Caprotina, Regina, Regina Dolichena, Moneta, Lucina, Cur(r)itis, Gabina, Martialis, Caelestis, Pronuba, si rimanda alle introduzioni ai singoli capitoli.

BIBLIOGRAFIA: Abaecherli-Boyce, A., «The expiatory Rites of 207 B.C.», TAPA 68 (1937) 157-171; Basanoff, V., «Junon falisque et ses cultes à Rome», RHR 124, 1 (1941) 110-141; idem, Evocatio. Etude d'un rituel militaire romain (1947); idem, «Nonae Caprotinae», Latomus 8, 1949, 209-216; Bayet, J., Les origines de l'Hercule romain (1926) 75-78. 115-116. 170-172. 380-383; idem, Histoire politique et psychologique de la religion romaine (1957); Bickel, E., «Beiträge zur römischen Religionsgeschichte, I. Flamen curialis und Iuno Curitis», RhM 71, 1916, 548-571; Bloch, R., «Interpretatio. II: Héra, Uni, Junon en Italie Centrale», «Hannibal et les dieux de Rome», Recherches sur les religions de l'Italie Antique (1976) 9-19. 32 ss.; van den Bru-

waene, M., «L'épithète de Iuno Moneta», Hommages M. Niedermann, Coll. Latomus 23 (1956) 329-332; Champeaux, J., «Religion romaine et religion latine. Les cultes de Jupiter et Junon à Préneeste», REL 60 (1982) 71-103; Chiarucci, P., «Sulla lanuvina «Iuno Sospita», Il Lazio nell'antichità romana (1982) 271-285; Cousin, J., «La crise religieuse de 207 av. J.-C.», RHR 126, 1943, 15-41; Douglas, E. M., «Iuno Sospita of Lanuvium», JRS 3, 1913, 61-72; Drossart, P., «Nonae Caprotinae: la fausse capture des Aurores», RHR 185, 2, 1974, 129-139; Dumézil, G., «Iuno S. M. R.», Eranos 52, 1954, 105-119 (= Dumézil 1); idem, Fêtes romaines d'été et d'automne suivi de Dix questions romaines. IX: Les Nones Caprotinae (1975) 271-283 (= Dumézil 2); idem, La religione romana arcaica (1977) 261-270, 307-308, 402-407, 411-412, 415-417 (= Dumézil 3); Dury-Moyaers, G./Renard, M., «Aperçu critique des travaux relatifs au culte de Junon», in ANRW II 17, 1 (1981) 143-202; Dury-Moyaers, G., «Réflexions à propos de l'iconographie de Iuno Sospita», in Beiträge zur altitalischen Geistesgeschichte, Festschr. G. Radke (1986) 83-101; Duval, Y.-M., «Les Lupercales, Junon, et le printemps», Annales de Bretagne 83, 2, 1976, 253-272; idem, «Des Lupercales de Constantinople aux Lupercales de Rome», REL 55 (1977) 222-270; Fabian, K. D., Aspekte einer Entwicklungsgeschichte der römisch-latinischen Göttin Iuno (Diss. Berlin 1978); idem, «Ex numine dea? Überlegungen zum numinosen Ursprung der römischen Göttin Iuno», in Beiträge ... Festschr. G. Radke (1986) 102-115; Ferri, S., «La «Iuno Regina» di Veii», StEtr 24, 1955-56, 107-113; Foucher, L., «Flagellation et rite de fécondité aux Lupercales», Annales de Bretagne 83, 2, 1976; Gagé, J., Matronalia, Coll. Latomus 60 (1963); idem, «Les autels de Titus Tatius. Une variante sabine des rites d'intégration dans les curies?», in L'Italie préromaine et Rome républicaine, Mém. J. Heurgon I (1976) 309-322; Galieti, A., «Iuno Sospita Mater Regina in Lanuvium», BullCom 44, 1916, 3-36; Giannelli, G., Culti e miti della Magna Grecia. Contributo alla storia più antica delle colonie greche in Occidente (1963) 143-150; Gordon, A. E., The Cults of Lanuvium (1938) 21-58; Hackens, T., «Capitolium Vetus», BIHBR 33, 1961, 69-88; Hammond, D. P., «Religion in the Latin Elegists», in ANRW II 16, 3 (1986) 1909-1973; Haug, F., RE X I (1918) 1124-1125 s. v. «Iuno 2 (in keltisch-germanischem Gebiet)»; Heurgon, J., «Traditions étrusco-italiques dans le monnayage de Trébonien Galle», StEtr 24, 1955-56, 91-105; Hofkes-Bruker, C., «Iuno Sospita», Hermeneus 27, 1956, 161-169; Latte, R., RR 103-107, 166-169, 257-258; Leglay, M., «Junon et les Cereres d'après la stèle d'Helia Leporina trouvée à Tébessa», Libyca 4, 1956, 33-53; Maddoli, G., «Il rito degli Argei e il culto di Hera a Roma», PP 26, 1971, 153-166; Marchetti Longhi, G., «La Iuno Martialis nelle monete di Treboniano Gallo e di Volusiano», AnnIstItNum 3, 1956, 65-82; Martorana, G., «Un'ipotesi sui Lupercales», Studi di storia antica offerti dagli allievi a E. Manni (1976) 241-258; Noailles, P., «Junon, déesse matrimoniale des Romains», Fas et Jus. Etude de droit romain (1948) 29-43; Otto, W. F., «Juno, Beiträge zum Verständnis der ältesten und wichtigsten Tatsachen ihres Kultes», Philologus 64, 1905, 161-223; Palmer, R. E. A., The Archaic Community of the Romans (1970); Palmer, R. E. A., Roman Religion and Roman Empire. Five Essays (1974); Paratore, E./Verdière, R., «Varron avait raison», AntCl 62, 1, 1973, 49-73; Parisi Presicce, C., «L'importanza di Hera nelle spedizioni coloniali e nell'insediamento primitivo delle colonie greche alla luce della scoperta di un nuovo santuario periferico di Selinunte», ArchCl 37, 1985, 44-83; Porte, D., «Le devin, son bouc et Junon (Ovide, Fastes, II, 425-452)», REL 51, 1973, 171-189; Poucet, J., Recherches sur la légende sabinienne des origines de Rome (1967); Preller, L./Jordan, H., Röm. Mythol. 3 I (1881) 271-289; Radke, G., Die Götter Altitaliens (1979) ss. vv. Caprotina, Cinxia, Covella, Cur(r)itis, Februata, Fluonia, Iuga, Iuno, Lucina, Moneta, Pronuba, Sispes, Sororia, Unxia e, in app. (p. 360), Populon(i)a; Rawson, E., «Caerellii, Iuno Populona and Aquinum», Athenaeum 57 (1979) 462-464; Renard, M., «Le nom de Junon», Phoibos 5, 1950, 1 (= Mém. J. Heurgon), 141-143; idem, «Aspects anciens de Janus et de Junon», RBP 31, 1953, 5-21; idem, «Juno Couella», in Mém. H. Grégoire IV (1953) 401-408; Rix, H., «Rapporti onomastici fra il panteon etrusco e quello romano», in Gli Etruschi e Roma, Atti incontro di studio in onore di M. Pallottino (1981) 104-126; Roe D'Albret, Y., «Recherches sur la prise de Véies et sur Juno Regina», Annuaire de l'Ecole Prat. des Hautes Etudes, IV sect., 1975-76, 1093-1103; Roscher, W. H., Studien zur vergleichenden Mythologie der Griechen und Römer, II Iuno und Hera (1875); idem, ML II 1 (1890-94) 574-615 s. v. «Iuno»; Sabbatucci, D., La religione di Roma antica, dal calendario festivo all'ordine cosmico (1988); Schilling, R., Rites, cultes, dieux de Rome (1979); Shield, E. L., Juno. A Study in Early Roman Religion (1926); Thulin, C., RE X I (1918) 1114-1123 s. v. «Iuno»; Torelli, M., «La religione», in AA. VV., Rasenna, Storia e civiltà degli Etruschi (1986) 157 ss.; idem, «Appunti per una storia di Tarquinia», in Tarquinia: ricerche, scavi e prospettive, a cura di Bonghi Jovino, M./Chiaramonte Treré, C., Atti Convegno Milano 1986 (1987) 129-140; Turcan R., «Enée, Lavinium et les treize autels. En marge d'un livre récent», RHR 200, 1983, 41-66; Usener H., Götternamen. Versuch einer Lehre von der religiösen Begriffsbildung (1948); Vella, H. C. R., «Juno and Fertility at the Sanctuary of Tas-Silg, Malta», in Archaeology and Fertility in the Ancient Mediterranean (1986) 315-322; Wardman, A., Religion and Statecraft among the Romans (1982) 3. 5. 11. 38; Weigel, R. D., «Juno Regina and the Roman Empresses», Journal of the Soc. of Anc. Numismatics 12 (1981) 31 ss.; idem, «The duplication of Temples of Juno Regina in Rome», Anc. Society (Louvain) 13-14, 1982-83, 179-192; Wissowa, Religion 181-191.

CATALOGO

SOMMARIO

I. Culti di Iuno noti da monumenti figurati	I-191
A.1. Iuno Sospita, o Sispes Mater Regina	I-33
A.2. Iuno Caprotina(?)	34
B. Iuno Regina	35-109
1. A Roma	35-40
1.1. Sull'Aventino	35-39
1.2. In circo Flaminio	40
1.3. Sul Campidoglio (Triade Capitolina), e diffusione nell'Impero Romano	41-87
a) Iuno stante	41-56
b) Iuno seduta in trono	57-73
c) Teste e busti	74-79
d) La Triade Capitolina in composizioni cosmogoniche	80-83
e) Presentazione di Apollo e Diana alla T. C.	84-87
1.4. Raffigurazioni di Iuno Regina riferibili ad uno dei culti romani	88-107
1.5. Possibili raffigurazioni di Iuno Regina	108
1.6. Iuno Regina come Aeternitas	109
2. Ad Ardea	-
3. A Sezze	-
C. Iuno Regina Dolichena	110-131
D. Iuno Moneta	132-134
1. A Roma	132-134
2. A Segni	-
3. A Cori	-
E. Iuno Lucina	135-147
1. A Roma	135-144
a) Stante	135-140
b) Seduta	141-144

2. A Norba	145-147	K. Hera/Iuno in raffigurazioni riferibili all'Iliade	343-352
F. Iuno Cur(r)itis (o Quiritis)	148-151	L. Hera/Iuno in raffigurazioni riferibili all'Eneide	353-355
1. A Falerii	148-150	M. Hera/Iuno nella gara musicale tra le Muse e le Sirene	356
2. A Tivoli	151	N. Hera/Iuno nella Gigantomachia(?)	357
G. Iuno Gabina	152-153	O. Iuno nel mito di Mars e Rhea Silvia(?)	358
a) Iuno da sola seduta su trono	152	P. Hera/Iuno nel mito della nascita di Dionysos(?)	-
b) Iuno in coppia seduta su trono	153	Q. Iuno(?) in un mito non identificato	348
H. Iuno Martialis	154-161
I. Iuno Caelestis	162-185
K. Iuno Pronuba(?)	186-191
II. Raffigurazioni di Iuno da sola	192-273
A. Iuno stante	192-215
a) Iuno senza velo sul capo	192-198
b) Iuno in chitone e mantello sulla nuca e sulle spalle	199-208
c) Iuno in chitone e mantello posato sulla nuca e ripiegato intorno al corpo	209-215
B. Iuno seduta	216-225
C. Iuno in volo trasportata da un Genio alato	226-227
D. Iuno bambina, su un pavone	228
E. Busti e teste	229-273
a) Possibili raffigurazioni di Iuno con stephane senza velo sul capo	229-256
b) Possibili raffigurazioni di Iuno con stephane e velo sul capo	257-272
c) Maschera di Iuno	273
III. Assimilazioni con Iuno	274-285
A. Busti e teste	274-278
B. Intera stante	279-281
C. Librata in aria su un pavone o su un Genio alato	282-285
IV. Raffigurazioni di Hera/Iuno con altre divinità	286-332
A. Con Zeus/Iuppiter	286-292
B. Con Iuppiter Ammon	293-297
C. Con Iuppiter ed Hebe	298
D. Con Iuppiter, Apollo, e le Muse	299
E. Con Minerva, Venere, Apollo, Diana	300
F. Con i Dodici Dei	301-310
Raffigurazioni ridotte o frammentarie dei Dodici Dei	306-310
G. Sulle c. d. «Iuppitersäulen»	311-331
H. Con Mitra ed altre divinità	332
V. Iuno in raffigurazioni mitologiche	333-348
A. Hera/Iuno ed Ares/Mars	333
B. Hera/Iuno ed Hephaistos/Vulcanus	334
C. Hera/Iuno ed Herakles/Hercules	335-337
D. Hera/Iuno ed Io	338
E. Hera/Iuno ed Ixion	339
F. Hera/Iuno e Marsyas	-
G. Hera/Iuno e Prometheus	340
H. Hera/Iuno e Phaethon	341
I. Hera/Iuno nelle nozze di Peleus e Thetis	342

I. Culti di Iuno noti da monumenti figurati

A.1. Iuno Sospita, o Sispes Mater Regina

È così chiamata Iuno venerata principalmente a Lanuvio (CIL XIV 2090-2091), nota anche con le epiclesi Sispita, Sospes e, più comunemente, Sospita. Collegato, tramite la radice *sep-, *sop- al greco σώζειν («assistere», «soccorrere»), l'appellativo definisce la dea come «colei che soccorre», «colei che aiuta» (discussione dell'etimologia in Radke). L'aspetto della dea è perfettamente descritto da Cicerone (nat. 1, 29, 82: «... illam vestram Sospitam, quam tu numquam ne in somnis quidem vides nisi cum pelle caprina, cum hasta, cum scutulo, cum calceolis repandis»). Divinità prevalentemente guerriera, quindi, e poliade. Risulta testimoniata, a livello figurativo, a partire dal VI sec. a. C. in Etruria, dove è collegata con Hercules di cui sembra essere la paredra o l'antagonista. Le prime testimonianze in territorio latino risalgono agli inizi del V sec. a. C. (ante-fisse). A Lanuvio aveva un suo flamen. Dopo il 338 a. C., quando i Lanuvini ricevettero la civitas Romana, il culto divenne comune a Romani e Lanuvini (Liv. 8, 14, 2), ed i consoli sacrificavano nel santuario lanuvino della dea ogni anno (Cic. Mur. 90). L'importanza del culto è indirettamente testimoniata dai numerosi prodigi avvenuti nel tempio di Lanuvio, e fedelmente riportati dagli annalisti: la lancia della statua di culto che si muove (Liv. 21, 62, 4: 218 a. C.); corvi che entrano (Liv. l.c.) o nidificano nel tempio (Liv. 24, 10, 6: 214 a. C.); la statua che suda sangue (Liv. 23, 31, 15: 215 a. C.; Obseq. 46: 99 a. C.) o versa lacrime (Liv. 40, 19, 2; Obseq. 6: 181 a. C.); rumori agghiaccianti nella cella (Liv. 29, 14, 3: 204 a. C.; Obseq. 12, 6: 200 a. C.). Nel 197 a. C. il console C. Cornelio Cetego, durante i combattimenti contro le popolazioni galliche in Italia Settentrionale, votò un tempio a I. S. (Liv. 32, 30, 10), che fu dedicato il 194 a. C. a Iuno Matuta, «colei che porta a buon fine» (Liv. 34, 53, 3): non è dubbio che si tratti del tempio stesso di Iuno Sospita (InscrIt XIII 2, 405 s.), eretto nel Foro Olitorio, non lontano dalla porta Carmentale. Nel 90 a. C., a seguito di un sogno di una Caecilia Metella (la dea fuggiva dal suo tempio ridotto in condizioni deplorabili: Cic. div. 1, 4, 99; Obseq. 55), il console L. Iulius rinnovava il tempio. Un ulteriore restauro avvenne probabilmente durante il principato di Tiberio (Jordan/Hülsem I 3, 511 ss.; Delbrueck, R., Die drei Tempel am Forum Holitorium [1903]; Hülsen, Ch., RM 1906, 169 ss.; Platner/Ashby 291).

BIBLIOGRAFIA: Wissowa, Religion<sup>2</sup> 187 ss.; Dumézil, G., Eranos 52, 1954, 105 ss.; Latte, RR 166 ss.; Radke, G., Die Götter Altitaliens (1965) 287 ss.; Dumézil, G., La religione romana arcaica (1977) 266 ss.

Ceramica

1. (= Herakles/Hercle 362* con bibl.) Anfora etr. «pontica» a f. n. Londra, BM 39.2-14.71 (B 57). - Furtwängler, AG III 88 n. 3; Ducati, P., Pontische Vasen (1932) 14 tav. 13; Hampe/Simon, Griech. Sagen in der frühen etr. Kunst (1964) 5 tav. 6, 1; Chiarucci, P., Lanu-vium (1983) 61 fig. 24; Höckmann, U., Antikenslg. München. Kat. der Bronzen I. Die Bronzen aus dem Fürstengrab von Castel Mariano (1982) 68. - II metà del VI sec. a. C. - Lato A diviso sul corpo in due registri. Reg. inf.: Fila di pernici. Reg. sup.: Combattimento tra Hercules e I. S. Alle spalle di Hercules è una figura femminile (Minerva?); alle spalle di I. S. è Neptunus che trattiene la dea per un braccio. I. S. è rivestita con chitone e pelle di capro dalle lunghe corna. Nella d. la dea regge una lancia, nella s. uno scudo rotondo. Tra i contendenti, e dietro I. S., due calderoni con anse a forma di serpenti.

Cf. anche → Herakles/Hercle 363.

Metallo

2. (= Herakles/Hercle 150 con bibl.) Anello in oro, etr. Londra, Victoria and Albert Mus. 445-1871. - Reifferscheid, A., AdI 1867, 356 s. tav. agg. H, 1; Douglas, E. M., JRS 3, 1913, 65 fig. 4. - Sulla fascetta d'oro, ai lati del castone, stanti, I. S. ed Hercules con le braccia sollevate, reggenti i loro rispettivi attributi, il coltello ricurvo(?) e la clava. Ambedue sono ricoperti con nebridi, la dea di capro, l'eroe di leone.

Rilievi

3. Rilievo in marmo. Chatsworth House. - Furtwängler, A., JHS 21, 1901, 227 n° 16 fig. 9; Reinach, RépRel II 445, 2. - Età giulio-claudia. - Testa di I. S. di profilo verso d. con una pelle di capro dalle lunghe corna arcuate sulla testa.

4.* (= Ares/Mars 291, = Honos 23) Base rotonda in marmo. Roma, Mus. Nuovo del Pal. Cons. 3320. Dall'abbazia di Grottaferrata, poi a Villa Doria Pamphilj. - Köhler, U., AdI 1863, 195 ss.; EA 2361-2365; Hornbostel, W., JdI 87, 1972, 367 ss.; Calza, R., Ant. Villa Doria Pamphilj (1977) n° 138 (Pensabene, P.). - Età di Antonino Pio. - I. S. è a fianco di Antonino Pio, originario di Lanuvio. Seguono altre divinità, il Genio del Senato ed infine Marco Aurelio e Lucio Vero (mancano le figure di uno dei principi e di una divinità).

Antefisse in terracotta

5.* Matrice. Roma, Villa Giulia 7246. Dal tempio di Vignale a Falerii Veteres. - Della Seta, A., Mus. di Villa Giulia (1918) 183 n° 7246; Andrén, A., Architectural Terracottas from Etrusco-Italic Temples (1940) 99 n° II: 11 c tav. 32, 113 c; Helbig<sup>4</sup> III n° 2825 (Dohrn, T.). - Primi decenni del V sec. a. C. - La dea ha i capelli sciolti a boccoli sulle spalle. Sul capo ha un elmo con grande cresta semicircolare posta di traverso; sull'elmo sono, inoltre, due grandi corna curvate a lira e due lunghe orecchie di capro. Simile un esemplare da Antemnae, ora nel Mus. Naz. Rom. (Andrén, o. c. 502 n° I: 19 tav. 156, 524; Quilici, L./Quilici Gigli, S., Antemnae [1978] 48 ss. tavv. 12-14; Pensabene, P./Sanzi Di Mino, M. R., MusNazRom III 1. Le terrecotte [1983] 70 s. n° 34 tavv. E; 12).

6. Roma, Antiquarium del Foro. Dalla Basilica Julia nel Foro Romano. - Carettoni, G. F., RendAccLinc 8 ser. 16 (1961) 58 s. tav. 3, 2; Gjerstad, E., Early Rome IV 2 (1966) 466 s. - Rispetto agli ess. precedenti, qui la dea ha due corna poco curvate ed orecchie diritte. Simili gli esemplari del Palatino (a*) (Pensabene, P., ArchLaz 3, 1980, 75 tav. 16, 1), di Fidene (Quilici, L./Quilici Gigli, S., Fidene [1986] 106 ss. tav. 32, 2-34, 2), di Berlino, Staatl. Mus. (Andrén, o. c. 5, 502, n° I: 17 tav. 156, 522), di Lavinio (Enea nel Lazio, Cat. Roma 1981, 196 s.) e di Satrico (Chiarucci, o. c. 1, 65 fig. 28; Knoop, R. R., ArchLaz 4, 1981, 319 s.).

7. Da Falerii Veteres, santuario Sassi Caduti. - Andrén, o. c. 5, 112 n° I: 9. - Conservati solo parte della base, il collo e quattro riccioli sul lato s. del collo.

8. Dal c. d. tempio di Diana a Norba. - NotSc 1901, 547 s. fig. 28; Andrén, o. c. 5, 387 n° 6. - Per quanto molto frammentario, questo esemplare sembra collegarsi con il tipo dalle corna più diritte.

9. Da Segni. - Andrén, o. c. 5, 398 s. n° I: 4. - Conservati solo parte della base, collo, ed estremità delle trecce e dell'elmo.

10. Da Cerveteri. - Mengarelli, R., StEtr 10, 1936, 76; Andrén, o. c. 5, 52 n° III: 15. - Conservati solo parte della base e collo. Non è certo che si tratti di una I. S.

11.* Roma, Villa Giulia 10231. Da Satricum. - Andrén, o. c. 5, 469 n° II: 10 tav. 145, 508; Area sacra di Satricum. Tra scavo e restituzione, Cat. Albano 1985, 75 (Knoop, R.). - Inizi V sec. a. C. - Tipo di formato più grande rispetto agli esemplari precedenti. La dea ha corna lunghe ed incurvate (anche se non a lira), ma, in luogo delle consuete orecchie di capra, presenta orecchie di bue. Assimilazione con la Hera greca cui è sacro il bue?

12. Ubicazione ignota. Da Lavinio. - Thomas Ashby, Un archeologo fotografa la campagna romana tra '800 e '900. Cat. Roma 1986, 188 n° 151 fig. 8 (Turchetti, R.). - Fine V-prima metà IV sec. a. C. - Variante del tipo, di tradizione pienamente classica (finora esemplare unico). L'antefissa è documentata da una fotografia di Th. Ashby. Non si distingue il tipo d'elmo; ma sono chiarissime le corna e le orecchie di capro. La testa è adorna di due orecchini a bottone.

13. Perugia, Mus. Naz. Da Collemaiano (l'antica Urvinum Hortense?). - AdI 1941, 434. - III sec. a. C. (?) - L'antefissa proviene dallo scavo di un tempio di età repubblicana. Finora non documentata fotograficamente, sembra che non si tratti di una I. S.

Bronzo

14. (= Herakles/Hercle 151) Thymiaterion in bronzo, etr. München, Antikenslg. 720g WAF. Da Castel Mariano (Perugia). - Höckmann, o. c. 1, 64 ss.

n° 26 tavv. 35, 36, 1-2; Krauskopf, ThebSag 36 s. n. 246. - VI sec. a. C. - Sui tre lati del thymiaterion sono I. S., Herakles ed una figura femminile velata (Aphrodite? Hebe?). I. S. veste un chitone su cui posa un'ampia pelle di capro che le copre la nuca. La dea regge con il braccio s. uno scudo «ad otto»; con la mano d. regge un lembo della pelle di capro. Secondo l'interpretazione di Th. Panofka (AdI 2, 1830, 335) sarebbe raffigurato il matrimonio di Herakles ed Hebe alla presenza di I. S. Ma potrebbe trattarsi anche, e solamente, di una teoria di divinità.

15. (= Herakles/Hercle 364*) Applique di elmo in bronzo, etr. Parigi, Louvre 1681. - De Ridder, BrLouvre II 42 n° 1681 tav. 75; Zancani Montuoro, P., ASAtene 24-26, 1946-48, 93 fig. 12; Krauskopf, ThebSag 36 s. n. 246; Höckmann, o. c. 1, 68. - Lotta tra Ercole e I. S. Ambedue hanno il braccio d. sollevato, l'uno con la clava, l'altra con la spada. Le figurine sono disposte sulle braccia di un Sileno.

16.* Piccola maschera in bronzo. Londra, BM 673. - Walters, BMBronzes n° 673; Hafner, JdI 81, 1966, 196 fig. 10; Chiarucci, o. c. 1, 61 s. fig. 23. - Maschera di I. S. con le corna e le orecchie di capro.

Monete

17.* AR denario, Roma, L. Thorius Balbus, 105 a. C. - Crawford, RRC n° 316/1 tav. 42, 4. - D.: testa di I. S. volta a d., con legg. I(un)o S(ospita) M(ater) R(egina). R.: toro.

18.* AR denario, Roma, L. Procilius, 80 a. C. - Crawford, RRC n° 379/2 tav. 48, 20; Chiarucci, o. c. 1, fig. 12B. - D.: testa di I. S. con pelle di capro con piccole corna, e legg. S. C. R.: I. S. su biga in corsa con scudo e lancia. Sotto i cavalli un serpente.

19. Idem. - Crawford, RRC n° 379/1 tav. 48, 19; Chiarucci, o. c. 1, figg. 12 C; 14. - R.: I. S. in piedi, in movimento verso d., con scudo «ad otto», lancia e pelle di capro su lungo chitone; davanti serpente. D.: testa di Giove.

20.* AR denario, Roma, L. Papius, 79 a. C. - Crawford, RRC n° 384/1 tav. 49, 2. - D.: testa di I. S. con pelle di capro con piccole corna, volta a d. Sul fondo marchio di controllo. R.: grifo in corsa. Il grifo si riferisce al culto di I. S.? (Cavedoni, C., AdI 11, 1839, 308).

21. AR denario, Roma, L. Roscius Fabatus, 64 a. C. - Crawford, RRC n° 412/1 tav. 50, 24; Chiarucci, o. c. 1, figg. 12A; 15. - D.: testa di I. S. volta a d.; sul fondo marchio di controllo. R.: fanciulla di fronte alla quale è un serpente. Sul significato del serpente nel culto di I. S.: Prop. 4, 8, 3; Ail. nat. 11, 16.

22. AR denario, Roma, L. Papius Celsus, 45 a. C. - Crawford, RRC n° 472/1 tav. 55, 22. - D.: testa di I. S. volta a d. R.: lupa ed aquila.

23. AU aureo, Q. Cornuficius Augur, Africa 45 a. C. - Crawford, RRC n° 509/1-5 tav. 61, 20-22; Chiarucci, o. c. 1, fig. 17 a d. - R.: I. S. stante verso s., con un corvo sulla spalla, con scudo «ad otto» e lancia nella mano s., incorona l'augure Q. Cornuficius stante di fronte in toga, capite velato, con un lituo nella mano d. D.: testa di Juppiter Ammon (20), di Africa (21), di Pax (22). La stessa immagine compare su un denario di restitutio in argento dell'epoca di Traiano, 107 d. C. (BMC Emp III 141, 40 tav. 23, 11).

24. AR denario, Roma, M. Mettius, 44 a. C. - Crawford, RRC n° 480/2 tav. 56, 19; Chiarucci, o. c. 1, fig. 17 a s. - R.: I. S. in corsa su biga con asta e scudo «ad otto».

25. AR quinario, Roma, M. Mettius, 44 a. C. - Crawford, RRC n° 480/23 tav. 57, 15. - D.: testa di I. S. volta a d. Alle spalle un serpente (vd. 21). R.: Vittoria in biga.

25a) AE, Nikomedeia (Bitinia), tempo di Augusto. - Imhoof-Blumer, GyM 604, 134 tav. 6, 12; RecGén I 3, 516, 11 tav. 88, 26-27. - D.: testa di I. S. con pelle di capro con corna, legg. HPA AANOIA (= Iuno Lanuvina). R.: cinghiale cornuto.

26.* AE sesterzio, Roma, Antonino Pio, 140-143 d. C. - BMC Emp IV 201, 1248-1251 tav. 28, 4; Robertson, Hunter II 218, 123 tav. 56; Strack, Reichsprägung III 260, 837 tav. 10. - 140-43 d. C. - R.: I. S. avanzante verso d. con pelle di capro sul capo e sulla spalle, lancia brandita e scudo «ad otto»; chitone con lungo rimbocco con pieghe arcaizzanti. Ai suoi piedi un serpente. Legg. IUNONI SISIPITAE S. C. Analoghi esempl. BMC Emp IV 210, *; 277 n. *.

27. AR denario, Roma, Marco Aurelio, Commodo, 177 d. C. - BMC Emp IV 499, 760. - 177 d. C. - R.: I. S. avanzante con scudo oblungo e serpente arrotolato. Legg. IUNONI SISIPITAE TR. P. II IMP. II COS. P. P. S. C. Analogo esempl. in bronzo di Commodo BMC Emp IV 672, 1669-70 tav. 89, 1.

Scultura a tutto tondo

A figura intera in marmo

28. Statua colossale. Vaticano, Sala Rotonda 241. - Lippold, SkulptVatMus III 1, 142 n° 552. Marchetti Longhi, G., RendPontAcc 20, 1943-44, 393 s.; Hafner, G., JdI 81, 1966, 197 ss. fig. 14; Helbig<sup>4</sup> I n° 48 (Simon, E.); Martin, H. G., Römische Tempelkultbilder (1987) 112 ss. fig. 28. - Età di Antonino Pio. - La dea veste un lungo chitone increspato ed un peplo su cui posa una grande pelle di capro stretta alla vita da una cintura. Il capo di I. S., decorato con una stephane, è coperto dalla pelle della testa del capro. Sono di restauro le braccia, i piedi con parte delle gambe, il serpente, parte del volto. Il restauro delle braccia con lancia e scudo ovale, e dei calcei con la punta sollevata (i calcei repandi) è assicurato dalle monete. Potrebbe trattarsi della statua di culto del tempio di I. S. nel Foro Olitorio, restaurato nel II. sec. d. C. (Martin).

A figura intera in bronzo

29.* Statuetta in bronzo, etr. Firenze, Mus. Arch. 8. - Richardson, E., Etruscan Votive Bronzes (1983) 361 figg. 864-65; Cristofani, M., I bronzi degli Etruschi (1985) 281 n° 93. - Primi decenni del V sec. a. C. - La dea è gradiente verso d. con movimento impetuoso. Veste corto chitone, himation e pelle di animale (un ovino?; mancano le corna) posata sulla nuca e sulle spalle. La pelle è annodata sul petto. La capigliatura è disposta in una banda sulla fronte e due lunghe e sottili trecce ai lati. La s. avanzata doveva reggere lo scudo; il braccio d. arretrato è mancante. I piedi sono scalzi.

30.* Statuetta in bronzo. Stuttgart, Landesmus., Antikenslg. 3.249. - Hafner, G., Die Bronzen der Sammlung Scheufelen (1958) 31 n° 249 tav. 13; Chiarucci, o. c. I, 56 ss. fig. 20. - Età medio-repubblicana. - La dea, stante, ha la nebride di capro sulla testa e sul corpo. Nella s. avanzata, uno scudo a pelta; nella d. sollevata doveva avere una lancia.

31. Statuetta in bronzo(?). Ubicazione ignota. - Dalla collina di S. Basso a Cupra Marittima. - Fortini, P., Cupra Marittima. Origini, storia, urbanistica (1981) 16 e n. 90 n° 2 tav. 12a. - La statuetta, nota solo da un disegno, è in tutto simile alla statua 28. Ma è sicura la pertinenza al complesso di votivi rinvenuti nel santuario di Cupra? Manca, purtroppo, qualsiasi documentazione sull'argomento.

Teste in marmo

32.* Testa femminile, già a Lanuvio. Età tardo-repubblicana. - Kaschnitz-Weinberg, G., in Festschr. C. Weickert (1955) 1 ss.; Hafner, G., JdI 81, 1966, 198 ss. figg. 16, 18; Chiarucci, o. c. I, 68 ss. figg. 32-33; Martin, o. c. 28, 112 ss. tavv. 15-16. - Età tardo-repubblicana (Coarelli); forse, più specificamente, verso la metà del I sec. a. C., quando Annio Milone era dictator di Lanuvio (Martin). - È il fr. superstite della statua acrolitica di culto(?). Sulla testa doveva poggiare l'elmo con la pelle di capro mediante grossi fori eseguiti a distanza regolare alle tempie.

33.* Testa femminile da un acrolito. Vaticano. Provenienza ignota. - Lippold, SkulptVatMus III 2, 514 ss. tavv. 234-235; Hafner, G., JdI 81, 1966, 186 ss. - V sec. a. C. Produzione di una bottega italiota(?). - Hafner propone di completare la testa con una pelle di capro: si tratterebbe pertanto di una statua di culto di I. S. Cf. contra Höckmann, U., Antikensammlungen München. Kat. der Bronzen I. Die Bronzen aus dem Fürstengrab von Castel Mariano (1982) 171 n. 342; e Martin, o. c. 28, 114 s. La testa era sicuramente inserita su una statua di divinità seduta.

A.2. Iuno Caprotina(?)

Epiclesi della dea, con riferimento alla festa delle Nonae Caprotinae che si teneva a Roma e nel Lazio il 7 luglio (combattimenti fittizi di ancelle della dea con sferze e sassi durante i quali volavano feroci parole di scherno e di beffa: Macr. Sat. I, 11, 36 ss.; Plut. Rom. 29; Cam. 33; Varro l. l. 6, 18; Polyæn. 8, 30). Il sacrificio si svolgeva sotto un fico selvatico (caprificus), da cui forse il nome, collegato, secondo un'altra ipotesi, al capro, animale la cui pelle era indossata dalla Iuno Lanuvina e durante le feste della Iuno di Falerii. I Luperci sferzavano le donne vestiti appunto con pelli di capro. L'accezione relativa alla fecondità ed alla sfera sessuale è evidente. In base al presunto rapporto con i capri, si è proposto di riconoscere nella I. C. la stessa I. Sospita (Weinstock, S., RE XVII 1 [1936] 849). Secondo una recente ipotesi, vi sarebbe un collegamento tra il culto di I. Palostca (riferito a polusca, una specie di fico?) a Preneste e quello di I. C. È proponibile anche un rapporto tra Mefitis e Caprotina, in base ad iscrizioni di età repubblicana rinvenute a Rossano di Vaglio (Lejeune, M., MemLinc ser. 8, 16, 1971, 47 ss.; idem, Rend Linc ser. 8, 26, 1971, 663 ss.).

BIBLIOGRAFIA: Roscher, ML II 1 (1884-86) 598 ss.; Wissowa, Religion 184 s.; Pestalozza, U., Religione mediterranea (1951) 369 ss.; Radke, G., Die Götter Altitaliens (1966) 80-81; Palmer, R. E. A., Roman Religion and Roman Empire (1974) 7 ss.; Dumézil, G., La religione romana arcaica (1977) 263-264; Dury-Moyaers/Renard 157 ss.

Monete

34.* AR Denario, Roma, C. Renius, 138 a. C. - Crawford, RRC n° 231/1 tav. 35, 17. - R.: I. con stephane, scettro e redini, guida un cocchio tirato da due capri. D.: testa di Roma. Il riconoscimento di I. C. è ipotetico. Il capro è animale sacro a I., così come ad Hera, ben prima dell'istituzione del culto capitolino (Koch, K., Der römische Jupiter (1937) 71. 105-107. 112-116).

B. Iuno Regina

Divinità poliade in alcune città del Lazio (da cui probabilmente l'epiclesi). È sicuramente testimoniata a Veio (Liv. 5, 21, 3; 22, 7; 23, 7; 31, 3; Plut. Cam. 6; Val. Max. 1, 8, 3; Dion. Hal. ant. 13, 3), ad Ardea (Plin. nat. 35, 115) e naturalmente a Roma, dove le erano dedicati due templi (sull'Aventino e in circo Flaminio: Platner/Ashby 290); ma era Regina anche la Iuno della Triade Capitolina venerata nel tempio di Iuppiter a triplice cella sul Campidoglio. Analoga epiclesi ha ricevuto Iuno Sispes (o Sospita) di Lanuvio (CIL XIV 2088-2091. 2121: Iuno Sispes Mater Regina), in quanto divinità principale della città.

1. A Roma

1.1. Sull'Aventino

Il culto fu trasferito mediante evocatio a Roma, in un tempio appositamente costruito sul colle «plebeo» dell'Aventino, ad opera di M. Furio Camillo dopo la distruzione di Veio; la stessa statua cultuale del tempio veiente, un xoanon di legno (cf. 35), fu trasportata con grande pompa nel nuovo edificio sacro che fu dedicato il 1 settembre 392 a. C. Oltre la statua di culto, il tempio conteneva altri signa della dea, dedicati in occasione di gravi calamità pubbliche (vd. 36-39). Molti riti di espiazione furono eseguiti durante la I guerra Punica a seguito dell'identificazione della Tanit cartaginese con Iuno (vd. Iuno Caelestis). Secondo un'ipotesi, in tale occasione fu coniato il tridente 233b con testa femminile, forse Iuno, in associazione con la exoratio della dea da Cartagine (Crawford, RRC p. 719 s.). Il tempio fu restaurato da Augusto (Mon. Anc. 4, 6).

35. La statua di culto del tempio sull'Aventino, trasferita da Veio a Roma nel 392 a. C., era un xoanon in legno, come riferisce Dion. Hal. ant. 13, 3. Inoltre:

Liv. 5, 22; Val. Max. 1, 8, 3; Plut. Cam. 6. È probabile che, come nel caso dei signa di cui ai n° 37-39, la statua fosse di legno di cipresso.

36. Nel 218 a. C. fu dedicata a Iuno una statua di bronzo (signum aeneum matronae Iunoni in Aventino dedicaverunt [Liv. 21, 62, 8]).

37. Nel 207 a. C. furono dedicate alla dea due statue in legno di cipresso (duo signa cupresseae Iunonis Reginae... in aedem inlata [Liv. 27, 37, 12-15]).

38. Nel 99 a. C., durante il consolato di M. Antonio e A. Postumio, furono dedicate altre due statue di cipresso (signa cupresseae duo Iunoni Reginae posita [Obseq. 46]).

39. Nel 97 a. C., durante il consolato di Gn. Cornelio Lentulo e P. Licinio Crasso, furono poste nel tempio di I. R. ancora due statue di cipresso (cupresseae simulacra Iunonis Reginae posita per virgines viginti septem [Obseq. 48]).

1.2. In circo Flaminio

Il secondo tempio dedicato a Iuno Regina fu votato dal console M. Emilio Lepido nel 187 a. C. durante l'ultima battaglia contro i Liguri (Liv. 39, 2, 11) e dedicato il 23 dicembre del 179 a. C., quando Lepido era censore con M. Fulvio Nobiliore (Liv. 40, 52, 1). Nel 149 a. C. Q. Cecilio Metello, a seguito del suo trionfo Macedonico, dedicava un tempio a Iuppiter Stator, e recingeva il tempio stesso e quello di Iuno Regina con una magnificente porticus nella quale trovava posto anche la celebre turba Alexandri di Lisippo (Vell. 1, 11, 3). Non è precisato, dalle fonti pervenute, se il tempio di Iuno Regina fosse stato restaurato o ricostruito per l'occasione. Secondo Vitruvio il tempio di Iuppiter Stator era opera di Hermodoros di Salamina (Vitr. 3, 2, 5); la statua di culto, in base ad un celebre brano di Plinio (nat. 36, 34-35), era stata eseguita da Polykles e Dionysios, figli di Timarchides (per la cronologia degli scultori: Habicht, Ch., AM 97, 1982, 178 ss.). Sempre secondo Plinio (l. c.) nel vicino tempio di Iuno i due scultori avrebbero realizzato una statua della dea (in base alla cronologia ed alla concomitanza con l'esecuzione della statua di Iuppiter potrebbe trattarsi della statua di culto). Probabilmente, secondo la lettura pliniana offerta da F. Coarelli (DdA 2, 1968, 334; StudMisc 15 [1970] 80) sulla quale tuttavia sono stati avanzati dubbi (Stewart, A. F., Attika [1979] 47; Martin, o. c. 28, 62), Timarchides stesso avrebbe precedentemente eseguito una statua di Iuno, in occasione della costruzione del tempio di Lepido. I due templi e la porticus che li circondava furono ricostruiti in età augustea e dedicati da Ottavia, l'amata sorella dell'imperatore (Vell. l. c.; Plin. nat. 34, 31; Paul. Festi p. 188 L.). Il programma statuario interno dovette restare più o meno inalterato, poiché Plinio ricorda solo opere riferibili all'epoca di Lepido e di Metello, ad esclusione di una statua eburnea di Iuppiter, opera di Pasiteles (Plin. nat. 36, 40), comunque inserita nel tempio di Iuppiter prima delle ricostruzioni augustee.

40. (= Aphrodite 1068*) Testa colossale in marmo. Roma, Mus. Cap. 253. Dalla coll. Albani. - Stuart Jones, SculptMusCap 122 n° 49 tav. 31; BrBr 265; Krahmer, G., NachGöttingen N. F. 1, 1934-36, 248 s. fig. 28; Becatti, G., RivIstArch 7, 1940, 50 s. fig. 27; Helbig<sup>4</sup> II n° 1235 (v. Steuben, H.); Coarelli, F., StudMisc 15, 1969-70, 84 s.; idem, DdA 4-5, 1970-71, 257 fig. 6; Stewart, A. F., Skopas of Paros (1976) tav. 46a; idem, Attika (1979) 45 tav. 9d; Martin, o. c. 28, 88 ss. 209 s. Kat. 3 tavv. 6-7. - Metà circa del II sec. a. C. - Testa acrolitica, cava all'interno con occhi inseriti in altro materiale. Capelli con scriminatura centrale raccolti dietro la nuca. Stephane sul capo. Un velo doveva coprire la nuca fino all'altezza della stephane. In base al collegamento stilistico con la testa di Hercules dal Campidoglio, ora nel Museo Nuovo del Palazzo dei Conservatori, quasi sicuramente opera di Polykles (Cic. Att. 6, 1, 17), anche l'acrolito Albani è stato ascripto al maestro ateniese (Coarelli, Martin) che, secondo la testimonianza di Plinio, aveva eseguito una statua di I. Regina per il tempio in circo Flaminio (nat. 36, 35). Ma l'ipotesi andrebbe ulteriormente verificata perché, pur concordando con l'inevitabile rapporto stilistico con la testa di Hercules, l'acrolito Albani va collegato con una seconda testa acrolitica, anch'essa dalla coll. Albani, raffigurante un giovane dio (Apollo?) dai capelli più capricciosamente raccolti dietro la nuca, e con due lunghe ciocche annodate sul capo (Roma, Mus. Cap.: Stuart, Jones, SculptMusCap 95 n° 15 tav. 27), secondo l'iconografia già nota per l'Apollo attribuito a Timarchides. Sembra verosimile, anche se mancano notizie in merito, che le due teste acrolitiche siano state rinvenute insieme.

1.3. Sul Campidoglio (Triade Capitolina), e diffusione nell'impero Romano

Anche Iuno pertinente alla Triade Capitolina era detta Regina. La costruzione del tempio di Iuppiter Optimus Maximus Capitolinus, nel quale era venerata la T. C., era stata avviata da Tarquinio Prisco, e completata da Tarquinio il Superbo, anche se l'edificio fu dedicato nel primo anno della Repubblica, il 13 settembre, da Orazio Pulvillo (Liv. 2, 8; 7, 3, 8; Polyb. 3, 22; Tac. hist. 3, 72; Plut. Popl. 14). Il tempio aveva tre celle parallele. Iuno era venerata nella cella di sinistra (a destra rispetto lo spettatore: Liv. 7, 3, 5). La statua di culto doveva essere in terracotta, in analogia con quella di Iuppiter, opera di Vulca di Veio (Ov. fast. 1, 201-202; Plin. nat. 33, 111-112; 35, 157), che realizzò anche la celebre quadriga di Iuppiter posta sul fastigio del tempio (Plin. nat. 28, 16; 35, 157; Paul. Festi p. 342 L.; Plut. Popl. 13). È verosimile, pertanto, che a Vulca si debbano ascrivere anche le statue di culto di Iuno e di Minerva, anche se di esse non abbiamo nessuna informazione. Bruciato il 6 luglio dell'83 a. C. insieme con la statua di culto del dio (e probabilmente, anche se le fonti non ci informano sull'argomento, degli altri due membri della Triade) e con i libri Sibillini, la ricostruzione fu iniziata da Sulla (Val. Max. 9, 3, 8; Tac. hist. 3, 72) che fece trasferire per l'occasione alcune colonne dell'Olympieion ateniese, rimasto incompiuto, a Roma (Plin. nat. 36, 45). Né i fusti né i capitelli dovettero essere adoperati perché il nuovo tempio, come documentano i conii del 43 a. C., era tuscanico (BMC Rep I 571 n° 4217-4225); esso fu completato da Q. Lutatius Catulo nel 69 a. C. (Liv. per. 98; Plut. Popl. 15. Cf.

Plin. nat. 7, 138; 19, 3; Suet. Aug. 94). Distrutto durante le lotte che condussero al trono Vitellio, fu ricostruito da Vespasiano (Tac. hist. 4, 4, 9, 53; Suet. Vesp. 8; Cass. Dio 65, 17; 66, 10; Plut. Popl. 15; Aur. Vict. Caes. 9, 7; ep. de Caes. 9, 8; Zon. 11, 17). Nuovamente distrutto da un incendio nell'80 d. C., ebbe la sua definitiva ricostruzione ad opera di Domiziano (Suet. Dom. 5; Plut. Popl. 15; Eutr. 7, 23; Chron. MGH I p. 146). L'edificio fu quindi dotato, nel suo lungo arco di vita, di almeno tre gruppi di statue di culto. Mentre per Iuppiter è possibile stabilire che la sua statua non subì modifiche iconografiche sostanziali da Catulo a Domiziano (Martin, o. c. 28, 131 ss.), non si può essere altrettanto precisi nel caso di Iuno e di Minerva. Una delle statue di culto di Iuppiter, in avorio, era opera di un Apollonios. Identificato, senza motivi cogenti, con l'Apollonios Nestoros autore del Torso del Belvedere (Vessberg, O., Studien zur Kunstgesch. der röm. Republik [1941] 66; Helbig<sup>4</sup> I n° 176 [v. Steuben, H.]), in realtà dalla descrizione di Calcidio, fonte principale sull'argomento (Calcidius 337. Cf. Overbeck, SQ n° 2215; Waszink, J. H., Timaeus a Calcidio translatus, in Plato Latinus, ed. Klibansky, R. [1962] 330 par. 338), si può desumere solo una analogia con lo Zeus di Fidia; in nessun caso un indizio cronologico che ancori l'opera al tempio di Catulo, come per lo più è proposto (contra: Jucker, H., Vom Verhältnis der Römer zur bildenden Kunst der Griechen [1950] 137; Martin, o. c. 28, 134 s.). Iuno conservò la sua posizione nella cella a s. rispetto a Iuppiter (Liv. 7, 3, 5. Livio si riferisce al tempio arcaico; ma dalle monete imperiali si può stabilire che l'ordinamento fu rispettato anche in seguito); la statua tardo-repubblicana aveva uno scettro in oro (Ov. fast. 6, 38: aurea cur dextrae sceptrum dedere meae). Le restanti informazioni sono desumibili esclusivamente dalle emissioni monetali e dagli scarsi fr. di statue di culto rinvenute in Capitolia dell'impero Romano.

a) Iuno stante

Rilievi

41. (= Athena/Minerva 409 con bibl., = Demeter/Ceres 167* con bibl., = Herakles 3400) Rilievo in marmo con raffigurazione della Providentia deorum, sull'attico dell'arco di Traiano a Benevento. - Petersen, E., RM 7, 1892, 251; Hassel, F. J., Der Trajansbogen in Benevent (1966) 20 tav. 14; Rotili, M., L'arco di Traiano a Benevento (1972) 107 s. tavv. 129, 135, 141; Fittschen, K., AA 1972, 778 ss. fig. 23. - In primo piano la Triade Capitolina con Iuppiter al centro. Alla sua s. è Iuno in chitone con lungo ribocco che giunge all'altezza delle cosce. Sul capo posa una stephane ed un mantello che si ripiega in avanti sostenuto dal braccio s.; con la mano s. la dea regge uno scettro.

42. (= 279, = Athena/Minerva 287 con bibl.) Rilievo in marmo dell'arco di Settimio Severo a Leptis Magna. Tripoli, Mus. - La Rocca, E., La riva a mezzaluna (1984) 79 s. tav. 16; Ghedini, F., Giulia Domna tra Oriente e Occidente (1984) 80 ss. fig. 11. - 205-209 d. C. (cf. Strocka, V. M., AntAfr 6, 1972, 169 s.). - Iuppiter in trono con i tratti fisionomici di Settimio Severo; alla sua d. è I. con i tratti fisionomici di Giulia

Domna. La dea è stante in chitone con lungo rimbocco e cintura alla vita; sulla nuca posa il mantello che, scendendo sulle spalle, si ripiega sulla gamba d.; un lembo ricade sul braccio s. poggiato ad uno scettro. Ai piedi è un pavone. Alla s. di Iuppiter è Minerva; alla d. di I. è Fortuna con cornucopia.

43.* (= Athena/Minerva 290) Rilievo in calcare. Alise-Sainte-Reine, Mus. Alésia. Dal Mont Auxoi (Alesia), presso le rovine di un tempio. - Espérandieu, Recueil III n° 2346; Zadoks Jitta, A., JRS 28, 1938, 53 tav. 4. - Al centro è Iuppiter in trono; alla sua d. è Minerva; alla sua s. è I. ambedue stanti. I. è rivolta verso Iuppiter, e posa la mano d. sulla sua spalla. Veste un chitone cinto alla vita con mantello che poggia sulla nuca e ricade sulle gambe. Stephane sul capo.

44. (= Hera [in Thracia] 29* con bibl.) Lastrina in pietra. Sofia, Mus. Arch. Naz. 3358. Dal dip.to di Targovište. - Reinach, RépRel II 156, 6. - II sec. d. C. - Triade Capitolina stante. I. è alla s. di Iuppiter; veste chitone con lungo rimbocco e mantello che copre il capo. Con la s. si appoggia ad uno scettro.

Glittica

45. Calcedonio. Hannover, Kestner-Mus. K 1285. - AGD IV 66 n° 238 tav. 38. - Inizi del I sec. a. C. - Iuppiter stante al centro incoronato da Minerva alla sua s. (nell'impronta); I. alla sua d. veste un chitone su cui posa un ampio mantello che le copre anche le braccia e la nuca.

46. Pasta vitrea. Hannover, Kestner-Mus. K 1687. - AGD IV 154 n° 755 tav. 97; Zazoff, AG 336 n° 242 tav. 106, 1. - Età imperiale. - Iuppiter seduto al centro; alla sua s. (nell'impronta) I. stante con scettro e patera; la dea veste un chitone con apotygmata cinto sotto al seno; un velo le copre la nuca. Simile la pasta AGD IV 154 n° 756 tav. 98; ma Iuppiter è in piedi.

47. (= Athena/Minerva 291*) Diaspro rosso. Monaco, Münzslg. - AGD I 3 n° 2459 tav. 223. - Fine del I sec. d. C. - Iuppiter è al centro, in trono. Alla sua s. è Iuno stante, con patera nella mano s. Veste un chitone con rimbocco. Alle spalle di Iuppiter è Minerva stante. La pietra è stata riadoperata nel 238 d. C.; sul lato posteriore sono stati incisi i busti di Pupieno, Balbino e Gordiano III.

Monete

48. (= Athena/Minerva 295* con bibl.) AR Denario, Roma, Cn. Blasio Cn. f., 112 o 111 a. C. - Crawford RRC n° 296/1 tav. 40, 14, 15. - R.: Iuppiter al centro coronato da Minerva alla sua s. Alla sua d. è Iuno in chitone e mantello ripiegato ai fianchi e ricadente sulle gambe. La dea ha una stephane sui capelli raccolti alla nuca, ed uno scettro nella mano d. D.: testa di Marte.

49.* AE asse, Roma, Vespasiano, 71 d. C. - BMC Emp II 133, 614 tav. 23, 14. - R.: veduta del tempio di Iuppiter Capitolinus, esastilo, corinzio, con podio di quattro scalini. Tra gli intercolumni sono visibili le tre celle. Iuppiter è al centro (stante secondo Mattingly, seduto secondo Sauer, B., AA 1950-51, 80); I. e Minerva sono rispettivamente alla sua s. ed alla sua d., stanti. Sul frontone Iuppiter stante tra due esseri anguiformi. La qualità dei conf. impedisce una buona lettura iconografica delle figure. Analogo esemplare in bronzo del 72 d. C. con effigie di Domiziano sul D. (BMC Emp II 144, 647 tav. 25, 10). Cf. inoltre l'asse della zecca di Lugdunum del 77-78 d. C. dove Iuppiter è sicuramente stante (BMC Emp II 210, 850 tav. 41, 4).

50.* AE asse, Roma, Vespasiano, 76 d. C. - BMC Emp II 168, 721-722 tav. 29, 6, 5. - R.: veduta del tempio di Iuppiter Capitolinus, esastilo, corinzio. Tra gli intercolumni sono visibili le tre celle. Iuppiter è al centro, seduto. Minerva è alla sua d., stante. I. è alla sua s., stante, con chitone cinto alla vita e mantello che ricade dal capo e dal braccio s. sollevato a coprire le gambe. La s. poggia allo scettro. Decorazione frontonale con complessa scena figurata di non chiara decifrazione. Iuppiter è al centro, seduto. Alla sua d. c'è una figura maschile (non Minerva). La figura femminile alla sua s. è I. o Fortuna?

51.* (= Athena/Minerva 297) AR cistoforo, Efeso(?), Domiziano, 82 d. C. - BMC Emp II 351, 251 tav. 68, 3. - R.: tempio tetrastilo su breve podio composto da quattro gradini. Tra gli intercolumni sono visibili tre celle. Al centro è Iuppiter seduto in trono. Alla sua d. è Minerva stante. Alla sua s. è I. stante, in chitone e mantello che le copre il capo, appoggiata con la s. ad uno scettro. Nel frontone, trono (o clipeo?) tra due esseri anguiformi. Legg. CAPIT. RESTIT. È un riferimento al Capitolium di Roma o di Efeso?

52. (= Athena/Minerva 298* con bibl.) AE medaglione, Traiano, 103-111 d. C. - Gnechi, Medaglioni III 14, 4 tav. 143, 10; Dressel, H., Die römischen Medaillone (1973) 14 s. n° 2 tav. 1, 7. - R.: Triade Capitolina stante frontale. I. è alla s. di Iuppiter. Veste chitone con lungo rimbocco, cinto alla vita, e mantello posato sulla nuca e sulle spalle; stephane sul capo. Con la s. si poggia ad uno scettro; la d. regge una patera.

53.* AE medaglione, Adriano, 120 d. C. - Gnechi, Medaglioni II 6, 35 tav. 40, 2; Strack, Reichsprägung II 91 n° 432. - R.: Triade Capitolina stante. Iuppiter, al centro, è di tre quarti verso I. alla sua s. La dea veste chitone cinto alla vita, con lungo rimbocco, e mantello sulle spalle; sembra che sul capo la dea abbia un elmo (così anche Strack), come Iuppiter e Minerva. Con la s. si poggia ad uno scettro; la d. regge una patera.

54. AE medaglione, Commodo, 183 d. C. - Gnechi, Medaglioni II 58, 63 tav. 82, 5. - R.: Triade Capitolina stante, Iuppiter frontale, I. e Minerva colte di tre quarti verso di lui. I. è in chitone cinto alla vita, con rimbocco lungo, e mantello che le copre la nuca. Con la s. si poggia ad uno scettro; la d. regge una patera.

Scultura a tutto tondo

55. Statua di terracotta. Napoli, Mus. Naz. Da Pompei. - Clarac tav. 420A n° 727A; Levi, A., Le terracotte figurate del Mus. Naz. di Napoli (1926) n° 817 tav. 11. - Rinvenuta nel santuarietto di Iuppiter Melichius con una statua in terracotta, poco più piccola, di Iuppiter (Levi, o. c. n° 816 tav. 10), e con un busto, sempre in terracotta, di Minerva (Levi, o. c. n° 818 fig. 141). - II sec. a. C. - La dea con stephane sul capo veste un chitone cinto sotto al seno ed un himation trasparente di cui un lembo è poggiato sul braccio s. Una certa affinità mostra una statuette in marmo a Parigi, Louvre, databile nel II sec. a. C. (Overbeck, KM II 118 n° E; Clarac tav. 311 n° 722), da Overbeck considerata verosimilmente una I. Purtroppo, come in moltissimi casi simili, non è possibile esprimere un giudizio per la mancanza di attributi specifici.

56. (= Athena/Minerva 303* con bibl.) Bronzetto da Muri presso Berna. Berna, Hist. Mus. 16171. - Leibundgut, A., Die römischen Bronzen der Schweiz III. Westschweiz, Bern und Wallis (1980) n° 42 tavv. 54-56. - Età tardo-antonina. - La dea veste un chitone interamente ricoperto da un mantello che posa sulla nuca e lascia scoperti solo il seno sulla destra ed i piedi. Boccoli ricadono ai lati del collo. Nella mano d. doveva reggere una patera e nella s. un'acera oppure uno scettro. L'iconografia è insolita e ripete un tipo di Kore (Kabus Jahn, R., APL 11, 1972, 69 ss. tav. 43) del IV sec. a. C. avanzato. Ma il riconoscimento è sicuro perché la statuette è stata rinvenuta con altre due statuette raffiguranti Iuppiter e Minerva: si tratta, pertanto, di una Triade Capitolina (Leibundgut, o. c. n° 6, 43 tavv. 11-13, 57-59). Affine tipologicamente la bellissima statuette in bronzo al Petit Palais di Parigi, dalla coll. Dutuit (Petit, J., Bronzes antiques de la coll. Dutuit [1980] 100 s. n° 37), che ha una patera nella mano d. ed ha il braccio s. abbassato (manca l'attributo nella mano). I capelli sono, in questo caso, cinti con una benda.

b) Iuno seduta in trono

Rilievi

57. (= Athena/Minerva 281 con bibl.) Rilievo da un monumento onorario di Traiano raffigurante un extispicium. Il settore più ampio del rilievo è a Parigi, Louvre 1089. Un fr. è a Parigi, coll. Valentin de Courcel. Il fr. con il timpano del tempio è smarrito; noto solo da disegni rinascimentali. - Michon, E., MonPiot 17, 1909, 216 ss.; idem, MonPiot 31, 1932, 61 ss.; Zanker, P., AA 1970, 515; Koeppl, G. M., BonnJbb 185, 1985, 204 ss. - Traiano procede ad un extispicium ed alla nuncupatio votorum dinanzi al tempio di Giove Capitolino. Al centro della decorazione frontonale, sopra un'aquila ad ali spiegate, la Triade Capitolina seduta in trono. I. è alla d. di Iuppiter, velata, in chitone cinto sotto al seno e mantello che le copre le gambe.

58. (= Athena/Minerva 282 con bibl.) Pannello da un arco trionfale dedicato a Marco Aurelio. Roma, Pal. Cons. 807. - Helbig<sup>4</sup> II n° 1444c (Simon, E.); Stuart Jones, PalCons 25 s. n° 7 tav. 12; Wegner, M., AA 1938, 160-171 fig. 1; Angelikoussis, E., RM 91, 1984, 154 tav. 67, 1; I rilievi storici Capitolini, a cura di La Rocca, E. (1986) 40 tavv. 37-40 (Cafiero, L.). - 176 d. C. circa. - Al centro della decorazione frontonale è la Triade Capitolina. I. velata è seduta alla d. di Iuppiter, e regge uno scettro nella mano s. Sul rilievo è raffigurata, in modo sintetico, la facciata del tempio di Iuppiter Capitolinus, evidentemente nella redazione domiziana.

59.* (= Athena/Minerva 286) Rilievo in marmo. Kiel, Univ. B 282. - Sauer, B., AA 1950/51, 73 ss. fig.

Plin. nat. 7, 138; 19, 3; Suet. Aug. 94). Distrutto durante le lotte che condussero al trono Vitellio, fu ricostruito da Vespasiano (Tac. hist. 4, 4, 9, 53; Suet. Vesp. 8; Cass. Dio 65, 17; 66, 10; Plut. Popl. 15; Aur. Vict. Caes. 9, 7; ep. de Caes. 9, 8; Zon. 11, 17). Nuovamente distrutto da un incendio nell'80 d. C., ebbe la sua definitiva ricostruzione ad opera di Domiziano (Suet. Dom. 5; Plut. Popl. 15; Eutr. 7, 23; Chron. MGH I p. 146). L'edificio fu quindi dotato, nel suo lungo arco di vita, di almeno tre gruppi di statue di culto. Mentre per Iuppiter è possibile stabilire che la sua statua non subì modifiche iconografiche sostanziali da Catulo a Domiziano (Martin, o. c. 28, 131 ss.), non si può essere altrettanto precisi nel caso di Iuno e di Minerva. Una delle statue di culto di Iuppiter, in avorio, era opera di un Apollonios. Identificato, senza motivi cogenti, con l'Apollonios Nestoros autore del Torso del Belvedere (Vessberg, O., Studien zur Kunstgesch. der röm. Republik [1941] 66; Helbig<sup>4</sup> I n° 176 [v. Steuben, H.]), in realtà dalla descrizione di Calcidio, fonte principale sull'argomento (Calcidius 337. Cf. Overbeck, SQ n° 2215; Waszink, J. H., Timaeus a Calcidio translatus, in Plato Latinus, ed. Klibansky, R. [1962] 330 par. 338), si può desumere solo una analogia con lo Zeus di Fidria; in nessun caso un indizio cronologico che ancori l'opera al tempio di Catulo, come per lo più è proposto (contra: Jucker, H., Vom Verhältnis der Römer zur bildenden Kunst der Griechen [1950] 137; Martin, o. c. 28, 134 s.). Iuno conservò la sua posizione nella cella a s. rispetto a Iuppiter (Liv. 7, 3, 5. Livio si riferisce al tempio arcaico; ma dalle monete imperiali si può stabilire che l'ordinamento fu rispettato anche in seguito); la statua tardo-repubblicana aveva uno scettro in oro (Ov. fast. 6, 38: aurea cur dextrae sceptrum dedere meae). Le restanti informazioni sono desumibili esclusivamente dalle emissioni monetali e dagli scarsi fr. di statue di culto rinvenute in Capitolia dell'impero Romano.

a) Iuno stante

Rilievi

41. (= Athena/Minerva 409 con bibl., = Demeter/Ceres 167* con bibl., = Herakles 3400) Rilievo in marmo con raffigurazione della Providentia deorum, sull'attico dell'arco di Traiano a Benevento. - Petersen, E., RM 7, 1892, 251; Hassel, F. J., Der Trajansbogen in Benevent (1966) 20 tav. 14; Rotili, M., L'arco di Traiano a Benevento (1972) 107 s. tavv. 129, 135, 141; Fittschen, K., AA 1972, 778 ss. fig. 23. - In primo piano la Triade Capitolina con Iuppiter al centro. Alla sua s. è Iuno in chitone con lungo ribocco che giunge all'altezza delle cosce. Sul capo posa una stephane ed un mantello che si ripiega in avanti sostenuto dal braccio s.; con la mano s. la dea regge uno scettro.

42. (= 279, = Athena/Minerva 287 con bibl.) Rilievo in marmo dell'arco di Settimio Severo a Leptis Magna. Tripoli, Mus. - La Rocca, E., La riva a mezzaluna (1984) 79 s. tav. 16; Ghedini, F., Giulia Domna tra Oriente e Occidente (1984) 80 ss. fig. 11. - 205-209 d. C. (cf. Strocka, V. M., AntAfr 6, 1972, 169 s.). - Iuppiter in trono con i tratti fisionomici di Settimio Severo; alla sua d. è I. con i tratti fisionomici di Giulia

Domna. La dea è stante in chitone con lungo rimbocco e cintura alla vita; sulla nuca posa il mantello che, scendendo sulle spalle, si ripiega sulla gamba d.; un lembo ricade sul braccio s. poggiato ad uno scettro. Ai piedi è un pavone. Alla s. di Iuppiter è Minerva; alla d. di I. è Fortuna con cornucopia.

43.* (= Athena/Minerva 290) Rilievo in calcare. Alise-Sainte-Reine, Mus. Alésia. Dal Mont Auxoi (Alesia), presso le rovine di un tempio. - Espérandieu, Recueil III n° 2346; Zadoks Jitta, A., JRS 28, 1938, 53 tav. 4. - Al centro è Iuppiter in trono; alla sua d. è Minerva; alla sua s. è I. ambedue stanti. I. è rivolta verso Iuppiter, e posa la mano d. sulla sua spalla. Veste un chitone cinto alla vita con mantello che poggia sulla nuca e ricade sulle gambe. Stephane sul capo.

44. (= Hera [in Thracia] 29* con bibl.) Lastrina in pietra. Sofia, Mus. Arch. Naz. 3358. Dal dip.to di Targoviste. - Reinach, RépRel II 156, 6. - II sec. d. C. - Triade Capitolina stante. I. è alla s. di Iuppiter; veste chitone con lungo rimbocco e mantello che copre il capo. Con la s. si appoggia ad uno scettro.

Glittica

45. Calcedonio. Hannover, Kestner-Mus. K 1285. - AGD IV 66 n° 238 tav. 38. - Inizi del I sec. a. C. - Iuppiter stante al centro incoronato da Minerva alla sua s. (nell'impronta); I. alla sua d. veste un chitone su cui posa un ampio mantello che le copre anche le braccia e la nuca.

46. Pasta vitrea. Hannover, Kestner-Mus. K 1687. - AGD IV 154 n° 755 tav. 97; Zazoff, AG 336 n° 242 tav. 106, 1. - Età imperiale. - Iuppiter seduto al centro; alla sua s. (nell'impronta) I. stante con scettro e patera; la dea veste un chitone con apotypygmato cinto sotto al seno; un velo le copre la nuca. Simile la pasta AGD IV 154 n° 756 tav. 98; ma Iuppiter è in piedi.

47. (= Athena/Minerva 291*) Diaspro rosso. Monaco, Münzslg. - AGDI 3 n° 2459 tav. 223. - Fine del I sec. d. C. - Iuppiter è al centro, in trono. Alla sua s. è Iuno stante, con patera nella mano s. Veste un chitone con rimbocco. Alle spalle di Iuppiter è Minerva stante. La pietra è stata riadoperata nel 238 d. C.; sul lato posteriore sono stati incisi i busti di Pupieno, Balbino e Gordiano III.

Monete

48. (= Athena/Minerva 295* con bibl.) AR Denario, Roma, Cn. Blasio Cn. f., 112 o 111 a. C. - Crawford RRC n° 296/1 tav. 40, 14, 15. - R.: Iuppiter al centro coronato da Minerva alla sua s. Alla sua d. è Iuno in chitone e mantello ripiegato ai fianchi e ricadente sulle gambe. La dea ha una stephane sui capelli raccolti alla nuca, ed uno scettro nella mano d. D.: testa di Marte.

49.* AE asse, Roma, Vespasiano, 71 d. C. - BMC Emp II 133, 614 tav. 23, 14. - R.: veduta del tempio di Iuppiter Capitolinus, esastilo, corinzio, con podio di quattro scalini. Tra gli intercolumni sono visibili le tre celle. Iuppiter è al centro (stante secondo Mattingly, seduto secondo Sauer, B., AA 1950-51, 80); I. e Minerva sono rispettivamente alla sua s. ed alla sua d., stanti. Sul frontone Iuppiter stante tra due esseri anguiformi. La qualità dei con. impedisce una buona lettura iconografica delle figure. Analogo esemplare in bronzo del 72 d. C. con effigie di Domiziano sul D. (BMC Emp II 144, 647 tav. 25, 10). Cf. inoltre l'asse della zecca di Lugdunum del 77-78 d. C. dove Iuppiter è sicuramente stante (BMC Emp II 210, 850 tav. 41, 4).

50.* AE asse, Roma, Vespasiano, 76 d. C. - BMC Emp II 168, 721-722 tav. 29, 6, 5. - R.: veduta del tempio di Iuppiter Capitolinus, esastilo, corinzio. Tra gli intercolumni sono visibili le tre celle. Iuppiter è al centro, seduto. Minerva è alla sua d., stante. I. è alla sua s., stante, con chitone cinto alla vita e mantello che ricade dal capo e dal braccio s. sollevato a coprire le gambe. La s. poggia allo scettro. Decorazione frontonale con complessa scena figurata di non chiara decifrazione. Iuppiter è al centro, seduto. Alla sua d. c'è una figura maschile (non Minerva). La figura femminile alla sua s. è I. o Fortuna?

51.* (= Athena/Minerva 297) AR cistoforo, Efeso(?), Domiziano, 82 d. C. - BMC Emp II 351, 251 tav. 68, 3. - R.: tempio tetrastilo su breve podio composto da quattro gradini. Tra gli intercolumni sono visibili tre celle. Al centro è Iuppiter seduto in trono. Alla sua d. è Minerva stante. Alla sua s. è I. stante, in chitone e mantello che le copre il capo, appoggiata con la s. ad uno scettro. Nel frontone, trono (o clipeo?) tra due esseri anguiformi. Legg. CAPIT. RESTIT. È un riferimento al Capitolium di Roma o di Efeso?

52. (= Athena/Minerva 298* con bibl.) AE medaglione, Traiano, 103-111 d. C. - Gnechi, Medaglioni III 14, 4 tav. 143, 10; Dressel, H., Die römischen Medaillone (1973) 14 s. n° 2 tav. 1, 7. - R.: Triade Capitolina stante frontale. I. è alla s. di Iuppiter. Veste chitone con lungo rimbocco, cinto alla vita, e mantello posato sulla nuca e sulle spalle; stephane sul capo. Con la s. si poggia ad uno scettro; la d. regge una patera.

53.* AE medaglione, Adriano, 120 d. C. - Gnechi, Medaglioni II 6, 35 tav. 40, 2; Strack, Reichsprägung II 91 n° 432. - R.: Triade Capitolina stante. Iuppiter, al centro, è di tre quarti verso I. alla sua s. La dea veste chitone cinto alla vita, con lungo rimbocco, e mantello sulle spalle; sembra che sul capo la dea abbia un elmo (così anche Strack), come Iuppiter e Minerva. Con la s. si poggia ad uno scettro; la d. regge una patera.

54. AE medaglione, Commodo, 183 d. C. - Gnechi, Medaglioni II 58, 63 tav. 82, 5. - R.: Triade Capitolina stante, Iuppiter frontale, I. e Minerva colte di tre quarti verso di lui. I. è in chitone cinto alla vita, con rimbocco lungo, e mantello che le copre la nuca. Con la s. si poggia ad uno scettro; la d. regge una patera.

Scultura a tutto tondo

55. Statua di terracotta. Napoli, Mus. Naz. Da Pompei. - Clarac tav. 420A n° 727A; Levi, A., Le terracotte figurate del Mus. Naz. di Napoli (1926) n° 817 tav. 11. - Rinvenuta nel santuarietto di Iuppiter Melichius con una statua in terracotta, poco più piccola, di Iuppiter (Levi, o. c. n° 816 tav. 10), e con un busto, sempre in terracotta, di Minerva (Levi, o. c. n° 818 fig. 141). - II sec. a. C. - La dea con stephane sul capo veste un chitone cinto sotto al seno ed un himation trasparente di cui un lembo è poggiato sul braccio s. Una certa affinità mostra una statuette in marmo a Parigi, Louvre, databile nel II sec. a. C. (Overbeck, KM II 118 n° E; Clarac tav. 311 n° 722), da Overbeck considerata verosimilmente una I. Purtroppo, come in moltissimi casi simili, non è possibile esprimere un giudizio per la mancanza di attributi specifici.

56. (= Athena/Minerva 303* con bibl.) Bronzetto da Muri presso Berna. Berna, Hist. Mus. 16171. - Leibundgut, A., Die römischen Bronzen der Schweiz III. Westschweiz, Bern und Wallis (1980) n° 42 tavv. 54-56. - Età tardo-antonina. - La dea veste un chitone interamente ricoperto da un mantello che posa sulla nuca e lascia scoperti solo il seno sulla destra ed i piedi. Boccoli ricadono ai lati del collo. Nella mano d. doveva reggere una patera e nella s. un'acera oppure uno scettro. L'iconografia è insolita e ripete un tipo di Kore (Kabus Jahn, R., APL 11, 1972, 69 ss. tav. 43) del IV sec. a. C. avanzato. Ma il riconoscimento è sicuro perché la statuette è stata rinvenuta con altre due statuette raffiguranti Iuppiter e Minerva: si tratta, pertanto, di una Triade Capitolina (Leibundgut, o. c. n° 6, 43 tavv. 11-13, 57-59). Affine tipologicamente la bellissima statuette in bronzo al Petit Palais di Parigi, dalla coll. Dutuit (Petit, J., Bronzes antiques de la coll. Dutuit [1980] 100 s. n° 37), che ha una patera nella mano d. ed ha il braccio s. abbassato (manca l'attributo nella mano). I capelli sono, in questo caso, cinti con una benda.

b) Iuno seduta in trono

Rilievi

57. (= Athena/Minerva 281 con bibl.) Rilievo da un monumento onorario di Traiano raffigurante un extispicium. Il settore più ampio del rilievo è a Parigi, Louvre 1089. Un fr. è a Parigi, coll. Valentin de Courcel. Il fr. con il timpano del tempio è smarrito; noto solo da disegni rinascimentali. - Michon, E., MonPiot 17, 1909, 216 ss.; idem, MonPiot 31, 1932, 61 ss.; Zanker, P., AA 1970, 515; Koeppl, G. M., BonnJbb 185, 1985, 204 ss. - Traiano procede ad un extispicium ed alla nuncupatio votorum dinanzi al tempio di Giove Capitolino. Al centro della decorazione frontonale, sopra un'aquila ad ali spiegate, la Triade Capitolina seduta in trono. I. è alla d. di Iuppiter, velata, in chitone cinto sotto al seno e mantello che le copre le gambe.

58. (= Athena/Minerva 282 con bibl.) Pannello da un arco trionfale dedicato a Marco Aurelio. Roma, Pal. Cons. 807. - Helbig<sup>4</sup> II n° 1444c (Simon, E.); Stuart Jones, PalCons 25 s. n° 7 tav. 12; Wegner, M., AA 1938, 160-171 fig. 1; Angelikoussis, E., RM 91, 1984, 154 tav. 67, 1; I rilievi storici Capitolini, a cura di La Rocca, E. (1986) 40 tavv. 37-40 (Cafiero, L.). - 176 d. C. circa. - Al centro della decorazione frontonale è la Triade Capitolina. I. velata è seduta alla d. di Iuppiter, e regge uno scettro nella mano s. Sul rilievo è raffigurata, in modo sintetico, la facciata del tempio di Iuppiter Capitolinus, evidentemente nella redazione domiziana.

59.* (= Athena/Minerva 286) Rilievo in marmo. Kiel, Univ. B 282. - Sauer, B., AA 1950/51, 73 ss. fig.

1. - Metà del II sec. d. C. - Triade Capitolina frontale, seduta in trono. I. è alla s. di Iuppiter, e si appoggia con il braccio piegato a sostenere il mento sul braccio del trono di Iuppiter. La dea veste chitone cinto sotto al seno e mantello che copre il capo e ricade a coprire le gambe. La s. regge uno scettro.

60. (= Athena/Minerva 289* con bibl.) Rilievo in marmo. Trier, Rhein. Landesmus. - Hettner, Führer durch das Provinzialmus. Trier 70 s. n° 159 con fig. - Metà del II sec. d. C. - Triade Capitolina frontale, seduta in trono. I. è alla s. di Iuppiter; veste chitone cinto sotto al seno e mantello che copre il capo e le gambe. Le braccia e la testa sono mutili.

61. Tavoleta votiva in marmo. Bucarest, Mus. d'Hist. - Bordenache, ScultBucarest 78 n° 152 tav. 65. - II sec. d. C. - Le tre divinità sono sedute. I. è alla s. di Iuppiter; veste un chitone cinto sotto al seno, ed ha un mantello posato sul capo. Con la mano s. si poggia ad uno scettro. Lo schema è diffuso nei paesi danubiani: cf. Ferri, S., Arte romana sul Danubio (1933) figg. 522. 567.

62. (= Athena/Minerva 288) Cippo in travertino con la T. C. e divinità salutarì. Roma, Mus. Naz. Rom. 534. - Helbig<sup>4</sup> III n° 2411 (Simon, E.); Simon, E., JdI 75, 1960, 146 fig. 8; MusNazRom I 2, 208 ss. n° 16 (Rendini, P.). - Età di Settimio Severo. - Sul lato principale è la Triade Capitolina. I. è alla s. del dio, seduta; con la mano s. si appoggia ad uno scettro, con la d. regge una patera(?). La dea veste un chitone cinto sotto al seno ed un mantello che le copre le gambe; pare avere i capelli raccolti a crocchia sul capo.

Glittica

63.* (= Athena/Minerva 292) Corniola. Monaco, Münzslg. A. 2039. - AGDI 3 n° 2458 tav. 223. - III sec. d. C. - Iuppiter, I. e Minerva in trono. I. è alla s. di Iuppiter; veste un chitone cinto sotto al seno; un mantello le copre il capo; nella s. ha uno scettro.

Terracotta

64. (= Athena/Minerva 294) Fr. di una lastra in terracotta. Vienna, Kunsth. Mus. V 1523. - v. Rohden/Winnefeld 154 s. fig. 285; Eichler, Fr., AA 1944, 31 s. tav. 21, 2. - Tre divinità sedute in trono entro riquadri delimitati da pilastri. Da s. Iuppiter, I. e Minerva. I. veste chitone e mantello ripiegato sulle gambe; con la s. reggeva uno scettro. Accanto alla spalla s. tracce di un uccello(?): un pavone? Pur non essendo nella disposizione canonica, deve trattarsi della Triade Capitolina in un tempio a tre celle.

65.* Lucerna a disco in terracotta. Roma, Mus. Cap. Antiquarium Comunale. - Mercando, L., Lucerne greche e romane dell'Antiquarium Comunale (1962) 27 n° 19 tav. 7, 4. - II sec. d. C. - Nella parte sup. della composizione sono raffigurati, seduti in trono, Iuppiter e, ai suoi lati, I. (alla sua s.) e Minerva (alla sua d.). Sotto, due bucinatores, Sol su quadriga, Selene su biga e Oceanus semidisteso. Esempl. simile a Berlino (DDR), Staatl. Mus.: Heres, G., Die römischen Bildlampen der Berliner Antikensammlung (1972) 72 n° 440.

66.* Lucerna a disco in terracotta. Londra, BM. - Bailey, BMLamps II 7 s. 309 n° Q 1238 tav. 62 figg. 1.

111. - Fine I sec. d. C. - Triade Capitolina seduta su troni. I. è alla s. di Iuppiter, forse velata, con una cornucopia retta dal braccio s. Molti ess. simili (elenco in Bailey, o. c. 7 s.) tra i quali ornamento di manico di lucerna a Berlino (DDR): Heres, o. c. 65, 82 n° 509.

67.* Lucerna a disco in terracotta. Londra, BM. - Bailey, BMLamps II 7 s. 309 n° Q 1239 tavv. 34. 62 figg. 1. 107. - Fine del I sec. d. C. - Come il prec.; ma I. ha una patera nella mano s. e forse è svelata. Per altri ess. vd. elenco in Bailey, o. c. 8.

Monete

68.* AE medaglione, Adriano (117-138 d. C.). - Gnechi, Medaglioni III 20, 98-99 tav. 146, 5-6. - R.: Triade Capitolina seduta in trono. Iuppiter è frontale; Iuno alla sua s. e Minerva alla sua d. sono disposte in diagonale. I. è in chitone e mantello, velata con stephane; nella s. regge uno scettro; nella d. una patera(?).

69.* (= Athena/Minerva 299 con bibl.) AE medaglione, Antonino Pio, 140-143 d. C. - Gnechi, Medaglioni II 16, 66 tav. 50, 5. - R.: Triade Capitolina seduta in trono frontale. I. è alla s. di Iuppiter; veste chitone e mantello, velata con stephane; nella s. regge lo scettro; nella d. la patera.

Scultura a tutto tondo

70. Fr. di statua colossale in marmo. Guelma (Algeria), Mus. Dal Capitulum di Khamissa (Cirenaica). - Joly, Ch.-A., AA 1903, 104 fig. 9; idem, Rec. de Constantine 39, 1905, 180 ss. figg. 23 ss.; idem, BullArchCTH 1905 tav. 8; Gsell, S./Joly, Ch.-A., Khamissa, Mdaourouch, Announa (1914-22) 57 ss. figg. 11-12; De Pachtère, F. G., Musée de Guelma (1909) 27 tav. 4 figg. 1. 3. 4. - Il tempio fu dedicato nel 113 d. C.; il gruppo culturale dovrebbe essere contemporaneo. - Punta di un piede femminile s., un collo, una mano, più dita, fr. di panneggio: buona parte di questi fr. dovrebbe essere pertinente a I. Conservati, inoltre, il torso di Iuppiter, la testa ed il braccio d. di Minerva.

71. (= Athena/Minerva 302 con bibl.) Fr. di statua colossale in marmo. Sopron, Mus. Dal Capitulum di Scarbantia. - Lengyel, A./Radan, G. T. B., The Archaeology of Roman Pannonia (1980) tav. 13. - Età adrianea. - La dea è seduta in trono senza spalliera. Veste un chitone cinto sotto al seno e mantello che copre la nuca e le gambe. Stephane sul capo. Con la s. reggeva lo scettro; con la d. reggeva una patera(?). Sono conservati i fr. di Iuppiter e di Minerva (Praschniker, o. c. 72, 111 ss.).

72. Fr. di statua colossale in marmo. Già a Szombathely. Dal Capitulum di Savaria. - Schoenwisner, S., Antiquitatum et historiae Savariensis libri IX (1791) tav. 20; Praschniker, C., Oefh 30, 1936-37, 128; Mócsy, A./Szentlélek, T., Die römischen Steindenkmäler von Savaria (1971) 46 ss.; 124 s. Kat. 213-215 figg. 2. 3. 5, 1 (con falsa interpretazione come gruppo imperiale); Lengyel/Radan, o. c. 71, tav. 107. - Età antonina. - Erano noti solo due fr., del torso e di una coscia coperta dal mantello. La dea era seduta. Il gruppo, di cui sono tuttora conservati i fr. di Iuppiter e di Minerva (Praschniker, o. c. 128 ss. figg. 39-40), è simile, tipologicamente e stilisticamente, al gruppo di Scarbantia. Opere della stessa bottega?

73.* Statuetta in bronzo. Napoli, Mus. Naz. 133324. Da Pompei, Casa degli Amòrini Dorati. - Sogliano, A., NotSc 1907, 565 ss. n° 1-3 figg. 14-15; Della Corte, M., Historia 8, 1934, 305 fig. 5; Boyce, A., MAAR 14, 1937, 57 s. n° 221, 1; v. Heintze, H., Jb. der Max Planck-Ges. 1961 (1) 48 fig. 17; Menzel, H., in Festoen opgedragen aan A. N. Zadoks-Josephus Jitta bij haar zeventigste verjaardag (1976) 431 ss. (solo Iuppiter); Adamo-Muscettola, S., in Toreutik und figürliche Bronzen römischer Zeit, Kongressbericht Berlin 1980 (1984) 12 ss. figg. 3-4; Krause, B. H., Iuppiter Optimus Maximus Saturnus, TrierWPr 5, 1983, 12, 15 tav. 9, 5. - I sec. d. C. - Sono conservate le tre divinità sedute su trono con alta spalliera. Al momento del rinvenimento I. era alla d. di Iuppiter. La dea veste un chitone con rimbocco sul petto e mantello ripiegato intorno alle gambe. Sul capo scoperto posa una stephane. Mancano gli attributi; ma la mano d. reggeva una patera e la s. lo scettro.

c) Teste e busti

Rilievi

74. Capitello figurato in marmo. Pisa, via Ulisse Dini. - v. Mercklin, E., Antike Figuralkapitelle (1962) 172 s. n° 413b fig. 805. - Età severiana. - Su tre lati del capitello, in luogo delle helices, le immagini della Triade Capitolina di prospetto. I. è in chitone cinto alla vita e mantello che le copre il capo. La testa non è conservata. Nella mano s. un lembo del mantello. In luogo delle volute laterali, Nikai in volo con corone.

Glittica

75. Diaspro rosso. Hannover, Kestner-Mus. K 1469. - AGDIV 290 n° 1579 tav. 210. - II sec. d. C. - Busto di Iuppiter frontale al centro; ai lati, uscenti da due cornucopie intrecciate i busti di Minerva alla sua d. e di I. alla sua s. (nell'originale). I. ha un diadema sul capo.

Scultura a tutto tondo

76. Testa colossale in marmo. Torino, Mus. Ant. Da Alba. - Dickins, G., JHS 34, 1914, 124 fig. 1; Marchetti Longhi, G., MemPontAcc 3, 1932/33, 151, figg. 13-14; Becatti, G., RivIstArch 7, 1940, 51 n. 186; Mansuelli, G., RivIstArch N. S. 7, 1958, 83 fig. 38; Arte e civiltà romana nell'Italia Settentrionale, Cat. Bologna (1965) I, Itin. 127 n° 429 tav. 145, 308 (Mansuelli, G.); II, Cat. 499 n° 720; Martin, o. c. 28, 191 ss.; 238 s. Kat. 16 tavv. 36-37. - 100-75 a. C. (Martin). - Testa acrolitica, cava all'interno, lavorata come una maschera. Volto patetico, capelli con scriminatura centrale tirati dietro la nuca. Piccola stephane sul capo. La dea doveva avere un velo in bronzo(?). Poiché la testa proviene dal Capitulum di Alba, è più che verosimile si tratti del fr. superstite della I. della Triade Capitolina.

77. Testa in marmo. Napoli, Mus. Naz. Da Pompei, tempio di Giove. - Guida illustrata, I. Antichità a cura di Ruesch, A. (1911) n. 942; Hellenismus in Mittelitalien. Kolloquium Göttingen 1974 (1976) 285 figg. 11-12 (Johannowski, W.); Martin, o. c. 28, 202. 245 s. Kat. A 3. - Prima metà del I sec. a. C. - Protome femminile rinvenuta insieme con il torso di Iuppiter nel Capitulum di Pompei. Il particolare taglio diagonale della parte sup. della testa dalla superficie completamente lisciata, ed una serie di fori sul bordo, suggeriscono una inserzione in una statua velata (forse con completamenti in stucco), oppure, come propone Martin, l'aggancio di una parrucca in marmo. Molto simile una maschera facciale femminile a Cirene, forse già di epoca imperiale (Martin, o. c. 28, 202 fig. 57).

78. Testa colossale in marmo. Napoli, Mus. Naz. Dal Capitulum di Cuma. - AA 1940, 499 s. - Età imperiale. - La testa è stata rinvenuta nell'angolo nord-occidentale della cella, ai piedi del podio. È sicuramente I., e va collegata con il torso colossale di Iuppiter ora ai piedi dello scalone del Mus. Naz. di Napoli (Guida Ruesch n° 1528; BollArte 1910, 112 s. con fig.).

79. Fr. di statua in terracotta. Roma, Villa Giulia. Dal santuario di Mater Matuta a Satrico. - Della Seta, A., Cat. Villa Giulia (1918) 276 n° 9983. - Età arcaica. - Fr. di un volto femminile con i capelli ondulati sulla fronte. Rinvenuta insieme con centinaia di fr. di sculture in terracotta a grandezza naturale pertinenti ad una decina di figure di divinità, ancora in corso di studio (Area sacra di Satricum; Tra scavo e restituzione, Cat. Albano [1985] 57). Si riconoscono, per il momento, la testa di Iuppiter(?) (Della Seta, o. c. 275 s. n° 9982. 10032; SBH, Etrusker 134-135) ed i fr. di una statua di Minerva (Della Seta, o. c. 276 n° 9984. 10020). Potrebbe pertanto trattarsi, secondo l'ipotesi di Rizzo (BullCom 1911, 54 s. n. 4) e di Della Seta, di una raffigurazione della Triade Capitolina. Ma, visto il numero delle figure conservate, sia pure in fr., è meglio astenersi dal giudizio in attesa della pubblicazione definitiva. Il programma decorativo templare sembrerebbe dipendere dalla Aithiopsis di Arctino di Mileto, il cui nucleo centrale era basato sul mito di Memnon (assimilazione tra Mater Matuta ed Eos/Leukothea: Colonna, G., in Satricum, un progetto di valorizzazione per la cultura e il territorio di Latina, Conv. Latina 1983 (1985) 19 ss.

d) La Triade Capitolina in composizioni cosmogoniche

Rilievi

80. (= Dioskuroi/Castores 79*) Coperchio di sarcofago in marmo. Vaticano, Gabinetto delle Maschere 426. - Amelung, SkulptVatMus II 677 ss., n° 426 tav. 78. - II sec. d. C. - Da s. a d.: Sol su quadriga; sotto i cavalli è Oceanus. Seguono un Dioscuro con cavallo, Iuppiter, I., Minerva e Fortuna. A d. di Fortuna dovevano esserci un altro Dioscuro e la quadriga di Luna. I. veste chitone con rimbocco cinto sotto al seno; un mantello le copre la nuca. Con la mano s. regge uno scettro. Presso di lei è un pavone.

81.* Coperchio di sarcofago in marmo. Vaticano. Gabinetto delle Maschere. - Amelung, SkulptVatMus II 688 ss. n° 430 tav. 78; Cumont, Symb 77 ss. tav. 3, 2. - Come il prec. Sono aggiunti un Erate presso Sol, Caelus al centro. Inoltre Minerva precede Iuppiter e I. che veste un chitone senza rimbocco cinto sotto al seno e mantello sul capo. Con la s. si appoggia ad uno scettro. Si tratta verosimilmente di fr. da una più ampia composizione cosmogonica con la Triade Capitolina e Fortuna (o Salus Populi Romani). Un sarcofago pertinente alla stessa serie che i n° precc. mostra sul coperchio, al centro, una triade divina (Iuppiter fra I. e Tellus?, Pluto tra Proserpina e Ceres?) di non chiara interpretazione (San Lorenzo fuori le Mura: Cumont, Symb 77 s. fig. 8 tav. 2, 2; Horster, M., AA 1975, 404 fig. 2; Koch/Sichtermann, RömSark 101 fig. 97).

82. (= Athena/Minerva 283*, = Dioskouroi/Castores 78 con bibl., = Helios/Sol 350*) Coperchio di sarcofago in marmo. Mantova, Pal. Ducale. - Levi, A., Sculture greche e romane del pal. Ducale di Mantova (1931) 86 ss. n° 186 tav. 100; Rodenwaldt, G., AbhBerlin (1935, 3) 3 ss.; Sichtermann, H., AA 1974, 316 s.; Koch/Sichtermann, RömSark 100. - Età antonina. - Come il prec. ma più completo. In ordine sono Iuppiter, I., Fortuna e Minerva. I. veste un peplo di tipo dorico, ha un mantello sulla nuca e si poggiava ad uno scettro.

83. Coperchio di sarcofago in marmo. Vaticano. - Amelung, SkulptVatMus II 290 ss. n° 102n tav. 27; Festschr. F. Matz (1962) tav. 36, 2; Koch/Sichtermann, RömSark 100 s. - Come il prec. A fianco della Triade, le tre Parche. (Per il sarcofago → Homonoia/Concordia 78 con bibl.)

e) Presentazione di Apollo e Diana alla Triade Capitolina

Rilievi

84.* Rilievo da un sarcofago in marmo. Roma, Mus. Cap., Sala dei Filosofi. - Stuart Jones, SculptMusCap 264 n° 109 tav. 62. - Seconda metà del II sec. d. C. - Il coperchio è probabilmente pertinente ad un sarcofago con strage dei Niobidi. Vi è raffigurata la presentazione del giovanissimo Apollo alla Triade Capitolina ed agli altri dei. Quasi al centro della lastra è la Triade Capitolina con Iuppiter seduto in trono, una Victoria(?) e Minerva alla sua d., e I., che posa la mano d. sulla spalla di Apollo, alla sua s. La dea veste un chitone cinto sotto al seno ed un mantello che poggia sul capo, ricade sulle spalle e sulle gambe, e copre interamente il braccio s. ad esclusione della mano. Sul capo è una stephane. Secondo Robert (SarkRel III 1, 42 s.) si tratta di un lavoro del Settecento.

85. (= Apollon/Apollo 436* con bibl., = Artemis/Diana 290, = Demeter/Ceres 151*, = Eileithyia 59 con bibl.) Coperchio di sarcofago in marmo. Roma, Villa Borghese. - SarkRel III 1, n° 33 tav. 7; Sichtermann, H., Jdl 83, 1968, 209 ss. fig. 16; Koch/Sichtermann, RömSark 141 fig. 144. - Seconda metà del II sec. d. C. - Come il prec. I. è in chitone cinto sotto al seno e mantello che le copre le gambe. Il capo è di restauro; doveva essere coperto dal mantello. Con la mano s. la dea regge uno scettro.

86. (= Apollon/Apollo 437*) Fr. di coperchio di sarcofago in marmo. Roma, c.d. Studio Canova. - SarkRel III 1, n° 33' tav. 7; Sichtermann, o.c. 85, 209 n. 88; Koch/Sichtermann, RömSark 141; Micheli,

M. E., RivIstArch s. III, 8-9, 1985-86, 261 ss. n° 79 fig. 35. - Come i precc. Sono conservate solo le figg. di Iuppiter, I. ed Apollo. La dea veste chitone ed himation che le copre il capo e le gambe.

87.* Coperchio di sarcofago in marmo. Providence, Rhode Island School of Design 21.076. - Sichtermann, o.c. 85, 182 ss. figg. 1-3; Sismondo Ridgway, B., Classical Sculpture (1972) 99 ss. n° 39; Koch/Sichtermann, RömSark 141 fig. 190. - Come i precc., ma non c'è I.(?).

1.4. Raffigurazioni di Iuno Regina riferibili ad uno dei culti romani

Iuno Regina, stante con stephane, con o senza capo velato

Monete

a) Stante, con patera e cornucopie

88.* AR quinario, Roma, Sabina († 137 d. C.). - BMC Emp III 355, 910 tav. 64, 20. - R.: I. R. stante verso s. con patera e cornucopie. La dea ha un chitone cinto alla vita, e un mantello che ricade ad arco sulle gambe. Il capo è svelato.

b) Stante, con patera e scettro

89.* AU aureo, Roma, Sabina († 137 d. C.). - BMC Emp III 359, 936-939 tav. 65, 16. - R.: I. R. stante verso s. con patera e scettro. La dea veste chitone con rimbocco lungo, cinto alla vita, mantello che le copre la nuca e le spalle. Sul capo una stephane. Talvolta un pavone è ai suoi piedi. Legg. IUNONI REGINAE.

Stessa immagine su denarii (BMC Emp III 355, 908-909 tav. 64, 19 [I. velata]; 359, 940-943 tav. 65, 17-18 [I. con stephane]; 356, 1869 [I. velata]), e su AE (BMC Emp III 359, 1894-1895 tav. 99, 7). Su dupondii, invece, I. R. è rivolta a d.

90. AR denario (placcato), Roma, Adriano, 119-122 d. C.? - BMC Emp III 563; Reusch, W., Der Kölner Münzschatzfund vom Jahre 1909 (1935) 19 tav. 4, 1. - R.: I. R. stante verso s. con patera e scettro. La dea veste chitone con lungo rimbocco, cinto alla vita, e mantello che le copre la nuca e le spalle. Stephane sul capo. Legg. IUNONI REGINAE.

91. AE denario, Roma, Faustina Minore (161-176 d. C.). - BMC Emp IV 399, 104-111 tav. 55, 10; 401, 118-121 tav. 55, 13. - R.: I. R. come sopra, in chitone e mantello sul capo e le spalle, talvolta senza pavone. Legg. IUNO (n° 104-111) e IUNONI REGINAE (n° 118-21). Analoghi esemplari in bronzo BMC Emp IV 532, 914-917 tav. 73, 8; 541, 983-984 (con legg. IUNO S. C.); 533, 919-923 tav. 73, 4; 541, 985-986 (con legg. IUNONI REGINAE S. C.).

92.* AR denario, Roma, Lucilla († 183 d. C.). - BMC Emp IV 431, 339-341 tav. 59, 5. - R.: I. R. come sopra, in chitone e velata con un pavone ai suoi piedi. Legg. IUNO REGINA. Analoghi i bronzi BMC Emp IV 570, 1152 tav. 76, 13; 577, 1207-1208; 579, 1218-1221 tav. 78, 5.

93. AE sesterzio, Roma, Lucio Vero (161-169 d. C.). - BMC Emp IV 610. - R.: I. R. con legg. IUNO S. C.

94.* AU aureo, Roma, Faustina Maggiore, 139 d. C. - BMC Emp IV 9, 43 tav. 2, 3. - R.: I. R. in chitone con rimbocco, cinto alla vita, con mantello sulla nuca e sulle spalle, con patera e scettro; ai piedi un pavone. Legg. IUNONI REGINAE. Stessa immagine su denarii BMC Emp IV 23, 136-137 tav. 4, 3 e su bronzi BMC Emp IV 172, 1116-1117 (il primo senza pavone) tav. 24, 7; 174, 1128-1130 (il primo senza pavone) tav. 24, 9-10.

95. AU quinario, Roma, diva Faustina Maggiore (post 141 d. C.). - BMC Emp IV 66, 480 tav. 10, 14. - R.: I. R. come sopra, velata, con legg. IUNO. Analoghi esemplari in argento BMC Emp IV 66, 481-483 tav. 10, 15.

96.* AR denario, Roma, diva Faustina Maggiore (post 141 d. C.). - BMC Emp IV 67, *. - R.: I. in chitone cinto alla vita e mantello che copre la nuca e ricade ad arco sulle gambe. Stephane sul capo. Con la s. si poggia ad uno scettro; nella d. regge una patera. Legg. IUNONI REGINA (sic). Analoghi esemplari in bronzo BMC Emp IV 245, 1531-1535 tav. 36, 12; 255, 1596-1598 tav. 38, 2; 380, 2188 tav. 53, 6 (con legg. IUNO S. C.).

97. AR denario, Roma, Crispina (post 180 d. C.). - BMC Emp IV 695, 41-42 tav. 92, 2. - R.: I. R. in chitone con lungo rimbocco, cinto alla vita, e mantello sulla nuca e le spalle; nelle mani scettro e patera. Al suo fianco, un pavone. Legg. IUNO. Analoghi sesterzi BMC Emp IV 768, 431-432 tav. 102, 11 (con legg. IUNO S. C.).

98.* AU aureo, AR denario, AE sesterzio, Roma, Manlia Scantilla, 193 d. C. - BMC Emp V 13, 10-12 tav. 3, 13-15; 17, 32-37 tav. 4, 4, 5, 9. - R.: I. R. velata con chitone con lungo rimbocco, cinto alla vita, e mantello sul capo e sulle spalle. Stephane sul capo. Patera nella mano destra protesa e scettro nella s.; un pavone è ai suoi piedi. Legg. IUNO REGINA S. C.

99.* AU aureo, Roma, Giulia Domna, 198-209 d. C. - BMC Emp V 162, 37 tav. 27, 18. - R.: I. R. in chitone con lungo rimbocco, cinto alla vita, e mantello sulla nuca e sulle spalle. Stephane sul capo, patera nella mano destra protesa e scettro nella s.; un pavone è ai suoi piedi. Legg. IUNO. Analoghi esempl. in argento BMC Emp V 162, 38-44 tavv. 27, 19, 20; 28, 1 (ma I. R. è diademata e velata con il mantello che le ricade sui fianchi), e in bronzo BMC Emp V 308, 769 tav. 46, 18. Legg. dei n° 42-44 IUNO REGINA; del n° 769 IUNO REGINA S. C. La serie è stata preceduta da emissioni in bronzo, 193-196 d. C.: BMC Emp V 122, 487 tav. 21, 1; 124, 496-497 tav. 21, 6 con il tipo di I. R. diademata e velata, ma con il mantello ricadente sulle spalle. Negli anni 196-202 (o anche più recentemente) la stessa tipologia si incontra su emissioni in argento orientali (Laodicea ad mare) BMC Emp V 277, 601-603 tav. 42, 20 e legg. IUNO REGINA, ma dove il mantello si piega, a mo' di sciarpa, intorno al collo (i n° 38-41 tav. 27, 19, 20 sono con il mantello sulle gambe).

100. AR quinario, Roma, Giulia Domna, 211-217 d. C. - BMC Emp V 431, 5-6 tav. 67, 7, 8. - R.: I. R. come sopra, con mantello sulla nuca e sulle spalle. Legg. IUNO o IUNONEM (in un es. a Vienna IUNO CONSERVATRIX: BMC Emp V 435). Analoghi esemplari in bronzo BMC Emp V 468, 206-210 tav. 73, 13-14; 471, 224 tav. 74, 8 con legg. IUNO o IUNONEM S. C.

101. AR denario, Roma, Giulia Soaemias (218-222 d. C.). - BMC Emp V 536, 38. - R.: I. R. come sopra, velata, ma con mantello che ricade sulle spalle e legg. IUNO.

102.* AU aureo, Roma, Giulia Maesa (218-222 d. C.). - BMC Emp V 540, 66 tav. 86, 4. - R.: I. R. come sopra, in chitone con lungo rimbocco, cinto alla vita, e mantello sulla nuca e sulle spalle; legg. IUNO. Analoghi esempl. in argento BMC Emp V 540, 67-68 tav. 86, 5. In emissioni orientali in argento compare una variante del tipo con mantello ricadente sul davanti con un lembo poggiato sul braccio sinistro e legg. IUNO (BMC Emp V 577, 295-296 tav. 91, 16-17); su un tipo canonico la legg. è invece IUNO CONSERVATRIX (BMC Emp V 577, 297 tav. 91, 18).

103. AR denario, Roma, Giulia Paula, 219-220 d. C. - BMC Emp V 555. - R.: come sopra e legg. IUNO CONSERVATRIX.

104.* AU aureo, AR denario, AE sesterzio, Roma, Giulia Mamaea, 222 d. C. - BMC Emp VI 119, 42-54 tav. 2. - R.: I. velata, stante, come sopra. Legg. IUNO CONSERVATRIX.

c) Stante, con lancia(?) e patera

105. AR denario, Roma, Sabina († 137 d. C.). - BMC Emp III 355 n. a n° 909. - R.: Come BMC Emp III 355, 909 (v. 89) del quale parrebbe essere una variante (ma potrebbe trattarsi di un difetto di conio).

d) Stante, con mano destra protesa e scettro

106. AR denario, Roma, Adriano. - BMC Emp III 355 n. a n° 909. - Come sopra. Potrebbe essere un difetto di conio.

107. AU quinario, Roma, diva Faustina Maggiore (post 141 d. C.). - BMC Emp IV 53, 344 tav. 8, 16. - R.: I.(?) in chitone cinto alla vita e mantello sul capo ricadente sulle gambe e con un lembo riportato sul braccio s., con mano d. protesa e scettro nella s. Legg. AE-TERNITAS. Analoghi denarii in argento BMC Emp IV 53 s., 345-353 tav. 8, 15, 17.

1.5. Possibili raffigurazioni di Iuno Regina

Monete

108. AR denario anonimo con testa di elefante, 128 a. C. - Crawford, RRC n° 262/1 tav. 38, 5. - R.: dea in chitone cinto sotto al seno su biga tirata da cavalli. La dea ha nelle mani uno scettro e un ramo di palma o di alloro. Se fosse alloro, si potrebbe pensare si tratti di I. R. Sotto la biga legg. ROMA e testa di elefante.

1.6. Iuno Regina come Aeternitas

Monete

109. AR denario, Roma, diva Faustina Maggiore, 141 d. C. e dopo. - BMC Emp IV 42 s., 280-284 tav. 7, 6. - R.: I(?) in chitone cinto alla vita, velata, con il mantello ripiegato ai fianchi, con la d. regge il velo, e con la s. regge lo scettro pressoché in verticale. Legg. AETERNITAS. Simile il denario BMC Emp IV 67, 487.

2. Ad Ardea

Il tempio è localizzabile forse in prossimità del Foro in quanto i Romani, per propiziarsi la dea di Cartagine nel 217 a. C., celebrarono sacrifici in vari templi di I.; i decemviri furono inviati ad Ardea e celebrarono sacrifici nel Foro, evidentemente presso il tempio della dea (Liv. 22, 1, 17-19. Cf. Coarelli, F., Lazio [1982] 286). Culto verosimilmente oracolare, come si desume da Verg. Aen. 7, 419. Qui erano forse le pitture ricordate da Plin. nat. 35, 115 opera di un pittore greco dell'Asia Minore, Marcus Plautius (Wiken, E., BollStMed 5, 1934, 7-21; Stefani, E., NotSc 1954, 6-30; Morselli/Tortorici 71. 91 ss.). Tuttavia, è possibile anche pensare che il tempio della dea fosse sull'acropoli, in quanto protettrice della città (Colonna, G., Arch. Laz 6, 1984, 409), come d'altronde a Roma ed a Veio (Andrén, A., Studi in onore di L. Banti [1965] 15, n. 1). Si potrebbe allora suggerire che a I. R. dea poliade, siano stati aggregati Iuppiter e Minerva in sintonia con il culto della triade poliadica di Roma. Nel tempio è stato rinvenuto il frammento di una statua di terracotta con due piedi calzati su plinto trapezoidale, e resti di un mantello che giunge fino alle caviglie (Pasqui, A., NotSc 1900, 63 fig. 4; Andrén, o. c. 19 s. tav. 7b; Martin, o. c. 28, 26 fig. 2). Poiché i piedi sono colorati in rosso, si potrebbe supporre che si tratti di un fr. della statua di Iuppiter, a meno che non sia, più semplicemente, un offerente. Le fonti antiche sono, oltre Plinio, Liv. 22, 1, 19.

BIBLIOGRAFIA: Enea nel Lazio, Cat. Roma (1981) 10 ss.; Morselli, C./Tortorici, E., Ardea. Forma Italiae I 16 (1982) 29. 71. 91 ss.

3. A Sezze

Da un santuario ad Ovest della città, sono state rinvenute numerose terrecotte votive ed un cippo in tufo, del III sec. a. C., con la dedica a Iuno Regina. Cf. Zaccaro, L./Pasquali, F., Sezze. Guida all'antiquario (1970) 20; idem, Sezze dalla preistoria all'età romana (1972).

C. Iuno Regina Dolichena

Quando lo Stato di Commagene entrò a far parte integrante dell'Impero Romano, all'epoca di Vespasiano, il culto principale della regione, attribuito ad una coppia divina simile a Baal ed Astarte (o Hadad ed Atargatis), si diffuse tramite l'esercito fino a Roma ed al Nord d'Europa. Sede principale del culto era la città di Doliche (presso Gaziantep). A Roma sono stati rinvenuti due edifici sacri dedicati agli dei: uno sull'Esquilino, presso la chiesa di Sant'Eusebio, l'altro sull'Aventino, già noto dai Cataloghi Regionari («Dolocenum»), che ha restituito una notevole messe di reperti. L'iconografia della coppia divina, rapidamente assimilata a Zeus/Iuppiter ed Hera/Iuno, è strutturata basilariamente su modelli antichissimi, di tradizione hittito-hurrita (divinità in piedi su animali); ma le immagini di culto si piegano rapidamente alla tradizione greco-romana, ed assumono vesti e, parzialmente, attributi desunti dalle più comuni raffigurazioni di Zeus/Iuppiter ed Hera/Iuno. Ove si escluda lo specchio, non comune nell'iconografia di Iuno, la dea di Doliche non si differenzia, nei monumenti figurati pervenuti, dalla più comune iconografia di Iuno Regina.

BIBLIOGRAFIA: Wissowa, Religion 361 ss.; v. Domaszewski, A., Die Religion des römischen Heeres (1895) 59 s.; Merlat, P., Répertoire des inscriptions et monuments figurés du culte de Jupiter Dolichenus (1951) passim (= Merlat, Rép.); idem, Jupiter Dolichenus. Essai d'interprétation et de synthèse (1960); Speidel, M. P., Jupiter Dolichenus. Der Himmelsgott auf dem Stier (1980); Hörig, M./Schwertheim, E., Corpus Cultus Iovis Dolicheni (1987).

Rilievi
Marmo

110. (= Dioskouroi/Castores 115*, = Isis 206) Roma, Mus. Cap. 9747. Dal Dolocenum dell'Aventino. - Helbig<sup>4</sup> II n° 1190c (Simon, E.); Colini, A. M., BullCom 63, 1935, 152 n° 16 tav. 4; idem, Epigraphica 1, 1939, 136 s. n° 11; Merlat, Rép. 166 ss. n° 185 tav. 19; Pietrangeli, C., Musei Capitolini. I monumenti dei culti orientali (1951) 40 n° 24 tav. 8; Hörig/Schwertheim 230 ss. n° 365 tav. 77. - Seconda metà del II sec. d. C. - Ai lati di un'ara su cui sono un'aquila con ali spiegate ed i busti di Serapide ed Iside, sono a s. Iuppiter Dolichenus su toro, ed a d. I. D. in piedi su una cerbiatta. La dea veste chitone cinto alla vita e mantello ricadente sui fianchi e sulle gambe; sul capo, un lembo del mantello e stephane. Con la d. la dea regge uno specchio; con la s. si poggia ad uno scettro. Agli angoli in alto i due busti dei Castori Dolicheni. Iscrizione sincretistica a Iuppiter Optimus Maximus Dolichenus Serapis e ad Iside Iuno.

111. Roma, Mus. Cap. Dal Dolocenum sull'Aventino. - Colini, BullCom 63, 1935, 152 n° 15; idem, Epigraphica 1, 1939, 126 n° 4; Merlat, Rép. 165 s. n° 184; Pietrangeli, o. c. 110, 41 n. 27 fig. in copertina; Hörig/Schwertheim 230 n° 364 tav. 76. - Seconda metà del II sec. d. C. - Sulla lastra è raffigurata la sola I. D. in piedi su una cerbiatta. La dea veste chitone con lungo rimbocco cinto alla vita; sul capo posa una stephane. Nella d. la dea regge uno specchio; con la s. si appoggia ad uno scettro sul cui terminale è raffigurato un pavone. Dedicata di L. Apronius Helius e della famiglia per tramite del sacerdote Chaibio.

112.* Roma, Mus. Cap. 9744. Dal Dolocenum sull'Aventino. - Helbig<sup>4</sup> II n° 1190b (Simon, E.); Colini, BullCom 63, 1935, 153 n° 23 tav. 2; idem, Epigraphica 1, 1939 126 n° 5; Merlat, Rép. 170 ss. n° 190 tav. 20, 2; Pietrangeli, o. c. 110, 42 n° 33 tav. 7; Hörig/

Schwertheim 234 ss. n° 371 tav. 81. - Seconda metà del II sec. d. C. - A s. Iuppiter Dolichenus su toro. A d. in basso un sacerdote, in piccolo formato, conduce un toro verso il dio; in alto I. D. in piedi su cerbiatta, che regge con la d. lo specchio. La dea veste un chitone cinto ai fianchi; i capelli sono raccolti e stretti da un diadema dai lembi fluttuanti; una grossa treccia ricade sulle spalle. Dedicata, per ordine di Iuppiter Dolichenus, di P. Albius Euhelpastus, 'libertus Aniceti' e di Lucius.

113. (= Dioskouroi/Castores 84, = Helios/Sol 364, = Isis 207) Roma, Mus. Cap. 9750. Dal Dolocenum sull'Aventino. - Colini, BullCom 63, 1935, 152 n° 17 fig. 9; idem, Epigraphica 1, 1939, 138 n° 14; Merlat, Rép. 202 ss. n° 206 tav. 22, 1; Pietrangeli, o. c. 110, 43 n° 38; Hörig/Schwertheim 253 s. n° 386 tav. 87. - Inizi del III sec. d. C. - In basso, ai lati sono Iuppiter Dolichenus e I. D. nel consueto schema; al centro sono Osiride ed Iside. In alto, al centro i Castori Dolicheni reggenti per le briglie due cavalli; ai lati i busti di Sol e Luna. I. D., in piedi su una cerbiatta, veste chitone cinto alla vita e mantello che ricade sulle gambe. Sul capo posa la stephane. La dea regge con la d. uno specchio; con la s. si appoggia ad uno scettro.

114. Già a Roma, Villa Ludovisi; ora disperso. Dal Dolocenum sull'Aventino (?). Seyrig, H., Syria 14, 1933, 372 n° 3; Merlat, Rép. 211 s. n° 222; MusNaz-Rom I 6 (1986) 15 ss. n° II 1 (Micheli, M. E.); Hörig/Schwertheim 262 s. n° 405 tav. 93. - Fine del II sec. d. C. - Al centro di un'edicola ornata di foglie di quercia è I. D. in piedi su un cervide (daino?). La dea veste chitone con lungo rimbocco cinto alla vita e mantello che le copre la nuca. Sul capo posa un'alta stephane. La d., ora mutila, reggeva forse lo specchio; la s. si appoggia ad uno scettro sormontato da una Vittoria che regge una palma ed una corona.

115.* Berlino (DDR), Staatl. Mus. SK 1778. Da Roma. - Seyrig, H., Syria 14, 1933, 370 n° 2 fig. 1 tav. 38, 2; Merlat, Rép. 236 ss. n° 242 tav. 23, 2; 24; Hörig/Schwertheim 278 ss. n° 428 fig. in frontespizio. - Seconda metà del II sec. d. C. - Il pannello conservato a Berlino è mutilo. Probabilmente (Seyrig, Merlat) è identico con il rilievo raffigurato in un disegno di Dupérac (da Pirro Ligorio) che mostra, tuttavia, forti varianti iconografiche. La coppia divina è nel consueto schema; ma, a giudicare anche dal disegno, I. D., in piedi su daino, è raffigurata su una base con iscrizione greca. La dea veste chitone con lungo rimbocco cinto sotto al seno, e velo che le copre la nuca. Stephane sul capo, specchio nella mano d. e scettro nella s. Di particolare importanza la raffigurazione di Iuppiter, con tiara, capelli lunghi sciolti sulle spalle e barba, secondo la tradizione orientale, non greca.

Basalto

116. Stele. Aleppo, Mus. Da Khaltan. - Will, E., Syria 29, 1952, 60 ss. tav. 5; Hörig/Schwertheim 30 n° 27 tav. 9. - I-II sec. d. C. - La stele, che è pendant di un'altra con raffigurazione di Iuppiter Dolichenus, mostra Iuno Dolichena stante, con la testa di profilo, vestita con chitone cinto sotto al seno e mantello che ricade sui fianchi; un lembo del mantello posa sull'avambraccio s. I capelli sono legati a treccia sul collo.

Nella mano d. la dea regge un papavero. Simili due stele in basalto da Zeytintepe (Hörig/Schwertheim 27 s. n° 23 tav. 7), e da Kurcuoglu (Hörig/Schwertheim, 29 n° 25 tav. 8), nel Mus. Hatay ad Antakya.

Calcere

117. Dillingen, Mus. Da Faimingen. - Merlat, Rép. 147 s. n° 167 tav. 16; Hörig/Schwertheim 304 s. n° 477. - Fine del II sec. d. C. - Il rilievo è scolpito sulle due facce. Sulla faccia anteriore è Iuppiter Dolichenus; su quella posteriore I. D. in piedi, su una giovinca accosciata. La dea veste un chitone e regge nella d. un oggetto a forma di patera.

118. Klagenfurt, Mus. Da Lamprechtskogel. - Merlat, Rép. 12 s. n° 143 tav. 11, 3; Hörig/Schwertheim 218 n° 347 tav. 66. - La coppia divina è nello schema canonico inquadrata entro la facciata di un piccolo santuario a pilastri di ordine corinzio, con un frontone decorato con un'aquila e le teste di Sol e Luna a guisa di acroteri. I. è su una cerbiatta, ed è vestita di chitone e mantello che le cinge il corpo; un lembo le copre la nuca. La mano sin. è sollevata come a reggere un oggetto.

Glittica

119. Impronta di sigillo. Den Haag, Cabinet Royal des Médailles. Da Doliche? - Ronzevalle, S., MélBeyrouth 23, 1940, 1 ss. n° 7 tav. 4; Seyrig, H., MélBeyrouth 23, 1940, 87 n° 3; 91. 105 tav. 5, 3; Merlat, Rép. 379 n. 372; Hörig/Schwertheim 19 n° 14A. - Raffigurazione di I. D. secondo il tipo canonico. Simili le impronte Seyrig, o. c. 87 n. 4; 91. 105.

120. Impronta di sigillo. Den Haag, Cabinet Royal des Médailles. Da Doliche? - Seyrig, o. c. 119, 87 n° 5; 91. 105 tav. 5, 5; Merlat, Rép. 379 n. 374; Hörig/Schwertheim 20 n° 14B. - Teste affrontate di Zeus ed Hera. La dea non ha alcun ornamento. Dato il luogo di provenienza, è probabile il riconoscimento della coppia Dolichena.

Metallo

121. Placca triangolare in bronzo. Widin, Mus. Da Jassen (Romulanium?). - Merlat, Rép. 45 ss. n° 50 tav. 3, 2; Speidel, M. P., The Religion of Iuppiter Dolichenus in the Roman Army (1978) 16. 55 s. fig. 8; Hörig/Schwertheim 80 ss. n° 103 tav. 26. - Età severiana. - In alto, a s. Iuppiter Dolichenus armato in piedi su un toro; a d. I. R. in piedi su una cerva, vestita di chitone con lungo rimbocco cinto alla vita. Con la s. si poggia ad uno scettro; nella mano d. regge uno specchio. Tra le due divinità una corona.

122. Placca triangolare in bronzo. Da Kömlöd (Lussonium). Budapest, Mus. Nat. Hongrois. - Merlat, Rép. 64 ss. n° 66 tav. 4; Speidel, o. c. 121, 25. 43. 56 n° 30; Hörig/Schwertheim, 133 ss. n° 202 tav. 39. - Età severiana. - La placca è divisa in cinque registri. Nel quarto sono Iuppiter Dolichenus e I. R. nello schema canonico; ma I. è su un capro(?) e con la mano d. si appoggia ad un corno dell'animale, mentre con la

s. si appoggia ad uno scettro. La dea è vestita di chitone cinto alla vita e mantello che copre la nuca e ricade in diagonale sul corpo poggiando sul braccio s. sollevato.

123.* (= Dioskouroi/Castores 52). Placca triangolare in bronzo. Vienna, Kunsth. Mus. M 4. Da Mauer an der Url. - Merlat, Rép. 131 ss. n° 152 tav. 13; Speidel, o. c. 121, 25. 57. 60 s. fig. 12; Hörig/Schwertheim 189 ss. n° 294 tav. 57. - La placca è divisa in tre registri. Nel registro centrale la coppia divina nella posizione canonica. I. R. è su una cerbiatta; veste chitone e mantello che le copre la nuca e ricade sui fianchi. La mano s. è poggiata sul fianco; la d. regge una patera.

124. Placca triangolare in bronzo. Vienna, Kunsth. Mus. M5. Da Mauer an der Url. - Merlat, Rép. 134 ss. n° 153 tav. 14; Speidel, 25. 56. 60 fig. 11; Hörig/Schwertheim 191 ss. n° 295 tav. 58. - La placca è divisa in cinque registri di differente misura. Nel registro inferiore, il più grande, la coppia divina nella disposizione canonica. I. R. è su un toro; veste tunica cinto alla vita e mantello ripiegato ai fianchi. Con la mano d. regge una bipenne, con la s. un ramo di palma.

125. Tavoleta votiva in argento. Londra, BM. Da Hedderheim. - Merlat, Rép. 308 ss. n° 316 tav. 34; Schwertheim, E., Die Denkmäler orientalischer Gottheiten im römischen Deutschland (1974) 98 s. n° 80 tav. 106; Speidel, o. c. 121, 41, 63 fig. 14; Hörig/Schwertheim 325 s. n° 518 tav. 111. - Entro un'edicola a colonne corinzie e frontone ad arcata serliana decorato con una falce di luna e stelle, la coppia divina nella disposizione canonica. I. R. in piedi su un animale (non conservato) veste un chitone cinto alla vita e mantello che le copre la nuca e ricade sui fianchi. Nella s. regge uno scettro; nella d. regge una patera. Victoria incorona Iuppiter. In basso, piccolo altare.

126. Placca triangolare in bronzo. Da Hedderheim. Wiesbaden, Mus. Wiesbaden. - Merlat, Rép. 314 ss. n° 322 tav. 35, 3; Schwertheim, o. c. 125, 93 s. n° 73a tav. 100, Hörig/Schwertheim 320 n° 512 tav. 108. - 175 d. C. ca. - Divisa in due registri. Nel sup. è Iuppiter Dolichenus coronato da una Vittoria, e la testa di Sol. Nel reg. inf. I. R. stante frontale su una cerbiatta tra due Castori Dolicheni sul cui capo sono i busti di Sol e Luna. La dea, in chitone e mantello che le copre la nuca e ricade sulle gambe, regge con la d. un sistro e con la s. lo scettro. Sul capo ha un attributo non identificato (di Iside?).

127. Placca triangolare in bronzo dorato. Stuttgart, Landesmus., Prov.-röm. Slg. R 1, 29. Da Aalen (Aquila in Raetia). - Merlat, Rép. 148 ss. n° 168 fig. 33; Hörig/Schwertheim 302 s. n° 475 tav. 106. - Scena divisa in due registri. Nel reg. sup. a s. Iuppiter Dolichenus; a d. I. D., frammentaria, in piedi su una giovenca; al centro un albero sacro. Nel registro inf. sono ancora visibili un Castor Dolichenus e, a s. Minerva e Mars(?).

128. Placca triangolare in bronzo. Sofia, Mus. Arch. Nat. - Merlat, Rép. 340 n° 346 tav. 36, 3; Hörig/Schwertheim 68 s. n° 80 tav. 22. - Nel registro sup. i busti di Sol e Luna. Nel registro centrale la coppia Iuppiter-I. nello schema canonico. Nel registro inf. i Castori Dolicheni. I. D. è su un daino; veste un chitone e regge nella d. uno specchio; nella s. abbassata regge un oggetto indistinto.

Sculpture a tutto tondo

129. Statua in pietra. Chesters, Mus. The Clayton Collection of Roman Antiquities. Da Cilurnum (Valium Hadriani). Cumont, F., Syria 1, 1920, 187 s. fig. 2; Merlat, Rép. 269 s. n° 276 tav. 25, 3; Hörig/Schwertheim 350 s. n° 563 tavv. 123. - I. D. (mutila degli avambracci e della testa) è in piedi su un cervide (mutilo). Veste una tunica pieghettata cinto alla vita con una cintura terminante in elementi a foglia d'edera. Sulle gambe ricade un mantello decorato ai bordi con un motivo ad onda.

130.* Statuetta in bronzo. Vienna, Kunsth. Mus. M2. Da Mauer an der Url. - Fleischer, R., Die römischen Bronzen aus Österreich (1967) n° 19 tav. 15; Hörig/Schwertheim 187 n° 292 tav. 55. - III sec. d. C. - I. R. è in piedi su una cerva. Veste un chitone con rimbocco, cinto sotto al seno, ed un mantello che posa sulla nuca ricadendo sulle spalle; sul capo ha una stephane. Con la mano d. protesa la dea regge una patera; con la s. si appoggia ad un lungo scettro. La statuetta è stata rinvenuta con un'altra raffigurante Juppiter Dolichenus in piedi su un toro, rivestito con una corazza anatomica (Fleischer, o. c. tav. 14).

131. Mano votiva in bronzo. Adana, Mus. Da Şar-Comana Cappadociae. - Wagner, J., in Homm. à M. J. Vermaseren III, EPRO 68 (1978) 1290 ss. tavv. 260-263; Speidel, M. P., Iuppiter Dolichenus. Der Himmels-gott auf dem Stier (1980) fig. 28; Hörig/Schwertheim 47 s. n° 43 tav. 14. - I sec. d. C. - Sul palmo della mano, a rilievo, è la coppia divina. I. D. è su una cerva; veste un lungo chitone; sul capo ha un polos; nella mano d. regge un papavero(?), nella s. un attributo irrinconoscibile. Tra le divinità, in alto, un'aquila con le ali spiegate, posata su una testa di cervo dalle lunghe corna.

D. Iuno Moneta

Secondo Cicerone (div. 2, 69) l'epiclesi deriverebbe da monere, «avvertire». Iuno sarebbe, perciò, la vigile guardiana della città e delle fortificazioni, come presuppone il suo culto situato, nei casi documentati (Roma, Mons Albanus, Segni, Cori), sulle acropoli. Non sono mancate altre ipotesi, forse meno fondate: monere nel senso di «ricordare» (Iuno Moneta come Mnemosyne), oppure nel senso di «consigliare» (come Egeria).

BIBLIOGRAFIA: Wissowa, Religion 190; Rose, H. J., Ancient Roman Religion (1948) 71; van den Bruwaene, M., in Homm. M. Niedermann, Coll. Latomus 23 (1956) 329 ss.; Palmer, R. E. A., Roman Religion and Roman Empire (1974) 29 s.; Radke, G., Die Götter Altitaliens (1966) 221 ss.; Guarducci, M., BullCom 72, 1946-48, 129 ss.; Dury-Moyaers/Renard 165 ss.

1. A Roma

Il tempio fu votato da M. Furio Camillo durante la guerra contro gli Aurunci nel 345 a. C. e dedicato sul-l'Arx nel 344 a. C. (Liv. 7, 28, 4-6), sul luogo già occupato dalla casa di M. Manlio Capitolino distrutta nel 384 a. C. Qui viveva, secondo la tradizione, anche Tito Tazio (Plut. Rom. 20; Solinus 1, 21). Dedicato il 1 giugno, nel tempio erano conservati i libri lintei (Liv. 4, 7, 12; 20, 8). È probabile che il culto fosse anteriore al votum del tempio da parte di Camillo, perché ad esso si riferisce Plutarco (Cam. 27) quando narra la celebre vicenda delle oche sacre a Iuno che avrebbero salvato con i loro schiamazzi il Campidoglio dall'occupazione gallica. D'altronde, il tempio di Segni (cf. infra) fu eretto da coloni romani all'epoca di Tarquinio il Superbo, o forse nel 394 a. C.: probabile segno della preesistenza del culto, o di un culto analogo, a Roma; a meno che i coloni non abbiano recepito un culto già attestato nel territorio. Il tempio romano è localizzato nell'area ora occupata da un giardinetto presso il portico del Vignola, alle spalle della chiesa dell'Ara Coeli; sembra verosimile, in base alle strutture, una cronologia alta, tra la fine del VI e gli inizi del V sec. a. C. (Giannelli, G., BullCom 87, 1980/81, 7 ss.); rafforzata dal rinvenimento di fittili databili allo stesso periodo (De Lucia, M. A., BullCom 86, 1978-79, 7 ss.). Resta aperto, naturalmente, il problema se la divinità venerata in questo edificio fosse Iuno con l'epiclesi di Moneta. Dinanzi al tempio era l'auguraculum dell'Arce; la specio degli augures avveniva in direzione sud-est, sulla linea della via Sacra. In asse con la linea della specio era il mons Albanus (Richardson jr., L., AJA 82, 1978, 240 ss.; Coarelli, F., in Gli Etruschi e Roma. Incontro di studio in onore di M. Pallottino [1981] 178 ss.), sede del santuario federale dei Latini, dedicato a Iuppiter Latialis. Qui nel 168 a. C. il pretore C. Cicereius dedicò un tempio a Iuno Moneta a seguito di un voto durante i combattimenti contro i Corsi (Liv. 42, 7, 1; 45, 15, 10). La scelta del sito fu certamente imposta, o perlomeno suggerita, dalla specifica posizione del santuario romano sull'Arce.

BIBLIOGRAFIA: Jordan/Hülse 1, 2, 108 ss.; Platner/Ashby 289 s.; InscrIt XIII 2, 463; Giannelli, G., StRom 1978, 60 ss.; idem, BullCom 87, 1980/81, 7 ss.

Monete

132.* AR denario, L. Plaetorius L. f., 74 a. C. - Crawford, RRC n° 396/1 tav. 49, 23. - D.: testa di I. M. rivolta a d. con stephane e capelli raccolti a crocchia dietro la nuca. Legg. MONETA e S. C. R.: atleta vincitore.

133.* AR denario, T. Carisius, 46 a. C. - Crawford, RRC n° 464/2 tav. 54, 26. - D.: testa di I. M. con capelli raccolti a crocchia dietro la nuca e riccioli ricadenti sulle spalle. Legg. MONETA. Analoga immagine su un denario di restitutio in argento dell'epoca di Traiano (BMC Emp III 136, 688 tav. 23, 5).

134. AR denario, Spagna, 68-69 d. C. - Martin, P.-H., Die anonymen Münzen des Jahres 68 nach Chr. (1974) n° 55 tav. 4. - D.: busto di I. M. rivolta a d. I capelli sono legati a crocchia dietro la nuca. Legg. MONETA. R.: attributi di Vulcanus in una corona e legg. SALUTARIS.

2. A Segni

Si è supposto che il tempio, situato sull'acropoli della città, sia stato eretto nel 494 a. C. (Liv. 2, 21) dai coloni romani inviati a rinforzo della deduzione di Tarquinio il Superbo (Liv. 1, 56; Dion. Hal. ant. 4, 63). Considerato da Delbrueck come tempio della Triade Capitolina, è stato ormai rivendicato a I. M. (Coarelli, Lazio [1982] 177 s.). Materiali della stipe votiva, ancora inediti, nel Museo di Villa Giulia.

BIBLIOGRAFIA: Delbrueck, R., Das Capitolum von Signia (1903); Roma medio-republicana (1973) 337 s. n° 488 (Coarelli, F.); Coarelli, F., Lazio (1982) 177 s.; Colonna, G., ArchLaz 6, 1984, 408.

3. A Cori (?)

Secondo un'ipotesi di F. Coarelli (Lazio [1982] 262 ss.), il c. d. tempio di Hercules posto sull'acropoli di Cori potrebbe essere stato dedicato, in realtà, a I. M. in analogia alla situazione di Segni. La stipe votiva del tempio, anteriore alla sua ricostruzione della fine del II sec. a. C., sembra rimandare ad una divinità salutare, forse femminile.

E. Iuno Lucina

Sembra essere, sotto vari aspetti, il culto più decisamente legato alla funzione di Iuno come dea della fecondità e delle donne, anche se alcuni autori latini derivavano l'epiclesi da lucus (Ov. fast. 2, 435-436. 449; Plin. nat. 16, 235), accettata da Palmer (19 ss.) nel tentativo di minimizzare la funzione femminile di Iuno a favore di quella guerriera e militare. Si suppone ormai che l'epiteto derivi da lux, la luce della luna che presiede alle nascite. Era identificata con la greca Eileithyia. Il culto è documentato a Roma, a Norba (cf. infra) ed a Tuscolo (iscrizione da Capua, ora a Napoli CIL X 3807: Iunone Loucina Tuscolana sacra).

BIBLIOGRAFIA: Wissowa, Religion 185. 187; Roscher, W. H., ML II 1 (1890-94) 602; InscrIt XIII 2, 418; Dumézil 3, 263 ss.; Palmer, R. E. A., Roman Religion and Roman Empire (1974) 19 ss.; Dury-Moyaers/Renard 149 ss.

1. A Roma

Un tempio a Iuno Lucina fu dedicato dalle matrone nel 375 a. C. sull'Esquilino in un lucus già precedentemente dedicato alla dea (Varro l. l. 5, 49. 74; Dion. Hal. ant. 4, 15), secondo la tradizione da Tito Tazio. Poiché, sempre secondo la tradizione, Servio Tullio aveva ordinato che le offerte votive per la buona riuscita dei parti fossero collocate nel tesoro del tempio (Dion. Hal. ant. 4, 15), si dovrà supporre la preesistenza nel lucus di un edificio sacro anteriore a quello del 375. Qui si celebravano il 1 marzo le importantissime feste dei Matronalia, come dice Ovidio (fast. 3, 233) per ricordare la nascita di Romolo, o il risveglio della primavera (fast. 3, 235-244). Il culto è particolarmente legato alle leggende della presenza sabina a Roma (il primo difficile parto delle Sabine dopo il ratto [fast. 2, 425-452]; la rappacificazione tra Sabini e Romani per l'intercessione delle Sabine [fast. 3, 179-252]). Il tempio era non lontano dalla chiesa di Santa Prassede, dove sono state rinvenute numerose iscrizioni che ricordano la dea (Jordan/Hülse I 3, 333 s.; Platner/Ashby 288 s.).

a) Stante

Rilievo

135.* Altare funerario. Vaticano, Gall. Chiaramonti. - Reinach, RépRel III 372, 5; Amelung, Skulpt-VatMus I 809 s. n° 731A tav. 86. - Altare funerario di C. Poppaeus Ianuarius. Su un lato è un orante; su un altro è I. Lucina con un bambino in braccio e fiaccola nella mano d. La dea veste chitone con rimbocco e mantello che le copre le gambe e il braccio s. Il capo è scoperto(?). Il rilievo è consunto.

Monete

136.* AR denario, Roma, diva Faustina Maggiore (post. 141 d. C.). BMC Emp IV 67, 484 tav. 10, 16. - R.: I. L. stante, in chitone con lungo rimbocco cinto alla vita, svelata, con breve torcia nella mano d. e scettro nella s.

137. AU aureo, Roma, Faustina Minore (161-176 d. C.). - BMC Emp IV 401, 116-117 tav. 55, 12. - R.: I. L. in piedi, in chitone cinto alla vita, con i capelli raccolti a crocchia dietro la nuca; regge in braccio un bambino; altri due bambini sono ai suoi piedi. Legg. IUNONI LUCINAE. Analoghi esempl. in bronzo, BMC Emp IV 532, 918 tav. 73, 3.

138.* AR denario, Roma, Lucilla, 164-169 d. C.(?). - BMC Emp IV 428, 313-315 tav. 58, 14. - R.: I. L. in chitone cinto alla vita, velata con il mantello ricadente sui fianchi e sollevato sul braccio s. Il braccio d. è proteso; con il braccio s. regge un bambino. Legg. IUNONI LUCINAE. Analoghi esempl. in bronzo BMC Emp IV 573 con legg. IUNONI LUCINAE S. C.

139. AE sesterzio, Roma, Lucilla, post 164 d. C. - BMC Emp IV 570, 1153. - R.: I. L. con braccio d. proteso; con il braccio s. regge un bambino. Legg. IUNONI LUCINAE S. C.

140. AE dupondio, Roma, Faustina Minore (161-176 d. C.). - BMC Emp IV 541, *. - R.: I. L. con due bambini tra le braccia; altri due bambini sono ai suoi piedi. Legg. IUNONI LUCINAE S. C.

b) Seduta

Monete

141.* AU aureo, Roma, Faustina Minore (età di Antonino Pio). - BMC Emp IV 159, 1043-1044 tav. 22, 13. - R.: I. L. in chitone cinto alla vita e mantello intorno alle gambe, seduta, con stephane sul capo, regge un bambino sulle sue ginocchia con la mano d.; con la s. regge uno scettro; un altro bambino le è di fronte. Legg. IUNO.

142.* AR denario, Roma, Lucilla, 164-169 d. C.(?). - BMC Emp IV 431, 342-345 tav. 59, 6. - R.: I. L. in chitone cinto alla vita e mantello intorno alle

gambe, seduta, con un fiore nella mano d. protesa ed un bambino retto con la s. Legg. IUNONI LUCINAE. Simile esempl. in bronzo BMC Emp IV 570, 1154.

143. AE sesterzio, Roma, Settimio Severo, 196-209 d. C. - BMC Emp V 308, 770-771 tav. 47, 1. - R.: I. L. con stephane e capelli raccolti a crocchia dietro la nuca siede su un trono dalla spalliera alta; veste un chitone cinto sotto al seno ed un mantello un cui lembo è riportato sul braccio s. La dea regge un infante fasciato con il braccio s. ed un fiore nella d. protesa. Legg. IUNONI LUCINAE S. C. Del tutto simile il dupondio BMC Emp V 312, *. La stessa tipologia si incontra in sesterzi dell'età di Caracalla, sempre con effigie di Giulia Domna sul diritto (BMC Emp V 469, 211-212 tav. 74, 1).

Scultura a tutto tondo

144.* C. d. Kourotrophos Chiaramonti. Vaticano, Gall. Chiaramonti 1847. - Amelung, Skulpt-VatMus I 471 n° 241; II 749; Borda, M., La scuola di Pasiteles (1953) 126 ss. 140 s. fig. 33; Helbig<sup>4</sup> I n° 364 (Fuchs, W.). - Età augustea. - Figura femminile seduta, in chitone ed himation ripiegato intorno alle gambe. Il chitone ricade dalla spalla s. e lascia scoperto il seno, con cui la dea allatta un infante retto con il braccio d., mentre con la mano s. ne regge il capo. Acconciatura ad ampi boccoli che ricadono sulle spalle; sul capo posa un alto diadema, dietro il quale è un foro per l'inserimento di un attributo in metallo. È verosimile che si tratti di una interpretazione romana di Iside, forse assimilata a I. Lucina (così riferisce già Ov. am. 2, 13). Improbabile il rapporto con la statua di culto di I. Regina trasferita da Camillo a Roma nel 396 a. C. nel nuovo tempio sull'Aventino: essa era sicuramente un xoanon arcaico di legno (Dion. Hal. ant. 13, 3, 2. Cf. Martin, o. c. 28, 23 s.).

2. A Norba

La città fu totalmente distrutta nell'82 a. C. dai Silani. Il tempio era all'estremità sud-occidentale dell'abitato, su un podio in opera poligonale. Prima costruzione del IV sec. a. C.; ricostruzione verso la fine del II sec. a. C. (Savignoni, L./Mengarelli, R., NotSc 1903, 229-262; Moretti, G., NotSc 1904, 446-457; Schmiedt, G./Castagnoli, F., L'Universo 1957, 125-148). Nella stipe votiva, pertinente alla prima fase templare, ricorrono dediche a I. L. (ad esempio: Roma medio-repubblicana [1973] 338 s. n° 489-490) e terrecotte con una donna (verosimilmente la dea) che allatta. Il tempio può essere contemporaneo con la fondazione del tempio di I. L. a Roma, del 375 a. C. Frammenti di terrecotte frontonali parrebbero potersi riferire alla decorazione dell'edificio sacro (Moretti, o. c. 446 ss. figg. 4-6). Importante anche un piede femminile con sandalo in bronzo pertinente forse ad una statua della dea (Moretti, o. c. 448 n° 5 fig. 8).

Rilievo

145. Figurina ritagliata in lamina di rame. Roma, Mus. Naz. Rom. - Savignoni/Mengarelli, o. c. 251 fig.

20. - Immagine femminile sommariamente descritta, con decorazione, a mezzo di punti a sbalzo, del capo, del collo, e del corpo (gioielli?). Analoghe figurine dal tempio di Diana. Si tratta della divinità o di offerenti?

Sculture a tutto tondo

146. Statuina in terracotta. Roma, Mus. Naz. Rom. - Savignoni/Mengarelli, o. c. 248 s. fig. 18b. - III sec. a. C. - Figura femminile seduta su trono con alta spalliera curva, ammantata, che allatta un infante nudo disteso sulle sue gambe. È un'immagine di I. L. in qualità di kourotrophos?

147. Statuetta in bronzo. Roma, Mus. Naz. Rom. - Savignoni/Mengarelli, o. c. 255 n° 2 fig. 23. - III sec. a. C. - La dea (o un'offerente?) veste chitone cinto sotto al seno e mantello girato intorno alla vita e ricadente sulle cosce. Capo scoperto con capelli raccolti a crocchia dietro la nuca. Armilla al collo. Nella mano d. protesa, patera; nella s., anch'essa protesa, I. L. stringeva una face(?) o fiori(?). Cf. Ov. fast. 3, 253.

F. Iuno Cur(r)itis (o Quiritis)

1. A Falerii

Dea protettrice di Falerii (Taylor, L. R., Local Cults in Etruria [1923] 64 ss.) la cui epiclesi non è di facile interpretazione (analisi delle ipotesi in Radke 102; Torelli 35 ss.). Era venerata nel santuario in località Celle (Kieseritzky, G., BullInst 1880, 108 ss.; Gamurrini, G. F., NotSc 1887, 101 ss.; Andrén, o. c. 5, 81 ss.; Ricci, G., Le Arti 3, 1940/41, 140; Stefani, E., NotSc 1947, 69 ss.; Santuari d'Etruria, Cat. Arezzo [1985] 110 ss.; Comella, A. M., I materiali votivi di Falerii [1986] 185 ss.). Mancano documenti figurati sull'immagine della dea: aveva certamente una lancia (Paul. Festi p. 43 Lind.: Curitim Iunonem appellabant, quia eandem ferre hastam putabant; Paul. Festi p. 55 Lind.: I. C.... quae ita appellabatur a ferenda hasta, quae lingua Sabinorum curis dicitur. Cf. Plut. Rom. 29; quaest. rom. 285b-d), e, se può essere postulata un'identità con la I. Curitis di Tivoli, anche uno scudo ed un carro (cf. infra). Era quindi una dea guerriera (in quanto divinità poliade difendeva il suo popolo in guerra), ma anche protettrice del matrimonio e delle nascite, come si desume da Paul. Festi p. 55 Lind. s. v. caelibari hasta (vd. Radke 154; Torelli 35 ss.). Probabile un rapporto con Hera di Argo (i Falisci provenivano da Argo, la sede privilegiata del culto di Hera, secondo Ov. am. 3, 13, 31 ss.; Cato orig., HRR fig. 47. Cf. Torelli, M., PP 32, 1977, 435 s.), già proposto da Dion. Hal. ant. (1, 21, 2), ed ulteriormente convalidato, secondo una recente ipotesi, dalla scoperta che il tempio falisco era orientato verso Sud-Est, esattamente come l'Heraion di Argo (Santuari d'Etruria, Cat. Arezzo [1985] 112). Il culto fu trasferito a Roma dopo il 241 a. C. (Thulin, C., RE X 1 (1918) 1123 s. v. «Juno»; InscrIt XIII 2, 518). Alla dea fu dedicato un tempio nel Campo Marzio (Platner/Ashby 288), talvolta identificato con il tempio A nell'area sacra di Largo Argentina (ma l'ipotesi è controverosa): Castagnoli, F., MemLinc 8, 1 (1948) 172; Coarelli, F., L'area sacra di Largo Argentina (1981) 42 ss. 46 (il tempio A sarebbe dedicato a Giuturna; ma cf. Castagnoli, F., BullCom 91, 1986, 209 ss.). I. C. era venerata anche a Tibur (cf. infra) ed a Benevento (Roscher, W. H., ML II 1, 597 s.).

BIBLIOGRAFIA: Roscher, W. H., ML II 1 (1890-94) 596-597; Taylor, L. R., Local Cults of Etruria (1923) 68 ss.; Dury-Moyaers/Renard 161 ss.; Evans, E. C., The Cults of the Sabine Territory (1939) 138 s. 214 ss.; InscrIt XIII 2, 518; Palmer, R. E. A., Roman Religion and Roman Empire (1974) 14. 41 ss. 219 ss.; Radke, G., Die Götter Altitaliens (1966) 102; Torelli, M., Lavinio e Roma (1984) 35 ss. 52 s. 185 ss.

Rilievo

148.* Statua ad altorilievo in terracotta, dal column del tempio di Celle a Falerii Veteres. Roma, Villa Giulia 2495. - Helbig<sup>4</sup> III n° 2808 (Dohrn, T.); Andrén, o. c. 5, tav. 26, 93; Massa-Pairault, F.-H., Recherches sur l'art et l'artisanat étrusco-italiques à l'époque hellénistique (1985) 153 fig. 95. - Fine del IV sec. a. C. - Figura femminile acefala stante con le gambe incrociate. Doveva essere appoggiata ad un sostegno. Veste chitone a larghe e fluide pieghe, ed himation che ricade sulle gambe con rimbocco ai fianchi. Sul chitone, una collana. Data la scarsa quantità di fr. superstiti, non è possibile precisare se il personaggio raffiguri realmente I. C.

Monete

Un denario di C. Curatius Trigemini mostra I. su quadriga. Dato il nome del monetalis, si potrebbe supporre che sia raffigurata I. C., in base al collegamento etimologico tra l'epiclesi Curitis e le Curiae romane (tuttavia respinto da Wissowa, Religion 2 189 n. 3 e Bickel, Altröm. Gottesbegr. 67; cf. Radke 102); ma pare che la dea avesse lancia e scudo (Serv. Aen. 1, 17: Iuno Curitis, tuo curru clipeoque tuere meos curiae vernulas; o. c. 1, 8: est Curitis, quae utitur curru et hasta) non raffigurati sulla moneta.

149. AR denario, C. Curatius Trigemini, 142 a. C. - Crawford, RRC n° 223/1 tav. 35, 4. - R.: I. su quadriga coronata da una Vittoria. La dea ha una stephane sul capo, capelli raccolti alla nuca, scettro e redini nelle mani. Legg. C. CUR. e ROMA. D.: testa di Roma. Lo stesso monetalis conia un denario analogo nel 135 a. C.: Crawford, RRC n° 240/1 tav. 36, 11-12.

Scultura a tutto tondo

150.* Fr. di testa in tufo e attributi in bronzo, dal tempio di Celle a Falerii Veteres. Roma, Villa Giulia 2498. - Helbig<sup>4</sup> III n° 2836 (Dohrn, T.); Della Seta, o. c. 5, 201 n° 2498; Andrén, o. c. 5, 85; Hus, A., Recherches sur la statuaire en pierre étrusque archaïque (1961) 91. 322-323 n° 1 tav. 40. - Inizi del VI sec. a. C. - Testa arcaica in peperino con stephane in rame decorata con foglie di lauro anch'esse in rame. Rinvenuta sul basamento di altare del tempio di Celle. Nei pressi fu rinvenuta anche una cuspide di lancia in bronzo. Si tratta forse dei resti della statua di culto.

2. A Tivoli

È più che verosimile un'identità con la I. Curritis di Falerii (cf.). Tivoli vantava origini argive, da un figlio o nipote di Amphiarus di nome Tiburnus che aveva cacciato i Sicani dall'oppidum di nome Sicilia, e lo aveva rifondato dandogli il suo nome (sulle numerose varianti del mito, cf. Giuliani, C. F., Forma Italiae. Tibur I [1970] 8 ss.; Torelli, M., Lavinio e Roma [1984] 184 ss.). Vale, della leggenda, il riferimento ad un capostipite argivo, ed alle imprese tirreniche degli Argonauti, che permette di spiegare il culto di I. C., identificato, come nel caso di Falerii, con quello di Hera Argiva (cf. l'iscrizione già a Tivoli CIL XIV 3556 = InscrIt I 1, 61: Iunoni Argeiae C. Blandus procos.), in esatta consonanza con la fondazione del culto della dea da parte di Giasone alla foce del Sele (Pugliese Carratelli, G., PP 17, 1962, 24; idem, PP 22, 1968, 331; Torelli, o. c.).

Nello «spazio precedente il ponte Gregoriano» alle falde del monte Catillo, dove sono i due templi ora attribuiti alla Sibilla Albunea ed a Catillus, padre (o fratello) di Tiburnus e sotto vari aspetti il personaggio principale della leggenda tiburtina (Coarelli, F., «Les «bourgeoisies» municipales italiennes aux II<sup>e</sup> et I<sup>er</sup> s. av. J.-C.», in Conv. Napoli [1983] 221 ss.), furono rinvenuti nel 1835 i frammenti di terrecotte frontonali pertinenti forse al tempio di I. C. (Giuliani, C. F., Forma Italiae. Tibur I [1970] 267 n° 194). Restaurate recentemente, secondo l'ipotesi di F. Roncalli esse sarebbero databili nella seconda metà del IV sec. a. C. e rappresenterebbero la conquista del vello d'oro da parte di Iason e del suo compagno, l'eroe veggente Amphiarus (Roncalli, F., Boll. Mon., Mus. e Gall. Pont. 4, 1983, 18). Una diversa interpretazione è offerta da F.-H. Massa-Pairault, che data il complesso, in maniera meno convincente, tra la fine del III e la metà del II sec. a. C., e riconosce nelle figure superstiti del frontone la hierogamia di Catillus, fondatore di Tibur secondo Catone (orig., HRR fig. 56), e della ninfa Albunea, alla presenza dei fratelli di Catillus, Tiburnus e Coras, della madre di Albunea, Carmenta/Tiburs e, forse, di I. C., protettrice dei tre fratelli e quindi delle curie e delle tribu tiburtine che dai tre fratelli avrebbero avuto la loro origine (Massa-Pairault, o. c. 148, 152 ss.). Potrebbe supporre, perciò, che in ambedue i casi I. stessa fosse raffigurata presso l'eroe, o gli eroi protagonisti della vicenda.

151.* Fr. di statua ad altorilievo in terracotta. Vaticano. - Roncalli, F., Boll. Mon., Mus. e Gall. Pont. 4, 1983, 28 ss. figg. 9-11; Massa-Pairault, o. c. 148, 155 s. figg. 90. 92. 94. - Seconda metà del IV sec. a. C. (Roncalli); fine III-metà II sec. a. C. (Massa-Pairault). - Il personaggio femminile, di cui sono conservate le gambe e una porzione limitata del torso, si appoggia, con le gambe incrociate, ad un'erma maschile itfallica con polos sul capo (Hermes?). Veste un chitone fittamente increspato ed un mantello ripiegato intorno alla vita che ricade fino a mezzo polpaccio. La posizione centrale della figura (secondo la ricostruzione di Roncalli) potrebbe suggerire di riconoscerla I. La Massa-

Pairault vi riconosce Carmenta/Tiburs, divinità oracolare, che si appoggia all'Hermes dei kleroi, delle sortes. I. C. sarebbe, secondo la Massa-Pairault, da identificare con il fr. femminile posto su un plinto insieme con i piedi di un personaggio maschile (Roncalli, o. c. 20 s. n° 1 fig. 1; Massa-Pairault, o. c. 148, figg. 100. 102). Resta la parte inferiore di un chitone increspato e di un himation.

G. Iuno Gabina

Il santuario è ricordato da Virgilio (Aen. 7, 682-683), e Silio Italico (12, 537). Posto in una ristretta area tra la via Prenestina e la via Gabina, il tempio, che era circondato da porticati e da un boschetto artificiale a memoria di un originario nemus, e preceduto da una gradinata teatroide d'ingresso al temenos, è stato accuratamente indagato da membri della Scuola Spagnola di Roma. Il riconoscimento è ormai assicurato dal rinvenimento di antefisse con raffigurazione di una potnia theon ed iscrizione IW (= IUN) (Dupré, X., in Almagro-Gorbea 176).

BIBLIOGRAFIA: Almagro-Gorbea, M. (ed.), El Santuario de Iuno en Gabii. Excavaciones 1956-1969 (1982); Enea nel Lazio, Cat. Roma (1981) 43 ss.

a) Iuno da sola seduta su trono

152. Statuetta in terracotta dalla stipe votiva del santuario di I. Gabina. - Enea nel Lazio 46 A 97; El Santuario de Iuno n° 1 tav. 2 (Elvira, M. A.). - IV-III sec. a. C. - Figura femminile seduta su trono con ampio schienale a campana; è interamente coperta da un mantello. Collana sul collo. Tipologia comune nel Lazio (Gatti Lo Guzzo, L., Il deposito votivo dell'Esquilino detto di Minerva Medica [1978] tavv. 23. 76; AA. VV., Lavinium II. Le tredici are [1975] 380 n° 8, 14). Come negli ess. che seguono, trovare queste statuette in santuari dedicati a differenti divinità femminili - pur se con le medesime funzioni - rende problematico un sicuro riconoscimento.

b) Iuno in coppia seduta su trono

153. Statuetta in terracotta dalla stipe votiva del santuario di I. Gabina. - Enea nel Lazio 46 A 99; El Santuario de Iuno n° 9 tav. 2 (Elvira, M. A.). - III-II sec. a. C. - Figura femminile seduta su trono con un paredro, ambedue con la nuca coperta da un velo. La figura femminile regge in grembo un bambino; la figura maschile, seminuda, regge una patera con la mano d. Dipendenti tipologicamente da ess. greci, specie in area ionica, simili statuette sono frequenti nel Lazio.

H. Iuno Martialis

È nota solo in base ad emissioni monetali degli imperatori del III sec. d. C. di origine etrusco-umbra (Treboniano Gallo, Volusiano, Ostiliano); si è perciò supposta un'ascendenza umbra del culto, rivitalizzato artificialmente dopo secoli di oblio. La stessa epiclesi sembra implicare un rapporto tra Iuno e Mars, d'al-tronde desumibile anche dalla coincidenza della festività delle due divinità a Roma, il 1 marzo ed il 1 giugno. Si sono visti tratti guerrieri nella dea; ma se nelle monete Iuno ha nelle mani, come sembra, spighe di grano, si dovrà pensare a funzioni differenziate.

BIBLIOGRAFIA: Heurgon, J., StEt 24, 1955/56, 91 ss.; Marchetti-Longhi, G., AnnIsItNum 3, 1956, 65 ss.; Gagé, J., Matronalia (1963) 55. 273 ss.; Dumézil 3, 267; Dury-Moyaers/ Renard 167 s.

Monete

154.* AR antoniniano, Roma, Ostiliano, 251 d. C. - Robertson, Hunter III 254, 1 tav. 81. - R.: I. M. seduta, di fronte, entro un tempietto rotondo con tetto a cupola. La dea è in chitone e mantello; nelle mani regge patera e scettro. Ai suoi piedi è un pavone. Leggenda IUNONI MARTIALI.

155. AR medaglione, Treboniano Gallo. - Gnechi, Medaglioni I 50, 1 tav. 25, 1. - R.: Come sopra. Simile il medaglione in bronzo Gnechi, Medaglioni II 102, 4 tav. 111, 5; Marchetti Longhi tav. 4, 3.

156. AE sesterzio, Roma, Treboniano Gallo, 253 d. C. - Robertson, Hunter III 262, 25-26 tav. 83. - R.: Come sopra. Legg. IUNONI MARTIALI S. C.

157.* AR antoniniano, Roma o Milano, Treboniano Gallo. - Robertson, Hunter III 264, 49. - R.: I. M. seduta, in profilo, in chitone e mantello, regge spighe di grano e uno scettro posto di traverso. Legg. IUNO MARTIALIS.

158. AR antoniniano, Antiochia, Treboniano Gallo. - Robertson, Hunter III 266, 58 tav. 85. - R.: I. M. seduta, di profilo, con chitone e mantello, regge nelle mani spighe di grano e scettro. Leggenda IUNO MARTIALIS.

159.* AR antoniniano, Roma, Volusiano, 251 d. C. - Robertson, Hunter III 267, 8-9 tav. 85. - R.: I. M. seduta, di fronte, in un tempietto circolare con tetto a cupola. La dea veste chitone e mantello, e regge patera e scettro. Legg. IUNONI MARTIALI. Poche varianti (del tempietto si vedono quattro e non due colonne; pavone ai piedi della dea) presenta l'antoniniano Robertson, Hunter III 267, 10 tav. 85, e l'asse (del 253 d. C.) Robertson, Hunter III 270, 31 tav. 86.

160. AR antoniniano, Antiochia, Volusiano. - Robertson, Hunter III 272, 50 tav. 87. - R.: I. M. seduta, di profilo, in chitone e mantello, regge spighe di grano e scettro.

161. AE medaglione, Treboniano Gallo e Volusiano, 252 d. C. - Gnechi, Medaglioni II 103, tav. 112, 1; Marchetti Longhi tav. 4, 4. - R.: I. M. seduta in trono, di fronte, in un tempietto circolare con cupola, vestita di chitone e mantello, regge una patera ed uno scettro. Ai suoi piedi un pavone. Legg. IUNONI MARTIALI.

I. Iuno Caelestis

Dea tutelare di Cartagine, con il nome di Tanit, conosciuta a Roma come Dea Caelestis. A Roma il suo culto fu ampiamente favorito da Settimio Severo (Wissowa); ma è verosimile, in base alle documentazione disponibile, una evocatio della dea dopo la distruzione di Cartagine da parte di Scipione Emiliano (Serv. Aen. 12, 841: constat bello Punico secundo exoratum Iunonem, tertio vero bello a Scipione sacris quibusdam etiam Romam esse translatam). Inoltre: Hor. c. 2, 1, 25; Plin. nat. 6, 200; Minuc. Fel. 25, 9; Tertull. ad nat. 2, 17 = apol. 25; Apul. met. 6, 4; Firm. Mat. err. prof. rel. 4, 1. Così anche su iscrizioni che ricordano Iuno Caelestis: CIL III Suppl. 10407; VIII 1424). Risale comunque al periodo di massimo pericolo della guerra annibalica la sicura identificazione della Tanit cartaginese con Iuno, come inducono a ritenere i grandi riti espiatori dedicati a Iuno Regina (vd.) e destinati a placare la dea protettrice della città punica. In questa fase comincia a codificarsi, con grande probabilità, il mito di Iuno avversa ad Enea durante le peregrinazioni che condurranno l'eroe a Cartagine appena fondata. I primi documenti sicuri della presenza del culto di I. C. a Roma (iscrizioni e rilievi) sono comunque del I sec. d. C. Il suo santuario, situato presso quello di Sabazio, era probabilmente sulle pendici del colle Capitolino verso il Foro Boario (cf. le iscrizioni Guarducci 13 ss. figg. 1-4), entro il pomerio, segno di una completa identificazione della dea con la romana Iuno. La statua di culto cartaginese fu trasportata a Roma da Eliogabalo; sul Palatino fu celebrato il matrimonio mistico della dea con il dio solare siriano protettore dell'imperatore (Cass. Dio 80, 12; Herodianos 5, 6, 4).

Per la Caelestis africana v. anche → Virgo Caelestis.

BIBLIOGRAFIA: v. Domaszewski, A., Die Religion des römischen Heeres (1895) 73 s.; Wissowa, Religion 373 ss.; RE III 1 (1897) s. v. «Caelestis» (Cumont, F.); Antonelli, U., Notiziario Archeologico 3, 1922, 41 ss.; Dölger, AntChr I, 1929, 92 ss.; Audollent, A. M. H., Le culte de Caelestis à Rome (1901); Guarducci, M., BullCom 72, 1946-48, 11 ss.; Halsberge, G. H., in ANRW II 17, 4 (1984) 2203 ss.; Coarelli, F., Il Foro Boario (1988) 405 ss.; Cordischi, L., BullCom 93, 1989 (in corso di stampa).

Rilievi

162.* Fr. di timpano in marmo. Roma, Mus. Cap. - Guarducci 21 ss.; Pietrangeli, C., Musei Capitolini. I monumenti dei culti orientali (1951) 28 s. n° 9 tav. 14. - Metà circa del I sec. d. C. - La dea è al centro del frontone, seduta su un leone in corsa. Ha nella mano s. uno scettro; nella d., ora mutila, doveva reggere un fascio di fulmini. Veste un chitone fittamente increspato cinto alla vita ed un mantello che ricade sulle gambe. Il seno s. è scoperto. Sul capo è una corona con due urei. Una stella ad otto raggi è presso il capo. Sulla s. del timpano è Sol che ascende al cielo su una quadriga. A d. doveva comparire Luna.

163. Capitello d'anta figurato. Roma, Antiquarium del Foro. Dalle vicinanze del tempio dei Castori nel Foro Romano. - Studniczka, F., RM 16, 1901, 273 ss. tav. 12; Strong, E., Roman Sculpture from Augustus to Constantine (1907) 307 ss. tav. 94; L'Orange, H. P., OeJh 39, 1952, 80 fig. 30; Picard, Ch., Karthago 4, 1953, 107 fig. 7; Bartoli, A., RendPontAcc 29, 1956/57, 29 ss. fig. 10; v. Mercklin, o. c. 74, 154 s. n° 383a fig. 730. - Età di Eliogabalo. - Nell'angolo s. del capitello, la pietra di Iuppiter, o Sol, di Emesa, e un'aquila che regge una corona nel becco. Ai lati, come statue su basi, Minerva (riconoscibile dall'elmo e dall'egida) e I. (quasi sicuramente I. Caelestis, di cui Eliogabalo aveva celebrato il matrimonio mistico con Sol) in piedi, vestita con chitone (la superficie è quasi interamente abrasa). Sulla faccia principale del capitello, tra le foglie di acanto, una Nike tauroctona.

164. Stele in pietra. Da Setif. - Recherches des Antiquités (1890) 112 fig. 90; Antonielli 52 fig. 25. - In basso in una edicola, i due defunti. In alto, nel timpano I. C., in chitone e velata, seduta sul dorso di un leone in corsa. La dea regge uno scettro.

165. Frontoncino in calcare. Tunisi, Bardo. - Cat. Mus. Alaoui (Suppl. 1910) 69 n° 1136. - La dea è seduta su un leone e regge una corona. Ai lati del leone, due pavoni.

166.* Stele funeraria. Tunisi, Bardo C. 1098. - Cat. Mus. Alaoui (Suppl. 1910) 64 n° 1098 tav. 51, 1; Antonielli 56 fig. 40. - Al di sopra dell'edicola sono cinque divinità: Saturnus al centro, seduto; alla sua d. I. C. su leone in corsa, con kalathos sul capo. Seguono, poi, da un lato e dall'altro, Mars, Ceres e Neptunus.

167. Lucerna in terracotta. Tunisi, Bardo. - Cat. Mus. Alaoui (Suppl. 1910) 185 n° 775; Antonielli 53 fig. 28. - La dea è seduta su un leone in corsa. Veste chitone e mantello, ed ha nella mano d. un fascio di fulmini. Tipi analoghi nello stesso Museo (Cat. Musée Alaoui [1897] 160 n° 113-114) ed a Cartagine (Mus. Lavigerie de Saint-Louis de Carthage II [1899] 60 tav. 15, 7).

Glittica

168. Nicolo. Già Marlborough. - Furtwängler, AG tav. 65, 54; Antonielli 52 fig. 27. - I. C. (nell'iscrizione greca apposta sulla pietra detta Hera Ourania) è seduta sul dorso di un leone in corsa. Veste chitone e mantello. Sul capo scoperto posa una stephane. Con la d. regge uno scettro. Ai suoi lati sono i Dioscuri, stanti.

Monete

169. AE medaglione, Marco Aurelio, 153 d. C. - Gneccchi, Medaglioni II 31, 37 tav. 62, 1. - R.: Divinità seminuda, seduta su un leone. Alle spalle, edificio rotondo ed erma. Si tratta di I. C.?

170.* AR denario, Settimio Severo, 201-210 d. C. - BMC Emp V 218, 334-338 tav. 35, 11, 13-14. - R.: la Dea Caelestis su leone in corsa. Indossa chitone e mantello; ha sul capo una corona molto elaborata; regge uno scettro e, talvolta, un fascio di fulmini. Il leone è in corsa su una fonte d'acqua che scaturisce da una roccia. La stessa raffigurazione su aurei e bronzi di Settimio Severo (BMC Emp V 218, 248, 334, 342) e su argenti e bronzi di Caracalla (BMC Emp V 208 s., 332, 334 s., 343).

Statuina in terracotta

171. Tunisi, Bardo. Dal santuario di Baal e Tanit presso Siagu. - Merlin, A., Le sanctuaire de Baal et de Tanit près de Siagu (1910) 10 tav. 6 fig. 2. - La dea, mutila del torso con testa e braccia, è sdraiata su un leone. Sulla spalla superstite è un'iscrizione latina così integrata da Merlin: C(aelesti) A(ugustae?) s(acrum) F. Saturninus, P(ubli) fil(ius) Phae... tanus, m(emor) an(imo) v(otum) s(olvit).

Seduta in trono

Rilievi

172. Stele in pietra. Thebessa, Mus. Da Guinifida. - Gsell, St., Mus. de Tébessa (1902) 14 ss. tav. 1, 4; Antonielli 56 fig. 41. - In altro, entro un riquadro, Baal/Saturnus e Tanit/I. C. seduti in trono. Ambedue gli dei hanno il capo velato. Un leone è accucciato tra di loro. Nel registro sottostante i Dioscuri a cavallo e cinque pigne. Nel registro inf., infine, sacrificio a Baal/Saturnus.

173. (= Helios/Sol 324*) Stele in pietra. Thebessa, Mus. Da Guinifida. - Gsell, o. c. 172, 16 s. tav. 1, 2; Antonielli 56 fig. 42. - La stele, con bordo circolare in alto, è divisa in tre registri. Nel registro sup. Baal/Saturnus e Tanit/I. C. seduti in trono, velati. I montanti del trono sono decorati con teste di capro. La dea regge una patera ed un fiore(?). Nel registro mediano sono i busti di Sol e Luna, separati da una protome leonina. Nel registro inf. iscrizione di dedica a Saturnus.

Scultura a tutto tondo

Statuette in terracotta

174. Tripoli, Mus. Arch. Da Sciara Sciat. - Antonielli 41 s. figg. 1, 2. - Il sec. d. C. - La dea è seduta su trono con cuscino, frontale, con le mani posate sulle cosce. Vesta una tunica lunga ed un velo fermato sulle spalle con due fibule a forma di rosette; il velo scende sulle spalle, ai fianchi, e pare fermato dalle mani all'altezza delle ginocchia. Sul capo scoperto posa un kalathos decorato con rosette.

175. Tunisi, Bardo. Dal santuario di Baal e Tanit presso Siagu. - Merlin, o. c. 171, 18 tav. 5 = Cat. Mus. Alaoui (Suppl. 1910) 160 n° 246 tav. 82; Antonielli 53 fig. 31. - La dea è seduta in trono, frontale, con le mani protese ieraticamente in avanti. Veste chitone fittamente pieghettato cinto sotto al seno e mantello che le copre la nuca, le spalle e le gambe. Sul capo posa un kalathos.

176. Tunisi, Bardo. - Cat. Mus. Alaoui (Suppl. 1910) 162 n° 266 tav. 85, 1. - La dea è seduta in trono, frontale. Veste chitone cinto sotto al seno e mantello che le copre la nuca e le gambe.

177. Tunisi, Bardo. - Cat. Mus. Alaoui (Suppl. 1910) 167 n° 299 tav. 93, 1; Antonielli 53 fig. 32. - La dea è seduta su trono, frontale, con le mani ieraticamente protese. Veste chitone cinto alla vita e mantello che copre la nuca formando una specie di nimbo dietro la testa. Sul capo posa un kalathos. Simili le statuine in terracotta nello stesso museo (Cat. Mus. Alaoui [Suppl. 1910] 168 n° 300-303).

Busti

Rilievi

178. (= Helios/Sol 357*) Rilievo funerario in pietra. Lambesi, Mus. 09. - Cagnat, R., Musée de Lambèse (1895) 53 tav. 4, 7. - Età imperiale. - Sul timpano dell'edicola funeraria sono raffigurati i busti della Triade caraginese, Baal-Haman/Saturnus, Baal/Sol e Tanit/Luna (o Caelestis). Il busto della dea posa su un crescente lunare. Simili altre due edicole funerarie a Lambesi (Cagnat, o. c. 53 tav. 4, 8, 9) ed in un'edicola nel Museo del Bardo (Cat. Mus. Alaoui [Suppl. 1910] 62 n° 1074 tav. 50, 2).

179.* Bulla in metallo. Sousse, Mus. - Gaukler, P./Gouvet, E., Cat. Musées de Sousse (1902) 87 n° 22 tav. 17, 21. - Età bizantina. - La bulla mostra da un lato il busto di I. C. come dea lunare su una falce di luna, e con un crescente lunare più piccolo sul capo. Dall'altro lato è il busto di Sol.

Iuno 179

180. Diadema in argento. Perduto. Da A.n-Ksar. - Berger, Ph., GazArch 1879, 133 ss. 222 ss.; 1880, 18 ss. 164 ss.; Antonielli 54 fig. 36. - Fila di simboli ed immagini divine (serpente, capro, Venus Anadiomene, colomba, simbolo di Tanit, caduceo etc.). Al centro, busti di Baal/Iuppiter e Tanit/Iuno Caelestis. La dea ha i capelli a trecce; sul capo posa un kalathos.

181. Lucerna in terracotta. Tunisi, Bardo. - Cat. Mus. Alaoui (1897) 252 n° 393. - Il busto della dea con velo e falce lunare sulla fronte, tra due stelle laterali.

182.* Lucerne in terracotta. Tunisi, Bardo. - RA 1898, 234 fig. 35; Cat. Mus. Alaoui (1897) 159 s. n° 107-109 tav. 46, 107; Suppl. (1910) 185 n° 769-772, 773; Gaukler, P./Gouvet, E., Musées de Sousse (1902) 58 n° 8-9; Doublet, G./Gaukler, P., Mus. de Constantine (1892) 58; Gaukler, P., Mus. de Cherchel (1895) 71. - Il busto della dea poggia su una falce lunare.

Iuno 182

183. Lucerna in terracotta. Tripoli, Mus. Arch. Da una tomba di Gargaresc. - Antonielli 54 s. fig. 37. - Il busto della dea è di profilo, mentre il capo, svelato e sormontato da una stella, è di prospetto. Il busto posa su una falce di luna.

Scultura a tutto tondo

184. Busto in marmo. Cartagine, Mus. - Mus. Lavigerie de Saint-Louis de Carthage II (1899) 15 tav. 3, 5; Antonielli 54 fig. 35. - Sul capo svelato posa un kalathos. Il busto è stato collegato con due iscrizioni latine (CIL VIII 993 = 12454, 12501) che ricordano strumenti appartenenti al culto di Caelestis, tra i quali un thorax.

185.* Testa in marmo. Tunisi, Bardo. Da Bisica. - Cat. Mus. Alaoui (1897) 56 n° 65 tav. 14; Antonielli 55 fig. 38. - Il capo è velato; alla sommità posa un crescente lunare. Il velo si gonfia dietro la testa. È I. C. come Selene?

Iuno 185

K. Iuno Pronuba(?)

In una serie di sarcofagi con scena di matrimonio (dextrarum iunctio), alle spalle degli sposi è una figura femminile talvolta considerata I. P. (Rossbach, A., Römische Hochzeits- und Ehedenkmal [1871]; Overbeck, KM II 131 ss.; Brunn, H., Kleine Schriften I 4 ss.). Secondo Rodenwaldt, potrebbe essere piuttosto Concordia (→ Homonoia/Concordia), personificazione del legame familiare (Rodenwaldt, G. AbhBerlin [1935, 3] 14 ss.). St. Weinstock ha tuttavia osservato che Concordia si incontra sulle monete solo a partire del III sec. d. C. (RE XXIII 1 [1957] 751 ss. s. v. «Pronuba»). L'osservazione di Weinstock è solo parzialmente esatta: Concordia esiste come divinità autonoma nel pantheon romano a partire dal IV sec. a. C. (tempio di Concordia fondato nel 367 a. C. da M. Furio Camillo: Platner/Ashby 138; → Homonoia/Concordia), assumendo, a partire dai Claudii, un più specifico riferimento alla famiglia imperiale. Originariamente distinte (I. P. e Concordia insieme durante le cerimonie del matrimonio: Stat. silv. 1, 2, 239-240), è verosimile che nel tempo Concordia adegui la propria immagine, a livello iconografico, su quella di I. Con identica iconografia l'immagine di Concordia (o meglio Homonoia) ritorna sull'arco di Galerio a Salonicco, e appoggia la mano d. sulla spalla di Oikoumene (Laubscher, H. P., Der Reliefschmuck des Galeriusbogens in Thessaloniki [1975] 56 tavv. 40, 2; 41, 2). Per altre raffigurazioni simili cf. Scott Ryberg, I., Rites of the State Religion in Roman Art (1955) 163 ss. figg. 90-95; Fittschen, K., AA 1969, 303 ss.; Koch/Sichtermann, RömSark 97 ss.

Sarcofagi in marmo

186. (= Homonoia/Concordia 76 con bibl.) Sarcofago con processione matrimoniale. Vaticano, Sala delle Muse inv. 268. - Horster, M., AA 1975, 409 s. figg. 8b, 9b; Helbig<sup>4</sup> I n° 72 (Andreae, B.). - Terzo quarto del II sec. d. C. - La sposa velata è accompagnata da Venus al suo sposo togato. I. P. (o Concordia) è dietro di loro e posa le mani sulle loro spalle. Veste un chitone con rimbocco cinto alla vita. Il capo è scoperto.

187.* Fr. con sacrificio e dextrarum iunctio. Roma, Mus. Nuovo del Pal. dei Cons. 2785. - Pietrangeli, C., Capitolium 18, 1943, 15 s. fig. 8; idem, BullCom 72, 1946-48, 227 fig. 24; Helbig<sup>4</sup> II n° 1797 (Andreae, B.). - Seconda metà del II sec. d. C. - I. P. (o Concordia) è dietro gli sposi.

188. (= Homonoia/Concordia 74c*) Mantova, Pal. Ducale (cf. 82 [coperchio]). Età antonina. - Sulla cassa, complessa raffigurazione ove sono riuniti in una sola fascia narrativa, da s. a d., una scena di supplicatio di barbari vinti verso il generale su podio; una scena di sacrificio di un toro; una scena di dextrarum iunctio. Qui, alle spalle degli sposi, I. P. (o Concordia) in chitone cinto alla vita e stephane sul capo svelato.

189.* (= Homonoia/Concordia 74b) Frascati, Villa Taverna. - Rodenwaldt, G., AbhBerlin (1935, 3) 3 ss. tav. 1; Himmelmänn, N., Typologische Untersuchungen an römischen Sarkophagreliefs des 3. und 4. Jh. n. Chr. (1973) 8 tav. 6; Hölscher, T., JdI 95, 1980, 288 fig. 21; Koch/Sichtermann, RömSark 99 s. fig. 94. - Età antonina. - Come 188. Ma I. P. (o Concordia) ha sul capo stephane e velo.

190. (= Abundantia 5*, = Homonoia/Concordia 79* con bibl., = Honos 29) Roma, San Lorenzo fuori le Mura. - Rodenwaldt, G., Die Kunst der Antike (1927) tav. 613; Himmelmänn, N., Festschr. F. Matz (1962) 120 n. 54; Fittschen, K., AA 1971, 117 ss.; Koch/Sichtermann, RömSark 101 fig. 97. - Fine del II sec. d. C. - Al centro, preparazione per il sacrificio rituale da parte dello sposo; a s., Venere, la Hore della Primavera, un Genio e Fortuna giungono per partecipare alle nozze; a d. dextrarum iunctio. Dietro gli sposi I. P. (o Concordia) in chitone ed a capo velato.

191. (= Abundantia 8* con bibl., = Homonoia/Concordia 84 con bibl. e rinvi) Sarcofago detto dell'Annona. Roma, Mus. Naz. Rom. 40799. - Helbig<sup>4</sup> III n° 2122 (Andreae, B.); Koch/Sichtermann, RömSark 102 fig. 102; MusNazRom I 8, 46 ss. n° II 1 (Musso, L.). - 270-280 d. C. - Matrimonio di un alto funzionario dell'Annona (il praefectus Flavius Arabianus?). La dea - I. P. o Concordia - è alle spalle degli sposi, con stephane gemmata sul capo.

II. Raffigurazioni di Iuno da sola

A. Iuno stante

a) Iuno senza velo sul capo

Statue in marmo

192.* (= Demeter 60 con bibl.) C. d. Demetra del Vaticano. Vaticano, Sala Rotonda inv. 254. - Lippold, SkulptVatMus III 1, 117 ss. n° 542 tavv. 37-38 Nachtrag III 2, 563; Dohrn, T., Attische Plastik vom Tode des Phidias bis zum Wirken der großen Meister des 4. Jh. v. Chr. (1957) 72 ss.; Helbig<sup>4</sup> I n° 36 (Fuchs, W.); Despinis, G., Συμβολή στη μελέτη του έργου του Αγοραπλήτου (1971) 4 ss. 184. - Copia colossale da una statua di culto greca del 430-20 a. C. - La dea veste un peplo di tipo attico cinto alla vita ed himation sulle spalle. Capelli stretti da una benda con scriminatura centrale e crocchia dietro la nuca. Con la mano s. si poggiava ad uno scettro; la d. protesa reggeva un attributo. Demetra o Hera?

193.* C. d. Hera Barberini. Vaticano. Sala Rotonda inv. 249. - Lippold, SkulptVatMus III 1, 126 n° 546 tav. 37 ss.; Helbig<sup>4</sup> I n° 40 (v. Steuben, H.); Despinis, o. c. 192, 221 n. 253; Landwehr, Ch., Die antiken

Gipsabgüsse aus Baiiae (1985) 89 s. - Età imperiale. - Variante del tipo Hera Borghese in formato colossale (m. 2,835). Differenze nella disposizione del mantello e nella presenza della stephane sul capo; i capelli restano comunque raccolti in una sphendone. Probabile l'interpretazione come I. Una replica del tipo a Canosa (dalla Cattedrale): AA 1956, 262 fig. 49.

194.* Statua colossale. Vaticano, Gall. Statue inv. 745. Da Otricoli. Amelung, SkulptVatMus II 464 n° 268 tav. 50; Helbig<sup>4</sup> I n° 127 (Fuchs, W.); Manderscheid, H., Die Skulpturenausstattung der kaiserzeitlichen Thermenanlagen (1981) 72 n° 42 tav. 16. - II sec. d. C. - Di restauro sono la testa (copia della Cnidia) e le braccia. È una variante della c. d. Hera Borghese. La dea veste un doppio chitone trasparente ed un himation che ricade sulle gambe. Il riconoscimento di I. si basa su scarsi argomenti, primo fra tutti il rapporto con la c. d. Hera Borghese (che, tuttavia, difficilmente può essere Hera. Cf. Landwehr, o. c. 193, 88 ss. 90 con bibl. prec.).

195.* Giunone Farnese. Napoli, Mus. Naz. 247. - Overbeck, KM II 112 ss. n° 2 Atlas tav. 10, 31; Guida Ruesch 74 n° 247. - Età imperiale, da originale dei primi decenni del IV secolo a. C. - È una variante del tipo Vienna-Efeso (Kabus-Jahn, R., Studien zu Frauenfiguren des 4. Jhs. v. Chr. [1963] 60 ss.). La testa è con i capelli raccolti a crocchia dietro la nuca e stephane molto alta sul capo. Analogo esemplare (testa di restauro) a Petworth House (Wyndham, M., Cat. of the Coll. of Greek and Roman Antiq. in the possession of Lord Leconfield [1915] 6 n° 4 tav. 4).

196. Madrid, Prado. - Hübner, E., Die antiken Bildwerke in Madrid und Spanien (1862) 37 n° 7; Clarac tav. 410 G n° 749 D. - Da originale del IV sec. a. C. (?) - La dea veste un chitone con lungo rimbocco cinto alla vita. Non è sicuro che si tratti di I.

Statuette in bronzo

197. Parigi, Cab. Méd. - Babelon/Blanchet, BiblNatBronzes n° 40. - Età imperiale. - La dea veste un chitone con rimbocco che giunge al seno, e mantello ricadente sui fianchi e sulle gambe. Sul capo, con i capelli a crocchia dietro la nuca, posa una grande stephane. Nella d. protesa reggeva forse una patera; nella s. anch'essa protesa, reggeva forse un'acerra o una pside (come nei più mediocri bronzetti Babelon/Blanchet, BiblNatBronzes n° 41, 42).

198.* New York, MMA 96.9.390. - Richter, MetMusBronzes n° 205. - La dea veste un chitone ed un himation ripiegato intorno al petto e ricadente sulla spalla s. La dea reggeva con la mano d. una patera, e con la s. si poggiava ad un lungo scettro.

b) Iuno in chitone e mantello sulla nuca e sulle spalle

Rilievi

199. Rilievo in calcare. Chieti, Mus. Naz. Da San Vittorino dell'Aquila (Amiternum). - La Regina, A., StudMisc 10, 1966, 40 ss. tavv. 19, 47; 21, 51; 25, 59; Cianfarani, V., Schede del Mus. Naz. di Antichità degli Abruzzi, 4a serie (1973); Felletti Maj, B. M., La tradizione italica nell'arte romana (1977) 356 ss. fig. 185c. -

Età claudia. - Pompa precedente i ludi gladiatorii. Portatori recano sulle spalle due fercula sui quali sono le statue di I. e di Iuppiter stanti, appoggiati allo scettro con la mano s. La dea veste chitone cinto sotto al seno e mantello che copre il capo e le gambe passando sul braccio s. Dinanzi ai due fercula due bighe sulle quali sono Mars e Victoria.

200. Altare funerario in marmo. Velletri, Mus. Civ. - Nardini, O., NotSc 1924, 506 ss. fig. 1 ss.; Wrede, Consecratio 256 ss. n° 167 tav. 31, 4. - 70-90 d. C. - L'altare funerario è dedicato a L. Marcus Anicetus, a Marcia Helpis ed a T. Flavius Hermes. Sui lati brevi sono raffigurati, come statue su base, Iuppiter e I. La dea veste chitone con rimbocco cinto alla vita, e mantello che le copre la nuca; sul capo posa una stephane. Nella mano destra I. regge una patera; con la s. si appoggia ad uno scettro. Al suo fianco è un pavone. Sulla fronte della base l'iscrizione IUNO.

Statuette di marmo

201. (= Hera 133a* con bibl.) Vaticano, Magazzino. - Età imperiale. - È una variante del tipo canonico di I., quale si incontra sulle emissioni monetali. La dea veste un peplo di tipo dorico, ma cinto alla vita, e, al disotto, un chitone. Sulla nuca posa il mantello che ricade sulle spalle; un lembo poggia sul braccio s. sollevato. Sul capo una stephane. Con la s. la dea si poggiava ad uno scettro; la d. regge una patera.

Statuette in bronzo

202.* Vienna, Kunsthst. Mus. VI 338. - v. Sacken, E., Die Bronzen des k. k. Münz- und Antiken-Cabinetes in Wien (1871) 17 tav. 5, 1; Gschwantler, K., Guss + Form (1986) n° 110 fig. 176. - Età imperiale. - La dea veste un chitone cinto sotto al seno, ed un ampio mantello poggiato sulla nuca e ricadente sulle spalle; sul capo posa una stephane decorata con rosette. Il braccio destro è proteso in avanti; il s. poggiava su un alto scettro. Simile il bronzetto da Wagna, ora a Graz, Steiermärkisches Landesmus. Joanneum (Fleischer, R., Die Römischen Bronzen aus Österreich [1967] n° 20 tav. 16).

203.* Parigi, Cab. Méd. - Overbeck, KM II 120 n° 10 tav. 1, 2; Babelon/Blanchet, BiblNatBronzes n° 49. - Età imperiale. - La dea veste un chitone con lungo rimbocco, cinto sotto al seno. Sulla nuca e sulle spalle posa un mantello. Sul capo posa un'alta stephane.

204.* Cambridge (Mass.), Sackler Mus. (formerly Fogg). 1942.233. - Vermeule, C., The Cult Images of Imperial Rome (1987) tav. 18 fig. 28 B. - I sec. d. C. - La dea veste chitone con lungo rimbocco cinto alla vita, e mantello che le copre la nuca e le spalle. Stephane sul capo. Mani mancanti; ma la s. si poggiava allo scettro e la d. reggeva una patera(?).

205.* Parigi, Louvre. - De Ridder, BrLouvre I (1913) 102 n° 747 tav. 51. - Come il prec.

206.* Parigi, Louvre. - De Ridder, BrLouvre 102 n° 746 tav. 51. - Età imperiale. - La dea veste un chitone con cintura alla vita e doppio rimbocco. Mantello sul capo e sulle spalle; stephane sul capo. Mutila delle braccia.

207. Parigi, Louvre. - De Ridder, BrLouvre 103 n° 749 tav. 51. - Età imperiale. - La dea veste chitone con rimbocco senza cintura. Velo sul capo e sulle spalle. Acerra nella mano s.

208.* Vienna, Kunsthst. Mus. VI 274. - v. Sacken, o. c. 202, 18 tav. 6 n° 10; Overbeck, KM II 120 n° 11 tav. 1, 4. - La dea veste un chitone con doppio rimbocco, cinto sotto al seno, e mantello che le copre la nuca e le spalle. Sottili trecce scendono sul torso. Una stephane posa sul capo. I. si appoggia con la s. ad uno scettro; la d. regge una patera.

c) Iuno in chitone e mantello posato sulla nuca e ripiegato intorno al corpo

Glittica

209.* Corniola. Monaco, Münzslg. - AGDI 3 n° 2466 tav. 224. - II sec. d. C. - I. stante con chitone cinto sotto al seno e mantello ripiegato sui fianchi. Sul capo ha una stephane; con la mano d. si poggia ad uno scettro; la s. regge una mela(?). Analoghe gemme: corniola, Copenhagen, Mus. Thorv. (Fossing, ThorvGems [1929] n° 596) ma con patera; pasta di vetro violetta, ibid. (Fossing, o. c. n° 1691); impronta a Cirene (Maddoli, G., ASAtene 41/42, 1963/64, 69 n° 65-67 fig. 10); plasma a Monaco, Münzslg. (AGDI 3 n° 2467 tav. 224).

Statue in marmo

210.* Vaticano, Giardino. Da Castel Guido. - Visconti, Mus. Pio-Clementino I tav. 3; Clarac tav. 417 n° 728; Overbeck, KM II 121 s. n° 12 Atlas tav. 10, 35. - Età imperiale. - La dea veste un chitone cinto sotto al seno ed un mantello che copre la nuca e ricade sulle gambe ripiegandosi intorno alla vita con un rimbocco. Stephane sul capo. Ambedue le mani sono protese, la d. con una patera, la s., ora mutila, forse con un'acerra.

211. Holkham Hall. - Clarac tav. 438 n° 754 B.; Michaelis, A., AntM 313 n° 34. - Restaurata come Cere. Testa non pertinente, ma in origine doveva presentare analoghe caratteristiche. La dea veste chitone con breve rimbocco e mantello che copre la nuca e il corpo dalla vita in giù. Stephane sul capo.

Statuette in bronzo

212.* Avenches, Mus. Romain. Da Aventicum. - Leibundgut, A., Die Römischen Bronzen der Schweiz II. Avenches (1976) n° 28 tavv. 30-32. - Età traianea. - La statuette è stata rinvenuta in un larario insieme con una Minerva, una Victoria ed un Lar. La dea veste un chitone trasparente cinto sotto al seno, ed un mantello che le copre la nuca e ricade sulle gambe; un lembo è riportato sul braccio s. che si poggiava ad uno scettro. La mano d. regge una patera. Sul capo posa una stephane; boccoli ricadono sul collo. Non è del tutto sicuro che si tratti di I., come nel caso analogo della c. d. Hera Borghese cui il bronzetto si apparenta. Non sembrerebbe consona alla dea il chitone trasparente con la spallina allentata sul seno. Cf. Landwehr, o. c. 193.

213.* Vienna, Kunsthst. Mus. VI 271. - v. Sacken, o. c. 202, 18 tav. 18, 10; Gschwantler, o. c. 202, n° 111 fig. 177. - Età imperiale. - La dea veste un chitone ed un mantello agganciato sulla spalla destra che le co-pre la nuca, le spalle ed il torso poco più giù delle ginocchia. Sul capo posa una stephane. La mano d. doveva poggiare ad uno scettro; la s. protesa regge un uccello, probabilmente un pavone. Tipologicamente affine alla c.d. Aspasia.

214.* Parigi, Cab. Méd. - Overbeck, KM II 121 s. n° 13 tav. 1, 3; Babelon/Blanchet, BiblNatBronzes n° 50. - Età imperiale. - La dea veste un chitone cinto sotto al seno ed un mantello posato sulla nuca che copre le spalle e le gambe; un lembo è retto dal braccio sin. La mano d. protesa regge una patera. Sul capo posa una stephane. Boccoli scendono lungo il collo.

215. Firenze, Uff. - Overbeck, KM II 121 s. n° 14 tav. 1, 5. - La dea veste un chitone cinto sotto al seno, ed un mantello che posa sulla nuca e ricade sui fianchi. Ciocche di capelli ricadono sul collo. Sul capo, una stephane. Con la s. la dea regge un vasetto(?); la d. è protesa.

B. Iuno seduta

Affreschi parietali

216.* Napoli, Mus. Naz. Da Pompei, Casa dei Dioscuri. - Real Museo Borbonico IX tav. 21; Reinach, RépPeint 102, 1; Schefold, WP 116. - Età neroniana. - La dea è maestosamente seduta, di fronte, vestita di un chitone cinto alla vita ed un ampio mantello ricadente da una corona gemmata simile ad un polos che è sul suo capo. Il mantello ricade sulle spalle coprendo il trono e le gambe della dea. Nella mano d. I. regge una patera, nella s. un lungo scettro posto in diagonale.

217. Pompei, Casa del Naviglio, distrutto. - Schefold, WP 124. - Gli affreschi della stanza prevedevano quattro divinità in trono. Sono conservati Iuppiter, Ceres e Bacchus.

Rilievi

218.* Frontone di edicola in marmo. Roma, Mus. Cap., Antiquarium. - Gatti, G., BullCom 62, 1934, 162 n° 13 fig. 3. - I. seduta su trono con alta spalliera, frontale, velata, in chitone cinto sotto al seno e mantello ripiegato sulle gambe. Ai lati, in posizione araldica, due pavoni.

Monete

219. AR denario, Roma, diva Faustina Maggiore, post 141 d. C. - BMC Emp IV 44, 297. - R.: I(?) in chitone cinto alla vita e mantello sulla nuca ricadente sulle gambe, con stephane, seduta, che regge un lungo scettro posto di traverso nella mano sin. Legg. AUGUSTA. Analoghi esempl. in argento BMC Emp IV 61, 428-430 tav. 9, 16, ma I. poggia il braccio d. sulla spalliera del trono.

220. AE asse, Roma, Antonino Pio, 104-143 d. C. - BMC Emp IV 221; Strack, Reichsprägung III n° 890 tav. 11. - R.: I. seduta con le tre Grazie nella mano d. e scettro nella s. Analogo rovescio nei bronzi BMC Emp IV 380, 382.

221. AE dupondio, Roma, Faustina Minore (sotto Antonino Pio). - BMC Emp IV 380, 2188 A. - R.: I. velata, seduta, con patera nella mano d. e scettro nella s.; ai piedi un pavone. Legg. IUNO S. C.

222.* AR denario. Roma, Faustina Minore (161-176 d. C.). - BMC Emp IV 400, 112-115 tav. 55, 11. - R.: I. in chitone cinto alla vita e mantello sulla nuca e sulle gambe, con stephane, seduta, regge una patera nella mano destra e si poggia ad uno scettro con la s.; ai suoi piedi un pavone. Legg. IUNO. Analoghi esempl. in argento BMC Emp IV 401, 12-124, ma con legg. IUNONI REGINAE.

223.* AE sesterzio, Roma, Lucilla, post 164 d. C. - BMC Emp IV 577, 1204-1206 tav. 77, 15. - R.: I. velata, seduta, con chitone cinto sotto al seno e mantello sulle gambe, regge una patera nella mano destra e si poggia ad uno scettro con la s. Legg. [IUNO] S. C.

224. AR denario, Roma(?), Settimio Severo (193-211 d. C.). - BMC Emp V 226, 7. - R.: I. seduta, che regge un bambino ed un fiore. Analogo esemplare BMC Emp V 380, 128. Legg. IUNO AUGUSTAE.

225.* AR denario, Roma, Giulia Mamaea, 231 d. C. - BMC Emp VI 190, 755-758. - R.: I. come sopra e legg. IUNO AUGUSTAE. Analoghi esempl. in bronzo BMC Emp VI 190, 759-761 tav. 26 e legg. IUNO AUGUSTAE S. C.

C. Iuno in volo trasportata da un genio alato

226. Decorazine ad affresco e stucco su soffitto, dallo «Studiolo» di Augusto. Roma, Palatino. - Carettoni, G., RM 90, 1983, 409; idem, Restauri a Palazzo Altamps. Gli affreschi della Casa di Augusto sul Palatino (1985). - Fine del I. sec. a. C. - Al centro della decorazione del soffitto, in un tondo dipinto a fresco, una figura femminile è sollevata in volo da un genio femminile alato. Per quanto in pessimo stato di conservazione, si riconosce in mano alla figura femminile un ventaglio di piume di pavone. Dovrebbe trattarsi di I.

227. (= Horai/Horae 183) Mosaico pavimentale. Palermo, Mus. Reg. 2286. Da Palermo, piazza della Vittoria. - Levi, D., Berytus 7, 1942, 19 ss. 45 s. tav. 5; v. Boeselager, D., Antike Mosaiken in Sizilien (1983) 180 tav. 61, 123. - Prima metà del III sec. d. C. - Il mosaico, più volte restaurato già in antico, ha una complessa decorazione figurata entro riquadri delimitati da motivi a treccia. In alcuni riquadri sono divinità e nereidi su animali. Si riconosce a malapena I. velata trasportata in volo da un pavone.

D. Iuno bambina, su un pavone

228.* AE medaglione, Roma, Faustina Minore (161-176 d. C.). - Gnechi, Medaglioni II 39, 9 tav. 67, 7; EAA III (1960) 930 fig. 1166; Banti, A., I grandi bronzi imperiali III 2 (1985) 90, 150. - R.: I. bambina su pavone tra due coribanti che danzano imbracciando gli scudi.

E. Busti e teste

a) Possibili raffigurazioni di Iuno con stephane senza velo sul capo

229. Affresco parietale, Pompei IX 3, 5 (Casa di M. Lucrezio). - BdI 1847, 131; Helbig, Wandgemälde n°

159; Schefold, WP 247. - Busto di I. con stephane sul capo.

230.* Vetro. New York, MMA 59.11.8. - JGIsI 3, 1961, 135 n° 6; Megow, Kameen 267/B42 tav. 44, 9. - Prima metà del II sec. d. C. - Busto di I.(?) con diadema e velo sul capo.

231.* Rilievo in bronzo: falera con protome di I., dal gruppo equestre di Cartoceto, bronzo. Ancona, Mus. Naz. - Stucchi, S., BollArte 1960, 10 fig. 6. - Età claudia. - Protome di fronte con stephane sul capo svelato.

232.* (= 276) Sardonica. Firenze, Mus. Arch. - Megow, Kameen 290 D9 tav. 18, 8. - Età di Caligola o di Claudio. - Busto di I. con corona di gemme, capelli sciolti sulle spalle e legati all'estremità; boccoli ricadono sul collo. La dea veste chitone(?) e mantello. Come nel caso della Iuno Ludovisi (cf. 243), è stata proposta un'assimilazione con Antonia Minor, che va tuttavia respinta per le forti varianti iconografiche tra l'effigie sulla gemma ed i ritratti documentati, specie in base alle emissioni monetali, di Antonia Minor. Analoghi esemplari uno a Praga, Tesoro del Duomo, due a Parigi, Cab. Méd. (Megow, Kameen 290s. D10-12 tavv. 18, 9-10; 19, 1).

Monete

233. AE, Capua, III sec. a. C. - Sambon, A., Les monnaies antiques de l'Italie I (1906) n° 1038-1039. - D.: testa di I.(?) con piccola stephane e capelli raccolti a crocchia sulla nuca. Uno scettro posa sulla spalla. R.: n° 1038: due idoli affiancati, completamente velati, con un velo posato su ambedue le teste; n° 1039: spiga di grano con due foglie.

233a) AE, Capua, III sec. a. C. - Sambon, o. c. 233, n° 1048. - D.: Come 233. R.: fulmine alato.

233b) AE triente, Roma 217-215 a. C. - Crawford, RRC n° 39/1 tav. 7, 5. - D.: testa femminile di profilo con stephane e riccioli di tipo calamistrato ricadenti sulle spalle. R.: Ercole che combatte contro un centauro e legg. ROMA.

Sculpture a tutto tondo, marmo

234. Testa colossale. Chertel, Mus. Dal porto di Chertel. - Fittschen, K., in Die Numider, Kat. Bonn (1979) 240s., 538 tav. 87. - Età augustea. - La testa, con altre simili, era probabilmente destinata alla decorazione di un edificio (entro un clipeo? sulla chiave d'arco di una porta?).

234a) (= Hera 127*) Testa colossale. Roma, Mus. Naz. Rom. 8600. Dalla coll. Ludovisi. - Amelung, W., RM 18, 1903, 11; Becatti, G., RivIstArch 7, 1940, 78 fig. 53; Helbig<sup>4</sup> III n° 2349 (Fuchs, W.); MusNazRom I 5, 97 n° 41 (Palma, B.). - II sec. a. C. (Becatti); Età antonina (Fuchs). - La testa, diademat, mostra il caratteristico taglio semicircolare al collo per l'inserimento su una statua. I capelli sono raccolti a crocchia dietro la nuca.

235.* Busto colossale. Napoli, Mus. Naz. 6268. Dalla coll. Farnese. - Overbeck, KM II 98 s. n° 18 Atlas tav. 9, 14; Guida Ruesch 160 n° 506; Lippold, HbArch 312 n. 19. - Età antonina. - Stephane sul capo e capelli raccolti a crocchia dietro la nuca.

236.* Busto colossale. Vaticano, Gall. Chiaramonti. Da Ostia. - Amelung, SkulptVatMus I 663 n° 534 tav. 70. - II sec. d. C. - Capelli con scriminatura centrale, raccolti a crocchia dietro la nuca. Alta stephane sul capo. Grosse ciocche ricadenti sul collo.

237. Testa. Ubicazione ignota. Dalla coll. Ludovisi. - MusNazRom I 6, 127 n° V, 3 (Palma, B.). - La testa era stata inserita su una statua di grandi dimensioni affine alle Cariatidi del teatro di Mileto. Scriminatura centrale, capelli raccolti a crocchia dietro la nuca, alta stephane sul capo.

238. Busto colossale in marmo grigio. Firenze, Uff. - Mansuelli, ScultUff I 157 s. n° 130 fig. 131a. b. - II sec. d. C. (cf. Lippold, Kopien 95 n. 71). - La testa è forse pertinente ad un acrolito. La dea ha i capelli con scriminatura centrale raccolti a crocchia dietro la nuca. Sul capo posa una stephane con orlo ad archetti decorata con rosette.

239.* Testa. Vaticano, Gall. Chiaramonti. - Amelung, SkulptVatMus I 647 s. n° 511 A tav. 69. - Età imperiale. - Variante del tipo Hera Barberini, ma con stephane ad orlo ondulato.

240.* Testa in marmo da Akragas. Londra, BM 504. Dalla coll. Castellani. - AdI 1869, 144 ss. (Helbig, W.); MonInst IX tav. 1; Furtwängler, A., AZ 1885, 275 ss. fig. A; Smith, BMSculpture I 270 n° 504. - Talvolta considerata un falso (Furtwängler) dipende da modelli dei primi decenni del IV sec. a. C. I capelli erano raccolti a crocchia dietro la nuca; sul capo una piccola stephane.

241. Testa. Leeds, Mus. - Savile Lumley, J., Archaeologia 49, 1888, 376 tav. 4, 2; Woodward, A. M., BSR 11, 1929, 77 n° 83 fig. 7. - Età imperiale. - La testa, in povero stato di conservazione, proviene dal santuario di I. S. di Lanuvio. Verosimile, ma non certo, che si tratti di una statua di I. La dea ha i capelli raccolti a crocchia dietro la nuca. Sul capo, una stephane. Analogo l'es. Woodward, o. c. 78 n° 90 fig. 5, considerato Persefone, ma più verosimilmente raffigurante I. Resecato da una doppia erma(?).

242. Testa. Dal santuario di I. S. a Lanuvio. - Galletti, A., BullCom 56, 1928, 243 n. 2 fig. 33; Chiarucci, P., Lanuvium (1983) fig. 94. - I sec. a. C.(?). - Capelli con scriminatura centrale, raccolti a crocchia dietro la nuca. La frattura superiore non permette di riconoscere l'attributo che la dea aveva sul capo.

243. (= 278, = Hera 131*) Testa colossale, c. d. I. Ludovisi. Roma, Mus. Naz. Rom. 8631. - Furtwängler, A., Meisterwerke der griechischen Plastik (1893) 557; BrBr 389; Rumpf, A., AbhBerlin (1941, 5) 3 ss. tavv. 1-4; v. Heintze, H., Iuno Ludovisi. Opus nobile 4 (1957) 4 ss. figg. 1. 2. 5; Helbig<sup>4</sup> III n° 2341 (v. Heintze, H.); Tölle-Kastenbein, R., AM 89, 1974, 241 ss., tavv. 91. 95, 2; 96, 2; Ehrhart, K. P., AJA 82, 1978, 193 ss.; MusNazRom I 5 n° 58 (de Lachenal, L.). - Età di Claudio. - Volto dai tratti idealizzati. Acconciatura con scriminatura centrale, crocchia allungata dietro la nuca. Dalla massa dei capelli, dietro le orecchie, ricadono lunghe ciocche sul collo. Sul capo alta stephane decorata con palmette e fiori di loto, e benda sacrificale di lana. È stato proposto che sia raffigurata Antonia Minor assimilata ad una dea, con la benda di lana simbolo della sua funzione di flaminica Augustalis (Rumpf). Un confronto diretto con le monete dedicate alla diva Antonia Minor rendono poco persuasiva tale interpretazione (Tölle-Kastenbein), anche se non è possibile, al momento, stabilire se si tratti effettivamente del fr. di una statua di culto di I. (o di una divinità matronale affine).

244. Testa. Ubicazione ignota. Da Palestrina. - Guattani, G., A., Monumenti ant. inediti (1787) XXXIII; Müller, C. O./Wieseler, F., Denkmäler der alten Kunst II (1856) tav. 4 n° 55; Overbeck, KM II 88 s. n° 5. - Secondo Overbeck, affine alla I. Ludovisi.

245.* Busto colossale. Venezia, Mus. Arch. Dalla coll. Molin. - EA 2659-2660 (Lippold, G.); Traversari, G., Sculture del V-IV sec. a. C. del Mus. Arch. di Venezia (1973) 132 s. n° 56. - Età claudia(?). - Scriminatura centrale e crocchia dietro la nuca. Alta stephane decorata con grifi e palmette, e bordo superiore a kyma ionico. Come nel caso della c. d. Iuno Ludovisi, non è possibile determinare se si tratti di una I. Non sembra verosimile che si tratti di una principessa d'età claudia assimilata ad una dea (Lippold).

246.* Testa. Venezia, Mus. Arch. 230. - Anti, C., Il Regio Mus. Arch. nel Pal. Reale di Venezia (1930) 61 n° 18. - Età antonina. - Capelli raccolti a crocchia dietro la nuca. Stephane sul capo. Due boccoli ai lati del collo.

247. Testa. Copenhagen, Glypt. 1742. - EA 4155-4156; Poulsen, CatNyCarlsbergGlypt 184 s. n° 243; Billedatavler tav. 17. - I sec. d. C. - Collegabile tipologicamente alla Iuno Ludovisi, ma la stephane non è decorata. Simile la testa da Sant'Angelo d'Alife (ora nel Mus. di Piedimonte d'Alife) che O. Brendel pensa raffiguri una principessa claudia (AA 1935, 560 fig. 11).

248. Testa. Berlino (DDR), Staatl. Mus. SK 180. Dalla coll. Vescovoli. - Beschreibung der antiken Skulpturen (1891) 79 n° 180. - II sec. d. C. - Come la Iuno Ludovisi, ma senza decorazione sulla stephane.

249.* Testa minore del vero. Vaticano, Gall. Chiaramonti. - Amelung, SkulptVatMus I 442 s. n° 190 tav. 46. - Età imperiale. - Scriminatura centrale, capelli raccolti a crocchia dietro la nuca, riccioli alle tempie, ciocche ricadenti sulle spalle, alta stephane sul capo.

250.* Testa. Stoccolma, Mus. Naz. - EA 4965-4966. - Scriminatura centrale, capelli raccolti dietro la nuca da dove due grosse ciocche ricadono sul collo, due riccioli alle tempie, alta stephane.

251.* Testa. Mariemont, Mus. B 377. Dall'Alto Egitto. - Les Antiquités du Mus. de Mariemont (1952) 79 G. 35 tav. 28 (Lévêque, P.). - Seconda metà del II sec. d. C. - Capelli con scriminatura centrale e crocchia dietro la nuca. Sul capo stephane decorata con fiori stilizzati e bordo ad archetti, e kalathos (di cui è conservata la base). Potrebbe trattarsi di una Tyche dipendente dal tipo Iuno Ludovisi.

252.* Busto. Londra, BM 1536. - Smith, BMSculpture III n° 1536. - Affine tipologicamente alla Iuno Ludovisi. La stephane ha un bordo a dentelli.

253. Testa in marmo. Già a Smirne, Scuola Evangelica. Da Afrodizia. - EA 3208. - IV sec. d. C. - Si

tratta certamente di una Tyche (di Afrodizia?) in quanto sul capo, oltre un'alta stephane, posa una corona turrita. Ma il tipo, con i capelli raccolti a crocchia dietro la nuca, dipende forse da una I.

254.* Testa in marmo su busto in porfido. Bologna, Mus. Civ. Dalla coll. Marsili. - Brizzolara, A. M., Le sculture del Mus. Civ. Arch. di Bologna. La coll. Marsili (1986) 112 n° 53 tavv. 107-109. - Età antonina. - Capelli raccolti a crocchia dietro la nuca. Stephane sul capo.

255.* Testa Pentini. Vaticano, Braccio Nuovo 2224. - Amelung, SkulptVatMus I 136; Helbig<sup>4</sup> I n° 448 (Fuchs, W.); Coarelli, F./Sauron, G., MEFRA 90, 1978, 705 ss. figg. 1-6. - 75-50 a. C. ca. - La dea ha un diadema largo, decorato con girali di acanto. Capelli con scriminatura centrale raccolti dietro la nuca; due trecce ricadono sulle spalle. L'iconografia è rara; non è affatto certo che si tratti di I.

DOCUMENTO DEL SEC. XVII

256. Testa in rosso antico. Roma, Mus. Borghese. - Faldi, I., Galleria Borghese. Le sculture dal sec. XVI al XIX (1954) 17 s. n° 12. - Lavoro tardo-settecentesco basato sul tipo I. Ludovisi.

b) Possibili raffigurazioni di Iuno con stephane e velo sul capo

257.* (= Ares/Mars 269, = Athena/Minerva 2 con bibl.) Affresco parietale. Pompei V 1, 18 (Casa degli Epigrammi). Noto ormai solo tramite disegni. - Schefold, WP 63; idem, Vergessenes Pompeji (1962) 138 tav. 179. - Età flavia. - Sei busti di divinità. I. è raffigurata di tre quarti. Sul capo ha una stephane ed un velo; inoltre porta due orecchini a pendente.

Iuno 257

Rilievi

258. Altorelievo in pietra su una chiave d'arco dell'anfiteatro di Capua. - Pesce, G., I rilievi dell'anfiteatro campano (1941) 12 n° 2 tav. 4b. - Età di Adriano. - La protome, di faccia, ha un mantello e stephane sul capo. Impossibile precisare se sia realmente I.

259. Falera in bronzo. Baltimora, Walters Art Gall. - Kent Hill, D., Cat. of Classical Bronze Sculpture in the Walters Art Gallery (1949) n° 10 tav. 4. - Età giulio-claudia. - La protome è interamente avvolta in un mantello che lascia liberi il volto e la mano destra. È incerto se si tratti di I.

Monete

260. AE, Capua. III sec. a. C. - Sambon, o. c. 233, n° 1040. - D.: testa di Iuno velata e con stephane. Scettro posato sulla spalla. R.: spiga di grano con due foglie.

261.* AR Denario, Roma, L. Rubrius Dossenus, 87 a. C. - Crawford, RRC n° 348/2 tav. 45, 19. - D.: testa di I. velata; la dea ha una stephane sul capo. Alle spalle uno scettro e la legg. DOS. R.: quadriga trionfale. Stessa immagine su un denario di restituito in argento dell'epoca di Traiano (BMC Emp III 133, 677 tav. 22, 10).

Sculture a tutto tondo, marmo

262.* Testa, variante della Kore tipo Candia. Vaticano, Gall. Chiaramonti. - Amelung, SkulptVatMus I 660 s. n° 530 A tav. 70; Tölle-Kastenbein, R., APL 20 (1986) 18 ss. n° 50v tavv. 35-36. - Età augustea. - Sulla testa della Kore tipo Candia sono stati aggiunti dal copista romano una stephane decorata con motivi floreali (cf. il cratere del tesoro di Hildesheim: Gehrig, H., Hildesheimer Silberfund [1967] 20 tavv. 2-5), ed un velo.

263. (= Demeter/Ceres 34*, = Hera 126) Busto. Roma, Mus. Naz. Rom. 8596. Dalla coll. Ludovisi. - EA 264; Helbig<sup>4</sup> III n° 2346 (v. Steuben, H.); Giuliano, MusNazRom I 5 n° 50 (Palma, B.). - Età antonina. - Il busto sembra antico. La dea veste chitone e mantello che posa sulla nuca ricadendo morbidamente sulle spalle. Capelli con scriminatura centrale, certo raccolti a crocchia dietro la nuca. Alta stephane rigonfia con bordo sul capo. La tipologia è egualmente valida per I., per Cerere e per Vesta (nonché, naturalmente, per personificazioni femminili che dalle tre dee hanno recepito forme iconografiche).

264. Busto. Berlino (DDR), Staatl. Mus. SK 181. Dalla coll. Sermoneta. - Beschreibung der antiken Skulpturen (1891) 79 n° 181. - Età imperiale. - Sul capo alta stephane e velo.

265. Busto. Roma. Mus. Torlonia. - Visconti, C. L., Les monuments de sculpture antique du Musée Torlonia (1884) 392 n° 514 tav. 132. - Età claudia? - Scriminatura centrale, capelli raccolti dietro la nuca, alta stephane e mantello sul capo. Livia idealizzata?

266. Busto. Roma, Ambasciata U.S.A. Dalla coll. Ludovisi. - MusNazRom I 6, 148 s. n° VII, 1 (de Lachenal, L.). - I sec. d. C. - La testa, inserita su un busto moderno, mostra un'acconciatura con scriminatura centrale e velo sul capo. È dubbio se si tratti di I. o di Cerere.

267. Testa inserita su una statua di Fortuna. Vaticano, Braccio Nuovo. - Amelung, SkulptVatMus I

101 ss. n° 86 tav. 13; Helbig<sup>4</sup> I n° 437 (Fuchs, W.). - II sec. d. C. - Scriminatura centrale e capelli raccolti dietro la nuca. Alta stephane con bordo traforato e mantello sul capo. Due grosse ciocche di capelli ricadono sul collo. Affine tipologicamente alla I. Ludovisi.

268. Busto. Verona, Mus. Arch. - Marconi, P., Verona romana (1937) 139 fig. 92. - II sec. d. C. - Busto a taglio triangolare. La dea veste un chitone e mantello sulla nuca. Riccioli scendono ai lati del collo. Stephane sul capo.

Bronzetti

269.* Parigi, Cab. Méd. - Babelon/Blanchet, Bibl-NatBronzes n° 51. - Età imperiale. - La dea ha sul capo mantello e stephane. Boccoli le ricadono lungo il collo. Simili Babelon/Blanchet, o. c. n° 52-53 (quest'ultimo terminale di una cornucopia), un esempl. a Lione (Boucher, St., Bronzes romains figurés du Musée des Beaux Arts de Lyon [1973] n° 65: anch'esso terminale di cornucopia o decorazione di mobile).

270.* Trieste, Mus. Civ. 2459. - Arte e Civiltà romana nell'Italia Settentrionale, Cat. Bologna (1964) 292 n° 406 tav. 82, 170; Cassola Guida, P., Bronzetti a figura umana dalle collezioni dei Civici Musei di Storia ed Arte di Trieste (1978) 114 s. n° 92. - I sec. d. C. - La dea veste un chitone leggero che le scende sulla spalla d., e un mantello che le copre la nuca. Sul capo posa un'alta stephane; i capelli, con scriminatura centrale, si dispongono ad onde ai lati del volto, sopra la stephane. La spalla scoperta rende incerta l'attribuzione.

271.* Piccolo busto. Parigi, Louvre Br 745. - De Ridder, BrLouvre I 102 n° 745 tav. 51. - Età imperiale. - La dea veste un chitone. Sul capo, dai capelli raccolti a crocchia dietro la nuca, posa una stephane decorata al bordo con sferette.

272.* Testina. Lyon, Mus. gallo-rom. Da Villette-Serpaize. Espérandieu, Recueil III n° 2593. - I sec. d. C. - La dea ha un'acconciatura con scriminatura centrale e capelli raccolti a crocchia dietro la nuca. Due riccioli si dispongono a forcipe sulla fronte. Sul capo posa una corona con orlo ad archetti.

c) Maschera di Iuno

273. Affresco parietale. Napoli, Mus. Naz. Dalla Casa di M. Lucrezio a Pompei. - Museo Borbonico XIV tav. 44; Helbig, Wandgemälde n° 167. - A s., su una pietra, poggia una maschera di I. con diadema a dentelli. A d. è un pavone.

III. Assimilazioni con Iuno

A. Busti e teste

Glittica

274.* Sardonica(?). Ubicazione ignota (nota da un calco). - Megow, Kameen 187 A65 tav. 14, 10. - Età di Caligola. - Busti di Caligola e di Antonia Minor di faccia. Antonia ha un diadema sul capo ed è velata. Possibile un'assimilazione a I.

275.* Sardonica. Londra, BM 3584. - Megow, Kameen 260 B 27 tav. 29, 3. - Età di Claudio. - Busti jugati di Agrippina Minor come Minerva in primo piano, e di Agrippina Maior come I. sul fondo. Quest'ultima ha una benda tra i capelli.

276. (= 232*) Sardonica. Firenze, Mus. Arch. - Megow, Kameen 290 D9 tav. 18, 8. - Età di Caligola o di Claudio. - È stato supposto che l'effigie raffigurasse Antonia Minor come I.; ma l'ipotesi non è suffragata da un confronto iconografico con i ritratti sicuri di Antonia Minor.

277.* Sardonica. Bonn, coll. privata. - Megow, Kameen 260 s. B28 tav. 34, 14-16. - Età di Nerone. - Poppea(?) come Isis-I. (?) con egida sul capo.

Scultura a tutto tondo

278. (= 243) Testa colossale in marmo, c. d. I. Ludovisi. Roma, Mus. Naz. Rom. - Età di Claudio. - Dopo il fondamentale saggio di Rumpf è stato comunemente accettato il riconoscimento di Antonia Minor assimilata ad una dea. In realtà, l'accostamento iconografico tra la I. Ludovisi e le emissioni monetali non è affatto cogente; al contrario, l'analisi delle monete raffiguranti Antonia Minor parrebbe suggerire che l'ipotesi vada respinta (le acconciature dei capelli sono differenti).

B. Intera stante

Rilievi

279. (= 42) Rilievo in marmo. Tripoli, Mus. Dal-l'arco di Settimio Severo a Leptis Magna. - Sia Iuppiter che Iuno sono raffigurati secondo un'iconografia desunta da ritratti di Settimio Severo (tipo del Decennale: McCann, A. M., The Portraits of Septimius Severus [1968] 119 ss.; Soechting, D., Die Portraits des Septimius Severus [1972] 59 ss. 221 ss. n° 130-142; Fittschen, K., Indiana Univ. Art Mus. Bull. 1, 2, 1978, 32 n. 27) e di Giulia Domna (tipo Leptis Magna: Meischner, J., Das Frauenporträt der Severerzeit [1964] 46 ss. n° 30-37; 50 ss. n° 38-44; Schlüter, R., Die Bildnisse der Kaiserin Julia Domna [1977] 62 ss.; Fittschen, o. c. 37 ss. n. 55). L'assimilazione è insolita, perché il rilievo va probabilmente datato ante 209 d. C., quando sia Settimio Severo che Giulia Domna erano ancora vivi.

280.* Rilievo funerario di Aelia Leporina. Tebessa, cortile del Mus. - Leglay, M., Lybica 4, 1956, 33 ss.; Wrede, H., RM 85, 1978, 418 tav. 135, 2. 3; idem, Consecratio 258 n° 168. - 160-180 d. C. - Rilievo a tre lati, ognuno dei quali con raffigurazione della defunta come I. Sui lati brevi ha nella mano d. una face e nella s. un'acerra. Sul lato principale è velata, nella s. ha uno scettro e nella d. una patera; ai suoi piedi è un pavone. Acconciatura dei capelli secondo la moda dell'epoca di Faustina Minore.

Glittica

281.* Sardonica. Stuttgart, Landesmus. - Megow, Kameen 233 ss. A132 tav. 47, 1. - Età di Marco Aurelio. - Iuppiter è seduto sul trono. Al suo fianco, in piedi, è I. in chitone e con ampio velo che le copre la nuca ed il torso; sul capo ha una stephane; con la mano

d. regge un oggetto indefinibile, forse un ventaglio di piume. È supposta un'assimilazione con Marco Aurelio e Faustina Minore, sebbene la somiglianza iconografica sia piuttosto generica.

C. Librata in aria su un pavone o su Genio alato

Il motivo iconografico, diffuso in età ellenistica e noto in base ad affreschi pompeiani, è documentato anche per I. (studiolo di Augusto [226]; mosaico di Palermo [227]). Da questi modelli dipende l'iconografia, ampiamente diffusa da Sabina in poi, dell'imperatrice divinizzata, assimilata a I., che ascende all'Olimpo su un pavone, su un'aquila o su un Genio alato. Tra i numerosi esempi si citano:

282. (= Aeternitas 71*) Rilievo in marmo. Roma, Pal. Cons. 1213. Dall'arco del Portogallo. - Brendel, O., The Visible Idea (1980) 48 ss.; Stucchi, S., BullCom 73, 1949 50, 101 ss.; Helbig<sup>4</sup> II n° 1800 (Simon, E.); La Rocca, E., La riva a mezzaluna (1984) 103 ss. 114; Oppermann, M., Römische Kaiserreliefs (1985) 141 ss. fig. 29; Koepfel, G., BonnJbb 186, 1986, 39 ss.; Rilievi storici Capitolini, a cura di La Rocca, E., Cat. Roma (1986) 24 ss. tavv. 7-14. - Età adrianea. - Consecratio della diva Sabina. L'imperatrice si solleva in volo dal recinto del suo altare di consecratio - dal quale si alzano fiamme - su un Genio alato simboleggiante Aeternitas. Adriano, seduto, assiste al prodigio. Come I. Sabina veste chitone e mantello che le copre la nuca. Sul capo una stephane. Con la mano s. regge un lembo del mantello.

Monete

283. AE sesterzio, Roma, diva Sabina († 137 d. C.). - BMC Emp III 362, 955-956 tav. 66, 6-7; Rilievi storici Capitolini, o. c. 282, 25 fig. 3. - R: la diva Sabina librata in volo su un'aquila. La nuova dea ha in mano uno scettro. Analoga raffigurazione su aurei, dove, tuttavia, la diva Sabina è in gesto di velificatio.

284. AE, sesterzio, Roma, diva Faustina Maggiore († 141 d. C.). - BMC Emp IV 230, 1422 tav. 34, 8; Rilievi storici Capitolini, o. c. 282, 25 fig. 4. - R: la diva Faustina Maggiore velata, con scettro, si libra in volo su un Genio alato che regge una face. Stessa tipologia in conî dedicati alla diva Faustina Minore: BMC Emp IV 652, 1567 tav. 86, 7.

285. AE sesterzio, Roma, diva Faustina Maggiore († 141 d. C.). - Strack, Reichsprägung III tav. 18, 1237. - R: la diva Faustina Maggiore, velata, con scettro in mano, è librata in aria su un pavone. Stessa tipologia in conî dedicati a Faustina Minore (BMC Emp IV 653, 1570; Robertson, Hunter II 364 s. tav. 101, 23; Rilievi storici Capitolini, o. c. 282, 28 fig. 7), su un medaglione dedicato a Giulia Domna (Bernhart, o. c. 283, tav. 52, 6; Rilievi, cit., 28 fig. 8), su conî dedicati a Paulina, sposa di Massimino Trace (BMC Emp VI 233, 126-134 tav. 37; Rilievi, cit. 28 fig. 6), ed ancora su conî dedicati a Mariniana, sposa di Valeriano (Robertson, Hunter II tav. 4, 3-9; Rilievi, cit. 29 fig. 11).

IV. Raffigurazioni di Hera/Iuno con altre divinità

A. Con Zeus/Iuppiter

a) A figura intera

Arti grafiche

286. (= Hera 210* con bibl., = Hypnos/Somnus 157 con bibl., = Iris I 75* con bibl.) Affresco parietale. Pompei VI 8, 3 (Casa del Poeta Tragico). Napoli, Mus. Naz. 9559 - HBr tav. 11; Rizzo, PER tav. 64; Schefold, WP 103. - Età di Vespasiano. - Incontro di Zeus ed Hera sul monte Ida. Zeus è sdraiato, seminudo, con il capo velato; con la mano s. regge uno scettro; con la d. regge il braccio s. di Hera stante, con lo sguardo rivolto verso lo spettatore. La dea veste un chitone che scende con pieghe pesanti e regolari; un velo le copre la nuca ed il torso. Sul capo, che pare presentare un'acconciatura d'epoca (ma si potrebbe trattare di un'interpretazione della «Melonenfrisur»), posa un diadema gemmato. Hera regge con la d. un piccolo velo spiegato per un lembo; l'altro lembo è retto dalla mano di Zeus. Dietro la dea è Iris (o, forse, Hypnos) che la spinge delicatamente verso lo sposo. La scena si svolge, secondo il racconto in Hom. Il. 14, 153-345, sul monte Ida dedicato a Kybele. Per tale motivo, sul fondo, presso una colonna, sono i simboli del culto ideo, il timpano, i cembali e le tibie.

287. Cista prenestina in bronzo. Leningrado, Ermitage B 619. Da Palestrina. - CPI I, 101 ss. n° 24 tavv. 121-124. - IV-III sec. a. C. - Partenza di guerrieri alla presenza di una coppia divina(?). Il personaggio maschile è seduto, seminudo, poggiato ad uno scettro(?) con la mano s. Il personaggio femminile è alla sua d., poggiato alla spalliera del trono(?). Veste chitone con rimborcio, cinto alla vita. Il capo scoperto è adornato di una corona(?); una treccia ricade sulle spalle. La mano d. è sollevata. Orecchini e collana adornano il volto. È solo un'ipotesi che si tratti di Zeus/Iuppiter ed Hera/Iuno.

Rilievi

288.* Placchetta in bronzo. Vienna, Kunsthinst. Mus. VI 317. - v. Sacken, o. c. 202, 18 tav. 48, 7. - Età imperiale. - Iuppiter a s. e Iuno a d. stanti. Iuno veste chitone cinto alla vita e mantello che ricade sui fianchi. Larghe ciocche di capelli ricadono sulle spalle. Sul capo scoperto posa una corona. Con la s. la dea si appoggia ad uno scettro; la d. è invece poggiata al fianco.

289. Tavoleta votiva in marmo. Da Arcar. - Kazanow, G., AnzWien 1947, n° 25, 300; Detschew, D., BullInstArchBulg 18, 1952, 24 s. 52 s. fig. 8. - Iuppiter su quadriga lanciata in corsa, con fulmine ed aquila. Dietro di lui I. stante in chitone cinto alla vita e mantello che le copre il capo e le gambe. Con la s. si appoggia ad uno scettro; la d. è in riposo. Simile schema su altre tavolette votive; cf. Detschew, o. c. figg. 6, 7; Bor-denache, SculptBucarest 78 s. n° 153 tav. 65.

290. Rilievo in marmo. Gigondas, coll. Raspail. - Espérandieu, Recueil I 226. - I. e Iuppiter armato, stanti. I. veste chitone con cintura alla vita e mantello che lascia scoperto il capo. I capelli legati scendono sulle spalle. La mano d. regge una patera. Ai piedi degli dei due uccelli.

b) Busti

291. Capitello di semicolonna in calcare. Douai, Mus. de la Chartreuse. Da Bavai. - Espérandieu, Recueil IX n° 7216; v. Mercklin, o. c. 74, 107° 289b fig. 521. - Il sec. d. C. - Al centro del capitello, tra le foglie di acanto, in luogo delle helices, busto di I. in chitone, velata. I capelli sono con scriminatura centrale. Dinanzi al busto è lo scettro. Il capitello era collegato con un altro capitello di semicolonna, ora distrutto (v. Mercklin, o. c. 107 n° 289a fig. 519), sul quale era raffigurato il busto di Iuppiter.

292. C.d. sardonica Orghidan. Bucarest, Gabinetto Numismatico. Dalla Siria. - Banko, J., Oefh 31, 1939, 155 ss. fig. 39 tav. 1; Gramatopol, M., Les pierres gravées du Cabinet numismatique de l'Académie Roumaine (1974) 89 n° 668 tav. 32; Megow, Kameen 231 tav. 43, 3. - Il sec. d. C. - Busti di Iuppiter e I. affrontati sopra due aquile. Al centro, il Palladio. I. ha una corona di foglie sul capo ed è velata.

B. Con Iuppiter Ammon

Glittica

293.* (= Ammon 174* con bibl.) Sardonica. Londra, BM 3619 (già Marlborough). - Megow, Kameen 276 s. C13 tavv. 16, 7-8; 17. - Età claudia. - Busti affrontati di Iuppiter Ammon e di I. Iside. La dea ha i capelli sciolti sulle spalle ed annodati all'estremità; sul capo ha una stephane ed una corona composita (grano, melagrane, quercia et al.); sul torso un mantello a frange.

294. (= Ammon 138*) Cammeo. Firenze, Uff. - Overbeck, KMI 301 tav. 4, 11; Cook, Zeus I 370 n. 4 fig. 279. - Età imperiale. - Teste jugate di Iuppiter Ammon e Iuno. La dea ha i capelli mossi.

295.* (= Ammon 138a* con bibl.) Gemma. Berlino (Ovest), Staatl. Mus. FG 1121. - AGD II 93 n° 214 tav. 45. - Come sopra. La dea ha una stephane sul capo.

Scultura a tutto tondo

296.* Busti jugati in bronzo di Iuppiter Ammon e di I. Londra, BM 938. - Walters, BMBronzes n° 938. - I capelli di I. sono con scriminatura centrale e partiti ad onde; dietro le orecchie sono trecce.

297. (= Ammon 139*) Erma doppia in marmo. Brooklyn, Brooklyn Mus. 13.1070. - La testa femminile opposta a quella di Iuppiter Ammon presenta i capelli a boccoli sulle spalle. Probabile che si tratti di una Iside Iuno.

C. Con Iuppiter ed Hebe

298.* Rilievo in marmo. Bologna, Mus. Civ. Dalla coll. Palagi. - Kekule, R., AZ 28, 1871, 4 s. tav. 27; Forster, R., AZ 1872, 123 ss.; Paul, E., Die falsche Göttin (1962) 77 ss. fig. 29; EAA VI (1965) s. v. «Sal-

pion» (Moreno, P.); Pelagio Palagi artista e collezionista, Cat. Bologna (1976) 250 s. n° 186 (Bizzarri Mandrioli, A. R.). – Probabilmente lavoro dall'antico dello scultore Monti. – Rilievo firmato da Salpion Ateniese. Zeus/Iuppiter è seduto in trono sulla d. A s. sono Hera/Iuno ed Hebe. I. veste chitone cinto alla vita e mantello che posa sulla nuca e ricade sulle spalle e sulle gambe. La dea regge con la mano d. un lembo del mantello. Sul capo della dea è una stephane.

D. Con Iuppiter, Apollo e le Muse

299. Sarcofago in marmo. Napoli, Mus. Naz. – Wegner, M., SarkRel V 3, 29 s. n° 59 tav. 149. – Prima metà del II sec. d. C. – La fronte del sarcofago è suddivisa in cinque pannelli per mezzo di pilastri decorati dai quali pendono ghirlande. Al centro è Iuppiter seduto; alla sua s. è Iuno seduta in trono, velata, in chitone ed himation, poggiata ad uno scettro. Seguono nei pannelli Apollo citaredo, stante in riposo, e due Muse.

E. Con Minerva, Venus, Apollo, Diana

300. (= Apollon/Apollo 405* = Artemis/Diana 295 = Athena/Minerva 336 = Delos I 6) Vassoio in argento, c. d. «Corbridge Lanx». Londra, BM. – Drexel, F., JdI 30, 1915, 192 ss.; Brendel, O., JRS 31, 1941, 100 ss.; Simon, E., JdI 93, 1978, 227 s.; Musso, L., Manifattura suntuaria e committenza pagana nella Roma del IV secolo. Indagine sulla «lanx» di Parabiago (1983) 72 ss. n. 208 fig. 20. – Fine del IV sec. d. C. – Minerva, Venus e I. tra Diana ed Apollo. I. è la sola seduta; veste chitone cinto sotto al seno, e mantello che copre la nuca e le gambe. Sul capo è inoltre un diadema. L'oggetto presso la mano d. della dea, talvolta considerato un fuso, sembra essere piuttosto il bracciolo del trono non bene inteso.

F. Con i Dodici Dei

Affreschi parietali

301. (= Dodekathēoi/Dei consentes 2*, = Hestia/Vesta I con bibl.) Pompei VIII 3, 9-10 (casa delle Grazie), sulla facciata esterna. – AdI 1850 tav. agg. K; Helbig, Wandgemälde n° 7; Scheffold, WP 220. – Età di Vespasiano. – Teoria dei dodici dei. I. è al settimo posto, tra Iuppiter e Vulcanus. Veste un chitone senza cintura, e un mantello posto sul braccio s. ed intorno ai fianchi; nella s. ha uno scettro.

302. (Dodekathēoi/Dei consentes 1* con bibl. = Herakles 3397) Pompei IX 11, 1 sul muro dietro il pozzo del compitum. – Della Corte, M., NotSc 1911, 418 fig. 2; 420 fig. 2a; Saxl, F., Mithras (1931) 75, 4 tav. 30 fig. 165; Spinazzola, Pompei tav. 1, 18 fig. 215 e tav. agg. I; Scheffold, WP 288. – Età di Augusto. – Sei coppie di divinità partendo da Iuppiter e I. La dea è in chitone, velata con mantello piegato intorno alle gambe; sul capo ha una stephane. Con il braccio s. si appoggia ad uno scettro.

Rilievi

303. (= Dodekathēoi 30* con bibl. e rinvii, = Hera 353 con bibl. e rinvii) Base in marmo di stile arcaistico. Parigi, Louvre MA 672. Dalla coll. Borghese. – Sono raffigurate due coppie di divinità sul registro sup. di ognuno dei tre lati della base. Su uno dei lati sono Zeus/Iuppiter ed Hera/Iuno, Poseidon/Neptunus e Demeter/Ceres. Hera/Iuno è in chitone e peplo dorico, capelli sciolti sulle spalle, stephane e velo sul capo retto per un lembo dalla mano s.; con la d. la dea si poggia ad uno scettro e si volge verso Zeus/Iuppiter.

304. (= Dodekathēoi 25* con bibl. e rinvii, = Hera 365 con bibl.) Puteale in marmo di stile arcaistico. Roma, Mus. Cap. 1019. – Stuart Jones, Sculpt-MusCap 106 n° 31b tav. 29; Helbig<sup>4</sup> II n° 1244 (Fuchs, W.). – Età di Adriano(?). – Processione dei dodici dei. Hera/Iuno con chitone fittamente increspato e mantello che le copre la nuca con lembi terminanti a coda di rondine, avanza verso destra; con la mano s. regge un orlo del mantello; sul capo ha una stephane.

305. (= Dodekathēoi 20* con bibl. e rinvii, = Hera 359 con bibl. e rinvii) Rilievo in marmo. Baltimore, Walters Art Gall. 23.40. – Lavoro moderno (Brommer); 460 a. C. ca. (Willers); fine del II sec. a. C. (Havelock); età tardo-repubblicana. – Sono raffigurati in fila le 12 divinità. Hera/Iuno è in chitone con pieghe regolari tra le gambe, e velo sul capo, ricadente sul corpo. Stephane sul capo. Con la s. regge un lungo scettro; con la d. pare reggere un lembo del chitone. Mi pare convincente l'ipotesi di Brommer che si tratti di un lavoro moderno.

Raffigurazioni ridotte o frammentarie dei Dodici Dei

Rilievi

306. (= Dodekathēoi 21* con bibl., = Hera 360 con bibl.) Rilievo in marmo di stile arcaistico. New Haven, Yale Univ. 1965.132. – Età tardo-repubblicana. – In ordine, da s. a d., sono Apollo, Aphrodite/Venus, Athena/Minerva, Hera/Iuno e Zeus/Iuppiter. Hera/Iuno veste chitone con himation che le copre la nuca. Con la mano s. regge un lembo dell'himation, con la d. regge un lungo scettro.

307. (= Aphrodite 138 = Ares/Mars 340 = Athena/Minerva 100) Candelabro in marmo di stile arcaistico. Vaticano, Gall. Statue inv. 551. – Da Villa Adriana a Tivoli. Amelung, SkulptVatMus II 631 ss. n° 413; Helbig<sup>4</sup> I n° 143 (Fuchs, W.); Cain, H. U., Römische Marmorkandelaber (1985) 190 n° 107 tavv. 44, 1, 73, 4. – Età di Adriano. – Il candelabro era in coppia con un altro candelabro (inv. 547, Cain, o. c. 189 n° 106); vi sono raffigurate in tutto sei divinità. Hera/Iuno è in chitone e mantello; sul capo ha una stephane; i capelli sono raccolti in una sphendone. La dea si appoggia ad uno scettro.

308. (= Dodekathēoi 28* con bibl., = Hera 368 con bibl. e rinvii) Base in marmo di stile arcaistico. Roma, Villa Albani 685. – Helbig<sup>4</sup> IV n° 3356 (Fuchs, W.). – Età antonina. – Tre divinità per ogni lato. Su un pannello Demeter/Ceres con scettro e mezzo di spighe e papaveri, Poseidon/Neptunus con tridente ed Hera/Iuno in peplo dorico, mantello che copre la nuca, ter-minante in lembi a coda di rondine, e lungo scettro nella mano d.; con la s. la dea regge un lembo del mantello.

309. Rilievo architettonico in marmo. Berlino, Staatl. Mus. SK 913. Da Ostia. – Reinach, RépRel II 31, 5; Beschreibung der antiken Skulpturen (1891) 370 n° 913; Scheffold, SB III 126 fig. 160. – Dopo 150 d. C. – Teoria di divinità. Da s. Hera/Iuno, Zeus/Iuppiter, Athena/Minerva, Apollo, Hermes/Mercurius. Hera/Iuno è stante in chitone e mantello che le copre la nuca e le gambe ripiegandosi sui fianchi con un rimbocco. Nella mano d. la dea ha una patera, con la s. si appoggia ad uno scettro. La testa è di restauro.

310. Rilievo in pietra. Sofia, Mus. Arch. Nat. Da Nikopolis ad Istrum. – Ferri, S., Arte romana sul Danubio (1933) 378 s. fig. 522. – Età imperiale. – Da s. a d. sono rappresentati, in posizione stante e frontale, Hermes/Mercurius, Hera/Iuno, Zeus/Iuppiter, Athena/Minerva, Herakles/Hercules. Hera/Iuno veste un chitone con lungo rimbocco cinto alla vita, e un mantello sul capo e sulle spalle. Con la s. si appoggia ad uno scettro; con la d. regge una patera su un piccolo altare.

G. Sulle c. d. «Iuppitersäulen»

311. Viergötterstein. Bad Kreuznach, Karl-Geib-Mus. – Bauchhenß, G./Noelke, P., Die Jupitersäulen in den germanischen Provinzen (1981) 96 s. n° 39 tav. 3, 1. – Età flavia. – Sui quattro lati I., Mercurius, Hercules e Fortuna. I. è velata, in chitone e mantello che le ricade sui fianchi, scettro nella mano s., patera nella mano d. Al suo lato un altare.

312. Viergötterstein. Karlsruhe, Bad. Landesmus. Da Au-am-Rhein. – Bauchhenß/Noelke, o. c. 311, 93 n° 26 tav. 5, 1. – Sui quattro lati I., Apollo, Hercules, Minerva. I. è in chitone e mantello ripiegato sui fianchi e sulle gambe, velata. Un diadema è sopra il velo. Nella mano s. regge un'acerra, nella d. una patera. Sul lato d. in basso è un serpente barbuto, in alto un pavone su pilastro.

313. Viergötterstein. Darmstadt, Hessisches Landesmus. A 1924:24. Da Dieburg. – Bauchhenß/Noelke, o. c. 311, 114 n° 110-111 tav. 12, 1. – 225-250 d. C. – Sui quattro lati I., Ceres, Hercules, Vulcanus. I. è in chitone cinto sotto al seno, e mantello ripiegato sui fianchi; è velata, con diadema. Nella s. regge un'acerra, nella d. abbassata un grano d'incenso(?). Al suo lato un pavone.

314.* Viergötterstein. Mannheim, Reiss-Mus. Haug 83. Da Godramstein. – Bauchhenß/Noelke, o. c. 311, 135 n° 186-187 tav. 20, 1. – Sui quattro lati I., Mercurius, Hercules, Minerva. I. è in chitone e mantello ripiegato in diagonale sul torso; il capo è velato. Nella s. ha un'acerra, nella d. una patera. Di lato, in basso un altare, in alto un pavone su pilastro.

315. Viergötterstein. Karlsruhe, Bad. Landesmus. Da Großschloßheim. – Bauchhenß/Noelke, o. c. 311, 140 n° 202 tav. 22, 1. – Sui quattro lati I., Victoria, Apollo, Neptunus. I. (mancano gli attributi) è in chitone cinto sotto al seno, e mantello ripiegato sulle gambe, un cui lembo posa sulla spalla s. ricadendo in verticale.

316.* Viergötterstein. Mannheim, Reiss-Mus. Baumann 62 u. 62a. Da Iggelheim. – Bauchhenß/Noelke, o. c. 311, 148 n° 225-27 tav. 27, 1. – Sui quattro lati I., Mars, Vulcanus, Victoria. I. in chitone e mantello che l'avvolge tutta e le copre la nuca; la d. è davanti al petto; la s. regge lo scettro. Di lato, in basso, un pavone. In alto, sul postamento della colonna, dedica a Iuppiter Optimus Maximus e Iuno Regina.

317. (= Helios/Sol 363*, = Herakles/Hercules [in peripheria occ.] 70 con bibl. e rinvii) «Jupitersäule» di Mainz. Mainz, Mittelrhein. Landesmus. S 137. – Bauchhenß/Noelke, o. c. 311, 162 s. n° 272-275 (con bibl.); Bauchhenß, G., CSIR Deutschland II 2 (1984) 8 s. tav. 25. – 59-66 d. C. – Sul roccchio sup. della colonna I. stante, Sol e Luna su quadriga. I. è in chitone con lungo rimbocco che giunge ai fianchi, e mantello ricadente sulle spalle. Sul capo scoperto è una stephane decorata con strigilature. Con la d. si appoggia ad uno scettro; la s. è appoggiata al fianco con l'indice ed il medio allungati.

318.* Viergötterstein. Mainz, Mittelrhein. Landesmus. S 982. Da Mainz. – Bauchhenß/Noelke, o. c. 311, 169 n° 296 tav. 33, 3; Bauchhenß, G., CSIR Deutschland II 3 (1984) 38 s. n° 29 tav. 47. – 206 d. C. – Sui quattro lati I., Mercurius, Hercules, Minerva. I. è in chitone e mantello ripiegato in diagonale sul torso e ricadente sulle gambe. Il capo è velato e coronato con una stephane. Nella mano s. regge un'acerra; con la d. versa incenso(?) su un altare. Di lato un pavone su pilastro.

319.* Viergötterstein. Mainz, Mittelrhein. Landesmus. S 657. Da Mainz-Kastel. – Bauchhenß/Noelke, o. c. 311, 182 s. n° 355-356 tav. 34, 1; Bauchhenß, o. c. 318, 48 s. tav. 70. – 240 d. C. ca. – Sui quattro lati I., Mercurius, Hercules, Minerva. I. in chitone cinto alla vita, e mantello, velata, si poggia con la s. ad uno scettro; nella d. regge una patera su un altare. Sul postamento della colonna dedica alla domus divina.

320.* Viergötterstein. Mainz, Mittelrhein. Landesmus. S 978. Da Mainz-Kastel. – Bauchhenß/Noelke, o. c. 311, 183 n° 357-358 tav. 34, 3; Bauchhenß, o. c. 318, 53 n° 47 tav. 85. – 23 dicembre 246 d. C. – Sui quattro lati iscrizione di Sertinius Cupitus e Cupitius Providens a Iuppiter Optimus Maximus e I. Regina, Minerva, Hercules e I. La dea veste chitone cinto alla vita e mantello ricadente sulle gambe; il capo è velato. Nella d. regge una patera, nella s. uno scettro.

321. Viergötterstein. Karlsruhe, Bad. Landesmus. Da Mörsch. – Bauchhenß/Noelke, o. c. 311, 192 s. n° 388 tav. 38, 1. – Sui quattro lati I., Apollo, Hercules, Minerva. I. veste un chitone ed un mantello posato sul capo come un cappuccio, probabilmente per la presenza di una stephane. Il mantello è ripiegato in diagonale sul torso. Con la s. la dea si appoggia ad uno scettro; la d. regge una patera sopra un altare.

322.* Pilastro in calcare. Bonn, Rhein. Landesmus. LXXVII. Da Bonn. – Bauchhenß/Noelke, o. c. 311, 413 s. n° 2 tav. 55, 1. – Età severiana. – Sul regi-

stro superiore I. in chitone con rimbocco e mantello posato sulla nuca e ricadente sulle spalle. Con la s. si appoggia ad uno scettro, la d. regge una patera.

323.* Colonna in calcare. Bonn, Rhein. Landesmus. 17928. Da Kleinbouslar. – Bauchhenß/Noelke, o. c. 311, 416 s. n° 6 tav. 55, 2. – Età severiana. – La colonna è decorata con foglie d'acqua. In verticale, su tre registri, dal basso, divinità maschile nuda (Mercurius?), Minerva e I. La dea veste un chitone con lungo rimbocco, cinto alla vita. Il capo è svelato. Con la s. si appoggia ad uno scettro; la d. regge una patera.

324.* Colonna in calcare. Mönchengladbach, Städt. Mus. Schloß Rheydt R 1. Da Rheydt-Mülfort. – Bauchhenß/Noelke, o. c. 311, 420 s. n° 11 tav. 65, 1. – Età severiana. – La colonna è decorata con foglie d'acqua. In verticale, su tre registri, dal basso, Hercules, Minerva e I. La dea veste un chitone con lungo rimbocco, cinto alla vita; un mantello posa sulla nuca e sulle spalle; sul capo, una stephane. Con la s. si appoggia ad uno scettro; la d. regge una patera.

325. Colonna in calcare friabile. Jülich, Röm.-Germ. Mus. XI/1. Da Jülich. – Bauchhenß/Noelke, o. c. 311, 452 s. n° 106 tav. 84, 2. – Età severiana. – Colonna decorata con foglie d'acqua. Dea frontale, stante, in chitone ed interamente avvolta nel mantello. Capo scoperto. La mano d. dinanzi alla vita; la s. regge una fiaccola(?). È Iuno(?).

326.* Colonna in calcare. Jülich, Röm.-Germ. Mus. 155 D I. Da Jülich. Bauchhenß/Noelke, o. c. 311, 453 n° 107 tav. 84, 3. – Età di Settimio Severo. – Colonna decorata con foglie d'acqua. I. stante, frontale, in chitone cinto sotto al seno e mantello posato sulla nuca. Con la s. si poggiava allo scettro; la d. regge una patera.

327.* Pilastro in calcare friabile. Bonn, Rhein. Landesmus. D 326. Da Bonn. – Bauchhenß/Noelke, o. c. 311, 471 n° 169 tav. 89. – Età di Settimio Severo. – Su tre lati I., Minerva(?) e una dea non identificabile. I. veste chitone e mantello ripiegato in alto in diagonale sul torso. Sul capo velato è un'alta stephane. Con la s. si appoggia ad uno scettro; la d. regge la patera.

328.* Pilastro in calcare. Köln, Röm.-Germ. Mus. 442. Da Colonia. – Bauchhenß/Noelke, o. c. 311, 472 s. n° 172 tav. 90, 2. – Età tardo-antonina. – Pilastro con tre lati figurati a tre registri; il quarto lato è decorato con foglie d'acqua. In ciascun registro è una divinità. Sul registro sup. sono I., Ceres e Minerva. I. è in chitone con lungo rimbocco, cinto alla vita, e mantello posato sul capo e sulle spalle. Con la mano s. si appoggia ad uno scettro; la d. regge una patera.

329.* Pilastro in calcare. Bonn, Rhein. Landesmus. D 1004-1005. Da Rommerskirchen. – Bauchhenß/Noelke, o. c. 311, 475 s. n° 175 tav. 92, 1. – 225-250 d. C. – Come il prec. Sul registro sup. sono I., Luna, Hercules, e Sol. I. veste chitone e mantello ripiegato in diagonale sul torso e ricadente sulle gambe. Sul capo velato posa una stephane. Con la s. si appoggia ad uno scettro; la d. regge una fiaccola rovesciata.

330.* Pilastro in calcare. Leiden, Rijksmus. F 11 Da Kessel. – Bauchhenß/Noelke, o. c. 311, 481 s. n° 187 tav. 96, 3. – Età tardo-antonina. – Su tre lati Hercules, Minerva e I. La dea, a capo svelato, veste chitone e

mantello abbottonato sulle spalle e ricadente sul corpo. La s. regge uno scettro; la d. una patera su un piccolo altare. Di lato, un pavone su un pilastro.

331.* Base in calcare. Bonn, Rhein. Landesmus. 38.435. Da Nierendorf. – Bauchhenß/Noelke, o. c. 311, 483 s. n° 191 tav. 98, 4. – Età antonina. – Su tre lati Minerva, Hercules e I.; sul quarto lato dedica di L. Pisinius Celsus a Iuppiter Optimus Maximus. I. veste un chitone con lungo rimbocco, cinto alla vita, e mantello che posa sulla nuca e sulle spalle. Sul capo è una stephane. Con la s. si appoggia ad uno scettro; la d. regge una fiaccola.

H. Con Mitra ed altre divinità

332. (= Dodekathēoi 47* con bibl., = Herakles/Hercules [in periphēria occ.] 51*) Rilievo in arenaria. Karlsruhe, Bad. Landesmus. Da Osterburken. – CIMRM II 117-119 n° 1292; Schwertheim, E., Die Denkmäler oriental. Gottheiten im röm. Deutschland, EPRO 40 (1974) 192 ss. tav. 44. – Al centro del rilievo, entro una grotta, Mitra uccide il toro; sono presenti Cautēs e Cautopates. Il bordo esterno della grotta è riccamente decorato come un arco trionfale con scene figurate. In basso compaiono le imprese di Iuppiter e Mitra. In alto, tra Sol e Luna su carro, al centro, è un consesso di divinità alla presenza di Iuppiter seduto in trono. Alla sua d. sono, in primo piano, Iuno, Minerva e Venus; alla sua s., in primo piano, sono Apollo, Mars ed Hercules. Alle spalle di Iuppiter è Victoria che regge una corona. Sono presenti, inoltre, in secondo piano, Neptunus, Proserpina, Pluto, Diana. Iuno, in lungo chitone e velata, regge un'acerra nella s.

V. Iuno in raffigurazioni mitologiche

A. Hera/Iuno ed Ares/Mars

333.* (= Ares/Mars 11 con bibl., = Herakles/Hercle 126* con rinvii) Cista prenestina in bronzo. Berlino (Ovest), Staatl. Mus. Misc. 6239. – Scholz, U. W., Studien zum altitalischen und altröm. Marskult und Marsmythos (1970) 141 ss.; Simon, E., StEtr 46, 1978, 138 ss.; CPI I, 50 ss. n° 5 tavv. 60-63. – Fine del IV sec. a. C. – Scena di complessa interpretazione (→ Ares/Mars 11). Al centro, Athena/Minerva, depositati elmo e scudo, tocca con uno stilo la guancia (o le labbra?) di Ares/Mars, raffigurato nudo, in ginocchio, con elmo, lancia e scudo, al di sopra di un pithos ricolmo di un liquido. Assistono alla scena Hera/Iuno, Zeus/Iuppiter, Hermes/Mercurius, Herakles/Hercules, Apollo, Dionysos/Liber, Nike/Victoria, Artemis/Diana e Tyche/Fortuna. Tra le numerose esegesi, può essere menzionata l'ipotesi della Simon che, in base ad Hom. Il. 5, 385-391, ha ricordato un mito di cui ci sono scarse testimonianze dirette, secondo il quale Ares fu tenuto rinchiuso dagli Aloadi Oto ed Efialte per tredici mesi entro un pithos. Athena/Minerva starebbe per ungere Ares/Mars con ambrosia dopo i lun-ghi mesi di prigionia; nel pithos gorgoglierebbe vino, fatto scaturire da Dionysos/Liber. Scholz ha invece collegato la scena con il rito dell'Equus October: Minerva, protettrice dei fanciulli, bagna ritualmente Mars fanciullo rigenerato dopo la morte del vecchio Mars. Hera/Iuno è stante, appoggiata con le gambe incrociate a Iuppiter seduto su una roccia. La dea veste chitone trasparente ed himation che le copre la spalla s. e le gambe. I capelli sono raccolti a crocchia dietro la nuca; è adorna di orecchini e collana. Tutte le figure della cista hanno il nome inciso in lingua latina.

B. Hera/Iuno ed Hephaistos/Vulcanus

334.* (= Hera 305 con bibl.) Rilievo architettonico in marmo. Berlino (DDR), Staatl. Mus. SK 912. Da Ostia. – Dopo 150 d. C. – Al centro, caduta di Hephaistos/Vulcanus dall'Olimpo sull'isola di Lemno, alla presenza di Athena/Minerva (simbolo del possesso ateniese dell'isola) e di Thalassa. In alto, Zeus/Iuppiter ed Hera/Iuno a mezzo busto tra nubi, assistono alla scena. Hera/Iuno veste chitone e mantello sul capo; con la s. regge uno scettro.

C. Hera/Iuno ed Herakles/Hercules

335.* Affresco parietale. Pompei VII 3, 10-12. – Heydemann, H., AZ 26, 1868, 33 ss. tav. 4; Schefold, WP 176. – Età di Vespasiano. – Lettura della sorte di Herakles/Hercules(?). Zeus/Iuppiter al centro, seduto in trono, seminudo, sta per gettare – oppure ha raccolto – gli astragali (o i dadi) in un vaso posto dinanzi a lui. Ai suoi fianchi, in piedi, sono alla sua s. Nike/Victoria seminuda, con una palma in mano, alla sua d. Hera/Iuno(?) in chitone con rimbocco, a capo scoperto ma con diadema ed un oggetto nella mano d. L'interpretazione si basa sulla presenza, sulla stessa parete, di un affresco raffigurante Herakles/Hercules che strozza i serpenti.

Iuno 335

336. (= Herakles/Hercle 395* con bibl.) Specchio prenestino di bronzo. New York, MMA 96.18.16. – Gerhard, EtrSp II tav. 147; Richter, MetrMusBronzes n° 827. – IV-III sec. a. C. – Al centro della composizione è Iuppiter. Alla sua destra è I. in chitone con rimbocco cinto alla vita. Alla sua s. è Hercules nudo, con clava. Tra Iuppiter e I. è un'erma femminile; tra Iuppiter ed Hercules è un fallo. Le divinità hanno i nomi incisi in latino. Hercules e I. come divinità che proteggono i matrimoni? (ML I 2 [1886-90] 2258-2265 s. v. «Hercules» [Peter, R.]).

337. Rilievo in marmo. Vaticano, Gabinetto delle Maschere inv. 796. Dalla Tenuta di Corallo presso Palestrina. – Amelung, SkulptVatMus II 715 n° 442 tav. 80; Helbig<sup>4</sup> I n° 209 (v. Steuben, H.). – Età adrianea. – La lastra, con rilievo molto alto, mostra una membratura architettonica composta da tre arcate che delimitano due pannelli. Sia le arcate che i pannelli sono figurati. Nelle arcate, simili a statue in nicchie, sono Dionysos/Liber, Hera/Iuno al centro ed Athena/Minerva. Nei pannelli scene della vita di Herakles/Hercules fanciullo. Hera/Iuno veste un chitone con himation che le ricade sulle gambe. La dea si poggiava ad uno scettro. Il rilievo è molto restaurato.

D. Hera/Iuno ed Io (?)

338. (= Io I 109 con bibl.) Pavimento a mosaico. Antakya, Mus. Hatay. Dalla Casa del Pavimento Rosso ad Antiochia. – Levi, Antioch 75 ss. tav. 12a. – Età antonina. – Hera(?) al centro, tra Argo(?) e Io(?). Argo è raffigurato come un pastore frigio; Io si poggia pensosa ad un pilastro. Hera veste chitone ed himation; sul capo ha una stephane. Per altre interpretazioni → Io I 109.

E. Hera/Iuno e Ixion

339. (= Hera 479 con bibl., = Iris I 157 con bibl., = Ixion 5* con bibl.) Affresco parietale. Pompei VI 15, 1 (Casa dei Vettii). – Età flavia. – Hera sdraiata, Iris(?) al suo fianco, assiste al supplizio di Ixion. La dea veste chitone cinto sotto al seno e mantello che copre le gambe e parte del trono. Sul capo posa una stephane orlata di sferette e un velo trasparente. Con la d. regge un lembo del mantello; con la s. regge lo scettro. È adorna, inoltre, di orecchini, collana e due armille.

F. Hera/Iuno e Marsyas

Overbeck, KM II 130 M, riconosceva Hera/Iuno nella figura seduta con scettro, stephane e mela nella mano d. sul sarcofago con il mito di Apollo e Marsyas a Palazzo Doria (Sichtermann/Koch, MythSark n° 36 tav. 88). Si tratta in realtà di Leto.

G. Hera/Iuno e Prometheus

340.* (= Dioskouroi/Castores 61, = Hades/Pluto 5, = Helios/Sol 347 con bibl.) Sarcofago in marmo. Napoli, Mus. Naz. 6705. Da Pozzuoli. - Sichtermann/Koch, MythSark n° 67 tavv. 162, 163, 2; 164. - 300 d. C. ca. - Al centro Prometheus con a fianco il corpo del primo uomo ancora privo dello spirito vitale. Alle spalle, in primo piano una Moira con il fuso; in secondo piano, I. porge a Mercurius un sacchetto di danaro. Dietro I. sono Oikoumene e Iuppiter; dietro Mercurius sono Neptunus e Pluto che protende il braccio d. verso il sacchetto di danaro. Secondo la più convincente interpretazione, gli dei dell'oltretomba stanno conducendo una transazione commerciale con gli dei dell'Olimpo per l'acquisto dell'anima del defunto. I veste un chitone cinto sotto al seno ed ha un velo sul capo; con la s. regge uno scettro.

H. Hera/Iuno e Phaethon

341. Sarcofago in marmo. Verona, Mus. Maffei-ano. - SarkRel III n° 345 tav. 113; Jucker, I., Der Gestus des Aposkopein (1956) 60 figg. 19-20; Himmelman, N., in Festschr. F. Brommer (1977) 180 tav. 50, 2; Koch/Sichtermann, RömSark 182. - Secondo quarto del III sec. d. C. - Alla d. del carro di Phaeton sono in alto le personificazioni dei Venti, in basso il fiume Eridano e le Eliadi, al centro sono I. e Iuppiter preceduti da Dysis. I. veste chitone cinto sotto al seno ed ha velo e stephane sul capo; con la s. regge uno scettro.

I. Hera/Iuno nelle nozze di Peleus e Thetis

342. Fr. di rilievo in marmo. Vaticano. Gall. Chiamonti inv. 1280. Amelung, SkulptVatMus I 745 s. n° 641 tav. 81; Helbig<sup>4</sup> I n° 305 (Fuchs, W.). - Arte neoa-antica, I. sec. a. C., da originale greco del V sec. a. C. (?) - Thetis(?) seduta, si copre il capo con un mantello. Hera in piedi la conforta. Si tratta forse dei preparativi delle nozze tra Peleus e Thetis. Hera è in peplo dorico ed himation di cui un lembo ricade sulle gambe. Testa e parte del busto sono di restauro.

K. Hera/Iuno in raffigurazioni riferibili all'Iliade

Miniature

343. Miniatura IX sul fol. 8b dell'Iliade Ambrosiana. Milano, Bibl. Ambrosiana, Cod. 1019 (Ambros. F 205). - Bianchi Bandinelli, R., Hellenistic-Byzantine Miniatures of the Iliad (1955) 57 figg. 110, 113. - Fine V-inizi VI sec. d. C.: «Gruppo B, o maniera del quadro e del fregio dipinto di età ellenistica» (Bianchi Bandinelli). - Sulla s. Thetis in ginocchio dinanzi a Zeus se-

duto in trono. Sulla d. consesso di divinità sedute su un sigma: da s. Hermes, Apollo, Ares, Zeus, Hera, Athena, Aphrodite. H. è in chitone e mantello che le copre il capo. La pittura è molto rovinata.

344.* Miniatura X sul fol. 9a dell'Iliade Ambrosiana. Milano, Bibl. Ambrosiana, Cod. 1019 (Ambros. F 205). - Bianchi Bandinelli, o. c. 343, 57 figg. 114, 115. - Cronol. e gruppo come il prec. - Banchetto degli dei. Ares, Zeus, Hera, Athena ed Aphrodite seduti dinanzi allo «stibadion», ascoltano i canti di Apollo e delle Muse in piedi; alla s. Hephaistos, in piedi dinanzi ad Hera, le porge una coppa. La dea è in chitone cinto alla vita e mantello sul capo.

345. Miniatura XIX sul fol. 17b dell'Iliade Ambrosiana. Milano, Bibl. Ambrosiana, Cod. 1019 (Ambros. F 205). - Bianchi Bandinelli, o. c. 343, 62 fig. 36. - Cronol. come sopra: «Gruppo A, o maniera del rotulo» (Bianchi Bandinelli). - Hera ed Athena, in piedi sulla d., deridono Aphrodite che si lamenta, dinanzi a Zeus seduto in trono, per la ferita infertile da Diomedes. Hera è in chitone e mantello che l'avvolge tutta lasciando scoperto solo parte del torso. Nella s. regge uno scettro.

346. Miniatura XXI sul fol. 18b dell'Iliade Ambrosiana. Milano, Bibl. Ambrosiana, Cod. 1019 (Ambros. F 205). - Bianchi Bandinelli, o. c. 343, 63 figg. 157, 160, 163. - Cronol. come sopra: «Gruppo C, o maniera della pittura di tradizione ellenistica in rielaborazione del sec. III d. C. in centro del Mediterraneo orientale» (Bianchi Bandinelli). - Fra due scene di battaglia il miniaturista ha inserito i busti di Athena, Zeus ed Hera sporgenti tra nuvole. La figura di Hera è fortemente ritoccata. Probabilmente aveva il mantello sul capo.

347.* Miniatura XXII sul fol. 19b dell'Iliade Ambrosiana. Milano, Bibl. Ambrosiana, Cod. 1019 (Ambros. F 205). - Bianchi Bandinelli, o. c. 343, 63 s. fig. 161. - Cronol. e gruppo come il prec. - Athena ed Hera perorano la causa dei Greci di fronte a Zeus. In basso è il campo di battaglia. In alto, tra le nuvole, i busti delle tre divinità. Hera, sulla d., veste chitone cinto sotto al seno e mantello sul capo.

348.* Miniatura XXIII sul fol. 20b dell'Iliade Ambrosiana. Milano, Bibl. Ambrosiana, Cod. 1019 (Ambros. F 205). - Bianchi Bandinelli, o. c. 343, 64 fig. 95. - Cronol. come sopra: Gruppo A. - Ares ferito si lamenta per il comportamento di Athena dinanzi ad un consesso di divinità. Ares è in piedi. Seduti sul sigma sono Hera, Zeus, Athena ed Apollo. Hera è in chitone cinto sotto al seno e mantello che le copre il capo e le gambe.

349. Miniatura XXIX sul fol. 26 dell'Iliade Ambrosiana. Milano, Bibl. Ambrosiana, Cod. 1019 (Ambros. F 205). - Bianchi Bandinelli, o. c. 343, 68 fig. 193. - Cronol. come sopra: Gruppo C. - Al disopra di una scena di battaglia, tra nuvole, Hera al centro tra Athena ed Iris. Le figure sono fortemente ritoccate.

350. Miniatura LIII sul fol. 47a dell'Iliade Ambrosiana. Milano, Bibl. Ambrosiana, Cod. 1019 (Ambros. F 205). - Bianchi Bandinelli, o. c. 343, 81 figg. 89, 148. - Cronol. come sopra: Gruppo B. - Hera ferma Hephaistos che sta bruciando le rive dello Scamandro.

La dea è al centro, stante, in chitone cinto sotto al seno e mantello che le copre il capo e le ricade in diagonale dalla vita sulle gambe. Nella s. regge lo scettro; con la d. frena Hephaistos.

Rilievi in marmo

351. Parigi, Louvre MA 486. - Clarac, tav. 200, 26; Brunn, H., Gesch. der griech. Künstler I (1889) 612; Overbeck, KMI 171 R; REV I (1903) 307 s. v. «Diadoumenos» (Robert, C.); EAA III (1960) 89 (Guerini, L.). - Zeus è seduto su una roccia(?) tra Hera alla sua d. e Thetis alla sua s. Si è proposto un rapporto con Hom. Il. 1, 494-496. Hera è in peplo e regge con la d. il mantello; con la s. regge un lungo scettro. I capelli ricadono a boccoli sulle spalle; diadema intorno al capo. Sul sedile di Zeus, iscrizione DIADUMENI: firma dell'artista?

352. (= Athena/Minerva 358*) Roma, Pal. Cons., Gall. Cini. - Stuart Jones, SculptPalCons 281 n° 3 tav. 112; Hauser, F., Die Neu-attischen Reliefs (1889) 34; Reinach, RépRel III 189, 1; Paribeni, E., Scritti (1985) 87 ss. fig. 143. - Hephaistos forgia le armi di Achille con i Ciclopi, alla presenza di Athena a s. ed Hera a d. La dea veste chitone e mantello che le copre a cappuccio la testa e ricade sulle spalle e sul torso. Con la mano d. si appoggia ad uno scettro. Buona parte della figura è di restauro. Non si tratta, piuttosto, di Thetis?

L. Hera/Iuno in raffigurazioni riferibili all'Eneide

353. Miniatura sul fol. 64v del Vergilius Vaticanus (pittura 43). Bibl. Vaticana. - De Wit, J., Die Miniaturen des Vergilius Vaticanus (1959) 133 s. tavv. 24, 2; 37, 3, 4; Wright, D. H., Vergilius Vaticanus, Commentarium (1984) 91. - Inizi del V sec. d. C. - I. si rivolge ad una Furia per impedire il matrimonio tra Enea e Lavinia. I.

sulla s. protende la mano d. verso la Furia che è dinanzi ad una grotta. La dea è completamente ammantata, e si appoggia con la s. ad uno scettro avvicinato al corpo.

354. Miniatura sul fol. 67v del Vergilius Vaticanus (pittura 45). Bibl. Vaticana. - De Wit, o. c. 353, 137 s. tav. 25, 2; Wright, o. c. 353, 93 s. - I. scende rapidamente dall'Olimpo ed impedisce che vengano chiuse le porte del tempio di Giano nella città di Laurento. I. veste un chitone leggero, mosso dal vento, ed un mantello stretto sul fianco s., gonfiato alle sue spalle. Gioielli in oro sul capo, e sulle braccia. Con la s. regge anche lo scettro.

355.* Miniatura sul fol. 234v del Vergilius Romanus. Bibl. Vaticana. - Rosenthal, E., The Illuminations of the Vergilius Romanus (1972) 47 ss. tav. 6. - Primi decenni del VI sec. d. C. - Consesso di divinità sedute tra gli astri. Al centro è Iuppiter. Alla sua s. sono una divinità maschile non identificata e I.; alla sua d. sono Mercurius e Minerva. I. è rivolta verso Iuppiter con il braccio d. sollevato in gesto oratorio. Veste un chitone cinto sotto al seno ed un mantello che le copre la nuca e le gambe avvolgendosi con larghi sbuffi intorno al braccio s. Una sottile tenia intorno al capo. Dietro la testa è un'aureola. La s. regge lo scettro.

M. Hera/Iuno con Zeus/Iuppiter ed Athena/Minerva nella gara musicale tra Muse e Sirene

356.* Sarcofago in marmo. New York, MMA 10.104. Dal Giardino Torrigiani a Firenze. - Overbeck, KMI 130c Atlas tav. 3, 19; Wegner, M., Sark-Rel V 3, 31 s. n° 61 tav. 32. - Secondo quarto del III sec. d. C. - Gara musicale tra Muse e Sirene alla presenza di Zeus/Iuppiter, Hera/Iuno e Athena/Minerva. Zeus/Iuppiter è seduto; Hera/Iuno è alla sua s.; veste chitone e mantello che le copre la nuca; con la mano s. regge lo scettro.

N. Hera/Iuno nella Gigantomachia (?)

357. (= Artemis/Diana 324* con bibl., = Gigantes 484, V) Rilievo in marmo. Roma, Mus. Nuovo del Pal. dei Cons. 2817. - Mustilli 62 ss. n° 3 tav. 40, 165; Helbig<sup>4</sup> II n° 1703; Fuchs, M., Jdl 99, 1984, 240 ss. figg. 14-15. - Seconda metà del I sec. d. C. - La lastra è pertinente ad un fregio continuo in cui fr. sono in vari musei romani (per un'analisi complessiva cf. Fuchs, o.c. 215 ss.). Al centro è Hera/Iuno (così Vian, F., Répertoire des Gigantomachies [1951] 26 n° 45 e Mustilli, o.c.) stante in chitone cinto sotto al seno ed ampio mantello che posa sulla nuca e scende sulle spalle coprendo parzialmente i fianchi ed il braccio s.; la dea con la mano s. ne stringe un lembo. I capelli sembrano essere sciolti sulle spalle. La dea ha un'armilla sul braccio d. Ai suoi lati sono Artemis/Diana(?) alata ed Hephaistos/Vulcanus. Secondo l'interpretazione di G. Kleiner (Das Nachleben des pergamenischen Gigantenkampfes, 105. BerlWPr [1949] 15) e di M. Fuchs (o.c. 240), dovrebbe tuttavia trattarsi non di Hera/Iuno, bensì di Leto. Il rilievo, pur pertinente al fregio con gigantomachia, ne è separato tematicamente: dovrebbe raffigurare Hephaistos/Vulcanus che consegna le frecce forgiate nella sua fucina ad Apollo ed Artemis/Diana.

O. Iuno nel mito di Mars e Rhea Silvia (?)

358. (= Ares/Mars 401* con bibl.) Sarcofago in marmo. Roma, Pal. Mattei. - Sichtermann/Koch, MythSark n° 71 tavv. 172, 2; 173-175; Guerrini, L., Pal. Mattei di Giove. Le antichità (1982) n° 61 tav. 63 (Bonanno, M.). - Inizio del III sec. d. C. - Mars si avvicina a Rhea Silvia addormentata; ai lati, divinità. Sulla d. è una dea seduta, vestita con un chitone trasparente cinto sotto al seno e con un velo che le copre la nuca. Sul capo posa un'alta stephane. La dea si poggia con la d. ad uno scettro. Talvolta considerata I. Pronuba, si tratta in realtà di Venus, come indica, tra l'altro, la presenza di un erote al suo fianco. Analogo un altro sarcofago nel Pal. Mattei (→ Ares/Mars 401a, Guerrini, o.c. n° 60 tav. 63; Koch/Sichtermann, RömSark 184 s.).

P. Hera/Iuno nel mito della nascita di Dionysos (?)

H. Heydemann (10. HallWPr [1885] 10) riconosceva Hera nella figura femminile che si allontana rapidamente dalla stanza dove Semele giace morta su una kline dopo aver generato Dionysos. Il personaggio è riconoscibile su un rilievo a Liverpool (→ Dionysos/Bacchus 129 = Eileithyia 65, Greifenhagen, A., RM 46, 1931, 28 n° 4) e su tre coperchi di sarcofago (→ Dionysos/Bacchus 128. 132 [= Eileithyia 66 e 67*/74], Greifenhagen, o.c. 27 s. n° 1-3; Matz F., SarkRel IV 3, n° 196. 197. 199). L'ipotesi è stata respinta da Greifenhagen (o.c. 29) che pensa, con maggiore verosimiglianza, ad Eileithyia.

Q. Iuno (?) in un mito non ancora identificato

359. Fr. di statua in terracotta. Roma, Mus. Cap., Antiquarium Comunale. Dal frontone di un tempio sulla via Latina. - Andrén, o.c. 5, 360 ss. tav. 109 n° 391-392; Coarelli, F., in Hellenismus, o.c. 77, 26 fig. 10. - II sec. a. C. - Si tratta verosimilmente di una decorazione frontonale con un consesso di divinità alla presenza di Iuppiter (mano con un fulmine). Un fr. di testa con stephane, senza velo, potrebbe raffigurare I. Una seconda testa dalle forme piene (purtroppo non è conservata la capigliatura) potrebbe essere presa in considerazione in alternativa.

COMMENTO

Comporre in una sintesi i dati iconografici riguardanti Iuno è di particolare complessità. Come nel caso di Hera, tranne rarissimi casi, la dea non possiede attributi specifici tali da individuarne con precisione l'immagine. La difficoltà è in parte dovuta al culto stesso della dea che risponde a funzioni differenziate e non sempre coincidenti. Roma ha assorbito culti di Iuno testimoniati in città latine ed etrusche; ma è naturalmente difficile stabilire la funzione primigenia della dea, se divinità poliadica, protettrice della fecondità, delle donne e dei nascituri, o ancora protettrice della gioventù atta alle armi e, per traslato, delle attività politiche cittadine incentrate sulle curie.

Ad ognuno di questi aspetti della dea corrisponde una specifica epiclesi che esplicita la variazione di funzione e, in un certo senso, la differenza del culto e forse dell'immagine.

Di gran lunga la meglio caratterizzata è Iuno Sospita, con la pelle di capro sul chitone, elmo (o la pelle stessa) con le corna di capro, ed il tipico scudo «ad otto». L'iconografia della dea non sembra subire trasformazioni sostanziali dalla seconda metà del VI sec. a. C. (I. 14) fino alla base di Grottaferrata, della metà circa del II sec. d. C. (4); segno di una codificazione normalmente accettata - tramite la statua di culto della dea a Lanuvio? - senza tentativi di ammodernamento (che toccano solo dettagli secondari). La variazione più significativa è offerta dalle antefisse satiriche (6. 11), le prime secondo la più comune iconografia, le seconde con le curiose orecchie di bue, in luogo delle più consuete orecchie di capra; è certamente un richiamo specifico alla mucca sacra ad Hera. Unica anche la presenza di uno scudo a pelta nella statuette 30, desunto forse dal costume «barbarico» delle Amazzoni.

Se Iuno Caprotina fosse una variante romana della Sospita non è possibile stabilire con certezza. L'unica documento figurato, un denario (34), mostra la dea in un'iconografia indifferenziata e generica.

Iuno Regina è certamente l'immagine più attestata figurativamente e, tramite il culto della Triade Capitolina, la più diffusa nell'impero romano. Anche in questo caso l'iconografia è tra le più generiche: un chitone con rimbocco cinto alla vita, l'immane stephane sul capo, lo scettro, molto spesso il mantello posato sul capo. Sono attributi specifici della dea in quanto sposa di Iuppiter; ma essi sono comuni anche per altre divinità matronali - Venere e Cerere, ad esempio -, tanto che il riconoscimento sicuro di Iuno è possibile solo: tramite le iscrizioni, come nel caso delle legende monetali; attraverso il collegamento con le immagini assai più differenziate di Iuppiter e Minerva, come sulle «Iuppitersäulen» e nei fr. di statue di culto della Triade Capitolina; oppure per la presenza di un ulteriore e più specifico attributo, il pavone.

Né è possibile stabilire quando si sia precisata in tal senso l'iconografia della dea. Abbiamo informazioni circa un xoanon ligneo (35), la vera statua di culto di Iuno Regina sull'Aventino; ma nessuna precisazione circa l'immagine. Altrettanto oscure le documentazioni letterarie su un signum aeneum (36) e su sei signa cupressae (37-39), un importantissimo richiamo al costume di dedicare statue di legno ben oltre l'età medio-repubblicana, fino al I sec. a. C. È verosimile che si trattasse di una consuetudine codificata nel tempo (si tratta sempre di legno di cipresso), forse una replica dell'originaria statua di culto veiente traslata nel tempio sull'Aventino (i testi parlano di signa o di simulacra).

Altrettanto scarse le informazioni riguardanti la statua di culto del tempio in circo Flaminio. La testa Albani (40) è stata collegata, giustamente, all'attività della famiglia di scultori attici che fa capo a Timarchides e Polykles; ma, si tratti o meno di un fr. della statua di culto del tempio di Giunone in circo Flaminio, è solo una ipotesi, per quanto suggestiva. Eventuali perplessità non sorgono tanto dalla segnata drammaticità dei tratti facciali, poco comprensibili per Iuno, quanto dagli scarsi elementi concreti a disposizione. Il possibile collegamento con una seconda testa dalla collezione Albani raffigurante quasi sicuramente Apollo con un'acconciatura tipo Cirene, farebbe propendere per un'altra interpretazione (Latona?).

Siamo meglio informati circa la Iuno della Triade Capitolina, la cui iconografia è nota in base a numerose raffigurazioni. Ma anche in questo caso le differenze tra i vari tipi sono sconcertanti. La dea doveva essere alla s. di Iuppiter, come documenta Livio già per la base arcaica (Liv. 7, 3, 5); invece l'unico documento figurato di una certa importanza, il denario di Cn. Blaesus (48), la rappresenta alla d. del dio. I documenti concordano in molti dettagli: il chitone cinto alla vita con rimbocco, il mantello che scivola sulle gambe, lo scettro nella mano destra. Tuttavia le varianti tipologiche nel panneggio sono fortissime; il capo talvolta è coperto dal mantello, talaltra è scoperto; in alcuni casi la dea regge una patera; in altri casi è seduta invece di essere stante. Purtroppo il grado di fedeltà delle numerose immagini della Triade rispetto al gruppo Capitolino è assai relativa, e le monete stesse, che dovrebbero offrire ragionevolmente la documentazione più corretta, mostrano analoghe varianti tipologiche, persino in conii dello stesso periodo (ad es. i medaglioni 53. 68). La statua di terracotta di Pompei (n° 55) è un caso a parte; pur essendo probabile la sua pertinenza alla Triade Capitolina, mostra un'autonomia iconografica (il tipo è desunto da modelli asiatici del II sec. a. C.)

dovuta forse al carattere provvisorio della sistemazione nel santuarietto di Iuppiter Meilichius, in attesa del completamento del restauro del Capitolium. Una interessante variazione tipologica mostra anche il bronzo di Muri (56), nel quale il mantello ricopre totalmente il chitone lasciando scoperto solo il seno; la dipendenza dallo schema iconografico delle c.d. «oranti» di età ellenistica è verosimile.

Estremamente ricca è la produzione di opere raffiguranti genericamente Iuno Regina, senza un più esplicito riferimento ad uno dei culti romani. Vale per queste immagini quanto già detto a proposito della Iuno raffigurata nella Triade Capitolina. Se nelle monete la legenda permette un esplicito riconoscimento, in altri casi assume un'importanza estrema la presenza caratterizzante del pavone. Nessun documento figurato mostra Iuno Regina venerata ad Ardea ed a Sezze.

Maggior fortuna, a livello iconografico, presenta il culto commagenico di due divinità orientali assimilate a Iuno Regina ed a Iuppiter. L'iconografia è strutturata su modelli di tradizione hittito-hurrita (gli dei in piedi su animali); ma l'immagine divina ripete fedelmente il più comune schema di Iuno Regina, chitone cinto alla vita, molto spesso con rimbocco, mantello ricadente sulle gambe, talvolta coprente il capo, attributi dello scettro e della patera, in alcuni casi dello specchio (elemento caratteristico di questo culto) e, assai raramente, del papavero (116). Particolare anche l'acconciatura dei capelli, in alcuni esemplari ricadenti a grossa treccia sulle spalle (112. 116). In luogo della più comune stephane, in un particolare caso Iuno ha sul capo il polos (131).

Nonostante l'alta antichità del culto, anche Iuno Moneta e Iuno Lucina non presentano, nelle documentazioni superstiti, caratteristiche iconografiche specifiche. Nelle effigie su denarii Iuno Moneta ha i capelli raccolti a crocchia dietro la nuca (132-134); nulla di concreto è dato sapere sull'aspetto della figura intera. Nel caso di Iuno Lucina prevale l'aspetto di kourotrophos; ma la tipologia del panneggio e, direi, tutto l'aspetto dell'immagine non si discosta da quello di Iuno Regina. Nuova è semmai la presenza dell'attributo della fiaccola (135. 136) e del fiore (142. 143), non consueti nell'iconografia della dea, ma certamente consoni ad una divinità che presiede alle nascite, e desunti dal culto di Hera in Grecia. Le statuine in terracotta dal santuario di Norba (146) rientrano in schemi largamente attestati nel mondo italico per divinità kourotrophoi, con il corpo ed il capo ricoperti da un ampio mantello: la tradizione non sembra valicare i limiti dell'età medio-repubblicana, lasciando posto alla più diffusa immagine di Iuno desunta da modelli greci tardo-classici.

Analogo silenzio, a livello figurativo, ricopre l'immagine di Iuno Curitis, che pure ebbe l'onore di un culto di ampia diffusione. Attributi della dea erano una lancia, uno scudo ed un carro. Parrebbe potersi dedurre un'iconografia che non si discosta da quella di Iuno Sospita, anche se le fonti non parlano di nebris di pelle di capro. Una testimonianza in tal senso potrebbe provenire dalla presenza di antefisse con il capo di Iuno Sospita da Falerii (5. 7), anche se le terrecotte non provengono dal santuario in località Celle. Il denario di C. Curatius Trigeminus (149), se raffigura realmente Iuno Curitis, trasmette un'immagine non caratterizzata. Né molto può aggiungere il fr. di testa in peperino da Falerii (150) a causa del suo cattivo stato di conservazione. Qualora si tratti di una testa di Iuno, mi sembra interessante la presenza della corona d'alloro, la cui valenza profilattica e trionfale è ben nota.

Di Iuno Gabina sono note esclusivamente le terrecotte votive rinvenute nel suo santuario. Gli schemi sono largamente attestati per divinità femminili sposi e kourotrophoi (152. 153) al punto che è impossibile collegare, almeno per il momento, il tipo iconografico alla sola Iuno. Una sorta di verifica a quanto detto viene dalle antefisse con raffigurazione di una potnia theon ed iscrizione IUN; vuol dire che il tipo può verosimilmente riferirsi a più divinità femminili affini funzionalmente.

Iuno Martialis, nota solo tramite monete di imperatori del III sec. d. C., potrebbe avere avuto un culto limitato nel tempo, dietro influenza di un antico culto di origine etrusco-umbra. Unica variante del tipo iconografico è la presenza talvolta di spighe di grano nelle mani (157-158. 160), richiamo ad una funzione agraria della dea non altrimenti attestata per Iuno nel mondo romano.

Iuno Caelestis è molto meglio caratterizzata; merito certo dell'origine orientale del culto. Si possono distinguere tre modelli base. Nel primo caso la dea siede su un leone in corsa (162. 164-171) e regge talvolta nella mano destra un fascio di fulmini (162. 167. 170). Nel sec. caso la dea è seduta su un trono (172-177). Nel terzo caso, infine, è raffigurata sotto forma di busto talvolta posato su un crescente lunare (178-185). La tipologia dei panneggi mostra le consuete variazioni sul modello base del chitone cinto alla vita e mantello sulle gambe. Caratteristico l'uso del kalathos e del crescente lunare sul capo.

A livello iconografico, l'ulteriore documentazione su Iuno non aggiunge nulla a quanto già detto. Se Iuno Pronuba può essere riconosciuta sui sarcofagi con dextrarum iunctio (186-191) (ma è più probabile che si tratti di Concordia), l'immagine si adegua alla più comune iconografia di Iuno Regina, come sulla documentazione monetale.

Nei casi in cui Iuno è raffigurata da sola, oppure in compagnia di altre divinità (ad esclusione della Triade), come sempre il riconoscimento non è immediato, ma desunto da elementi esterni (luogo di trovamento: ad es. 241. 242) o dagli attributi. Esempio è il caso della c. d. Hera Barberini (193) e delle statue che possono essere considerate varianti della c. d. Hera Borghese: l'attribuzione è basata esclusivamente sul collegamento del prototipo con Hera (con buone argomentazioni ora respinto a favore di Afrodite o di Tyche). Non altrimenti avviene con le varianti della c. d. Hera tipo Vienna-Efeso (195) dove, analogamente, l'uso del chitone trasparente non sembra consona ad una divinità matronale quale Hera-Iuno.

L'elenco è stato pertanto redatto in base ai possibili rapporti con le monete, oppure per la presenza dei pavoni (218). Ritorna naturalmente lo stesso schema del chitone cinto sotto al seno, e del mantello che ricopre i fianchi e talora il capo.

Va infine ribadita la scarsa probabilità che la testa colossale della c. d. Iuno Ludovisi (243) raffiguri Antonia Minore assimilata ad una dea (come al solito non è possibile definire se si tratti di Iuno, in quanto sia la stephane che la benda di lana non sono probanti). Il confronto con le monete sicure di Antonia Minore rendono improponibile l'ipotesi.

EUGENIO LA ROCCA

IUNO CAELESTIS → Iuno 162-185, → Virgo Caelestis

IUPPITER → Zeus/Iuppiter

IUPPITER DOLICHENUS → Zeus/Iuppiter Dolichenus

IUPPITER HELIOPOLITANUS → Helio-politani Dei

IUSTITIA → LIMC Suppl.

IUTURNA

Ninfa di una fonte presso Lavinio, vicino al fiume Numico, il cui nome passò poi (per evocatio?) ad una fonte ai margini del Foro Romano, il Lacus Iuturnae, presso il tempio dei Castori (rinvenuto l'epistilio del sacello con iscrizione: Boni, G., NSc 1900, 291-293), alle cui acque i divini gemelli avrebbero abbeverato i cavalli dopo la battaglia del lago Regillo (Plut. Coriolanus 3, 5; Ov. fast. 1, 706; Dion. Hal. ant. 6, 13). Dalla fonte veniva attinta l'acqua necessaria per i sacrifici di stato. I. soccorreva particolarmente in caso di mancanza d'acqua ed era considerata divinità salutare, tanto che Varrone (Varro l.l. 5, 71) ne fa derivare il nome dal verbo iuvare, etimologia recentemente riproposta dal Radke.

Un Lutazio Catulo (non è tramandato il prenome: il console del 242 o del 102 a. C.?) le dedicò un tempio nel Campo Marzio, il cui dies natalis, la festa degli Iuturnalia, cadeva il giorno 11 gennaio (Ov. fast. 1, 463-464). Secondo Ziolkowski si tratterebbe di C. Lutazio Catulo, console nel 242 a. C., ed il tempio andrebbe identificato con il tempio C del complesso di Largo di Torre Argentina.

Virgilio la dice figlia di Dauno, re di Ardea, e sorella di Turno; assieme ad Ovidio, egli ricorda anche l'amore che Giove aveva nutrito per lei. Arnobio la menziona invece come figlia di Volturino, sposa di Giano (→ Ianus) e madre di Fontus.

Il suo legame con i Dioscuri, documentato dal rinvenimento nel lacus di un'ara con i due gemelli

(→ Dioskouroi/Castores 1*) e delle statue loro e dei loro cavalli (→ Dioskouroi/Castores 56*; Martin, H. G., Römische Tempelkultbilder. Eine archäologische Untersuchung zur späten Republik [1987] 241-243 Kat A 1) risale probabilmente già al culto presso Lavinio, come sembra suggerire la dedica arcaica ai Dioscuri lì rinvenuta (cf. Castagnoli, F., in Enea nel Lazio, archeologia e mito [1981] 179-180 D 18). La lezione Diuturna, sostenuta da alcuni studiosi come la più antica (Wissowa) non è documentata con certezza e sembra comunque essere tarda.

FONTI LETTERARIE: Varro l.l. 5, 71; Verg. Aen. 12, 138-141; Ovid. fast. 2, 583-615; Arnob. nat. 3, 29; Serv. auct. Aen. 12, 139.

BIBLIOGRAFIA: Altheim, F., Griechische Götter im alten Rom, RVV 22, 1 (1930) 4-39; Deubner, L., Neue Jbb 9, 1902, 370; Eisenhut, W., KlPauly III (1969) 25-26 s. v. «Iuturna»; Latte, K., REX 2 (1919) 1348-1349 s. v. «Iuturna»; idem, RR 7 n. 3; 148; Preller, L., Römische Mythologie II 128-129; Radke, G., Die Götter Altitaliens (1979) 160-162; Walde/Hof. I (1938) 734-735 s. v. «Iuturna»; West, S. G., in EncVirg II (1985) 764-767 s. v. «Iuturna»; Wissowa, G., ML II (1890-1894) 1762-1764 s. v. «Iuturna»; Wissowa, Religion 222.

Sul Lacus Iuturnae: Boni, G., NSc 1900, 291-295; 1901, 41-144; Nash, TopRom II 9-17; Steinby, E. M. (ed.), Lacus Iuturnae I (1989); Vaglieri, D., BullCom 28, 1900, 67-74; 285-295; 31, 1903, 166-198.

Sul tempio in campo: Castagnoli, F., MemLinc serie VIII 1, 1947, 160; Degrassi, A., InscrIt XIII 2, 395. 501; Platner-Ashby 308; Ziolkowski, A., MEFRA 98, 1986, 623-641.

CATALOGO

1. Altare. Roma, Foro Romano, Lacus Iuturnae. - In età tardo-antica collocato dinanzi ad un sacello contenente la statua di culto (2). - Boni 1901, 78-81 fig. 36; Nash 17 fig. 688; Kajava, M., in Lacus Iuturnae I 270-273. - Età severiana. - Sul lato anteriore, a s. Turno (→ Turnus), con lorica, paludamentum, lancia e scudo; a d. I., con peplo, himation, scettro nella mano s., in atto di tendere la d. al fratello.

2. Statua di culto nel sacello del Lacus. Ad essa appartiene probabilmente la parte inferiore (dalle ginocchia in giù) di una figura femminile panneggiata rinvenuta nel corso degli scavi del Lacus Iuturnae: Boni 1901, 112-144 fig. 73; Harri, L., in Lacus Iuturnae I 212-214 (replica dell'Atena tipo Vescovale). - Roma, Antiquarium del Foro.

COMMENTO

La figura di I. ha lasciato solo scarse tracce nella documentazione figurata, ed anche queste alquanto banali. La proposta di Altheim (17 n. 3), di riconoscere I. anche nella figura femminile panneggiata rinvenuta nell'altare dei Dioscuri trovato nel Lacus (→ Dioskouroi/Castores 1 = Helene 19*; Nash, TopRom II 11 fig. 677) non appare sufficientemente fondata.

(Ricerca condotta con contributo del Ministero della Pubblica Istruzione, Roma)

FULVIO CANCIANI

IUVENTUS → Hebe I/Iuventus

IXION

(Ἰξίων, étr. Ichsiun, Ixion) Héros thessalien, roi des Lapithes. Il est fils de Phlégyas, petit-fils d'→ Ares et père de → Peirithoos. Après avoir tué son beau-père Déionée, I. est purifié par → Zeus. Il tente alors de violer → Hera: en fait il ne s'unit qu'à une Nuée (→ Nephelē) qui donne naissance aux Centaures (→ Kentauroi). Zeus le châtie en le liant sur une roue tournant éternellement, soit dans les airs, soit dans les Enfers.

SOURCES LITTÉRAIRES: Suivant la tradition la plus répandue I. est le fils de Phlégyas, comme le mentionne entre autres Euripide (TGF<sup>2</sup> fig. 424); plus rarement il en est le frère (Strabon 9, 5, 21 p. 442); ils sont alors tous deux fils d'Arès (Schol. Pind. P. 2, 40b). Suivant Eschyle (TrGFIII F 89) et Diodore (4, 69, 3) il est le fils d'Antion ou de Peision (Pherekyd., FGrH 3 F 51a), de Léonteus (Hyg. fab. 62) ou même de Zeus (Schol. Hom. Od. 21, 303). Sa mère est Périmélé (Diod. 4, 69, 3).

La légende d'I. est principalement constituée par le récit de ses deux crimes et de leur châtiment; elle nous est transmise dans son ensemble par Pherekyd. (FGrH 3 F 51) et Diodore (4, 69, 3-5). I. assassine son beau-père Déionée (ou Éionée suivant Diod. et Pherekyd.) en le précipitant dans le feu pour ne pas lui remettre les cadeaux dus pour son mariage avec Dia. Il commet ainsi le premier homicide (Aischyl. Eum. 717-718), et - circonstance aggravante - sur un parent (Pind. P. 2, 32; FGrH 3 F 51b). D'après Pherekyd. (FGrH 3 F 51) il est, à la suite de cet acte, frappé de folie. Seul Zeus accepte de le purifier (FGrH 3 F 51b; Aischyl. Eum. 441. 717-718 et peut-être TrGFIII F 92-93): I. est le premier à bénéficier d'une telle faveur.

Il commet alors son second crime qui lui vaudra son châtiment éternel: il tente de violer Héra (Soph. Phil. 678), mais il ne s'unit qu'à une Nuée (Pind. P. 2, 35-40); les conditions, alors imprécises, de la substitution d'un fantôme à la déesse sont expliquées plus tard (Apollod. epitome 1, 20; Lukianos, d.deor. 6), par la volonté de Zeus de vérifier les dires d'Héra après une première tentative d'I. Tardivement, la tentative de viol est parfois ignorée: Lucien (Lukianos, Sacr. 9) et le Mythographe du Vatican (Myth. Vat. II 106) font de l'indiscrétion et de l'abus des privilèges acquis les véritables causes du châtiment d'I. qui se vante auprès des mortels d'avoir obtenu les faveurs d'Héra.

Pour châtiments, I. d'une part engendre une race monstrueuse, les Centaures (Diod. 4, 69-70), ou Centaures (Pind. P. 42-48; Apollod. epitome 1, 20), d'autre part est immobilisé sur une roue tournant sans cesse (Eur. Herc. 1297-1298; Phoen. 1185-1186; Soph. Phil. 678). Les descriptions de l'instrument du supplice sont rares: la roue est faite de flammes (Schol. Eur. Phoen. 1185), I. est maintenu par des liens de bronze (Apoll. Rhod. 3, 62) ou par des serpents (Verg. georg. 3, 38; Myth. Vat. I 14; II 106). Dans les récits les plus anciens, ce supplice se déroule en plein ciel, puis il est situé dans les Enfers où le mentionne pour la première fois Apollonios de Rhodes (3, 62). Le Myth. Vat. I 14 décrit, bien plus tard, la roue roulant sur le flanc d'une colline.

Philost. (VA 6, 40) voit en I. l'illustration du malheur de ceux qui aiment quelqu'un d'une autre race que la leur et sont justement châtiés pour cela. Macrobe (somn. 1, 10, 14) le donne comme exemple de ceux qui s'abandonnent aux caprices du destin pour blâmer leur fatalisme, et Plutarque (Agis 1, 1-2 [795b-c]) fait de lui l'image des hommes que leurs ambitions entraînent à commettre des actions hybrides.

Les différents épisodes de la légende d'I. ont fourni des arguments aux auteurs de théâtre. Aischyl., dans une tragédie en grande partie perdue, Les Perrhaïdes (TrGF III F 184-186a), traitait du mariage d'I. et du meurtre de Déionée, et dans Ixion (TrGF III F 89-93) des derniers épisodes. Euripide (TGF frg. 424-427) avait aussi traité ce thème, et particulièrement la fin à propos de laquelle il se défendait de l'impiété et de la scélératesse de son héros en indiquant qu'il en avait montré le châtement (Plut. de aud. poet. 4, 19 E TGF p. 490); cette réflexion permet de penser qu'I. attaché à la roue apparaissait sur scène alors que d'ordinaire les pièces s'achevaient sur le jugement ou le récit du supplice. D'autres auteurs ont été aussi inspirés par ce sujet: Kallistratos (TrGF I 38) et Timésithéos (TrGF I 214) mais rien n'a été conservé de leurs œuvres.

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Aelion, R., Euripide, héritier d'Eschyle (1983) 274-275, 285; Boyce, J. L., Ixion. Origins and Meaning of a Myth (1974); Caprino, C., EAA IV (1961) 243-245 s.v. «Ixione»; Chamay, J., «Le châtement d'Ixion», AntK 27, 1984, 146-150 pl. 20; Cook, Zeus I 198-211; Dimitrov, D. P., «Römisches Relief im Museum zu Stara-Zagora (Bulgarie) mit Darstellung des Ixion und Tantalos», AA 1937, 69-75; Helbig, W., RE X (1919) 1373-1381 s.v. «Ixion»; Séchan, Études 389-395; Simon, E., «Ixion und die Schlangen», ÖJh 42, 1955, 5-16; Weizsäcker, P., ML II 1 (1890-94) 766-772 s.v. «Ixion».

CATALOGUE

A. Jugement d'Ixion et exécution de la sentence

DOCUMENTS GRECS

Vases attiques à f. r.

1.* (= 27, = Ares 86*, = Hermes 732) Canthare. Londres, BM E 155. De Nola. - ARV 832, 37; P. d'Amphitrite; Add 295; CVA 4, pl. 33, 2; 35, 2; Simon 5-16 fig. 1-2. - Vers 460 av. J.-C. - B: I. barbu, nu, debout, les bras écartés du corps, est tenu par Arès et Hermès devant Héra trônante, en présence d'Athéna qui tient une roue ailée.

2. (= Bia et Kratos 1*, = Hera 478, = Hephaistos 227 - avec bibl.) Fr. de cratère-skyphos. Bâle, coll. Cahn HC 541. - Schefold, SB III 155 fig. 206. - Vers 400 av. J.-C., cercle de Meidias. - Devant Zeus et Héra trônante, Héphaïstos brandit un marteau; derrière lui on peut distinguer une roue ailée sur laquelle Bia pose la main. Au registre inférieur, I. (IXION) et Kratos en compagnie d'un autre personnage dont le nom n'a pas été conservé; sur un second fr., → Artemis et la main d'une autre figure.

DOCUMENTS ITALIOTES

3.* (= Bia et Kratos 2, = Erinys 20, = Iris 156*) Cratère à volutes apulien à f. r. Leningrad, Ermitage 1717 (St 424). De Ruvo. - RVAp II 930, 117; P. du Louvre K 67; Simon 18-19 fig. 8-9; Pensa, M., Rappresentazioni dell'oltretomba nella ceramica apula (1977) 26, 36 fig. 3 pl. 8. - Vers 310 av. J.-C. - Sur le col, au centre, I., vêtu d'un pagne maintenu par deux bretelles croisées et d'une chlamyde, est attaché à une roue enflammée tenue à g. par une Érinie ou Bia et à dr. par Héphaïstos drapé dans un himation, s'appuyant sur un arbre et brandissant un marteau; à g. de ce groupe → Hades trônant, à dr. → Iris.

4.* Métope de calcaire campanienne. Pompéi, Antiquarium (réserves). Du temple du Forum triangulaire. - Maiuri, A., PP 1955, 50-54; Caprino 244 fig. 290; Bianchi-Bandinelli, ElaR 247 fig. 284; Brommer, F., Hephaistos (1978) 46, 106 pl. 56, 2; Fuchs, W., dans Kanon, AntK 15, Beih. (1988) 156-158 pl. 45, 1. - III<sup>e</sup> s. av. J.-C. - I. est fixé à une roue dont les rayons sont remplacés par deux barres horizontales; ses bras (disparus) étaient tendus. Ag. Athéna (bouclier, lance, tunique longue, égide, casque à triple cimier) tient dans chaque main un rivet; Héphaïstos, la main g. sur la roue, tenait probablement des tenailles dans la dr.

DOCUMENTS ROMAINS

5.* (= Iuno 339) Peinture murale. Pompéi VI, 15, 1, Maison des Vettii, triclinium P. - Sogliano, A., Mon Ant 8, 1898, 232-387 pl. 8-11; HBr pl. 35; Rizzo, PER pl. 35; Schefold, WP 145; idem, La peinture pompéienne (1972) 130-132, 208 pl. 45; Peters, W. J. Th., MededRome 39, 1977, 95-128 pl. 59-95; Wirth, Th., RM 90, 1983, 449-455 pl. 122-124; Schefold, SB III 155-156. - 75 ap. J.-C. - Devant Junon (→ Iuno) trônante sont figurés au premier plan une femme (Néphélée?), Mercure (→ Mercurius) et Vulcain (→ Vulcanus), vêtu de l'exomis et du pilos, qui tient de la main g. la roue où I. est attaché; seul le torse du supplicié, représenté de dos, est visible; le bas du corps est hors du champ.

6. Relief, autel circulaire en marbre. Rome, villa Montemaggiore (Via Salaria). De la Via Salaria. - Persichetti, N., RM 24, 1909, 130-131 fig. 14; Gasparri, C., RendLinc 27, 1972, 111-112 pl. 10-11 d. - Fin du 3<sup>e</sup> quart du I<sup>er</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - Parmi d'autres damnés dans les Enfers, Sisyphe (→ Sisyphe I), → Tityos (?) et Tantalé (→ Tantalos), I. nu est lié, bras et jambes écartés, à une roue à huit rayons sur laquelle Vulcain pose les mains.

DOCUMENT D'INTERPRÉTATION INCERTAINE

7. Fr. de cratère en cloche apulien à f. r. Princeton, coll. Clairmont. - RVAp I 107, 34 pl. 36, 1-2; P. de Hoppin; Schefold, SB III 352 n. 310. - 1<sup>er</sup> quart du IV<sup>e</sup> s. av. J.-C. - Sur un autel, un objet circulaire à bord dentelé qui pourrait être la roue d'I.; à dr. un personnage masculin qui s'appuie sur un bâton et une femme pensive; à g. un autre personnage.

B. Le supplice dans le ciel

DOCUMENTS GRECS

Vases attiques à f. r.

8. Fr. de médaillon de coupe. Athènes, Agora P 26228. D'une maison au nord de l'Aréopage. - ARV 110, 7; P. d'Hermaios; Thompson, H. A., Hesperia 28, 1959, 105-106 pl. 22b; Schefold, SB III 154 fig. 203. - 510-500 av. J.-C. - I. nu, en position de course agenouillée, lié à une roue dont les rayons forment une croix de Saint André.

9.* Médaillon de coupe. Genève, Mus. HR 28. - Chamay 146-150 pl. 20. - 500-490 av. J.-C. - I. nu, couronné de feuillage, en position de course agenouillée vers la g., lié par le cou, la taille, les genoux et les avant-bras à une roue à quatre rayons inclinée vers la dr.

10. Fr. de médaillon de coupe. New York, coll. v. Bothmer. - Inédit (ment. par Chamay 147 n° 3). - I., roue à six rayons.

11.* Fr. de médaillon de coupe. Rome, Antiquarium Forense. Du Forum, Area di Vesta. - ARV 178, 1631: proche du Salting P.; Simon 16 fig. 6; Paribeni, E., BullCom 76, 1956-58, n° 187 pl. 14; Schefold, SB III 154 n. 307. - Vers 500 av. J.-C. - I. barbu, nu, lié à une roue dont les rayons forment une croix de Saint André; il est attaché aux rayons par les coudes et au moyeu par la taille.

Vases lucaniens à f. r.

12.* Médaillon de coupe. Tübingen, Univ. 67.6202. - LCS Suppl. 3, 26 n° 351a: gr. du P. de Schwerin; Italische Antiken (vente Tübingen 1971) 25 n° 51, ill. en couverture; Chamay 148-149 n° 6 pl. 20, 3. - 410-440 av. J.-C. - I. barbu, les cheveux longs, vêtu d'une tunique courte ceinturée; bras et jambes écartés, il est debout devant la roue sur laquelle aucun lien visible ne le retient.

13.* Fr. de skyphos phlyaque. Métaponte, Antiquarium 29340. De Métaponte, atelier du peintre. - LCS Suppl. 3, 64 n° D 64: atelier du P. de Dolon; Metaponto I (NotSc 29, 1975, Suppl.) 402 fig. 51a; Chamay 148 n° 7. - 370-360 av. J.-C. - Seul un fr. de la roue avec le bras d'I. est conservé ainsi qu'une femme debout derrière un support avec un bol.

Vases campaniens à f. r.

14.* (= Bia et Kratos 3*, = Hephaistos 229* - avec bibl.) Amphore à col. Capoue, Mus. Camp. 7336. De Capoue. - LCS 338, 788: gr. d'Ixion; Simon 17 n. 48; CVA 1, pl. 18, 1; 19. - 330-310 av. J.-C. - I. barbu, nu, est étendu sur une roue enflammée: son corps forme un angle de 45° avec le sol; de chaque côté se tient une femme: Bia ou Néphélée et une Érinie. Au registre inférieur, deux humains observent la scène.

15.* (= Erinys 19, = Hephaistos 228 - avec bibl.) Amphore à col. Berlin-DDR, Staatl. Mus. F 3023. De Cumes. - LCS 338, 787: gr. d'Ixion; Simon 16-17 fig. 7; Trendall/Webster, Illustrations 95, III 3, 33. - 330-310 av. J.-C. - Au registre supérieur, I. lié par des serpents est étendu sur une roue formée de deux cercles concentriques, tenue de chaque côté par une Érinie ou les vents (→ Aurai); au registre inférieur une Érinie surgit du sol; à sa dr. Hermès, à sa g. Héphaïstos.

DOCUMENTS ÉTRUSQUES

16.* Miroir de bronze gravé. Londres, BM 1900-6.113. - Dimitrov 71-72 fig. 3; Simon 19; Pfister-Roesgen, G., Die etr. Spiegel des 5. Jh. v. Chr. (1975) 31-32, 106-107 S 11 pl. 12. - 460-450 av. J.-C. - I. nu, barbu, est lié par les poignets, la taille et le cou à une roue ailée à huit rayons. Le paysage est représenté par un arbre.

17.* Scarabée de calcédoine brune. Londres, BM 72.6-4. 1144. De Lentinello (Sicile). - Deecke, W., ML II 1 (1890-94) 92 s.v. «Ichsiun»; Furtwängler, AG II, 87; III, 177 pl. 18, 10; Walters, BMGems 75 n° 619 pl. 11; Richter, EngrGemsGE 209 n° 853 fig.; Zazoff, EtrSk 95 n° 182 pl. 136; de Simone, Entlehnungen 185. - IV<sup>e</sup> s. av. J.-C. - I. (inscr. Ichsiun) est attaché à une roue à huit rayons, ovale pour s'adapter au cadre et dont les rayons supérieurs ne rejoignent pas le moyeu mais forment une barre horizontale.

C. Ixion dans les Enfers

DOCUMENTS ROMAINS

Reliefs

18.* Bloc architectural de calcaire. Isernia, Antiquario Comunale 23. De la région d'Isernia. - Caprino 244 fig. 290; Diebner, S., Aesernia-Venafrum (1979) 129-131 n° 1s 22 pl. 16. - I<sup>er</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - I. est lié à une roue à huit rayons par un mince serpent qui lui passe autour du poignet, du pied dr. et du bras g.

19.* (= Charon I 53, = Hektor 49 - avec bibl.) Sarcophage de marbre dit «de Protésilas». Vatican, Gall. dei Candelabri 2465. De Rome, près de la via Appia Nuova. - Cumont, Symb 30 n. 3; 134 n. 1; Simon 22-23 fig. 11; Helbig 417-419 n° 527; Andrae, B., Studien zur röm. Grabkunst, RM 9, Ergh. (1963) 39, 58 B 3; 59 C 5 pl. 36, 3; Sichtermann/Koch, MythSark 64-65 n° 69 pl. 169; Koch/Sichtermann, RömSark 188. - Vers 170 ap. J.-C. - Sur le petit côté dr., entre Sisyphe et Tantalé, I., tourné vers la g., le corps incliné vers l'arrière, est pris dans une roue dont six rayons sont visibles; le bas des jambes est invisible.

20. Fr. d'angle de sarcophage de marbre. Vatican, Magazzini. - Lippold, SkulptVat III 2, 209; Andrae, o.c. 19, 58 n. 292. - Vers 170 ap. J.-C. - Sur le petit côté, un fr. de la roue d'I. et Tantalé.

21.* Plaque de marbre d'un parapet. Sidé, Mus. 545. Du Nymphée. - Müfid-Mansel, A., «Ein Ixion-Relief aus dem Nymphaeum von Side», Anatolia 2, 1957, 79-88; idem, Die Ruinen von Side (1963) 62 fig. 46. - 2<sup>e</sup> moitié du II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - I. lié à une roue, le corps incliné vers la dr., survole un paysage symbolisé par un dieu fleuve (→ Fluvii), le → Styx ou l'→ Acheron.

22. Fr. de sarcophage en marbre. Stara-Zagora (Bulgarie), Mus. D'Augusta Traiana. - Dimitrov 69-75 fig. 1; Andrae, o.c. 19, 59 B 4. - Fin du II<sup>e</sup>-dé-but du III<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. – Sur le petit côté conservé, près de Tantale, I. nu chevauche une roue.

23. (= Danaïdes 28) Sarcophage (?) perdu. Anc. Rome. – Codex Pighianus F<sup>o</sup> 47; Jahn, O., «Darstellungen der Unterwelt auf röm. Sarkophagen», SbLeipzig 1856, 267–284; Andraea, o. c. 19, 59 C 3; 61 D 5. – Début du III<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. (?). – I., entre un dieu fleuve et Mercure, est attaché à la roue.

24. * Fr. de haut-relief en marbre. Pouzzoles, amphithéâtre. De Pouzzoles. – Maiuri, A., Die Altertümer der Phlegräischen Felder (1935) 35; Zancani-Montuoro, P., AttiMGrecia 5, 1964, 86 n. 84. – Ép. hellénistique (Maiuri) ou romaine (Zancani Montuoro). – I. barbu, le buste légèrement incliné vers la g., lié à la roue dont il ne reste que le moyeu et le départ des rayons.

25. (= Alkestis 48) Relief de pierre. Tatahouïne (El-Amrouni, Tunisie), mausolée d'Apuleius Maximus Rideuni et de sa femme Thanubra. – Berger, Ph., RA 1895, 71–83; Andraea, o. c. 19, 59 B 5; 59 C 2; Troussat, P., Recherches sur le Limes Tripolitanus (1974) 110–113 fig. 33a. – 1<sup>re</sup> moitié du III<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. – I., lié sur une roue portant deux barres horizontales, survole plusieurs scènes infernales.

DOCUMENT IMAGINAIRE

26. Statue érigée devant le temple du Mincio. – Verg. georg. 3, 38–39. – I. enchaîné à la roue par des serpents près du rocher de Tantale.

D. La folie d'Ixion

IDENTIFICATIONS INCERTAINES OU ERRONÉES

27. (= 1) Canthare attique à f. r. Londres, BM E 155. – Fink, J., «Seele, Tod, Rachegeist», ÖJh 44, 1959, 100–111; Simon 5–16 fig. 1–2; Schefold, SB III 155 fig. 205. – Vers 460 av. J.-C. – A. → Thanatos soulève le cadavre d'un homme (Deionée?); I. nu, brandissant une épée, s'agenouille sur un autel; un serpent représentant une Érinys s'enroule autour de lui et lui mord l'épaule. Un personnage masculin (Zeus?) brandit une pierre.

28. Métope à relief en marbre. Métope sud n° 16 du Parthénon (perdue). – Simon, Jdl 90, 1975, 107–113, 117–118 fig. 1; Fehr, B., Hephaistos 4, 1982, 39–49 pl. 1; Robertson, M., «The South Metopes: Theseus und Daïdalos», dans PartheKonBa 206–208 pl. 16, 1; Schefold, SBIV 71 n. 161 fig. 13. – 448–442 av. J.-C. – I. (?) nu, debout, le bras dr. levé, s'apprête à frapper un homme à terre, Deionée? (interprétation d'E. Simon).

29. Métope à relief en calcaire. Paestum, Mus. Du 1<sup>er</sup> trésor de l'Héraion du Silaris, métope 26. – Simon 25–26 fig. 14; Zancani Montuoro, o. c. 24, 85–86; Simon, E., Jdl 82, 1967, 280 fig. 4; Schefold, SB III 261–262 fig. 350. – Milieu du VI<sup>e</sup> s. av. J.-C. – I. (?) debout brandit un objet; autour de lui s'enroule un serpent gigantesque (identification d'E. Simon; on s'accorde généralement à voir dans cette scène Oreste [→ Orestes] et une Érinys).

E. Ixion vengeant sa mère

30. Peinture ou relief. Cyzique, temple d'Apollonius. – Anth. Pal. 3, 12; van der Meer, L. B., BullAnt-Besch 52–53, 1977–78, 67–68; Brilliant, R., Visual Narratives (1984) 35. – 1<sup>re</sup> moitié du II<sup>e</sup> s. av. J.-C. – I. tue Phorbas et Polymélus pour venger le meurtre de sa mère Mégara qu'ils avaient tuée après son refus d'épouser l'un ou l'autre.

COMMENTAIRE

A. Iconographie

L'apparence d'I. L'ensemble des représentations donne d'I. une image cohérente, il est représenté comme un homme d'âge mûr, barbu. En tant que condamné, il est nu, sauf sur des vases d'Italie du Sud (3. 12) où sont figurés des costumes de scène. Un troisième document, 13, indique l'existence d'une comédie sur ce thème.

Les châtiments d'I. Tout comme les fautes d'I. sont multiples, ses châtiments le sont aussi. Au premier crime correspond la folie, peut-être illustrée sur le canthare de Londres 27 (il s'agirait plus précisément de la demande de purification présentée à Zeus). Au second crime, le viol d'Héra, correspond le supplice de la roue, et à l'union monstrueuse avec la Nuée la naissance des Centaures.

Le jugement d'I. L'illustration de ce thème, rare pour d'autres damnés, est pour I. particulièrement diversifiée, inspirée par le théâtre. La première représentation, 1, va à l'encontre de la tradition littéraire: I. est jugé par Héra, particularité reprise sur une peinture de Pompéi (5), seule image romaine de cette scène. Mais une autre image (2) rend à Zeus son rôle de juge, et à Héra celui d'accusatrice. L'exécution de la sentence est, dans le cas général, en Grèce (2–4. 15) et à Rome (5–6), confiée à Héphaïstos, parfois aidé par Bia et Kratos (2–3. 15?), personnages introduits par le théâtre (cf. Aischyl. Prom.); mais il est parfois remplacé (1) ou aidé (4) par Athéna. Le jugement peut être combiné avec l'exécution de la sentence (3. 5) ou même le début du supplice (6. 15).

Le supplice dans le ciel. Les premières représentations attiques de la fin du VI<sup>e</sup> s. av. J.-C. se rencontrent uniquement sur des médaillons de coupe: la roue occupe tout le champ (8–11); l'adaptation du support au sujet se retrouve sur un miroir étrusque (16) et sur une intaille (17) où la roue devient ovale pour coïncider avec la forme de la pierre. Le schéma ancien de la «course agenouillée» permet d'inclure I. dans le cadre en pliant ses membres fixés aux rayons et de le faire participer au mouvement de la roue indiqué par son inclinaison par rapport à l'axe de la coupe (9, et probablement aussi sur les autres exemplaires de cette série: 10–11).

Au début du IV<sup>e</sup> s., sur une coupe lucanienne 12, I. est allongé sur la roue: ce schéma se perpétuera jusqu'à l'époque romaine; c'est aussi la seule image où I. n'est pas attaché. Son irréalisme, plus qu'I. lui-même, évoque la représentation d'un acteur, impression renforcée par le costume.

Dans un cadre élargi, sur l'amphore de Capoue 14, illustration de la pièce d'Euripide (?), les témoins anonymes permettent d'évoquer aussi le texte de Pindare (P. 2, 23–24), exhortation d'I. aux hommes à ne pas suivre son exemple. Sur l'amphore de Cumes 15, la roue d'I. est dans le ciel mais l'Erinye qui émerge du sol modifie le sens de la représentation: elle ne poursuit pas le criminel pour le châtier mais assiste au supplice, le mettant ainsi déjà en relation avec le monde souterrain.

La première image d'I. dans le monde infernal est probablement un peu antérieure au texte d'Apollonios de Rhodes (3, 62). Sur le col d'un cratère apulien (3) est figurée une scène proche des jugements mais elle a lieu en présence d'un messager et d'un dieu qui assiste à l'action sans rien faire, et en l'absence d'Héra; celle-ci est toujours présente quand cet épisode se déroule sur terre, et les peintres lui accordent alors un rôle très important. Ces éléments donnent à penser que le dieu est Hadès et que la scène a pour cadre les Enfers.

À l'époque romaine, I. est totalement intégré au monde infernal. La roue, sur la plupart des images, repose sur le sol: 5–6. 18–20. 22–23; cette disposition donne à la représentation un aspect statique incompatible avec le mythe, lui enlevant une partie de sa signification; aussi, pour y remédier, apparaît sur deux images un nouveau schéma: I. n'est plus fixé sur la roue mais immobilisé dans les rayons, sur le sarcophage «de Protésilas» (19) où il est tordu dans la roue, et sur un fr. de sarcophage (22) où il la chevauche. Mais ces tentatives isolées ne supplanteront pas l'image traditionnelle. Pour traduire le tournoiement les sculpteurs utilisent à nouveau l'inclinaison de l'axe de la roue (21. 25).

Les instruments du supplice: la roue. En Attique (1–2. 8. 11) et en Lucanie (12–13), seules apparaissent des roues de char. À l'époque romaine, une seule roue conserve cette apparence (21); les autres documents montrent I. sur une roue de charrette, figurée avec un réalisme particulier à Pompéi (5).

En Apulie (3) et en Campanie (14–15) le prisonnier est immobilisé sur un véritable instrument de torture en usage à ce moment, constitué d'un large cercle où sont fixées les entraves, d'une tige concentrique qui permet de le faire tourner (3), et de minces rayons (14–15) servant parfois de supports aux liens et au corps du supplicié.

Des flammes entourent parfois la roue (3. 7[?]. 14–15), donnant une note surnaturelle à la scène, écho de la littérature (Schol. Eur. Phoen. 1185).

La roue est ailée à deux reprises en Attique: peu avant le milieu et à la fin du V<sup>e</sup> s. av. J.-C. (1–2). Ces ailes annoncent, pendant le jugement, le vol futur de la roue suivant une convention en usage à cette époque (cf. le char de Triptolème [→ Triptolemos], plus rarement celui de Dionysos [→ Dionysos 463–464] et d'Héphaïstos [→ Hephaistos 43–44]). En Étrurie (16) la roue est ailée pendant le vol: c'est une particularité locale.

Les liens. En Attique, les liens d'I. sont de simples cordes (8–11) sur les premières représentations. Plus tard, ce sont des attaches métalliques (2), comme le montre le geste d'Héphaïstos; en Apulie (3) et en Campanie (14–15) ces entraves sont semblables à celles qui, à la même époque, immobilisent Andromède (→ Andromeda I 13. 18) et Prométhée (→ Erinyes 21), illustrant le système utilisé au théâtre; ce dispositif est repris en Campanie (4), en Étrurie (16–17) et à Rome (5–6. 21. 25). Des serpents, animaux voués aux Érinys qu'ils symbolisent et au nom desquelles ils entravent le prisonnier, peuvent, comme dans la littérature, remplacer ou renforcer ces liens.

B. Mythe et interprétations

De nombreuses interprétations ont été données du mythe d'Ixion. On a vu dans I. fixé sur sa roue le souvenir de roues rituelles utilisées en relation avec un mythe solaire indo-européen (Dumézil, G., Le problème des Centaures [1929]), ou l'influence de la représentation du dieu mésopotamien Ashur sous la forme d'un buste humain émergeant d'un disque ailé (Cook, Zeus I 205–211). C'est aussi l'image de l'ixynx, roue magique servant à des rites de séduction (Detienne, M., Les jardins d'Adonis [1972] 165–166), le crime d'I. expliquant ses rapports avec cet objet. Mais I. sur la roue évoquait aussi un supplice auquel plusieurs auteurs se réfèrent dès la fin du VI<sup>e</sup> s. av. J.-C.: Anakr. (Page PMG fig. 388), Antiphon (1, 20), Aristoph. (Pax 452), Ach. Tat. (6, 21; 7, 12), Chariton (Chairéas et Kallirhoé 3, 4, 7); c'est une pratique exclusivement grecque (Cic. Tusc. 5, 24; Apul. met. 3, 9; 10, 10).

L'iconographie d'I., principalement funéraire, se trouve aussi hors de ce contexte (5–21). I. apparaît en effet, surtout au travers des textes, comme le parangon de ceux qui en troublant l'ordre social créent le désordre, tendance soulignée par sa parenté avec Arès et Phlégyas. Il refuse tout d'abord de payer la dot de Dia, contrevenant aux lois fondamentales de la société humaine au travers du mariage, une des pièces essentielles du système social dans l'antiquité; puis il assassine son beau-père, commettant un meurtre au sein d'une famille, donc d'une communauté religieuse: cet acte entraîne sa folie, donc sa mise à l'écart des humains.

Les fautes suivantes touchent au niveau divin. L'étreinte contre nature avec la Nuée, union sans les Charites (Pind. P. 2, 42), ne peut produire qu'une race monstrueuse. Cet épisode était peut-être à l'origine indépendant du second acte de démesure d'I., l'attentat contre Héra; celui-ci entraîne son principal châtiment puisqu'il s'attaque à une divinité qui représente, par son union avec Zeus, l'ordre dans tous les domaines.

C. Ixion figuré en dehors de son châtiment

I. n'est représenté de manière certaine que pendant le jugement de son second crime et son supplice.

Seules quelques images d'interprétation incertaine peuvent être rattachées à d'autres événements de sa vie: sa folie occasionnée par son premier crime (27-29) et la vengeance du meurtre de sa mère (30). Ce dernier épisode n'est connu par aucune autre source littéraire ou iconographique. L'œuvre mentionnée (30) se trouvait dans le temple érigé par Attale II et Eumène II en l'honneur de leur mère, dans un cycle dédié à la piété filiale. Cette action n'est absolument pas dans la logique de la légende du personnage et l'on est amené à se demander si l'on ne se trouve pas, en fait, en présence d'un homonyme; la comparaison des généalogies ne permet pas, elle non plus, d'établir une liaison entre les deux légendes.

CATHERINE LOCHIN

KABEIROS, KABEIROI → Megaloi Theoi

KADMILOS → Megaloi Theoi

KADMOS I

(Kādmos, Kásmos, Kādmon, Kadmalon, Cadmus). Der vorherrschenden Ansicht nach Sohn von → Agenor (I) und Telephassa (Telephae, Telephe). Gemahl der → Harmonia und Vater von Agaue (→ Pentheus), → Autonoe, → Ino, → Semele und Polydoros.

LITERARISCHE QUELLEN: K. wird in zahlreichen, oft jedoch einander widersprechenden Quellen verschiedener Epochen erwähnt, was eine einheitliche, zusammenhängende und logisch konsequente Darstellung erschwert. Die ältesten Quellen, in denen K. genannt wird, sind Hom. Od. 5, 333 und Hes. theog. 937, die jedoch keine geographischen Angaben zu seinem Leben machen. Immerhin werden die Kadmeier sowohl in der theog. 326 als auch in der Il. 4, 385 ff.; 5, 804; 10, 288; 23, 680 mit Theben in Beziehung gebracht.

Es gab jedoch bereits spätestens seit dem 5. Jh. v. Chr. eine Überlieferung, der zufolge K. Phoiniker aus Tyros oder Sidon (Hdt. 2, 49, 3; 4, 147, 4; 5, 58 und Eur. Phrixos TGF<sup>2</sup> frg. 819; Phoen. 638-639), und zwar ein Nachkomme der → Io (I) (Bakchyl. 19, 41 ff.) war. Es ist deshalb schwierig, mit Sicherheit zu erklären, ob K. ursprünglich Grieche war oder nicht.

In den älteren Quellen wird als sein Vater Agenor (Hdt. 4, 147; Soph. Oid. T. 268) genannt. Es gibt jedoch auch Quellen, die → Phoinix (I) (Konon, FGrH 26 F 1, XXXII. XXXVII) oder Ogygos (Phot. s. v. Ὀγύγιοι καὶ) als Vater des K. angeben. Die Mutter ist in den meisten Quellen Telephassa, in den älteren jedoch Argiope (Pherekydes, FGrH 3 F 21) und in einigen sehr späten Tyro (Eust. ad Dion. Per. 899, 912). Als Geschwister gelten der vorherrschenden, auf alten Zeugnissen basierenden Ansicht nach Kilix und Phoinix (Hdt. 7, 91), während → Europe (I) meist als Tochter des Phoinix (Il. 14, 321) vorkommt. Das früheste schriftliche Zeugnis für Europe als Tochter des Agenor und folglich als Schwester des K. stammt aus dem 1. Jh. v. Chr. (s. Bühler, W., Europa [1968] 8, 30; implizit jedoch schon Hdt. 4, 147, 4). Als Geschwister des K. werden außerdem erwähnt Thasos (Eur. Phrixos, TGF<sup>2</sup> frg. 819; Schol. Eur. Phoen. 6), → Kepheus und → Phineus (I) (Nonn. Dion. 2, 679 ff. und 3, 266 ff.), Syros (Eust. ad Dion. Per. 899, 912), Elektra (Paus. 9, 8, 4), Eidothea (Schol. Soph. Ant. 918) und Isaie mit Melia (Pherekydes, FGrH 3 F 21).

Als Europe von → Zeus geraubt worden war – der Mythos war sowohl Hom. (Il. 14, 321-322) als auch Hes. (frg. 141 Merkelbach/West) bekannt – wurde K. von seinem Vater Agenor zusammen mit seinen Brüdern Kilix und Phoinix ausgesandt, um sie zu suchen (Hdt. 2, 49, 3; 4, 147, 4). (In einer späteren Quelle ist der Streit des K. mit Phoinix um die Herrschaft des Königreiches der Grund für die Flucht des K. aus Phoinikien, s. Edwards 40.)

Auf der Suche nach Europe wurde K. von mehreren Gefährten begleitet (Hdt. 2, 44, 49; 4, 147). Bevor er das griechische Festland erreichte, kam er durch viele Gebiete wie Thera (Hdt. 4, 147), Rhodos (Diod. 5, 58 = Zenon von Rhodos, FGrH 523 F 1 [58]; FGrH 532 F 1 B-C), Samothrake (Diod. 5, 48 u. a., s. unten), Thrakien, wo er eine andere, nicht die von ihm gesuchte Europe, «γυνὴ ἐπυχόπια», fand (Hegesippos, FGrH 391 F 3), Thasos (Hdt. 2, 44; 6, 47), die Goldminen im Pangaion (Clem. Al. Strom. 1, 75, 8), Pallene auf der Chalkidike, wohin er mit → Proteus aus Ägypten gelangte, allerdings nicht, um Europe dort zu finden, sondern um den gleichnamigen Erdteil zu erobern (Konon, FGrH 26 F 1, XXXVII), und vielleicht auch Euböa (Strabon 10, 1, 8). Sicher sind viele Teile seiner Wanderschaft spätere Erfindungen, wovon einige sich auf die Verbreitung der «phoinikischen und kadmeischen» Buchstabenschrift beziehen (Hdt. 5, 58-59), die K. der Überlieferung nach als Erster aus Phoinikien nach Griechenland eingeführt hat (s. Edwards 22-23 und Anm. 32). (Über die mit K. und seinen Gefährten in Beziehung gebrachten Orte s. Crusius 858 ff.). Ein Ereignis, das wir aus jüngeren Quellen kennen, hat sich vielleicht auch auf diesen Wanderungen zugetragen: K. tötete → Linos, weil K. das Recht beanspruchte, als einziger die erste Buchstabenschrift zu verbreiten (Zenob. 4, 45, CPG I 97). Ebenfalls auf der Suche nach Europe hat sich die Episode mit Typhoeus (oder → Typhon) ereignet. Typhon hatte Zeus die Sehnen herausgeschnitten und in Kilikien in einer Höhle versteckt. K. wurde von → Pan in einen Hirten verwandelt und konnte Typhon mit seinem Flötenspiel bezaubern und ihn überreden, die Sehnen des Zeus herauszugeben, indem er vorgab, daraus ein schöneres Instrument, die Lyra, bauen zu wollen (Nonn. Dion. 1, 360 ff.).

Die Quellen, die von der Ankunft des K. in Samothrake berichten, stammen aus späterer Zeit. Allerdings ist bereits bei Hellan. (FGrH 4 F 23) → Harmonia, die Frau des K., die Tochter der → Elektra (III) (oder Elektryone) und Schwester von → Dardanos und Eëtion (→ Iasion, → Aëtion). Daraus schließen wir, daß die Erzählung von der Reise des K. nach Samothrake spätestens im 5. Jh. v. Chr. entstanden ist. Nach Demagoras von Samos (FGH IV 378 frg. 1) lernte K. Harmonia bei einer Weihehandlung der Mysterien auf Samothrake kennen, wohin er mit seiner Mutter Telephassa auf der Suche nach Europe gekommen war. Die Hochzeit von K. und Harmonia kam, Demagoras zufolge, mit Hilfe der Athena zustande und fand in Samothrake statt. Am Hochzeitsmahl waren die Götter zu Gast und brachten Geschenke mit, → Demeter Weizenkörner, → Hermes eine Leier, → Athena die berühmte Halskette, einen Peplos und Flöten, und Elektra, die Mutter der Braut, Kymbala, Tympana und sonstige Geräte für die orgiastischen Weihehandlungen an den Mysterien der Großen Mutter (→ Kybele). → Apollon spielte Kithara und die Musen (→ Mousa, Mousai) Flöte, und alle Götter segneten diese Ehe (s. Diod. 5, 49). Ephoros (FGrH 70 F 120) spricht von Zeremonien, die in Erinnerung an den Raub der Harmonia durch K. auf Samothrake durchgeführt wurden.

Auf der Suche nach Europa gelangt K. schließlich nach Delphi, um das Orakel zu befragen. Der Orakelspruch, den er dort erhielt und der besagt, daß er aufhören soll, nach Europa zu suchen, ist sicher eine spätere Erfindung. Außerdem gibt das Orakel K. den Rat, einer Kuh aus der Herde eines Pelagon zu folgen und an der Stelle, an der sie sich zum erstenmal niederläßt, um auszuruhen, eine Stadt zu bauen. Als Kennzeichen trage die Kuh auf jeder Seite einen weißen Kreis von der Gestalt des Vollmondes (Schol. Eur. Phoen. 638). Tatsächlich fand K. die Kuh in der Herde des Pelagon, kaufte sie und kam, von ihr geführt, nach Boiotien. Über den Weg des K. dahin s. Ov. met. 3, 19; Nonn. Dion. 4, 319 ff.; Paus. 9, 19, 4. An der ersten Stelle, an der sich die Kuh vor Erschöpfung hinlegte, errichtete K. Theben. Weil er das Tier, jüngeren Quellen zufolge, Athena (oder Zeus, Ov. met. 3, 26) opfern wollte, schickte er seine Gefährten aus, um an einer nahegelegenen Quelle Wasser zu holen. Diese Quelle war von einem Drachen, einem Sohn des → Ares, bewacht (nach Palaiph. 3 Festa war der Drache König der Thebaner). Die Gefährten wurden von dem Untier getötet, so daß der Heros selbst mit ihm kämpfen mußte (s. Apollod. bibl. 3, 4). Die älteren Quellen erwähnen jedoch die Gefährten überhaupt nicht: s. Eur. Phoen. 658 ff. K. tötete den Drachen mit seinem Schwert (Pherekyd., FGrH 3 F 88) oder mit einem Stein (Hellan., FGrH 4 F 96 und Eur. Phoen. 663), während ihm Athena beistand (Eur. Phoen. 1062–1063). In jüngeren Quellen benutzt er dazu einen Dolch und einen Stein zusammen (Nonn. Dion. 4, 408 ff.), einen Pfeil (Fontenrose 312–313) oder Stein, Speer und Lanze (Ov. met. 3, 52 ff.). Dem Rat des Ares (Hellan., FGrH 4 F 1a und Pherekyd., FGrH 3 F 22) oder der Athena folgend (Eur. Phoen. 667 ff.), säte K. die Drachenzähne, nachdem er, wie jüngere Quellen berichten, die Erde gepflügt hatte (Ov. met. 3, 104–105; Nonn. Dion. 4, 424 ff.; Stat. Theb. 4, 434 ff.). Nach Pherekydes (FGrH 3 F 22) gaben Athena und Ares K. nur die Hälfte der Drachenzähne zum Aussäen, die übrigen → Aietes. Stesichoros zufolge (Page PMG frg. 195) säte Athena die Drachenzähne, s. Vian 26.

Aus dieser Saat wuchsen viele bewaffnete Männer, die «Σπαρτοί». Sie fingen an, sich gegenseitig zu bekämpfen und zu töten, weil K. Steine zwischen sie geworfen hatte, und sie glaubten, daß das einer von ihnen getan hätte. Nur fünf blieben am Leben: Udaïos, Chthonios, Echion, Pelor und Hyperenor (Pherekyd., FGrH 3 F 22). Hellan. (FGrH 4 F 1a) berichtet dagegen, daß aus der Drachenzahnsaat nur diese fünf Spartoi entsprossen sind. Aus jüngeren Quellen erfahren wir, daß K. wegen des Mordes an dem Drachen von dessen Vater Ares beinahe selber getötet worden wäre und durch Zeus' Hilfe gerettet wurde (s. Crusius 829). K. wurde aber dazu verpflichtet, Ares acht Jahre zu dienen (Apollod. bibl. 3, 4, 2). Danach erhielt er durch den Beistand von Athena die Königsherrschaft über Theben (Apollod. a. O.).

In Theben heiratete K. anschließend Harmonia, die Tochter von Ares (in jüngeren Quellen ist sie Tochter oder Schwester des Drachen: Derkylos, FGrH 305 F 6; Palaiph. 4 Festa) und Aphrodite (Hes. theog. 933 ff. und 975 ff.). (Späte Quellen nennen als Gattin des K. auch Europe [Schol. Eur. Rhesus 29], Elektra [Schol. Eur. Phoen. 5], die Sphinx [Palaiph. 4 Festa] oder Hermione [Myth. Vat. II 78].) Einige Quellen berichten auch, daß K. mit Hilfe des Zeus Harmonia zur Frau bekommen habe (s. Apollod. bibl. 3, 4, 2). Zur Hochzeit kamen die Musen (Pind. P. 3, 88 ff.), die Chariten (→ Charis, Charites), die auch vorsangen (Thgn. 15 ff.), und die Götter (Apollod. bibl. 3, 4). K. selbst schenkte seiner Braut einen Peplos und eine Halskette, die von → Hephaistos gefertigt worden war (Apollod. l. c.). Pherekyd. zufolge (FGrH 3 F 89) hatte K. die Kette von Europe erhalten. Hellan. (FGrH 4 F 98) erwähnt, daß die Kette der Harmonia von Aphrodite und der Chiton (Peplos) von Athena überreicht worden ist. (Hyg. fab. 148 nennt neben Athena auch Hephaistos.) Vgl. Nonn. Dion. 5, 91 ff. und 125 ff. (dazu hier Kommentar).

Harmonia gebar K. fünf Kinder, Ino, Semele, Agaue, Autonoe und Polydoros (Hes. theog. 975 ff.). Merkwürdigerweise behauptet Euripides (Bacchae 1305), daß K. keine männlichen Kinder gehabt habe, während er in den Phoen. 7–8 Kenntnis davon hat, daß Polydoros dessen Sohn war. Als K. entdeckte, daß Semele Dionysos geboren hatte, schloß er, späteren Quellen zufolge, Mutter und Kind in eine Kiste ein und warf sie ins Meer. Die Kiste wurde in Lakonien ans Ufer gespült und von den Einwohnern der Stadt Brasiai (Paus. 3, 24, 3) geborgen. Nur der kleine Dionysos lebte noch, Semele war schon tot.

In späten Quellen finden wir viele Informationen über das Schicksal von K. und Harmonia nach ihrer Flucht aus Theben und ihrer Wanderung in einem von Kühen gezogenen Karren nach Illyrien. Diese Begebenheit war bereits im 5. Jh. v. Chr. bekannt (Eur. Bacchae 1333). Parthenios 32 berichtet, daß sie auf ihrer Flucht aus Theben von Epeiros, der Tochter τῷ Σπαρτοῦ Echion, begleitet wurden, die die zerstückelten Glieder von Pentheus mit sich genommen hatte. Apollod. bibl. 3, 5, 4 und Apoll. Rhod. 4, 516 ff. zufolge wurde K. König der Encheleer und unterstützte sie in ihrem siegreichen Kampf gegen die Illyrer. K. und Harmonia bekamen in Illyrien einen Sohn, den sie Illyrios nannten (Apollod. bibl. 3, 5, 4). (Über einen anderen Sohn des K. mit Namen Rhizon s. Edwards 33 Anm. 40.) Hier soll er Städte wie Lychnis und Buthoes (Edwards 33) gegründet haben. Bereits im 5. Jh. v. Chr. wurde erzählt, daß K. als Anführer von Barbaren siegreich bis nach Delphi vordrang und dort schließlich geschlagen wurde und daß K. und Harmonia in Schlangen verwandelt wurden (Eur. Bacchae 1330 ff. Vgl. Crusius 850). Vermutlich hat die Verwandlung in Schlangen nicht bei ihrer Flucht aus Theben stattgefunden, sondern nach ihrem Tod in Illyrien (vgl. Kall. frg. 11, 4 Pf.; Apollod. bibl. 3, 5, 4; Nonn. Dion. 4, 418 ff.; 44, 115 ff.; 46, 364 ff.). Ihre Gräber wurden in Epidamnus gezeigt (Eratosth. ap. Steph. Byz. s. v. «Dyrrhachion»; Apoll. Rhod. 4, 516 ff.). Nach ihrem Tod wurden K. und Harmonia mit Hilfe von Ares (oder Zeus, Apollod. bibl. 3, 5, 4) «ἐπὶ δρακόντων ἄρματος» (?) (Schol. Pind. P. 3, 153) in die Elysischen Gefilde gebracht. Diese Überlieferung war bereits im 5. Jh. v. Chr. bekannt (Eur. Bacchae 1338–1339 und Pind. O. 2, 78 ff.).

In meist jüngeren Quellen wird K. nicht nur die Einführung der Buchstabenschrift in den griechischen Raum zugeschrieben, sondern auch die Kenntnis der Metallförderung, der Verarbeitung von Gold (Plin. nat. 7, 197) und Bronze (Hyg. fab. 274, 4) sowie des Steinbrechens (Plin. nat. 7, 195) auf ihn zurückgeführt. Auch der Bau von Bewässerungsanlagen, die Erfindung der Lyra (Edwards 32–33) und die Einführung des ersten Helmes und Schildes in Theben (Konon, FGrH 26 F 1, XXXVII) werden mit K. in Beziehung gebracht.

Über Fragen zur Herkunft des K., d. h. ob er Phoiniker, Boiotier, Ägypter oder Illyrer war, ob er eine historische Persönlichkeit war oder nicht, über geschichtliche, mit ihm zusammenhängende Ereignisse, chronologische Probleme und die Beziehung des K. zu Kadmilos (→ Megaloi Theoi) etc. s. Edwards; Vian; Symeonoglou, bes. 68 ff. Zur Etymologie des Namens Kadmos s. Frisk I 811 s. v. κέκασμαι, mit Lit. zu unterschiedlichen Ansichten; Chantraine 478 s. v. Κάδμος; 511 s. v. κέκασμαι. Vgl. Vian 156–157; Edwards, bes. 144 ff.; Brillante 322 mit Lit.; Vermeule 184.

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Astour, M. C., Hellenosemitica (1965) 113 ff.; Beckel, G., Götterbeistand (1961) 74 ff.; Billigmeier, J.-C., Kadmos and the Possibility of Semitic Presence in Helladic Greece (1976); Brillante, C., Studi Micenei ed Egeo-Anatolici XXI (LXXII) 1980, 311 ff.; Brommer, Vasenlisten 479–480; idem, Denkmälerlisten III 185–189; Buck, R., A History of Boeotia (1979) 45 ff. und 57 f.; Collinge, A., AntK 31, 1988, 9 ff.; Crusius, O., ML II 1 (1890–94) 824–893 s. v. «Kadmos II»; Demand, N., Thebes in the Fifth Century (1982) 52 ff.; Edwards, R., Kadmos the Phoenician (1979); Fontenrose, J., Python. A Study of Delphic Myth and its Origins (1959) bes. 306 ff.; Froning, H., Dithyrambos und Vasenmalerei in Athen (1971) 49 ff.; Gomme, A. W., JHS 33, 1913, 53 ff., 223 ff.; Heydemann, H., AZ 29, 1872, 35 ff.; Kakridis, I., Ελληνική Μυθολογία III (1986) 69 ff. (G. Anastasiou); Kerényi, K., Die Heroen der Griechen (1958) bes. 35 ff.; Krauskopf, ThebSag 49 ff.; Latte, K., RE X 2 (1919) 1460–1472 s. v. «Kadmos 4»; Pervanoglou, P., Adl 31, 1859, 146 ff.; Robert, Heldensage I, 100 ff.; Rocchi, M., Kadmos e Harmonia. Un matrimonio problematico (1989); Rumpf, A., «Dirke», in Concordia decennalis (Festschr. Univ. Köln, 1941) 41–46; Schauenburg, K., Gymnasium 64, 1957, 210 ff. (= Schauenburg 1); idem, AA 1971, 176 ff. (= Schauenburg 2); Schefold, SB IV 34 ff.; Servais-Soyez, B., AntCl 50, 1981, 733 ff.; Symeonoglou, S., The Topography of Thebes from the Bronze Age to Modern Times (1985) bes. 68 ff.; Thompson, M., in Essays in Memory of K. Lehmann, Marsyas Suppl. 1 (1964) 329 ff.; Trendall, PP 23 ff. und Anm. 14; idem, QuadTic 12, 1983, 94 ff.; Trumpf, J., Hermes 86, 1958, 129 ff.; Vermeule, E., in Studies ... G. M. A. Hanfmann (1972) 177 ff.; Vian, F., Les origines de Thèbes: Cadmos et les Spartes (1963).

KATALOG

A. Kadmos und Europe

Unteritalische Vase

1. (= Europe I 75* mit Lit.) Glockenkrater, campan. rf. Paris, Louvre K 239. – LCS 250, 150 Taf. 100, 1–2; Parrish-Maler; Zahn, E., Europa und der Stier

(1983) 51–52. 122–123 Nr. 69 mit Lit. Taf. 14, 2. – 350–340 v. Chr. – A: Europe auf dem Stier, umgeben von drei jungen Männern, vermutlich ihre drei Brüder. Der Jüngling r. mit Chlamys und Pilos, der einen Kranz und eine Lanze hält, wird mit K. identifiziert.

Monumentalmalerei

2. (= Europe I 223) Gemälde des Antiphilos, das sich zur Zeit des Plinius in der Pompeius-Stoa in Rom befand. – Plin. nat. 35, 114; Vian 41, 23. – 2. Hälfte 4. Jh. v. Chr. – K. mit Europe.

B. Kadmos und Phoinix

Münzen

3. AE, Sidon, Elagabal (218–222 n. Chr.). – BMC Phoenicia CXIII–CXIV Taf. 43, 4; Vian 44, 46. – Rs.: L. K. (Leg. CAD) mit kurzem Chiton und Lanze in der l. Hand; die r. Hand gibt er Phoinix (Leg. POE). Oben im Bildfeld zwischen den beiden Figuren der Wagen der Astarte.

C. Kadmos (?) auf einem Schiff

Münzen

4.* Eine beträchtliche Anzahl kaiserzeitlicher Münzen aus Sidon, Tyros und Samos tragen auf der Rs. die Darstellung einer männlichen Gestalt mit Chlamys, Himation oder kurzem Chiton (manchmal auch unbekleidet), nach r. oder l. gewandt, oft kräftig ausschreitend auf einem Schiffsbug, auf einigen Münzen scheint sie das Schiff zu besteigen. Diese Gestalt, die oft ein Schwert mit Scheide, manchmal Panzer und Schild, Lanze oder Schwert trägt, gewöhnlich den r. Arm nach vorn oder hinten ausgestreckt hält und den Kopf meistens zurückgewendet hat, wird für K. gehalten. Diese Identifikation ist zwar nicht unwahrscheinlich, kann jedoch bis heute nicht bewiesen werden. Handelt es sich wirklich um K., können die Szenen mit seinem Aufbruch zur Suche nach Europa erklärt werden (vgl. Zenon v. Rhodos, FGrH 523 F 1 [58]). Auf samischen Münzen befindet sich die mit kurzem Chiton und Chlamys bekleidete Gestalt vor dem Schiff und hält in der l. Hand eine Lanze und in der ausgestreckten Rechten eine Phiale. Die Münzen dieses Typus wurden von Traian bis Gallienus geprägt, die Mehrzahl ist im 3. Jh. n. Chr. entstanden. Beispiele: a)* AE, Sidon, Traian, 116–117 n. Chr. – BMC Phoenicia CXLII und Anm. 1; 180, 218–223 Taf. 23, 15; Vian 44, 44. – b) AE, Sidon, Elagabal (218–222 n. Chr.). – BMC Phoenicia 183, 236–241 Taf. 24, 2; Vian 44, 45. – c) AE, Sidon, Julia Paula (218–221 n. Chr.). – BMC Phoenicia 192, 287 Taf. 25, 1; Vian 44, 45. – d) AE, Sidon, Julia Maesa (218–222 n. Chr.). – BMC Phoenicia 194, 296–297; Vian 44, 44. – e) AE, Sidon, Annia Faustina, 221 n. Chr. – Grose, McClean III 351, 12. – f) AE, Sidon, Severus Alexander (222–235 n. Chr.). – BMC Phoenicia 197, 313–315; Vian 44, 44. – g) AE, Tyros, Elagabal (218–222 n. Chr.). – BMC Phoenicia 277, 411; Vian 43, 34. – L. Muschel. – h) AE, Tyros, Volusianus (251–253 n. Chr.). – BMC Phoenicia 285, 446; Vian 43, 35. – Unten Muschel. – i) AE, Tyros, Valerianus Senior (253–259 n. Chr.). – BMC Phoenicia 290, 496; Vian 43, 36. – L. Muschel. j) AE, Tyros, Gallienus (253–268 n. Chr.). – BMC Phoenicia 294, 489 Taf. 35, 2; Vian 43, 37. – Mit Muschel. – k) AE, Samos, Julia Mamaea (222–235 n. Chr.) bis Gallienus (253–268 n. Chr.). – BMC Ionia 381–395 Nr. 286. 301–302. 313–315. 325. 348. 363. 384 Taf. 37, 9; Vian 44, 48; SNG Copenhagen 1757. 1764. 1769. 1770. 1782. 1794. 1804. 1816.

D. Kadmos bringt den Griechen die Buchstaben-schrift

Münzen

5.* AE, Tyros, Gallienus (253–268 n. Chr.). – BMC Phoenicia 293, 488 Taf. 35, 1; Vian 43, 43 Taf. 10, 2; Crusius 871 Abb. 8. – Rs.: K. (Leg. KAA/MOY) nach l. mit Himation, das den Oberkörper frei läßt. In der l. Hand hält er eine Lanze, während er mit der r. dem ersten der drei Griechen (Leg. darunter EAAH/NEE), die vor ihm stehen, einen Papyrus überreicht. Zwischen K. und den Griechen eine Muschel.

E. Kadmos gründet Theben

Münzen

6. a)* AE, Tyros, Gallienus (253–268 n. Chr.). – BMC Phoenicia 293, 487 Taf. 34, 18; Babelon, Aché-ménides 346, 2341 Taf. 38, 19; Vian 43, 42 Taf. 10, 2; Crusius 870 Abb. 6. – Rs.: K. nach l., unbekleidet, mit einem kurzen Himation über dem l. Unterarm. In der Linken hält er eine Lanze (?), in der ausgestreckten Rechten eine Phiale. Vor ihm liegt eine Kuh, darüber sind die Mauern Thebens dargestellt (Leg. ΘΗ/ΒΕ). Hinter K. eine Muschel. – b) AE, Aigai (Aigai, Kilikien), Aemilianus (253 n. Chr.). – BMC Lycaonia, etc. CXVI, 7; InvWadd 4087 Taf. 9, 22; Vian 44, 47. – Rs.: wie a, ohne Lanze.

F. Athena berät und unterstützt Kadmos vor dem Drachenkampf

Attische Vasen

7.* (= Athena 546* mit Querverweisen) Schale, att. rf. London, BM 67.5–8.1066 (E 81). Aus Vulci. – ARV<sup>2</sup> 1024, 150; 1678: Phiale-Maler; Vian 36, 5; Beckel 142, 77 Taf. 4; Oakley, J., The Phiale Painter (1980) 120 ff. 284–285, 174. – Um 430 v. Chr. – I: Athena gibt K. (KAA/MOY) einen Stein, den er mit der Rechten entgegennimmt, während er in der Linken eine Hydria hält. Der Heros ist kräftig ausschreitend nach r. gerichtet, während er den Kopf zur Göttin gewendet hält. Bekleidet ist er mit einem kurzen Himation, das jedoch den Körper größtenteils frei läßt. In den Haaren trägt er ein Band und über der r. Schulter ein Wehrgehänge.

8.* Nolanische Amphora, att. rf. Amsterdam, Alard Pierson Mus. 1611. Aus Nola. – ARV<sup>2</sup> 1161, 2: Maler von München 2335; Vian 39, 14 Taf. 2, 2; Beckel 142, 78; CVA Scheurleer 1 Taf. 1, 5. – 440–430 v. Chr. – A: Athena gibt K. einen Stein, den er mit der Rechten annimmt, während er in der Linken eine Hydria hält. K. trägt ein Himation, Wanderschuhe und auf dem stark geneigten Kopf ein Band. An seiner r. Schulter hängt sein Schwert und im Nacken sein Petasos.

9.* (= Aphrodite 1414 mit Lit., = Harmonia 3* mit Lit., = Ismene II 2) Hydria, att. rf. Leningrad, Ermitage T 1859.2 (St 2189). Aus Taman. – ARV<sup>2</sup> 1187, 2: Art des Kadmosmalers; Vian 38–39, 12 Taf. 6–7; Beckel 143, 89; Trendall, PP 24 Anm. 14. – Um 400 v. Chr. – Athena berät K., der nach r. gewandt ist. Er trägt eine Chlamys und vielleicht einen kurzen Chiton und hält in der Linken zwei Lanzen. Vor ihm steht eine Hydria. Auf dem Kopf trägt er einen Lorbeerkranz, im Nacken den Petasos. Über ihm fliegt eine Nike auf Athena zu. Die sitzende Gestalt hinter K. ist sicher Harmonia, und die Figur mit dem Diadem auf dem Kopf hinter Athena und neben dem Drachen stellt wohl → Thebe dar. In der Gestalt daneben ist vielleicht die Personifikation der Quelle zu erkennen (vgl. 23), über der Aphrodite sitzt. R. Hermes. Die Frauen über Harmonia sind Gottheiten, vielleicht Demeter und Kore oder die ismenischen Nymphen (vgl. Paus. 9, 25, 4 und 24). Unter dem einen Horizontalhenkel ein Luterion und unter dem anderen eine Palme; beide Gegenstände bezeichnen sicher die Heiligkeit des Ortes.

10. Amphora, att. rf. Verschollen. – Reinach, Rép-Vases II 296, 4. 5; Trendall, PP 23–24 Anm. 14; Vian 37–38, 10; Beckel 142, 79. – 3. Viertel 5. Jh. v. Chr. – A: Athena mit einer Nike (?). B: Krieger in kurzem Chiton, mit Panzer, Lanze, Schild und Helm, kräftig nach l. ausschreitend. In der r. Hand hält er einen Stein. Vor ihm steht ein Baum, hinter ihm eine Frau, die ihn anzuleiten scheint. Wenn auch keine Schlange oder wenigstens eine Hydria zu sehen ist, ist es doch nicht auszuschließen, daß hier K. dargestellt ist, dem Harmonia (?) Mut zuspricht. (Vgl. auch eine verschollene Oinochoe, Greifenhagen, A., AA 1977, 219–220 Nr. 32 Abb. 32.) In diesem Fall haben die beiden Seiten des Gefäßes Beziehung zueinander.

G. Kadmos gegen den Drachen kämpfend

GRIECHISCHE UND RÖMISCHE DARSTELLUNG Lakonisch schwarzfigurige Vasen

11. (= Achilleus 257 mit Lit., = Gorgo, Gorgones 167* mit Lit.) Schale, Paris, Louvre E 669. Aus Caere. – Stibbe, LakVas 286, 303 mit Lit. Taf. 107: Reitermaler; Beckel 142, 80; Trendall, PP 23, 1; Pipili, LacLe 50–51 Abb. 77; 99 Anm. 500 mit Lit. – Um 550 v. Chr. – Krieger nach l. mit Schild, Lanze und Helm. Er greift einen Drachen an, der sich um eine Säule windet. Die Säule gehört zu einem Gebäude, das wahrscheinlich als Brunnenanlage zu erklären ist. Vögel fliegen um den Krieger, und auch auf dem Giebel des Gebäudes befinden sich Vögel. Hinter dem

Brunnenhaus sieht man eine Schlange. Die Identifizierung des Kriegers mit K. ist nicht von allen Forschern anerkannt worden. Der Vergleich mit einigen lakonischen Darstellungen (z. B. → Achilleus 261*, 264*) läßt den Schluß zu, daß es sich hier um Achilleus handelt.

12. Schale, Tarquinia, Mus. Naz. II 7762. Aus Gravisa. – Pipili, LacLe 50. 116 Nr. 142 mit Lit.: Reitermaler. – Um 550 v. Chr. – Wie 11.

Attische Vasen

13. (= Archemoros 11 mit Lit., = Eurydike I 7 mit Lit., = Hesperie 1* mit Lit.) Schale, wgr. London, BM D 7. Aus Athen. – ARV<sup>2</sup> 763, 3: Sotadesmaler; Add 286; Collinge, A., AntK 31, 1988, 9 ff. Taf. 3, 1. – 470–460 v. Chr. – I.: Mann mit kurzem Bart nach l., den Kopf rückwärts gewandt. Er trägt eine «Chlamys» aus Tierfell und auf dem Kopf einen Bauern- oder Hirtenhut. In seiner l. Hand hält er eine dünne Keule und in der erhobenen r. wahrscheinlich einen Stein, zum Wurf bereit auf eine Schlange, die r. zwischen Schilfrohr auftaucht. Zu Füßen des Mannes kniet eine weibliche Gestalt. Die Deutung auf K., der den Drachen tötet, war bereits von Furtwängler, DLZ 12, 1891, 471 vorgeschlagen worden und wurde neuerdings von Collinge vertreten. Sie kann allerdings beim jetzigen Stand der Forschung nicht alle Fragen beantworten. Für andere Deutungen s. die Lit.

14.* Lekythos, wgr. Bologna, Mus. Civ. Pa 1159 (PU 356). Aus Athen. – ARV<sup>2</sup> 760, 38: Werkstatt und Art des Tymbos-Malers; Add 286; Vian 36, 4 Taf. 2, 1; Beckel 143, 87; Trendall, PP 23 Anm. 14. – 450–440 v. Chr. – Jüngling, den Petasos im Nacken, mit Chlamys und Wanderschuhen, kräftig nach r. ausschreitend, greift mit dem Schwert in der Rechten eine Schlange an, die zwischen Felsen mit Sumpfpflanzen auftaucht. Die Identifizierung mit K. ist wahrscheinlich, aber nicht gesichert.

15. (= Ares 88, = Athena 545 mit Lit., = Harmonia 1* mit Lit.) Kelchkrater, rf. New York, MMA 1907.286.66. Aus Agrigent. – ARV<sup>2</sup> 617, 2: Spreckels-Maler; Para 398; Add 269; Vian 37, 7 Taf. 3; Beckel 75, 84; Trendall, PP 23, 2. – 450–440 v. Chr. – A: K., bartlos, mit kurzem Chiton, Chlamys, Wanderschuhen und im Nacken den Petasos, kräftig nach r. ausschreitend, den Kopf jedoch zurückgewandt. In der l. Hand hält er eine Oinochoe (Hydria), in der erhobenen r. einen Stein, bereit, ihn gegen einen Drachen zu schleudern, der hinter einem Fels mit Schilf und einer Quelle (?) erscheint. Vor der Schlange sitzt auf dem Felsen eine weibliche Gestalt, die Thebe sein muß (oder die Personifikation der Quelle) und nicht Harmonia. Hinter ihr Ares; vor K. Athena.

16. (= Ismenos 1*) Kolonettenkrater, rf. Rom, Villa Giulia. Aus Gualdo Tadino (Umbrien). – Stefani, E., NotSc 1935, 170 ff. Abb. 22; Vian 36, 6; Beckel 142, 82. – 440–435 v. Chr. – A: K. nach r., ohne Bart, ein Himation um die Linke geschlungen, in der er eine Hydria hält. In der r., nach hinten erhobenen Hand hält er einen Stein, zum Wurf bereit gegen den Drachen, der vor ihm hinter einem Felsen zu sehen ist. Die weibliche Gestalt, die auf dem Felsen sitzt, ist wahrscheinlich Thebe (oder die Personifikation der Quelle) und nicht Harmonia. Hinter K. sind Athena und ein Greis, vielleicht Agenor, Ogygos oder, am wahrscheinlichsten, Ismenos dargestellt.

17. (= Harmonia 4* mit Lit., = Hermes 673 [B]) Glockenkrater, rf. New York, MMA 1922.139.11. – ARV<sup>2</sup> 1083, 5: Kassel-Maler; Vian 37, 8; Beckel 142, 85; Trendall, PP 23, 3. – Um 435 v. Chr. – A: K., bartlos, kräftig nach r. ausschreitend, eine Hydria und zwei Lanzen in der l. Hand. In der Rechten hält er einen Stein, um ihn gegen den Drachen zu schleudern, der hinter einem Felsen gegenüber von K. auftaucht. Die weibliche Figur, die auf dem Felsen sitzt, ist höchstwahrscheinlich Thebe (oder die Personifikation der Quelle) und nicht Harmonia. K. ist unbekleidet, sein Himation bedeckt nur den l. Oberarm, der Petasos liegt im Nacken, sein Schwert hängt von der r. Schulter herab, und um den Kopf ist ein Band geschlungen. Am Felsen wächst Schilf, die Quelle ist angedeutet. B: Hermes überreicht Athena einen Kranz. Wir können nicht mit Sicherheit sagen, ob die beiden Szenen eine Beziehung zueinander haben und ob K. den Kranz, den Hermes Athena gibt, für die Tötung des Drachens bekommen soll.

18.* Hydria, rf. Paris, Louvre M 12 (N 3325, MN 714). – CVA 9 Taf. 54, 1. 2; Vian 39, 13; Beckel 142, 83. – Um 420–410 v. Chr. – K., bartlos, nackt, kräftig nach r. ausschreitend, einen Stein in der r. und eine Hydria in der l. Hand. Über seinem l. Arm liegt ein kurzes Himation. Gegenüber von K. ein Felsen, hinter dem der Drache auftaucht. Die weibliche Gestalt auf dem Felsen muß Thebe (oder die Personifikation der Quelle) und nicht Harmonia sein.

19.* (= Demeter 464 mit Lit. und Querverweisen, = Harmonia 2*, = Ismene II 1, = Ismenos 2*) Hydria, rf. Ehem. Berlin, Staatl. Mus. F 2634. Aus Vulci. – ARV<sup>2</sup> 1187, 33: Kadmosmaler; Add 341; Vian 38, 11 Taf. 5; Beckel 143, 88; Trendall, PP 23, 4; Froning 49–51 mit Lit.; Real, W., Studien zur Entwicklung der Vasenmalerei im ausgehenden 5. Jh. v. Chr. (1973) 75 ff. Taf. 10; McPhee, J. D., Attic Vase-Painters of the Late 5th Cent. B. C. (1973) 56, 29; 99 ff. Taf. 26, 1. – 420–415 v. Chr. – In der Mitte K. (KAA/MOY), bärtig, mit einem Kranz im Haar, einem Petasos im Nacken, kurzem Chiton, kleinem Himation und Wanderschuhen. An der r. Schulter hängt das Wehrgehänge. Mit dem Schwert in der Rechten schreitet er ausholend nach r. auf den Drachen zu, der sich eingekollt hat. Zwischen dem Drachen und K. steht Athena (AΘHNA) auf etwas höherem Niveau und bekränzt den Heroen; eine kleine Nike (NIKH) kommt von oben und bekränzt K. ebenfalls. In der Nähe des Drachens sitzt Thebe (ΘHBA) auf einem Felsen, ihr zu Füßen ein Eros, der ihr einen Kranz überreicht. Hinter K. sitzt Harmonia (APMONIA). Ferner Demeter (ΔA-MATHP), Kore (KOPA), Apollon (ΑΠΕΛΛΩΝ), Artemis (ΑΡΤΑΜΙΣ), Poseidon (ΠΟΣΕΙΔΑΝ), Hermes (ΕΡ-ΜΑΣ). Leider haben die einzigen, nicht mit charakteristischen Symbolen versehenen Figuren keine Beischriften: eine nackte männliche unterhalb von Poseidon und eine weibliche neben Hermes. Möglicherweise handelt es sich um die Eltern der Harmonia, Ares (vielleicht ist der «Gegenstand» in seiner Nähe ein Schild) und Aphrodite. Andere Forscher identifizieren sie jedoch mit Ismenos und Ismene. Die Gesamtkomposition entfaltet sich auf verschiedenen Ebenen mit Bäumen und Büschen. Das Reh in der Nähe von K. und Harmonia ist ein erotisches Symbol. Auf einem dorischen Säulenkapitell zwischen den Figuren steht ein Dreifuß.

19a) (= Ismene II 3) Hydria, rf. Thessaloniki, Arch. Mus. A 61, T 3387. Aus Ierisso (Akanthos). – Unveröffentlicht. – Anfang 4. Jh. v. Chr. – K., unbärtig, nach l., den Kopf rückwärts zum Drachen gewendet. Er trägt ein kurzes Himation, Wanderschuhe und einen Kranz im Haar. In der l. Hand hält er zwei Lanzen und in der r. einen Stein, um ihn gegen die Schlange zu schleudern, die hinter einem Felsen hervorkommt. Auf dem Felsen sitzt Thebe. Im Nacken trägt K. seinen Petasos und an der r. Schulter die Schwertscheide. Über der Hydria hinter seinem l. Fuß ist Athena dargestellt. Zwischen der Göttin und Thebe ein Altar. Die Komposition ist l. und r. von je zwei weiblichen Figuren gerahmt; die Frau direkt hinter K. muß Harmonia und die anschließende Figur Aphrodite (oder Ismene) sein, während auf der anderen Seite der Darstellung wahrscheinlich die Ismeniden (Nymphen) oder sonstige lokale Personifikationen, z. B. der Quelle, abgebildet sind.

Böotische Vase

20.* Skyphos (Kabirenvasse), sf. Berlin (DDR), Staatl. Mus. 3284. – Wolters, P./Bruhns G., Das Kabirenheiligtum bei Theben (1940) 100 K 22 Taf. 27, 1; Braun, K./Haevernick, Th. E., Das Kabirenheiligtum bei Theben 4, (1981) 13. 64, 356 mit Lit.: Kabirosmler; Vian 37, 9 Taf. 4; Beckel 143, 90; Trendall, PP 23 Anm. 14; Lapalus, E., RA 32, 1930, 75 ff. Abb. 4; Bieber, Theaterwesen Taf. 87, 2. – 420–400 v. Chr. – K. nach r., bärtig und ithyphallisch, mit Pilos und Exomis (?). In der Rechten hält er einen Stab (oder eine Peitsche?) mit spiralförmigem Ende. K. wird vom Drachen, der zwischen Schilfrohr auftaucht, überrascht. Hinter dem Heros schwebt eine umgedrehte Situla, darunter befinden sich eine Hirtentasche und ein Stab und darüber eine Weinrebe mit Trauben.

Unteritalische Vasen

21. (= Athena 548 mit Lit.) Kelchkrater, apul. rf. Leningrad, Ermitage St 847. – Vian 39–40, 16; Beckel 143, 92 Taf. 5; Trendall, PP 23, 5. – Um 375 v. Chr. – A: K., bartlos, mit Chlamys, Petasos (?) im Nacken und Wanderschuhen. In der l. Hand trägt er eine Hydria, während er in der nach hinten erhobenen r. einen Stein hält, den er im Begriff ist, gegen den Drachen zu schleudern. Das Untier liegt zusammengerollt in einer Höhle, über der Pan mit seiner Syrinx sitzt. Hinter der Höhle Athena, die K. beisteht. Vor der Göttin fliegt eine Eule. Zwischen den Füßen des K. liegen ein oder zwei Steine.

22. Skyphos, apul. rf., «provinziell». Bologna, Mus. Civ. Pa 712. – Vian 40, 17; Beckel 143, 91; Trendall, PP 24 Anm. 14; CVA 3 Taf. 3, 12; Schauenburg 2, 176 Abb. 22; 177 und Anm. 84. – 2.

Vierteil 4. Jh. v. Chr. – Bartloser Mann mit Pilos und über dem l. Arm Himation. Er schreitet kräftig ausholend nach r. und ist im Begriff, mit einem Knüttel in der Rechten die Schlange anzugreifen, die eingerollt vor ihm liegt. Die Identifizierung mit K. ist keineswegs gesichert.

23.* (= Fluvii 30 mit Lit., = Harmonia 6, = Ismene II 4, = Ismenos 3 mit Lit.) Glockenkrater, paestan. rf. Neapel, Mus. Naz. 82258 (H 3226). Aus S. Agata. – RVP 85, 132; 95–96 Taf. 52: Asteas (sign.); Trendall, PP 23 ff. Taf. 5a; Vian 40, 19 Taf. 8; Beckel 143, 93. – 360–350 v. Chr. – A: K. (KADMOΣ), unbärtig, mit Pilos, Chlamys und Wanderschuhen, schreitet nach r. und hält zwei Lanzen in der Linken. Die Rechte ist nach hinten erhoben, um einen Stein gegen den Drachen zu schleudern, der sich K. gegenüber zwischen Gebüsch unter einem Felsen befindet. Neben dem Felsen sitzt Thebe (ΘΗΒΗ). Hinter dem Heros Athena (ΑΘΗΝΗ), die ihm Beistand leistet. Über diesen Figuren der alte König Ismenos (ΙΜΗΝΟΣ [sic!]) und die Quellnymphe (ΚΡΗΝΑΙΗ), die beide hinter einem Hügel auftauchen. Zwischen ihnen die Sonne als Strahlenbogen. Zu Füßen des K. eine Amphora.

24. (= Ananke 1*, = Harmonia 7*, = Ismene II 5 mit Lit.) Lekanisdeckel, paestan. rf. Basel, Antikenmus. BS 1421. – RVP 108, 141 Taf. 61: Asteas; MuM Auktion 60, 1982, Nr. 45 Taf. 22. – 340–335 v. Chr. – K. (KADMOΣ), unbärtig, mit Pilos, Chlamys und Wanderschuhen, schreitet nach l., den Kopf rückwärts gewandt. In der l. Hand hält er eine Lanze und sein Schwert und ist im Begriff, mit der erhobenen Rechten einen Stein gegen den Drachen zu schleudern, der aus einer Höhle hervorkommt. Vor K. Ananke (ΑΝΑΚ[ΚΗ]), die aus dem Erdboden auftaucht, Athena, die K. Beistand leistet, eine sitzende Figur, wahrscheinlich Harmonia, Ismene (ΙΣΜΗΝ[Η]) und Thebe (ΘΗΒΗ), die hinter der Höhle auf einem Felsen sitzt. Zwischen den Figuren und der Grotte stehen Büsche und Bäume. Eine Spitzamphora hinter dem l. Fuß des K.

25.* (= Aphrodite 1415, = Harmonia 5*, = Ismene II 6) Kelchkrater, paestan. rf. Paris, Louvre N 3157. Aus S. Agata. – RVP 143, 241 Taf. 90: Python; Trendall, PP 23, 6; 64. 121, 152 Taf. 16c; Vian 40–41, 20 Taf. 9; Beckel 143, 94; RM 40, 1925, 221–222 Abb. 3. – Um 330 v. Chr. – K., unbärtig, mit Pilos, Chlamys, Wanderschuhen und Schwert, das an der r. Schulter hängt, schreitet nach r., in der l. Hand eine Spitzamphora und in der erhobenen r. einen Stein, bereit, ihn auf den Drachen zu werfen, der sich ihm gegenüber vor Felsen befindet. Die Gestalt hinter dem Heros ist wahrscheinlich Harmonia und die hinter dem Felsen entweder Thebe oder die Personifikation der Quelle. Im oberen Bereich des Bildfeldes tauchen von l. nach r. hinter mehreren Hügeln auf: Hermes, vielleicht Aphrodite, Pan und ein kleiner Satyr; der Strahlenbogen vor Hermes soll offensichtlich die Sonne darstellen.

26.* (= Ismene II 7) Hydria, campan. rf. Boston, MFA 1969.1142. – LCS Suppl. 1, 69, 139a Taf. 16, 4; LCS Suppl. 3, 185, 139a: Whiteface P.; Schauenburg

2, 177 Abb. 23; Vermeule, E., in Studies G. M. A. Hanfmann 177 ff. Taf. 46. – 340–330 v. Chr. – Unten l. der unbärtige K. nach r., in der l. Hand eine Lanze und eine Spitzamphora. Er ist im Begriff, mit der erhobenen Rechten einen Stein gegen den Drachen vor ihm zu schleudern, der eingerollt neben blumenbestandenen Felsen liegt. K. trägt ein Band um seinen Kopf, an der r. Schulter hängt sein Schwert, und über dem l. Arm ein kurzes Himation. Hinter der Schlange ein Gefährte des K. mit Pilos, kurzem Himation, Schwert und zwei Lanzen. Das Gebäude im oberen Bereich des Bildfeldes ist vielleicht ein Tempel oder die Stadt Theben. R. und l. davon sitzen zwei Frauenfiguren; die in der Nähe von K. kann Harmonia, die andere entweder Thebe oder die Personifikation der Quelle sein. Diese Identifizierungen sind jedoch keineswegs die einzig möglichen.

26a) Hydria, campan. rf. Neapel, Privatslg. – Trendall, QuadTic 12, 1983; 94 ff. Taf. 4–6, 8, 9: Whiteface-Frignano Group. – 340–330 v. Chr. – K. in der Bildmitte auf einer Bodenwelle vor einem Baumstamm. Er schreitet nach l., den Kopf rückwärts gewandt. In der Linken hält er eine kleine Hydria (?) und in der erhobenen Rechten einen Stein, bereit, ihn gegen den Drachen unten r. zu schleudern. Die Quelle hinter dem Drachen ist sehr schematisch wiedergegeben. Der Heros ist nackt, nur ein kurzes Himation hängt über seiner l. Schulter, an seiner r. trägt er das Wehrgehänge. L. Athena, die ihm beisteht, und r. oben eine Nike, die ihn bekrönt.

27. Hydria, campan. rf. Leipzig, Univ. T 84. – LCS 244, 133: Aigisthosgruppe. – 335–325 v. Chr. – Unbärtiger Jüngling mit Panzer nach r. trägt eine Hydria; zu seinen Füßen eine Schlange. Außerdem sind eine Frauenfigur und ein zweiter Jüngling dargestellt, der sein Schwert zieht. Trendall vermutet mit Vorbehalt, daß es sich um K. mit einem Gefährten handelt, der sein Schwert gegen den Drachen zieht. Ist diese Deutung richtig, kann die weibliche Gestalt Harmonia, Thebe oder die Personifikation der Quelle sein.

Tonmatrize

28.* Tonmatrize für Helmwangen-Dekor. Athen, Agora T 930. Aus Athen. – Thompson, D. B., Hesperia 8, 1939, 293 ff. Abb. 7. – Letzte Jahrzehnte des 5. Jh. v. Chr. – K. mit Chlamys auf felsigem Boden nach r., den jetzt fehlenden Kopf wahrscheinlich zurückgewandt. In der erhaltenen Hand eine Hydria. Thompson a. O. 295 nimmt an, daß auf der anderen Helmwange die sitzende Harmonia und hinter ihr der Drache dargestellt waren. In diesem Fall ist die Frauenfigur wahrscheinlich Thebe oder die Personifikation der Quelle. S. Kommentar.

Gemmen

29.* Eine Anzahl von Gemmenbildern mit einer männlichen Gestalt, die, meist mit dem Schwert, eine Schlange tötet (Ausnahmen s. z. B. 29c), werden als Darstellungen des K., der den Drachen erlegt, gedeutet. Diese Erklärung ist jedoch nicht die einzig mögliche. Nur bei den Darstellungen mit einer Quelle und vor allem einem Gefäß können wir mit Sicherheit sagen, daß dieses Thema gemeint ist. Auf anderen Gemmen wird die männliche Gestalt hart vom Drachen bedrängt (s. z. B. Brommer, Denkmälerlisten III 189, 17; 188, 9. 10; s. auch Servais-Soyez 738 ff.). Die Forscher nehmen an, daß es sich hier nicht um K., sondern um einen der Gefährten handelt, die vom Drachen getötet wurden. Es gibt allerdings auch schriftliche Zeugnisse, die berichten, daß K. im Verlauf des Kampfes in Bedrängnis geriet: s. Nonn. Dion. 4, 365 ff. Im folgenden stellen wir eine Auswahl von Gemmen zusammen, deren Darstellungen z. T. mit großer Wahrscheinlichkeit, z. T. jedoch mit Ungewißheit als Drachenkampf des K. gedeutet werden:

a)* Skarabäus, Karneol, großgriech. Berlin (West), Staatl. Mus. FG 300. – Furtwängler, Beschreibung Nr. 300 Taf. 6; idem, AG Taf. 10, 13; AGD II 212 Taf. 44; Krauskopf, ThebSag Taf. 19, 5; Vian 41, 21; Servais-Soyez 737 Taf. 2, 3. – 350–325 v. Chr. – K. mit einem Himation über dem Arm, einem Schwert in der einen und der Schwertscheide in der anderen Hand. Er wendet den Kopf zur Schlange zurück, die hinter ihm zwischen Felsen nahe einer Quelle erscheint. Zwischen seinen Füßen ein Gefäß.

b) Karneol, großgriech. (?) Florenz, Mus. Arch. – Reinach, S., Pierres gravées (1895) 58 Taf. 56; Vian 41, 22 mit Lit. – 2. Hälfte 4. Jh. v. Chr. (?) – K. mit kurzem Himation über dem einen Arm, in der einen Hand das Schwert, in der anderen die Schwertscheide. Er wendet den Kopf nach hinten, wo zwischen Felsen mit Quelle die Schlange auftaucht. Zwischen seinen Füßen eine Oinochoe. Zu a und b s. Krauskopf, ThebSag 88 Anm. 322.

c) Ringstein, Glaspaste, ital. München, Münzslg. A 140. – AGD I 2, 1405 Taf. 139. – 1. Jh. v. Chr. – 1. Jh. n. Chr. – Nackte bärtige Gestalt, Chlamys über dem Rücken, in der einen Hand ein Gefäß, das sie mit Wasser füllt, während sie mit der anderen eine Schlange packt. Wenn es sich wirklich um K. handelt, ist die Darstellung eine seltene Variante, da er hier den Drachen mit den Händen tötet.

d) Nicolo, italoetrusk. (?) Aquileia, Mus. Naz. 26606. – Sena Chiesa, GA 729 Taf. 37. – Späthellenistisch (?). – Unbärtige männliche Figur, höchstwahrscheinlich K., den Kopf rückwärts zu einer Schlange gewandt, einen Schild und ein Gefäß haltend. Die Schlange ist hinter einem schematisch wiedergegebenen Felsen.

e) Achat, ital. (?) Aquileia, Mus. Naz. 26180. – Sena Chiesa, GA 728 Taf. 37, 6; eadem, Aquileia Nostra 35, 1964 Taf. 1, 25; Richter, EnglGemsRom 328 Abb. 328. – Späthellenistisch. – Männliche Figur (K.), den Kopf rückwärts gewandt, mit Schild und Schwert. Seitlich unten eine Schlange.

f)* Sard, ital. (?) London, BM 1917. – Walters, BMGems Nr. 1917 Taf. 24; Vian 42, 32. – Kaiserzeit. – Schreitender Mann (K.) mit Helm und Chlamys, Schild und Schwert haltend. Er versucht eine Schlange zu töten, die zwischen Felsen auftaucht.

g) Nicolo, ital. München, Münzslg. – AGD I 3, Nr. 3230 Taf. 310. – Kaiserzeit. – Schreitender Mann (K.), ein Gefäß und eine Schlange haltend. Vgl. auch drei Gemmen in Berlin, FG 7609–7611, Vian 42, 31.

Auch hier ist die Identifizierung des Kriegers, der kniend versucht, eine Schlange zu töten, mit K. nur wenig wahrscheinlich.

30.* Gemmen (Auswahl), auf denen ein Krieger an einer Quelle ein Gefäß mit Wasser füllt. Die Deutung auf K. ist unsicher.

a) Achat, ital. Cambridge, Corpus Christi College. – Middleton, J.-H., The Lewis Collection of Gems and Rings in the Possession of Corpus Christi College (1892) 71, 133; Henig, LewisColl 52, 208 Taf. 13. – 2. Jh. v. Chr. – Nackter Mann mit Helm und mit Chlamys über dem Rücken füllt Wasser aus einer Quelle, die oben an Felsen entspringt, in eine Oinochoe. Neben dem vorgestellten Fuß ist vielleicht eine Schlange dargestellt. Wahrscheinlich K. an der Quelle des Ares.

b) Glaspaste, ital. Hannover, Kestner-Mus. K 687. – AGD IV 82 Taf. 21. – 2. Jh. v. Chr. – Nackter Mann, ein Gefäß und einen Schild haltend, Chlamys über dem Rücken. Vielleicht K. oder einer seiner Gefährten, der zur Quelle geht.

c) Glaspaste, ital. Wien, Kunsthinst. Mus. XI B 319. – AGOe II Nr. 689 Taf. 19. – 1. Jh. v. Chr. (?) – Schreitender nackter Mann, den Kopf zurückgewandt, mit Schild und Oinochoe. Vielleicht K., der zur Quelle geht.

d)* Ringstein, Glaspaste, ital. München, Münzslg. A 886. – AGD I 2, Nr. 1570 Taf. 150. – 1. Jh. v. Chr. – 1. Jh. n. Chr. – Schreitender nackter Mann, den Kopf rückwärts gewandt, ein Gefäß und vielleicht einen Schild haltend. Aus dem Felsen neben ihm taucht ein Schlangenkopf auf. Wahrscheinlich K. an der Quelle des Ares. – Vgl. auch fünf Gemmen der ehem. Slg. B. Hertz, Vian 42, 30.

Münzen

31.* a)* (= Herakles 2833 mit Lit.) AE, Tyros, Gordian III. (238–243 n. Chr.). – BMC Phoenicia 280–281, 425. 426 Taf. 33, 12; Vian 43, 38 Taf. 10, 2. – Rs.: K., nackt, nach r., in der erhobenen Rechten einen Stein, bereit, ihn gegen den Drachen zu schleudern, der sich drohend vor ihm aufrichtet. Über dem l. Unterarm kurzes Himation. Hinter K. eine Muschel.

b) AE, Tyros, Gallienus (253–268 n. Chr.). – BMC Phoenicia 293, 486 Taf. 34, 17; Vian 43, 39. – Rs.: K., nackt, nach r., einen Stein in der erhobenen Rechten, um ihn auf den Drachen zu werfen, der sich drohend vor ihm aufrichtet. Über dem l. ausgestreckten Arm ein kurzes Himation; hinter K. eine Muschel.

c) AE, Tyros, Salonina (253–268 n. Chr.). – BMC Phoenicia 295, 496; Vian 43, 40. – Rs.: K., nackt, mit kurzem flatterndem Himation über dem l. Arm, die Rechte mit einem Stein zum Wurf auf den Drachen vor ihm erhoben. L. eine Muschel.

d)* AE, Samos, 3. Jh. n. Chr. (Zeit des Gallienus). – Vian 44, 49 mit Lit. S. auch Servais-Soyez 738 Taf. 2, 4. – Rs.: K., nackt, nach r., die Rechte mit einem Stein zum Wurf gegen einen Drachen erhoben, der sich drohend vor ihm aufrichtet.

Mosaiken

32. Fußboden. Aus Pitney (Somerset), England, verschollen. – The Victoria History of the Counties of Eng- land, Somerset I (1906) Abb. 86; Smith, D. J., in Roman Life and Art in Britain (Festschr. J. Toynbee, 1977) 151–152, 145 Taf. 26b. – 4. Jh. n. Chr. – Nackter Knabe mit Schlange und ein umgedrehtes Gefäß. Die Deutung auf K. (vgl. Rainey, A., Mosaics in Roman Britain [1973] 129) ist unsicher. S. Stupperich, R., Britannia XI, 1980, 300 Anm. 61. Vgl. auch ein Mosaik in Rudge Farm (Froxfield), Wilts, England, Rainey a. O. 131.

33. Fußboden. Gefunden in der Nähe von Frampton/Dorsetshire (Nunnery Meadow Site), England. Es befindet sich vielleicht bedeckt in situ. – Hening, M., Proceedings of the Dorset Natural History and Archaeological Society 106, 1984, 143 ff. Taf. 8–9. – 4. Jh. n. Chr. – In einem der Bildfelder unbärtige männliche Gestalt nach r. Sie trug ein wehendes Himation und Wanderschuhe und griff mit einer Lanze eine Schlange an, die sich um einen Baum ringelte. Die Deutung auf K. ist unsicher. Vgl. Rainey, a. O. 32, 77–78.

ETRUSKISCHE UND PRÄNESTINISCHE DARSTELLUNGEN

Vase

34. Stamnos, falisk. rf. Wien, Kunsthinst. Mus. IV 3960. Aus Caere. – EVP 8, 152 Taf. 11, 5; Maler von Villa Giulia 1660; Bernhard-Walcher, A., et al., Aus Gräbern und Heiligtümern Etruriens und Unteritaliens. Ausgewählte Kunstwerke aus der Antikenslg. des Kunsthinst. Mus. (1985) 33, 45 Taf. 13. – 2. Hälfte 4. Jh. v. Chr. – B: Drache, der r. und l. von je einer Figur mit breitkrepigem Pilos (Helm) bedroht wird. Diejenige l. hält in der l. Hand ihr Himation und in der r. eine Doppelaxt, während die r. Figur einen langen, in der Taille gegürteten Chiton trägt; sie steht auf einer felsigen Bodenwelle, in der r. Hand eine Lanze, über dem l. Arm ein Himation. Die Deutung auf K. (l.) mit einem Gefährten (r.) bei der Tötung des Drachens ist unsicher. Es könnte sich z. B. auch um Herakles handeln, der den Drachen im Garten der Hesperiden tötet.

Pränestinischer Bronzespiegel

35.* Brüssel, Mus. Roy. R 1279. Aus Etrurien. – Gerhard, EtrSp IV Taf. 358; Matthies, G., Die pränestinischen Spiegel (1912) Abb. 26; Krauskopf, ThebSag 93, 12 Taf. 21, 2; Vian 41, 24; Trendall, PP 24 Anm. 14; Lambrechts, R., Les miroirs étrusques ... à Bruxelles (1978) 181–189 Nr. 29 Abb. – Ende 4./Anfang 3. Jh. v. Chr. – R. K., nackt, bartlos, das r. Bein angewinkelt, mit Chlamys als einziger Bekleidung. L. der Drache, den K. mit dem Schwert in der erhobenen Rechten angreift, während er l. die Schwertscheide hält. Die Schlange hat bereits einen behelmten Gefährten des K. getötet. Von l. versucht ein zweiter Gefährte des K., den Drachen zu erwürgen; hinter ihm liegt ein kraterförmiges Gefäß. Oben Athena, die K. beisteht, hinter ihr eine weitere, wahrscheinlich ebenfalls göttliche Figur, die anscheinend den Gefährten des K. unterstützt. Vor den Köpfen der beiden göttlichen Gestalten je ein Stern.

Urnen

36.* (= Archemoros 12) Volterranner Tuffurne. Volterra, Mus. Guarnacci 353. Aus Volterra. – Brunn Körte, Rilievi II 1, 10 Taf. 7, 2; Krauskopf, ThebSag 93, 13. – 3. Jh. v. Chr. (?) – Auf der einen Seite ein geflügelter Drache und die Gestalt eines von ihm bereits Getöteten. Von r. und l. versucht je ein Krieger, den Drachen zu erlegen. Wenn diese Darstellung auch auf Opheltos gedeutet wurde, spricht ihre Ähnlichkeit mit 35 doch dafür, daß hier der Kampf des K. mit der Schlange gemeint ist. In diesem Fall müssen wir K. in dem Krieger r. mit Helm, Brustpanzer und Wanderschuhen erkennen, der in der erhobenen Rechten das Schwert und in der Linken die Scheide hält. Diskussion s. Krauskopf a. O. 50–51.

37.* Alabasterurne. Wien, Kunsthinst. Mus. I 1045 a, b. – Bernhard-Walcher et al., a. O. 34, 46, 74 Taf. 19; Krauskopf, ThebSag 93, 14 mit Lit. – 3.–2. Jh. v. Chr. – Fast gleich wie 36; hinter dem l. Krieger eine vierte Figur mit Brustpanzer und Chlamys.

38.* Alabasterurne, chiusinisch. Chiusi, Mus. Civ. 303. – Brunn/Körte, Rilievi II 1, 6 ff. Taf. 2, 1; Krauskopf, ThebSag 50–51. 93, 15 Taf. 20, 5. – 2. Jh. v. Chr. – Auf der einen Seite eine männliche Gestalt, um die sich eine Schlange ringelt. Eine zweite Figur liegt zu ihren Füßen. Von beiden Seiten eilt je ein nackter, nur mit einem kurzen Himation bekleideter Krieger auf den bedrohten Mann zu. Derjenige r. hält in der erhobenen r. Hand ein Schwert und in der l. eine Scheide. Der andere ist behelmt und trägt in der erhobenen Rechten eine Lanze, in der Linken einen Schild. Hinter ihm die fünfte Figur mit Chiton (?), Chlamys und Pilos, die in beiden Händen eine Lanze hält. Wegen der Ähnlichkeit mit 35 handelt es sich hier wahrscheinlich ebenfalls um K. und seine Gefährten. In diesem Fall ist der r. Krieger auf K. zu deuten, wenn auch die Figur mit dem Schild hervorgehoben ist. Es ist nicht ausgeschlossen, daß die Gestalt hinter dem Krieger mit dem Schild ebenso wie vermutlich die entsprechende Figur auf 35 sein Schutzgott ist.

39. Tonurne. London, BM D 787. – Walters, BM Terracottas 429–430; Brunn/Körte, Rilievi II 1, 8 ff. Taf. 2, 3; Krauskopf, ThebSag 93, 16. – 3. oder 2. Jh. v. Chr. – In der Mitte der einen Seite eine Schlange, die sich um zwei Kinder ringelt, während von r. und l. je ein Krieger herbeieilt. Der linke, nur mit Chlamys bekleidete und mit einem Band um den Kopf, hält in der ausgestreckten Rechten ein Schwert, in der Linken die Scheide. Der r. Krieger mit kurzem Himation, Helm und Brustpanzer hält mit beiden Händen eine Lanze; seinen Schild hat er hinter sich gelassen. Die Deutung der Darstellung auf K. und Gefährten im Kampf gegen den Drachen ist wegen der beiden Kinder sehr zweifelhaft. Es ist nicht ausgeschlossen, daß hier verschiedene Motive mit K. und Opheltos als Hauptfiguren zusammengestellt sind. Vgl. Krauskopf a. O. 51.

Gemmen

40.* Eine Reihe etruskischer Siegelsteine zeigt eine männliche Gestalt, die entweder an einer oft von einem Drachen bewachten Quelle Wasser holt oder

mit einer Schlange kämpft. Vermutlich handelt es sich hier um die K.-Drachen-Szene. Diese Deutung ist jedoch nicht die einzige mögliche und erhält Wahrscheinlichkeit nur durch die zusätzliche Angabe eines Gefäßes.

a) Skarabäus, Karneol. Wien, Kunsthinst. Mus. IX B 173. – AGOe Nr. 63 Taf. 13; Furtwängler, AG Taf. 19, 22; Zazoff, EtrSk 562. – 4. Jh. v. Chr. – Bärtiger Mann hält Amphora und füllt sie an Löwenkopf-Wasserspeier mit Wasser. In der Rechten ein Schwert. Zazoff deutet ihn auf Herakles (vgl. Hermann, W., AA 1966, 286 Abb. 36, 292).

b) Ringstein, Sardonyx. Ehem. Rom, Slg. Martini. – Furtwängler, AG Taf. 21, 14; Martini, Ringsteinglyptik 132, 7 Taf. 3, 2; Krauskopf, ThebSag 92, 2 mit Lit.; Vian 42, 28; Servais-Soyez 736 Taf. 1, 1. – Ende 4. Jh.–Anfang 3. Jh. v. Chr. – Jüngling, nackt bis auf Chlamys und Helm, mit Schild und Oinochoe. Vor ihm Schlange am Fuß eines Felsens mit Quelle.

c) Glaspaste. Berlin (DDR), Staatl. Mus. FG 503. – Furtwängler, Beschreibung Nr. 503 Taf. 8; Martini, Ringsteinglyptik 148, 193; Krauskopf, ThebSag 92, 3 mit Lit.; Vian 42, 26. Ende 4.–Anfang 3. Jh. v. Chr. – Jüngling mit Schwert und Schild füllt Wasser aus einer Quelle in eine Oinochoe.

d)* Skarabäus, Karneol. Berlin (West), Staatl. Mus. FG 205. Aus Etrurien. – Furtwängler, AG Taf. 18, 54; AGD II Nr. 295 Taf. 58; Krauskopf, ThebSag 92, 1 mit Lit.; Vian 41, 25. – Anfang 3. Jh. v. Chr. – Nackter Jüngling mit Schwert und Schild. Zwischen seinen Füßen eine Oinochoe, vor ihm Felsen mit Andeutung von Quellwasser.

e) Ringstein, Sardonyx. Berlin (West), Staatl. Mus. FG 599. – Furtwängler, AG Taf. 23, 15; Martini, Ringsteinglyptik 284; AGD II Nr. 309 Taf. 59; Krauskopf, ThebSag 92–93, 4; Vian 42, 29. – 3. Jh. v. Chr. – Nackter Jüngling mit Helm, Schwert und Schild ist im Begriff, eine Schlange vor ihm zu töten. Der eine Fuß steht auf einem Felsen.

f) Glaspaste. München, Münzslg. A 137. – AGD I 2, Nr. 1528 Taf. 147; Martini, Ringsteinglyptik 252; Krauskopf, ThebSag 93, 5. – 2. Hälfte 3. Jh. v. Chr. – Jüngling mit Chlamys, sonst nackt, mit Schild und Schwert, füllt aus einer Quelle Wasser in eine Oinochoe. Den einen Fuß stellt er auf eine felsige Erhebung.

g) Glaspaste. Berlin (DDR), Staatl. Mus. FG 504. – Furtwängler, Beschreibung Nr. 504 Taf. 8; Martini, Ringsteinglyptik 281; Krauskopf, ThebSag 93, 7; Vian 42, 27. – 2. Jh. v. Chr. – Nackter, bärtiger Mann mit Helm, Schild und Oinochoe, die er an einer Quelle mit Wasser füllt. Unterhalb der Quelle eine Schlange.

h) Glaspaste. Kopenhagen, Thorv.-Mus. I 845. – Fossing, ThorvGems 44, 101 Taf. 2; Krauskopf, ThebSag 93, 8. – 2.–1. Jh. v. Chr. – Mann mit Helm, Schild und Schwert kämpft mit einer Schlange, die sich um seinen Hals windet. Daneben Felsen; zwischen den Füßen des Mannes liegt eine Oinochoe. Weil der Krieger hier so hart bedrängt wird, ist vielleicht nicht K., sondern einer seiner Gefährten gemeint. Über die etruskischen Darstellungen, die wahrscheinlich eher einen Gefährten des K. als ihn selbst darstellen, s. z. B. Krauskopf a. O. 93 ff., 1–20.

i) Ringstein, Jaspis. Kopenhagen, Thorv.-Mus. I 844. – Fossing, ThorvGems 141, 883 Taf. 11; Krauskopf, ThebSag 93, 9. – 2.–1. Jh. v. Chr. – Nackter Jüngling mit Helm, Schild und Oinochoe, die er an einer Quelle mit Wasser füllt. Auf dem Felsen mit der Quelle erhebt sich eine Schlange.

ETRUSKISCHE DARSTELLUNGEN MIT KADMOS UND DEM DRACHEN, DEUTUNG WENIGER SICHER (AUSWAHL)

Gemmen

41. a) Skarabäus, Karneol. München, Münzslg. 19795. – AGDI 2, Nr. 634 Taf. 69; Furtwängler, AG Taf. 63, 18; Zazoff, EtrSk 98, 190 Taf. 38; Lippold, Gemmen Taf. 50, 3. – 2. Hälfte 4. Jh. v. Chr. – Unbärtige, nackte kniende Gestalt, im Begriff, mit einer Lanze oder einem Stock eine Schlange zu töten (?).

b) Skarabäus, Karneol. Kopenhagen, Thorv.-Mus. I 19. – Fossing, ThorvGems 37, 54 Taf. 1; Zazoff, EtrSk 79, 128 Taf. 28; Furtwängler, AG Taf. 17, 9. – 2. Hälfte 4. Jh. v. Chr. (?). – Männliche Gestalt nur mit Chlamys, sonst nackt, versucht, mit Schwert oder Dolch eine Schlange zu töten (?), die sich um eine Weinrebe (?) ringelt. Die Deutung auf K. ist sehr unwahrscheinlich (vgl. Krauskopf, ThebSag 87–88 Anm. 321). Vgl. auch die Gemmen Zazoff a. O. 826, 827.

c) Skarabäus, Karneol. Den Haag, Royal Cabinet of Coins and Gems 1989. – Furtwängler, AG Taf. 17, 18; Lippold, Gemmen Taf. 50, 1; Zazoff, EtrSk 87, 150 Taf. 131; Maaskant-Kleibrink, CatGemsTheHague 38 mit Lit. – 2. Hälfte 4. Jh. v. Chr. – Bartloser Jüngling nur mit Chlamys, sonst nackt, tötet mit Lanze oder Stock eine Schlange.

d) Skarabäus, Achat. London, BM 972. – Walters, BMGems Nr. 972 Taf. 14; Zazoff, EtrSk 79, 130 Taf. 28; Martini, Ringsteinglyptik Taf. 3, 1. – 2. Hälfte 4. Jh. v. Chr. (?). – Nackter Jüngling, der aus einer Quelle Wasser in eine Hydria füllt. Mit der einen Hand stützt er sich auf einen Felsen. Da hier weder Waffen noch eine Schlange angegeben sind, ist die Deutung auf K. sehr unwahrscheinlich (vgl. Krauskopf, ThebSag 87–88 Anm. 321). Vgl. auch Martini a. O. 152, 246.

e) Ringstein, Sard. Wien, Kunsthst. Mus. IX B 231. Aus Italien. – AGOE I Nr. 102 Taf. 19; Krauskopf, ThebSag 93, 6; Servais-Soyez 737 Taf. 1, 2. – Ende 3. Jh. v. Chr. – Nackter Jüngling mit Schild wendet sich rückwärts und packt eine Schlange, die sich hinter ihm erhebt. Keine Angabe von Felsen mit Quelle oder Gefäß.

f) Ringstein, Sardonyx. Wien, Kunsthst. Mus. IX B 719. – AGOE I Nr. 282 Taf. 49; Krauskopf, ThebSag 93, 10. – 1. Jh. v. Chr. – Jüngling mit Chlamys und Helm, in der erhobenen Hand Schwert, im Begriff, eine Schlange zu töten, die sich vor ihm aufrichtet. Nur schwerlich kann man annehmen, daß der Schild zwischen dem Mann und der Schlange vom Krieger gehalten wird. Keine Darstellung von Felsen mit Quelle oder Gefäß. Vgl. Krauskopf a. O. 93, 11.

H. Kadmos und Spartoi

Unteritalische Vase

42. Krater, Fragmente, sizil. rf. Lipari, Mus. Arch. Eoliano 11359–61. Aus Lipari. – LCS Suppl. 3, 275: Beziehung zum Adrastomaler; Bernabò Brea, L., Menandro e il teatro Greco nelle terracotte Liparesi (1981) 276 Abb. 453. – 340–330 v. Chr. – Erhalten sind ein Kopf, höchstwahrscheinlich der des K. (ΚΑΔΜΟΣ), Fragmente der Spartoi (...PTOI), Felsen mit einer Quelle mit Löwenkopf-Wasserspeier. Auch Götter waren anwesend, wovon Fragmente von der Ägis der Athena zeugen. Das Himation vor der Quelle gehörte vielleicht zu einer Personifikation der Quelle oder der Thebe. K. und die Spartoi sind nackt und behelmt und tragen Lanzen und Schilde.

I. Hochzeit von Kadmos und Harmonia

Relief

43. (= Harmonia 8) Relief, wahrscheinlich Bronze, am Thron des Apollon von Amyklai, Werk des Bathykles aus Magnesia. Nicht erhalten. – Paus. 3, 18, 12 (= Overbeck, SQ 360, 24); Vian 35, 1; Pipili, LacIc 81–82. – 530–510 v. Chr. – Hier waren die Götter dargestellt, die dem Brautpaar K. und Harmonia Geschenke brachten.

Attisch schwarzfigurige Vasen

44. (= Admetos I 16, = Harmonia 10*) Oinochoe. Göttingen, Univ. R 23. Aus Orvieto. – Para 185, 237: Guide-Line Class (Class of Vatican G 47); Beckel 142, 76. Schauenburg 1, 210 ff. Taf. 1. – 510–500 v. Chr. – Auf einem nach r. fahrenden Wagen ein Mann und eine Frau. Der Mann hält die Zügel, die Frau einen Efeuweig. Hinter dem Wagen eine weibliche Gestalt mit einem Korb auf dem Kopf und weiter l. Spuren einer vierten Figur (Apollon?). Der Wagen wird von einem Eber, einem Wolf und zwei Löwen gezogen. Hermes und Dionysos empfangen den Zug. Wie Schauenburg a. O. darlegt, ist in der Darstellung die Hochzeit von K. und Harmonia zu sehen, und wie auf 45 steht das Brautpaar auf dem Wagen.

45. (= Apollon 851, = Athena 544, = Harmonia 9*) Amphora. Paris, Louvre CA 1961 (F 384<sup>bis</sup>). Aus Reggio. – Para 248, 135; Diosphosmaler; Hapsels, ABL 239, 135; Schauenburg 1, 211, 2 Taf. 2; Vian 36, 2 Taf. 1; Beckel 142, 75. – Um 490 v. Chr. – A: Wagen nach r., von einem Eber und einem Löwen gezogen. Darauf stehen K. (ΚΑΔΜΟΣ) mit Himation bekleidet, ein Band um den Kopf, in der Hand die Zügel, und Harmonia (HAPMONIA). Im Hintergrund, vom Wagen teilweise verdeckt, Apollon mit Kithara (ΑΙΘΙΑΟΝ). B: Hermes, Herakles und Athena. Es ist nicht ausgeschlossen, daß sich die Darstellungen beider Seiten aufeinander beziehen, was beim Diosphos-Maler oft der Fall ist.

K. Kadmos und Harmonia

Münzen

46. (= Harmonia 11) AE, Tyros, Philippus Arabs (244–249 n. Chr.). – BMC Phoenicia 283, 434 Taf. 34, 2; Vian 43, 41. – Rs.: Links K. nach r., nackt, nur mit Chlamys bekleidet, in der Linken eine Lanze. K. und Harmonia geben sich die Hand (dextrarum iunctio inter coniuges). Zwischen den Füßen der beiden Figuren eine Muschel. Hinter Harmonia liegt eine Kuh, gewiß eine Anspielung auf Böotien und die Gründung Thebens.

L. Kadmos und Harmonia in Schlangengestalt

Monumentalmalerei (?)

47. Es ist nicht sicher, ob das von Philostr. im. 1, 18 beschriebene Gemälde, auf dem K. und Harmonia mit schlangengestaltigen Unterleibern dargestellt gewesen sein sollen, wirklich existierte oder ausgedacht war. Allgemein über die Bilder bei Philostratos s. Solmsen, F., RE XX 1 (1941) 168; Lesky, A., Hermes 75, 1940, 38. Über die Darstellungen von K. und Harmonia in Schlangengestalt s. auch den Kommentar.

M. Kadmos und Klio

Mosaik

48. Mosaikfußboden. Trier, gefunden im Bereich des Landesmuseums, wo es aufbewahrt ist, Inv. Mos. I 1231. Signatur: Monnus fecit. – Parlasca, K., Die römischen Mosaiken in Deutschland (1959) 41 Anm. 3 mit Lit.; 42 Taf. 45, 1; Theophilidou, E., TrierZ 47, 1984, 280 ff. Abb. 22. Vgl. Schindler, R., Führer durch das Landesmuseum Trier (1977) 54–55 Abb. 159. – 3. Jh. n. Chr. – Auf einem der achteckigen Bildfelder des Mosaiks K. (CADMUS) mit Klio, der Muse der Geschichte. Von der sitzenden, nach r. gerichteten Figur des K. haben sich nur spärliche Reste erhalten; davon ist der obere Teil des Kopfes am charakteristischsten. Zwischen K. und Klio ein Pfeiler, darauf eine «Strahlenkugel». Sicher handelt es sich um den milesischen Historiker K., den jüngere Quellen einen der ältesten, wenn nicht den ältesten Geschichtsschreiber der Antike nennen. Dessen historische Existenz ist allerdings nicht zweifelsfrei bewiesen, und folglich kann man die Deutung auf den mythischen K. nicht ausschließen. S. Crusius 873 ff.; Münzer, F., RE X 2, 1473–1476; Vian 55 ff.; Edwards 75, 83 ff. und Anm. 77, 78; FGrH 489.

N. Sonstige Kadmosdarstellungen

Monumentalmalerei

49. Gemälde auf Kleon. Hellenistische Zeit. – Plin. nat. 35, 140; Overbeck, SQ 2152 (Nachträge).

Statuen

50. (= Dionysos 74 mit Lit.) Ein vom Himmel gefallenes Holzstück, das der Überlieferung nach in Theben im Gemach der Semele aufbewahrt wurde. Polydoros verzierte es mit Bronzeblechen und nannte es Dionysos Kadmos, s. Paus. 9, 12, 4. Manche Forscher lesen jedoch diese Stelle bei Pausanias anders: «... Διόνυσον καλέσαι. Κάδμον δὲ πηλοῖον ἐστί καὶ Διονύσου ἄγαλμα.» Zu Dionysos Kadmos s. Schauenburg 1, 215 Anm. 26. Vgl. auch Symeonoglou 56–57, 127–128, 186; Vian 152.

51. Darstellungen des Kadmos, worüber allerdings nichts überliefert ist, befanden sich vermutlich in seinem Heroon in Sparta (Paus. 3, 15, 8) und in seinen übrigen Heiligtümern (s. z. B. Latte 1471; Crusius 851).

O. Deutung auf Kadmos unsicher

a) Kadmos (?) in Delphi (?)

52. Jaspis, Paris, Cab. Méd. – Richter, EngrGems-Rom 329 Abb. 329; Servais-Soyez 741 Taf. 3, 6. – Kaiserzeit. – Krieger vor einem Altar, um den sich eine Schlange ringelt. Die vorgeschlagene Deutung auf K. in Delphi ist willkürlich.

b) Kadmos opfernd (?)

53. Pelike, att. (?) rf. Athen, Nat. Mus. 1683 (CC 1858). Aus Megara. – Picard, G. Ch., Les trophées Romains (1957), 23, 6; Metzger, Recherches 115, 34 Taf. 48 (links). – Erste Jahrzehnte 4. Jh. v. Chr. – Auf der einen Gefäßseite zwei Figuren, die zwei Tiere (eines davon ein Rind) zum Opfer führen. Davor ein Tropaion, das eine Nike unter Anwesenheit einer dritten Gestalt bekränzt. Der Mann mit dem Rind wurde willkürlich mit K. identifiziert und die ganze Szene als Opfer des K. an Athena Onka erklärt (Crusius 845). S. auch Vian 110. – Beazley in Caskey/Beazley III 66 bezweifelt, daß die Pelike attisch ist.

c) Kadmos gegen den Drachen kämpfend (?)

54. Amphora, ital. (?) sf. Paris, Louvre E 707. Aus Italien. – Schauenburg 2, 172 ff. Abb. 20, 21; idem, in Στήλη, Festschr. N. Kontoleon (1980) 100–101; Brommer, F., MarWPr 1949, 8 mit Lit.; Amandry, P., Bull. Fac. Lettres de Strasbourg 30, 1952, 304–305. – 560–550 v. Chr. – Bärtiger Krieger nach r. mit kurzem Chiton, Tierfell, in der Taille gegürtet, Helm, im Begriff, mit einem Knüppel in der erhobenen Rechten eine Schlange zu töten, die er mit der l. Hand packt. Zu beiden Seiten je eine bärtige Gestalt; die rechte mit Helm und kurzem Himation beteiligt sich am Kampf. Die Deutung auf K. und seine Gefährten ist unsicher.

Attische Vasen

55. Augenschale, bilingual. Cambridge, Fitz. Mus. GR 14.1937. – ARV<sup>2</sup> 161, 1; 41, 40; 1629–1630: P. of the Cambridge Hischylos; Add<sup>2</sup> 182; CVA 2, Taf. 8, 3; Cohen, B., Attic Bilingual Vases (1978) 354 B 55 Taf. 76, 1. – 520–510 v. Chr. – I (sf.): Krieger mit kurzem Chiton, Brustpanzer, Tierfell, Helm, achtförmig-

gem Schild und Beinschienen, nach r. Er wendet den Kopf rückwärts, um mit seinem Schwert eine Schlange zu töten. Obwohl der achtförmige Schild dafür spricht, daß es sich wahrscheinlich um eine mythologische Szene handelt, gibt es keine Anzeichen, die uns erlauben, die Figur mit K. zu identifizieren.

56. Schale, rf. Tarquinia, Mus. Naz. RC 1123. Aus Tarquinia. – ARV<sup>2</sup> 120, 8: Apollodoros; Add<sup>2</sup> 175; CVA I Taf. 10, 1; Vian 36, 3; Beckel 142, 81. – Um 500 v. Chr. – I: Bartloser Mann nach l. mit Helm und Himation zieht das Schwert aus der Scheide, um die Schlange vor seinen Füßen zu töten. Für eine sichere Deutung auf K. gibt es keine Anzeichen.

57. Einige sf. Darstellungen, besonders des P. of Half-Palmettes und seiner Werkstatt, wurden hin und wieder auf den Drachenkampf des K. bezogen. Diese Deutung ist jedoch keineswegs gesichert, und es ist im Gegenteil nicht auszuschließen, daß es sich hier um Szenen aus dem täglichen Leben handelt (vgl. auch das spätkorinthische Alabastron Athen, Nat. Mus. 295 [CC 502], aus Theben, Payne, NC 319 Nr. 1213; z. B.

a) Olpe. sf. Ferrara, Mus. Naz. 159 (T. 851). Aus Spina. – Para 288; CVA 2 Taf. 41, 2. – 490–470 v. Chr. – Nackter, bärtiger Mann nach r., den Kopf rückwärts gewandt, hat in der Rechten einen Stock, um den Kopf ein Band, über dem ausgestreckten l. Arm ein kurzes Himation. Links unten eine Schlange. Die «Flecken» im Bild sollen vielleicht Felsen andeuten.

b) Oinochoe, sf. London, BM B 505. – ABV 573, 6; Walters, BMVases II B 505; Haspels, ABL 248, 14. – 490–470 v. Chr. – Nackter bärtiger Mann nach r., mit Band im Haar, zwei Stäben (?) in der Rechten und einem kurzen Himation über dem ausgestreckten l. Arm. Hinter ihm eine Hydria auf einem Sockel und vor ihm wahrscheinlich ein Felsen.

c) Oinochoe, sf. London, BM B 506. Aus Nola. – ABV 573, 5; Add<sup>2</sup> 137; Walters, BMVases II B 506. – 490–470 v. Chr. – Nackter bärtiger Mann nach r., den Kopf zurückgewandt. Er hat ein Band im Haar, einen Stab in der Rechten und über dem l. Arm ein kurzes Himation. Hinter ihm ein jonisches Gebäude, vielleicht ein Brunnen. Auf dem Boden verschiedene Erhebungen (Felsen?).

d) Hydria, sf. London, BM B 351. Aus Kameiros. – Para 287; Walters, BMVases II B 351; CVA 6 Taf. 98, 9. – 490–470 v. Chr. – Nackter, bärtiger Mann nach r., den Kopf rückwärts gewandt. Er hat ein Band im Haar, in der r. Hand eine Lanze und über dem l. Arm ein kurzes Himation. Hinter ihm eine dorische Halbsäule, vor ihm Teil eines Altares.

Relief

58. Relief, Marmor. Sparta, Mus. 565. – Tod, M. N./Wace, A. J. B., A Cat. of the Sparta Mus. (1906) 189, 565 Abb. 64; Mitropoulou, E., Deities and Heroes in the Form of Snakes (1977) 208–209 Abb. 112. – 4. Jh. v. Chr. – Mann nach l., kurzes Himation über der l. Schulter. In der erhobenen Rechten hält er einen Stein oder Stock und versucht, eine Schlange vor ihm zu töten. In Anbetracht von Spartas Eigenart und der Eigentümlichkeit vieler lakonischer Reliefs halten wir die

Deutung dieser Figur auf K. für völlig hypothetisch, auch wenn wir die Nachricht des Paus. 3, 15, 8 über den K.-Kult in Lakonien in Erwägung ziehen.

d) Darstellungen, die sich auf die Hochzeit des Kadmos beziehen (?)

Lakonische schwarzfigurige Vase

59. (= Admetos I 17 mit Lit.) Schale. Rhodos, Arch. Mus. 10711 (K 1189). Aus Ialysos. – Stibbe, LakVas 105, 279, 190: Art des Boreadenmalers; Beckel 142, 74; Pipili, Lact 24–25, 113, 77 Abb. 35. – Um 560 v. Chr. – I: Die eine der beiden Darstellungen zeigt einen bärtigen Mann in kurzem Chiton, der einen gezähmten Löwen am Zügel hält. Eine Eule und ein Wasservogel in den Zwischenräumen. Die Deutung der Figur auf K. (s. z. B. Mayer, E., Philolog. Wochenschrift 52, 1932, 126–127) ist wenig wahrscheinlich, auch wenn wir die Nachricht des Ptolemaios Chennos in Erwägung ziehen, daß K. sich in einen Löwen verwandelte (s. Vian 121–122 Anm. 9). Vgl. auch 44 und 45, wo sich unter den Zugtieren des K.-Wagens auch Löwen befinden.

Ring

60. (= Admetos I 2 mit Lit.) Goldring, etruskisch-ionisch. Ehem. Slg. Ramsay. – 2. Hälfte 6. Jh. v. Chr. – Mann auf Wagen nach r., von einem Löwen und einem Eber gezogen. Vor dem Wagen zieht eine geflügelte Gestalt her, die in der Linken einen Zweig hält. Wahrscheinlich ist auf dem Wagen Admetos und nicht K. (→ Admetos I 2 und Schauenburg I, 214).

Bronzespiegel

60a. (= Athena/Menerva 181* mit Lit., = Iason 83 mit Lit.) Spiegel, graviert, pränestin. Rom, Villa Giulia 15697. Schauenburg I, 212–213 Nr. 8; Beckel 127 Anm. 658. – Ende 4. Jh.–Anfang 3. Jh. v. Chr. – Jüngling (Hiaco) mit einem Gespann von Panther, Hirsch, Greif und Luchs (?). Vorn Athena (Menerva) und Fortuna (Fortuna), im unteren Segment Drachenkampf. Die Deutung auf K. (Beckel) ist unmöglich (Schauenburg, Colonna s. v. Athena/Menerva 181).

Wandgemälde

61. (= Akamas et Demophon 19 mit Lit., = Athena/Minerva 440 mit Lit.) Pompeji VI 14, 20 q (Casa del Orfeo, Haus des Vesonius Primus). – Thompson, M. L., in Essays in Memory of K. Lehmann (1964) 329 ff. Abb. 1 mit Lit. – 3. Stil. – Im Vordergrund in der Mitte ein Mann und eine Frau, die sich umarmen. L. ein Krieger, r. eine Frau, im Begriff wegzugehen. Hinter ihnen in der Mitte ein Gebäude mit vier Säulen und dahinter ein runder Altar, über dem eine weibliche Figur schwebt. Im Hintergrund Hügel mit Bäumen und Statuen. Im Himmel schwebt die Göttin Athena. In der Darstellung sieht Thompson (ebenso K. Lehmann) a. O. 330 und Anm. 2 K. und Harmonia, die sich in Samothrake treffen. Diese Deutung, die nicht die einzig mögliche ist, kann nicht bewiesen werden. S. Thompson a. O. 330.

e) Kadmos (?) mit einem Löwen

Münzen

62. AE, Sidon, Elagabal (218–222 n. Chr.). – BMC Phoenicia CXIII–CXIV. 188, 262 Taf. 24, 12; Vian 121–122 Anm. 9. – Rs.: Männliche (?) Gestalt, leicht nach r. gewandt, mit kurzem Chiton, Wanderschuhen und einem kleinen Himation über dem l. Arm, hält in der erhobenen Rechten eine Lanze, die Spitze gesenkt. Vor dem Mann ein Löwe nach l. Oben r. der Wagen der Astarte. Die Deutung auf K. ist nur wenig wahrscheinlich. Vgl. BMC und Vian. Über die Beziehung des K. zu Löwen s. 59.

KOMMENTAR

Die frühesten sicheren K.-Darstellungen der griechischen Kunst gehören in die letzten Jahrzehnte des 6. Jh. v. Chr. Sie beziehen sich auf seine Hochzeit (43. 44). Falls jedoch auf 11, 12, und 54 K., den Drachen tödend, abgebildet ist, rühren die frühesten Darstellungen des Heroen in der griechischen Kunst bereits aus dem 2. Viertel des 6. Jh. v. Chr. Bemerkenswerterweise sind weder diese Denkmäler, noch 43 in einer attischen Werkstatt entstanden; das trifft auch für 50 zu, vielleicht die älteste Darstellung des K. überhaupt.

Leider helfen die bisher bekannten K.-Bilder nicht weiter, die Frage seiner Herkunft zu lösen. Wie von den Forschern bereits festgestellt worden ist, erscheint K. auf keiner dieser Darstellungen als Orientale, wie z. B. Paris, die Amazonen, Pelops, Tantalos, Medea und Andromeda. (Crusius 841 stellt die Überlegung an, ob die Darstellung der Palme unter dem einen Horizontalhenkel der Hydria 9 vielleicht auf die Herkunft des K. aus Phoinikien anspielt. Diese Vermutung ist jedoch nicht zu belegen). Trotzdem begründen wir diese Feststellung nicht mit der Annahme, daß die Herkunft des K. aus dem Osten eine später entstandene Tradition ist, da bereits in literarischen Zeugnissen des 5. Jh. v. Chr. davon die Rede ist. Vielleicht war K. für die Griechen schon sehr früh ein «hellenisierter» Heros, dem sie bekanntlich einen großen Teil ihrer Kultur verdankten, und auf dessen fremdländische Herkunft sie deshalb nicht hinweisen wollten. Sie beschränkten sich darauf, ihn mit Endromides, Chlamys und Petasos als Reisenden (z. B. 15. 21) zu kennzeichnen, ohne seinen Herkunftsort anzugeben. Obwohl die literarischen Quellen darin übereinstimmen, daß K. im griechischen Raum vorwiegend in Boiotien und dort hauptsächlich in Theben wirkte, wo die Burg Kadmeia hieß, stammt merkwürdigerweise aus diesem Gebiet nur eine sehr kleine Anzahl von Denkmälern (20. 50). Bemerkenswert ist auch, daß wir im Gegensatz zu Lakonien, Illyrien, Phoinikien und anderen Gebieten keine Kenntnis von einem K.-Heiligtum in Boiotien haben (s. dazu weiter unten). Bedeutend ist dagegen die Menge der K.-Bilder aus Phoinikien, das viele literarische Quellen, die frühesten aus dem 5. Jh. v. Chr., als Herkunftsland des K. nennen. Diese auf Münzen geprägten Darstellungen (3. 4. 5. 6a. 31a–c. 46. 62?) sind jedoch alle später, hauptsächlich im 3. Jh. v. Chr., entstanden. Viele stammen aus der Epoche, als nach dem Tod von Caracalla die syrischen Verwandten der Gemahlin des Septimius Severus, Julia Domna, in Rom herrschten (3. 4b–g. 62?). Gewiß nicht zufällig war die Zunahme der K.-Darstellungen in dieser Zeit in Phoinikien und besonders in Tyros und Sidon, den beiden Städten, die seit dem 5. Jh. v. Chr. als Herkunftsorte des Heroen angegeben wurden. Vielleicht sollte mit den K.-Darstellungen die Bedeutung dieses Teiles des römischen Kaiserreiches herausgestellt werden, indem daran erinnert wurde, daß diesem Gebiet Mitglieder des Herrscherhauses und berühmte Heroen wie K. entstammten.

Von den übrigen Kunstzentren der antiken griechischen Welt, in denen K.-Darstellungen entstanden, seien genannt Attika für das 5. Jh. v. Chr. (7–10. 13–19a. 28. 45) und verschiedene Gebiete Großgriechenlands (1. 21–27. 42) für das 4. Jh. v. Chr. Seit der 2. Hälfte des 4. Jh. v. Chr. kommt K. auch auf Gemmen italischer (29. 30) und etruskischer Werkstätten vor. In der etruskischen Kunst sind außer den Gemmen (40. 41) auch Urnen (36–38) und Bronzespiegel (35) mit K.-Darstellungen versehen, wogegen die Deutung von Vasenbildern auf K. völlig unsicher ist (34). In all diesen Werkstätten war die Drachentötung die Episode aus dem Leben des K., die am häufigsten, manchmal sogar ausschließlich dargestellt wurde, und die ja auch ein Markstein in seinem Leben war.

In der attischen Vasenmalerei ist in der 2. Hälfte des 5. Jh. v. Chr. ein Aufschwung der K.-Darstellungen zu verzeichnen. Das erklären verschiedene Forscher mit dem Einfluß dichterischer Werke (z. B. dem von Euripides verfaßten, uns jedoch völlig unbekannten Kadmos, s. TGF<sup>2</sup> fig. 448) und der Monumentalmalerei. Vgl. Vermeule 177. Auf den meisten attischen K.-Bildern ist allerdings Athena als Beschützerin des Heros die Hauptfigur (s. z. B. 7–9. 10[?]. 15–17. 19–19a). Man kann daher hinter diesen Bildern das Bemühen der Athener sehen, K. einheimischen Charakter zu geben mit der Begründung, daß K. zwar Boiote, aber Schützling der großen Göttin der Stadt war, die oft zum Gelingen seiner schwierigen Aufgabe beigetragen hatte. Unter anderem half sie ihm, Harmonia zu heiraten, brachte ihm Hochzeitsgeschenke, unterstützte ihn bei der Tötung des Drachen, riet ihm, die Drachenzähne zu säen oder säte sie selbst und stand ihm bei, die Königsherrschaft über Theben zu erwerben. (Vgl. auch Crusius 845.) Diese Absicht der Athener entspricht ihren feindschaftlichen Beziehungen zu den Thebanern in dieser Zeit. In anderen Gebieten waren dramatische Werke (z. B. Eur. Phoen. und Bacchae) möglicherweise der Anlaß, K. darzustellen, so in Apulien (21. 22?), Campanien (1. 26. 26a. 27?), Paestum (23–25) und Sizilien (22). Die häufige Darstellung des K. oder eines seiner Gefährten auf italischen und etruskischen Denkmälern, vor allem auf Gemmen, ist vielleicht darauf zurückzuführen, daß er selbst oder, wahrscheinlicher, einer seiner Gefährten, in Poleis der italischen Halbinsel als mythischer Stadtgründer verehrt wurde (vgl. Krauskopf, ThebSag 51–52).

Die schriftlichen Quellen, die K. und Europe als Geschwister erwähnen, stammen aus einer späteren Epoche. So ist der campanische Glockenkrater aus dem Anfang der 2. Hälfte des 4. Jh. im Louvre (1), falls er wirklich K., Phoinix und Kilix zusammen mit Europe zeigt, ein bedeutendes Zeugnis für das Verhältnis von K. und Europe als Geschwister; denn er beweist, wie ich annehme, daß die Tradition, die K. und Europe als Geschwister betrachtet, mindestens bis ins 4. Jh. v. Chr., wenn nicht in noch frühere Zeiten, zurückreicht. Auf den unteritalischen Vasenbildern wird K. bemerkenswerterweise wie auf dem Krater im Louvre mit einem Pilos (22–25) dargestellt. E. Zahn, Europa und der Stier (1983) 45–46 nimmt an, daß auf dem «Jo-Jo» des Sotheby-Malers (Athen, Nat. Mus. 2350, → Europe I 45, Wehgartner, I., Attisch weißgründige Keramik [1983] Taf. 52, 1) eine entsprechende Szene zu sehen ist. Trotzdem ist diese Deutung unbegründet. Etwa gleichzeitig mit dem campanischen Krater im Louvre muß das Bild des Antiphilos (2) entstanden sein, das, wie Plinius schreibt, ebenfalls K. mit Europe darstellte. Unwahrscheinlich ist die Hypothese, daß es sich um zwei Gemälde handelte, eines mit K. und eines mit Europe (s. Pape, M., Griechische Kunstwerke aus Kriegsbeute und ihre öffentliche Aufstellung in Rom [1975] 189).

K. wurde auf Münzen von Sidon aus der Zeit Elagabals auch zusammen mit einem anderen Bruder, Phoinix, abgebildet (3). Es ist natürlich schwierig, diese Darstellungen mit Nachrichten in Verbindung zu bringen, die ebenfalls aus späterer Zeit stammen und die berichten, daß K. Phoinix verließ, weil er sich mit Phoinix um die Thronfolge gestritten hatte. Über K. mit Phoinix s. auch 1.

Eine Reihe von kaiserzeitlichen Münzen (4) aus Tyros, Sidon und Samos zeigen auf der Rückseite eine männliche Gestalt und ein Schiff. Wenn es sich hier wirklich um K. handelt (s. MacDonald, Hunter III 254, 35–36 und Anm.), beziehen sich diese Darstellungen wahrscheinlich auf die Reise, auf der er Europe suchte. (Über andere Deutungen s. Vian 44 Anm. 1.) Das Erscheinen von K.-Bildern auf samischen Münzen (vgl. auch 31d) ist vielleicht mit der Hypothese zu erklären, daß es eine Überlieferung gab, derzufolge der Heros auf seiner bekannten Fahrt auch auf diese Insel gekommen war. (Über die Beziehung des K. zu Schiffen vgl. auch Eur. Iph. A. 253 ff.; Paus. 9, 16, 3; Nonn. Dion. 3, 19 ff.)

Sehr bedeutend ist die Darstellung auf der Rückseite einer Münze von Tyros aus der Zeit des Gallienus (5), denn es ist die einzige, die sich direkt auf die Verbreitung der «kadmeischen Buchstabenschrift» (Hdt. 5, 58) im griechischen Raum bezieht. Bemerkenswert ist, daß die in Tyros geprägten Münzen mit K.-Darstellungen eine größere Themenvielfalt aufweisen als die sidonischen. Wenn das auch nicht bedeutet, daß die spätestens aus der Kaiserzeit stammende Überlieferung, K. komme aus Tyros, stärker war als die, die Sidon als Herkunftsort bezeichnete, können wir doch zumindest annehmen, daß K. enger mit Tyros verbunden war. Das wird außerdem durch die Tatsache bestätigt, daß der Heros hier als Gott verehrt wurde (s. Latte 1471; K. wurde auch in anderen Gebieten wie Lakonien [Paus. 3, 15, 8] und Illyrien [Crusius 851] verehrt).

Auf Münzen von Tyros und Aigai in Kilikien aus der Zeit des Gallienus wird K. gezeigt, wie er vor den Mauern Thebens spendet und neben ihm eine Kuh liegt, offensichtlich die, die ihn an diesen Ort gebracht hat (6). Dies ist eine der beiden gesicherten Darstellungen dieser Kuh (die andere: 46). K.-Bilder mit Theben sind schon seit dem 5. und 4. Jh. v. Chr. bekannt (z. B. 19), wo jedoch Theben als Personifikation wiedergegeben wird (eine allerdings unsichere Ausnahme s. 26), während sie auf diesen Münzen mit den Mauern dargestellt ist. Das Bild des K. auf Münzen aus Aigai ist ein Zeugnis für die auch aus den lit. Quellen bekannten Beziehungen des K. oder seiner Gefährten zu Kilikien (vgl. auch Crusius 845 zum Sparten Aigeus). In Kilikien trug sich auch die Episode mit K. und Typhon zu, und hier machte Kilix, der Bruder des K. und namensgebende Heros des Gebietes, der Suche nach Europe ein Ende. Über Beziehungen des K. zu Kleinasien, vor allem zu Milet und Priene, s. Edwards, bes. 83 ff. und Anm. 77, 78; Vian 57 ff.

Wir kommen nun zu Vasenbildern, die einen Augenblick vor der Tötung des Drachen darstellen. Gewiß zeigen diese (7–10[?]) dasselbe Ereignis. Weil jedoch nicht die Kampfhandlung wiedergegeben ist (die Schlange kommt überhaupt nur auf 9 vor), wurden diese Darstellungen als Sondergruppe behandelt und den Kampfschilderungen vorangestellt. Wichtig ist, daß diese vier Bilder attisch sind, aus der 2. Hälfte des 5. Jh. stammen und alle Athena zeigen, die K. beisteht. Auf 7 und 8 gibt ihm die Göttin selbst den Stein, womit er das Untier tötet, während sie auf 9 K. berät. Falls auf dem vierten Bild (10) wirklich K. wiedergegeben ist, zeigt die heftige Bewegung der Göttin, daß sie aktiv in den Kampf eingreift. Diese vier Darstellungen, vor allem 7 und 8, bestätigen, daß es spätestens seit der Mitte des 5. Jh. v. Chr. die Überlieferung gab, daß Athena K. half, den Drachen zu töten (vgl. z. B. Eur. Phoen. 1062–1063). 7 und 8, die zeigen, wie Athena selbst K. den Stein gibt, sind vor der Uraufführung der Phoinissen des Euripides entstanden. Das heißt, daß der Dichter in dieser Einzelheit auf ältere Quellen zurückgegriffen hatte. 9 ist vielleicht von einem Werk der Dichtung oder, wahrscheinlicher, der Monumentalmalerei beeinflusst. Da die Figuren nicht mit Beischriften versehen sind, werden sie unterschiedlich gedeutet. Schwerlich kann man, wie einige das tun (→ Harmonia 3), die sitzende Gestalt vor der Schlange mit Harmonia identifizieren. Am wahrscheinlichsten handelt es sich um die Personifikation von Theben (vielleicht auch der Quelle, vgl. Rumpf 41 ff., bes. 43), wie wir aus den Darstellungen mit Beischriften schließen können (19, 23, 24; 19 stammt sogar aus derselben Töpferwerkstatt wie 9). Auf allen wird die in der Nähe der Schlange sitzende Figur als Theben bezeichnet, dazu auf 19 diejenige hinter K. als Harmonia. Dasselbe muß man auch annehmen für alle Drachenkampfdarstellungen mit einer sitzenden Frauenfigur neben K. und einer zweiten, meist ebenfalls sitzenden hinter ihm (10? 15–18, 19a, 25, 26.

28?). Von besonderer Bedeutung wäre der Beweis, daß die beiden Bilder auf der Amphora 10 zusammenhängen und zeigen, wie K. sich aufmacht, um den Drachen zu töten, weil dies dann eine völlig untypische Darstellung eines solchen Themas wäre. Vor allem wäre K. hier als vollgerüsteter Krieger abgebildet, was für die klassische Kunst ungewöhnlich ist (vgl. auch die zu 10 genannte verschollene Oinochoe). Auch die Wiedergabe des Baumes (vgl. allerdings die campanische Hydria 26a), das Fehlen der Hydria, der Schlange und anderer Elemente sind Merkmale, die diese von entsprechenden attischen K.-Darstellungen unterscheiden, und die Möglichkeit, daß es sich um dasselbe Thema handelt, verringern. Nehmen wir an, daß hier tatsächlich K. dargestellt ist, müssen wir akzeptieren, daß in der attischen Vasenmalerei später nicht mehr auf diesen Bildtypus zurückgegriffen wird. Daß K. den Drachen mit einem Stein und einer Lanze tötete, den auf dieser Amphora wiedergegebenen Waffen, wird zwar erst in späteren literarischen Quellen erwähnt (Ov. met. 3, 50 ff.), kommt aber auf Bildern bereits seit dem 5. Jh. v. Chr. vor (s. z. B. 17).

Bekanntlich ist die Drachentötung das am meisten dargestellte Ereignis aus dem Leben des Heroen. Das früheste gesicherte Bild dieses Themas befindet sich auf einem attischen Kelchkrater um die Mitte des 5. Jh. v. Chr. (15). Einige weitere, sogar ältere Darstellungen auf attischen Vasen oder Vasen anderer Werkstätten wurden hin und wieder mit dem drachentötenden K. in Verbindung gebracht, jedoch ohne schlüssige Begründung. Wenn also auf der sf. Amphora 54 dieses Thema wiedergegeben ist, stammt die älteste Darstellung dieser Episode in der griechischen Kunst bereits aus dem 2. Viertel des 6. Jh. v. Chr., unabhängig davon, daß der Herstellungsort des Gefäßes nicht mit Sicherheit zu bestimmen ist. Zugleich hätten wir dann auf dieser Vase die erste Abbildung der Gefährten des K., die auf gesicherten Darstellungen erst im 4. Jh. v. Chr., aber auch nicht oft, erscheinen (26, 27?). Häufiger kommen sie in der etruskischen Kunst vor (34–38, 39?), vielleicht aus dem oben genannten Grund, daß einer der Gefährten möglicherweise in Etrurien als mythischer Städtegründer verehrt wurde. Aber auch wenn wir annehmen, daß auf 54 nicht K. abgebildet ist (die Angabe des Helmes, vor allem des Knüppels und des Tierfells bei der mittleren Figur spricht dagegen; zum Tierfell vgl. jedoch Ov. met. 3, 52–53), haben wir schon in Darstellungen des 4. Jh. v. Chr. (s. 26) Zeugnisse dafür, daß die sich auf die Gefährten des K. beziehende Überlieferung älter ist als die frühesten entsprechenden schriftlichen Quellen, die alle aus späterer Zeit stammen (vgl. Vermeule 180). Etwas jünger als 54 sind zwei lakonische Schalen (11, 12). Auch wenn uns die Anwesenheit des K. in der lakonischen Kunst nicht überrascht, da seine Beziehung zu Lakonien bekannt ist (s. Paus. 3, 15, 8), kann man doch schwerlich annehmen, daß auf diesen beiden lakonischen Werken der drachentötende K. dargestellt ist. Als Argument dagegen könnte man anführen, daß auf diesen Schalen die männliche Gestalt Helm und Schild trägt und die Schlange mit einer Lanze tötet, obwohl diese Abweichungen auch mit der frühen Entstehung der Gefäße um die Mitte des 6. Jh. v. Chr. und der Eigenart der lakonischen Keramik erklärt werden könnten. Geschwächt wird die Hypothese, daß es sich hier um K. handelt, aber vor allem durch den Vergleich mit ähnlichen lakonischen Vasenbildern, die mit Sicherheit Achilleus, und zwar die Episode mit Troilos, darstellen (vgl. → Achilleus 261*, 264*). Auch die architektonische Ausgestaltung des Brunnens steht hier im Gegensatz zu sicheren K.-Darstellungen (vgl. nur 26).

Älter als die früheste sichere attische Wiedergabe dieses Themas (15) sind auch die zwei attischen Darstellungen 13 und 14 (2. Viertel bzw. etwa Mitte 5. Jh. v. Chr.). Wenn auf der Schale des Sotadesmalers (13) tatsächlich K. mit der Schlange abgebildet ist, dann ist dies die älteste attische Darstellung dieses Themas. In diesem Fall könnte die sitzende Frauenfigur zu Füßen des Heroen als Personifikation gedeutet werden (wie z. B. auf 24), obwohl die Wiedergabe von Personifikationen in der 1. Hälfte des 5. Jh. v. Chr. in der attischen und allgemein in der griechischen Kunst selten vorkommt. Die größte Schwierigkeit bereitet jedoch der Knüppel in der Hand des mutmaßlichen K. Für den Knüppel als Waffe des K. gibt es keine literarischen Quellen und keines der ähnlichen Bilder mit dieser Waffe ist eine gesicherte K.-Darstellung (s. z. B. 22, 54). Außerdem war der Knüppel die übliche Waffe, um gegen Schlangen vorzugehen (s. Schauenburg 2, 177). Auch der Bauernhut, den der mutmaßliche K. auf dieser Kylix trägt, ist in der attischen Ikonographie des Heroen im Gegensatz zum Petasos, dem Reisehut, unüblich (8, 9, 14? 15, 17, 19, 19a), während K. in der unteritalischen Vasenmalerei gewöhnlich einen Pilos aufhat (22, 23, 24, 25 und vielleicht als Ausnahme 21). Vielleicht beharrten die unteritalischen Vasenmaler auf dieser βοιωτική κονίη, um auf die boiotische Herkunft von K. hinzuweisen. Einen Pilos trägt der Heros auch auf seiner einzigen uns bekannten boiotischen Abbildung (20). Wenn die Lekythos in Bologna (14) tatsächlich K. darstellt, ist dies die älteste Wiedergabe des Heroen, die ihn mit Petasos, Endromides und Chlamys stark als Reisenden charakterisiert. Außerdem wäre dies die früheste Darstellung, auf der K. die Schlange mit einem Schwert tötet, was auch von Pherekydes, FGrH 3 F 88 erwähnt wird. Aber auch, wenn auf der Lekythos in Bologna K. nicht dargestellt ist, können wir mit Sicherheit sagen, daß das Schwert in diesem Zusammenhang schon seit dem 5. Jh. v. Chr. ikonographisch überliefert ist (19). Bemerkenswerterweise trägt K. bereits seit dem 5. Jh. v. Chr. auch auf Bildern, auf denen er die Schlange mit einem Stein tötet, ein Schwert (17, 19a, 23–26a, vgl. auch 7). Auf dem New Yorker Krater (15), der, wie wir gesehen haben, ältesten gesicherten Darstellung des drachentötenden K., benutzt K. entsprechend Hellan., FGrH 4 F 96 und Eur. Phoen. 663 kein Schwert, sondern einen Stein. Auch auf der noch älteren Kylix des Sotades-Malers (13) ist vielleicht K. mit einem Stein dargestellt, aber, wie bereits erwähnt, ist die Deutung unsicher. Auf jeden Fall wird in der Ikonographie des Drachenkampfes meist der Stein als Waffe angegeben (16. 17. 18. 19a. 21. 23. 24. 25. 26. 26a, vgl. auch 7. 8. 10(?) und zu jüngeren Darstellungen s. 31).

Auf 15 haben wir zugleich die früheste Abbildung des K. mit Hydria. Die manchmal neben dem Heros abgebildete Hydria (19a, vgl. auch 9) ist für die sichere Deutung des Themas eines der wichtigsten Merkmale, wenn keine Beischriften vorhanden sind (16. 17. 18. 21. 27. 28. 26a? 41d. Vgl. auch 7. 8). Auf manchen Darstellungen, vor allem in der unteritalischen Vasenmalerei, ist anstelle einer Hydria eine Amphora, meist eine Spitzamphora (23. 24. 25. 26. 40a) gemalt; in den Fällen, in denen das Gefäß die Form einer Oinochoë hat, können wir vielleicht, wenn auch nicht immer, so doch oft annehmen, daß der Maler eine Hydria gemeint hat und nur unterlassen hat, die beiden waagrecht Henkel anzugeben (s. z. B. 29b. 30a. c. 40b-d. f-i). Schließlich kommen auch noch weitere Gefäßformen vor (20. 32. 35).

Auf 15 haben wir die früheste Darstellung, in der K. zusammen mit Athena und Ares abgebildet ist. Daß diese beiden Gottheiten beim Drachenkampf des K. eine Rolle spielen, ist schon seit dem 5. Jh. v. Chr. in den literarischen Quellen bekannt. Wie diese berichten, hat Ares als Vater sowohl der Harmonia, als auch des Drachen besondere Beziehung zu K. Zur Sühne für den Drachenvörmord mußte K. dem Gott acht Jahre lang dienen (Apollod. bibl. 3, 4, 2). Obwohl den schriftlichen Quellen zufolge die Beziehung des K. zu Ares bedeutender ist, als die zu Athena, erscheint die Göttin auf den bildlichen Darstellungen des Drachenkampfes häufiger als Ares. Auf den Monumenten des 5. und 4. Jh. v. Chr. ist sie sogar die ständige Gefährtin des K. (7-9. 10? 15. 16. 17? 19. 19a. 21. 23. 24. 26a. 42). Höchstwahrscheinlich wurde Athena zusammen mit K. schon seit dem Beginn des 5. Jh. v. Chr. abgebildet, da die Darstellung von K.'s Hochzeit auf der Vorderseite der Amphora im Louvre CA 1961 (45) mit dem Bild der Athena auf der Rückseite zusammenhängen muß. Das ist für uns ein starker Hinweis darauf, daß die Sympathie der Göttin zu K., von der wir im allgemeinen erst aus späteren Quellen erfahren, schon in früheren Zeiten bekannt gewesen sein muß. (Vgl. auch unten zu 53, die Weihgeschenke des K. im Athenaheiligtum von Lindos, FGrH 532 B-C und das Heiligtum, das er zu Ehren der Göttin in Thera gründete, Schol. Pind. P. 4, 10b. f.)

Allgemein wird K. in der griechischen Ikonographie mit friedlichem Wesen dargestellt. Selbst in den Drachenkampfbildern ist er nur leicht mit Schwert, ein oder zwei Lanzen, manchmal sogar überhaupt nicht bewaffnet (s. z. B. 16. 18). Mit einer Ausnahme (42) haben wir in der griechischen Kunst keine sichere Darstellung des K. mit Helm, Schild und Panzer (über ungesicherte Bilder s. 4. 10-12. 27). Nur auf einigen Gemmen aus italischen Werkstätten (29d. e? f?) und auf Werken der etruskischen Kunst (z. B. 36. 37) erscheint K. mit dieser Rüstung; das ist vielleicht darauf zurückzuführen, daß K. oder einer seiner Gefährten auf der italischen Halbinsel als mythischer Städtegründer verehrt wurde. Wenn also K. in der griechischen Kunst nicht als Krieger, sondern als Reisender charakterisiert wird, soll höchstwahrscheinlich sein friedliches Wirken auf kulturellem Gebiet hervorgehoben werden, die Verbreitung der Buchstabenschrift und der Kenntnis, wie Metall gewonnen, Gold und Bronze verarbeitet und Steine gebrochen werden, die Erfindung der Lyra, der Bau von Wasserversorgungsanlagen u. a. m. K. hat im griechischen Raum wesentlich beigetragen zur Entwicklung einer kultivierten Lebensform und zur Bewahrung des «Kosmos» (vgl. seinen Namen Κάσμος auf 45) und der «Harmonie» darin. Auf der anderen Seite geht aus einigen schriftlichen Zeugnissen hervor, daß K. in Theben den ersten Helm und Schild eingeführt hat (FGrH 26 F 1, XXXVII - vgl. Hesych. s. v. Κάδμος).

Bemerkenswert ist ein Kolonettenkrater in Rom (16), weil in der Drachenkampfszene hinter Athena ein Greis dargestellt ist. Da in dem entsprechenden Bild auf dem Glockenkrater des Asteas in Neapel (23) eine gleiche Figur mit der Beischrift Ismenos (ΙΜΗΝΟΣ) benannt ist, vermuten wir, daß es sich auch hier um Ismenos handelt. Charakteristisch ist auch, daß Ismenos «Κάδμου ποῦς» (Crusius 844-845) genannt wurde. Auf den Vasen 17 und 18 ist die Darstellung auf die wichtigsten Personen beschränkt. Es ist allerdings nicht ausgeschlossen, daß Athena und Hermes auf der Rückseite von 17 mit der Drachenkampfszene auf der Vorderseite zusammenhängen. Hermes kommt auch auf anderen K.-Darstellungen vor (9. 19. 25), wovon die ältesten Ende des 6. und Anfang des 5. Jh. v. Chr. entstanden sind (44. 45). Außerdem ist Hermes einer der Götter, die K. Hochzeitgeschenke brachten (Diod. 5, 49), während K. bei Ps.-Lukian, Χαρίδημος ἢ περὶ κάλλους 9 als Geliebter des Hermes beschrieben wird. (Über die Beziehungen des K. zu Hermes s. auch Vian 153-154).

Die Hydria des Kadmosmalers (19) trägt die figurenreichste bis heute bekannte Darstellung des Themas. Aus der Art der Figurenanordnung geht hervor, daß das Bild wahrscheinlich von der Monumentalmalerei beeinflusst ist. K. wird hier von Athena (auf der Rückseite des Kraters 17 gibt Hermes Athena einen Kranz) und von einer Nike (vgl. auch die campan. Hydria 26a) bekränzt. Daß der Heros wie hier einen Bart trägt, ist äußerst selten (griech.: 20; unter den unsicheren: 54. 57. 13; etr.: 40a. g, beide nur mutmaßlich K.). Es ist also schwierig festzustellen, warum der Vasenmaler K. auf 19 ausnahmsweise mit Bart versehen hat. Von den weiteren auf der Hydria wiedergegebenen Figuren kommen auch auf anderen entsprechenden Darstellungen vor Harmonia, Thebe, Athena, Ares (?), Aphrodite (?), Hermes und Nike im Gegensatz zu Poseidon, Demeter, Kore, Apollon, Artemis und Eros; Apollon ist allerdings auf den Bildern von K.'s Hochzeit mit dabei (s. z. B. 45). Von allen diesen Göttern, die sonst nicht zusammen mit K. dargestellt werden, ist jedoch aus den literarischen Quellen bekannt, daß sie in Beziehung mit K. standen, ausgenommen Kore und Artemis, die hier wohl als Begleitung von Demeter bzw. Apollon auftreten. Die beiden letztgenannten Gottheiten waren auch auf der Hochzeit von K. und Harmonia anwesend (Diod. 5, 49), während sich der Tempel der Demeter in der Kadmeia im Haus von K. befand (Paus. 9, 16, 5; über die Beziehungen des K. zu Demeter s. Vian 135 ff.); für Poseidon gründete K. ein Heiligtum auf Thera (Schol. Pind. P. 4, 10b. f) und eins auf Rhodos (FGrH 523 F 1 [58]) und, wie wir wissen, war der Gott sein Großvater. Von Nonnos (Dion. 5, 107 ff.) erfahren wir außerdem, daß auf der Hochzeit des K. Nike mit den Eroten den Tanz anführte und daß Poseidon dem Brautpaar Geschenke aus dem Meere, Hermes ein Szepter, Ares eine Lanze, Apollon einen Bogen, Hera einen Thron, Hephaistos ein Diadem und Aphrodite eine goldene Halskette brachte (Dion. 5, 125-139).

Die boiotische Kabirenvasse (20) trägt, wie bereits erwähnt, die einzige bisher bekannte K.-Darstellung aus dem geographischen Raum, in dem K. hauptsächlich wirkte, und ist deshalb von besonderer Bedeutung. Daß K. hier ithyphallisch, bärtig und mit einem Arbeitskittel, Exomis, gezeigt wird, ist sicher auf den humoristischen Charakter der Bilder dieser Vasengattung zurückzuführen (vgl. auch K. in der Komödie, Crusius 880). Diese Erklärung gilt vielleicht auch für den eigentümlichen Stab (oder Peitsche), den er in seiner Rechten hält, um sich gegen den Drachen zu wehren, und die umgekehrte «Situla» hinter ihm, offensichtlich anstelle der Hydria. Einige Darstellungen, die eine männliche Gestalt mit einem Stab in der Hand und eine Schlange zeigen, sind keineswegs sicher mit K. in Beziehung zu bringen (s. z. B. 57a).

Auf dem apulischen Kelchkrater 21 aus der Zeit um 375 v. Chr. befindet sich die früheste K.-Darstellung der unteritalischen Vasenmalerei. Aber weder die Hydria in der linken Hand des K., noch der Petasos im Nacken (wenn es sich nicht um eine ungenaue Wiedergabe eines Pilos handelt) sind in der unteritalischen Vasenmalerei üblich. Hier wird K. gewöhnlich mit einem Pilos und das Gefäß in Form einer Amphora dargestellt (23. 24. 25. 26). Nur auf der campanischen Hydria 27 ist eine Hydria wiedergegeben, aber die Darstellung ist nicht sicher als Drachenkampf des K. zu deuten. Auch auf der campanischen Hydria 26a ist die Form des Gefäßes in der Hand des K. nicht genau zu bestimmen. Auf 21 ist die Wiedergabe der Drachenhöhle, über der Pan sitzt, erstaunlich naturalistisch. Nur selten ist der bocksbeinige Gott zusammen mit K. dargestellt (s. auch 25) obwohl einige allerdings jüngere Quellen eine Episode überliefern, in der K., Pan und Typhon die Hauptrolle spielen. Ungewöhnlich ist hier auch die Eule, die vor Athena fliegt.

Von Bedeutung wäre, wenn bewiesen werden könnte, daß der Skyphos 22 tatsächlich K. darstellt, denn hier ist als Waffe gegen die Schlange nicht der für K. in der unteritalischen Vasenmalerei übliche Stein wiedergegeben, sondern ein Knüppel. Für K. mit Knüppel gibt es bis heute kein einziges gesichertes Beispiel in der antiken griechischen Kunst (Deutung auf K. unsicher beim etr. Siegelstein London, Walters, BMGems Nr. 808, Vian 40, 18).

Der paestanische Glockenkrater des Asteas in Neapel (23) ist uns von großem Nutzen, da die Namensbeischriften bestätigen, daß beim Drachenkampf außer Athena und Thebe auch Ismenos und die Quellnymphen anwesend waren. Nicht auszuschließen ist, daß es sich bei der Krenaie um die Personifikation der Κρηναία πόλις von Theben handelt (Paus. 9, 8, 5). Da Asteas aber neben dieser Figur den lokalen Flußgott Ismenos abgebildet hat, halten wir die Erklärung als Quellnymphen für wahrscheinlicher. Auf jeden Fall müssen wir bei der Deutung von unbeschrifteten Figuren unbedingt dieses Gefäß (ebenso wie die übrigen Bilder mit Beischriften, z. B. 19 und 24) zum Vergleich heranziehen. Wahrscheinlich ist die Wiedergabe des Sonnenzeichens (s. auch 25) eine Erfindung der Asteas-Werkstatt, obwohl nicht auszuschließen ist, daß Asteas hier auf einen literarischen Text zurückgegriffen hat, da Ovid (met. 3, 50) vom Erscheinen der Sonne während des Drachenkampfes spricht. Auf die bemerkenswerte Ähnlichkeit des Drachens auf dem Gefäß aus Neapel mit der Beschreibung von Ovid (met. 3, 31 ff.) ist man schon früher aufmerksam geworden.

Auf dem Lekanisdeckel 24, einem unsignierten Werk des Asteas, sind die meisten Figuren mit Namensbeischriften versehen. Außer K., Athena, Thebe und wahrscheinlich Harmonia sind die Personifikation der Notwendigkeit (Ananke), die aus dem Boden auftaucht, sowie Ismene zugegen. Die Gewohnheit, die Figuren mit Beischriften zu benennen, hat der Asteas-Schüler Python anscheinend nicht übernommen (25). So sind wir nicht sicher, ob die Gestalt hinter K. Aphrodite oder die Quellnymphen dargestellt. Der Spiegel in ihrer Hand macht allerdings die Deutung als Aphrodite wahrscheinlicher. Ebenso können wir nicht mit Sicherheit sagen, ob die Frauengestalt hinter K. und die beim Drachen Harmonia bzw. Thebe, andere lokale Gottheiten oder Personifikationen sind. Falls es sich wirklich um Thebe handelt, ist dies das erste Mal, daß Thebe auf einer Darstellung dieses Themas nicht sitzend, sondern stehend wiedergegeben ist. Bemerkenswert ist hier auch die Anwesenheit eines Satyrknaben neben Pan; er ist wohl eher als dessen Begleiter zu erklären, und nicht als Zeugnis für den Einfluß eines Satyrspiels auf den Inhalt dieser Darstellung.

Wie bereits erwähnt, werden die Gefährten des K. in den literarischen Quellen erst in späterer Zeit erwähnt. Deshalb hat die campanische Hydria 26 mit der frühesten gesicherten Darstellung eines Gefährten des K. besondere Bedeutung (älter, aber unsicher in der Deutung ist 54, s. o. dazu; vgl. auch 27). Erstaunlich sind auf 26 außerdem die blühende Landschaft mit dem eigentümlich eingerollten Drachen und das Gebäude mit der halboffenen Tür in der Mitte oben. Damit ist vielleicht die Stadt Theben gemeint (vgl. auch die jüngere Darstellung auf 6), während die Frauengestalten rechts und links davon vermutlich einheimische Göttinnen oder Harmonia links und Thebe (oder die Personifikation der Quelle) rechts wiedergeben. Auf der campanischen Hydria 26a sind bemerkenswert der große Baumstamm hinter K. (vgl. 10) und die große Nike, die über K. fliegt und ihn bekränzt. Dieses Detail ist in der Ikonographie dieses Themas nicht unbekannt, kommt jedoch nur selten vor (vgl. 19). Zu erwähnen ist noch die kleine, unbe-stimmte Form des Gefäßes in K.' linker Hand, das aus Bronze sein soll.

Die Matrize 28 bestätigt uns, daß in der klassischen Zeit der Mythos von der Drachentötung außer auf Vasen und wahrscheinlich in der Monumentalmalerei auch auf Werken aus Bronze dargestellt wurde, während er von der zweiten Hälfte des 4. Jh. v. Chr. bis in die römische Zeit auf Bildern der Kleinkunst, auf einer Reihe von Gemmen, vorkommt. Zur Kenntnis der Ikonographie tragen diese Darstellungen nicht viel Neues bei, und oft wird mit geringen Abweichungen dieselbe Komposition wiederholt. Auf all diesen Gemmen ist nur eine einzige Figur wiedergegeben, die nicht immer sicher mit K. identifiziert werden kann (s. 29). In ikonographischer Hinsicht interessant ist die Gemme 29c, deren Bild, falls tatsächlich K. wiedergegeben ist, eine seltene Variante ist, da K. hier den Drachen mit der Hand tötet (vgl. 29g. 41e). Zur Herausstellung der kriegerischen Eigenschaften des K., indem er außer den üblichen Waffen auch einen Schild und einen Helm trägt, s. o. Auf den Gemmen 30 ist ein Krieger dargestellt, der an einer Quelle ein Gefäß mit Wasser füllt. Aber auch hier kann die Deutung der Figur als K. nicht bewiesen werden, und auf einigen Bildern ist nicht einmal der Drache wiedergegeben (s. z. B. 30b. c). Die Drachenkampf-Episode mit K. ist auch auf Münzen des 3. Jh. n. Chr. aus Tyros und Samos dargestellt (31). Auf allen ist der Heros nackt (manchmal hält er in der Hand ein kurzes Himation) und geht mit einem Stein gegen die Schlange vor. Falls auf den Mosaiken 32 und 33 tatsächlich K. gemeint ist, sind dies die spätesten Darstellungen (4. Jh. n. Chr.). Es ist nicht auszuschließen, daß auf 32, auf dem auch ein umgekehrtes Gefäß zu sehen ist, K. dargestellt ist, während diese Deutung für 33 sehr zweifelhaft ist, da das Gefäß fehlt und sich die Schlange um einen Baum ringelt.

Wie bereits erwähnt, ist der Drachenkampf die einzige Episode, die in der etruskischen Kunst dargestellt wurde. Die Anzahl der Monumente ist jedoch beschränkt, wenn wir eine Reihe Gemmen aus der hellenistischen Zeit (40. 41) nicht einbeziehen, auf der die einzige dargestellte Figur nicht zweifelsfrei mit K. identifiziert werden kann. Außerdem müssen wir feststellen, daß außer auf den Gemmen K. von seinen Gefährten begleitet ist. Aber auch unter den Gemmen gibt es eine beträchtliche Anzahl, die eher einen seiner Gefährten als K. selbst darstellen. Sehr verlockend ist die bereits erwähnte Hypothese, daß in Etrurien K. oder, mit größerer Wahrscheinlichkeit, einer seiner Gefährten als mythischer Städtegründer verehrt wurde. Damit würde auch übereinstimmen, daß in der etruskischen Kunst im Gegensatz zur griechischen K. und seine Gefährten kriegerischen Charakter haben (s. z. B. 36. 37. 40b-g. i). Die Darstellung auf dem pränestinischen Spiegel 35, auf dem K. und sein Gefährte, wie wir annehmen, von ihren Schutzgöttinnen unterstützt werden, macht diese These noch wahrscheinlicher (vgl. auch 38). Das Bild auf dem faliskischen Stamnos (34) könnte als älteste bisher bekannte K.-Darstellung in der etruskischen Kunst gelten, wenn die Deutung der Figuren mit den eigentümlichen Helmen nicht fraglich wäre. Merkwürdig ist, daß die linke, mit K. identifizierte Gestalt den Drachen mit einer Doppelaxt angreift, einer Waffe, die in diesem Zusammenhang weder auf den bisher bekannten Bildern noch in der literarischen Überlieferung vorkommt. Der pränestinische Spiegel 35 zeigt die vollständigste Darstellung des Themas im gesamten Bereich der etruskischen und griechischen Kunst. Auch auf diesem Werk, das allerdings starken griechischen Einfluß erkennen läßt, ist es Athena, die K. beisteht und ihm Mut macht. Das dargestellte Gefäß, auf griechischen Werken eine Hydria oder Amphora, hat hier die Form eines Kraters und befindet sich umgekehrt hinter einem der Gefährten. Die Ansicht, daß auf drei etruskischen Urnen aus hellenistischer Zeit (36-38) dasselbe Thema zu sehen ist, stützt sich darauf, daß hier viele Details mit der Darstellung auf dem um 300 v. Chr. entstandenen pränestinischen Spiegel übereinstimmen, deren Deutung verhältnismäßig sicher ist. Merkwürdig ist, daß der Drache auf 36 und 37 Flügel hat. Die Darstellung auf der tönernen Urne 39 kann nur schwerlich mit derselben Episode in Beziehung gebracht werden, da der Drache sich um zwei Kinder ringelt. Einige Forscher vermuten mit Recht, daß hier Motive zweier verschiedener Themen mit K. und Opheltas als Hauptfiguren vereinigt wurden (s. Krauskopf, ThebSag 51). Das Gemmenbild 40a zeigt vielleicht die älteste Darstellung des K. in der etruskischen Kunst, wurde aber auch anders gedeutet. Wie oft in der unteritalischen Vasenmalerei hält der Heros hier statt einer Hydria eine Amphora. Meist kommt auf den etruskischen Gemmen jedoch eine Oinochoe vor (s. 40b-d. f. g. i), wenn auch nicht ausgeschlossen ist, daß es sich zumindest in einigen Fällen um eine Hydria handelt, bei der der Maler die horizontalen Henkel nicht mit angegeben hat. Festzustellen ist auch folgendes: Im Gegensatz z. B. zum Spiegel 35 und den Urnen 36-38 kommt auf den Gemmen nicht nur die Kampfhandlung selbst (40e), sondern oft ein Augenblick davor zur Darstellung, in dem der Heros an einer Quelle ein Gefäß mit Wasser füllt (40a-c. f. g. i). Auf allen Gemmen 40 und besonders 41 kann allerdings die dargestellte Figur keineswegs sicher mit K., einem seiner Gefährten oder einer nicht mit dem Heros verbundenen Figur identifiziert werden. Wenn der Kämpfende in Bedrängnis ist, wird er als Gefährte des K. gedeutet (40h. 41a). Es gibt jedoch auch schriftliche Zeugnisse, die berichten, daß K. im Kampf auch hart angegriffen wurde (s. Nonn. Dion. 4, 365 ff.).

Leider ist ein sizilischer rotfiguriger Krater des 3. Viertels des 4. Jh. v. Chr. aus Lipari (42) nur sehr fragmentarisch erhalten. Bedauerlich ist das nicht so sehr, weil wir hier das einzige K.-Bild auf einer sizilischen Vase haben, sondern weil darauf die Figuren beschriftet sind und es deshalb die einzige bisher bekannte sichere Darstellung von K. mit den Spartoi ist (über die Spartoi s. Vian 158 ff.). Von den Göttern auf 42 ist noch Athena zu erkennen. Durch den schlechten Erhaltungszustand sind jedoch vielleicht viele, für unsere Kenntnisse wichtige Anhaltspunkte verlorengegangen, wie die Anzahl der Spartoi, auf welche Weise sie sich gegenseitig umbrachten, die Namen der Figuren u. a. m.

Die Bilder der Hochzeit von K. und Harmonia (43-45) sind bekanntlich die ältesten sicheren Darstellungen des Heroen. Besondere Bedeutung haben sie, weil sie älter sind als die frühesten schriftlichen Zeugnisse, die sich auf diese Hochzeit beziehen. Die älteste Darstellung, von der wir wissen, am Thron des Apollon von Amyklai (530-510 v. Chr.), hat sich nicht erhalten (43). Auf einem Relief, wahrscheinlich aus Bronze, waren K. und Harmonia mit den Göttern dargestellt, die ihnen Geschenke brachten. Von diesen Geschenken berichten die literarischen Quellen seit dem 5. Jh. v. Chr. Über den Ort, an dem die Hochzeit stattgefunden hatte, stimmen die schriftlichen Zeugnisse jedoch nicht überein. Manche nennen Theben, andere Samothrake (vgl. auch die später überlieferte Hochzeitszeremonie in Libyen, Crusius 858. 891). Weder die Darstellung am Thron des Apollon von Amyklai, noch die sonstigen Hochzeitsbilder (44. 45) liefern uns einen Hinweis auf den einen oder anderen Ort. Am wahrscheinlichsten ist jedoch die Annahme, daß auf den genannten drei Darstellungen die Hochzeit in Theben stattfindet. Ein pompejanisches Wandgemälde des 1. Jh. n. Chr. (61) wurde, allerdings ohne schlüssige Begründung, auf das Treffen von K. und Harmonia in Samothrake bezogen. Aber die Anwesenheit der Athena und die Gebäude auf diesem Bild sind weder Zeugnisse für den Ort des Geschehens, noch eine Hilfe für die Deutung des sich umarmenden Paares. 43 ist bisher das einzige sichere Bild des K. aus Lakonien. Bei allen übrigen lakonischen Darstellungen, die hin und wieder auf K. bezogen wurden, ist die Deutung sehr zweifelhaft (11. 12. 58. 59). Auf jeden Fall wußten wir gern mehr Einzelheiten über die Hochzeitsdarstellung auf dem Thron von Amyklai (43), vor allem über die Tiere, die dort den Wagen mit dem Brautpaar zogen. Auf der att. sf. Amphora 45 vom Anfang des 5. Jh. v. Chr. mit Beischriften wird der Hochzeitswagen überraschenderweise von einem Löwen und einem Eber gezogen. Der Wagen wird also mit Admetos und nicht mit K. in Beziehung gebracht. Ohne die Beischriften wäre niemand auf den Gedanken gekommen, die Darstellung mit K. zu verbinden, da die Quellen keinen Anlaß dazu geben. Schauenburg 1, 215 Anm. 27 äußert den Gedanken, daß vielleicht eine viel spätere Nachricht des Nonnos, Dion. 1, 494, K. habe als zweiter Orpheus mit der Musik die Tiere zähmen können, auf diese Darstellung bezogen werden kann. Es ist nicht ausgeschlossen, daß K. nach der Tötung des göttlichen Abkömmlings, des Drachen, sich verpflichten mußte, die wilden Tiere anzuspannen, als Voraussetzung für die Heirat mit Harmonia. Apollon, der in der Bildtiefe hinter dem Wagen des Brautpaares als Kitharoide erscheint, kommt auch auf anderen Darstellungen von Hochzeitszügen vor. Seine Anwesenheit auf der Hochzeit des K. wird jedoch, wie wir gesehen haben, in den antiken Quellen beredt geschildert. Aber auch Athena, Hermes und Herakles auf der Rückseite von 45 sind als Teilnehmer dieses Hochzeitszuges zu verstehen. Während uns die Anwesenheit von Athena und Hermes bei diesem Ereignis sowohl aus den ikonographischen, als auch aus den literarischen Quellen bekannt ist, (s. Diod. 5, 49; FGH 4 F98), bereitet uns die Darstellung von Herakles hier einige Schwierigkeiten. Zum Verständnis tragen jedoch einige archaische Vasenbilder bei, auf denen Herakles z. B. bei der Geburt der Athena anwesend ist (s. Knell, H., Die Darstellung der Götterversammlung in der attischen Kunst des VI. und V. Jh. v. Chr. [1965] 47). Auf all diesen Darstellungen ist Herakles als einer der Olympier zu verstehen und kann in dieser Eigenschaft, unabhängig von Zeit und Raum, zusammen mit den olympischen Göttern an allen Geschehnissen teilnehmen. Analog zu 45 deutete Schauenburg 1, 210 ff. auch die etwas ältere, aber nicht beschriftete Darstellung 44, auf welcher der Wagen ebenfalls von wilden Tieren gezogen wird. Diese Darstellung ist zwar nicht gut erhalten, aber die Teilnahme von Dionysos und Hermes am Hochzeitszug ist mit Sicherheit zu erkennen. Möglicherweise ist auch Apollon anwesend, aber für die Deutung der weiblichen Gestalt, die in der Bildtiefe hinter dem Wagen einen Korb auf dem Kopf trägt, haben wir keine Anhaltspunkte. Daß auch Dionysos, der Enkel des Bräutigams, mit dabei ist, sollte uns keine Probleme bereiten. Als Gott kann Dionysos überall in der Göttergemeinschaft anwesend sein. Außerdem ist seine Beziehung zu K. bekannt (s. 50). Gerade die Gegenwart dieses Gottes führte Schauenburg 1, 215-216 zu dem Schluß, daß auf der Oinochoe von Göttingen die K.-Hochzeit dargestellt ist. (Über eine weitere, allerdings nur mit geringer Wahrscheinlichkeit auf K. zu beziehende Gestalt auf einem Wagen, der von einem Löwen und einem Eber gezogen wird, s. 60, und über Darstellungen eines Mannes mit einem Löwen, die von einigen Forschern ohne überzeugende Argumente mit K. identifiziert wurden, s. 59 und 62). Schließlich werden K. und Harmonia auch auf Münzen des 3. Jh. n. Chr. aus Tyros dargestellt (46), und zwar im Bildtypus der dextrarum iunctio inter coniuges; die liegende Kuh hinter ihr ist offensichtlich eine Anspielung auf die Gründung von Theben (vgl. auch 6).

Bekanntlich verwandelten sich K. und Harmonia, nachdem sie Theben verlassen hatten, in Schlangen. Es gibt jedoch keine Bilder, die mit Sicherheit dieses Thema darstellen (s. 47). Wahrscheinlich hatten ihre Grabdenkmäler in Illyrien Schlangenform (s. Crusius 850-851; Edwards 34 und über K. in Illyrien und seine Verwandlung in eine Schlange Vian, bes. 124 ff.). Vgl. auch die Form des Felsens, auf dem Thebe sitzt, auf 16.

Sehr bedeutend ist auch ein Mosaik des 3. Jh. n. Chr. in Trier (48), worauf der inschriftlich benannte K. mit Klio, der Muse der Geschichte, dargestellt ist. Sicher handelt es sich um den milesischen Historiker K. Da dessen historische Existenz jedoch angezweifelt wird, ist nicht ausgeschlossen, daß seine Person mit dem mythischen K. identifiziert wurde (s. 48). Auf dem Mosaik sind auch noch andere geistige Persönlichkeiten der Antike wie Homer, Hesiod und Menander wiedergegeben. Zu ihnen würde also ein Mann passen, der viel zur Kultur beigetragen hat, natürlich unter der Voraussetzung, daß Kadmos, dem die literarischen Quellen viele «geistige» Entdeckungen zuschreiben, und der mythische K. dieselbe Person sind. Zumindest für die Spätantike scheint das sehr gut möglich zu sein.

Von den meisten übrigen im Katalog angeführten Vasen sind die Darstellungen nur mit geringer Wahrscheinlichkeit auf K. zu beziehen, wie z. B. das Bild auf der rotfigurigen Pelike 53, das, einigen Forschern zufolge, K. wiedergibt, wie er Athena die Kuh, die ihn nach Theben geleitet hat, opfert. Nach jüngeren Quellen errichtete K. an der Stelle, an der die Kuh sich nach einer langen, anstrengenden Wanderung ausruhte, Athena Onka einen Tempel mit Altar und Kultbild (s. Vian 139 ff.; Fontenrose 317 mit Anm. 81; Symeonoglou 130, 185). Auch auf 52 gibt es keine Merkmale, die auf K. beim Orakel von Delphi bezogen werden können (über die Beziehungen von K. zu Delphi s. Vian, bes. 82 ff.).

Zusammenfassend können wir sagen, daß die ältesten sicheren K.-Darstellungen in der griechischen Kunst seine Hochzeit wiedergeben (Ende des 6. und Anfang des 5. Jh. v. Chr.). Merkwürdigerweise wurde dieses Thema später nicht mehr dargestellt. (Über jüngere Bilder, die ab und zu völlig willkürlich als Hochzeit des K. gedeutet werden, s. z. B. Schmidt, R., De Hymenaeo et Talasio dis veterum nuptialibus [1886] 65-66. - Vgl. 60a.)

Von der Mitte des 5. Jh. an entstanden vor allem in Attika Darstellungen des Drachenkampfs, der bis zum Ende der Antike am häufigsten dargestellten Episode. Wir müssen jedoch einräumen, daß der Drachenkampf des K. möglicherweise bereits seit der ersten Hälfte des 6. Jh. auf Denkmälern von verschiedenen Herstellungsorten abgebildet wurde. Es ist allerdings bis heute nicht möglich, die Deutung dieser Darstellungen beweiskräftig zu begründen, da sie Merkmale aufweisen, die die gesicherten Bilder dieses Themas nicht haben (s. 54. 55. 56. 57). Es ist nicht einfach, diese ikonographischen Abweichungen darauf zurückzuführen, daß in ihrer Entstehungszeit der Bildtypus dieses Themas noch nicht vollständig ausgeprägt war. Im 4. Jh. v. Chr. wird der Drachenkampf des K. ein beliebtes Thema in der unteritalischen Vasenmalerei, zugleich aber erscheinen hier noch andere, bisher nicht dargestellte Episoden aus dem Leben des Heroen, wie die mit den Spartoi oder seinen Brüdern. Für die Spartoi gibt es bisher nur ein Beispiel. Seit der 2. Hälfte des 4. Jh. werden z. B. der Gang des K. zur Quelle und die Tötung des Drachen in der italischen wie in der etruskischen Kunst dargestellt. Diese Episode ist die einzige, die auf etruskischen Denkmälern vorkommt. Viel später, im 3. Jh. n. Chr., werden, vor allem auf phoinikischen Münzen, völlig neuartige Themen wie K. mit seinem Bruder Phoinix, die Einführung der Buchstabenschrift bei den Griechen und die Gründung Thebens dargestellt. Auf einem Mosaik aus derselben Epoche in Trier ist offensichtlich der Historiker K. mit der Muse Klio abgebildet, der wahrscheinlich jedoch mit dem mythischen K. identisch ist. Wir sehen also, daß K., obwohl er in der griechischen Kunst nicht häufig vorkommt, zu allen Zeiten

Künstler verschiedener (lakonischer, attischer, großgriechischer, italischer, etruskischer u. a.) Werkstätten beschäftigt hat. Im 3. Jh. n. Chr. erscheinen auf den Monumenten neben den alten sogar neue Themen. Deren Vorkommen auf Münzen von Tyros und Sidon ist nicht allein darauf zurückzuführen, daß Phoinikien K. bis zur Spätantike als seinen eigenen Heros betrachtete. Die Zunahme der K.-Darstellungen im 3. Jh. n. Chr. muß damit zusammenhängen, daß der Osten seit dieser Zeit im Römischen Reich wiederum eine bedeutende Rolle spielt. Und diese Darstellungen sollen daran erinnern, welchen Beitrag zur Entwicklung der Kultur dieses Gebiet geleistet hat.

MICHAELIS A. TIVERIOS

KADMOS II

(Kάδμος) Gott des gleichnamigen Berges, der an den Grenzen Phrygiens, Pisidiens und Kariens bei Laodikeia gelegen ist.

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Crusius, O., ML II 1 (1890-94) 824 s. v. «Kadmos I»; Imhoof-Blumer, F., Jdl 3, 1888, 289-290; Treidler, H., KlPauly III (1967) 42 s. v. «Kadmos 5».

Münzen von Laodikeia in Phrygien

1. (= Adrasteia II 8*) AE, Caracalla (198-217 n. Chr.). - Imhoof-Blumer 289-290 Nr. 1 Taf. 9, 18; idem, Nymphen und Chariten auf griechischen Münzen (1908) 141 Nr. 411 Taf. 9, 6. - Rs.: → Rhea nach l. kniend hält das Zeuskind dem jugendlichen K. entgegen, der nach l. auf einer Anhöhe sitzt und den Kopf mit langem Haar nach r. zu Rhea gewandt hat, den r. Arm um den Kopf geschlagen und mit der Linken einen Baum umfassend; zu seinen Füßen entspringt ein Fluß, vielleicht der gleichnamige Kadmos. Hinter Rhea eilt Adrasteia herbei, um das Kind in Empfang zu nehmen.

In Laodikeia wurde Zeus besonders verehrt. Die Szene auf den Münzen mag auf eine Lokalversion hinweisen, in welcher Zeus auf dem bei Laodikeia gelegenen Berg Kadmos geboren und aufgezogen worden ist, was die Anwesenheit des K. erklären könnte. K. ist deutlich durch das erhöhte Sitzen, die Gebärde des Ausruhens und das Erfassen eines Baumes als Berggott charakterisiert. RAINER VOLLKOMMER

KAIKIAS → Venti

KAIKINOS

(Καικίνος) Grenzfluß zwischen Lokroi und Rhegion (Bruttium). Der Flußgott K. tritt als Persönlichkeit nur in einer Lokalsage hervor, die ihn zum Vater

des lokrischen Olympioniken und Heros Euthymos macht (Paus. 6, 6, 4-10), da dieser am Ende seines Lebens im Kaikinos verschwand (Ail. var. 8, 18). Diese enge Beziehung zwischen dem Flußgott und Euthymos hat sich vielleicht auf einer Serie lokrischer Tonreliefs niedergeschlagen:

1. (= Acheloos 208* mit Lit.) Tonrelief. Reggio Calabria, Mus. Naz. 110 und Locri, Antiquarium. Aus Locri, Contrada Caruso. - Weiß, Flußg 67-69 Taf. 16, 3 mit Lit. und Diskussion zur Datierung und Deutung. - 2. Jh. v. Chr. - Unter drei Nymphenköpfen unbärtiger Mannstier nach l. auf einer Basis vor einem Altar stehend. Auf der Basis ΕΥΘΥΜΙΣ. Die so als Kultstatue gekennzeichnete Darstellung könnte aus der Verschmelzung zweier Bildtypen entstanden sein: Der bärtige Mannstier, eine der charakteristischen Bildformen für die Darstellung eines Flußgottes (→ Fluvii), wird durch Angleichung an das Bild eines jugendlichen Athleten verändert und drückt vielleicht dergestalt die gegenseitige Assimilation von K. und Euthymos aus. Nicht ausschließen läßt sich allerdings auch die Hypothese, daß die Jugendlichkeit des Mannstieres als Angleichung an die im 5. Jh. aufgekommene Jünglingsgestalt der lokalen Flußgötter zu verstehen ist.

CARINA WEISS

KAIKOS

(Καίκος) Personifikation des gleichnamigen Flusses im Mysien, dem heutigen Bakır Çay. Nach Hes. theog. 343 Sohn des Okeanos und der Tethys.

LITERARISCHE QUELLEN: Siehe Büchner 1501-1502. In Aischyl. Myser, TrGF III F 143 wird ein Priester des K. angeredet, was auf einen für ihn vorhandenen Kult schließen läßt.

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Büchner, L., RE X 2 (1919) 1501-1502 s. v. «Kaikos 1»; Drexler, W., ML II 1 (1890-94) 894 s. v. «Kaikos 1»; v. Geisau, H., KlPauly III (1967) 46 s. v. «Kaikos 1»; Joly, E., EAA IV (1961) 287 s. v. «Kaikos»; Treidler, H., KlPauly III (1967) 46 s. v. «Kaikos 2»; Waser, O., RE VI 2 (1909) 2801 s. v. «Flußgötter»; idem, RE X 2 (1919) 1502 s. v. «Kaikos 3».

KATALOG

Münzen

DEUTUNG AUF KAIKOS DURCH INSCHRIFT GESICHERT

a) Nach r. gelagerter, nur bis zu den Hüften mit einem Himation bekleideter, bärtiger K., die Rechte auf Quellgefäß stützend.

1.* AE, Elaia (Aeolis), kaiserzeitlich. - Unpubliziert (?). - Rs.: In der Mitte auf Pfeiler Statue der Ceres mit langer Fackel in der Rechten und Ähren in der Linken; l. K. (KAIKOΣ), in der Rechten Füllhorn und in der Linken kleinen Baum haltend, r. → Keteios (ΚΕΤΕΙΟΣ), in der Linken Füllhorn und in der Rechten kleinen Baum haltend; darunter Ähren und Meerkapseln.

b) Wie a, K. aber nach l. gelagert und die Linke Quellgefäß stützend.

2.* AE, Pergamon (Mysien), Trajan (98-117 n. Chr.). - BMC Mysia 143, 268 Taf. 28, 13; InvV 959; Imhoof-Blumer, Flußg 272-273 Nr. 246 Taf. 17. - Rs.: In der vorgestreckten Rechten Füllhorn, hinter Schilfrohr. ΕΙΛΑΝΑΥΚΟΥΑΔΡΑΤΟΥ ΚΑΙ

3.* AE, Stratonikeia Hadrianopolis (Lydien) des Gordian III. (244-249 n. Chr.) bis Gallien (253-268 n. Chr.). - BMC Lydia 285, 4 Taf. 28. Imhoof-Blumer, Flußg 306 Nr. 332 Taf. 11, 3; S. v. Aulock 3184. - Rs.: Die Rechte am Knie, zu Füßen in der Linken Schilfrohr. ΚΑΙΚΟΣ ΣΤΡΑΤΟΝΙΚΕΙΑ. Vs.: Büste der → Stratonikeia.

4.* AE, Akrasos (Lydien), Commodus (177-192 n. Chr.). - Imhoof-Blumer, Flußg 293 Nr. 297; rer, Weber III 1 Nr. 6776 Taf. 239. - Rs.: In der Rechten und zu seinen Füßen Schilfrohr. ΕΠΙ ΣΤΡΑΤΟΝΙΚΕΙΑ ΣΟΥ ΑΚΡΑΣΙΩΤΩΝ ΚΑΙΚΟΣ.

DEUTUNG AUF KAIKOS WAHRSCHEINLICH

5.* AE, Germe (Mysien), Caracalla (218-219 n. Chr.). - BMC Lydia 84, 25 Taf. 9, 6 = BMC Mysia 68, 21 Taf. 16, 8. - Rs.: Apollo nach r. auf Felsen sitzend, in der Linken Lyra und in der Rechten Plektron haltend; vor ihm Marsyas, frontal stehend, Kopf nach l., in beiden Händen Flöte; zu seinen Füßen r. K. in einem Schilfrohr in der Linken.

Vase

6.* Glasierter, reliefierter pergamenischer Hydria. Mainz, RGZM o. 39286. Angeblich aus Pergamon. - Koeppel, G. M., AJA 77, 1973, 217; ibid. 1972, 188 ff. Taf. 22-25; Heimberg, Jdl 91, 1976, 289 Nr. H 1; Mandel, U., Kleinasiatische Reliefkeramik der mittleren Kaiserzeit, Pergamon (1988) 39-40. 226 Nr. P 149. - Flavisch (nach Mandel) oder Ende 2./Anfang 3. Jh. n. Chr. (nach Koeppel). - Auf beiden Seiten Gallienschlacht, am l. E. jeweils K. mit der Linken ein Schilfrohr schultend, die Rechte auf Felsen gestützt.

Kaikos 6

DEUTUNG AUF KAIKOS OFFEN

Münzen

7. AE, Attia, Sabina († 137 n. Chr.) und Commodus (177-192 n. Chr.). - v. Fritze, H., Die antiken Münzen Mysiens I (1913) 127 Nr. 380 Taf. 6, 16; B.

unter der Voraussetzung, daß Kadmos, dem die literarischen Quellen viele «geistige» Entdeckungen zuschreiben, und der mythische K. dieselbe Person sind. Zumindest für die Spätantike scheint das sehr gut möglich zu sein.

Von den meisten übrigen im Katalog angeführten Vasen sind die Darstellungen nur mit geringer Wahrscheinlichkeit auf K. zu beziehen, wie z. B. das Bild auf der rotfigurigen Pelike 53, das, einigen Forschern zufolge, K. wiedergibt, wie er Athena die Kuh, die ihn nach Theben geleitet hat, opfert. Nach jüngeren Quellen errichtete K. an der Stelle, an der die Kuh sich nach einer langen, anstrengenden Wanderung ausruhte, Athena Onka einen Tempel mit Altar und Kultbild (s. Vian 139 ff.; Fontenrose 317 mit Anm. 81; Symeonoglou 130, 185). Auch auf 52 gibt es keine Merkmale, die auf K. beim Orakel von Delphi bezogen werden können (über die Beziehungen von K. zu Delphi s. Vian, bes. 82 ff.).

Zusammenfassend können wir sagen, daß die ältesten sicheren K.-Darstellungen in der griechischen Kunst seine Hochzeit wiedergeben (Ende des 6. und Anfang des 5. Jh. v. Chr.). Merkwürdigerweise wurde dieses Thema später nicht mehr dargestellt. (Über jüngere Bilder, die ab und zu völlig willkürlich als Hochzeit des K. gedeutet werden, s. z. B. Schmidt, R., De Hymenaeo et Talasio dis veterum nuptialibus [1886] 65–66. – Vgl. 60a.)

Von der Mitte des 5. Jh. an entstanden vor allem in Attika Darstellungen des Drachenkampfs, der bis zum Ende der Antike am häufigsten dargestellten Episode. Wir müssen jedoch einräumen, daß der Drachenkampf des K. möglicherweise bereits seit der ersten Hälfte des 6. Jh. auf Denkmälern von verschiedenen Herstellungsorten abgebildet wurde. Es ist allerdings bis heute nicht möglich, die Deutung dieser Darstellungen beweiskräftig zu begründen, da sie Merkmale aufweisen, die die gesicherten Bilder dieses Themas nicht haben (s. 54. 55. 56. 57). Es ist nicht einfach, diese ikonographischen Abweichungen darauf zurückzuführen, daß in ihrer Entstehungszeit der Bildtypus dieses Themas noch nicht vollständig ausgeprägt war. Im 4. Jh. v. Chr. wird der Drachenkampf des K. ein beliebtes Thema in der unteritalischen Vasenmalerei, zugleich aber erscheinen hier noch andere, bisher nicht dargestellte Episoden aus dem Leben des Heroen, wie die mit den Spartoi oder seinen Brüdern. Für die Spartoi gibt es bisher nur ein Beispiel. Seit der 2. Hälfte des 4. Jh. werden z. B. der Gang des K. zur Quelle und die Tötung des Drachen in der italischen wie in der etruskischen Kunst dargestellt. Diese Episode ist die einzige, die auf etruskischen Denkmälern vorkommt. Viel später, im 3. Jh. n. Chr., werden, vor allem auf phoinikischen Münzen, völlig neuartige Themen wie K. mit seinem Bruder Phoinix, die Einführung der Buchstabenschrift bei den Griechen und die Gründung Thebens dargestellt. Auf einem Mosaik aus derselben Epoche in Trier ist offensichtlich der Historiker K. mit der Muse Klio abgebildet, der wahrscheinlich jedoch mit dem mythischen K. identisch ist. Wir sehen also, daß K., obwohl er in der griechischen Kunst nicht häufig vorkommt, zu allen Zeiten

Künstler verschiedener (lakonischer, attischer, großgriechischer, italischer, etruskischer u. a.) Werkstätten beschäftigt hat. Im 3. Jh. n. Chr. erscheinen auf den Monumenten neben den alten sogar neue Themen. Deren Vorkommen auf Münzen von Tyros und Sidon ist nicht allein darauf zurückzuführen, daß Phoinikien K. bis zur Spätantike als seinen eigenen Heros betrachtete. Die Zunahme der K.-Darstellungen im 3. Jh. n. Chr. muß damit zusammenhängen, daß der Osten seit dieser Zeit im Römischen Reich wiederum eine bedeutende Rolle spielt. Und diese Darstellungen sollen daran erinnern, welchen Beitrag zur Entwicklung der Kultur dieses Gebiet geleistet hat.

MICHAËL A. TIVERIOS

KADMOS II

(Kάδμος) Gott des gleichnamigen Berges, der an den Grenzen Phrygiens, Pisidiens und Kariens bei Laodikeia gelegen ist.

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Crusius, O., ML II 1 (1890–94) 824 s. v. «Kadmos I»; Imhoof-Blumer, F., JdI 3, 1888, 289–290; Treidler, H., KlPauly III (1967) 42 s. v. «Kadmos 5».

Münzen von Laodikeia in Phrygien

I. (= *Adrasteia II 8**) AE, Caracalla (198–217 n. Chr.). – Imhoof-Blumer 289–290 Nr. 1 Taf. 9, 18; idem, Nymphen und Chariten auf griechischen Münzen (1908) 141 Nr. 411 Taf. 9, 6. – Rs.: → Rhea nach l. kniend hält das Zeuskind dem jugendlichen K. entgegen, der nach l. auf einer Anhöhe sitzt und den Kopf mit langem Haar nach r. zu Rhea gewandt hat, den r. Arm um den Kopf geschlagen und mit der Linken einen Baum umfassend; zu seinen Füßen entspringt ein Fluß, vielleicht der gleichnamige Kadmos. Hinter Rhea eilt Adrasteia herbei, um das Kind in Empfang zu nehmen.

In Laodikeia wurde Zeus besonders verehrt. Die Szene auf den Münzen mag auf eine Lokalversion hinweisen, in welcher Zeus auf dem bei Laodikeia gelegenen Berg Kadmos geboren und aufgezogen worden ist, was die Anwesenheit des K. erklären könnte. K. ist deutlich durch das erhöhte Sitzen, die Gebärde des Ausruhens und das Erfassen eines Baumes als Berggott charakterisiert. RAINER VOLLKOMMER

KAIKIAS → Venti

KAIKINOS

(Καϊκίνος) Grenzfluß zwischen Lokroi und Rhegion (Bruttium). Der Flußgott K. tritt als Persönlichkeit nur in einer Lokalsage hervor, die ihn zum Vater

des lokrischen Olympioniken und Heros Euthymos macht (Paus. 6, 6, 4–10), da dieser am Ende seines Lebens im Kaikinos verschwand (Ail. var. 8, 18). Diese enge Beziehung zwischen dem Flußgott und Euthymos hat sich vielleicht auf einer Serie lokrischer Tonreliefs niedergeschlagen:

I. (= *Acheloos 208** mit Lit.) Tonrelief. Reggio Calabria, Mus. Naz. 110 und Locri, Antiquarium. Aus Locri, Contrada Caruso. – Weiß, Flußg 67–69 Taf. 16, 3 mit Lit. und Diskussion zur Datierung und Deutung. – 2. Jh. v. Chr. – Unter drei Nymphenköpfen unbärtiger Mannstier nach l. auf einer Basis vor einem Altar stehend. Auf der Basis ΕΥΘΥΜΙΕ. Die so als Kultstatue gekennzeichnete Darstellung könnte aus der Verschmelzung zweier Bildtypen entstanden sein: Der bärtige Mannstier, eine der charakteristischen Bildformen für die Darstellung eines Flußgottes (→ Fluvii), wird durch Angleichung an das Bild eines jugendlichen Athleten verändert und drückt vielleicht dergestalt die gegenseitige Assimilation von K. und Euthymos aus. Nicht ausschließen läßt sich allerdings auch die Hypothese, daß die Jugendlichkeit des Mannstieres als Angleichung an die im 5. Jh. aufgekommene Jünglingsgestalt der lokalen Flußgötter zu verstehen ist.

CARINA WEISS

KAIKOS

(Καῖκος) Personifikation des gleichnamigen Flusses im Mysien, dem heutigen Bakır Çay. Nach Hes. theog. 343 Sohn des Okeanos und der Tethys.

LITERARISCHE QUELLEN: Siehe Büchner 1501–1502. In Aischyl. Myser, TrGF III F 143 wird ein Priester des K. angeredet, was auf einen für ihn vorhandenen Kult schließen läßt.

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Büchner, L., RE X 2 (1919) 1501–1502 s. v. «Kaikos I»; Drexler, W., ML II 1 (1890–94) 894 s. v. «Kaikos I»; v. Geisau, H., KlPauly III (1967) 46 s. v. «Kaikos I»; Joly, E., EAA IV (1961) 287 s. v. «Kaikos»; Treidler, H., KlPauly III (1967) 46 s. v. «Kaikos 2»; Waser, O., RE VI 2 (1909) 2801 s. v. «Flußgötter»; idem, RE X 2 (1919) 1502 s. v. «Kaikos 3».

KATALOG

Münzen

DEUTUNG AUF KAIKOS DURCH INSCHRIFT GESICHERT

a) Nach r. gelagerter, nur bis zu den Hüften mit einem Himation bekleideter, bärtiger K., die Rechte auf Quellgefäß stützend.

I.* AE, Elaia (Aeolis), kaiserzeitlich. – Unpubliziert (?). – Rs.: In der Mitte auf Pfeiler Statue der Ceres mit langer Fackel in der Rechten und Ähren in der Linken; l. K. (KAIKOS), in der Rechten Füllhorn und in der Linken kleinen Baum haltend, r. → Keteios (ΚΕΤΕΙΟΣ), in der Linken Füllhorn und in der Rechten kleinen Baum haltend; darunter Ähren und M. kapseln.

b) Wie a, K. aber nach l. gelagert und die Linke Quellgefäß stützend.

2.* AE, Pergamon (Mysien), Trajan (98–117 n. Chr.). – BMC Mysia 143, 268 Taf. 28, 13; InpI 959; Imhoof-Blumer, Flußg 272–273 Nr. 246 Taf. 17. – Rs.: In der vorgestreckten Rechten Füllhorn hinter Schilfrohr. ΕΠΙ ΑΝΑΥΚΟΥ ΑΠΑΤΟΥ ΚΑΙ

3.* AE, Stratonikeia Hadrianopolis (Lydien), des Gordian III. (244–249 n. Chr.) bis Gallien (253–268 n. Chr.). – BMC Lydia 285, 4 Taf. 2. Imhoof-Blumer, Flußg 306 Nr. 332 Taf. 11, 3; v. Aulock 3184. – Rs.: Die Rechte am Knie, zu Füßen und in der Linken Schilfrohr. KAIKOS ΕΤΡΑΤΕΙΟΝ. Vs.: Büste der → Stratonikeia.

4.* AE, Akrasos (Lydien), Commodus (177–192 n. Chr.). – Imhoof-Blumer, Flußg 293 Nr. 297; Weber III 1 Nr. 6776 Taf. 239. – Rs.: In der Rechten und zu seinen Füßen Schilfrohr. ΕΠΙ ΕΤΡΑΤΕΙΟΥ ΑΚΡΑΣΙΩΤΩΝ ΚΑΙΚΟΣ.

DEUTUNG AUF KAIKOS WAHRSCHEINLICH

5.* AE, Germe (Mysien), Caracalla (218–217 n. Chr.). – BMC Lydia 84, 25 Taf. 9, 6 = BMCN 68, 21 Taf. 16, 8. – Rs.: Apollo nach r. auf Felsen sitzend, in der Linken Lyra und in der Rechten Plektron haltend; vor ihm Marsyas, frontal stehend, Kopf l., in beiden Händen Flöte; zu seinen Füßen r. K. einem Schilfrohr in der Linken.

Vase

6.* Glasierter, reliefierter pergamenischer Tharos. Mainz, RGZM o. 39286. Angeblich aus P. mon. – Koeppel, G. M., AJA 77, 1973, 217; JbRGZM 19, 1972, 188 ff. Taf. 22–25; Heimbürger, JdI 91, 1976, 289 Nr. H 1; Mandel, U., Kleinasiatische Reliefkeramik der mittleren Kaiserzeit, PergForsch (1988) 39–40. 226 Nr. P 149. – Flavisch (nach Mandel) oder Ende 2./Anfang 3. Jh. n. Chr. (nach Koeppel). – Auf beiden Seiten Gallierschlacht, am l. jeweils K. mit der Linken ein Schilfrohr schulternd, die Rechte auf Felsen gestützt.

Kaikos 6

DEUTUNG AUF KAIKOS OFFEN

Münzen

7. AE, Attai, Sabina († 137 n. Chr.) und Commodus (177–192 n. Chr.). – v. Fritze, H., Die antiken Münzen Mysiens I (1913) 127 Nr. 380 Taf. 6, 16;

unter der Voraussetzung, daß Kadmos, dem die literarischen Quellen viele »geistige« Entdeckungen zuschreiben, und der mythische K. dieselbe Person sind. Zumindest für die Spätantike scheint das sehr gut möglich zu sein.

Von den meisten übrigen im Katalog angeführten Vasen sind die Darstellungen nur mit geringer Wahrscheinlichkeit auf K. zu beziehen, wie z. B. das Bild auf der rotfigurigen Pelike 53, das, einigen Forschern zufolge, K. wiedergibt, wie er Athena die Kuh, die ihn nach Theben geleitet hat, opfert. Nach jüngeren Quellen errichtete K. an der Stelle, an der die Kuh sich nach einer langen, anstrengenden Wanderung ausruhte, Athena Onka einen Tempel mit Altar und Kultbild (s. Vian 139 ff.; Fontenrose 317 mit Anm. 81; Symeonoglou 130, 185). Auch auf 52 gibt es keine Merkmale, die auf K. beim Orakel von Delphi bezogen werden können (über die Beziehungen von K. zu Delphi s. Vian, bes. 82 ff.).

Zusammenfassend können wir sagen, daß die ältesten sicheren K.-Darstellungen in der griechischen Kunst seine Hochzeit wiedergeben (Ende des 6. und Anfang des 5. Jh. v. Chr.). Merkwürdigerweise wurde dieses Thema später nicht mehr dargestellt. (Über jüngere Bilder, die ab und zu völlig willkürlich als Hochzeit des K. gedeutet werden, s. z. B. Schmidt, R., De Hymenaeo et Talasio dis veterum nuptialibus [1886] 65–66. – Vgl. 60a.)

Von der Mitte des 5. Jh. an entstanden vor allem in Attika Darstellungen des Drachenkampfes, der bis zum Ende der Antike am häufigsten dargestellten Episode. Wir müssen jedoch einräumen, daß der Drachenkampf des K. möglicherweise bereits seit der ersten Hälfte des 6. Jh. auf Denkmälern von verschiedenen Herstellungsorten abgebildet wurde. Es ist allerdings bis heute nicht möglich, die Deutung dieser Darstellungen beweiskräftig zu begründen, da sie Merkmale aufweisen, die die gesicherten Bilder dieses Themas nicht haben (s. 54. 55. 56. 57). Es ist nicht einfach, diese ikonographischen Abweichungen darauf zurückzuführen, daß in ihrer Entstehungszeit der Bildtypus dieses Themas noch nicht vollständig ausgeprägt war. Im 4. Jh. v. Chr. wird der Drachenkampf des K. ein beliebtes Thema in der unteritalischen Vasenmalerei, zugleich aber erscheinen hier noch andere, bisher nicht dargestellte Episoden aus dem Leben des Heroen, wie die mit den Spartoi oder seinen Brüdern. Für die Spartoi gibt es bisher nur ein Beispiel. Seit der 2. Hälfte des 4. Jh. werden z. B. der Gang des K. zur Quelle und die Tötung des Drachen in der italischen wie in der etruskischen Kunst dargestellt. Diese Episode ist die einzige, die auf etruskischen Denkmälern vorkommt. Viel später, im 3. Jh. n. Chr., werden, vor allem auf phoinikischen Münzen, völlig neuartige Themen wie K. mit seinem Bruder Phoinix, die Einführung der Buchstabenschrift bei den Griechen und die Gründung Thebens dargestellt. Auf einem Mosaik aus derselben Epoche in Trier ist offensichtlich der Historiker K. mit der Muse Klio abgebildet, der wahrscheinlich jedoch mit dem mythischen K. identisch ist. Wir sehen also, daß K., obwohl er in der griechischen Kunst nicht häufig vorkommt, zu allen Zeiten Künstler verschiedener (lakonischer, attischer, großgriechischer, italischer, etruskischer u. a.) Werkstätten beschäftigt hat. Im 3. Jh. n. Chr. erscheinen auf den Monumenten neben den alten sogar neue Themen. Deren Vorkommen auf Münzen von Tyros und Sidon ist nicht allein darauf zurückzuführen, daß Phoinikien K. bis zur Spätantike als seinen eigenen Heros betrachtete. Die Zunahme der K.-Darstellungen im 3. Jh. n. Chr. muß damit zusammenhängen, daß der Osten seit dieser Zeit im Römischen Reich wiederum eine bedeutende Rolle spielt. Und diese Darstellungen sollen daran erinnern, welchen Beitrag zur Entwicklung der Kultur dieses Gebiet geleistet hat.

MICHALIS A. TIVERIOS

KADMOS II

(Κάδμος) Gott des gleichnamigen Berges, der an den Grenzen Phrygiens, Pisidiens und Kariens bei Laodikeia gelegen ist.

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Crusius, O., ML II 1 (1890–94) 824 s. v. »Kadmos I«; Imhoof-Blumer, F., JdI 3, 1888, 289–290; Treidler, H., KIPauly III (1967) 42 s. v. »Kadmos 5«.

Münzen von Laodikeia in Phrygien

I. (= Adrasteia II 8*) AE, Caracalla (198–217 n. Chr.). – Imhoof-Blumer 289–290 Nr. 1 Taf. 9, 18; idem, Nymphen und Chariten auf griechischen Münzen (1908) 141 Nr. 411 Taf. 9, 6. – Rs.: → Rhea nach l. kniend hält das Zeuskind dem jugendlichen K. entgegen, der nach l. auf einer Anhöhe sitzt und den Kopf mit langem Haar nach r. zu Rhea gewandt hat, den r. Arm um den Kopf geschlagen und mit der Linken einen Baum umfassend; zu seinen Füßen entspringt ein Fluß, vielleicht der gleichnamige Kadmos. Hinter Rhea eilt Adrasteia herbei, um das Kind in Empfang zu nehmen.

In Laodikeia wurde Zeus besonders verehrt. Die Szene auf den Münzen mag auf eine Lokalversion hinweisen, in welcher Zeus auf dem bei Laodikeia gelegenen Berg Kadmos geboren und aufgezogen worden ist, was die Anwesenheit des K. erklären könnte. K. ist deutlich durch das erhöhte Sitzen, die Gebärde des Ausruhens und das Erfassen eines Baumes als Berggott charakterisiert. RAINER VOLLKOMMER

KAIKIAS → Venti

KAIKINOS

(Καϊκίνος) Grenzfluß zwischen Lokroi und Rhegion (Bruttium). Der Flußgott K. tritt als Persönlichkeit nur in einer Lokalsage hervor, die ihn zum Vater

des lokrischen Olympioniken und Heros Euthymos macht (Paus. 6, 6, 4–10), da dieser am Ende seines Lebens im Kaikinos verschwand (Ail. var. 8, 18). Diese enge Beziehung zwischen dem Flußgott und Euthymos hat sich vielleicht auf einer Serie lokrischer Tonreliefs niedergeschlagen:

I. (= Acheloos 208* mit Lit.) Tonrelief. Reggio Calabria, Mus. Naz. 110 und Locri, Antiquarium. Aus Locri, Contrada Caruso. – Weiß, Flußg 67–69 Taf. 16, 3 mit Lit. und Diskussion zur Datierung und Deutung. – 2. Jh. v. Chr. – Unter drei Nymphenköpfen unbärtiger Mannstier nach l. auf einer Basis vor einem Altar stehend. Auf der Basis ΕΥΘΥΜΙΕ. Die so als Kultstatue gekennzeichnete Darstellung könnte aus der Verschmelzung zweier Bildtypen entstanden sein: Der bärtige Mannstier, eine der charakteristischen Bildformen für die Darstellung eines Flußgottes (→ Fluvii), wird durch Angleichung an das Bild eines jugendlichen Athleten verändert und drückt vielleicht dergestalt die gegenseitige Assimilation von K. und Euthymos aus. Nicht ausschließen läßt sich allerdings auch die Hypothese, daß die Jugendlichkeit des Mannstieres als Angleichung an die im 5. Jh. aufgekommene Jünglingsgestalt der lokalen Flußgötter zu verstehen ist.

CARINA WEISS

KAIKOS

(Καϊκος) Personifikation des gleichnamigen Flusses im Mysien, dem heutigen Bakır Çay. Nach Hes. theog. 343 Sohn des Okeanos und der Tethys.

LITERARISCHE QUELLEN: Siehe Büchner 1501–1502. In Aischyl. Myser, TrGF III F 143 wird ein Priester des K. angeredet, was auf einen für ihn vorhandenen Kult schließen läßt.

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Büchner, L., RE X 2 (1919) 1501–1502 s. v. »Kaikos I«; Drexler, W., ML II 1 (1890–94) 894 s. v. »Kaikos I«; v. Geisau, H., KIPauly III (1967) 46 s. v. »Kaikos I«; Joly, E., EAAIV (1961) 287 s. v. »Kaikos«; Treidler, H., KIPauly III (1967) 46 s. v. »Kaikos 2«; Waser, O., RE VI 2 (1909) 2801 s. v. »Flußgötter«; idem, RE X 2 (1919) 1502 s. v. »Kaikos 3«.

KATALOG

Münzen

DEUTUNG AUF KAIKOS DURCH INSCHRIFT GESICHERT

a) Nach r. gelagerter, nur bis zu den Hüften mit einem Himation bekleideter, bärtiger K., die Rechte auf Quellgefäß stützend.

I.* AE, Elaia (Aeolis), kaiserzeitlich. – Unpubliziert (?). – Rs.: In der Mitte auf Pfeiler Statue der Ceres mit langer Fackel in der Rechten und Ähren in der Linken; l. K. (KAIKOS), in der Rechten Füllhorn und in der Linken kleinen Baum haltend, r. → Keteios (KETEOΣ), in der Linken Füllhorn und in der Rechten kleinen Baum haltend; darunter Ähren und Mohnkapseln.

b) Wie a, K. aber nach l. gelagert und die Linke auf Quellgefäß stützend.

2.* AE, Pergamon (Mysien), Trajan (98–117 n. Chr.). – BMC Mysia 143, 268 Taf. 28, 13; InvWadd 959; Imhoof-Blumer, Flußg 272–273 Nr. 246 Taf. 8, 17. – Rs.: In der vorgestreckten Rechten Füllhorn, dahinter Schilfrohr. ΕΠΙ ΑΝΥΚΟΥ ΑΠΑΤΟΥ ΚΑΙΚΟΣ.

3.* AE, Stratonikeia Hadrianopolis (Lydien), Zeit des Gordian III. (244–249 n. Chr.) bis Gallienus (253–268 n. Chr.). – BMC Lydia 285, 4 Taf. 28, 8; Imhoof-Blumer, Flußg 306 Nr. 332 Taf. 11, 3; SNG v. Aulock 3184. – Rs.: Die Rechte am Knie, zu Füßen und in der Linken Schilfrohr. ΚΑΙΚΟΣ ΣΤΡΑΤΟΝΙΚΕΩΝ. Vs.: Büste der → Stratonikeia.

4.* AE, Akros (Lydien), Commodus (177–192 n. Chr.). – Imhoof-Blumer, Flußg 293 Nr. 297; Forrer, Weber III 1 Nr. 6776 Taf. 239. – Rs.: In der Rechten und zu seinen Füßen Schilfrohr. ΕΠΙ ΣΤΡΑΒΑΣΟΥ ΑΚΡΑΣΙΩΤΩΝ ΚΑΙΚΟΣ.

DEUTUNG AUF KAIKOS WAHRSCHEINLICH

5.* AE, Germe (Mysien), Caracalla (218–222 n. Chr.). – BMCLydia 84, 25 Taf. 9, 6 = BMC Mysia 68, 21 Taf. 16, 8. – Rs.: Apollo nach r. auf Felsen sitzend, in der Linken Lyra und in der Rechten Plektron haltend; vor ihm Marsyas, frontal stehend, Kopf nach l., in beiden Händen Flöte; zu seinen Füßen r. K. mit einem Schilfrohr in der Linken.

Vase

6.* Glasierter, reliefierter pergamenischer Kantharos. Mainz, RGZM 0.39286. Angeblich aus Pergamon. – Koepfel, G. M., AJA 77, 1973, 217; idem, JbRGZM 19, 1972, 188 ff. Taf. 22–25; Heimberg, U., JdI 91, 1976, 289 Nr. H 1; Mandel, U., Kleinasiatische Reliefkeramik der mittleren Kaiserzeit, PergForsch 5 (1988) 39–40. 226 Nr. P 149. – Flavis (nach Mandel) oder Ende 2./Anfang 3. Jh. n. Chr. (nach Koepfel). – Auf beiden Seiten Gallierschlacht, am l. Ende jeweils K. mit der Linken ein Schilfrohr schulternd, die Rechte auf Felsen gestützt.

Kaikos 6

DEUTUNG AUF KAIKOS OFFEN

Münzen

7. AE, Attalia, Sabina († 137 n. Chr.) und Commodus (177–192 n. Chr.). – v. Fritze, H., Die antiken Münzen Mysiens I (1913) 127 Nr. 380 Taf. 6, 16; BMC

Mysia 16, 8. 10 Taf. 3, 5; Imhoof-Blumer, Fluß 293-294 Nr. 298 Taf. 10, 5; SNG v. Aulock 1074. - Rs.: In der Rechten nach unten gekehrtes Schilfrohr und in der Linken Schilfrohr haltend; l. Baum.

8. AE, Attia, Faustina II. († 176 n. Chr.). - Imhoof-Blumer, KIM I 18 Nr. 6; v. Fritze, a. O. 7, 128 Nr. 386; Imhoof-Blumer, Fluß 294 Nr. 299 Taf. 10, 6; SNG v. Aulock 1076. - Rs.: In der Rechten Zweig und in der Linken Schilfrohr; unten Fisch nach l.

9. AE, Attia, Geta (211-212 n. Chr.). - v. Fritze, a. O. 7, 136-137 Nr. 413-416; Forrer, Weber III 1 Nr. 4963 Taf. 181; Grose, McClean III Nr. 7551 Taf. 259, 7; SNG v. Aulock 7210. - Rs.: Wie 8, ohne Fisch.

10. AE, Attia, Crispina (nach 180 n. Chr.). - v. Fritze, a. O. 7, 132 Nr. 396-397 Taf. 6, 26; Imhoof-Blumer, KIM I 18 Nr. 7; idem, Fluß 294 Nr. 300-301 Taf. 10, 7. - Rs.: Mit der Rechten eine Eiche umfassend, mit der Linken ein Füllhorn haltend, zu Füßen ein oder zwei Schilfrohre.

11. AE, Attia, Commodus (180-192 n. Chr.). - Price M. J., NC 1971, 128 Nr. 12 Taf. 25. - Rs.: In der Linken ein Füllhorn und in der Rechten eine Statuette des Zeus haltend, l. Schilfrohr und Eiche mit Adler.

KOMMENTAR

Die Darstellungen des K. (1-5) entsprechen dem geläufigen Typus des auf einem Quellgefäß gelagerten menschengestaltigen Flußgottes (→ Fluvii). Während uns die Wiedergaben auf Münzen von Elaia (1), Pergamon (2), Stratonikeia Hadrianopolis (3) und Akrasos (4) inschriftlich die Identifikation des K. geben, können die weiteren Bilder eines Flußgottes auf Münzen von Germe (5) und Attia (7-11) nur durch die Lage dieser Städte am Kaikos ihn als solchen erkennen lassen. Während sich Germe im Gebiet des Kaikos befand (→ Germe), ist die Lage Attias noch sehr unsicher. Durch Stempelkoppelungen von Münzen Attias mit denen von Germe, Hadrianoutherai und Hadrianeia scheint es sehr wahrscheinlich, daß Attia auch in der Umgebung der drei anderen Städte zu suchen ist (s. Robert, L., *Villes d'Asie Mineure*² [1962] 411-413). In diesem Fall würden nur zwei Flüsse in Frage kommen, der Kaikos und der Makistos. Welcher von beiden nun aber der Zutreffende ist, muß noch bis auf bessere Erkenntnisse offen bleiben.

Auf einem pergamenischen Reliefkantharos (6) ist auf beiden Seiten eine Schlacht dargestellt, an deren linkem unteren Ende jeweils ein gelagerter Flußgott, der ein Schilfrohr mit der L. schultert, zu sehen ist. Wie Koeppel ausführlich gezeigt hat, handelt es sich bei dieser Schlacht eindeutig um eine Auseinandersetzung zwischen Pergamenern und Galliern, die durch ihre Bewaffnung als solche gekennzeichnet sind. Die Darstellung kann hiermit auf die wichtige Schlacht zwischen diesen beiden Parteien am Kaikos um 233 v. Chr. anspielen, die Attalos I. für sich entschied und daraufhin als wichtiges Propagandamittel eingesetzt hat. Damit kann auch dieser Flußgott mit dem K.

identifiziert werden, an dem dieses entscheidende Ereignis stattfand.

RAINER VOLLKOMMER

KAIKEUS

(Καιεύς, Caeneus) Unverwundbarer Lapithe, Sohn des → Elatos, aus Gyrtion/Thessalien, der auf Geheiß des → Zeus von den Kentauren (→ Kentauroi) als Strafe für seine Hybris mit Fichtenstämmen und Steinen lebendig in den Erdboden gestampft wird. Nach späterer(?) Erfindung war K. eine Tochter des Elatos, mit Namen Kainis (Καίνις), die von → Poseidon geliebt wird und sich dafür die Verwandlung in einen unverwundbaren Mann ausbedingt. Nach seinem Tod erlangt K. in der Unterwelt sein früheres, weibliches Geschlecht wieder.

LITERARISCHE QUELLEN: K. wird bei Hom. Il. 1, 264 und Hes. sc. 179 (vgl. frg. 87 Merkelbach/West; hier vielleicht schon Motiv der ursprünglichen Weiblichkeit) unter den gegen die Kentauren kämpfenden Lapithen erwähnt. Großen Einfluß auf die Bildkunst hatte offenbar Pind. frg. 128 f. Snell/Maehler. Die älteste Schilderung der Hybris und des Untergangs sowie des Geschlechtswandels findet sich in einem Fragment des Akusilaos von Argos (5. Jh. v. Chr.), FGH 2 F 22 (mit weiteren Quellen). Die verbreitetste Form der Sage mit Geschlechtswechsel überliefert Nik. frg. 45 Schneider; Apoll. Rhod. 1, 59-64; Kall. frg. 577 Pf.; Verg. Aen. 6, 448 (Rückverwandlung in der Unterwelt); Ov. met. 12, 203-205 (524-525: nach Untergang Verwandlung in gelben Vogel); Apollod. epitome 1, 22; Hyg. fab. 14, 4; in der bildenden Kunst findet diese Version keinen Niederschlag (fraglich 79; im 4. Jh. v. Chr. Komödie Kaineus des Antiphanes, CAF II frg. 112). K. ist Sohn des → Elatos (Schol. Hom. Il. 1, 264 Dindorf; Ov. met. 12, 189; Hyg. fab. 14, 4) und stammt aus Gyrtion/Thessalien (Hom. Il. 2, 746; Apoll. Rhod. 1, 57-58) oder Magnesia (Hyg. fab. 14, 4). Als Teilnehmer der Kalydonischen Eberjagd (→ Meleagros) bei Ov. met. 8, 305; Hyg. fab. 173, 3. Sohn des K. ist Koronos (Hom. Il. 2, 746; Diod. 4, 37). Ein weiterer K., Sohn des Koronos, wird unter den Argonauten (→ Argonautai) aufgeführt (Hyg. fab. 14, 23). Letzter Nachklang der K.sage in der von Val. Max. 9, 10 ext. 1 überlieferten Rachetat der Gemahlin Antiochos' II. von Syrien, Berenike, an dem Mörder ihres Sohnes (246 v. Chr.).

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Adamow, W. F., Zapiski klassičeskago Otdelenija Russkago archeologičeskago obščestva 1, 1904 1-16 (russ.); Berthold, O., Die Unverwundbarkeit in Sage und Aberglauben der Griechen (1911) 17-21; Böhr, E., in Praestant interna, Festschr. U. Hausmann (1982) 218-219; Brisson, L., Le mythe de Tiresias (1976) 74-77; Brommer, *Vasenlisten*³ 499-501; idem, Denkmälerlisten III 189-190; Delcourt, M., RHR 144, 1953, 129-150; eadem, Hermaphrodite (1958) 51-64; Heckenbach, J., RE X 2 (1919) 1504-1505 s. v. «Kaineus»; Isard, A., Le Centaure dans la légende et dans l'art (Diss. Lyon 1939); Kern, O., Die Religion der Griechen (1926) 207; Laufer, E., Kaineus. Studien zur Ikonographie, RdA Suppl. 1 (1985); Robert, *Heldensage*⁴ 10-12; Rohde, E., *Psyche*¹⁰ 1 (1925) 179-181; Roßbach, O., Neue Jbb (7) 4, 1901, 410-411; Scheffold, SB III 205; Seeliger, K., ML II 1 (1890-94) 894-897 s. v. «Kaineus».

KATALOG

In der Bildkunst spielt nur der Kampf des K. mit den Kentauren eine Rolle. Das Motiv der ursprünglichen Weiblichkeit wird in der bildenden Kunst nicht behandelt. Als einfachste Darstellungsform tritt der Lapithe mit einem Gegner auf (1-8). Die heraldische Dreifigurengruppe, bei der K. von zwei Kentauren flankiert wird, ist zahlenmäßig am stärksten vertreten (9-66). Bereits früh sind Darstellungen nachweisbar, in denen drei und mehr Kentauren gegen K. kämpfen (67-76). Auf einigen Vasenbildern ist die Hauptfigur durch Namensbeischrift gesichert (2. 33. 44. 67). Außer den angeführten sind noch weitere Darstellungen bekannt, doch sind diese ikonographisch zweifelhaft oder nicht mehr auffindbar (77-79. 80-83). Der Katalog erstrebt Vollständigkeit für die sicheren Darstellungen.

A. Kaineus und ein Kentaur

GRIECHISCHE DARSTELLUNGEN

Attische Vasen (außer 3)

1.* Tyrren. Amphora, sf. Gotha, Schloßmus. Ahv. 12. Aus Cerveteri. - ABV 98, 43; Goltz-Maler; Thiersch 158 Nr. 35; v. Bothmer, D., AJA 48, 1944, 168 Nr. 10; Rohde, E., *Staatl. Museen zu Berlin*² (1955) 85 Abb. 46; CVA 1 Taf. 25, 1. - Um 570/560 v. Chr. - Zusammen mit 67 älteste Darstellung innerhalb der sf. Belege. K. steckt bis Beinansatz im Boden, l. Kentaur mit Fellkappe, ohne Bewaffnung, von Lanze durchbohrt, bricht in den Hinterbeinen zusammen.

2.* Tyrren. Amphora, sf. Rom, Mus. Cap. 39 (69). - ABV 98, 44: Timiadesmaler; CVA 1 Taf. 12, 1. - 2. Viertel 6. Jh. v. Chr. - Namensbeischr. KAINEYΣ. Kentaur von l. mit Stein. Vgl. 13.

3.* Bauchamphora, sf., wohl apulisch (Paribeni). Tarent, Mus. Naz. 52158. Aus Tarent. - Neutsch, B., AA 1956, 221 Abb. 16; Steuben 116 (f); Paribeni, E., Immagini di vasi apuli (1964) 8-9 Taf. 2-3. - Mitte 6. Jh. v. Chr. - K. mit Lanze, bis Unterschenkel eingesunken, Kentaur mit Ast von r.

4.* Halsamphora, sf. München, Antikenslg. 1619 (J 86). Aus Vulci. - ABV 483, 1: Nähe Edinburgh-Maler; v. Bothmer, D., BullMMA 11, 1952/53, 134; Schauenburg, K., Gymnasium 76, 1969, Taf. 4. - Spätes 6. Jh. v. Chr. - K. mit gesenkter Lanze, bis zum Knie versunken, ähnlich 26-28. Kentaur von l. mit Felsblock.

5. Oinochoe, sf. Frankfurt, Mus. f. Vor- und Frühgeschichte VF β 307. - ABV 528, 46: Athenamaler-Werkstatt; *Add*² 132; Haspels, ABL 260, 3; CVA 1 Taf. 39, 4. - Anfang 5. Jh. v. Chr. - K. mit gesenkter Lanze, versunken, Kentaur von l. mit Ast.

6. Lekythos, sf. Neapel, Mus. Naz. (?). - Haspels, ABL 258, 99. - Frühes 5. Jh. v. Chr. - K. und ein Kentaur (genaues Schema unbekannt).

7.* Volutenkrater, rf. Bologna, Mus. Civ. Pell. 268. Aus Bologna. - *ARV*² 598, 1: Niobidenmaler; *Add*² 265; CVA 5 Taf. 98, 3. - Um 460 v. Chr. - Hals, A. K. bis zur Hüfte versunken, Rückenansicht, in der Rechten gezücktes Schwert, fr. Kentaur von l., schwingt in beiden Händen Aststücke.

RÖMISCHE DARSTELLUNGEN

Terrakotta

8.* Arula, Rom, Mus. Cap. A 9143 (Antiquarium Comunale 6812). Aus Rom. - Scott Ryberg, L., An Archaeological Record of Rome (1940) 161 Taf. 38, 157; Ricciotti, D., Terrecotte votive I (1978) 74 Nr. 3 Taf. 2, 3. - 2. Jh. v. Chr. (?) - K. mit Schwert gegen einen Kentauren (von l.) mit Felsblock.

B. Kaineus, von zwei Kentauren flankiert

GRIECHISCHE DARSTELLUNGEN

Vasen

9. Aryballos, kor. Samos, Mus. Aus Samos. - Walter, H., AM 74, 1959, 67. Beil. 114, 3 (Umzeichnung); Steuben 116 (10). - Anfang 6. Jh. v. Chr. - K. bärtig, langes Haupthaar, fr. Oberkörper, aufrechtstehend kämpfend nach l. (vgl. 2. 13), unbewaffnet?, gegen zwei Kentauren mit Ästen, altertümliche Form, Beine im Knielaufscheitel. Früheste Darstellung in der Vasenmalerei. Deutung auf K. schon bei Walter a. O. 67.

10.* Siana-Schale, sf. Malibu, Paul Getty-Mus. 86.AE.154 (ehem. Slg. Bareiss). - Schauenburg, K., AA 1962, 745-776; Steuben 116 (d); Scheffold, SB II 154. - Um 550 v. Chr. - Ähnlich wie 67, jedoch höher aus dem Boden ragend. Rechter Kentaur mit zwei Steinen, linker waffenlos gestikulierend. Neben 1. 9. 67 ältester Bildzeuge für den Mythos innerhalb der Vasenmalerei.

11.* Hydria, sf. Rom, Villa Giulia, Castellani 432 (50706). - Mingazzini, CollCastellani 197 Nr. 432. Taf. 45, 4. - Um 550 v. Chr. - K. bis zum Knie versunken, abgewinkelte Rechte hält Lanze, ähnlich 13. Beide Kentauren waffenlos?, der linke zurückgewandt, faßt sich an den Hinterkopf.

12. Oinochoe, sf. München, Antikenslg. 1755 (J 1258). Zerstört. - Jahn, O., Beschreibung der Vasensammlung... (1854) 352 Nr. 1258. - 4. Viertel 6. Jh. v. Chr. - K. mit Oberkörper aus dem Boden ragend, Schwert, boiotischer Schild, Schildzeichen: Roß, Linke mit Lanze(?) erhoben, zwischen zwei Kentauren mit Steinen. Keine älteren Aufnahmen, Reste des Bildfeldes nachgewiesen.

13. Halsamphora, sf. Ehem. London, Kunsthandel. - Sotheby, 11.-12. 7. 1983, Nr. 344; Böhr 218-219 Taf. 46, 3; Schaukelmaler. - Um 540 v. Chr. - Älteste K.darstellung des Schaukelmalers (insgesamt vier, vgl. 14. 68. 69). K. aufrechtstehend (wie 2), weiter Schrittstand, Lanze, Kopf zurückgewandt. Beide Kentauren mit Steinen (ähnlich 18. 23. 67). Symmetrische Anordnung ungewöhnlich.

14. Bauchamphora, sf. Verschollen. Zeichnung im DAI Rom. – Greifenhagen, A., AA 1978, 515 Abb. 23; Schaukelmaler; Böhr, E., Der Schaukelmaler (1982) Nr. 70 Taf. 72. – Um 540/30 v. Chr. – K. ähnlich wie 11, im Knielauf nach r., r. Arm abgewinkelt (vgl. 11, 13), ohne Waffe (Lanze?), boiotischer Schild, Oberkörper nach vorne gebeugt. Beide Kentauren mit kleinen Steinen, rechter wild gestikulierend.

15. Halsamphora, sf. München, Antikenslg. 1657 (J 527). Zerstört. – Jahn, a. O. 12, 177 Nr. 527. – 4. Viertel 6. Jh. v. Chr. – K. voll gerüstet, zwischen zwei Kentauren mit Steinen auf ein Knie gestürzt. Keine älteren Aufnahmen. Teile des Bildfeldes aus dem Scherbenbestand wiedergewonnen. Ähnlich(?) wie 14.

16. Oinochoe, sf. Basel, Slg. Kambli. Aus Tarquinia. – ABV 422, 6: Class of Vatican 440; Para 181; Schefold, Meisterwerke 161 Abb. 145. – Um 530 v. Chr. – K. voll gerüstet, im Knielauf nach l., Rückwendung mit gezückter Lanze zum r. Kentauren, der (wie l. Pendant) Felsblock schwingt.

17. Halsamphora, sf. London, Kunsthandel (Sotheby) (ehem. Basel, Slg. Bloch). – Para 120, 54 bis: Antimenesmaler; Add 70; Mertens, J. R., Attic White-Ground (1977) 40 Nr. 5. – Um 520 v. Chr. – Bildaufbau ähnlich wie 16, jedoch seitenverkehrt: K. im Knielauf nach r., Rückwendung mit Lanze zum l. Kentauren, beide tragen Äste.

18. Halsamphora, sf. Vatikan 388 (16588). – ABV 283, 9: Antimenesmaler-Umkreis; Add 74; Albizzati 172, 388 Taf. 55, 388. – Um 520 v. Chr. – K. im Knielauf nach r., boiotischer Schild, über Brustpanzer Fellschurz, Abwehraktion mit Lanze und Rückwendung zum l. Gegner (wie 13, 16, 17, 19, 20). Beide Kentauren mit Felsblöcken.

19. Lekythos, sf. Halle, Univ. 141. Aus Athen. – Bielefeld, E., Wiss. Zeitschr. Halle 11, 1952/53, 95 Nr. 56. – Um 510 v. Chr. – K. mit Lanze, Knielauf mit Rückwendung, Mäntelchen. Beide Kentauren mit kleinen Steinen.

20. Unbekannte Form (Lekythos?), sf. Verschollen. Aus Acre/Sizilien. – Judica, G., Antichità di Acre (1819) Taf. 29 (Umzeichnung). – Frühes 5. Jh. v. Chr. – K. voll gerüstet, Rundschild in Vorderansicht, Schildzeichen: Krabbe?, in weitem Ausfall (Knielauf) nach r., Rückwendung mit gezückter Lanze. Beide Kentauren bedrohen K. mit Fäusten (kleine Steine?).

21. Halsamphora, sf. Montauban, Mus. Ingres. Aus Vulci. – ARV 194, 4: Kleophradesmaler-Umkreis; Cassou, J., GBA 11, 1934, 148 Abb. 6. – 1. Viertel 5. Jh. v. Chr. – K. voll gerüstet, Schildzeichen: Dreifuß (vgl. 37), in weitem Schrittstand nach r., Rückwendung mit Lanze zum l. Kentauren (mit Felsblock), rechter hält Baumast erhoben.

22. Halsamphora, sf. Leningrad, Ermitage II. 1913.1. Aus Pantikapaion/Kertsch. – ABV 284, 5: Antimenesmaler-Umkreis; Pharmakowsky, B., AA 1914, 207 Abb. 5; Schauenburg, a. O. 10, 756. – Um 520 v. Chr. – Gleiches Bildschema wie 23, in der Bewegung verhaltener.

23. Halsamphora, sf. Leiden, Rijksmus. PC 40. Aus Vulci. – CVA 1 Taf. 27, 1: nahe der Gruppe von Toronto 305. – Um 520 v. Chr. – K. im Knielauf nach r. versinkend, Rückwendung mit gefällter Lanze. Beide Kentauren mit großen weißen Felsblöcken.

24. Halsamphora, sf. New York, MMA 69.233.1 (ehem. Slg. Bastis). Aus Vulci. – ABV 1271, 75: Antimenesmaler; Add 71; CVA 4 Taf. 25, 1. – Um 520 v. Chr. – K. voll gerüstet, Schildzeichen: Stierkopf (vgl. 5), in weitem Schrittstand bis zu Knien eingesunken, stößt rechtem Kentauren (mit Ast) Lanze in die Brust. Linker mit Steinblock.

25. Oinochoe, sf. Jena, Univ. 175. – ABV 436, 1: Maler des Kaieneus von Jena; Para 188. – Um 510 v. Chr. – Ähnlich wie 24, beide Kentauren mit Steinen, im Hintergrund zwei dünne Bäumchen.

26. Kelchpyxis, sf. Rom, Pal. Cons. 1531. – v. Mercklin, E., RM 38/39, 1923/24, 80. Abb. 6; Sichertmann, H., Helbig II 345 Nr. 1531 (deutet auf K.). – Um 520 v. Chr. – Anordnung der Kentauren (zwei von r.) und Verdoppelung des Vorgangs singulär.

27. Lekythos, sf. Athen, Nat. Mus. Aus Athen. – Haspels, ABL 268, 45 Taf. 53, 6: Beldam-Maler; Laufer Taf. 8 Abb. 23, 2 (Umzeichnung). – Frühes 5. Jh. v. Chr. – K. bis zum Chitonsaum versunken, gesenkte Lanze. Zwei Kentauren mit geraden Stöcken, im Hintergrund belaubte Äste.

28. Lekythos, sf. Zürich, Univ. 2493. – CVA 1 Taf. 19, 22–25: Hexenmaler. – Frühes 5. Jh. v. Chr. – Möglicherweise identisch mit sf. Lekythos Haspels, ABL 268, 44 (ehem. Slg. Pfuhl, Basel). Gleicher Typus wie 27. Im Hintergrund belaubte Äste.

29. Lekythos, sf. Cambridge (Mass.), Sackler Mus. (ehem. Fogg) 1960. 329. Aus Athen. – ABV 572, 4: Pholosmaler-Umkreis; CVA Baltimore 1 Taf. 37, 2a–c. – Um 480 v. Chr. – Ähnlich wie 27, Schild mit Schutzdecke (vgl. 38, 43), Kentauren mit Fellen, rechter hält Stein.

30. Lekythos, sf. Athen, Nat. Mus.? Aus Athen. – Haspels, ABL 258, 92: Athenamaler. – Um 490 v. Chr. – K. zwischen zwei Kentauren, genaues Schema unbekannt.

31. Lekythos, sf. Palermo, Mus. Reg.? Aus Gela. – Heydemann, H., AZ 28, 1871, 12 Nr. 6; Schauenburg, a. O. 10, 752. – Frühes 5. Jh. v. Chr. – Zwischen zwei Kentauren mit Ästen ist unbärtiger Krieger (K.) zu Boden gesunken. Aufnahmen existieren nicht.

32. Halsamphora, sf. Würzburg, Wagner-Mus. L 217. Aus Vulci. – ABV 694, zu S. 341: London B 272-Umkreis; Langlotz, Kat. Würzb. Taf. 48. 60. – Um 460 v. Chr. – K. zwischen zwei Kentauren, geduckte Körperhaltung singulär.

33. Schale, rf. Kopenhagen, Nat. Mus. 13.407. Aus Etrurien. – ARV 59, 57: Oltos (Sign.); Add 164; CVA 8 Taf. 335, 1b. – Um 520 v. Chr. – Erste inschriftlich gesicherte rf. Darstellung (KAIENEUS) ohne Versinkmotiv. Beide Kentauren mit Felsblöcken.

34. Schale, rf. London, Kunsthandel. – Sotheby, 11.–12. 7. 1983, Nr. 343. – Spätes 6. Jh. v. Chr. – Delos-Maler. K. bis Körpermitte versunken, linker Kentauren mit Felsblock, rechter fr., beiderseits Palmetten.

35. Stamnos, rf. Paris, Louvre G 55 (N 3166). – Aus Vulci. – ARV 187, 58: Kleophradesmaler; CVA

1 Taf. 6, 5; Cohen, in Moon (ed.), AGAI 171 ff.; Boardman, J., OJA 3, 1984, 123 ff. – 1. Viertel 5. Jh. v. Chr. – K. versinkend, r. Bein angewinkelt (aufwärts kämpfend), holt zum Schwerthieb aus, ein Stein über K. schwebend.

36. Kolonettenkrater, rf. Neapel, Mus. Naz. 81399 (H 2410). Aus Ruvo. – ARV 239, 18: Myson; Add 201; Schauenburg, a. O. 10, 763 Abb. 13. – 1. Viertel 5. Jh. v. Chr. – K. mit Schwert (vgl. 35), sterbend zurücksinkend, von zwei Kentauren (Ast, Stein) flankiert, r. Repoussoir-Figur: Lapith gegen rechten Bildrand anstürmend (vgl. 37, seitenverkehrt).

37. Kolonettenkrater, rf. London, BM E 473. Aus Etrurien. – ARV 551, 13: Panmaler; Laufer Taf. 12 Abb. 36. – Um 475 v. Chr. – Ähnlich wie 36, mit Schwert, Schildzeichen: Dreifuß (vgl. 21). Repoussoir-Figur nach l. stürmend. Beide Kentauren mit Felsblöcken, im Hintergrund verzweigtes Bäumchen.

38. Schale, rf. Orvieto, Mus. Faina 44. Aus Orvieto. – ARV 417, 2: Maler der Pariser Gigantomachie; Laufer Taf. 11 Abb. 32. – Um 475 v. Chr. – K. versinkend, Schwertstichmotiv (wie auf 39, 40, 42). Rechter Kentauren mit Felsblock, fr. linker mit Pantherfell (Waffe?).

39. Psykter, rf. Rom, Villa Giulia 3577. Aus Falerii (Civita Castellana). – ARV 471: Harrow-Maler? (nicht in ARV); Zanker, P., Helbig III 688 Nr. 2772; FR Taf. 15. – Um 475 v. Chr. – Wie 38, Schwertstich hier durch Hals des r. Kentauren (mit Ast), linker (Kopf in Dreiviertelansicht) mit Felsblock.

40. Kolonettenkrater, rf. Bellinzona, Privatslg. – ARV 563, 7: Schweinemaler; Schauenburg, K., Ars Antiqua (Luzern) Auktion 3, 1961, Nr. 106. Taf. 45. – Um 475 v. Chr. – K. ähnlich wie 38, beide Kentauren (rechter mit Stein, linker mit Ast) tragen Pantherfelle, im Hintergrund ein Bäumchen.

41. Kolonettenkrater, rf. Ferrara, Mus. Naz. 2793. Aus Spina. – ARV 517, 6: Cleveland-Maler; CVA 1 Taf. 37, 1; Alfieri, Spina 20 Abb. 52. – Um 470 v. Chr. – Ähnlich wie 40, 72, Lanze, Schildzeichen: Dreifuß (vgl. 21, 37). Rechter Kentauren mit Felsblock und Ast, linker ähnlich 37, 40, beide mit Pantherfellen. Im Hintergrund Felsblock und verzweigtes Bäumchen.

42. Schale, rf. Paris, Louvre Cp 10955. – ARV 492, 159: Hermonax; Add 249; Laufer Taf. 14 Abb. 45. – Um 470/60 v. Chr. – K. wie auf 38, rechter Kentauren als Schildreißer, ohne Bewaffnung, der linke mit Felsblock(?), im Hintergrund verzweigte Bäumchen.

43. Hydria, rf. London, BM 1920.3–15.3. Aus Capua. – ARV 571, 79: Leningrad-Maler; Add 261; CVA 5 Taf. 79, 2. – Um 460 v. Chr. – K. gerüstet, ohne Helm, bis zur Körpermitte versunken, hält Schwert gesenkt.

44. Stamnos, rf. Brüssel, Mus. Roy. A 134. Aus Vulci. – ARV 1027, 1: Polygnotos (Sign.); Add 317; CVA 1 Taf. 7, 2b. – Um 440 v. Chr. – K. (KAIENEUS) halb versunken, aufwärts kämpfend (vgl. 35, 49). Linker Kentauren mit Pantherfell und Felsbrocken, rechter mit Ast.

45. Volutenkrater, rf. Bologna, Mus. Civ. Pell. 275. Aus Bologna. – ARV 1029, 18: Polygnotos;

Add 317; CVA 4 Taf. 67, 3. – Um 440 v. Chr. – K. nackt, sticht Kentauren (von r., mit Felsblock) mit Lanze in den Pferdeleib. Lapithe im Hintergrund wehrt linken Kentauren (Ast, Pantherfell) mit Schwerthieb ab (vgl. 76).

46. Kelchkrater, fr., rf. Chicago, Univ., Smart Gallery 1967.115.390. – ARV 1057, 107: Polygnotos-Umkreis; Korshak, Y., in Midwestern Colls 211 Nr. 118; Laufer Taf. 15 Abb. 50. – Um 440/30 v. Chr. – K. wie auf 45, wahrscheinlich mit zwei Kentauren (linker mit Ast) verbunden; der auf 45 den l. Gegner abwehrende Lapithe fehlt hier.

47. Krater, fr., rf. Moskau, Puschkin-Mus. M-641. Aus Pantikapaion/Kertsch. – Losewa, N. M., MatSSR 103, 1962, 177 Taf. 5, 6; Polygnotos-Umkreis; Laufer Taf. 15 Abb. 51. – Um 440/30 v. Chr. – Beine und Unterkörper einer nackten männlichen Figur (ähnlich 45, 46) im Ausfall nach l., Unterschenkel von Bodenlinie überschritten. Vom r. Kentauren zwei Hinterbeine sowie Vorderhuf erhalten, entsprechender Gegner l. wahrscheinlich.

48. Kolonettenkrater, rf. Ferrara, Mus. Naz. 2792. Aus Spina, T. 77 VT. – ARV 1114, 14: Hephaistosmaler; Alfieri/Arias, Spina Guida 124; Laufer Taf. 16 Abb. 53; Alfieri, Spina 74 Abb. 169. – Um 440/30 v. Chr. – K. mit Rundschild (frontal, wie 2, 20, 33, 35), Schwertstich. Linker Kentauren (Ast) ähnlich 40, der rechte (Stein, Pantherfell) wie auf 44 (links).

49. Kelchkrater, rf. Würzburg, Wagner-Mus. H 4919. Aus Spina. – ARV 1064, 8: Komarismaler; Para 446; CVA 2 Taf. 21. – Um 440/30 v. Chr. – K. mit Lanze, Beinstellung ähnlich 35, 44 (aufwärts kämpfend), beide Kentauren mit geraden Stöcken, rechter mit Pantherfell.

Unteritalische Vasen

50. Reliëfvase, fr., sizil. Palermo, Mus. Reg. Aus Agrigento. – Marconi, P., Agrigento (1929) 205 Abb. 144. – 6. Jh. v. Chr. – K. versunken, Arme erhoben (Bewaffnung?), linker Kentauren in altertümlicher Form (mit Aststück, rechter mit Stein?). Figureschema und Körperhaltung machen Deutung auf K. wahrscheinlich.

51. Amphora, rf. München, Antikenslg. 3161 (J 846). – Jahn 272 Nr. 846; Schauenburg, a. O. 10, 751 Abb. 3. – Frühes 4. Jh. v. Chr. – K. versunken, Schwertstich, beide Kentauren mit Ästen.

52. Skyphos, rf. Ehem. Rom, Slg. Pollak, verschollen. – Schauenburg, a. O. 10, 752 Abb. 4; Laufer Taf. 18 Abb. 61. – 2. Viertel 4. Jh. v. Chr. – K. unbärtig, nackt, androgyne Körperformen, kniend (vgl. 63), hält Rundschild schützend über Kopf (ähnlich 56), Schwert. Beide Kentauren mit Ästen.

53. Dinos, apul. Ruvo, Mus. Jatta J 1497. – Sichertmann, Slg. Jatta Nr. 45 Taf. 77 (deutet auf K.); Laufer Taf. 18 Abb. 62. – 3. Viertel 4. Jh. v. Chr. – K. nackt, auf Bodenkuppe kniend, wehrt sich mit kleinem Stein und Schild (Schwert in Scheide) gegen Kentauren von r. (Stein), linker mit Bäumchen, beide tragen Pantherfelle. Schildhaltung ähnlich 42.

Reliefs

54. Friesplatte. Marmor. Athen, Hephaisteion (Opisthodom 2). – Sauer, B., Das Theseion und sein plastischer Schmuck (1899) 202–204 Taf. IV (Rekonstruktion); Koch, H., Studien zum Theseustempel in Athen (1955) 140. Taf. 37; Ridgway, B. S., Fifth Cent. Styles in Greek Sculpture (1981) 87. – Um 440 v. Chr. – K. nackt, versunken (vgl. 45–47), Linke mit Schild erhoben, fr. r. Arm aufgestützt, Schwert? Gegner pyramidal aufsteigend, halten gemeinsam großen Felsblock.

55. Friesplatte, fr. Marmor. Sunion, Poseidontempel (Pronaos 2). – Fabricius, E., AM 9, 1884, 338–353 Taf. 17, 2; Herbig, R., AM 66, 1941, 87–89 Taf. 46; Delivourias, A., AM 84, 1969, 127–142 Beil. 1 (Rekonstruktion); Laufer Taf. 16 Abb. 55, 1–2. – Nach 440 v. Chr. – K. fr., nackt, halb versunken zu denken (kniend bei Delivourias a. O. Beil. 1), beide Arme weiträumig bewegt. Linker Kentaur mit Felsstück vor Brust? (Fabricius a. O. 347), rechter hat beide Hände über Kopf erhoben (mit Stein?).

56. Friesplatte. Marmor. London, BM 530. Aus Bassai-Phigaleia, Apollontempel (Stüd H 6–530). – Kenner, H., Der Fries des Tempels von Bassai-Phigaleia (1946) 44 Taf. 11; Hofkes-Brukker, C., Der Bassai-Fries (1975) 58. 94. – Um 420 v. Chr. – K. nackt, steckt bis zur Hüfte im hügelartig ansteigenden Erdboden, stemmt Schild gegen auflastenden Felsblock, wehrt sich mit Schwert (Kenner a. O. 44) oder Speer (Hofkes-Brukker a. O. 59). Lapithe von r. reißt Kentauren vor ihm am Ohr. Schildhaltung ähnlich 42. 53.

57. Friesplatte. Kalkstein. Wien, Kunsthist. Mus. Aus Gölbaşı-Trysa, Heroon (Platte B 3). – Benndorf, O./Niemann, G., Das Heroon von Gölbaşı-Trysa (1889) Taf. 23; Eichler, F., Die Reliefs des Heroon von Gölbaşı-Trysa (1950) 55 (B 3) Taf. 4/5; Lippold, Plastik 209. – Um 400 v. Chr. – K. bekleidet, frontal (vgl. 60), Schwertstich gegen l. Kentauren, der gebauchtes Gefäß am Henkel schwingt. Rechter mit Ast, beide tragen Pantherfelle. Komposition ähnlich 55, Amphora als Waffe vgl. 59.

58. Friesplatte, fr. Marmor. Istanbul, Arch. Mus. 286 (1605 K 186). Aus Mylasa/Milas. – Mendel, Sculpt II 44 Nr. 286; Lippold, Plastik 375; Schauenburg, a. O. 10, 753 Abb. 5; Laufer Taf. 19 Abb. 64. – Um 100 v. Chr. – K. fr., versinkend?, zwei Kentauren mit über Kopf geschwungenen Steinen.

Kaineus 57

59. Lykischer Sarkophag (Schmalseite), Marmor. Istanbul, Arch. Mus. 369 (M 63). Aus Sidon. – Mendel, Sculpt I 166 Nr. 63; Lippold, Plastik 210; Lullies/Hirmer, Plastik 189; Borchhardt, J., Die Bau- und Skulptur des Heroons von Limyra (1976) 138 Taf. 56, 2. – Um 400/390 v. Chr. – K. nackt (ähnlich 54–56), Rechte gesenkt (Schwert? Mendel a. O. 166; Neutsch, a. O. 79, 15), Körperhaltung vgl. 45–47. Linker Kentaur mit Amphora (wie 57), fr. rechter (mit Rehfell) hielt Ast?, Gefäß?, Felsblock (Mendel a. O. 166).

60. Sarkophagrelief, fr. Marmor. Antalya, Mus. A 3770, A 3378. Aus Limyra. – Laufer 32. 37 (R 6). Taf. 18 Abb. 59. – Mitte 4. Jh. v. Chr. – Typus und Bekleidung wie 57. Beide Kentauren tragen Tierfelle, linker mit Stein, rechter hält Ast.

Metall

61. Blech, Bronze. Olympia, Mus. BE 11a. Aus Olympia. – Hampe/Jantzen, OlympBer 1, 1937, 85 ff. Taf. 28; Schefold, Sagenbilder 38; Hampe/Simon, FGK 111 Abb. 115. 171. – Mitte 7. Jh. v. Chr. – Älteste bisher bekannte K.darstellung. Zur Doppelbewaffnung (wie 63. 70) vgl. Hampe/Simon a. O. 112; Laufer, E., KhristJbGraz 21, 1985, 173–177.

62. Votivschild(?), Bronze. Athen, Nat. Mus., Stath. 387. Aus Dodona. – Rolley, C., Collection Hélène Stathatos III (1963) 103 Nr. 49 Taf. 15, 49. – 1. Viertel 5. Jh. v. Chr. – K. versinkend, Schwert. Rechter Kentaur mit Stein(?), linker mit Ast. Echtheit angezweifelt (Hampe, R., AJA 70, 1966, 86).

ETRUSKISCHE DARSTELLUNGEN

Vasen

63. Stamnos, sf. Wien, Kunsthist. Mus. IV 1477. Aus Cerveteri. – EVP 16, 3; Kaineusmaler; Dohrn, T., StEtr 12, 1938, Taf. 52, 1; Laufer Taf. 8 Abb. 22; Spivey, N. J., The Micali Painter and His Followers (1987) 44 Nr. 5; Maler von Vatikan 238 (Kaineusmaler); CerEtr 175 Abb. 129; 310–311. – Um 500 v. Chr. – K. kniend, mit zwei Schwertern (vgl. 61. 70), beide Kentauren mit langen geraden Ästen. Einziges Beispiel frontaler Darstellungsweise (mit Einschränkungen vgl. 57).

64. Hydria, sf. Neapel, Mus. Naz. 81095 (H 2781). Herkunft unbekannt. – EVP 18; Klein, W., ÖJh 13, 1910, 158 Abb. 85 (Umzeichnung); Bronson, R., ArchCl 18, 1966, Taf. 14, 2. – 1. Viertel 5. Jh. v. Chr. – K. stößt Schwert linkem Kentauren in den Arm, während Linke nach Bart des rechten Gegners greift, ein niedergestürzter Lapithe reißt K. einen Pfeil zu.

Metall

65. (= Hippalektryon 20 mit Lit.) Helmattasche, Bronze. Kopenhagen, Glypt. H 229. Aus Orvieto. – Poulsen, F., Das Helbig Museum (1927) 112 (H 229); idem, Aus einer alten Etruskerstadt (1927) 29. Taf. 33, 55; Laufer Taf. 14 Abb. 44. – Um 450 v. Chr. – K. versinkend, Schwertstich (vgl. 42), Kentauren mit Steinen (rechter trägt Tierfell). Gruppe von zwei Hippalektryonen getragen.

66. Blattkranz (Endplatten), Gold. London, BM 2298. Aus Tarquinia. – Marshall, BMJewellery Nr. 2298 Abb. 79 Taf. 49; Laufer Taf. 19 Abb. 63; Cristofani, M./Cristofani Martelli, M., L'oro degli Etruschi (1983) 65 Abb. A; 310 Nr. 32 Taf. 218. – 3. Jh. v. Chr. – Eingestempelte Dreifigureszene, K. bis Hüfte versunken, Schwertstich, beide Kentauren tragen Felsblöcke geschultert.

C. Kaineus, von drei (oder mehr) Kentauren umgeben

GRIECHISCHE DARSTELLUNGEN

Schwarzfigurige Vasen

67. (= Hasbolos 1* mit Lit., = Hylaios 1) Volutenkrater, att., sog. François-Vase. Florenz, Mus. Arch. 4209. Aus Chiusi. – ABV 76, 1; 682: Kleitias und Ergotimos; Para 29; Add 21; FR I Taf. 11–12; Minto, A., Il vaso François (1960) 59 Taf. 26 (mit neuen Fr.); Schefold, Sagenbilder 58; Simon/Hirmer, Vasen 74; Cristofani, M., BollArte Ser. spec. 1 (1981) 185 Abb. 186 (Inchrift Nr. 57). – Um 570/60 v. Chr. – K. (KAI-NEYΣ) voll gerüstet, bis Körpermitte versunken, Haltung und Aktion ähnlich wie 1, jedoch seitenverkehrt. R. der Schimmelkentaur Hasbolos, daneben Akrios, beide mit Steinen, l. Hylaios mit Ast.

68. Hydria, att. Christchurch (N. Z.), Univ. of Canterbury 41/57. – Para 134, 31bis: Schaukelmaler; Add 81; Schauenburg, a. O. 10, 756 Ab. 8; CVA 1 Taf. 8, 1–2; Böhr, a. O. 13, Nr. 53 Taf. 56. – Um 540/30 v. Chr. – K. nach rückwärts niedergestürzt, r. Hand zur Faust geballt (Bewaffnung?). Zwei Kentauren von r., beide waffenlos gestikulierend, linker Angreifer schwingt weißen Steinblock. Weitere Arbeiten 13. 14. 69 mit ikonographischen Besonderheiten und leicht humorvollen Zügen.

69. Bauchamphora, att. Paris, Inst. d'Art et d'Arch. – Para 134, 27bis: Schaukelmaler; Böhr a. O. 13, Nr. 69 Taf. 70–71. – Um 540/30 v. Chr. – K. ähnlich wie 68, Knielauf. Helmverzierung federartige Büsche. Rechter Kentaur mit großem Stein, linker gestikulierend. Der zuäusserst vom linken Bildrand überschrittene dritte Kentaur wendet sich imaginärem Gegner zu.

70. Northampton-Hydria. Bonn, Akad. Kunstmus. V 2674. Aus Italien. – Cook, R. M./Hemelrijk, J.

M., JbBerlMus 5, 1963, 107–120; Langlotz, E., in Antiken aus dem Akad. Kunstmus. (1971) 145 Nr. 167 Abb. 86; Schefold, SB II 155 Abb. 206; Martelli, M., Prospettiva 27, Okt. 1981, 8 Abb. 33–34 (Ribbons Painter). – Um 530 v. Chr. – Vier Kentauren in altertümlicher Form (zwei mit Ästen, einer mit Stein) zu zwei sich überschneidenden Paaren zusammengedrängt. K. mit zwei Schwertern (vgl. 61. 63). Hinter 67. 70 gemeinsames attisches Vorbild? (Schefold a. O. 155).

Attisch rotfigurige Vasen

71. Spitzamphora. Brüssel, Mus. Roy. R 303. Aus Vulci. – ARV 249, 6: Syleusmaler; Add 203; CVA 1 Taf. 8c. – 1. Viertel 5. Jh. v. Chr. – K. auf das r. Knie niedergesunken (vgl. 33), l. Bein abgewinkelt vorgestreckt, Lanze. Zwei Kentauren von l., einer r., der mittlere mit Ast, die äußeren tragen Felsbrocken geschultert.

72. Kolonettenkrater, Palermo, Mus. Naz. V 787 (2556). Aus Agrigent. – ARV 511, 1: Kaineusmaler; Pace, B., Arte e civiltà della Sicilia antica I (1958) 49 Abb. 25 (Umzeichnung), CVA 1 Taf. 45, 1–2. – Um 475 v. Chr. – Gleiches Figureschema wie 71. 74. 75. K. versinkend, sticht mit Lanze gegen rechten Kentauren.

73. Kolonettenkrater, fr. Athen, Agora P 7243a. b. Aus Athen. – ARV 566, 1: Schweinemaler-Umkreis; Laufer Taf. 12 Abb. 35. – Um 475 v. Chr. – Reste von drei Kentauren, K. untergang wahrscheinlich.

74. Kolonettenkrater. Harrow, School Mus. 50. Aus Vitorchiano. – ARV 516, 5: Cleveland-Maler; Add 253; Gardner, E., JHS 17, 1897, Taf. 6 (Umzeichnung). – Um 470 v. Chr. – Figurenanordnung ähnlich 71. 72. 75. K. schräg versinkend, Schwertstich. Äußere Kentauren mit Ästen (der rechte in stark verkürzter Rückenansicht), mittlerer trägt Felsblock geschultert.

75. Kolonettenkrater. Mariemont, Mus. Roy. B 84 (G 130). Aus Neapel. – ARV 523, 5: Obstgartenmaler; Laufer Taf. 13 Abb. 38. – Um 470 v. Chr. – Ähnlich wie 74, K. mit Schwert, Schildzeichen: Oktopus, gegen mittleren Kentauren (mit Ast und Felsblock), beiderseits liegen Steine, der äußerste linke Kentaur mit Pantherfell (vgl. 39–41. 44. 48. 53. 76).

76. Kolonettenkrater. Ehem. Uriage, Slg. Saint-Ferriol 190, verschollen. – Boucher, H., RA 16, 1922, 112 Abb. 1; Laufer Taf. 13 Abb. 40. – Um 470 v. Chr. – Gleiches Schema wie 74. 75, mit Zusatzfigur: Lapith mit Chlamys, Petasos und Schwert als Helfer (vgl. 45). K. versinkend, Schwert, Schildzeichen: Löwe. Kentaurenschema ähnlich 71. 72. 74. 75, der äußerste links mit Pantherfell.

D. Anhang: Deutung auf Kaineus unsicher (77–79) bzw. ausgeschlossen (80–83)

77. Amphora, sf. Heidelberg? (nicht Univ.). – Baur, P. V. C., Centaurs in Ancient Art (1912) 39 Nr. 119; Laufer 38 (K 63). – 6. Jh. v. Chr. – K. voll gerüstet, von zwei Kentauren angegriffen.

78. Kolonettenkrater, att. rf. Palermo, Kunsthandel(?). – ARV<sup>2</sup> 1681 zu 1069: Maler des Louvre-Symposion. – Um 470 v. Chr. – A: Kentaumachie mit K. untergang (nach Beazley).

79. Torso. Terrakotta. Heidelberg, Univ. Tk 96. Aus Tanagra. – Neutsch, B., 17. Erg.-H. Jdl (1952) 11–17. – 4. Jh. v. Chr. – Ähnlich travestierende Züge wie 52. 53, zwitterhafte Bildung der Genitalien. Deutung auf K. nicht ausgeschlossen.

80. Halsamphora, att. sf. London, BM B 176. Aus Vulci. – Baur, o. c. 77 34 Nr. 97; CVA 3 Taf. 35, 5b. – 6. Jh. v. Chr. – Lapith niedergestürzt, böotischer Schild, l. Hand hält kleinen Stein erhoben, bärtiger Kentaure mit Felsblock.

81. Tyrrhen. Amphora, att. sf. Paris, Louvre E 849. Aus Italien. – ABV 98, 41; Add<sup>2</sup> 26; Baur, o. c. 77, 20 Nr. 40; CVA 1 Taf. 4 (34) 8.16 – 6. Jh. v. Chr. – Deutung auf K. unwahrscheinlich.

82. Reliefvase, fr. Palermo, Mus. Reg. (?). Aus Agrigent. – Kekulé, R., Die Terrakotten von Sizilien (1884) Taf. 56, 3; Baur, o. c. 77, 77 Nr. 198. – 4. Jh. v. Chr. (?) – Kentaumachie, drei Kämpferpaare, K. (?) kniend, Schwertstich gegen Kentauren von l. Deutung auf K. unwahrscheinlich.

83. Kassettrelief, Marmor. Izmir, Arch. Mus. 1079. Aus Belevi, Mausoleum (W 4). – Keil, J., ÖJh 30, 1937, Beibl. 183 Abb. 59; Praschniker, C./Theuer, M., Das Mausoleum von Belevi (1979) 77 Abb. 60. 132–133. – Um 250 v. Chr. – Beim schlechten Erhaltungszustand der Lapithenfigur Deutung auf K. problematisch.

KOMMENTAR

Die frühesten Darstellungen zeigen K. als gerüsteten Hopliten in den Erdboden versinkend (2–5. 10. 12), wobei er von einem (1–3) oder zwei (10. 11) Kentauren mit Ästen und Steinen angegriffen wird. Kanonisch wird die heraldische Dreifigurengruppe, die erstmals auf dem Bronzeblech (61) nachweisbar ist und zugleich die älteste Darstellung der K.geschichte bildet. Der toreutische Prototyp entspricht im wesentlichen dem vom frühesten literarisch vorgegebenen Mythos (Pind. frg. 128f Snell/Maehler) geforderten Bildschema. Auffällig erscheint die Doppelbewaffnung mit Schwertern, die allgemein ionischen Kunsteinflüssen zugeschrieben wird (vgl. 70). Von Kleitias stammt die beste der frühen sf. Vasendarstellungen (67), in der K. zum erstenmal inschriftlich bezeichnet ist. Das Revolutionäre dieser Auffassung liegt in der Sprengung des heraldischen Schemas durch die Einführung eines weiteren Kentauren (auch diese mit Namensbeischrift). Diesem K.typus bleibt die Mehrzahl der älteren Fassungen verpflichtet (vor allem 1. 10). Die des Timiadesmalers (2) ist künstlerisch unbedeutend, aber inschriftlich gesichert (wie 33. 44. 67) und durch die Nacktheit(?) des K. interessant. Einige Beispiele (9. 50. 61. 70) zeigen die Kentauren noch in der altertümlichen Form. Nach 550 v. Chr. zählen die Darstellungen des Schaukelmalers, der den Lapithen in ungewöhnlichen Bewegungsformen vorführt, zu den originellsten Varianten (besonders 14. 68). Das von diesem Künstler eingeführte Knielaufschema der Mittelfigur (13) findet sich ebenso bei 14–19 und wird auch bei 21. 22 in abgewandelter Form wirksam. Im letzten Viertel des 6. Jh. v. Chr. kehrt das Motiv der Doppelbewaffnung auf 70 wieder, wo K. von vier Kentauren umringt ist. Die Auseinandersetzung ist hier zu einem dramatisch bewegten Kampfgetümmel verdichtet. Figurenaufteilung und Bildkonzeption erinnern an 67, doch spricht aus der Formung der Kentauren wie der Sonderbewaffnung ionisches Bilddenken. Die große Zahl der sf. Vasenbilder (14–19. 21. 22) aus dieser Periode zeugt von der Beliebtheit des K.sujets in der attischen Kunst der Spätarchaik. Nur hier findet sich als Bewegungsform des K. das Knielaufschema mit zurückgewandtem Kopf (die besten Beispiele 15–17; 17 vom Antimenemaler). Die beiden Kentauren mit wechselnder Bewaffnung (Ast, Stein) bleiben weiterhin antithetisch flankierend angeordnet. Einige K.gruppen der Zeit um 500 v. Chr. zeigen eine Sonderform des Knielaufs, bei der die Beine des K. von der Grundlinie teilweise überschritten werden, um so den Eindruck des Versinkens in den Boden zu vermitteln (21–23). Daneben ist weiterhin das Versinken im Schrittstand aktuell (die beste Variante 23 des Antimenemalers sowie 24. 25). Die sf. Darstellungen hören zwischen 500 und 480 v. Chr. allmählich auf (4. 5), die letzten Beispiele finden sich auf Lekythen (6. 19? 26–30). Die Amphora 31 ist ein Nachzügler aus der Zeit um 460 v. Chr. und wegen der geduckten Körperhaltung des K. von Interesse.

Die rf. Vasenmalerei bringt gewisse Veränderungen und Neuerungen in der Bildtypik (Rüstung und Bewaffnung, Anatomie, Individualisierung der Kentauren); der wichtigste der frühen Belege ist von Oltos signiert (33), ohne Versinkmotiv. In der Zeit um 480 v. Chr. nehmen sich bedeutende Großgefäßmaler der Gestaltung des K.stoffes an, wodurch es zu originellen Bilderfindungen und immer reicheren Abwandlungen des Grundschemas kommt. Die besten Fassungen dieser Epoche stammen vom Kleophradesmaler (35), dessen Schöpfung sich durch besondere Dynamik auszeichnet, eine weitere von Myson (36), die einer größeren Komposition entnommen zu sein scheint, wofür die Ausschnitthaftigkeit der Szenerie spricht (vgl. auch 37 des Panmalers; ein ähnlicher Bildgedanke schon auf 69 des Schaukelmalers) sowie die Version des Syleusmalers (71) mit drei Kentauren als Gegner. Die eleganteste Fassung (72) mit derselben Figurenanordnung stammt vom Kaineusmaler und scheint, wie die bereits angeführten, von zeitgenössischen Werken der Wandmalerei inspiriert worden zu sein. Die individuelle Gestaltung der Kentauren wird dabei immer differenzierter. Das Schwertstichmotiv tritt, abgesehen von den frühesten Darstellungen (61. 70), in der rf. Malerei erstmals bei 38 auf und wird in der Folge auch auf 37. 39. 40. 74–76 zur Darstellung gebracht. Bei 39 zeigt das Pathos der Gesten sowie das Sichtbarmachen emotionaler Gefühlsabläufe bereits Merkmale des Strengen Stils. Dreiviertelansichten bei den Kentauren sind für das Ringen mit Problemen perspektivischer und plastischer Darstellungsweise bezeichnend. Die intensive Wiedergabe des Schmerzes wie die Brutalität in der Schilderung des Kampfgeschehens sind Indizien einer neuen Ausdruckssprache und eines veränderten Kunstwillens dieser Zeit. Die Schülergeneration des Myson ist durch ein ausgezeichnetes Werk (40) des Schweinemalers vertreten (auch die Fragmente 73 entsprechen dem Stil dieses Künstlers). Bezüglich der Komposition steht das K.bild des Panmalers (37), der offenbar eine Vorliebe für transitorische Motive besitzt, noch unter dem Einfluß seines Lehrers Myson (vgl. 36); wie bei diesem ist es anscheinend als Ausschnitt aus einem größeren Zusammenhang genommen und als Vasenbild verarbeitet worden. Mehrere Fassungen aus der Zeit um 470 v. Chr. liegen vom Cleveland-Maler vor (41. 75), die bedeutendste wohl 74 mit kühner Verkürzung des in Rückenansicht in den Hintergrund sprengend vorgeführten rechten Kentauren. Mit dieser Schöpfung ist hinsichtlich der Möglichkeiten der malerischen Darstellungsweise ein Höhepunkt erreicht. Die Verwendung des unkonventionellen verkürzten Seitengliedes der Komposition findet keine Nachfolge. Gleichzeitig dürfte 75 anzusetzen sein, das in Einzelmotiven abweicht. Ältere Züge weist 41 auf, in der auf das Dreifigurenschema zurückgegriffen wird (vgl. 43. 72). Eine der schönsten Darstellungen des K. in der Vasenmalerei zeigt der verschollene Krater 76, gleichzeitig die erste Szene, in der K. ein Lapith als Mitkämpfer zur Seite steht (vgl. 45. 56). Das Schwertstichmotiv rezipiert auch Hermonax auf 42 und bildet den linken Kentauren als Schildreißer ohne Bewaffnung. Eher kraftlos wirkt die Untergangsszene des Leningrad-Malers (43), in der K. vergleichsweise riesenhafte Proportionen aufweist. Bisweilen kämpft in dieser Zeit noch ein Kentaure mit K., nachweisbar auf 7 des Niobidenmalers, obwohl diese Version neben den wuchtigen Bildern seiner unmittelbaren Vorgänger verblaßt. Von Polygnot sind zwei grundverschiedene K.varianten erhalten, die eine (44), aus der frühen Schaffenszeit stammend, signiert und mit Namensbeischrift für die Hauptfigur versehen. Trotz aller zeichnerischen Errungenschaften klingt hier noch Altertümliches an. In der anderen Version (45) bildet Polygnot den Lapithen nackt. Gleichsam wie Gegenstücke dazu wirken 46 sowie 47, das aller Wahrscheinlichkeit nach ebenso einen K. untergang zeigt. Die nächsten Vergleiche finden sich in Architektureliefen nach der Mitte des 5. Jh. v. Chr., als der Mythos in der Vasenmalerei schon außer Mode gekommen war. Die Nacktheit des K. ist später nur noch auf Gefäßen des 4. Jh. v. Chr. zu belegen (52. 53). Daneben tritt immer noch die Darstellungsweise mit Hoplitenrüstung auf, so bei 48 des Hephaistosmalers, wobei die Rezeption des Schwertstichmotivs das Zurückgreifen dieses späten Manieristen auf Schemata der frühen Klassik beweist. Auch in 49 des Komarismalers leben Vorbilder aus der ersten Jahrhunderthälfte wieder auf. Nach dem archaischen Kabinettstück aus Olympia (61) taucht der Mythos in der Toreutik nur noch in zwei Belegen auf (62. 65), für die attische Vasenbilder der Zeit um 470 v. Chr. die geeignetsten Vergleichsbeispiele darstellen. Auch 66 bewahrt das antithetische Dreifigurenschema mit dem Schwertstichmotiv.

Auffallend häufig gelangt das Thema in der Bauplastik zur Darstellung: der «Kaineus» am Westgiebel des Zeustempels von Olympia (Paus. 5, 10, 8) beruht dagegen auf irrümlicher Erklärung. Das entscheidend Neue bei 54 ist die Verschmelzung der getrennten Kräfte zu gemeinsam vorgetragener Aktion der Kentauren. Eleganz der Linienführung wie Harmonie der Massenverteilung machen die Hephaisteion-Platte zum lange angestrebten Ideal. Das Sunion-Relief (55) unterscheidet sich durch das Fehlen der gemeinsamen Aktion der Gegner. Von der traditionellen Auffassung abweichend, zeigt die Bassai-Platte (56) die wohl eigenwilligste Schilderung des K. untergangs mit dem Motiv des großen, den Druck übertragenden Schildes, das keine Vorstufen hat. Die Verwendung des Themas in der Sepulkralplastik, vornehmlich im kleinasiatischen Kunstbereich, ist durch 57. 59. 60 belegt, wobei unklar bleibt, ob der Mythos in funebralem Kontext zum Medium der Vermittlung bestimmter eschatologischer Inhalte wird. Mit 59 verbindet 57 die Besonderheit, daß in beiden Fällen der linke Kentaure eine Amphora als Waffe einsetzt. Weitgehende Affinität zu 57 weist 60 auf, wo K. einen langen, gegürteten Ärmelchiton trägt. Mit 60 endet die Reihe der großplastischen Fassungen der K.sage; einen letzten Nachläufer bildet 58 aus dem 2. Jh. v. Chr. Nur noch vereinzelt kommt der K.mythos in der Keramik des 4. Jh. v. Chr. vor, insbesondere auf unteritalischen Vasen (51–53). Alle Belege aus dieser Zeit bewahren das antithetisch-symmetrische Dreifigurenschema. Auffällig erscheint der Gestaltswandel des Protagonisten: Auf keinem dieser Bilder ist K. bärtig, und auf 52. 53 gänzlich nackt gebildet. Nur auf 51 trägt K. eine Rüstung und versinkt im Boden. Bei 52. 53 hält man sich an bewährte Bewegungsmotive aus Kampfszenen, ohne den Untergang als Versinkvorgang zu charakterisieren. Bei 52 muß überdies die androgyne Körpergestaltung des K. hervorgehoben werden, die keine Vorstufen oder Parallelen hat (vgl. 79). Die Ausrüstung der Kentauren folgt attischen Vorbildern und besteht weiterhin aus Ast und Stein in beliebigem Wechsel. Auf 53 kommen belaubte Bäumchen als Naturkulisse hinzu. Als späteste Bildzeugnisse sind 66 aus dem 3. Jh. v. Chr. und etruskischer Provenienz sowie die römische Koroplastik 8 des 2. Jh. v. Chr. (?) anzusehen, in denen das dekorativ aufgefaßte Thema nur noch schematisch wiedergegeben wird.

ERICH LAUFER

KAIROI / TEMPORA ANNI

(Kairoi) Männliche Version der lateinischen Horae (Jahrszeiten, → Horai/Horae), neben denen sie in der Kaiserzeit stehen; unter den Dichtern und Schriftstellern der Antike genossen sie geringeres Ansehen, mit Ausnahme der kaiserzeitlichen Literatur, wo die

felicia tempora häufige Erwähnung finden. In der östlichen Welt werden sie als Kairoi oder Kaloi Kairoi bezeichnet.

Neben den Personifikationen zählen zu den Darstellungen der Tempora anni auch zahlreiche Tiere, Pflanzen oder unterschiedliche Aktivitäten, welche, vor allem in der spätrömischen Zeit, die verschiedenen Jahreszeiten symbolisieren. Sie sind hier ebenfalls behandelt.

LITERARISCHE QUELLEN: Für die Verwendung des Wortes καρπός im Sinne von «Jahreszeit» (erst nachklassisch) s. Liddell/Scott s. v. – Es sind nur sehr wenige literarische Quellen vorhanden, die zur Ikonographie der Tempora anni herangezogen werden können. Einige Dichter bringen die vier Jahreszeiten mit den vier Zonen des Circus in Verbindung. Tert. spect. 9 bezieht sich darauf, daß es anfangs nur zwei Farben gegeben habe: weiß, dem Winter gewidmet, und rot für den Sommer; später seien grün für den Frühling und blau für den Herbst hinzugekommen. Cor. iust. 1, 314–329 (6. Jh. n. Chr.) gibt an, daß jedes der vier Pferde der Sonnenquadriga die Darstellung einer Jahreszeit ist, es deshalb vier Zonen und vier Wagen im Circus gibt, und die Farbe jeder Zone eine Jahreszeit symbolisiert: grün für den Frühling, rot für den Sommer, blau für den Herbst und weiß für den Winter.

In der späten Kaiserzeit setzt sich der Kaiser in enge Beziehung zu den Jahreszeiten, als Folge seiner Gleichsetzung mit den Göttern, die ihren Einfluß auf diese ausüben. Bereits Vergil (georg. 1, 24–28) weist für Augustus darauf hin, aber mit großer Häufigkeit finden wir dies erst in der späten Kaiserzeit (paneg. 3, 14; 5, 10). Die Thronbesteigung eines neuen Kaisers wird wie ein neues Jahr gefeiert, das die felicitas temporum (Sen. apocol. 1, 1; Cor. iust. 1, 80) vermehrt, wie eine Erneuerung der Zeit, was, unter anderen Symbolen, durch den Ablauf der Jahreszeiten einen treffenden Ausdruck findet.

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Alföldi, M. R., Die constantinische Goldprägung (1963) 50–51; Hanfmann, G. M. A., The Season Sarcophagus in Dumbarton Oaks (1951); Hild, J.-A., DA III 1 (1899) 249–256 s. v. «Horae»; Jolles, A., RE VIII 2 (1913) 2300–2313 s. v. «Horae»; Koch/Sichtermann, RömSark 217–223, 434; Kranz, P., SarkRel V 4, Die Jahreszeitenarkophage (1984); Ling, R., «The Seasons in Romano-British Mosaic Pavements», Britannia 14, 1983, 13–22; Parrish, D., Season Mosaics of Roman North Africa (1984); Rapp, A., ML I 2 (1886–90) 2712–2741 s. v. «Horae»; Smith, D. J., «Mythological Figures and Scenes in Romano-British Mosaics», in Mumby, J./Henig, M. (eds.), Roman Life and Art in Britain (1977) 129–132.

KATALOG

A. Ungeflügelte Putti

1. Tanzend oder in schneller Bewegung

Mosaik

1. Polychromes Mosaik. Verschollen. Aus Itálica. – Blanco, MosEsp I Nr. 43 Taf. 61–75; Hanfmann II Nr. 347. – Ende 3. oder Anfang 4. Jh. n. Chr. – Darstellung eines Circus, umgeben von Medaillons mit Büsten der Musen, Tieren und Eroten ohne Flügel, welche die Jahreszeiten darstellen könnten: der Frühling oder der Sommer: kurzer Chiton, Hut, vor sich in einem Korb oder in einer Falte des Mantels dreieckige, nicht bestimmbare Gegenstände. Der Herbst: ebenfalls jung und mit kurzer Tunika, trägt auf der Schulter einen Hasen. Der Winter: tanzender Jüngling mit kurzem Chiton und Mantel vor einer Landschaft mit Schilfrohr, trägt in seiner l. Hand einen Vogel. Nur der Winter tanzt.

Reliefs

2. * Attischer Sarkophag, Marmor. Athen, Nat. Mus. 4008. – Matz, SarkRel IV 1, Beilage 1. – 3. Viertel 2. Jh. v. Chr. – Frontseite: angeführt von der Gruppe des Dionysos und Ampelos, Eroten mit jahreszeitlichen Attributen. L. der Herbst, ein Eros, der von einem anderen gestützt wird; er ist nackt bis auf eine Chlamys und hält in seiner l. Hand eine Traube. Der Frühling: ebenfalls nackt, ein Teller Früchte in der r. und Zicklein in der l. Hand.

3. * Attischer Sarkophag, Marmor. Athen, Nat. Mus. 1187. Aus Patras. – Toynbee, J. M. C., The Hadrianic School (1934) 224 Taf. 52, 1–2; Koch/Sichtermann, RömSark 427, 429, 1. – Von l. nach r.: Eros mit Pedum in der r. Hand und einem Teller Früchte; ein anderer tanzend, mit Mantel, der ihm nach hinten fällt; zwei weitere, eng umschlungen in bacchischer Haltung, der eine mit Fackel, der andere mit Kranz in der Hand; ein weiterer wie der zweite von l.; ein anderer ist nackt, mit Pedum über der Schulter und einem toten Hasen, den er an den Hinterläufen hält. Auf den Schmalseiten je ein Eros mit flatternder Chlamys über der l. Schulter, ein Tier (Eber bzw. Hirschkalb) in der einen, ein Pedum in der anderen Hand haltend.

4. (= Adonis 39a*) Adonissarkophag, Marmor. Mantua, Pal. Ducale. – SarkRel III 1, Nr. 20; Sichtermann/Koch, MythSark Nr. 6 Taf. 10, 1; 11. – Ende 2. Jh. n. Chr. – Auf dem Pfeiler, der mit einem Bogen in Verbindung steht und die beiden Szenen trennt, befinden sich vier ungeflügelte Eroten, eine Hand vor der Hüfte haltend, die andere Hand auf dem Kopf. Die drei unteren sind nackt, der oberste trägt einen kurzen Chiton. Von unten nach oben: der Frühling (Blumenkorb auf der l. Schulter); der Sommer (Stab, vielleicht der Stiel einer Sichel, in der l. Hand, in der r. Ährenbündel); der Herbst (Nebris, Früchtekorb in der l. Hand); der Winter (kurze Tunika).

5. * Relief, Marmor. Grabmal der Haterii. Rom, Vatikan (ehem. Lateran 9998). – Helbig<sup>4</sup> I Nr. 1075; Hanfmann II Nr. 303. – Um 120 n. Chr. – «Kranrelief». Es stellt einen kleinen Grabtempel dar. Im Fries der Hauptfassade drei Jahreszeiten: der Sommer, nackt, mit Sichel in der r. und Ährenbündel in der l. Hand; der Herbst (oder der Frühling?), Blumenstrauß und Teller mit Früchten haltend, den Kopf zurückgewendet; der Winter, in Mantel gehüllt, der den Kopf freiläßt und nur bis zu den Knien reicht, mit Blumenstrauß in der l. Hand, den Kopf ebenfalls nach hinten gewendet. Eine Figur fehlt, entweder der Frühling oder der Herbst; es sind hier sehr wenig typische Merkmale vorhanden.

6. Marmorsarkophag. Rom, Pal. Mattei. – Kranz Nr. 52 Taf. 26, 1. – Um 250 n. Chr. – Clipeus mit dem Porträt der Verstorbenen, darunter vier Eroten als Weinleser, die Trauben treten. Der Frühling: Tierfell über r. Schulter und Brust, in der r. Hand Füllhorn mit Blumen, in der l. und im Haar Blumenkranz; zu seinen Füßen Widder und Stier, obwohl letzterer der folgenden Personifikation entspricht. Der Sommer: vor der Brust geknotete, im Rücken flatternde Chlamys, Ähren im Haar und Ährenbündel in der r. Hand. Der Herbst: flatternde Chlamys über den Schultern, Trauben und Rebenblätter im Haar, eine Traube in der l. Hand und eine Girlande über der Brust. Der Winter: phrygische Mütze und Bekleidung des Attis, ein Füllhorn in der l. Hand und zwei Enten in der r.; zu seinen Füßen Panther, der dem Herbst entspricht, und Eber.

Einzelfiguren

7. Relief, Kalkstein: Salona, Mus. Aus Salona. – Klement, K., ArchEpigrMitt 13, 1891, 3; Cambi, N., Vjesnik za arheologiju i historiju dalmatinsku 62, 1960, 57 Nr. 3 Taf. 9, 1. – 2. Jh. n. Chr. – Auf der einen Seite der Herbst: auf einem Sockel geflügelter, nackter Eros, tanzend, mit Rebe in der r. Hand und Früchtekorb auf der l. Schulter, den er mit der l. Hand stützt.

8. Relief, Kalkstein. Salona, Mus. Aus Salona. – Klement, a. O. 7, 4; Cambi, a. O. 7, Nr. 3 Taf. 9, 2. – 2. Jh. n. Chr. – Herbst, ähnlich 7.

9. Relief, Stein. Spalato, Arch. Mus. D 482. Aus Salona. – Cambi, a. O. 7, 58 Nr. 7 Taf. 11, 1. – 2. Jh. n. Chr. – Sommer, nackt, geflügelt, mit Ähren in der l. und Sichel in der r. Hand, auf einem Sockel.

10. Relief, Stein. Aus Trogir. – Schneider, B., ArchEpigrMitt 9, 1885, 57; Cambi, a. O. 7, 59 Nr. 8 Taf. 12, 1–2. – 2. Jh. n. Chr. – Viereckiger Cippus mit Inschrift des T. Statilius Maximus auf der Vorderseite: auf den Seiten jeweils Darstellungen des Herbstes: geflügelter Putto, der mit der einen Hand einen Korb auf dem Kopf hält, in der anderen Hand einen Hasen; nackt, auf Sockeln.

Medaillons und Münzen

11. * (= 22) AE Medaillon, Hadrian. – Gnechi, Medaglioni III 19, 91 Taf. 146, 1; Toynbee, a. O. 3, 217 Anm. 3; Hanfmann II Nr. 318 Abb. 127; Clay, C. L., «Nilus and the four Seasons on an New As of Septimius Severus», NC 1970, 76–77. – Rs.: vier männliche, tanzende Putti, in Zweiergruppierung: der Frühling, nackt, einen Blumenkorb mit beiden Händen auf dem Kopf haltend; der Sommer, ebenfalls nackt, eine Sichel über den Kopf schwingend, mit Ähren; der Herbst, nackt, wendet den Kopf und trägt einen Früchtekorb in der einen Hand, mit der anderen hält er die Vorderbeine eines Hasen oder eines Zickleins; der Winter, mit kurzem Chiton, der den Kopf bedeckt, hält einen Hasen an den Vorderläufen und einen trockenen Zweig, an dem ein Hase und ein Vogel herabhängen. Legende TEMPORVM FELICITAS.

12. * AE Medaillon, Faustina I. († 141 n. Chr.). – Gnechi, Medaglioni II 41, 28 Taf. 69, 3; III 27, 138 Taf. 148, 18; Clay, a. O. 11, 76; Toynbee, a. O. 3, 217 Anm. 3. – Rs.: wie 11, ohne Legende.

13. * AE Medaillon, Commodus Caesar. – Gnechi, Medaglioni II 44, Taf. 72, 1. – Rs.: wie 11. Legende TEMPORVM FELICITAS.

14. (= 23) AE Medaillon, Commodus, 191–192 n. Chr. – Gnechi, Medaglioni II 66, 135 Taf. 87, 3–5; III 38, 204–205 Taf. 152, 5; Hanfmann II Nr. 328 Abb. 128. – Rs.: wie 11.

15. AE Sesterz, Rom, Commodus. – BMC Emp IV 787, *†; 792, *; 844. – Rs.: wie 11.

16. AU Aureus, AR Denar, Rom, Caracalla und Geta. – BMC Emp V 207, *; 245, 452; 256, 505 Taf. 40, 13; Clay, a. O. 11, 77 Taf. 8, 8. – Rs.: wie 11; FELICIA TEMPORA. – Vgl. 245.

17. AE Medaillon, Trebonianus Gallus. – Gnechi, Medaglioni II 102, 5 Taf. 111, 6; Alföldi 51 Taf. 24, 287. – Rs.: wie 11; SAECVLI FELICITAS.

18. AE Medaillon, Probus. – Gnechi, Medaglioni II 119, 37 Taf. 121, 6; Alföldi 51 Taf. 24, 288. – Rs.: wie 11; SAECVLI FELICITAS. Der Winter trägt einen geraden Stab.

19. AU Solidi, Konstantin. – Alföldi 49–51 Nr. 107 Taf. 5, 68; Nr. 108 Taf. 6, 91. – Rs.: wie 11; FELICIA TEMPORA.

2. In langsamer Bewegung

Reliefs

20. Marmor. Rom, Pal. Rondinini. – Salerno, L./Paribeni, E., Palazzo Rondinini (1965) Nr. 33–34 Abb. 122–124; Lorenz, Th., «Römische Prinzen als Allegorien der Jahreszeiten», in Thiasos (1978) 113–127 Abb. 28–29. – Nach Lorenz handelt es sich um Porträts von Nero und Britannicus, um das Jahr 48 n. Chr.; auf jeden Fall julisch-claudisch. – Zwei Knaben in frontaler Position, den Kopf zur Seite gewendet, nackt bis auf eine Chlamys; der eine hält eine Kugel und eine Weinrebe mit zwei Trauben, der andere einen Vogel und einen Hasen an den Hinterläufen. Nach Lorenz könnte der Vogel als Symbol für den Frühling, die Kugel für den Sommer stehen, womit der Zyklus der vier Jahreszeiten vollständig wäre: der Frühling (Vogel), der Sommer (Kugel), der Herbst (Traube), der Winter (Hase). Die Kugel wäre allerdings singular als Attribut des Sommers.

21. Reliefs, Marmor. Rom, Konsolen der «Casa di Rienzo». Vielleicht aus dem Gebiet des Forum Boarium. – Kähler, H., JdI 51, 1936, 192–201 Abb. 15–29. – Zeit des Konstantin. – Auf der Vorderseite Viktorien und Eroten, mit und ohne Flügel und mit verschiedenen Symbolen; einige scheinen Jahreszeiten zu repräsentieren: drei Figuren, geflügelt und mit einem Mantel über den Schultern und um den Hals, der am Rücken herabhängt, tragen Girlanden (Abb. 12, 17, 28); zwei andere, ebenfalls geflügelt, halten Hasen in den Händen (Abb. 12); der letzte, auf gleiche Art gekleidet und mit Flügeln, hält in der Rechten einen Hasen, nach dem ein Hund schnappt, und in der l. Hand einen Früchtekorb, vielleicht mit Trauben (Abb. 27). Die ungeflügelten Eroten hielten auch Objekte, die aber verloren sind.

Medaillons und Münzen

22. (= 11*) AE Medaillon, Hadrian. – Rs.: Von den vier Putti (Beschreibung s. 11) sind der Frühling und der Herbst weniger stark bewegt als der Sommer und der Winter.

23. (= 14) AE, Medaillon, Commodus, 191–192 n. Chr. – Rs.: wie 22.

24. AE, Nikaia, Julia Domna. – Robinson, E. S. G., NC 1937, 240–242 Taf. 31, 10; Hanfmann II Nr. 330. – Rs.: wie 22, aber der Winter ist bekleidet mit kurzem Ärmelchiton und Hosen, trägt Stiefel und hat den Kopf bedeckt. Hier sind die Merkmale am besten zu erkennen.

Freiplastik

25. (= Eros/Amor, Cupido 507*) Statuette, Stein. Köln, Slg. Niessen. Aus Köln, Aachenerstraße. – Espérandieu, Recueil VIII Nr. 6427. – 2. Jh. n. Chr. – Nackter Eros mit einer Phalera auf der Brust; auf der l. Schulter trägt er einen mit Früchten gefüllten Korb.

26. Statuette, Kalkstein. Bonn, Rhein. Landesmus. Vom gleichen Fundort wie 25. – Espérandieu, Recueil VIII Nr. 6428. – 2. Jh. n. Chr. – Wie 25, aber ohne Phalera; der r. Arm ist in einer Chlamys verborgen und an der Seite hängt eine Rebe. Beide waren Teil eines Grabmals und könnten möglicherweise Frühling und Herbst darstellen.

27. Skulptur, Marmor. Belgrad, Nat. Mus. Aus Servia. – Grbić, M., Choix des plastiques grecques et romaines au Mus. Nat. de Beograd (1958) Nr. 39; 129 Taf. 50. – Nackt, mit Chlamys über Schultern und Rücken; er trägt einen Kranz und hält in der l. Hand einen Korb mit Früchten. Sehr ähnlich wie 26.

28.* Statuette, Marmor. Bonn, Privatslg. – EA 3922–3923. – Claudisch-neronisch. – Nackt, mit einer Chlamys über der l. Schulter, die l. Hand hält einige Früchte; eine Girlande läuft quer über die Brust.

29.* Statuette, Marmor. Ostia, Mus. Von Ostia. – Calza, G., La necropoli del porto di Roma nell'Isola Sacra (1940) 229 Abb. 126–127. – Nackter Jüngling mit Chlamys über Schultern, Brust und Rücken; er trägt einen Blumenkranz, das Gesicht ist erhoben, und in der r. Hand hält er einen jungen Hirsch. Nach Calza muß es der Frühling sein.

3. Bewegungslos

Reliefs

30.* Trajansbogen in Benevent, Marmor. – Rotili, M., L'arco di Traiano a Benevento (1973) 76 Taf. 36. 37. 41. 43. 44. 49–52. – 114 n. Chr. – In den Bogenzwickeln Personifikationen von Flüssen, Viktorien und die Jahreszeiten. Der Frühling: unterhalb einer Viktoria; nackt, Chlamys über der r. Schulter; tritt auf Schlange und hält Korb mit Blumen. Der Sommer: unter einer weiteren Viktoria, auf Ährenfeld; hält Korb mit Ähren. Auf der anderen Seite der Herbst, unter einer zurückgelehnten weiblichen Figur, die Rotili als die Quelle des Tisia (→ Euphrates 27) identifiziert; nackt, Chlamys über Schultern, Brust und Rücken; mit seiner l. Hand hält er sie fest und formt eine breite Falte, die mit Trauben gefüllt ist. Der Winter: unterhalb der Personifikation der Donau (→ Danuvius, Kommentar), in einen Mantel gehüllt, Kopf bedeckt, in der l. Hand zwei Enten.

31.* Marmoraltäre. London, BM N 2494 (= Apis 12) und 2495. Ehem. Rom, Pal. Odescalchi. – Smith, BMSculpt III Nr. 2494–2495; Ashmole, B., A Cat. of Ancient Marbles at Ince Blundell Hall (1929) 108 Nr. 295 Taf. 45; Hanfmann II Nr. 309 Taf. 125–126. – Hadrianisch (Ashmole); Ende 2. oder 3. Jh. (Hanfmann). – Quadratische Altäre mit ägyptischen Gottheiten auf drei Seiten; auf der vierten Seite eine Jahreszeit. Auf Nr. 2494 der Sommer zusammen mit Apis, Harpokrates und einer ägyptisierenden Figur; er ist nackt bis auf eine Chlamys und hält Ähren in der r. und eine Sichel in der l. Hand; neben ihm Korb mit Ähren. Auf Nr. 2495 sind Apis, eine kniende Figur, zwei Priester und der Frühling abgebildet; dieser ist dem Sommer auf Nr. 2494 sehr ähnlich, erscheint aber mit einem Blumenkranz auf dem Haupt; an seiner Seite ein Rosenstrauch und ein Korb mit Rosen. Beide Personifikationen in Vorderansicht.

32. Sarkophagdeckel, Marmor. Cagliari, Mus. Naz. 5896. – Kranz Nr. 328 Taf. 93, 5. – In der Mitte Inschrift der Ruffia Marcella; beidseits zwei Erosen, welche die Enden einer üppigen Girlande halten. Der Frühling: Chlamys über Schultern und Teil der Brust; in der einen Hand hält er einen Blumenkorb, mit der anderen das Ende einer Girlande aus Blättern und Blüten. Das andere Ende, aus Zweigen des Ölbaums bestehend, hält der Winter, bekleidet mit kurzem Ärmelchiton, einem Mantel, der sein Haupt bedeckt, und Stiefeln; seine andere Hand hält eine große Binse. Der Herbst, gekleidet wie der Frühling, hält einen Früchtekorb und das Ende einer ebenfalls aus Früchten zusammengesetzten Girlande. Das andere Ende, aus Ähren bestehend, hält der Sommer, mit Chlamys und einem Ährenbündel in der Hand.

33. Marmorsarkophag. Cagliari, Mus. Naz. 5936. – Kranz Nr. 63 Taf. 44, 4. – Anfang 4. Jh. n. Chr. – Zwei Viktorien halten einen Clipeus mit dem Porträt der Verstorbenen; darunter Erosen, die Trauben treten. Der Winter: kurzer Chiton, Mantel, der den Kopf bedeckt, Stiefel, in den Händen Lagobolon und Ente. Der Frühling: Chlamys; Girlande und Blütenkorb in den Händen. Der Herbst: gekleidet wie der Frühling, einen Korb mit Trauben und eine große Rebe haltend. Der Sommer: Nebris über der Brust, in den Händen Ährenbündel und wahrscheinlich Sichel (verloren); zu seinen Füßen ein weiteres Ährenbündel.

DEUTUNG UNSICHER

34. Marmorstatuette. Pompei, Haus der Vettier. – Sogliano, A., MonAnt 8, 1898, 282 Abb. 19. – Mitte 1. Jh. n. Chr. – Nackt, mit einer Gans unter dem l. Arm und einer Rebe in der r. Hand.

B. Ungeflügelte Putti mit anderen Gottheiten

1. Mit Tellus oder Ge

Polychrome Mosaiken

35. (= Aion 13* mit Lit.) München, Glypt. GL 504. Aus Sentinum (Italien). – 3. Jh. n. Chr. – Aus einem Nebenraum eines Mithräums. Aion mit den Tierkreiszeichen; im Vordergrund gelagerte Tellus mit Kranz aus Blättern und Früchten. Um sie herum vier Putti, die Jahreszeiten. Der Frühling, am weitesten entfernt: sitzend, nackt, Kranz aus Blättern und Blüten, von der l. Schulter aus läuft eine Girlande quer über seine Brust. Der Sommer: nackt, Ährenkranz, streckt seine Hände Tellus entgegen. Der Herbst: nackt, Kranz aus Früchten und Trauben, die von einem Band gehalten werden. Der Winter: auf dem Boden sitzend, in Mantel gehüllt, der seinen Kopf bedeckt; Binse in der r. Hand.

36. (= Aion 3* mit Lit., = Karpoi 1* mit Querverweisen) Damaskus, Nat. Mus. Aus Chahba-Philippopolis. – Im Vordergrund Ge umgeben von vier ungeflügelten Putti mit Beischrift KAPPIOI (über dem zweiten von l.). Sie trägt einen Blumenkranz und ein Füllhorn voll Früchte. Ein Eros nähert sich ihr von l., mit Mantel über der l. Schulter, der den Körper freiläßt; er trägt einen großen Napf vollgefüllt mit runden und kegelförmigen Objekten, die schwer zu deuten sind. Der zweite lehnt sich an die r. Schulter von Tellus; er ist ebenfalls nackt bis auf einen Mantel, der seine Beine verhüllt, und trägt einen Kranz aus Blättern und Ähren; seine r. Hand hält er auf dem Kopf, während die l. hinter Tellus verborgen ist. Der dritte, halb verdeckt hinter der Göttin, trägt einen Kranz aus Blüten oder Früchten und hält in einem Tuch Blumen oder Früchte. Der letzte, mit Chlamys über Rücken und Brust, welche die l. Schulter unverhüllt läßt, trägt in seinen Händen einen Behälter mit vier runden Früchten. Eine genaue Zuweisung ist sehr schwierig, da die Attribute, die die Putti zeigen, nicht eindeutig jahreszeitlich sind.

Reliefs

37. (= Endymion 77* mit Lit.) Endymionsarkophag, Marmor. Woburn Abbey (Bedfordshire). – Robert, SarkRel III 1 Nr. 79 Taf. 22. – Tellus liegt, mit nackter Brust, unterhalb der Pferde; sie ist umgeben von vier ungeflügelten Erosen: der Herbst mit Rebe, zu seinen Füßen ein Widder. Die Identifikation der anderen drei Erosen ist schwierig: einer berührt das Füllhorn von Tellus; ein anderer hält sich teilweise verborgen hinter dem Hinterlauf des Pferdes; ein dritter spielt mit einem Widder. Die von Robert vorgeschlagene Identifikation mit Herbst, Sommer, Winter und Frühling scheint nicht gesichert.

38.* Kameo, Gemma Augustea, Onyx. Wien, Kunsthist. Mus. IX A 79. – Furtwängler, AG Taf. 56; Hanfmann, G. M. H., Römische Kunst (1964) 249 Farbt. 17; Megow, Kameen 8–11. 155–163 A 10 Taf. 3–4. – 10–20 n. Chr. – Tellus sitzt, neben der Gruppe von Augustus und Roma, zusammen mit Oceanus; sie trägt einen Kranz aus Efeublättern und Trauben und das Füllhorn. Vor und hinter ihr je ein nackter, ungeflügelter Putto, der vordere mit Ähren in der Hand. Tellus scheint Frühling, Herbst und Winter zu personifizieren, einer ihrer Putti den Sommer.

39.* (= Attis 422 mit Lit. und Querverweisen) Silberlanx. Mailand, Mus. Arch. Aus Parabiago. – 2. oder 4. Jh. n. Chr. (Musso: um 350). – Kybele, Attis und Aion mit dem Tierkreis. Im unteren Teil liegende Tellus, neben ihr ein Eros, vier weitere nähern sich ihr. Der Sommer: nackt, tanzend, dickes Ährenbündel über der l. Schulter, Sichel in der r. Hand. Vor ihm der Herbst: nackt, eine Traube in der r. Hand; mit der l. faßt er seinen Mantel. Der Frühling: fast frontal, kurzer Chiton, trägt ein Zicklein auf den Schultern. Der Winter: Mantel, der seinen Kopf bedeckt, Zweig in der r. Hand.

40. AE Medaillon, Antoninus Pius, 145–147 n. Chr. – Toynbee, a. O. 3, 141 Anm. 4 Taf. 19, 6; Clay, a. O. 11, 82 Taf. 8, 4; Gnechi, Medaglioni II Taf. 54, 7. – Tellus, an eine Kuh gelehnt, mit dem Füllhorn in der l. Hand und umgeben von vier Putti: der Frühling hinter ihr greift nach den letzten Schleifen der Himmelskrone, die am oberen Rand der Münze entlangläuft (auch als Zodiacus interpretiert [Strong] oder als oberer Teil einer Höhle [Toynbee]); der Sommer sitzt in ihrem Schoß und streckt die r. Hand nach ihrer Brust; in seiner l. Hand hält er eine Sichel, im Haar hat er Getreideähren; der Winter, zu ihren Füßen, trägt einen Mantel, der den Kopf bedeckt, in seiner Hand eine Binse und ein Tier.

2. Mit Nilus (→ Neilos)

41. Polychromes Mosaik. Aus Karthago. – Foucher, L., in La mosaïque gréco-romaine I (1965) 138 Abb. 2; Parrish 263 Nr. 2 betrachtet die Putti nicht als jahreszeitlich; Clay, a. O. 11, 81 Taf. 10, 1. – Nilus, an ein Krokodil gelehnt; um ihn sind drei Putti erhalten: der Sommer, mit Sichel und Ährengarbe, und der Herbst, der zum Füllhorn des Nilus blickt, befinden sich hinter dem Fluß; der Winter, hinter dem Kopf des Nilus, hält in seiner l. Hand einen gabelförmigen Stab. Es fehlt der Frühling, der zu seinen Füßen sein müßte.

Münzen

42.* AE Sesterz, Hadrian. BMC Emp 178, 1773 Taf. 95, 12; Clay, a. O. 11, 78–79 Taf. 8, 9–10; 9, 1–3. – Nilus umgeben von vier Putti, welche die Jahreszeiten symbolisieren: der Winter, hinter Nilus, im Mantel, der den Kopf verhüllt; hinter ihm Binsen; der Sommer, nackt auf den Knien des Nilus, mit Sichel und manchmal einer Ähre (Taf. 9, 1. 3). Die anderen zwei Putti sind schwieriger zu identifizieren. Derjenige zwischen Winter und Sommer, welcher das Füllhorn des Nilus ansieht, um das er seinen Arm gelegt hat, muß der Herbst sein, wegen seiner Verbindung mit dem mit Früchten und Trauben gefüllten Füllhorn. Der vierte reitet entweder auf einem Nilpferd (Taf. 8, 9–11) oder blickt auf Nilus und greift mit der r. Hand an seinem Kopf (Tf. 9, 1–3), ähnlich einigen Darstellungen des Frühlings.

43. AE As, Septimius Severus, 200 n. Chr. – Clay, a. O. 11, 71–73 Taf. 8, 1. 3. – 200 n. Chr. – Geprägt zur Erinnerung an den Besuch von Septimius Severus in Ägypten im Jahr 200 n. Chr. – Nilus, liegend, in der l. Hand ein Füllhorn, in der r. eine Ähre; unter ihm ein Nilpferd. Zu seinen Füßen befindet sich der Winter, mit Mantel und bedecktem Kopf; in der r. Hand hält er ein totes Tier an den Vorderbeinen, in der l. einen Stab; hinter ihm ist eine Binse. Hinter dem Arm des Nilus ist der Frühling, nackt, mit einem Korb auf den Schultern, und der Sommer, mit Sichel in der r. Hand. Der Herbst kniet über einem Füllhorn, er ist nackt und hat die Arme ausgebreitet. Unterhalb einer breiten Linie sind die Wellen des Nils, in welchen, zwischen Binsen, ein Krokodil, eine Ente und ein Vogel schwimmen. Nach Clay wurde die Münze nach dem Modell des Nilus mit den vier Jahreszeiten von Hadrian sowie nach dem Vorbild der Tellus mit den vier Jahreszeiten (35–40) geprägt.

3. Mit Tyche

Relief

44. Gürtelbrosche, Gold. Paris, Cab. Méd. 1976–123. – Baratte, F., Mon Piot 62, 1979, 60–70 Abb. 1. 2. 8. – Ende 4. Jh. oder Anfang 5. Jh. n. Chr. – Auf einer der Seiten eine sitzende Figur, die als Tyche interpretiert wurde, mit einem Früchtekorb in einer Hand und einem Korb in der anderen, auf einem Sockel, der von einer männlichen Büste gehalten wird. Sie empfängt die Gaben von vier Knaben, die einen Korb Blumen (Frühling), Ährenbündel (Sommer), einen Korb Früchte (Herbst), und eine Garbe Binsen (Winter) in Händen tragen. Alle sind nackt.

4. Mit Horae, als Karpoi

45. (= Horai/Horae 71) Wandmalerei. Stabiae. – Gruppen von Horae und Karpoi durchschreiten die Himmelssphäre und tragen Attribute der Jahreszeiten mit sich.

Mosaiken

46. (= Horai/Horae 73*) Mérida. – Horae, die Karpoi an den Händen führen, mit jahreszeitlichen Attributen.

47. (= Horai/Horae 74) Silin. – Wie 46.

5. In Verbindung mit dem Jahreskreis

48. (= Annus 9 mit Lit.) Relief, Stein. Reims, «Tor des Mars», Zentralgewölbe des Bogens. – Stern, H., «Les calendriers romains illustrés», in ANRW II 12, 2, 449–450 Taf. 22–23. – Ende 2. Jh. oder 1. Hälfte 3. Jh. n. Chr. – Im Zentralgewölbe der Zyklus der zwölf Monate; im Inneren verschiedene, sich einschließende Kreise, mit geometrischer und pflanzlicher Dekoration; im letzten, in einem Quadrat, sitzender → Annus mit Füllhorn; um ihn vier Jünglinge, welche die vier Jahreszeiten repräsentieren. Der Herbst: gebückt, nackt, Chlamys, die einen Teil der r. Schulter bedeckt, Früchtekorb in den Händen. Unten r. der Frühling: nackt, mit Blumenkorb. Oben r. der Winter: stehend, Mantel, der den Kopf bedeckt, Zweig in der r. Hand. Es fehlt der Sommer, der symmetrisch zum Winter angeordnet sein müßte.

49.* AE Medaillon, Alexander Severus und Iulia Mamaea (vor 235 n. Chr.). – Gnechi, Medagliani II 85, 12 Taf. 101, 10. – Der Kaiser hält den Zodiacus: l. → Felicitas und r. Victoria. Durch den Kreis laufen die vier Jahreszeiten, mit Attributen, die schwer zu identifizieren sind. TEMPORVM FELICITAS.

50. AE Medaillon, Gordian III. – Gnechi, Medagliani II 91, 38 Taf. 105, 7; Hanfmann II Nr. 438. – 238–244. – Wie 49.

51. (= Aeternitas 53*) AE Medaillon, Tacitus (275–276 n. Chr.). – Gnechi, Medagliani III 66, 12 Taf. 156, 14; Hanfmann II Nr. 439. – Wie 49. AETERNITAS AVG.

52. Vacat.

6. Kaiserliche Geschenke empfangend

53. AE Medaillon, Iulia Mamaea (vor 235 n. Chr.). – Gnechi, Medagliani III 43, 1 Taf. 153, 1; Hanfmann II Nr. 441; Toynbee, J. M. C., Roman Medallions (1944) 92–93. – Nach Hanfmann gießt der Kaiser, in sitzender Haltung, sein Füllhorn in Richtung der vier Jahreszeiten aus; zu seinen Seiten Iulia Mamaea mit Patera und Minerva mit Lanze. Toynbee hält die Figuren für → Abundantia, → Liberalitas und → Felicitas. Legende ABVNDANTIA TEMPORVM.

54.* AE Medaillon, Iulia Mamaea. – Gnechi, Medagliani II 83, 1 Taf. 100, 7. – Hanfmann II Nr. 442. – Wie 53.

55. AE Medaillon, Salonina (253–268 n. Chr.). – Gnechi, Medagliani II 110, 1–2 Taf. 115, 8; Hanfmann II Nr. 443. – Wie 53.

C. Ungeflügelte Eroten, reitend oder einen Wagen lenkend

56. (Zweifelhaft) (= Eros/Amor, Cupido 388* mit Lit.) Wandmalerei. Vatikan, Saal der Nozze Aldobrandine. Aus Rom, Grab in der Vigna dei Pupazzi, in der Nähe der Porta San Sebastiano. – Nogara, B., Le Nozze Aldobrandine (1907) 87–88 Taf. 53. – 2. Jh. n. Chr. – In einer Arena vier Bigen, die von vier flügellosen Amoretten gelenkt werden; die beiden oberen scheinen von Gazellen und Wildeseln gezogen zu werden, die unteren von Tigern und Pantheren. Jahreszeitliche Attribute fehlen.

57.* (= 193, = Horai/Horae 80) Polychromes Mosaik. St-Germain-en-Laye, Mus. Ant. Nat. Aus Saint-Romain-en-Gal. – Frühling, Sommer und Herbst sind männlich, der Winter weiblich. Die drei ersten sind nackt; der Frühling reitet einen Stier, er trägt einen Kranz aus Blumen, Chlamys über l. Schulter und Teil der l. Brust; in der l. Hand ein Gefäß mit Blumen und in der r. einen Stab. Der Sommer reitet einen Löwen, er hält Ähren in der r. Hand und Sichel in der l. Der Herbst, mit Chlamys über dem Rücken, reitet einen Panther und trägt einen Kranz aus Weinlaub; über der Schulter hält er einen Korb mit Weinlaub und Trauben.

58. Polychromes Mosaik. Trier. – Parlasca, K., Die röm. Mosaiken Deutschlands 41–42 Taf. 42, 47. – 1. Hälfte 3. Jh. n. Chr. – Signiert von Monnus. Darstellung von Dichtern, Musen und einem Kalender in Form männlicher Büsten; in den Winkeln die Jahreszeiten, den entsprechenden Monaten zugeordnet. Erhalten ist nur der Herbst, in Form eines ungeflügelten Eros, der einen Panther reitet, mit der Beischrift

AVTVMNVS vor dem Tier; er trug einen Kranz aus Weinlaub und eine Nebris über der Brust. Erhalten war auch ein Teil des Sommers.

59. Sarkophagdeckel, Marmor. Treviso, Mus. Civ. – Kranz Nr. 322 Taf. 93, 1–2. – Um 275 n. Chr. – Tafel ohne Inschrift im Zentrum. Auf beiden Seiten drei Bigen, die von nackten Erosen gelenkt werden, eine Chlamys über der Schulter oder vor der Brust geknotet. Die erste auf der l. Seite ist verloren. Der 2. Wagen wird von Hirschen gezogen, über einem mit Blumen gefüllten Korb; der Wagenlenker hält einen Korb mit Blumen und einen Zweig in den Händen. Der 3. Wagen wird von Ziegenböcken gezogen, über einem Korb; der Wagenlenker trägt ein Lagobolon und einen Korb. Der 4. Wagen wird von Pantheren gezogen, über einem Korb mit Ähren; der Wagenlenker trägt einen Korb mit Ähren und wahrscheinlich eine Sichel. Der 5. Wagen wird von Löwen gezogen, über einem Korb mit Früchten; der Wagenlenker mit einem Früchtekorb und Lagobolon. Der 6. Wagen wird von Pantheren gezogen, mit einem Blumenkorb und einem Zweig. Die Identifikation jedes einzelnen ist schwierig; der vierte zumindest entspricht mit Sicherheit dem Sommer.

60. Fr. eines Sarkophagdeckels, Marmor. Vatikan, Mus. Chiaramonti 2139. – Kranz Nr. 326 Taf. 91, 5. – Um 340 n. Chr. – Reste von zwei gegenüberstehenden Bigen. Der Winter in einem von Ebern gezogenen Wagen; der Wagenlenker trägt einen kurzen, ärmeligen Chiton und phrygische Mütze, in seiner Hand eine große Binse; darunter ein Korb.

D. Geflügelte Putti

1. Tanzend (in schneller Bewegung)

Wandmalerei

61. Gewölbe. Ostia, Mus. Ostiense 47 (10113). Aus Ostia, Nekropole der Isola Sacra, Grab Nr. 143. – Calza, a. O. 29, 376–377 Taf. 7. – Trajanisch-hadrianisch. – Im mittleren Medaillon Merkur. Der Sommer fehlt. Der Frühling, als nackter Jüngling, mit einem flatternden Tuch über dem r. Arm, hält in der r. Hand ein Tablett mit einem Napf, in der l. ein Pedum; auf dem Kopf einen Kranz aus Blättern. Der Winter mit Chiton, der den Kopf bedeckt; die Hände sind verborgen. Der Herbst, nackt mit Tuch wie der Frühling, trägt einen Kranz aus Weinblättern und in der Hand ein Gefäß mit Trauben.

Polychrome Mosaiken

62.* Antakya, Mus. Hatay 1018. Aus Antiochia, Haus des roten Pflasters, Raum 1. – Levi, Antioch 85–87 Taf. 13. – Antoninisch. – In den Winkeln eines Mosaiks mit mythologischen Szenen (Meleagros und Atalante [= Atalante 37*], Phaidra und Hippolytos [= Hippolytos I 48], Io und Argos [= Io I 109], Adonis [= Adonis 31*], Andromache und Astyanax [= ?]); der Frühling, nackt bis auf einen Mantel um seine l. Schulter; in seiner l. Hand ein Gefäß mit Milch oder Ricotta; die r. Hand hält ein Zicklein; auf dem Haupt ein Kranz aus Blättern und Früchten; eine ähn-liche Girlande über der Brust. Der Sommer: Mantel über l. Schulter und l. Arm; Ährenkranz, Ähren in der l. Hand und kleine Sichel in der r.; Stiefel. Der Herbst: kurzer Chiton, der die r. Schulter freiläßt, und flatternder Mantel über der l. Schulter; Kranz aus Blättern und Blüten auf dem Haupt, ein Messer mit gekrümmter Klinge in der r., ein Korb voller Trauben und Weinlaub in der l. Hand. Der Winter: Chiton und Mantel, der seinen Kopf bedeckt, ein Kantharos in der l. und ein nicht identifizierbares Objekt in der r. Hand; Stiefel.

63. Baltimore, Walters Art Gall. Aus Antiochia, House of the Drinking Contest, Gang 2b. – Levi, Antioch 161–163 Taf. 32. – Severisch. – Der Frühling: nackt bis auf Mantel über der r. Schulter, hält mit beiden Händen einen Teller mit Blumen; Blumenkranz. Der Sommer: Bauch und Teil des l. Beins von einem Mantel bedeckt; Sichel und Ährenbündel in den Händen. Der Herbst: kurzer Chiton mit Clavus, Mantel über der l. Schulter, über der Taille geknotet; auf der l. Schulter trägt er einen Korb mit Früchten, in der r. Hand ein kleines Messer mit krummer Klinge. Der Winter: Chiton und Mantel, der ihn verhüllt und den Kopf bedeckt und dessen Rand er mit der l. Hand festhält; Stiefel; vor ihm ein großer Napf mit runden Objekten, vielleicht Oliven.

64. (= Dionysos/Bacchus [in peripheria occ.] 68 mit Lit.) Paris, Louvre MA 4128. Aus Saint-Romain-en-Gal. – Lancha, RecMusGaule III 2, Nr. 367 Taf. 105–107. – 1. Viertel 3. Jh. n. Chr. – Im zentralen Medaillon Bacchus; um ihn herum Bilder mit stilisierten Blumen, Pantheren und vier Putti. Der Frühling: nackt, flatternder Mantel, Pedum in der r. und unbestimmtes Objekt in der l. Hand. Der Sommer: Mantel über der Taille, Korb in der l. und Pedum in der r. Hand. Der Herbst: flatternder Mantel, Gefäß mit Früchten in der l. Hand. Der Winter: ungeflügelt, kurzer Ärmelchiton, Mütze; er trägt eine Hacke auf der r. Schulter und ein nicht identifizierbares Objekt, vielleicht eine Ente, in der Hand. Ausgenommen für den Winter sind die Zuweisungen unsicher.

65. Pitney (Somerset), zerstört. – Smith 131 Nr. 91 Taf. 6, 27; Ling 13–14 pl. 2A. – 4. Jh. n. Chr. – Der Frühling: nackt bis auf ein flatterndes Tuch über der Taille; Schwalbe auf der r. Hand; auf der l. Schulter trägt er ein Pedum, von dem ein Eimer Milch herabhängt. Der Sommer: gleiche Kleidung, Sense oder Baumschere auf der Schulter; um ihn herum fünf Rosen. Der Herbst fehlt. Der Winter: zwei Stäbe in der r. und eine Hacke in der l. Hand. Ling interpretiert diese Figur, wenn auch mit Zweifeln, als Herbst.

66. Chedworth (Gloucestershire), in situ. – Smith 130 Nr. 85 Taf. 6, 8. 9; Toynbee J. M. C., Art in Roman Britain (1962) Nr. 187 Taf. 214–217. – 4. Jh. n. Chr. – Oktogon mit acht Feldern mit Satyrn und Mänaden; unter ihnen die Jahreszeiten. Der Frühling: nackt bis auf ein flatterndes Tuch um die Taille; ungeflügelt, in tanzendem Schritt; eine Schwalbe sitzt auf seiner r. Hand und mit der l. hält er einen Korb mit Blumen. Der Sommer: nackt, geflügelt, Blumenkranz in der r. und Blumenkorb in der l. Hand. Der Herbst: stark beschädigt, nackt, mit Ausnahme des gleichen

Tuchs wie die anderen, Korb in der l. Hand. Der Winter: Chiton und Mantel, der den Kopf bedeckt, Hosen; in der r. Hand hält er einen Hasen an den Hinterläufen, in der l. einen getrockneten Zweig.

67. (Zweifelhaft) (= Dionysos/Bacchus [in peripheria occ.] 131) Trier, Rhein. Landesmus. Aus Trier, Fausenbourg. – Binsfeld, W., TrierZ 31, 1968, 240 Taf. 2–4; Hellenkemper Salies, G., in III Coll. int. sul mosaico antico, Ravenna 1980 (1983) II 338. – 3. Viertel 3. Jh. n. Chr. – Bacchus und Ariadne im Zentraltondo; sie sind umgeben von geflügelten Erosen, einer mit einer Zimbel aus Bronze, ein anderer mit Thyrsos. Die übrigen sind stark beschädigt; einer scheint eine Rebe zu tragen.

Reliefs

68. (= 112 [Deckel], = 233, = Eros/Amor, Cupido 389* mit Lit.) Girlandensarkophag. New York, MMA 90. 12a, b. Von einem Grab der Straße von Vetralla nach Capranica. – Kranz Nr. 1 Taf. 1, 1; 2. – 120–130 n. Chr. – Auf der Hauptseite vier nackte Erosen, die eine üppige Girlande halten; die Erosen sind identifizierbar durch die Kränze, die sie auf dem Haupt tragen; von l. nach r.: der Frühling (Blumen), der Sommer (Ähren), der Herbst (Trauben), der Winter (Ölzweige); außerdem durch die Komponenten der Girlanden, die identisch mit den Kränzen der Erosen sind.

69. Girlandensarkophag. Rom, Pal. Barberini. – Kranz Nr. 2 Taf. 1, 2; 3. – Um 140 n. Chr. – Wie 68, aber die Erosen (die äußeren geflügelt) stellen einen Fuß auf ein jahreszeitliches Attribut: der Winter auf einen Hasen; er hält einen Kranz aus Olivenblättern und Oliven, einen Pinienzweig und Pinienzapfen; der Herbst auf einen Korb mit Trauben; sein Kranz besteht aus Efeublättern, Granatäpfeln, Weinlaub und Trauben; der Sommer auf einen Korb mit Ähren; in seinem Kranz sind Blüten und Ähren; der Frühling auf Blumen; sein Kranz besteht aus Blüten.

70.* Marmorsarkophag. Pisa, Camposanto monumentale. – Kranz Nr. 43 Taf. 24, 4; 25. – Um 200 n. Chr. – Ehepaar in Clipeus, darunter Masken. L. und r. vier Erosen; die zwei mittleren halten den Clipeus, die beiden anderen laufen nach außen. Der Frühling: Blumengirlande auf dem Kopf und eine weitere quer über der Brust, in der r. Hand Blumenkorb und in der l. wahrscheinlich eine andere Girlande; Chlamys über r. Schulter und Rücken; zu seinen Füßen Hase, der Trauben frisst. Der Sommer: Ähren auf dem Kopf; zwischen den Beinen ein Kalb. Der Herbst: Kranz aus Trauben und Weinlaub; zwischen den Beinen Panther. Beide sind mit einer Chlamys bekleidet, die über der r. Schulter geknotet ist und über den Rücken fällt. Der Winter: kurzer Chiton und Mantel, der den Kopf bedeckt, Hosen, Schuhe; Korb mit Zweigen, vielleicht des Ölbaums, in der l. Hand; zu seinen Füßen ein Eber. Das Attribut der r. Hand ist verloren.

71.* Marmorsarkophag. Ostia, Mus. Ostiense 126. Von der Isola Sacra. – Kranz Nr. 41 Taf. 26, 2. – Um 260 n. Chr. – Ehepaar in Clipeus, darunter Tellus. L. und r. vier Erosen; die beiden mittleren halten den Clipeus; die anderen bewegen sich nach außen. Der Frühling: Blumengirlande auf dem Kopf, über der Brust und in der l. Hand; in der r. Korb mit Blumen; Chlamys über r. Schulter und Rücken; zu seinen Füßen Blumenkorb und Vogel, zwischen den Beinen Zicklein. Der Sommer: Ährenbündel in der Hand, zu seinen Füßen Pfau und Ähren; Chlamys, die über der r. Schulter geknotet ist und über den Rücken fällt. Der Herbst: Korb voll Trauben und Weinlaub in der l. Hand, zu seinen Füßen ein Korb und ein Widder; Nebris quer über der Brust und Chlamys über der l. Schulter. Der Winter, sehr stark beschädigt: kurzer Ärmelchiton und Hosen; zwei Enten in der r. Hand, Binse und Eber zu seinen Füßen.

72.* (= 240) Marmorsarkophag. Buffalo (New York), Albright-Knox Art Gall. 38. 1. – Kranz Nr. 31 Taf. 22, 1; 23. – Um 180 n. Chr. – Clipeus mit dem Porträt der Verstorbenen; darunter Ge und vier Putti. Vier geflügelte Putti (alle mit Nebris über der Brust) mit je vier Kratern als Symbol für die Jahreszeiten alternierend. Der Winter: phrygische Mütze, Chiton; in seinen Händen Binse und zwei Enten, zu seinen Füßen große Binse. Der Frühling: Blumen im Haar und Blütenzweig in der r. Hand. Der Sommer: Ähren im Haar, Sichel in der Hand. Der Herbst: Trauben und Weinblätter im Haar, auf der r. Schulter trägt er einen Korb, in der l. Hand eine Traube. Am Fuß des entsprechenden Kraters sind Trauben.

73.* Marmorsarkophag. Agrigent, Mus. der Kathedrale. – Kranz Nr. 27 Taf. 39, 2. – Löwensarkophag. Der zentrale Clipeus über einer Szene, in der Girlanden bereitet werden. Die beiden äußeren Erosen tragen einen mit Früchten gefüllten Korb und einen Thyrsos in Händen, zwischen ihren Beinen ein kleiner Eros; sie könnten den Herbst bezeichnen. Diejenigen, welche den Clipeus halten, sind hier der Frühling (mit Blumenkorb) und der Sommer (mit Korb voll Ähren). Alle vier tragen Chlamys, die einen Teil der Brust bedeckt und über den Rücken fällt.

74. Marmorsarkophag. Leningrad, Ermitage A 1126. – Kranz Nr. 38 Taf. 38, 4. – Ende 3. Jh. n. Chr. – Clipeus mit der Verstorbenen über gekreuzten Füllhörnern, gehalten von zwei geflügelten Erosen. Der Herbst: Chiton und Mantel, Thyrsos und Hase in den Händen; zu seinen Füßen ein Widder. Am anderen Ende der Winter: Chiton und Mantel, in den Händen Lagobolon und zwei Enten, zu seinen Füßen ein Eber, als Zicklein restauriert. Die zwei Erosen dazwischen, die den Clipeus halten, ohne besondere Attribute; zu ihren Füßen Panther und Widder.

75.* (= Eros/Amor, Cupido 214 mit Lit.) Marmorsarkophag. Rom, Mus. Naz. Rom. 128086. Aus Ostia. – Kranz Nr. 46 Taf. 38, 2. – Anfang 4. Jh. n. Chr. – Clipeus über Vögeln, gehalten von zwei geflügelten Erosen. Der Winter: Chlamys, die einen Teil der Brust bedeckt und über den Rücken fällt; in einer Hand Binse, in der anderen zwei Enten. Der Herbst: mit Pedum und einem Hasen, den er an den Hinterläufen hält. Vor ihnen Körbe mit Früchten.

76. Steinrelief. Narbonne, Mus. Lapidaire. Aus Narbonne. – Espérandieu, Recueil I Nr. 639. – 3. Jh. n. Chr. (?) – Die Reliefs stammen wahrscheinlich aus einem Grab; die geflügelten Erosen tragen Girlanden, Pflanzen und Tiere; das Übermaß an Ornamenten und Pflanzen ermöglicht jedoch keine genaue Identifikation der Jahreszeiten. Einer trägt einen Kranz aus Efeublättern, Halskette aus Akanthusblättern und in den Händen Pinienzapfen, Trauben und Blumengirlande; vor ihm ein riesiger Hase; er könnte als Symbol für den Winter oder den Herbst stehen. Ein anderer, ebenfalls bekleidet, trägt einen Ährenkranz und Objekte, die schwierig zu identifizieren sind, in Händen; es könnte sich um den Sommer handeln. Ein dritter, mit Kranz aus Blumen und Akanthusblättern, Blumen vor der Brust und, vor sich, eine Rebe und einen Vogel, ist vielleicht der Frühling. Ein vierter, nackt, scheint einen Pinienzweig zu tragen; hinter ihm ein Hund.

77. Riefelsarkophag. Marmor. Ehem. Rom, Kunsthandel. – Kranz Nr. 142 Taf. 66, 1. – Um 160 n. Chr. – In den Seitenfeldern je ein Eros in Chlamys, den Fuß auf einen Felsen gestützt, unter dem ein Hase hockt. In einer Falte der Chlamys halten sie Ähren (Sommer) und Trauben (Herbst) vor der Brust.

78. Marmorsarkophag. S. Stefano, Pieve (bei Lucca). – Kranz Nr. 145 Taf. 66, 3. – Um 250 n. Chr. – Wie 77. Die Erosen haben entweder Früchte (Herbst) oder Ähren (Sommer).

79.* Marmorsarkophag. Amalfi, Kathedrale. – Kranz Nr. 141 Taf. 66, 2. – 1. Viertel 3. Jh. n. Chr. – Wie 77, aber beide Erosen tragen Früchte in der Falte ihrer Chlamys und eine Rebe in der Hand. Beide sind deshalb Darstellungen des Herbstes.

80. (= Charis, Charites/Gratae 26* mit Lit.) Riefelsarkophag. Marmor. Ehem. Haver Castle. – Kranz Nr. 146 Taf. 67, 2. – Im Mittelfeld die drei Grazien; in den Seitenfeldern jeweils Erosen mit Chlamys und einem Früchtekorb auf der Schulter.

81. (= 214, = Horai/Horae 86*) Silbersitula. London. Aus Vienne. – Geflügelte Putti mit Attributen der Jahreszeiten, die mit sitzenden Horae abwechseln.

2. Erosen und Psychen

82. (= Eros/Amor, Cupido 568* mit Lit.) Marmorsarkophag. Rom, Pal. Cons. 1212. – Kranz Nr. 128 Taf. 64. – Zwei Erosen und zwei Psychen symbolisieren die Jahreszeiten; die Erosen sind nackt (der Frühling mit Chlamys über l. Schulter und Arm), die Psychen in einem langen Chiton, der die r. Schulter freiläßt. Der Winter: Psyche mit Kranz aus Ölzweigen, in einer Hand Zweig, in der anderen zwei Enten; zu ihren Füßen Rebe, der nach Trauben pickt. Der Frühling: ein Eros mit Blütenkranz, Korb mit Blumen in einer Hand und zwei Girlanden in der anderen; zu seinen Füßen Hase und Hahn, Blumen fressend. Der Sommer: Psyche mit Ährenkranz, Ährenbündel und Sichel; zu ihren Füßen Ziege. Der Herbst: ein Eros mit Kranz aus Trauben und Weinblättern, in der Hand Rebranke; zu seinen Füßen ein Trauben fressender Hase und ein Korb mit Trauben.

3. In Bewegung, aber nicht tanzend

83. (= 172) Deckengemälde eines Grabes. Anamur (Türkei), Grab BI 16. – Rosenbaum, E., Belleten

29, 1965, 42–44 Taf. 18–20; Alföldi-Rosenbaum, E., Anamur Nekropolü (1971) 112 Taf. 27 Farbtaf. 4. – Severisch. – Im Hauptgewölbe sind zwei Zyklen abgebildet: männliche Büsten, eingerahmt von Lorbeerkränzen, von welchen nur der Winter erhalten ist (Bart, Kopf bedeckt, Beischrift XEIMON), und Kästchen mit geflügelten Putti; von diesen ist nur der Herbst erhalten (kurzer Chiton, in der Hand Baummesser, an seiner Seite hoher Korb).

84. Wandmalerei. Herculaneum, Casa del Gran Portale. – Stuveras, R., Le putto dans l'art romain (1969) 219 Abb. 41. – 3. Viertel 1. Jh. n. Chr. – Der Frühling: zwei nackte Putti sammeln Rosen; einer trägt einen Köcher, der andere ein Gefäß; zwischen beiden großes Gefäß mit Rosen.

85. (= 205, = 225, = Eros/Amor, Cupido 564 mit Lit. und Querverweisen) Polychromes Mosaik. New York, UN Secretariat Building. Aus Ammaedara (Haidra, Tunesien). – Parrish Nr. 44 Taf. 59b–61a. – Ende 3. oder Anfang 4. Jh. n. Chr. – Aion im Zodiacus; um ihn herum Ranken, die von den Winkeln ausgehen und sich über die gesamte Oberfläche verbreiten; in jeder Ecke ein Eros; die Ranken um ihn entsprechen den Pflanzen der Jahreszeiten. Der Herbst: nackt, Nebris, über der l. Schulter geknotet und die r. Brust bedeckend; hält eine Rebe und klammert sich an den Stiel der Pflanze; um ihn Reben und zwei Wasservögel. Der Sommer: nackt, Halskette und Armband, in den Händen Sichel und Ähren; um ihn Ähren und Fasane. Der Frühling: nackt, mit Halskette und Armband aus Rosen; in den Händen Rosenkorb und Rose; um ihn Rosen und Truthähne. Der Winter: Chiton mit Clavis und Mantel, der das Haupt bedeckt; Stiefel; hält zwei Enten und Hacke; um ihn Ölzweige und Enten. Es handelt sich hier also um einen dreifachen Zyklus: Erosen, Tiere und Pflanzen.

86. (= Horai/Horae 182) Polychromes Mosaik. – Doppelter Zyklus: Putti und weibliche Büsten.

Reliefs

87.* Marmoraltar. Würzburg, Wagner-Mus. H. 5056. – Aus Rom, Piazza Sallustia. – Simon, Führer-Würzb 251–252; eadem, Der Vier-Jahreszeiten-Altar in Würzburg (1967); Toynbee, a. O. 3, 217 Taf. 50; Lorenz, Th., API XIX (1988) 49–57 Taf. 34–43. – Zeit des Claudius (Simon). – Vier Relieffiguren um den Altar, getrennt durch Kandelaber. Der Frühling: nackt, Mantel über l. Unterarm, in der l. Hand Teller mit Blumen, in der anderen Girlande. Der Sommer: wie der Frühling, aber etwas stärker im Profil, in einer Hand einen Zweig Schlafmohn, in der anderen Sichel. Der Herbst: Tierfell über l. Schulter, Teil der Brust und des Bauches; seine l. Hand ist auf einen großen Korb mit Trauben gestützt, mit der r. hält er ein Pedum in der Art eines Stockes. Der Winter: kurzer Chiton, der die l. Schulter freiläßt; hält über der r. Schulter eine Amphore; im l. Arm eine Ente (?).

88. Viereckiger Block, allgemein als Altar identifiziert. Parma, Mus. Naz. Aus Parma. – Lorenz, T., Thiasos (1978) 113–134 Taf. 35–37; Frova, A./Scarani, R., Parma. Mus. Naz. di Antichità (1965) 154, 5 Taf. 92, 2. – Severisch. – Lorenz nimmt an, es handle sich um die

Basis einer Säule von einem Bogen des Typs der Argentarii, und, daß sie mit einer zweiten korrespondierenden würde. Der Winter: auf einem Sockel beträchtlicher Höhe, kurzer Chiton, der die l. Schulter feiläßt; in der l. Hand Ferkel, Objekt in der r. abgebrochen (wahrscheinlich Amphore oder ähnliches Gefäß); er ist dem Winter auf 87 sehr ähnlich. Der Frühling: auf einem niedrigeren Sockel, scheint nackt zu sein; in der l. Hand lebendes Zicklein. Lorenz vermutet, daß der Winter ein Porträt des Caracalla ist und daß auf der verlorenen anderen Basis das entsprechende Porträt des Geta war.

89. (= 189, = 200, = Horai/Horae 92*) Sarkophagdeckel. Vatikan, Cortile Ottogono des Belvedere Inv. 941. – 140–150 n. Chr. – Sieben Erosen zwischen gelagerten Horae, mit einigen besonderen Zügen. Der Herbst: mit Trauben. Der Sommer: einer mit Ähren, ein anderer Ähren schneidend. Der Frühling: einer hält einen Korb mit Blumen, ein anderer schickt sich an, einen weiteren Korb zu bringen. Der Winter: zwei Putti mit kurzem Chiton und Hosen; einer trägt ein Zicklein auf den Schultern, der andere packt einen Hasen an den Ohren.

90.* (= Horai/Horae 88) Sarkophagdeckel. Rom, Mus. Naz. Rom. 121657. – Um 160 n. Chr. – Erosen im Profil zwischen zurückgelehnten Horae. Nackt, mit Ausnahme des Winters. Der Frühling: mit Blumenkorb. Der Sommer: mit Korb voll Ähren und großer Ähre in der anderen Hand. Der Herbst: mit Korb voller Trauben und Rebe in der Hand. Der Winter: kurzer Chiton; in den Händen Ente und Hase.

91. (= Horai/Horae 93*) Sarkophagdeckel. – Um 160 n. Chr. – Ähnlich 90, aber in weniger starker Bewegung, alle nackt. Der Winter: mit Binsen. Der Frühling: mit einem Blumenkorb. Der Herbst: mit Trauben. Der Sommer: mit Ähren.

92. (= Horai/Horae 90*) Sarkophagdeckel. – Um 175 n. Chr. – Wie 91, aber die Erosen fliegen; alle sind nackt. Sie bieten Körbe mit Trauben (Herbst), Ähren (Sommer), Blumengirlanden (Frühling) und Ölzeige (Winter) an.

93. (= Horai/Horae 89*) Sarkophagdeckel. – 190–200 n. Chr. – Erosen zwischen gelagerten Horae, die Erosen frontal. Der Winter: kurzer Chiton, Hosen und Stiefel; in den Händen Hase und Ente. Der Herbst oder der Frühling: Mantel, der über den Rücken fällt, eine Hand auf dem Kopf, in der anderen Korb, dessen Inhalt nicht genau zu erkennen ist, es muß sich aber um Blumen oder Früchte handeln. Der Frühling oder der Herbst: ähnlich, aber vollkommen nackt, mit Blumen im Korb. Der Sommer mit Ähren.

94.* Marmorsarkophag. Rom, Pal. Alttemp. – Kranz Nr. 49 Taf. 24, 1–3. – Um 150 n. Chr. – Zwei geflügelte Erosen halten einen Clipeus mit Inschrift; beidseits die vier Jahreszeiten. Der Frühling: Chlamys, die über der r. Schulter geknotet ist, den l. Teil der Brust bedeckt und über den Rücken fällt; Blumen in einer Falte der Chlamys und ein weiteres Attribut, das fehlt. Der Sommer: ähnlich gekleidet, Sichel in der r. Hand, in der l. ein Attribut, vielleicht Ähren. Der Herbst: ähnliche Gewandung, Trauben in der r. Hand. Der Winter: Chiton, Mantel, Hosen, Attribut verloren. Es scheint, daß Herbst und Winter ebenfalls Attribute in den Falten ihrer Kleidung trugen.

95.* (= Gorgones Romanae 65, = Eros/Amor, Cupido 567 mit Lit.) Marmorsarkophag. Rom, S. Lorenzo in Panisperna. – Kranz Nr. 19 Taf. 4, 1; 6, 1–2. – Um 170 n. Chr. – Säulensarkophag. In der Zentralnische die Grabtüre, in den Interkolumnien die Jahreszeiten. Frühling, Sommer und Herbst tragen Chlamys in ähnlicher Weise wie auf 94. Der Frühling: Blumen im Haar und in einer Falte des Gewandes. Der Sommer: Ährenkranz, in einer Hand ein Ährenbündel, in der anderen Reste eines Attributs, möglicherweise Sichel. Der Herbst: Kranz aus Trauben, Trauben in der einen Hand; das andere Attribut fehlt. Der Winter: kurzer Chiton, Mantel, Hosen, Stiefel, Kranz aus Binsen, Binse in der einen Hand; vor der Brust, in einer Falte der Chlamys, hält er einen Hasen.

96. Marmorsarkophag. Zürich, Rehalp-Friedhof. – Kranz Nr. 26 Taf. 4, 2; 7. – Um 170 n. Chr. – Säulensarkophag, Porträt der Verstorbenen in der Zentralnische. In den übrigen Interkolumnien die Jahreszeiten, in sehr ruhiger Bewegung und in Frontansicht. Der Frühling: in der r. Hand Girlande und mit Früchten gefüllter Korb. Der Sommer: Ähren und Sichel. Der Herbst: Chlamys um den Hals, die über den Rücken fällt; trägt Rebe und Baummesser. Der Winter: kurzer Chiton und Mantel, der den Kopf bedeckt, Hosen, Stiefel; in den Händen Binse und tote Ente.

97. (= Charis, Charites/Gratae 38* mit Lit.) Marmorsarkophag. Tivoli, Casale Marco Simone. – Kranz Nr. 4 Taf. 4, 3; 8. – Anfang 3. Jh. n. Chr. – Säulensarkophag, ähnlich 96. In der Zentralnische die drei Grazien. Der Frühling: mit Korb gefüllt mit Blumengirlanden. Der Sommer: mit Ähren. Der Herbst: Chlamys, die über den Rücken fällt; mit der l. Hand hält er in einer Falte eine Reihe von Früchten. Der Winter: kurzer Chiton, Hosen und Stiefel; auf den Schultern Zicklein, in der l. Hand Ente; zu seinen Füßen Pedum.

98. Marmorsarkophag. Pisa, S. Pierino. – Kranz Nr. 12 Taf. 5, 3; 12. – Ende 3. Jh. n. Chr. – Säulensarkophag, ähnlich 97. In der Zentralnische dextrarum iunctio. Der Frühling: mit Blume und Korb mit Blüten. Der Sommer: mit Sichel und Ähren. Der Herbst: mit Trauben und Korb mit Trauben. Der Winter: kurzer Chiton, Kopf bedeckt, l. Arm gebeugt, in der l. Hand, die aus dem Überschlager des Umhangs herausragt, Ente. Die ersten drei Jahreszeiten tragen Chlamys, die über der r. Schulter geknotet ist und über den Rücken fällt.

99. Silberteller. Paris, Louvre. Von Notre-Dame-d'Alençon (bei Brissac, Maine-et-Loire). – Reinach, RépRel I 197, 4–5; Hanfmann II Nr. 322. – Wahrscheinlich neben einer Abbildung des Caracalla gefunden. – Eros, nackt, Pedum in der r. Hand, an seinen Seiten Korb mit Blumen und ein weiterer Korb, aus dem eine Schlange kriecht. Ein anderer Teller zeigt einen nackten Eros mit Gefäß in der r. und Pflanzen in der l. Hand. Möglicherweise sind es Darstellungen von Frühling und Herbst.

100.* Grabtür aus Marmor. Ostia, Mus. Ostiense – Calza, NotSc 1916, 141 Abb. 1; Toynbee, a. O. 3, 218. – Ende 2. oder Anfang 3. Jh. n. Chr. – Vier Felder mit Darstellung der Jahreszeiten, zu je zweien angeordnet. Der Winter: Mantel, der den Kopf bedeckt, Stab über der l. Schulter, an welchem die Beute hängt. Der Frühling: nackt bis auf einen kleinen Umhang mit einer Ausbuchtung vor der Brust, um Blumen zu halten. Der Sommer: nackt, kleiner Mantel, der um die Hüften geknotet ist, Hut, in der r. Hand Sichel und in der l. Ährenbündel; an seiner Seite Korb mit Ähren. Der Herbst: nackt, Früchtekorb in der r. und Zicklein in der l. Hand, das er an den Vorderbeinen hält.

101. (= 161) Marmorsarkophag. Rom, Pal. Cons. 1185. – Stuart Jones, SculptPalCons 49 Nr. 4 Taf. 17; Kranz Nr. 16 Taf. 15, 1. – Um 250 n. Chr. – Jahreszeite nsarkophag, im Zentrum die halboffene Tür des Grabs. Jeder Flügel unterteilt in zwei große und drei kleinere Felder. In den großen je ein Jahreszeiten-Genius, geflügelt wie Eros. Der Sommer: Mantel über der l. Schulter; in der l. Hand Ährenbündel, in der r. ehemals Sichel. Der Herbst: hinter dem Rücken flatternder Mantel, sammelt Trauben in einen Korb. Der Frühling: zwei Blumenkörbe über der r. Schulter. Der Winter: frontal, Kopf nach hinten gewendet, in der l. Hand Bündel aus Binsen, in der r. zwei Enten mit hängenden Köpfen.

102. Marmorsarkophag. Vatikan, Cortile del Belvedere 60. – Amelung, SkulptVatMus 153 Nr. 60 Taf. 17. – Ähnlich 101.

103. Marmorrelief, fr. Maria Saal (BH Klagenfurt), eingelassen in der Südfassade der Kirche. Aus Zollfeld-Virunum. – Piccottini, G., CSIR Österr. II 4, Nr. 355 Taf. 23. – 2. Jh. n. Chr. – Erhalten der obere Teil des Winters: geflügelter Eros, in Mantel gehüllt, der den Kopf bedeckt und dessen Saum er mit der l. Hand festhält.

Freiplastik

104.* Marmorstatuette. Ostia, Mus. Ostiense. Aus Ostia. – Calza, a. O. 29, 229 Abb. 128. – Der Winter: ein Eros, in Mantel gehüllt, der Flügel und Kopf bedeckt. Die r. Hand vor der Brust ist unter dem Mantel verborgen; in der l. Hand Ente.

105. Bronzestatue. Ehem. Kunsthandel. – Vente Sarti, 5. Mai 1906; Reinach, RépStat IV 264, 6; Hanfmann II Nr. 286. – Der Herbst: ein Eros mit Früchtekorb im r. Arm.

106. Bronzestatue. Neapel, Mus. Naz. 6536. Aus Herculaneum. – Reinach, RépStat II 2, 463, 4; Hanfmann II Nr. 273. – Vielleicht der Herbst: nackter Eros mit Rebe in der r. und einem Hasen unter dem l. Arm.

107. Bronzestatue. La Chausse. – Reinach, RépStat II 2, 463, 5 («suspect»). – Nackter Eros, der mit der r. Hand einen Hasen an den Hinterläufen hält.

4. Bewegungslos

108. Marmorrelief. Rom, Bogen des Septimius Severus. – Hanfmann II Nr. 311 Taf. 21–24. – Anfang 3. Jh. n. Chr. – In den Bogenwickeln: Der Winter, stark beschädigt: in Chiton und Mantel gehüllt, Schuhe. Der Herbst: nackt, mit Fibel über der r. Schulter befestigte Chlamys, die über den Rücken fällt und die l. Brust bedeckt; im r. Arm Rebe, im l. Gefäß, viel-leicht mit Trauben. Der Frühling: nackt, Chlamys, die über den Rücken fällt und die Oberschenkel bedeckt; in der l. Hand Blumenkörbchen und Blumenkranz. Der Sommer: nackt, Mantel über der l. Schulter und um die Taille geknotet; Ährenkranz; in der r. Hand Sichel, in der l. Korb mit Blumen und Ähren.

109. Bronzestatue. Verona, Mus. Arch. A4, 887. Aus dem Adige. – Franzoni, L., Bronzetti romani del Mus. Arch. di Verona (1973) Nr. 94 (Attis-Eros). – Ende 2. Jh. n. Chr.? (Franzoni) – Nackt, phrygische Mütze, Gurt quer über der Brust, in der r. Hand Hase, in der l. Pedum.

ZWEIFELHAFT

110. Marmorskulptur. Neapel, Mus. Naz. 6338. – Reinach, RépStat I 379, 2; Hanfmann II Nr. 284. – Der Herbst: nackt, Füllhorn mit Früchten in der l., Rebe in der r. Hand.

5. Geflügelte Putti, reitend oder Wagen lenkend

111.* Polychromes Mosaik. Sfax, Mus. M 16. Von Thana. – Parrish Nr. 61 Taf. 83–84a. – 2. Hälfte 3. Jh. n. Chr. – In den Ecken vier Medaillons, die von üppigen Girlanden geformt werden. In jedem geflügelte Erosen, die auf Pferden reiten und die Jahreszeiten repräsentieren. Der Herbst: nackt, Halskette und Armband, hält Korb mit Trauben. Der Winter: Chiton und Mantel über dem Kopf, auf der Schulter Hacke. Der Sommer: erhalten nur Teil eines Flügels und das Ende der Ähren, die er in seiner Hand trug. Der Frühling: trägt Blumen in einem Korb; Halskette.

Reliefs

112. (= 68, = Eros/Amor, Cupido 389* mit Lit.) Deckel eines Girlandensarkophags, Vorderseite. – 120–130 n. Chr. – Geflügelte Erosen in Wagen, die von verschiedenen Tieren, der Jahreszeit entsprechend, gezogen werden. Alle Erosen nackt, in der l. Hand halten sie die Zügel, in der r. eine kleine Peitsche. Die Tiere von l. nach r.: Bären (Frühling), Löwen (Sommer), Stiere (Herbst) und Eber (Winter); zwischen ihnen Pflanzen. Über den Löwen eine Bananestaude, über den Bären ein Birnbaum, über den Stieren ein Apfelbaum, über den Ebern ein Olivenbaum. Vor den Löwen, Stieren und Ebern befinden sich Pflanzen, vor den Bären Ähren. An jedem Ende, in Erinnerung an die Circusarena, eine meta.

113. Deckel eines Marmorsarkophags. Verloren, ehem. Pal. Corsini. – Codex Coburgensis, Blatt 198; Kranz Nr. 321 Taf. 91, 1. – Um 180 n. Chr. – Der Frühling (verloren), in einem Wagen, der von Stieren gezogen wird; darunter Blumen. Der Sommer: nackt, Tierfell um den l. Arm gewickelt, Ährenkranz (?) und in der Hand zwei Ähren; unter den Löwen Ähren. Der Herbst: Nebris über Brust und Bauch und über der l. Schulter befestigt; trägt Rebe und Weinranke in Händen; sein Wagen wird von Pantheren gezogen; unter diesen Krug mit Trauben. Der Winter: kurzer Chiton, Kopf bedeckt, hält zwei Enten in der r. und Binse in der l. Hand; sein Wagen von Ebern gezogen, hinter denen sich weitere Binsen befinden.

114.* Deckel eines Marmorsarkophags. Vatikan, Mus. Chiaramonti 1607. – Kranz Nr. 324 Taf. 92, 1–2. – Um 270 n. Chr. – Putti in Wagen; der Frühling: in einem von Stieren gezogenen Wagen; nackt, Chlamys um den Hals und über dem l. Arm; mit der r. Hand hält er die Zügel, mit der l. einen Blumenkorb. Der Sommer: symmetrisch dem Vorhergehenden und identisch, in einem von Ziegenböcken gezogenen Wagen und mit einem Korb mit Ähren. Der Herbst: in einem von Pantheren gezogenen Wagen, mit Früchten in einem Korb. Der Winter: in einem von Ebern gezogenen Wagen, mit einem Korb, der ebenfalls Früchte zu enthalten scheint.

115. Deckel eines Marmorsarkophags. Rom, Katakombe von S. Croce. – Kranz Nr. 319 Taf. 91, 2. – Gallienisch. – Beidseits einer Tafel je ein Paar sich gegenüberstehender Bigen, die erste auf der l. Seite (Winter) ist verloren; von der zweiten ist nur der hintere Teil der Löwen und der Wagenlenker erhalten, der quer über der Brust einen kurzen Chiton trägt, Zweig in der Hand. Darunter Korb mit Blumen (Frühling). Auf der anderen Seite, über einer Ährengarbe, eine Löwenbiga; der geflügelte Wagenlenker trägt eine Sichel (Sommer). Der letzte Wagen wird von zwei Ziegenböcken gezogen, darunter Korb mit Früchten und Lagobolon; der Wagenlenker trägt einen Korb mit Blumen (Herbst). Die letzten beiden Wagenlenker sind nackt bis auf eine Chlamys über dem Rücken.

E. Ungeflügelte Genien

1. Tanzend oder in schneller Bewegung

Wandmalerei

116. Ostia, Caupona del Pavone. Ambiente IX, Wand c. – Gasparri, C., Le pitture della Caupona del Pavone (1971) 25 Taf. 10, 1. – Anfang 3. Jh. n. Chr. – In einem der Seitenfelder der Wand tanzende nackte männliche Figur, die mit der l. Hand den Mantel und mit der r. einen Hasen oder ein Zicklein an den Hinterläufen hält: wahrscheinlich der Frühling. Die Figuren der restlichen Felder scheinen den Zyklus der Jahreszeiten nicht fortzusetzen.

117. Zerstört. Ostia, Mus. Ostiense 28 (10041). Aus Ostia, Nekropole der Isola Sacra, Grab 55. – Calza, a. O. 29, 137. 335 Abb. 65. – Mitte 2. Jh. n. Chr. – In dem Gewölbe waren Büsten der vier Jahreszeiten. Auf der einen Wand tanzende männliche Figur, Chlamys über der l. Schulter, Pedom in der l. und Teller mit Früchten in der r. Hand. Sie könnte dem Herbst entsprechen, wenn auch hier dem gesamten Zyklus nicht gefolgt wird.

Polychrome Mosaiken

118. Tivoli, Villa des Hadrian. – Ashby, BSR 7, 1914, Nr. 2 Taf. 15, 2. – 118–138 n. Chr. – In den Winkeln eines Gewölbes, den Diagonalen folgend, vier männliche Figuren auf Medaillons. Der Winter: Chiton mit Gürtel, hält mit der l. Hand einen Kranz über den Kopf, in der r. einen Teller. Der Herbst: nackt, Chlamys über der l. Schulter, Pedom in der l.

Hand, mit der r. hebt er einen Teller mit Früchten über den Kopf. Der Frühling: wie der Herbst, aber mit Kranz in der l. und leerem Napf in der r. Hand. Der Sommer: nackt, Tuch um die Taille, pflanzliche Objekte in der l. Hand.

119. (= Horai/Horae 184) Volubilis, Haus des Dionysos und der Vier Jahreszeiten, in situ. – Parrish Nr. 66 Taf. 87–90. – 217–235 n. Chr. – Zyklus weiblicher Büsten abwechselnd mit ganzen männlichen Figuren. Letztere sind nackt, tragen lediglich hinter den Köpfen aufgeblähte Umhänge. Der Winter: frontal, mit langsamerem Schritt als die übrigen, hält den Mantel in Händen, in der r. Hand zwei Enten. Der Frühling hält eine Rose, der Sommer Ähren, der Herbst Reben, jeweils in der r. Hand.

Reliefs

120. Aschenurne des Vindonius, Stein. Sempeter, Mus. 33 und 52. – Klemenč, J./Kolsec, V./Petru, P., Anticne Grobnice v Šempetru (1972) 37–39 Taf. 78a. – 1. Jh. n. Chr. – Zwei Relieffelder mit je einer Figur; im einen ein Jüngling im kurzen Chiton mit Gürtel, einen großen Hasen über dem Kopf tragend. Im anderen ein nackter Jüngling, der auf einen Schemel steigt, das l. Bein bereits darauf gestützt; er trägt ein Pedom auf der r. Schulter, an dem ein Korb mit Früchten (?) hängt; in der anderen Hand zwei tote Tiere, möglicherweise Vögel.

121. (= Horai/Horae 51) Relief aus Rom, Palatin. – Überreste eines Genius.

2. In Bewegung, aber nicht tanzend

122. (= Horai/Horae 49) Bichromes Mosaik mit polychromem Emblem. Sagunto, Arch. Mus. Aus Sagunto. – Männliche Darstellungen des Frühlings, Sommers und Herbstes; alle sind nackt, tragen ein Pedom in der r. Hand und um den l. Arm ist eine Chlamys gewickelt; in der l. Hand trägt der erste ein unbestimmbares Objekt, der zweite ein Tablett, der dritte einen Früchtekorb. Der erste trägt auch einen Kranz aus Blättern und scheint daher dem Frühling zu entsprechen, während der letzte der Herbst wäre; dagegen weist der zweite kein Attribut auf, das eine Identifizierung mit dem Sommer zuläßt.

123.* Polychromes Mosaik. Sousse, Arch. Mus. Aus Thysdrus. – Parrish Nr. 29 Taf. 42. – Um 225 n. Chr. – Darstellung der Jahreszeiten, Monate und stilisierter Pflanzenmotive. Der Frühling: Jüngling mit kurzem Ärmelchiton und Blumenkranz; Zicklein über den Schultern. Der Sommer: kurzer Ärmelchiton, der die r. Schulter freiläßt; Ährenbündel in der l. und erhobene Sichel in der r. Hand; Kranz aus Ähren. Der Herbst: Ärmelchiton, aber mit Clavus geschmückt, Kranz aus Trauben, Pedom in der l. Hand, in der r. ein Rhyton. Der Winter: kurzer Chiton und Mantel, der den Kopf bedeckt, in der r. Hand Hase, in der l. Schilfrohr, an dem zwei Enten hängen.

124. Marmorrelief. St. Veil an der Glan. Eingelassen in der Kirche. – Piccottini, G., CSIR Österr. II 4 Nr. 329 Taf. 16. – Mitte 2. Jh. n. Chr. – Verkleidungsplatte vom Sockel einer Grabaedicula, l. und r. Eckpilaster mit Reliefs: l. nackter Jüngling, mit gewende-tem Kopf, Weinranke in der l. Hand, über der r. Schulter Pedom, an dem ein Korb hängt. R. ein ähnlicher Jüngling, mit gewendetem Kopf, in der r. Hand Sichel, über der l. Schulter Pedom. Es sind Frühling und Sommer, oder Herbst und Sommer. Zwei weitere ähnliche Figuren können auf der gegenüberliegenden Seite angenommen werden.

125. Relief des Grabmonuments der Prisciani, Sempeter, in situ. – Klemenč et al., a. O. 120, 78–81 Abb. S. 35. 50. 55. 67; Kranz, BonnJb 186, 1986, 232–235 Abb. 6–9. – 170–180 n. Chr. – Grabmonument in Form einer Aedicula; die seitlichen Wandpfeiler sind auf den Schmalseiten mit Figuren der Jahreszeiten verziert, die nur einen Teil der verschwenderischen Reliefdekoration des Monuments darstellen. Der Frühling: fast frontal, nackt, Chlamys über den Schultern, die über der Brust geknotet ist und über den Rücken fällt; in der r. Hand ein Objekt, in der l. Hand hält er ein Zicklein an den Vorderbeinen. Der Sommer: im Tanzschritt, um die Taille geknotetes Pantherfell, Ährenkranz, über der r. Schulter Korb mit Ähren, in der r. Hand Sichel. Der Herbst: ähnlich dem Sommer, aber nackt, um den l. Arm ein Pantherfell gewickelt; in den Händen ein kleines Baummesser und Korb mit Früchten, auf dem Kopf Kranz aus Weinlaub. Der Winter: vor der Brust geknotetes Tierfell, Kopf bedeckt und gewendet; in der l. Hand Stab, an dem zwei Enten hängen, in der r. Hand Hase.

126. (= Hades/Pluto 16 mit Lit., = Demeter/Ceres 133 mit Lit., = Horai/Horae 69b) Marmorsarkophag. Aachen, Münster G3. – SarkRel III 3, Nr. 378 Taf. 122 Abb. 378b. – Um 225 n. Chr. – Raub der Prosperina. Auf der einen Schmalseite drei männliche Jahreszeiten. Der Frühling: in der Mitte, Kopf gewendet, nackt bis auf eine mit Fibel befestigte Chlamys über Brust und über l. Arm; in einem Bausch der Chlamys Blumen; in der r. Hand Blume. Der Sommer: Ährenkranz, ähnliche Chlamys wie der Frühling, an seiner Seite Ähren. Der Herbst: Chlamys oder Nebris quer über der Brust, Thyrsos in der l. Hand.

127.* Marmorsarkophag. Frascati, Pal. Vescovile. – Kranz Nr. 76 Taf. 50, 1; 50A. – Ende der Tetrarchie. – Löwensarkophag. Die zentrale Gruppe besteht aus dem Verstorbenen vor einem Parapetasma, das von zwei Genien gehalten wird; zwischen diesen und den Löwen in den Ecken befinden sich die Genien der vier Jahreszeiten. Der Winter: Hosen und Mantel, der den Kopf bedeckt; in den Händen zwei Enten und Zweig, der verloren ist; zwischen seinen Beinen ein Eros, der einen Vogel hält. Der Frühling: kurzer leichter Chiton; hält Zicklein an den Vorderbeinen und ein weiteres, verlorenes Attribut. Der Herbst: in der einen Hand Hase, den ein Hund zu schnappen versucht, in der anderen Korb mit Früchten. Der Sommer: in der einen Hand Ährenbündel, in der anderen Sichel; zu seinen Füßen zwei Erosen, einer mit einem Löwen, der andere hält einen Hasen in den Armen.

128. Steinaltar. Bad Deutsch-Altenburg, Mus. Carnuntinum. Aus einem Mithräum von Carnuntum. – CIMRM II Nr. 1685 Abb. 431–434. – 3. Jh. n. Chr. – Auf den vier Seiten des Altars befinden sich neun Fi-guren: Caelus (→ Ouranos), die Winde und die Jahreszeiten. Der Frühling: neben Caelus, mit Blumenkranz. Der Sommer: auf der anderen Seite, mit Ährenkranz. Der Winter: alter Mann, der sein Haupt mit dem Mantel bedeckt. Der Herbst: mit zwei Reben auf dem Kopf. Alle stehen und sind nackt, mit Ausnahme des Winters.

129. Marmorstatuette. Neapel, Mus. Naz. Aus Formia. – Spinazzola, Arti Taf. 61; Hanfmann II Nr. 264. – 1. Jh. n. Chr. – Nackter Jüngling mit Chlamys über der l. Schulter, in der er Früchte hält; schräg über dem Körper eine Girlande aus Blättern und Früchten. Möglicherweise der Herbst.

3. Bewegungslos

Polychrome Mosaiken

130. (= Horai/Horae 54 mit Lit. und Querverweisen) El Djem, Arch. Mus. A 53. Aus Thysdrus. – In unmittelbarer Nähe des zentralen Medaillons jeweils männliche, nackte Figuren in mehr oder weniger frontaler Position: der Frühling mit Kranz aus Rosen; der Sommer mit Ährenkranz; der Herbst mit Kranz aus Trauben; der Winter mit Kranz aus Ölzweigen.

131. Aquileia, Casa delle Bestie Ferite. – Bertacchi, L., Aquileia Nostra 34, 1963, 34–36 Abb. 10–11; eadem, «Architettura e mosaico». Da Aquileia a Venezia (1980) 170–172 Abb. 139. – 2. Hälfte 3. Jh. n. Chr. – Jagdszenen und Tiere; in den Ecken Reste von zwei Jahreszeiten. Der Sommer: Exomis und Sandalen; in Händen Sichel und Ährenbündel; auf dem Kopf Kranz aus Ähren und Blüten. Der Herbst: nur Gesicht und Teil der Büste erhalten; Chiton; trug Korb mit Früchten, die Bertacchi als Trauben identifiziert; Kranz von Blumen und Blättern. Beide trugen eine Kette um den Hals.

132. Tunis, Bardo A 187. Aus Karthago. – Parrish Nr. 14 Taf. 24a. – 2. Hälfte 3. Jh. n. Chr. – Fr. mit dem Winter: kurzer Chiton, Schuhe, Mütze und Mantel, der den Kopf bedeckt; in der r. Hand zwei stark beschädigte Enten, in der l. eine Hacke.

133. (= Carthago 7 mit Lit.) Mosaik. Paris, Louvre MA 1788, 1789 und 2999. Aus Karthago. – Parrish Nr. 16 Taf. 25–26. – Ende 5. oder Anfang 6. Jh. n. Chr. – Dreißig kreisförmige Medaillons mit Jagdszenen, Kämpfen, Landschaften, Quadrigen usw. In der Mitte der oberen Reihe befindet sich die Personifikation von Karthago, an ihrer Seite die vier Jahreszeiten. Der Frühling: kurzer Chiton, Mantel, Schuhe; neben ihm hoher Behälter und Korb l., Blumenstrauß r. Der Sommer: kurzer Chiton; r. Krug und Blumen, l. Blumen und eine Art Standarte. Der Herbst: Chiton, Mantel, der den Kopf bedeckt, Blume in der r., Zweig mit Früchten in der l. Hand; unbestimmbare Objekte neben ihm. Der Winter (nur zum Teil erhalten): Chiton, Mantel, Hacke (?) in der Hand, neben ihm große Binse. Alle Figuren frontal.

134. (= 194) Karthago, Mus. Aus Karthago. – Parrish Nr. 13 Taf. 22–23. – 1. Hälfte 4. Jh. n. Chr. – Medaillon mit Tellus innerhalb eines Quadrates; dieses wird von vier Pflanzen gehalten, die Darstellungen der Jahreszeiten, Putti und Vögel aufweisen; zwischen diesen befinden sich Felder mit Szenen, die, wie auch die Pflanzen, einen Bezug zu den Jahreszeiten haben. Von den Jahreszeiten sind nur Fragmente erhalten. Der Winter: Chiton, Gürtel mit Clavus, Braccae ebenfalls mit Clavus, Mantel, der vor der Brust geknotet ist, Stiefel; in der nächstgelegenen Volute sitzt eine Ente, in den anderen befinden sich Putti, die Oliven sammeln oder mit einem Stock Enten jagen. Frühling: nur drei ungeflügelte Knaben erhalten, die Blumen sammeln, und ein Korb mit Blumen, aufgehängt über der verlorengegangenen Figur des Frühlings. Sommer: nur ein Knabe erhalten, der Getreide erntet, und zwei Rebhühner. In den Feldern: Opfergabe an Attis (Frühling), Fest der Ceres (Sommer), dionysische Prozession (Herbst); der Winter fehlt.

135.* Tunis, Bardo A 339. Aus Sufetula. – Parrish Nr. 56 Taf. 74b–76. – Ende 4. oder Anfang 5. Jh. n. Chr. – In der Apsis sechs Felder (im äußersten r. Porträt mit Inschrift AVTOR XENOFONT), in den mittleren, sehr beschädigt, die Jahreszeiten. Der Frühling: Teil des l. Arms erhalten, der einen Mantel trug und einen Blumenkorb hochhielt; darunter Reste eines Vogels. Der Sommer: nackt, Mantel, der über den Rücken fällt; in der l. Hand Ährenbündel, in der r. möglicherweise Sichel; l. und r. zwei kleine Amphoren. Der Herbst: Nebris; mit der r. Hand ergreift er eine getüpfelte Schlange, mit der l. eine Traube. Der Winter: nur beschuhter l. Fuß und Korb mit Oliven erhalten. Beischriften: ESTAS bzw. AVTVMNVS.

136.–137. Vacant.

138. Algier, Mus. Nat. Aus Aumale (Auzia). – Parrish Nr. 5 Taf. 8. – Ende 3. oder Anfang 4. Jh. n. Chr. – Erhalten nur der Winter: nackter Jüngling mit Nebris, die einen Teil der Brust und den Kopf bedeckt; in der l. Hand zwei Enten, in der r. Hacke. Vielleicht handelt es sich um einen Satyr. Um ihn herum große Binseln.

139. Cordoba, Arch. Mus. Aus Cordoba. – Blázquez, MosEsp III Nr. 19 Taf. 22 Farbtaf. 84; Nicolini, M. N., Mélanges de la Casa de Velázquez 19, 1, 1983, 78–89. – Mitte 4. Jh. n. Chr. – Vier männliche Figuren, fast frontal, in vier Feldern, zu je zwei angeordnet. Der Frühling: stark beschädigt, Chiton bis zur Hälfte der Waden, orbiculi und paragaudae; Stiefel und in der r. Hand Objekt, das ein Spiegel sein könnte; um ihn Pflanzen und Blumen. Der Sommer: mit orbiculi, paragaudae und Schulterbändern, Stiefel; in der r. Hand Sichel, in der l. Ährenbündel; l. und r. ein Ölbaum. Der Herbst: gekleidet wie die Vorhergehenden, Sichel in der r. und Rebe in der l. Hand; l. und r. Reben. Der Winter: bekleidet wie die Vorhergehenden, Stiefel; was er hält, ist nach Nicolini ein Vogelkäfig oder ein Fanginstrument.

140. Antiochia, Säulengang des Theaters in Daphne. – Levi, Antioch 223 Taf. 50d. – 2. Hälfte 3. Jh. n. Chr. – Chiton, mit Clavus, bis zur Hälfte der Wade, und Mantel; in der r. Hand Gefäß mit Pflanze, in der l. Blume. Es scheint der Frühling zu sein.

141. Mausoleum von Centcelles (Tarragona), Gewölbe, in situ. – Schlunk, H./Hauschild, Th., Hispania Antiqua. Die Denkmäler der frühchristlichen und westgotischen Zeit (1978) 124–127 Taf. 19, 1 Farbtaf. 3; Schlunk, H./Arbeiter, A., Die Mosaikkuppel von Cent- celles, Madrider Beitr. 13 (1988). – Mitte 4. Jh. n. Chr. – Drei konzentrische Streifen. Im obersten Streifen sind große Palastfeste abgebildet, getrennt durch die vier Jahreszeiten, die in Form von nackten Jünglingen, fast frontal, auftreten; sehr stark beschädigt. Der Herbst ist fast ganz erhalten: nackt, Chlamys, die über den Rücken fällt, in der r. Hand drei Reben, die an einem Stab befestigt sind. Der Frühling, ihm gegenüber: ähnlich, nur Kopf und Teil der Brust erhalten; an seiner Seite große Lilien. Sommer: nur Teil der Ähren übriggeblieben.

Reliefs

142.* Säulensarkophag, Marmor. Vatikan, Mus. Pio Cristiano 110. – Kranz Nr. 24 Taf. 5, 4; 13. – Anfang 4. Jh. n. Chr. – In der Zentralnische der »Gute Hirt«. Alle Jahreszeiten tragen kurzen Chiton, einen Mantel, der über der Schulter mit Fibel befestigt ist, quer über der Brust, und Stiefel. Der Herbst: Früchtekorb in der Hand (die übrigen Attribute sind nach Kranz modern ergänzt). Der Frühling: Blumenkorb und Girlande in den Händen, zu seinen Füßen Korb mit Blumen, darüber Girlande. Der Sommer: in den Händen Sichel und Korb mit Ähren, ein weiterer Korb mit Ähren auf dem Boden, im Hintergrund Girlande aus Ähren. Der Winter: Hase und Binse in den Händen, auf dem Boden Korb mit Oliven und Girlande aus Olivenblättern.

143.* Säulensarkophag, Marmor. New York, MMA 18.145.51. – Kranz Nr. 9 Taf. 15, 2. – Um 275 n. Chr. – In der Mitte die Vorderseite des Grabes. Die Jahreszeiten stehen auf Sockeln. Alle tragen Chlamys quer über der Brust. Der Frühling: in den Händen Lagobolon und Hase, den ein Hund zu fassen versucht. Der Sommer: trägt Sichel und Korb mit Ähren; zu seinen Füßen Bär. Der Herbst: Rebe und Korb mit Trauben; zu seinen Füßen Zicklein. Der Winter: zwei Enten und Binse in den Händen; zu seinen Füßen Eber.

144. (= Dionysos/Bacchus 119*, = Eros/Amor, Cupido 206/528 mit Lit.) Marmorsarkophag. Rom, Mus. Naz. Rom. 407. – Kranz Nr. 133 Taf. 57, 5; 58, 1; 59, 1. – Konstantinisch. – Im Zentrum Dionysos und Satyr. An ihren Seiten acht Genien; alle, mit Ausnahme des Winters, tragen quer über der Brust eine Chlamys. Der Frühling: zwei Girlanden und Blütenzweig in den Händen; zu seinen Füßen Eros mit Vogel. Der Sommer: Sichel und Früchtekorb in den Händen. Der Herbst: in der Hand Korb, neben ihm Rebe. Der Winter: kurzer Chiton, Mantel, der den Kopf bedeckt, Stiefel; in seinen Händen Binse und zwei Enten, auf dem Boden Ente. Zwischen diesen vier befinden sich andere Genien mit nicht streng jahreszeitlichen Attributen: einer, der einen Napf zum Munde führt; ein anderer, der den Frühling repräsentieren könnte, hält Lagobolon und Hasen, den ein Hund zu fassen versucht, der aber von einem kleineren Genius zurückgehalten wird. Ein dritter Genius mit Zweig und Korb, zu seinen Füßen Lamm; ein vierter mit Ziege auf dem Rücken.

145.* Bronzerelief auf dem Aufsatz einer Holzschatulle. Budapest, Nat. Mus. 31.1885.34. Aus Fénepusztá, Ungarn. – Hampel, J., Altentümer des frühen

Mittelalters in Ungarn (1905) II 227–230 Taf. 181; Hanfmann II Nr. 362 Taf. 145. – 4.–5. Jh. n. Chr. – Die vier Jahreszeiten, Orpheus und dionysische Szenen. Der Frühling: kurzer Chiton, über der r. Schulter befestigter Mantel, der einen Teil der l. Brust bedeckt und über den Rücken fällt, Stiefel; in der r. Hand Blume, in der l. Blumenkorb; neben ihm vereinzelte Blumen und Korb mit Blumen. Der Sommer: kurzer Rock, in der r. Hand Sichel, in der l. Ährenbündel; neben ihm Ähren und Korb mit Früchten. Der Herbst: bekleidet wie der Frühling, aber mit leichteren Gewändern; Kranz aus Weinlaub, schneidet Trauben; neben ihm große Weinreben mit Trauben und Korb mit Trauben. Der Winter: ähnlich gekleidet, dazu Stiefel und Mütze; in den Händen hält er einen Hasen an den Hinterläufen und einen trockenen Zweig über der Schulter, an dem zwei Enten hängen.

Freiplastik

146. Marmorstatue, fr. Rom, Mus. Naz. Rom. – MusNazRom I 3 149–150 Nr. VI, 14 Abb. – 2.–3. Jh. n. Chr. – Der Frühling: nackt, ohne Kopf und in Höhe der Oberschenkel gebrochen; Chlamys, die den l. Teil der Brust bedeckt und über der r. Schulter von einer großen Fibel gehalten wird; mit dem l. Arm formt er eine große Falte, in welcher er Blumen hält.

147.* Marmorstatue. Neapel, Mus. Naz. 6347. – Reinach, RépStat I 406, 1; Hanfmann II Nr. 269. – 2. Jh. n. Chr. (?) – Möglicherweise der Herbst: nackt, hält vor seiner Brust in einer Falte der Nebris eine Reihe von Früchten, zwischen denen Trauben zu erkennen sind.

148. Marmorstatue. Rom, Villa Albani. – Reinach, RépStat II 120, 6; Hanfmann II Nr. 270. – Möglicherweise der Herbst: nackt, trägt auf der l. Schulter Korb mit Trauben, in der r. Hand Zweig, mit Trauben.

149.* Marmorstatue. Aus Pompei, Haus der Vettier. – Reinach, RépStat III 135, 3; Hanfmann II Nr. 285; Sogliano, A., MonAnt 8, 1898, 283 Abb. 21. – Möglicherweise der Winter: nackt, Kopf mit phrygischer Mütze bedeckt, hält mit der r. Hand ein Lamm an den Hinterbeinen und mit der l. einen Stab, an dem zwei tote Vögel herabhängen.

F. Geflügelte Genien

1. In Bewegung

150.* Marmorsarkophag. Rom, Villa Albani. – Kranz Nr. 54 Taf. 32, 3. – Um 250 n. Chr. – Sechs Genien. Die mittleren beiden halten einen Clipeus mit den Porträts eines Paares; darunter Szene des Traubentretens. Alle Genien, mit Ausnahme des Winters, tragen quer über der Brust eine Chlamys. Von l. nach r.: Genius mit Korb in Händen. Der Frühling: zwei Girlanden in den Händen, zwischen den Beinen Korb mit Blumen, dabei ein Eros. Einer der Genien, die den Clipeus halten, trägt einen Korb mit Ähren, zu seinen Füßen ein Eros, der Ähren schneidet. Der andere trägt einen Korb mit Trauben, zu seinen Füßen ein Weinlesender Eros. Der Herbst: in den Händen Pedum und Hase; zwischen den Beinen Korb mit Früchten und Maske. Der Winter: kurzer Chiton, Mantel oder Chlamys, in den Händen Korb und Schilfstengel, zu seinen Füßen Schilfstau.

151.* Marmorsarkophag. Vatikan, Ottogono del Belvedere 1081. – Kranz Nr. 61 Taf. 33, 1. – Um 265 n. Chr. – Sechs Genien, die zwei mittleren halten einen Clipeus mit Porträt des Verstorbenen, darunter Ochsengepann. Hinter den Genien, in der zweiten Ebene, Tellus und Oceanus, beide mit Füllhörnern. Alle tragen Chlamys quer über der Brust. Von l. nach r.: Der Sommer: Kranz aus Blüten und Ähren, in den Händen Korb mit Ähren und vielleicht Sichel; zu seinen Füßen Löwe. Der Frühling: Blumenkorb und Zweig; zu seinen Füßen Ziege. Der dritte Genius: Korb mit Trauben und Kranz aus Ähren. Der vierte: Korb mit Ähren und Blütenkranz. Der Herbst: Lagobolon, Korb mit Früchten und Kranz aus Weinlaub; zu seinen Füßen Panther. Der Winter: Kranz aus Binsen, in den Händen Binse und Korb; zu seinen Füßen Eber.

152.* Marmorsarkophag. Gubbio, Pal. dei Consoli. – Kranz Nr. 36 Taf. 33, 4. – Um 280. – Ähnlich wie 151. Der Winter: Kranz aus Binsen, in den Händen Korb mit Oliven; zu seinen Füßen Eber. Der Sommer: Ährenkranz, Korb mit Ähren, Sichel; zu seinen Füßen Kalb. Der eine der Clipeusträger: Korb und Kranz aus Blüten; der andere: Korb und Ährenkranz; sie entsprechen somit dem Frühling und dem Sommer. Der Frühling: Blütenkranz, Blumenkorb und Zweig; zu seinen Füßen Hirschkuh. Der Herbst: Kranz aus Weinlaub, Früchtekorb und Thyrsos; zu seinen Füßen Panther.

2. Bewegungslos

153. (= Dionysos/Bacchus 118* mit Lit.) Marmorsarkophag. Paris, Louvre Ma 1046. – Kranz Nr. 132 Taf. 54, 2; Baratte/Metzger, SarcLouvre Nr. 70. – Um 240 n. Chr. – Im Zentrum Dionysos; l. und r., in der zweiten Ebene, Oceanus und Tellus; vor ihnen die Jahreszeiten, alle mit Chlamys quer über der Brust. Der Winter: zwei Enten und verlorenes Attribut in den Händen, möglicherweise eine Binse; zu seinen Füßen kleiner Eber. Der Frühling: mit Blumenkorb, darüber Eros, und mit Zweig. Der Herbst: Trauben, die ein kleiner Eros gebracht hat; zwischen den Beinen ein Eros mit Trauben im Mantel; vielleicht trug er auch Lagobolon oder Thyrsos (verloren). Der Sommer: Attribute nicht erhalten; zu seinen Füßen Kalb.

154.* Marmorsarkophag. Jerusalem, Rockefeller Mus. S 235. Aus einem Grab in Tourmou'saya. – Kranz Nr. 129 Taf. 54, 3. – Um 260 n. Chr. – Im Zentrum Dionysos; daneben in zweiter Ebene, Ge und Oceanus; vor ihnen die Jahreszeiten, alle mit Chlamys quer über der Brust. Der Winter: Attribute verloren. Der Frühling: Blütenkranz und Blumenkorb. Der Sommer: Kranz und Korb mit Ähren. Der Herbst: Kranz und Korb mit Trauben. Die anderen jahreszeitlichen Attribute sind nicht erhalten.

155.* Marmorsarkophag. Kassel, Staatl. Mus. Sk. 46. – Kranz Nr. 130 Taf. 56, 1. – Um 250 n. Chr. – Im Zentrum Dionysos auf Tiger, umringt von Erosen und Tieren. Die vier Jahreszeiten mit Chlamys quer über der Brust. Der Winter: Binsenkranz, in den Händen mit Früchten gefülltes Füllhorn und zwei Enten; zu seinen Füßen Eber. Der Frühling: Zweige im Haar, in den Händen Korb mit Girlanden und eine Girlande; zu seinen Füßen Eros und Pfau. – Der Sommer: in den Händen Sichel und Korb mit Ähren. Der Herbst: Kranz aus Weinlaub, in den Händen Füllhorn und Hase; zu seinen Füßen Eros mit Hund und Lagobolon, ein anderer auf Panther, der eine Pfote auf einen Korb mit Früchten oder Trauben stellt.

156. (= Dionysos/Bacchus 117* mit Lit.) Marmorsarkophag. New York, MMA 55.11.5. – Kranz Nr. 131 Taf. 56, 2. – Um 260 n. Chr. – Im Zentrum Dionysos auf Tiger. Die vier Jahreszeiten mit Chlamys quer über der Brust. Der Winter: Binsenkranz, in den Händen Binse und zwei Enten; zu seinen Füßen Eber. Der Frühling: Blütenkranz, in den Händen Korb mit Blumen und Girlanden, und ein Zweig; zu seinen Füßen Eros mit Flöte und ein anderer, der eine Pflanze pflegt. Der Sommer: Ährenkranz, Sichel und Korb mit Ähren; zu seinen Füßen Hirsch; auf seinem Arm ein Eros mit Ährenkranz. Der Herbst: Kranz aus Weinlaub, Hase und Füllhorn; unter ihnen ein Eros mit Korb, Trauben und Hund.

157.* Marmorsarkophag. Vatikan, Cortile Ottaviano del Belvedere 879. Aus Rom, Porta Maggiore. – Kranz Nr. 90 Taf. 48, 4; 49. – Um 270 n. Chr. – Löwensarkophag. Im Zentrum der Verstorbene vor einem Parapetasma. L. der Winter: kurzer Chiton, Mantel quer über der Brust, Stiefel; in der einen Hand Binse, in der anderen zwei Enten; neben ihm Korb und Eber. Frühling und Herbst halten das Parapetasma und tragen Chlamys quer über der Brust; der Frühling hält Zweig und Girlande in der Hand, der Herbst ein Pedum; zu ihren Füßen Korb mit Früchten und Ziegenbock. Der Sommer: hält Korb mit Ähren und Hase; zu seinen Füßen Korb mit Blumen.

158.* Marmorsarkophag. Pisa, Camposanto Monumentale 31. – Kranz Nr. 44 Taf. 32, 2. – Um 230 n. Chr. – In der Mitte halten zwei Jahreszeiten einen Clipeus mit den Porträts eines Paares, darunter eine Pflugszene. Zwischen den Jahreszeiten Tellus und Oceanus. Alle vier Genien tragen Kränze aus Blumen und Ähren im Haar, sowie ein kleines Füllhorn mit Trauben, Ähren und Äpfeln, als Symbole für die verschiedenen Jahreszeiten; zu Füßen des ersten Korb mit Früchten und Löwe oder Panther; zu Füßen des letzten ein nicht erkennbares Tier.

159. (= Attis 146* mit Lit., = Eros/Amor, Cupido 569 mit Lit.) Marmorsarkophag. Washington, Dumbarton Oaks College 36.65. – Kranz Nr. 34 Taf. 39, 3. – Spätkonstantinisch. – Clipeus mit den Porträts eines Paares, der von zwei Jahreszeiten gehalten wird; darunter Weinlese. Alle tragen eine Chlamys, die über den Rücken fällt, der Winter außerdem Hosen wie die des Attis. Der Winter: Binsenkranz, zu seinen Füßen Eber. Der Frühling (hält l. den Clipeus): Blütenkranz; darunter Hirt, der eine Ziege melkt. Der Sommer (hält den Clipeus r.): Ährenkranz; darunter Bauer, der Ähren schneidet. Der Herbst: Kranz aus Weinlaub, zu seinen Füßen Reste von zwei Panther. Die übrigen Attribute nicht erhalten.

160.* Marmorsarkophag. Paris, Louvre Ma 348. – Kranz Nr. 67 Taf. 43, 1; Baratte/Metzger, SarcLouvre Nr. 111. – Um 275 n. Chr. – Viktorien halten einen Clipeus (modern ergänzt mit Dionysos als Kind, einer Frau sowie einem Kind in velificatio). Der Winter: Binsenkranz im Haar und in der einen Hand, in der anderen zwei Enten; zu seinen Füßen Reste eines Ebers. Der Frühling: Blütenkranz, in den Händen Blumenkorb und Zweig; zu seinen Füßen Antilope. Der Sommer: Ährenkranz, in den Händen Korb mit Ähren und Ährenbündel (?); zu seinen Füßen Kalb. Der Herbst: Trauben und Weinblätter im Haar, Thyrsos und vielleicht Trauben in den Händen; zu seinen Füßen Reste eines Panthers.

161. (= 101) Sarkophag. Rom, Pal. Cons. 1185. – In der Mitte Grabtür in Form einer distylen Porticus, gekrönt mit Giebel (zu den Reliefs der Türflügel s. 101); beidseits je ein Säulenpaar, das je einen Arkadenbogen stützt; darunter die Jahreszeiten. Der Frühling: Blütenkranz im Haar, in den Händen Blumenkorb und möglicherweise Girlande; zu seinen Füßen Widder. Der Winter: Binsenkranz, Binse und zwei Enten in den Händen; zu seinen Füßen Eber; zwischen diesen beiden Jahreszeiten befindet sich eine Maske des Pan auf einem Pfeiler. Der Herbst: Kranz aus Weinlaub und Trauben; in den Händen Thyrsos und verlorenes Objekt; zu seinen Füßen Panther. Der Sommer: Ährenkranz und Korb mit Ähren in der Hand; zu seinen Füßen Löwe. Zwischen beiden hängt an einem Pfeiler die Maske des Silen.

162.* Marmorsarkophag. Vatikan, Mus. Greg. Prof. 10411, 10411A. Von der Via Latina. – Kranz Nr. 62 Taf. 34, 3. – Um 280 n. Chr. – Clipeus mit Porträt der Verstorbenen, gehalten von zwei Genien; darunter Putti, die mit Masken spielen. Insgesamt acht Figuren; die äussersten sind Victorien mit Girlanden, die übrigen Genien. Die erste Victoria hält eine Girlande aus Olivenblättern (?), zu ihren Füßen Pfau. Der Winter: Hase in der Hand, den ein Hund zu fassen versucht; Korb mit Oliven. Der Herbst: Früchtekorb und Lagobolon in den Händen; zu seinen Füßen Korb mit Früchten. Die beiden Genien, die den Clipeus halten: Kranz aus Binsen; Körbe mit Oliven in den Händen; zu ihren Füßen jeweils Eros auf Früchtekörben. Der Sommer: Ährenkranz, in den Händen Korb mit Ähren und Sichel, zu seinen Füßen Korb mit Ähren. Der Frühling: in den Händen Zweig und Girlande; Blütenkranz; Blumenkorb zu seinen Füßen. Die andere Victoria hält eine Blumengirlande.

163.* Marmorsarkophag. San Francisco, Fine Arts Mus. 54662. – Kranz Nr. 58 Taf. 34, 4. – Um 270 n. Chr. – Hauptseite: sechs Genien, die zwei mittleren halten einen Clipeus mit Porträt der Verstorbenen; darunter Putti, die mit Tieren spielen. Alle Genien sind nackt bis auf eine Chlamys, die vor der Brust geknotet ist und über den Rücken fällt. Der Herbst: in den Händen Korb und Thyrsos, eine Gruppe Erosen, die auf Panther reiten, folgen ihm. Der Winter: Korb und Binse; zu seinen Füßen Eros mit Girlande. Diejenigen, welche den Clipeus halten, tragen je einen Korb mit Blumen bzw. mit Früchten. Der Sommer: Ähren und Korb mit Ähren; zu seinen Füßen Eros mit Korb mit Ähren und Sichel. Der Frühling: Blumenkorb und Zweig, zu seinen Füßen Eros mit Girlande. Linke Schmalseite: der Herbst mit Trauben und Pedum und der Frühling in kurzem Chiton und Stiefeln, mit Korb und Zweig. Rechte Schmalseite: der Winter, mit zwei Enten, und der Sommer, mit Sichel und Korb.

164.* Marmorsarkophag. Rom, Villa Doria Pamphilj. – Kranz Nr. 55 Taf. 40, 1. – Um 280 n. Chr. – Clipeus mit Porträt, gehalten von zwei Genien, darunter zwei Füllhörner. Der Winter: Binse und Korb in den Händen. Der Frühling: Blumengirlande und Korb; zwischen beiden Pfau auf Blumenkorb. Die Genien, welche den Clipeus halten, haben keine Attribute. Der Sommer hält eine Sichel, der Herbst einen Thyrsos; zwischen beiden Pfau auf Korb mit Trauben.

165. Marmorrelief. Konstantinsbogen. – L'Orange, H. P./v. Gerkan, A., Der spätantike Bildschmuck des Konstantinsbogens (1939) 153–155 Taf. 35. – 2. Viertel 4. Jh. n. Chr. – In den Bogenzwickeln Viktorien mit Trophäen; darunter die vier Jahreszeiten als Jünglinge. Der Sommer: nackt, Sichel in der r. Hand, Früchtekorb vor der Brust, Mantel um den Bauch und Trauben auf dem Kopf. Der Herbst: große Rebe in der r. Hand, vor dem Bauch hält er ein rundes Gefäß mit breiter Öffnung; quer über die Brust Mantel, der von einer Fibel auf der r. Schulter gehalten wird. Der Winter: Mantel, der den Kopf bedeckt; in der r. Hand zwei Gänse, in der l. Lamm. Der Frühling: Mantel um den Bauch, dessen eines Ende über die l. Schulter läuft; in der r. Hand Kranz, in der l. Blumenkorb.

G. Sitzende Genien

166. (= Horai/Horae 77) Bemaltes Gewölbe der Villa Hadriana, Tivoli. – Der Winter, einzige männliche Figur, in Form eines bekleideten Alten mit Bart, der seine Hände an einem Feuer wärmt.

167.* Miniatur des Codex Chronikon Zwiefaltense Mus. Stuttgart, Landesbibliothek 415. – Parrish, D., La mosaïque romaine tardive (1982) 18 Taf. 7, 1. – Romanisch. – Aion, Zodiacus und Monate in konzentrischen Kreisen; in den Winkeln die vier Jahreszeiten. Der Herbst: Ärmelchiton und Hut; die r. Hand hält Trauben vor der Brust; Korb mit Trauben; Beischr. Autunus. Der Winter: alter Mann vor dem Feuer sitzend, in Chiton und Mantel und mit mitraartiger Kopfbedeckung; Beischr. Hiemps. Der Sommer: nackt, Sichel in der r. Hand und Ährenbündel in der l.; Beischr. Estat. Der Frühling: Ärmelchiton, Blumensträuße in den Händen; Beischr. Ver.

168. Polychromes Mosaik. Verloren. Aus Karthago. – Parrish Nr. 11 Taf. 19. – Ende 4. oder Anfang 5. Jh. n. Chr. – Die mittlere Figur, die als Tellus oder besser Aion identifiziert wurde, und die Monate in konzentrischen Kreisen; in den äußeren Winkeln die vier Jahreszeiten. Der Winter, (H)*IE*MNS: Chiton und Mantel, der den Kopf nicht bedeckt, Stiefel; mit beiden Händen hält er einen Früchtekorb; zwischen ihm und dem Frühling ein Entenpaar. Der Frühling,

VERNVS: Chiton und Mantel; hält Früchtekorb; l. Vogel und Strauch mit Blumen und Früchten. Der Sommer, [AE]STAS: gekleidet wie der Frühling; hält Tablett mit Früchten; r. Ähren. Der Herbst, AVTVMNVS: gleiche Kleidung; hält Früchtekorb; l. Tablett auf hohem Ständer, r. Vögel.

H. Köpfe

169. Gewölbmalerei. Rom, Grab 29 an der Via Ostiense nach S. Paolo. – Lugli, NotSc 1919, 345 Abb. 30. – 1. Hälfte 3. Jh. n. Chr. – Auf einem der Wandpfeiler Kinderkopf mit Nimbus, der aus einem Akanthuskelch ragt; zu seinen Seiten zwei Greifenköpfe und zwei Akanthusvoluten, auf jedem eine Taube; vielleicht der Frühling.

ZWEIFELHAFT

169a) Gewölbmalerei. Hypogäum von Grotta Rossa an der Via Flaminia. – Bendinelli, NotSc 1927, 304 Abb. 6. – Gewölbe mit den vier Jahreszeiten; darunter Köpfe, die aus Akanthuskelchen ragen, mit Blumen an den Seiten; es sind keine spezifischen Attribute zu sehen.

170. Wandmalerei. Rom, Haus an der Via de' Cerchi. – Strong, A., BSR 8, 1916, 97–98 Taf. 3–4. – Severisch. – In den Feldern zwischen den Säulen sind Büsten mit Nimbus erhalten, die aus Akanthuskelchen auf sehr feinen Pflanzenstengeln ragen; Attribute sind nicht zu erkennen.

I. Büsten

Wandmalerei

171. (= Horai/Horae 174*) Gewölbmalerei. Ostia, Mus. Ostiense 41 (10043) und 42 (10042). Aus Ostia, Isola Sacra, Grab 57. – Um 200 n. Chr. – Von den drei erhaltenen Büsten ist der Winter vielleicht männlich (Calza: dal viso maschio).

172. (= 83) Nekropole von Anamur. – Männliche Büsten, gerahmt von Lorbeerkränzen. Nur der Winter erhalten: Bart, Kopf bedeckt, Inschrift XEIMON.

Polychrome Mosaiken

173. Carmona, Rathaus. – Blázquez, MosEsp IV Nr. 16 Taf. 13. – 2. Jh. n. Chr. – Alter Mann mit Bart, Chiton und Mantel; Binsenkranz, von einem breiten Band gehalten; Zweig über der l. Schulter, an dem zwei tote Enten hängen.

174. (= Horai/Horae 211) Mosaik der Siegreichen Athleten. – Der Herbst mit dionysischen Zügen (männlich?).

175. Tourmont, in situ (zugedeckt). – Stern, H., RecMosGaule I 3 Nr. 346 Taf. 43. – Um 220 n. Chr. – Im Zentrum Löwe, die vier Winde, Kentaur und Greifen; in den Diagonalen vier Medaillons mit Büsten, die männlich zu sein scheinen. Der Frühling: Jüngling mit Blütenkranz und Strauß vor der Brust. Der Sommer: mit Ährenbündel. Der Herbst: mit

Kairoi/Tempora anni 167

Zweig, behängt mit Reben. Der Winter: Frau mit bedecktem Kopf; daneben trockener Zweig und Gabel.

176. Aus Spoonley Wood, Sudly (Glos.), verloren. – Smith 132 Nr. 93; Ling, R., Britannia 14, 1983, 17 Taf. 2b. – 4. Jh. n. Chr. – Nur eine Büste von vier erhalten, möglicherweise der Winter (Smith) oder der Herbst (Ling): männlich, Rechen hinter der r. Schulter.

177. Kalamata, Mus. Aus Andania. – Waywell, S. E., AJA 83, 1979, 294 Nr. 2 Taf. 45. – Ende 5. Jh. n. Chr. – Venatio und Circus-Szenen, in den Winkeln die Büsten der vier Jahreszeiten. Der Frühling: Chiton, Mantel, Blumengirlande auf dem Kopf. Der Winter: Mantel, der den Kopf bedeckt.

178. Argos, Museum. Aus Argos, Hagios Taxiarchis. – Åkerström-Hougen, G., The Calendar and Hunting Mosaics of the Villa of the Falconer in Argos (1974) 127–129 Nr. 11 Taf. 10–11. – Ende 5. oder Anfang 6. Jh. n. Chr. – Vier Felder mit Büsten, diejenige des Winters zumindest ist mit Sicherheit männlich; die anderen möglicherweise auch. Der Winter: Bart, Chiton, Mantel, der den Kopf bedeckt; vor seiner l. Schulter Binse, auf der ein Blatt und ein Kürbis (?) aufgesetzt sind; darunter zwei Enten und drei Fische; Beischrift XIMQN. Der Frühling, stark beschädigt: Jüngling ohne Bart, Blumengirlande auf dem Kopf, ärmel loser Chiton und Mantel, der auf der r. Schulter mit Fibel befestigt ist; in der r. Hand müßte er eine zweite Blumengirlande tragen; Beischr. AIAP. Der Sommer: nur Kopf erhalten; gekrönt mit Blüten und Ähren; Beischr. ΘΕΡΟΣ. Der Herbst: erhalten der obere Teil des Kopfes, gekrönt mit Trauben und anderen Früchten; Beischr. ΜΕΘΟΠΩΡΟ.

179. * Nea Paphos (Zypern), Haus des Dionysos. – Michaelidis, D., Cypriot Mosaics (1987) Nr. 8 Taf. 3. – Ende 2. oder Anfang 3. Jh. n. Chr. – Neun Bilder mit Büsten der vier Jahreszeiten in den Ecken, eines in der Mitte ohne Attribute, die eine Identifikation ermöglichen würden (Dionysos oder Aion), und vier Xenia oder kleine Bilder, mit Motiven, die mit den vier Jahreszeiten in Verbindung stehen. Der Winter: Alter mit Bart, Chiton, Mantel über der l. Schulter; über dem Kopf eine umgedrehte Amphore, aus der Wasser fließt; im Bild neben ihm Wasservogel. Der Herbst: Nebris, Blätterkranz und Baummesser; über ihm, im entsprechenden Bild, Körbe mit Trauben und anderen Früchten. Der Frühling: ähnlich wie der Herbst, Nebris, welche die Arme freiläßt, Blütenkranz und, nach Michaelidis, Pedum, das auf jeden Fall dem Messer des Herbstes sehr ähnelt. An seiner Seite Ziege neben Baum, mit Vogel und Panflöte. Der Sommer: stark zerstört, scheint ebenfalls eine Nebris zu tragen, mit Ährenkranz und Sichel; im nächstliegenden kleinen Bild Reihe von frischen Gemüsen, ebenfalls stark zerstört.

Reliefs

180. Grabrelief, fr., Stein. Graz, Landesmus. Joanneum 202. Aus Gröbming (Österreich). – Diez, E., Oefh 42, 1955, 74–84 Abb. 44. – 3. Jh. n. Chr. – Fünf Medaillons, von denen nur das große mittlere und ein Teil des oberen r. erhalten sind; im ersten ein Jüngling mit Biga, wahrscheinlich der Verstorbene, mit einem kleinen fliegenden Kopf über den Pferden, der dem Mond entsprechen müßte; im anderen Medaillon Büste eines bärtigen Alten, in Mantel, welcher auch den Kopf bedeckt. Unter dem Medaillon Korb mit Früchten.

181. Grabmonument. London, BM 1948.4.231. Ehem. Rom, Slg. Stephano del Busto. – Wrede, H., RM 1978, 412–415 Taf. 133. – 130–140 n. Chr. – Monument in Form von zwei nebeneinander liegenden Grabnischen, mit je einer weiblichen Statue; im Zentrum des Schlußsteins des Bogens je eine weibliche Büste; über den Kapitellen der seitlichen Wandpfeiler weitere Büsten, die nach Wrede die Genien der Jahreszeiten darstellen.

182. Marmorrelief. Paris, Louvre. Aus einem Mi-thräum in Sidon. – CIMRM Nr. 75 Abb. 26. – Um 188 n. Chr. – Mithasrelief. In den Winkeln Büsten der vier Jahreszeiten. L. unten der Winter: Mütze, l. Ente. R. unten der Herbst: Mantel über den Schultern, Kranz auf dem Kopf; neben ihm Früchtekorb. Oben l. der Frühling: quer getragener Mantel, Blätterkranz; r. Korb mit Früchten. Oben r. der Sommer: Maisähren auf dem Haupt, große Ähre an seiner Seite. Zwischen den letzten beiden Büste der Selene.

J. Hermen

183. Marmorsarkophag. Ioannina, Mus. 412. Aus Lambovithra (Paramythia, Epiros). – Matz, F., SarkRel IV 1 Nr. 8; 104 Taf. 10–11. – Ende 1. oder Anfang 2. Jh. n. Chr. – An den Ecken der Vorderseite Hüfthermen mit kurzem Chiton und Mantel, der über der r. Schulter geknotet ist. Der Herbst: in der einen Hand (verloren) eine Taube, in der anderen Trauben. Der Sommer: Sichel und Ähren.

184. Marmorsarkophag. Subiaco, Santa Scolastica. – Matz, F., SarkRel IV 2, Nr. 78; 194, Taf. 94–95; Wiegartz, KISäulensark 178, 15. – 160–170 n. Chr. – Triumph des Dionysos. L. und r. Hüfthermen: l. der Herbst: ärmel loser Chiton; vor dem Bauch hält er mit beiden Händen einen Korb mit Früchten. Die Herme r. ist in sehr schlechtem Zustand.

K. Masken

185. Polychromes Mosaik. El Djem. Aus Thysdrus. – Foucher, L., Latomus 20, 1961, 291–297 Taf. 11. 13. – 1. Drittel 3. Jh. n. Chr. – Mosaik eines Triklinium mit asarotos oikos und dionysischen Elementen; dazwischen vier Masken, die, nach Foucher, jahreszeitliche Attribute aufweisen. Der Frühling: Kranz aus Blüten; der Sommer: aus Ähren; der Herbst: bacchische Maske; der Winter: stark beschädigt.

Reliefs

186. Sarkophagdeckel, fr. Vatikan, Mus. Chiaramonti 406b. – Spätromisch. – Brennecke, T., Kopf und Maske. Untersuchungen zu den Akroteren an Sarkophag- deckeln (1970) 110 Nr. 191. – Der Frühling mit Kranz aus großen Blüten.

187. Sarkophagdeckel, fr. Berlin, Schloß Glienicke 116. – Brenneke, a. O. 186, 111 Nr. 192. – 3. Jh. n. Chr. – Der Sommer: zwei Ähren an den Schläfen.

188. Sarkophagdeckel, fr. Paris, Louvre, Hof, 777. – Brenneke, a. O. 186, 112 Nr. 193. – Maske mit Sichel, Ähren, Weinlaub und Trauben: möglicherweise Sommer und Herbst in einer einzigen Figur vereinigt.

189. (= 89, = Horai/Horae 92*) Sarkophagdeckel. Vatikan, Cortile Ottogono des Belvedere Inv. 941. – Brenneke, a. O. 186, 112–113 Nr. 194. – 140–150 n. Chr. – Zwei Masken: der Herbst mit satyrhaften Zügen, gekrönt mit Weinlaub; der Winter mit bedecktem Haupt.

L. Jahreszeitliche Aktivitäten

Wandgemälde

190. Herculanum, Casa del Gran Portale. – Maiuri, A., Ercolano (1958) 1381 Abb. 312. – Mitte 1. Jh. n. Chr. – Zwei geflügelte, nackte Eroten sammeln große Rosen und stellen sie in ein Gefäß; der eine hält auch ein Gefäß in der l. Hand.

Polychrome Mosaiken

191.* Tunis, Bardo 1. Aus Karthago. – Parrish Nr. 9 Taf. 15–16; Schneider, L., Die Domäne als Weltbild (1983) 68–84 Abb. 17. – Ende 4. oder Anfang 5. Jh. n. Chr. – Mosaik des Iulius Dominus mit Darstellung einer Villa mit Galerie im Zentrum, flankiert von Jagdszenen; oben und unten jahreszeitliche Aktivitäten. Oben l. der Winter: Mann mit kurzem Chiton, Mantel, der den Kopf bedeckt, Hosen und Stiefel; trägt vor der Brust zwei Enten. Vor ihm zwei Knaben mit kurzem Chiton, Hosen und bedecktem Kopf, die Oliven sammeln, und Frau in langem Chiton, verziert mit Clavus, die einen mit Oliven gefüllten Korb trägt; sie wenden sich in Richtung einer sitzenden Frau im Zentrum der oberen Fläche, möglicherweise die Herrin der Villa. R. der Sommer: Frau in langem Chiton; sie wendet sich mit einem Lamm in den Armen an dieselbe Frau. Im Hintergrund Hütte mit angebundenem Hund und Ährenfeld. Untere Szene: nur Reste eines sitzenden Mannes und Schaf neben einem Baum erhalten. Der Herbst: der Herr der Villa, unter Obstbäumen sitzend, erhält ein Pergament mit der Inschrift Iul(io) Dom(ino) von einem Diener, der sich von l. nähert; von r. kommt ein anderer mit Korb mit Trauben auf den Schultern und einem Hasen, den er mit der l. Hand an den Hinterläufen hält; vor ihm ein Gitter, das vielleicht eine Weinkelter symbolisiert. Beide tragen kurzen Chiton mit Clavus. Der Frühling: die reich geschmückte Herrin der Villa empfängt von einem Diener Juwelen, um ihren Schmuck zu vervollständigen, während sich ihr ein weiterer Diener mit einem Blumenkorb nähert; auf der anderen Seite ein Hund. Alle tragen Chiton mit Clavus und sind umgeben von Rosensträuchern.

192. (= Horai/Horae 29) Aus La Chebba (Tunesien). – Neben dem Zyklus der Horen ein zweiter Zy-klus mit jahreszeitlichen Aktivitäten. Winter: Eber zwischen Schilfrohr und Jüngling in kurzem Chiton mit Clavus, der Oliven in einen Korb sammelt, der an seiner Schulter hängt. Frühling: Hund zwischen Rosen und Jüngling, der auf seinen Schultern einen Korb mit Rosen trägt. Sommer: Löwe zwischen Ähren und Jüngling, der sich anschickt, einen Korb mit Ähren vom Boden hochzuheben. Herbst: Panther und Jüngling mit Stab auf der l. Schulter, an dem zwei Eimer voll Trauben hängen; zwischen Weinstöcken.

193. (= 57, = Horai/Horae 80) Aus Saint-Romain-en-Gal. – Um die Personifikationen der Jahreszeiten herum sieben Bilder mit jahreszeitlichen Aktivitäten (einige von ihnen verloren). Winter: Säen, Mahlen, Bringen von Dung, Backofen, Opfer an die Laren, Körbeflechten, Totenfeier. Frühling: Rückkehr der Störche, Beschneiden der Bäume. Sommer: Opfer an Taranis, Speerwerfen, Beschneiden der Bäume. Herbst: Apfelernte, Pflügen und Säen, Olivenenernte, Weinlese, Olivenkrüge, Traubentreten.

194. (= 134) Putti jagen Enten mit einem Stab oder sammeln Oliven (Winter), pflücken Blumen (Frühling) oder schneiden Ähren (Sommer).

Reliefs

195. (= Eros/Amor, Cupido 365* mit Lit.) Marmorsarkophag, fr. Genf, Mus. MF 1362. – Déonna, W., Cat. des sculptures antiques (1924) Nr. 157; Chama, J./Maier, J. L., Art romain, Sculptures en pierre du Mus. de Genève II (1989) n° 89 pl. 91. – 2. Jh. n. Chr. (?) – Herbst: ein mit zwei großen Weidekörben voll Trauben beladener Wagen, der von zwei Ochsen gezogen wird; sie werden von einem geflügelten nackten Eros geführt, unterstützt von einem weiteren mit Chlamys quer über die l. Schulter.

196. (= Eros/Amor, Cupido 497/527* mit Lit.) Sarkophagdeckel, Marmor. Rom, Mus. Naz. Rom. 221328 (196261). Aus Rom, Piazzale Prenestina. – Kranz Nr. 336 Taf. 94. – 2. Hälfte 2. Jh. n. Chr. – Frühling: drei Eroten in Blumenfeld, die in einer Falte ihres Mantels Blumen sammeln; ein weiterer trägt einen Korb mit Blumen. Winter (?): ein Eros schlägt mit einem Lagobolon auf den Zweig eines Baumes, vielleicht ein Ölbaum, auf den ein anderer mit Hilfe einer Leiter geklettert ist; eine weitere Gruppe sammelt Äpfel. Herbst: ein Eros auf einer Leiter schneidet Trauben, die ein zweiter in einen Korb legt. Sommer: vier Eroten ernten Ähren: einer schnürt eine Garbe, zwei schneiden Ähren und der vierte trägt eine Garbe.

197. Sarkophagdeckel. Gerona, Mus. Arq. Prov. Aus Ampurias. – Kranz Nr. 330 Taf. 41, 1. – Um 275 n. Chr. – In der Mitte Tafel ohne Inschrift. Herbst: nackte Eroten, die von einer Weinranke Trauben schneiden, sie in ein großes Gefäß werfen und treten. Winter: Eroten in kurzem Chiton, Hosen und Stiefeln, die Oliven pflücken; zwei weitere geben sie in eine Presse.

198.* Sarkophagdeckel. Vatikan, Campo Santo Teutonico, Mus. – Kranz Nr. 338 Taf. 95, 2. – In der Mitte Tafel mit Inschrift. Herbst: nackte Eroten, die Trauben treten. Sommer: nackte Eroten, die große Ähren schneiden.

199. (= Dionysos/Bacchus 94* [Kasten]) Sarkophagdeckel. Rom, Mus. Naz. Rom. 124711. – Kranz Nr. 335 Taf. 95, 3. – Tetrarchisch. – In der Mitte Tafel. L. jahreszeitliche Aktivitäten, r. Büsten vor einem Parapetasma. Sommer: nackte Putti schneiden und tragen Ähren; Herbst: nackte Putti lesen und treten Trauben.

200. (= 89, = 189, = Horai/Horae 92*) Sarkophagdeckel. Vatikan, Cortile Ottogono des Belvedere Inv. 941. – 140–150 n. Chr. – Vier gelagerte Horae; zwischen ihnen Eroten; der dem Sommer entsprechende schneidet Ähren mit einer Sichel.

201. Schmalseiten eines Sarkophags. Vatikan, Mus. Greg. Prof. (ehem. Lateran 181). – Wilpert, G., I sarcofagi cristiani antichi I (1929) 142 Taf. 117, 2–3; III (1936) 15–16; Hanfmann II 539. – Mitte 4. Jh. n. Chr. – Frühling: Putto mit Hase und Hund, ein zweiter mit Vogel und Girlande, ein dritter mit Schilfrohrflöten. Ein vierter Putto, der eine Eidechse aus einem Gefäß holt und eine Rebe hält, scheint dem Herbst zu entsprechen, der auf der anderen Schmalseite dargestellt ist. Sommer: drei Putti, die Ähren ernten. Herbst: Traubenernte. Winter: ein Putto, der auf einen Ölbaum klettert.

M. Vögel

Wandmalerei

202. Pergamon, Haus des Konsuln Attalos. – Parlasca, K., Jdl 78, 1963, 286 Abb. 18. – Anfang 3. Jh. n. Chr. – Zwei Kratere auf dem Sockelvorsprung, vor einer Landschaft mit Pflanzen; aus dem einen trinken zwei Papageien (Herbst), aus dem anderen zwei Tauben (Frühling).

Polychrome Mosaiken

203.* Tunis, Bardo 2751. Aus Thysdrus. – Parrish Nr. 41 Taf. 58. – Severisch. – In der Mitte Diana; um sie herum acht Kreise; in den vier größeren, in den Ecken, Hunde, die Hirsche jagen; in den anderen ein Vogel und jahreszeitliche Pflanzen: ein Rebhuhn von Ähren (Sommer), eine Ente von Ölzweigen (Winter), eine Taube von Rosen (Frühling) und ein Fasan von einem Rebzweig und Trauben (Herbst) eingerahmt.

204. (= 226) Knossos, Villa des Dionysos. – Sanders, I. F., Roman Crete (1982) 51–53 Taf. 13. – Hadrianisch. – Büste des Dionysos, um sie herum Pfau, Rebhuhn, Wachtel und Ringeltaube, sowie Pflanzen. Möglicherweise bezeichnen sie den Frühling, Sommer, Herbst und Winter.

205. (= 85) Herbst: Wasservögel. Sommer: Fasan. Frühling: Pfauen. Winter: Enten.

Statue

206. (= 231, = Aion 30* mit Lit.) Marmorstatue des Aion. Biblioteca Vaticana. Aus einem Mithräum in Ostia. – 2. Jh. n. Chr. – Auf den Flügeln die Symbole der vier Jahreszeiten: Frühling: Taube und Schwan; Sommer: Ähren; Herbst: Trauben; Winter: zwei Palmen und eine Binse.

Reliefs

207. Sarkophag des P. Vettius Sabinus, Marmor. Modena, Mus. Lapidario Estense. Aus Modena. – Gabelmann, H., Die Werkstattgruppen der oberitalischen Sarkophage (1973) 139 Nr. 80 Taf. 45–47. – 2. Hälfte 3. Jh. n. Chr. – An den Seiten der Akrotere ist ein vollständiger Zyklus der Jahreszeiten dargestellt: Frühling: Vögel mit einem Blumenkorb; Sommer: Ährenbündel; Herbst: Trauben; Winter: Schilfrohrland-schaft mit zwei Wasservögeln und Ascia.

208.* Marmorsarkophag. Florenz, Mus. Arch. Aus Siena. – Kranz Nr. 123 Taf. 22, 3. – Um 260 n. Chr. – In der Mitte Clipeus mit Porträt des Verstorbenen. Mit Ausnahme des Clipeus sind alle Motive lediglich eingeritzt. Von l. nach r., Winter (?): Krater mit verschiedenen Früchten, flankiert von zwei Raben; Frühling: Krater mit Blumen, Pfau daneben; Sommer: Krater mit Ähren, Fasan; Herbst (?): Krater mit Trauben; Wachteln oder Raben.

Zahlreiche Sarkophage mit Eroten und Genien weisen Vögel verschiedener Art als Ergänzung der jahreszeitlichen Darstellungen auf; es handelt sich aber nicht um eigenständige Personifikationen, sondern lediglich um Attribute anderer Figuren, weshalb sie in diesem Verzeichnis nicht aufgenommen sind.

N. Andere Tiere

Polychrome Mosaiken

209. Ehem. Clos de la Tour (Fréjus), zerstört. – Février, P. A., in La mosaïque gréco-romaine II (1975) 298 Taf. 130. – 2. Jh. n. Chr. – Hahnenkampf, Taube und Krater im Zentrum, umgeben von vier Hexagonalen in Kreisen: darin Löwe, Panther, Hirsch und Stier. Möglicherweise handelt es sich um Sommer, Herbst, Winter (?) und Frühling.

210. Aquileia, Haus von Lycurgus und Ambrosia. – Brusin, G., BollArte 49, 1964, 258 Abb. 7; Bertacchi, a. O. 131 (1980) 166 Farbt. 137–138. – 2. Jh. n. Chr. – Lycurgus und Ambrosia, außerdem Felder mit Oceanus, Tethys und Tieren, die die vier Jahreszeiten symbolisieren: Winter: Eber zwischen Binsen; Frühling: Stier mit Blumengirlanden; Sommer: Löwe mit Ähren.

211. Libanon, Villa von Awza'i. – Chéhab, M., BullMusBeyrouth 14, 1957, 128; 15, 1959 Taf. 39. – 2. Hälfte 5. Jh. n. Chr. – Fünf quadratische Felder, getrennt durch Flechtbänder; in der Mitte Büsten mit Blütenkranz, Früchten und ärmellosem Chiton, wahrscheinlich Ge. In den vier übrigen: Tiger oder Panther (Herbst), Löwe (Sommer), Tiger (Winter), Stier (Frühling). Die Deutung ist zweifelhaft.

212. Peyia (Zypern), Ayios Georgios, Basilika A. – Michaelidis, a. O. 179, 48 Nr. 56 Taf. 34. – 6. Jh. n. Chr. – Vier Felder mit sich gegenüberstehenden Tieren: Eber (Winter), Bär (Frühling), Löwe (Sommer) und Zebu (Herbst). Deutung zweifelhaft.

Reliefs

Zahlreiche Sarkophage mit Eroten und Genien weisen Tiere verschiedener Art als Ergänzung der jahreszeitlichen Darstellungen auf; es handelt sich aber nicht um eigenständige Personifikationen, sondern lediglich um Attribute anderer Figuren, weshalb sie in diesem Verzeichnis nicht aufgenommen sind.

213. Zwei Silberskyphoi. Paris, Louvre. Aus dem Schatz von Boscoreale. – Schumacher, W. N., RM 86, 1979, 249. – Mitte 1. Jh. n. Chr. – Nach Schumacher bilden die beiden Becher einen vollständigen Zyklus der Darstellung der vier Jahreszeiten, eine jede nimmt die Hälfte eines Bechers ein. a) Frühling: unten Granatapfel und Hase, oben Korb mit Früchten und Pilzen, sowie Taube; Sommer: oben Fruchtteller und Fackeln, unten Eber und Ähren. Die erste Komposition würde somit auf Venus weisen, die zweite auf Ceres. b) Zweiter Skyphos: Herbst: toter Hase, der die Pfoten nach oben streckt, mit gekreuztem Lagobolon dazwischen; Gefäß voll Trauben und Gans; Winter: Eber, Wasserkrug, Rebmesser und Tisch mit Trauben. Nach Schumacher weisen diese Darstellungen auf Dionysos oder Isis bzw. auf Saturnus.

214. (= 81, = Horai/Horae 86*) Situla aus Vienne. – Frühling: Hore auf Panther; Sommer: auf Stier; Herbst: auf Panther; Winter: auf Eber.

215. Vacat.

O. Tiere, die Wagen ziehen

Polychrome Mosaiken

216. (= 235, = Dionysos/Bacchus [in periphria occ.] 90) Köln, Röm.-Germ. Mus. Aus Köln. – Doppelfeld, O., Das Dionysos-Mosaik am Dom zu Köln (1965) Abb. 4. 17; Parlasca, K., Die römischen Mosaiken in Deutschland (1959) Taf. 66. 75. 77; Kraus, PKG Taf. 344. – Um 150 n. Chr. – In zwei der äußeren Felder jeweils ein Vogelpaar, das kleine Wagen zieht. Sommer: Papageien ziehen einen Wagen, der mit einer großen Sichel und einem sechszahnigen Rechen beladen ist. Herbst: Purpurrühner ziehen einen Wagen voll Trauben.

217. Villa von Piazza Armerina, in situ. – Gentili, G. V., La Villa Erculiana di Piazza Armerina. I mosaici figurati (1959) 19 Taf. 40; Carandini, A./Ricci, A./de Vos, M., Filosofiana, la villa di Piazza Armerina (1982) 282 Abb. 174 Taf. 41. – Mitte 4. Jh. n. Chr. – Vier Quadrigen, von Erosen geführt, werden in einer Zirkusszene von verschiedenen Vogelpaaren gezogen: Sommer: weiße Gänse; Winter: rote Gänse; Herbst: blaue Rebhühner; Frühling: grüne Tauben. Jeder Eros trägt eng um den Hals ein jahreszeitliches Attribut: Ähren, Bienen, Trauben bzw. Blumen.

Sarkophagreliefs

218. = 112. = 68.

219. = 113.

220. = 114***.

221. = 115.

Medaillon

222. (= Herakles 1433* mit Lit.) AE, Mark Aurel (161–180 n. Chr.). – Herkules lenkt eine Quadriga, die von Kentauren mit den Attributen der vier Jahreszeiten gezogen wird. Frühling: Stab (?) über der Schulter mit einem Gegenstand auf der Spitze. Sommer: mit Sichel. Herbst: Fruchtkorb auf dem Kopf. Winter: bedeckter Kopf und möglicherweise zwei Enten in der ausgestreckten r. Hand. Legende TEMPORVM FELICITAS.

P. Pflanzen und Früchte

Zahlreiche Darstellungen zeigen als Ergänzung verschiedene Arten von Pflanzen, die in diesem Katalog nicht aufgenommen sind, da es sich um bloße jahreszeitliche Attribute handelt.

Polychrome Mosaiken

223.* (= Dionysos/Bacchus [in periphria occ.] 17 mit Lit.) El Djem, Mus. Aus Thysdrus. – Parrish Nr. 26 Taf. 38. – Spätantoinisch. – Bacchus auf Tiger; in den Winkeln vier jahreszeitliche Pflanzen. Herbst: Traube; Sommer: Ähren; Frühling: Rosen; Winter: Ölweige.

224. (= Aion 14 mit Lit., = Annus 7) Hippo Regius, in situ. Parrish Nr. 46 Taf. 62. – 1. Hälfte 2. Jh. n. Chr. – Im mittleren Kreis, um die Figur des Aion, vier jahreszeitliche Pflanzen. Herbst: Rebe; Sommer: Ähren; Frühling: Rosen; Winter: Ölweige.

225. (= 85) Die geflügelten Putti, welche die Jahreszeiten darstellen, sind von jahreszeitlichen Pflanzen umgeben. Im Zentrum Aion.

226. (= 204) Vier Pflanzen umgeben die Büste des Dionysos, zwischen Feldern mit den unter 204 beschriebenen Vögeln. Frühling: Rosen; Herbst: Früchte; Sommer: Ähren; Winter: trockene Zweige.

227. Tunis, Bardo A 389. Aus Thugga. – Parrish Nr. 21 Taf. 30b. – 4. Jh. n. Chr. – Grabmosaik des Q. Papirius Fortunatus. Der Verstorbene sitzt im Zentrum, zu seinen Seiten vier große, Rollen formende Pflanzen, die aus Akanthuskelchen wachsen. Winter: Ölbaum; Herbst: Trauben; Sommer: Ähren; Frühling: Rose.

228. Tunis, Bardo 2403. Aus Karthago. – Parrish Nr. 8 Taf. 13–14. – 1. Hälfte 4. Jh. n. Chr. – Vier Pferde fressen Pflanzen, die aus vier hohen Zylindern kommen, vielleicht ein Symbol für die Metae des Zirkus; jedes Pferd trägt ein Halsband einer bestimmten Farbe und frisst eine jahreszeitliche Pflanze, weshalb man Pflanze und Farbe in Beziehung setzen kann. Winter: Ölweige; das Pferd müßte ein weißes Halsband tragen (verloren). Herbst: Trauben, blaues Halsband. Frühling: Rosen, grünes Halsband. Sommer: Ähren, rotes Halsband. Die gleichen Pflanzen bilden die gerade, obere Girlande, welche diesen Teil des Mosaiks von dem darüberliegenden trennt, mit einem großen Pfau im Zentrum.

229. Sfax, Mus. Aus Thina. – Merlin, A./Poinssot, L., Mon Piot 34, 1934, 147. – Jede Quadriga wird flankiert von der für eine Jahreszeit charakteristischen Pflanze. Frühling: grünes Band, Blumen; Herbst: blau, Trauben; Winter: weiß, Oliven.

230. Tunis, Bardo. Aus Dougga. – Dunbabin, Mosaics 256 Taf. 88. – 2. Hälfte 4. Jh. n. Chr. – Quadriga, Eros als Wagenlenker. Jedes Pferd hat zwischen den Ohren eine Pflanze, die ein jahreszeitliches Symbol sein könnte. Erhalten sind Efeuzweige (Winter), Ähren (Sommer) und Blumen (Frühling).

Marmorstatue

231. (= 206) Sommer, Herbst und Winter sind dargestellt durch Ähren, Trauben bzw. zwei Palmen und eine Binse.

Reliefs

232. Marmorsarkophag. Modena, Mus. Lapidario Estense. Aus Modena. – Gabelmann, a. O. 207, 109–110. 139. 164 Nr. 59 Taf. 26–27. – 2. Hälfte 3. Jh. n. Chr. – An den Seiten der Akrotere Zyklus der Jahreszeiten: Frühling: Blumenkorb; Sommer: Ährenbündel; Herbst: Trauben; Winter: Landschaft mit Binsen, zwei Wasservögeln und ascia.

233. (= 68, = Eros/Amor, Cupido 389* mit Lit.) Girlandensarkophag. – Die Girlanden, welche die Erosen halten, sind aus jahreszeitlichen Pflanzen zusammengesetzt: Frühling: Blumen; Sommer: Ähren; Herbst: Trauben; Winter: Ölweige.

Aus Blumentöpfen kommend

Polychrome Mosaiken

234. Thysdrus, in situ (?). Parrish Nr. 30 Taf. 45. – Severisch. – Vier Felder, mit Körben und Pflanzen. Frühling: Rosen; Sommer: Ähren; Herbst: Trauben; Winter: Oliven.

235. (= 216) Parlasca, a. O. 216, Taf. 66. 78–79. – Vier Quadrate, mit Körben und Krateren mit jahreszeitlichen Früchten: Kirschen oder Feigen (Winter) und Äpfel (Frühling).

236. Zerstört. Zeichnung in der Real Academia de la Historia (Madrid). Aus Comunión (Álava). – Blázquez, MosEsp V Nr. 2 Abb. 3. – 3. Jh. n. Chr. – Diana innerhalb eines achteckigen Sterns. In den äußeren Winkeln drei Körbe mit schwer zu identifizierenden Früchten und ein vierter Korb mit geometrischem Motiv. Die Früchte ähneln Trauben, Feigen und Äpfeln und könnten deshalb dem Herbst, Winter und Frühling (?) entsprechen.

Aus Krateren kommend

Polychrome Mosaiken

237. Sousse, Mus. 57042. Aus Hadrumetum. – Parrish Nr. 58 Taf. 79. – Frühseverisch. – Apollo und die Musen; in den Ecken vier Kratere mit Pflanzen: Sommer: Ähren; Winter: Ölweige; Frühling: Rosen; Herbst: Rebe.

238. (= Horai/Horae 221*) Winter: Krater mit Ölweigen; Frühling: mit Rosen; Sommer: mit Ähren; Herbst: mit Trauben.

Reliefs

239. Säulensarkophag, Marmor. Fragmente in Baden-Baden, Basel, Bern, Lugano, Molinazzo di Monteggio. Aus Rom. – Kranz Nr. 3 Taf. 18, 3; 19. 20, 1–3. – Anfang 3. Jh. n. Chr. – Zwischen den Säulen der Frontseite Reste von vier großen, mit Früchten gefüllten Krateren. Von l. nach r.: Krater des Winters, von dem nur ein Teil der Ölweige erhalten ist; er stand auf einem Sockel, der mit Ölweigen verziert war; auf ihm wächst auch ein kleiner Ölbaum; davor Reste eines Schäfers und eines Schafes oder einer Ziege. Krater des Sommers: erhalten Oberteil des Kraters, mit Ähren, über denen ein Eros oder eine kleine weibliche Figur einen Panther am Hals hält. Herbst (r. im letzten Intercolumnium, am besten erhalten): henkelloser Krater mit Früchten und Trauben, umgeben von einem Kranz aus Efeublättern; darüber Reste eines Eros, der in den Früchten wühlt. Auf den Schmalseiten eine Axt (l.) und Reste eines Wagens, von Widdern gezogen und einem Eros gelenkt, der einen Korb mit Ähren in den Armen hält (r.); dies entspricht einer weiteren Darstellung des Sommers.

240. (= 72*) Marmorsarkophag. – In den vier Krateren jahreszeitliche Früchte: Winter: Oliven und Ölweige, am Fuß des Kraters Ölweige; Frühling: Blumen; Sommer: Ähren; Herbst: verschiedene Früchte, am Fuß des Kraters Trauben. Auf jedem Krater pickendes Vogelpaar.

241. Sarkophagfragment. Marmor. Rom, Mus. Naz. Rom. 108677. Aus Borgo S. Spirito. – Kranz Nr. 119 Taf. 21, 1. – Gallienisch. – Im Zentrum der Verstorbene (in ganzer Gestalt); l. Krater mit Ölweigen, mit pickenden Vögeln, und ein Genius mit Mantel, bedecktem Kopf und zwei Enten in der l. Hand; beides sind Darstellungen des Winters. Auf der anderen Seite Reste eines weiteren Kraters.

242. = 208***.

243.* Marmorsarkophag. Rom, Pal. Corsini. – Kranz Nr. 125 Taf. 22, 2. – Um 260 n. Chr. – Ein Kranz über einem kleinen Sockel, flankiert von je zwei Krateren mit den Symbolen der Jahreszeiten. Winter: gefüllt mit Olivenblättern; daneben Hase und Ölweige; Frühling: mit Blumen. Zwischen den beiden ergreift ein Adler (?) eine Schlange, die aus einer mystischen Ciste gekrochen ist. Sommer: mit Ähren; daneben Eber; Herbst: mit Trauben, daneben Panther und Ziegenbock. Auf jedem der Kratere sitzt ein pickendes Vogelpaar.

244. (= Horai/Horae 91) Sarkophagdeckel. Rom. – Zwischen den gelagerten Horae zwei Kratere, der eine mit Blumen und Ähren, der andere mit Trauben und Olivenblättern; dies entspricht den Horae des Frühlings und des Sommers bzw. des Herbstes und des Winters.

Q. Kairoi

Im griechischen Umfeld finden wir eine Reihe von Monumenten mit den Inschriften KAIPOI oder KAAOI KAIPOI. Sie erscheinen vor allem auf Mosaiken, aber auch auf Dokumenten anderer Art. Interessant in diesem Sinne sind (Robert, J. et L., Hellenica IX [1950] 51–66 Taf. 6, 1): ein Altar aus Kalkstein, gewidmet den Moiren und dem Kalokairos, der zweimal zitiert wird: Μοίραις τὸν βασιλὸν Μνήμης καλοῦ Καλοκαίρου Κλήσιππος ποιήσε νέω καλῶ καλοκαίρῳ. Robert sah darin einen Hinweis auf den vergangenen und den kommenden Sommer, doch ist meiner Ansicht nach wahrscheinlicher, daß auf die vergangene und die zukünftige Jahreszeit angespielt wird, ohne zu präzisieren, ob es sich um den Sommer handelt. Das andere Monument ist eine Herme in Istanbul, Arch. Mus., mit der Inschrift Ἀγαθὸν Δαίμονι Ἀγαθὴ Τύχη Καλῶι Καίρῳ Ὀμβροῖς Ἀνέμοις Ἑσπρί (Phallus) Θέρει Μετωπῶρ Χειμῶνι. Hier erscheint Kalos Kairos hinter dem Fortunapaar und müßte die Jahreszeiten bedeuten, vor dem Regen, den Winden und den Namen der Jahreszeiten.

Münzen

245. AE, Laodikeia (Phrygien), Caracalla. – Robinson, E. S. G., NC 1937 241; BMC Phrygia 81. – Rs.: Vier Jünglinge repräsentieren die Jahreszeiten, in der gleichen Art wie auf 11. Legende ΕΥΤΥΧΕΙΣ ΚΑΙΡΟΙ (griech. Wiedergabe von Felicia Tempora, vgl. 16).

Polychrome Mosaiken

246. * Korinth, Grundstück Lekkas, in situ. – Waywell, S. E., AJA 83, 1979, 313 Nr. 23 Taf. 48, 21; Spiro, M., Critical Corpus of the Mosaic Pavements of the Greek Mainland. 4th–6th Centuries (1978) 97 Nr. 42 Taf. 95–97. – 4. Jh. n. Chr. (Waywell); 2. Hälfte 5. Jh. n. Chr. (Spiro). – Drei Felder; im mittleren, zum Teil erhalten, zwei geflügelte Figuren, in kurzem ärmellosen Chiton; sie fliegen über ein Blumenfeld und halten zwischen sich einen Blumenkranz über eine dritte Figur; beide haben sie den Kopf leicht nach hinten gewendet. Über ihnen die Inschrift ΚΑΑΟΙ ΚΑΙΡΟΙ; neben ihnen Bäume und schwebende Büste. Spiro schlägt eine Identifikation mit den Monaten Mai, Juni und Juli vor, obwohl es eher scheint, daß es sich um eine Allegorie des Frühlings handelt. In den Feldern l. u. r.: sich gegenüberstehende Vögel beidseits eines Pflanzenmotivs.

247. * Delphi, Christliche Basilika. – Spiro, a. O. 246, 239–251 Nr. 83 Taf. 259–270. – Ende 5. oder Anfang 6. Jh. n. Chr. – Mittleres Emblem mit Leopard, der einen Hirsch anfällt; in den vier umgebenden Zwickeln je eine laufende männliche Figur, nur die beiden auf der l. Seite sind erhalten. Die obere (kurzer, ärmellos Chiton) hält ein Gefäß mit Früchten; man erkennt eine Traube und eine große runde, gestreifte Frucht, die eine Wassermelone sein könnte; nach Spiro ausserdem Aubergine, Kürbis und Pfirsich. Nach Spiro der August, aber es scheint eher der Herbst zu sein. Zu seiner l. Seite, KA. Die untere Figur (ähnlicher Chiton, aber mit Clavus, Stiefel, Ährenkranz) hält ein großes Ährenbündel; l. von ihr, KAI. Nach Spiro der Juli, aber es ist ohne Zweifel der Sommer. Die Inschrift legt die Lektüre ΚΑΙΡΟΙ ΚΑΙΡΟΙ nahe.

248. Ehem. Tegea, christliches Gebäude, verloren. Spiro, a. O. 246, 194–196 Nr. 70. – 2. Hälfte 5. Jh. n. Chr. – Zwei Jünglinge mit flatternden Umhängen, die nach vorne laufen, um einem dritten Körbe mit Früchten anzubieten; letzterer in kurzärmeligem Chiton bis zum Knie, in der einen Hand Zweig, in der anderen Teller mit Früchten; in den Körben sind Melonen, Auberginen, Äpfel und Birnen, weshalb Spiro glaubt, es müßten Juni, Juli und August sein, da diese Früchte auf 247 von den Monaten des Sommers ge-tragen würden. Es könnte aber auch einfach die Personifikation des Sommers oder des Herbstes sein. Darüber die Inschrift ΚΑΑΟΙ ΚΑΙΡΟΙ.

KOMMENTAR

Im folgenden sind die Tempora anni wie im Katalog in verschiedene Gruppen eingeteilt: Knaben, die wir als Putti oder Eroten bezeichnet haben, und Jünglinge oder ältere Personen, Genien genannt. Unter ihnen wird zwischen geflügelten und ungeflügelten Darstellungen unterschieden, obwohl sie häufig verwechselt werden können oder beide Typen an demselben Monument erscheinen. Schließlich folgen unabhängige Gruppen für alle diejenigen, welche in keine der obengenannten aufgenommen werden können: jahreszeitliche Aktivitäten, Tiere und Pflanzen.

Ungeflügelte Putti

Die Gruppe der ungeflügelten Putti (1–34) ist sehr zahlreich, und es können verschiedene Unterteilungen vorgenommen werden. Die erste bezieht sich auf die Haltung, mehr oder weniger tanzend, obwohl auch dieser Gesichtspunkt nicht allein maßgebend ist, da manchmal nicht alle Putti eines bestimmten Monuments die gleiche Haltung einnehmen. Diese erste Gruppe (1–19) enthält Exemplare, die zwischen das 1. Viertel des 2. Jh. n. Chr. und das 4. Jh. n. Chr. datiert werden; hauptsächlich erscheinen sie auf Grabreliefs, aber auch auf einer Reihe von Münzen und Medaillons (11–19), selten hingegen auf Sarkophagen – mit Ausnahme der, nach Kranz, sehr alten Girlandensarkophage – und Mosaiken. Das älteste Beispiel ist das Grab der Haterii (5), datiert um das Jahr 120 n. Chr., fast zeitgleich mit den ersten Medaillons des Hadrian (11). Die folgende Gruppe, bestehend aus den Darstellungen in langsamer Bewegung, ist etwas weniger zahlreich (20–29), aber von noch größerem Interesse, da sie die älteste, noch sehr atypische Darstellung dieser Art von Personifikationen (20) enthält, aus julisch-claudischer Zeit. Die Chronologie dieser Gruppe, welche auch Grabreliefs, Medaillons und Münzen enthält, bewegt sich zwischen diesem Zeitpunkt und dem 4. Jh. n. Chr. Mit Ausnahme der frühen Darstellung sind die übrigen Zeugnisse zeitgleich mit denen der vorigen Gruppe, mit den Medaillons des Hadrian (22–11) als den ältesten unter ihnen. Die dritte Gruppe, welche die Figuren in stehender Position, fast bewegungslos, bilden, reicht vom Relief des Trajansbogens in Benevent (30) und hadrianischen Monumenten (31) bis ins 4. Jh. n. Chr. (33). Man kann deshalb sagen, es handle sich um eine Art von Reliefdarstellung, die im wesentlichen auf Grab- und Gedenksteinen erscheint, kaum dagegen auf Sarkophagen und so gut wie gar nicht auf Mosaiken.

Faßt man alle Unterteilungen in einer einzigen Gruppe zusammen, so ist das früheste, wenn auch noch sehr atypische Dokument der Altar des Palazzo Rondinini (20), dem der Trajansbogen in Benevento (30) und die hadrianischen Medaillons (11–22) folgen, während die spätesten die Solidi des Konstantin (19) und einige Konsolen der «Casa di Rienzo» (21) aus der gleichen Zeit sind. Die Attribute der Reliefs des Palazzo Rondinini (20) (Kugel, Weinranke, Vogel und Hase) entsprechen, nach Lorenz, dem Sommer, Herbst, Frühling und Winter und sind in Händen nur zweier Figuren, eine atypische Tatsache, ebenso wie die Kugel als Attribut des Sommers, sowohl in der Gesamtheit der Darstellungen von Putti im besonderen, als auch der Ikonographie von Horae und Tempora anni im allgemeinen.

Unter allen Putti überwiegen Frühling, Sommer und Herbst als gänzlich oder teilweise nackte Darstellungen, mit einer Chlamys, die über die Schultern und den Rücken fällt, wenn auch eine Nebris tragen (Frühling: 6; Sommer: 33); als einziger folgt der Winter nicht diesem Schema, er kann mit kurzem Chiton auftreten (1. 4, mit bedecktem Kopf 11–19), in einen Mantel gehüllt, der bis zu den Knien reicht, den Kopf bedeckend (30) oder freilassend (5), mit phrygischer Mütze und Kleidung des Attis (6), oder mit einem kurzen Ärmelchiton bedeckt, mit Hosen und Stiefeln (23–24); der letztgenannte Typus erscheint auf Münzen des Septimius Severus, ebenso finden wir ihn auf Jahreszeitensarkophagen vom Ende des 3. und Anfang des 4. Jh., mit kurzem Chiton, Mantel, der den Kopf bedeckt, Stiefeln und ohne Hosen (32–33).

Was die Attribute betrifft, so kann der Frühling einen Blumenkorb halten (30. 32. 33); im ersten Fall tritt er außerdem auf eine Schlange; in den übrigen hält er in der anderen Hand eine Girlande, diesen auf den Schultern (4) oder auf dem Kopf tragen (11–19. 22–24); ebenso kann er ein Füllhorn mit Blumen haben und einen Widder zu seinen Füßen (6), einen Vogel (20) oder einen jungen Hirsch (29). In den frühesten Zeugnissen trägt er einen Vogel (20) oder einen Blumenkorb auf dem Kopf (11–19. 22–24). Der Sommer zeigt als charakteristisches Attribut die Sichel, ergänzt von einem Ährenbündel (4. 5. 9. 11–19. 22–24. 31. 33), Ähren in der Hand (6. 32. 33), Korb mit Ähren (30) und Kugel (20, sehr zweifelhaft). Zweifelhafte ist auch 1, das einzige Mosaik der Gruppe, das eine Figur, bekleidet mit kurzem Chiton und Hut, zeigt, vor sich in einem Korb oder in einer Falte des Mantels einige dreieckige, nicht identifizierbare Objekte haltend, die sich auf die Blumen des Frühlings beziehen könnten, obwohl der Hut, den die Figur trägt, eher auf den Sommer hinweist. Der Herbst trägt als Attribut seltener den Früchtekorb (4) oder einen Blumenstrauß in einer Hand, in der anderen einen Korb mit Früchten (5. 32); das häufigste Attribut sind jedoch Trauben und Reben (6. 20. 26. 27. 30. 33), die manchmal von einem Früchtekorb über der anderen Schulter ergänzt werden (7. 8). Auf Münzen und Medaillons findet sich der Typus, welcher in einer Hand einen Früchtekorb, in der anderen einen Hasen oder ein Zicklein an den Beinen hält (11–19. 22–24). Das Attribut auf dem einzigen Mosaik dieser Gruppe (1) ist ein Hase über der Schulter. Der Winter kann ein Füllhorn und Enten tragen (6), einen Hasen und einen trockenen Zweig, von dem ein Hase und ein Vogel oder nur ein oder zwei Vögel hängen, obwohl dies sehr schwer zu präzisieren ist (11–19. 22–24); auch kann er einen Hasen (20), zwei Enten (30), ein Lagobolon und eine Ente (33), Binsen (32) und einen Vogel mit sich führen, aber in diesem Fall ist die Figur vor einer Schilflandschaft dargestellt (1). Dieses einzige Mosaik der Gruppe weist einige Unregelmäßigkeiten auf, wie wir oben gesehen haben.

Eine Gruppe für sich bilden die ungeflügelten Putti, welche in Verbindung mit anderen Gottheiten auftreten, unter ihnen Tellus, Nilus, Tyche, Horae, Aion oder der Kaiser. Neben Tellus erscheinen sie auf einigen Mosaiken (35. 36) und verschiedenen Reliefs (37–40), die Chronologie reicht von der Zeit des Augustus bis zum 4. Jh. n. Chr. Das älteste Dokument jedoch, die Gemma Augustea (38), ist sehr atypisch, da Tellus selbst verschiedene Jahreszeiten zu personifizieren scheint, mit ihren Attributen wie Efeublättern, Reben und Füllhorn, und mit nackter Brust; einer der nackten Putti, die sie begleiten, hält Ähren in den Händen und stellt den Sommer dar. Die anderen Monumente aus dem 2. bis 4. Jh. n. Chr. entsprechen bereits mehr der Regel, obwohl auf einigen von ihnen (36. 37) die Anordnung und die Attribute der Putti keine eindeutige Identifikation der Jahreszeiten zulassen. Auf allen erscheint Tellus gelagert, mit nackter Brust und umgeben von vier Eroten. Frühling, Sommer und Herbst sind völlig nackt (35) oder mit einer Chlamys, die ihnen über die Schultern und über den Rücken fällt, aber manchmal sind einige nackt und andere mit Chiton bekleidet (39, Frühling). Die jahreszeitlichen Attribute sind für den Frühling ein Kranz auf dem Kopf und Girlande (36) oder Zicklein (39) in den Händen; einmal ergreift er die Schleife der Himmelskrone (40), wenn die Interpretation des oberen Bogens auf der Münze des Antoninus Pius zutrifft. Der Sommer erscheint mit Ährenkranz (35), Ähren (38) oder Ähren und Sichel (39. 40), der Herbst mit Kranz mit Früchten und Trauben (35), Reben (39), und als Ergänzung kann ein Widder zu seinen Füßen hinzukommen (37). Der Winter schließlich, mit einem Mantel, der den Kopf bedeckt, kann als Attribute eine Binse (35), einen Zweig (39) oder eine Binse und ein totes Tier haben (40).

Mit Nilus sind nur ein Mosaik und einige Münzen erhalten, alle 2. bis 3. Jh. n. Chr. Die Putti sind normalerweise nackt. Die Identifikation des Frühlings bereitet die größte Schwierigkeit, da er entweder fehlt oder auf einen Eros reduziert ist, der ein Nilpferd reitet oder die r. Hand zum Kopf führt (42); er kann jedoch auch einen Blumenkorb auf den Schultern tragen (43). Der Sommer hat als Attribute Sichel und Ähren (41. 42) oder nur Sichel (43), der Winter, mit bedecktem Kopf, hat einen gabelförmigen Stab (41), Binsen (42) oder ein totes Tier, das er an den Vorderpfoten hält, und einen Stab in den Händen (43).

Für die Verbindung von Putti und Tyche ist nur ein Beispiel bekannt (44).

Etwas zahlreicher sind die Fälle, in denen Putti in Verbindung mit Horae erscheinen und als Karpoi auftreten. 36 haben wir bereits als Sonderfall beschrie-ben, da hier die Karpoi getrennt von den Horae und in Verbindung mit Ge dargestellt sind. Normalerweise erscheinen sie dagegen in enger Verbindung mit ihnen (45–47), und fast immer führen sie auch jahreszeitliche Attribute mit sich. Die Karpoi sind nackt und tragen als Attribute einen Blumenkranz und einen Zweig in der Hand (Frühling), Ähren (Sommer), einen Kranz aus Trauben und eine Rebe in der Hand (Herbst) und einen Junghasen (Winter).

Auf einer Reihe von Medaillons und Münzen aus dem 3. Jh. n. Chr. laufen die Jahreszeiten-Putti durch den Zodiacus, mit schwer identifizierbaren Attributen (49–51). Man kann diese aber im Relief des Bogens von Reims (48) sehen, wo die Putti die Gottheit flankieren; Herbst und Frühling sind nackt, mit einer Chlamys um den Hals, der Winter mit bedecktem Kopf. Als Attribute tragen sie jeweils Früchtekorb, Blumenkorb oder einen Zweig.

Die Putti, die kaiserliche Gaben empfangen, sind auf Medaillons der severischen Zeit des 3. Jh. n. Chr. beschränkt (53–55), auf denen der Kaiser, sein Füllhorn über die vier Jahreszeiten-Putti ausgießend, abgebildet ist.

Schließlich können in diese Gruppe auch die ungeflügelten Eroten aufgenommen werden, die auf Tieren reiten oder Wagen lenken; sie erscheinen auf einigen Gemälden, Mosaiken und Reliefs auf Sarkophagdeckeln, alle datiert in das 2. und 3. Jh. n. Chr. Auf einem der Mosaiken sind Eroten dargestellt, die auf verschiedenen Tieren reiten: Frühling, Stier; Sommer, Löwe; Herbst, Panther. Sie sind nackt und tragen als Attribute Blumenkranz und Behälter mit Blumen, Ährenkranz und Ähren und Sichel, bzw. Kranz aus Trauben und Korb mit Trauben (57); auf dem anderen ist der Herbst abgebildet, einen Panther reitend, mit einem Kranz aus Weinlaub und einer Nebris quer über der Brust (58).

Auf Sarkophagdeckeln lenken nackte Putti Bigen; Zugtiere sind Hirsche, Ziegenböcke, Panther und Löwen, mit Attributen wie Blumenkorb und Zweig, Lagobolon und Korb, Ährenkorb und Sichel, bzw. Blumenkorb und Zweig (59); die Identifikation mit den einzelnen Jahreszeiten ist problematisch, mit Sicherheit entspricht jedoch die dritte dem Sommer. Auf einem anderen erscheint der Winter, bekleidet mit kurzem Ärmelchiton und phrygischer Mütze; er lenkt einen Wagen, der von Ebern gezogen wird, und hält eine große Binse in der Hand (60).

Geflügelte Putti

Für die geflügelten Putti haben wir die gleichen Gruppen aufgestellt wie für die ungeflügelten, und wir finden hier die gleiche Problematik vor. Die Gruppe der tanzenden Putti umfaßt hauptsächlich Jahreszeitensarkophage und Mosaiken, mit einer Chronologie zwischen dem 1. Viertel des 2. Jh. n. Chr. und dem 4. Jh. n. Chr. (61–82). Die ältesten sind zwei Girlandensarkophage, auf denen vier nackte Eroten mit Kränzen aus jahreszeitlichen Pflanzen (Blumen, Ähren, Trauben – im anderen Fall Efeublätter, Granatäpfel, Weinlaub und Trauben – und Ölweige) eine üppige Girlande halten, die ebenfalls aus jahreszeitlichen Pflanzen besteht (68–69). Etwas später sind die Putti der Gewölbe und Mosaiken von Ostia und Antiochia, obwohl der größte Teil der Mosaiken bereits aus dem 3. und 4. Jh. ist, ähnlich wie auch die Sarkophage. Auf den Mosaiken sind Frühling und Sommer nackt, wenngleich mit einer Chlamys, die nach hinten fällt und einen Teil der Brust oder des Bauchs bedecken kann (61–66); der Herbst erscheint einige Male mit der gleichen Bekleidung (61, 64, 66), ein anderes Mal mit kurzem Chiton, verziert mit Clavus, und Mantel (62, 63). Die Attribute sind folgende: Der Frühling trägt einen Kranz aus Blättern und Blumen, in den Händen ein Tablett mit Napf und Pedom (61), einen Behälter mit Quark (Ricotta) und ein Zicklein an den Vorderbeinen (62), einen Teller oder ein Tablett mit Blumen (63), ein unbestimmtes Objekt und Pedom (64), Schwalbe und Pedom, von dem ein Eimer mit Milch hängt (65), Schwalbe und Blumenkorb (66). Der Sommer: mit Ährenkranz, in den Händen Ähren und Sichel (62, 63), Korb und Pedom (64), Sense und Rosen (65) und Kranz und Blumenkorb (66). Der Herbst: Kranz aus Weinlaub und Behälter mit Trauben (61), Rebmesser und Korb mit Trauben (62), Rebmesser und ein mit Früchten gefüllter Korb (63), Behälter mit Früchten (64, 65). Der Winter, mit Chiton und Mantel, der den Kopf bedeckt, trägt als Attribute einen Krug (62), Napf mit Oliven (?) (63), Hacke und Ente (?) (64), Stäbe und Hacke (65), Hacke und trockenen Zweig (66). Es handelt sich augenscheinlich um fast ebenso viele Varianten wie Monumente, ohne daß man, außer im Falle des Sommers, von einem allgemeinen Prototyp der Attribute sprechen könnte; außerdem sind diese sehr verschieden von den in der vorherigen Gruppe untersuchten und von denen, die wir im folgenden sehen werden.

Die Putti der Reliefs sind auf ähnliche Weise gekleidet wie die der Mosaiken, wenn auch mit Varianten (Nebris für alle Jahreszeiten auf 72, Chiton und Mantel für den Herbst von 74), und sie zeigen als Attribute, abgesehen von den klassischen Kränzen, die folgenden: Frühling: Girlande und Lamm auf dem Rücken (81), Blumenkörbe und Girlanden (70), Blumenkorb und einen Vogel – mit einem Zicklein neben der Personifikation – (71), Blumenstrauß (72) und Blumenkorb (73). Sommer: ein Kalb zwischen den Beinen (70), Ähren in den Händen und zu Füßen ein Pfau und weitere Ähren (71), eine Sichel (72), Sichel und Getreideschwinge (81), Ähren in einer Falte der Chlamys (73) oder in den Händen (78). Herbst: ein Panther zwischen den Beinen (70), Korb mit Trauben und Weinlaub in den Händen, zu Füßen ein Widder (71), Korb mit Trauben und Rebe (72), Früchtekorb (81), Trauben (77, 81), Früchtekorb und Thyrsos (73), Thyrsos und Hase (74) oder Pedom und Hase (75). Winter: Korb mit Ölweigen und zu Füßen ein Eber (70); zwei Enten und eine Binse und ein weiterer Eber zu Füßen (71), oder ein Stock statt einer Binse (74), ohne Eber (75), oder ein Pedom und zwei Vögel, an den Hinterbeinen gehalten (81), oder ein Pinienzweig und ein Hund (?) (76).

Zu der Gruppe mit ungeflügelten Eroten in langsamer Bewegung (83–107) gehören einige Gemälde

und Mosaiken, und vor allem eine breite Gruppe von Reliefs, hauptsächlich Sarkophagdeckel und Jahreszeitensarkophage; sie werden datiert von der Zeit des Claudius (87), nach Simon – des Hadrian, nach Toynbee –, an bis ins 3. Jh. n. Chr., mit einem Schwerpunkt im gesamten 2. Jh. und in severischer Zeit. Wie üblich erscheinen Frühling und Sommer nackt, mit einer Chlamys über den Schultern, während der Herbst manchmal nackt, manchmal mit Nebris (85, 87) oder Chiton (83) bekleidet ist; der Winter trägt normalerweise Chiton und Mantel, der den Kopf bedeckt, Stiefel und gelegentlich auch Hosen; in einigen Varianten fehlt der Mantel (89, 90), oder er trägt nur einen kurzen Chiton, der eine der Schultern freiläßt (87, 88), oder er ist vollkommen nackt (92). Charakteristisch für die Jahreszeitensarkophage ist der Winter mit Chiton, Mantel, Hosen und Stiefeln. Das älteste Dokument, wenn wir die Datierung von Simon in claudische Zeit annehmen, ist der Altar von Würzburg (87), auf dem Frühling und Sommer nackt erscheinen, mit einer Chlamys über dem Rücken, und der Winter mit Chiton, der eine Schulter freiläßt. Ihre Attribute sind ein Teller mit Blumen und eine Girlande für den Frühling, für den Sommer ein Zweig Schlafmohn und eine Sichel, für den Herbst Pedom und ein Korb mit Trauben und für den Winter eine Amphore und vielleicht eine Ente. Diese Attribute sind die häufigsten, ihre Kombinationen jedoch können beträchtlich variieren. So kann der Frühling Rosen sammelnd erscheinen (84), mit einem Korb mit Rosen, oder mit Rosen (85, 86, 89, 90, 98), Girlanden (92), Blumen in einer Falte seiner Chlamys (94, 95, 100), Girlande und Früchtekorb (96), Korb mit Blumengirlanden (97), Blumenkörbe auf der Schulter (102), oder mit einem Zicklein (88). Der Sommer tritt auf mit Schlafmohn und Sichel (87), Sichel und Ähren (94, 95, 96, 98, 101), manchmal mit Hut (100), oder er ist Ähren schneidend dargestellt, oder beladen mit einem Ährenbündel (89) oder mit Körben mit Ähren (91). Der Herbst: Rebmesser und Korb (83) oder Rebmesser und Rebe (96), Trauben (84, 89, 90, 91, 94, 95), Körbe mit Trauben (92, 101), Trauben und Pedom (85), Früchte in einer Falte seiner Kleidung (98, 105), Früchtekorb und Zicklein (100) oder Rebe und Hase (106). Der Winter schließlich, mit Amphore und Ente (87) oder Schwein (?) (88), ein Zicklein auf den Schultern oder einen Hasen, an den Löffeln gepackt (89), Ente und Hase (90, 92), Binsen (91), Binse und Hase (95), Binse und Ente (96) oder Enten (101), Zicklein und Ente, zu Füßen ein Pedom (97), Ente (98, 104) oder mit Stock über der Schulter, an dem tote Tiere hängen (100).

Die letzte Gruppe, die von stehenden Putti gebildet wird, ist wesentlich kleiner und erscheint nur auf Reliefs und Skulpturen. Am wichtigsten von ihnen ist der Bogen des Septimius Severus; er zeigt Frühling, Sommer und Herbst nackt oder fast nackt, den Winter mit Chiton und Mantel, den charakteristischen Attributen (108).

Die geflügelten Putti, die auf Tieren reiten oder Wagen lenken, sind aus dem 2. und 3. Jh. n. Chr.; erstere finden wir in einem Mosaik aus Nordafrika (111) mit Frühling, Sommer und Herbst nackt dargestellt, der Winter trägt Chiton und Mantel, und die Attribute sind Blumen, Ähren und Trauben; die zweiten sind auf verschiedenen Jahreszeiten- oder Girlandensarkophagdeckeln dargestellt (112–115): Frühling, Sommer und Herbst nackt oder halbnackt, in Wagen, die von Bären und Stieren, Löwen und Ziegenböcken, Stieren, bzw. Panther und Ziegenböcken gezogen werden; der wagenlenkende Putto kann auch bekleidet auftreten (der Herbst von 113 mit Nebris), auf jeden Fall werden charakteristische Attribute getragen, in den Händen oder in Form eines Korbes.

Ungeflügelte Genien

Die ungeflügelten männlichen Figuren, und zwar Jünglinge oder reife Personen, haben wir unter dem Begriff Genien zusammengefaßt. Auf Mosaiken und Gemälden sind sie zahlreicher als die vorhergehenden, besonders häufig sind sie jedoch auf Jahreszeitensarkophagen. Tanzend sind sie dokumentiert zwischen dem 2. und 3. Jh. n. Chr., obwohl eine Urne von Sempeter existiert, die, ohne absolute Sicherheit, in das 1. Jh. n. Chr. datiert wird (120), und ein entfernter Vorläufer auf dem Fries von Hagios Eleutherios von Athen, datiert in die hellenistische Zeit (→ Horai 50). Auf Wandmalereien von Ostia (116, 117) erscheinen vereinzelte Figuren, die dem Frühling entsprechen, mit einem Zicklein, und dem Herbst, mit einem Pedom und einem Teller mit Früchten. Auf anderen Monumenten sind Frühling, Sommer und Herbst nackt dargestellt, der Winter mit Chiton und Mantel bekleidet; die Attribute sind für den Frühling Kranz und Napf (118) oder Rose (119); für den Sommer Zweige (118) oder Getreideähren (119); für den Herbst Pedom und Teller mit Früchten oder Reben; für den Winter Kranz und Teller (118) oder zwei Enten (119). Das bereits erwähnte Relief von Sempeter (120) zeigt atypische Figuren: ein Jüngling, bekleidet mit einem kurzen Chiton, trägt einen großen Hasen auf dem Kopf; ein weiterer ist ebenfalls nackt, mit Pedom, Früchtekorb (?) und toten Tieren; es könnte sich um den Winter bzw. den Herbst handeln, beim letzteren mit bestimmten Zweifeln.

In nicht tanzender Bewegung herrschen diese Darstellungen vor allem auf Reliefs und Sarkophagen vor, zwischen der Mitte des 1. und der Mitte des 4. Jh. n. Chr., der größte Teil im 2. und 3. Jh. n. Chr. Frühling, Sommer und Herbst sind normalerweise nackt, oder mit der gewohnten Chlamys, sie können aber auch mit kurzem Chiton bekleidet auftreten (123, 127). Als Attribute, abgesehen von den üblichen Kränzen, zeigt der Frühling unbestimmbare Objekte, allein (122) oder in Verbindung mit einem Zicklein, das er mit der anderen Hand an den Hinterbeinen hält (125, 127), mit einem Zicklein über den Schultern (123) und Blumen (126). Der Sommer hat Ähren (126), Sichel und Ähren (123, 127), Sichel und Korb mit Ähren (125), Sichel und Pedom (124), der Herbst Tablett und Früchtekorb (122), Pedom und Rhyton (123), Rebmesser und Früchtekorb (125), Thyrsos (126), Hase und Früchtekorb (127) und Früchte, die er in einer Falte seiner Chlamys hält (129). Der Winter trägt kurzen Chiton und Mantel, der den Kopf bedeckt, kann aber auch gelegentlich mit einer Nebris (125) oder Hosen (127) bekleidet sein; als Attribute dienen Hase und Stab oder Stock, an dem zwei Enten hängen (123, 125, 127).

Genien ohne Bewegung sind sehr zahlreich auf Mosaiken und Sarkophagen, von der Mitte des 2. bis zum 6. Jh. n. Chr. Frühling, Sommer und Herbst sind üblicherweise nackt oder tragen die charakteristische Chlamys, sie können jedoch auch kurzen Chiton tragen und gelegentlich einen Mantel (131, 133, 139, 140, 142, 145 – der Sommer einen kurzen Rock) oder eine Nebris (135). Die Attribute des Frühlings sind: Korb und Zweig mit Blumen (133) oder Korb und Blume, mit Blumen an den Seiten (145), Korb mit Blumen und Vögel (135), Spiegel (?) (139), Korb mit Blumen und Girlande (142), Lagobolon und Hase (143), Girlanden und Blumenstrauß (144), Blumen in einer Falte seiner Chlamys (146). Diejenigen des Sommers: Sichel und Ährenbündel (131), in einem Fall wird die Figur von zwei Amphoren flankiert (135), in einem anderen von zwei Ölbäumen (139) und in einem dritten von Ähren und einem Früchtekorb (145), Sichel und Korb mit Ähren (143), zwischen Ähren (142), Sichel und Korb mit Ähren (144), Krug und Blumen (133). Diejenigen des Herbstes: Trauben (131, 135, 141, 144), Blume und Blumenstrauß (133), Sichel und Rebe, eine von zwei Weinranken flankierte Figur (139), Rebe und Korb mit Trauben, allein (148) oder mit einem Zicklein zu Füßen des Genius (143), Korb mit Früchten (142), Rebmesser und Korb mit Trauben (145), Früchte in einer Falte seiner Chlamys (147). Der Winter trägt kurzen Chiton und Mantel, der den Kopf bedeckt, und Stiefel; in einem Fall ist er nackt, nur von einer Nebris bedeckt (138), in einem anderen Fall ist er nackt und hat den Kopf bedeckt (149). Seine Attribute sind landwirtschaftliche Geräte und Enten (132, 138) oder Binsen (133), Korb mit Oliven (135), Käfig mit Vögeln oder ein Fanggerät (?) (139), Hase und Binse, auf dem Boden ein Korb mit Oliven (142), Enten und Binsen, allein (144) oder mit einem Eber zu Füßen des Genius (143), Hase und Zweig, von dem zwei Enten hängen (145), Lamm, an den Hinterbeinen gehalten, und Stab, von dem zwei tote Vögel hängen (149).

Geflügelte Genien

Die geflügelten Genien in Bewegung sind sehr selten (150–152) und befinden sich alle auf Jahreszeitsarkophagen, datiert in die 2. Hälfte des 3. Jh. n. Chr.; quer über der Brust tragen sie eine Chlamys, mit Ausnahme des Winters, der mit Chiton und Mantel erscheint. Als Attribute trägt der Frühling Girlanden und Blumenkörbe, der Sommer Korb mit Ähren und Sichel, in einem Fall auch mit einem Kalb zu seinen Füßen (152); der Herbst Pedum und Hasen, mit Früchtekorb und einer Maske zu seinen Füßen, oder Pedum und Früchtekorb, mit Kranz aus Weinlaub und einem Panther zu Füßen, oder Thyrsos und Früchtekorb, ebenfalls mit Panther; der Winter Binse und Korb, möglicherweise mit Oliven, zu Füßen ein Eber oder eine weitere Binse.

Die bewegungslosen Genien sind weitaus zahlreicher und erscheinen fast ausschließlich auf Jahreszeitsarkophagen (153–165). Sie werden in das 3. und 4. Jh. n. Chr. datiert, hauptsächlich in die 2. Hälfte des 3. Jh. Die übliche Bekleidung von Frühling, Sommer und Herbst ist die Chlamys quer über der Brust oder über den Rücken fallend, im Falle des Winters können als Ergänzung ein kurzer Chiton (157) oder Hosen in der Art des Attis (159) hinzukommen, doch trifft man auch den typischen Mantel, der den Kopf bedeckt (165). Die Attribute sind komplexer, da zu denen, welche die Personifikationen in Händen halten, weitere hinzukommen, neben oder unter ihnen, häufig von Erosen oder Putti getragen. In einem Fall (158) trägt jeder der Genien ein Füllhorn, gefüllt mit verschiedenen jahreszeitlichen Früchten, was die konkrete Zuweisung jeder Personifikation zu einer Jahreszeit nicht zuläßt. Fast alle tragen charakteristische Kränze. Häufig sind die Sarkophage, auf deren Vorderseite sechs oder acht Genien erscheinen, obwohl, wie Kranz bereits zeigte, in der überwiegenden Mehrzahl nur vier von ihnen jahreszeitlichen Darstellungen entsprechen; in einem Fall (163) erscheinen sie auch auf den kleineren Seiten verdoppelt. Als Attribute trägt der Frühling Blumenkorb und Zweig (153), in einem Fall mit einer Antilope zu seinen Füßen (160), in einem anderen mit einem Eros mit Girlande (163); Girlande und Zweig (157), in einem Fall mit Kranz und Blumenkorb zu seinen Füßen; Blumenkorb (154), Blumenkorb und Girlande (165), mit einem Pfau (155, 164), Erosen (156) oder einem Widder zu Füßen des Genius, oder ein Schäfer, der an der Seite des Genius eine Ziege melkt; die übrigen Attribute sind verschwunden (159). Der Sommer: Sichel (164), Sichel und Früchtekorb (165), Korb mit Ähren (154), in einem Fall mit einem Löwen zu seinen Füßen (161), in einem anderen Fall mit einem Eros mit Ährenkorb und Sichel, Ährenkorb und Ähre, mit einem Kalb zu Füßen (160), Korb mit Ähren und Hase (157), Sichel und Ährenkorb (155), mit einem Hirsch (156) oder einem Ährenkorb zu Füßen, oder ein Bauer, der neben dem Genius Ähren schneidet; die übrigen Attribute sind verschwunden (159). Der Herbst: mit Trauben, die von einem Putto gereicht werden (153), Korb mit Trauben (154), Rebe und Vase (165), Trauben und Thyrsos (160), Thyrsos (164), Korb und Thyrsos, mit einer Gruppe von Putti, die zu seinen Füßen auf einem Panther reitet, Thyrsos und ein weiteres, verlorengegangenes Attribut, mit einem Panther zu Füßen (161); Füllhorn und Hase mit einem Eros mit Hund und Lagobolon, ein weiterer auf einem Panther (155), oder mit nur einem Eros mit einem Korb mit Trauben und Hund (156); Pedum (157), Früchtekorb und Lagobolon (162). Der Winter schließlich erscheint mit zwei Enten und einem verlorenen Attribut (153), Füllhorn mit Früchten und zwei Enten (155), Binse und zwei Enten, mit Eber zu seinen Füßen (156, 157, 160, 161); Binse und Korb (164), nur mit Eber (159), Hase und Korb mit Oliven (162), Enten und Lamm (165).

Sitzende Genien

Sitzende Genien sind sehr spärlich. In einem Fall (166) handelt es sich um einen Alten, der den Winter darstellt, während die anderen drei ebenfalls sitzenden Figuren weiblich sind. In einem anderen Fall, vom Anfang des 5. Jh. n. Chr. (168), treten sie mit Chiton und Mantel auf; als Attribute trägt der Winter ein Entenpaar und einen Früchtekorb, der Frühling einen Früchtekorb, ebenso wie Sommer und Herbst; die Identifikation wird durch die vorhandenen Aufschriften neben den Jahreszeiten bestimmt, sowie durch einige sekundäre Attribute, die neben ihnen erscheinen: ein Busch mit Blüten und Früchten neben dem Frühling, Ähren neben dem Sommer.

Köpfe und Büsten

Im Gegensatz zu den Horae sind bei den männlichen Darstellungen Köpfe und Büsten sehr selten. Von den ersteren ist nur eine zu berücksichtigen (169). Von den letzteren gibt es dagegen mehrere Monumente (171–182), vornehmlich auf Gemälden und Mosaiken, aber auch einmal auf einem Grabrelief. Sie sind alle datiert zwischen das späte 2. und das Ende des 4. Jh. n. Chr. und sind ungeflügelt. Einige Büsten des Herbstes sind zweifelhaft, da sie in einen Komplex von Büsten von Horae eingeschlossen sind, aber mit männlichen Zügen, weil dionysisch (174); zweimal ist nur der männliche Winter erhalten (172, 173). Im Unterschied zu den Horae tragen fast alle diese männlichen Büsten Attribute in den Händen oder über den Schultern, aber auch Kränze aus Blättern und jahreszeitliche Früchte, ohne daß diese jedoch das hauptsächliche Element für ihre Identifikation darstellen würden. Was die Kleidung betrifft, so tragen Frühling und Herbst normalerweise Chiton oder Chiton und Mantel, gelegentlich aber auch Nebris (179), ebenso wie der Sommer. Der Winter dagegen trägt Chiton und Mantel, der den Kopf bedeckt. Als Attribute hat der Frühling Sträuße (175) oder Blumengirlanden (178), Pedum oder Baummesser (179) und Früchtekorb (182), der Sommer Ährenbündel (175) und Ähre (182), der Herbst eine Weinranke beladen mit Trauben (175) und ein Rebmesser (179), der Winter einen Zweig mit zwei Enten (173), eine Ente (182), eine Binse mit Kürbis (?), zwei Enten und drei Fische (178) und eine Amphore, aus der Wasser strömt (179).

Hermen und Masken

In beiden Fällen gibt es nur wenige Exemplare, und sie erscheinen auf Sarkophagen oder Sarkophagdeckeln; erstere sind in das 2., letztere in das 3. Jh. n. Chr. datiert. Die Hermen befinden sich an den Ecken einiger dionysischer Sarkophage (183, 184), wenn auch nur jeweils zu zweit: der Herbst mit Früchten und Sommer mit Sichel und Ähren. Die Masken befinden sich hauptsächlich auf Sarkophagdeckeln und tragen als einziges Attribut die charakteristischen Kränze. Es sind auch einige Exemplare auf Mosaiken bekannt (185), identifizierbar ebenfalls durch ihre Kränze, mit Ausnahme des Herbstes, der durch eine bacchische Maske dargestellt wird.

Jahreszeitliche Aktivitäten

Was die jahreszeitlichen Aktivitäten betrifft, so finden wir diese bereits auf einem Gemälde von Herculeum bezeugt (190), in Formen von Erosen, die Rosen sammeln; besonders häufig erscheinen sie jedoch auf westlichen Mosaiken und vor allem auf Jahreszeitsarkophagen und Sarkophagdeckeln. Die Mosaiken stammen aus dem 3. oder 4. Jh. n. Chr. und zeigen Opfergaben mit Schmuck und Blumen (191), Einsammeln von Rosen (192, 194) oder Szenen wie die Ankunft der Störche und das Beschneiden der Bäume (193) für den Frühling; für den Sommer die Opferung eines Lammes vor einem Ährenfeld (191), ein Löwe zwischen Ähren und ein Jüngling, der einen Korb mit Ähren trägt (192), ein Opfer für Taranis, Speerwurf, Beschneiden von Bäumen (193) und Getreideernte (194); für den Herbst ein Opfer mit Trauben und einem Hasen (191), Transport von Trauben (192), Früchteernte und Tätigkeiten, die in Beziehung zur Saat stehen (193); für den Winter Szenen der Saat, der Entenjagd und der Olivenernte (194). Obwohl es sich streng genommen nicht um jahreszeitliche Aktivitäten handelt, erscheinen manchmal religiöse Szenen, wie das Opfer für Attis beim Frühling, das Fest der Ceres beim Sommer und eine dionysische Prozession beim Herbst auf dem Mosaik von Karthago (134), oder das Opfer für Taranis von 193.

Die Reliefs sind in der Zeit zwischen dem 2. und dem 4. Jh. n. Chr. entstanden; häufig sind es christliche Monumente, wie der Sarkophag von Iunius Bassus. Auf allen treten Erosen auf: Blumen sammelnd (196) oder in Verbindung mit Tieren und Flöten (201) für den Frühling; Ähren erntend (196, 198, 199, 200, 201) für den Sommer; Trauben pflückend (196, 197, 199, 201), tretend (197–199) oder transportierend (195) für den Herbst; Oliven vom Baum schlagend (196) oder sammelnd (197) und Äpfel pflückend (196) für den Winter.

Tiere und Pflanzen

Tiere stehen ebenfalls in enger Beziehung zu den jahreszeitlichen Darstellungen. Fast immer erscheinen sie als Ergänzung der männlichen oder weiblichen Personifikationen und sind oben als solche schon öfters genannt worden. Einigemale aber werden sie zu selbständigen Symbolen der Jahreszeiten, seien es Vögel oder andere Tiere.

Vögel finden wir auf Gemälden, Mosaiken und Reliefs, vor allem auf Sarkophagen, und fast alle stammen aus dem 3. Jh. n. Chr., obwohl nicht immer die gleichen Vögel auf dieselben Jahreszeiten hinweisen. So haben wir für den Frühling Tauben (202, 203), Pfau (205, 208) und andere Vögel, die nicht mit Bestimmtheit identifiziert werden können, die aber eindeutig mit Attributen des Frühlings assoziiert erscheinen, für den Sommer Rebhuhn (203) und Fasan (208), für den Herbst Papageien (202), Fasan (203) und Wachteln oder Raben (208), für den Winter Enten (203, 207), Ringeltaube (204) und möglicherweise Raben (208).

Andere Tiere befinden sich ebenfalls auf einigen Mosaiken und Reliefs, außerdem auf zahlreichen Jahreszeitsarkophagen, hier als Ergänzung anderer Personifikationen. Sie erscheinen als unabhängige Einheit zwischen dem 2. und 5. Jh. n. Chr., obwohl ein Skyphos von Boscoreale, aus der Mitte des 1. Jh. n. Chr. (213), auch Tiere im jahreszeitlichen Zusammenhang zeigt, die sich von den bekannten Typen stark unterscheiden: für den Frühling Stier (210. 211), Bär (212) und Hase (?) (213); für den Sommer Löwe (210. 211. 212) und Eber (?) (213); für den Herbst Panther (211), Zebu (212), Hase und Gans (?) (213); für den Winter Tiger (211) und Eber (210. 212. 213). Es scheint, daß auf 209 der Winter durch einen Hirsch dargestellt ist, wenn hier auch Zweifel bestehen.

Einige dieser Tiere können Wagen ziehen, normalerweise von Erosen gelenkt; wir haben sie bereits am entsprechenden Ort vermerkt (112-115). Im wesentlichen erscheinen sie in sepulkralem Zusammenhang im 2. und 3. Jh. n. Chr. Die Wagen des Frühlings werden von Bären (112), Stieren (113. 114) und Löwen (115) gezogen; die des Sommers von Löwen (112. 113. 115) und Zicklein (114); die des Herbstes von Stieren (112), Pantheren (113. 114) und Ziegenböcken (115); die des Winters von Ebern (112. 113. 114). Auf Mosaiken des 2. und 4. Jh. n. Chr. befinden sich Vögel, die Quadrigen ziehen; in einem Fall ziehen zwei Papageien einen Wagen, der mit einer großen Sichel und einem Rechen beladen ist (216); es handelt sich um den Sommer. In einem anderen Fall ziehen Vögel Wagen, die von Amoretten gelenkt werden: Gänse am Wagen des Sommers, Wildgänse beim Winter, Rebhühner beim Herbst und Tauben beim Frühling (217). Auf einem Medaillon (220) lenkt Hercules eine Quadriga, die von Kentauren mit jahreszeitlichen Attributen gezogen wird: unbestimmbares Attribut (Frühling), Sichel (Sommer), Früchtekorb (Herbst) und zwei Enten (Winter).

Zahlreich sind auch die Darstellungen von Pflanzen, wenn auch viele von ihnen, ähnlich wie bei den Tieren, in Beziehung zu Putti, Genien und Horae stehen, denen sie als jahreszeitliche Attribute dienen. Diejenigen, welche auf unabhängige Art die Jahreszeiten symbolisieren, finden wir vor allem auf Mosaiken und auch einmal auf Reliefs, datiert zwischen das 2. und 4. Jh. n. Chr. Die Identifikationen sind folgende: Frühling: Rosen (223-229) oder Blumen im allgemeinen (232. 233); Sommer: Ähren (223-228. 230-233); Herbst: Trauben (223-225. 227-229. 231-233) oder Früchte (226); Winter: Ölweige (223-225. 227-229. 233), Oliven (229), getrocknete Zweige (226) oder Efeu (230) und Binsen (232).

Manchmal ragen die Pflanzen aus Blumentöpfen und Krateren. Von der ersten Variante kennen wir einige Mosaiken aus dem 3. Jh. n. Chr. (234-236), die Trauben, Feigen und Äpfel zeigen, dem Herbst, Winter und vielleicht dem Frühling gehörend. Diejenigen, welche aus Krateren ragen, finden wir häufig vor allem auf Sarkophagen des 2. und 3. Jh. n. Chr. (239-244), doch sind auch Exemplare auf Mosaiken bekannt (237-238). Sie zeigen große Krater mit Blumen für den Frühling (240. 242. 243. 244), Ähren für den Sommer (239. 240. 242. 243. 244), für den Herbst Trauben und Früchte (239), Früchte (240), Trauben (242. 243. 244), und für den Winter Öl-

zweige (239. 240. 241. 243. 244) und Früchte (242). Auf vielen dieser Krateren werden die Pflanzen durch Vögel ergänzt, die ebenfalls mit dem jahreszeitlichen Zyklus in Beziehung stehen. In einem Fall (244) ragen die vier jahreszeitlichen Pflanzen aus nur zwei Krateren, zwischen gelagerten Horae stehend. Auf den Mosaiken sind die charakteristischen Pflanzen, die aus den Krateren ragen, folgende: Frühling: Rosen; Sommer: Ähren; Herbst: Trauben; Winter: Ölweige.

Gelegentlich stehen Farben in Verbindung mit den Pflanzen, den Pferden oder den Quadrigen; so finden wir auf nordafrikanischen Mosaiken (228-229) den Frühling assoziiert mit der grünen Farbe, den Sommer mit rot, den Herbst mit blau und den Frühling mit weiß.

In der östlichen Welt erhalten die männlichen geflügelten Figuren, welche die Jahreszeiten darstellen, den Namen Kairoi, Kaloi Kairoi oder Eutycheis Kairoi (245-248). Das erste Zeugnis dieser Bezeichnung finden wir auf einer Münze des Caracalla (245), die in Wirklichkeit die griechische Version römischer Münzen mit der Inschrift Felicitas Temporum ist; trotzdem stammt der größte Teil der Monumente aus der Zeit vom 4. Jh. n. Chr. an, und viele von ihnen gehören bereits zu christlichen Gebäuden (246-248). In einigen Fällen (246. 248) besteht die jahreszeitliche Darstellung aus mehr als einer Person, einige ihrer Attribute sind Früchte, welche auf den anderen jahreszeitlichen Darstellungen selten sind (Wassermelonen, Auberginen, Kürbisse, Pfirsiche); dies hat dazu geführt, daß mancher Autor sie als Monate identifiziert und nicht als Jahreszeiten, obwohl es Gründe gibt, sie dafür zu halten.

LORENZO ABAD CASAL

KAIROS

(Kairos) Personifikation masculine des «momento opportuno» sia nell'agire quotidiano dell'uomo, sia concettualmente nella sfera etica, nell'arte della parola o nella creazione figurativa. È propria del mondo greco, dove ha origine dalla complessa stratificazione dei significati di kairos (per l'etimologia, problematica, cf. Chantraine s. v.). Parziale è l'equiparazione ad Occasio, che isola un aspetto di casualità secondario nell'allegoria originaria: per cui la denominazione resta intraducibile, se non con una perifrasi, fin nelle lingue moderne.

Come divinità K. viene definito Ὀλύμπιος, ed è l'ultimo nato dei figli di Zeus: il culto è attestato ad Olimpia ed a Velia. Ma nei papiri magici è collegato a Zeus non solo come figlio, bensì anche come padre, per aver avuto, insieme ad Aion una parte importante nell'origine del mondo: questa latente identificazione con Chronos riaffiora infatti nell'erudi-zione bizantina. Altri accostamenti s'intravedono nella tradizione letteraria o figurata con →Hermes, →Dionysos, →Eros, Automatia, →Nemesis, →Tyche, →Bios, e se vogliamo con →Heros per il valore simbolico assunto dalla capigliatura di K.

FONTI LETTERARIE: In Omero kairos era il «punto giusto» per una ferita mortale: in Esiodo aveva già una sfumatura etica, con riferimento alla saggezza delfica. A Pittaco si attribuiva il γνώσις kairos come invito a riconoscere il «momento adatto» per ogni cosa. Per i Pitagorici era simbolo del numero sette, ed aveva carattere «vergine» (Burkert, W., Lore and Science in Ancient Pythagoreanism [1972] 467 n. 9), il che implica un'iniziale visualizzazione del soggetto, che di fatto assumerà l'aspetto di adolescente schivo al possesso da parte di chiunque. La prima attestazione della natura divina di K. è alla metà del V sec. in Ione di Chio (Page PMG frg. 742), il quale ne avrebbe ideato la discendenza da Zeus. Negli stessi anni la definizione di K. come «abitatore di Olimpo» viene offerta da un cippo iscritto di Velia (Guarducci fig. 8. 9). A questa esaltazione partecipa Policeto, nel solco della teoria pitagorica, facendo del kairos un elemento decisivo nel suo trattato sul «canone» (Plut. mor. 45c), se non anche rappresentando K. in un bronzo (18): è indicativo che Antimaco di Colofone (fig. 32 Wyss) sia già in grado di attribuire il nome di K. ad uno dei cavalli di Adrasto. Quello che entra nella retorica è comunque K. costituito in figura divina, di cui Protagora e Gorgia ammirano la «potenza»: esso si combina ai concetti di «misura», «simmetria», «armonia» e «grazia», entrando indissolubilmente nella speculazione estetica e nella teoria artistica. In Platone kairos sta in relazione con l'aritmetica e la geometria, ovvero indica idealmente il valore medio, la moderazione, ciò che è equilibrato ed opportuno, la giusta distribuzione degli opposti nel corpo sano, finché, nel dialogo rimasto incompiuto nel 349/348 conduce come personificazione gli accademici umani (Plat. nomoi IV 709 b 7).

L'allegoria realizzata da Lisippo per Alessandro (1) era forse presente a Demostene frg. 12 p. 254 Baiter/Sauppe II (= Tzetz. chil. 10, 289-291): secondo il testo primario di Tzetz. epist. 95, l'oratore avrebbe infatti accennato alla «sordità» di K., una caratteristica che veniva riconosciuta in un'altra personificazione plasmata da Lisippo (Gnomol. Vat. 399, →Demos 10). Compatibile la conoscenza della figura lisippea, per la sua dote d'inafferrabilità, con la ricostruzione del testo in Menandro Dysk. 886: comunque la critica antica attribuiva al poeta un ruolo nel processo di apoteosi di K. (Men. frg. 854 Körte = Pallada Anth. Pal. 10, 52). Uno dei bronzi lisippeï che rappresentavano K. è descritto da Posidippo «nell'ingresso» di un edificio che poteva essere la reggia di Pella, località di cui il poeta era nativo (Anth. Pal. 16, 275): egli dice che la figura correva sulla punta dei piedi alati, con un rasoio nella destra, capelli lunghi sul davanti, per essere preso al passaggio, ma calvo all'occipite, per non venire acciappato una volta trascorso. Di pari passo con la diffusione dell'immagine lisippea, il concetto di kairos acquisisce più larghe accezioni letterarie: dal senso di misura e misurabilità delle cose, quello di importanza, giustificazione, qualificazione, valore; o riguardo al tempo, come istante critico, risolutivo, fecondo.

La funzione del rasoio ricordato da Posidippo è spiegata per la prima volta da Fedro (5, 8) il quale parla di «un corridore alato in atto di pesare su di un rasoio» (rispetto al testo che ci è pervenuto, cursor volucris pendens in novacula, bisogna infatti emendare volucris, noto come nominativo singolare maschile anche in Sil. 10, 470, e pendens va inteso come voce di pendo, non pendeo). Fedro conferma inoltre la caratteristica capigliatura, e mostra di conoscere una rappresentazione plastica (finxere antiqui talem effigiem). Tuttavia la sua composizione poetica ha ingenerato non pochi equivoci sul piano iconografico introducendo l'equazione K.-Tempus (da cui le immagini di un personaggio barbato con attributi di K.: 6-8. 12. 15), e spiegando l'allegoria come occasionem rerum... brevem (dove la personificazione femminile di Occasio con motivi tratti da K. in Aus. epigr. 33; Cato dist. 2, 26; Paul. Nol. epist. 16, 4; Carm. Bur. 16, 1, 5-8 ed. Hilka/Schumann); infine la precoce corruzione del primo verso, cursor volucris pendens in novacula, unita all'errata interpretazione di pendens da pendeo avrebbe ispirato la strana figurazione di una gemma (13).

Gli autori greci conservano ancora nel IV sec. d. C. l'esatta cognizione del K. di Lisippo. Callistrato (stat. 6) ne descrive attentamente un esemplare a Sicione, confermando rispetto a Posidippo l'andamento della figura sulla punta dei piedi alati, e la tipica pettinatura, ed aggiungendo che K. aveva ali anche sul dorso e che stava in equilibrio su di una sfera. Imerio (or. 13, 1), che dichiara di riassumere un ricordo visivo, parla di un «ferro» (σίδηρος) nella destra (che deve corrispondere al rasoio di Posidippo) e della bilancia nella sinistra (in accordo con Fedro): ma anche questo testo era destinato ad indurre deviazioni dall'iconografia originale, in quanto il «ferro» è diventato una «spada» negli scrittori bizantini (μάχαιρα: Tzetz. epist. 70; chil. 8, 200, 427; 10, 322, 264; Giorgio Galesiota de regalitate 10; εἶπος: Niceforo Blemnide de rege 10) con le relative conseguenze nelle opere figurative (11. 14. 15).

Perdurava comunque tra gli autori bizantini la conoscenza di altri elementi dell'iniziale personificazione di K., grazie ad uno dei bronzi lisippeï di tale soggetto che era stato portato a Costantinopoli (Giorgio Cedreno 322c), e veniva talvolta citato con il nome stesso di K. (Evagrio 3, 26; Teofilatto di Bulgaria, lex. 58), più sovente come Chronos. Motivi dell'allegoria confluiscono nella visione letteraria di →Bios (p. es. Teodoro Prodromo), sicché Tzetze (che conservava tra l'altro le rare notizie dell'appoggio della figura sulla sfera, e della dedica dell'archetipo ad Alessandro da parte di Lisippo) avverte la necessità di ristabilire la corretta lettura della personificazione usando come sinonimi K. o Chronos. La ricostruzione è accolta da alcuni scrittori (p. es. Niceforo Blemnide e Giorgio Galesiota), mentre altri continuano a parlare di Bios (Manuele Filete) in termini pressoché interscambiabili con K., come avviene nell'iconografia postbizantina (14-17). Nei trattati destinati ai pittori religiosi sopravvive invece la denominazione antica di K. con riferimento all'iconografia lisippea (Hermenela, sonifikationen. Sie erscheinen als unabhängige Einheit zwischen dem 2. und 5. Jh. n. Chr., obwohl ein Skypchos von Boscoreale, aus der Mitte des 1. Jh. n. Chr. (213), auch Tiere im jahreszeitlichen Zusammenhang zeigt, die sich von den bekannten Typen stark unterscheiden: für den Frühling Stier (210, 211), Bär (212) und Hase (?) (213); für den Sommer Löwe (210, 211, 212) und Eber (?) (213); für den Herbst Panther (211), Zebu (212), Hase und Gans (?) (213); für den Winter Tiger (211) und Eber (210, 212, 213). Es scheint, daß auf 209 der Winter durch einen Hirsch dargestellt ist, wenn hier auch Zweifel bestehen.

Einige dieser Tiere können Wagen ziehen, normalerweise von Erosen gelenkt; wir haben sie bereits am entsprechenden Ort vermerkt (112-115). Im wesentlichen erscheinen sie in sepulkralem Zusammenhang im 2. und 3. Jh. n. Chr. Die Wagen des Frühlings werden von Bären (112), Stieren (113, 114) und Löwen (115) gezogen; die des Sommers von Löwen (112, 113, 115) und Zickeln (114); die des Herbstes von Stieren (112), Pantheren (113, 114) und Ziegenböcken (115); die des Winters von Ebern (112, 113, 114). Auf Mosaiken des 2. und 4. Jh. n. Chr. befinden sich Vögel, die Quadrigen ziehen; in einem Fall ziehen zwei Papageien einen Wagen, der mit einer großen Sichel und einem Rechen beladen ist (216); es handelt sich um den Sommer. In einem anderen Fall ziehen Vögel Wagen, die von Amoretten gelenkt werden: Gänse am Wagen des Sommers, Wildgänse beim Winter, Rebhühner beim Herbst und Tauben beim Frühling (217). Auf einem Medaillon (220) lenkt Hercules eine Quadriga, die von Kentauren mit jahreszeitlichen Attributen gezogen wird: unbestimmbares Attribut (Frühling), Sichel (Sommer), Früchtekorb (Herbst) und zwei Enten (Winter).

Zahlreich sind auch die Darstellungen von Pflanzen, wenn auch viele von ihnen, ähnlich wie bei den Tieren, in Beziehung zu Putti, Genien und Horae stehen, denen sie als jahreszeitliche Attribute dienen. Diejenigen, welche auf unabhängige Art die Jahreszeiten symbolisieren, finden wir vor allem auf Mosaiken und auch einmal auf Reliefs, datiert zwischen das 2. und 4. Jh. n. Chr. Die Identifikationen sind folgende: Frühling: Rosen (223-229) oder Blumen im allgemeinen (232, 233); Sommer: Ähren (223-228, 230-233); Herbst: Trauben (223-225, 227-229, 231-233) oder Früchte (226); Winter: Ölweige (223-225, 227-229, 233), Oliven (229), getrocknete Zweige (226) oder Efeu (230) und Binsen (232).

Manchmal ragen die Pflanzen aus Blumentöpfen und Krateren. Von der ersten Variante kennen wir einige Mosaiken aus dem 3. Jh. n. Chr. (234-236), die Trauben, Feigen und Äpfel zeigen, dem Herbst, Winter und vielleicht dem Frühling gehörend. Diejenigen, welche aus Krateren ragen, finden wir häufig vor allem auf Sarkophagen des 2. und 3. Jh. n. Chr. (239-244), doch sind auch Exemplare auf Mosaiken bekannt (237-238). Sie zeigen große Krater mit Blumen für den Frühling (240, 242, 243, 244), Ähren für den Sommer (239, 240, 242, 243, 244), für den Herbst Trauben und Früchte (239), Früchte (240), Trauben (242, 243, 244), und für den Winter Öl-

zweige (239, 240, 241, 243, 244) und Früchte (242). Auf vielen dieser Krateren werden die Pflanzen durch Vögel ergänzt, die ebenfalls mit dem jahreszeitlichen Zyklus in Beziehung stehen. In einem Fall (244) ragen die vier jahreszeitlichen Pflanzen aus nur zwei Krateren, zwischen gelagerten Horae stehend. Auf den Mosaiken sind die charakteristischen Pflanzen, die aus den Krateren ragen, folgende: Frühling: Rosen; Sommer: Ähren; Herbst: Trauben; Winter: Ölweige.

Gelegentlich stehen Farben in Verbindung mit den Pflanzen, den Pferden oder den Quadrigen; so finden wir auf nordafrikanischen Mosaiken (228-229) den Frühling assoziiert mit der grünen Farbe, den Sommer mit rot, den Herbst mit blau und den Frühling mit weiß.

In der östlichen Welt erhalten die männlichen geflügelten Figuren, welche die Jahreszeiten darstellen, den Namen Kairoi, Kaloi Kairoi oder Eutycheis Kairoi (245-248). Das erste Zeugnis dieser Bezeichnung finden wir auf einer Münze des Caracalla (245), die in Wirklichkeit die griechische Version römischer Münzen mit der Inschrift Felicitas Temporum ist; trotzdem stammt der größte Teil der Monumente aus der Zeit vom 4. Jh. n. Chr. an, und viele von ihnen gehören bereits zu christlichen Gebäuden (246-248). In einigen Fällen (246, 248) besteht die jahreszeitliche Darstellung aus mehr als einer Person, einige ihrer Attribute sind Früchte, welche auf den anderen jahreszeitlichen Darstellungen selten sind (Wassermelonen, Auberginen, Kürbisse, Pfirsiche); dies hat dazu geführt, daß mancher Autor sie als Monate identifiziert und nicht als Jahreszeiten, obwohl es Gründe gibt, sie dafür zu halten.

LORENZO ABAD CASAL

KAIROS

(Kairos) Personifikation maskuline des «momento opportuno» sia nell'agire quotidiano dell'uomo, sia concettualmente nella sfera etica, nell'arte della parola o nella creazione figurativa. È propria del mondo greco, dove ha origine dalla complessa stratificazione dei significati di kairos (per l'etimologia, problematica, cf. Chantraine s. v.). Parziale è l'equiparazione ad Occasio, che isola un aspetto di casualità secondario nell'allegoria originaria: per cui la denominazione resta intraducibile, se non con una perifrasi, fin nelle lingue moderne.

Come divinità K. viene definito Ὀλύμπιος, ed è l'ultimo nato dei figli di Zeus: il culto è attestato ad Olimpia ed a Velia. Ma nei papiri magici è collegato a Zeus non solo come figlio, bensì anche come padre, per aver avuto, insieme ad Aion una parte importante nell'origine del mondo: questa latente identificazione con Chronos riaffiora infatti nell'erudi-zione bizantina. Altri accostamenti s'intravedono nella tradizione letteraria o figurata con →Hermes, →Dionysos, →Eros, Automatia, →Nemesis, →Tyche, →Bios, e se vogliamo con →Heros per il valore simbolico assunto dalla capigliatura di K.

FONTI LETTERARIE: In Omero kairos era il «punto giusto» per una ferita mortale: in Esiodo aveva già una sfumatura etica, con riferimento alla saggezza delfica. A Pittaco si attribuiva il γνώσις kairos come invito a riconoscere il «momento adatto» per ogni cosa. Per i Pitagorici era simbolo del numero sette, ed aveva carattere «vergine» (Burkert, W., Lore and Science in Ancient Pythagoreanism [1972] 467 n. 9), il che implica un'iniziale visualizzazione del soggetto, che di fatto assumerà l'aspetto di adolescente schivo al possesso da parte di chiunque. La prima attestazione della natura divina di K. è alla metà del V sec. in Ione di Chio (Page PMG frg. 742), il quale ne avrebbe ideato la discendenza da Zeus. Negli stessi anni la definizione di K. come «abitatore di Olimpo» viene offerta da un cippo iscritto di Velia (Guarducci fig. 8. 9). A questa esaltazione partecipa Policeto, nel solco della teoria pitagorica, facendo del kairos un elemento decisivo nel suo trattato sul «canone» (Plut. mor. 45c), se non anche rappresentando K. in un bronzo (18): è indicativo che Antimaco di Colofone (frg. 32 Wyss) sia già in grado di attribuire il nome di K. ad uno dei cavalli di Adrasto. Quello che entra nella retorica è comunque K. costituito in figura divina, di cui Protagora e Gorgia ammirano la «potenza»: esso si combina ai concetti di «misura», «simmetria», «armonia» e «grazia», entrando indissolubilmente nella speculazione estetica e nella teoria artistica. In Platone kairos sta in relazione con l'aritmetica e la geometria, ovvero indica idealmente il valore medio, la moderazione, ciò che è equilibrato ed opportuno, la giusta distribuzione degli opposti nel corpo sano, finché, nel dialogo rimasto incompiuto nel 349/348 conduce come personificazione gli accademici umani (Plat. nomoi IV 709 b 7).

L'allegoria realizzata da Lisippo per Alessandro (I) era forse presente a Demostene frg. 12 p. 254 Baier/Sauppe II (= Tzetz. chil. 10, 289-291): secondo il testo primario di Tzetz. epist. 95, l'oratore avrebbe infatti accennato alla «sordità» di K., una caratteristica che veniva riconosciuta in un'altra personificazione plasmata da Lisippo (Gnomol. Vat. 399, →Demos 10). Compatibile la conoscenza della figura lisippea, per la sua dote d'inafferrabilità, con la ricostruzione del testo in Menandro Dysk. 886: comunque la critica antica attribuiva al poeta un ruolo nel processo di apoteosi di K. (Men. frg. 854 Körte = Pallada Anth. Pal. 10, 52). Uno dei bronzi lisippee che rappresentavano K. è descritto da Posidippo «nell'ingresso» di un edificio che poteva essere la reggia di Pella, località di cui il poeta era nativo (Anth. Pal. 16, 275): egli dice che la figura correva sulla punta dei piedi alati, con un rasoio nella destra, capelli lunghi sul davanti, per essere preso al passaggio, ma calvo all'occipite, per non venire acciappato una volta trascorso. Di pari passo con la diffusione dell'immagine lisippea, il concetto di kairos acquisisce più larghe accezioni letterarie: dal senso di misura e misurabilità delle cose, quello di importanza, giustificazione, qualificazione, valore; o riguardo al tempo, come istante critico, risolutivo, fecondo.

La funzione del rasoio ricordato da Posidippo è spiegata per la prima volta da Fedro (5, 8) il quale parla di «un corridore alato in atto di pesare su di un rasoio» (rispetto al testo che ci è pervenuto, cursor volucris pendens in novacula, bisogna infatti emendare volucris, noto come nominativo singolare maschile anche in Sil. 10, 470, e pendens va inteso come voce di pendo, non pendeo). Fedro conferma inoltre la caratteristica capigliatura, e mostra di conoscere una rappresentazione plastica (finxere antiqui talem effigiem). Tuttavia la sua composizione poetica ha ingenerato non pochi equivoci sul piano iconografico introducendo l'equazione K. = Tempus (da cui le immagini di un personaggio barbato con attributi di K.: 6-8, 12, 15), e spiegando l'allegoria come occasionem rerum... brevem (dove la personificazione femminile di Occasio con motivi tratti da K. in Aus. epigr. 33; Cato dist. 2, 26; Paul. Nol. epist. 16, 4; Carm. Bur. 16, 1, 5-8 ed. Hilka/Schumann); infine la precoce corruzione del primo verso, cursor volucris pendens in novacula, unita all'errata interpretazione di pendens da pendeo avrebbe ispirato la strana figurazione di una gemma (13).

Gli autori greci conservano ancora nel IV sec. d. C. l'esatta cognizione del K. di Lisippo. Callistrato (stat. 6) ne descrive attentamente un esemplare a Sicione, confermando rispetto a Posidippo l'andamento della figura sulla punta dei piedi alati, e la tipica pettinatura, ed aggiungendo che K. aveva ali anche sul dorso e che stava in equilibrio su di una sfera. Imerio (or. 13, 1), che dichiara di riassumere un ricordo visivo, parla di un «ferro» (σίδηρος) nella destra (che deve corrispondere al rasoio di Posidippo) e della bilancia nella sinistra (in accordo con Fedro): ma anche questo testo era destinato ad indurre deviazioni dall'iconografia originale, in quanto il «ferro» è diventato una «spada» negli scrittori bizantini (μάχαιρα: Tzetz. epist. 70; chil. 8, 200, 427; 10, 322, 264; Giorgio Galesiota de regalitate 10; ἔκτος: Niceforo Blemnide de rege 10) con le relative conseguenze nelle opere figurative (11, 14, 15).

Perdurava comunque tra gli autori bizantini la conoscenza di altri elementi dell'iniziale personificazione di K., grazie ad uno dei bronzi lisippee di tale soggetto che era stato portato a Costantinopoli (Giorgio Cedreno 322c), e veniva talvolta citato con il nome stesso di K. (Evagrio 3, 26; Teofilatto di Bulgaria, lex. 58), più sovente come Chronos. Motivi dell'allegoria confluiscono nella visione letteraria di →Bios (p. es. Teodoro Prodromo), sicché Tzetze (che conservava tra l'altro le rare notizie dell'appoggio della figura sulla sfera, e della dedica dell'archetipo ad Alessandro da parte di Lisippo) avverte la necessità di ristabilire la corretta lettura della personificazione usando come sinonimi K. o Chronos. La ricostruzione è accolta da alcuni scrittori (p. es. Niceforo Blemnide e Giorgio Galesiota), mentre altri continuano a parlare di Bios (Manuele Filete) in termini pressoché interscambiabili con K., come avviene nell'iconografia postbizantina (14-17). Nei trattati destinati ai pittori religiosi sopravvive invece la denominazione antica di K. con riferimento all'iconografia lisippea (Hermenela, Monte Athos, Iviron, cod. A, 685, f. 14: πὺς ἰστροπίζεται ὁ Καῖρος, ed anche 15). Non stupisce dunque che nel XVIII sec. si trascrivesse ancora l'epigramma di Posidippo sulla parete di una chiesa monastica nella regione del Pindo (16).

BIBLIOGRAFIA: Abramić, M., «Ein neues Kairos-Relief», OeJh 26, 1930, 1-8; Benndorf, O., «Der Kairos des Lysippos und eine Gemme des Berliner Museums», AZ 21, 1863, 81-85; Bermond Montanari, G., EAA IV (1961) 289-290 s. v. «Kairos»; Bouras, Ch., «Ἀλληγορικὴ παράσταση τοῦ Βίου-Καιροῦ σὲ μὴ μεταβυσαντινὴ τοιχογραφία στὴ Χίο», ArchDelt 21, 1966, 26-34; Brommer, F., Die Wahl des Augenblicks in der Griechischen Kunst (1969); Carinci, F., RivIstArch 8/9, 1985/86, 104-109; Cook, Zeus II 859-868; Curtius, E., «Die Darstellungen des Kairos», AZ 33, 1875, 1-8; Delling, G., Theol. Wörterbuch zum Neuen Test. III (1938) 456-465 s. v. «Kairos»; Gagé, J., «La balance de Kairos et l'épée de Brennus», RA 43, 1954, 141-176; Gasparri, C., «Il Sarcofago romano del Museo di Villa Giulia», Rend Linc 27, 1972, 95-139. 103-104; Gasparri, C., «Il Sarcofago con Nekyia di Villa Giulia restaurato», in Festschr. U. Hausmann (1982) 165-172; Grecu, V., «Die Darstellung des Kairos bei den Byzantinern», Atti V Congr. Int. di Studi Bizantini 1936 (1940) 147-154; Greifenhagen, A., «Zum Saturnglauben der Renaissance», Antike 11, 1935, 67-84; Guarducci, M., «Olympios Kairos», PP 108-110, 1966, 287-294; Hamdorf, Kultpersonifikationen 40-41. 101; Hinks, R., Myth and Allegory in Ancient Art (1939) 117-119; Ladendorf, H., «Kairos», in Festschr. J. Jahn (1958) 225-235; Lamer, H., RE X 2 (1919) 1510-1514 s. v. «Kairos»; Levi, D., «Il καῖρος attraverso la letteratura greca», RendLinc 32, 1923, 260-281; RendLinc 33, 1924, 93-118; Mango, C., «Antique Statuary and the Byzantine Beholder», Dumbarton Oaks Papers 17, 1963, 53-77. 65-67; Moreno, P., in L'art décoratif à Rome 1979 (1981) 316-317; idem, «Kairós, Akmé et Cháris da una pittura di Apelle», DA 2, 1984, 115-118 (= Moreno 2); idem, Vita e arte di Lisippo (1987) 125-131 (= Moreno 3); Moser v. Filseck, K., Der Apoxyomenos des Lysipp (1988) 128-168 (K., fonti e interpretazioni); Pfister, P., «Kairos und Symmetrie», in Würzburger Festgabe für H. Bulle (1938) 131-150; Pollitt, J. J., Art in the Hellenistic Age (1986) 53-54; Rüdiger, H., «Göttin Gelegenheit», Arcadia 1, 1966, 121-166; Schulz, D., «Zum Kanon des Polyklet», Hermes 83, 1955, 200-220; Schwarz, G., «Der lysippische Kairos», GrazBeitr 4, 1975, 243-266; Stewart, A. F., «Lysippan Studies. I. The Only Creator of Beauty», AJA 82, 1978, 163-171; Suić, M., «Novo o Kairosu», Vjesnik 56-59, 1954-57, 1-5; Wersdörfer, H., Die φιλοσοφία des Isokrates (1940) 54-79.

CATALOGO

A. Kairos alato

1. • Statua in bronzo, opera di Lisippo, perduta. L'artista l'avrebbe prodotta in più di un esemplare. Il prototipo sarebbe stato creato a Pella per Alessandro re, tra il 336 ed il 334 a. C. (Posidippo, Tzetzé), un altro bronzo fu visto a Sicione (Callistrato). Un esemplare fu portato a Costantinopoli nel palazzo di Lausus, patrizio del tempo di Arcadio (395-408 d. C.), dove andò distrutto nel 476 d. C. Il tipo si ricostruisce componendo gli elementi forniti da Posidippo, Callistrato ed Imerio con la testimonianza iconografica di alcuni rilievi (2-4) e di una gemma (6): figura di giovinetto, capelli lunghi e fluenti sulla fronte, rasi all'occipite, ali ai piedi e sul dorso, poggiava col piede s. su di una sfera, mentre l'altra gamba era proiettata avanti, con la mano s. protendeva un rasoio semicircolare, con la d.

Kairos I

regolava il piattello di una bilancia posta in equilibrio sulla lama del rasoio (Moreno 3 fig. 68).

Rilievi

2. • Fr. Trogir (Traù), Monastero delle Benedettine. - Abramić tav. 1 e figg. 2, 4; Picard, Manuel IV 2, 553-565 tav. 14; Moreno 3, fig. 66. - I sec. a. C. - K. di profilo a s., secondo le descrizioni dell'opera lisippica (1): visibili le ali sul dorso, rasoio e bilancia.

3. • Fr. Atene, Mus. dell'Acropoli 2799. - Walter, RelAkr 74 n° 125; Curtius tav. 2, 4; Moreno, P., RivIstArch 6/7, 1983/84, 59 fig. 17; Carinci fig. 21. - I sec. a. C. - Simile a 2: si conservano le ali al piede s.

4. • Torino, Mus. Arch. Da Roma. - Barra Bagnasco, M., «Il rilievo torinese del Kairos», Boll. Soc. Piemontese di Arch. e Belle Arti, Torino 30/31, 1976/77, 11-19 fig. 1; Schwarz fig. alla p. 267; Stewart fig. 1; Carinci fig. 19. - II sec. d. C. (Carinci), XVI sec. (Barra Bagnasco). - Simile a 1. 2, dove peraltro K. poteva poggiare sulla sfera; qui la gamba d. è adattata al movimento lungo la linea di terra.

5. Leningrado. Ermitage A 544. Già Coll. Montferrand. - Waldhauer, O., Lisipp [in russo] (1923) 23 tav. 6; Curtius tav. 2, 1; Greifenhagen 67-74. - XVI sec. - Opera moderna ispirata al rilievo 4 per l'andamento della figura, ed alle gemme 6-8 per la rappresentazione di K. barbato come Tempus.

Gemma

6. • Onice. Londra, BM 1772. Già Coll. Blacas. - Furtwängler, AG I tav. 43, 50; II 207-208; Walters, BMGems n° 1772 tav. 23. Cook, Zeus II 860 n. 4 (c. c') fig. 798; Stewart 164 n. 3 n° 5 ill. 1b. - I-II sec. d. C. - K. di profilo a d., barbato come Tempus, ma rispondente in tutti gli attributi alle descrizioni di 1; unica testimonianza iconografica dell'appoggio di un piede sulla sfera, secondo la notizia di Callistrato.

7. Cornalina. Londra, Coll. C. Newton Robinson. - Furtwängler, AG I tav. 43, 49; II 207; Cook, Zeus II 860 n. 5 (a) fig. 796; Stewart 164 n. 3 n° 4 ill. 1a. - II

sec. d. C. - Tempus barbato, di profilo a d., con elementi comuni a K. 1-4, salvo che la bilancia appare sospesa davanti alla figura, che tiene nella d. un farfalla (psicostasia, cf. 12).

8. • Londra, BM 1771. Già Coll. Blacas. - Furtwängler, AG I tav. 43, 51; II 208; Walters, BMGems n° 1771; Cook, Zeus II 860 n. 5 (b. b') fig. 797; Stewart 164 n. 3 n° 6 ill. 1c. - II sec. d. C. - Tempus di profilo a s., simile a 7.

INTERPRETAZIONE INCERTA

9. Castone inciso di anello d'oro. Taranto, Mus. Naz. 27.385. Da Taranto. - D'Amicis, A., Taras 4, 1-2, 1984, 73-74 n° 4; Alessio, A., in Gli ori di Taranto (1984) 291 n° 213. - III sec. a. C. - Giovinetto alato di profilo a s., forse con bilancia nella s. protesa. Eventualmente → Eros.

10. Gemma. Collocazione ignota. - Furtwängler, AG I tav. 30, 38; II 149; Cook, Zeus II 863 n. 1. - I sec. d. C. - Giovinetto alato di profilo a s., rasoio semicircolare (o specchio?) nella d. protesa, frusta (?) nella s., sta con un piede su di una ruota (cf. 12. 15-17).

11. Gemma. Zadar, Mus. Arch. Da Ivoševci (BURNUM). - Suić fig. alla p. 1. - IV sec. d. C. - Giovinetto alato di profilo a s., bilancia nella s., spada nella d. Potrebbe derivare dalla descrizione di 1, equivocata attraverso il testo di Imerio (Commento).

12. (= Aion 5 con bibl., = Chronos 4 con bibl., = Danaides 26 con bibl.) Sarcofago in calcare. Roma, Villa Giulia. Dall'atrio di San Pietro. - Gasparri 2; Moreno 1 fig. 1; Koch/Sichtermann, RömSark 40. 189. 614 fig. 11. - Circa 20 a. C. - Viene interpretata come K. (Gasparri) la figura giovanile nella quarta arcata della fronte da s., con mantelletto nella s., farfalla nella d. protesa, e piede s. su ruota; ma dal confronto con 16. 17 si ricava che ha il significato di Bios (simile a → Bios 5, ingiustificatamente espunto dall'iconografia della personificazione). È piuttosto nella figura dell'arcata successiva che si riconoscono i caratteri di K. quale Tempus barbato, con ali sul dorso e forse ai piedi, e bilancia nella s.: vestito di tunica, porge un mazzetto di fiori alla farfalla-anima presentata da Bios, per invitarla alla psicostasia (cf. 7. 8). Nella sesta ed ultima arcata sarà da riconoscere → Thanatos.

B. Kairos con ali solo ai piedi

Variante attestata in età classica da una gemma (13), e da numerose testimonianze bizantine qui soltanto esemplificate (14-17); correlata alla personificazione di Bios, dalla quale non è facile distinguerla in assenza di iscrizioni.

13. • Gemma, cornalina. Berlino, Staatl. Mus. FG 7538. - Furtwängler, Beschreibung n° 7358 tav. 55; Cook, Zeus II 862 fig. 800. - II-III sec. d. C. - K. giovinetto con ali ai piedi, in marcia verso s. in equilibrio sull'asta di un timone (?), con bilancia nella s. L'oggetto su cui cammina K. potrebbe essere il «rasoio alato», derivato nell'immaginario antico dalla corrutela e dal conseguente fraintendimento del primo verso nella descrizione di Fedro: volucris [...] novacula (Commento).

14. • Rilievo in marmo. Torcello, Duomo; altro frammento pertinente: Torcello, Mus. - Dalton, O. M., Byzantine Art and Archaeology (1911) 159 fig. 91; Polacco, R., Sculture paleocristiane e altomedievali di Torcello (1976) 138-140; Polacco, R., La Cattedrale di Torcello (1984) 35-37 fig. 38. - XI sec. - K.-Bios giovinetto con cintura e perizoma, piedi su ruote alate, impugna nella d. sollevata una lama, con la s. la bilancia. È affiancato da un giovane che l'acciuffa, e da un vecchio che tenta invano di afferrarlo. Segue a d. la personificazione del Pentimento (→ Metanoia). Il giovane appariva incoronato da una figura femminile visibile nel frammento oggi separato.

15. f Miniatura. Monte Athos, Grande Laura, cod. H, 16, n° 671, f. 48. - Buras tav. 17. - 1602. - K. barbato come → Chronos (Tempus), ciuffo di capelli sulla fronte, ali ai polpacci, perizoma, lama nella mano d., piedi su ruote, iscrizione Καῖρος ὁ Πανδαιμότωρ (cf. Posidippo, Anth. Pal. 16, 275, 2).

Kairos 15

16. • Affresco. Monastero di Redina (Pindo). - Buras tav. 18. - XVII sec. - K. giovinetto, ciuffo di capelli sulla fronte, raso l'occipite, ali ai polpacci, perizoma, impugna con la d. sollevata un rasoio a lama lunga; accompagnato dal testo completo dell'epigramma di Posidippo (cf. 15) e dall'iscrizione ὁ Kairos.

Kairos 16

17. • Affresco. Chio, Chiesa della Panagia Krina. – Buras fig. 1 tav. 14. – 1734. – K. come Bios, giovinetto nudo, ciuffo di capelli sulla fronte, ali ai polpacci, bilancia nella d., iscrizione ὁ Bios; gli si accosta un uomo barbato con un mazzetto di fiori nella d., che prende il giovinetto per il ciuffo, ed è simbolo della vita mondana (ὁ Κόσμος).

C. Kairos senza ali

Scultura

18. • Statua in bronzo, perduta, eventuale opera di Policleto, collocata ad Olimpia sulla base a forma di astragalo, rinvenuta presso l'entrata dello Stadio (Treu, G., Olympia III [1897] 218 tav. 55, 4-5), dove Paus. 5, 14, 9 ricorda gli altari dedicati a K. e ad → Hermes Enagionios. La restituzione di tale figura nel catalogo di Policleto si avrebbe da una particolare interpretazione del passo di Plin. nat. 34, 55 nudum talo incessentem, che attraverso la retroversione greca suonerebbe «nudo che sta su di un astragalo» (Benndorf, O., in Festgabe für A. Springer [1885] 1-11). Le tracce della statua sull'astragalo di Olimpia sono compatibili con l'impronta dei piedi dell'Efebo Westmacott al Brit. Mus. e delle copie ad esso correlate (Hafner, G., «Zum Epheben Westmacott», SbHeidelb. 1955 (1); Zanker, P., Klassizistische Statuen (1974) 19-24 tav. 21-26), per cui è stato proposto di riconoscere in quella figura giovanile il K. di Policleto, dotato di bilancia nella mano d. portata all'altezza della fronte: esso verrebbe a comporsi con il Fanciullo di Dresda quale Hermes Enagionios (Berger, E., «Zum von Plinius [n. h. 34, 55] überlieferten nudus talo incessens des Polyklet», AntK 21, 1978, 55-62 fig. 2).

Pittura

19. Dipinto perduto con → Akme affiancata da K. e Charis. Potrebbe identificarsi con il quadro di Apelle a Smirne, tramandato come Charis (→ Charis, Charites 1). Ne derivano i seguenti mosaici.

Mosaici

20. (= Akme 2 con bibl.) Beirut, Mus. Naz. Da Biblo. Moreno, P., in Storia e civiltà dei Greci 6 (1979) 497 tav. 62a; idem, Pittura greca (1987) 150-151 fig. 157. – 200-250 d. C. – La personificazione di Akmé siede trattenendo con la mano d. un fanciullo amman-

Kairos 17

Kairos 18

tato in atto di allontanarsi: l'iscrizione incompleta, già interpretata variamente come [E]POΣ, o [ΘE]POΣ, va letta [KAI]POΣ alla luce del frammento 21.

21. • Roma, Mus. Nuovo dei Conservatori. Da Baalbek. – Moreno 2, fig. 1. – 200-250 d. C. – Formella ottagonale con busto di fanciullo, capelli lunghi e fluenti, mantello sulla spalla s., corona di fiori sul capo, analogo a quello parzialmente visibile in 20; iscrizione KAIPOΣ. Allo stesso pavimento appartiene un tondo con busto ed iscrizione di Akmé, simile alla personificazione rappresentata in 20, da aggiungere alla documentazione raccolta per → Akme: Moreno 2, fig. 2.

INTERPRETAZIONE INCERTA

22. (= Bythos I 1a, = Galateia 42) Mosaico. Nea Paphos (Cipro), Casa di Aion. – Daszewski, W. A., Dionysos der Erlöser (1985) 30-31 fig. 3 tavv. 2. 8. Michaelides, D., Cypriot Mosaics (1987) 30 n° 29 tav. 23a. – 325-350 d. C. – Nella gara di bellezza tra le → Nereides, figura parzialmente conservata di fanciullo nudo che porge qualcosa a → Kassiepeia vincitrice; iscrizione incompleta KAI, da integrare eventualmente KAIPOΣ, o meglio KAIH[POΣ], trattandosi di una scelta per elezione: → Kleros.

COMMENTO

È verisimile che la riflessione sul potere divino di K. risalga ai pitagorici, insieme alla concezione giovanile e «vergine» del personaggio. Da tale matrice ideologica deriverebbe sia l'elaborazione nella sfera magica e popolare della figura di K. tra gli artefici del mondo (Ladendorf), sia la classificazione mitografica tra gli dei olimpici: Ione di Chio, che per primo in un inno aveva identificato K. come il più giovane dei figli di Zeus, era infatti autore anche di un trattato filosofico d'ispirazione pitagorica. Se è giusta l'attribuzione a Policleto di un K. nella forma dell'Efebo Westmacott munito di bilancia, avremmo un impianto iconografico del tutto coerente con quelle premesse teoriche, poichè il «Canone» stesso di Policleto era fondato su principi pitagorici. La precoce apparizione della bilancia nella mano della personificazione, in un contesto religioso che rivolgeva particolare attenzione al destino individuale delle anime, fa intuire la tradizione sommersa di una psicostasia da parte di K., quale verrà più tardi praticata da Chronos (7. 8. 12). Il ritrovamento ad Olimpia della base in aspetto di astragalo (18) nel luogo dove Pausania ricordava l'altare di K. è comunque indicativo di una componente di casualità nei brevi contatti della divinità con i mortali. Nè l'episodio è legato solo all'ambiente agonistico: la diffusione del culto nella seconda metà del V sec. è attestata dall'esistenza ad Elea (Velia) di un area sacra a «K. Olympios» (Guarducci).

Un secolo più tardi, tra il 337 ed il 334 a. C., Timoleonte di Corinto innalzava nella propria casa di Siracusa un altare alla divinità del caso Αὐτοματία (Plut. Timol. 36, 6): una sincronia suggestiva con la possibile dedica di una statua di K. ad Alessandro Magno da parte di Lisippo negli anni 336-334 (1). Indizi non trascurabili nella tradizione letteraria (Posidippo, Tzetze) fanno credere che lo scultore avesse accompagnato questa prima allegoria a Pella, ed una successiva versione a Siracusa, con iscrizioni esplicative. È certo che oltre al valore morale, la figura avesse per Lisippo un significato estetico, per cui Callistrato vi riconosceva «l'unico creatore di bellezza»: molte infatti delle affermazioni del bronzista e dei suoi contemporanei possono essere ricondotte ai valori di K. (Moreno, P., Testimonianze per la teoria artistica di Lisippo [1973] 49. 50. 74-77. 183-190). Partendo dai significati basilari di Kairos, come «quantità misurata di qualcosa» ovvero «momento propizio», gli scultori avrebbero figurato nella personificazione una «situazione di misurato equilibrio colta momentaneamente» (Moser von Filseck).

La ricostruzione iconografica del K. di Lisippo resta compromessa dall'eccessivo pessimismo (Schwarz, Moser von Filseck) sulla possibilità che le fonti più informate – Posidippo, Fedro, Callistrato ed Imerio – si riferiscano ad immagini tra loro coerenti. Le apparenti discrepanze sembrano derivare solo dall'aver ciascun autore selezionato determinati attributi della personificazione, tacendone altri. L'attenta esegesi di alcune espressioni consente infatti di considerare impliciti anche i dettagli che non vengono direttamente esplorati. Posidippo riferisce l'andamento della figura sulla punta dei piedi, che non contraddice la collocazione sulla sfera affermata da Callistrato e Tzetze, e ben attestata dalla gemma 6, tanto più che K. in Posidippo dichiara: ἀεὶ τροχῶν, letteralmente «sempre ruoto», con il verbo che negli stessi anni Arato (phain. 227. 309) adoperava per indicare il moto delle sfere celesti. Il poeta fissa inoltre il motivo delle ali ai piedi (3), del rasoio in una mano (2) e della caratteristica chioma (2). Fedro, nella lettura proposta (fonti letterarie), parla di una figura alata in corsa, rappresentata nell'atto di pesare sul filo di un rasoio, e l'identifica con l'opera plastica di uno scultore greco (finxere antiqui): è dunque sottintesa la presenza della bilancia che sarà citata espressamente da Imerio, ed è frequente nelle riproduzioni ispirate a Lisippo (2. 4-9. 12-14. 17). Callistrato ribadisce l'andatura sulla punta dei piedi connettendola chiaramente con l'appoggio su di una sfera (6), parla di ali ai piedi e sul dorso (2-4), aggiungendo un confronto iconografico con Dioniso, e la complessa equazione di K. con il bello. Imerio sottolinea il carattere di adolescente del K. di Lisippo, tra il παῖς e l'ἔφηβος, ricorda le ali ai piedi, e gli pone in una mano la bilancia, nell'altra un «ferro» (σίδηρος) che può ben essere il «rasoio» di Posidippo e di Fedro: infine la sua attenta definizione del passo furtivo che sembra sfiorare appena la «terra» (γῆ), può atteggiarsi all'effimero appoggio sulla sfera terrestre, avvisato da Callistrato, e ripreso più tardi da Tzetze.

Ammettendo dunque che l'immagine lisippea fosse sostanzialmente intatta nella visione o nella fantasia degli scrittori fino al IV sec. d. C. (Callistrato ed Imerio), resta da vedere come da tali testi, ed indipendentemente dall'intenzione degli autori stessi, siano nate delle deviazioni iconografiche. La cosa è facile da spiegare, tenendo conto che ciascuna delle fonti, presa di per sé, non era in grado di fornire una completa restituzione del K. di Lisippo. L'epigramma di Posidippo, fedelmente trascritto sulla parete di una chiesa in Grecia nel XVII sec. suggeriva la semplice figurazione di un giovinetto con ali ai piedi, un ciuffo di capelli sulla fronte, l'occipite calvo, ed un gran rasoio brandito nella destra (16); simile la versione di una miniatura (15), ma con l'interferenza della barba di Chronos e delle ruote di Bios (12. 14). Fedro, per la cattiva lettura volucris pendens in novacula, può aver determinato la singolare figura di giovinetto in equilibrio su di un oggetto che sarebbe il fantomatico «rasoio alato» (13); inoltre la sua traduzione di K. con Tempus ha prodotto la contaminazione di K. con Chronos barbato (5-8. 12. 15), e la definizione di K. come occasionem rerum ... brevem ha contribuito al passaggio di motivi propri di K. nella personificazione di Occasio, che corrispondeva invece al greco Εὐκαιρία (Cic. off. 1, 142). Imerio, nominando solo un «ferro» (per il rasoio) e la bilancia, avrebbe determinato in un incisore l'allegoria altrimenti ermetica (11), dove il «ferro» sarebbe diventato una «spada» (Suič). Il testo compendiato di Imerio è comunque all'origine di Bios armato di spada e bilancia (14), dove le ruote sotto i piedi vengono da contaminazione con l'Occasio di Ausonio epigr. 33, 4: quid rotulae insistis?

In particolare le immagini di K. barbato come Chronos, in atto di pesare un'anima-farfalla sulla bilancia (7, 8), si collegano, al di là dell'equivalenza K.-Tempus stabilita da Fedro, ad una visione escatologica più chiaramente esposta dal sarcofago di Villa Giulia (12), dove Bios porge l'anima-farfalla a K.-Chronos, che l'alletta con un mazzolino di fiori mentre con l'altra mano prepara la bilancia per la psicostasia: si noterà che qui Bios ha già una rotella sotto un piede, interessante precedente sia per la rotula su cui insiste Occasio (Aus. epigr. 33, 4), sia per la personificazione di Bios in età bizantina (14. 17; → Bios 5).

Il trasferimento a Costantinopoli di uno dei bronzi di Lisippo che rappresentava K. ha avuto certamente un peso nella fortuna del soggetto sia dal punto di vista letterario che iconografico, fino all'età post-bizantina: tuttavia, il Lauseion dove la statua si conservava al tempo di Arcadio (395-408) andò distrutto per incendio nel 476. Tanto più impressionante l'impegno filologico di Tzetze, che disponendo alla metà del XII sec. soltanto di immagini del tipo del rilievo di Torcello (14) riusciva ad estrapolare l'essenza originaria del K. di Lisippo, alla luce degli scrittori antichi di cui noi stessi disponiamo.

La notizia che Lisippo ed Apelle usavano scambiarsi giudizi sui rispettivi disegni (Synesius epist. 1), aiuta a intendere che l'allegoria di Charis, Akmé e K. è nata nella pittura in concomitanza con il bronzo lisippeo, in un clima di elaborazione intellettualistica del mito. Per quel che si ricostruisce dalle immagini dei mosaici (20. 21), K. era un giovinetto ancora vicino all'infanzia, parzialmente coperto da un mantelletto, con capelli biondi e fluenti, incoronato di fiori, e privo di ali: esso era trattenuto da Akmé seduta che guardava verso Charis. In senso lato, la scena significava che la giovinezza al suo fiorire è dotata di grazia, e può cogliere l'occasione più felice della vita: da tale visione deriva indubbiamente la metamorfosi di K. in Bios trattenuto da un giovane, p. es. nel rilievo di Torcello (14), o da un uomo che personifica la gioia del mondo (Κόσμος) in un affresco del XVIII sec. (17). Ma la metafora aveva anche una spiegazione estetica, più evoluta rispetto a quella eventualmente proposta da Policleto e comunque dichiarata da Lisippo. Numerosi passi tramandano, dai libri di Apelle sulla pittura, l'esaltazione che il pittore faceva del concetto di Charis (Reinach, RecMilliet n° 475. 479. 494. 495), e d'altra parte sappiamo che egli credeva alla soluzione del quadro con un colpo di spugna, alla felicità del momento ispirato da Ermete e da K., aveva fede in ciò che si produce da sé (Reinach, o. c. n° 471): dunque la figura di Akmé poteva indicare che l'artista nel momento della sua fioritura, ispirato da Charis, sapeva cogliere K., l'istante supremo che fermava una bellezza inimitabile.

PAOLO MORENO

KAISAREIA I

(Καيسάρεια ἡ πρὸς Ἀργαίω, Caesarea ad Argaeum) Personifikation der gleichnamigen Stadt, des heutigen Kayseri in der Türkei. Als Kappadokien 17 n. Chr. römische Provinz wurde, wurde das ehemalige Eusebeia zu Ehren von Augustus in Kaisareia umbenannt.

BIBLIOGRAPHIE; Drexler, W., ML II 1 (1890-94) 901 s. v. «Kaisareia»; Fellmann, R., LAW 538 s. v. «Caesarea 4»; Imhoof-Blumer, F., RSNum 8, 1898, 1-23; Ruge, W., RE III 1 (1897) 1289-1290 s. v. «Caesarea 5»; Stucchi, S., EAA II (1959) 526-527 s. v. «Caesarea presso il Monte Arged»; Sydenham, E. A., The Coinage of Caesarea in Cappadocia (1933); Teja, R., «Die römische Provinz Kappadokien in der Prinzipatszeit», ANRW II 7, 2 (1980) 1099-1100. 1103-1104; Treidler, H., KIPauly III (1967) 48-49 s. v. «Kaisareia».

KATALOG

A. Büste der Stadttyche

Münzen von Kaisareia

a) Als Eusebeia

1.* AE, 36 v.-17 n. Chr. - BMC Galatia, etc. 45-46, 7. 9 Taf. 8, 4; MacDonald, Hunter II 581 Nr. 2; Imhoof-Blumer 7-9 Nr. 17. 23-29. 32 Taf. 1, 15. 18; 11 Nr. 43 Taf. 1, 24; Sydenham 27-28 Nr. 19-20. 24-28; SNG Copenhagen 167-169; SNG v. Aulock 6335. - Vs.: Mit Mauerkrone nach r. oder l. Rs.: Palmzweig oder Füllhorn mit Kranz oder mit caduceus oder mit caduceus und Palmzweig.

b) Als Kaisareia

2. AE, Claudius, 47/48 n. Chr., Trajan, 99/100-117 n. Chr. - InvWadd 6740; MacDonald, Hunter II 581 Nr. 3; Imhoof-Blumer 16 Nr. 47-50 Taf. 1, 26; Forrer, L., The Weber Collection III 2 (1929) Nr. 7794 Taf. 283 (hier falsch datiert); Sydenham 29 Nr. 39; SNG Copenhagen 172-173; SNG v. Aulock 6340-6342. 8727. - Vs.: Wie 1, jedoch nur nach r. Rs.: Berg → Argaios oder Pyramide.

3. AE, Germanicus, 37/38 n. Chr. - Imhoof-Blumer 43 Nr. 46; MacDonald, Hunter II (1901) 582 Nr. 5; Sydenham 33 Nr. 54. - Rs.: Wie 2.

4.* AE, Claudius, 42/43 n. Chr.; Antoninus Pius, 150/151 n. Chr. - Imhoof-Blumer, MGr 417 Nr. 181; Sydenham 34 Nr. 58; 83 Nr. 307; SNG Copenhagen 177; SNG v. Aulock 6347-6348. 8730. - Rs.: Wie 2, mit Schleier.

5.* AE, Gordianus III., 240/241 n. Chr. - Imhoof-Blumer 22 Nr. 76-78; Sydenham 130 Nr. 612-613. - Rs.: Wie 4, jedoch in Lorbeerkranz.

6. AE, Gordianus III. (238-244 n. Chr.). - SNG v. Aulock 6527. - Rs.: Wie 5, jedoch ohne Schleier.

7. AE Commodus, 192 n. Chr., Severus Alexander, 224/225 n. Chr. und Gordianus III., 240/241 n. Chr. - Sydenham 95 Nr. 386; 123 Nr. 554. - Rs.: Mit dem Berg Argaios als Mauerkrone nach r.

8. AE, Antoninus Pius, 159/160 n. Chr. und Severus Alexander, 224/225 n. Chr. - Sydenham 84 Nr. 317-318; 120 Nr. 532. - Rs.: Wie 7, zusätzlich mit Schleier.

Gemme

9.* Serpentin. London, BM 1106. - Drexel 901; Walters, BMGems Nr. 1663 Taf. 22. - Um 250 n. Chr. - Rs.: Wie 8. EPTYXI BOKONTI. Vs.: Helios.

B. In ganzer Gestalt

Münzen von Kaisareia

10.* AE, Claudius, 44/45 n. Chr. - Imhoof-Blumer, Flußg 358-359 Nr. 464 Taf. 15, 1; Sydenham 34 Nr. 59; SNG v. Aulock 6350. - Rs.: Nach r. auf Felsen sitzende K. mit Mauerkrone und Schleier, in der Rechten Ähren haltend; zu ihren Füßen schwimmender Flußgott (→ Melas?).

Gemme

11.* Saphir. Ehem. Mailand, Slg. Trivulzio. - Drexel 901; Furtwängler, AG III 364-365 Abb. 198; Delbrueck, R., Spätantike Kaiserporträts (1933) 152-153 Taf. 74, 1. - Um 350 n. Chr. - Nach l. gelagerte K., vom Rücken gesehen, in Chiton und Mantel, der bis zu den Hüften herabgefallen ist, in der Linken ein Füllhorn haltend, die Rechte erhoben, mit Scheitelfrisur, losen Nackenhaar und Haarband, nach oben blickend, wo Kaiser Constantius II. einen Eber im Walde erlegt, während der ihn begleitende Sklave flieht. ΚΕΣΑΡΙΑ ΚΑΠΠΑΔΟΚΙΑ.

AUSZUSCHneiden

Münzen von Kaisareia

12. AE, 36 v.-17 n. Chr. - BMC Galatia, etc. 46, 8 Taf. 8, 5; Imhoof-Blumer 5-6 Nr. 15-16 Taf. 1, 10-11; Sydenham 27 Nr. 19-20; SNG v. Aulock 6336. - Vs.: Kopf der Artemis mit Mauerkrone mit Helmbusch und am Rücken Köcher. Rs.: Palmzweig, bisweilen zwischen zwei pilei.

Münzen einer unbekannten östlichen Prägestätte

13. AR, Elagabal (218-222 n. Chr.). - BMC Galatia, etc. 84, 286 Taf. 12, 5; Sydenham 117. - Rs.: Frontal stehende Tyche mit Mauerkrone in Chiton und Peplos, den Kopf nach l. gewandt, in der Rechten konischen Stein und in der Linken Trophäe haltend.

KOMMENTAR

Die ältesten Darstellungen der Stadttyche, bis 17 n. Chr. als Eusebeia und danach wegen der Umbenennung als K. zu bezeichnen, zeigen den sehr beliebten Typus der Büste mit Mauerkrone (1-6). Seit Antoninus Pius wird dieses häufig vorkommende, ansonsten parallel auch weiterhin bestehende Bildnis bisweilen in ein eigenständiges, nur auf K. bezogenes Motiv umgewandelt, indem auf einigen Münzen (7-8) und einer Gemme (9) K. anstatt der Mauerkrone den naheliegenden heiligen Berg → Argaios als Kopfschmuck trägt. Unter Claudius wird K. erstmalig als ganze Figur auf Münzen (10) dargestellt, nämlich als sitzende Tyche mit einem Flußgott zu ihren Füßen, möglicherweise dem → Melas. Dieses Schema kehrt besonders häufig auf Münzen Südostkleasiens und Nordsyriens wieder und leitet sich von der bekannten Gruppe des Eutychides, → Antiocheia und den Orontes zeigend, ab. Auf einer Gemme um 350 n. Chr. (11) wird K. auf originelle Weise als liegende Gestalt in Rückenansicht, ein Füllhorn haltend, wiedergegeben und una figura alata in corsa, rappresentata nell'atto di pesare sul filo di un rasoio, e l'identifica con l'opera plastica di uno scultore greco (finxere antiqui): è dunque sottintesa la presenza della bilancia che sarà citata espressamente da Imerio, ed è frequente nelle riproduzioni ispirate a Lisippo (2. 4-9. 12-14. 17). Callistrato ribadisce l'andatura sulla punta dei piedi connettendola chiaramente con l'appoggio su di una sfera (6), parla di ali ai piedi e sul dorso (2-4), aggiungendo un confronto iconografico con Dioniso, e la complessa equazione di K. con il bello. Imerio sottolinea il carattere di adolescente del K. di Lisippo, tra il παῖς e l'ἔφηβος, ricorda le ali ai piedi, e gli pone in una mano la bilancia, nell'altra un «ferro» (σίδηρος) che può ben essere il «rasoio» di Posidippo e di Fedro: infine la sua attenta definizione del passo furtivo che sembra sfiorare appena la «terra» (γῆ), può attagliarsi all'effimero appoggio sulla sfera terrestre, avvisato da Callistrato, e ripreso più tardi da Tzetze.

Ammettendo dunque che l'immagine lisippea fosse sostanzialmente intatta nella visione o nella fantasia degli scrittori fino al IV sec. d. C. (Callistrato ed Imerio), resta da vedere come da tali testi, ed indipendentemente dall'intenzione degli autori stessi, siano nate delle deviazioni iconografiche. La cosa è facile da spiegare, tenendo conto che ciascuna delle fonti, presa di per sé, non era in grado di fornire una completa restituzione del K. di Lisippo. L'epigramma di Posidippo, fedelmente trascritto sulla parete di una chiesa in Grecia nel XVII sec. suggeriva la semplice figurazione di un giovinetto con ali ai piedi, un ciuffo di capelli sulla fronte, l'occipite calvo, ed un gran rasoio brandito nella destra (16); simile la versione di una miniatura (15), ma con l'interferenza della barba di Chronos e delle ruote di Bios (12. 14). Fedro, per la cattiva lettura volucris pendens in novacula, può aver determinato la singolare figura di giovinetto in equilibrio su di un oggetto che sarebbe il fantomatico «rasoio alato» (13); inoltre la sua traduzione di K. con Tempus ha prodotto la contaminazione di K. con Chronos barbato (5-8. 12. 15), e la definizione di K. come occasione rerum... brevem ha contribuito al passaggio di motivi propri di K. nella personificazione di Occasio, che corrispondeva invece al greco Εὐκαιρία (Cic. off. 1, 142). Imerio, nominando solo un «ferro» (per il rasoio) e la bilancia, avrebbe determinato in un incisore l'allegoria altrimenti ermetica (11), dove il «ferro» sarebbe diventato una «spada» (Suič). Il testo compendiato di Imerio è comunque all'origine di Bios armato di spada e bilancia (14), dove le ruote sotto i piedi vengono da contaminazione con l'Occasio di Ausonio epigr. 33, 4: quid rotulae insistis?

In particolare le immagini di K. barbato come Chronos, in atto di pesare un'anima-farfalla sulla bilancia (7, 8), si collegano, al di là dell'equivalenza K.-Tempus stabilita da Fedro, ad una visione escatologica più chiaramente esposta dal sarcofago di Villa Giulia (12), dove Bios porge l'anima-farfalla a K.-Chronos, che l'alletta con un mazzolino di fiori mentre con l'altra mano prepara la bilancia per la psicostasia: si noterà che qui Bios ha già una rotella sotto un piede, interessante precedente sia per la rotula su cui insiste Occasio (Aus. epigr. 33, 4), sia per la personificazione di Bios in età bizantina (14. 17; → Bios 5).

Il trasferimento a Costantinopoli di uno dei bronzi di Lisippo che rappresentava K. ha avuto certamente un peso nella fortuna del soggetto sia dal punto di vista letterario che iconografico, fino all'età post-bizantina: tuttavia, il Lauseion dove la statua si conservava al tempo di Arcadio (395-408) andò distrutto per incendio nel 476. Tanto più impressionante l'impegno filologico di Tzetze, che disponendo alla metà del XII sec. soltanto di immagini del tipo del rilievo di Torcello (14) riusciva ad estrapolare l'essenza originaria del K. di Lisippo, alla luce degli scrittori antichi di cui noi stessi disponiamo.

La notizia che Lisippo ed Apelle usavano scambiarsi giudizi sui rispettivi disegni (Synesius epist. 1), aiuta a intendere che l'allegoria di Charis, Akmé e K. è nata nella pittura in concomitanza con il bronzo lisippeo, in un clima di elaborazione intellettualistica del mito. Per quel che si ricostruisce dalle immagini dei mosaici (20. 21), K. era un giovinetto ancora vicino all'infanzia, parzialmente coperto da un mantelletto, con capelli biondi e fluenti, incoronato di fiori, e privo di ali: esso era trattenuto da Akmé seduta che guardava verso Charis. In senso lato, la scena significava che la giovinezza al suo fiorire è dotata di grazia, e può cogliere l'occasione più felice della vita: da tale visione deriva indubbiamente la metamorfosi di K. in Bios trattenuto da un giovane, p. es. nel rilievo di Torcello (14), o da un uomo che personifica la gioia del mondo (Κόσμος) in un affresco del XVIII sec. (17). Ma la metafora aveva anche una spiegazione estetica, più evoluta rispetto a quella eventualmente proposta da Policleto e comunque dichiarata da Lisippo. Numerosi passi tramandano, dai libri di Apelle sulla pittura, l'esaltazione che il pittore faceva del concetto di Charis (Reinach, RecMilliet n° 475. 479. 494. 495), e d'altra parte sappiamo che egli credeva alla soluzione del quadro con un colpo di spugna, alla felicità del momento ispirato da Ermete e da K., aveva fede in ciò che si produce da sé (Reinach, o. c. n° 471): dunque la figura di Akmé poteva indicare che l'artista nel momento della sua fioritura, ispirato da Charis, sapeva cogliere K., l'istante supremo che fermava una bellezza inimitabile.

PAOLO MORENO

KAI SAREIA I

(Καίσαρεια ἢ πρὸς Ἀργαίω, Caesarea ad Argaeum) Personifikation der gleichnamigen Stadt, des heutigen Kayseri in der Türkei. Als Kappadokien 17 n. Chr. römische Provinz wurde, wurde das ehemalige Eusebeia zu Ehren von Augustus in Kaisareia umbenannt.

BIBLIOGRAPHIE; Drexler, W., ML II 1 (1890-94) 901 s. v. «Kaisareia»; Fellmann, R., LAW 538 s. v. «Caesarea 4»; Imhoof-Blumer, F., RSNum 8, 1898, 1-23; Ruge, W., RE III 1 (1897) 1289-1290 s. v. «Caesarea 5»; Stucchi, S., EAA II (1959) 526-527 s. v. «Caesarea presso il Monte Argeò»; Sydenham, E. A., The Coinage of Caesarea in Cappadocia (1933); Teja, R., «Die römische Provinz Kappadokien in der Prinzipatszeit», ANRW II 7. 2 (1980) 1099-1100. 1103-1104; Treidler, H., KlPauly III (1967) 48-49 s. v. «Kaisareia».

KATALOG

A. Büste der Stadttyche

Münzen von Kaisareia

a) Als Eusebeia

1.* AE, 36 v.-17 n. Chr. - BMC Galatia, etc. 45-46, 7. 9 Taf. 8, 4; MacDonald, Hunter II 581 Nr. 2; Imhoof-Blumer 7-9 Nr. 17. 23-29. 32 Taf. 1, 15. 18; 11 Nr. 43 Taf. 1, 24; Sydenham 27-28 Nr. 19-20. 24-28; SNG Copenhagen 167-169; SNG v. Aulock 6335. - Vs.: Mit Mauerkrone nach r. oder l. Rs.: Palmzweig oder Füllhorn mit Kranz oder mit caduceus oder mit caduceus und Palmzweig.

b) Als Kaisareia

2. AE, Claudius, 47/48 n. Chr., Trajan, 99/100-117 n. Chr. - InvWadd 6740; MacDonald, Hunter II 581 Nr. 3; Imhoof-Blumer 16 Nr. 47-50 Taf. 1, 26; Forrer, L., The Weber Collection III 2 (1929) Nr. 7794 Taf. 283 (hier falsch datiert); Sydenham 29 Nr. 39; SNG Copenhagen 172-173; SNG v. Aulock 6340-6342. 8727. - Vs.: Wie 1, jedoch nur nach r. Rs.: Berg → Argaios oder Pyramide.

3. AE, Germanicus, 37/38 n. Chr. - Imhoof-Blumer 43 Nr. 46; MacDonald, Hunter II (1901) 582 Nr. 5; Sydenham 33 Nr. 54. - Rs.: Wie 2.

4.* AE, Claudius, 42/43 n. Chr.; Antoninus Pius, 150/151 n. Chr. - Imhoof-Blumer, MGr 417 Nr. 181; Sydenham 34 Nr. 58; 83 Nr. 307; SNG Copenhagen 177; SNG v. Aulock 6347-6348. 8730. - Rs.: Wie 2, mit Schleier.

5.* AE, Gordianus III., 240/241 n. Chr. - Imhoof-Blumer 22 Nr. 76-78; Sydenham 130 Nr. 612-613. - Rs.: Wie 4, jedoch in Lorbeerkranz.

6. AE, Gordianus III. (238-244 n. Chr.). - SNG v. Aulock 6527. - Rs.: Wie 5, jedoch ohne Schleier.

7. AE Commodus, 192 n. Chr., Severus Alexander, 224/225 n. Chr. und Gordianus III., 240/241 n. Chr. - Sydenham 95 Nr. 386; 123 Nr. 554. - Rs.: Mit dem Berg Argaios als Mauerkrone nach r.

8. AE, Antoninus Pius, 159/160 n. Chr. und Severus Alexander, 224/225 n. Chr. - Sydenham 84 Nr. 317-318; 120 Nr. 532. - Rs.: Wie 7, zusätzlich mit Schleier.

Gemme

9.* Serpentin. London, BM 1106. - Drexel 901; Walters, BMGems Nr. 1663 Taf. 22. - Um 250 n. Chr. - Rs.: Wie 8. EYTYXI BOKONTI. Vs.: Helios.

B. In ganzer Gestalt

Münzen von Kaisareia

10.* AE, Claudius, 44/45 n. Chr. - Imhoof-Blumer, Flußg 358-359 Nr. 464 Taf. 15, 1; Sydenham 34 Nr. 59; SNG v. Aulock 6350. - Rs.: Nach r. auf Felsen sitzende K. mit Mauerkrone und Schleier, in der Rechten Ähren haltend; zu ihren Füßen schwimmender Flußgott (→ Melas?).

Gemme

11.* Saphir. Ehem. Mailand, Slg. Trivulzio. - Drexel 901; Furtwängler, AG III 364-365 Abb. 198; Delbrueck, R., Spätantike Kaiserporträts (1933) 152-153 Taf. 74, 1. - Um 350 n. Chr. - Nach l. gelagerte K., vom Rücken gesehen, in Chiton und Mantel, der bis zu den Hüften herabgefallen ist, in der Linken ein Füllhorn haltend, die Rechte erhoben, mit Scheitelfrisur, losem Nackenhaar und Haarband, nach oben blickend, wo Kaiser Constantius II. einen Eber im Walde erlegt, während der ihn begleitende Sklave flieht. ΚΕΣΑΡΙΑ ΚΑΠΠΑΔΟΚΙΑ.

AUSZUSCHneiden

Münzen von Kaisareia

12. AE, 36 v.-17 n. Chr. - BMC Galatia, etc. 46, 8 Taf. 8, 5; Imhoof-Blumer 5-6 Nr. 15-16 Taf. 1, 10-11; Sydenham 27 Nr. 19-20; SNG v. Aulock 6336. - Vs.: Kopf der Artemis mit Mauerkrone mit Helmbusch und am Rücken Köcher. Rs.: Palmzweig, bisweilen zwischen zwei pilei.

Münzen einer unbekannten östlichen Prägestätte

13. AR, Elagabal (218-222 n. Chr.). - BMC Galatia, etc. 84, 286 Taf. 12, 5; Sydenham 117. - Rs.: Frontal stehende Tyche mit Mauerkrone in Chiton und Peplos, den Kopf nach l. gewandt, in der Rechten konischen Stein und in der Linken Trophäe haltend.

KOMMENTAR

Die ältesten Darstellungen der Stadttyche, bis 17 n. Chr. als Eusebeia und danach wegen der Umbenennung als K. zu bezeichnen, zeigen den sehr beliebten Typus der Büste mit Mauerkrone (1-6). Seit Antoninus Pius wird dieses häufig vorkommende, ansonsten parallel auch weiterhin bestehende Bildnis bisweilen in ein eigenständiges, nur auf K. bezogenes Motiv umgewandelt, indem auf einigen Münzen (7-8) und einer Gemme (9) K. anstatt der Mauerkrone den naheliegenden heiligen Berg → Argaios als Kopfschmuck trägt. Unter Claudius wird K. erstmalig als ganze Figur auf Münzen (10) dargestellt, nämlich als sitzende Tyche mit einem Flußgott zu ihren Füßen, möglicherweise dem → Melas. Dieses Schema kehrt besonders häufig auf Münzen Südostkleasiens und Nordsyriens wieder und leitet sich von der bekannten Gruppe des Eutychides, → Antiocheia und den Orontes zeigend, ab. Auf einer Gemme um 350 n. Chr. (11) wird K. auf originelle Weise als liegende Gestalt in Rückenansicht, ein Füllhorn haltend, wiedergegeben und erinnert dadurch eher an eine Lokalnympe, kann durch die beigegebene Inschrift jedoch eindeutig als K. identifiziert werden. Die über ihr stattfindende Jagd des Kaisers Constantius kann als real angesehen werden, da wir wissen, daß dieser als leidenschaftlicher Jäger oft in Kappadokien verweilte und K. hiermit auf die Gegend des Geschehens hinweisen konnte.

Zwei zusätzlich auf K. bezogene Deutungen (12-13) müssen zurückgewiesen werden. Bei einer Münzreihe von Kaisareia (12) glaubte man bisweilen in der Büste auf der Vorderseite K. erkennen zu können, der Helmbusch wie auch der im Rücken getragene Köcher lassen hier jedoch an Artemis denken. Auf einer weiteren Münzserie (13) ist zwar eine Tyche zu sehen, bei dem Prägeort kann es sich aber nicht, wie schon Sydenham feststellte, um Kaisareia, sondern nur um eine andere, bis jetzt noch nicht identifizierte Stadt handeln; somit muß auch diese Figur dementsprechend anders gedeutet werden.

RAINER VOLLKOMMER

KAISAREIA II

(Καيسάρεια, Caesarea Stratonis oder Palaestinae oder Maritima) Personifikation der gleichnamigen Stadt, deren Umbenennung (vorher Στρατωνος πόλις) 10/9 v. Chr. durch Herodes d. Gr. zu Ehren von Augustus als Dank für ihre Rückgabe an das Königreich Iudaea erfolgte.

LITERARISCHE QUELLEN: Siehe Benzinger 1291-1294; Kadman 16-26.

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Avi-Yonah, M., EAA II (1959) 524-526 s.v. «Caesarea»; Benzinger, I., RE III 1 (1897) 1291-1294 s.v. «Caesarea 10»; Colpe, C., KIPauly I (1967) 1004-1005 s.v. «Caesarea 3»; Fellmann, R., LAW 538 s.v. «Caesarea 3»; Gersht, R., PEQ 116, 1984, 110-114; Kadman, L., The Coins of Caesarea Maritima. Corpus Nummorum Palaestiniensium II (1957) 50-54 (= Kadman); idem, Israel Numismatic Bull. 3-4, 1962, 69-80 Taf. 1, 13-14; Kindler, A., The Coinage of Bostrea (1983) 55 Taf. 11, 1-3; Levine, L. I., Caesarea under Roman Rule. Studies in Judaism in Late Antiquity VII (1975) 31-32, 42; Lifshitz, B., «Césarée de Palestine, son histoire et ses institutions», ANRW II 8 (1977) 490-518; Ringel, J., «La Fortune de Césarée et le Génie qui l'accompagne», RNum 16, 1974, 155-159 Abb. 1-2 (= Ringel 1); = Sefunim 4, 1972-75, 22-27 Taf. 2, 4-5 (= Ringel 2); idem, Césarée de Palestine (1975) 45-46, 110, 153-154, 157 Taf. 20-22 (= Ringel 3); Seyrig, H., Syria 49, 1972, 112-115 Nr. 100 Taf. 2; Wenning, R., «Die Stadtgöttin von Caesarea Maritima», Boreas 9, 1986, 113-129 Taf. 15-16.

KATALOG

Münzen von Caesarea Maritima

A. Stehende Kaisareia als Tyche in langem Chiton und Mantel, mit Mauerkrone und Kranz, in der Rechten ein Ruder und in der Linken einen Palmzweig haltend.

1.* AE, Agrippa I., 43/44 n. Chr. - BMC Palestine 237, 20; Meshorer, Y., Jewish Coins of the Second Temple Period (1967) 139-140 Nr. 90, 92; SNG ANS 274; Ringel 3, 152-153 Taf. 20, 9; Meshorer, Y., Ancient Jewish Coinage II (1982) 61, 248 Nr. 6-7 Taf. 9. - Rs.

B. Stehende Kaisareia mit Mauerkrone als Amazone in kurzem Chiton, die r. Brust freilassend, Schwertriemen diagonal über die Brust, r. Fuß auf Prora setzend, in der vorgestreckten Rechten Kaiserbüste und in der Linken Szepter oder Standarte haltend.

2.* AE, Nero, 67/68 n. Chr., bis Hadrian (117-138 n. Chr.). - BMC Palestine 13-17, 5-29, 36-38 Taf. 2, 11-13; MacDonald, Hunter III 275 Nr. 1 Taf. 77, 21; SNG Copenhagen 5; Kadman Nr. 1-12, 20-21, 26. Taf. 1-3; Wenning 117-121 Taf. 16, 1-3. - Rs.

C. Wie B. Anstatt Kaiserbüste Szepter in der Rechten haltend und Standarte in der Linken.

3.* AE, Nero, 67-68 n. Chr. - Kadman Nr. 13 Taf. 2. - Rs.

D. Wie B. Rechts Hafengenius, Anker schulternd.

a) Allein

4.* AE, Trajan, 117 n. Chr., bis Etruscilla (249-251 n. Chr.). - BMC Palestine 17, 39-41 Taf. 3, 1-2; Kadman Nr. 22 Taf. 2; Price, M. J./Trell, B. L., Coins and their Cities (1977) 283 Nr. 778 Abb. 367; Wenning 121-122 Taf. 16, 7. - Rs.: In einem tetrastylem Tempel.

5.* AE, Hadrian (117-138 n. Chr.) bis Volusianus (251-253 n. Chr.). - BMC Palestine 20, 64-68 Taf. 3, 7; 32, 150-151 Taf. 4, 2; 34, 170; MacDonald, Hunter III 276 Nr. 5; Grose, McClellan III Nr. 9538 Taf. 354, 1; SNG Copenhagen 13; Kadman Nr. 47-49, 65, 108, 123, 161, 187, 198, 216 Taf. 4, 9-10, 13, 16-17; Wenning 121 Taf. 16, 4. - Rs.

Freiplastik

6.* Marmorstatue. Caesarea, Sdot Yam Mus. Aus Caesarea Maritima. - Smith, S. E., RBibl 78, 1971, 592 Taf. 29; Wilhelm, G., RBibl 82, 1975, 279 Taf. 31-32; Ringel 3, 154 Taf. 22, 3; Kindler 55 Taf. 11, 1; Gersht 110, 113 Abb. 2; Wenning 113-114 Nr. 1.1 Taf. 15, 1. - 160-180 n. Chr. - K. mit Mantel über l. Schulter; Hafengenius mit Blattschurz.

7.* Bronzestatue. USA, Privatbesitz. Aus dem Kunsthandel in Beirut. - Seyrig 113-115 Nr. 100 Taf. 2; Ringel 2, 24-25; MuM Auktion 60, 1982, 71-72 Nr. 149 Taf. 45; Wenning 116 Nr. 1.5 Taf. 15, 2. - 2.-3. Jh. n. Chr. - R. Hand und Szepter oder Standarte der K. und Anker des Genius fehlen.

Relief

8.* Votivaltar des Julius Magnus. Jerusalem, Rokkefeller Mus. 76.98. Aus Caesarea Maritima. - Rahmani, L. Y., RBibl 85, 1978, 268-276 Taf. 18; idem, RBibl 88, 1981, 240-244; Puech, E., RBibl 89, 1982, 210-221; Wenning 115 Nr. 1.4 Taf. 15, 3. -

132-135 n. Chr. - Frontal stehende K., Szepter in der Linken.

b) Mit weiteren Personen

Münzen von Caesarea Maritima

9.* AE, Antoninus Pius (138-161 n. Chr.) bis Etruscilla (249-251 n. Chr.). - MacDonald, Hunter III 276 Nr. 4 Taf. 72, 22; Kadman Nr. 33, 58, 66-67, 74, 80-81, 162 Taf. 3, 5-7, 13; Wenning 123 Taf. 16, 8. - Rs.: Zwischen Dionysos und Demeter in tetrastylem Tempel.

10.* AE, Philippus I. Arabs (244-249 n. Chr.) und Philippus II. (247-249 n. Chr.). - BMC Palestine 30, 142-143 Taf. 3, 18; Kadman Nr. 112, 119 Taf. 9-10; Wenning 123 Taf. 16, 9. - Rs.: Zwischen Demeter und Dionysos in einen Kranz eingeschrieben, der von einem Adler getragen wird.

11.* AE, Traianus Decius (249-251 n. Chr.). - Kadman Nr. 140-141. - Rs.: K. l. und Dionysos (Thyrsos in der Rechten, Himation über dem l. Arm) r. stehend.

12.* AE, Traianus Decius (249-251 n. Chr.) bis Herennius Etruscus Decius (251 n. Chr.). - Kadman Nr. 124, 176 Taf. 10, 15; Wenning 123 Taf. 16, 10-11. - Rs.: Zwischen zwei Personen (nicht Demeter und Dionysos oder zwei Göttinnen wie von Kadman vorgeschlagen) bei Opferung.

Relief

13.* (= Eshmoun I) Bronzeschale in Niello. Paris, Louvre Br 4391. Angeblich aus Caesarea Maritima. - Will, E., Mon Piot 65, 1983, 1-24 Abb. 2, 4; Wenning 116 Nr. 1.6 Taf. 15, 4; Finkelsztejn, G., RBibl 93, 1986, 419-428. - 340-360 n. Chr. - Römischer Beamter in Toga, mit Mantel über den Kopf gezogen und Rolle in der Linken, opfert mit Patera in der Rechten über Altar zu K. (Leg. GENIUS COLONIAE). Hinter ihm junger Gehilfe mit Weihrauchkästchen.

E. Bekränzte Büste der Kaisareia nach r. oder l., mit Himation, Mauerkrone und welligem Haar mit im Nacken hochgestecktem kleinem Knoten.

Münzen von Caesarea Maritima

14.* AE, Severus Alexander (222-235 n. Chr.) bis Volusianus (251-253 n. Chr.). - BMC Palestine 29, 136 Taf. 3, 17; 34-38, 164-168, 172-176, 183-188, 191-198 Taf. 4, 9, 11, 13-14, 40, 211-212, 42, 226; SNG Copenhagen 11-12; Kadman Nr. 88, 125-128, 163-164, 172-174, 188-192, 199-200, 218-219 Taf. 7, 11, 14-16, 18; Wenning 123-124 Taf. 16, 5-6. - Rs.

15.* AE, Philip I. (244-249 n. Chr.) bis Volusianus (251-253 n. Chr.). - Grose, McClellan III Nr. 9540 Taf. 354, 3; Kadman Nr. 109-111, 118, 129-130, 165, 175, 193, 201-203, 220 Taf. 9-11, 14-18. - Rs.: Büste der K. in Kranz, der von einem Adler getragen wird.

F. Deutung auf Kaisareia offen

Gemme

16. Gemme. Israel, Slg. Hamburger. - Hamburger, A., «Gems from Caesarea Maritima», Atiqot 8, 1968, 11 Nr. 80 Taf. 4; Wenning 116 Nr. 1.7. - 3. Jh. n. Chr. - Tyche mit Mauerkrone, Speer in der Linken und Füllhorn in der Rechten.

Münzen von Caesarea Maritima

17. AE, Caracalla (198-217 n. Chr.). - Rosenberger, M., City Coins of Palestine III (1977) 127; Wenning 127 Nr. f. a. - Rs.: Stehende Tyche mit Füllhorn.

18. AE, Diadumenianus (218 n. Chr.). - MacDonald, Hunter III 279 Nr. 7. - Rs.: Stehende Tyche mit Ruder in der Linken und Füllhorn in der Rechten.

19. AE, Volusianus (251-253 n. Chr.). - Kadman Nr. 217 Taf. 17; Wenning 127 Nr. f. d. - Rs.: Stehend, in der Rechten Szepter und in der Linken Füllhorn haltend.

Freiplastik

20. Marmorstatuette. Caesarea, Sdot Yam Mus. - Gersht 112, 114 Abb. 3; Wenning 115 Nr. 1.3. - 2.-3. Jh. n. Chr. - Tyche mit Flußgott.

21. Marmortorso. Caesarea, Sdot Yam Mus. - Negev, A., Caesarea on the Sea (1967) 52; Gersht 112-113 Abb. 4; Wenninger 126 Nr. a. - Hadrianisch (Wenning). - Iulia Augusta (Livia) (?) als Tyche.

KOMMENTAR

Unter Agrippa I. zeigen Münzen Caesareas in den Jahren 43/44 n. Chr. (1) erstmals die Personifikation ihrer Stadt. Die Göttin wird mit Mauerkrone und Kranz, mit einem Ruder in der Rechten und einem Palmzweig in der Linken dargestellt. Doch wurde dieser Typus schon bald danach wieder aufgegeben. Nach der Ermordung der 20 000 in Caesarea lebenden Juden und der Umwandlung dieser Stadt zu einer rein römisch-griechischen Siedlung während des 1. Jüdischen Krieges wurde dort eine neue Münzstätte seit 67/68 eingerichtet, die als eines ihrer ersten Bildprogramme eine neue Darstellung der K. (2) wählte, nämlich eine kriegerische Amazone, die einen Fuß auf eine Prora setzt, in der Linken eine Standarte oder ein Szepter hält und diagonal über die Brust einen Riemen mit Schwert an dessen Ende trägt. Dieser neue Typus greift auf die Ikonographie der → Roma Victrix/→ Virtus zurück, um so bewußt auf die Präsenz der römischen Macht durch das Heer mit seiner Flotte hinzuweisen. In der Rechten hält K. zudem eine Kaiserbüste, die zugleich auf die kaiserliche Anwesenheit anspielt. Dieser fest umrissene Typus wird hier erstmals entwickelt und wird unter Hadrian (117-138 n. Chr.) von Aelia Capitolina und Tiberias, unter Commodus (180-192 n. Chr.) von Neapolis, Adraa und Gaba, unter Caracalla (198-217 n. Chr.) von Diospolis und unter Elagabal (218-222 n. Chr.) von Anthedon, Esbous und Madaba übernommen. Gleichzeitig zu diesem neuen Typus der K. (2) zeigt eine Münze die Stadtpersonifikation im gleichen Schema, jedoch hält diese anstatt der Kaiserbüste ein Szepter in der Rechten und in der Linken eine Standarte (3). Diese Variante scheint aber keinen Anklang zu finden und wird nach der Prägung im Jahre 67/68 n. Chr. wieder aufgegeben. Unter Trajan (4) taucht der erfolgreiche K. typus (2) erstmals zusammen mit dem Hafengenius der Stadt auf, und beide werden in einen tetrastilen Tempel gesetzt. Wiederum weist dies auf wichtige Änderungen, die den römischen Machtanspruch durch diese neuen Elemente weiter hervorheben sollten. Die Bedeutung des Hafens für die römische Flotte konnte hiermit betont werden und der Tempel auf die Errichtung eines solchen für K. mit einer eigenen Kultstatue aufmerksam machen, wobei der Anlaß zur Errichtung möglicherweise mit der erfolgreichen Niederwerfung des jüdischen Aufstandes im Jahre 117/118 n. Chr. durch L. Quietus zusammenhängt. Seit Antoninus Pius (138-161 n. Chr.) ersetzt dieser neue Typus gänzlich den ersten, und in einer weiteren Variante wird er (9) durch andere Götter und Göttinnen bereichert, wohl Dionysos und Demeter, die von nun an auch in weiteren Typen K. begleiten (10-11). Seit den Münzen Trajans (4) finden wir mehr oder weniger getreue Wiedergaben der neuen Kultstatue auch bei einer Marmorstatue (6) und einer Bronzestatue (7) und auf einem Votivaltar (8) und einer Schale (13). Die beiden letzten zeugen zudem von ihrer Kultverehrung. Der Altar diente selbst zu diesem Zweck und wurde während einer weiteren kriegerischen Auseinandersetzung, dem Bar-Kokhba-Aufstand, gestiftet und zeugt hiermit auch von der Möglichkeit einer politischen Deutung. Die Schale, die erst um 350 n. Chr. entstanden ist, zeigt direkt eine Kulthandlung vor der Statue und demonstriert, daß dieser Kult selbst noch in dieser Zeit von Bedeutung war. Zudem besteht auch hier die Möglichkeit, daß diese Schale ein Geschenk von offizieller Seite bzw. von einer wichtigen Person war und auf politischen Hintergrund anspielen sollte.

Erst mit Severus Alexander taucht die Büste von K. auf Münzen (14) auf, ein Motiv, das ansonsten die meisten Städte, die ihre Stadtpersonifikation im Bildprogramm haben, viel früher und oft als erstes Thema wählen.

Eine Gemme, drei Münztypen und zwei Statuen (16-21) zeigen weibliche Gestalten, die ein Füllhorn halten, und entsprechen hiermit der geläufigen Tyche-Ikonographie. Die Frage, inwieweit diese allgemeine Darstellungsweise einer Tyche spezifisch auf K. zu beziehen wäre, muß in diesen Fällen offenbleiben, weil Zusatzinformationen, die Antworten geben könnten, verloren sind. Es ist daher wohl besser, diese bis auf weiteres aus den gesicherten K. darstellungen auszuschneiden und als Tyche zu bezeichnen, als welche sie vielleicht auch in der Antike ausschließlich angesehen wurden.

RAINER VOLLKOMMER

KAISAREIA III

(Καيسάρεια, Καيسάρεια ή προς τη Πανεάδι, Καيسάρεια ή Φιλίππου, Πανιάς, Νερονιάς, Caesarea Panias, Caesarea Philippi, Panias, Neronias) Personifikation der gleichnamigen Stadt am Fuße des Hermos und an der Quelle des Jordan gelegen. Philippus, Tetrarch von Trachontis und Sohn des Herodes, benannte zu Ehren des Augustus oder des Tiberius das ehemalige Panion oder Panias in Kaisareia um. Nach einer Stadterweiterung durch Agrippa II. wurde die Stadt zu Ehren von Nero in Neronias umgetauft. Dieser Name fand jedoch keinen Anklang und die Bezeichnung Kaisareia blieb auch weiterhin bis in die Spätantike bestehen, als wieder der Rückgriff auf das ehemalige Panias gebräuchlich wurde.

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Benzinger, I., RE III 1 (1897) 1290-1291 s. v. «Caesarea 9»; Colpe, C., KIPauly I (1967) 1004 s. v. «Caesarea 2»; Fellmann, R., LAW 538 s. v. «Caesarea 2».

KATALOG

Münzen von Kaisareia

1.* AE, Agrippa II. (56-96 n. Chr.). - Meshorer, Y., Jewish Coins of the Second Temple Period (1967) 142 Nr. 99; idem, Ancient Jewish Coinage II (1982) 74-75; 250 Nr. 5 Taf. 11; 258 Nr. 51-52 Taf. 16. - Vs.: Büste der K. mit Mauerkrone nach r. Rs.: Zwei gekreuzte Füllhörner mit geflügeltem Caduceus in der Mitte oder Palmzweig oder Füllhorn.

2.* AE, Agrippa II., 87/88 n. Chr. - Meshorer, a. O. I (1982), 256 Nr. 39-39a Taf. 15. - Rs.: K. als Amazone mit Modius oder Mauerkrone stehend, in der Linken Füllhorn und in der Rechten Ruder haltend.

DEUTUNG AUF KAISAREIA OFFEN

3.* AE, Agrippa II., 74/75-95/96 n. Chr. - Meshorer, a. O. I (1967), 142-146 Nr. 101-109. 112-116; 151 Nr. 138; idem, a. O. I (1982), 251 Nr. 7-8b Taf. 11; 252 Nr. 12-12b. 14-14a. 17 Taf. 12-13; 254 Nr. 30-31 Taf. 14; 256-258 Nr. 38. 44. 47. 49-50. 53-53a Taf. 16. - Rs.: Nach l. stehende Frau mit oder ohne Modius oder Mauerkrone, Füllhorn in der Linken und Ähren in der Rechten, bisweilen auf Podium.

KOMMENTAR

Mehrere von Agrippa in Kaisareia geschlagene Münzen zeigen drei sehr geläufige Tychetypen (→ Tyche), die weibliche Büste mit Mauerkrone (1), die Tyche mit Füllhorn (3) und als Amazone (→ Amazones) mit Füllhorn und Ruder (2). Auf 3 hält K. (?) zusätzlich Ähren in der r. Hand und steht bisweilen auf einem Podium, das auf eine in der Stadt vorhandene Kultstatue hinweisen könnte. Die Ähren scheinen auf den durch die Fruchtbarkeit des umliegenden Landes erworbenen Reichtum der Stadt anzuspielen, der uns auch durch Ios. bell. Iud. 1, 404; 3, 509. 513-514 und ant. Iud. 15, 364 überliefert ist.

RAINER VOLLKOMMER

KAISAREIA IV

(Καيسάρεια, Caesarea) Personifikation der gleichnamigen Stadt, des heutigen Cherchel in Algerien. Juba II. ließ das ehemalige Iol zu Ehren von Augustus zu Caesarea umbenennen, aus Dank, daß er von diesem als Ersatz für Numidien Mauretania erhielt. Gleichzeitig wurde sie die Hauptstadt seines neuen Königreiches und erreichte eine Hochblüte. Als das Land 40 n. Chr. unter römische Herrschaft geriet, wurde Caesarea Hauptstadt der Provinz Mauretania Caesariensis.

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Dessau, H., RE III 1 (1897) 1294-1295 s. v. «Caesarea 14»; Duval, P.-M., Cherchel et Tipasa (1946) 148 ff.; Fellmann, R., LAW (1965) 537-538 s. v. «Caesarea 1»; Fittschen, K., «Juba II. und seine Residenz Jol/Caesarea (Cherchel)», in Die Numider (Ausstellungskat. Bonn 1979) 227-231; Leglay, M., KIPauly I (1964) 1003-1004 s. v. «Caesarea 1»; Leveau, P., «Caesarea de Maurétanie», ANRW II 10.2 (1982) 683-738; Salzmann, D., MM 15, 1974, 178-179; Floriani Squarciapino, M., EAA II (1959) 543-545 s. v. «Cherchel».

KATALOG

Münzen von Caesarea

1.* AR Denar, Juba II. (25 v.-23 n. Chr.). - SNG Copenhagen 555; Mazard, CNNM 96 Nr. 237-239; 246 Abb. 237-239; Salzmann 178-179 Nr. 28 Taf. 33, 28. - Rs.: Büste der K. nach r. mit Mauerkrone und Haarknoten; eine Locke fällt in den Nacken. Bisweilen CAESAREA.

2. AE, Juba II. (25 v.-23 n. Chr.). - Mazard, CNNM 107 Nr. 293-295; 248 Abb. 293. - Rs.: Büste der K. mit Mauerkrone nach r.; ein Haarzopf fällt auf die Schulter. RA XXIII (oder XXVIII oder XXXIII) CAESAREA.

3.* AE, Juba II. (25 v.-23 n. Chr.). - SNG Copenhagen 686-688; Mazard, CNNM 171 Nr. 563; 257 Abb. 563. - Vs.: Büste der K. mit Mauerkrone und Haarknoten nach l.; ein Haarzopf fällt auf die Schulter. SITVM CAESARIS. Rs.: Steinbock, Füllhorn, Steuerruder und Globus.

KOMMENTAR

Eine Reihe von in Caesarea geschlagenen Münzen aus der Zeit Jubas II. (1-3) zeigen die Personifikation des Prägeortes in dem sehr geläufigen Tychetypus der Büste mit Mauerkrone (→ Tyche). Diese Darstellungen zeugen von der Bedeutung dieser Stadt als Hauptstadt des neuen Königreiches und von ihrer ersten Hochblüte.

RAINER VOLLKOMMER

KAKASBOS → Addenda vol. sq.

KAKOS → Cacus

KALABROS → Sybaris II

KALAIS → Boreadai

KALCHAS

(Κάλχας, Chalkas, Calchas). Indovino greco che partecipò alla guerra di Troia, ponendo le sue doti al servizio dell'esercito acheo (Aischyl. Ag. 122: στρατόμαντις). Aveva una voce divina (Schol. Hom. Il. 13, 45 Erbse), ma il suo aspetto era immaginato come quello di un vecchio (Tzet. posth. 666-667). Il nome di K. veniva fatto derivare da κάλχη e καλχαίνω (Schol. Soph. Ant. 20; Etym. m. s. v. Κάλχας; Eust. 51, 9-13 ad Hom. Il. 1, 70; cf. però Frisk I 769 s. v. κάλχη). Studi recenti hanno proposto una derivazione da χαλκός (Camassa 26-29); altri hanno pensato a un'origine pelasgica (Windekens) o comunque anellenica del nome (Boissacq<sup>4</sup> 400-401), ma sembra più prudente continuare a far riferimento all'etimologia antica (v. Kamptz, H., Homerische Personennamen [1982] 166 n. 91; 375). K. era particolarmente esperto nell'interpretazione del volo degli uccelli (Hom. Il. 1, 69; 13, 70; Aischyl. Ag. 156-157; Q. Smyrn. 9, 330; Hyg. fab. 128; Eust. 51, 13-18 ad Hom. Il. 1, 70). In Omero è chiamato μάντις ἀμύμων (Il. 1, 92), οἰωνοδόλων ἀριστος (Il. 1, 69), θεοπρόπος οἰωνιστής (Il. 13, 70), mentre autori più recenti gli attribuiscono anche la conoscenza dell'astrologia (Q. Smyrn. 12, 5; Sen. Tro. 355-357; cf. però Prop. 4, 1, 109) e dell'aruspicina (Sen. Tro. 355; Q. Smyrn. 9, 331). Su K. pesa un giudizio sfavorevole, giustificato dalla sua partecipazione a sacrifici umani, ma rinforzato dalla condanna razionalistica delle pratiche divinatorie, già presente nei tragici greci (Eur. Hel. 744-760), che trova larga eco nel teatro latino (Accius, TFI. 169-172; Enn. scaen., TFI. 199-201; Pacuvius, TFI. 80-85; Plaut. Merc. 945; Plaut. Men. 748) e costituisce la premessa del sinistro K. virgiliano (Verg. Aen. 2, 57-198; Russell, J., Latomus 32, 1973, 818-823). Notevole era invece il prestigio di cui K. godeva in Asia Minore, dove era venerato come fondatore di Perge in Pamphylia e di Selge in Pisidia (Strabon 12, 7, 3 p. 570; Eust. ad Dion. Per. 858).

FONTI LETTERARIE: Nelle genealogie antiche K. è detto figlio di Thestor (Hom. Il. 1, 69; Hyg. fab. 97, 15; 128. 190), a sua volta figlio di Idmon (Pherekyd., FGH 3 F 108). In questa discendenza è possibile individuare un collegamento con gli Amythaonidai, stirpe argiva di indovini (Gruppe, Gr. Myth. I 640), alla quale apparteneva → Melampus (Eust. 50, 38-46 ad Hom. Il. 1, 70). Altre fonti pongono K. in relazione con Megara (Paus. 1, 43, 1), con Mykenai (Hyg. fab. 97, 15; cf. anche Eur. Iph. T. 531-532), con l'Eubea (Schol. Hom. Il. 13, 45 Erbse; Eust. 51, 7-9 ad Hom. Il. 1, 70). Le predizioni di K. sono legate alla guerra di Troia. Egli rivela la necessità di avere Achille (→ Achilleus) con i Greci (Apollod. bibl. 3 [174] 13, 8) e ne svela il nascondiglio (Stat. Ach. 1, 514-537); sua è anche l'interpretazione del prodigio delle due aquile e della lepre gravida (Aischyl. Ag. 122-125. 140-145), ma nei poemi omerici l'indovino non svolge un ruolo molto importante. In Aulide, dopo aver vaticinato la durata decennale del conflitto (Hom. Il. 2, 322-329), grazie al prodigio degli uccellini (Kypria: Proklos, Davies EGF p. 32, 44-46; Apollod. epitome 3, 15; Cic. div. 1, 72; 2, 63, 65; Baebius Italicus Ilias Lat. 147-153; Apul. de deo Socr. 159-161; Philostr. v. A. 1, 22; 3, 6; Orig. Cels. 4, 91, 1-23; Macr. Sat. 5, 14, 13; Q. Smyrn. 8, 475-477; Triph. 129-131), K. consiglia il sacrificio di → Iphigeneia (Kypria: Proklos, Davies EGF p. 32, 58-60; Aischyl. Ag. 122-159; Eur. Iph. T. 15-24; Eur. Iph. A. 87-93; Apollod. epitome 3, 21; Prop. 4, 1, 109-112; Ov. met. 12, 27-29; Sen. Ag. 167-168; Paus. 9, 19, 6; Hyg. fab. 98, 2). Durante il viaggio verso Troia K. guida le navi (Hom. Il. 1, 71; Cic. div. 1, 87; Macr. Sat. 5, 14, 13; Eust. 47, 1-7, 23-25 ad Hom. Il. 1, 59), convalidando con le sue capacità divinatorie le indicazioni di → Telephos (Apollod. epitome 3, 20). A Troia K. interpreta le ragioni della peste, causata dall'offesa arrecata ad → Apollon (Hom. Il. 1, 68-100; Myth. Vat. I 209). Per facilitarne la conquista K. consiglia di ricorrere a → Philoktetes e → Helenos (Konon, FGH 26 F 1, 34, 2; Apollod. epitome 5, 8-9; Q. Smyrn. 9, 325-329; Serv. Aen. 2, 166). A suggerimenti di K. vengono attribuiti anche il sacrificio di → Astyanax (I) (Accius TF I. 171-172; Sen. Tro. 368-369; Serv. Aen. 3, 489) e quello di → Polyxena (Sen. Tro. 366-367; Serv. Aen. 3, 321), il ratto del Palladio (→ Diomedes I) (Verg. Aen. 2, 176-182; Sil. 13, 41-42), la decisione di sacrificare → Sinon (Verg. Aen. 2, 100, 122-124, 176, 182) e la costruzione del cavallo di Troia (Verg. Aen. 2, 185-188; Petron. 89, 1-6; Q. Smyrn. 12, 377-378), nel quale avrebbe lui stesso preso posto (Triph. 172; Tzet. posth. 645). Dopo la presa di Troia K. informa Enea (→ Aineias) sul suo futuro (Q. Smyrn. 13, 333-350) e svolge un ruolo importante nelle decisioni relative al viaggio di ritorno dei Greci (Theop., FGH 115 F 351; Q. Smyrn. 14, 346-353, 360-369; cf. però Prop. 4, 1, 109-113). Colto dalla tempesta presso l'Eubea K. venne spinto indietro e approdò a Kolophon (Schol. Hom. Od. 13, 259), ma secondo altre fonti vi si sarebbe recato direttamente assieme ad altri compagni (Nostoi: Proklos, Davies EGF p. 67, 12-14; Strabon 14, 1, 27 p. 643; Tzet. Lykophr. 427, 978, 1047). A Kolophon K. entra in contatto con l'oracolo apollineo di Klaros (cf. Kallinos, West IEG frg. 8; Suda s. v. Σίβυλλα Κολοφώνια), dove affronta → Mopsos, ma viene sconfitto in una gara divinatoria e muore di dolore (Hes. frg. 278 Merkelbach/West; Soph., TrGF IV F 180; Strab. 14, 1, 27 p. 642; Apollod. epitome 6, 2-4; Lykophron 426-430; Schol. Lykophr. ad loc.; Tzet. Lykophr. ad loc.), o addirittura si uccide (Konon, FGH 26 F 1, 6). Secondo altre versioni del mito la gara divinatoria avrebbe avuto luogo in Cilicia (Soph. l. c.; Strabon 14, 5, 16 pp. 675-676) oppure a Gryneion in Mysia (Euphorion frg. 97 Powell; Serv. eccl. 6, 72; Myth. Vat. I 194; II 224). Isolata appare l'attribuzione a K. della fondazione di Kalchedon in Bithynia (Hesych., FGH 390 F 1, 21). Tracce di K. si incontrano anche in Occidente. In Daunia, sul monte Drion, erano venerate le tombe di Podaleirios (→ Machaon) e K., presso le quali esisteva un oracolo (Lykophron 1047-1049; Schol. Lykophr. ad loc.; Tzet. Lykophr. ad loc.; Strabon 6, 3, 9 p. 284), mentre a Siris, colonia di Kolophon, era mostrata la tomba di K., ucciso in questo caso da → Herakles (Lykophron 978-983; Schol. Lykophr. ad loc.; Tzet. Lykophr. ad loc.).

BIBLIOGRAFIA: Basta Donzelli, G., EncVirg 1606-607 s. v. «Calcante»; Camassa, G., «Calcante, la cecità dei Calcedoni e il destino dell'eroe del bronzo», AnnPisa 10, 1980, 25-69; Hekkenbach, J., REX 2 (1919) 1552-1555 s. v. «Kalchas»; Stoll, H. W., Immisch, O., ML II 1 (1890-94) 921-924 s. v. «Kalchas»; Perret, J., «Calchas dieu et conquérant», RHist 185, 1933, 23-58; Van Windekens, A. J., «Le nom du devin Κάλχας», Beitr. zur Namenforschung 7, 1956, 308-311.

CATALOGO

A. Kalchas solo

RAFFIGURAZIONE ETRUSCA

1.* Specchio bronzeo. Vaticano, Mus. Greg. 12240. Da Vulci. - Helbig<sup>1</sup> I n° 724 (Dohrn); Pfister-Roesgen, G., Die etruskischen Spiegel des 5. Jh. v. Chr. (1975) 63-64, 158-159 S 45 tav. 49; Fischer-Graf, U., Spiegelwerkstätten in Vulci (1980) 42-44 V 26 tav. 10, 3; Pairault-Massa, F.-H., in La divination dans le monde étrusco-italique (1986) 67-68 fig. 2. - Inizio del IV sec. a. C. - Una figura alata con chioma e barba pro-lisse, identificata da un'iscrizione come Chalchas (de Simone, Entlehnungen I 130), compie una hepatoskopia, chinandosi su una tavola sulla quale sono deposte altre viscere.

RAFFIGURAZIONE ROMANA

2. Statua perduta. Perge, presso la porta sud. - Mansel, A., AA 1956, 109-111; Jameson, Sh., RE Suppl. XIV (1974) 378-379 s. v. «Perge»; Weiss, P., WürzbJbb 10, 1984, 181-182. - Età adrianea. - Si conserva la base della statua rivenuta assieme ad altre otto basi iscritte, che sostenevano immagini di eroi fondatori (tra gli altri anche Mopsos).

RAFFIGURAZIONI DUBBIE

Monete

3. AR triobolos, Kalchedon (Bithynia), metà del V sec. a. C. - Baldwin, BostonGrCoins n° 1374 tav. 70; Naster, P., La collection L. de Hirsch (1959) n° 1426; SNG v. Aulock 6980-6982. - D: testa virile barbata a s. o a d., Zeus? R: Ruota a quattro raggi, tra i quali sono inserite quattro lettere: KAAX. La stessa associazione di D e R compare su altri nominali: BMC Bithynia 124, 1 tav. 27, 1 («Zeus»); RecGén I 2, 290, 1-4 tav. 45, 9-12. L'ipotesi che la testa barbata sul D raffiguri K. (Svoronos, I. N., ArchEph 1890, 165-169 tav. 8, 29) non è dimostrabile.

B. Kalchas e Telephos

4.* Cratere a calice pestano a f. r. San Antonio, G. M. Deumen jr. Coll. 275. - Schauenburg, K., RM 90, 1983, 347-349, tav. 84, 1; RVP 84-85, 128 tav. 48: Asteas. - Ca. 330 a. C. - Al centro il piccolo Orestes sull'altare, tenuto da Telephos. In alto Apollo, Hermes, una figura femminile (Thrisa) e K. canuto, con chitone, mantello e bastone.

C. Kalchas interprete di prodigi

a) Prodigio degli uccellini

5.* Ilias Ambrosiana, miniatura XII. - Bianchi Bandinelli, R., Hellenistic-Byzantine Miniatures of the Iliad (1955) 58 figg. 48, 117-118; Ghisellini, E., Xenia 15, 1988, 16 fig. 19. - Al centro K. presso un'ara accesa leva la destra con gesto ammonitorio. A d. l'albero con il serpente che insidia gli uccellini; a s. gli Achei riuniti.

b) Spiegazione della peste

6. (= Achilleus 433/543*, = Apollon/Apollo 489a) Tabula Iliaca. Roma, Mus. Cap. 316. - Sadurska, Tables 26 tav. 1; Helbig<sup>1</sup> n° 1266 (Simon). - Prima età imperiale. - K., vestito solo di un mantello, leva la mano destra verso Apollo, che scaglia le frecce del contagio. L'identificazione di K. è assicurata da un'iscrizione.

7. (= Apollon/Apollo 488*) Pittura parietale. Pompei, Casa del Criptoportico, parete ovest, in situ. - Spinazzola, Pompei 909-910 figg. 901-903; Bianchi Bandinelli, o. c. 5, 119-120 fig. 175. - C. 30 a. C. - Apollo, in alto a s., lancia i suoi dardi. Su un carro un uomo anziano allarga le braccia: si tratta forse di K., ma lo stesso gesto caratterizza anche un'altra figura, della quale resta solo una mano protesa.

D. Kalchas e Iphigeneia

a) Iphigeneia condotta al sacrificio

RAFFIGURAZIONE GRECA

8. (= Agamemnon 31, = Iphigeneia 4 con bibl.) Quadro di Timanthes, perduto ma noto dalle fonti antiche: Cic. or. 22, 74; Quint. inst. 2, 13, 13; Val. Max. 8, 11 ext. 6. - Overbeck, SQ n° 1735-1737; Reinach, A., Recueil Milliet I n° 306-308. - Fine del V secolo a. C. - Iphigeneia stante presso l'ara, circondata da più personaggi, il cui dolore era raffigurato in crescendo, da K. fino ad Agamemnon.

RAFFIGURAZIONI ROMANE

9. (= Agamemnon 41*, = Artemis/Diana 48, = Iphigeneia 38 con bibl.) Pittura parietale. Napoli, Mus. Naz. 9112. Da Pompei VI 8, 13 (Casa del Poeta Tragico). - Helbig, Wandgemälde n° 1304; Löwy, E., Oefh 24, 1929, 26-33 fig. 23; Schefold, WP 105. - Età flavia. - Al centro Iphigeneia; sulla destra K., con un lungo chitone senza maniche e un mantello annodato attorno ai fianchi, impugna la spada e tiene nella sinistra abbassata il fodero.

10. (= Agamemnon 42, = Apollon/Apollo 487, = Artemis/Diana 339, = Iphigeneia 39* con bibl.) Mosaico. Ampurias, Mus. Monografico. Da Ampurias. - Elvira, A., ArEspArq 54, 1981, 7-21 figg. 1, 5. - Tarda età imperiale. - Presso l'ara Iphigeneia; sulla s. K., con mantello avvolto attorno ai fianchi e la mano d. levata verso il volto, mentre dalla parte opposta Agamemnon volge le spalle alla scena.

b) Kalchas taglia i capelli di Iphigeneia

RAFFIGURAZIONI ROMANE

11. (= Iphigeneia 40* con bibl.) Pittura parietale. Pompei, Casa del Vicolo di Modesto, non conservata. - Helbig, Wandgemälde n° 1305; Löwy, o. c. 9, 6 fig. 9; Schefold, WP 97; De Caro, S., BollArte 69, 1984, 41 n° 7 fig. 14. - Sulla d. K., che indossa un chitone corto, taglia con la spada una ciocca dei capelli di Iphigeneia.

12. (= Iphigeneia 41* con bibl.) Stucco. Roma, Basilica di Porta Maggiore, soffitto della navata centrale. - Bendinelli, G., MonAnt 31, 1926, 700 tav. 24, 1; Löwy, o. c. 9, 6 fig. 7; Mielsch, Stuckreliefs 119. - Gruppo a due simile a quello dell' 11.

Rilievi

13. (= Iphigeneia 42** con bibl.) Ara di Kleome-nes. - Firenze, Uff. 612. - A s. K., con il mantello girato attorno ai fianchi, impugna la spada, con la quale recide una ciocca dei capelli di Iphigeneia.

14. (= Iphigeneia 43 con bibl.) Rilievo anfiglifo, fr. Bolsena. - Balland, A./Goudineau, C., MEFRA 79, 1967, 569-571 fig. 1. - Prima metà I sec. d. C. - Su un lato del rilievo (un oscillum quadrangolare?) semplice erotico, sull'altro lato K. a s. e Iphigeneia a d., secondo lo schema del 13.

15. (= Iphigeneia 44* con bibl.) Ceramica aretina, fr. Dresden, già Staatl. Kunstslg. Zv 679.94. Balland/Goudineau, o. c. 14, 574-577 fig. 4. - Decorazione applicata: a d. Iphigeneia, a s. le braccia di K. e la spada, al centro un altare.

16. (= Iphigeneia 45 con bibl.) Ceramica aretina, fr. New York, MMA. - Si conservano la parte superiore di Iphigeneia e l'avambraccio d. di K. con la spada.

17. (= Iphigeneia 46*) Brocca fittile. Pompei, Magazzino 1091. - Dalla domus II 8, 2. - De Caro, S., BollArte 69, 1984, 39-43 figg. 1-9. - Prima età imperiale. - Intorno al corpo del vaso sono applicate sei figure lavorate a parte. Gruppo centrale di tre figure, simile a quello del 13.

18. (= Iphigeneia 47* con bibl.) Cassetta d'avorio. London, Victoria and Albert Mus. Da Veroli. - Media età bizantina. - Gruppo centrale di tre figure, simile a quello del 13.

c) Il miracolo della cerva

RAFFIGURAZIONI ETRUSCHE

19.* (= Agamemnon 35, = Artemis/Diana 336, = Artemis/Artumes 61, = Iphigeneia [in Etruria] 1* con bibl.) Cista prenestina. Roma, Villa Giulia 13141. Da Praeneste. - Helbig<sup>1</sup> III 2979 (Dohrn); Foerst, G., Die Gravierungen der pränestinischen Cisten (1978) n° 80 tavv. 52b-d. 53a. b. - Fine del IV sec. a. C. - A s. Iphigeneia nuda, a d. K., in abito orientale come i suoi aiu-tanti, ha già levato la machaira per compiere il sacrificio, ma al suo fianco spunta la cerva.

20. (= Agamemnon 39*, = Artemis/Artumes 62, = Iphigeneia [in Etruria] 16*) Urna chiusina. Chiusi, Mus. Naz. 955. Da Chiusi. - Brunn, Rilievi I 51-52 tav. 47, 26; Rebuffat, R., MEFRA 84, 1972, 532, 534 fig. 10b. - II sec. a. C. - Al centro K. stante (con stivali, corazza e mantello) tiene con la d. una patera sopra un'ara, presso la quale si trovano sia Iphigeneia, che l'animale destinato a sostituirla. A d., in basso, Agamemnon leva le braccia in segno di meraviglia.

E. Kalchas e Iphigeneia: raffigurazioni dubbie

RAFFIGURAZIONI GRECHE

21. (= Iphigeneia 2* con bibl.) Cratere frammentario del Protoattico Medio, P. di Nesso di N. York. Boston, MFA loan 6.67. - Vermeule E./Chapman S., AJA 75, 1971, 285-293 tavv. 69-72; Prag, A. J. N. W., The Oresteia (1985) 63, 148 H 1. - 650-630 a. C. - Tre uomini, vestiti con chitone e calzari, trasportano una donna supina, in posizione orizzontale. Se si trattasse di Iphigeneia uno di essi potrebbe essere K.

22. Anfora campana a f.n. London, BM B 70. - Smith, BMVases II B 70; Moret, Iliouperis 197, 214, tav. 25, 1; Parise Badoni, F., Ceramica campana a figure nere (1968) 60 n° 5; 160 tav. 28; Prag, o. c. 21, 65. 149 H 3 tav. 40a-b. - 470-450 a. C. - Una figura armata presso un altare, verso il quale viene trasportata la vittima (Polyxena piuttosto che Iphigeneia).

23. (= Agamemnon 30*, = Artemis 1373, = Iphigeneia 11* con bibl.) Cratere a volute apulo a f.r. Londra, BM F 159. - Dalla Basilicata. - RVAp I 204, 104; Smith, BMVases IV F 159; Séchan, Etudes 372 n. 1; 603 fig. 108. - 375-350 a. C. - Sulla d. Iphigeneia e accanto a lei la cerva; al centro un'ara. Il sacrificante, barbato e con lo scettro (Agamemnon piuttosto che K.), leva il coltello verso la testa della fanciulla.

24. (= Iphigeneia 5* con bibl.) Fregio del tempio di Artemis, Termessos. - Löwy, o. c. 9, 4 fig. 6; Studniczka, K., Artemis und Iphigenie (1926) 47-51 fig. 30; Stähler, K., AA 1968, 281-282 fig. 1-2. - II sec. a. C. - Sulla d. Iphigeneia stante, al centro l'ara e sulla s. una figura in chitone corto (K. o Artemis?), che leva il braccio d. e sembra tenere con la s. una cerva.

RAFFIGURAZIONE ETRUSCA

25. (= Agamemnon 40*, = Iphigeneia [in Etruria] 2) Sarcofago in nenfro. Roma, Villa Giulia 1553 I. Da Tuscania. - Giglioli tav. 353, 3; Helbig, EtrSark 48 n° 85 tav. 32b; Helbig<sup>4</sup> III n° 2495 (Dohrn). - III sec. a. C. - Su uno dei lati brevi è raffigurato un uomo barbato (K.), che impugna un coltello nella d. levata e afferra con l'altra mano una donna seduta su un'ara. Sulla s. è seduto un uomo barbato (Agamemnon?), che si tocca la testa in segno di dolore.

RAFFIGURAZIONI ROMANE

26. (= Agamemnon 29*, = Artemis/Diana 54) Pittura parietale. Pompei VI 15, 1 (Domus Vettiorum).

- HBr tav. 20; Sogliano, A., MonAnt 8, 1908, 365-366 tav. 11, 1; Schefold, WP 147. - Età neroniana. - In un santuario di Artemis: a s. dell'ara una sacerdotessa e la cerva, a d. una figura barbata e loricata che brandisce una spada (K.).

27.* Gemma, sardonica. Copenaghen, Thorv. Mus. I 877. - Fossing, ThorvGems n° 106. - Un uomo barbato (K.), con lorica, trafigge con la spada al petto una fanciulla inginocchiata, con le mani legate dietro la schiena (Iphigeneia?).

28. (= Iphigeneia 48*) Gemma, sardonica. Berlino (Ovest), Staatl. Mus. FG 488. - AGD II n° 316. - Un uomo barbato (K.), con lorica e mantello, leva la s., con la quale impugna verticalmente un coltello, sopra una fanciulla con le mani legate (Iphigeneia?), inginocchiata dietro un'ara.

COMMENTO

La tecnica divinatoria e la sconfitta patita nella gara con Mopsos fanno pensare che K. appartenga a un orizzonte cronologico molto antico, anteriore alla diffusione della mantica apollinea (Burkert, W., SbHeidelb 1984, 50. 54), ma i dati disponibili non autorizzano a considerare K. una figura mitica dell'età del bronzo (così Camassa 66-69). La fortuna iconografica di K. appare d'altra parte relativamente recente: se si prescinde dal quadro di Timanthes (8), le attestazioni più antiche sono del IV secolo a. C. (1. 4. 19), ma la maggior parte delle raffigurazioni può essere datata tra il I sec. a. C. e la tarda età imperiale (2. 6-7. 9-17), con sopravvivenze d'epoca bizantina (5. 18). K. è raramente mostrato da solo. La statua di Perge (2) rientra nel quadro delle celebrazioni riservate dalle città d'Asia Minore ai loro fondatori mitici (Weiss, o. c. 2, 193-195; Strubbe, J. H., Ancient Society (Louvain) 15-17, 1984-86, 280-284), mentre appare atipica la raffigurazione di K. seminudo e alato su uno specchio etrusco (1). A confronto è stata richiamata una figura alata, forse un indovino, della Cista Ficoroni, la cui identificazione resta però controversa (Mopsos?; cf. Beazley, J. D., JHS 69, 1949, 5). Più frequenti sono le scene alle quali K. partecipa come comprimario: oltre al presagio degli uccellini in Aulide e all'interpretazione della peste che aveva colpito l'esercito acheo (5-7), egli compare nell'episodio della cattura del piccolo Orestes, preso in ostaggio da Telephos (4), ma l'episodio che trova più vasta eco nelle arti figurative è il sacrificio di Iphigeneia (8-10), i cui preliminari comportavano il taglio di una ciocca dei capelli della vittima (11-18), come si usava in occasione di riti che accompagnavano il passaggio da una condizione a un'altra (Kötting, B., RAC 13 [1986] 181-186 s. v. «Haar»). Rare risultano invece le scene nelle quali K. assiste al momento culminante dell'episodio, quando accanto alla vittima si manifesta la cerva destinata a sostituirla (19-20). Quando interpreta prodigi K. appare coperto da un mantello (6-7), talora indossato sopra un chitone manicato (5), con una combinazione che può ricordare l'abbigliamento degli anziani e dei pedagoghi (4). Durante il sacrificio di Iphigeneia K. ha il mantello avvolto attorno ai fianchi, portato sopra un lungo chitone (9) oppure a torso nudo (10. 13. 17-18), ma può presentarsi anche con un corto chitone cinto alla vita (11-12) o addirittura con abiti orientali (19), mentre isolato appare il K. loricato di un'urnetta etrusca (20).

(Ricerca condotta con contributo del Ministero della Pubblica Istruzione, Roma)
VINCENZO SALADINO

KALE

(Καλή) «Die Schöne», Mänadenname in Vaseninschriften.

1.* (= Choro II 1 mit Beschreibung, = Chrysis III 1, = Dionysos 334 mit Lit.) Bauchlekythos mit Goldschmuck, att. rf. Verschollen, ehem. Berlin, Staatl. Mus. F 2471. Aus Trachones (Attika). - ARV 1247, 1 Eretriamaler; Para 469; Add 353; Fränkel, Namen 98 Nr. a. - Um 420 v. Chr. - Thiasos. Hinter Choro steht die sinnende K. gegen eine Anhöhe gelehnt, auf die sie beide Ellenbogen aufstützt.

2. (= Amymone 12* mit Lit. und Beschreibung, = Hedyoinos 2) Glockenkrater, att. rf. Wien, Kunsth. Mus. IV 1011. - ARV 1155, 6: Art des Dinomalers; Add 337; Fränkel, Namen 102 Nr. γ; CVA 3 Taf. 117, 3. - Ende 5. Jh. v. Chr. - Vier Silene, von denen zwei benannt sind (→ Hedyoinos, → Komos) belastigen eine wasserholende Frau (mit Efeu bekränzt, hält Tyle und Hydria), welche vergeblich zu fliehen versucht. Die Beischrift nennt sie K. Handelt es sich um eine Mänade (so Eichler, CVA) oder um die auf das gleichnamige Satyrspiel des Aischylos zurückgehende Amymone (s. weiter Simon, → Amymone 12 und die verwandten Darstellungen ebenda)? Im letzteren Fall wäre K. nur schmückender Beiname der Amymone. ANNELIESE KOSSATZ-DEISSMANN

KALEON, KALLON

(Καλέον, Καλλών) Gott des gleichnamigen Flusses in Ionien. Der Name ist bisher nur auf Münzen von Smyrna belegt, und die genaue Lage des Flusses ist unbekannt.

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Drexler, W., ML II 1 (1890-94) 925 s. v. «Kaleon»; Frontrier, A., REA 9, 1907, 118-120; Joly, E., EAA IV (1961) 296 s. v. «Kaleon»; Klose, D. O. A., Die Münzprägung von Smyrna in der römischen Kaiserzeit (1987) 37. 249; Meyer, H., RE X 2 (1919) 1603 s. v. «Kaleon».

Münzen von Smyrna

Auf allen Münzen erscheint der nur mit einem Himation bis zu den Hüften bekleidete K. nach l. gelagert, ein Füllhorn in der Rechten haltend und mit der Linken sich auf ein Quellgefäß lehnd.

1.* AE, Sabina († 137 n. Chr.). - BMC Ionia 278, 336-338 Taf. 29, 5; MacDonald, Hunter II 381, 217; Imhoof-Blumer, Flußg 287 Nr. 281 Taf. 9, 20; SNG Copenhagen 1365; MuM, Liste 371, 1975, Nr. 33; Klose 37. 249 Nr. XLV. Sabina 1-12 Taf. 35. - Rs.: K. KAAEON EMYP oder KAAΩ [E]MYP.

Die Darstellungen des K. entsprechen dem geläufigen Typus des auf einem Quellgefäß gelagerten menschengestaltigen Flußgottes (→ Fluvii). Bei einem Unikum von London scheint die leicht abweichende Benennung KAAΩ auf einen Fehler zurückzugehen, und wir können annehmen, daß hier ebenfalls K. gemeint ist. Ansonsten ist er von den übrigen auf Münzen von Smyrna auftauchenden Flußgöttern → Hermos, → Melas und → Meles klar zu differenzieren.

RAINER VOLLKOMMER

KALETOR → Alexandros 89

KALI[---] → Amazonas 67

KALLIAS

(Καλλίας) Satyrname in einer Vaseninschrift, vgl. Καλλίας = Affe.

1.* (= Eu[---] 1) Schale, att. rf. Brüssel, Mus. Roy. R 253 und Vatikan, Astarita 306. Aus Vulci. - ARV 64, 104; Olto; Fränkel, Namen 23. 88 Nr. S. - Auf der einen Außenseite tanzt die Mänade → Ligeia zwischen den Satyrn Eu[---] Jos (r.) und K. (l., KAAIA[Σ], in Tanzbewegung nach r. zur Mänade). K. war eine Bezeichnung des Affen, wie auch eine Affenart in der Antike: Fränkel, Namen 23 mit Quellen; Keller, O., Antike Tierwelt I (1909) 5. 10; McDermott, W. C., The Ape in Antiquity (1938) 95. 132-133. Zur Affenart Satyros: McDermott a. O. 71-72. 79-84. 105-106. Vgl. auch den Affen mit Beischrift Satyros (verschieden Sattyos) auf dem Nilmosaik von Palestrina: Gullini, G., I mosaici di Palestrina (1956) Taf. 26; Philipps, K. M. Jr., The Barberini Mosaic: sunt hominum animaliumque complures imagines (1962) 99-100; Steinmeyer-Schareika, A., Das Nilmosaik von Palestrina und eine ptolemäische Expedition nach Äthiopien (1978) 63.

ANNELIESE KOSSATZ-DEISSMANN

KALLICHORA

(Καλλιχώρα) Néréide dont le nom n'apparaît pas dans les listes traditionnelles (→ Nereides), connue par une inscription sur un vase.

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Joly, E., EAA IV (1961) 296 s. v. «Kallichora»; Roscher, W. H., ML II 1 (1890–94) 926 s. v. «Kal(l)ichora».

1. * Hydrie attique à f. n. Cambridge, Fitz. Mus. GR 33.1864. De Vulci (coll. Leake). – CVA I pl. 16 (254) 2. – Fin du VI<sup>e</sup> s. av. J.-C. – Panse: au centre → Herakles lutte contre → Triton, tandis que deux Néréides, → Pontia et K. (KALIXOPA), les regardent, levant une main. Elles sont coiffées d'une ténia, vêtues d'un chiton et d'un himation. Tous les personnages sont désignés par des inscriptions.

Le nom de K., qui est également celui de la source sacrée près de laquelle dansèrent les jeunes filles d'Éleusis (Paus. I, 38, 6), évoque la danse, tout comme celui d'une autre Néréide, → Choro (I).

NOËLLE ICARD-GIANOLIO

KALLIE → Amazonen 16

KALLIKRATES → Theseus

KALLIMACHOS

(Καλλιμαχος) Name eines Gefährten des → Kephalos. Nur auf einem Vasenbild (I) mit dessen Verfolgung durch → Eos überliefert.

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Drexler, W., ML II 1 (1890–94) 927 s. v. «Kallimachos»; Kaempf, Liebe der Götter 18; Schefold, SB III 316.

KATALOG

a) Inschriftlich gesicherte Darstellung

1. * (= Eos 100 mit Lit.) Glockenkrater, att. rf. Paris, Cab. Méd. 423. – ARV<sup>2</sup> 1055, 72: Polygnotosgruppe; Add<sup>2</sup> 322. – Um 450/40 v. Chr. – Bei der Verfolgung des Kephalos durch Eos flieht K. (Namensbeischrift) nach l. und dreht sich in Richtung des Geschehens um. Er ist mit Petasos, Mantel, Stiefeln und zwei Speeren als Jäger gekennzeichnet. Mit einem Stein in seiner Rechten droht er der Göttin.

b) Unsichere Darstellung

2. (= Eos 124 mit Lit.) Kelchkrater, att. rf. Richmond, Virginia Mus. 81.70. – Oakley, J. H., AntK 30, 1987, 123 ff. Taf. 19, 1–2: Nikiasmaler (Töpfersign. des Nikias). – Um 410 v. Chr. – B: Eos verfolgt den Jäger Kephalos (beide mit Namensbeischrift) nach r.; in die Gegenrichtung flieht ein namenloser Gefährte (Petasos, Himation, Stiefel) mit Stein in der erhobenen Linken. Oakley 125 nennt diesen in Hinblick auf 1 Kallimachos, was aber nicht zu sichern ist. A: Geburt des Erichthonios, → Erechtheus II* = Hephaistos 221*.

KOMMENTAR

Für den nur einmal überlieferten Kephalosgefährten K. (I) ist kein Bezug zu den Sagen um Kephalos oder Eos nachzuweisen. Da der Name K. in Athen sicher häufiger anzutreffen war, könnte er vom Vasenmaler ohne mythologischen Hintergrund gewählt worden sein, vielleicht einfach aus Gründen der Vollständigkeit, um die dritte Figur nicht namenlos zu lassen. Von den Assoziationen, die ein zeitgenössischer Bezug erweckt (Kaempf 18; Schefold, SB III 316), ist keine zu sichern (2). Wenn der Maler sich allerdings wirklich mit der Namenswahl an seinen Zeitgenossen orientiert hat, betont er damit die attische Komponente dieser Sage (vgl. → Eos S. 777) und formuliert, indem er den mythischen Heros und seinen «bürgerlichen» Gefährten als Jäger ausrüstet, ein attisches Erziehungsideal (s. Kaempf 18).

Das Bedürfnis, auch Nebenfiguren inschriftlich zu benennen, läßt sich bei den attischen Vasenmalern seit der archaischen Zeit nachweisen und äußert sich in verschiedenen Phänomenen: So können unbeteiligte Zuschauer durch Namensbeischriften, die sie als Personen des dargestellten Mythos auszeichnen, miteinbezogen werden (vgl. v. Bothmer, D., JHS 71, 1951, 40 ff.). Andererseits werden Gefährten oder sonstige, den Hauptakteuren nahestehende Personen mit nicht im Mythos wurzelnden Namen belegt. Gerade letzteres ist häufiger bei Verfolgungs- und Raubscenen anzutreffen, vgl. z. B. → Deianeira III. Besonders auffallend ist dieses heute willkürlich erscheinende Verfahren dann, wenn die Namen nicht mit der ethnischen Zugehörigkeit der Bezeichneten übereinstimmen: so benennt Oltos auf der Schale München 2618 (→ Achilles 656*) die trojanischen Begleiter des Priamos mit griechischen Namen (dazu Friis Johansen, Iliad 130), der Lykaonmaler hingegen schreibt auf einer Pelike (→ Eos 98*) dem attischen Jäger Kephalos als Gefährten den trojanischen Eosgeliebten Tithonos zu (vgl. dazu auch → Eos, Kommentar S. 776–777).

CARINA WEISS

KALLIOPE I → Mousa, Mousai

KALLIOPE II

(Καλλιόπη) Sous ce nom, les textes antiques mentionnent uniquement la Muse (Kalliope I, → Mousa, Mousai). Cependant, sur un vase attique, est ainsi nommée la femme d'Adraste (→ Adrastos). Selon les auteurs, elle s'appelle Lysimaché, Lysippé, → Amphithea (I) ou Demonassa.

1. (= Adrastos 6* avec bibl.) Amphore attique à f. n. Copenhague, Mus. Nat. Chr. VIII 3 (112). De Sant'Agata dei Goti (Samnium). – ABV 292, 5: Psiak; Add<sup>2</sup> 76; Overbeck 94–95 n° 6 pl. 3, 7; Beazley, J. D., «Some Inscriptions on Vases V», AJA 54, 1950, 315 n° 6. – 510–500 av. J.-C. – Devant un quadriga monté par deux guerriers dont l'un est nommé Adrastos (inscr.) se tient une femme debout tournée vers le centre (inscr. KALLOPA).

ALIKI KAUFFMANN-SAMARAS

KALLIPHÖBE → Herakles 2124. 2129. 2130

KALLIPOLIS

(Καλλιπολις) Fils d'→ Alkathoos, il mourut tué par son père qu'il avait interrompu durant un sacrifice; ce dernier crut en effet à un acte d'impiété alors qu'il venait lui apprendre la mort de son frère aîné, Ischépolis. On montrait sa tombe à Mégare (Paus. I, 42, 6; 43, 5).

1. * Médaille d'applique fr., perdu. De Lyon, Hauts-de-Saint-Just. – Desbat, A., «Vases à médailles d'applique des fouilles récentes de Lyon», Figlina 5–6, 1980–81, 69, M 003 (dessin). – II<sup>e</sup>–III<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. – Petit sacellum abritant une effigie de Liber Pater (inscr. LIBER; → Dionysos/Bacchus); devant, au premier plan, un personnage masculin fr. (buste), figuré de face, visage à g., bras dr. replié et index pointé en direction de la bouche. Inscr. CALLI(...) ou CAELI(...).

Kallipolis 1

L'identification proposée par A. Desbat est problématique, du fait de l'état fragmentaire du médaillon et de l'inscription. Selon Pausanias, Alkathoos était en train d'offrir un sacrifice à Apollon et non à Dionysos lorsqu'il fut dérangé par son fils; on notera toutefois que le geste de Kallipolis signifie généralement le deuil, ce qui serait en accord avec la tragique nouvelle qu'il s'apprête à annoncer. En outre, le prêtre qui purifie Alkathoos de son meurtre, Polydus, est le fondateur du temple de Dionysos à Mégare (Paus. I, 43, 5), ce qui pourrait expliquer la confusion des deux divinités.

NICOLE BLANC

KALLIRRHÖE I → Herakles, section IV L, Literary sources and 2470. 2473. 2488. 2489. 2495. 2501 (all uncertain identifications), and Commentary p. 83.

KALLIRRHÖE II

(Καλλιρρόη) Nymphe (→ Nymphae). Personification d'une attique source, qui, sous le nom de Peisistratide, est devenue la source Enneakrunos (Neunröhrenbrunnen) umgestaltet wurde. Sie wurde verehrt in Athen am Ilissosbett (→ Ilisos), wo die gleichnamige Quelle entsprang, im Echelidenheiligtum in Neu-Phaleron und allgemein in Attika.

LITERARISCHE QUELLEN: Nach Ausweis des größten Teils der literarischen Überlieferung lag die Quelle K. südöstlich der Akropolis (Thuk. 2, 15, 5) am Ilissosbett (Etym. m. s. v. Ἐννεάκρουνος; Stat. Theb. 12, 629–633) neben dem Zeustempel (Hierokles praef. 1, 13, Corp. Hippiatricorum Graecorum I p. 5) in Richtung des Itonia-Tores, im Kynosarges (Plat. Ax. 364a–b. d). Die am Hymettos wohnenden Pelasger belästigten hier die Töchter der Athener (Hdt. 6, 137), die dem Brauch gemäß am Vorabend ihrer Hochzeit Wasser zum Brautbad aus dieser Quelle holten. Die K.-Quelle wurde zur Enneakrunos umgestaltet (Etym. m., Harpokr. Hesych. und Suda s. v. Ἐννεάκρουνος bzw. Ἐννεάκρουνον; Phot. s. v. λουτρά; Pollux 3, 43; Thuk. 2, 15, 4–5), als die Peisistratiden einen Brunnen dorischen Stils mit neun Wasserspeiern an dieser Stelle errichteten (vgl. Brunnenszenen auf einer sf. Hydria in London, BM B 331, 6. Jh. v. Chr., aus Vulci, Inschrift KAAIPE KPENE, ABV 261, 41; 667; Add<sup>2</sup> 68; CVA 6 Taf. 88; sf. Vasenfr., 6. Jh. v. Chr., von der Akropolis, Athen, Nat. Mus. Akr. 732, Inschrift KAAIPOE, Graef/Langlotz I No. 732 Taf. 47). Nach Paus. 1, 14, 1 befand sich K.-Enneakrunos in der Stadt Athen, in der sie die einzige Quelle war, neben dem Odeion und den Tempeln der Demeter, der Kore und des Triptolemos. Die Baureste eines Brunnens in der SO-Ecke der Agora hat Wyckley (140. 142) mit der Enneakrunos der Peisistratiden identifiziert; dagegen wandte sich Tölle-Kastenbein (63. 65). Vielleicht gab es zwei gleichnamige Quellen (vgl. die Theorie von Broneer über doppelte Heiligtümer und Stätten im N und S von Athen, Broneer 55. 57–58; Thompson, H., Hesperia 25, 1956, 51–52).

Der von W. Dörpfeld (ArchEph 1894, 1–10; Alt-Athen I [1937] 88–98. 117–118; II [1939] 257–258. 272–273) am Ostabhang der Pnyx ausgegrabene Brunnen kann weder mit dem von Thukydides noch mit dem von Pausanias erwähnten identifiziert werden.

Das Wasser der K.-Enneakrunos wurde als klar und kühl bezeichnet (Isokr. 15, 287; Plin. nat. 31, 50; Alkiphron epist. 3, 13, 1; Himerios frag. 1. 7).

Im 5. Jh. v. Chr. genoss die Nymphe K. als Personifikation der gleichnamigen Quelle mit anderen Gottheiten und Nymphen im Kephisos-Heiligtum im

Demos der Echeliden kultische Verehrung (IG II/III<sup>2</sup> 4547, s. 2).

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Broneer, O., «Plato's Description of Early Athens», Hesperia Suppl. 8, 1949, 58–59; Diehl, E., Die Hydria (1964) 131. 202; Hamdorf, Kultpersonifikationen 17; Krohl, W., RE X 2 (1917) 1669–1672 s. v. «Kallirrhoe II»; Muthmann, F., Mutter und Quelle (1975) 84. 120. 126. 250; Thompson, H., Agora XIV (1972) 198–199; Tölle-Kastenbein, R., «Kallirrhoe und Enneakrunos», JdI 101, 1986, 55–73; Travlos, TopAth 204 Abb. 267–274; Weiß, Fluß 142–149. 159–163 Taf. 15; Wytherley, R. E., Agora III, Literary and Epigraphical Testimonia (1957) 137–142.

KATALOG

1.* (= Chione I 2 mit Lit.) Figur W aus dem Westgiebel des Parthenon, pentelischer Marmor. Bis 1979 im Giebel, jetzt im Akropolismuseum, o. Nr. Fr. von W in London, BM, Smith, BM Sculpture Nr. 160. – Von der Mehrzahl der Forscher als K. identifiziert, von einigen als → Prokris oder Chione. – Robertson, HGA 300; Weiß, Fluß 142–149, bes. 149: A = → Kephisos (I), W = Kallirrhoe; Anm. 910. 941 zu anderen Deutungen; Boardman, GSCP 100. – 438–432 v. Chr. – Weibliche Figur in mit reichen Falten versehenem Himation, in der r. Ecke des Giebels gelagert; mit aufgerichtetem Oberkörper, nach l. gewendet, scheint sie das Geschehen in der Giebelmitte zu beobachten. Siehe 4.

2. (= Acheloos 197* mit Lit., = Ilisos 2 mit Lit. und Querverweisen) Weihrelief der Xenokrateia, Marmor. Athen, Nat. Mus. 2756. Aus Neu-Phaleron. Spätes 5. Jh. v. Chr. – L. Apollon Pythios auf einem Dreifußthron, die Füße auf dem delphischen Omphalos, vor dem zwei Adler stehen, → Artemis, → Leto, und vor ihnen Xenokrateia und ihr Sohn Xenaiades. Dann → Kephisos (I), → Ilisos und eine Gruppe von Gottheiten, die σύνθετοι des Kephisos waren: die Gerastai Nymphae Genethliai (→ Nymphae), → Acheloos und hinter ihm K. als Karyatide mit Polos auf dem Kopf und ärmellosem, hochgegurtem Chiton. Diese Figur wurde von einigen Forschern als → Eileithyia oder → Hekate angesehen (vgl. Stais, B., ArchEph 1909, 239–264; Eckstein, F., AntPl IV [1965] 33–34). Die Gottheiten konnten zum Teil aufgrund der mitgefundenen Inschrift IG II/III<sup>2</sup> 4547 identifiziert werden (→ Artemis 1182).

3.* (= Acheloos 204 mit Lit., = Herakles 3376 mit Lit., = Hermes 728) Weihrelief, Marmor. Athen, Nat. Mus. 1778. Aus dem Ilissosbett. – 2. Hälfte 3. Jh. v. Chr. – L., eine männliche, bärtige Figur nach r., die auf einer Acheloosmaske sitzt. Zu ihr treten → Hermes und → Herakles. Die weibliche Figur mit Füllhorn l. im Hintergrund (von der nur ein kleiner Teil erhalten ist) wurde von der Mehrzahl der Forscher als K. identifiziert, von einigen aber als Meter oder → Persephone (Möbius, H., AM 60/61, 1935/36, 247–248 pl. 90; Isler, H. P., Acheloos [1970] 38). Mitropoulou, E., Libation Scenes... (1975) 70–71 Nr. 51 fig.: Palaimon? (→ Melikertes Palaimon).

4. Kleine Marmorstatue einer gelagerten weiblichen Figur. Eleusis, Magazin des Mus. Nr. 25, o. Inv.

Aus dem Giebel eines Schatzhauses, vor den Großen Propyläen des eleusinischen Heiligtums gefunden. – Carpenter, R., Hesperia 1, 1932, 23 Abb. 11; Travlos, I., ArchDelt 16, 1960, 55–60; Brommer, F., Die Skulpturen der Parthenon-Giebel (1963) 105 Nr. 4, zur Deutung 170; Lindner, R., JdI 97, 1982, 380–381. 391–393 Abb. 53. 54. – 2. Jh. n. Chr. – Die Figur (nur der untere Teil erhalten) lagert nach l., vom reich mit Gewandfalten versehenen Himation umhüllt. Es handelt sich um eine Kopie (oder einen Nachklang) der Figur W des Parthenon-Westgiebels (1). Lindner (a. O. 391–393) vermutet in V und W des Parthenon-Giebels, wie auch in ihren eleusinischen Kopien, → Eumolpos und Chione (→ Chione I 2).

DEUTUNG UNSICHER

5. Lekythos, rf. Bologna, Mus. Civ., Coll. Palagi 1199. Aus Athen. – Pellegrini, G., Cat. ... Coll. Palagi ed Universitaria (1900) 56–58 Nr. 323 Abb. 49–50; Simon, E., Opfernde Götter (1953) 45 Nr. 74 Taf. 2. – 5. Jh. v. Chr. – L. Apollon, in Chiton und Himation, mit Lorbeerkränzen auf dem Kopf, einer Phiale in der Rechten und einem Lorbeerzweig in der Linken. R. eine weibliche Figur in Chiton und Himation, mit Diadem auf dem Kopf: Artemis oder Nymphe. Inschrift KΑΛΙΡΡΗΟΙ, die zu KΑΛΙΡΡΗΟΙ oder, wie ich meine, zu KΑΛΙΡΡΗΟΙ ergänzt werden kann (s. u.).

KOMMENTAR

Die Verehrung der K., der Hauptquelle von Athen, erscheint in der Ikonographie im 6. Jh. v. Chr. Das Brunnenhaus auf attisch sf. Vasen (bes. auf Hydrien, s. lit. Quellen) zu dem sich Mädchen mit Zweigen und Blüten in den Händen begeben und dessen Wasserspeier sie mit Kränzen und Binden schmücken, ist die zuerst Kallirrhoe und nach ihrer Umgestaltung unter den Peisistratiden Enneakrunos genannte Quelle, deren Wasser die Mädchen am Vorabend ihrer Hochzeit zum Brautbad, aber auch zu anderen sakralen Verrichtungen holten.

Die Personifikation der Quelle K. erscheint in der Ikonographie zuerst im 5. Jh. v. Chr. Die meisten Erforscher der Parthenonskulpturen vermuten, daß die Figur W des Westgiebels (1) wie auch ihre eleusinische Kopie (4) K. repräsentieren, falls die Pendantfigur A und die benachbarte Figur V attische Flußgottheiten darstellen (A = Kephisos, V = Ilisos). Die Position der Figur im Giebel paßt zur topographischen Situation der Quelle. Doch wurde diese Interpretation neuerdings wieder bezweifelt (vgl. Brommer, a. O. 4, 170 Anm. 22. 24; Weiß, Fluß 142 Anm. 910. 145 Anm. 941).

Das Weihrelief der Xenokrateia (2) und die Inschrift IG II/III<sup>2</sup> 4547 des 5. Jh. v. Chr. zeigen, daß K. zusammen mit anderen Gottheiten und Nymphen im Kephisosheiligtum des Demos der Echeliden in Neu-Phaleron kultische Ehren zuteil wurden. Im r. Teil des Reliefs neben Acheloos dargestellt, wurde die Figur von den meisten Forschern wegen ihrer Nähe zu Acheloos, einem überlokalen Gott des Wassers und Vater aller Quellnymphen (→ Acheloos S. 12), und wegen der Darstellung weiterer attischer Flußgötter auf dem Relief als K. identifiziert.

Eine Darstellung der K. beim Ilissos erkennt man auch auf dem Weihrelief 3 des 3. Jh. v. Chr. Die Figur hinten links wird als die Nymphe K. angesehen, deren Quelle am Fundort des Reliefs entsprang. Das Füllhorn ist das Symbol des Acheloos, das gewöhnlich er selbst trägt (vgl. das Weihrelief → Acheloos 212), manchmal aber auch die Nymphen, die ihn begleiten (Maas, E., AM 20, 1895, 356).

Eine Identifizierung der weiblichen Figur mit Apollon auf der rf. Lekythos von Bologna (5) als Nymphe K. ist nicht unwahrscheinlich: Der Fundort der Vase berechtigt zur Annahme der Darstellung eines Lokalmythos (vgl. dagegen die Deutung als Apollon und → Kreusa, ML II 1 [1890–94] 1426) oder, wie ich meine, der Darstellung einer lokalen symbolischen Szene. Die dargestellte Nymphe kann die Personifikation der Ilissos-Quelle K. sein, die dem Apollon in eine Omphalosschale, ein sicher mit kultischen Handlungen verbundenes Gefäß, Wasser spendet, das im nahegelegenen Heiligtum des Gottes (vgl. Travlos, TopAth 100 Abb. 130; 291 Abb. 379) benötigt wurde. Der Name KΑΛΙΡΡΗΟΙ, von dem weitere fünf Buchstaben fehlen, wäre folglich zu KΑΛΙΡΡΗΟΙ zu ergänzen.

ALKESTIS SPETSIERI-CHOREMI

KALLIRRHÖE III

(Καλλιρόη, Καλλιρόα, Καλλιρρόη) Nymphe (→ Nymphae), fille du dieu-fleuve → Acheloos (→ Flu-vii). Elle épousa Alcmeon (→ Alkmaion) dont elle eut deux fils, Amphoteros et Akarnan. Après la mort de son mari, elle fut aimée par → Zeus. Elle connut force malheurs parce qu'elle avait convoité le collier et la robe d'→ Harmonia.

SOURCES LITTÉRAIRES: Eur. Alcmeon, TGF<sup>2</sup> frg. 79; Apollod. bibl. 3 (88–93), 7, 5; Paus. 8, 24, 9–10; Ov. met. 9, 412–417.

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Imhoof-Blumer, F., «Nymphen und Chariten», JlArchNum 11, 1908, 82–83; Joly, E., EAA IV (1961) 301 s. v. «Kallirhoe»; Latte, K., RE X 2 (1919) 1668 s. v. «Kallirrhoe 2»; Stoll, H. W., ML II 1 (1890–94) 929 s. v. «Kallirrhoe 2».

CATALOGUE

1.* (= Acheloos 95 avec bibl.) AR dioboles, Stratos (Acarnanie), vers 450–432 av. J.-C. – Av. Tête cornue d'Achéloos. Rv. Tête de K. de face, dans un carré creux. Ethnique rétr. STPA.

2. AR dioboles, Stratos, vers 450–432 av. J.-C. – Babelon, Traité II 4, 14, 4 pl. 271, 4. – Av. Tête à g. d'Achéloos, barbue et cornue. Rv. Tête de K. de profil à dr., avec collier, dans un carré creux. ST.

3.* AR, Acarnanie, IV<sup>e</sup> s. av. J.-C. – BMC Thessaly... 168, 1 pl. 27, 1. – Av. Achéloos. Rv. Tête de K. de face, diadémée (ténia ou diadème de perles).

4. AR, Stratos plutôt qu'Oiniadai (Acarnanie), IV<sup>e</sup> s. av. J.-C. – BMC Thessaly... 189, 2–3 pl. 29, 11; Imhoof-Blumer, Flussg 222, 121. – Av. Tête d'Achéloos de profil. Rv. Dans un carré creux, Z et lég. KΑΑΛΙΡΡΗΟΙ.

5. AR, Stratos plutôt qu'Oiniadai, IV<sup>e</sup> s. av. J.-C. – BMC Thessaly... 189, 4 pl. 29, 12. – Av. Tête d'Achéloos. Rv. Champ concave: lettre T et feuilles de lierre ou de vigne. Au-dessous, KΑΑ.

Identification incertaine

6. (= Acheloos 95a avec bibl.) AE, Stratos, IV<sup>e</sup> s. av. J.-C. – BMC Thessaly... 191, 2–3 pl. 29, 16. – Av. Tête de Nymphe coiffée d'une sphendoné: K.? Rv. Tête d'Achéloos; ethnique.

COMMENTAIRE

Jusqu'au début du III<sup>e</sup> s. av. J.-C. Stratos était la ville principale de la Confédération acarnanienne: elle a donc frappé monnaie en adoptant comme type de revers la tête de K., mère d'Akarnan, héros éponyme du pays. Quant aux monnaies jadis attribuées à Oiniadai (4–5), elles appartiennent probablement à Stratos (Head, HN<sup>2</sup> 331–332). DAPHNÉ GONDICAS

KALLIS I → Achilleus 656

KALLIS II

(Κάλλις) Ménadennome (→ Mainades) in Vasenschriften.

1.* (= Dionysos 55 mit Lit. [A]) Schale, att. sf. Neapel, Mus. Naz. SA 172. Aus Capua. – ABV 203, 1; 689: Kallismaler; Add<sup>2</sup> 55; Fränkel, Namen 21. 84 Nr. K; CVA 1 Taf. 21 (965) 3; Buschor, E., Feldmäuse, Sbmünchen 1937, 1, 4; v. Vacano, O., Zur Entstehung und Deutung gemalter seitenansichtiger Kopfbilder auf schwarzfigurigen Vasen des griechischen Festlandes (1973) 66. 75–76. 97–98. 117–118. 233 Nr. A 164. In der weiteren neueren, hier nicht angegebenen Lit. ist meist nur die Seite A (Dionysos und Semele mit Beischriften) besprochen und abgebildet. – Um 530 v. Chr. – B: Vier Büsten: im Zentrum Dionysos und K. (KΑΛΙΣ, Haube, Schmuck, eine Hand zum Kinn erhoben) einander zugewandt. Sie werden l. und r. von je einer Frauenbüste gerahmt, welche einander anblicken. Die rechte ist → Sime benannt. Adriani (CVA) will in K. wie auf der Gegenseite Semele erkennen und deutet die Beischrift wie schon Heydemann im Neapler Vasenkatalog (der allerdings an Ariadne dachte) als Beinamen im Sinne von Καλλιστή. Es handelt sich hier um keine Anodosdarstellung, sondern wohl um die Abkürzung einer Ganzfigur. Der Kallismaler, der überhaupt gern Büsten malte, gilt als Erfinder des Götterkopfbildes.

2. (= Dionysos 449) Schale, att. rf. Tarquinia, Mus. Naz. RC 6848. Aus Tarquinia. - ARV<sup>2</sup> 60, 66; 1622: Oltos; Para 327; Add<sup>2</sup> 165; Fränkel, Namen 21. 44. 88 Nr. U; Simon/Hirmer, Vasen<sup>2</sup> Taf. 94; Detailabb. bei Arias/Shefton/Hirmer Taf. 100; CVA I Taf. 3 (1155) 2. - Um 520 v. Chr. - Wagenbesteigender Dionysos, auf den der Silen → Terpes zuläuft. Anführerin des Zuges ist die Mänade oder Nymphe → Theos. Hinter Dionysos läuft die Mänade K. (KALLIS, Efeukranz im offenen Haar, Löwe auf der mit einem Raubtierfell bedeckten Schulter, Thyrsos, Chiton, Mantel) nach l. Ihr folgt der Silen → Terpon (l).

ANNELIESE KOSSATZ-DEISSMANN

KALLISTHENES → Achilleus 656

KALLISTO

(Καλλιστώ, Callisto) K. was a nymph, or an Arkadian princess, daughter of → Lykaon (or of Nykteus or Keteus), who became a huntress and virgin companion of the goddess → Artemis. → Zeus fell in love with K. and, whether in his own form or in the guise of Artemis or of → Apollon or of a lion, seduced her. K.'s pregnancy was discovered by → Hera, or by Artemis while she and her companions were bathing. She was transformed into a bear by Zeus who wished to conceal his act, or by Artemis, or by Hera. K. gave birth to a son, → Arkas (or to two sons, Arkas and the god → Pan), who was rescued by Zeus or by → Hermes at Zeus' behest. K.'s end after her metamorphosis is variously related: she was shot with an arrow by Artemis who was annoyed at her loss of virginity or who was spurred on by a jealous Hera, and either K. or her likeness was placed by Zeus in the heavens as the constellation of the Great Bear; or the young Arkas, out hunting, found her and was about to kill her when Zeus turned them both into constellations; or she was chased by Arkas into the sanctuary of Zeus Lykaion where they were about to be slain by the Arkadians when Zeus transformed K. and Arkas into the Great Bear and the Bear-warden.

LITERARY SOURCES: K. is not named in Homer, though the poet knows the constellation of the Great Bear (Od. 5, 273-275). Eumelos of Corinth (Davies EGFF 10) is said to have referred to K. as the daughter of Lykaon. Hesiod (frg. 163 Merkelbach/West) also seems to have described K. as daughter of Lykaon. She was a huntress and companion of Artemis and was made pregnant by Zeus. The goddess discovered her companion's condition while they were bathing, and in anger turned her into a bear in which form K. gave birth to Arkas. How this story ended is unknown. There may also have been a second Hesiodic version (frg. 163 Merkelbach/West: Apollod. bibl. 3, 8, 2; see Sale W., RhM, 102, 1962, 133-141; West, M. L., The Hesiodic Catalogue of Women [1985] 91 ff.) in which K. was identified as a nymph. In other early writers K.'s parentage varies: Asios (Davies EGF 9) seems to have called her daughter of Nykteus and Pherekydes made her father Keteus (FGH 3 F 157), as did Araithos of Tegea (FGH IV 318 frg. 47) who even called her by a different name, Megisto. Epimenides (FGH 457 F 9) seems to have given K. two children: Arkas, and the god Pan. Among the tragedians of the 5th cent. B. C. Aischylos wrote a drama entitled Καλλιστώ (TrGF III p. 216), but we know nothing of the plot. Euripides also refers to K. (Eur. Hel. 375-378), but the text may be corrupt, and the meaning is unclear. K. may also have been the subject of at least one comedy: Amphis (CAFII 249 frg. 47), a writer of Middle Comedy, is said to have had Zeus disguise himself as Artemis (cf. Apollod. bibl. 3, 8, 2; Ov. met. 2, 425; Schol. Stat. Theb. 3, 685; Serv. Aen. 1, 744) in order to embrace K. so that the latter, when questioned, could accuse Artemis herself of the deed. The story of K. was naturally attractive to the writers of the Hellenistic Age. Kallimachos (frg. 632 Pf.; cf. Kall. h. 1, 40-41) had Hera, not Artemis, change K., daughter of Lykaon, into a bear in which form she was killed by Artemis but katasterized by Zeus. Whether this transformation of K. into a constellation was already present in Hesiod or was merely a Hellenistic elaboration of the myth is uncertain. Certainly K. was treated by Eratosthenes in his Καταστερισμοί (p. 9-10 Olivieri: see Robert, C., Eratosthenis Catasterismorum Reliquiae 50-55): in this version K. was followed or chased by Arkas into the sanctuary of Zeus Lykaion and both were about to be killed by the Arkadians when they were translated into the heavens. The story of K. was popular in Roman times, and the fullest accounts are given by Ovid (fast. 2, 155-192; met. 2, 409-533), Apollodoros (bibl. 3, 8, 2), Hyginus (fab. 176. 177; astr. 2, 1) and Pausanias (8, 3, 6; 4, 1).

There are many slight variations upon the story of K. Zeus may come to her not only as Artemis but in the guise of Apollo (Apollod. bibl. 3, 8, 2) or even, seemingly, as a lion (Clem. Rom. hom. 5, 13). In accounts of the Roman period K. is usually transformed into a bear by Hera (Ov. met. 2, 476-484; Paus. 8, 3, 6; Hyg. astr. 2, 1; Serv. georg. 1, 67. 138) following Kallimachos.

Paus. 8, 35, 8 records a tomb of K., which was covered by a mound planted with trees and topped by a shrine of Artemis Kalliste.

BIBLIOGRAPHY: Adler, A., REX 2 (1919) 1726-1729 s. v. «Kallisto 1»; Amyx, D., Archaeological News VIII. 4, 1979, 107-108; Arena, R., «Καλλιστώ», Atti del Sodalizio glottologico milanese 20, 1978/79 (1980), 27-30; idem, «Considerazioni sul mito di Callisto», Acme 32, 1979, 5-26; Cook, Zeus II 228-229 n. 4-7; Curtius, L., «Zu den Bildern in der Casa del Poeta Tragico», Festschr. P. Clemen (1926) 94-104; Franz, R., «De Callistis fabula», Leipziger Studien für klass. Philologie XII, 2 (1890) 235-365; idem, ML II 1 (1890-94) 931-935 s. v. «Kallisto»; Head, HN<sup>2</sup> 451-452; Sale, W., «The Story of Callisto in Hesiod», RhM 102, 1962, 133-141; idem, «Kallisto and the virginity of Artemis», RhM 108, 1965, 11-35; Schefold, SB III

229-232; Stenico, A., «Kallisto», QuadTic 6, 1977, 73-86; Svoronos, J. N., «Explication de la «Suppliante» Barberini. Kallisto, œuvre de Deinomenès sur l'Acropole d'Athènes», JArchNum 16, 1914, 255-278; Trendall, A. D., «Callisto in Apulian Vase-painting», AntK 20, 1977, 99-101; Zoreda, L. C., «Diana y Calisto en una sigillata clara de Lucentum (Alicante)», Homenaje M. Almagro Basch IV (1983) 7-20.

CATALOGUE

A. Kallisto alone

Painting

1. Lost painting of «Odysseus in the Underworld» (Nekyia) by Polygnotos of Thasos in the Lesche of the Knidians at Delphi. - Robert, C., Die Nekyia des Polygnot, 16. HallWPr 1892; Weizsäcker, P., Polygnots Gemälde in der Lesche der Knidier in Delphi (1895); Kerbric, R., The Paintings in the Cnidian Lesche at Delphi and their Historical Context (1983); Felten, W., Attische Unterweltdarstellungen des VI. und V. Jh. v. Chr. (1975) 65-86; Robertson, HGA 266-270. - About 470-460 B. C. - Known from Paus. 10, 28, 1-31, 12. K. was probably located in the upper lefthand section of the painting (10, 31, 10): «Higher up than these [sc. Paris, Penthesileia, women carrying water in broken vases] is K., daughter of Lykaon, Nomia and Pero, daughter of Neleus... Instead of a mattress Kallisto has a bear-skin, and her feet are resting on Nomia's knees. I have already mentioned that the Arkadians say that Nomia is a nymph native to their country. The poets say that the nymphs live for a great number of years, but are not altogether exempt from death.» Polygnotos presumably followed the version in which K. was slain by Artemis. The bear-skin might suggest her metamorphosis or simply indicate her status as a huntress.

Statues

2. Statue of K. by Deinomenes, dedicated on Akropolis at Athens. - Svoronos, J., JArchNum 16, 1914, 255-277; Berger, E., LAW 696 s. v. Deinomenes; idem, in Führer durch das Antikenmuseum Basel (s.d.) 24 no. 15; Schefold SB III 229-230 fig. 315. - About 400 B. C. - Paus. 1, 25, 1 (= Overbeck SQ no. 924) says that statues of K. and Io (→ Io 183) stood near those of Anacreon and Xanthippos on the Athenian Akropolis. Since the stories of K. and Io both involve the love of Zeus, the antipathy of Hera and the metamorphosis of the young women, and since only one sculptor was involved, the two statues probably formed a single dedication. Impossible, however, to say how K. was represented or whether the statue was of bronze or marble, though Deinomenes is mentioned by Pliny (nat. 34, 50) in his discussion of bronze statuary. Pliny also lists Deinomenes among sculptors who flourished in the 95th Olympiad (ca. 400-397 B. C.). Svoronos argues that the «Barberini Suppliant» is actually a copy of Deinomenes' statue and that it was dedicated ca. 418-415 B. C. by Elean exiles in Athens. Berger, however, followed by Schefold, suggested that K. is represented by a statue preserved in Roman copies in Basel and Budapest (in AntK 11, 1968, 65-67, however, Berger suggests alternatively a Danaid: → Danaides 40); the date of the original would be ca. 460-450 B. C.: the argument is unconvincing. A statue base (Loewy, IGB no. 233) from the Akropolis, with lettering supposedly of the 1st cent. B. C., preserving the name of the sculptor has also suggested to some scholars that the statue of K. was made by a much later Deinomenes.

3. Lost bronze statue of K. by Pausanias of Apollonia dedicated at Delphi by the Arkadians. - Paus. 10, 9, 5-6 (= Overbeck, SQ no. 993); Pomtow, H./Bulle, H., «Studien zu den Weihgeschenken und der Topographie von Delphi», AM 31, 1906, 437-564, esp. 461-492; Arnold, D., Die Polykletnachsfolge (1969) 191-192 fig. 40b. - Shortly after 369 B. C. - Paus. records statues of Apollo, K., Nike, Arkas, → Elatos, → Apheidas, → Azan, → Triphylos, → Erasos. Pausanias of Apollonia made the statues of K. and Apollo. The base is preserved, with dedicatory inscription and signatures of sculptors (Bourguet, E., FDelphes III 1, [1910] 4-9 nos. 3-11; Marcadé, Signatures I 86 pl. 15, 3). The statue of K. came second from the right in the group. K. was perhaps over life-size, and Arnold suggests that she was shown not standing but collapsing in the direction of Apollo, but Bulle imagined K. as about two-thirds life-size and walking towards Apollo.

B. Zeus as Artemis seducing Kallisto

Metal vase

4. (= Artemis 1386) Silver ladle (simpulum). Paris, Petit Palais, Dutuit Coll. From Cullera (near Valencia, Spain). - Helbig, W., BdI 1865, 120-122; Froehner, W., Les Musées de France (1873) 21-23 pl. 5; ML II 1, 933-934; Cook, Zeus II 229 n. 7 pl. 15; Braemer, F., L'art dans l'occident romain (1963) 29 no. 117; Schefold, SB III 229. - C. 250-300 A. D. - Zeus disguised as Artemis is about to embrace K. who is partly draped in a cloak. Eros stands nearby. On either side of the scene is an oak-tree, beside one of which is a stele surmounted by a lighted torch(?). The three other pictures on the ladle show Zeus as a swan embracing Leda, Zeus and Semele, and Zeus as an eagle carrying off Ganymede. Schefold believes the scenes are derived from an Alexandrian model.

C. Kallisto turned into a bear

Apulian vases

5.* (= Arkas 3a, = Artemis 1388) Fr. rf. Boston, MFA 13.206. - RVAp I 166, 10 pl. 54, 2: Black Fury P.; FR II 264 fig. 94b; BullCom 58, 1930, 59 fig. 1; Trendall pl. 22, 5; Schefold, SB III 231 fig. 322. - C. 380-70 B. C. - The fragment preserves the head, in three-quarter view to l., and the r. hand of K. Her r. hand has already become a paw, her ears are pointed, and her face is beginning to grow hair. To l., a tree, and the legs, draped, of a seated figure (Artemis?).

6.* (= Arkas 3, = Hermes 387) Oenochoe, rf. Malibu, Getty Mus. 72.AE.128. - RVAp I 167, 12 pl.

54, 6: closely connected in style with the Black Fury P.; Trendall pl. 22, 1-3; Amyx 108 figs. 19-20; Scheffold, SB III 230 figs. 319-321; Keuls, E., The Reign of the Phallus (1985) 313 fig. 275. - C. 370 B.C. - K. is seated, in three-quarter view to r., on a fawn-skin spread over a hillock on which grow plants and trees. She wears a short chiton that has come away from her r. shoulder, a cloak about her thighs, and high boots. Beside her lie two spears. K.'s hands have become paws, her skin hairy, her ears pointed. To r. is Hermes rescuing the infant Arkas, to l. is a hunter.

7. (= Arkas 1*, = Artemis 1389) Krater fr., rf. American private coll. - RVAp I 168, 25: follower of the Black Fury P.; Trendall pl. 22, 4; Mayo, Vases-Magna Graecia 89 no. 19; Keuls, o.c. 6, 313 fig. 276. - C. 360 B.C. - K. (head, body, l. arm) was probably seated, in three-quarter view to r., with Arkas (head only) perhaps seated on her knees. K. wears a necklace, and a cloak covers the back of her head. She seems to want to caress Arkas but her hand has turned into a paw, and her ears are pointed. To r. are two spears; above, the upper body of a female (?) figure (Artemis?), shown partly hidden by the groundline.

8. (= Arkas 2*, = Artemis 1385, = Hermes 388) Kalyx-krater, rf. Cremona, Mus. Civ. (Dordoni Coll. 23). From Ruvo(?). - RVAp I 263, 27a: Judgement P.; Stenico 74-86; Trendall 99-100; Rossi, L., Ceramiche apule nel Mus. di Cremona (1981) 31 no. 43 pls. 15-17. - C. 360 B.C. - K. (ΚΑΛΛΙΣΤΩ) is seated, in three-quarter view to r., on a fawn-skin and a cloak that she holds out with her l. hand. In her r. hand is a spear. K. wears a chiton that has come away from her r. shoulder, and a necklace. To r. are Lyssa (ΛΥΣΣΑ), Artemis (ΑΡΤΕΜΙΣ) and Apollo (ΑΠΟΛΛΩΝ). To l., Hermes (ΕΡΜΑΣ) moves away with the infant Arkas (ΑΡΚΑΣ). The actions of K. are hard to interpret: is the painter following an unknown drama in which K. went mad and committed suicide? On the vase she seems about to thrust a javelin into her body.

D. Kallisto shot by Artemis

Coins

9. (= Arkas 4*, = Artemis 1387) AE, Orchomenos (Arkadia), about 370-360 B.C. - BMC Peloponnesus 190, 1 pl. 35, 15; Cook, Zeus II 229 fig. 158; Imhoof-Blumer, MGr 203 nos. 246-247 pl. E 10; NumCommPaus 96 pl. S 22-23; Babelon, Traité II 3 nos. 940-942 pl. 226, 15-16; Svoronos, JArchNum 16, 1914, pl. 11, 4-8; Scheffold, SB III 230 figs. 317-318. - Obv.: kneeling Artemis shooting with a bow; rev.: K. falling back, pierced in the chest by an arrow, the infant Arkas on the ground beside her. K. is shown in human form, naked apparently, with a garment below her.

10. (= Arkas 5*) AE, Methydrion (Arkadia), about 370-360 B.C. - Imhoof-Blumer, MGr 200 no. 244 pl. E 9; Cook, Zeus II 229 fig. 159; Svoronos, JArchNum 16, 1914, pl. 11, 1-3. - Obv.: head of Zeus; rev.: K. falling back, pierced in the chest by an arrow, the infant Arkas on the ground beside her.

E. Kallisto in the form of a bear, hunted by Arkas

Mosaic

11.* (= Danae 22 with bibl., = Europe I 154 with bibl., = Ganymedes 108 with bibl.) Seville, Condesa de Lebrija. From Itálica. - García y Bellido, A., Colonia Aelia Augusta Italica (1960) 134 pl. XV; Blanco Freijeiro, A., MosEsp II, Mosaiques Romanos de Itálica I (1978) 25-26 pls. 1. 6b. - 2nd half of 2nd or beginning of 3rd cent. A.D. - The mosaic shows a selection of the loves of Zeus: Europa, Antiope, K.; Leda, Io, Danae, Ganymede. K., in the form of a bear, moves to r., looking back at her son Arkas who, youthful and naked save for a light cloak, aims a javelin at his mother and holds two more spare.

F. Uncertain or Incorrect Identifications

Greek Coins

12. AR hemidrachm, Arkadian Confederation (Tegea mint?), ca. 468-460 B.C. - BMC Peloponnesus 169, 1 pl. 31, 10; Babelon, Traité II 1, no. 1235 pl. 38, 18; Williams, R. T., The Confederate Coinage of the Arcadians in the 5th Cent. B.C. (1965) no. 176 pl. 8; Erhart, K. P., The Development of the Facing Head Motif on Greek Coins and Its Relation to Classical Art (1979) 108-110. 333 C 27 fig. 7. - Obv.: standing Zeus. Rev.: frontal head of a woman, with chignon on r. side. Though Williams favours Despoia (→ Despoia 3*) or Artemis (→ Artemis 837) for the head on this coin, Erhart gives good reasons for preferring K. Erhart suggests the same identification for the female head on her C 28 (fig. 8; Williams no. 179 pl. 8) and C 29 (fig. 9; Williams no. 185 pl. 8).

13. (= Arkas 6 [rev.], = Hermes 389 [rev.]) AR stater, Pheneos (Arkadia), about 370-360 B.C. - Gardner, BMC Peloponnesus 194, 13 pl. 36, 7; Babelon, Traité II 3, 897-898 pl. 225, 7; Imhoof-Blumer, F., «Nymphen und Chariten auf griechischen Münzen», JArchNum 11, 1908, 94 no. 279 pl. 6, 39; Seltman, GrCoins 166 pl. 35, 12; Jenkins, G. K., Ancient Greek Coins (1972) figs. 247-248; Kraay/Hirmer, GrCoins pl. 160, 515. - The rev. shows Hermes moving to l. with the infant Arkas seated on his l. hand. The obv. shows a female head inspired by the Arethusa head by Euainetos on the Syracusan decadrachmas. The head has been identified as Demeter (Gardner, Seltman, Kraay) or Maia (Babelon, Jenkins, with reservations), but may it not be that of K.? K., not Demeter or Maia, was included in the contemporary Arkadian sculpture group at Delphi. - a) A similar identification has been suggested for the female head that is used as the reverse type of the contemporary AR drachms and triobols of Mantinea: BMC Peloponnesus 85 pls. 34, 29; 35, 1; Babelon, Traité II 3, 647, 965. 966 pl. 227, 3. 4.

Roman Red-slip dish

14. Madrid, Mus. Arch. 1980/84. From «Lucen-tum» (Alicante or Elche). - Zoreda 7-20, esp. 8 fig. 1, and 20 pl. 1, 2-5. - 2nd cent. A.D. - In the tondo, a bear (ears, back, one leg) to l., up on its hind legs. Zo-reda sees the bear as K. She thinks that there may have been a second figure: Zeus who has just turned K. into a bear, or Arkas hunting K. The reliefs may be derived from those on a metal vessel.

Roman Painting

15. Wall-painting. Naples, Mus. Naz. 111441. From Pompeii VII 12, 26 (House of L. Cornelius Diadumenus). - Scheffold, WP 202; Helbig, Wandgemälde no. 253 pl. 6a; HBr pl. 18; Curtius 94-104; idem WP 43 fig. 29; EAA IV 303 fig. 356; Diepolder, H., RM 41, 1926, 41 fig. 8, 1; Richardson, L., Pompeii: The Casa dei Dioscuri and its Painters (1955) pl. 46, 1; Scheffold, SB III 231-232 fig. 323; Elia, O., Pitture murali e mosaici nel Museo Nazionale di Napoli (1932) no. 58; Le collezioni del Museo Nazionale di Napoli (1986) 147 no. 164. - About 70 A.D. (Scheffold, SB III). - A figure, in short tunic and leather boots, and holding two spears, stands before a seated woman (short tunic, boots, radiate crown) who has a quiver on the ground beside her and an Eros leaning against her lap holding an arrow; in the background are three other women. Curtius suggested that the scene represented the discovery of K.'s pregnancy by Artemis: K. protests her innocence, Eros tries to intercede, Artemis spurns K.; the three women are nymphs. Curtius is followed by Scheffold. Elia suggested Adonis and Aphrodite, others favour Hippolytos and Artemis (Petersen, E., RM 14, 1899, 91-100), Aktaion and Artemis (Helbig) or even Aineias and Dido. Earlier scholars (Helbig, Petersen, Brunn in BdI 1863, 96) took the standing figure to be male. Three other versions of this picture are known: a) Pompeii VI 8, 3 (House of the Tragic Poet). - Scheffold, WP 105; Helbig, Wandgemälde no. 254; HBr 27 fig. 6; Rizzo, G. E., Le pitture della casa del Poeta Tragico MonPitt III 1 (1935) 7-12 figs. 4-6. - About 70-79 A.D. - b) Pompeii IX 5, 6. - Scheffold, WP 254; HBr pl. 19a; Rizzo, o.c. 7 fig. 8; Diepolder, o.c. 41 fig. 8, 2; Niccolini, F., Le case ed i monumenti di Pompei designati e descritti (1854-96) II pl. 92. - c) Pompeii VII 12, 28. - Scheffold, WP 203; Helbig, Wandgemälde no. 255.

Roman mosaic

16. Avignon. From Villelaure (Vaucluse). - Héron de Villefosse, A., BullArchCTH 1903, 13-32 pl. 1; Inv-Mos 24 no. 105; Picard, G.-Ch., in La mosaïque gréco-romaine (1965) 263; Dunbabin, Mosaics 218. - 1st half of 3rd (Picard) or 4th cent. A.D. (Dunbabin?). - Diana stands at the l. facing to r., with her r. arm outstretched, a spear over her l. shoulder. A dog looks up at her. A second figure, female, is seated on a rock beside a tree, facing to l. and extending her r. hand towards Diana. She wears boots and seems to sit on a cloak but is otherwise naked. Most of her head, her body and her l. arm are missing. In the aquarelle she is shown as pregnant: this and the presence of Diana have suggested the identification of the woman as K.

Attic vase-paintings

17. (= Artemis 1347* with bibl.) Amphora, rf. Paris, Baron Seillière. From Vulci. - ARI 2 604, 51;

1661: Niobid P.; Scheffold, SB III 230-231 fig. 316; FR III 284 fig. 131. - About 470-460 B.C. - Scheffold suggests that the picture shows Artemis about to shoot an arrow at K. who flees with Arkas, but the figures are usually identified as Artemis and Niobe holding one of her daughters, and the child is surely female.

18. (= Artemis 1034**, = Apollon 631k) Kalyx-krater (of special variety), frr., rf. Basel, Cahli coll. HC 501-506. - Kahil, L., AntK 20, 1977, 86-98, esp. 92-93 figs. 5-8. C pl. 20; Simon, Festivals 87-88 pl. 25. - About 440-420 B.C. - Kahil identifies the figures on one side as Leto, Artemis shooting an arrow at a deer, and Apollo; and the figures on the other side as a priest and priestess wearing bear-masks. Simon interprets the scene not as a representation of a ritual but of a myth: on one side, Leto, Artemis and Apollo; on the other, Arkas, and K. who flees from Artemis. Simon's interpretation seems to me preferable: I wonder whether the veiled goddess may not be Hera rather than Leto.

COMMENTARY

The earliest representation of K. at present known is recorded by Pausanias in the lost painting (1) by Polygnotos in the Knidian Lesche at Delphi about 470-460 B.C. K. was shown seated on a bear-skin in the Underworld, along with → Nomia and → Pero (I). Why these three, rather obscure, Peloponnesian characters should have been included in the painting is not clear. It is also unclear whether the bear-skin was intended to hint at K.'s metamorphosis or merely to indicate her status as a huntress. Since the story of K. is a Peloponnesian myth, it is not surprising that she is found rarely in Athenian art. Scheffold has identified the scene on an amphora (17) by the Niobid Painter as the death of K., but this is certainly misguided. More attractive is Simon's interpretation of the pictures on the unusual kalyx-krater (18) in Basel, which is connected with the cult of Artemis Brauronia and may be dated c. 440-420 B.C. We may have here Artemis, accompanied by Apollo and Hera(?), shooting an arrow at the fleeing K. who, like her son Arkas, is shown with a bear's head. A lost statue of K. (2) was dedicated on the Athenian Akropolis perhaps in the period 420-400 B.C. and perhaps as part of a single dedication with a companion piece representing Io, both works of an obscure sculptor named Deinomenes. Whether K. was shown in human form or in the process of metamorphosis is unknown. The earliest preserved works that certainly show K. belong to the second quarter of the 4th cent. B.C. Bronze coins (9. 10) produced by the mints of Orchomenos and Methydrion shortly after the establishment of the Arkadian League in 370 B.C. show, on the reverse, K. falling back, pierced by an arrow. K. appears in human form and naked except for a garment under her; on the ground beside her is the infant Arkas. It is just possible that the female head on the obverse of the contemporary silver stater of Pheneos (13) is K., not Demeter or Maia. The establishment of the new League and victories over the Spartans also seem to have inspired the dedication at Delphi of a monument (3) consisting of nine bronze statues including Apollo, K., Nike and six early Arkadian kings. The statue of K. is lost but the base survives, and the suggestion has been made that K. was shown, not standing, but collapsing as on the contemporary coins. The clearest representations of K., however, appear on Apulian red-figure vases of the 380-360 B. C. The fullest picture, with inscriptions, is painted on the Cremona kalyx-krater (8) where K., in human form, is shown seated upon a bear-skin. She wears a chiton which has come away from her shoulder, and holds out a cloak with her left hand. Perhaps K. is about to kill herself with the javelin that she brandishes in her right hand: suicide brought on by remorse. The scene might then be based upon a lost tragic drama as the presence of Lyssa suggests. The three other vases (5-7), all by or connected with the Black-Fury Painter, show the transformation of K.: her hands have become paws, her ears are pointed, animal hair begins to grow in places. On the Malibu oinochoe (6) K. appears as a huntress, in short tunic, wrap, leather boots, with two javelins, and she is seated upon an animal-skin spread out over a mound which is covered by plants and trees (cf. 5): perhaps her tomb rather than simply an Arkadian hillside. Perhaps all these Apulian vases were suggested by dramatic performances at Taras, performances which in turn were inspired by the presence of Arkadian mercenaries and knowledge of events in the Peloponnese. After this brief and localized popularity K. is not represented again in art until the Roman Empire. Four wall-paintings (15) from Pompeii, all of about 70 A. D., have been thought to show K., in the garb of a huntress and holding two spears, standing before Artemis who is seated, with three companions in the background. Despite the intercession of Eros, Artemis spurns K. This identification is, however, far from assured. The mosaic from Villedaure in France (16), of the 3rd or 4th cent. A. D., may also show the discovery by Artemis of K.'s pregnancy. A second mosaic, from Itálica (11) in Spain, which probably belongs to the 2nd half of the 2nd cent. A. D., includes the unique scene of the youthful Arkas about to cast a javelin at his mother K. who has been transformed into a bear. The red-slip ware dish from Spain (14) may also represent K. in the form of a bear. An entirely different aspect of the story of K. is treated on a silver simpulum (4) from Spain of the 2nd half of the 3rd cent. A. D. Here four of Zeus' illicit love-affairs are pictured: in one, within a woodland setting, Zeus disguised as Artemis is in the act of embracing K., in the presence of Eros. IAN MCPHEE

KALLOS I

(Κάλλος) Personification of the Beauty. K. apparaît aux côtés de → Dikaiosyne, → Episteme et → Sophrosyne dans la procession des âmes d'un des mythes de Plat. Phaidros 247d-e et 250b.

I.* Mosaïque. Apamée (Syrie), in situ sous la cathédrale. - Balty, J. Ch., «Nouvelles mosaïques du IV<sup>e</sup> siècle sous la cathédrale de l'est», dans Colloque Apamée de Syrie II (1972) 172-173 pl. 62, 1; Balty, J. & J. Ch., «Un programme philosophique sous la cathédrale d'Apamée: l'ensemble néo-platonicien de l'empereur Julien», dans Texte et image (1984) 169-170; Simon, E., Die konstantinischen Deckengemälde in Trier (1986) 63 n. 130. - Vers 362-363 ap. J.-C. (Balty, Colloque Apamée 182). - Personnage masculin (inscr. ΚΑΛΛΟΣ), couronné de végétation, assis de trois-quarts à l'extrémité dr. d'une sorte d'exèdre qui regroupe les convives d'un banquet (parmi ceux-ci, [Charjis?]; au-devant, une table servie.

Le contexte néo-platonicien de tout l'ensemble de mosaïques mis au jour sous la cathédrale invite à reconnaître ici les participants à un banquet d'immortalité promis au sage; mais le caractère très fragmentaire du panneau interdit de pousser au-delà l'analyse et le commentaire.

JEAN CH. BALTY

KALLOS II

(Κάλλος) Amouret, désigné par ce nom en raison même de l'appartenance d'Amour (→ Eros/Amor, Cupido) au cercle de Vénus et de la Beauté.

I.* (= Agrios II 1, = Aigialos 1, = Bythos II 1, = Epithymia II 1, = Glaukos I 2) Mosaïque. Garni, Mus. Arch. Des thermes de Garni (Arménie soviétique). - Vostchinina, A., dans La mosaïque gréco-romaine I (1965) 320 fig. 6. - Fin du III<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. (Arakelian ap. Vostchinina). - Amour ailé (inscr. ΚΑΛΛΟΣ), penché vers l'avant sur un rebord rocheux, tirant de la mer un filet rempli de poissons, au-devant d'un long cortège de Tritons et de Néréides (→ Tritones, → Nereides) dont deux au moins ont des noms de sentiments amoureux (→ Epithymia II, → Pothos). La présence et le nom de ce putto orientent sans doute de la même manière le contexte de la mosaïque (pour le schéma iconographique de l'Amour ramenant un filet, → Eros/Amor, Cupido 438-440; pour Amour au sein du thiasse marin, ibid. 662-668). JEAN CH. BALTY

KALOPA → Kalliope II

KALYDONIOS KAPROS → Meleagros

KALYKADNOS

(Καλύκαδνος) Personification des gleichnamigen, am unteren Teil schiffbaren Flusses im westlichen Kiliken, des heutigen Erminetsu oder Göksu, in dem auf dem 3. Kreuzzug 1190 Friedrich Barbarossa ertrank.

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Drexler, W., ML II 1 (1890-94) 939 s. v. «Kalykadnos»; Ruge, W., RE X 2 (1919) 1767 s. v. «Kalykadnos»; Treidler, H., KIPauly III (1967) 93 s. v. «Kalykadnos»; Waser, O., RE VI 2 (1909) 2801-2802 s. v. «Flußgötter».

KATALOG

Münzen von Seleukeia am Kalykadnos

I.* AE, Septimius Severus (193-211 n. Chr.) und Gordianus III. (238-244 n. Chr.). - InvWadd 4474; Imhoof-Blumer, Fluß 354 Nr. 454; SNG Switzerland I 737; Athena (München), Auktion 2 (1988) 37 Nr. 442 Taf. 23. - Rs.: Nach l. gelagerter, nur bis zu den Hüften mit einem Himation bekleideter jugendlicher K., die linke auf Quellgefäß stützend und Schilfrohr haltend, in der Rechten Ähren.

2.* AE, Severus Alexander (222-235 n. Chr.). - Imhoof-Blumer, KIM II 484-485 Nr. 14-15 Taf. 20, 24; idem, Fluß 354-355 Nr. 455 Taf. 14, 18; Ziegler, R., Münzen Kilikiens aus kleineren deutschen Sammlungen (1989) 67, 469-472 Taf. 23. - Rs.: Nach l. sitzende → Seleukeia unter Aedicula, in der Rechten Ähren haltend und die Linke auf Sitz stützend; zu ihren Füßen nach l. schwimmender K.

Münzen von Diokaisareia

3. AE, Philippus I. (244-249 n. Chr.). - InvWadd 4272 Taf. 10, 10; BMC Lycaonia, etc. 74-75, 14-19 Taf. 13, 3; Imhoof-Blumer, Fluß 347 Nr. 435 Taf. 14, 6; Forrer, L., The Weber Collection III 2 (1929) Nr. 7547 Taf. 271; SNG Copenhagen 129; SNG v. Aulock 5546-5548; Staffieri, G. M., La monetazione di Diocæsarea in Cilicia (1985) 31-34 Nr. 22-22g Taf. 3, 25-5, 32; SNG Switzerland I 675-676; Ziegler, a. O. 2, 59, 391-393 Taf. 19. - Rs.: Diokaisareia nach r. sitzend, ihr gegenüber Tyche stehend, zu deren Füßen nach l. schwimmender K.

KOMMENTAR

Die einzig uns bekannten Darstellungen des K. auf Münzen von Seleukeia am Kalykadnos und Diokaisareia zeigen den Flußgott in den zwei geläufigsten kaiserzeitlichen Typen (→ Fluvii) als einen auf ein Quellgefäß Gelagerten (1) oder als Schwimmenden entweder zu Füßen der Seleukeia (2) oder der Diokaisareia und einer Tyche (3). Bei beiden Städten kann die Identifikation durch das Fehlen sicherer Beischriften nur durch ihre Lage am Kalykadnos erschlossen werden.

RAINER VOLKKOMMER

KALYKE

(Καλύκη) «Blumenkelch, Knospe», Mänadenname in einer Vaseninschrift; als solcher auch bei Nonn. Dion. 29, 251-252 belegt.

I. Schale, att. rf. Verschollen. - Fränkel, Namen 45. 92 Nr. h; Musée étrusque 74 Nr. 557 Taf. 12; Scherling, K. RE X 2 (1919) 1767 s. v. «Kalyke 2». - Die eine Seite zeigt drei Silene und zwei Mänaden, von denen die eine K. benannt ist. Gegenseite: Herakles-Geryoneus.

ANNELIESE KOSSATZ-DEISSMANN

KALYPSO

(Καλυψώ, Calypso) Nymph and goddess. Daughter of → Atlas. K. lived in a magnificent cave on Ogygia, the island where → Odysseus was washed ashore after a shipwreck. The nymph fell in love with him and promised him immortality if he would stay with her forever, but he refused her offer. After seven years → Zeus sent → Hermes to tell K. to let Odysseus leave her island. She obeyed the order of Zeus and gave the hero what he needed for his voyage. K. appears mainly in the Odyssey, living by herself on the beautiful island of Ogygia. The whereabouts of this island has been disputed but was probably thought to be located somewhere in the Western Mediterranean.

LITERARY SOURCES: K. is introduced in the very beginning of the Odyssey as the nymph and goddess who retains Odysseus on his way back from Troy (Od. 1, 14-15). At the plea of → Athena the assembled gods decide to send Hermes as messenger to K. on Ogygia (Od. 1, 84-87) and in the fifth book the arrival of Hermes on the island is described and his conversation with K. during which he tells her that she must hold back Odysseus no longer (Od. 5, 43-147). K. gives in, although against her will, and promises Odysseus assistance and advice; the construction of a boat and the farewell between K. and the hero is told in detail (Od. 5, 160-267). Hereafter K. is only mentioned sporadically in the rest of the poem, when for example Odysseus tells → Alkinoos (I) and Arete about his adventures (Od. 7, 245-266).

In Hes. theog. 359 K. figures among the daughters of → Okeanos and → Tethys (→ Okeanides), and in theog. 1017-1018 are mentioned two sons of K. and Odysseus, Nausithoos and Nausinoos. Hes. fig. 150, 30-31 Merkelbach/West has the Cephallenians as descendants of K. and Hermes.

Later authors mention K. very seldom. A comedy named Kalypso was written by Anaxilas, living in the 4th cent. B. C. (CAF II fig. 10-11) and K. is briefly mentioned by Ovid (ars 2, 123-142) and by Lukianos (v. h. 2, 35).

BIBLIOGRAPHY: Brommer, Odysseus 10. 92-94. 113. 121. 122; Caprino, C., EAA II (1959) 276-277 s. v. «Calipso»; v. Geisau, H., KIPauly III (1967) 94-96 s. v. «Kalypso»; Güntert, H., Kalypso (1919); Immisch, O., ML II 1 (1890-94) 940-942 s. v. «Kalypso»; Lamer, H., RE X 2 (1919) 1772-1799 s. v. «Kalypso»; Lucas, H., «Die Kalypso des Nikias», OeJh 32, 1940, 54-59; Meuli, K., Odyssee und Argonautika (1921) 60 ff.; Müller, F., Die antiken Odyssee-Illustrationen in ihrer kunsthistorischen Entwicklung (1913); Toucheffeu, Thèmes odysseens 191-200. 210-211.

CATALOGUE

A. Kalypso alone

1. Mural painting in tomb at Kertsch. - Rostovtzeff, M., Décorations antiques du Sud de la Russie (1913) pl. 59, 2; idem, JHS 39, 1919, 151-152 fig. 2; EAA II (1959) 932 s.v. «Crimea»; Brommer 94; Touchéfeu 200 no. 353. - A.D. 1-50. - K. (KAAVYQ) seen in front view, dressed in a long chiton and a white mantle which covers her head. She looks toward her r. shoulder, her r. hand raised touching her chin, while her l. hand supports the elbow.

2. Painting by Nikias. - Plin. nat. 35, 132; Lucas 56; Touchéfeu 200 no. 354. - About 330 B.C.

3. Painting by Nikias. - Plin. nat. 35, 132; Lucas 56; Touchéfeu 200 no. 354. - About 330 B.C. - K. seated.

B. Kalypso and Hermes

4. Marble relief, Tabula Odysseica (the Tomasetti tablet). Vatican, Mus. Sacro 0066. - Weitzmann, K., AJA 45, 1941, 166 figs. 1-2; 171-172; Touchéfeu 192 no. 337. - 1st cent. A.D. - Relief with 24 small panels illustrating the books of the Odyssey arranged round a larger panel with → Poseidon on a dolphin. The panel in the upper l. corner, only partly preserved, shows a figure, probably Hermes, in a short chiton seen in three-quarter view to the l., raising his r. arm in a speaking gesture. Behind his l. shoulder probably the kerykeion. Nothing is left of the person to whom Hermes is speaking but it could be K., supposedly in a seated position.

C. Kalypso and Odysseus

5. *Hydria, Lucanian rf. Naples, Mus. Naz. 81839 (H 2899). From Paestum. - LCS 110, 568 pl. 56, 3; Brooklyn-Budapest P.; Touchéfeu 193-195 no. 339 pl. 30, 2. - About 390-380 B.C. - On the shoulder to the r., K. is standing seen in three-quarter view to the r. dressed in a sleeveless chiton. Long hair with a headband. Her r. hand rests on her hip, in her raised l. hand a chest from which a ribbon hangs. She offers the chest to the bearded Odysseus (inscr.), seated on a rock. He is naked except for a mantle draped round the lower part of his body, in his r. hand a sword in sheath.

6. Fr. of clay relief bowl. Volos, Mus. From Phthiotic Thebes. - Arvanitopoulos, A. S., ArchEph 1910, 89-90 pl. 2, 3; Touchéfeu 197-198 no. 344; Sinn, Becher 84 MB 15 fig. 4, 2; Brommer 94 fig. 46 (late 3rd cent. B.C.). - Middle of 2nd cent. B.C. - To the l. Odysseus (inscr.), astride a plank dressed in a short chiton and pilos, hammers a wooden peg into the plank with a hammer and is surrounded by other utensils and materials for building his boat. Further away to the r. is the fragmentary figure of a standing woman, K., preserved from the thighs down, dressed in a chiton. She seems to turn away from Odysseus toward another standing woman of whom even less of the body is preserved.

7. Fr. of clay relief bowl. Volos, Mus. From Phthiotic Thebes. - Arvanitopoulos, A. S., 6, 86-88 pl. 2, 2; Touchéfeu 199 no. 352; Sinn, Becher 84 MB 16 fig. 4, 3; Brommer 93 fig. 45 (late 3rd cent. B.C.). - Middle of 2nd cent. B.C. - To the l. K. is standing, only the lower r. part of her chiton and one foot preserved, apparently in profile to the r. With her r. hand she grasps the l. hand of Odysseus, touching his chin with her l. hand. Odysseus is seen in front view dressed in a short chiton and mantle, with pilos and sword. A bundle fastened to a stick is slung over his l. shoulder. His head is turned toward K. To the r. a maid in a chiton approaches Odysseus, she offers him a bag with provisions and a jar. Behind her on the ground a large pithos with a lid. Arvanitopoulos sees one more person behind the jar, perhaps another servant. Above the figures l. to r.: [KAAVYQ] Q O A Y S [EY] A O P [A]. (For a different interpretation and reading see Sinn.)

D. Kalypso in the Garden of the Hesperides

→ Hesperides 36.

E. Uncertain

8. (= Daidalos et Ikaros 11a with bibl.) Stele, Etruscan. Bologna, Mus. Civ. From the necropolis in the Giardini Margherita. - Elderkin, G. W., AJA 21, 1917, 402 fig. 2 (500-450 B.C.); Touchéfeu 197 no. 343 bis (with bibl.). - 390-360 B.C. - In a square field a winged figure hovers in the air, dressed in a short chiton. In the l. hand a saw, in the r. hand a hammer and a carpenter's rule(?).

9. Bronze mirror, Praenestine. Rome, Villa Giulia 12992. From Praeneste. - Gerhard, EtrSp IV pl. 404; Dohrn, T., in Helbig<sup>4</sup> III no. 2953; Touchéfeu 192 n. 6. - About 300 B.C. - To the l. a woman seated on a carved throne with cushions, dressed in chiton and shoes, a mantle covers her back and she lifts up a corner of it with her l. hand. She wears necklace and a bracelet, in her hair a wreath. At her l. side a naked maid with shoes holds a sunshade over her. Opposite Hermes seen in three-quarter view to the l. with his r. leg raised, naked except for a mantle fastened round his neck, petasos and winged shoes. Below, a sea-monster seen in front view.

10. Stone urn. Perugia, Mus. Naz. 403. From S. Caterina, Perugia. - Brunn, Rilievi I 130 pl. 99, 2; Lucas 58-59 fig. 38; Touchéfeu 244 no. 450 pl. 35, 2; Brommer 94. - 100-50 B.C. - To the l. the bearded Odysseus seen in profile to the r., his l. foot raised on a stone, dressed in short chiton and pilos. A mantle over his raised leg. He supports his chin with his l. hand. Behind him a rock. In the middle a woman seen in three-quarter view to the r., short-haired and dressed in a chiton. In her raised l. hand a mirror, in her lowered r. hand a garment which she presents to a woman seated on a chair to the r., dressed in a chiton.

11. Stone urn. Perugia, Mus. Naz. 404. From Perugia. - Brunn, Rilievi I 130 pl. 99, 1; Lucas 55-56 fig. 35; Touchéfeu 245-246 no. 451 pl. 34, 2; Brommer 94. - 100-50 B.C. - To the l. the bearded Odysseus seated on a rock, seen in three-quarter view to the l., dressed in short chiton, mantle and pilos. He turns his head and looks at a woman seen in front view. She is naked except for a mantle draped around her legs and her raised r. arm. With her r. hand she touches her hair. At her side kneels a woman, seen in profile to the l., dressed in chiton; in her l. hand she has an alabastron, presenting it to the woman. To the r. another woman in chiton and mantle, holds up a mirror with both hands. The scene is framed by two columns.

F. Incorrect identifications

12. (= Hermes 689) Amphora, «Melian». Athens, Nat. Mus. 354. From Melos. - EAA II (1959) 591 fig. 808; Papastamos, D., Melische Amphoren (1970) 52-54 pl. 8; Schefold, Sagenbilder 89-91 fig. 45. - About 600 B.C. - Neck: Hermes with winged shoes and kerykeion walks toward a standing woman, seen in three-quarter view to the l., dressed in a richly embroidered chiton and mantle. Schefold does not doubt that the woman is K. but there is nothing in the scene to prove it.

13. Hydria, Attic rf. Berlin, Staatl. Mus. F 2379. From Nola. - GGK, Führer Berlin 150. - About 460-450 B.C. - Hermes with petasos, winged shoes and kerykeion together with two women.

14. Mural painting. Pompeii VII 4, 22, entrance of Via del Foro. - Schefold, WP 179; Reinach, RépPeint 97, 3; Müller 135; Touchéfeu 192 n. 2. - Hermes with winged petasos and kerykeion. Woman in mantle and diadem. Column and pillar against which stands a small figure.

15. Gem, glass. Berlin, Staatl. Mus. FG 1382. - HBr 71 fig. 17; Lucas 56; Touchéfeu 237 no. 435 (with bibl.). - 3rd-2nd cent. B.C. - Odysseus and a woman.

16. Gem. Geneva, Mus. MF 2750. - Touchéfeu 237 no. 436 (with bibl.). - Odysseus and a woman.

17. Gem, carnelian. Bonn, Coll. Mertens-Schaffhausen. - Overbeck, J., Die Bildwerke zum thebischen und troischen Heldenkreis (1857) 809 no. 104 pl. 33, 14; Touchéfeu 237 no. 437. - Odysseus and a woman.

18. Gem, glass. Coll. Wyndham-Cook no. 163. - Furtwängler, AG pl. 25, 36; Lucas 56; Touchéfeu 237 no. 438. - Odysseus and a woman.

19. Mural painting. Pompeii VII 9, 4-12, Macellum. - Schefold, WP 196; Lucas 54-55 fig. 34; Touchéfeu 236 no. 432 (with bibl.) pl. 34, 1. - A.D. 68-79. - Seated Odysseus and standing woman in front of a house.

COMMENTARY

In contrast to other scenes from the Odyssey the event which involved K. was not favoured in Greek and Roman art. This is not surprising because although Odysseus spent seven years with K. on the island of Ogygia this long period had very little to offer artists as regards drama and action. The representations do not seem to go further back than the 4th cent. B.C. The Lucanian hydria (5) is from the beginning of this cent. and shows K. as young and pretty but not as the main character in the scene, being clearly second in importance to Odysseus, identified by name, who is being appealed to by the goddess. She offers him a chest richly decorated with a ribbon hanging from it. It does not look much like a container of provisions needed for Odysseus' voyage and it has been suggested that the chest symbolises the gift of immortality K. presented to Odysseus and which he refused (Touchéfeu 193-194).

More than two centuries later come fragments of two Megarian bowls with Homeric scenes (6, 7). Sadly both preserve very little of K. On 6 it is not even certain which of the two women to the extreme right is K. although it seems reasonable to recognize her in the woman nearest to Odysseus perhaps turning to her maid in order to take from her whatever she was carrying, probably material for the sails Odysseus needed for his boat. On the fragment 7 K. is no better preserved, but this time her identity is secured not only by the fragmentary inscription above her but also by her gestures toward Odysseus grasping his hand and touching his chin. This intimate gesture can only be attributed to K., and moreover Odysseus looks at her and not at the woman offering him provisions. Again, however, Odysseus is the main figure on both fragments even more than he was on 5. The representations on 5-7 show the preparations for the further voyage of Odysseus, the building of his boat and taking leave of K. as told by Homer (Od. 5, 246-267).

It is not possible to tell if the winged figure on an Etruscan stele 8 who might be bringing utensils for the building of Odysseus' boat, is male or female, but it does look male, with a short chiton and half long hair, and a youthful Hermes is quite as probable as a representation of K. (Touchéfeu 197).

On two Etruscan urns from the 1st cent. B.C. (10, 11) Odysseus attends the main scene as a spectator, and the person who claims attention is in both cases a woman: on 10 she is seated, while a maid holds up a mirror and hands her a garment. The chair is handsomely carved and she has herself a matronly look which goes ill with her being the nymph K. She is rather → Penelope, the faithful wife waiting for her husband. On the contrary Lucas saw the seated woman as K. and the representation inspired by a painting by Nikias of «Kalypso sedens» (3), rejecting the idea of Penelope because of her coquettish look (Lucas 59).

On the urn 11 Odysseus is less involved in the main scene, his seated body being turned away, but he does look at the young woman being served by two maids. Again Lucas sees a reflection of a painting by Nikias (2), this time of a standing Kalypso, while Touchéfeu is more sceptical; she hesitatingly suggests Penelope but this half-naked woman is far from the image of the respectable Penelope and Odysseus looks rather sad, as if he was still far from home. But quite different persons might come into consideration such as → Menelaos and → Helene or → Hephaistos and → Aphrodite (Touchefeu 247-248).

Another possible reflection of Nikias' picture 2 is the painting from Kertsch I belonging to the 1st cent. A. D. K.'s identity is secured by the inscription and she is depicted with grave aspect wrapped in long dress without jewellery or other finery. The presence of K. in a grave, however, and with a picture of Hermes on the opposite side of the door to the grave, might indicate a pair of θεοὶ ψυχοπόμποι rather than the episode in the Odyssey (Rostovtzeff, M., JHS 39, 1919, 151).

An Etruscan mirror 9 shows Hermes together with a woman who might be K. receiving him on her island (as Homer Od. 5, 55-148). The identification is possible and the sea-monster below might show that the episode took place on an island. Both Gerhard (EtrSp IV 2, 63) and Dohrn in Helbig<sup>4</sup> suggested K. and Hermes on the mirror and Touchefeu does not wholly reject it.

Three representations 12, 13, 14 of Hermes and a woman (on 13 two women) have all been connected with Hermes' visit to K. (Schefold, Sagenbilder 89; Touchefeu 192 n. 5 and n. 2; Müller 135) but must be rejected as the female figures involved might as well be Aphrodite, Penelope or mortal women.

Four gems (15-18) all have the same scene, Odysseus seated, a woman approaching from the left or right. Lucas identified the woman as K. on 15, 17-18 but Furtwängler argued convincingly for identifying her as Penelope, pointing to the fact that Odysseus is disguised as a beggar (Lucas 56; Furtwängler AG II 127).

The mural painting from the Macellum at Pompeii (19) shows Odysseus and a woman in a courtyard in front of a house. He is seated in the same way as on the gems, the woman stands opposite him with a distaff in her hand. Lucas identified the woman as K., again referring to the painting by Nikias (2). The distaff is not out of place, he argues, since K. also wove, and the way Odysseus gazes upwards and far away, shows that he is still homesick on Ogygia (Lucas 55; Touchefeu 238-241 rejects this theory).

In one case K. is represented in a scene not connected with the Odyssey, as one of the Hesperides on a Paestan squat lekythos is named K. (→ Hesperides 36). McPhee (→ Hesperides, Commentary) rightly observes that the appearance of K. as a Hesperid can be explained by her parentage and her dwelling place in the Western Mediterranean. BIRGITTE RAFN

KAMAREITES → Men

KAMARINA

(Καμάρινα, Camarina, Camerina) Figlia di Oceano, ninfa del lago e della città omonima sulla costa meridionale della Sicilia. Ci è nota da Pind. O. 5, 4 e schol. ad l., e dalle monete emesse da Kamarina sul finire del V sec. a. C.

BIBLIOGRAFIA: Imhoof-Blumer, F., «Nymphen und Chariten», JlArchNum 11, 1908, 34-36, 73-79 tav. 2, 31-35; Lacroix, L., Monnaies et colonisation (1965) 108; Rizzo, G. E., «Arae velificantes», BullCom 67, 1939, 151-159; Westermarck, U./Jenkins, K., The Coinage of Kamarina (1980) 59-60, 66-71. Sulla topografia: Manni, E., Geografia fisica e politica della Sicilia antica (1981) 102, 154-155.

CATALOGO

Monete di Kamarina

1. AR, litre, 461-440/35 a. C. - Westermarck/Jenkins 146-174 tavv. 2-6, 10-129. - D.: Nike (K?) in volo, in basso cigno con ali chiuse, entro corona di ulivo. R.: Atene stante.

(2-4 = Aphrodite 946 con bibl., = Aurai 7)

2.* AR, didrammi, 415-405 a. C. - Westermarck/Jenkins 197-200, 158-161 tav. 21, 158-161. - D.: Testa del dio fluviale Hipparis a s.; su alcuni conii firme: YA o EEAKE. Etnico. R.: K. seduta su un cigno navigante sulle acque, con lungo chitone che lascia il busto parzialmente nudo; con la d. trattiene un lembo del velo che si gonfia ad arco sul capo. In basso le onde del mare in piccole spirali. Etnico.

3.* AR, didrammi. - Westermarck/Jenkins 200-202, 162-163 tavv. 21-22, 162-163. - D.: Testa frontale dell'Hipparis entro cornice di onde a volute, EYAI (firma di Euainetos). R.: K. come 2, nel campo uno o due pesci, KAMAPINA.

4.* AR, didrammi. - Westermarck/Jenkins 202-204, 164-166 tav. 22, 164-166. - D.: K. come 2 e 3, rivestita di chitone con maniche, mancano le onde, in basso due o tre pesci. Etnico. R.: Testa di Hipparis, nel campo due pesci, IIIIAPIS.

5. AR, dracme, 410-405 a. C. - Westermarck/Jenkins 205-206, 167-168 tav. 29, 167-68. - D.: Nike in volo. Etnico. R.: Testa frontale di K. con orecchini e collana, capelli in riccioli gonfi che le incorniciano il volto, trattenuti dall'ampyx, ovvero con riccioli disposti a raggiera e nel campo due pesci.

6. AR, hemidracme e litre. - Westermarck/Jenkins 207-209, 169-174 tav. 29, 169-174. - D.: Nike in volo con scudo rotondo. R.: Testa di K. a s. con capelli entro sphendone, in basso due pesci, KAMAPINA. Nelle litre: D.: Stessa testa di K. R.: Cigno in volo su onde a spirali, in basso pesce.

Gioielli

7. Bottoni in oro sbalzato. Da Gela? - Orsi, P., MonAnt 9, 1889, 276-278; 17, 1906, 538-540. - Fine V-inizi IV sec. a. C. - K. seduta su un cigno in volo a d. su onde a spirali.

COMMENTO

L'iconografia più frequente di K. è quella di una giovane donna adagiata su un cigno che naviga sulle acque. La figura, rivestita talora da un lungo chitone

KAMEIRO

(Καμειρώ) Fille de → Pandareos et sœur de Klytié (Klytia).

SOURCES LITTÉRAIRES: Les traditions varient sur le nombre (deux ou trois) des filles de Pandaréos et sur leurs noms: K. et Klytié d'après Paus. 10, 30, 2, mais d'autres noms comme Kléothéra et Mérôpé sont aussi mentionnés, auxquels s'ajoute parfois celui d'Aédon (Schol. Hom. Od. 20, 66; Eust. 1875, 15 ad Hom. Od. 19, 518 et 1883, 11 ss. ad Hom. Od. 20, 66 ss.; Ant. Lib. 11). Leur mère est Harmathoé (Harmothoé): Schol. Hom. Od., l. c.

Après la punition infligée par → Zeus à leur père Pandaréos, les déesses prennent les orphelines en charge: → Aphrodite les nourrit de fromage, de miel suave et de vin, → Hera leur donne la beauté, la raison et la chasteté, → Artemis la grandeur et → Athena l'adresse aux beaux ouvrages. Mais au moment où Aphrodite monte dans l'Olympe pour demander à Zeus de procurer un heureux mariage à chacune des sœurs, elles sont enlevées par les Harpyies (→ Harpyiai) et remises comme servantes aux Érinées (→ Erinyes) (Hom. Od. 20, 66-78; Paus. 10, 30, 2).

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Gruppe, O., Griechische Mythologie I (1906) 247 n. 2; 257. 640; van der Kolf, M. C., RE XVIII 3 (1949) 499-504 s. v. «Pandareos»; Preller/Robert, GrMyth I (1894) 830; Robert, Heldensage I (1920) 379; Roscher, W. H., ML III 1 (1897-1902) 1498-1504 s. v. «Pandareos I»; Stoll, H. W., ML II 1 (1890-94) 944 s. v. «Kameiro».

CATALOGUE

Document disparu

1. Peinture murale représentant la Nekyia. Delphes, Lesché des Cnidiens. Œuvre de Polygnote de Thasos. - Robert, C., Die Nekyia des Polygnote, 16. HallWPr (1892) 31-32. 81-82. - 2<sup>e</sup> quart du V<sup>e</sup> s. av. J.-C. - Selon Paus. 10, 30, 2, K. et Klytié (noms inscrits), couronnées de fleurs, étaient figurées jouant aux osselets.

Identification incertaine

2.* (= Hephaistos 237 avec bibl.) Coupe attique à f. n., type de Siana. Paris, Louvre A 478. De Kamiros. - ABV 66, 54 (24): P. de Heidelberg; Para 26, 54; Add 18; CVA pl. 76, 2-5; Pottier, Vases Louvre pl. 17; Barnett, L., Hermes 33, 1898, 638; Perdrizet, P., BCH 1898, 584-586; Harrison, J. E., Prolegomena to the Study of Greek Religion (1903) 226 fig. 48; Boardman, ABFH fig. 39; Hiller, S., Bellerophon (1978) fig. 2; Schefold, SB II fig. 84, 101. - Vers 560 av. J.-C. - Un homme barbu en tunique longue (Pandaréos?) fuit vers la g. en retournant la tête, avec un geste de frayeur. Derrière lui un chien gigantesque marche vers la g. Une femme ailée en tunique courte (→ Iris?), accourt de la dr., poursuivant l'homme; elle est suivie d'→ Hermes qui tourne la tête vers deux femmes drapées et voilées, écartant de la main dr. le pan de leur himation (Barnett: les filles de Pandaréos).

3. Couvercle de pyxis attique à f. n. Mykonos, Mus. KZ 1489, anc. coll. M. Cambanis. De Béotie. -

MARIA CACCAMO CALTABIANO

Perdrizet, o. c. 2, 584 fig. 1: probablement du même atelier que 2; Harrison, o. c. 2, 299 fig. 82; Buchholz, H. G., «Symbol des gemeinsamen Mantels», JdI 102, 1987, 40 n° 78. – Vers 560 av. J.-C. – Poursuivi par Hermès, un homme imberbe (Pandaréos?), en tunique courte et himation, se sauve vers la dr. en tournant la tête vers l'arrière et en gesticulant d'effroi. A dr. un chien de grande taille, qui regarde vers l'arrière. Derrière Hermès, les trois déesses, Athéna, Héra et Aphrodite, portant leurs attributs, s'avancent vers la dr. Derrière elles, deux femmes face à face, enveloppées dans le même manteau: les filles de Pandaréos selon Perdrizet; autres interprétations: Clairmont, C., Das Parisurteil in der antiken Kunst (1951) 28, K 39; Raab, I., Zu den Darstellungen des Parisurteils in der gr. Kunst (1972) 165 n° 27.

COMMENTAIRE

Les sources littéraires ainsi que les documents figurés relatifs à K. sont très peu nombreux. Selon Pausanias, K. et Klytié (noms probablement tirés de la mythologie cnidienne: cf. Robert, Heldensage I 379) sont représentées dans une peinture de la Lesché des Cnidiens (1) parmi des héros du cycle troyen: ce pourrait être un indice d'anciennes relations entre Cnide et la Crète, puisque les filles de Pandaréos seraient originaires de Milet, une ville de Crète (Pandaréos: Paus. 10, 30, 2; pour ces relations, cf. etiam Robert, o. c. I, 81).

L'interprétation des scènes figurées sur les vases à f. n. 2-3 n'est pas sûre. Sur 3 l'absence d'Artémis – qui joue un rôle aussi important que les autres déesses dans l'éducation de K. et de Klytié – infirme l'identification de la scène avec la poursuite de Pandaréos, et celle des figures féminines avec ses filles (contra: Harrison, o. c. 2, 300-301; cf. etiam Clairmont, o. c. 3, 28, K 39; Raab, o. c. 3, 165 n° 27; Buchholz, o. c. 3, avec bibl.; cf. Tiverios, M., Προβλήματα της μελανόμορφης αττικής κεραμικής (1981) 19-21 n. 19. 28 et surtout 30-31 pour les figures analogues dans les représentations archaïques).

Dans l'hypothèse où le mythe de K. aurait été créé à Rhodes, l'image 2 serait le témoignage de cette tradition rhodienne (cf. van der Kolf 501). Or K. est également considérée comme l'éponyme de la ville rhodienne de Kamiros (Groupe I 247 n. 2; 640; → Ialysos).

HÉLÈNE KOTSOU

KAMILOS, KAMILLOS → Megaloi Theoi

KANAKE

(Κανάκη, auch Κανάκη [Schol. Aristoph. Nubes 1372a]; Canace) Tochter des → Aiolos und der → Amphithea (II) oder der Enarete. Schwester und Geliebte des Makareus. Durch Poseidon Mutter des Aloeus (Stammvater der → Aloada), → Epopeus, Hopleus, Nireus und Triops.

LITERARISCHE QUELLEN: Nach Apollod. bibl. I [51] 7, 3 ist K. eine Tochter des thessalischen Königs Aiolos und der Enarete, die außer K. noch fünf andere Töchter und sechs Söhne hatten. In der thessalischen Sage zeugt K. mit Poseidon die oben genannten fünf Kinder. Bei Diod. 5, 61 ist der tyrrenische König Aiolos K.s Vater. Auch er hatte sechs Söhne und sechs Töchter. Die beiden Aiolo, der thessalische und der tyrrenische, werden schon früh miteinander verquickt und später mit dem Hüter der Winde Aiolos und dessen zwölf Kindern identifiziert (Diod. 4, 67 unterscheidet drei Aiolo). In Hom. Od. 10, 1-9 lebt dieser Windhüter Aiolos mit seinen paarweise in Geschwisterehe verheirateten Kindern glücklich auf der fernen, schwimmenden Insel Aiolia. In Anknüpfung an diesen dritten Aiolos, den Windhüter, entstand 423 v. Chr. die Tragödie Aiolos von Eur. (TGF 2 fig. 14-41, dazu Teil der Hypothese, Austin, C., Nova fragmenta Euripidea [1968] 88-89), in der die tragisch endende Inzestliebe der Geschwister K. und Makareus wohl zum erstenmal für die Bühne bearbeitet worden ist. Die als anstößig und sträflich angesehene (cf. Plat. nomoi 8, 838a-c) Geschwisterehe und -liebe bot Stoff für die Gestaltung eines tragischen Konfliktes, der mit dem Tod der beiden Liebenden enden mußte. Für K., die ursprünglich zum thessalischen Aiolos gehörte (Apollod. bibl. I [51] 7, 3), wird die Geschwisterehe als thessalische Sitte erklärt (Archinos, FGH 604 F 1). Die Rekonstruktion der eur. Tragödie ist im einzelnen problematisch. Ov. hat den Stoff in her. 11 aufgegriffen, in der er K. einen Brief an Makareus schreiben läßt. Ov. bezieht sich auf Eur. Aiolos, benützt daneben aber wohl noch eine alexandrinische Quelle. Bei Eur. und Ov. ist K. Tochter des Windhüters Aiolos, der seine Kinder durch Lüge miteinander verheiratete, weil Makareus ihn aus Liebe zu K. dazu überredet haben soll. K. fiel bei dieser Verlosung nicht an Makareus, bei dem sie bereits gelegen hatte und von dem sie nun ein Kind erwartete, sondern an einen anderen Bruder. Als sie sich krank zu Bett legte, wurde Aiolos ihr Geheimnis entdeckt (durch die Amme?), und er schickte K. ein Schwert, mit dem sie sich selber töten sollte, was wahrscheinlich Hyg. fab. 238 dazu verleitet, dem Vater Aiolos den Mord anzulasten. An anderer Stelle bezeichnet Hyg. K. als Selbstmörderin (243, 6). Sie wird auch in anderen Selbstmordkatalogen erwähnt (Ov. trist. 2, 384). Makareus verübte ebenfalls Selbstmord. Der Tod der K. wurde parodiert (Aristoph., PCG III 2 F 1-16; Eriphos, PCG V F 1; Antiphanes, CAF II fig. 18-19) und zum Sujet der Pantomime (Anth. Pal. 11, 254). Die Canace parturiens soll eine von Neros Lieblingsrollen gewesen sein (Suet. Nero 21; Cass. Dio 63, 10, 2).

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Paribeni, E., EAA IV (1961) 310 s. v. «Kanake»; Robert, Heldensage I, 380-385; Scherling, K., REX 2 (1919) 1853-1854 s. v. «Kanake»; Séchan, Etudes 233-239 Abb. 71; Stoll, H. W., ML II 1 (190-94) 946 s. v. «Kanake»; Webster, T. B. L., The Tragedies of Euripides (1967) 157-160. 303.

KATALOG

1. (= Aiolos 1* mit Lit. = Amphithea II 1) Hydria, frühlukan. rf. Bari, Mus. Arch. 1535. Aus Canosa. – LCS 45, 221 Taf. 18: Amykosmaler; Scheffold/Jung, SB IV 44-45 Abb. 34. – Um 410 v. Chr. – Das Vasenbild ist nicht lange nach Eur. Aiolos (423 v. Chr.) entstanden. K. liegt mit geschlossenen Augen sterbend oder tot auf einer Kline, hinter der eine dorische Säule als Palastangabe steht. Ihr r. Arm mit dem Schwert in der Hand ist herabgesunken. Unterhalb ihrer r., entblößten Brust ist die Einstichwunde sichtbar. Am Kopfende des Bettes steht Aiolos und zeigt mit einem Stock auf Makareus, der mit gebundenen Händen an das Fußende des Bettes geführt wird. Hinter Aiolos sitzt Amphithea oder die Amme auf einem Altar.

2. Gemälde eines Aristeides aus Theben, nicht erhalten. – Plin. nat. 35, 99. – Das Bild soll ein aus Liebe zu seinem Bruder sterbendes Mädchen (anapauomenen propter fratris amorem) dargestellt haben; vielleicht K. Plin. nat. 35, 98 nennt Aristeides einen Zeitgenossen des Apelles, also wäre das K.-Bild zwischen 340 und 290 v. Chr. zu datieren.

3.* Fresko, röm. Vatikan, Sala delle Nozze Aldobrandine. Gefunden 1816 bei Tor Marancia vor Porta S. Sebastiano in einer antiken Villa. – Helbig I Nr. 464 (B. Andreae); Borda, M., La pittura romana 283-284; Nogara B., Ausonia 1, 1906, 51 ff.; idem, Le Nozze Aldobrandine (1907) 55 ff. Taf. 33; Reinach, Rép. Peint 182, 1; Robert, Heldensage 385 Anm. 6; Rumpf, MhZ 192; Wiegand, Th., Antike Fresken Taf. 1. – 3. Jh. n. Chr. – Ausschnitt aus einem Zyklus mythischer Heroinen, die aus unerlaubter Liebe oder Leidenschaft ein Verbrechen begehen. Außer K. sind noch → Myrrha, → Pasiphae, → Phaidra und → Skylla (II) dargestellt; alle mit Namensbeischriften. Die Figur der K. (Beischr. Canace) ist mit dem Schwert in der Hand, wohl kurz vor ihrem Selbstmord dargestellt, wie sie ihren Kopf nachdenklich auf die Hand stützt, in der sie das Schwert hält. Zum Motiv vgl. das Relief mit den Töchtern des Pelias (→ Peliades). Die Beispiele zu dieser Heroingalerie sind wahrscheinlich in einem hellenistischen Vorbild der alexandrinischen Kunst zu suchen. Der Hauptreiz der zugrundeliegenden Originale beruhte offenbar in der feinen Individualisierung des Gesichtsausdruckes (Andreae), wovon im röm. Wandgemälde nur noch wenig zu erkennen ist.

ABZULEHNENDE DEUTUNG

4. Wandmalerei, Neapel, Mus. Naz. I 11483. Aus Pompeji IX 5, 14-16. – Scheffold, WP 260; HBr Taf. 162b; Rizzo, PER Taf. 134r. – Vespasianisch. – Die Deutung als → Pyramus und Thisbe ist der von K. und Makareus vorzuziehen, weil bei jenem Paar auf pompejanischen Wandgemälden (vgl. auch Pompeji V 4, 11, Scheffold, WP 86) der Jüngling eindeutig tot ist und das Mädchen sich erst angesichts seines Todes in das Schwert stürzt. Bei K. und Makareus ist dieser Sachverhalt genau umgekehrt.

KOMMENTAR

Es ist offensichtlich, daß die homerischen Götter die Inzucht zwischen den Söhnen und Töchtern des Aiolos nicht für schändlich hielten. Eur. und die lateinischen Mythographen veränderten Aiolos so, daß er mit Härte gegen das Benehmen von K. und Makareus vorgehen mußte, was aus der ersten uns bekannten Darstellung von K. auf 1 deutlich wird, die sicher unter dem Eindruck von Eur. Aiolos entstanden ist. Wahrscheinlich stand am Schluß des Theaterstückes das Bett mit der toten K. auf der Bühne. Auch die Konzeption des röm. Freskenfrieses 3, auf dem K. eine von sechs Verbrecherinnen aus Liebe darstellt, scheint auf ein literarisches Werk zurückzugehen, es wirkt wie eine Illustration zu Ov. her.

GRATIA BERGER-DOER

KANOPOS I

(Κάνωπος, Κάνωβος, Canopus) Originale d'Amyclées, K. war timonier des Schiffes von Ménélaos (→ Menelaos). Nach der Eroberung Trojas, das Schiff, das er regierte, nach Ägypten, nicht weit von der Mündung des Nil. Théonoé, die Tochter des Proteus (→ Proteus), wurde K. verliebt. Er wurde von einem Schlangentod (Mourut) getötet. Ménélaos und Helene l'enterrèrent sur place, là où plus tard fut fondée la ville de Canope.

SOURCES LITTÉRAIRES: Les mentions de K. sont marginales, faites le plus souvent à propos de la ville de Canope: Strabon 17, 1, 17 p. 801; Skylax 106 (GGM I p. 80-81); Dion Per. 13 (GGM II p. 105); Steph. Byz. s. v. Κάνωπος; Tac. ann. 2, 60; Mela 2, 103. Pour le mythe lui-même, la version la plus complète est celle de Conon, FGH 26 F 1 (VIII); cf. etiam Serv. Aen. 11, 263; Serv. georg. 4, 287; Nik. ther. 309-31.

Selon Plut. de Is. et Os. 359e, K. était le timonier du bateau d'Osiris, ce qui établit une relation artificielle entre la légende du pilote de Ménélaos et l'existence à Canope d'un grand temple d'Osiris (→ Osiris-Kanopos). Plut. mentionne aussi la version qui faisait de K. le timonier du navire Argo (→ Argonautai), ce qui était une justification du nom attribué à l'étoile Kanopos: cf. Hyg. astr. 2, 32; Eratosth. kat. 37.

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Drexler, W., ML II 1 (1890-94) 948-949 s. v. «Kanopos»; Helck, H. W., KIPauly 3 (1969) 108 s. v. «Kanobos 2»; Roeder, G., REX 1 (1918) 1870-1873 s. v. «Kanobos 2».

CATALOGUE

1. (= Helene 375* avec bibl.) Miniature sur parchemin, illustrant un manuscrit de Nik. ther. 309-319. Paris, Bibl. Nat., Cod. suppl. gr. 247, fol.

12r. – Gąsiorowski, St., Malarstwo minjaturowe grecko-rzymskie (1928) 168–169 fig. 82; Weitzmann, K., Isl. Scient. Ill. 261 pl. 36, 15; idem, Ancient Book Illumination (1959) 99 fig. 106. – XI<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. – K. est à demi allongé de face, s'appuyant sur le coude g., la main dr. tendue. Sa tête au visage juvénile imberbe, aux cheveux sombres, est entourée d'un nimbe. Il porte une tunique et un manteau agrafé sur l'épaule dr. Au-dessous ondule le serpent αἰμοπόλις. A g. Hélène et Ménélas armé s'élançant vers K.; au loin à dr., un navire voguant sur la mer.

COMMENTAIRE

La miniature du XI<sup>e</sup> s. r., qui s'inspire incontestablement de modèles antiques, est la seule image connue du timonier de Ménélas. K. est figuré de manière conventionnelle, sans aucun attribut caractéristique, dans la position que prennent de nombreuses divinités fluviales gréco-romaines.

K. était un personnage de second plan dans le cycle légendaire des retours de Troie. Le fait qu'une étoile ait été appelée K. ne lui a pas assuré plus de succès dans l'iconographie. Il est surtout connu pour avoir donné son nom à la localité située à l'est d'Alexandrie, qui abritait un célèbre temple d'Osiris. L'iconographie de cet Osiris de Canope est restée sans rapport avec une iconographie grecque du timonier de Ménélas. De même la mention d'un dieu K. dans les écrits paléochrétiens ne se rapportait qu'à Osiris.

L'amalgame tenté par Plutarque entre les deux traditions – faire de K. le timonier du navire d'Osiris – était une construction intellectuelle qui n'eut aucun reflet dans l'iconographie. ZSOLT KISS

KANOPOS II → Osiris-Kanopos

KANTHAROS

(Κάνθαρος) Géant (→ Gigantes).

I. (= Gigantes 2* avec bibl. et renvois) Frise nord du trésor des Siphniens. Delphes, Mus. – Peu avant 525 av. J.-C. – Entre les Létoides et leurs adversaires, un Géant fuit pour échapper à → Dionysos et à son attelage. Habillé en hoplite, il a un casque dont le cimier est supporté par un canthare. Entre ses jambes, Mastrokostas, E., AM 71, 1956, 77–82 fig. 3, Beil. 47, a déchiffré ΚΑ(ν)ΘΑΡΟΣ. Ce nom, qui désigne ailleurs un héros attique, convient bien à un adversaire de Dionysos. Bien que les traces de l'A devant le Θ semblent claires, cette lecture a été contestée par Brinkmann, V., BCH 109, 1985, 92 fig. 36–39. Selon ce dernier, le Géant se nomme ΘΑΡΟΣ, c'est-à-dire «Mut», «Dreistigkeit» (p. 129). Quelle que soit la lecture exacte de l'inscription, l'interprétation de ΘΑΡΟΣ est irrecevable: une figure légendaire ne peut être désignée par un nom abstrait; en outre, la forme attique θάρ(ρ)ος est déplacée parmi les inscriptions de la frise siphnienne. FRANCIS VIAN

KAPANEUS

(Καπανεός, Capne, Capaneus) Sohn des Hipponoos, Gemahl der Euadne, Vater des → Sthenelos. Einer der sieben argivischen Fürsten, die am Zug gegen Theben teilnahmen (→ Septem). Von wildem, überheblichem Charakter, wurde er vor allem bekannt durch die Art seines Todes, der Folge seiner Hybris ist: Als er erklärt, auch Zeus werde ihn nicht hindern, die Mauern Thebens zu erstürmen, stürzt ihn ein Blitzschlag von der Sturmleiter herab.

LITERARISCHE QUELLEN: Die Geschichte des K. muß in dem verlorenen Epos Thebais behandelt worden sein. Von deren K. betreffenden Passagen ist jedoch kein einziger Vers überliefert; nicht einmal Hinweise darauf finden sich in der späteren antiken Literatur. Homer erwähnt in der Ilias K. als Vater des Sthenelos (2, 564; 4, 403), ohne im mindesten auf seinen Charakter oder die Art seines Todes einzugehen. Stesichoros erzählte in seiner Eriphyle, daß Asklepios K. und Lykourgos von den Toten wieder auferweckt habe (Page PMG frg. 194). Als mythische Gestalt faßbar wird K. für uns erst bei den Tragikern; sie charakterisieren ihn übereinstimmend als wilden, riesigen (Aischyl. Septem 424) Krieger, der prahlerisch Zeus selbst herausfordert und damit seinen Tod durch den Blitzschlag heraufbeschwört. Aischylos schildert in den Septem am ausführlichsten sein Prahlen vor dem Angriff an dem von ihm erlosten Elekträischen Tor (422–436; K. führt als Schildzeichen einen nackten Mann mit einer Fackel und der Inschrift: «Ich werde die Stadt verbrennen»; ein Bewaffneter auf einer Sturmleiter, der laut einer Inschrift sich brüstet, selbst Ares werde ihn nicht von der Mauer herunterwerfen können, ist auf dem Schild des Eteokles zu sehen, 466–469; 437–446 sagt Eteokles K.'s Tod durch den Blitz voraus). Auch bei Eur. Phoen. 1128–1133 greift K. am Elekträischen Tor an (schon 179–181, in der Mauerchau der Antigone, beschäftigt sich K. mit höhnischen Worten – ἐφουβρίζει – mit den Mauern Thebens); sein Schildzeichen ist ein Gigant, der eine von der Erde losgerissene Stadt auf den Schultern trägt (1130–1132). Das Bild des Feuerträgers – offensichtlich zum festen Bestand der Schildbeschreibungen der Sieben gehörend – ist hier auf den Schild des Tydeus versetzt und (um?)gedeutet als Prometheus (δεξιὰ δὲ λαμπάδα Τιτάν Προμηθεὺς ἔφερεν; vgl. Powell, J. U., The Phoen. of Eur. [1911] 200 zur Stelle). Aber auch Prometheus erweckt den Eindruck, daß er die Stadt verbrennen wolle «ὡς πρήσων πόλιν», wodurch die Anspielung auf das frevlerische Prahlen des K. erhalten bleibt (1121–1122). Besonders ausführlich schildert Euripides K.'s letzten Angriff auf der Sturmleiter und seinen Sturz (1172–1186). Soph. Ant. 128–137 steuert das Detail bei, daß K. beim Mauersturm eine Fackel trug. Dem frevlerisch seinen Sturz herausfordernden Verhalten des K. stellt Eur. Suppl. 980–1071 den Tod seiner Gemahlin Euadne gegenüber. Auch sie kommt in Flammen um, aber ihr Tod entspringt entgegengesetzten Motiven: ihrem Gatten über den Tod hinaus die Treue bewahrend, stürzt sie sich in seinen Scheiterhaufen – K.'s Leiche, geweiht (τερός) durch den Blitz des Zeus, wird auf einem gesonderten Scheiterhaufen bestattet (934–938).

Zu der von den Tragikern übereinstimmend überlieferten und im Kern wohl schon aus dem Epos stammenden Geschichte des K. fügen die jüngeren Quellen nur noch kleinere Varianten und einzelne Episoden hinzu. Bei Apollod. bibl. 3 (68) 6, 6, 1 und Stat. Theb. 10, 921 greift K. am Ogygischen Tor an. Seine Verwandtschaftsverhältnisse variieren; nur Vater, Gattin und Sohn, Hipponoos, Euadne und Sthenelos stehen fest (vgl. hierzu vor allem Robert I 210–211; auch Latte 1886–1887, Weizsäcker 950–951). Als Erfinder der Sturmleiter nennt ihn Veg. mil. 4, 21 und fügt hinzu, daß K. mit solcher Wucht zu Tode gestürzt sei, daß man hinterher geglaubt habe, er sei vom Blitz getroffen worden.

Die Thebais des Statius, die ausführlichste erhaltene Schilderung des Zugs der Sieben gegen Theben liefert einige zusätzliche Episoden: 3, 598–676 drängt der kriegslüsterne, gottlose K. → Amphiaraios zur Teilnahme am Krieg; er ist auch hier riesig und führt riesige Waffen (4, 165–177; sein Schildzeichen die Lernäische Hydra, als Helmbuschträger ein Gigant). K. führt gegen die Schlange, die → Archemoros getötet hatte, den entscheidenden Stoß (5, 565–574) und entgeht dabei nur knapp der Rache Jupiters (5, 583–587); bei den Leichenspielen für Archemoros siegt er im Boxkampf (6, 731–825). Während der Schlacht trägt er den Leichnam des Melanippos auf seiner linken Schulter zu Tydeus, der nach dem Haupt des erlegten Feindes verlangt hatte (8, 745–750) – eine Aufgabe, die sonst Amphiaraios zufällt, der aber bei Statius bereits in der Erde versunken ist (→ Amphiaraios, → Athanasia). K.'s Tod (10, 827–939) bedeutet die letzte Steigerung vor dem abschließenden Höhepunkt, dem Wechseltod der Oidipous-Söhne.

Der Charakter des K. ist in der antiken Literatur sehr einheitlich gezeichnet: er ist bestimmt durch wilde, zügellose Tapferkeit, die in frevlerischer Überhebung selbst die Götter herausfordert. Diese an sich negativen Charakterzüge zeichnen ihn aber doch auch vor den anderen aus: wie sein frommer Gegenpart Amphiaraios stirbt er unbesiegt von den Menschen, nur durch göttliche Kraft überwunden (vgl. auch Ov. met. 9, 404–405). Seine Leiche und sein Grab sind durch Zeus' Blitz heilig (cf. oben, Eur. Suppl. 934–938).

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Benndorf, O./Niemann, G., Das Heroon von Gjolbaschi-Trysa (1889) 193–194; Caprino, G., EAA II (1959) 318–319 s. v. «Capaneos»; Childs, W. A. P., The City-Reliefs of Lycia (1978) 72–76; v. Freytag gen. Lörringhoff, B., Das Giebelrelief von Telamon und seine Stellung innerhalb der Ikonogra- phie der «Sieben gegen Theben», RM Erg.-H. 27 (1986) 162–176; Krauskopf, ThebSag 41–42, 57–59, 98–102; Latte, K., RE X 2 (1919) 1886–1887 s. v. «Kapaneus»; Robert, C., Oidipous I (1915) 227–233; Ronzitti Orsolini, G., Il mito dei Sette a Tebe nelle urne Volterranne (1971) 4–6, 44–51, 116; Small, J. P., Studies Related to the Theban Cycle on Late Etruscan Urns (1981, Diss. Princeton 1972) 72–76, 146–147, 152–156; Tiverios, M. A., «Kapaneus auf einer messapischen Vase», AA 1980, 511–523; Weizsäcker, P., ML II 1 (1890–1894) 950–951 s. v. «Kapaneus».

KATALOG

Bei der Beschreibung von Gemmen und Pasten wird rechts und links von der Darstellung aus definiert: der linke Arm ist derjenige, an dem der Schild, der rechte der, mit dem Schwert oder Lanze getragen werden. Diese «richtige» Ansicht kann sich im Original oder im Abdruck finden.

Gemmen, die K. in Haltung und Attributen nahezu identisch, aber stilistisch differierend wiedergeben, sind unter einer Nummer aufgeführt.

I. Kapaneus ohne Handlungszusammenhang oder in unbekanntem Kontext

A. Nur literarisch überliefert

1. Statuengruppen der Sieben gegen Theben in Delphi und Argos, → Amphiaraios 4, 5, → Adrastos 3, 4; → Septem.

2. Ein Epigramm auf eine Statue des K. (Anth. Pal. 16, 106) beschreibt nicht die Statue selbst, sondern den Eindruck, den sie auf den Betrachter macht: Dieser K. würde die Mauern Thebens erstürmen; sogar der Blitz des Zeus hätte sich gescheut, einen solchen Kämpfer zu töten.

3. (= Eteokles I mit Lit.) Gemälde des Tauriskos, Plin. nat. 35, 144. Tauriskos malte «Clytaemestram, Pannison, Polynicen regnum repetentem et Capaneam».

B. Fragmentiert erhalten

4. Homerischer Becher, fr. Volos, Mus. 169. Aus einem Fundkomplex am Pagasäischen Golf. – Sinn, Becher 116 MB 61 Taf. 32, 6. – 2. Hälfte 3. Jh. v. Chr. – Erhalten fast nur die linksläufige Inschrift ΚΑΠΑΝΕΥΣ. Sinn vermutet, daß der Becher ein Gegenstück zu → Eteokles 8 = Adrastos 17 mit weiteren Kämpferpaaren gewesen sein könnte.

C. Gruppierung mit anderen Heroen

5. (= Aias II 90, = Dioskouroi/Tinas Cliniar 90*) Bronzegriffspiegel, ehem. Florenz, Coll. Pacini. – Gerhard, EtrSp V Taf. 87, 2; de Simone, Entlehnungen I 85 (5). – 3.–frühes 2. Jh. v. Chr. – K. (Capne) als nackter, junger Mann im Gespräch mit Kassandra (Castra). R. Evas und Castur.

II. Kapaneus als Teilnehmer an den Leichenspielen für Pelias

6. (= Amphiaros 2* mit Lit., = Atalante 62 mit Lit., = Iphitos 18*) Dinos(?)-Fr., att. sf. Athen, NM 15466 (Akr. 590). Von der Akropolis. – Graef/Langlotz I Nr. 590 Taf. 27; Schefold, Sagenbilder 73–74 Taf. 65; Bakir, T., Der Kolonettenkrater in Korinth und Attika (1974) 48 Taf. 4, 2. – Um 570 v. Chr. – K. (KAIJA...) mit einem Speer hinter dem Flötenspieler Philonb[.]n stehend; hinter ihm Peripha[s].

III. Der Zug gegen Theben

A. Beim Tod des Archemoros

7.* (= Archemoros 10 mit Lit., = Euneos et Thoas 1 mit Lit.) Volutenkrater, apul. rf. Neapel, Mus. Naz. 81394 (H 3255). Aus Ruvo. – RVAp II 496, 42: Dareiosmaler. – Um 340 v. Chr. – Seite A: R. von dem Naikos mit Hypsipyle, Eurydike und Amphiaros eine Zweiergruppe: K. (bärtig, mit Pilos, Chlamys, Schwertgehänge und Stiefeln), sich auf seine Lanze stützend, wendet sich mit einem Gesprächsgestus an Parthenopaios. Alle Figuren mit Namensbeischriften.

B. Vorbereitungen zum Angriff auf Theben

1. Kapaneus rüstet sich

8.* Achat-Skarabäus, etr. London, BM 624. Aus Pitigliano. – Furtwängler, AG Taf. 17, 39; Walters, BMGems Nr. 624 Taf. 11; Lippold, Gemmen Taf. 46, 2; Richter, EngelGems Nr. 837; Zazoff, EtrSk 83 Nr. 141 Taf. 30; de Simone, Entlehnungen I 85 (3); Krauskopf 42. 98 Kap 1 Taf. 18, 6. – 2. Hälfte 5. Jh. v. Chr. – K. (Capne) nackt, nach vorn gebeugt, mit beiden Händen einen Helm und ein Tuch (Mantel?) aufhebend. Vor ihm am Boden ein Schild.

2. Kapaneus trägt eine Leiter

9. (= Adrastos 14* mit Lit., = Argeia 4 mit Lit., = Archemoros 7 [Schmalseite]) Sarkophag, att. Korinth, Mus. Aus Korinth. – Koch/Sichtermann, RömSark 416–417. 440 Nr. 35; 459 Abb. 439. – Um 170/80 n. Chr. – K. als dritter der Sieben, stehend (Beinschienen, Panzer, Schwertgehänge), in der Rechten einen korinthischen Helm haltend, trägt die Leiter auf der l. Schulter. Zwischen seinen Beinen ein Köcher.

10. AE, Bizya (Thrakien), Septimius Severus (193–211). – Svoronos, J., ArchEph 7, 1889, 101–103 Taf. 2, 15; Benndorf/Niemann 187 Abb. 154a–b; 194 Anm. 4 (von S. 193); v. Freytag 168 Anm. 669. – Rs.: K. (Helm, Lanze, Schild) mit großem Schritt nach r. schreitend und zurückblickend. Die Leiter erscheint zwischen dem l. Arm und dem l. Bein. Zu seinen Füßen ein länglicher Gegenstand (nach Svoronos Thymaterion).

C. Der Angriff auf Theben

1. Kapaneus schleppt einen Torflügel

11. Skarabäus, etr. Verschollen. – Furtwängler, AG Taf. 17, 16; Zazoff, EtrSk 174 Nr. 846; Krauskopf 98 Kap 2. – 4. Jh. v. Chr. – K. (nackt), sich tief bückend, faßt mit beiden Armen einen Torflügel.

2. Kapaneus steigt die Leiter hinauf

Vgl. auch 26.

12.* Kanne, campan. rf. Toronto, ROM C. 392. – LCS 257, 207: Group of Toronto 387 (Kreis des Parish-Malers); Robinson, D. M., A Cat. of Greek Vases. Toronto (1930) 191 Nr. 387 Taf. 68; v. Freytag 168. – Mitte 4. Jh. v. Chr. – Vier Krieger in unterschiedlichen Haltungen, ganz l. K. (Helm mit Federn, Chlamys), mit großem Schritt vom Boden auf die zweite Sprosse einer Leiter steigend, beide Arme (mit Schild und Schwert) nach oben streckend.

12a) Halsamphora, campan. rf. Ehem. Kunsthandel Europa. – Unpubliziert. – 3. Viertel 4. Jh. v. Chr., Caivano-Maler (A. D. Trendall brieflich). – K. (bärtig, nackt bis auf Beinschienen, eine am Hals geknüpfte, über den Rücken herabfallende Chlamys und einen mit Federn geschmückten Helm) steht, fast von vorn gesehen, auf der an die Stadtmauer angelehnten Sturmlleiter. Er deckt sich nach oben gegen die zwischen den Mauerzinnen sichtbaren Verteidiger mit einem Schild und schwingt mit derselben (l.) Hand eine Axt gegen sie. In der gesenkten Rechten trägt er eine Fackel. L. oberhalb von ihm ist vor einer Zinne der herabfahrende Blitz zu erkennen. R. von K. ein Stadttor, neben dem ein vom Bildrand überschrittenes Viergespann nach l. vorne galoppiert. Über den Pferden schwebt eine Flügelfrau in langem Gewand mit einem Kranz und einer Binde in den Händen (Nike?). R. oben zwischen den Zinnen ein weißhaariger, bärtiger Mann mit einem Szepter (Kreon?). Dargestellt ist ein Augenblick, der etwa den Versen Eur. Phoen. 1172 ff. entspricht, in denen K.'s Hybris ihren Höhepunkt erreicht, unmittelbar vor seinem Tode durch den Blitz.

13.* Urne, chiusinisch. Chiusi, Mus. Naz. 1013 (chem. 37). – Brunn/Körte, Rilievi II 1, 64 Taf. 23, 6; Robert 229–230 Abb. 40; Small 76 Nr. 97; 155 Taf. 43b; Krauskopf 99 Kap 4; v. Freytag 173. 285 U 66 Taf. 67, 2. – 1. Hälfte 2. Jh. v. Chr. – K. mit Schild und Schwert auf halber Höhe der an einem Stadttor lehnenen Leiter. Auf der Mauer ein Verteidiger mit einem Schild und eine Dämonin mit einer Fackel.

14. (= Eteokles 29* mit Lit.) Travertinurne, perugin. Rom, Villa Giulia 50314. Aus Perugia, Necropoli del Palazzone. – Brunn/Körte, Rilievi II 1, 55–56 Taf. 20, 8; von Vacano, O.-W., RM 68, 1961, 56 Taf. 5; Small 17 Nr. 9 Taf. 6a; Krauskopf 107 Pol 38 Taf. 24, 3; v. Freytag 282 U 43 Taf. 60, 1. – 2. Hälfte 2. Jh. v. Chr. – Im oberen Teil des Bildfeldes in der Mitte ein Holm der Leiter, auf der K. hinaufklettert. Er ist vom Rücken gesehen und – aus Platzmangel – in etwas verkrümmter Haltung wiedergegeben. Seinen Schild hält er hoch über den Kopf. R. und l. von ihm in symmetrischer Anordnung zwei nach oben kämpf-fende Krieger, der r. vom Rücken, der l. von vorn dargestellt.

Kapaneus 13

15. Glaspaste, italisch. Verschollen. – Furtwängler, AG Taf. 21, 18; Lippold, Gemmen Taf. 46, 3; Krauskopf 99 Kap 3; v. Freytag 168 mit Anm. 666. – 2.–1. Jh. v. Chr. – K., vom Rücken gesehen, vom Boden auf die vierte Sprosse einer zu klein dargestellten, an der Mauer lehnenen Leiter steigend. Er ist bewaffnet mit (umgehängtem) Schwert, Speer, Lanze und einem Schild, mit dem er sich nach oben verteidigt.

16. Sard-Ringstein. Berlin (DDR), Staatl. Mus. FG 7601. – Furtwängler, Beschreibung Nr. 7601 Taf. 56; v. Freytag 168. – Kaiserzeitlich. – K. (Helm, Schild, Schwert) steht auf einer sehr flach an einen Turm gelehnten Leiter. Auf dem Turm ein Verteidiger.

Vgl. auch 26.

17. (= Amphiaros 46* mit Lit., = Antigone 5/II mit Lit., = Eteokles 36*/42 mit Lit., = Iokaste 11* mit Lit.) Sarkophag, röm. Rom, Villa Doria Pamphilj. – Koch/Sichtermann, RömSark 186. 264 Abb. 202; v. Freytag 167 Taf. 75, 1. – Ende 2. Jh. n. Chr. – K. (mit Helm, sonst nackt), vom Boden auf die dritte Sprosse einer Leiter steigend, in der Rechten das Schwert, den Schild in die Höhe haltend.

3. Kapaneus besteigt die Leiter mit einem Leichnam über dem Arm

ETRUSKISCHE DARSTELLUNGEN

18. (Adrastos 22 mit Lit., = Amphiaros 44* mit Lit.) Alabasterurne, chiusin. Chiusi, Mus. Naz. 215 (ex Paolozzi). Aus dem Marcni-Grab bei Chiusi. – Small 22 Nr. 15 Taf. 9a; Krauskopf 110 Sie 18 Taf. 23, 2; Childs 74 Abb. 37; v. Freytag 94. 107–111. 171–175. 284 U 65 Taf. 67, 1. – 2. Hälfte 2. Jh. v. Chr. – In der Bildmitte oben auf der Leiter K. (Helm, Chlamys) in weiter Schrittstellung, mit dem Schwert in der Rechten (teilweise abgebrochen). Über den l. Arm, mit dem er den Schild emporhält, hängt kopfüber ein nackter Leichnam, der an seinem weit herabhängenden l. Arm noch den Schild trägt. R. neben K. eine Dämonin mit einem Stein(?) in der Hand.

L., etwas unterhalb, ein bärtiger Dämon mit Fackel, die Linke in einem Schreckensgestus erhoben. Zu den anderen Gruppen s. auch → Septem.

19.* Urne, chiusin. Ehem. Chiusi, Slg. V. Giuletti. – Brunn/Körte, Rilievi II 1, 65–66 Taf. 23, 7; Small 24 Nr. 18; 155 Taf. 10b; Krauskopf 110 Sie 17; v. Freytag 172. 285 U 69. – 2. Hälfte 2. Jh. v. Chr. – Die Gruppe des K. mit den beiden Dämonen ähnlich 18, fast das ganze Bildfeld der Urne einnehmend. Der Schild des Gefallenen hängt weniger weit herab. Am Boden r. von K. wie auf 18 ein auf die Knie Stürzender.

Sehr ähnlich, Relief stark abgerieben: chiusin. Urne Siena, Mus. Naz. 737 (ex Sarteano, Bargagli) Small 24 Nr. 17 Taf. 10a; v. Freytag 285 U 68 Taf. 69, 1.

Kapaneus 19

20. Alabasterurne, chiusin. Palermo, Mus. Reg. 11257 (ex Casuccini 33). – Brunn/Körte, Rilievi II 1, 66–67 Taf. 24, 9; Small 23 Nr. 16; 155 Taf. 9b; Krauskopf 109 Sie 16; v. Freytag 172. 285 U 67 Taf. 68, 1. – 2. Hälfte 2. Jh. v. Chr. – Die Hauptfiguren ähnlich 19; K. steht nicht auf der Leiter; sie erscheint zwischen seinen Beinen (wohl eine Ungeschicklichkeit des Bildhauers).

21. (= Adrastos 16 mit Lit., = Amphiaros 45 mit Lit., = Eteokles 26 mit Lit.) Terrakottagiebel, Platte N. Florenz, Mus. Arch. 9798. Aus Talamone. – v. Freytag 163–164. 175–176 Taf. 1, 6, 1; 22. – 2. Viertel 2. Jh. v. Chr. – K. auf der Leiter, ähnlich wie auf 18–19, ganz oben in der Giebelmitte. Kopf, l. Arm und l. Bein nicht erhalten, vom r. Arm nur der oberste Teil. Ein Fragment der Leiter mit einem Gewandstück und ein Schild könnten zu dem Leichnam gehören, den K. auf 18–20 trägt. R. und l. von K. aufwärts kämpfende Krieger wie auf 14.

4. Ein Krieger (Kapaneus?) steigt eine Leiter empor, auf deren anderen Seite ein Krieger kopfüber hinabstürzt

Peruginer Aschenurnen

22.* (Ehem.?) Perugia, Villa Monticelli. – Brunn/Körte, Rilievi II 1 Taf. 20, 9; Robert 230–231 Abb. 4;

Kapaneus 22

Small 75 Nr. 96; 162-164 Taf. 43a; Krauskopf 109 Sie 14; v. Freytag 173-174; 285 U 70. - 2. Jh. v. Chr. - Stadtmauer mit Verteidigern, r. in einen Turm übergehend, an dem eine seitlich gesehene Leiter lehnt, auf deren unterste Sprosse ein Krieger in ähnlicher Haltung wie auf 13 tritt. L. von ihm zwei weitere nach oben kämpfende Krieger sowie ein Gefallener. R. von der Leiter ein kopfüber herabstürzender Mann, wie die Krieger im Chiton, aber ohne Waffen. Seine Füße befinden sich in Höhe der Mauerkrone; er stürzt anscheinend von der Mauer, nicht von der Leiter.

23. Travertin. Perugia, Mus. Naz. 321 (ehem. 235). Aus Perugia. - Brunn/Körte, Rilievi III 240 Abb. 58; Small 74 Nr. 95; 162-164 Taf. 42b; Krauskopf 109 Sie 13; v. Freytag 173-174; 285 U 71 Taf. 68, 2. - Spätes 2.-Anfang 1. Jh. v. Chr. - Schematische Variante von 22: vier Krieger (Panzer, Chiton, Helm) in der Haltung des Leitersteigers von 22; der vorderste berührt die Leiter so, daß er als Leitersteiger gelten kann. Der Stürzende trägt Panzer und Schild, seine Beine sind vom Schild eines aufwärts Kämpfenden verdeckt. L. am Boden zwei weitere Krieger.

5. Deutung auf Kapaneus zu unsicher

24. Karneolskarabäus, etr. Ehem. Coll. Durand. - Furtwängler, AG Taf. 16, 50; Zazoff, EtrSk 174 Nr. 845. - «Freier Stil». - Krieger, einen Stein schleudernd.

D. Der Tod des Kapaneus

1. Nur literarisch überliefert

25. Gemälde im Dioskurentempel von Ardea, Serv. Aen. 1, 44: Capaneos pictus est fulmen per utraque tempora traiectus. - v. Freytag 165.

2. Kapaneus auf der Leiter vom Blitz getroffen

Vgl. auch 12a.

26. Sard-Ringstein, Berlin (DDR), Staatl. Mus. 7602. - Furtwängler, Beschreibung Nr. 7602 Taf. 56; v. Freytag 167. - Kaiserzeitlich. - Ähnlich 16, die Leiter steiler. K. blickt sich um nach einem herabfahrenden Blitz, der ihn am r. Oberarm berührt.

3. Von Leiter stürzend

27. * (= Adrast 15 mit Lit., = Amphiaros 39 mit Lit.) Relieffries an der äußeren Südwand des Heroons von Gjölbaski-Trysa (Platte A 4). Wien, Kunsthist. Mus. - Benndorf/Niemann 190. 193 mit Anm. 4 Taf. 24; Robert 226 Abb. 38; Childs 72-73 Abb. 9 Taf. 5, 1; v. Freytag 167 Taf. 75, 3. - Um 400 v. Chr. - K. (Panzer, Chiton, Helm) stürzt mit angewinkelten Beinen von der Leiter, die gerade beginnt umzufallen. Der herabhängende l. Arm mit dem Schild berührt schon fast den Boden.

Kapaneus 27

28. * Volterrane Alabasterurne. Volterra, Mus. Guarnacci 371. Aus Volterra. - Brunn/Körte, Rilievi II 1, 63 Taf. 22, 5; Laviosa, C., Scultura tardo-etrusca di Volterra (1964) 140-145 Nr. 29 Taf. 87-91; Ronzitti Orsolini 47-51. 57. 116 Nr. 28 Abb.; Small 72-74 Nr. 94; 162-164 Taf. 41b; Krauskopf 109 Sie 15; SBH, Etrusker Taf. 268; Childs 74 Abb. 36; v. Freytag 285 U 72 Taf. 69, 2. - 1. Hälfte 1. Jh. v. Chr. - R. ein zinnenbewehrtes Tor der Stadtmauer, vor dem, kopfüber herabstürzend, K. (Helm, sonst nackt) zu sehen ist. Er hält noch den Schild am herabhängenden l. Arm und das Schwert in der erhobenen Rechten. Ein Bein ist angewinkelt, das andere ausgestreckt. Neben, z. T. auch vor seinem Körper ein Teil der zerbrochenen Leiter. L. von K. zwei nach oben kämpfende Krieger, ein weiterer, der einen zu Boden Gesunkenen niederstößt, sowie ein Reiter, ein Mann, der ein Pferd am Zügel hält und Gefallene.

29. * Glaspaste, italisch-etruskisierend. London BM 1055. - Walters, BMGems Nr. 1055; Krauskopf 101 Kap 29. - 2.-1. Jh. v. Chr. - K. (Helm, Schild, Blitz im Nacken) mit angewinkelten Beinen, sonst fast aufrecht, herabstürzend. Die Leiter hinter seinen Beinen sichtbar, sonst durch seinen Körper verdeckt.

4. Kapaneus zu ebener Erde, Zeus schleudert den Blitz

30. * (= Athanasia 4 mit Lit., = Athena/Menerva 239*) Tonrelief, etr., Antepagmentum des Tempels A von Pyrgi. Rom, Villa Giulia. - Colonna, G., NotSc 1970 Suppl. II 1, 65-66 Abb. 41 Taf. 1, 1-2; SBH Etrusker Taf. 178; v. Freytag 169. - Um 470 v. Chr. -

K., bärtig, nackt, bewaffnet mit Helm und Schild, prallt zurück vor dem heranstürmenden Zeus, der mit dem r. Arm zum Wurf ausholt (der Unterarm nicht erhalten, in der Hand sicher ein Blitz zu ergänzen). K.'s Gesicht mit dem halbgeöffneten Mund, das von wirrem Haar umrahmt ist, spiegelt sowohl die Wildheit seines Angriffs wie sein Entsetzen vor dem Gott, der ihm entgegentritt. Möglicherweise hat ein Blitz ihn schon getroffen; ein Loch in der Helmkalotte könnte die Einlassung einer Blitzspitze gewesen sein. Der r. Arm des K. nicht erhalten, möglicherweise zugehörig eine Hand mit einem Krummschwert (Machaira).

31. * (= Aineias 42 [andere Seite]) Nestoris (Trozzella), messapisch sf. Kopenhagen, Glypt. 3417. Aus Grottaglie. - Johansen, F., ArchCl 24, 1972, 256-262 Taf. 63-66; Santoro, C., ArchCl 28, 1976, 216-224, bes. 220-224; Tiverios 511-523 Abb. 1. 3. 5-7; Forti, L., in Forschungen und Funde, Festschr. B. Neutsch (1980) 117-126 Taf. 27; v. Freytag 165-167. - Mitte 5. Jh. v. Chr. - L. ein Stadttor, dahinter in einem durch vier parallele, gebogene Linien abgetrennten Bereich (Himmelsgewölbe?) Zeus, einen Blitz schleudernd. R. vom Tor K. (Panzer, Helm), vom Rücken gesehen, im Laufen zusammenbrechend, in einer Haltung, die - bis auf den r. Arm, in dem er eine Lanze hält - der des «Kapaneus» Albani (65) nicht unähnlich ist. Aus seinem von der Seite gesehenen Schild ragt die Spitze eines Blitzes; zwischen seinen Beinen die Inschrift KAPANEUS. Hinter ihm zwei Krieger, die beide einen Arm gegen Zeus ausstrecken (Schreckensgestus?).

5. Kapaneus allein, zusammenbrechend, mit Namensbeischrift

Etruskische Skarabäen

32. * Karneol. New York, MMA 48.11.1. Aus Populonia? - Richter, MetrMusGems Nr. 163 Taf. 27; Richter, EngrGems Nr. 836; Zazoff, EtrSk Nr. 833; de Simone, Entlehnungen I 85 (1) (irrtümlich kapne); Krauskopf 41. 99 Kap 5 Taf. 18, 1; v. Vacano, O. W./v. Freytag gen. Lörringhoff, B., Il frontone di Talamone e il mito dei «Sette a Tebe». Cat. mostra Firenze (1982) = Studi e materiali 5 (1982) 208 Abb. 29. - 1. Drittel 5. Jh. v. Chr. - K. (Capne) mit beiden Beinen auf dem Boden kniend, den Kopf über die l. Schulter nach oben gewandt, den Schild noch am gesenkten l. Arm, berührt mit der r. Hand seine Hüfte. Hinter ihm eine geknickte Lanze, die wohl gerade seiner Hand entfallen ist.

33. Karneol. Ehem. Slg. Campanari. Aus Vulci. - Furtwängler, AG Taf. 16, 33; Lippold, Gemmen Taf. 46, 4; Zazoff, EtrSk Nr. 834; de Simone, Entlehnungen I 85 (2); Krauskopf 41. 99 Kap 6. - 1. Hälfte 5. Jh. v. Chr. - K. (Capne) auf dem r. Knie kniend (Beine in Seit-, Oberkörper in Vorderansicht) hat den Kopf über die l. Schulter nach oben gewandt, den Schild leicht erhoben; der r. Arm hängt herab.

34. * Karneol. Hamburg, Mus. KG 1964.300. - Zazoff, EtrSk 55 Nr. 65 Taf. 18; de Simone, Entlehnungen I 85 (4); Krauskopf 100 Kap. 16; AGD IV Nr. 22 Taf. 252; Zazoff, AG 222. 231 Taf. 56, 6; v. Freytag 170 Anm. 686. - Spätes 5. Jh. v. Chr. - K. (Capne) frontal, in einer dem «Kapaneus» Albani (65) ähnlichen Haltung; jedoch ist der Schildarm weniger weit ausgestreckt und der l. Unterschenkel nicht sichtbar; der r. Arm ist nicht so hoch erhoben wie dort, der Kopf über die l. Schulter gewandt. Reste einer geknickten Lanze sind vor dem l. Bein sichtbar.

6. Kapaneus allein, zusammenbrechend, Deutung durch Blitz gesichert

a) Auf beiden Beinen kniend

ETRUSKISCHE DARSTELLUNGEN

35. * a) Achat-Skarabäus. Oxford, Ashm. Mus. 1941.307. - Boardman/Vollenweider, CatGemsOxford I Nr. 213 Taf. 36. - 2. Viertel 5. Jh. v. Chr. - Wie 32, ohne die Lanze. Blitz vorn am Hals. - b) * Karneol-Skarabäus. London, BM 627. - Furtwängler, AG Taf. 16, 36; Walters, BMGems Nr. 627 Taf. 11; Lippold, Gemmen Taf. 46, 13; Zazoff, EtrSk Nr. 838; Krauskopf 99 Kap 14 Taf. 18, 2; v. Vacano/v. Freytag, a. O. 32, 208 Abb. 30; v. Freytag 169-170. - 3. Viertel 5. Jh. v. Chr. - Wie a.

36. * Henkelatlasche einer Bronzekanne «mit Bauchknick». Würzburg, Wagner-Mus. H 5190. - Krauskopf 100 Kap 19; Simon, FührerWüzb 277; v. Freytag 170 Taf. 76, 3. - Spätes 5. Jh. v. Chr. - Haltung ähnlich 31. 35, jedoch fehlt der Schild, und beide Unterschenkel sind zu sehen. K. hält in der Linken ein Schwert. Der Blitz hinter ihm als Zickzacklinie, die in einem Pfeil endet.

b) Auf einem Bein kniend

ETRUSKISCHE UND ITALISCH-ETRUSKISIERENDE (37c) DARSTELLUNGEN

37. a) * Sardonyx-Skarabäoid. London, BM 652. - Furtwängler, AG Taf. 16, 5. 6 = 38; Walters, BMGems Nr. 652 Taf. 11; Richter, EngrGems Nr. 835; Zazoff, EtrSk 54 Nr. 63 Taf. 18; Krauskopf 99 Kap 9 Taf. 18, 3. - 2. Viertel 5. Jh. v. Chr. - Haltung wie 33, jedoch der Kopf (mit Helm) gesenkt; Blitz im Nacken. Am Bildrand das Schwert, das gerade der Hand des K. entfallen ist. - b) Karneol-Skarabäus. Verschollen, ehem. München, Slg. Arndt. - Zazoff, EtrSk Nr. 832; Krauskopf 99 Kap 10. - 2. Viertel bis Mitte 5. Jh. v. Chr. - Wie a. - c) Onyx-Ringstein, italisch-etruskisierend. München, Münzslg. A 1652. - AGD I 2 Nr. 679 Taf. 78; Krauskopf 100 Kap 24. - 3. Jh. v. Chr. - Wie a. b. - d) Karneol-Skarabäus. Vatikan, Mus. Greg. Etr. 13233. - Zazoff, EtrSk Nr. 839; Krauskopf 100 Kap 20. - 4. Jh. v. Chr. - Variante von 37: K. (ohne Helm?) kniet auf dem hinteren Knie.

38. * Achat-Skarabäus. London, BM 625. - Furtwängler, AG Taf. 16, 37; Walters, BMGems Nr. 625 Taf. 11; Richter, EngrGems Nr. 834; Zazoff, EtrSk Nr. 836; Krauskopf 99 Kap 7. - 1. Hälfte 5. Jh. v. Chr. - Haltung wie 37, K. ohne Helm und Schwert, Hand zum Kopf erhoben, Blitz am Hinterkopf. Im Rücken Teil einer Chlamys sichtbar.

39. * Goldplättchen. Vatikan, Mus. Greg. Etr. 13448-13450. Aus Vulci. - Becatti, G., Oreficerie antiche (1955) Nr. 312 Abb.; Helbig, Führer I Nr. 772; Krauskopf 100 Kap 18; Cristofani, M./Martelli, M.,

L'oro degli Etruschi (1983) 245. 319 Abb. 285. – Um 400 v. Chr. – K. kniend ähnlich 33 (der r. Unterschenkel ganz auf dem Boden aufliegend), Kopf zurückgeworfen wie bei 35; Blitz am Hals. In der Rechten hält K. einen Dolch.

40. Karneol-Skarabäus. Wien, Kunsth. Mus. IX B 187. – Zazoff, EtrSk Nr. 1065; AGOe I Nr. 65 Taf. 13; Krauskopf 100 Kap 22. – A-globolo-Stil, 3. Jh. v. Chr. – Haltung ähnlich 33; der Schild fehlt, l. Unterarm erhoben. Hinter dem Kopf eine Kugel mit nach oben laufenden Strahlen = Blitz.

c) Kapaneus liegend

41. * Karneolskarabäus, etr. London, BM 626. – Furtwängler, AG Taf. 16, 46; Walters, BMGems Nr. 626 Taf. 11; Lippold, Gemmen Taf. 45, 14; Zazoff, EtrSk Nr. 837; Richter, EngrGemsGE Nr. 833; Krauskopf 99 Kap 8. – 1. Hälfte 5. Jh. v. Chr. – Dem Querformat angepaßte Kombination der Typen 32 und 33; der l. Arm wird in ganzer Länge waagrecht gehalten, der Oberkörper sinkt zurück, der Kopf ist auf die r. Schulter geneigt. Blitz am Hinterkopf; neben dem r. Arm das Schwert.

d) Kapaneus im Laufen zusammensinkend

Etruskische Skarabäen

42. a) * Achat. New York, MMA 81.6.4. – Furtwängler, AG Taf. 16, 35; Lippold, Gemmen Taf. 46, 8; Richter, MetrMusGems Nr. 166 Taf. 28; Zazoff, EtrSk Nr. 843; Krauskopf 99 Kap 12. – Nach der Mitte des 5. Jh. v. Chr. – K. im Schritt in den Knien einknickend, Oberkörper und Kopf zurückfallend, der r. Arm in verkraumpfter Haltung angewinkelt. Der Helm – zwischen r. Arm und Bein – fällt herunter; das ebenfalls fallende Schwert – zwischen den Beinen – erreicht gerade mit der Spitze den Boden; den Schild hat K. noch am Arm. Der Blitz trifft ihn am Hals. – b) Karneol. London, BM 855. – Walters, BMGems Nr. 855; Zazoff, EtrSk 127 Nr. 247 Taf. 47; Krauskopf 102 Kap 40. – A-globolo-Stil, spätes 4.–3. Jh. v. Chr. – Haltung wie a, der Blitz als Strahlenkugel am Boden. K. hält in der Rechten fast waagrecht einen Stab (Sword?, Teil einer Lanze?).

43. Karneol. Hannover, Kestner-Mus. K 1844. – Furtwängler, AG Taf. 16, 44; Lippold, Gemmen Taf. 46, 1; Zazoff, EtrSk 62 Nr. 83 Taf. 21; Krauskopf 99 Kap 13; Zazoff, AG 222. 231 Taf. 56, 5. – 2. Hälfte 5. Jh. v. Chr. – Körperhaltung ähnlich 42, jedoch ist der Schildarm gesenkt und der Kopf über die l. Schulter geneigt. Blitz im Nacken.

44. Karneol, Ehem. Slg. Vescovoli. – Zazoff, EtrSk Nr. 848; Krauskopf 99 Kap 11. – Mitte 5. Jh. v. Chr. – Beine weiter eingeknickt als bei 42. 43. Oberkörper aufrecht, beide Arme gesenkt (der l. mit Schild), über r. Schulter zurückblickend. Blitz am Hinterkopf.

45. Karneol. Verschollen. Aus Tarquinia. – Furtwängler, AG Taf. 16, 55; Zazoff, EtrSk Nr. 850; Krauskopf 100 Kap 15. – Späteres 5./4. Jh. v. Chr. – K. frontal mit überkreuzten Beinen stehend, das Schwert ist gerade seiner Hand entfallen; der Arm mit dem Schild hängt lose herab. Kopf nach oben gewandt, Blitz am Hals.

46. * Karneol. Wien, Kunsth. Mus. IX B 177. – Zazoff, EtrSk 247 Nr. 250 Taf. 47; AGOe I Nr. 64 Taf. 13; Krauskopf 100 Kap 21 Taf. 18, 7. – A-globolo-Stil, spätes 4. Jh. v. Chr. – Haltung ähnlich 44, jedoch die Seiten vertauscht: K. blickt über die l. Schulter zurück. In der Rechten hält er eine Kugel (Stein?). Blitz im Nacken.

47. Karneol. Malibu, Getty Mus. – Boardman, J., Intaglios and Rings ... from a Private Collection (1975) Nr. 141. – 4. Jh. v. Chr. – Haltung ähnlich 42, Beine weniger eingeknickt und z. T. in Vorderansicht. In der Rechten hält K. ein Schwert; der Blitz zwischen seinen Beinen. Oben Inschrift AVO.

7. Kapaneus allein, zusammenbrechend, mit Blitz und Torflügel

48. * Karneol-Skarabäus, etr. Ehem. Slg. Quast. – Furtwängler, AG Taf. 16, 51; Lippold, Gemmen Taf. 46, 5; Zazoff, EtrSk 174 Nr. 844; Krauskopf 100 Kap 17; v. Freytag 170 Anm. 688. – 4. Viertel 5. Jh. v. Chr. – K. frontal stehend, ein Bein leicht angewinkelt, mit der Linken den Schild, mit der Rechten einen Torflügel fassend. Kopf über die r. Schulter geneigt; Blitz am Hinterkopf.

8. Kapaneus allein, zusammenbrechend, mit Leiter und Blitz

49. * Chalcedon-Ringstein, ital. Cambridge, Corpus Christi Coll. (ex Lewis Coll.) – Furtwängler, AG Taf. 21, 10; Richter, EngrGemsRom Nr. 2; Krauskopf 100 Kap 27; Henig, LewisColl Nr. 178 Taf. 11. – 2.–1. Jh. v. Chr. – K. (Helm, Schild) kniend vor einer Mauer mit einem Turm(?). Den Oberkörper mit dem Schildarm weit zurückgebeugt, blickt er nach oben und hat den r. Arm erhoben. Vor seiner Brust der Blitz, am Turm und am Boden Teile der zusammenstürzenden Leiter.

50. Gelbe Glaspaste, ital. Genf, Mus. MF 2678. – 1. Jh. v. Chr. (?) – K. (Panzer, Helm, Mantel) kniend wie auf 52, in der Rechten das Schwert, in der Linken einen kleinen Schild. Zu seiner Linken ein Stück der Leiter; im Nacken der Blitz.

9. Kapaneus allein, zusammenbrechend, mit Resten der Leiter

Etruskische und italische Gemmen und Pasten

51. * Smaragdplasma-Skarabäus, etr. Berlin (West), Staatl. Mus. FG 375. – Zazoff, EtrSk Nr. 840; AGD II Nr. 296 Taf. 58; Krauskopf 100 Kap 23 Taf. 18, 9; v. Freytag 170–171 Anm. 689. – 3. Jh. v. Chr. – K. frontal, auf dem r. Bein kniend, die Rechte mit einem kurzen Schwert gesenkt, den Schild über den Kopf hebbend, nach oben blickend. Im Hintergrund zwei Teile der noch aufrecht stehenden Leiter.

52. Sard-Ringstein. London, BM 961. – Furtwängler, AG Taf. 21, 11; Walters, BMGems Nr. 961 Taf. 14; Krauskopf 100 Kap 25. – 3.–2. Jh. v. Chr. – K. (Helm, Schild) auf beiden Beinen kniend, den Kopf über die r. Schulter gesenkt, auf ein vor ihm stehendes(?) Schwert (in der Scheide) blickend. Am Boden und zu seiner Rechten zwei Stücke der Leiter.

53. Sardonyx-Ringstein, italisch. Ehem. Rom, Slg. Martinelli. – Furtwängler, AG Taf. 21, 17; Krauskopf 100 Kap 26. – 1. Jh. v. Chr. – K. (Helm, Schild) fallend, fast schon liegend, l. Bein angewinkelt am Boden, r. Bein und r. Arm emporgestreckt. Um K. herum mehrere Leiterfragmente.

54. Sard-Ringstein, italisch. Athen, NM 104 (Geschenk Tsivanopoulos). – Richter, EngrGemsRom Nr. 3; Krauskopf 101 Kap 28. – 1. Jh. v. Chr. – K. in ähnlicher Haltung wie auf 53; ein Leiterstück über seinem rechten Bein.

10. Zusammenbrechende Krieger in auch für Kapaneus bezugten Schemata. Deutung auf Kapaneus möglich.

Kleine Auswahl. Wenn nicht anders angegeben, etruskische Skarabäen.

55. Karneol. München, Münzslg. 95760. – AGDI 2 Nr. 636 Taf. 69; Zazoff, EtrSk 61 Nr. 80 Taf. 20 (Tydeus); Krauskopf 103 Tyd 11; Zazoff, AG 232 Taf. 58, 3. – 2. Hälfte 5. Jh. v. Chr. – Schema von 32. 35; vgl. aber auch Zazoff, EtrSk Nr. 79 = Krauskopf Tyd 10 = Zazoff, AG Taf. 58, 4 mit Beischrift Tute (Tydeus).

Ähnlich (Kopf gesenkt, Rechte zur Schulter erhoben); Ringstein Kassel (AGD III Nr. 25; Martini, Ringsteinglyptik Nr. 143).

56. Attaschen von etrusk. Bronzeschnabelkannen «mit Bauchknick». – Krauskopf 101 Kap 36 mit Lit.; v. Freytag 170 Taf. 76, 4; eine vollständige Liste wird erscheinen in Krauskopf, I., Etruskische Bronzeschnabelkannen mit «Bauchknick» (in Vorbereitung). – Spätes 5. Jh. v. Chr. – Haltung ähnlich 36, jedoch seitenverkehrt, am l. Arm der Schild. Der Krieger trägt einen Panzer und ist barhäuptig. Bei den meisten Exemplaren ist zwischen Kopf und r. Fuß der herabfallende Helm zu erkennen; häufig hält der Krieger eine geknickte Lanze in der Hand. Am Boden eine Streitaxt.

Weitere kniende Krieger: z. B. Zazoff, EtrSk Nr. 1573; AGDI 2 Nr. 678.

57. Achat. Peronne, Mus. (Slg. Danicourt). – Boardman, J., RA 1971, 204–205 Abb. 15. – 2. Viertel 5. Jh. v. Chr. – Krieger kniend ähnlich 32. 35, die r. Hand zur Schulter erhoben. Vor dem Schild eine geknickte Lanze, die sich hinter dem Rücken des Kriegers fortsetzt und unter dem r. Arm wieder sichtbar wird. Es ist fraglich, ob hier der Krieger von der Lanze durchbohrt zu denken ist – warum ist sie dann geknickt, und wieso endet sie vor dem Schild – oder ob es sich um die zerbrochene Lanze des Kriegers handelt. In beiden Fällen wäre die Darstellung etwas ungeschickt.

58. Boston, MFA 98.732. – Furtwängler, AG Taf. 16, 32; Zazoff, EtrSk Nr. 835; Boardman, a. O. 57, 204 Anm. 2. – 1. Hälfte 5. Jh. v. Chr. – Wie 33, zwischen der r. Hand und dem Rücken Teil einer Lanze, die im Rücken zu stecken scheint; sie müßte aufgrund ihrer Richtung Schild und Körper von schräg oben durchdrungen haben (so Boardman). Am Boden das Schwert des Kriegers.

59. Bronzering, etr. London, BM 1228. – Walters, BMBronzes Nr. 2266 Abb. 52; Marshall, BMFinger-

Rings Nr. 1228 Taf. 30; Boardman, J., AntK 10, 1967, 17 D 14; Krauskopf 101 Kap 30. – 1. Hälfte 5. Jh. v. Chr. – Ähnlich 33, Krieger mit Helm, Schild weiter nach oben gehalten. Vor dem Körper eine waagrechte Linie: Schwert, das der Krieger hält? oder Lanze, die ihn durchbohrt?

60. Achat. Paris, Cab. Méd. Luynes 270. – Zazoff, EtrSk 61 Nr. 78 Taf. 20; Richter, EngrGemsGE Nr. 843; Krauskopf 101 Kap 34. – 2. Hälfte 5. Jh. v. Chr. – Haltung wie 34, jedoch faßt der Krieger an die zerbrochene Lanze, die hier in seinem Körper zu stecken scheint.

Vgl. auch Karneol Oxford, Zazoff, EtrSk Nr. 854; Boardman/Vollenweider, CatGemsOxford I Nr. 214 Taf. 36.

61. Karneol. Paris, Cab. Méd. Luynes 271. – Furtwängler, AG Taf. 16, 34; Zazoff, EtrSk 54 Nr. 62 Taf. 18; Richter, EngrGemsGE Nr. 840 (Tydeus); Krauskopf 101 Kap 31 Taf. 18, 5. – 2. Viertel 5. Jh. v. Chr. – Wie 42a, anstelle des Helms das zu Boden fallende Krummschwert.

Ähnlich, mit fallendem Helm; Achat Malibu, Furtwängler, AG Taf. 20, 1; Zazoff, EtrSk Nr. 847; Krauskopf 101 Kap 35; Boardman, a. O. 47, Nr. 124.

62. Verbrannter Karneol. Genf, Mus. 1962.19747. – Vollenweider, CatGenève I Nr. 227 Taf. 86, 6. 9, 10; Zazoff, EtrSk Nr. 852; Krauskopf 102 Kap 38. – Ende 5. Jh. v. Chr. – Ähnlich 42a. 61, größerer Schritt, der Krieger faßt an eine Lanze, die im Rücken «steckt» und deren Ende am Hals zu sehen ist. Durchbohrt die Lanze den Körper oder geht sie vor ihm vorbei (so Vollenweider)?

Sehr ähnlich, ohne das obere Ende der Lanze: Karneol Vatikan, Coll. Borgia; Zazoff, EtrSk Nr. 853; Krauskopf 102 Kap 39.

Weitere im Laufen zusammenbrechende Krieger z. B. Krauskopf 101–102 Kap 32. 33. 37. 41. 42. 43 = Zazoff, EtrSk Nr. 842. 849. 851. 855. 856.

E. Der Leichnam des Kapaneus

63. Gemälde, beschrieben von Philostr. im. 2, 29: auf dem Schlachtfeld vor Theben die Leichen der Sieben, K. einem Giganten gleich, noch dampfend vom Blitz des Zeus.

64. Gemälde, beschrieben von Philostr. im. 2, 65: Bestattung der Leichen in Argos, Selbstmord der Eudadne, der Gemahlin des K., am Scheiterhaufen.

F. Auszuscheiden

65. (= Chalkodon I mit Lit., = Erechtheus 77 mit Lit.) «Piräus-Reliefs», Marmor (sog. Kapaneus Albani). Rom, Villa Albani; Chicago, Art Institute; Piräus, Mus. – Krieger in Vorderansicht, auf dem r. Bein kniend, das l. weit ausgestreckt, ebenso der l. Arm mit dem von innen gesehenen Rundschild. Mit der Rechten greift er an seinen Nacken, wo deshalb eine Verwundung anzunehmen ist. Die früher vielfach vertretene Deutung des Reliefs Albani auf K. ist durch die Entdeckung des Reliefs im Piräus hinfällig geworden; es gehört zur Serie der Kopien nach dem Parthenos-Schild.

66. Das Gemälde des Polygnot in der Porticus des Pompeius in Rom, bei dem man nicht wußte, ob er einen Hinaufsteigenden oder einen Herabsteigenden mit Schild gemalt hatte (Plin. nat. 35, 59: ... in qua dubitatur ascendentem cum dupeo pinxerit an descendentem) wurde zwar mehrfach auf K. bezogen (Lit. bei v. Freytag 165 Anm. 651; vgl. auch Childs 73 Anm. 86), stellte aber sicher keinen Leitersteiger dar. Den Gedanken, daß Polygnot einen auf einer Sturmleiter herabkletternden Krieger gemalt haben könnte, hätte wohl niemand ernsthaft in Betracht gezogen. Die Interpretation als Bild eines Apobaten hat mehr für sich (Lit. bei v. Freytag 165 Anm. 652).

KOMMENTAR

Wie die meisten der Sieben gegen Theben (→ Septem), wurde K. in archaischer Zeit kaum dargestellt; erhalten ist nur ein einziges att. sf. Vasenfragment (6), das ihn zusammen mit → Amphiaros als Teilnehmer bei den Leichenspielen für Pelias zeigt. Das zweite außerhalb Italiens entstandene Monument, das K. darstellt, ist ca. 180 Jahre jünger: der Fries von Gjölbaschi (27) mit dem Sturm der Sieben gegen die Mauern von Theben. Das nächste uns erhaltene Denkmal, auf dem K. gesichert ist (4; zu Darstellungen der Sieben, bei denen die einzelnen Heroen nicht identifizierbar sind → Septem), folgt in ähnlichem zeitlichem Abstand. Einige K.-Darstellungen muß es allerdings auch in der Zwischenzeit gegeben haben; literarisch überliefert sind die Statuengruppen der Sieben in Delphi und Argos (1) und das Fresko des Onasias in Plataiai (→ Eteokles 6), in dem wohl auch K. in irgendeiner Weise dargestellt gewesen sein wird.

Im Westen, vor allem in Etrurien setzt dagegen schon der ersten Hälfte des 5. Jh. eine Fülle von K.-Bildern ein. Sie stellen zwar alle den Tod des K. oder unmittelbar vorhergehende Szenen dar, variieren aber innerhalb dieses Themenbereiches zu stark, als daß man für alle direkte Vorlagen aus Griechenland – die ja nicht sehr zahlreich gewesen sein könnten (s. oben) – postulieren könnte. In Etrurien beginnt im frühen 5. Jh. eine Serie von Skarabäen, die meist den sterbenden K. darstellen. Einer der ältesten Steine (32), der im Stil noch stark griechisch geprägt ist, zeigt einen auf die Knie gestürzten Krieger. Die Art der Verwundung ist nicht zu erkennen; auf K. weist nur die Namensbeischrift. Ob das Vorbild dieses Steins bereits K. meinte oder irgendeinen anderen Krieger, ist nicht zu entscheiden. Dasselbe (35) oder ähnliche Schemata wurden in den folgenden Jahrzehnten für viele K.-Skarabäen verwendet, wobei jeweils nur die Namensbeischrift (33–34) oder – bei den jüngeren Steinen häufiger – ein Blitz (35a. b. 37a. b. 38. 41. 42a. 43–45) die Deutung auf K. ermöglichen. Alle diese Schemata sind für K. passend; meist ist ersichtlich, daß der Krieger unerwartet von einer aus der Ferne geschleuderten Waffe getroffen wird; manchmal entgleitet ein Schwert seiner Hand (37. 41. 42a. 45) oder eine zerbrochene Lanze ist neben ihm sichtbar (32. 34). Häufig blickt er nach oben (32. 33. 35. 36. 39. 42. 45); manchmal scheint er im Laufen zusammenzubrechen (42. 43–45. 37?). Wenn der Blitz dargestellt ist, trifft er ihn am Hals (35. 39. 42a. 45), im Nacken (37. 43) oder am Hinterkopf (38. 41. 44. 48). Kleinformatige Metallreliefs übernehmen am Ende des 5. und im 4. Jh. das Motiv (36. 39).

Die Beliebtheit des K. auf etruskischen Skarabäen geht über die Darstellung seines Todes hinaus: ein den Helm aufhebender Krieger ist ebenfalls als Capne bezeichnet (8). In diesem Fall sind griechische Skarabäen mit einem sehr ähnlichen Motiv erhalten (Boardman, AGGems Nr. 260–261 Taf. 17–18 = Furtwängler, AGTaf. 61, 15); zu einer Deutung auf K. besteht bei ihnen keinerlei Anlaß. Wahrscheinlich haben die etruskischen Gemmenschneider, bei denen K.-Skarabäen bestellt wurden, aus einem Repertoire von Kriegerbildern für K. passende Motive ausgewählt. Ein Blitz oder eine Inschrift ließ sich dann leicht hinzufügen. Ein einziges Motiv scheint auf K. zugeschnitten oder jedenfalls nicht allgemein verwendbar: K., der einen Torflügel schleppt, während er vom Blitz getroffen wird (48, vgl. auch 11, s. unten). Dahinter muß eine – literarisch nicht faßbare – Version stehen, in der K., statt auf der Leiter die Mauern Thebens emporzustürmen, einen Torflügel wegrißt, um so in die Stadt einzudringen. Doch selbst dieses ungewöhnliche Motiv ließ sich ohne Schwierigkeiten aus einem griechischen Kriegertypus entwickeln (Furtwängler, AGTaf. 63, 4; 65, 3; Boardman, AGGems Nr. 264–265 Taf. 18; Richter, EngrGemsGE Nr. 92); es mußte nur der Schild gegen den Torflügel und das Schwert gegen den Schild ausgetauscht werden.

Neben den durch Inschrift oder Blitz – seltsamerweise tritt nie beides zusammen auf – für K. gesicherten Gemmen gibt es zahlreiche andere, die zusammenbrechende Krieger in sehr ähnlichen Schemata wiedergeben (z. B. 55 wie 32. 35; 58 wie 33; 60 wie 34; 61 wie 42) und möglicherweise auch K. meinen. Da aber dieselben Typen auch für andere Heroen verwendet werden (z. B. das Schema von 32/35 und von 43 für Tydeus; zu 32/35 vgl. Zazoff, EtrSk Nr. 79. 80 Taf. 20 = Krauskopf 103 Tyd 10–11 Taf. 19, 3; zu 43 vgl. Zazoff Nr. 82 Taf. 21 = Krauskopf 103 Tyd 12 Taf. 19, 4), ist die Deutung in keinem Fall sicher. Gerade Schemata, die für K. besonders gut passen (z. B. der Blick nach oben oder eine Haltung, die auf einen unerwarteten, heftigen Stoß schließen läßt), wurden oft auch für andere Heroen gewählt. Andererseits können auch Bildtypen nicht ausgeschlossen werden, bei denen auf den ersten Blick eine Deutung auf K. eher unwahrscheinlich erscheint. So gibt es eine Reihe von Steinen, bei denen eine Lanze den Körper des Kriegers zu durchdringen scheint (57–60. 62); doch ist nie sicher, ob sie nicht hinter dem Körper zu denken ist. Eine zerbrochene Lanze (wie auf 57. 60) findet sich schon auf einem der ältesten K.-Skarabäen (32, auch auf 34). Auch eine noch intakte Lanze kann zu K. gehören: vor allem bei einer steil von unten in den Rücken «eindringenden» Lanze (58. 62) wäre die Wurfrichtung problematisch; sie müßte, da sie ja nicht von unten her geworfen worden sein kann, von hoch oben kommend mit großer Wucht den Körper durchbohren (die Richtung deutlich auf 62) und im Rücken in beträchtlicher Länge wieder hervorgekommen sein. Wahrscheinlicher ist die Annahme, daß es sich um die Lanze des Kriegers handelt, die er noch in der Hand hält. Generell können also alle Darstellungen eines zusammenbrechenden Kriegers, bei denen die Verletzung nicht durch einen Pfeil oder durch ein Schwert angegeben ist, K. meinen. Am wenigsten wahrscheinlich ist dies beim Typus des sich an den Nacken fassenden Kriegers (vgl. 65, wo die Deutung auch aus anderen Gründen abzulehnen ist und → Dioskouroi/Tinas Cliniar 85): K. kann zwar in einer Reflexbewegung den Arm zum Kopf heben (so 34. 38. 42. 57. 61); die Wirkung des Blitzes durchdringt dann aber den ganzen Körper. Eine begrenzte Wunde im Nacken, die betastet werden kann, ist dagegen wohl meist auf einen Pfeil zurückzuführen.

Wenn man davon ausgeht, daß die nicht durch Namensbeischriften, Attribute oder eine genaue Angabe der Verwundung deutbaren Bilder überhaupt eine bestimmte Person und nicht ganz allgemein einen sterbenden Krieger darstellen sollten, besteht eine prozentuale Wahrscheinlichkeit, daß K., der auf den sicher bestimmbar Skarabäen mit zusammenbrechenden Krieger am häufigsten dargestellt ist, auch dann oft gemeint ist, wenn uns keine eindeutige Benennung möglich ist. Die Prämisse, daß eine große Zahl der etruskischen Skarabäen – zumindest in den Augen ihrer Käufer und Besitzer – konkrete Personen und nicht näher bestimmbar Krieger oder Athleten darstellte, kann hier nicht ausführlich diskutiert werden (s. dazu Krauskopf, I./Breitfeld, D., Index der Heroen- und Götterbilder auf etr. Skarabäen [1990] Einleitung). Im konkreten Fall des K.-Schemas würde die Wahl eines anonymen Kriegers als Gemmenbild implizieren, daß die – zahlreichen – Käufer mit diesem Bild eindeutig positive Aspekte verbanden und den Tod in der Schlacht als etwas wenn schon nicht Erstrebenswertes, so doch zumindest Vorbildhaftes empfanden. Für eine solche, kriegerische Ideale betonende Denkweise lassen sich in anderen Kunstgattungen während des 5. und der 1. Hälfte des 4. Jh., der Zeit, in der ein Großteil der Kriegergemmen entstand, kaum Anhaltspunkte finden. Gerade in der Sepulkralkunst, deren Themenwahl ähnlich wie die der Gemmen privat bestimmt war, spielen die Themen «Krieg» und «Tod in der Schlacht» eine verschwindend geringe Rolle.

Das Relief aus Pyrgi (30), das das etruskische Interesse an K. auch im öffentlichen Bereich dokumentiert, stellt die Episode von K.'s Tod in einen größeren Rahmen. Im Kampfgetümmel vor Theben sieht sich K. plötzlich Zeus/Tinia gegenüber, der den Blitz gegen ihn schleudert. Diese Szene, die auf dem Antepagamentum, bedingt durch sein Format, auf engstem Raum zusammengedrängt werden mußte, wird auf einem messapischen Gefäß (31) in «realistischer» Dimensionen auseinandergezogen: Zwischen dem vom Tor in die Knie gestürzten K. und Zeus wird durch das Himmelsgewölbe andeutende Parallelllinien eine größere Distanz geschaffen.

Ein Fresko in Ardea (25) kann vielleicht mit der Notiz bei Plin. nat. 35, 17 in Verbindung gebracht werden, nach der es in den Tempeln von Ardea «antiquiores urbe picturae», d. h. sehr altertümliche Gemälde gab. Es wäre dann zeitlich den etruskischen und italienischen Bildern des zu ebener Erde zusammenbrechenden K. (30–48) näher als den hellenistischen Darstellungen des von der Leiter stürzenden (27–29). Auch unabhängig von der Plinius-Stelle möchte man sich einen K., bei dem der Blitz deutlich am Kopf sichtbar ist, eher in der Art der Gemmen und Metallreliefs, zu Boden gestürzt, vorstellen – bei dem von der Leiter fallenden K. wird der Blitz nicht in dieser Weise wiedergegeben (zu einer Ausnahme, 29, s. unten).

Das Interesse, das dem im archaischen und klassischen Griechenland so selten dargestellten Heros vor allem in Etrurien, aber auch in anderen Gebieten Italiens zuteil wurde, bedarf einer Erklärung. Besonders aufschlußreich ist hier die messapische Trozzella 31. Tiverios hat darauf aufmerksam gemacht, daß auf beiden Seiten des Gefäßes nur je ein Krieger durch eine Namensbeischrift ausgezeichnet ist: Aineias und K. Auf diese beiden kam es dem Maler offensichtlich an. Aineias' Bedeutung für Italien ist bekannt; die Annahme einer ähnlichen Funktion als Gründerheros, die seine Beliebtheit in Italien erklären könnte, stößt bei K. zunächst auf eine Schwierigkeit: K. stirbt vor Theben und kommt nicht nach Italien. Diese Schwierigkeit läßt sich vielleicht überwinden: Tiverios weist auf die Stelle bei Apollodor hin, nach der in einer Version des Stesichoros K. durch Asklepios wieder zum Leben erweckt worden sei. Vermutlich hat diese abweichende Mythenversion sich nicht auf die Schilderung der Erweckung beschränkt, sondern auch von weiteren Taten des K. in seinem zweiten Leben berichtet. Da diese Mythenvariante gerade Stesichoros zugeschrieben wird, könnte es sich um Taten im Westen gehandelt haben. Den erstarkenden westgriechischen Städten und ihren führenden Geschlechtern fehlte ja zunächst völlig die mythische Vergangenheit, die für die großen Städte des Mutterlandes selbstverständlich war. Hier muß ein Defizit empfunden worden sein, zu dessen Auffüllung zahlreiche neue Mythenvarianten erfunden wurden – man denke nur an die vielen über ganz Italien verstreuten Abenteuer des Herakles auf dem Rückweg von der Insel des Geryoneus. K. in diesen Kontext westgriechischer Sondermythen einzuordnen, erschiene sehr gewagt, wenn nicht das durch die Bildkunst bezeugte Interesse an K. diese Vermutung stützte.

Daß auch die Etrusker durch solche Erzählungen ihre Geschichte mit der großen Vergangenheit der Griechen und ihrer mythischen Gegner zu verknüpfen suchten, ist schon mehrfach vermutet worden (speziell zu den Sieben gegen Theben zuletzt Cristofani, M., in Edipo. Il teatro greco e la cultura europea. Atti del Convegno Int. Urbino 1982 [1987] 200–202). Bei K. mag das Interesse noch gesteigert worden sein durch die Art seines Todes – und möglicherweise noch mehr durch seine Wiederbelebung, die ihn für die Etrusker, in deren Religion Blitze und ihre Deutung bekanntlich eine große Bedeutung hatten, zu einer faszinierenden Gestalt gemacht haben müßte.

Im 4. Jh. sind K.-Darstellungen in Etrurien nicht ganz so häufig wie im 5. Sie folgen noch den Schemata des 5. Jh. (um 400: 39. 45; 4. Jh.: 37d. 47; aglobolo-Skarabäen des 4. und 3. Jh.: 40. 42b. 46; Nachzügler des 3. Jh.: 37c; Krieger auf Gemmen des 4.-2. Jh., deren Deutung auf K. nicht zu sichern ist, erwähnt nach 55. 56. 62). Ein neues Motiv – oder richtiger eine Variante des Themas von 48 – bringt nur der Skarabäus 11, auf dem K. dabei ist, einen Torflügel emporzuheben. Wie schon die Bilder des 5. Jh., geben auch die des 4. Jh. K. nur in Szenen wieder, die zu ebener Erde spielen, wobei nichts auf einen vorhergehenden Sturz von einer Leiter hindeutet (allenfalls den liegenden K. von 41 könnte man so interpretieren; doch ist dies nicht zwingend). Die Sturmleiter beginnt erst in hellenistischen etruskischen K.-Bildern eine Rolle zu spielen.

Im Osten hatte dagegen schon das älteste erhaltene Bild vom Tod des K. (27) den Helden beim Sturz von der Leiter gezeigt. Das kühne Motiv des rücklings von der Leiter heruntergeschleuderten K., das an die Schilderung des Leitersturzes in den Phoinissen des Euripides (1182–1186) erinnert, ist sicher nicht für Gjölbaschi erfunden worden. Formal ähnelt der stürzende K. der kopfüber gestürzten Amazone des Parthenos-Schildes (→ Amazonas 246), an den auch andere Kriegertypen des Frieses erinnern. Eine Verbindung mit dem Gemälde des Onasias (→ Eteokles 6), die früher vorsichtig versucht wurde (Stellen bei v. Freytag 57 Anm. 181), ist völlig hypothetisch.

In die durch die messapische Trozzella (31) und das Fresko in Ardea (25) angedeutete italische Tradition (s. oben) läßt sich vielleicht auch die campanische Kanne 12 einreihen. Zweifel an der Deutung des Leitersteigers auf K. sind m. E. unberechtigt. Vier aneinander gereichte Krieger in vier verschiedenen Kampfhaltungen, die nicht aufeinander Bezug nehmen, sind schwerlich als Auszug aus einer »ganz allgemein nicht näher bestimmten Stadtbelagerung« (v. Freytag 168) zu begreifen, sondern müssen, wenn die Darstellung irgendeinen Sinn haben soll, als namentlich bestimmbare Heroen verstanden werden, für die Bildtypen aus einer (oder auch mehreren) figurenreicheren Vorlage(n) ausgewählt wurden. Ein Leitersteiger ist zwar theoretisch in jeder Stadtbelagerungsszene denkbar; unter den bildlich überlieferten Darstellungen sind aber die meisten sicher als K. zu deuten (14. 17–21. 26), einige isolierte Figuren sind aus sich heraus nicht zu benennen (10. 13. 15. 16; zu der Kombination von Leitersteiger und Herabstürzendem, 22–23, s. unten). Für einen anderen Heros ist das Motiv meines Wissens nicht gesichert; auch in nicht mythisch bestimmbarer Belagerungsszene ist es sehr selten (auf dem von B. v. Freytag als Beispiel zitierten Relief vom Nereidenmonument, Childs Taf. 10, 2, stürmen mehrere Krieger die Leiter hinauf, was einer orientalischen Bildtradition entspricht, vgl. Childs Taf. 26, 2; 27, 3). Da die Leiter zumindest seit dem Beginn des Hellenismus für K. das charakteristische Attribut wird (28–29. 49–54; Kaiserzeit: 9), ist bei einem Leitersteiger der Deutung auf K. der Vorzug zu geben, auch wenn sie nicht ganz gesichert werden kann.

Namentlich benannt ist K. auf einem apulischen Volutenkrater (7) als Nebenfigur bei der Aufbahrung des Archemoros; er wird wohl auch unter den Krieger zu suchen sein, die die Archemoros tötende Schlange bekämpfen (→ Archemoros 8). Außer dem – wahrscheinlich zu einer Kampfszene gehörenden – Fragment eines homerischen Bechers (4) sind aus vorrömischer Zeit keine weiteren K.-Bilder erhalten (literarisch überliefert 3, das Gemälde des Tauriskos).

Dagegen bleiben K.-Darstellungen im etruskischen und dem etruskisch beeinflussten italischen Bereich weiterhin häufig. Gemmen und Glaspasten des 3. bis 1. Jh. zeigen den sterbenden K. zunächst in den bekannten Schemata; jedoch werden statt des Blitzes jetzt meist Teile der zerbrochenen Sturmleiter als Identifizierungsmerkmal angegeben (51. 52; Leiter und Blitz: 50). Häufiger wird nun versucht, den vorhergegangenen Sturz von der Leiter deutlich zu machen. K. scheint gerade inmitten der Fragmente seiner Leiter auf dem Boden aufgeprallt zu sein (53. 54). Ein den vorigen ähnliches Schema kann bei einer Drehung der Figur um 90° dazu verwendet werden, den Sturz selbst – mit den Füßen voran – darzustellen (29, wobei der Blitz im Nacken die Richtung der Figur festlegt; er kann nicht von unten gekommen sein). Auf dem Ringstein 49 schließlich wird neben dem gerade zu Boden gestürzten K., den Teilen der Leiter und dem Blitz noch ein Teil der Stadtmauer gezeigt. Eine Glaspaste mit einem die Leiter hinaufstürmenden (15) darf angesichts der vielen hellenistischen etruskischen und italischen K.-Bildern wohl auch als K. gedeutet werden (s. oben).

Außerhalb der Glyptik wird in der hellenistisch-etruskischen Kunst das Motiv des die Leiter hinaufsteigenden K. bevorzugt. Im Giebel von Talamone (21), auf chiusinischen (18) und Peruginer Urnen (14) ist die Deutung gesichert durch die umgebenden Szenen. An die Urne 18 schließt sich eine Reihe weiterer chiusinischer Urnen (19–20) an, die auf die flankierenden Gespanne verzichten und K., der wie auf 18 einen Leichnam über dem Arm trägt, in den Mittelpunkt der Schlachtszene stellen. Daß K. sich auf der Sturmleiter mit einer Leiche belädt, erschien vielen Interpreten so ungewöhnlich, daß sie eine Kontamination zweier Szenen vermuteten (Körte in Brunn/Körte, Relievi II 1, 67): K. beim Sturm auf die Mauern und beim Transport des gefallenen → Melanippos zu → Tydeus. In der Tat ist bei Stat. Theb. 8, 745–750 geschildert, wie K. den sterbenden Melanippos auf seiner linken Schulter zu Tydeus schleppt; in den meisten anderen Versionen bringt → Amphiarao ihm das Haupt des Melanippos. Da aber zumindest die Paolozzi-Urne 18 von guter Qualität ist und K. wahrscheinlich auch im Giebel von Talamone (21) den Gefallenen über dem Arm trug, befriedigt diese Erklärung, die die Szene als bloßes Mißverständnis etruskischer Urnenbildhauer erklären will, wenig, zumal, da die zugrundeliegende Szene, K. mit Melanippos bei Tydeus, in der Bildkunst nicht belegt ist. Wenig einleuchtend ist auch Roberts Versuch (Robert 229–230), die chiusin. Urne 13 mit den Urnen 18–20 zu verbinden: der Verteidiger, der auf 13 bereits sich weit über den Mauerrand hinausbeuge, werde im nächsten Augenblick, von K.'s Lanze getroffen, auf diesen herabstürzen, K. werde durch den Aufprall der Leiche aber nicht von der Leiter geschleudert, sondern ließe sich, wie auf 18–20 dargestellt, in seinem Aufstieg dadurch nicht im mindesten irritieren. Plausibler erscheint die Erklärung, die B. v. Freytag (174–175) vorschlägt: K. trage die Leiche des Kreon-Sohnes → Menoikeus, der sich gerade von der Mauer gestürzt hatte, um gemäß dem Orakel durch seinen Opfertod Theben zu retten. K. habe sich bei seinem Sturm auf die Stadtmauer mit der Leiche beladen, um prahlerisch zu demonstrieren, daß er gegen dieses Orakel und gegen Zeus' Willen dennoch Theben erobern werde. Diese sehr einleuchtende Deutung hat den einzigen Nachteil, daß die Szene in der antiken Literatur keine Spuren hinterlassen hat. Statius (Theb. 10, 846) läßt K. zwar gerade an dem Turm angreifen, von dem sich Menoikeus unmittelbar vorher herabgestürzt hat (Menoiceo qua lubrica sanguine turris...), aber auch er, der sich sonst in der Schilderung von Greueln nicht genug tun kann, ließ sich die Gelegenheit entgehen, die Gottlosigkeit des K. durch einen solchen weiteren Frevel zu unterstreichen.

Die zuletzt genannte Deutung der Urnen 18–20 und des Talamone-Giebels hat einen weiteren Vorteil: Auch die Peruginer Urnen 22–23, die neben einem die untersten Sprossen der Leiter betretenden Krieger einen kopfüber herabstürzenden zeigen – formal eindeutig eine Kombination zweier K.-Figuren –, lassen sich in die postulierte Mythenvariante einfügen. Da anders als auf der Volterranner Urne 28, auf der die auseinanderbrechende Leiter den Körper des stürzenden K. überschneidet, auf 22–23 die Leiter noch fest steht und benutzt wird, kann der Blitzeinschlag noch nicht erfolgt sein. Der Stürzende kann daher nicht K. sein, sondern ein Verteidiger (so schon Robert 230) oder eben Menoikeus (v. Freytag 173–174).

Wenn man bei der genauen Deutung der etruskischen Urnen auch nicht ohne im letzten nicht beweisbare Hypothesen auskommt, so zeugen sie durch ihre Anzahl (13. 14. 18–20. 22–23. 28) zusammen mit dem Talamone-Giebel (21) und den etruskischen und italischen Gemmen und Glaspasten (15. 29. 37c. 49–54) unbezweifelbar von der anhaltenden Beliebtheit des K. im hellenistischen Mittelitalien. Auf andere Weise bezeugt dies auch die K. nennende Namensbeischrift auf dem Spiegel 5, der ihn in eine Versammlung bekannter Heroen und Heroinnen aus anderen Sagenkreisen einfügt.

So wenig wie die griechische hat die römische Kunst den zahlreichen etruskischen und italischen K.-Bildern Adäquates entgegenzusetzen. Bilder vom Todessturz des K. sind – vielleicht zufällig – nicht erhalten. Den die Leiter hinaufstürmenden K. zeigen einige Ringsteine (16. 26), die an das von der Glaspaste 15 und mehr noch von der chiusinischen Urne 13 bekannte Schema anknüpfen, wobei auf 26 noch der Blitz hinzugefügt, d. h. also genau der Augenblick gewählt wurde, in dem K.'s Hybris, sein vermeintlicher Triumph, ihren Gipfel und zugleich ihr Ende erreicht. Auf dem römischen Sarkophag 17, der mehrere Szenen aus der Schlacht vor Theben kombiniert, ist für K. ein etwas früheres Moment ausgewählt: Er erklimmt gerade – in einem einzigen Schritt drei Sprossen auf einmal nehmend – den untersten Teil der Leiter.

Die Sturmleiter war inzwischen so eng mit K., der ja auch als ihr Erfinder galt, verbunden worden, daß er sie wie ein Attribut mit sich herumtragen kann: auf dem attischen Sarkophag 9 und vielleicht auch auf Bronzemünzen aus Bizya in Thrakien (10), auf denen allerdings die Deutung auf K. nicht ganz gesichert ist; der längliche Gegenstand, auf den der Heros mit dem linken Fuß tritt, hat bisher keine Erklärung gefunden, die es erlauben würde, ihn in den K.-Mythos einzubeziehen. Deshalb kann die Möglichkeit nicht ganz ausgeschlossen werden, daß ein lokaler Heros gemeint ist, in dessen Geschichte sowohl die Leiter wie auch der fragliche Gegenstand eine Rolle spielen.

Unsicher muß schließlich auch bleiben, ob der in einem Epigramm geschilderten Statue des K. (2) und den von Philostrat beschriebenen Bildern, die K.'s Leiche auf dem Schlachtfeld (63) und ihre Verbrennung (64) zeigen, bei der sich K.'s Gattin Euadne in die Flammen des Scheiterhaufens stürzt, in der Realität je etwas entsprochen hat. Immerhin zeigen die im Verhältnis zum Erhaltenen relativ zahlreichen Erwähnungen K. darstellender Kunstwerke in der Literatur (1–3. 25. 63. 64, indirekt auch das Onasias-Fresko, → Eteokles 6), daß es zwar immer wieder einzelne, z. T. auch bedeutende Kunstwerke gegeben haben muß, die das Thema von der bestraften Hybris des K. in ein Bild umsetzten, daß aber dieses Thema nie Gegenstand einer größeren Denkmälerserie geworden ist – mit einer Ausnahme, Etrurien, wo sich K. vom 5. bis ins 2. Jh. v. Chr. großer Beliebtheit erfreute.

Nachtrag: Die erst während der Drucklegung bekannt gewordene campanische Amphora 12a macht die Deutung des Kriegers auf der Leiter als K. auf der Kanne 12 noch wahrscheinlicher. Beide Gefäße bestätigen dann die Vermutung, die M. Tiverios schon angesichts der Trozzella 31 ausgesprochen hat: Nicht nur für die Etrusker, sondern – freilich in etwas geringem Ausmaß – auch für Westgriechen war das Schicksal des K. von besonderem Interesse.

INGRID KRAUSKOPF

KAPPADOKIA

(Καππαδοκία, Cappadocia) Personifikation der gleichnamigen römischen Provinz im mittleren und östlichen Kleinasien.

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Brandenstein, W., RE Suppl. VI (1935) 138–140 s. v. »Kappadokia«; Drexler, W., ML II 1 (1890–94) 955 s. v. »Kappadokia«; Fellmann, R., LAW 1486–1487 s. v. »Kappadokien«; Kirsten, E., RAC II (1954) 861–891, insb. 866 s. v. »Cappadocia«; Ruge, W., REX 2 (1919)

1910-1917 s.v. «Kappadokia»; Susini, G., EAA II (1959) 330-331 s.v. «Cappadocia»; Teja, R., «Die römische Provinz Kappadokien in der Prinzipatszeit», ANRW II 7.2 (1980) 1083-1124; Toynbee, J. M. C., The Hadrianic School (1934) 66-69, 148; Treidler, H., KIPauly III (1967) 114-115 s.v. «Kappadokia».

KATALOG

1. * AE As, Dupondius und Sesterz, Rom, Hadrian, 137 n. Chr. - BMC Emp III 508-509, 1725-1734 Taf. 94, 3. 9; Strack, Reichsprägung II Nr. 714 Taf. 12; Toynbee 66-67 Taf. 3, 17-20; Susini 331 Abb. 479; Robertson, Hunter II 162 Nr. 610-613 Taf. 42. - Rs.: Stehende K. in kurzem Militärmantel und Tierfellmantel, mit Mauerkrone und Jagdstiefeln, in der Linken vexillum und in der Rechten den Berg → Argaios in Form von aufeinandergetürmten Steinchen haltend. CAPPADOCIA S C.

2. AE Sesterz, Rom, Hadrian, 137 n. Chr. - Toynbee 66. - Rs.: wie 1, der Mantel ist jedoch aus Stoff. CAPPADOCIA S C.

3. * AE Sesterz, Rom, Hadrian, 137 n. Chr. - BMC Emp III 509 Anm. zu Nr. 1726. - Rs.: Wie 1; der Argaios wird hier als Kopf mit Strahlenkrone auf Steinchen gebildet. CAPPADOCIA S C.

4. * AE Sesterz, Rom, Antoninus Pius, 139 n. Chr. - Strack, Reichsprägung III Nr. 783 Taf. 9; Toynbee 148 Taf. 7, 12-13. 15; 8, 1: BMC Emp IV 188, 1185 Taf. 26, 10; Robertson, Hunter II 211-212 Nr. 172. - Rs.: wie 1, aber nun Stoffmantel und in der Rechten fiscus; der Argaios ist in Form von aufgehäuften Steinchen auf den Boden gesetzt. CAPPADOCIA S C COS II.

5. * AE Sesterz, Rom, Antoninus Pius, 139 n. Chr. - Strack, Reichsprägung III Nr. 781 Taf. 9; Toynbee 148 Taf. 7, 14; BMC Emp IV 367, Anm. zu Nr. *. - Rs.: Wie 4, in der Rechten Diadem anstatt fiscus, über Argaios bisweilen Stern. CAPPADOCIA S C.

6. * AE Sesterz, Rom, Antoninus Pius, 139 n. Chr. - Rs.: Wie 4, in der Rechten Kranz anstatt fiscus, das vexillum ist aber auf den in Form von aufgehäuften Steinchen gezeichneten Argaios gesetzt. CAPPADOCIA S C.

7. AE Sesterz, Rom, Antoninus Pius, 139 n. Chr. - BMC Emp IV 367, *. - Rs.: Wie 5, in der Linken jedoch Speer. CAPPADOCIA S C.

8. AE Sesterz, Rom, Antoninus Pius, 139 n. Chr. - Strack, Reichsprägung III Nr. 784. - Rs.: Wie 5, jedoch ohne vexillum. CAPPADOCIA S C.

9. * AE Sesterz, Rom, Antoninus Pius, 139 n. Chr. - BMC Emp IV 189, 1186 Taf. 26, 11. - Rs.: Wie 5, Stephane anstatt Mauerkrone. CAPPADOCIA S C COS II.

DEUTUNG AUF KAPPADOKIA WAHRSCHEINLICH

10. * Statue aus parischem Marmor. Liverpool, Merseyside County Mus. (ehem. Ince Blundell Hall). Aus Tivoli, Villa Hadriana. - Michaelis, M., AZ 32, 1874, 25 Nr. 42; idem, AntM 350 Nr. 42; Reinach, RépStat I 451, 1906A; Gusman, P., Villa Impériale de Tibur (1904) 296 Abb. 528; Ashmole, B., A Cat. of the Ancient Marbles at Ince Blundell Hall (1929) 23-24 Nr.

42 Taf. 27; Toynbee 67-69 Taf. 24, 4; CCCA III 149 Nr. 455; Raeder, J., Die statuarische Ausstattung der Villa Hadriana bei Tivoli (1983) 195 Nr. V 6. - Hadrianisch. - Stehend, mit Mauerkrone, kurzem Chiton und Stoffmantel, die Linke einst auf Baumstamm mit Tympanon gestützt. R. Arm und l. Hand sind modern.

KOMMENTAR

In der hadrianischen Münzserie römischer Provinzen von 137 n. Chr. wird K. (1-3) erstmals dargestellt. Sie erscheint dabei im Typus der Amazone mit Jagdstiefeln und kurzem Chiton, einer Ikonographie, die auch öfters für Stadtpersonifikationen, insbesondere Kleinasien, verwendet wurde (→ Amazonas S. 649-650). Diese Bildwahl soll auf die weit im Osten (wie das Land der Amazonen) gelegene Provinz und die militärische Funktion als Grenzposten gegen die feindlichen Parther hinweisen. Der kriegerische Charakter wird des weiteren durch das vexillum und den Militärmantel unterstrichen, der zudem bisweilen aus einem Tierfell (1. 3) besteht, wohl um besser das Wilde und Rauhe der entfernten Provinz hervorzuheben. Weiterhin hält K. in der Rechten den → Argaios, den bekannten heiligen Berg, an dessen Fuß die Provinzhauptstadt → Kaisareia (I) liegt. Er wird in der Regel in Verbindung mit K. durch angehäuften Steine (1-2, 4-9), in einem Fall (3) aber auch durch einen mit einer Strahlenkrone versehenen Kopf gekennzeichnet. Eine Statue aus der Villa Hadriana (10) ist wahrscheinlich ebenfalls anhand ihrer Mauerkrone und kriegerischen Kleidung und Beschuhung als K. zu identifizieren. Andere Deutungsvorschläge, auf → Phrygia durch Michaelis, Ashmole, Vermaseren und Raeder, und auf → Bithynia durch Reinach, sind weniger stichhaltig. Bithynia trägt immer eine andere Kleidung und Phrygia besitzt niemals eine Mauerkrone. Das Tympanon, das noch als einziges Argument für die letztere benutzt wurde, weil diese Provinz sehr bekannt für den Kybelekult war, bei dem dieses Musikinstrument eine wichtigere Rolle spielte, könnte jedoch auch für K. angeführt werden, weil auch in dieser Gegend Kybele besonders verehrt wurde. Leider sind aber die Hände, die möglicherweise die klar zur Lösung führenden Attribute hielten, nicht mehr vorhanden.

Hadrians Thronfolger Antoninus Pius greift teilweise die Münzreihe der Provinzen seines Vorgängers, darunter die Darstellung der K. (4-9), 139 n. Chr. für die Festlichkeiten des aurum coronarium wieder auf, wohl um damit seine Nachfolge intensiver zu legitimieren. K.s Bekleidung bleibt die gleiche, ihr Mantel besteht nun aber immer aus Stoff und der Berg Argaios wird in Form von aufgehäuften Steinen neben ihr auf den Boden verlegt, manchmal schwebt über diesen ein Stern (5. 7. 9). In der Rechten hält sie dafür jetzt einen fiscus (4), ein Diadem (5. 7-9) oder einen Kranz (6), angemessene Gaben, die auf das Ereignis des aurum coronarium verstärkt anspielen konnten.

RAINER VOLKKOMMER

KAPROS I

(Κάπρος, «Eber») Personifikation des gleichnamigen Flusses im östl. Karien und bei Laodikeia in Phrygien, Nebenfluß des → Lykos.

LITERARISCHE QUELLEN: Durch Plin. nat. 5, 105 erfahren wir, daß der Kapros und der Asopos dicht an Laodikeia (das am Lykos liegt) vorüberflossen und durch Strabon 12, 8, 16 p. 578, daß der Kapros in den Lykos mündete.

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Drexler, W., ML II 1 (1890-94) 955-956 s.v. «Kapros 2»; Joly, E., EAA IV (1961) 313 s.v. «Kapros 2»; Ruge, W., RE X 2 (1919) 1921 s.v. «Kapros 1»; Treidler, H., KIPauly III (1969) 115 s.v. «Kapros 1»; Waser, O., RE VI 2 (1909) 2802 s.v. «Flußgötter».

KATALOG

Münzen von Laodikeia in Phrygien

A. Kapros in Gestalt eines Ebers

a) Allein

1. * AE, 2. Hälfte 1. Jh. v. Chr. - BMC Phrygia 287, 52-53 Taf. 34, 11; InvWadd 6207; Imhoof-Blumer, Fluß 325 Nr. 379 Taf. 12, 16; Forrer, Weber III 2, 521 Nr. 7129 Taf. 254. - Vs.: Nach l. springend. Rs.: Wolf (= Lykos).

2. * AE, 3. Jh. n. Chr. - BMC Phrygia 296, 111 Taf. 36, 2; Imhoof-Blumer, Fluß 325 Nr. 378. - Rs.: nach l. sitzend, die r. Vordertatze auf umgestürztes strömendes Quellgefäß gelegt. Vs.: Kopf des → Demos.

b) In einem Bild mit dem Lykos, der als Wolf dargestellt ist

3. * AE, 2.-3. Jh. n. Chr. - BMC Phrygia 299, 127-129 Taf. 36, 7; InvWadd 6254; Grose, McClellan III 247 Nr. 8831 Taf. 312, 6; SNG Copenhagen 540; SNG v. Aulock 3832. - Rs.: K. l. und Lykos r., Rücken an Rücken sitzend, mit einander zugewandten Köpfen. Vs.: Büste des → Senatus.

4. AE, Caracalla, 211-212 n. Chr., Philippus II. (244-249 n. Chr.). - BMC Phrygia 324, 260-261; InvWadd 6326 Taf. 17, 17; Forrer, Weber III 2, 526 Nr. 7151 Taf. 255; SNG Copenhagen 607; SNG v. Aulock 3861. - Rs.: Wie 3.

5. * AE, Caracalla, 211-212 n. Chr. - Imhoof-Blumer, KIM I 273 Nr. 48 Taf. 9, 4; BMC Phrygia 319, 235; Imhoof-Blumer, Fluß 326 Nr. 382 Taf. 12, 19; SNG v. Aulock 3862. - Rs.: Wie 3., Lykos l. und K. r., die Köpfe Wasser speiend.

6. * AE, Caracalla, 211-212 n. Chr. - SNG v. Aulock 3860. - Rs.: Lykos l. und K. r. sich gegenüberstehend.

c) Mit Lykos als Wolf und weiteren Personen

7. * AE, Faustina II. († 176 n. Chr.) und Julia Domna († 217 n. Chr.). - BMC Phrygia 313, 215-216 Taf. 37, 10; InvWadd 6296; Imhoof-Blumer, Fluß 325 Nr. 380-381 Taf. 12, 17-18. - Rs.: Frontal stehende Stadtgöttin mit Kalathos, Kopf nach l., in der

Rechten Schale und in der Linken eine Statuette des Zeus Laodikenos haltend, zu ihren Füßen l. Lykos und r. K. wie auf 3. Bisweilen ΛΥΚΟΣ und ΚΑΠΡΟΣ.

8. * AE, Caracalla, 211-212 n. Chr. - SNG Copenhagen 589. - Rs.: Stehende Rhea, Statue des Zeus Laodikenos haltend und ihren r. Fuß auf Plinthe setzend, umgeben von vier Korybanten mit Schilden, l. weitere Person, r. gelagerter Flußgott; l. und r. der Plinthe Lykos und K.

9. * AE, Caracalla, 211-212 n. Chr. - Imhoof-Blumer, F., Nomisma 5, 1910, 33 Nr. 29 Taf. 3, 2; idem, Fluß 326 Nr. 383 Taf. 12, 20. - Rs.: Nach l. eilender nackter Mann, den Kopf zurückwendend, die Rechte erhoben, am l. Arm flatterndes Gewand; zu seinen Füßen Wasser speiende Köpfe des K. rechtshin und des Lykos linkshin; im Abschnitt Wellen.

B. Kapros in menschlicher Gestalt

Nach l. gelagert, nur bis zu den Hüften mit einem Himation bekleidet, die Linke auf Quellgefäß stützend und Schilfrohr haltend.

10. * AE, Antoninus Pius (138-161 n. Chr.) und Commodus (180-192 n. Chr.). - InvWadd Nr. 6284; Imhoof-Blumer, KIM I 268 Nr. 26 Taf. 8, 26; idem, Fluß 326-327 Nr. 385 Taf. 12, 22. - Rs.: Nach l. thronende Stadtgöttin mit Kalathos, mit der Linken ein Szepter schulternd und in der Rechten eine Statuette des Zeus Laodikenos haltend; zu ihren Füßen l. Lykos (ΛΥΚΟΣ) und r. K. (ΚΑΠΡΟΣ); darunter bisweilen Wellen.

11. * AE, Caracalla, 211/212 n. Chr. - BMC Phrygia 317, 229 Taf. 38, 3; Imhoof-Blumer, KIM I 274 Nr. 51a; idem, Fluß 327 Taf. 12, 23; SNG v. Aulock 8419. - Rs.: Wie 10, die Stadtgöttin und K. halten zusätzlich ein Füllhorn.

12. (= Adrasteia II 7*) AE, Caracalla (198-217 n. Chr.). - Imhoof-Blumer, F., JdI 3, 1888, 290 Nr. 2 Taf. 9, 19; idem, Nymphen und Chariten auf griechischen Münzen (1908) 137 Nr. 403 Taf. 9, 2. - Rs.: Nach l. eilende Adrasteia mit Zeuskind in der L., umgeben von drei Korybanten, l. Genius der Stadt mit Steuerruder, r. oben Adler, zu Füßen der Adrasteia l. und r. Lykos und K.

KOMMENTAR

Alle bekannten Darstellungen des K. (1-12) befinden sich auf Münzen der Stadt Laodikeia in Phrygien, an welcher der Fluß vorbeifloß. Die ältesten Beispiele zeigen K. in Gestalt eines Ebers (1-9). Flußgötter wurden häufig in Form eines Stieres gebildet, als Eber erscheint uns jedoch allein K. Diese einzigartige Charakterisierung läßt sich auf seinen Namen zurückführen, der Eber bedeutet. Oft wird er auch zusammen mit Lykos dargestellt (3-12), der ebenfalls an Laodikeia vorbeifloß und in den der Kapros mündete. Wenn beide zusammen erscheinen und K. als Eber auftritt (3-9), wird Lykos als Wolf gezeigt, weil sein Name diese Bedeutung hat. Erst seit Antoninus Pius (10-12) sehen wir K. auch in Menschengestalt und zwar im geläufigen Schema des auf ein Quellgefäß gelagerten Gottes. In zwei Reihen tauchen beide Flußgötter zusammen mit Laodikeia auf (7 und 10-11) und treten hier wie wohl auch bei den Einzeldarstellungen als Garanten des Reichtums der Stadt auf. Auf zwei weiteren Typen (8 und 12) fungieren die beiden Flußgötter nur als Beifiguren zu Szenen mit dem Zeuskind und deuten hier auf die Lage des Geschehens bei Laodikeia hin, eine Ortszuweisung, die wohl auf eine Lokallegende zurückzuführen ist (→ Kadmos II, Kommentar).

RAINER VOLLKOMMER

KAPROS II

(Κάπρος) Hypothetische Personifikation des gleichnamigen Flusses in Assyrien, eines östlichen Nebenflusses des Tigris.

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Drexler, W., ML II 1 (1890-94) 955 s. v. «Kaprois I»; Joly, E., EAA IV (1961) 313 s. v. «Kaprois I»; Treidler, H., KIPauly III (1967) 115 s. v. «Kaprois 2»; Waser, O., RE VI 2 (1909) 2802 s. v. «Flußgötter»; Weissbach, F. H., RE X 2 (1919) 1921 s. v. «Kaprois 2».

1. AE, Artavasdes (224-228 n. Chr.), Unikum. - Gardner, P., The Parthian Coinage (1877) 59-60 Taf. 7, 22; Head, HN 690 (nicht mehr in HN); BMC Parthia LXXXV-LXXXVI Anm. 3 Taf. 37, 11. - Rs.: Stadtgöttin nach l. auf Felsen sitzend, in der Rechten Nike haltend, zu ihren Füßen schwimmender Flußgott mit großem Horn. Leg. ΠΟΛΙΣ Α. Vs.: Kopf der Stadtgöttin nach r.

Der auf diesem Unikum dargestellte Flußgott wurde von Head, HN 690 als K. identifiziert, weil er glaubte, daß der auf der Münze beigegebene Buchstabe Α auf die Stadt Atusia verweise, die an diesem Fluß liegt. Diese Interpretation wurde von Drexler und Joly in ML und EAA übernommen. Jedoch scheint es sehr unwahrscheinlich, daß diese Münze in Atusia geprägt wurde und daß die Stadtgöttin dieser recht unbedeutenden Stadt wiedergegeben sein sollte. Damit wird auch die Deutung des Flußgottes auf K. hinfällig.

RAINER VOLLKOMMER

KAR

(Κάρ, Car) Éponyme des Cariens d'Anatolie d'après leur légende. Fils de → Zeus et de → Krete (Ail. nat. 12, 30), il était frère de Lydos et de Mysos: d'où l'antique parenté des trois peuples «autochtones», Cariens, Lydiens et Mysiens, affirmée au sanctuaire de Zeus Carios à Mylasa (Hdt. I, 171; Strabon 14, 659). Il fonda Alabanda et lui donna le nom de son fils Alabandos; on voyait son tombeau à Euangelia/Souagela:

Steph. Byz. s. v. Ἀλάβανδα, s. v. Εὐάγγελια. Il serait également le père du satrape Idrieus, et l'inventeur des augures tirés du vol des oiseaux (Plin. nat. 7, 203). Il faut le distinguer de K. fils de Phoroneus, premier roi de Mégare et éponyme de sa citadelle.

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Stoll, H. W., ML II 1 (1890-94) 957 s. v. «Kar 2»; v. Geisau, H., KIPauly III (1969) 116 s. v. «Kar 1».

IDENTIFICATION HYPOTHÉTIQUE

1. Plaque de marbre. Istanbul, Mus. Arch. M 201. De Lagina, Hécateion, frise sud. - Mendel, Sculpt I 446-447. 466-469 n° 201; Schober, A., Der Fries des Hekateions von Lagina (1933) 77 n° 201 pl. 27; EAA IV (1961) 456 fig. 534. - 1<sup>er</sup> quart du I<sup>er</sup> s. av. J.-C. (Robert, L., Études anatoliennes [1937] 427 n. 2) plutôt que fin du II<sup>e</sup> (Schober) ou du I<sup>er</sup> s. (Mendel). - Près d'un dieu barbu assis à dr., un dieu jeune semble présenter deux enfants nus, qui s'avancent au premier plan, à une déesse voilée, trônant en majesté; elle tient sur ses genoux un troisième enfant, très endommagé. A g., debout, un adolescent nu et une seconde déesse matronale.

Pour Mendel, la plaque, contiguë à une Assemblée des dieux, illustre la légende carienne: → Hermes amène à Zeus Carios et à → Hécate, assistée par → Demeter, les trois frères K., Lydos et Mysos: «l'un, vraisemblablement Car, est déjà reçu sur les genoux d'Hécate; les deux autres implorent la protection de la déesse et de son père Zeus» (en effet, ils en touchent les vêtements).

Mais que représente alors l'éphèbe nu? Les enfants pourraient aussi figurer «les divisions ethniques ou politiques de la Carie, ou de Stratonice seule», et le dieu assis serait en ce cas Zeus Chrysaoreus (Mendel).

Selon Schober, le sujet serait la naissance de Zeus: Hécate, debout, aide → Rhea à cacher le nouveau-né à → Kronos.

CHRISTIAN AUGÉ

KARALLIA

(Καράλλια, Karália, Káralis, Karállia) Personification der gleichnamigen Stadt in Kilikien.

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Ruge, W., RE X 2 (1919) 1926-1927 s. v. «Kara(l)is, Karalleia 1».

Münzen von Karallia (Kilikien)

1. * AE, Maximinus (235-238 n. Chr.). - BMC Lycaonia, etc. 47, 4 Taf. 8, 7; SNG v. Aulock 5608; Ziegler, R., Münzen Kilikiens in kleineren deutschen Sammlungen (1989) 19, 60 Taf. 3. - Rs.: K. mit Mauerkrone auf Felsen im Tempel sitzend und in der Rechten Ähren haltend.

2. * AE, Philippus I. (244-249 n. Chr.). - BMC Lycaonia, etc. 48, 7 Taf. 8, 8. - Rs.: K. mit Kalathos nach l. stehend, in der Linken Füllhorn und in der Rechten Statuette der Demeter mit Phiale und Fackel haltend.

Zwei Münztypen von Karallia zeigen die Stadtgöttin. In einer Reihe von Maximinus erscheint K. auf einem Felsen sitzend, ein Schema, das besonders in Südostkleinasien und Nordsyrien sehr beliebt war und sich von der bekannten hellenistischen Gruppe der → Antiocheia mit dem Orontes des Eutychides ableiten läßt. Sie sitzt zudem in einem Tempel, was das Vorhandensein eines solchen für den Kult andeuten könnte. In einer zweiten Serie (2) hält K. neben dem typischen Attribut für Tychen, dem Füllhorn, noch eine Statuette der Demeter, einer Göttin, die in dieser Stadt besondere Verehrung genoß. Die Statuette könnte hier möglicherweise als Zeugnis für die dort verwendete Kultstatue gewertet werden.

RAINER VOLLKOMMER

KARIA

(Καρία, Caria) Personifikation feminine du pays situé au sud-ouest de l'Anatolie, devenu une circonscription de la province romaine d'Asie (→ Asia II) puis, au III<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C., une province (Phrygie et Carie, puis Carie seule), dont le chef-lieu était → Aphrodisias.

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Drexler, W., ML II 1 (1890-94) 958 s. v. «Karia I»; Sgatti, G., EAA II (1959) 339 s. v. «Caria».

CATALOGUE

REPRÉSENTATION SÛRE

1. * AE, Laodicée du Lykos (Phrygie), Caracalla (198-217). - SNG v. Aulock 3856; Sgatti fig. 490. - Rv. Entourant → Laodikeia assise et figurée comme une → Tyche qui tient une statuette de → Zeus Laodikeus, deux figures debout, nommées: à g. → Phrygia, à dr. K.; toutes deux portent une haute coiffure évasée (calathos plutôt que couronne murale), une robe longue et un himation. K. tient sur son bras g. une corne d'abondance et dans la main dr. un rameau.

REPRÉSENTATIONS HYPOTHÉTIQUES

2. (= Isauria 1* avec bibl.) AE, Tarse (Cilicie), Septime Sévère (193-211). - Kenner, F., Die Münzsammlung des Stiftes St. Florian (1871) 153-155 pl. 5, 12; Waddington, W. H., BCH 7, 1883, 283-285. - Rv. Trois figures féminines debout, l'Isaurie (seule nommée) et deux Tychai, dont l'une (→ Lykaonia?) couronne l'autre. Cette dernière, tourelée, avec un dieu-fleuve à ses pieds (→ Fluvii), tient elle aussi une couronne. Selon Waddington, il s'agirait de → Kilikia représentée par la Tyché de Tarse (→ Tarsos) avec le fleuve → Kydnos. Mais l'identification à K. est également possible (Kenner, Drexler).

3. * Plaque de marbre. Istanbul, Mus. Arch. M 223. De Lagina, Hécateion, frise nord. - Mendel, Sculpt I 446-447. 516-518 n° 223; Schober, A., Der Fries des Hekateions von Lagina (1933) 35-36. 73-74 n° 223 pl. 11. - 1<sup>er</sup> quart du I<sup>er</sup> s. av. J.-C. (Robert, L., Études ana- tolienes [1937] 427 n. 2) plutôt que dernier quart du II<sup>e</sup> (Schober) ou du I<sup>er</sup> s. (Mendel). - Au centre un guerrier casqué et cuirassé, tourné à dr., prend la main d'une femme casquée, vêtue comme une Amazone (→ Amazones) d'une tunique courte dénudant un sein, et portant sur son bras g. une épée dans son fourreau: K.? A g. une figure féminine, une danseuse et un tronc d'arbre; à dr. un trophée près de l'épaule de l'Amazone et deux femmes debout dont l'une, qui tient une patère, rappelle → Iuno Pronuba.

Selon Mendel il s'agit de l'union symbolique, du «mariage politique», de Rome, représentée par son Peuple armé, et de la Carie, plutôt que de deux simples villes comme on en voit sur la plaque précédente (Mendel 514-516 n° 222). Le trophée symboliserait les victoires attachées à cette alliance.

COMMENTAIRE

K. est une pure et simple personnification, totalement dépourvue de mythologie: elle n'est même pas rattachée à une généalogie divine. La Carie, les Cariens, sont pourtant souvent cités dans les textes, mais on mentionne à leur propos tantôt leur ancêtre mythique → Kar, tantôt leurs dieux tutélaires, notamment → Zeus Karios.

La seule représentation sûre de K., désignée par une inscription, est le type monétaire 1: il pourrait se rapporter à quelque entente (ou à quelque modification de statut?) des deux régions voisines, la Carie et la Phrygie, réunies autour de Laodicée, l'ancienne capitale du conventus de Cibyratide. Faute de renseignements historiques suffisants, il est impossible de confirmer, ou d'infirmer, l'hypothèse présentée pour l'identification du type monétaire 2.

L'explication proposée par Mendel pour la scène centrale de la frise nord de Lagina (3) est d'autant plus vraisemblable que cette sorte d'allégories se répand à l'époque où l'on suppose que furent sculptés ces reliefs. Les plaques voisines (Mendel nos 216-222. 224-225) réunissent des dieux, des soldats romains et orientaux, des personnages masculins (représentant des démoi) et féminins, surtout des Amazones figurant la série de villes anatoliennes auxquelles, selon la légende, elles ont donné leur nom. Il ne serait pas surprenant que la Carie soit personnifiée de la même façon. Ce serait alors la première des très rares représentations attestées du pays.

KENAN T. ERIM

KARMEIOS

(Κάρμειος) Personifikation des gleichnamigen Flusses in Phrygien, dem heutigen Yusuf Yylan Çay.

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Drexler, W., ML II 1 (1890-94) 960 s. v. «Karmeios»; Joly, E., EAA IV (1961) 321 s. v. «Karmeios»; Ruge, W., RE X 2 (1919) 1957 s. v. «Karmeios»; Waser, O., RE VI 2 (1909) 2802 s. v. «Flußgötter».

Münzen von Hadrianopolis-Sebaste (Phrygien)

1. * AE, Severus Alexander (222-235 n. Chr.), Maximinus Thrax (235-238 n. Chr.), Philippus I. (244-249 n. Chr.), Philippus II. und Trebonianus Gallus (251-253 n. Chr.). - BMC Phrygia 227, 11. 13 Taf. 28, 8; InvWadd 6076 Taf. 16, 14; Imhoof-Blumer, GrM 213 Nr. 687; idem, KIM 1 234 Nr. 8; idem, Flußg 320 Nr. 365-366 Taf. 12, 4-5; Grose, McClellan III (1929) Nr. 8812 Taf. 311, 4; Forrer, L., The Weber Coll. III 2 (1929) Nr. 7098-7099 Taf. 253. - Rs.: Nach l. gelagerter, nur bis zu den Hüften mit einem Himation bekleideter jugendlicher K., mit der Linken auf Quellgefäß sich stützend und Schilfrohr haltend, in der Rechten Füllhorn. Bisweilen ΣΕΒΑΔΡΙΑΝΟ ΕΠΙ ΑΜΙΑΝΤΟΥ ΚΑΡΜΕΙΟΣ oder ΣΕΒΑΔΡΙΑΝΟΠ ΕΠΙ ΑΡΧ ΚΑΛΠΟΥΡΝΙΟΥ Β ΚΑΡΜΕΙΟΣ.

Diese einzig uns bekannten Darstellungen des K. entsprechen dem geläufigen Typus des auf ein Quellgefäß gelagerten menschengestaltigen Flußgottes (→ Fluvii).

RAINER VOLKKOMMER

KARMELOS

(hébr. Karmel [la montagne], Κάρμηλος, Carmelus [le dieu]). Nom de la montagne située entre la Phénicie et la Palestine et du dieu qui y était vénéré.

SOURCES LITTÉRAIRES: 1<sup>er</sup> Rois 18 (LXX: 3<sup>e</sup> Rois 18); Skylax 104, GGM I 79; Tac. hist. 2, 78; Suet. Vesp. 5; Iambl. v. P. 3, 14-15; Oros. 7, 9.

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Alt, A., «Das Gottesurteil auf dem Karmel», dans Festschrift G. Beer (1935) 1-18 = Kl. Schriften II (1953, 1959<sup>2</sup>) 135-149; Avi-Yonah, M., «Mount Carmel and the God of Baalbeck», IEJ 2, 1952, 118-124; idem, «Syrian Gods at Ptolemais-Akko», IEJ 9, 1959, 1-12; Eißfeldt, O., Der Gott Karmel (1953); Gallig, K., dans Geschichte und Altes Testament, Festschrift A. Alt (1953) 110-121; Hill, G. F., BMC Phoenicia (1910) LXXVII-LXXXVII 131-138 pl. 16-17, 42; Kadman, L., The Coins of Akko-Ptolemais, Corpus Nummorum Palaestiniensium IV (1961); Lifshitz, B., dans ANRW II 8 (1977) 13-16; Seyrig, H., «Divinités de Ptolémaïs», Syria 39, 1962, 193-207 pl. 13-14 = AntSyr VI (1966) 100-114; de Vaux, R., «Les prophètes de Baal sur le Mont Carmel», BullMusBeyrouth 5, 1941, 7-20.

CATALOGUE

Pour tous les documents, l'identification est incertaine.

A. Le dieu (Karmélos?) debout

Monnaies coloniales de Ptolémaïs-Aké

1. * AE, Alexandre Sévère (222-235), Philippe I et II (244-249), Valérien (253-260), peut-être Gallien (253-268). - De Saulcy, F., Numismatique de la Terre Sainte (1874) 166, 3 pl. 8, 10; van der Vliet, N., RBibl 57, 1950, 433 n° 4 pl. 6; Kadman n°s 196-197.

206-207. 220-221. 244; Seyrig 197 = 104 pl. 13, 7-9. - Rv. Dans un sanctuaire portatif avec colonnes, architrave, brancards et autel, dieu debout de face (calathos, longue gaine) tenant de la main g. un sceptre long, parfois surmonté d'une → Nike, et de la dr. une torche oblique; sur le socle, de chaque côté, torche ou pyrée (et non taureaux: Seyrig, o. c. et RNum 1962, 49 = Scripta Numismatica [1986] 285, contre Kadman 76). Variations dans le dessin de l'architrave (simple ou double) et la présentation du sanctuaire (de face, en perspective...).

Karmelos 1

2. * AE, peut-être Valérien (et non Caracalla: Seyrig), Gallien. - Hill, BMC 138, 50 pl. 17, 10; Kadman n°s 149. 256-258; Seyrig 199-200 = 106-107 p. 13, 10-11. - Rv. Dans un sanctuaire portatif à 4 colonnes et architrave ornée, dieu debout sur un rocher, en vêtement court, brandissant de la main dr. une bipenne et tenant de la g. un épi (?).

B. Buste (de Karmélos?)

3. * AE, Marc Aurèle (161-180), Septime Sévère (193-211) (et non Caracalla). - De Saulcy, o. c. I, 161, 4-5 pl. 8, 8; Babelon, Achémenides 223, 1535 pl. 29, 9; Kadman n°s 111. 123. 139; Seyrig 196 = 103 pl. 13, 6. - Rv. Buste à dr. radié et drapé, la barbe et la chevelure très fournie; sur le front se dressent trois mèches à l'aspect de flammes; devant, torche.

Karmelos 3

Karmelos 4a

C. Karmélos représenté par un symbole (pied)

4a) * (= Heliopolitani Dei 63 avec bibl.) AE, peut-être Elagabal (218-222), Valérien, Salonine

(253-268). - De Saulcy, o. c. I, 169, 1-2 pl. 8, 12; Babelon, Achémenides 228, 1562 pl. 29, 18; Rosenberger, M., City-Coins of Palestine I (1977) 29, 66 (Elagabal); 32, 84. - Rv. Pied dr. humain, tourné à dr., avec attache au sommet, surmonté d'un foudre; à dr. caducée, au-dessous, il peut y avoir une harpée.

4b) AE, Philippe II. - Meshorer, Y., City-Coins of Eretz-Israel. . . (1985) 15 n° 15. - Variante: pied tourné à g., foudre et caducée, pas de harpée.

Ronde bosse

5. (= Heliopolitani Dei 64 avec bibl.) Fr. de pied votif en marbre. Couvent carmélite Saint Elie du mont Carmel. Prov. probablement des environs. - Fin II<sup>e</sup>-début III<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - Doigts et avant d'un pied dr. monumental posé sur un socle. Dédicace de G. Ioulios Eutychas, colon de Césarée, à ΔΙΙ ΗΛΙΟΠΟΛΕΙΤΗ ΚΑΡΜΗΛΩ.

COMMENTAIRE

Le mont Carmel est mentionné pour la première fois dans les sources égyptiennes sous le nom de raši-qodšu («tête» ou «cap saint») dans les annales de Thoutmosis III en 1468 av. J.-C. et de Ramsès II lors de sa campagne sur l'Oronte. Cela laisse supposer qu'un culte y était déjà rendu (Ahituv, S. Canaanite Toponyms in Ancient Egyptian Documents [1984] 162). Mais la première mention explicite d'un tel culte se trouve en 1<sup>er</sup> Rois 18 et renvoie au IX<sup>e</sup> s.: dans un affrontement avec Elie sur la montagne, des prophètes de Baal préparent un sacrifice et demandent vainement au dieu de l'enflammer. C'est donc une épiphanie dans les flammes qui est attendue et le contexte permet d'affirmer qu'il s'agit d'un rite destiné à faire venir la pluie. Le dieu est donc lié au feu et à les caractères d'un dieu de l'orage et des éléments atmosphériques, comme il est normal pour le Seigneur d'une montagne avançant en promontoire sur la mer. Si le Baal ici célébré est une divinité locale de la montagne, analogue à Baal Şapon (Donner, H./Röllig, W., Kanaanäische und aramäische Inschriften 3 [1971-76] n° 50) ou à Baal Lebanon (ibid. n° 31), il a les caractères des dieux de l'orage phénicien (Baalshamim) et syrien (→ Hadad), qui tous deux seront plus tard identifiés à Zeus. On doit d'ailleurs noter que le culte de Hadad est lui aussi attesté dans la région d'Akko au II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. (Avi-Yonah 1959, 1-12). Mais il n'est fait mention dans le texte biblique ni d'une représentation du dieu ni d'un lieu de culte permanent.

La littérature classique ne permet pas non plus de connaître l'iconographie du dieu. A part la mention de Tacite selon lequel il ne faisait justement l'objet d'aucune image et n'avait pas de temple, il n'est question que de la sainteté du lieu et de son caractère secret (Jamblique), et d'un oracle qui aurait prédit l'empire à Vespasien (Tacite, Suétone) et poussé les Juifs à la rébellion (Orose). Le Pseudo-Scylax précise que le Carmel était «la montagne sainte de Zeus».

Il n'existe aucune représentation certaine de ce dieu. L'explication en est peut-être fournie par Tacite selon lequel son culte était aniconique. Certains monuments peuvent cependant être mis en rapport avec lui, comme le pied de marbre découvert sur le mont Carmel (5). L'inscription prouve qu'il était lié à son culte. L'hypothèse du premier éditeur, un fr. d'une statue monumentale, est infirmée par le parallèle des monnaies coloniales de Ptolémaïs qui représentent aussi un pied seul (4). Il s'agit d'un pied votif symbolisant le dieu (Guarducci, M., RendPontAcc 19, 1943, 322-328). L'assimilation du dieu Carmel à Zeus Héliopolitain, dont le nom Karmélos devient presque un qualificatif, le foudre qui surmonte le pied sur les monnaies, nous renvoient à une iconographie de dieu de l'orage. Le caducée serait le symbole de Mercure, lié ici à Zeus Héliopolitain comme à Baalbek (Seyrig 203-205 = 110-112).

Mais pour Seyrig 196-199 = 103-106, c'est un autre type monétaire de Ptolémaïs qui figurerait le dieu Carmel: dans un sanctuaire portatif, un dieu mâle engainé à la mode syrienne, coiffé du calathos, tenant une torche et entouré de pyrées (1). Ce dieu du feu ne serait autre que celui dont les prophètes de Baal attendaient qu'il enflamme leur sacrifice. Le type monétaire reproduirait une image qui se trouvait non dans le sanctuaire sur la montagne, où la figuration était interdite, mais dans un temple édifié dans la ville d'Akko, au territoire de laquelle appartenait la montagne. Le dieu est peut-être identique à celui dont le buste (qui fait penser à → Sarapis) orne d'autres émissions un peu plus anciennes (3): la torche et les flammes qui paraissent s'échapper de la chevelure lui donnent le même caractère de «dieu du feu». Enfin, si la monnaie signalée par Avi-Yonah 1959, 10 et représentant Tyché assise sur un roc face à un dieu montagnard «que nous savons être le dieu Carmel» n'a jamais été publiée, on doit mentionner, toujours sur des émissions de Ptolémaïs, un sanctuaire portatif avec une autre image d'un dieu debout sur un rocher (2), «Baal montagnard» selon Seyrig, que l'on pourrait aussi rapprocher du Baal du Carmel. FRANÇOISE BRIQUEL-CHATONNET

KARNEIOS → Apollon 313, p. 226, 389, p. 314, → Aristaios I 21

KARPO → Horai

KARPOI

(Karpot) Personnifications des Fruits, en tant qu'enfants de la Terre (→ Ge, → Tellus).

SOURCES LITTÉRAIRES: Les K. apparaissent exclusivement chez Jean de Gaza (Jo. Gaz. 2, 11-13; 33-44) dans sa description de la coupole peinte d'un bain d'hiver à Gaza (ou Antioche, selon une correction antique du manuscrit) (infra 3).

CATALOGUE

Mosaïques

1.* (= Aion 3*, = Boreas 7, = Drosio 1, = Ge 30, = Georgia 1, = Kairoi/Tempora anni 36 - avec bibl.) Damas, Mus. Nat. De Shahba-Philippopolis. - Fin du III<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - Au premier plan d'une composition cosmogonique dense, quatre bambins (inscr. KAPPIOI) entourent la figure de Gé assise; aux trois-quarts nus, ils se différencient entre eux par la couronne qui les coiffe et les fruits qu'ils portent.

2. (= Aroura 1* avec bibl.) Antakya, Mus. Hatay. D'Antioche, grande salle des bains E. - Rostovtzeff, M., «KAPPIOI», REA 42, 1940 (= Mél. G. Radet) 508-514. - 2<sup>e</sup> quart du IV<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - Entourant une Gé coiffée d'épis, à demi étendue sur un siège en forme de Sphinge, neuf jeunes garçons complètement nus portent une énorme guirlande de blé; deux d'entre eux, à g., placés plus près de Gé, évoquent le groupe de la Karpophoros avec ses deux enfants (infra 3); les autres, à dr., s'activent à moissonner ou à soulever la lourde charge; le dernier embrasse une jeune femme qu'une inscr. désigne comme Aro(ura), la Terre labourée. A dr., l'inscr. KAPPIOI se rapporte sans doute à l'ensemble du groupe.

Peinture

3. Coupole peinte. Gaza (ou Antioche), thermes d'hiver (descr. par Jean de Gaza). Perdue. - Friedländer, P., Johannes von Gaza und Paulus Silentarius (1912) 152-153. 192-194; Downey, G., «John of Gaza and the Mosaic of Ge and Karpoi», Antioch-on-the-Orontes II (1938) 205-212. - VI<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - Les jumeaux, nés de la Terre, sont figurés auprès de leur mère: l'un d'eux lui entoure le cou de ses bras et lève la tête vers elle pour l'embrasser, tandis que l'autre tend la main pour attraper les gouttes de pluie.

Seules les représentations authentifiées par une inscr. ont été reprises ici; pour les autres (cf. Strong, E., «Terra Mater or Italia?», JRS 27, 1937, 116-118), → Tellus, → Neilos.

Appendice: représentation hypothétiquement identifiée comme un Karpos

4. (= Horai/Horae 73* avec bibl. et renvois) Mosaïque. Mérida, Casa del Mitreo. - Quet, M.-H., La mosaïque cosmologique de Mérida (1981) 137-143. - 2<sup>e</sup> moitié du II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - Une figure féminine de Saison tient par la main un «putto-K.» portant un bouquet d'épis et une faucille, attributs de l'Été.

COMMENTAIRE

Il semble y avoir deux types iconographiques distincts des K., l'un où ils sont étroitement liés à Tellus, Terra Mater (1. 3), l'autre où le contexte égyptien est déterminant (2). Le premier type comporte de nombreuses variantes quant au nombre des K.: vraisemblablement deux à l'origine, ils peuvent, selon l'espace disponible, se réduire à un seul ou se multiplier jusqu'à trois ou quatre; dans ce dernier cas, ils portent fréquemment des attributs précis et sont dès lors assis-milés aux Saisons (mosaïque de Sentinum p.ex., → Kairoi/Tempora anni 35 = Aion 13*, → Tellus). Les K. du second type sont liés à la procession du Nil après la crue (cf. Rostovtzeff, o.c. 2) et symbolisent les «fruits» de la Terre d'Égypte: c'est pourquoi Gé, sur la mosaïque d'Antioche, est assise sur une Sphinge (→ Sphinx); on les a généralement identifiés dans ce cas aux → Pecheis (les «coudées», qui doivent être au nombre de 16 pour que l'inondation soit bonne; cf. Bonneau, D., La crue du Nil [1964] 343-345).

On ne retrouve à Mérida (4) aucun de ces deux types; l'enfant doit être sans doute un simple dédoublement de la Saison dont il porte l'attribut.

JANINE BALTZ

KARRHAI → LIMC Suppl.

KASMILOS → Megaloi Theoi

KASSANDRA I → Aias II, → Addenda vol. sq.

KASSANDRA II / KASSANDROS

In der praenestischen Form Casenter Name einer Reiterin oder eines Reiters auf:

1. (= Altria/Alsir 2 mit Lit., = Amazones Etruscae 4* mit Lit., = Chryseis I 2, = Helene/Elina 41) Bronzeciste, praenestisch, Berlin (DDR), Staatl. Mus. 3467 (Fr. 542). - CPI I Nr. 9 Taf. 73; Steuding, H., ML I 1, 855 s. v. «Casenter(a)»; Wachter, R., Altlateinische Inschriften (1987) 154-158. - 3. Jh. v. Chr. - Neben einem jugendlichen, nach l. gewendeten Reiter oder einer Reiterin (Chiton und Chlamys, Schuhe, bewaffnet mit Lanze, Schild und Beinschienen) ist die Beischrift Casenter zu lesen, die entweder als vollständige, altlateinische Form des Namens Kassandros oder als unvollständig zu Casentera zu ergänzende, von Kassandra abgeleitete Form zu interpretieren ist (Wachter 156 erwägt auch die Lesung Casentia, die aber ein Ungenauigkeit des Zeichners der einzig publizierten Abbildung voraussetzt; am Original läßt sich die Lesung nicht mehr überprüfen).

Das Geschlecht der Reitergestalt ist unbestimmt; daß es sich um eine Frau, d. h. um eine Amazone handelt, wird meist geschlossen aus der Namensbeischrift Oinumama bei einer sehr ähnlichen, nach r. reitenden Gestalt r. von Ajax. Während Oinumama wohl als Unimamma, d. h. «die mit (nur) einer Brust» zu erklären ist (Lit. bei Wachter 158), ist Kassandra als Amazonenname nicht überliefert. Da der Name selbst aber durch Kassandra I in Mittelitalien wesentlich bekannter gewesen sein dürfte als Kassandros, ein Bundesgenosse der Troer (s. ML II 1, 985-986 s. v. «Kassandros»), und zudem aus Analogie zu Oinumama eine weibliche Form naheliegt, dürfte die Lesung Casenter[a] vorzuziehen sein, aber auch die Form Casenter/Kassandros kann nicht ganz ausgeschlossen werden.

INGRID KRAUSKOPF

KASSIEPEIA → Addenda vol. sq.

KASSIOPEIA → Kassiepeia (Addenda vol. sq.)

KASSMIA → Oidipous, → Sphinx (LIMC Suppl.)

KASTALIA I

(Κασταλία, Castalia) Personnification de la source Castalie à Delphes, fille d'→ Acheloo et épouse de → Delphos.

SOURCES LITTÉRAIRES: La source de Delphes K. est connue par de nombreux témoignages, mais peu de textes ont trait à sa nymphe éponyme. K. est fille d'→ Acheloo (Panyassis fig. 15 K Matthews) et épouse de Delphos, mère de Kastalios et de Phémone (Schol. Eur. Or. 1094). Une autre version la présente comme une jeune fille de Delphes, aimée d'→ Apollon, qui pour échapper au dieu se jeta dans la fontaine à laquelle on donna son nom (Schol. Stat. Theb. 1, 698).

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Drexler, W., ML II 1 (1890-94) 996 s. v. «Kastalia»; Kroll, W., RE X 2 (1919) 2338 s. v. «Kastalia 2».

CATALOGUE

DOCUMENTS D'IDENTIFICATION INCERTAINE

1.* (= Apollon 1007 avec bibl., = Delphos 2) Statue fr. de «Coré», en marbre, fronton est du temple archaïque d'Apollon. Delphes, Mus. - Fin du VI<sup>e</sup> s. av. J.-C. - La Coré à la dr. du dieu pourrait être, selon moi, K. (cf. Commentaire).

2. (= Delos I 4 avec bibl.) Mosaïque. Oran, Mus. De Portus Magnus (Algérie). - Robert, C., JdI 5, 1890, 217 pl. 5. - IV<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - Dans une scène énigmatique, une femme dénudée portant une phiale a été identifiée comme K. face à Neptune (→ Poseidon/Neptunus) qui frapperait du trident le serpent Python (Robert).

3.* Mosaïque. Delphes, Mus. De la basilique fouillée dans le village moderne. - Daux, G., BCH 84, 1960, 754; Sodini, J.-P., BCH 94, 1970, 711 n. 21; idem, BCH 95, 1971, 582; Spiro, M., Critical Corpus of the Mosaic Pavements on the Greek Mainland... (1978) 237 pl. 252. - Fin V<sup>e</sup>-début VI<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - Dans le médaillon central entouré d'une couronne de laurier, l'avant-bras g. d'un personnage mutilé tient par la base une cruche d'où s'échappe un filet d'eau.

COMMENTAIRE

Sur le fronton est du temple de Delphes 1, la présence de K. accentue le caractère local de la scène. Plutôt que d'y voir l'arrivée d'Apollon avec des Athéniens (Plassart, A., REA 42, 1940, 297-298; Dörig, J., AntK 4. Beih. [1967] 107-109), j'adopte l'hypothèse de Lambrinoudakis, → Apollon 1007 et Commentaire. Les divinités épichoriques Delphos et K. accueillent Apollon escorté par deux Hyperboréennes et deux Hyperboréens (→ Hyperboreioi), qui sont, selon moi, les deux fondateurs de l'oracle (cf. Paus. 10, 5, 7); une paraphrase d'Alk. fig. 307 Voigt mentionne en effet la source K. dans le récit du retour d'Apollon.

L'identification de K. est au contraire insoutenable sur la mosaïque 2: rien n'indique que la scène se passe à Delphes; le serpent ne peut être Python, qui fut tué par Apollon, non par Neptune.

En revanche, la figure très lacunaire de Delphes (3) doit représenter K., à cause du lieu de trouvaille de cette mosaïque. Le mosaïste a pu s'inspirer de figurations contemporaines de la K. de Daphné, dont le silence symbolise la victoire du christianisme sur le paganisme (→ Kastalia II).

On se gardera de reconnaître un symbole de K. dans toute hydrie associée à un trépied. Sur un bas-relief d'Akraï (→ Apollon 675) qui présente peut-être cette image (Mingazzini, P., Scritti vari, éd. G. de Luca [1986] 60), l'hydrie restituée ne saurait représenter K., même si son eau est associée à la notion de purification (cf. Amandry, P., BCH Suppl. IV [1977] 198 n. 11); l'hydrie contient l'eau de la fontaine Cassotis, qui a quelque signification cultuelle (cf. Roux, G., Delphes, son oracle et ses dieux [1976] 136-144).

FRANÇOIS QUEYREL

KASTALIA II

(Κασταλία, Castalia) Personnification de la source Castalie du sanctuaire de Daphné près d'Antioche.

SOURCES LITTÉRAIRES: Les témoignages sur le caractère oraculaire de la source sont nombreux, mais la figure mythologique n'est pas évoquée dans les textes. Le pouvoir prophétique de son eau distingue la Castalie d'Antioche de son homonyme de Delphes, → Kastalia I (Bernardi). La littérature chrétienne raille le silence de l'oracle, dont Julien a voulu restaurer le pouvoir fatidique en débouchant la source, qu'Hadrien avait fait obstruer (Soz. 5, 19, 10-11; cf. Bidez).

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Bernardi, J., éd. de Grégoire de Naziance, Contre Julien. Deuxième invective (1983) 358 n. 1; Bidez, J., La vie de l'Empereur Julien (1930) 286-287. 401 n. 15-16; Bouché-Leclercq, A., Hist. de la divination dans l'antiquité III (1880) 267-269; Downey, G., A History of Antioch in Syria (1961) 83-84. 222. 364. 387-388; Kroll, W., RE X (1919) 2338 s. v. «Kastalia 3»; Martin, R., dans Festugière, A. J., Antioche païenne et chrétienne (1959) 54.

CATALOGUE

IDENTIFICATION ASSURÉE

1. * Mosaïque. De Yakto, Antioche. - Seyrig, H., Berytus 2, 1935, 45 = Scripta varia (1985) 481; Levi, Antioch 329 pl. 79a. - 2<sup>e</sup> moitié du V<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - Sur la bordure à thème topographique, K., identifiée par l'inscr. ΚΑΣΤΑΛΙΑ, est figurée sous l'apparence d'un personnage féminin, le torse nu, les jambes enveloppées dans un himation de couleur verte. Elle retient de la main g. un vase d'où s'échappe un filet d'eau qui alimente un bâtiment semi-circulaire figuré dessous.

2. * Mosaïque. Gasr el-Libia (Libye, Cyrénaïque), Mus. De la basilique. - Grabar, A., CRAI 1969, 275-278; Stern, H., ibidem 279-282 fig. 1; Alföldi-Rosenbaum, E./Ward-Perkins, J., Justinianic Mosaic Pavements in Cyrenaican Churches (1980) 33 n. 84; 39-40. 126 D 3; 146 A VIII, pl. 11, 1; 105, 4. - 539-540 ap. J.-C. - K. (inscr. ΚΑΣΤΑΛΙΑ) est entourée par l'Euphrate et le Tigre (→ Euphrates, → Tigris), tournés vers elle. La nymphe, à demi nue, est assise près d'un arbre aux fruits rouges; elle repose son bras dr. sur la tête, qui est serrée dans un foulard, tandis que sa main g. retient un vase d'où coule un flot d'eau.

IDENTIFICATION VRAISEMBLABLE

3. (= Apollon/Apollo 451, = Daphne 40, = Hylas 33 - avec bibl.) Site en argent. Leningrad, Ermitage 2160/2. De Concesti (Roumanie). - V<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - Je propose d'identifier comme K. la Nymphe assise à la g. de Daphné; elle tient un rameau de laurier dans la main dr., tandis que son autre main repose sur une jarre d'où s'échappe un flot d'eau.

4. (= Daphne 40a) Tissu copte. Zurich, marché des ant. - IV<sup>e</sup> ou V<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - La Nymphe debout qui porte un bassin pourrait, me semble-t-il, représenter K., en compagnie d'Apollon et de Daphné.

COMMENTAIRE

La date tardive des images de K. s'explique sans doute par l'histoire de la source, qui, après avoir été obstruée par Hadrien, coula de nouveau sous Julien. Le paysage d'Antioche et de son faubourg autorise à identifier comme K. II la Nymphe figurée sur la mosaïque 1 au-dessus d'un bâtiment qui doit être le «théâtre des sources», réservoir de Daphné (Malalas chronographia 11 p. 278 Dindorf; cf. Downey 221 n. 97).

Le silence de l'oracle de K. II est peut-être indiqué par la pose alanguie de la Nymphe de la basilique libyenne 2 (Grabar); j'ajoute un argument en faveur de cette interprétation: le temple qui fait pendant à la figure de K. (Alföldi-Rosenbaum/Ward-Perkins, o. c. 2, F3, 128 pl. 16, 2) représente, selon moi, le temple déchu d'Apollon à Daphné, plutôt que le temple de Jérusalem (Stern, o. c. 2). L'attitude de K., qui reprend la pose de l'Apollon Delphinios (→ Apollon 66-66a; cf. Thomas, E., IstanbMitt 33, 1983, 123-133 pl. 27-30), a une double signification: elle rappelle le lien de K. avec Apollon, qui se marque dans la proximité de la source et du temple (Downey 364 n. 217), tout en évoquant le silence de l'oracle.

Sur les documents 3 et 4, la présence d'une Nymphe aux côtés d'Apollon et de Daphné amène à l'identifier comme la K. du sanctuaire de Daphné. Sur la situle 3, K. reprend partiellement, en l'inversant, l'attitude qu'elle adopte sur la mosaïque 2, sans toutefois poser un bras sur la tête.

Signalons enfin que K. II sera encore représentée au XI<sup>e</sup> s., sur des miniatures qui ne suivent aucune tradition classique (cf. Weitzmann, K., Greek Mythology in Byzantine Art [1951] 61-63 pl. 22, 74; 23, 76; Grabar, o. c. 2, 276 n. 1 fig. 5). FRANÇOIS QUEYREL

KASTOR → Dioskouroi

KASTUR, KASUTRU → Dioskouroi/Tinas cliniar 58. 59. 77

KATARRHAKTES

(Katarrhaktēs, Cata(r)rhactes) Personifikation des gleichnamigen Flusses in Pamphylien, heute Düden Su, genannt nach dem Wasserfall, mit dem er über die Klippen ins Meer mündet.

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Drexler, W., ML II 1 (1890-94) 1002 s. v. «Katarrhaktēs»; Joly, E., EAA IV (1961) 332 s. v. «Katarrhaktēs»; Ruge, W., RE X 2 (1919) 2485 s. v. «Katarrhaktēs 12»; Waser, O., RE VI 2 (1909) 2789. 2802 s. v. «Flußgötter».

1. * AE, Magydos (Pamphylien), Marcus Aurelius bis Gallienus (161-268 n. Chr.). - Löbbecke, A., ZfN 12, 1885, 326 Nr. 1; BMC Pamphylia 116, 6; Imhoof-Blumer, KIM II 325 Nr. 3; idem, Fluß 333 Nr. 400 Taf. 13, 6; SNG v. Aulock 4642. 4646. 8510. - Rs.: K. bärtig, linkshin gelagert, ein Himation um den Unterkörper geschlungen, mit dem l. Arm auf ein Quellgefäß gestützt, in der l. Armbeuge Füllhorn, in der Rechten geschultertes Schilfrohr.

Die nach dem in hellenistisch-römischer Zeit üblichen Schema der Flußgötter (→ Fluvii) dargestellte Figur auf den Münzen von Magydos ist nirgends durch eine Beischrift näher bezeichnet. Die gängige Deutung dieser Gestalt als K. ist jedoch durchaus glaubwürdig, da zwei Quellen die Stadt Magydos in Verbindung mit dem Fluß K. nennen (Skylax 100; Ptol. 5, 5, 2); daneben taucht der Name Magydos nur in der Spätantike als Herkunftsbezeichnung sowie im Mittelalter auf (vgl. Ruge, W., RE XIV 1 [1928] 521 s. v. «Magydos»); der Fluß erscheint an zwei weiteren Stellen ohne Erwähnung der Stadt (Strabon 14, 4, 1 p. 667; Mela 1, 14, 79). THOMAS GANSCHOW

KAUKASOS

(Καυκάσος, Caucasus) Personification des Monte Caucas, lieu de châtement de → Prometheus.

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Häfer, O., ML II 1 (1890-94) 1004-1005 s. v. «Kaukasos»; Milchhöfer, A., Die Befreiung des Prometheus. Ein Fund aus Pergamon, 42. BerlWP (1882); Paribeni, E., EAA IV (1961) 332 s. v. «Kaukasos».

CATALOGUE

1. * Relief de marbre, frs. Berlin-DDR, Staatl. Mus. D'un monument votif élevé par Mithridate Eupator. - Milchhöfer, passim pl. 1; Winter, F., Pergamon VII 2 (1908) 175-180 pl. 37. - 1<sup>re</sup> moitié du 1<sup>er</sup> s. av. J.-C. - Selon la mise en place proposée par Milchhöfer, Prométhée est enchaîné sur un fond rocheux dans l'angle g. du relief; en contrebas → Herakles tend son arc. A l'aplomb de Prométhée, K. de dos, drapé dans son manteau qui laisse l'épaule dr. découverte.

2. Sarcophage, petit côté dr. perdu. Paris, Louvre MA 355. Ex-coll. Borghèse. - Dessin de Cifferi, Recueil Topham (XVIII<sup>e</sup> s.), Bibliothèque d'Eton Bm II, 38, 2; Baratte/Metzger, SarcLouv n° 46 (bibl.). - Vers 220 ap. J.-C. - L'aigle dévore le foie de Prométhée enchaîné, cependant qu'Héraclès bande son arc. Aux pieds de Prométhée, K. (pour Baratte, o. c. 114, il s'agit de → Tartaros).

3. * Sarcophage en marbre. Rom, Mus. Cap. 329. - Helbig II<sup>e</sup> n° 1257 (bibl.); Milchhöfer 6 et vignette p. 1; SarkRel III 3 fig. 355 b; Raggio, O., JWarbInst 21, 1958, 47 pl. 5 d. - Fin III<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - La silhouette de Prométhée forme l'arête entre la face principale et le petit côté du sarcophage. Dans l'angle supérieur dr., K. repose dans l'attitude préférée des dieux fluviaux sur un sol rocheux et pentu. Il contemple la délivrance de Prométhée par Héraclès, le front posé sur une cornucopia qu'il retient de la main dr. Il est barbu, un manteau agrafé sur le cou drape ses jambes; il tient un rameau ou une palme au creux du bras g.

COMMENTAIRE

K. est un simple figurant dans les scènes représentant la libération de Prométhée. Comme d'autres dieux de montagne (→ Montes), il apparaît sous les traits d'un homme mûr, comparable à un dieu fleuve atypique. L'identification du personnage comme Tartaros (2) est difficile à admettre lorsqu'il a pour attribut une corne d'abondance, car celle-ci est l'emblème des terres fertiles, ce que le Tartare ne peut être (néanmoins Pluton est souvent représenté avec la corne d'abondance). K. n'est reconnaissable que dans les scènes qui ont lieu dans le Caucase. Comme toute personification d'un lieu éloigné sans épaisseur légendaire, K. est dépourvu de relief. ANNE NERCESSIAN

KAULOS

(Caulus) Figlio dell'Amazzone Kleite, eponimo ed ecista di Kaulonia, in Magna Grecia.

FONTI LETTERARIE: Di lui è noto soltanto il nome, generalmente ricostruito sulla base del latino Caulus, Serv. Aen. 3, 553; Hekat., FGH I F 84, con tradizione manoscritta non concorde, dà invece Αύλων (?).

BIBLIOGRAFIA: Bayet, J., Idéologie et plastique (1959) 73-81; Cazzaniga, I., «Il dio e la cerva nella monetazione di Caulonia e la tradizione ecistica cauloniata», PP 122, 1968, 371-383; idem, RINum 71, 1969, 9-24; Giannelli, G., Culti e miti della Magna Grecia (1963) 179-185; Head, HN 92-93; Lacroix, L., «L'Apollon de Caulonia», RBN 105, 1959, 5-24; idem, Monnaies et colonisation dans l'Occident grec (1965) 159-161; Lambrinoudakis, W., → Apollon 391, con bibl.; Lloyd, W., «On the types of the coins of Caulonia», NC 10, 1848, 1-20; Noe, S. P., The coinage of Caulonia (1958) 3-6; Panofka, Th., «Über die Münztypen von Kaulonia», AZ 1, 1843, 165-175; Robinson, E. S. G., «Rhegion, Zankle-Messana and the Samians», JHS 66, 1946, 16; Stoll, H. W., ML II 1 (1890-94) 1005-1006 s. v. «Kaulos».

Per la cronologia delle monete di Caulonia: Kraay, C. M., «Caulonia and south Italian problems», NC 1960, 53-82.

CATALOGO

Monete di Caulonia

1. (= Apollon 391*) AR, stateri e dracme, Periodo I, 530-475 a. C. (Kraay). - Noe, Gruppi A-D, tavv. 1-5, 15. 201-205; SNG Oxford 1425-1436; SNG München 1396-1400; SNG ANS 141-164. - D.: Figura maschile nuda in moto verso d.; tiene nella d. sollevata un ramo di alloro, e sulla s. distesa una figurina maschile in corsa, spesso col capo rivolto verso il dio e con rami in mano. A d. cerva che guarda il giovane uomo; entrambi su corta base. R.: Stesso tipo in incuso.

2. * AR, stateri, dracme e frazioni, Periodo II, 475-435 a. C. (Kraay). - Noe, Gruppi E-F, tavv. 6-9, 15. 208-215; SNG Oxford 1437-1444; SNG München 1401-1407. 1416-1417; SNG ANS 165-183. 215-218. - D.: Idem. R.: Cerva e simboli vari.

3. * AR, stateri, dracme e frazioni, Periodo III, 435-389/8 a. C. (Kraay). - Noe, Gruppi G-J, tavv. 9-14, 15. 216a-228; SNG Oxford 1445-1458; SNG München 1408-1415. 1418-1420; SNG ANS 184-214. 219-223. - D.: Stessa figura maschile stilisticamente evoluta. Scompare il piccolo daimon e spesso manca anche la cerva, che appare sostituita o accompagnata da altri simboli (fra cui: albero; airone; mosca; fontana, bucranio ed erma itfallica; altare; delfini). R.: Cerva e simboli vari.

4. AR, oboli e dioboli; Noe, tav. 15. 229-232. - D.: Giovane testa maschile a d., con corona di alloro e capelli lunghi, o senza corona e capelli raccolti sulla nuca. R.: Cerva a d.

COMMENTO

L'identificazione con K. della figura virile nuda, con piccolo daimon sul braccio e ramo di alloro in mano, che caratterizza l'intera monetazione di Caulonia, era stata proposta nell'800 dal Panofka, senza peraltro trovare molto seguito.

Oggi gli studiosi concordano nel riconoscere nel tipo cauloniato → Apollon Daphnephoros; ancora incerti rimangono invece l'identificazione e il significato della figurina che il dio reca sul braccio. Il Robinson vi riconosceva un simbolo solare confrontabile con la svastica o con la triskelès, espressione della natura heliaca del dio; J. Bayet pensava ad un εἰδωλον, personificazione della potenza spirituale emanante dalla statua di Apollo. L. Lacroix lo identifica con un παῖς ἀμφιθαλής, riconoscibile dai rami lustrali che tiene in mano, che corre ad annunciare nella valle di Tempe l'arrivo del dio. Il nesso ideale con il luogo tessalico verrebbe assicurato dall'antico nome Aulon, per Kaulonia, derivante da αὐλὼν, «valle» (Hekat. l.c.), nome che si applicava in special modo a quella di Tempe: là Apollo aveva raccolto l'alloro prima di prendere possesso dell'oracolo di Delfi. Ove si ammetta la correttezza della lezione manoscritta di Ecatteo, che sembra far risalire ad un eponimo Aulon la denominazione più antica di Caulonia, il legame della polis con la valle tessalica risulterebbe mediato dalla figura stessa del fondatore eponimo. Di conseguenza, poiché l'iconografia dell'Apollon cauloniato costituisce un unicum fra i documenti pervenuti, non si esclude che essa sia stata influenzata da tradizioni locali e che l'Apollon, in funzione di Archaghetas, sia venuto a sovrapporsi ad una divinità preesistente, il cui ricordo sarebbe sopravvissuto nel mitico K., figlio di una Amazzone. A tal proposito la costante presenza della cerva sulle monete di Caulonia (pur essendo un simbolo non estraneo ad Apollon), potrebbe essere letta in relazione al culto di Artemis, di quella Efesia in particolare, il cui culto era stato fondato proprio dalle Amazzoni (→ Artemis Ephesia). Potrebbe essere questo un indizio per la ricostruzione della sfuggente figura dell'Apollon Cauloniato.

MARIA CACCAMO CALTABIANO

KAYSTROS I

(Καύστρος, Καύστριος [ältere Namensform, erscheint nur in Hom. Il. 2, 461 und bei Hdt. 5, 100], Caystrus) Personifikation des gleichnamigen Flusses, der südlich von Sardes am Tmolos-Gebirge entspringt und nördlich von Ephesos ins Meer mündet, heute Küçük Menderes. Sohn des → Achilleus und der → Penthesileia (Serv. Aen. 11, 661), Vater des → Ephesos (II) (Paus. 7, 2, 7), des mythischen Gründers der Stadt und des Artemisions; heiratete in Askalon die → Derketo, die ihm die → Semiramis gebar (Etym. m. s.v. «Kaystros»). Zusammen mit dem Heros Asios auf der Asischen Wiese in einem Heroon verehrt (Strabon 14, 1, 45 p. 650).

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Büchner, L., RE XI 1 (1921) 100-101 s.v. «Kaystros I»; Joly, E., EAA IV (1961) 332-333

s.v. «Kaystros»; Stoll, H. W./Drexler, W., ML II 1 (1890-94) 1008-1009 s.v. «Kaystros»; Waser, O., RE VI 2 (1909) 2789. 2802 s.v. «Flußgötter».

KATALOG

a) Kaystros gelagert, bekleidet mit einem um den Unterkörper geschlungenen Himation

1.* (= Kenchreios 2) AE, Ephesos (Ionien), Antoninus Pius (138-161 n. Chr.). - BMC Ionia 78, 236 Taf. 13, 8; Imhoof-Blumer, Flußg 278 Nr. 262 Taf. 9, 1. - Rs.: Zwei einander zugewandte gelagerte Flußgötter zu Füßen des Kultbildes der → Artemis Ephesia. R. → Kenchreios, l. K., mit dem r. Arm auf ein Quellgefäß gestützt, über dem r. Unterarm ein Gewandzipfel, in der Linken Schilfrohr. ΕΦΕΣΙΩΝ ΔΙΕ ΝΕΩΚΟΡΩΝ ΚΑΥΣΤΡΟΣ ΚΕΝΧΡΕΙΟΣ.

2.* AE, Ephesos (Ionien), Diadumenianus (217-218 n. Chr.). - Imhoof-Blumer, Flußg 278 Nr. 261 Taf. 8, 26. - Rs.: K. bärtig, linkshin gelagert, ein Zipfel des Gewandes fällt über seine l. Schulter herab, den l. Arm an ein Quellgefäß gelehnt, in der l. Armbeuge Füllhorn, in der Rechten Schilfrohr. ΕΦΕΣΙΩΝ ΚΑΥΣΤΡΟΣ.

3. AE, Ephesos (Ionien), Commodus (176-192 n. Chr.). - Imhoof-Blumer Flußg 278. - Rs.: K. unbärtig, sonst wie 2.

4.* AE, Homonoia-Prägung Ephesos-Alexandria (Ägypten), Gordianus III. (238-244 n. Chr.). - Milne, J. G., NC 1937, 164, Ephesos Nr. 52 Taf. 8, 3. - Rs.: Zwei einander gegenüber gelagerte Flußgötter: R. → Neilos mit Statuette der → Isis, l. K., in der Rechten Schilfrohr, auf der l. Hand Statuette der Artemis Ephesia en face. ΟΜΟΝΟΙΑ ΕΦΕΣΙΩΝ ΚΑΙ ΑΛΕΞΑΝΔΡΕΩΝ.

5.* AE, Dioshieron (Lydien), antoninisch. - BMC Lydia 74, 4-5 Taf. 8, 8; Imhoof-Blumer, Flußg 297 Nr. 308. - Rs.: K. nach l. gelagert, den l. Unterarm auf ein Quellgefäß gestützt, in der l. Armbeuge ein Füllhorn, in der Rechten geschultertes Schilfrohr. (ΔΙΟΣΙΕΡΕΙΩΝ) ΚΑΥΣΤΡΟΣ. Vs.: → Demos oder → Senatus.

6.* AE, Dioshieron (Lydien), hadrianisch bis antoninisch. - Imhoof-Blumer, Flußg 297 Nr. 307 Taf. 10, 13; SNG Copenhagen 112. - Rs.: wie 5, ohne Füllhorn. ΚΑΥΣΤΡΟΣ. Vs.: → Athena.

7.* AE, Hypaipa (Lydien), Zeit des Hadrianus bis Septimius Severus. - BMC Lydia 109, 6 Taf. 12, 3; Imhoof-Blumer, Flußg 299 Nr. 312. - Rs.: K., linkshin gelagert, lehnt an einem Felsen, an dessen Fuß ein Quellgefäß sprudelt; in der l. Armbeuge ein Füllhorn, in der r. Hand ein Schilfrohr. ΥΠΑΙΠΗΝΩΝ ΚΑΥΣΤΡΟΣ. Vs.: → Senatus.

b) Kaystros auftauchend, dargestellt ist nur der Oberkörper

8.* (= Ephesos I 3) Friesplatte des sog. Partherdenkmales, Marmor. Wien, Kunsth. Mus. I 1662. Aus Ephesos. - 169 n. Chr. oder kurz danach. - Oberleitner, W., Funde aus Ephesos und Samothrake (1978) Kat.-Nr. 70 («Skirtos»); Oberleitner vermutet in dem verlorenen Flußgott der Friesplatte Kat.-Nr. 71 den

K.); Diez, E., in Lebendige Altertumswissenschaft, Festschr. H. Vettors (1985) 218 Abb. 2 (Kaystros). - Friesplatte mit zwei stehenden weiblichen Figuren, zwischen denen am unteren Bildrand ein sehr fragmentarisch erhaltener Flußgott auftaucht: Außer einem Teil des Oberkörpers ist nur der von einem Gewand umhüllte l. Unterarm zu erkennen, der sich auf ein Meeresungeheuer stützt; die Hand hält einen Delphin.

c) Kaystros sitzend

9.* Miniatur in der Handschrift der Theriaka des Nikandros. Paris, Bibl. Nat. Ms. suppl. grec 247 fol. 18 v. - 10. Jh. - GazArch 2, 1876, Taf. 11, 1; Omont, H., Miniatures des plus anciens manuscrits grecs de la Bibl. Nat. du VI<sup>e</sup> au XIV<sup>e</sup> s. (1929) 38-39 Taf. 66, 3; Bibliothèque Nationale. Byzance et la France médiévale. Manuscrits à peintures du II<sup>e</sup> au XVI<sup>e</sup> siècle (1958) 2-3 Nr. 3. - Zwei einander gegenüber sitzende Personen mit Nimbus, beide in eine lange blaue Tunika gekleidet, über die ein rötlicher Mantel gelegt ist. R. → Kilbis, l. K. als Jüngling, beide Hände nach r. ausgestreckt. Zwischen den Figuren ein kleiner Teich. Im Hintergrund das Grabmal des Gyges als tetrastylar Prostylon.

d) Deutung auf Kaystros auszuschließen

10. (= Amazzonen 798* mit Lit., = Ephesos I 1, = Hierokaisareia I mit Lit. und Querverweisen) Basis einer Statue des Tiberius, sog. Puteolanische Basis, Marmor. Neapel, Mus. Naz. 6780. Angeblich aus Pozzuoli. - 30 n. Chr. (Jahn) oder 81-91 n. Chr. (Mingazzini). - Auf der Rückseite → Ephesos (I) als Amazone zwischen den Personifikationen anderer kleinasiatischer Städte stehend, den l. Fuß auf einen bärtigen Kopf mit langem strähnigen Haar gesetzt, dessen obere Gesichtshälfte stark bestoßen ist.

11. AE, Untere Kilbianer (Lydien), Iulia Domna (193-217 n. Chr.), Caracalla (198-217 n. Chr.), Geta Caesar (198-209 n. Chr.). - BMC Lydia 66, 13-15 Taf. 7, 9 (Kilbos); Imhoof-Blumer, Flußg 301 Nr. 316-317 Taf. 10, 20 (Kaystros); SNG v. Aulock 2993 (Kaystros); SNG Copenhagen 109 (Flußgott). - Rs.: Nach l. gelagerter Flußgott, ein Himation um den Unterkörper geschlungen, den l. Arm auf ein Quellgefäß gelehnt, in der Rechten ein Schilfrohr. ΝΕΙΚΑΕΩΝ ΤΩΝ ΕΝ ΚΙΑΒΙΑΝΩ bzw. ΝΕΙΚΑΕΩΝ ΚΙΑΒΙΑΝΩΝ.

12. AE, Untere Kilbianer (Lydien), Caracalla (198-217 n. Chr.). - SNG Fitzwilliam 4853 (Kaystros). - Rs.: Wie 11, der Flußgott trägt außerdem in der l. Armbeuge ein Füllhorn. ΝΕΙΚΑΕΩΝ ΚΙΑΒΙΑΝΩΝ.

KOMMENTAR

Auf Münzen (1-7) ist K. im üblichen Schema der gelagerten männlichen Flußgötter hellenistisch-römischer Zeit wiedergegeben (→ Fluvii). Zwei Prägungen zeigen K. zusammen mit anderen Flußgöttern (1. 4): Während es sich bei 4 um eine Homonoia-Prägung zwischen Alexandria und Ephesos handelt, sind zu 1 nur Vermutungen darüber anzustellen, warum hier neben K. auch und gerade Kenchreios dargestellt wurde (vgl. hierzu → Kenchreios).

Das sog. Partherdenkmal von Ephesos (8) wurde kurz nach dem Tode des Lucius Verus, der den Oberbefehl über den Partherfeldzug der Jahre 162-165 innehatte, zu dessen Verherrlichung errichtet. In einer Serie verhältnismäßig schlecht erhaltener Relieftafeln erscheinen Personifikationen verschiedener Städte, die während der Kampfhandlungen eine Rolle spielten. Ephesos als zweites Hauptquartier des Kaisers durfte dabei sicher nicht fehlen. Unsicher ist jedoch, ob → Androklos oder eine Amazone stellvertretend für Ephesos steht. Oberleitner vermutet den mythischen Stadtgründer in den Fragmenten eines Kriegers, oberhalb dessen linker Schulter er einen Eber ergänzen möchte (Oberleitner 85). Sicher benennbar erscheint Androklos sonst nur in Darstellungen, die die Stadtgründungslegende zum Inhalt haben, oder zusammen mit anderen Göttern bzw. Heroen, jedoch nicht als Repräsentant der Stadt. Daher dürfte der Hypothese von Frau Diez der Vorzug zu geben sein: Sie erkennt Ephesos in der Amazone, die ein vexillum mit lunula und Stern - Beizeichen der Artemis Ephesia (Diez 217) - trägt. Der Flußgott zu deren Füßen wäre somit als K. zu bezeichnen. Auch auf der - allerdings früheren - Puteolanischen Basis wird Ephesos als Amazone dargestellt, durch eine Namensbezeichnung eindeutig gekennzeichnet.

In Vers 635 der Theriaka des Nikandros (9) ist K. genannt, so daß über die Deutung der Figur kein Zweifel besteht. Er erscheint als vollständig bekleideter Jüngling mit Nimbus im Sprechgestus zu der ihm gegenüber sitzenden → Kilbis. Die übrigen erhaltenen Darstellungen des K. zeigen ihn als männliche Gestalt, teils bärtig, teils jugendlich, mit nacktem Oberkörper und den seinem Element zukommenden Attributen (1-8), also im üblichen Schema der hellenistisch-römischen Zeit. Vollständig bekleidete Flußgötter hingegen erscheinen in der Klassik, sind aber stets als würdige alte Männer charakterisiert; Jünglinge als Personifikationen von Flüssen treten ab der Mitte des 5. Jh. v. Chr. auf, werden jedoch nackt dargestellt (→ Fluvii). Der Künstler, der die Vorlage der Miniatur geschaffen hat, dürfte somit zwei verschiedene Darstellungsformen für Flußgötter miteinander verschmolzen haben. Das Original wird daher weder in der Klassik noch in der hellenistisch-römischen Epoche entstanden sein, sondern wahrscheinlich erst in spätrömischer oder byzantinischer Zeit.

Die Puteolanische Basis (10) stellt die verkleinerte Nachbildung einer auf dem Caesar-Forum in Rom aufgestellten Weihung an Tiberius dar, die von mehreren durch verschiedene Erdbeben während der Regierungszeit des Kaisers stark zerstörte Städte Kleinasien zum Dank für dessen Hilfe errichtet wurde (zu den antiken Quellen und zur Interpretation der Figuren vgl. → Hierokaisareia). Nach allgemeiner Ansicht handelt es sich bei dem Kopf unter dem linken Fuß der → Ephesos (I) um die Maske eines Flußgottes (z. B. Diez, a.O. 8, 219 Anm. 38), wohl des K. (z. B. → Ephesos I 1). Für diese Darstellungsform finden sich jedoch keine Parallelen. Das deutliche (Nieder-)Tre-ten impliziert zudem kaum das Verhältnis einer Stadt zu dem ihr segenspendenden Wasserlauf; viel eher ist an die siegreiche Unterdrückung eines Feindes zu denken. In vergleichbarer Haltung wird → Virtus seit neronischer Zeit auf Münzen abgebildet: Gekleidet als Amazone, einen Fuß auf den Helm eines besiegten Gegners gesetzt (BMC Emp I 204, 27 Taf. 38, 21 et passim). Varianten dieser Ikonographie treten hinzu: So stellt Virtus auf einem wohl vespasianischen Aureus des Titus (BMC Emp II 110, †) ihren linken Fuß auf einen Gefangenen. Es ist daher sehr wahrscheinlich, daß die Amazone Ephesos auf der Puteolanischen Basis nicht einen Flußgott, sondern einen Unterlegenen niedertritt. Hier wäre möglicherweise an die karischen Ureinwohner zu denken, die von den ionischen Siedlern verdrängt worden waren.

Der auf den Münzen der Unteren Kilbianer im üblichen Schema dargestellte Flußgott (11-12) wurde von Imhoof-Blumer als K. bezeichnet, da er den Prägeort in dessen Tal vermutete, eine Deutung, die fortan in fast allen Münzkatalogen ohne weiteren Kommentar übernommen wurde. Im früher erschienenen BMC-Band hingegen wird der Flußgott → Kilbos genannt. Auf einer Münze des Antoninus Pius der Oberen Kilbianer erscheint ein Flußgott mit der Beischrift KIABOΞ (Imhoof-Blumer, Flußg 300-301 Nr. 315 Taf. 10, 19). Die Wahrscheinlichkeit, daß es sich auch bei dem Flußgott der Unteren Kilbianer eher um den Kilbos als den K. handelt, ist daher nicht gering, vor allem, da das Ethnikon sicher nicht ohne Grund auf den Namen dieses Flusses zurückgeht.

Auf Münzen von Ephesos erscheinen vielfach zwei astragalspielende Kinder zu Füßen der Kultstatue der → Artemis Ephesia. Sie als Personifikationen von Flußgöttern (Drexler, W., ML II 1, 1008-1009) bzw. als K. und Kenchreios (Joly 332-333) anzusprechen, muß aus mehreren Gründen abgelehnt werden. So fehlt zunächst eine Beischrift, die die beiden Kinder benennt. Weiterhin ist kein Beispiel einer Darstellung von Flußgöttern als Kinder bekannt (→ Fluvii). Schließlich erscheinen auch vor den Kultbildern der samischen → Hera und der → Artemis Anaitis auf Münzen von Samos bzw. Hypaipa astragalspielende Kinder in derselben Pose, so daß diese Darstellungsform kaum als Personifikationen bestimmter Flüsse interpretiert werden kann, sondern vielmehr in einem besonderen Zusammenhang mit dem Kult der genannten kleinasiatischen Göttinnen gesehen werden muß (Imhoof-Blumer, F., Nomisma 6, 1911, 4-7).

THOMAS GANSCHOW

KAYSTROS II

(Καύστρος) Personifikation des gleichnamigen Flusses in Phrygien, vielleicht der heutige Akar Çayı, möglicherweise auf Münzen von Prymnessos dargestellt. Die Existenz eines zweiten Flusses mit Namen K. stützt sich lediglich auf Xen. an. 1, 2, 11, der eine Stadt in Phrygien mit dem Namen Καύστρον πεδίων erwähnt. Die Lokalisierung der Ebene gleichen Namens bei Xen. Kyr. 2, 1, 5 ist nicht gesichert, da dort nur berichtet wird, daß der Feldherr Gabaidos ein Heereskontingent aus Phrygien in Καύστρον πεδίων zusammengezogen habe. Eine Identifizierung dieser Ortsangabe mit der in Xen. an. genannten ist jedoch recht wahrscheinlich.

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: v. Aulock, H., IstanbMitt Beih. 27 (1987) 34-36. 111-112; Ruge, W., RE XI 1 (1921) 101 s. v. «Kaystru pedion»; Treidler, H., KlPauly III (1969) 172 s. v. «Kaystros 2» und «Kaystru pedion 2».

1. AE, Prymnessos (Phrygien), Zeit des Augustus bis Gallienus(?). – InvWadd Nr. 6416 Taf. 18, 3; BMC Phrygia 361, 3 Taf. 42, 7; Imhoof-Blumer, Flußg 330 Nr. 394 Taf. 12, 28; SNG Copenhagen 659; v. Aulock 36. 111-112. – Rs.: K. (?) linkshin gelagert, nur mit einem über die Hüften geschlungenen Himation bekleidet, den l. Arm gegen ein Quellgefäß gelehnt, in der Rechten Schilfrohr. Vs.: König → Midas.

K. (?) ist in dem in hellenistisch-römischer Zeit geläufigen Schema des gelagerten männlichen Flußgottes wiedergegeben (→ Fluvii). Die Bezeichnung des Flußgottes auf den Münzen von Prymnessos als K. ist nicht gesichert, da weder auf den Münzen eine Beischrift erscheint, die den Flußgott benennt, noch werden Prymnessos und der K. in den antiken Quellen gemeinsam genannt. Bekannt ist lediglich, daß es eine Stadt mit dem Namen Kaystru pedion gegeben hat, die von Kyros auf seinem Feldzuge berührt wurde (Xen. an. 1, 2, 11). Aufgrund der bei Xenophon beschriebenen Marschrichtung des Kyros wird allgemein angenommen, daß die Stadt im Bereich des heutigen Eber Gölü zu suchen ist (RE s. v. «Kaystru pedion»), in den von Westen her als größter Fluß der Akar Çayı fließt. Gesichert ist jedoch die Lage der antiken Stadt Prymnessos bei dem modernen Dorf Süglün, ca. 6 km südöstlich von Afyon (v. Aulock 34), somit also ungefähr 40 km westlich des Eber Gölü. Der auf den Münzen der Stadt dargestellte Fluß ist sehr wahrscheinlich mit dem heutigen Akar Çayı zu identifizieren, der von Afyon in östlicher bzw. süd-östlicher Richtung zum Eber Gölü fließt. Ist daher mit Kaystru pedion die Ebene westlich des Eber Gölü gemeint, durch die der Akar Çayı fließt, könnte dieser Fluß mit dem K. gleichzusetzen sein. Allerdings ist es ebenso möglich, daß einer der zahlreichen Nebenflüsse des Akar Çayı in der Antike als K. bezeichnet wurde, so daß eine eindeutige Benennung des Flußgottes auf den Münzen von Prymnessos nicht erlaubt ist.

THOMAS GANSCHOW

KAZANES

(Καζάνης) Gott des gleichnamigen Flusses in Phrygien, eines rechten Nebenflusses des → Indos (heute Dalaman Çayı). Antiker Name des Flusses nur durch Münzen belegt.

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Drexler, W., ML II 1 (1890-94) 1009 s. v. «Kazanes»; Joly, E., EAA IV (1961) 333 s. v. «Kazanes»; Ruge, W., RE XI 1 (1921) 101 s. v. «Kazanes»; Waser, O., RE VI 2 (1909) 2789. 2802 s. v. «Flußgötter».

1. * AE, Themision (Phrygien), autonome Prägungen (193-249 n. Chr.); Julia Domna (193-217 n. Chr.). – InvWadd Nr. 6564; Engel, A., RNum 1884, 16 Nr. 7; BMC Phrygia 418, 4 Taf. 49, 1; 419, 5-6 Taf. 49, 2; Imhoof-Blumer, Flußg 331 Nr. 397 Taf. 13, 3; SNG v. Aulock 8455; SNG Copenhagen 750. – Rs.: K. nach l. gelagert, bekleidet mit einem über die Hüfte gelegten Himation, mit dem l. Arm auf ein Quellgefäß gelehnt, in der Rechten ein Schilfrohr. ΘΕΜΙΣΩΝΕΩΝ ΚΑΖΑΝΗΣ. – Vs.: → Sozon, → Boule oder Kaiserin.

K. ist in dem in hellenistisch-römischer Zeit geläufigen Schema des gelagerten männlichen Flußgottes wiedergegeben (→ Fluvii). THOMAS GANSCHOW

KEBRIONES

(Κεβρίωνης, Κεβρίωνας, Κεβρίωνεύς [2], Cebriones) Sohn des → Priamos und Wagenlenker des → Hektor.

LITERARISCHE QUELLEN: In Hom. Il. folgen drei Wagenlenker des Hektor aufeinander: zunächst Eniopeus, der von Diomedes getötet wird (8, 119-129), dann Archeptolemos, welchen Teukros tötet (8, 311-315), schließlich K. (8, 318). Als Wagenlenker des Hektor ist K. auch 11, 521-537; 12, 88-92; 16, 727-728 genannt. Auch als tapferer Kämpfer ist K. bekannt (12, 88-92; 13, 790). Er ist Halbbruder des Hektor, gemeinsam ist beiden der Vater Priamos (Il. 8, 318; 16, 738; Apollod. bibl. 3 [153] 12, 5, 9; Hyg. fab. 90). K. findet den Tod durch die Hand des Patroklos. Dieser zerschmettert ihm mit einem Stein den Schädel, so daß K. vom Wagen fällt. Es schließt sich ein erbitterter Kampf zwischen Hektor und Patroklos um die Leiche des K. an, bei dem Patroklos die Oberhand gewinnt und den toten K. seiner Waffen beraubt (Il. 16, 734-782). Man vermutete in der Antike, daß der Name K. vielleicht von dem Landstrich Kebrenia oder der Stadt Kebrene in der Troas abgeleitet sei (Strabon 13, 1, 33 p. 596-597; umgekehrt: Steph. Byz. s. v. Κεβρονία).

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Friis Johansen, Iliad 82. 219. 221. 224. 226. 275. 277; Lorber, Inscriften 80-81; Scherling, K., RE XI 1 (1921) 106-107 s. v. «Kebriones 2»; Stoll, H. W., ML II 1 (1890-94) 1012 s. v. «Kebriones».

KATALOG

Attisch schwarzfigurige Vasen

1. (= Glaukos V 10 mit Lit., = Hektor 14*) Hydria. London, BM B 76. Aus Kamiros. – ABV 85, 1: Maler von London B 76; Para 32; Add 23. – Um 560

v. Chr. – Im Schulterbild in der Mitte stehendes Viergespann in Vorderansicht. Im Wagenkasten steht K. (Körper frontal, Kopf nach r. gewandt, Namensbeischrift KEBPIONE [sic]). L. vom Wagen steht Hektor, r. Glaukos (beide mit Beischriften). Sie sind von unbenannten Personen flankiert. Zwar dürfte eine Begebenheit aus der Ilias gemeint sein, da K. nur dort vorkommt, doch ist die Episode nicht näher präzisiert. Man könnte vielleicht an Hom. Il. 16, 536-551 denken, wo Glaukos, der Lykier, Hektor ermahnt, mit ihm gegen die Griechen zu kämpfen, um Sarpedons Leichnam vor Schändung zu bewahren. Hier sind einem eher allgemein gehaltenen Bild einer Kriegerausfahrt, wie sie im 6. Jh. beliebt waren, mythische Namen beigelegt.

2. (= Hektor 15 mit Lit.) Amphora, fr. Paris, Louvre CA 2364. – Ende 6. Jh. v. Chr. – Anschirung eines nach r. gerichteten Gespanns durch K. (im langen weißen Wagenlenkergewand; er steht hinter den Pferden nach r.; Beischrift: JBPIONEYΣ) und zwei Gefährten. Von Hektor ist nur die Beischrift erhalten.

Korinthische Vasen

3. * (= Ainoi 1* mit Lit., = Hekabe 15, = Hektor 12 mit Lit.) Kolonettenkrater. Paris, Louvre E 638. Aus Caere. – Lorber, Inscriften Nr. 126 mit Lit. Taf. 34. – 570/60 v. Chr. – Abschied des Hektor von seinen Eltern. Im Zentrum des Bildes dominiert das große, nach l. gerichtete Gespann. K. (Beischrift KEBPIONAS) steht bereits wartend auf dem Wagen und hält mit beiden Händen die Zügel. Weitere Familienmitglieder (mit Namensbeischriften) sind beim Abschied zugegen. Lorber weist darauf hin, daß ein in der korinthischen Vasenmalerei geläufiges Bildschema hier durch die mythischen Namen individualisiert ist. K. kommt nur in der Ilias vor, doch wird dort kein Abschied des Hektor von seinen Eltern geschildert.

4. (= Damon 2* mit Lit., = Eurylochos III 1) Kolonettenkrater. Neapel, Mus. Naz. 80996 (H 685). Aus Nola oder Capua. – Um 560 v. Chr. – Auszug von Krieger. Auf einem Wagen ist der Wagenlenker (langes weißes Gewand, zügelhaltend) K. (KEBPIONAS) und der neben ihm stehende Hoplit Hektor benannt. Die Namensbeischriften der übrigen Helden sind zwar in der Epik belegt, passen aber nicht zu einer Szene mit Hektors Ausfahrt.

Chalkidische Vase

5. * (= Alexandros 68, = Andromache I 4, = Hektor 13, = Helena 193, alle mit Lit.) Krater mit Deckel. Würzburg, Wagner-Mus. L 160. Wahrscheinlich aus Vulci. – Um 540 v. Chr., Inscriftenmaler. – Zwei Paare (Paris-Helena; Hektor-Andromache) nehmen Abschied (Beischriften). Hinter Hektor reitet sein Knappe K. (kurzer Chiton; Beischrift KEBPIONEΣ) mit einem Beipferd heran. Auf der Rückseite galoppieren zwei weitere Knappen. Daß K. hier nicht mehr als Lenker des homerischen Kampfwagens dargestellt ist, sondern als Reiter, ist eine Anpassung des Malers an die Kampfweise seiner eigenen Lebenszeit. Die Darstellung ist von der Ilias beeinflusst, kann aber nicht mit einer bestimmten Stelle verbunden werden. Zwar wird Il. 6, 371-495 ein Abschied zwischen Hektor und Andromache geschildert, doch hat dort Hektor noch einen anderen Wagenlenker (s. lit. Quellen).

KOMMENTAR

K. ist nur durch wenige Schriftquellen und Bilder bekannt. Ein längerer Mythos ist für ihn nicht überliefert. Seine wichtigste Funktion ist die als Wagenlenker seines Halbbruders Hektor. Als solcher wird er im 8. Gesang der Ilias ernannt und im 16. Gesang von Patroklos getötet. Nur auf Bildern, die sich auf dazwischenliegende Kämpfe des Hektor beziehen, könnte K. zugegen sein. Doch läßt sich das Bildmaterial oft nicht als Illustration bestimmter Szenen fassen, so daß die dargestellten Kämpfe nicht immer präzise mit einer Ilias-Stelle zu verbinden sind. Da dem Hektor aber auch noch andere Wagenlenker dienten (Eniopeus, Archeptolemos), sind hier im Katalog nur die K.-Darstellungen mit Namensbeischriften ausgewählt (1-5).

Alle Wiedergaben finden sich auf Vasenbildern, die dem 6. Jh. v. Chr. angehören. Als Wagenlenker tritt K. auf 1-4 auf. Auf 1. 3. 4 steht er im Wagenkorb, auf 2 ist er mit der Anschirung der Pferde beschäftigt. Das charakteristische Wagenlenkergewand trägt er auf 1. 2. 4. Nur auf 5 erscheint K. als Reiter. Da die Fahrt mit dem Kampfwagen im 6. Jh. nicht mehr üblich war, ist K. der Sitte der Zeit gemäß hier als Knappe dargestellt.

Keines der Bilder läßt sich genau mit einer Ilias-Szene verbinden, wie die Namen der weiteren zugefügten Personen zeigen. Es handelt sich eher um Wiedergaben der im 6. Jh. beliebten Szenen von Kriegers Abschied, Anschirung des Gespannes und Ausfahrt, die hier durch Beifügung mythischer Namen individualisiert sind. Das Anliegen der Maler war es wohl, auf diese Weise allgemein eine epische Szene darzustellen, ohne aber eine bestimmte Begebenheit aus dem Epos zu illustrieren.

ANNELIESE KOSSATZ-DEISSMANN

KEBRIOTHES

(Κηβριόθης) Nom d'un Troyen sur 1.

1. (= Equus Troianus 12* avec bibl.) Bouclier peint. New Haven, Yale Univ. 1935.551. De Doura-Europos. - Décor en deux scènes complémentaires opposées sur le disque du bouclier: la scène d'Iliupersis en B est annoncée, en A, par l'arrivée du cheval de bois devant les remparts troyens, en présence de Cassandre, Priam (→ Kassandra I, → Priamos) et d'autres Troyens. K. (nom inscr., bonnet phrygien, tunique à manches) est monté sur le cheval et tire les rênes, passées autour du poitrail. La présence insolite d'un cavalier sur le cheval de bois est exceptionnelle, et le nom de K. (confusion avec → Kebriones?) n'est pas cité dans les récits littéraires de cet épisode.

ODETTE TOUCHEFEU-MEYNIER

KEDALION

(Κηδάλιον) Aus Naxos stammender Lehrer und späterer Gehilfe des → Hephaistos, der nach dem Schüreisen benannt ist.

LITERARISCHE QUELLEN: Nach Schol. Hom. Il. 14, 296 Erbse und Eust. 987, 7 ad Hom. Il. 14, 294 war K. ein Naxier, dem Hera den Hephaistos kurz nach dessen Geburt zur Auferziehung und zum Lehren der Schmiedekunst übergab. Aus Hes. fig. 148a Merkelbach/West; Eratosth. kat. 32; Schol. Arat. phain. 322; Schol. Germ. 331; Schol. Nik. ther. 15; Hyg. astr. 2, 34; Apollod. bibl. 1, 4, 3; Serv. Aen. 10, 763 erfahren wir, daß → Orion, nachdem er von Oinopion geblendet worden war, nach Lemnos ging und dort von Hephaistos K. als Führer erhält. Orion trägt ihn auf seinen Schultern und schreitet unter seiner Anleitung der Sonne entgegen, durch deren Strahlen er von der Blindheit geheilt wird. Weiter wissen wir von einem verlorenen Satyrspiel Kedalion des Sophokles, dessen Inhalt jedoch nicht bekannt ist (TrGF IV F 328-333).

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: v. Geisau, H., KlPauIy III (1969) 173-174 s. v. «Kedalion»; Gunning, J., RE XI 1 (1922) 107-109 s. v. «Kedalion»; Joly, E., EAAIV (1961) 337 s. v. «Kedalion»; Stoll, H. W., ML II 1 (1890-94) 1012 s. v. «Kedalion».

KATALOG

A. In der Werkstatt des Hephaistos

DEUTUNG WAHRSCHEINLICH

1.* Wandmalerei. Neapel, Mus. Naz. 9529. Aus Pompeji IX 1, 7 (e). - Helbig, Wandgemälde Nr. 1318c Taf. 17; HBr Taf. 141; Curtius, WP (1929) 226 Abb. 134; Elia Nr. 130; Schefold, WP 235; Arias, P. E., EAA III (1960) Farbt. bei S. 232 s. v. «Efesto»; Lewis, S., AJA 77, 1973, 310 Taf. 50, 3; Brommer, Hephaistos 235 Nr. 1 Abb. 15, 1. - Um 70 n. Chr. - Im Innern der Werkstatt sitzt l. Hephaistos und zeigt der ihm gegenüberstehenden Thetis den für Achill hergestellten Schild, der zwischen beiden von einem Mann mit beiden Händen gehalten wird. Hinter Thetis steht eine Begleiterin, unterhalb des Hephaistos sitzt der bärtige K. mit weißem Pileus und grünem Schurz um die Lenden, der mit Hammer und Meißel Ornamente auf dem sich vor ihm befindenden Helm einzeiselt. Vor ihm liegen der Panzer und die Beinschienen.

2.* Marmorrelief. Paris, Louvre Fr. 109. - Reinach, RépStat I 71; Libertini, G., RM 52, 1937, 71 Abb. 2; Lippold, Gemäldekopien 130 Abb. 109; Brom-mer, Hephaistos 246 Nr. 41. - 1.-2. Jh. n. Chr. - In der Werkstatt sitzt Hephaistos und nimmt den zukünftigen Schild des Achill von einem Satyr entgegen. Unter und etwas hinter Hephaistos sitzt ein Jüngling und bearbeitet eine Beinschiene, darüber ruht der fertige Panzer auf einem Pfeiler. Vor Hephaistos ist der bärtige K. mit Pileus und einem Schurz mit der Feinausarbeitung des Helmes beschäftigt, während ein teilweise hinter einer Wand versteckter junger Satyr im Begriff ist, ihm den Pileus wegzunehmen. Von einer Replik, einem Marmorrelief in Catania, Mus. Civ., ist nur noch der r. arbeitende Satyr erhalten, s. Libertini a. O. 68 Abb. 1.

Kedalion 2

B. Orion, den Kedalion tragend

3. (= Hephaistos 233) Wandmalerei. Verloren. - Lukianos de domo 28-29. - K. auf den Schultern des blinden Orion, Hephaistos ihnen von Lemnos aus nachschauend.

KOMMENTAR

Während wir von der einzigen uns bisher bekannten Darstellung der Episode K.s mit Orion nur durch die Beschreibung Lukians Kenntnis haben, scheinen zumindest zwei Szenen (1-2) K. in der Werkstatt des Hephaistos zu zeigen. Der Gehilfe des Hephaistos bei diesen ist jeweils bei der Fertigstellung des Helms für Achill gezeigt und weist in beiden Fällen die gleiche Ikonographie auf; K. ist bärtig und ist nur mit einem Schurz und Pileus versehen. Beide Bilddokumente haben Gemeinsamkeiten, die auf ein verlorenes Vorbild des 3. Jh. v. Chr. hinweisen, jedoch kann bisher keine genauere Aussage über dieses getroffen werden. Sicherlich ist aber F. G. Welckers Ansicht in Alte Denkmäler II (1851) 158 abzulehnen, daß dieses Original von dem Satyrspiel des Sophokles herrühren würde.

RAINER VOLLKOMMER

KEKROPIDES → Aglauros, Herse, Pandrosos

KEKROPS → Addenda vol. sq.

KELAAS → Peliou athla, → Atalante 62

KELADOS

(Κέλαδος) «Getöse, Lärm», Personifikation des Schlachtenlärms. Inschriftlich gesicherte Darstellungen auf megarischen Bechern zeigen K. als salpinxblenden Griechen bei der Zerstörung Trojas.

LITERARISCHE QUELLEN: In der erhaltenen schriftlichen Überlieferung zur Iliupersis kommt K. als mythische Person nicht vor. Der Begriff κέλαδος ist bereits bei Homer belegt (Od. 18, 402; Il. 9, 547; 18, 530) und bezeichnet da den Lärm bei einem Streit bzw. Kampf. Euripides (Hec. 928) gebraucht ihn für den Schlachtenlärm beim Fall Trojas.

Bekannt ist K. auch als Fluß- und Personennamen. Zum Schlachtenlärm s. auch → Kydoimos.

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Akamatis, G. M., Πήλινες μήτρες αγγείων από την Πέλλα (1985) 358-361 und passim.

KATALOG

A. Gesicherte Darstellungen

Megarische Becher und Formschalen

1. a) Formschale. Pella, Mus. 81.105. Aus Pella. - Akamatis 182-183 Nr. 300 Taf. 179. - 2. Hälfte 2. Jh. v. Chr. - K. (Beischrift: ΚΕΛΑΔΟΣ retrogr., gegürteter Chiton, wehender Mantel, über der Brust zusammengehalten und um den r. Arm geschlungen, Stiefel) bläst die Salpinx, die er mit der ausgestreckten l. Hand hält. Er wendet sich nach r., wo die zum Teil mit Beischriften versehenen Griechen zur Burg eilen. Der letzte, → Epeios, blickt gestikulierend zu ihm zurück. Hinter K. steht das hölzerne Pferd (→ Equus Troianus).

b) * Formschale. Pella, Mus. 81.104. Aus Pella. - Akamatis 180-182 Nr. 299 Taf. 177. - 2. Hälfte 2. Jh. v. Chr. - K. (Beischrift: ΚΕΛΑΔΟΣ retrogr., Stempel wie 1a) zwischen Epeios und hölzernem Pferd. Übrige Krieger zum Teil anders benannt als auf 1a.

c) Becher, fr. Florina, Mus. 161. Aus Florina. - Keramopoulos, A. D., ArchEph 1932, 67 Nr. 65; S. 69 Abb. 26, 2; Sinn, Becher 138 Nr. MB 101 Taf. 34, 6; 35, 4. - 2. Hälfte 2. Jh. v. Chr. - Abdruck nach einer Formschale wie hier 1b. Erhalten: Hölzernes Pferd, K., Epeios.

2. (= Aias II 92, = Athena 102, = Equus Troianus 25* mit Lit.) Becher. Berlin (DDR), Staatl. Mus. 3161k. Aus Tanagra. - Hausmann, Reliefbecher Taf. 41, 2; Gropengiesser, H., in Tainia, Festschr. R. Hampe (1980) 325. 326 Abb. 7. - 2. Hälfte 2. Jh. v. Chr. - K. (Chiton, wehender Schultermantel, Stiefel) hält die Salpinx an ihrem vorderen Ende. Vor ihm: drei Griechen, Trojanisches Pferd, Aias und Kassandra, Tempel, weiterer Grieche (zu dem stehenden Mann hinter K., einer versehentlich eingestempelten zu großen Figur vgl. Robert, C., Homerische Becher, 50. BerlWPr 1890, 71).

3. a)* Formschale. Pella, Mus. 81.103. Aus Pella. - Akamatis 177-179 Nr. 297 Taf. 171. - 2. Hälfte 2. Jh. v. Chr. - K. (Chiton, Schultermantel um den r. Arm geschlungen, Stiefel) hält mit der l. die lange Salpinx in der Mitte. Vor ihm: drei Leichtbewaffnete, drei Hopliten, Aias und Cassandra, Tempel; hinter ihm: Krieger, wohl Epeios, und Trojanisches Pferd.

Kelados 1b

b) Formschale, fr. Pella, Mus. 81.102. Aus Pella. – Akamatis 179–180 Nr. 298 Taf. 173. – 2. Hälfte 2. Jh. v. Chr. – Wie 3a. R. vor dem inschriftlich genannten Epeios ist das r. Bein des K. erhalten.

4. (= Aias II 73) Becher. Thessaloniki, Arch. Mus. 5440. Aus Florina. – Sinn, Becher 98 Nr. MB 34 Taf. 10, 1; Akamatis 341 Anm. 3; S. 357. 358. – 2. Hälfte 2. Jh. v. Chr. – K. (Beischrift: KEAAΔOΞ, Chiton, Mantel um l. Arm geschlungen; r. Arm mit Salpinx nur im Ansatz erhalten) wendet sich nach l. zu dem letzten der fünf voranschreitenden Krieger, der gestikulierend zu ihm zurückblickt. Weitere Szenen der Iliupersis.

FRAGMENTARISCHE DARSTELLUNGEN, SZENEN-ABFOLGE UNKLAR

5. Bandhenkel-Amphoriskos mit Fries in der Art megarischer Becher, fr. Florina, Mus. 164. Aus Florina. – Hausmann, Reliefbecher 57 Nr. 39; Sinn, Becher 100 Nr. MB 35 Taf. 11, 1; Akamatis 342 Anm. 1. – 2. Hälfte 2. Jh. v. Chr. – Ähnliche Szene wie auf 4; von K. Teil der Beischrift (KEAAΔOΞ) und geringe figürliche Reste erhalten.

6. Megarische Formschale, fr. Pella, Mus. 81.131. Aus Pella. – Akamatis 185 Nr. 302 Taf. 185. – 2. Hälfte 2. Jh. v. Chr. – Erhalten: Teil der Beischrift:

KEAAΔOΞ (retrogr.), Gesicht im Profil nach r., oberer Rand der Salpinx, Finger der l. Hand.

B. Mögliche Darstellung

7. Schale, fr. att. rf. Malibu, Getty Mus. 80.AE.154. – Wescoat, B. D., Poets & Heroes: Scenes of the Trojan War (Ausstellung Atlanta 1986–87) 58–60 Nr. 15; S. 61 Abb.: Oltos (Frel). – 520/10 v. Chr. – Auf beiden Außenbildern Iliupersisszenen. B: Aias, Cassandra (Beischriften) und Athena, von Palmen gerahmt. Seitlich davon l. eine Frau, r. Salpinxbläser (Helm, Beinschienen, Schild, Lanze). Leicht nach vorn gebeugt, das Instrument schräg nach unten haltend, bewegt er sich nach l. auf die Hauptszene zu. Obwohl kein Name beigeschrieben ist, könnte hier K. gemeint sein, da nur er als Salpinxbläser bei Iliupersisszenen auftritt (1–6). Zwar stammen diese Darstellungen aus wesentlich späterer Zeit, jedoch war K. möglicherweise bereits im 6. Jh. v. Chr. aus der Literatur bekannt (s. Kommentar).

KOMMENTAR

Gesicherte Darstellungen des K. (1–6) gibt es nur auf der zeitlich und räumlich eng begrenzten Gattung der megarischen Becher (mit für ihn charakteristischer

Kelados 4

KELEOS

(Κελεός, Celeus) König von Eleusis (Hom. h. Cer. 97. 475; Apollod. bibl. 1, 5, 1), der die ihre Tochter suchende → Demeter in seinem Palast gastlich aufnahm (Apollod. bibl. 3, 14, 7; Schol. Aristoph. Egu. 698a).

LITERARISCHE QUELLEN: Das älteste Zeugnis über K. steht im Homerischen Hymnus auf Demeter. Er wird als Sohn des Autochthonen Eleusis (Hom. h. Cer. 105) oder des Rharos (Suda s. v. «Ραριάς») erwähnt. Gatte der → Metaneira (Hom. h. Cer. 161; Apollod. bibl. 1, 5, 1; Paus. 1, 39, 1), Vater des Demophon (Hom. h. Cer. 233–234; Apollod. bibl. 1, 5, 1). Hesych. s. v. «Βαλλητός» erwähnt ein athenisches Fest zu Ehren des Sohnes des K. Demophon (Athen. 9, 406d; Deubner, L., Attische Feste [1932] 69 Anm. 4). Erst später wird auch → Triptolemos zum Sohn des K. (Apollod. bibl. 1, 5, 2; Paus. 1, 14, 2). Im Hom. h. Cer. 109–110 sind Kallidike, Kleisidike, Demo und Kallithoe seine Töchter, während Paus. 1, 38, 3, sich auf Pamphos und Homer berufend, als solche Diogeneia, Pammerope und Saisara erwähnt. Im Homerischen Hymnus wird K. als edelmütig (δαίμων), mutig (ἀγώνος), göttlich (διοτρεφής), mächtig (εὐρύστης) gekennzeichnet (Hom. h. Cer. 96. 155. 184. 233. 294). Als König von Eleusis neben Triptolemos, Diokles, Polykeinos, → Eumolpos und Dolichos sehr verehrt (Hom. h. Cer. 153–155), war er einer von denjenigen, denen Demeter die Mysterien offenbarte; er errichtete zu Ehren der Göttin einen Tempel und einen Altar (Hom. h. Cer. 296–298. 474–478). K. nahm Demeter in Eleusis auf, als Pandion König in Athen war (Apollod. bibl. 3, 14, 7; Nonn. Dion. 19, 83–90; 47, 99; Phot. s. v. «Κελεός»; Mylonas, G., Eleusis and the Eleusinian Mysteries [1961] 14–15). Das Haus des K. wie das des Ikarios entsandte Truppen zum Kriegszug, den → Theseus gegen Kreon unternahm (Stat. Theb. 12, 618–619). Es sind Opfer zu Ehren des K. während der Eleusinia erwähnt (LSCG Suppl. Nr. 10, 72).

In späterer Zeit begegnet K. als ein ärmlicher Landmann, was wohl aus einer hellenistischen Quelle übernommen worden ist (Serv. georg. 1, 165; Ov. fast. 4, 507–562; Kern Orph. F. 49, 103–106). Nik. Ther. 486 nennt das einfache gastfreundliche Haus des K. «θεράπια» (Frentz, W., Mythologisches in Vergils Georgica [1967] 10–11). Den Landmann K. kennen wir noch aus zwei Erwähnungen bei Nonn. Dion. 27, 285–286; 47, 46–50, aus drei Felsinschriften von Lindos (IG XII 1, 780. 781. 783) und aus Anth. Pal. 15, 11, worin erscheint, daß K. dieselbe Berühmtheit wie Ikarios in Attika erreichte. Bei Hyg. fab. 147 findet sich die Version, nach der K. Triptolemos, den Sohn des Königs von Eleusis, Eleusinus, töten wollte, als er von seiner Weltwanderung zurückkehrte. Bei Serv. georg. 1, 19 aber ist Cephalus anstatt K. erwähnt.

Einen großen Einfluß auf die Darstellungen des K. hatte wahrscheinlich die Tragödie Triptolemos des Sophokles (TrGF IV F 596–617a). Sie gehörte zu derjenigen Tetralogie des Dichters, mit welcher er 468 v. Chr. siegte.

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Drexler, W., ML II 1 (1890–94) 1026–1027 s. v. «Keleos»; v. Geisau, H., KlPauIy III (1969)

Kleidung und Haltung). Da es sich immer um Iliupersis-Szenen handelt, scheint K. speziell mit diesen Kämpfen verbunden gewesen zu sein. Möglicherweise trat er daher schon in der Fassung dieses Mythos im epischen Kyklos auf (vgl. Akamatis 361), wenn er auch eine untergeordnete Rolle spielte und selten dargestellt war. Als Personifikation des Schlachtenlärms bläst K. die Salpinx, die als Signalinstrument diesen Lärm einleitete und auch im weiteren Verlauf des Kampfes ein wesentlicher Bestandteil davon war (zur Salpinx vgl. Bélis, A., BCH 110, 1986, 212–218). So wird K. sowohl am Beginn der Episode (Krieger steigen aus dem hölzernen Pferd: 1a–c) als auch im fortgeschrittenen Stadium des Kampfes (2–5) eingesetzt. Indiz für eine frühe Bekanntheit des K. ist die Verbindung des Begriffes Κελαδος (lat.: clamor) mit dem Mythos durch Euripides (Hec. 928) und Vergil (Aen. 2, 313) bzw. dessen Quelle, wo der Lärm sogar mit Trompetentönen kombiniert wird. Ungesichert ist die Darstellung eines Trompeters bei der Iliupersis auf einer rf. Schale des Oltos aus dem 6. Jh. v. Chr. (7). Daß die Personifikation eines derartigen Begriffes bereits im Epos möglich war, zeigt der mehrmals bei Homer erwähnte → Kydoimos (Il. 5, 593; 18, 535; vgl. auch Aristoph. Pax 255–288), von dem bisher keine Darstellung bekannt ist. PETRA REICHERT

KELAINOS → LIMC Suppl.

KELENDERIS

(Κελένδρις) Personifikation der gleichnamigen Stadt in Kilikien.

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Ruge, W., RE XI 1 (1921) 138 s. v. «Kelenderis 2».

Münzen von Kelenderis (Kilikien)

1. AE, 2.–1. Jh. v. Chr. – InvWadd Nr. 4210–4211; BMC Lycaonia etc. 57–58, 40–43 Taf. 10, 13; Imhoof-Blumer, KIM II 456–457 Nr. 11–18 Taf. 17, 19–20; Forrer, Weber III 2 Nr. 7531–7532 Taf. 271; SNG Copenhagen 96–97; SNG v. Aulock 5646–5647; SNG Switzerland I 534–539; Ziegler, R., Münzen Kilikiens in kleineren deutschen Sammlungen (1989) 41–42, 246–254 Taf. 12. – Vs.: Büste der K. mit Mauerkrone und Schleier nach r. Rs.: Apollon.

Diese Münzreihe zeigt K. in dem für Vorderseiten von Münzen beliebtesten Tychetypus (→ Tyche), als Büste mit Mauerkrone im Profil.

RAINER VOLLKOMMER

177-178 s. v. «Keleos 1»; Grossman, B., Eleusinian Gods and Heroes in Greek Art (1959) 71. 109. 120-121. 124. 127-129. 140. 142; Joly, E., EAAIV (1961) 338 s. v. «Keleos»; Kern, O., REXI 1 (1921) 138-142 s. v. «Keleos 1»; Kron, Phylenheroen 70. 180. 185-186; Metzger, Recherches 14-17; idem, REG 89, 1976, 409; Overbeck, J., Griechische Kunstmythologie III (1873) 531-547; Preller, L., Demeter und Persephone (1837) 105-107; Preller/Robert, GrMyth 772, 1; Raubitschek, I. K. and A. E., «The Mission of Triptolemos», Hesperia Suppl. 20, (1982) 109-117; Richardson, N. J., The Homeric Hymn to Demeter (1974) 174. 177-179. 183-184. 195-196; Schefold, SBIII 50. 51; Schwarz, G., Triptolemos. Ikonographie einer Agrar- und Mysteriengottheit (1987) passim, s. Index; Simon, E., Opfernde Götter (1953) 67-68; Weidauer, L., «Eumolpos und Athen», AA 1985, 197-198.

KATALOG

Bereits die att. rf. Vasen des 1. Viertels des 5. Jh. v. Chr. zeigen K. als königliche Gestalt gewöhnlich mit anderen Heroen oder Königen von Eleusis bei der Aussendung des Triptolemos.

Attisch rf. Vasen

1.* (= Aglauros, Herse, Pandrosos 15 mit Lit. [B]); = Chione 1 [Innenbild] = Eumolpos 20 mit Lit. [A], = Iris 102* mit Lit. [A]) Schale. Frankfurt, Liebieghaus ST V 7. Aus Vulci. - ARV<sup>2</sup> 386. 1649: Art des Brygosmalers, nahe dem Castelgiorgio-Maler; Para 521; Add<sup>2</sup> 229; CVA 2 Taf. 61, 1. 2; 62, 1. 2; Schwarz 38 V 56; 101-102. 104. 108 Abb. 11a. - Um 480 v. Chr. - Seite A: Am r. Bildrand sitzt K., bärtig, mit Tānie im Haar, in einer Palasthalle auf einem Thron. Er trägt Chiton und Himation und hält mit der l. Hand ein Szepter, in der ausgestreckten rechten eine Phiale.

2. (= Demeter 346* mit Lit., = Hippothoon 10 mit Lit.) Glockenkrater. Palermo, Mus. Reg. V 779. Aus Agrigento. - ARV<sup>2</sup> 496, 5; Oreithyamaler; Add<sup>2</sup> 250; CVA 1 Taf. 35, 1; 36, 4; Simon 67 Anm. 10; Peschlow-Bindokat, A., JdI 87, 1972, 82 Abb. 17; Schefold, SB III 51 Anm. 92; Veder Greco. Le necropoli di Agrigento (Mostra 1988) Nr. 66. - Um 470 v. Chr. - Die Figuren durch Beischriften gekennzeichnet. K. steht am r. Bildrand, bekränzt, mit Chiton und Himation bekleidet, Szepter in der Linken. Er erhebt die Rechte im Verehrungs- oder Abschiedsgestus.

3. (= Eumolpos 4* mit Lit., = Hippothoon 9 mit Lit.) Stamnos. Paris, Louvre G 371. Aus Etrurien. - ARV<sup>2</sup> 208, 158; Berliner Maler; Add<sup>2</sup> 195; Metzger, Représentations 234 Anm. 8; Schwarz, G., AA 1971, 182 Anm. 18; Weidauer 198 Anm. 23: a. - Um 470/465 v. Chr. - K. steht r., bekränzt, mit weißem Haar, langem Chiton und Himation, Szepter in der Rechten.

4. (= Eumolpos 7 mit Lit., Demeter 354 mit Lit., = Hippothoon 14 mit Lit.) Kelchkrater. Ferrara, Mus. Naz. 2891 (T 313 VT). Aus Spina. - ARV<sup>2</sup> 602, 24; 1661: Niobidenmaler; Para 395; Add<sup>2</sup> 266-267; Weidauer 198 Anm. 23: g. - Um 460/450 v. Chr. - K. steht am r. Bildrand, mit weißem Haar, mit Himation bekleidet und Stab in der r. Hand.

5.* (= Eumolpos 8 mit Lit., = Hippothoon 16* mit Lit.) Volutenkrater. Paris, Louvre G 343. Aus Etrurien. - ARV<sup>2</sup> 600, 17; Niobidenmaler; Add<sup>2</sup> 266; CVA 3 Taf. 5 (166) 3; Metzger, Représentations 234 Anm. 8; Weidauer 198 Anm. 23: h. - Um 450 v. Chr.

- K., bekränzt, steht l., mit Chiton und Himation bekleidet, Szepter und Zweig in der Linken, die Rechte im Verehrungs- oder Abschiedsgestus.

DEUTUNG VERMUTET

6. (= Hades 34* mit Lit.) Amphora, att. sf. Würzburg, Wagner-Mus. L 197. Aus Vulci. - Langlotz, KatWürzb 34 Taf. 51; Metzger, Représentations 234 Anm. 5. - 525/500 v. Chr. - K. (andere Deutung: Hades) r. mit Szepter in der r. Hand, auf einem Klappstuhl sitzend.

7. (= Hades 37*, = Demeter 345 mit Lit.) Amphora, att. rf. London, BM 95.10-31.1. - ARV<sup>2</sup> 583, 1; Maler von London 95; CVA 3 Taf. 4 (169) 1b; Weidauer 198 Anm. 23: c; Schwarz 41 V 68. - Um 470/460 v. Chr. - K. (oder Hades?) von einem Hund begleitet, steht am l. Bildrand, ein Szepter in der Rechten haltend.

8. (= Demeter 347 mit Lit. [A], = Hippothoon 11 mit Lit.) Stamnos, att. rf. Kopenhagen, Nat. Mus. 3612. - ARV<sup>2</sup> 498, 7; Deepdene-Maler; Para 381, 7; Weidauer 198 Anm. 23: d. - 465/460 v. Chr. - K. ist vielleicht in einer der beiden bärtigen Gestalten zu erkennen, die Chiton und Himation tragen und ein Szepter halten.

9. (= Demeter 350 mit Lit., = Hippothoon 13 mit Lit.) Kelchkrater, att. rf. Leningrad, Ermitage B 1601 (B 639, St 1207). - ARV<sup>2</sup> 591, 15; Altamura-Maler. - Um 465/460 v. Chr. - Seite B: K. ist vielleicht der Mann r. in Chiton und Himation, mit Szepter in der Linken, der sich mit einer Frau unterhält.

10. (= Eumolpos 6 mit Lit., = Hippothoon 12 mit Lit.) Volutenkrater, att. rf. London, BM E 469. Aus Altamura. - ARV<sup>2</sup> 589, 1; Altamura-Maler; Add<sup>2</sup> 264; Weidauer 198 Anm. 23: e. - Um 465/460 v. Chr. - Hals, A: K. einer von beiden Gestalten, bärtig, mit Krobylos, ein Szepter haltend.

11. (= Demeter 352) Glockenkrater, att. rf. Perugia, Mus. Naz. Aus Orvieto. - ARV<sup>2</sup> 603, 34; Niobidenmaler; Messerschmidt, F., StEtr 6, 1932, 513-515 Taf. 26. 27, 18 Abb. 1; Peschlow-Bindokat a. O. 2, 85 Abb. 18; Kron, Phylenheroen 186 Anm. 909; Weidauer 198 Anm. 23: f; Schwarz 43 V 77. - Um 460/450 v. Chr. - K., weißhaarig, hinter Triptolemos, in Chiton und Himation, ein Szepter in der l. Hand haltend.

12. (= Hippothoon 15 mit Lit.) Glockenkrater, fr. att. rf., Reggio Calabria, Mus. Naz. Aus Lokroi. - ARV<sup>2</sup> 603, 40; Niobidenmaler. - Um 450 v. Chr. - K. bärtig, ein Szepter haltend.

13. (= Eumolpos 9 mit Lit., = Demeter 358* mit Lit., = Hippothoon 17 mit Lit. [B]) Schale, att. wgr. und rf. München, Antikenslg. 2685 WAF. Aus Vulci. - ARV<sup>2</sup> 837, 9; Sabouroff-Maler; Add<sup>2</sup> 295; Weidauer 198 Anm. 23: i. - Um 460/450 v. Chr. - A: K. l. von Triptolemos, bärtig, Chiton und Himation tragend. In der rechten Phiale, in der Linken Szepter.

KOMMENTAR

Im Homerischen Hymnus ist K. als einer der eleusinischen Könige erwähnt, genauer als «der Erste» unter ihnen, der von Demeter in die Mysterien eingeführt wurde. Auf den Darstellungen mit der Aussendung des Triptolemos ist K. als der ältere zwischen den anderen Heroen oder Königen von Eleusis gekennzeichnet, bärtig, häufig Chiton und Himation tragend. Am einen Bildrand nimmt K. oft an der Abschiedsspende teil, eine Phiale und das Szepter, Zeichen seiner königlichen Macht, haltend (1). In anderen Fällen nimmt K. mit einer betenden Gebärde an der Szene der Triptolemosaussendung teil (2. 5), auf 2 mit Hippothoon, beide durch Inschrift gekennzeichnet. Bei diesen Darstellungen der 1. Hälfte des 5. Jh. v. Chr. soll der Triptolemos des Sophokles eine wichtige Rolle gespielt haben. Der eleusinische Königssohn, der auf seinem Flügelwagen die heiligen Gaben der Demeter über die Welt trug, wurde von den Athenern freudig aufgenommen. Auf den übrigen Darstellungen ist K. auf Grund des weißen Haars als die ältere königliche Gestalt unter den anderen eleusinischen Heroen zu erkennen (3. 4).

ROSA PROSKYNITOPOULOU

KENCHREAI

(Κενχρεαί) und Lechaion (Λέχαιον). Die zwei Häfen Korinths am Saronischen bzw. Korinthischen Golf. Außer durch die Hafengötter → Kenchrias und Leches wurden die beiden Häfen auch durch Nymphen oder durch Mädchen und einen Jüngling personifiziert:

a) Personifikation von Kenchreai und Lechaion durch Nymphen (→ Nymphai)

1.* Münzen. AE, Korinth, Hadrian (117-138 n. Chr.) - BMC Corinth 75, 595 Taf. 21, 15; Imhoof-Blumer, Flußg 410-411 Nr. 577 Taf. 18, 20. - Zwei frontal stehende, bekleidete weibliche Figuren, die den einen Arm um die Schultern der andern und die andere, gesenkte Hand an ein Steuerruder legen. Beischrift LECH und CENCH.

b) Kenchreai durch mehrere Mädchen, Lechaion durch einen Jüngling personifiziert

2. (= Isthmos 7) Gemälde, nicht erhalten oder fiktiv. - Philostr. im. 2, 16, 4; Schönenberger, O., Philostratos, Die Bilder (1968) 424. - Opfer des → Sisyphe für → Melikertes Palaimon, der schlafend von einem Delphin beim Isthmos an Land gebracht wird. Der → Isthmos ist als gelagerter Gott personifiziert; «zu seiner Rechten steht ein Jüngling (νεπρώνιον), wohl Lechaion, zur Linken junge Mädchen (κόραι)» (Übers. Schönenberger). (In einer späten Handschrift des Philostrattextes findet sich der Einschub «wohl Kenchreai» nach «Mädchen», Schönenberger 424). Offenbar ist also hier einfach die Feminin-Plural-Form des Ortsnamens für die Personifikation bildlich umgesetzt worden.

IOANNIS TOURATSOGLOU

KENCHREIOS

(Κενχρεῖος: von den Münzen abgesehen, ältere Namensform [nur bei Alexander Aetolus fig. 4, 6 Powell], sonst Κενχρεῖος, auf Münzen Κένχρ(ε)ῖος; Cencreus) Gott des gleichnamigen Flusses in Ionien, eines linken Nebenflusses des → Kaystros (I) nahe dessen Mündung bei Ephesos. Durchfloß den Hain der Ortygia (II), in dem → Leto nach ephesischer Überlieferung → Apollon und → Artemis gebar (Strabon 14, 1, 20 p. 639; Tac. ann. 3, 61).

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Büchner, L., RE XI 1 (1921) 170-171 s. v. «Kenchreios»; Drexler, W., ML II 1 (1890-94) 1030-1031 s. v. «Kenchreios»; Joly, E., EAAIV (1961) 339 s. v. «Kenchreios 2»; Waser, O., RE VI 2 (1909) 2802 s. v. «Flußgötter»; Ziegler, K., KlPauly III (1969) 182 s. v. «Kenchreios».

KATALOG

Münzen von Ephesos (Ionien)

1.* AE, Hadrian (117-138 n. Chr.), Severus Alexander (222-235 n. Chr.). - BMC Ionia 94, 317; Imhoof-Blumer, Flußg 278 Nr. 263 Taf. 9, 2. - Rs.: K. bärtig, nach l. gelagert, bekleidet mit einem um die Hüften geschlungenen Himation, mit dem l. Arm auf ein Quellgefäß gelehnt, in der l. Armbeuge ein Füllhorn, in der Rechten ein Schilfrohr. ΕΦΕΣΙΩΝ ΚΕΝΧΡΕΙΟΣ.

2. (= Kaystros 11* mit Lit.) AE, Antoninus Pius (138-161 n. Chr.). - Rs.: Zwei zueinander gelagerte männliche, nur mit einem um den Unterkörper gelegten Himation bekleidete Figuren zu Füßen des Kultbildes der → Artemis Ephesia. L. Kaystros, r. K., mit dem l. Arm auf ein Quellgefäß gestützt, über dem l. Unterarm ein Zipfel des Gewandes, in der Rechten ein Schilfrohr. ΕΦΕΣΙΩΝ ΔΙΣ ΝΕΩΚΟΡΩΝ ΚΑΥΣΤΡΟΣ ΚΕΝΧΡΕΙΟΣ.

KOMMENTAR

K. ist in dem in hellenistisch-römischer Zeit verbreiteten Typus des menschengestaltigen gelagerten Flußgottes wiedergegeben (→ Fluvii). Selten hingegen ist die Darstellung zweier Flußgottheiten gemeinsam. Existierte vielleicht ein besonderes Monument, das die Anregung zu dieser Darstellungsform gab, oder sollte lediglich auf die topographische Situation der Stadt Ephesos zwischen den beiden Flüssen angespielt werden? Ein Monument mit Kaystros und K. ist bis heute nicht freigelegt oder identifiziert worden, so daß diese Vermutung bloße Hypothese bleiben muß.

Wenn hingegen auf die Lage von Ephesos hingewiesen worden sein soll, scheint unklar, warum gerade Kaystros und K. gewählt wurden und nicht beispielsweise die auch sonst auf Münzen erscheinenden Personifikationen des → Klaseas und → Marnas. Kaystros als größter Fluß im ephesischen Gebiet und einer der größten im westlichen Kleinasien überhaupt dürfte sicher nicht fehlen. Nach Tacitus (ann. 3, 61) wies eine Gesandtschaft der Ephesier besonders nachdrücklich darauf hin, daß Leto die göttlichen Zwillinge im Hain der Ortygia, der vom K. durchflossen wurde, zur Welt gebracht habe. Von allen Nebenflüssen des Kaystros spielt somit K. mythologisch die wichtigste Rolle. In der Münzlegende wird die zweite Neokorie genannt, die der Stadt definitiv unter Hadrian verliehen wurde. Daneben besaß Ephesos außerdem die Neokorie der Artemis (Hanell, K., RE XVI 2 [1935] 2424–2425 s. v. «Neokoroi»). Es ist daher denkbar, daß diese weitere Neokorie zusätzlich zu den beiden «kaiserlichen» bei der Gestaltung des Münzbildes zum Ausdruck kommen sollte, einerseits mit der Darstellung der Artemis Ephesia, die andererseits noch durch den ihr zu Füßen liegenden K. gleichsam betont wird.

Zur Interpretation der astragalspielenden Kinder zu Füßen des Kultbildes der Artemis Ephesia, die W. Drexler (ML II 1 [1890–94] 1008–1009 s. v. «Kaystros») als Flußgötter und E. Joly (EAA IV [1961] 332–333 s. v. «Kaystros») als Personifikationen von Kaystros und K. bezeichnet, vgl. → Kaystros I.

THOMAS GANSCHOW

KENCHRIAS

(Κενχρίας, Κένχρειος) Sohn des Poseidon und der → Peirene, Bruder des Leches (Λέχης).

LITERARISCHE QUELLEN: Paus. 2, 2, 3; 2, 3, 2 (Κενχρίας); Steph. Byz. s. v. «Κενχρείαι» (Κένχρειος). Als K. von Artemis getötet wurde, entstand aus den Tränen seiner Mutter die korinthische Quelle Peirene. Nach K. und Leches erhielten die Häfen Korinths, Kenchreai (am Saronischen Golf) und Lechaion (am Korinthischen Golf), ihre Namen.

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Drexler, W., ML II 1 (1890–94) 1031 s. v. «Kenchreios 2»; Scherling, K., RE XII 1 (1924) 1056 s. v. «Leches»; Stoll, H. W., ML II 1 (1890–94) 1031 s. v. «Kenchrias»; idem, ML II 2 (1894–97) 1922 s. v. «Leches».

1. * (= Aphrodite 640 mit Lit.) Münzen. AE, Korinths, Septimius Severus (193–211 n. Chr.). – BMC Corinth 85, 652 Taf. 21, 14; Imhoof-Blumer, Flußg 410 Nr. 576 Taf. 18, 19. – K. halbnackt r. am Fuß eines Felsens (Akrokorinths) gelagert, auf welchem Aphrodite steht; er hält im r. Arm ein Ruder, die Linke ist über den Kopf gelegt. Auf der l. Seite des Felsens ist in derselben Haltung Leches gelagert, einen Anker schulternd.

Das in hellenistisch-römischer Zeit für die Wiedergabe von Flußgöttern übliche Schema der gelagerten Figur (→ Fluvii) wurde hier auf Hafengötter übertragen. Für die Anordnung eines Flußgötterpaares beidseits einer Statue → Kaikos I und → Kenchreios. – S. auch → Kenchreai. IOANNIS TOURATSOGLOU

Addenda

EPONA

(Ἐπιόνα, Epona) Déesse celtique, protectrice des équidés et des écuries. Le nom se rattache à la racine indo-eur. ekw-, gr. ἵππο-, lat. equ-, celt. epos, irl. ech, breton ebol, ebeul, poulain. Les formes en equ- (equesus, equonus) peuvent être celtiques, en alternance avec les formes en ep-: cf. Dottin, G., Manuel pour servir à l'étude de l'antiquité celtique (1906) 25. 85. 90. 239; Holder I (1896) 1447–1450 s. v. «Epona»; Keune, RE; Lafaye, DA; Walde/Hof. (1965) 412–413 s. v. «equus»; Ellis Evans, D., Gaulish Personal Names (1967) 197. Le nom Epōna doit être rapproché des autres formes celtiques Divōna, Sirōna, mais non des formes latines Pomōna, Bellōna, etc.

SOURCES LITTÉRAIRES ET ÉPIGRAPHIQUES: D'après Ps.-Plut. parall. min. 29b p. 312e qui se réfère à un certain Agésilaos (FGH 828 F 1), É. serait née de l'union d'un nommé Fulvius Stellus et d'une jument.

Mentions dans les textes latins: Iuv. 8, 155–157 et Schol.; Apul. met. 3, 27; Fulg. ant. 11; Min. Felix 28, 7; Tert. apol. 16; nat. 1, 11; Prud. apoth. 197–199. Dans l'épigraphie lat. (cf. Ruggiero, Diz. epigr. s. v. «Epona»), formes particulières du nom. Au dat. sing. Epone: calendrier de Guidizzolo, CIL I 253 = AEpigr. 1907, 106; inscriptions de provenances diverses: CIL III 7750, Dacie; de Dacie aussi, inscr. citée par Keune, RE 232 l. 10; CIL III 3420, Hongrie; AEpigr. 1939, 235, Budapest; CIL III 6332 a, Transylvanie; AEpigr. 1907, 106: plaque de bronze d'Alise-Sainte-Reine. Au dat. pl. Eponabus: CIL III 7904, Transylvanie.

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Benoît, F., Les mythes de l'outre-tombe. Le cavalier à l'anguipède et l'écurière Épona. Coll. Latomus 2 (1950) (= Benoît, Mythes); idem, «Réalisme ou allégorie?», AntCl 1952, 84 s.; idem, L'héroïsation équestre (1954); idem, «Archétypes plastiques en Ibérie de l'Épona gallo-romaine», Ogam 6, 1954, 105–113; idem, «Épona funéraire», Ogam 17, 1965, 333–336; idem, Arts et dieux de la Gaule (1969) 110 s.; idem, Le symbolisme dans les sanctuaires de la Gaule. Coll. Latomus 105 (1970); Bonnet, M.-H., «Note sur quelques représentations inconnues ou peu connues de la déesse Épona dans l'est de la Gaule», RAE 34, 1983, 161–165; Boucher, St., «L'inscription d'Entrains CIL XIII 2903, et l'apparition du culte d'Épona en Gaule au I<sup>er</sup> siècle de notre ère», dans Homm. L. Lerat I (1984) 131 s.; De Vries, J., La religion des Celtes (1963) 132–135; Duval, P.-M., «Chronique gallo-romaine», REA 1953, 397–398, «Épona»; idem, La vie quotidienne en Gaule (1952) 307 s.; idem, Les religions des Celtes, Hist. des Religions V (1957); idem, Les dieux de la Gaule (1976) 49–51.112; Grenier, A., «Aspects de la religion romaine en Provence», CRAI 1954 (1955) 328 s.; Hanoteau, M.-T., «Sur les traces d'Épona dans le centre de la France», Rev. arch. du Centre 18, 1979, 157–159 (= Hanoteau 1); eadem, «Épona, déesse des chevaux», Helvetica archaeologica 11, 1980, 2 s. (= Hanoteau 2); eadem, Mém. de maîtrise à l'Univ. de Paris IV, inédit (1978), 260 phot. et fig.; Hatt, J.-J., La tombe gallo-romaine (1951) 239 s.; Hubert, H., «Le mythe d'Épona», dans Mél. M. Vendryès (1925) 187 s.; Keune, J. B., RE VI 1 (1907) 228–243 s. v. «Epona»; idem, RE Suppl. III (1918) 436–439; Lafaye, G., DA II (1892) 733–735 s. v. «Epona»; Lambrechts, P., Contribution à l'étude des divinités celtiques (1942) 172 s.; idem, «La colonne du dieu cavalier au géant et le culte des sources en Gaule», Latomus 8, 1949/2, 150–158; idem, «Épona et les matres», AntCl 19, 1950, 103–112; idem, «Divinités équestres celtiques ou défunts héroïses?», AntCl 20, 1951, 107–128; Linduff, K. M., «Epona: a Celt among the Romans», Latomus 38, 1979, 817 s.; Magnen, R./Thevenot, E., Épona, déesse gauloise des chevaux, protectrice des cavaliers (1953–55) + additif (1956) (= MT); Nagy, T., «Sur l'histoire du culte d'Épona», ArchErt 1956, 222–224; Reinach, S., «Épona», RA 1895/1, 163–195. 309–335 (= Reinach 1); idem, «Encore Épona», RA 1898/2, 197–200; idem, «Épona», RA 1899/2, 61–70; idem, «Divinités équestres. Épona», RA 1902/1, 227–238; idem, «Nouvelles Éponas», RA 1903/2, 348–350; Schleiermacher, W., «Studien an Göttertypen der röm. Rheinprovinzen», BerRGK 23, 1933, 142 s.; Sjoestedt-Jonval, M. L., Dieux et héros des Celtes (1940) 26 s.; Thevenot, E., «Les monuments et le culte d'Épona chez les Éduens», AntCl 18, 1949, 385s (= Thevenot 1); idem, «Méthodes d'exploration de la religion gallo-romaine», RAE 6, 1955, 355–366 (= Thevenot 2); idem, Inventaire supplémentaire des monuments à Épona (deuxième supplément), RAE 1964, 112–118 (= Thevenot, Suppl.); idem, Sur les traces des Mars celtiques (1955), passim; idem, Divinités et sanctuaires de la Gaule (1968) 187 s.; Vaillant, R. (Karnos), «Epona Rigantona», Ogam 3, 1951, 190 s.; 4, 1952, 190 s.; Vigneron, P., Le cheval dans l'antiquité (1968) 164.

PLAN DU CATALOGUE

A. Épona assise à droite	I–120
B. Épona assise à gauche	121–132
C. Épona à califourchon	133–149
D. Épona à côté de son cheval	150–159
E. Épona accompagnée d'un poulain	160–184
F. Épona avec deux ou plusieurs chevaux	185–212
a) Chevaux représentés de face ou de trois quarts	185–197
b) Chevaux de profil tournés vers la déesse	198–207
c) Chevaux disposés de façon dissymétrique	208–209
d) Chevaux en liberté	210–212
G. Épona entre des animaux et monstres marins	213
H. Épona double ou triple	214–216
a) Épona double	214
b) Épona triple	215–216
I. Épona et un parèdre	217

Wenn hingegen auf die Lage von Ephesos hingewiesen worden sein soll, scheint unklar, warum gerade Kaystros und K. gewählt wurden und nicht beispielsweise die auch sonst auf Münzen erscheinenden Personifikationen des → Klaseas und → Marnas. Kaystros als größter Fluß im ephesischen Gebiet und einer der größten im westlichen Kleinasien überhaupt dürfte sicher nicht fehlen. Nach Tacitus (ann. 3, 61) wies eine Gesandtschaft der Ephesier besonders nachdrücklich darauf hin, daß Leto die göttlichen Zwillinge im Hain der Ortygia, der vom K. durchflossen wurde, zur Welt gebracht habe. Von allen Nebenflüssen des Kaystros spielt somit K. mythologisch die wichtigste Rolle. In der Münzlegende wird die zweite Neokorie genannt, die der Stadt definitiv unter Hadrian verliehen wurde. Daneben besaß Ephesos außerdem die Neokorie der Artemis (Hanell, K., RE XVI 2 [1935] 2424–2425 s. v. «Neokoroi»). Es ist daher denkbar, daß diese weitere Neokorie zusätzlich zu den beiden «kaiserlichen» bei der Gestaltung des Münzbildes zum Ausdruck kommen sollte, einerseits mit der Darstellung der Artemis Ephesia, die andererseits noch durch den ihr zu Füßen liegenden K. gleichsam betont wird.

Zur Interpretation der astragalspielenden Kinder zu Füßen des Kultbildes der Artemis Ephesia, die W. Drexler (ML II 1 [1890–94] 1008–1009 s. v. «Kaystros») als Flußgötter und E. Joly (EAA IV [1961] 332–333 s. v. «Kaystros») als Personifikationen von Kaystros und K. bezeichnet, vgl. → Kaystros I.

THOMAS GANSCHOW

KENCHRIAS

(Κενχρίας, Κένχρειος) Sohn des Poseidon und der → Peirene, Bruder des Leches (Λέχης).

LITERARISCHE QUELLEN: Paus. 2, 2, 3; 2, 3, 2 (Κενχρίας); Steph. Byz. s. v. «Κενχρεαί» (Κένχρειος). Als K. von Artemis getötet wurde, entstand aus den Tränen seiner Mutter die korinthische Quelle Peirene. Nach K. und Leches erhielten die Häfen Korinths, Kenchreai (am Saronischen Golf) und Lechaion (am Korinthischen Golf), ihre Namen.

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Drexler, W., ML II 1 (1890–94) 1031 s. v. «Kenchreios 2»; Scherling, K., RE XII 1 (1924) 1056 s. v. «Leches»; Stoll, H. W., ML II 1 (1890–94) 1031 s. v. «Kenchrias»; idem, ML II 2 (1894–97) 1922 s. v. «Leches».

1. * (= Aphrodite 640 mit Lit.) Münzen. AE, Korinths, Septimius Severus (193–211 n. Chr.). – BMC Corinth 85, 652 Taf. 21, 14; Imhoof-Blumer, Flußg 410 Nr. 576 Taf. 18, 19. – K. halbnackt r. am Fuß eines Felsens (Akrokorinths) gelagert, auf welchem Aphrodite steht; er hält im r. Arm ein Ruder, die Linke ist über den Kopf gelegt. Auf der l. Seite des Felsens ist in derselben Haltung Leches gelagert, einen Anker schulternd.

Das in hellenistisch-römischer Zeit für die Wiedergabe von Flußgöttern übliche Schema der gelagerten Figur (→ Fluvii) wurde hier auf Hafengötter übertragen. Für die Anordnung eines Flußgötterpaares beidseits einer Statue → Kaikos I und → Kenchreios. – S. auch → Kenchreai. IOANNIS TOURATSOGLOU

Addenda

EPONA

(Ἐπιονα, Epona) Déesse celtique, protectrice des équidés et des écuries. Le nom se rattache à la racine indo-eur. ekw-, gr. ἵππο-, lat. equ-, celt. epos, irl. ech, breton ebol, ebeul, poulain. Les formes en equ- (equesus, equonus) peuvent être celtiques, en alternance avec les formes en ep-: cf. Dottin, G., Manuel pour servir à l'étude de l'antiquité celtique (1906) 25. 85. 90. 239; Holder I (1896) 1447–1450 s. v. «Epona»; Keune, RE; Lafaye, DA; Walde/Hof. (1965) 412–413 s. v. «equus»; Ellis Evans, D., Gaulish Personal Names (1967) 197. Le nom Epōna doit être rapproché des autres formes celtiques Divōna, Sirōna, mais non des formes latines Pomōna, Bellōna, etc.

SOURCES LITTÉRAIRES ET ÉPIGRAPHIQUES: D'après Ps.-Plut. parall. min. 29b p. 312e qui se réfère à un certain Agésilaos (FGH 828 F 1), É. serait née de l'union d'un nommé Fulvius Stellus et d'une jument.

Mentions dans les textes latins: Iuv. 8, 155–157 et Schol.; Apul. met. 3, 27; Fulg. ant. 11; Min. Felix 28, 7; Tert. apol. 16; nat. 1, 11; Prud. apoth. 197–199. Dans l'épigraphie lat. (cf. Ruggiero, Diz. epigr. s. v. «Epona»), formes particulières du nom. Au dat. sing. Epone: calendrier de Guidizzolo, CIL I<sup>2</sup> 253 = AEpigr. 1907, 106; inscriptions de provenances diverses: CIL III 7750, Dacie; de Dacie aussi, inscr. citée par Keune, RE 232 l. 10; CIL III 3420, Hongrie; AEpigr. 1939, 235, Budapest; CIL III 6332 a, Transylvanie; AEpigr. 1907, 106: plaque de bronze d'Alise-Sainte-Reine. Au dat. pl. Eponabus: CIL III 7904, Transylvanie.

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Benoît, F., Les mythes de l'outre-tombe. Le cavalier à l'anguipède et l'écurière Épona. Coll. Latomus 2 (1950) (= Benoît, Mythes); idem, «Réalisme ou allégorie?», AntCl 1952, 84 s.; idem, L'héroïsation équestre (1954); idem, «Archétypes plastiques en Ibérie de l'Épona gallo-romaine», Ogam 6, 1954, 105–113; idem, «Épona funéraire», Ogam 17, 1965, 333–336; idem, Arts et dieux de la Gaule (1969) 110 s.; idem, Le symbolisme dans les sanctuaires de la Gaule. Coll. Latomus 105 (1970); Bonnet, M.-H., «Note sur quelques représentations inconnues ou peu connues de la déesse Épona dans l'est de la Gaule», RAE 34, 1983, 161–165; Boucher, St., «L'inscription d'Entrains CIL XIII 2903, et l'apparition du culte d'Épona en Gaule au I<sup>er</sup> siècle de notre ère», dans Homm. L. Lerat I (1984) 131 s.; De Vries, J., La religion des Celtes (1963) 132–135; Duval, P.-M., «Chronique gallo-romaine», REA 1953, 397–398, «Épona»; idem, La vie quotidienne en Gaule (1952) 307 s.; idem, Les religions des Celtes, Hist. des Religions V (1957); idem, Les dieux de la Gaule (1976) 49–51.112; Grenier, A., «Aspects de la religion romaine en Provence», CRAI 1954 (1955) 328 s.; Hanoteau, M.-T., «Sur les traces d'Épona dans le centre de la France», Rev. arch. du Centre 18, 1979, 157–159 (= Hanoteau 1); eadem, «Épona, déesse des chevaux», Helvetica archaeologica 11, 1980, 2 s. (= Hanoteau 2);

eadem, Mém. de maîtrise à l'Univ. de Paris IV, inédit (1978), 260 phot. et fig.; Hatt, J.-J., La tombe gallo-romaine (1951) 239 s.; Hubert, H., «Le mythe d'Épona», dans Mél. M. Vendryès (1925) 187 s.; Keune, J. B., RE VI 1 (1907) 228–243 s. v. «Epona»; idem, RE Suppl. III (1918) 436–439; Lafaye, G., DA II (1892) 733–735 s. v. «Epona»; Lambrechts, P., Contribution à l'étude des divinités celtiques (1942) 172 s.; idem, «La colonne du dieu cavalier au géant et le culte des sources en Gaule», Latomus 8, 1949/2, 150–158; idem, «Épona et les matres», AntCl 19, 1950, 103–112; idem, «Divinités équestres celtiques ou défunts héroïsés?», AntCl 20, 1951, 107–128; Linduff, K. M., «Epona: a Celt among the Romans», Latomus 38, 1979, 817 s.; Magnen, R./Thevenot, E., Épona, déesse gauloise des chevaux, protectrice des cavaliers (1953–55) + additif (1956) (= MT); Nagy, T., «Sur l'histoire du culte d'Épona», ArchErt 1956, 222–224; Reinach, S., «Épona», RA 1895/1, 163–195. 309–335 (= Reinach 1); idem, «Encore Épona», RA 1898/2, 197–200; idem, «Épona», RA 1899/2, 61–70; idem, «Divinités équestres. Épona», RA 1902/1, 227–238; idem, «Nouvelles Éponas», RA 1903/2, 348–350; Schleiermacher, W., «Studien an Göttertypen der röm. Rheinprovinzen», BerRGK 23, 1933, 142 s.; Sjoestedt-Jonval, M. L., Dieux et héros des Celtes (1940) 26 s.; Thevenot, E., «Les monuments et le culte d'Épona chez les Éduens», AntCl 18, 1949, 385 s. (= Thevenot 1); idem, «Méthodes d'exploration de la religion gallo-romaine», RAE 6, 1955, 355–366 (= Thevenot 2); idem, Inventory supplémentaire des monuments à Épona (deuxième supplément), RAE 1964, 112–118 (= Thevenot, Suppl.); idem, Sur les traces des Mars celtiques (1955), passim; idem, Divinités et sanctuaires de la Gaule (1968) 187 s.; Vaillant, R. (Katanos), «Épona Rigantona», Ogam 3, 1951, 190 s.; 4, 1952, 190 s.; Vigneron, P., Le cheval dans l'antiquité (1968) 164.

PLAN DU CATALOGUE

A. Épona assise à droite	I–120
B. Épona assise à gauche	121–132
C. Épona à califourchon	133–149
D. Épona à côté de son cheval	150–159
E. Épona accompagnée d'un poulain	160–184
F. Épona avec deux ou plusieurs chevaux	185–212
a) Chevaux représentés de face ou de trois quarts	185–197
b) Chevaux de profil tournés vers la déesse	198–207
c) Chevaux disposés de façon dissymétrique	208–209
d) Chevaux en liberté	210–212
G. Épona entre des animaux et monstres marins	213
H. Épona double ou triple	214–216
a) Épona double	214
b) Épona triple	215–216
I. Épona et un parèdre	217

J. Épona associée à d'autres dieux
K. Varia .....	218-220
L. Incerta .....	221-238
M. Épona et le «domador» hispanique

Index

Lieux de trouvaille
Attributs
Varia

CATALOGUE

Les objets ont été découverts essentiellement dans les régions éduennes et du Centre-Est de la Gaule, dans les régions trévires et du Nord-Est, et dans celles du Rhin et du limes rhénan, enfin dans celles d'Europe centrale et du limes danubien. C'est dans cet ordre qu'ils seront recensés. Quelques monuments sont dispersés et seront mentionnés en fin de chacune des rubriques.

A. Épona assise à droite

Reliefs, pierre

1.* Coll. part. Ampilly-lès-Bordes (Côte-d'Or). - Espérandieu, Recueil XV 9046; MT 102; Thevenot 1, 389 fig. - É. porte une pèlerine à bord festonné. Elle tient peut-être une corne d'abondance.

2. Dijon, Mus. Arch. De la tour du castrum. - Espérandieu, Recueil IV 3448; MT 157 pl. 40; Deyts, S., Dijon, Sculptures antiques régionales (1976) n° 113. - Le cheval porte une grande housse. É. est acéphale.

3. Avallon, Mus. de l'Avallonnais. De Censy (Yonne). - Thevenot, Suppl. 280 fig. 22; L'art de la Bourgogne romaine, exp. Dijon (1973) n° 193 pl. 49. - É. porte une tunique plissée; elle tient la bride de la main g. et une patère de la dr.

4. Auxerre, Mus. d'Art et d'Hist. D'Entrains (Nièvre). - Espérandieu, Recueil II 2246; MT 97 pl. 19. - Les pieds d'É. sont posés sur une «planchette». Les attributs ne sont pas identifiables.

5.* Autun, Mus. Rolin ML 871. - Gallia 22, 1964, 421; Bonnet 162-163 fig. 2. - É. suivie d'un palefrenier ? Sur le fond, motif en forme de pelta (jaillissement d'une source ?). Au Mus. d'Autun, autres stèles dédiées à É.: Espérandieu, Recueil III 1856 bis.

6.* Saint-Germain-en-Laye, Mus. Ant. Nat. 35454. - De Gannat (Allier). - Espérandieu, Recueil II 1618; MT 79 pl. 21; Les dieux de la Gaule romaine, exp. Luxembourg (1989) n° 62 fig. - Le voile d'É. est gonflé par le vent de la course. Dans la main dr., clé ou sceptre court ? Son bras g. entoure l'encolure de sa monture, sur laquelle ses doigts sont nettement figurés.

7.* Paris, Louvre. De Nérès-les-Bains (Allier). - Espérandieu, Recueil II 1562; MT 78; RAE 6, 1955, 218; Linduff fig. 2. - É. porte un long manteau gonflé par le vent. Peut-être tient-elle une clé dans la main dr. Au-dessus, une arcature soutenue par un pilastre.

8. Loc. inconnue. De Vieuv-Valromey (Ain). -

RAE 11, 1960, 188-189 fig. 111; Thevenot, Suppl. 276. - É., semble-t-il, tenait une corne d'abondance.

9. Reims, Mus. St Rémi. De Reims. - Espérandieu, Recueil V 3672; MT 104. - É. est en robe longue, elle tient une patère à dr., à g. une corne d'abondance.

10. Loc. inconnue. De Perthes (Haute-Marne). - Gallia 25, 1967, 294; Ogam 19, 1967, 197 pl. 72-74. - Contexte du II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - Attributs indiscernables.

11. Langres, Mus. du Breuil de Saint-Germain. De Chalmessin (Haute-Marne). - Espérandieu, Recueil IV 3363; MT 103. - É. porte une robe longue, tient une patère et une corne d'abondance.

12. Langres, Mus. St Didier. De Gourzon (Haute-Marne). - Espérandieu, Recueil VI 4740; MT 123. - Les attributs ne sont pas reconnaissables; un autel apparaît sous les sabots de la monture.

13. Édicule votif en forme de temple à acrotères. Langres, Mus. St Didier. De Gourzon (Haute-Marne), ruines du Châtelet, dans un puits (avec des monnaies constantiniennes). - MT 228 pl. 41; Lambrechts (1949) 151; Benoît, F., Ogam 9, 1957, 251 pl. 47 fig. 3. - É. tient un fouet de la main dr.; ses pieds reposent sur un autel sous lequel est creusé un trou à libations. Cf. MT n° 229: édicule comparable.

14. Luxeuil (Haute-Saône), Mus. de la Tour des Échevins. De l'établissement thermal. - Espérandieu, Recueil VII 5320, MT 227. - Stèle presque triangulaire, comparable à la façade des édicules mentionnés ci-dessus. Trou à libations. Traces d'une inscr. illisible.

15. a-b) Deux stèles de même forme que la précédente. Moulages: Luxeuil, Mus. de la Tour des Échevins. De Baudoncourt (Haute-Saône), forêt des «Sept Chevaux» (plaine d'élevage?) (cf. 201). - Gallia 22, 1964, 378 fig. 4. - É. lève le bras dr.; au sommet de l'une des stèles, disque (lune ? soleil ?).

16. Saint-Germain-en-Laye, Mus. Ant. Nat. De Frémifontaine (Vosges). - Espérandieu, Recueil VI 4773; MT 124. - La main dr., levée, tient une patère (?).

17. Épinal, Mus. De Grand (Vosges). - Espérandieu, Recueil VI 4894; MT 125. - Clé à dr., à g. corne d'abondance.

18. Stèle à sommet arrondi. Strasbourg, Mus. Arch. 32259. De Mussig-Vicens (Bas-Rhin). - Espérandieu, Recueil VIII 7290; MT 127; Forrer, R., Cah. d'arch. et d'hist. d'Alsace 12, 1921, 1249 s; Hatt, J. J., Strasbourg, Mus. Arch. Sculptures antiques régionales (1964) n° 121. - I<sup>re</sup> moitié du III<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - É. pose les pieds sur une «planchette». Attributs indiscernables.

19.* Colmar, Mus. d'Unterlinden. De Horbourg-Wihr (Haut-Rhin). - Bonnet 164 fig. 3. - Bride dans la main g., gâteau (?) dans la dr.; pieds posés sur une «planchette».

20. Loc. inconnue. De Cutry (Meurthe-et-Moselle). - Espérandieu, Recueil V 4417; MT 115. - É. tient devant elle une corbeille de fruits.

21. Verdun, Mus. de la Prinerie ? Moulage: Saint-Germain-en-Laye, Mus. Ant. Nat. De Senon (Meuse). - Espérandieu, Recueil V 4636; MT 122. - É. tient une patère dans la main dr.

22. Loc. inconnue. De la forêt de Garrebou (Moselle). - Gallia 22, 1964, 358 fig. 31. - É. porte une tunique longue et pose sa main dr. sur ses genoux.

23. Stèle présentant deux pans en forme de toit. Thionville, Mus. de la Tour aux Puc. De Daspich (Moselle). - Gallia 24, 1966, 295 fig. 30. - É. tient un attribut non identifiable.

24. Relief en forme de niche à sommet cintré. Nancy, Mus. Lorrain I 54. De Freyming (Moselle), lieu-dit «Saint-Fontaine». - Espérandieu, Recueil X 7611; MT 121. - Le site (anc. source divinisée, temple) a livré des traces du culte de → Sirona, Hygie (→ Hygieia, → Salus), Mercure (→ Mercurius) et → Apollon/Apollo.

25. Kuntzig (Moselle), dans le mur d'une maison. - Espérandieu, Recueil IX 7240; MT 120. - É. tient des fruits sur les genoux.

26. Niche à sommet cintré. Metz, Mus. d'Art et d'Hist. De Cocheren (Moselle). - Espérandieu, Recueil V 4451; MT 119.

26 bis.* Metz, 30, rue des Clercs, in situ; moulage: Metz, Mus. d'Art et d'Hist. - Annuaire Soc. d'Hist. et d'Arch. de la Lorraine 1963, 1-3 pl. 1; Collot, G., Mus. Arch. de Metz. La civilisation gallo-romaine I (1964) n° 186. - III<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - De la main g., É. tient sont voile.

27. Stèle incomplète. Metz, Mus. d'Art et d'Hist. De Cocheren (Moselle), Le Hiérable. - Espérandieu, Recueil V 4446; MT 118.

28. a) Stèle à cadre arrondi. Metz, Mus. d'Art et d'Hist. De Metz, citadelle. - Espérandieu, Recueil V 4284; MT 111 pl. 18. - É. porte une longue robe et un manteau. Attribut non identifiable. b) Espérandieu, Recueil V 4285; MT 112.

29. Stèle à sommet cintré. Metz, Mus. d'Art et d'Hist. D'Hagondange (Moselle). - Espérandieu, Recueil V 4437; MT 116. - Attributs non identifiables.

30.* Metz, Mus. d'Art et d'Hist. - De la Horgne-au-Sablon (Moselle). Trouvée avec d'autres stèles (31. 137-138) sur un site qui semble être une nécropole. - Espérandieu, Recueil V 4353; MT 113 pl. 20; Tous-saint, M., Metz à l'époque romaine (1948) n° 363; Dieux de la Gaule, o. c. 6, n° 63 fig. - É. porte un manteau dont un pan flotte derrière elle.

31. Stèle à sommet cintré. Metz, Mus. d'Art et d'Hist. De la Horgne-au-Sablon (Moselle). - Espérandieu, Recueil V 4354; MT 114.

32.* Luxembourg, Mus. de l'État 236. De Dalheim (Luxembourg). - Espérandieu, Recueil V 4255; MT 108 pl. 23; Wilhelm, E., Pierres sculptées et inscr. de l'ép. romaine, Mus. d'Hist. et d'Art, Luxembourg (1974) n° 316 pl. 112; Hanoteau 2, fig. p. 3. - É. tient sur ses genoux un vase rempli de fruits.

33. Luxembourg, Mus. de l'État 235. - De Dalheim. Espérandieu, Recueil V 4262; MT 109; Wilhelm, o. c. 32, n° 317. - É. tient des fruits sur ses genoux.

34. a) Luxembourg, Mus. de l'État 458. - Wilhelm, o. c. 32, n° 323. - É. porte des fruits. - b) Ibid., cf. Wilhelm n° 324: fruits et oiseau. - Cf. etiam Wilhelm n° 321. 352.

35. Luxembourg, Mus. de l'État. 264. D'Echter-nach. - Espérandieu, Recueil V 4340; MT 107. - É. tient des fruits sur ses genoux.

36. Stèle à sommet cintré. Trèves, Landesmus. D'Alttier. - Espérandieu, Recueil V 4219; MT 106 pl. 25; Wilhelm, o. c. 32, n° 322. - É. tient sur ses genoux un quadrupède et un oiseau.

37. Bad Homburg, Saalburgmus. De Bad Homburg. - Thevenot, Suppl. 273; Ogam 11, 1959, 346 pl. 40. - É. tient les rênes et une patère; ses pieds sont posés sur une «planchette».

38.* Bonn, Rhein. Landesmus. 185. De la citadelle de Mayence. - Espérandieu, Recueil VII 5863; MT 126 pl. 24. - É. tient un fruit ou un gâteau.

39. Stèle. Mayence, RGZM. De Mayence, citadelle. - Espérandieu, Recueil VII 7355; MT 133. - Les jambes g. de la monture étaient peintes.

40. Trèves, Landesmus. 17503. Découverte près des casernes. - Espérandieu, Recueil VI 4953; MT 130. - É. porte une corbeille de fruits.

41.* Trèves, Landesmus. 21, 48. Du Petrisberg. - Espérandieu, Recueil X 7605; MT 131. - É. porte une corbeille de fruits, elle est précédée par une femme.

42. a)* Stèle. Trèves, Landesmus. De l'Altbachtal, enceinte religieuse comportant une chapelle à É. - Espérandieu, Recueil XI 7736; MT 132; Linduff fig. 11; Gose, E., Der gallo-röm. Tempelbezirk im Altbachtal zu Trier (1972) 35 s fig. 125. - É. tient sur la main dr. un large plateau de fruits. - b) Stèle incomplète (le haut manque). Trèves, Landesmus. ? - Gose fig. 126.

43. Wiesbaden, Mus. - Espérandieu, Germanie 8; MT 134. - É. porte une corbeille de fruits.

44.* Wiesbaden, Mus. 259. D'Hedderheim. - Espérandieu, Germanie 131; MT 137. - É. tient une patère à dr. Les jambes g. du cheval étaient peintes.

45. Bad Homburg, Saalburgmus. De Walldürn. - SaalburgJb 35, 1978, 173.

46. Bad Homburg, Saalburgmus. De Stockstadt, temple de → Mithras. - Espérandieu, Germanie 291; MT 140. - III<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - É. très petite sur un cheval très haut.

47. Walldürn, Mus. D'Alteburg. - Espérandieu, Germanie 201; MT 138; É. porte une grande patère de fruits; ses pieds reposent sur une «planchette».

48. Mayence, RGZM. De Worms. - Espérandieu, Recueil VIII 6010; MT 129. - É. tient une corbeille de fruits.

49. Stuttgart, Landesmus. De Walheim, près de Ludwigsburg. - Mention dans Ogam 11, 1959, 346 s. - É. pose ses deux mains sur ses genoux.

50. Stuttgart, Landesmus. RL 1. De Mittelstadt. - Les pieds d'É. sont posés sur une «planchette».

51. a) Stuttgart, Landesmus. De La Steig. - Espérandieu, Germanie 547; MT 150. - b) Stuttgart, Landesmus. RL 22. - Espérandieu, Germanie 552; MT 153; Schleiermacher 130.

52. a) Stuttgart, Landesmus. De Cannstatt, camp romain. - Espérandieu, Germanie 549; MT 151. - É. porte une corbeille de fruits; ses pieds sont posés sur une «planchette». - b) Stuttgart, Landesmus. RL 10. - Espérandieu, Germanie 543; MT 149.

53. Stèle. Stuttgart, Landesmus. De Cannstatt, près du camp romain. - Espérandieu, Germanie 551; MT 152; Schleiermacher 130.

54. Moulage: Stuttgart, Landesmus. De Klingenberg. - Espérandieu, Germanie 392; MT 148. - Les jambes g. de la monture n'étaient pas sculptées mais peintes.

55.* Stuttgart, Landesmus. RL 414. De Großacksenheim. - Espérandieu, Germanie 372; MT 145. - É. tient une corbeille de fruits.

56. Sarrebruck, Mus. für Vor- und Frühgeschichte. De Ludweiler, près de Sarrebruck. - Espérandieu, Recueil XIV 8425; MT 128 bis; Schleiermacher, W., Germania 1942, 122-135 pl. 23; REA 45, 1943, 115. Cf. Espérandieu, Recueil XIV 8428-8429. Parmi cinq reliefs (cf. 144. 152). - É. porte un attribut en forme de fer de lance (?); il s'agirait plutôt d'un manche de fouet.

57. a-b) Karlsruhe, Bad. Landesmus. D'Ubstadt. - Espérandieu, Germanie 384; MT 147-147 bis.

58. Karlsruhe, Bad. Landesmus. De Rheinzabern. - Espérandieu, Recueil VIII 5912; MT 128. - Les pieds d'É. sont posés sur une «planchette», les jambes g. du cheval étaient peintes.

59. Karlsruhe, Bad. Landesmus. De Königsbach. - Espérandieu, Germanie 363; MT 143. - Les pieds sont posés sur une «planchette».

60. Karlsruhe, Bad. Landesmus. De Stettfeld. - Espérandieu, Germanie 369; MT 144. - É., les pieds sur une «planchette», tient une patère et une corbeille de fruits.

61. Détruit. Anc. Karlsruhe, Bad. Landesmus. De Büchig. Moulage: Saint-Germain-en-Laye, Mus. Ant. Nat. 26255. - Espérandieu, Germanie 379; MT 146; Beck, F., Antiquités Nat. 10, 1978, 58-60 fig. 13. - É. tient une pomme de pin ou un gâteau dans la main dr.

62.* Eichstätt, Jura-Mus. 7595. De Nassenfels. - Espérandieu, Germanie 711; MT 155. - É. tient des fruits dans la main dr.

63. a) Stèle (sommets en forme de coquille). Mannheim, Reiß-Mus. De Ladenburg. - Espérandieu, Germanie 333; MT 141. - Housse et harnachement ornés de phalères; É., les pieds posés sur un tabouret, présente des fruits sur les genoux. b) Fr. Mannheim, Reiß-Mus. - Espérandieu, Germanie 338; MT 142.

64.* Fr. d'autel. Bordeaux, Mus. d'Aquitaine 60.2.49. De Gironde. - Espérandieu, Recueil II 1705; MT 224 pl. 46; Étienne, R., Bordeaux antique (1962) 166; idem, Bordeaux, deux mille ans d'histoire (1973) 29 n° 6. - É. tient une patère; un chêne est figuré au second plan.

65. Loc. inconnue. De Braga (Portugal). - Reinach, RépRel III 476 fig.; MT 155 bis. - Il s'agit bien d'É. et non d'un simple cavalier.

66. Arlon (Belgique), Mus. De Grandcourt. - Espérandieu, Recueil V 4124; MT 105. - É. tient devant elle un objet arrondi.

Ronde-bosse, pierre

67. Semur-en-Auxois (Côte-d'Or), Mus. Mun. De Bierre-lès-Semur. - Espérandieu, Recueil IX 7103;

MT 167. - É. porte un manteau flottant et tient une patère dans la main dr.

68.* Autun (Saône-et-Loire), Mus. Rolin ML 1154. De Sussey-lès-Rouvre (Côte-d'Or). - Espérandieu, Recueil IX 7077; MT 165. - É. tient une grappe, ce qui est inhabituel.

69. Coll. part. De Commarin (Côte-d'Or). - Bonnet 161 fig. 1. - La partie inférieure du cheval a disparu, ou n'a pas été représentée. É. est adossée à une niche ovale. Elle porte un voile festonné, et tient une patère contenant trois gâteaux.

70.* Alise-Sainte-Reine (Côte-d'Or), Mus. Alésia. D'Alésia. - Espérandieu, Recueil III 2356; MT 168 pl. 50; Le Gall, J., Alésia (1963) 156; Alésia (1980) 164. - La monture est trop petite pour É. qui est très trapue, et dont la tête semble énorme. Elle tient à dr. une couronne torsadée.

71. Statuette, disparue. De l'Auxois (Côte-d'Or). - MT 170.

72. Loc. inconnue. De Thoisy-le-Désert (Côte-d'Or), ruines d'une grande villa. - Thevenot, Suppl. 278 fig. 23-24. - É. tient une patère de la main dr.

73. Auxerre, Mus. d'Art et d'Hist. D'Entrains (Nièvre). - Espérandieu, Recueil III 2240; MT 162 pl. 48. Statuette mutilée.

74. Autun, Mus. Rolin, ML 28. De Saône-et-Loire. - Espérandieu, Recueil III 1856; MT 161; Augustodunum, exp. Autun 1985 (1987) n° 583 b. - Robe serrée à la taille et manteau.

75. Statuette disparue. Anc. Orléans, Mus. Hist. De Gaubertin (Loiret), bâtiments romains situés près d'une source. - Espérandieu, Recueil XI 7699; MT 99. - Le voile d'É. est gonflé et s'arrondit autour de sa tête.

76. Luxembourg, Mus. de l'État. 237. De Dalheim. - Espérandieu, Recueil V 4263; Jdl 1914, 228 fig.; MT 174; Wilhelm, o. c. 32, n° 320. - Un objet est tenu dans chaque main, un petit quadrupède (poulain) est posé sur les genoux d'É.

77. Luxembourg, Mus. de l'État 1202. De Tetelbierg. - Thevenot, Suppl. 279; Wilhelm, o. c. 32, n° 352. - Dans la main dr. un objet rond, peut-être une patère.

78. Statuette. Poitiers (Vienne), Mus. Ste Croix. Du Puy de Mercure (Vienne), dans un puits gallo-romain. - Espérandieu, Recueil IX 6963; MT 159.

79. Vacat.

80.* Saint-Germain-en-Laye, Mus. Ant. Nat. 81159. De L'Orbie (Vendée). - Lantier, R., dans Homm. W. Déonna, coll. Latomus (1957) 334-337 pl. 44; Thevenot, Suppl. 275; Gallia 15, 1957, 218 fig. 15. - É., toute petite, tient une boîte cylindrique. Son voile est gonflé; le sabot g. du cheval repose sur un socle en forme de S (source?).

81. Moulage. Saint-Germain-en-Laye, Mus. Ant. Nat. 45888. De Rouillac (Charente). - Espérandieu, Recueil II 1380; MT 158 pl. 54. - É. tient un petit quadrupède sur les genoux. Nous pensons qu'il s'agit d'un poulain.

82. Colchester (Essex), Mus. De Colchester Castle. - Trans. of the Essex Arch. Soc. 19, 198; MT 175 pl. 49. - Statuette mutilée, comparable à celle d'Entrains (73).

Ronde-bosse, bois

83.* Saintes (Charente-Maritime), Mus. Arch. 49530. De Saintes, dans un puits au lieu-dit Saint-Saloine, près des thermes antiques. - Espérandieu, Recueil II 1716; MT 77 pl. 17; Saintes à la recherche de ses dieux, exp. (1984) n° 64 fig. - Quadrupède (poulain) tenu sur les genoux. A dr. d'É., un enfant nu tenant une patère ou un gâteau.

Ronde-bosse, terre cuite

84. Autun (Saône-et-Loire), Mus. Rolin. - Thevenot, Suppl. 271; cf. Augustodunum, o. c. 74, n° 584 fr. - Atelier de Pistillus, fin I<sup>er</sup>-début II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C.

85. Figurine disparue. De Vauchignion ou Santosse (Côte-d'Or). - MT 58. - Le cheval, de formes très puissantes, a été considéré à tort comme un éléphant.

86. Saint-Germain-en-Laye, Mus. Ant. Nat. 28029. De Saint-Pourçain-sur-Besbre (Allier). - MT 52; Rouvier-Jeanlin, M., Les figurines en terre cuite au Mus. des. Ant. Nat., Gallia Suppl. 24 (1972) n° 479. - É. porte un manteau à capuchon; tapis de selle.

87. a) Saint-Germain-en-Laye, Mus. Ant. Nat. 28035. De l'Allier. - Rouvier-Jeanlin, o. c. 86, n° 480. - Le cheval, de formes épaisses, a une tête qui ressemble à celle d'un bovidé; nous pensons que ce n'est là que maladresse. - b-c) Ibidem. - Rouvier-Jeanlin n° 481 (il ne reste que le cheval); n° 983 (un cheval qui porte les traces d'une statuette de personnage assis, sans doute É.)

88. Vichy (Allier), Mus. De Vichy. - MT 55. - Composition habituelle.

89. a) Moulins, Mus. De Toulon-sur-Allier (Allier). - MT 50. - Patère et corne d'abondance. - b)* Saint-Germain-en-Laye, Mus. Ant. Nat. 27962. Même provenance. - MT 51; Rouvier-Jeanlin, o. c. 86, n° 474. - Même type.

90. Saint-Germain-en-Laye, Mus. Ant. Nat. 1664. De Clermont-Ferrand (Puy-de-Dôme). - MT 56; Rouvier-Jeanlin, o. c. 86, n° 478. - É. porte une corbeille de fruits sur les genoux.

91. Meaux (Seine-et-Marne) Mus. Bossuet. - REA 1901, 143; MT 59. - É. a les deux mains posées sur les genoux. Elle a été trouvée en même temps qu'une figurine représentant un mulet chargé de deux paniers.

92. Mannheim, Reiß-Mus. De Hermsheim. - É. de type habituel, mais tunique plissée.

93.* Mayence, RGZM R 5914. - Type habituel.

94. Bonn. Rhein. Landesmus. De Cologne. - É. tient peut-être une corbeille sur les genoux.

95. Spire. Mus. der Pfalz. De Spire. - MT 64.

96 a). Wiesbaden, Mus. - MT 71. - Petit animal (poulain) sur les genoux. - b) Darmstadt, Mus. - MT 69.

97. a-b) Worms, Mus. - MT 65-66. - É. tient un petit animal sur les genoux. - c) Ibidem. - MT 67.

98.* Bonn, Rhein. Landesmus. 19835. - MT 73 bis pl. 14. - É. tient les rênes.

99.* Bonn, Rhein. Landesmus. A 698. De Boppard. - MT 73 pl. 14. - É. tient deux petits animaux (poulains).

100. Mayence, RGZM. De Kastel. - MT 70 pl. 15. - É. tient devant elle une patère, une fleur ou une couronne.

101. Bad Homburg, Saalburgmus. Z 4557. De Kastel Zugmantel. - Composition inhabituelle.

102. a) Loc. inconnue. D'Écaquelon (Eure). - MT 60. - Statuette trouvée avec des monnaies d'Antonin et de Constantin. - b) Loc. inconnue. Des Baux (Eure). - MT 61.

103. a)* Saint-Germain-en-Laye, Mus. Ant. Nat. 75823. De Mont-Frugy (Finistère). - MT 62; Rouvier-Jeanlin, o. c. 86, n° 475. - b-c) Ibidem. De Tro-noën (Finistère). - Rouvier-Jeanlin n° 465-476 fr. (inv. 75824).

104. Bavay, Mus. Arch. - Ogam 10, 1958, 418-419 pl. 85; Thevenot, Suppl. 270. - É. tient une corne d'abondance. D'autres statuettes d'É. auraient été découvertes dans la région.

105. Laon, Mus. Arch. De Versigny (Aisne). - Gallia 25, 1967, 191 fig. 7. - Cheval portant les traces d'un cavalier assis à dr., sans doute É.

106.* Leyde, Rijksmus. GL 247. De Baarlo (Pays-Bas). - MT 74 pl. 13; Vermaseren, M. J., De Romeinse Beschaving in Midden-Limburg (1951) 50. - Attributs indistincts.

107. Newport (Grande-Bretagne), Mus. De Caerwent. - MT 76. - Débris d'une statuette rappelant les figurines de l'Allier.

Ronde-bosse, bronze

108. Loc. inconnue. De Janville (Eure-et-Loir). - Reinach 1, n° 11 (dessin); MT 35; Hanoteau 1, 157. 159. - É. tient une patère et des fruits (?).

109. Saint-Germain-en-Laye, Mus. Ant. Nat. De Champoulet (Loiret). - CRAI 1976, 795 s.; Hanoteau 1, 157-158 fig.; Bull. Acad. Inscr. et Belles-Lettres 1979, 801. - III<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - É. est assise, mains ouvertes; le traitement de la chevelure, du vêtement, de la crinière du cheval est très stylisé et décoratif plutôt que réaliste, de même que l'attitude rigide d'É. et de sa monture.

110. Paris, Cab. Méd. 690. De Reims (Marne). - Babelon/Blanchet, BiblNatBronzes n° 690; MT 41 pl. 8. - Milieu du II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - É. porte une couronne, tient des fruits à dr., et les rênes (plutôt que des serpents!) dans la main g.

111. Saint-Germain-en-Laye, Mus. Ant. Nat. De Pupillin (Jura). - Reinach, S., Bronzes figurés de la Gaule romaine (1894) n° 181; Lantier, o. c. 80, 334-335; MT 39. - III<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. ? - La tête a disparu. É. tenait une patère à dr.

112. Besançon, Mus. des Beaux-Arts et d'Arch. 852.2.10. De Besançon. - Lebel, P., Cat. des bronzes figurés du Mus. de Besançon (1961) 47 pl. 53. - Le cheval seul est conservé, mais il porte les traces d'une statuette d'É., qui est la seule divinité à monter de cette façon, en position assise.

113.* Paris, Cab. Méd. 692. De Franche-Comté. - Babelon/Blanchet, BiblNatBronzes n° 692; MT 40 pl. 4. - Ensemble massif. Support cylindrique entre les jambes du cheval au repos. É. a les deux mains sur les genoux; elle porte un épais manteau à capuchon, aux plis rigides.

114.* Paris, Cab. Méd. 691. De Bâgé-la-Ville (Ain). – Babelon/Blanchet, BiblNatBronzes n° 691; MT 37 pl. 7. – II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. ? – É., coiffée en bandeaux, est allongée sur sa monture au trot, dans une attitude gracieuse. Elle tient une patère de la main dr. L'ensemble manque de proportions.

115. Paris, Cab. Méd. 693. De Vienne (Isère). – Babelon/Blanchet, BiblNatBronzes n° 693; MT 34 pl. 6. – Couronne, voile, fleurs et fruits sur les genoux. Serait-elle montée sur un poulain ou un béliet? Ceci est peu vraisemblable. Il s'agit surtout de fautes de proportion et de maladresses.

116. Avenches (Suisse), Mus. – Leibundgut, A., Die röm. Bronzen der Schweiz II, Avenches (1976) 61 n° 41. – Cheval portant sur le côté dr. les traces d'une figurine, qui était certainement une É. Mais il n'y a pas à restituer de second cheval, et le cheval cabré de la Roche-Vineuse (Gallia 16, 1958, 367 fig. 18) ne peut être comparé à celui d'Avenches, même s'il porte une amulette, qui ne se rencontre ailleurs que sur les chevaux d'É.

117.* Luxembourg, Mus. de l'État 3-1057. De Dalheim. – Wilhelm, E., Bronzes figurés d'ép. romaine, Mus. d'Hist. et d'Art, Luxembourg (1975) n° 16 pl. 43. – II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. – É. porte un diadème; elle tient à dr. un objet rond (fruit ? gâteau ?), et lève la main g.

118. Paris, Petit-Palais. De Seine-Maritime (?). – Reinach, RépStat II 267 n° 4; MT 36; Petit, J., Mus. du Petit Palais. Bronzes antiques (1980) 58 n° 13. – É. porte un diadème. Elle est coiffée en grosses mèches, et tient une patère à dr.

119. Bruxelles, Mus. Roy. B 2762. De Maaseik (Limbourg). – MT 43 pl. 5; Feider-Feytmans, G., Les bronzes rom. de Belgique (1979) 87 n° 89 pl. 55. – É. est diadémée; ses attributs sont indistincts.

120. Sofia, Mus. Arch. Nat. 1735. De Kalougerovo (dép. Serlievo). – MT 44; Le bronze sculpté de l'ép. romaine au Mus. Arch. Nat. auprès de l'Acad. bulgare des Sciences (1984) n° 190; Naïdonova, V., Musées et monuments de la culture (1984) 41 s. – É. porte une patère dans la main g.

Voir E. É. accompagnée d'un poulain, 160-180. 182-184.

B. Épona assise à gauche

Reliefs, pierre

121. Metz, Mus. d'Art et d'Hist. De Cocheren (Moselle), près de la fontaine Ste Hélène. – MT 180; Toussaint, M., Rép. arch. du Dép. de la Meuse (1946) 63.

122. Saint-Germain-en-Laye, Mus. Ant. Nat. De Senon (Meuse). – Espérandieu, Recueil IX 7257; MT 179 pl. 26. – Cette figuration aurait été encadrée dans un mur, probablement celui d'une écurie, les côtés étant simplement épannelés. Attributs indiscernables.

123. Saint-Dizier, Mus. De Perthes (Haute-Marne). – Gallia 25, 1967, 294-295 fig. 43b. – Relief gravé, très schématique, «statue-menhir».

124. Loc. inconnue. De Heidelsburg, près de Waldfischbach (Palatinat), ruines d'un poste romain du IV<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. – Espérandieu, Recueil VIII 5933;

Lambrechts (1950) 107; MT 230. – Sur une des faces, É. se dirige vers une tour. Selon Magnen/Thevenot, un autre bloc provenant du même ensemble figure un → Attis funéraire.

Bronze découpé

125. Pièce de harnachement ? Amulette ? Alise-Sainte-Reine (Côte-d'Or), Mus. D'Alésia. – Espérandieu, É., Pro Alesia 1907, 257 fig. 68; MT 47. – Contours d'une É. assise à g. sur un cheval au galop vers la g.

Ronde-bosse, pierre

126. Langres, Mus. St Didier. De Gourzon (Haute-Marne), ruines du Châtelet. – Espérandieu, Recueil VI 4738; MT 178. – Statuette fruste.

127. Statuette incomplète. Nevers, Mus. du Nivernais. – Espérandieu, Recueil III 2213; MT 176 pl. 53. – É. semble tenir une boule marquée par deux traits en croix (gâteau).

Ronde-bosse, terre cuite

128. Moulins, Mus. De Nérès-les-Bains (Allier). MT 54; Cravay, P., RAE 6, 1955, 219. – Patère et corne d'abondance.

129. Nérès-les-Bains, Mus. Rieckotter. De Nérès. – Cravay, o. c. 128, 219. – Statuette d'un petit cheval présentant des traces d'arrachement, probablement celles d'une figurine d'É.

130. Moulins, Mus. De Vichy (Allier), quartier de Moûtier, dans un puits. – Morlet, A., Vichy gallo-romain (1957) 265 fig. 179. – É. porte une couronne murale (Tutela d'Aquae Calidae, → Tyche/Fortuna). Elle tient dans la main g. une corne d'abondance qu'elle appuie contre elle.

131. Leyde, Rijksmus. Prov. inconnue. – É. tient sur les genoux un petit animal (poulain).

Ronde-bosse, métal

132. Détruite. De Tongres (Belgique). – Reinach (1899) 65 fig. – «Métal blanc très lourd». Housse sur la jument; É. tient une corne d'abondance dans la main dr.

Voir E. É. accompagnée d'un poulain, 181.

C. Épona à califourchon

Reliefs, pierre

133. Metz, Mus. d'Art et d'Hist. De Bonviller (Meurthe-et-Moselle); remployé dans un mur d'écurie-relais de poste. – Espérandieu, Recueil V 4415; MT 191. – Sommet à double pente, très fruste.

134. a) Coll. part. Du Hiéruple, de Cocheren (Moselle)? – Espérandieu, Recueil IX n° 7718; MT 196; Berghol, E., Ann. Soc. Hist. et Arch. de la Lorraine 1935, 11, note qu'à cet endroit avaient lieu des pèlerinages pour les chevaux. – É. tient peut-être une patère. – b) Perdu. – Espérandieu, Recueil V 4444; MT n° 92.

135. Metz, Mus. d'Art et d'Hist. (?). De Fontoy (Moselle). – Espérandieu, Recueil 4435; MT 193. É. aurait tenu un fouet.

136. Stèle à sommet cintré. Metz, Mus. d'Art et d'Hist. De Metz. – Gallia 22, 1964, 351 fig. 17; Collet, G., La civ. gallo-rom. dans la cité des Médiomatrices I, Mus. arch. de Metz (1981) n° 186. – É. «boudeuse», est vue de trois quarts, un manteau couvre partiellement la tête; de la main g. elle rajuste sa chevelure éparse sur les épaules; la main dr. s'appuie sur la croupe de sa monture. L'attitude est aisée.

137.* Stèles à sommet cintré. Metz, Mus. d'Art et d'Hist. De la Horgne-au-Sablon (Moselle), nécropole. a) Espérandieu, Recueil V 4350; MT 186. – b)* Espérandieu, Recueil V 4351; MT 187 pl. 28. – É. lève le bras dr. – c) Espérandieu, Recueil V 4352; MT 188 pl. 27.

138.* Metz, Mus. d'Art et d'Hist. De la Horgne-au-Sablon. a)* Espérandieu, Recueil V 4355; MT 189 pl. 29. Un palefrenier accompagne É. – b) Espérandieu, Recueil V 4356; MT 190; Toussaint, o. c. 30, 109-110.

139.* Luxembourg, Mus. de l'État 258. De Conterren. Espérandieu, Recueil V 4273; MT 185; Wilhelm, o. c. 32, n° 318. – La jument marche vers la g., les jambes de dr. étaient peintes.

140. Luxembourg, Mus. de l'État 259. De Dalheim. – Espérandieu, Recueil V 4259; MT 184; Wilhelm, o. c. 32, n° 319. – É. est vêtue d'une robe moulante; elle tient les rênes de sa monture.

141. Luxembourg, Mus. de l'État 261. De Dalheim ? – MT 232; Wilhelm, o. c. 32, n° 322; Hatt, J. J., La tombe gallo-romaine (1951) 223. – Sur la paroi intérieure d'un petit édicule, É. se dirige vers une porte. Objet à valeur funéraire ?

142.* Luxembourg, Mus. de l'État 11. De Medingen. – Espérandieu, Recueil V 4188; MT 183; Wilhelm, o. c. 32, n° 315. – É. tient des fruits sur ses genoux.

143. Stuttgart, Landesmus. RL 14. De Cannstatt. – Espérandieu, Germanie 548; MT 197. – Deux des jambes de la monture sont peintes.

144. Sarrebruck, Mus. für Vor- und Frühgeschichte. De Ludweiler. – Espérandieu, Recueil XIV 8427; MT 128 bis; Schleiermacher 133 pl. 23, 2. – Quatre autres stèles ont été trouvées au même endroit (56. 152). L'attribut en forme de lance pourrait être un fouet.

Ronde-bosse, pierre

145. De Saulon-La Chapelle (Côte-d'Or). – MT 199 pl. 57; Thevenot 1, 391 fig.; Benoît, Mythes 35. – É. nue à califourchon sur un cheval sellé.

146. Stuttgart, Landesmus. – MT 198; Espérandieu, Germanie 497. – Corbeille de fruits sur les genoux.

147. Fr. Mayence, RGZM. De Kastell. – Espérandieu, Recueil X 7379; MT 195. – É. à califourchon, avec une tunique courte et des bottes.

Ronde-bosse, terre cuite

148. Saint-Germain-en-Laye, Mus. Ant. Nat.; moulage: Saumur, Mus. du Cheval. De Saint-Pourçain-sur-Besbre (Allier). – Tunique courte et cheveux

relevés; la main dr. est fermée, et le bras replié vers le haut. Yeux proéminents en amande.

149. Saint-Germain-en-Laye, Mus. Ant. Nat. De Cluny (Saône-et-Loire). – MT 57. – Tunique longue.

D. Épona à côté de son cheval

Reliefs, pierre

150.* Jabreilles (Haute-Vienne), sous le porche de l'église. De Jabreilles. – Espérandieu, Recueil II 1588; MT 200. – É. debout, tenant une jument par la bride et portant une corne d'abondance. Sur la face opposée du bloc trois déesses-mères debout (→ Matres, Matronae), sur les petits côtés Apollon respectivement Mars (→ Ares/Mars)?

151. Épinal, Mus. De Frémifontaine (Vosges). – Espérandieu, Recueil VI 4783; MT 203. – É. debout appuyée contre le flanc dr. de sa monture.

152. Sarrebruck, Mus. für Vor- und Frühgeschichte. De Ludweiler. – Espérandieu, Recueil XIV 8426; MT 128 bis. Trouvée en même temps que quatre autres stèles (56. 144). – L'attribut n'est pas une lance, mais le manche d'un fouet.

153.* Fr. Thaims (Charente-Maritime), église. D'un édifice romain (lieu de culte?), sous l'église. – Espérandieu, Recueil XV 8937; Tonnelier, P. M., Gallia 11, 1953, 84 fig. 2; MT 200 bis pl. 46 bis. – É. est auprès de sa monture, tournée vers la g.

Relief, terre cuite

154. Moule. Du Puy-de-Dôme. – Ogam 9, 1957, 259. – É., debout auprès de sa monture (tunique courte, corne d'abondance).

Ronde-bosse, pierre

155. De Bierre-lès-Semur (Côte-d'Or), ruines d'une villa. – Espérandieu, Recueil IX 7103; MT 167. – É. semble se laisser glisser de sa monture.

156. Coll. part. De Chantenay (Nièvre). – Espérandieu, Recueil III 2200. – É. auprès de sa monture, la main sur les naseaux.

157.* Poitiers, Mus. Ste Croix. De Poitiers, Trésorerie générale. – Gallia 33, 1975, 381-382 fig. 25. – É. tient une patère et un coffret.

158. Groupe mutilé. Nérès-les-Bains (Allier), Mus. De Nérès. – REA 1916, 204; MT 201 pl. 55; Lambrechts (1949) 152 fig. – É. acéphale. Sous le sabot avant g., un enfant nu, personnification d'une source?

159. Groupe. De Saintes (Charente-Maritime). – Gallia 41, 1983, 335 fig. 12. – É. court à côté de son cheval tourné vers la dr.

E. Épona accompagnée d'un poulain

La déesse est assise à dr. sauf en 181.

Reliefs, pierre

160. Coll. part. De Vitteaux (Côte-d'Or). – Espérandieu, Recueil III 2329; Thevenot 1, 386; MT 95. – Les mains d'É. sont brisées. Ses pieds sont posés sur le dos d'un poulain.

161. Coll. part. De Gilly-lès-Cîteaux (Côte-d'Or). - Espérandieu, Recueil XIII 8227; BullSantF 1943-44, 211 s; MT 156. - Un voile couvre la tête d'É.; ses pieds sont posés sur le dos d'un poulain qui flaire la patère tenue à dr.; corne d'abondance dans la main g. La tête de la monture ressemble à celle d'un bovidé.

162. Dijon, Mus. Arch. De Brazey-en-Plaine (Côte-d'Or). - Espérandieu, Recueil X 7515; MT 100 pl. 33; Deyts, o. c. 2, n° 57. - É. porte un manteau flottant; ses pieds reposent sur le dos d'un poulain.

163. Beaune, Mus. 44. De Chassagne-Montrachet (Côte-d'Or). - Espérandieu, Recueil III 2033; MT 91. - É. tient une patère dans la main dr.; un poulain est couché sous sa mère.

164. Stèle incomplète. Beaune, Mus. D 59. 1. 3. De Cisse-Mercueil (Côte-d'Or). - Espérandieu, Recueil III 2121; MT 94. - Le poulain tête sa mère.

165. Stèle disparue. De St Romain, Pommard-Volnay (Côte-d'Or). Avant 1900, elle était intégrée dans un mur d'écurie à la métairie de la Serve. - Espérandieu, Recueil III 2113; MT 92. - Poulain tétant.

166. Stèle disparue. De Santenay-le-Haut (Côte-d'Or). Photogr.: Nevers, Mus. - Espérandieu, Recueil X 7513; Thevenot 1, 387; MT 190. - É. tient une patère dans la main dr.; très petit poulain tétant.

167. Dijon, Mus. Arch. De Mâlain (Côte-d'Or). - Espérandieu, Recueil IV 3555; MT 171 pl. 52; Deyts, o. c. 2, n° 144. - É., acéphale, tient une patère dans la main dr.; un poulain l'accompagne.

168. Fr. Châtillon-sur-Seine, Mus. Arch. De Vertault (Côte-d'Or). - Espérandieu, Recueil IX 7182; MT 101. - Il ne reste que les pieds d'É., posés sur le dos d'un poulain.

169. Dijon, Mus. Arch. D'Allerey (Côte-d'Or). Trouvé à un croisement de chemins (ancien relais de poste) - Espérandieu, Recueil XIII 8235; Lambrechts 2, 152-153; MT 96; Deyts, o. c. 2 n° 8. - É. est couronnée de fleurs et nue jusqu'aux hanches; ses cheveux forment une torsade sur son épaule g. Un poulain est couché sous la jument.

170.* Stèle à sommet arrondi. Beaune, Mus. 899.3.1. Moulage: Saint-Germain-en-Laye, Mus. Ant. Nat. De Mersault (Côte-d'Or). - Espérandieu, Recueil III 2117; MT 93 pl. 38. - É. tient à dr. une patère, à g. une corne d'abondance; un poulain est couché sous la jument; un voile se gonfle derrière la tête d'É., détail qui apparaît ailleurs (cf. Index).

171. Saumur, Mus. du Cheval. «De Bourgogne». - Bonnet 164 fig. 4. - Un poulain est debout près de sa mère.

172. D'Ouroux-en-Chalonais (Saône-et-Loire). - Espérandieu, Recueil XIII 8247; MT 82; Armand-Calliat, L., Le Chalonais gallo-romain (1937) 209 pl. 21. - Attributs indistincts. Le poulain tête sa mère.

173. Beaune, Mus. 44.777. De Remigny (Saône-et-Loire). - Espérandieu, Recueil III 2135; Thevenot 1, 387; MT 89. - É. tient une patère de la main dr.; un poulain tête sa mère.

174. Loc. inconnue. De Fontaine-lès-Chalon (Saône-et-Loire). Moulage: Chalon-sur-Saône, Mus. Denon. - Espérandieu, Recueil III 2110; MT 83 pl. 34;

Thevenot 2, 362; - É. tient une patère dans la main dr., une corne d'abondance dans la main g.; sous la jument, un poulain tend la tête vers la patère. É. est vêtue d'une longue robe et d'un manteau flottant formant un cercle autour de sa tête.

175.* Chalon-sur-Saône, Mus. Denon. De Melcey (Saône-et-Loire), ruines d'un temple au bord d'une voie rom. - Espérandieu, Recueil III 2128; MT 88 pl. 37; Linduff fig. 4. - Dimensions exceptionnelles (1,10 m x 0,63 m). Dans une niche cintrée, É. assise sur sa monture tenait à dr. une patère que vient flaire un poulain qui suit sa mère.

176. Stèle à sommet cintré encastrée dans un mur, Saint-Martin-sous-Montaigu (Saône-et-Loire). - Espérandieu, Recueil XIII 8248; MT 85; Armand-Calliat, o. c. 172, 250 pl. 29. - É. tient une patère ou une corbeille; ses pieds sont posés sur le dos d'un poulain qui lève la tête pour téter.

177.* Stèle perdue. Moulage: Saint-Germain-en-Laye, Mus. Ant. Nat. D'Agneux-Rully (Saône-et-Loire). - Espérandieu, Recueil III 2127; MT 86 pl. 35. - É. (patère dans la main dr., corne d'abondance dans la g.) pose les pieds (?) sur le dos d'un poulain. Cf. MT 87: stèle disparue.

178. Autun, Mus. Rolin ML 13. De Charrecey (Saône-et-Loire). - Espérandieu, Recueil III 2124; MT 84 pl. 36; Armand-Calliat, o. c. 172, 115. - Dans la main dr. É. tient une patère emplie de gâteaux (?); elle pose les pieds sur le dos du poulain qui lève la tête vers elle.

179. Autun, Mus. Rolin ML 842. De Saône-et-Loire, prov. précise inconnue. - Espérandieu, Recueil III 1855; Thevenot 2, 386; MT 80. - É. tient une patère remplie de fruits ou de gâteaux vers laquelle un poulain lève la tête.

180. Dijon, coll. part. De l'Yonne, localité indéterminée. - MT 98 pl. 32; signalée dans Congrès Ass. bourguignonne des Soc. Sav. 1952; non publiée à l'époque. - Le sabot dr. de la jument est posé sur un objet de forme ornementale (volute ? symbole de l'eau jaillissante ?); un poulain est debout sous sa mère.

181. Relief perdu, connu par un dessin. De Dieulouard (Meurthe-et-Moselle). Des ruines de Scarponne. - Espérandieu, Recueil VI 4605; MT 177. - É., assise à g., tient dans la main g. une corbeille de fruits; sous la jument un poulain tête.

Ronde-bosse, pierre

182. Saint-Germain-en-Laye, Mus. Ant. Nat. 1476. De Vitteaux (Côte-d'Or). - Espérandieu, Recueil III 2335; MT 164 pl. 51. - 2° moitié du III<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - É. tient une patère vers laquelle le poulain lève la tête.

183. Autun, Mus. Rolin ML 29. De Saône-et-Loire, prov. imprécise. - Espérandieu, Recueil III 1851; MT 160. - É. tient une patère et pose les pieds sur le dos d'un poulain.

Ronde-bosse, bronze

184.* Grande statuette. Paris, Cab. Méd. 689. De Loisia (Jura), bâtiment ant. (ancien haras ?) avec petit temple d'É. - Babelon/Blanchet, BiblNatBronzes n°

689; MT 38 pl. 9; Thevenot, Suppl 38; idem, RAE 9, 1958, 224-238; Dayet, M., «Notes complémentaires sur l'É. de Loisia», RAE 14, 1963, 121s; Dieux de la Gaule, o. c. 6, 86-88 n° 61, fig. - É. est assise à dr. sur une jument flanquée d'un poulain; elle est représentée torse nu (Index), et rappelle en cela les Matres. Elle porte un diadème; ses yeux étaient incrustés d'argent; les cheveux sont relevés en chignon. É. tenait probablement une patère dans la main dr.

F. Épona avec deux ou plusieurs chevaux

Voir aussi 217.

a) Chevaux représentés de face ou de trois quarts Reliefs, pierre

185.* Autel. Metz, Mus. d'Art et d'Hist. De Naix (Meuse). - Espérandieu, Recueil VI 4650; MT 207 pl. 3; Toussaint, o. c. 121, 28. - 211-222 ap. J.-C. - Sur la face du bloc, dédicace (inscr.) à la déesse É. et au Génie des Leuques (→ Genius), représenté sur le côté dr.; sur le côté g. É. entre deux chevaux tournant la tête vers elle.

186. Sarcophage. Arles, Mus. de l'Arles Antique. D'Arles. - Espérandieu, Recueil I 180; MT 204; Benoît, Mythes 37 fig.; Lambrechts (1949) 151. - Sur l'un des côtés, édifice en forme de temple à acrotères; sur le podium, bien signalé par trois marches d'accès, É. encadrée de deux chevaux, la tête légèrement tournée vers l'extérieur. Sur la face opposée, un orgue hydraulique.

187. Oran, Mus. (?). De Béthioua (ex-Saint-Leu), station de cavaliers. - MT 216 pl. 45; Thevenot 2, 364. - Dans le champ, deux rosaces. É. est assise entre deux équidés vus de trois quarts, tournant la tête vers elle; derrière elle, un panneau mouluré figure l'entrée d'une écurie (ou la porte de l'Hadès ? Benoît, Mythes 41. 57).

188. Stèle en forme de temple. Friedberg, Mus. De Kapersburg (Hesse). - Espérandieu, Germanie 53; MT 209 pl. 44. - Déd. à É. datée de 202 ap. J.-C. - É., assise entre deux chevaux tournés vers l'extérieur et surmontés de deux têtes de mulets, tient une corbeille; à l'extérieur, de chaque côté, un autel est allumé.

189.* Worms, Mus. der Stadt Worms. - Espérandieu, Recueil VIII 6040; MT 208. - Milieu du III<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - É. est assise, tenant une corbeille de fruits ou de graines; deux chevaux l'encadrent et tournent la tête vers elle.

190. Sarrebruck, Mus. für Vor- und Frühgeschichte HV 329. De Limbach, Neuenkirchen (Sarre). - Espérandieu, Recueil V 4479; Moreau, J., La Nouv. Clio 1952, 232; MT 206 pl. 42. - É., une corbeille de fruits (?) sur les genoux, entre deux petits équidés vus de trois quarts, tournant la tête vers l'extérieur.

191.* Stuttgart, Landesmus. D'Öhringen. - Espérandieu, Germanie 666; MT 212. - É. est assise de face et tient probablement une corbeille de fruits sur les genoux; deux juments vers la dr. se tournent vers elle, la croupe d'une troisième dirigée vers la g. est visible.

192.* Stuttgart, Landesmus. RL 416. De Köngen. - Espérandieu, Germanie 586; Schleiermacher 129; MT 211 pl. 43; Hanoteau 2, fig. p. 13; Linduff fig. 5; Römer am Rhein A 92. - Fin II<sup>e</sup>-début III<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - É. tient une grande corbeille de fruits sur les genoux. Deux chevaux vus de trois quarts tournent la tête vers l'extérieur. La coiffure d'É. est comparable à celle de Julia Domna.

Relief, bronze

193. Budapest, Mus. Beaux-Arts. D'Ofen. - Reinach 1, 124; idem (1899) 69; MT 246. - Reinach doute de l'authenticité de l'objet qui nous paraît cependant antique. - É. est assise entre deux poulains vus de face, tête tournée vers elle.

Relief, plomb

194.* Augst, Römermus. 1960.7660. De Kaiser-augst. - Laur-Belart, R., Führer durch Augusta Raurica (1966) 171 fig. 121; Hanoteau 2, fig. p. 6. - É. debout dominant quatre petits chevaux vus de trois quarts. Les deux chevaux du centre ont la tête tournée vers l'intérieur, les deux autres vers l'extérieur: quadriges ? Cet objet n'a de parenté avec aucune autre figuration connue.

Ronde-bosse, pierre

195. a) Marbre. Rome. - Reinach 1, n° 72; MT 217. - É. entre deux petits chevaux vus de face et tournant la tête vers celle de la déesse. - b) Cf. MT 218: groupe trouvé sur le Testaccio. Même sujet.

Ronde-bosse, bronze

196. Groupe disparu, connu par un dessin. De Muri (Argovie, Suisse). - Reinach (1903) 349; Stähelin, F., Anz. für Schweiz. Altertumskunde 1924, 20; MT n° 45 pl. 10; Hanoteau 2, 6 fig. p. 8-9. - Quelques doutes ont été formulés quant à l'authenticité de ce bronze. É. est assise sur un trône devant deux chevaux adossés, couchés sur le ventre. Elle tient une corbeille de fruits sur les genoux.

197. Londres, BM. Du Wiltshire (?). - Reinach 1, n° 61; MT 46 pl. 11; Hanoteau 2, fig. p. 14; Johns, C., «A Roman Bronze Statuette of E.», BMQ 36, 1971, 37-41. - É. trône entre deux poulains; elle tenait une corne d'abondance; les poulains, vus de trois quarts, tournent la tête vers elle. Johns suppose qu'É. conduisait une carriole; sa position entre les deux équidés semble exclure cette interprétation.

b) Chevaux de profil, tournés vers la déesse Peinture

198. De Rome, cirque de Maxence. Connue par d'anc. gravures. - Lafaye 734 fig. 2705; MT 221. - É. est assise entre quatre poulains, dont deux viennent manger sur ses genoux (rideaux sur les côtés).

Gravure

199. Pierre. Adria, Mus. Bocchi. - Reinach 1, 163-164 n° 69; MT 222. - Deux chevaux tournés vers É.

200. a)* Cornaline. Copenhague, Mus. Nat. 8009. Sans provenance. - II<sup>e</sup>-IV<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - É. est assise sur un trône, entre deux poulains. Lettres gravées dans le champ: E P S. - b) Berlin, Staatl. Mus. FG 8422. - Furtwängler, Beschreibung n° 8422 pl. 60, publie une représentation similaire, mais interprétée comme Vesta (→ Hestia/Vesta) avec des ânes (?).

Reliefs, pierre

201.* Grand bas-relief. Stuttgart, Landesmus. RL 415. De Beihingen. - Espérandieu, Germanie 404; MT 215 pl. 62; Hanoteau 2, fig. p. 15. Fin II<sup>e</sup>-début III<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - É., assise, tient une corbeille sur les genoux. A sa dr. sont représentés trois chevaux, quatre à sa g., tous de profil (sept chevaux: cf. 15, lieu dit forêt des «Sept Chevaux» à Baudoncourt, Haute-Saône).

202. Ptuj, Mus. 742. De Poetovio (Yougoslavie). - MT 266. - É., assise sur un trône à dossier courbe, tient une corbeille de fruits sur les genoux; deux chevaux sont tournés vers elle; un palefrenier tient un fouet (?).

203. Autriche. De Lorch (Lauriacum). - Jenny, W./Vetters, H., PMAAR 3, 1953, 5; Eckhart, L., Forschungen in Lauriacum 2 (1954) 82 fig. 75; Kenne, H., ÖJh 43, 1958, 66; Eckhart, L., CSIR Österreich III 2 (Lauriacum) 70 n° 103 pl. 41 s. - III<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - É. assise, un tabouret sous les pieds; un cheval s'approche pour manger le contenu d'une corbeille (fruits ?) posée sur ses genoux. La stèle est brisée; un autre équidé se trouvait à sa g.

204. Sofia, Mus. Arch. Nat. D'Aptaat (dép. Varna). - RA 1902/1, 237 fig.; MT 219 pl. 61; Linduff fig. 6. - II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - É. offre du grain à deux équidés se faisant face.

205. Plaque en marbre. Plovdiv, Mus. Arch. De Plovdiv. - Botoucharova, L., RA 1949, 164-166, fig.; Benoît, Mythes 40; MT 220 pl. 60. - É. pose ses mains sur la tête de deux chevaux.

206.* Thessalonique, Mus. Arch. 3056. De Thessalonique, palais de Galère. - Bakalakis, G., AA 1973, 683 fig. 14; Laubscher, P., Der Reliefschmuck des Galeriusbogens in Thessaloniki (1973) 149 pl. 69. - É. est assise entre quatre chevaux vus de profil, tournés vers elle; les deux chevaux de l'arrière-plan sont en partie gravés, en partie en bas-relief très mince; É. est couronnée et semble tenir des fruits dans un pli de son vêtement. Appartenait à un monument funéraire ?

207.* Budapest, Mus. Beaux-Arts, 60.15 A. «De Dacie». - Nagy, T., BullMusHong 26, 1965, 7634 fig. 3; Bökönyi, S., History of Domestic Mammals in Central and Eastern Europe (1974) 257 fig. 97. - É. est assise, les pieds posés sur un tabouret. Elle pose la main sur l'encolure de deux petits chevaux. La stèle présente un fronton à son sommet, et des rideaux plissés, fixés aux murs latéraux (rideaux du temple de la déesse).

c) Chevaux disposés de façon dissymétrique

Reliefs, pierre

208.* Wiesbaden, Mus. 246. D'Hedderheim, sanctuaire mitriaque de l'Heidenfeld. - Espérandieu, Germanie 135; Schleiermacher 130; MT 210. - É. porte à dr. un objet rond, à g. une corne d'abondance; elle est assise entre deux chevaux adossés; l'un tourne la tête vers elle.

209. Stèle de hauteur d'homme. De Schwarzenacker, Kreis Homburg, d'un établissement romain situé à une croisée de routes. - MT 267; Kolling, A., «Die röm. Siedlung Schwarzenacker an der Blies», Germania 59, 1961, 483-485 fig. - É. est couronnée et porte vraisemblablement un plat de fruits. Elle pose la main sur l'encolure de deux chevaux qui se croisent derrière elle; l'un tend la tête vers les fruits.

d) Chevaux en liberté

Reliefs, pierre

210.* Zurich, Mus. Nat. suisse P 3333. De Seegraben (canton de Zurich). - Espérandieu, Recueil VII 5445; MT 213; Hanoteau 2, fig. p. 7. - É. debout parmi plusieurs chevaux. Cf. Stähelin, o. c. 196, 20.

211.* Bregenz (Autriche), Vorarlberger Landesmus. 19.974. De Bregenz. - Reinach 1, 195 n° 59; MT 214 pl. 47. - É. est à cheval, assise à dr., et présente de la nourriture à quelques autres chevaux.

Relief, terre cuite

212. Moule à médaillon d'applique. Lectoure (Gers), Mus. E. Camoreyt. De Lectoure, atelier de potier. - Gallia 34, 1976, 486 fig. 25. - I<sup>er</sup>-II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - É., assise sur un cheval, tend à manger à l'un des chevaux qui se trouvent derrière elle.

G. Épona entre des animaux et monstres marins

Relief, pierre

213. Agassac (Haute-Garonne). - Espérandieu, Recueil II 843; MT 223; Hatt, J. J., Ann. du Midi 1945, 180; idem, RAE 1970, 16 fig. 4. - Début du II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - É. est assise à dr. sur un cheval au galop. Champ de rosaces et de rouelles. Sous le cheval, dauphin, tau-reau marin et poisson. On a pensé reconnaître dans ce monument une contamination du type de la Néréide (→ Nereides) et de l'É. funéraire.

H. Épona double ou triple

Reliefs, pierre

a) Épona double

214.* Linteau de porte. Strasbourg, Mus. Arch. 34775. De Strasbourg. - Espérandieu, Recueil X 7297; MT 182; Hatt, o. c. 18, n° 7. - Fin du I<sup>er</sup> s. ap. J.-C. ? - Trois niches: au milieu, buste de Mercure; niches latérales: deux É., l'une assise à dr., l'autre à g., s'éloignent du centre.

b) Épona triple

215.* Fr. Metz, Mus. Arch. D'Hagondange (Moselle). - Espérandieu, Recueil V 4449; Lambrechts (1950) 112; MT 117. - É. est assise dans un fauteuil; à dr. et à g. deux É. s'éloignent de la première.

216. Linteau ? Chez un particulier à Uckange (Moselle). Trouvé au lieu-dit Bois Saint-Hubert, dans un puits, près d'une voie rom. (anc. mansio ou mutatio ?). - Gallia 26, 1968, 391; Études mosellanes 1, 1969, 76. - Dans trois niches, trois É. sont assises à dr.

I. Épona et un parèdre

Relief, pierre

217. Stèle. Beaune (Côte-d'Or), Mus. De Beaune (et non de Santosse), trouvé au lieu-dit «La Lulune» près d'une source. - Espérandieu, Recueil III 2042; Benoît, Mythes 44; MT 241; Thevenot 1, 98; 2, 361. - Les deux divinités sont assises; entre elles apparaît un monument surmonté de trois vases (?), et deux poulains sont tournés vers les personnages qui les abreuvant. En bas deux cerfs, vus de profil et tournés l'un vers l'autre, semblent flairer ce qui pourrait être une vasque ou une fontaine.

J. Épona associée à d'autres dieux

Reliefs, pierre

Avec Sirona, Hygie, Mercure, Apollon: 24; Mercure: 214; le Génie des Leuques: 185; Attis funéraire: 124; les Déeses-Mères, Apollon, Mars (?): 150; Mithra: 46. 208.

K. Varia

Relief, pierre

218. Zadar (Yougoslavie), Mus. Arch. De Koprno. - Ratković, M. A., «Un relief d'É. provenant de Koprno en Dalmatie», Diadora 1, 1959, 133-139; Duval, P.-M., REA 63, 1961, 421; Thevenot, Suppl. 277. - É. est assise sur un tabouret, entre un homme debout, à dr. (palefrenier?), et l'avant-train d'un petit cheval accompagné d'un chien (?) ou plutôt d'un poulain.

Relief, argent

219. Belgrade, Mus. Nat. De Rudnik. - Benoît, Mythes 45; Lambrechts (1942) 126; MT 49. - Sur un manche de patère, buste d'une divinité tenant un petit cheval; au-dessous, un bouc. Une autre patère provenant du même site porte le nom gravé: EPONA.

Ronde-bosse, pierre

220. Bruxelles, Mus. Roy. D'Élouges (Hainaut). - Espérandieu, Recueil V 3991; MT 172 pl. 56. - É. est assise et tient une patère que flaire un poulain. Il n'est pas certain que l'on puisse reconstituer l'image d'un autre poulain.

L. Incerta

Peinture

221. (= Hestia/Vesta 54 avec bibl.) De Pompéi. - Lambrechts (1951) 124; Schleiermacher pl. 13; MT 245. - Femme assise sur une mule: É. ? Vesta ? → Iris ?

Gravure

222. Intaille de verre. Nice, Mus. Arch. De Cimiez. - Benoît, F., «L'É. de Cimiez», Ogam 11, 1959, 43-45 pl. 8, 5. - Deux chevaux encadrent un personnage ou un objet non identifiable.

Reliefs, pierre

223. De Bavay. - Espérandieu, Recueil X 7564; MT 173. - Déesse isolée sans attribut déterminant.

224. De Saint-Germain-Source-Seine (Côte-d'Or). - Espérandieu, Recueil XIII 8291; MT 238. - Débris d'une statue équestre.

225. De Santenay (Côte-d'Or). - Thevenot 1, 393 fig.; MT 166. - Tête de cheval qui ne concerne pas clairement É.

226. De Sougères-en-Puisaye (Yonne). - MT 239 pl. 63. - Débris de statues dans un sanctuaire: Apollon ? É. ?

227. De Virecourt (Meurthe-et-Moselle). - Espérandieu, Recueil IV 2850; MT 242. - É. sans cheval ?

228. De Crissier (Suisse). - Hanoteau 2, 10. - Il s'agit d'un dieu, torse nu, sans aucune trace de cheval.

229. De Hilton of Cadboll (Écosse). - Henry, F., La sculpture irlandaise (1932) 222; MT 242 bis. - É. (?) chevauchant à g.

230. «Relief Torlonia». D'Italie. - Reinach (1898) 198; MT 243. - É. ou Vesta ?

231. De Milan. - MT 244; Schleiermacher pl. 13. - Dans une niche, une déesse debout, le bras g. levé, tend une patère à dr. à l'un des deux très petits chevaux qui l'encadrent.

232. De Carnuntum (Hongrie). - MT 247 (bibl.). - Déesse assise entre deux cavaliers.

Ronde-bosse, terre cuite

233. Moules et statuettes de chevaux. D'Essche-Kalkoven (Belgique). - MT 240; Renard, M., Latomus 1951, 181 s. - L'auteur remarque, à juste titre, que sans les traces d'arrachements, qui sont très caractéristiques, on ne peut décider s'il s'agit de statuettes dédiées à É.

Ronde-bosse, pierre

234. De Meursault (Côte d'Or), ruines d'une villa. - Espérandieu, Recueil XIII 8234; Thevenot 1, 391 fig.; Benoît, Mythes 36 fig.; MT 181 pl. 58. - Chapiteau surmonté d'un cheval accroupi portant un dieu ou une déesse. Rien ne permet d'affirmer qu'il s'agit d'É.

235. Trèves, Landesmus. De Dalheim (Luxembourg). - MT 205. - Déesse assise, considérée, sans preuve aucune, comme É.

Ronde-bosse, bronze

236. Troyes (Aube), Mus. - MT 236. - Fr. de cheval de bronze, qui ne semble pas antique.

237. De Savoyeux (Haute-Saône). - Reinach, o. c. 111, 105; Ogam 1955, 357; Thevenot, Suppl. 281. - Applique qui pourrait aussi bien figurer Neptune (→ Poseidon/Neptunus) mais qui n'est pas antique.

238. Saint-Germain-en-Laye, Mus. Ant. Nat. De Tonnerre (Yonne). - Reinach 1, n° 35; MT 235. - Cheval de bronze, présentant sur le dos un orifice rectangulaire.

M. Épona et le «domador» hispanique

On ne peut, avec certitude, établir de relation certaine entre les deux divinités (contra Benoît, Mythes). Le problème sera examiné plus bas.

INDEX

- Lieux de trouvaille:*
Bâtiments romains, villas, domaines: 7. 72. 75. 126. 153. 155. 169. 181. 198. 209. 214(?)
Castras, fortifications: 2. 13. 28. 39-40. 52-53. 124
Écuries anciennes et modernes, haras: 122. 133. 161. 165. 184. 214(?)
Lieu de pèlerinage pour les chevaux: 134
Nécropole: 30-31. 137-138 (5 stèles)
Points d'eau, sources, puits, rivières, thermes antiques et modernes: 13-14. 16. 24. 75. 78. 83. 121. 128-130. 158. 166. 216-217
Station de cavaliers: 187
Temples, sanctuaires, autels (éventuellement association avec d'autres divinités): 18. 24. 42. 46. 64. 124. 150. 153(?). 175. 184-185. 208. 214(?)
Voies, croisements, relais, mansiones: 13. 133. 169. 175. 209. 214(?). 216
- Attributs*
Astre: 15
Chien (voir poulain)
Clé: 6. 16-17
Coffret: 79-80. 157
Corne d'abondance: 1. 8. 89. 104. 128. 130. 132. 150. 154. 161. 174-175. 177. 201. 208
Couronne ou diadème: 110. 115. 117-119. 206. 209
Couronne à la main: 70. 100
Couronne murale: 130
Couronne de fleurs sur la tête: 169
Fleurs: 115
Fouet: 13. 56. 135. 144. 152. 202
Fruits: 20. 25. 32-35. 40. 42-43. 47-48. 52. 55. 60-63. 90. 94. 108. 110. 115. 117. 120. 142. 146. 179. 181. 188-192. 196. 202-203. 209
Gâteau: 61. 69. 98. 127. 178-179
Grappe de raisin: 68
Oiseau: 34-36
Patère: 21. 44. 60. 64. 67. 72. 79. 89. 100. 108. 111. 114. 120. 128. 157. 161. 163. 166-167. 170. 173-174. 176-177. 183-184. 220. 231
Planchette ou tabouret sous les pieds: 4. 18-19. 37-38. 47. 52. 58-59. 63. 203
Poulain sur les genoux: 36. 76. 81. 83. 96-97. 99. 131
Rênes ou brides: 19. 37. 110. 140. 150
Voile ou manteau flottant: 6-7. 30. 67. 75. 80. 162. 168. 170. 174
- Varia*
Autel: 12-13. 185. 188
Bras droit levé: 15-16. 137

- Contexte daté: 10. 13. 46. 102. 110. 124. 185. 188. 201. 204. 206. 212
Édicule en forme de temple: 13-14
Enfant: 83. 158
Femme précédant É.: 41
Monument funéraire: 186. 206
Motif symbolisant l'eau: 5. 80. 180
Mulets: 91. 188. 200
Néréide: 213
Nudité ou semi-nudité: 145. 147-148. 154. 169. 184
Orifice pour libations: 13-15
Palefrenier (?): 5. 138. 202
Porte, tour: 124. 141. 187
Rideaux: 198. 207

COMMENTAIRE

É. n'a pas de légende. En dehors du récit étiologique d'Agésilaos rapporté par Ps.-Plutarque, qui concerne ses origines mythiques, nous ne lui connaissons pas d'aventures comparables à celles des dieux grecs et romains. Les textes d'époque romaine qui la mentionnent font état de ses qualités et pouvoirs de protectrice des équidés et des écuries; mais c'est une divinité secondaire, comme l'attestent Fulgence et les apologistes chrétiens. Cependant elle a occupé une place importante dans le panthéon gaulois, et son culte a été diffusé sur le limes de Bretagne, sur ceux du Rhin et du Danube, en Europe centrale, en Macédoine, en Italie, ainsi qu'en Espagne et au Portugal.

On a voulu reconnaître É. dans la déesse celtique Rhiannon (Hubert 187 s; Ross, A., Pagan Celtic Religion [1967] 118 s) qui est elle aussi associée au cheval; mais ses aventures, complexes, sanglantes, bien postérieures à l'époque romaine, n'ont pas de rapport avec l'image simple, paisible et bienveillante de l'É. classique. Ce serait plutôt Rhiannon qui aurait hérité de cette dernière sa personnalité de déesse cavalière, le reste de sa légende étant lié à des particularités locales et tardives.

Nous ne la reconnaitrons pas non plus sous l'image du domador ibérique (Benoît, Mythes 40 s, et Ogam 6, 1954, 105-113), la déesse n'ayant jamais cette apparence de dompteur, même lorsqu'elle est entourée de deux ou plusieurs chevaux, et les datations proposées étant en contradiction avec les documents historiques qui seront étudiés plus bas. Même la plaque de Saint-Leu (187), très fruste, ne peut s'apparenter au domador. Elle a été trouvée dans une station de cavaliers romains. Nous ne mentionnerons que pour mémoire les stèles représentant une jument et un poulain (MT 225-226), rien ne prouvant que la déesse ait été honorée sous cet aspect zoomorphe. Ajoutons qu'aucun document certain ne la concerne avant l'époque romaine.

Les inscriptions l'associent, sur des lieux de culte, à toutes sortes de dieux du panthéon romain: Jupiter, Junon, Minerve, Mars, Victoire, Hercule, Fortune, Mercure, Felicitas, Salus, Fas, Apollon, Diane, ainsi qu'à Silvain, aux Campestres, aux Matres Suleviae (CIL VI 31140-31142. 31145-31146. 31148-31149, casernes du Latran, dédicaces des equites singulares Augusti, datées de 118 à 141), aux Campestres encore, en Bavière (CIL III 5910 et 11909), en Transylvanie (CIL III 7904), en Écosse sur le vallum d'Antonin (CIL VII 1114b); aux Matrae près de Dijon (CIL XIII 5622) sur la grande voie de Lyon à Cologne. Elle est Mater elle-même à Soleure en Suisse (CIL XIII 5170), Victoria en Écosse (CIL VII 1114b), Regina en Transylvanie (CIL III 7750) et en Yougoslavie (CIL III 12679), Sancta à Cilli en Yougoslavie encore, où elle était associée à la déesse locale → Celeia (CIL III 5176). Elle apparaît encore sur d'autres inscriptions (Ruggiero, Diz. Epigr. s. v. «Epona»), et une fois en Espagne (CIL II 5788).

Un temple lui est connu à Entrains (CIL XIII 2902), et de nombreux vestiges ont été reconnus pour être aussi des temples, sanctuaires, autels, laraires (Index et figuration des rideaux 198 et 207).

La plupart des dédicants sont des soldats de tous grades, des fonctionnaires. Notons un courrier public à Kapersbourg (CIL XIII 7439), un autre peut-être à Alésia, représenté conduisant un char, sur une plaque de bronze (AEpigr. 1907, 106). Les lieux de trouvaille de ces inscriptions se situent essentiellement dans les zones militaires, mais ces documents ne sont pas antérieurs au II<sup>e</sup> s. de notre ère. Le calendrier de Guidizzolo en Italie (CIL I 1<sup>2</sup> p. 253) est le témoignage le plus ancien que nous connaissions concernant le culte d'É. (27 av. J.-C.), et une inscription découverte à Entrains (CIL XIII 2903) date du I<sup>er</sup> siècle de l'Empire. Les Indigitamenta n'en font pas état.

Ce sont les monuments figurés qui, pour la plus grande part, attestent qu'É. était honorée essentiellement en Gaule du Nord, de l'Est et du Centre Est, sur le limes rhénan; ils n'apparaissent que sporadiquement dans les autres régions citées plus haut.

La présence de la déesse est souvent attestée sur l'emplacement de bâtiments antiques, qui ont pu être ceux de grands domaines, et d'écuries – notons les réemplois dans des écuries modernes –, à des croisements de routes, où il y avait probablement des relais, dans des castra; elle apparaît évidemment dans les grandes régions d'élevage du centre de la Gaule (Thevenot [1964] 108 s). Sur les territoires des Trévires existaient probablement des zones d'élevage, des haras, nécessaires à la remonte de l'armée, ainsi que près des limes breton, rhénan et danubien. On rencontre fréquemment la déesse sur l'emplacement de thermes antiques, qui sont devenus des établissements modernes, mais aussi de puits, de sources, de rivières. L'eau nécessaire à l'élevage, à la culture, à la santé des hommes explique le rapprochement et la fusion des cultes. Les inscriptions et les stèles trouvées dans des sanctuaires ou sur des autels, parfois partagés avec d'autres divinités, démontrent bien la participation de la déesse aux cultes romains et gallo-romains.

Les attributs qui caractérisent le plus souvent É. – patère, corne d'abondance, gâteaux, fruits – en font, ainsi que sa nudité ou semi-nudité – rare –, une déesse fondamentalement liée aux Matres (Lambrechts [1950] 103 s). La couronne de fleurs mentionnée par Apulée n'apparaît qu'une fois sur sa tête (169), rare-ment à la main (70. 100). La clé qu'elle porte en certains cas peut être celle des écuries, ou du temple dans lequel elle est révéérée, et la porte que présentent plusieurs stèles, celle de ces mêmes édifices ou bâtiments; le fouet convient bien à la déesse des chevaux. Parfois, elle tient sur les genoux un ou deux petits quadrupèdes, des poulains nouveau-nés sans doute. É. pose souvent les pieds sur une sorte de planchette, ou sur un tabouret, parfois un petit autel (Benoît, F., «Traditions païennes dans l'iconographie romane. Épona au tabouret», Coll. Latomus 28 [1957] 116 s).

Dans la majorité des cas, les représentations de la déesse, à cheval, semblent donc réalistes, liées aux besoins humains et animaux, plutôt que symboliques, dans une allusion à l'outre-tombe, que l'on a pu invoquer (Benoît, Mythes 25 s, et [1952] 84 s), théorie qui sera examinée plus bas. Les reliefs d'Europe centrale constituent un groupe original, faisant appel à une imagerie différente de celle de l'Europe occidentale: É. est assise entre deux ou plusieurs équidés vus de profil.

Les stèles ou statuettes des pays éduens, trévires et du limes rhénan, qui semblent relativement banales et uniformes, et proches, finalement, des représentations des Matres, proposent des diversités et particularités intéressantes:

– La corbeille de fruits apparaît surtout dans les régions trévires et du limes rhénan (20-63) et n'est que très peu représentée dans les contrées éduennes. Est-ce là une allusion à l'existence, en ces lieux, de cultures fruitières, qui seraient ainsi signalées à la bienveillante attention de la déesse, présente, comme les Matres, en tous points où coulent ou surgissent les eaux fécondantes, É. étant elle-même une Mater? S'agit-il d'une habitude transmis localement d'atelier en atelier?

– Le poulain sous la jument ou auprès d'elle ne se rencontre à l'inverse que chez les Éduens (160-184). Cette particularité met l'accent sur l'élevage et la reproduction sur les grands domaines de pâturages. Il ne peut être question, dans cet ensemble bien déterminé, de reconnaître en ce petit animal un chien, «attribut fréquent des divinités infernales» (Benoît, Mythes 34). Mais là aussi il doit s'agir, partiellement, de traditions locales pour ce type de représentation, le centre de la Gaule n'ayant probablement pas possédé le monopole de l'élevage des chevaux, sinon, peut-être au début de l'Empire (cf. l'inscription d'Entrains, ci-dessous).

– Le petit quadrupède (il y en a rarement deux), assis sur les genoux de la déesse dans les régions trévires et sur le limes rhénan, ne peut guère être un chien, qui courrait plutôt à terre, près du cheval. Cet animal est lié à la personnalité d'É., très certainement, au même titre que ses autres attributs, qui symbolisent l'abondance et la fertilité (gâteau, fruits, corne d'abondance). Ce parallélisme avec les attributs des Matres conduit à penser qu'É. tient dans ces cas un jeune poulain, comme les Matres peuvent porter un poulain; de taille très réduite, il devient le symbole particulier de ses pouvoirs dans le domaine de l'élevage des chevaux.

L'apparition du culte d'É. doit être examinée, dans toutes les régions où il se manifeste, à la lumière des inscriptions, les monuments figurés ne permettant pas d'établir une chronologie précise.

1. Le calendrier de Guidizzolo (Barnabei, I., NiS 1892, 7 s; Reinach I, n° 90; CIL I 1<sup>2</sup> p. 253; Keune, RE 229; Duval [1976] 50; Chevallier, R., La romanisation de la Celtique du Pô [1983] 432-433) offre le plus ancien témoignage du culte d'É.; ce calendrier privé et rustique a été découvert dans la région de Brescia, capitale des Galli Cenomani, et date des premières années du principat d'Auguste (27 av. J.-C.). On sait que la Cisalpine a fourni une partie de la remonte de la cavalerie romaine (Chevallier, o. c. 243 et n. 154-155 avec bibl.).

2. Une inscription d'Entrains (Nièvre) (CIL XIII 2903; MT 2; Boucher 131 s), en bons caractères du I<sup>er</sup> s., est une dédicace faite à É. par un «intendant» d'origine probablement romaine, et suppose l'existence d'un sanctuaire à une date haute dans l'un des grands domaines éduens bien connus.

3. Les equites singulares des casernes du Latran, recrutés sur le Rhin et le Danube, ont offert à É. un certain nombre de dédicaces (CIL VI 31140-31149; MT 18) entre les années 118 et 141. La déesse est associée à de nombreuses divinités, dont les Matres Suleviae d'origine celto-germanique (Lambrechts [1951] 128 s).

4. A Also-Ilosva, en Transylvanie, une stèle est dédiée à É. (CIL III 788; MT 29) par le I<sup>er</sup> corps de cavalerie des Tongriens et l'inscription est datée du II<sup>e</sup> s.

5. A Aptaat (région de Tolbuhin, Bulgarie), une inscription grecque (204; MT 219) datée du II<sup>e</sup> s. serait liée au séjour en Mésie de la Cohors II Gallorum (Dimittrov).

6. Deux inscriptions de Grande-Bretagne ont été découvertes, l'une (CIL VII 747) à Carvoran, sur le vallum d'Hadrien, l'autre (CIL VII 1114b) à Auchindavy, sur le vallum d'Antonin.

Les inscriptions les plus anciennes sont donc celles des Gaules cisalpine et transalpine, et concernent des régions d'élevage développé, entretenu et renouvelé du cheptel des chevaux destinés à l'armée, aux courriers, aux particuliers, aux courses aussi. Quelques textes latins sont significatifs à ce sujet. Horace (Hor. c. 1, 8, 5-7) morigène un jeune Romain: cur neque militaris / inter aequalis equitet, Gallica nec lupatis / temperet ora frenis? Un cavalier éduen, Eporodix, se rallia à César, puis le trahit, pendant la guerre des Gaules (Caes. Gall. 7, 55, 67). Plus tard Pline l'Ancien (Plin. nat. 3, 123) écrit: Eporédias Galli bonos equorum domitores uocant. Notons aussi le nom de la ville d'Eporédia, l'actuelle Ivree.

Les stèles inscrites de caractère militaire apparaissent seulement au II<sup>e</sup> s. et constituent une sorte de prolongation autour du noyau éduen et trévire. Des Gaulois et des Tongriens se sont rendus dans les régions danubiennes; nous n'avons aucune preuve que se soit produit l'inverse, comme le suppose F. Benoît (Mythes). On s'expliquerait mal qu'un si grand nombre de représentations d'É. en Gaule n'aient été exécutées qu'à partir de la fin du II<sup>e</sup> s.; beaucoup d'entre elles sont certainement antérieures.

On comprendrait mal, aussi, que le thème unique utilisé dans les régions danubiennes – É. entre deux ou plusieurs chevaux ou mulets vus de profil ou de trois quarts – n'ait pas eu d'écho en Gaule, où apparaissent sur les stèles des types de représentations très différents de ceux pour lesquels F. Benoît revendique comme archétypes des figurations du domador hispanique. Et de ce domador aux hypothétiques «dompteuses» d'Europe centrale, par l'intermédiaire de documents grecs ou étrusques, il n'y a certainement aucun lien. Comment expliquer toutefois la particularité des figurations danubiennes? K. M. Linduff (817 s) a supposé que la déesse celtique s'était manifestée à une même époque sous des formes différentes: il ne tient pas compte de l'antériorité des textes gaulois. Une statuette de bronze du type gaulois (É. assise à dr.) a été trouvée en Bulgarie (120); elle a pu y être introduite par des soldats; mais elle est seule en son genre, et il reste à expliquer ce caractère original des stèles d'Europe centrale. On peut penser qu'une influence importante a pu déterminer ce choix nouveau; et cette influence pourrait bien être celle de l'art grec dont il est admis qu'elle a subsisté, dans ces régions, jusqu'à l'époque romaine et au cours de celle-ci. Les temples et autres monuments ne sont pas loin, qui présentaient des attelages face à face.

Les stèles de Gaule et du limes rhénan, au contraire, ont un aspect beaucoup plus rustique et réaliste. Elles supposent un substrat paysan, ce mode de chevauchée assise étant le plus simple et le plus répandu dans l'usage quotidien, en particulier pour les femmes (Vigneron 164). Il est possible que se soit fait sentir l'influence de l'art grec encore, en particulier celle du thème des Néréides, dans quelques cas où É. présente plus d'aisance (statuette de Loisia, 184), p. ex. quand son voile se gonfle au vent (voir Index), lorsqu'elle glisse de son cheval ou court auprès de lui (150-159). La nudité ou la semi-nudité sont rares et apparentent la déesse aux Matres plus qu'à Vénus. Dans un seul cas (147) É. monte à califourchon, vêtue d'une tunique courte comme les Amazones.

Les représentations d'É. assise à gauche (121-132) posent un problème particulier. Le fait est relativement rare. La direction vers la gauche peut être considérée comme néfaste, dans le contexte de la réussite que la déesse symbolise. Une pierre du Mus. de Strasbourg (214) présente une tête de Mercure entre deux É. qui s'éloignent du dieu. Rien n'indique que Mercure ait là une valeur funéraire; il serait plutôt le dieu des voyageurs, envoyant dans les deux sens sa messagère, son associée, sur les voies du commerce prospère, en tant que protectrice des montures, chevaux, ânes et mulets, et de leurs maîtres. Nombre de stèles ont été découvertes à des croisements de routes, à des relais de poste, sur l'emplacement d'anciennes écuries, et il est clair que la protection divine devait s'exercer dans toutes les directions (cf. É. triple 215, 216).

Il n'est pas possible d'établir pour l'ensemble de ces documents une chronologie, ne serait-ce qu'approximative. La plupart des stèles révèlent un art naïf, le plus souvent, qui s'éloigne de l'art classique, même si les principes élémentaires en sont appliqués. Les bronzes, qui souvent sont plus soignés que les reliefs, restent parfois raides et maladroits. Toutefois ces statuettes, presque uniquement trouvées en Gaule (108-119, 184; seul le n° 120 a été découvert en Bulgarie, apporté là sans doute par un soldat) dénotent souvent un art plus raffiné que celui des stèles, et sont, pour quelques-unes au moins (184), d'époque relativement haute, ce qui confirmerait encore l'antériorité des cultes gaulois sur ceux de l'Europe centrale. Mais cette «réussite» n'est pas un critère absolu. La maladresse n'est pas une caractéristique du provincialisme et n'entraîne pas forcément une datation basse. Quelques stèles ont été découvertes dans un contexte daté (Index); d'autres, en forme de maison (13-15), portent la marque d'un atelier précis, mais toute datation reste aléatoire. Sur les stèles de Baudoncourt (15a-b) É. devient une sorte de pantin désarticulé, et la forme même du support peut évoquer des sépultures tardives.

Pour l'ensemble, on relève plus de maladresses que d'éléments positifs. Parfois le cheval est trop gros pour sa cavalière; il peut être si bas sur pattes qu'on a pu se demander s'il ne manquait pas une partie de la statue (49); il lui arrive de ressembler à un éléphant (85), à un taureau (87a), à un bélier (115). Il est rare que ces montures d'É. aient été l'objet d'études soignées; les chevaux ressemblent souvent à des chevaux de trait, ou même à des mulets (dont É. était aussi la protectrice); les jambes sont trop longues ou trop courtes; mais certains ne manquent pas d'élégance. Il faut signaler quelques réussites. La «boudeuse» de Metz (136), vêtue d'un manteau aux plis archaisants, écarte d'un geste gracieux sa chevelure et s'appuie doucement de la main dr. sur la croupe de sa monture. É. à Bâgé-la-Ville (114) est allongée sur le dos de son cheval, dans un abandon très bien traduit. Quand elle est auréolée d'un voile (Index), elle ne manque pas d'allure. Mieux encore, la déesse court auprès de sa monture, belle dans sa longue tunique (159). La plus charmante est celle de Gannat (6), souriante, complice en serrant affectueusement de son bras le col de sa monture, dans un style et une inspiration qui doivent peut-être beaucoup à l'art classique, avec une fraîcheur inattendue.

On a voulu rapprocher ces figurations de celles du Cavalier thrace (→ Heros equitans; Benoît, Mythes 63; dernière étude que nous connaissions: Tontceva-Vasileva, N., Bull. des Mus. de la Bulgarie du Sud-Est, 1983, 15 s). Mais ce dernier est toujours à califourchon, É. ne l'est que rarement. Il est dieu guerrier, É. est pacifique: la lance que l'on a voulu attribuer à la déesse n'est en fait qu'un fouet. Les trois stèles de Baudoncourt (15a-b) la montrent levant haut le bras dr., comme le Cavalier. Ces stèles sont certainement tardives, et accusent peut-être l'influence du dieu thrace, dans le contexte d'un vaste mouvement d'échange de thèmes et de croyances. Ces deux divinités se rejoignent-elles dans une fonction funéraire? S'agit-il de chevauchées infernales, de symboles du dernier voyage?

Plusieurs théories ont été formulées à ce sujet (Benoît, Mythes et [1965] 333 s; Lambrechts [1951] 107 s; Thevenot 2, 355 s). La première est très tranchée; en certains cas (ils sont rares), la mention d'É. signifierait «bon voyage», et elle serait un démon de la mort présidant à une chasse infernale et (de façon contradictoire) symbolisant l'éternel repos. Cette chevauchée funéraire l'emporterait de loin sur le sens réaliste d'une puissance de la vie. Quelques stèles découvertes dans la nécropole de la Horgne-au-Sablon (30-31, 137-138) témoignaient en ce sens; certaines plaques triangulaires (14-15) présentent à leur base un évidemment réservé aux libations – funéraires – (cf. Linckenheld, E., Les stèles funéraires en forme de maison chez les Médiomatriques et en Gaule [1927]). La clé tenue par É. (Index) serait celle des Enfers; la porte figurée sur certaines stèles serait également celle des Enfers (Index); le poulain serait en fait un chien infernal. É. assise entre deux chevaux sur une paroi de sarcophage (186) aurait un sens funéraire, au même titre que l'orgue hydraulique figuré sur une autre paroi. La déesse chevauchant parmi des monstres marins (213) serait une Néréide infernale. Infernaux aussi le sommet de la stèle arrondi en forme de niche, le voile gonflé par le vent, qui serait en fait un nimbe (?).

Tous ces détails accumulés sont impressionnants. Mais dans la très grande majorité des cas, rien ne vient confirmer ces théories. É. Thevenot, tout en reconnaissant la valeur de certains des arguments de F. Benoît, a refusé de généraliser ces propositions trop relatives et insuffisamment étayées. Il ne faut pas oublier que les premières inscriptions apparaissent dans des régions rurales où se pratiquait l'élevage des équidés. Quelques détails sont à noter aussi. L'É. tourelée de Vichy (130) ne peut guère être funéraire. Le nimbe supposé (75) n'est probablement qu'une simplification du voile gonflé par le vent (Index). Les stèles en forme de «maison» ne sont pas obligatoirement funéraires. Quand É. est assise, les pieds posés sur un autel, elle est représentée simplement devant son temple, et la porte est celle, aussi, de ce temple – ou bien des écuries, dans lesquelles elle ne refusa pas de figurer (peinture du cirque de Maxence, 198), et dont Apulée fait mention. Le sarcophage d'Arles (186) présente un véritable temple, et rappelle les activités du défunt, de même que l'orgue hydraulique, à notre avis, selon les traditions les plus anciennes.

Presque tous les dieux du panthéon gallo-romain ont revêtu tôt ou tard des fonctions funéraires. Le fait est plus rare pour les déesses. → Rosmerta, bien que parèdre de Mercure, n'a jamais bénéficié de dédicaces évoquant quelque fonction que ce soit dans l'au-delà. Si É., selon la théorie de «la dilatation fonctionnelle des grands dieux gaulois», devint une divinité infernale, cela fut certainement un phénomène épisodique et tardif. Elle reste avant tout une déesse de l'abondance, de la fertilité, patronne du poulainage, protectrice des chevaux, ânes et mulets. Des temples lui furent élevés, où figurèrent des statues en ronde-bosse, qui lui donnent sa place dans le monde des vivants, et non dans celui des morts.

STÉPHANIE BOUCHER

GALATEIA

(Γαλάτεια, Galatea) Nereid (→ Nereides), daughter of → Nereus, the Old Man of the Sea, and Doris, the sea nymph. The legend of G. is closely related to Sicily, to the Cyclops → Polyphemos, and to the shepherd Acis. According to the more popular version, Polyphemos fell in love with G. and tried to attract her attention with gifts and by other means. But G. loved Acis and spurned the Cyclops, who, mad with jealousy, tried to crush his rival with a rock. G. transformed him into the river of the same name, and then went to its source where she bore a daughter called Catena.

A different version relates that G. reciprocated Polyphemos' love and married him. They begot several children, one being Galas or Galata.

G. was also considered a protectress of animals and vegetation. In this sense, she has some similarities with → Aphrodite, who, like her, also received worship in the temples near the sea.

LITERARY SOURCES: Her name was related to the sea's milky froth (γαλακτόχρως ἀφρός, Eust. 1131, 5 ad Hom. Il. 18, 42) and, at a later date and by extension, with animal's milk. As a protectress of animals she is also called γάλα. According to Duris, FGrH 76 F 58, G. was worshipped in Sicily, as the protectress of flocks. Hom. Il. 18, 45; Hes. theog. 250; Apollod. bibl. 1 (11) 2, 7; Hyg. fab. praef. 8 provide lists of Nereids among which appears the «very illustrious» and «beautiful» G. One of the ships of the Attic fleet took her name (IG II/III<sup>a</sup> 1606, 14).

Even though the legend of G. and Polyphemos could have had a local origin in Sicily (Weicker 517), its appearance in literature must depend on Philoxenos of Cythera (c. 435–380 B.C.), a poet in the court of Syracuse (Page PMG frg. 815–818). According to Duris, FGrH 76 F 58 [= Page PMG frg. 817], Philoxenos invented Polyphemos' love for G. Phainias of Eresos (frg. 13 Wehrli) specifies that Philoxenos tried to seduce G., Dionysios' lover, and was therefore banned to the city's quarries. There he wrote a dithyramb under the title Kyklops or Galateia where he presented G. as a sea nymph, Dionysios as Polyphemos and himself as Odysseus.

Perhaps before the time of Philoxenos, it seems there was a legend in which G. accepted Polyphemos' love. We find reminiscences of this in later texts. Thus, Nonn. Dion. 39, 257–264 tells that when G. saw Polyphemos fighting for Lyaos against Deriades in the Indian war she beseeched Aphrodite to protect him. In Nonn. Dion. 40, 555 Schol. and Prop. 3, 2, 5–6 G. stops at the base of mount Etna to listen to his songs. According to App. Ill. 2 they had three children: Galas, Keltos and Illyrios.

We barely know Philoxenos' poem, nor the comedies on the same subject written by Nikocharēs (CAF I frg. 2–3), Antiphanes (CAF II frg. 131–133) and Alexis (CAF II frg. 36–39).

The idea of presenting the monstrous Cyclops of the Homeric poems as a pathetic giant, full of passion for the delicate G., was very attractive to Hellenistic taste. Poets thereafter abandoned the relationship with Odysseus and concentrated on Polyphemos' frustrated love.

In Theokr. 6, Polyphemos imagines that by pretending indifference he will awaken G.'s love, and she will send messages to him. The same poet dedicates his idyll 11, well known and often imitated in antiquity, to narrating Polyphemos' afflictions by means of the songs he devotes to his loved nymph.

The influence of Theokritos' idyll 11 can be seen in Verg. ec. 7 where Polyphemos addresses G. in amorous terms: «Nerine Galatea, thymo mihi dulcior Hyblae...» (37). Virgil also mentions G. in ec. 9, 39. Other Hellenistic poets who dealt with this subject were Hermesianax (Powell, Collectanea Alexandrina frg. 7, 73–74), Kallimachos in his poem Galateia (frg. 378–379 Pf.), Bion in his Epithalamium for Achilles and Deidameia (2, 2–3) and in frg. 16, 3, and the anonymous author of the Epitaph for Bion (58–63). Another example of the refusal of Polyphemos' love is in Lukianos d. mar. 1. A conversation between G. and Doris takes place here, but although G. affirms that she is not in love with the Cyclops she really defends him from Doris, who is making fun of Polyphemos' figure and voice.

The version in which a coquettish G. laughs at the lovelorn Cyclops remained the more popular throughout antiquity: Philostr. im. 2, 18; Sil. 14, 221–226; Niketas Eugenianos 6, 501–505 (Hercher, R., Erotici scriptores Graeci II [1859] 516).

In v. h. 2, 3 Lukianos says that in the Cheese Island of the Milk Sea there was a sanctuary dedicated to G., whose only beauty, according to other Nereids, was a whiteness that would appeal to a shepherd, used to cheese and milk (Lukianos d. mar. 1, 2). Some authors believe that Lukianos' mention of a sanctuary of G. reinforces the possibility of the existence of a local cult (Weicker 517).

Finally, we may note Ov. met. 13, 750–897, where the writer centres his interest on Acis, Polyphemos' rival. G. is talking with Skylla; she explains what happened when the Cyclops discovered Acis and herself together. Holland 272 believes Ovid took the theme from Kallimachos.

BIBLIOGRAPHY: Caprino, C., EAA III (1958) 754–765 s.v. Galatea; Gow, A. S. F., Theocritus, Commentary (1950) 118; Helbig, W., «Polyphemos und Galateia», Symbola Philologorum Bonnensium (1864–67) I 359–372; Holland, G. R., «De Polyphemo et Galatea», Leipziger Studien zur class. Philol. 7, 1884, 141–312; Levi, Antioch I 26–30; Preller/Robert, GrMyth 556–557, 625–626; Rapisarda, N., «Polifemo, Acis e Galatea divinità sicule ellenizzate» (studio toponimico), Archivio storico per la Sicilia Orientale 13, fasc. I–II, 1916, 208–228; Sauer, B., Der Torso vom Belvedere (1894) 50ff. (= Sauer 1); idem, ML III 2 (1902–09) 2698–2712 s.v. «Polyphemos 2» (= Sauer 2); Weicker, G., RE VII 1 (1910) 517–518 s.v. «Galateia 1»; Weizsäcker, P., ML I 2 (1886–90) 1586–1588 s.v. «Galateia 1».

CATALOGUE

A. Galateia alone

1.★ Mosaic. Madrid, Mus. Arch. and Elche Museum. From Ilici (Elche, Alicante), Algoros ruins. –

Ramos Fernández, La ciudad romana de Ilici (1975) fig. on p. 35; Ibarra, Ilici, su situación y sus antigüedades (1879) 181 ss. pl. 14; Blázquez, J., et al., ArEspArq 59, 1986, 103. – Only partly preserved. G. on an hippocamp is followed by some fish on the central part. She wears a shawl falling over her legs. According to Ibarra, this scene represents just the moment when G. leaves the Cilician shores to go to the Neapolitan beaches to look for her lover Acis. At the bottom, on the r., inscribed: GALATEIA.

2. Mosaic. Lost. From Italica (Seville). – Celestino, Habis 8 (1977) 366–370 pl. 26; Blanco, A. MosEsp II (1978) pl. 77. – 2nd cent. A.D. – Among the pavements there was one called «of G.», probably because the central figure, seated on a dolphin, could be G. Nevertheless, Blanco thinks it is a mistake to call this mosaic «of G.», just because after its publication it was said to be similar to Raphael's G.

3. Terracotta, lamp. Zadar, Arch. Mus. From Nona. – Bulic, F., «Le lucerne fittili romane di Nona», Bull. Arch. Stor. dalmata 38, 1915, 63. – G., on a dolphin, on the l. She is naked, with a mantle forming an arc around her head. Right leg bent, left stretched. She holds an object in her right hand.

POSSIBLE REPRESENTATIONS

4. Wall painting. Pompeii V 1, 18, triclinium, to the r. – Schefold, WP 86. – G. and Polyphemos' letter.

5. Wall painting. Pompeii IX 3, 5, atrium, western wall. – Helbig, Wandgemälde no. 1837; Schefold, WP 248. – G. on a dolphin.

6. Wall painting. Pompeii VII 1, 8, Stabian thermae IV. – Schefold, WP 163. – Probably G. is represented.

7. Cup, Etruscan rf. From Volterra. – Jdl 2, 1887, 116 no. 3; EVP 68–69. – 2nd half of 5th cent. B.C. – Goddess riding a ketos, escorted by Triton. Some authors believe this could be G., but the attribution is uncertain. Inscribed: ALACEA. Sciassi supposed that an initial sigma was lost, the original being: SALACEA. Beazley thinks it is very unlikely that a letter is missing. The reading is in fact uncertain.

B. Galateia and Polyphemos

Wall paintings

8.★ Rome, Palatine, House of Livia. – Weizsäcker, P., ML I 2 (1886–90) 1587; Reinach, RépPeint 172, 7; Curtius, WP 104. 106. 406 pl. 63; Rizzo, PER 76 pl. 164; idem, Le pitture della Casa di Livia, MonPitt 35–40 pl. 3. 4. 25–29. – 2nd half of 1st cent. B.C. – Practically destroyed, known in drawings. Oldest known representation of the legend. The sea and shore are represented at the bottom, the mountain Etna at the top. G. and the Cyclops are in the center, and the Nereids far away. The picture is typically Hellenistic, both in subject and form. Eros, who is making fun of Polyphemos, rides on his shoulders while G. is riding an hippocamp in the sea. She shows her white body to Polyphemos in a provocative way. The conception of the background is nearest to that of the Odyssey.

Galateia 8

9.★ Naples, Mus. Naz. 8886. From Pompeii VII 4, 51 (Casa dei Capitelli colorati, Casa di Arianna). – Helbig, Wandgemälde no. 1042; Reinach, RépPeint 172, 6; Dawson, C. M., Romano-Campanian Mythological Landscape Painting, YaleClSt 9 (1944) 110 no. 62 pl. 23; Schefold, WP 184. – Polyphemos stands at l. in the foreground, with his flock, looking at G. She rides a dolphin, attended by a triton and a flying Eros who holds a sunshade over her.

10. Pompeii VII 4, 59 (Casa dei Bronzi or della Parete Nera), oecus left of tablinum, destroyed. – Helbig, Wandgemälde no. 1045; Dawson, o.c. 9, 107 no. 53; Schefold, WP 187. – Polyphemos sits on a rock, his l. hand resting on a club, and looks at G., who is riding a dolphin with her mantle floating out in an arc behind her.

11. Pompeii VII 15, 2, exedra or apodyterium, left wall? – Sogliano, A., Le pitture murali Campane..., in Pompei... II (1879) 470; Dawson, o.c. 9, 91 no. 26; Schefold, WP 206; Italianische Reise (exp. Pompeii 1989) no. 58 fig. 58 (water-colour painting of 1897). – G. wears a chiton and a mantle, an unusual representation of the Nereid. She rides a dolphin at the l., her veil flying back in a wide curve. Though she moves to the l., her face is turned up towards the r., where presumably Polyphemos was represented. Here, we only can see a group of rocks, amid which three goats are grazing.

12. Pompeii IX 2, 18, cubiculum on south-west side of the viridarium. – Sogliano, o. c. 11, 471; Dawson, o. c. 9, 87 no. 17; Schefold, WP 244. – Poorly preserved. There are traces of Polyphemos in the center, and remains of trees. G. rides a dolphin.

13. Pompeii I 7, 7 (House of the Sacerdos Aman-dus), triclinium at north-west corner of atrium, south wall. – Dawson, o. c. 9, 99 no. 40 pl. 15; Schefold, WP 31. – Polyphemos is seated on a rocky promontory while his flock grazes around him. He has a wreath, syrinx and pedom. He looks at G. who is approaching on a dolphin. Her mantle is blown by the wind and forms a wide arc. In the lower r. there is a column; behind the corner we can see a curtain of dark cypresses and a warship rounding a cape.

14. * From Pompeii. – Helbig, Wandgemälde no. 1043; Reinach, RépPeint 172, 8. – Polyphemos, on the l., looks at G. She turns away, riding a dolphin, with her r. hand holding part of her dress. Her head is turned towards Polyphemos, who sits with an animal. He wears a skin over his legs. The background differs from the most usual type. There is a colossal landscape representing a bay with the shores full of fantastic buildings, gardens and vineyards.

Galateia 14

15. Pompeii VI 5, 5 (Casa dei Vasi di Vetro). Helbig, Wandgemälde no. 1047; Schefold, WP 97. – Mostly destroyed. Polyphemos sits on a rock with a lyre on his r. hand and playing towards G. In front of him there is a goat. G. astride a dolphin wears a yellow chiton covering her hips and legs.

16. Pompeii VI 10, 1. – Helbig, Wandgemälde no. 1044; Schefold, WP 122. – 4th style. – Polyphemos, with bulging head, is seated on stones covered with a skin. He lifts his r. arm against G., who rides a dolphin. With her l. arm she lifts a stick in a threatening attitude. She is also adorned with a strophion, necklaces, and bracelets on the l. arm.

17. Pompeii VI 16, 32. – Schefold, WP 159. – Polyphemos and G. on a dolphin.

18. Pompeii VIII 5, 37 (Casa delle Parete rosse), atrium, southern wall. – Schefold, WP 228. – Polyphemos and G.

19. Herculaneum. – Helbig, Wandgemälde no. 1046; Dawson, o. c. 9, 86 no. 15. – Polyphemos is seated on a cliff. A piece of skin covers his l. arm. In front of him, three sheep are grazing. There is the shape of a male figure above. He is not looking at G., who is on a dolphin. She looks at Polyphemos and holds a leaf-shaped fan in her l. hand.

20. * Naples, Mus. Naz. 8983. From Herculaneum. – Helbig, Wandgemälde no. 1050; Reinach, RépPeint 172, 2. – 4th style. – Polyphemos courting G. The giant is seated on a rock, looking at G. in a thoughtful way. He holds a pedom in his l. hand. G. stands with another woman, both of them dressed in chitons, and she has an aquatic leaf in her l. hand. Perhaps the other woman is Polyphemos' mediator.

21. * Naples, Mus. Naz. 9244. From Herculaneum. – Helbig, Wandgemälde no. 1053; Reinach, RépPeint 124, 3. – Satyr and Bacchant or Polyphemos and G. G., seated on a rock, looking back to Polyphemos, who is seated behind her. She wears a mantle covering her legs. Polyphemos looks at her; he wears a wreath and holds a pedom in his l. hand. In the background, there is the forepart of a ship and statues on pedestals.

22. New York, MMA. From Boscotrecase, cubiculum 19, west wall. – Blanckenhagen, P. H./Alexander, C., The Paintings of Boscotrecase, RM 6. Erg.-H. (1962) 38 pl. 40-43; Steinmeyer-Schareika, A., Das Nilmosaik von Paestum und eine ptolemäische Expedition nach Äthiopien (1978) 16. 17 pl. 3. – Poor preservation. Two scenes: Polyphemos courting G. and Polyphemos throwing a rock at Ulysses' ship. The giant, with a single eyebrow and one central eye, sits with his l. hand resting on a stone whilst his r. hand raises the shepherd's pipe. His l. leg is stretched forward, his r. bent. To the l., G. rides on a dolphin, steadying herself with her r. hand. Her l. holds a thin himation and she wears a transparent yellow chiton. Steinmeyer describes G. as seated on a rock, not a dolphin. She wears a mantle covering her legs and forming a wide arc beside her.

Mosaics

23. Antioch, House of Polyphemos and Galateia (destroyed?). G.'s head in Baltimore, Walters Art Gall. M 79. – Levi, Antioch I 25-28 pl. 3a; Jones, F. F., Record of the Art Mus., Princeton Univ. 40, 2, 1981, 17 fig. M 79 (head of G.). – Badly preserved. A naked man with abundant hair sits on an animal. His l. hand holds a rectangular object, probably a syrinx or a diptych signifying a letter. The man turns his head to the r., gazing at a Nereid, who moves away from him riding a dolphin. The Nereid also looks backwards towards him. The sea is represented by horizontal lines in barely perceptible zig-zags.

24. Alcázar de los Reyes Cristianos. From De la Corredera Square, Córdoba. – Blanco, o. c. 2, 114 figs. 1. 2; García y Bellido, A., ArEspArq 33, 1960, 167 ff. pls. 2. 3; Blázquez, J. M., MosEsp III (1981) 13-18 pls. 1. 2. 31 figs. 1. 2; Blázquez, J. M., et al., o. c. 1, 102-103 no. 153-154. – C. 200 A.D. – G., on the l., is seated on a «ketos» and looks at three-eyed Polyphemos seated on a rock. Perhaps the giant is represented declaring his love to G.

25. * El Djem Mus. F 17. From El Djem (Thysdrus, Tunisia), House A from Terrain Jilani Guirat, Room 17. – Foucher, L., Notes et documents. Découvertes archéologiques à Thysdrus en 1960 (1961) 42 pl. 17; Dunbabin, Mosaics 259 no. 18c. – C. 180-200 A.D. – Mosaic with four panels of divine lovers. One represents Polyphemos seated on a rock as G. rides a dolphin. Polyphemos is naked. G. wears red clothes and holds an aquatic leaf in her hand, probably a present for her lover Acis.

26. * Sousse Mus. From Themetra (Chott Maria), Tunisia. Wall-mosaic from piscina. – Foucher, L., Thermes romains des environs d'Hadrumète (1958) 26-27 pl. 14; Picard, G. Ch., RA 1960 II, 33; Dunbabin, Mosaics 272 no. 1b? – C. 200-220 A.D. – G. (name inscribed in gold letters) riding a green dolphin, probably with Cyclops (fr.). She has a veil in her r. hand flying around the head. The nymph is an example of the Severan style with her long bust and wide hips. There is a winged swimming figure in front of G. According to Dunbabin and Picard it must be Eros, and not Acis, as Foucher suggests.

Reliefs

27. White Luna marble slab. Rome, Mus. Naz. Rom. From Nemi. – Sogliano, NotSc 1907, 574 ff. fig. 19; NotSc 1931, 269 fig. 29. – Two faces are represented, on the r., a woman, on the l., a male with beard and three eyes, one on the forehead. Behind the two heads some waves are represented together with a head of a dolphin. Sogliano does not identify this scene as Polyphemos and G.

28. Rome, Villa Albani. – Schreiber, HR pl. 65; Bieber, SculptHell 153 fig. 649. – Polyphemos is seated under a big tree. A goat stands beside the rock on which the Cyclops is seated, with a lyre in his arms. Eros shows G. to the giant.

29. Sarcophagus. Rome, Pal. Mattei. – Robert, SarkRel II no. 182 pl. 60; Sauer 1, 52; idem, 2, 2787 fig. 8; Guerrini, L., Pal. Mattei di Giove, Le antichità (1982) no. 52 pl. 58. – Polyphemos and G. are on the r. The Cyclops is seated on a rock. Beside him there is a goat; between his legs a pedom. His l. hand holds an unknown object, possibly two young sheep. The animal that he holds in his r. and offers to G. is a bear. G. is on the sea, astride a dolphin. Her l. hand rests on its head, her r. arm around her head. She is naked, with a mantle covering her shoulder and l. leg. Above her, a young river god is seated on the mountain side, probably Acis.

Gem

30. Berlin, Staatl. Mus. FG 7368. – Furtwängler, Beschreibung no. 7368; Imhoof-Blumer, F./Keller, O., Tier- und Pflanzenbilder pl. 20, 33; Sauer 1, 102 no. 147. – Polyphemos, playing a harp, is seated with his back to G. riding a dolphin.

Lost representations

Wall paintings

31. Pompeii I 2, 3. – Sogliano, o. c. 11, 474; Schefold, WP 8. – Polyphemos and G.

32. Pompeii IX 7, 12? (Mau; IX 7, 16 according to Sogliano). Sogliano, o. c. 11, 688; Dawson, o. c. 9, 83 no. 6; Schefold, WP 268; v. Blanckenhagen, P. H., RM 75, 1968, 140 pl. 46, 1. – The positions of Polyphemos and G. are reversed and the setting lacks the characteristic axial symmetry of all panels of the Boscotrecase type. The Cyclops was seated on the l., on a rock by the seashore, naked except for a mantle flung over his l. arm and thighs. G. is approaching on an hippocamp, resting her l. hand on her neck and raising the edge of her mantle with her r. hand.

33. Painting (imaginary?). – Philostr. im. 2, 18. – Polyphemos is seated on the beach, with his herd, looking at the sea where G. used to ride a dolphin.

POSSIBLE REPRESENTATIONS

34. Wall painting. Pompeii V 1, 18 (Casa degli Epigrammi), triclinium, right wall. Dawson, o. c. 9, 106 no. 58; Schefold, WP 65. – Mostly fragmentary. Perhaps a scene of Polyphemos and G., but all that can be distinguished is a he-goat, land, the head of some fish in the foreground at the l., and the forepart of a ship at the r.

35. Wall painting. Pompeii IX 3, 5 (Casa di M. Lucretius). – Helbig, Wandgemälde no. 1051; Schefold, WP 248. – 4th style. – Probably Polyphemos is seated and G. stands. She wears a wreath. In front of the giant a goat.

36. Mosaic. Tazoult Mus. From Lambaesis. – Inv-Mos 47, 192; Dunbabin, Mosaics 263 no. 6a. – Mosaic with three panels. Only two fr. survive. On the second, a man prepares to play a syrinx. A Nereid on a dolphin moves towards him. Probably Polyphemos and G.

C. Polyphemos and Galateia embracing

37. * Wall painting. Naples, Mus. Naz. 27.687. From Pompeii, Casa della Caccia Antica, exedra to the l. of the peristyle, south wall. Helbig, Wandgemälde no. 1052; Reinach, RépPeint 172, 4; Levi, Antioch 25 ff.; Schefold, WP 132. – Both stand beside a rock. The giant is naked. G. wears a mantle hanging from her l. arm covering only her legs.

38. Wall painting. Pompeii IX 2, 10. Lost. – Sogliano, o. c. 11, 475; Schefold, WP 241. – 4th style.

39. Relief, marble slab. Turin, Mus. di Antichità. Sauer, o. c., 57, fig. p. 58; Schreiber, o. c. pl. 55; Sauer 2 o. c. 2710, fig. 10. Polyphemos and G. are embracing. Possibly the most detailed representation of this version of the legend. They are seated on rocks, on skins. Both are naked, but G. wears a mantle, a part of which is rolled on Polyphemos' left arm. In front of them there is a landscape with some goats.

D. Galateia with other Nereids

40. (= Achilleus 479/520 with bibl., = Euploia 1) Lekythos, Attic rf. New York, MMA 31.11.13. From Athens. - ARV<sup>2</sup> 1248, 9; 1688: Eretria P.; Para 469; Add 353. - Last quarter of 5th cent. B. C. - In the middle register, Achilles mourning for Patroklos and Thetis with other Nereids bringing him his armour, among them G. (name inscr.).

41. (= Anabesineos 1* with bibl.) Mosaic. Antakya, Hatay Mus. From Antioch, Thermae E, room 2. - Levy, Antioch 270 pl. 63c. - 2nd quarter of 4th cent. A. D. - Marine mosaic: G. (inscr. ΓΑΛΑΤΙΑ) facing → Anabesineos is depicted in one of the panels. This could contain an allusion to the G. and Polyphemos theme.

42.* (= Bythos I 1a, = Kairos 22) Mosaic. Nea Paphos (Cyprus), House of Aion, in situ. - Daszewski, W. A., Dionysos der Erlöser (1985) 31-32 fig. 3 pls. 2. 20; Michaelides, D., Cypriot Mosaics (1987) 30 no. 29 pl. 23b. - 2nd quarter of 4th cent. A. D. - Beauty judgement between → Kassiepeia and Nereids. G. (inscr. ΓΑΛΑΤΙΑ), nude, nimbus, necklace and arm-rings, mantle on her legs, velificatio, sitting on the fish-tail of → Pontos. The other Nereids depicted are Doris and Thetis.

E. Representations connected with Galateia's myth

Wall paintings

43. Pompeii V 2, destroyed. - Schefold, WP 74. - Polyphemos is receiving a letter from Eros.

44. Pompeii IX 3, 5 (7) (Casa di M. Lucretius). - Helbig, Wandgemälde no. 1049; Schefold, WP 247. - Polyphemos receives a message from G.

45. Pompeii VI 14, 28 (House of Laocoon). Lost. - Sogliano, o. c. 11, 472; Reinach, RépPeint 172, 5; Schefold, WP 134. - Eros is bringing Polyphemos a message from G. He is seated on a rock, with r. hand extended towards Eros.

46. Naples, Mus. Naz. 8984. From Herculaneum. - Helbig, Wandgemälde no. 1048; Reinach, RépPeint 172, 3; Rizzo, PER 64 pl. 133. - Eros carrying G.'s message to Polyphemos.

47. Pompeii IX 6, small atrium, south side, lost. - Sogliano, o. c. 11, 473; Dawson, o. c. 9, 81 no. 2; Schefold, WP 266; Blanckenhagen, o. c. 22, 139; Italienische Reise (exp. Pompeii 1989) no. 79 fig. 79 (water-colour painting of 1880). - Polyphemos, Akis fleeing.

Mosaic

48. Cluny Mus. From North Thermae, boulevard Saint-Michel, Paris. - Darmon, J. P./Lavagne, H., Rec-MosGaule II 3 (1977) 164-165 pl. 119. - Eros is riding a dolphin, turned to the r. He is naked and carries a love letter.

COMMENTARY

The Nereids do not present in mythology enough distinctive attributes to allow a clear differentiation of their names, as compiled in ancient lists. G. is in like case with her sisters, and in representations she has no special attributes. The elements accompanying her, as the fan leaf, the dress covering her body from hips to feet, the animal ridden, are attributes shared by the other Nereids. However, if we analyse the internal syntax of the pictures it is possible to identify G. from her relationship to other characters that appear in different versions of the legend known from literature. She became the heroine of a love story, at first the subject of poetry, later of painting and other artistic media.

The better known version presents Polyphemos unable to gain the love of the beautiful and disdainful G. It is a story of thwarted love, very much in keeping with the Hellenistic poet's taste, which also tended towards bucolic themes. A second version, also widely known, shows G. accepting the attentions of the Cyclops.

There are no Greek depictions of the legend of G. and Polyphemos. The older representations are on vases (7? 40), where G. is depicted alone or with other Nereids. What is relevant is that G. never appears with Polyphemos, possibly because the legend was not yet formulated. Most of the pictures are Hellenistic and Roman. The main group are the frescoes from Pompeii and Herculaneum, although the House of Livia (8: the oldest known representation) and the villa of Boscotrecase (22) have yielded two of the most important representations. The mosaics from Elche (1), Córdoba (24), Antioch (23), Thysdrus (25), Themetra (26) represent another medium in which G. is depicted. Finally, we have other representations of G. and the legend in reliefs, on some vases, one gem and one terracotta.

The most usual type is a mythological landscape, generally of the Third Style. The best examples have common features: scenery of rocks and trees, with the shepherd and musician Polyphemos placed by the seaside where G. lives, playing with various marine animals or with her companions (23. 10. 13. 15). A close connection can be established between this landscape painting with Polyphemos and G. and the poetic description of Theokritos idyll 11: Polyphemos seated, surrounded by his flock, looks imploringly toward white G. Undoubtedly, the presence of landscape on mural painting is related to the new feeling for Nature in Hellenistic poetry. Theokritos describes the Cyclops as eager to learn to swim, and the Palatine painting (8) was possibly inspired by this poem: Polyphemos is on the sea, leaning on a rock while G. and other Nereids look at him. This is the oldest picture on this theme. It is totally Hellenistic, in both subject and conception: an example of the way Hellenistic artists take old subjects and give them a humorous tone. This representation probably comes from a painter of the late Hellenistic period. He does not adopt either the scheme or the formula of other Pompeian pictures.

The picture described by Philostratos (33) belongs to this group. We do not know if he was describing a real picture or inventing a setting for his narration. We have later mosaics with the same subject, dated c. 200 A. D. (25. 26).

Related to the second important version of the legend, mural paintings (37. 38) and the Turin relief (39) present the characters embraced. In the mosaic from Córdoba (24) Polyphemos and G. are juxtaposed. This was surely the artist's intention, above all if we consider that this is the version of the legend in which G. responds to Polyphemos' love.

In some cases (22) the artist has remembered a different view of the legend: a faraway ship approaches, and it is supposed that later it will bring Odysseus and his men to fight the Cyclops. But the main scene always belongs to the love theme: Polyphemos sings or looks at the sea, watching the object of his desire, G., who rides the waves on an animal or sea-monster, generally affecting indifference towards her suitor. In antiquity spectators were familiar with sequences of panels, each of which pictured a distinct episode of a continuous story. A diachronic sequence to the narrative is thus added.

However, we have only rare records combining the story of Polyphemos and G. and the story of the Giant and Odysseus.

Lesser topics

One of the Pompeii paintings (47) and some mosaics (25. 26) introduce Polyphemos' rival, Akis, who is probably also represented on a sarcophagus (29) as a river god.

Another topic that is chosen for representation is that of the letter. Thus, Polyphemos is shown receiving a letter from G. (23). As Rizzo points out, the delivery of the letter appears quite distinctly in the representations. In the one from Casa di Lucretius (44), Polyphemos stoops down with lively movement towards Eros, who seems to approach the shore on a dolphin, leaning forward to hand him the letter. In other paintings (46), Polyphemos' attitude is more dignified, similar to that of the composition where he sings of his love to G., the only change being the substitution of Eros for the Nereid. G. riding on her dolphin is as usual naked above the waist with her mantle floating behind her in a wide arc.

Generally, artistic representations of the subject oppose G.'s beauty and daintiness to the Cyclops' roughness. G. is always, or frequently, associated with marine contexts, and Polyphemos with the land and mountains. In this respect also, therefore, the two characters appear opposed.

SANDRA MONTÓN SUBIAS

HELIOS

(Ἥλιος, ep. Ἡέλιος, dor. ἄολ. ἄρκ. Ἀέλιος, Ἀλιος, lat. Sol [→ Helios/Sol, LIMC IV]) Der Sonnengott. Sein Kult geht auf griechischem Boden vermutlich in die kretisch-mykenische Periode zurück.

LITERARISCHE QUELLEN: H. sowie → Selene (→ Astra) und → Eos waren Kinder der Titanen → Hyperion und Theia (Hes. theog. 371-374; Hom. h. 2, 26; Apollod. bibl. I [8] 2, 2); die letzteren waren Kinder des → Ouranos und der Gaia (→ Ge) (Hes. theog. 127-135). Als Mutter des H. werden auch Euryphaessa (Hom. h. 31, 2-7) und Nyx (Soph. Trach. 94-96) angegeben. Als Gemahlinnen des H. galten: die Okeanide Perse oder Perseis, Mutter der → Kirke und des → Aietes; Antiope, Mutter des Aietes und des Aloeus; Ephyra, Mutter des Aietes; Asterope, Mutter der Kirke und des Aietes; Aigle, Mutter der Chariten (→ Charis, Charites); Selene, Mutter der → Horai; Neaira, Mutter der Lampetie und der Phaethousa; Rhode, Tochter des → Asopos, Mutter des → Phaethon (I), der Lampetie, der Aigle und der Phaethousa; → Klymene (II), Tochter des → Okeanos, Mutter des Phaethon; Prote, Tochter des → Nereus, Mutter des Phaethon; Krete, Mutter der → Pasiphae, die auch als Gattin des Helios oder auch als seine Tochter galt; Rhodos, Mutter der rhodischen Heliaden; Leukothoe, Mutter des Argonauten Thersanon, oder Tochter des Orchamos, und die Nymphe Klytia. Als Kinder des H. werden auch gelegentlich Neaira, Aigle, Helia und Augeias (→ Herakles) erwähnt. Cf. Jessen 78-81 für ausführliche Behandlung der Genealogie von Helios.

Die Verehrung des H. ist bei den Griechen, wie bei ihren Nachbarn, sehr alt und tief verwurzelt. Wir kennen den Charakter seines Kultes in der kretisch-mykenischen Epoche nicht, obwohl die Sonnenscheibe, wie auch die Mondsichel, das Rad, der Stern und die Rosette auf Werken jener Zeit zu finden sind (Nilsson, M. P., The Minoan-Mycenaean Religion and its Survival in Greek Religion [1950] 412-414 Abb. 55. 158). Dieser uralte anikonische Aspekt des H. überlebt vielfach in die historische Zeit: cf. Hom. Il. 18, 484; Anaximand., Diels Vorsokr. 5 12 A 21; Aischyl. Pers. 504; Soph., TrGFIV F 738; Aristoph. Thesm. 17; Eur. Elektr. 464; Philostr. im. 10, 5; Roes, in Studia Vollgraff 115-116; Jessen 65; Fittschen, K., Der Schild des Achilleus, ArchHom N 1 (1973) 10-11 (mit Lit.). Erinnerung an diese Vergangenheit spiegelt sich in der Ansicht Platons, es scheine, daß die ersten Menschen in Griechenland als einzige Götter die Sonne, den Mond, die Erde, die Gestirne und den Himmel verehrt hätten (Krat. 397 c). Zur Verehrung der Sonne s. auch Plat. symp. 220 d; nomoi 887 c; Lukianos salt. 17; Soph., TrGFIV F 738; Men. frag. 678 K.

Seit der frühen historischen Zeit aber hatte sich für H., neben den genannten uralten Symbolen, auch schon sein anthropomorphes Bild ausgeprägt, so wie es in der homerischen Dichtung geschildert wird; es ist die Vorstellung des H. auf einem von Rossen gezogenen Gespann. H. steigt jeden Tag, unaufhörlich, mit seinem Gespann aus dem Lande der Aithiopen auf, um der Erde das Licht zu bringen. Nachdem er das Himmelsgewölbe durchfahren hat, steigt er im Lande der Hesperiden, Erytheia, ab. Sein Wagen wird jeweils von einem, zwei oder vier Rossen gezogen (Hom. h. 4, 68-69; 28, 13-15; 31, 14-16). Dieses Bild des H. wurde von den Dichtern seit dem 7. Jh. v. Chr. beibehalten: Hes. frag. 390 Merkelbach/West; Mimn., West IEG I frg. 12; Stesich., Page PMG frg. 185; Bakchyl. epin. 11, 101; Pind. O. 7, 71; Aischyl. Prom. Lyom., TrGF III F 192; Soph., Aias 845-857; Eur. Phoen. 2-3; Iph. T. 1138; Ion 82. 1148-1149; El. 466; Apoll. Rhod. 3, 309-313.

Die Rosse des H. werden gelegentlich als geflügelt beschrieben (Eur. El. 466). Nach Hyg. fab. 183 nannte «Eumelos» (Davies, EGF Titanomachia F 4<sup>B</sup>) diese Rosse Eous, Aithiops, Bronte und Sterope; s. auch Schol. Eur. Phoen. 3, wo sie Chronos, Aithiops, Bronte und Astrape heißen.

In Hom. h. 31, 9-15 trägt H. einen Helm; dieselbe Vorstellung bei Nonn. Dion. 38, 291-292.

Der Wohnsitz des H. bei Nacht liegt zwischen Osten und Westen, im Lande jenseits des großen Meeressgürtels, des Okeanos: Hom. h. 2, 62-63; 4, 68-69. H. weilte bei seiner Mutter, seiner Gattin und seinen Kindern: Stesich., Page PMG frg. 185. Vgl. auch Eur., Phaethon 1-5 Diggle; Athen. 11, 469 und Ov. met. 1, 774; 2, 1-20. 112-115. Um vom Westen wieder den Osten zu erreichen, fährt H. in einem Kahn oder in einem großen goldenen Kessel (vgl. 99. 100) oder auf einem Schiff (vgl. 102) zurück: Athen. 11, 469 d-470 d; sein Fahrzeug wird als δέπας (Stesich., Page PMG frg. 185, 1; Aischyl. Heliades, TrGF III F 69; Pherekyd., FGrH 3 F 18 a) als φιάλη (Panyassis, Davies EGF F 7<sup>A</sup>) oder als λέβης (Titanomachia, Davies EGF F 7; Theolytos, FGrH 478, 1) bezeichnet. Mimn. (West IEG II frg. 12) umschreibt das Fahrzeug als Ruhelager, das mit Flügeln versehen war und den schlafenden H. über das Meer vom Land der Hesperiden zum Aithiopenland trug (cf. Jessen 90 ff.).

Zur Erscheinung des Sonnengottes als Stier: Auf Kreta ist H. auch in Stiergestalt verehrt worden (Anekd. Bekk. I 344, 10 s. v. Ἀδριανός ταύρος). Auch der kretische Sonnengott Talos (Τάλως) trug einst dieselbe Gestalt: Hesych. s. v. τάλως ὁ ἥλιος; Apollod. bibl. I (140) 9, 26. Zu Talos s. auch Farnell, Cults I 44. Über den Stieraspekt des H. und der Selene/Pasiphae s. Jessen 65-66. Zu den heiligen Rinderherden des Helios, die für verschiedene Orte überliefert sind (auch Schafferden), s. Jessen 83-84. Die bekanntesten sind die in der Odyssee genannten sieben Rinder- und Schafferden auf der Insel Thrinakie (I, 8; 11, 107-109; 12, 127-136; 19, 275-276; 23, 329).

Zum H.kult in historischer Zeit s. Farnell, Cults V 418-419. 449-453; Jessen 63-72; Nilsson, GrRel I<sup>4</sup> 839-840; II<sup>4</sup> 232. Der wichtigste Kultort war Rhodos, wo H. der Hauptgott war (zu Rhodos s. Jessen 66-69; Nilsson, M. P., Griech. Feste [1906] 427-428; idem, GrRel I<sup>4</sup> 839-840; Morelli, D., «I culti di Rodi», Studi Class. e Or. 8, 1959; wichtig vor allem Pind. O. 7, 54-80; Schol. Pind. O. 7, 145-146 a Drachmann). Ihm zu Ehren wurde in Rhodos jährlich eine Quadriga ins Meer gestürzt. Außer Rhodos soll hier noch Korinth genannt sein, wo H. neben Aphrodite der Hauptgott auf Akrokorinth war (Jessen 64; Paus. 2, 1, 6; 2, 4, 6); ferner ein Heiligtum mit heiligen Schafferden am Tainaron in Lakonien (Hom. h. Ap. 409-413) und der Berg Taleton, ein Gipfel des Taygetos oberhalb Bryseai, der dem H. heilig war und wo man ihm Pferde opferte (Paus. 3, 20, 4; den Namen Taleton bringt Wide, S., Lakonische Kulte [1893] 215-216 mit Τάλως [s. o.] und Ταλειτίας in Verbindung). Obwohl also der H.kult in der frühen Zeit, besonders in dorischen Gebieten, nicht unbedeutend war, scheint er doch, im Vergleich mit dem Kult der olympischen Götter, gering gewesen zu sein (Nilsson, Griech. Feste 427; idem, GrRel I<sup>4</sup> 839). Das Zurücktreten des H.kultes während der archaischen Zeit ist aber äußerlich und aus folgenden Gründen zu erklären: wie Ouranos, Okeanos u. a., wohnt H. nicht auf dem Olymp. Mit seinem Gespann durchläuft er das Himmelsgewölbe und verbringt die Nacht jenseits des Okeanos. Nur ganz vereinzelt befindet er sich im Rat der übrigen Götter (z. B. wenn er hingeht, um wegen der Vernichtung der Rinder durch die Gefährten des Odysseus zu protestieren, Hom. Od. 12, 376). Er überblickt aus der Ferne das Menschen- und Götterleben. Er gehört nicht zu den olympischen Göttern, die sich mit den Taten und dem Schicksal der Sterblichen befassen, sondern zu den οὐράνιοι θεοί (Orph. h. 8, 2; Artemid. 2, 34). Bei Hom. Il. 8, 480; 19, 398; Od. 12, 133 wird H. sogar als mit → Hyperion identisch verstanden. Es ist bezeichnend, daß H. keine Liebesgeschichten mit Sterblichen gehabt hat. Seine Liebesbeziehungen sind immer und ausdrücklich mit Wesen verbunden, die der göttlich-dämonischen Sphäre angehören: Okeaniden und dergleichen (s. oben) und solche, die nur von kosmischem Charakter sind. Bezeichnend ist auch, daß keine alte Sage von einer Schuld des H. spricht. H. ist ein ἀγνός θεός (Pind. O. 7, 60), ἀμύαντος (Orph. h. 8, 13). Seit der hocharchaischen Zeit ist H. der Gott der Weisheit und Wahrheit (Pind. pae. IX, 4-5 Snell/Maehler); deshalb wurden auch seine sieben rhodischen Kinder als besonders weise gerühmt (Pind. O. 7, 72; Diod. 5, 57). H. sieht und hört alles (Hom. Il. 3, 277; Od. 11, 109; Hom. h. Cer. 62; Aischyl. Prom. 91; Choeph. 985-986). Er blickt sogar über die Taten der Götter: er verrät der → Demeter die Entführung ihrer Tochter durch Pluton (→ Hades) (Hom. h. Cer. 26, 62) und verrät dem → Hephaistos den Liebesverkehr zwischen → Aphrodite und → Ares (Hom. Od. 8, 271. 302). Vor dem Gigantenkampf opfert Zeus dem H., dem Ouranos und der Gaia; H. ist «μέγας» (Hes. theog. 19) und auch «πάντων θεῶν θεός πρόμος» (Soph. Oid. t. 660) und «γεννητὴς θεῶν πατὴρ τε πάντων» (Soph. TrGF IV F 752). So setzten Mythographen H. und Ge sogar als Elternpaar statt Ouranos und Ge an den Anfang aller Dinge. Sie sind vor allem die Eltern jener Tritopatreis, die man in Athen als γεννήσεως ἀρχηγούς anflehte, und damit sind sie zugleich die eigentlichen γονεῖς der Menschen (Suda s. v. Τριτοπάτορες).

Auf die besondere Stellung des H. als οὐράνιος θεός, weit weg von der Tätigkeit der olympischen Götter im täglichen Menschenleben, wird angespielt in der Erzählung (Pind. O. 7, 54-61) über die Verteilung der Erde unter den Göttern, bei der H., weit weg verweilend, vergessen wurde, und deshalb kein Stück erhielt.

H. und die Jahreszeiten: Bei Platon (pol. 7, 516 b) ist es die Sonne, «die die Jahreszeiten und Jahre schafft und alles in der sichtbaren Welt verwaltet» (Übers. K.

Vretska); vgl. Orph. h. 8, 10. 12 (πατὴρ χρόνου und ἀροτρόφος). In diesem Zusammenhang steht sicherlich die Zahl der Rinder des H. in Thrinakie (Hom. Od. 12, 127-130): Sieben Gruppen von je fünfzig Rindern, also 350 Rinder, was der Zahl der Tage des Sonnenjahres entspricht.

Die Funktionen des Lichtgottes wurden in der früheren Zeit anderen Göttern und Heroen zugeteilt, von denen sein Kult abgelöst wurde: Zeus, Hestia, Hephaistos, Apollon, Artemis, Hekate, Athena, Aphrodite Ourania, Phaethon, Telchines, Leukippos, Epopeus, Perseus, Talos, Augeias u. a. (s. Jessen 63. 75-77). In dieser Verteilung der Hauptlichtquelle, die dem H. galt, wird sein οὐράνιον (θεῖον oder νοερόν) φῶς oder αἰθήρ zum οὐρανιον, zum kosmischen Licht. Das so gesplante und fruchtbar gewordene πῦρ (Feuer) ist besonders deutlich bei Hephaistos, bei welchem es zu seiner Techne ausgewertet wird. Vor allem aber Apollon hat viel von H.' Funktionen und Zügen erhalten. Viele Appellativa Apollons deuten auf seine Gleichsetzung mit H.: φωσφόρος, ἀγλήτης, ἀγλήεις, ἀκούων, εἰσοράων, παμράης, ἐάιος, λαμπρότων, πανδερκής u. a. (cf. ML Suppl. 1, Epitheta s. v. Ἀπόλλων; Farnell, Cults IV 136 ff. Anm. 31 und 32; Jessen 72-74). Von der Identifizierung dieser beiden Götter sprechen Denker und Dichter seit der Zeit des Aischylos (s. auch Oinopides, Mitte 5. Jh., Diels Vorsokr. 5 41 A 7 [p. 394, 9-12]; ferner Vorsokr. 5 22 C 3, 1 [das Sonnenlicht als Plektron der Lyra Apollons, nach Heraklit] und Orph. h. 8, 9 [H. χρυσολύρης]). Theagenes aus Rhegion (6./5. Jh.) nennt das Feuer Apollon, H. und Hephaistos (Diels Vorsokr. 5 8, 2 [p. 52, 8]). In den Basarai des Aischylos (TrGF III p. 138) begrüßt Orpheus auf dem Gipfel Pangaia die aufgehende Sonne als Apollon. Es handelt sich nach Deichgräber (NachGöttingen NF 3, 8, 1939, 284) um eine Interpretatio Orphica, die bei diesem Tragiker sehr wohl möglich ist; s. auch Linforth, M., The Arts of Orpheus (1941) 9-10; West, M. L., The Orphic Poems (1983) 12-13. Aischylos setzte auch Artemis mit Selene gleich (Xantriai, TrGF III F 170, wo H. seinen eigenen Namen hat, Selene aber zu Artemis geworden ist; Deichgräber a. O. 283-284; anders Kern, O., Hermes 24, 1889, 501 und Farnell, Cults IV 138). Auch bei Euripides ist die Gleichsetzung des H. mit Apollon schon fest (Fontenrose, J., AJPh 64, 1943, 278-279); in seinem Phaethon (224-225 Diggle) wird H. angerufen, der aber «bei den Sterblichen» Apollon genannt werde. Vgl. v. Wilamowitz, U., Platon<sup>1</sup> 416-417 Anm. 3. - S. ferner Kall. frg. 302 Pf.; Kleantes, SVF I 112 frg. 502; Plut. de E apud Delphos 386 b; idem, de def. or. 433 d; idem, de Pyth. or. 400 c; Corn. 32; Etym. m. s. v. Ἐκατομβαιών; Suda s. v. Τριτοπάτορες; Proklos theol. Plat. 6, 12 p. 376, 21 (für Orpheus und Platon).

Mehrere Attribute und Funktionen von H. sind auch im Apollonkult zu finden: Apollon fährt auch im Kessel oder auf dem Dreifuß über das Meer, → Apollon 381-382. Außerdem besitzt Apollon Rinder, die → Hermes zu stehlen versucht hat (Hom. h. Merc. usw.). Die Pfeile des Apollon entsprechen den Strahlen des H., während die Pfeile der Artemis den Strahlen der Selene entsprechen. Auch Rad und Scheibe sind sowohl mit H. (s. oben) als auch mit Apollon eng verbunden und wurden dem letzteren oft als Votive dargebracht. In diesem Zusammenhang steht auch die τροχοειδὴς λίμνη (der radförmige See) auf Delos (Thgn. 7; Hdt. 2, 170) sowie der Mythos von Apollon und Hyakinthos und die Tötung des letzteren durch den Diskus des Apollon. Weitere Parallelen in anderen Mythen: der Liebesgeschichte von Apollo und Daphne und der Verwandlung der letzteren in den gleichnamigen Baum (Daphne) entspricht die Erzählung über H., Klytie und Leukothoe und die Verwandlung der zwei letzteren in einen Weihrauchbaum (δενδρόλιβανον) und eine Heliotrop genannte Pflanze (Ov. met. 4, 194-270).

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Becatti, G., Problemi Fiduciari (1951) 84-85. 120; Berger, E., Parthenon-Ostgiebel (1959) 60-70; idem, Die Geburt der Athena im Ostgiebel des Parthenon (1974) 85 (Lit.); idem, «Bauwerk und Plastik des Parthenon», AntK 23, 1980, 59-100; idem, PartheDokMet 19-24. 50-52. 71-76; Brommer, Vassenlist<sup>2</sup> 86; idem, «Studien zu den Parthenongiebeln V», AM 84, 1969, 103-116; idem, Die Metopen des Parthenon 38. 204. 208-209. 218-221; idem, The Sculptures of the Parthenon (1979) 54-55; Burkert, GrRel 272-273; Cahen, E., DA IV 2 (o. J.) 1373-1381 s. v. «Sol»; Classen, C. J./Schauenburg, K., LAW (1965) 1235-1236 s. v. «Helios»; Dörig, J./Gigon, O., Der Kampf der Götter und Titanen (1961) 50-62; Farnell, Cults V (1909) 417-420; v. Geisau, H., KIPauli II (1967) s. v. «Helios»; Hoffmann, H., «Helios», JARCE 2, 1963, 117-124 Taf. 20-28; Jessen, O., RE VIII 1 (1912) 58-93 s. v. «Helios»; Lacroix, L., Etudes d'archéologie numismatique (1974) 92-106; Marcadé, J., «Helios au Parthénon», MonPiot 50, 1958, 11-47; Lippold, Gemäldkopien 39; Metzger, Représentations 178. 207; Nicole, G., Meidias et le style fleuri dans la céramique attique (1908) 65-69. 94-96; Nilsson, GrRel I<sup>4</sup> 139. 141. 839-840; II<sup>4</sup> 332. 507-519; Pfuhl, E./Möbius, H., Die ostgriechischen Grabreliefs (1977); Praschniker, C., Parthenon-Studien (1928) 5-9; Preller/Robert, GrMyth<sup>4</sup> 429-440; Rapp, A., MLI 2 (1886-90) 1993-2026 s. v. «Helios»; Roberts, S. R., The Attic Pyxis (1978) 128-129; Schauenburg, K., Helios (1955) (= Schauenburg, Helios); idem, «Gestirnbilder in Athen und Unteritalien», AntK 5, 1962, 51-64 (= Schauenburg, AntK); Seitschek, R., Helios in der griech. Plastik (ungedruckte Diss. Wien 1972); Sichtermann, H., EAA III (1960) 1140-1142 s. v. «Helios»; Yalouris, N., «Astral Representations in the Archaic and Classical Periods and their Connection to Literary Sources», AJA 84, 1980, 313-318.

KATALOG

GLIEDERUNG

I. Helios allein auf Gespann (außer auf Münzen) . . . . .	1-37
II. Helios allein auf Gespann, auf Münzen . . . . .	38-67
III. Helios auf Gespann im Gigantenkampf . . . . .	68-71
IV. Helios auf Gespann in Anwesenheit anderer Götter oder Heroen . . . . .	72-92
V. Helios auf Gespann beim Parisurteil . . . . .	93-94
VI. Helios auf Gespann und Herakles mit oder ohne Athena . . . . .	95-98
VII. Helios im Sonnenbecher . . . . .	99-100
VIII. Helios auf Gespann und Herakles im Sonnenbecher . . . . .	101
IX. Helios und Demeter im Viergespann auf einem Schiff . . . . .	102

X. Sonnenscheibe oberhalb des Gespanns ohne Helios	103-104
XI. Helios auf Gespann mit anderen Lichtgottheiten	105-123
XII. Köpfe und Büsten	124-327
A. Kopf bzw. Büste des Helios allein (außer auf Münzen)	124-177
B. Kopf bzw. Büste des Helios allein auf Münzen	178-285
1. Auf Münzen von Rhodos	178-193
2.-5. Auf Münzen anderer Städte	194-282
6. Deutung unsicher	283-285
C. Heliosbüste von vier Pferdeprotomen flankiert	286-288
D. Kopf oder Büste des Helios mit Selene oder anderen Göttern	289-323
E. Heliosbüste und Zodiacus	324-326
F. Helios als Sternbild	327
XIII. Helios in voller Gestalt	328-373
A. Stehend (außer auf Münzen)	328-343
B. Stehend bzw. ausschreitend auf Münzen	344-368
C. Aus Blütenornament wachsend	369
D. Kniend	370
E. Sitzend	371-372
F. Reitend	373
XIV. Helios in voller Gestalt mit anderen Göttern	374-379
A. Mit Selene	374-375
B. Mit Pasiphae	376
C. Mit Aphrodite und Eros	377
D. Mit einer Göttin	378
E. Im Gigantenkampf	379
XV. Verschmelzung mit anderen Göttern	380-391
A. Helios-Apollon	380-384
B. Helios-Mithras?	385
C. Helios-Apollon-Mithras-Hermes	386
D. Helios-Hermanubis	387
E. Helios-Sarapis	388-391

I. Helios allein auf Gespann (außer auf Münzen)

Kykladische Vase (Deutung unsicher)

1. Theräische Halsamphora. London, BM 1950.11-12.1. Aus Kythera (?). – Coldstream, J. N., «A Theraen Sunrise», BICS 12, 1965, 34-36 Taf. 4. – 670-660 v. Chr. – Protome einer männlichen Figur, mit kurzem Haar und Bart; sie hält die Zügel eines Pferdes, das wie eine Protome gezeichnet ist. Nach Coldstream handelt es sich hier wohl um den aufgehenden H., und in diesem Fall würde es sich um die älteste bekannte H.-darstellung handeln.

Attisch sf. und wgr. Vasen

2.* Lekythos. Boston, MFA 93.99. – Dörig/Gigon

57 Taf. 24b; Haspels, ABL 120, 4; 206, 5 Taf. 32, 1: Gela-Maler; Schauenburg, AntK 52; Yalouris 317 Taf. 40 Abb. 14. – 510-500 v. Chr. – H. bärtig auf seiner Biga in Vorderansicht mit dem Kopf im Profil nach l.; über seinem Kopf die Sonnenscheibe, deren Verzierung, in konzentrischen Zonen, an Scheibenakrotere erinnert; im Hintergrund Zweige; die beiden geflügelten Pferde, bis zur Brust wie Protomen gezeichnet, wenden die Köpfe gegeneinander; die eigenartige dicke «Plattform» unter den Pferdeprotomen wird im oberen Teil von einer Wellenlinie abgeschlossen, im unteren aber ist sie mit einer Reihe von Sternen gefüllt. Sie wurde als der Heliosbecher erklärt, von anderen aber anders (Schauenburg, Haspels, Yalouris, Dörig). Es handelt sich eher um den gestirnten Himmel und den Okeanos (Yalouris).

3.* Lekythos, wgr. Würzburg, Wagner-Mus. L 384. Aus Eretria. – Dörig/Gigon 58 Taf. 24b; Haspels, ABL 120, 9; Langlotz, KatWürzb Nr. 384 Taf. 108. – 490 v. Chr. – H. auf seiner Biga in Vorderansicht mit dem Kopf im Profil nach l. und mit der Sonnenscheibe über seinem Kopf. Sie ist durch zwei Gruppen von übereinander unregelmäßig eingeritzten Bögen gezeichnet. Die beiden geflügelten Pferde, bis zur Brust wie Protomen gezeichnet, neigen die Köpfe gegeneinander. Die in je zwei schräg und symmetrisch zueinander hinter den Pferdeköpfen angeordneten Paare speerartiger Objekte, die von H. gehalten werden, könnten seine Pfeile bzw. sein Kentron sein.

4. Lekythos, wgr. Athen, Nat. Mus. 2211. – Haspels, ABL 121, 15; 123. 243, 57; Haimonmaler; Schauenburg, AntK 51 Anm. 2 Taf. 17, 1. – 490 v. Chr. – H. bartlos auf Biga in Vorderansicht mit dem Kopf im Profil nach l. und mit der Sonnenscheibe, schwarz ohne Verzierung. Die beiden geflügelten Pferde, bis zur Brust wie Protomen gezeichnet, neigen die Köpfe gegeneinander. Hinter den Pferdeköpfen je zwei schräg und symmetrisch zueinander angeordnete Paare von H. gehaltener speerartiger Objekte; es könnten seine Pfeile bzw. sein Kentron sein. Am oberen Teil des Bildes unregelmäßig dick bemalte Zone: Wolken? Cf. auch 6-8.

5. Lekythos, wgr. Ehem. Athen, Kunsthandel. – Haspels, ABL 121. 123. 243, 56; Haimonmaler; Schauenburg, AntK 51 Anm. 2 Taf. 17, 1. – Anfang 5. Jh. v. Chr. – H. in Vorderansicht auf Gespann.

6. Lekythos. Berlin, Staatl. Mus. F 1983. – Dörig/Gigon 58; Haspels, ABL 120, 11; 123. 124, 53; Haimonmaler; Furtwängler, Berlin Vasen 421 Nr. 1983; Schauenburg, AntK 51 Anm. 9. – 490 v. Chr. – H. bärtig auf Biga in Vorderansicht mit dem Kopf im Profil; über seinem Kopf die Sonnenscheibe «mit zwei großen, nach beiden Seiten ausgebreiteten dicken schlangenförmigen Enden» (Furtwängler). «There is a white band superimposed on the black» (Haspels). Nach Schauenburg Andeutung des Morgendunstes. Nach Dörig die nächtliche Überfahrt des H.: vgl. 4. 7. 8. Die beiden geflügelten Pferde, bis zur Brust wie Protomen gezeichnet, neigen die Köpfe gegeneinander. R. und l. von H. je zwei Stäbe (Pfeile, Kentron?).

7.* Lekythos. New York, MMA GR 540. – Haspels, ABL 120, 10; 123. 124; Schauenburg, AntK 51

Anm. 9. – Ca. 490 v. Chr. – H. auf Viergespann in Vorderansicht mit dem Kopf im Profil nach l. Die Pferde ohne Flügel; je zwei neigen die Köpfe auseinander. Eine weiße, wellenartige Zone unter den Pferden deutet auf das Meer. Über dem Kopf des H. die Sonnenscheibe, weiß bemalt, und eine lange, wellenartige, weiß bemalte Zone, die sich über die ganze Komposition ausstreckt und auch teils die Sonnenscheibe deckt. Im Felde stilisierte Zweige. Vgl. 4. 6. 8.

8.* Lekythos. Karlsruhe, Bad. Landesmus. B 1530. – ABV 538, 54; Haimonmaler; Haspels, ABL 121, 12; 123. 243, 54; Dörig/Gigon 58 Taf. 23c; CVA 1 Taf. 13, 9. – 480 v. Chr. – H. auf Biga in Vorderansicht mit dem Kopf im Profil nach l. und mit rot bemalter Sonnenscheibe. Die beiden geflügelten Pferde, bis zur Brust wie Protomen gezeichnet, neigen die Köpfe gegeneinander; hinter den Pferdeköpfen je zwei schräg und symmetrisch zueinander von H. gehaltene speerartige Objekte (Pfeile und Kentron?). Im oberen Teil des Bildes dicke schwarze Wellenlinie: Wolke? Nach Dörig die nächtliche Überfahrt des H., vgl. 4. 6. 7.

9. Lekythos. Athen, Kerameikos. Vom Kerameikos, Grab HS 231. – Ca. 470 v. Chr. – Schlecht erhalten: r. Teil der Bilder sowie der größte Teil des Kopfes des H. abgeblättert; keine Spur seiner Scheibe erhalten. H. auf seiner Biga in Vorderansicht mit Kopf im Profil nach l. Die zwei Pferde geflügelt; nur ihr oberer Teil abgebildet. Wellenband über der ganzen Darstellung.

10. Lekythos, wgr. Hannover, Kestner-Mus. 1966, 34. – CVA 1 Taf. 22, 4; Beldam-Maler. – Um 470 v. Chr. – H. unbärtig mit Viergespann vollständig in Vorderansicht, mit dem Kopf im Profil nach r.; er steht in kleinem Wagenkasten, mit gegürtetem und reich gefältem Chiton. Auf dem nach r. gewandten Kopf trägt er einen Helm (?); darüber die Sonnenscheibe; l. und r. von ihm je ein schräg gezeichnetes Kentron; die Zügel in seinen Händen. Je zwei Pferde neigen die Köpfe auseinander. Keine Andeutung des Okeanos.

11.* Tonspule, wgr., polychrom (bobbin). Athen, Agora P 5113. – Brendel, O., Antike 12, 1936, 280 Abb. 8; Lacroix 94 Taf. 25, 2; Haspels, ABL 124 Anm. 3; Robertson, M., Greek Painting (1959) 110-112; Schauenburg, Helios 70 Anm. 320.84; Talcott, L., Hesperia 5, 1936, 333-335 Abb. 1; Wehgartner, I., Attisch weißgrundige Keramik (1983) 156, 2. Nachfolger des Brygosmalers. – Um 480 v. Chr. – H. unbärtig auf Biga in Vorderansicht mit dem Kopf nach r., Kentron in der Rechten; die beiden geflügelten Rosse (vom linken nur ein Teil des Kopfes und der Brust erhalten), bis zur Brust als Protomen gezeichnet, neigen die Köpfe einander zu. Über dem Kopf des H. seine Scheibe; im unteren Teil der Komposition die Wellen des Okeanos, aus dem H. emporsteigt.

12. (= Dioskouroi 196* mit Lit., = Eos 18 mit Lit., = Europe I 45 [B]) Tonspule, wgr. (bobbin). Athen, Nat. Mus. 2350. – ARV 775, 3; Sotheby-Maler; Add 288; Schauenburg, Helios 58 Anm. 168. – Um 470 v. Chr. – Auf der einen Scheibe (A) im Zentrum H. auf seinem Gespann (schlecht erhalten) nach r.; in der äußeren Zone der Raub der Leukippiden; auf der anderen Scheibe (B) die Entführung Europas.

13.* (Deutung unsicher) Lekythos. Nikosia, Cyprus Mus. 1935/C 727 (K 12). – Spätes 6. Jh. v. Chr. – H. (?) auf Biga, von geflügelten Pferden gezogen.

Attisch sf. Vasen

14.* Kolonettenkrater. Detroit, Inst. of Arts 1924.120. – ARV 569, 43; Leningrad-Maler; Add 261; Lacroix 94 Taf. 25; Schauenburg, Helios 70 Anm. 320 Abb. 17; idem, AntK 51 Anm. 1; 53 Anm. 30; 61 Anm. 114. – Um 480 v. Chr. – H. bärtig in Zweigespann nach r.; unter ihm Delphin und Wellen. Über dem Kopf des H. die Sonnenscheibe mit Strahlen; die Zügel und das Kentron in seinen Händen. Die Pferde geflügelt.

15. Kolonettenkrater. Agrigent, Mus. Reg. 184. Aus Gela. – ARV 512, 11; Maler von Bologna 228; Lacroix 94; Marcadé 18 Abb. 11; Schauenburg, Helios 54 Anm. 111; 58 Anm. 168 Abb. 9; idem, AntK 51 Anm. 3. – Um 460 v. Chr. – H. unbärtig auf Biga mit geflügelten Rossen nach r.; in den Händen die Zügel und das Kentron. H. ohne Sonnenscheibe.

16. Skyphos (att.), verschollen; wahrscheinlich aus Süditalien (nach Millin). – Ducati, P., I vasi dipinti nello stile del ceramista Midia, MemLinc XIV (1909) 107. 17; Schauenburg, AntK 59 Anm. 82; Lenormant, Ch./de Witte, J., Elite céramographique II 381 Taf. 112 A. – 4. Viertel 5. Jh. v. Chr. – H. unbärtig auf Viergespann nach l.; sein Kopf in die mit Strahlen versehene Sonnenscheibe eingeschrieben; unter dem Wagen das Meer mit Fisch und Tintenfisch; auf der Rs. der Vase: Dionysos mit Nymphen.

Rhodische Vase

17. Amphora, fr., sf., lokale Werkstatt, Nachahmung panathenäischer Amphoren. Rhodos, Mus. BE 2160. Aus Rhodos. – Zervoudaki, E., «Helios kai Halieia», ArchDelt 30, 1975, 1-20 Abb. 1. 2 Taf. 1. – 330-320 v. Chr. – H. auf Viergespann in Vorderansicht; er hat Strahlen um den Kopf, einen weißen Chiton und hält die Zügel (nur die Rechte erhalten). Fragmente einer zweiten ähnlichen Amphora (MBE 3331) mit ähnlicher Darstellung (H. hier nach l.), frühes 3. Jh. v. Chr., und einer dritten (PBE 1771) mit Pferderten (Zervoudaki a. O. 13-14 Taf. 3c. 4b).

Apulische Vasen

18.* Krater, fr. Heidelberg, Univ. 26/87a. Aus Tarent. – RVApI 36, 14; Maler der Dionysosgeburt oder Nähe; CVA 2 Taf. 74; Schauenburg, AntK 58 Taf. 19, 3. – Ende 5. Jh. v. Chr. – H. auf Gespann nach l.; sein kurzes lockiges Haar mit Nimbus aus drei konzentrischen weißen Kreisen versehen; außen gelber Strahlenkranz.

19.* Glockenkrater. Wien, Kunsth. Mus. IV 1131. Aus Apulien. – RVApI 265, 38; Maler von Heidelberg U6 (Judgement Group); Neugebauer, A., Jdl 58, 1943, 66 Abb. 8. – 360-340 v. Chr. – H. auf Viergespann in Vorderansicht, sein Chiton mit Swastika, von zwei Kreisen umrahmt, geschmückt. Die ganze

Komposition von einem Riesennimbus mit Strahlen umschlossen.

20. (= Achilleus 794*) Volutenkrater. Boston, MFA 03.804. Aus Ceglie del Campo. – RVAp II 472, 75 (mit Lit.): connected with the Varrese P.; Schauenburg, AntK 58 Anm. 80 Taf. 20. – Ca. 340 v. Chr. – Hals: H. auf Viergespann nach l. Die riesengroße Sonnenscheibe umfaßt die ganze Gestalt des Gottes und das Viergespann.

21. Volutenkrater. Genf, Privatslg. – RVAp II 496, 41 Taf. 177, 1: Dareiosmaler; Aellen, C., et al., Le peintre de Darius 111–117 Abb. – Um 340 v. Chr. – A: Abfahrt des Amphiaros. Hals: H., unbärtig, auf Viergespann nach r.; um seinen Kopf die Sonnenscheibe, aus zwei konzentrischen Kreisen und Strahlen bestehend; auf dem Kopf Krone mit Strahlen; über den Köpfen der Pferde je ein Stern.

22.* Situla. Helgoland, Slg. Kropatschek 115. – RVAp II 466, 54a: Maler von Kopenhagen 4223. – Schauenburg, K., RM 88, 1981, 110 Taf. 24. 25; Hornbostel, W., Antiken der Slg. Kropatschek (1980) Nr. 115. – Um 330 v. Chr. – H. auf Viergespann nach l.; auf seinem Kopf eine Krone aus Strahlen und um den Kopf die Sonnenscheibe mit Strahlen.

23.* (= Aiaikos 3 mit Lit., = Astra 76* mit Lit., = Eos 10 mit Lit.) Volutenkrater. München, Antikenslg. 3297. Aus Canosa. – RVAp II 533, 282 Taf. 194 (mit Lit.): Unterweltmaler. – Um 330 v. Chr. – Hals: H. auf Viergespann nach r.; um seinen Kopf der Strahlennimbus, aus drei konzentrischen Kreisen bestehend. Vor H. Eos auf einem Viergespann und vor ihrem Gespann Phosphoros vorausfliegend. Über den Köpfen der Pferde Sterne.

24.* Dinos. London, BM F 305. Aus Apulien. – RVAp II 502, 72 Taf. 180, 2: wahrscheinlich Dareiosmaler; Schauenburg, Helios Abb. 6. – Um 330 v. Chr. – H. auf Viergespann nach r.; um den Kopf der Strahlenkranz.

25.* Volutenkrater. Karlsruhe, Bad. Landesmus. B 4. Aus Ruvo. – RVAp I 431, 81 Taf. 160, 1; EVP 147, 6; CVA 2 Taf. 61, 5; 62–64. – 2. Hälfte 4. Jh. v. Chr. – Hals, A: Helios mit dem Kopf in der Sonnenscheibe, mit Strahlen versehen, auf Viergespann nach r. Er hält die Zügel und das Kentron. Die Darstellung auf beiden Seiten von reichen Akanthus- und Volutenranken umrahmt. B: Frauenkopf aus Blütenkelch sich erhebend. Bauch, A: Unterwelt; B: Bellerophon und Chimaira.

26. Volutenkrater. Neapel, Privatslg. 371. Aus Apulien. – RVAp II 924, 88 Taf. 359: Arpi-Maler. – Um 320 v. Chr. – H. auf Viergespann nach l. Um seinen Kopf die Sonnenscheibe, mit weißen Punkten gefüllt und mit einer doppelten Reihe von Strahlen an seiner Peripherie.

27.* Volutenkrater. Paris, Louvre K 67. – RVAp II 930, 115 pl. 365, 1. 2: Maler von Louvre K 67 (Nachfolger des Baltimoremalers); Schauenburg, Helios Abb. 11; idem, BonnJbb 161, 1961, 221–223. – Um 310 v. Chr. – Hals: H. auf Viergespann nach r. Um seinen Kopf die Sonnenscheibe aus zwei konzentrischen Kreisen mit Strahlen.

28.* Teller. Paris, Louvre K 174. – RVAp II 979, 215: Stuttgart-Gruppe (Einfluß des White Saccos P.); Schauenburg, Helios Anm. 168 Abb. 14. – 4. Viertel 4. Jh. v. Chr. – H. auf Viergespann nach l. Um seinen Kopf die Sonnenscheibe mit Strahlen.

Vgl. auch → Eos 12 (H. oder Eos?)

29. Volutenkrater. Ehem. New York, Kunsthandel. – RVAp Suppl. 1, 170, 52a: nahe der Gruppe von Taranto 7013; Sotheby Parke Bernet 2–3 XII 1982, Nr. 133 Abb. – Ende 4. Jh. v. Chr. – H. auf Viergespann nach l. fahrend.

Reliefs

30. (Deutung unsicher) (= Astra 13 mit Lit., = Eos 22 mit Lit.) Nordmetope 1 des Parthenon, pentelischer Marmor. Athen, in situ. – Becatti 84–85 Taf. 16. 65; Brommer, F., Die Metopen des Parthenon (1967) 39 ff. 218 ff. Taf. 85–90; Jeppesen, K., ActaArch 34, 1963, 42–43 Abb. 10b; Marcadé 13–16 Abb. 5–8; Picard, Manuel II 1, 432 Abb. 179; Simon, E., JdI 90, 1975, 110–111; Schauenburg, AntK 53 Anm. 31. 33; Berger, PartheDokMet 19. 22 ff. 50 ff. Taf. 4–7. – Wagenlenker (?) in Zweigespann nach r.; stark verwittert und verstümmelt. Die Diskussion über die Deutung auf H. oder Athena, Eos, Hemera, Nyx, Eris, Thetis in Berger und Brommer (→ Astra 13, = Eos 22).

31. Weihrelief, fr., Marmor. London, BM E 21.40/N 50.20. – Hanfmann, G. M. A./Ramage, N. H., Sardis Report 2: Sculpture from Sardis: The finds through 1975 (1978) 130–131 Nr. 167 Abb. 315. – 5. oder 6. Jh. n. Chr. – H. als Wagenlenker in Vorderansicht mit der Peitsche über seinem Kopf, seine Stirn mit dreieckigen Strahlen gekrönt. Man hat gedacht, daß sich auch die Akanthusblätter, die aus dem oberen Teil des Säulchens hinter H. wachsen, auf den Lichtgott beziehen (Hanfmann, a. O.).

Gemmen

32. Chalcedon. New York, MMA 188.6.173. – Richter, MetMusGems 70, 281 Taf. 40, 281. – 1–2. Jh. n. Chr. – H. nackt in Vorderansicht mit dem Kopf zur Seite gewendet, und von Strahlen umgeben, auf Viergespann in Vorderansicht.

33.* (= Helios/Sol 127) Heliotrop in silbernem Fingerring. Hamburg, Mus. KG 1967.17. – Hamburger Jb. 13, 1968, 225–235; Hoffmann, H./v. Claer, V., Antiker Gold- und Silberschmuck (1968) 186 Nr. 127. – 2.–3. Jh. n. Chr. – H., den Kopf zur Seite gewendet und von Strahlen umgeben, auf Viergespann in Vorderansicht.

34. Chalcedon. Berlin, Staatl. Mus. FG 2666. – Furtwängler, Beschreibung Nr. 2666 Taf. 24. – H. mit Strahlenkranz auf Viergespann in Vorderansicht.

35. Heliotrop. München, Münzslg. 2650. – AGD I 3, Nr. 2650 Taf. 246. – 3. Jh. n. Chr. – H. mit Strahlenkranz und Peitsche auf Viergespann nach l.

Amphorenstempel

36. Amphorenstempel. Rhodos, Mus. – BCH 76, 1952, 524 Abb. 3; ArchDelt 24, 1969, B 2, 13 Taf. 465a. – Um 200 v. Chr. – H. auf Viergespann nach r. – Andere Amphorenstempel mit demselben Thema: Grace, V., Hesperia 3, 1934, 277 Taf. 1, 5 und in Delos, Grace a. O. Um 230 v. Chr. Für die Datierung dieser Gattung s. auch Grace, V., AM 89, 1974, 193–200.

Freiplastik

37. Bronzestatue des H. auf Viergespann, Werk des Lysippos, nicht erhalten. – Plin. nat. 34, 63. – Das Weihgeschenk hat entweder in Rhodos (Marcadé, MusDél 479; Picard, Manuel IV 2, 518–532) oder in Delphi vor dem Apollontempel (Johnson, F. R., Lysippos [1927] 68. 152–153; Moreno, P., Lisippo I [1974] 113–116) gestanden. Über die Existenz einer Statue des H. auf Viergespann s. Cass. Dio 47, 33, 4, nach welchem der Consul Cassius nach der Eroberung von Rhodos alles plünderte außer dem Viergespann des H. – Zu den vergoldeten Pferden von San Marco in Venedig und ihrer Beziehung zum Heliosviergespann siehe Seitschek 204–218. 224–230; I Cavalli di San Marco (Cat. mostra Venezia 1977); Die Pferde von San Marco (Ausstellung Berlin 1982) 27. 29–31. 36–40.

II. Helios allein auf Gespann, auf Münzen

1. Auf Pferdequadriga bzw. -biga ohne besonderes Attribut

GRIECHISCHE DARSTELLUNGEN

38. AR Tetradrachmon und Drachme, Athen, 151 v. Chr. – BMC Attica 48, 378–383; Svoronos, S. N.,

Les monnaies d'Athènes (1923–26) Taf. 52 Nr. 1–16; Thompson, M., The New Style Silver Coinage of Athens (1961) 209–216, 552–579 Taf. 57–59. – Vs.: Kopf der Athena. Rs.: Eule auf Amphora, Beizeichen H. auf Quadriga von vorn.

39. AE, Mopsos (Kilikien), 2. Jh. v. Chr. bis 2. Jh. n. Chr. – v. Aulock, H., AA 1963, 245–246, 17 Abb. 2, 24. – Vs.: Büste der Athena. Rs.: H. auf Quadriga nach r.

40.* AE, Tralleis (Lydien), 2.–1. Jh. v. Chr. – BMC Lydia 337, 71 Taf. 34, 7; Imhoof-Blumer, F., Lydische Stadtmünzen (1897) 172 Nr. 17; SNG Copenhagen (Lydia) 676. – Rs.: H. auf Quadriga nach r.

41. (Deutung unsicher) AR Dekadrachmon, Akragas (Sizilien), um 411 v. Chr. – Alföldi, M. R., Dekadrachmon (1976) 130–135 Taf. 2, 1; Seltman, Ch., NC 1948, 3. 7. 8 Nr. 7–10 Taf. II F; III F. G. – Vs.: Zwei Hasen, einen Adler zerfleischend. Rs.: H. (?) auf Quadriga nach l. Oben Adler, unten Krabbe.

RÖMISCHE DARSTELLUNGEN

42.* AE, Korinth, Agrippina d. J., 54–68 n. Chr. – BMC Corinth 68, 552 Taf. 17, 9; SNG Copenhagen (Corinth) 238; Amandry, M., Le monnayage des Duovirs corinthiens (1988) 201 XX R III a. b Taf. 34. 35. – Rs.: H. auf Quadriga nach r.

43. AE, Korinth, Domitian, Antoninus Pius, Lucius Verus, Caracalla (81–96, 138–161, 161–169, 198–217 n. Chr.). – BMC Corinth 72, 582 Taf. 19, 3 (Domitian); 80, 621 (Lucius Verus); 88, 663 Taf. 22, 6 (Caracalla); SNG Copenhagen (Corinth) 274 (Domitian); 302 (Antoninus Pius). – Rs.: H. auf Quadriga nach r.

44. AE, Bithynion Klaudiopolis (Bithynien), Maximinus Thrax (235–238 n. Chr.). – SNG v. Aulock 333. – Rs.: H. auf Quadriga nach l.

45. AE, Nikaia (Bithynien), Maximus (235–238 n. Chr.). – BMC Bithynia 170, 113; RecGén I 3, 482, 662 Taf. 84, 5. – Rs.: H. in Quadriga nach r. mit Peitsche.

46. AE, Prusa am Olympos (Bithynien), Maximinus Thrax (235–238 n. Chr.). – SNG v. Aulock 879. – Rs.: H. auf Biga nach r. mit Peitsche.

47. AE, Prusias am Hypios (Bithynien), Antoninus Pius (138–161 n. Chr.). – RecGén I 4, 605, 15 Taf. 104, 2; SNG v. Aulock 887. – Rs.: H. auf Biga nach r.

48. AE, Prusias am Hypios (Bithynien), Septimius Severus (193–211 n. Chr.). – BMC Bithynia 201, 4; RecGén I 4, 610, 51 Taf. 105, 8. – Rs.: H. auf Quadriga nach r. mit Kentron.

49. AE, Magnesia am Mäander (Ionien), Gordian III. (238–244 n. Chr.). – Schultz, S., Die Münzprägung von Magnesia am Mäander in der römischen Kaiserzeit (1975) 111, 425 Taf. 29. – Rs.: H. auf Quadriga nach l.

50.* AE, Pergamon (Mysien), Mark Aurel (161–180 n. Chr.). – SNG v. Aulock 1404. – Rs.: H. auf Biga nach l.

51. AE, Attaleia (Pamphylien), Caracalla (198–217 n. Chr.). – BMC Pamphylia 113, 23. – Rs.: H. auf Biga nach r. mit Peitsche.

52.* AE, Antiocheia (Pisidien), Gordian III. (238–244 n. Chr.). – Krzyżanowska, A., Monnaies colo- niales d'Antioche de Pisidie (1970) 183 Rv 90 Taf. 38; SNG v. Aulock 4962; SNG Copenhagen (Pisidia) 64. – Rs.: H. auf Quadriga nach l. mit Peitsche.

Helios 23

53.* AE, Irenopolis (Kilikien), Alexander Severus (222–235 n. Chr.). – SNG v. Aulock 5595. – Rs.: H. auf Quadriga von vorn mit Peitsche.

54.* AE, Tarsos (Kilikien), Macrinus (217–218 n. Chr.). – SNG v. Aulock 6021. – Rs.: H. auf Quadriga nach l. mit Peitsche.

2. Auf Pferdequadriga bzw. -biga mit einem Attribut

a) Mit Globus

55.* AE, Tralleis (Lydien), Gordian III. (238–244 n. Chr.). – BMC Lydia 355, 170 Taf. 27, 8; SNG v. Aulock 3294. – Rs.: H. auf Quadriga von vorn.

b) Mit Fackel

56.* AE, Ankyra (Galatien), Mark Aurel. (161–180 n. Chr.). – MacDonald, Hunter II 569, 3; SNG v. Aulock 6138, 6139. – Rs.: H. auf Quadriga nach l., Fackel in beiden Händen.

57.* AE, Aninetos (Lydien), Antoninus Pius (138–161 n. Chr.). – Imhoof-Blumer, a. O. 40, 24, 8 Taf. 2, 5; SNG v. Aulock 2895. – Rs.: H. auf Quadriga nach r.

58. AE, Tralleis (Lydien), Lucius Verus (161–169 n. Chr.). – BMC Lydia 351, 151 Taf. 37, 3. – Rs.: H. auf Quadriga nach r.

3. Auf Pferdequadriga bzw. -biga mit zwei Attributen

59. AE, Aizanoi (Phrygien), um 250 n. Chr. – BMC Phrygia 28, 35 Taf. 5, 6. – Vs.: Büste des Demos. Rs.: H. auf Quadriga von vorn mit Szepter und Globus.

60.* AE, Kolossai (Phrygien), um 180 n. Chr. – BMC Phrygia 154–155, 4–5 Taf. 19, 5; SNG v. Aulock 3765; SNG Copenhagen (Phrygia) 310. – Vs.: Büste des Demos. Rs.: H. auf Quadriga von vorn mit Fackel und Globus.

61. AE, Kotiaion (Phrygien), um 250 n. Chr. – BMC Phrygia 160–161, 10–13 Taf. 20, 4; SNG v. Aulock 3774. – Vs.: Kopf des Demos. Rs.: H. auf Quadriga von vorn mit Fackel und Globus.

4. Auf Pferdequadriga mit dem Dionysosknaben

62. AE, Magnesia am Mäander, Geta (211–212 n. Chr.). – Schultz, a. O. 49, 80, 214 Taf. 16. – Rs.: H. auf Quadriga von vorn mit Fackel in der Rechten, Dionysosknabe mit Thyrsos in der Linken.

5. Auf Elefantenquadriga nach links

63.* AE, Laodikeia (Phrygien), Caracalla (198–217 n. Chr.). – SNG v. Aulock 3857. – Rs.: H. mit Schale und geschultertem Szepter.

6. Auf Löwengespann von vorn

64. AE, Thyateira (Lydien), Alexander Severus (222–235 n. Chr.). – Imhoof-Blumer, a. O. 40, 159, 30–31 Taf. 6, 17, 18. – Rs.: zwei Löwen nach l., einer nach r. springend. L. und r. der Räder je ein Stierkopf von vorn. H. mit Globus.

7. Helios, auf Sonnenscheibe stehend, auf der Pferdequadriga von vorn

65.* AE, Mopsos (Kilikien), Gordian II. (238–244 n. Chr.). – SNG v. Aulock 5746; v. Aulock, a. O. 39, 269–270, 75 Abb. 5, 57. – Rs.: H. mit Globus.

8. Auf Pferdequadriga über Altar

66.* AE, Amaseia (Pontos), Commodus, Caracalla und Alexander Severus, 188, 209, 228 n. Chr. – Rec-Gén I 12, 47, 90 (Caracalla); 49–50, 104, 105, 107 Taf. 6, 12, 13 (Alexander Severus); SNG v. Aulock 43 (Alexander Severus); 6701 (Commodus); 6710 (Alexander Severus). – Rs.: Auf einem Altar (Scheiterhaufen) Adler mit ausgebreiteten Flügeln, darüber zweiter Adler und darüber Helios mit Strahlenkrone in Quadriga, in der Linken Peitsche. L. Baum.

67. AE, Miletropolis (Mysien), Gallienus, 253–268 n. Chr. – SNG v. Aulock 1344. – Rs.: H. mit Strahlenkrone von vorn auf einer Quadriga, die ihrerseits auf einem Altar ruht. Zu beiden Seiten Säulen mit Statuen.

III. Helios auf Gespann im Gigantenkampf

68. (= Gigantes 40 mit Lit.) Schild der phidiasischen Athena Parthenos, bemalte (?) Innenseite, nicht erhalten. – Plin. nat. 36, 18. – Gigantomachie, die vom das Gespann besteigenden H. und der reitenden, untergehenden Selene umrahmt wird. Es wird angenommen, daß die Wiedergabe auf dem Kraterfr. in Neapel (69; Leiden, a. O. 118, Abb. 84) der Komposition des Parthenon-Schildes am nächsten kommt (s. auch → Astra S. 916). Hier ist H., wie auch Selene, nach l. und nicht nach r. gerichtet, wie bei Sonnenaufgang, da während des Kampfes beide astralen Götter bis zum Sieg der Olympier verborgen bleiben mußten: cf. Berger, PartheDokMet 75–76.

69. (= Gigantes 316* mit Lit. und Querverweisen) Kelchkrater, fr. att. rf. Neapel, Mus. Naz. 2045 (H 2883). – Aus Ruvo. – ARV<sup>2</sup> 1338; Para 481: dem Pronomosmaler verwandt; Add<sup>2</sup> 366; Becatti 120 Taf. 70; Lacroix 101; Marcadé 16 Abb. 9; v. Salis, A., JdI 55, 1940, 90 ff. Abb. 1–2, 8, 17, 34; Schauenburg, AntK 55–57; Simon/Hirmer, Vasen Taf. 232. – 400/390 v. Chr. – Eine kreisförmige Zone trennt den Himmel von der Erde. Außerhalb der Zone kämpfen die Götter gegen die innerhalb der Zone befindlichen Giganten. R. steigt der unbärtige H. auf seinem Viergespann (oberer Teil sichtbar) nach l. auf; über seinem

Kopf die Sonnenscheibe mit Strahlen; am l. Ende der Komposition Selene im Frauensitz auf ihrem Pferd untergehend. Die Komposition scheint von der Gigantomachie auf dem phidiasischen Parthenon-Schild inspiriert zu sein.

70.* (= Gigantes 26* mit Lit.) Relief einer Dachkassette des Athenatempels in Priene, Marmor. London, BM 1168. – Schober, A., OeJh 30, 1937, 33–35 Abb. 9; Carter, J. C., «The Date of the Sculptured Coffers Lids from the Temple of Athena Polias at Priene», in Studies ... P. H. v. Blanckenhagen (1979) 149; idem, The Sculpture of the Sanctuary of Athena Polias at Priene (1983) 33–40, 132–134 und passim Taf. 14; idem, in Proceedings of the XII Int. Congress of Classical Archaeology, Ankara (1978) 781–782. – 2. Hälfte 4. Jh. v. Chr. – H. auf Viergespann nach r. im Gigantenkampf. (Erhaltungszustand schlecht).

71. (= Gigantes 24* mit Lit. und Querverweisen) Pergamonaltar, Marmor, Südfries. Berlin (DDR), Staatl. Mus. Aus Pergamon. – Bruns, G., Der große Altar von Pergamon (1949) Abb. 12; Rohde, E., Pergamon (1961) Abb. 26; Köhler, H., Der große Fries von Pergamon (1948) 50, 107, 164. Taf. 9; Schmidt, E.-M., Der große Altar zu Pergamon (1961) 31, 67. Taf. 21, 22; Simon, Pergamon passim Taf. 25; Müller, W., Der Pergamon-Altar (1978) 19 Taf. 33, 34–36. – 180–160 v. Chr. – H. auf seinem Viergespann nach l. mit Fackel. Vor Helios Eos und hinter ihm Theia und Selene. Weitere Darstellungen → Gigantes S. 264.

IV. Helios auf Gespann in Anwesenheit anderer Götter oder Heroen

Attisch rf. Vasen

72. Kolonettenkrater. Ehem. Basel, Kunsthandel. – MuM, Sonderliste N (1971) Nr. 9 Abb.: Boreas-Florenz-Gruppe. – Um 460 v. Chr. – H. im Viergespann in Seitenansicht nach r. und Hermes, vorausgehend. H. unbärtig; Pferde geflügelt.

73. Glockenkrater, fr. Tübingen, Univ. S/10 1521 (E 173). – ARV<sup>2</sup> 1054, 49: Polygnotosgruppe; Schauenburg, Helios 58 Anm. 168; Watzinger, C., Kat. Tübingen 55 E 173 Taf. 31; CVA 4 Taf. 28, 1. – 450 v. Chr. – H. unbärtig mit Gespann (die Rosse geflügelt) nach r.; über seinem Kopf die Sonnenscheibe mit Strahlen. Nach dem erhaltenen Rest des Henkels zu schließen, gehörte H. zu einer größeren Komposition.

74. (= Amphitrite 79* mit Lit., = Eros 906) Kelchkrater. Bologna, Mus. Civ. Pell. 303. Aus Bologna. – ARV<sup>2</sup> 1184–1185, 6: Kadmosmaler; Para 460; Add<sup>2</sup> 341; Dugas, Ch./Flacelière, R., Thesée (1958) 69–70 Taf. 18–19; Marcadé 44 Abb. 22a; Pfuhl, MuZ Abb. 590; Schauenburg, Helios 49 Anm. 17, 4. – Um 420 v. Chr. – L. die aufgehende Sonne und r. von ihr Poseidon und Amphitrite, die Nereiden, Eros und Theseus in den Armen eines Tritons. H., unbärtig auf dem Viergespann, die Zügel und das Kentron in den Händen haltend, führt den Wagen nach r., der nur in seinem oberen Teil sichtbar ist; die Pferde sind bis zum Hals erkennbar: H. steigt aus dem

Okeanos empor. Die Figur des H. ist sicherlich vom Ostgiebel des Parthenon inspiriert.

75. (= Eileithyia 57*) Kelchkrater, fr. Thessaloniki, Arch. Mus. V 75, 129. Aus Olynthos. – Robinson, D. M., Olynthus V (1933) Nr. 129 Taf. 75, 76; Metzger, Représentations 178 Nr. 35. – Ende 5. Jh. v. Chr. – H. auf Viergespann nach r. (nur Teil des Wagens erhalten) in einer Komposition mit Leto (?), Apollon, Mänaden, Satyrn usw. (das ganze schlecht erhalten).

76. (Deutung unsicher) Glockenkrater, fr., att. rf. Bruxelles, Mus. Roy. A 2078. Aus Naukratis. – ARV<sup>2</sup> 1043, 4: Guglielmi-Maler; CVA 2 Taf. 10, 3; Schauenburg, Helios 58 Anm. 168; idem, AntK 53 Anm. 26. – H. (?) unbärtig, nackt, nach r.; er hält Zügel und Kentron; hinter seinem Kopf Teil der Sonnenscheibe (?) erhalten; Athena, Theseus (?), Nike (?) und andere Figuren.

Apulische Vasen

77. (= Astra 74 mit Querverweis, = Atlas 12, = Herakles 2686 mit Lit., = Hesperides 56*) Volutenkrater. Neapel, Mus. Naz. 81394 (H 3255). Aus Altamura. – RVAp II 496, 42: Dareiosmaler; Schauenburg, AntK 55–56, 59 Taf. 17, 3. – Um 340 v. Chr. – B, Bauch: Herakles bei den Hesperiden mit Athena. Weiter oben Atlas, das Himmelsgewölbe tragend; r. von Atlas, Helios auf Zweigespann nach l.; der Kopf des H. von konzentrischen Kreisen der Sonnenscheibe umgeben; darüber drei Sterne. L. von Atlas Phosphoros (?) nach l. reitend.

78.* Oinochoe. Zürich, Slg. Roß 66. – RVAp II 932, 121 Taf. 366, 1: Heliosgruppe. – Ende 4. Jh. v. Chr. – H. auf dem Viergespann nach l.; um den Kopf die Sonnenscheibe aus breiten konzentrischen Kreisen mit Strahlen; über den Pferden drei Sterne. Vor H. Hermes.

79. Oinochoe. Haifa, Mus. of Ancient Art 3361. – RVAp II 932, 120: Heliosgruppe. – Ende 4. Jh. v. Chr. – Wie 78.

80. Amphora. Neapel, Mus. Naz. 81953 (H 3219). Aus Ruvo. – RVAp II 497, 45 Taf. 178, 2: Dareiosmaler. – Schauenburg, AntK 59 Taf. 19, 1. – Um 330 v. Chr. – B: H. auf Viergespann nach r.; um seinen Kopf die Sonnenscheibe aus zwei konzentrischen Kreisen; auf dem Kopf eine Krone mit Strahlen. Vor dem Viergespann ein Hund, eine Schlange angreifend. Poseidon und andere Figuren.

81. (= Eos 13 mit Lit.) Schüssel. Neapel, Mus. Naz. 82244 (H 2576). Aus Canosa. – RVAp II 979, 220 pl. 384, 4: Stuttgart-Gruppe; Schauenburg, AntK 59 Taf. 19, 4. – 4. Viertel 4. Jh. v. Chr. – H. auf Viergespann nach l.; um seinen Kopf die Sonnenscheibe mit Sternen; vor dem Gespann Eros fliegend; unter dem Gespann ein Hund und zwei Hasen.

82. (= Eros 923) Kugelpyxis. Potenza, Mus. Prov. 54392. Aus Melfi. – RVAp II 984, 261 Taf. 386, 2: White Saccos-Kantharos Group; Schauenburg, K., RdA 2, 1978, 18 Abb. 14; idem, Rev. de la Universidad Complutense 25 no. 104, 1976 (= Homenaje a A. García y Bellido) 177 Abb. 1–4. – 4. Viertel 4. Jh. v. Chr. – H. in Vorderansicht; um seinen Kopf Sonnenstrahlen; sein Wagen wird von vier Enoten anstatt Pferden gezogen.

Relief

83. (= Dioskouroi 118* mit Lit.) Weihrelief, Marmor (?). Aus Larissa. Paris, Louvre MA 746. – Messerschmidt, F., StEtr 3, 1929, 523 Anm. 1 Taf. 58; Charbonneaux, Sculpt Louvre 121 Nr. 746. – 2. Jh. v. Chr. (Messerschmidt), 1. Jh. v. Chr. (Charbonneaux). – Das Relief ist den Megaloi Theoi, den Dioskuren geweiht, die darauf dargestellt sind; darunter eine Nike, eine leere Kline, ein Tisch und ein Altar, an dem ein Mann mit einer Frau spendet; im giebelartigen obersten Abschnitt des Reliefs H. im Viergespann in Vorderansicht aufsteigend (H. und Pferde bis zur Brust sichtbar).

Gemme und Kameo

84.* Kameo, Karneol. Neapel, Mus. Naz. 26086. – Furtwängler, AG II 201, 27 Taf. 42; Picard, Manuel IV 2, 525 Anm. 1. – Hellenistisch. – H. mit Fackel auf Viergespann nach r. Unten liegt Okeanos, daneben eine Göttin (Tethys?).

85. Karneol. Berlin, Staatl. Mus. FG 2669. – Furtwängler, Beschreibung Nr. 2669 Taf. 24. – H. mit Peitsche auf Viergespann nach r. R. Kopf des Sarapis. Unten in ganzer Gestalt Isis, Hygieia und Asklepios; ringsum vier Sterne und Mondsichel.

Goldschmuck

86. Diadem. London, BM. Aus Westgriechenland. – Marshall, BM Jewellery Nr. 1612–1615; Palladion, Antike Kunst, Kat. 1976, 96 Nr. 115c. – 4. Jh. v. Chr. – H. Kopf mit Strahlen in Vorderansicht auf Viergespann; r. und l. eine Vielzahl sitzender und tanzender Figuren.

87.* Ohrgehänge. Paris, Louvre C 112. Aus Bosnien. – De Ridder, A., Mus. Nat. du Louvre: cat. sommaire des bijoux antiques (1924) 24 Nr. 272–3 Taf. 8; Schauenburg, Helios 81. – Hellenistisch (?). – Zwei Ohrgehänge, jedes aus einem Meniskos bestehend, der in zwei Palmetten ausläuft. Innerhalb des Meniskos H. mit Strahlenkranz in Vorderansicht im Viergespann. L. und r. von H. je eine Nike. Die Ohrgehänge sind im unteren Teil mit weiterem reichem Schmuck versehen.

88. (= Demeter 323 mit Lit., = Hades 106 mit Lit.) Getriebenes Goldblech. Leningrad, Ermitage II 1834.51. Aus Kertsch. – Mitte 4. Jh. v. Chr. (Lindner). – H. auf Viergespann beim Raub der Persephone; Demeter, Hermes, Gespielinnen, Zeus.

Rundplastik

89. (= Astra 66 mit Lit., = Dionysos 489) Westgiebel des spätclassischen Apollontempels in Delphi, nicht erhalten. – Paus. 10, 19, 4; Vallois, BCH 55, 1931, 348–349; Picard, Manuel IV 2, 933–940. 1126–1131; Lapalus, E., Le fronton sculpté en Grèce (1947) 205–208. – 340–330 v. Chr. – «Der Untergang des Helios, Dionysos und die Thyaden» (Paus.). H. Untergang (wohl nach l. dargestellt) symbolisierte die Nacht und den Winter, wenn Dionysos nach Delphi kommt.

DEUTUNG UNSICHER

Reliefs

90. (= Artemis 1227* mit Lit. und Querverweis) Metope. Palermo, Mus. Naz. Aus Selinunt, Tempel C. – Ein Wagenlenker auf dem Viergespann von zwei Figuren umrahmt: H., Apollon und Selene, Apollon, Artemis und Leto, oder Pelops und Oinomaos.

91. Weihrelief, Marmor. Kansas City, Nelson-Atkins Mus. 45:32/7. Ehem. im Castello Giusso in Vico Equense (östlich von Sorrento) eingemauert. – Frel, J./Kingsley, B. M., GRBS 11, 1970, 201 Nr. 5 Taf. 11, 2; Ridgway, B. S., Fifth Century Styles in Greek Sculpture (1981) 152 Nr. 1; Mingazzini, P./Pfister, F., Surventum, Forma Italiae 12, 1946, 189–190 Taf. XXXVI, 127; Stähler, K., «Ein großgriechisches Weihrelief an Helios», Boreas 1, 1978, 103–112 Taf. 17, 18; Stephanidou-Tiveriou, Th., Neaattika (1979) 149–150. – Spätes 4. Jh. v. Chr. – Es handelt sich um H. oder Selene nach Mingazzini/Pfister, um Aphrodite nach Frel/Kingsley, um Helios nach Stähler, um Selene mit der Fackel nach Stephanidou-Tiveriou.

92. (= Astra 15a mit Lit., = Eos 23a mit Lit.) Weihrelief, Marmor. Genf-Cologny, Fondation Martin Bodmer (ehem. Lissabon, Slg. Duc de Loulé). Aus Italien. – Stephanidou-Tiveriou, a. O. 91, 145–150, Taf. 48a. – Spätes 2. Jh. v. Chr. – Relief A: H. (?) auf Viergespann nach l.: vor ihm Phosphoros oder Hermes.

V. Helios auf Gespann beim Parisurteil

Attisch rf. Vasen

93.* (= Astra 25 mit Querverweisen) Glockenkranz. Wien, Kunsthist. Mus. IV 1771. Aus Orvieto. – ARV<sup>2</sup> 1318: wohl Maler der Athener Hochzeit; Lacroix 101; Lippold, Gemäldekopien 39 ff. Taf. 5, 25; Marcadé 30 Abb. 15; Metzger, Représentations 270 Nr. 9 Taf. 41, 1; Schauenburg, AntK 53 Anm. 25, 60; CVA 3 Taf. 120–121. – Ende 5. Jh. v. Chr. – H. und Selene rahmen das Parisurteil; r. H. unbärtig auf dem Viergespann nach l., aus dem Okeanos aufsteigend; nur die oberen Teile des Gottes und seiner Pferde sind sichtbar, die unteren Teile hinter der Erde verborgen, die als unregelmäßige Kurve wiedergegeben wird. H. hält die Zügel und das Kentron in den Händen; vor seinem Kopf die Sonnenscheibe mit großen Strahlen. L. Selene im Frauensitz auf Pferd nach l. Im Zentrum Paris, Athena, Aphrodite, Hermes, Hera, Enoten, Hebe (?).

94.* (= Aphrodite 1275/1430 mit Lit. und Querverweisen, = Hermes 476 mit Querverweisen) Hydria. Karlsruhe, Bad. Landesmus. 259 (B 36). Aus Ruvo. – ARV<sup>2</sup> 1315, 1: Maler des Karlsruher Paris; Add<sup>2</sup> 362; Pfuhl, MuZ § 643 Abb. 595; Dugas, Ch., Tradition littéraire et tradition graphique (1960) 64 Taf. 13, 1; FR I 141–145 Taf. 30; CVA 1 Taf. 22, 4–5; 23, 24, 1–5; Lacroix 101; Lippold, Gemäldekopien 39–44 Abb. 25; Marcadé 44 Abb. 21b; Abb. 595. – Anfang 4.

Jh. v. Chr. – H. unbärtig mit Zügel und Kentron in den Händen r. vom Parisurteil. Er steigt auf seinem Viergespann nach l. (sein oberer Teil und die Köpfe sichtbar) über eine schräge Wellenlinie empor, die den Abhang eines Berges darstellen dürfte. Zwischen den Köpfen der Rosse und dem des Helios die Sonnenscheibe mit Strahlen. In der Szene außer den drei Göttinnen Hermes und Paris sowie Zeus, → Klymene (VI).

VI. Helios auf Gespann und Herakles mit oder ohne Athena

Attisch sf. Vasen

95. (= Herakles 2545* mit Lit.) Lekythos. Athen, Nat. Mus. 513. Aus Eretria. – ABV 380, 290: Leagrosgruppe; Haspels, ABL 57, 120. 196 Taf. 17, 1a–c; Dörig/Gigon 60, 1; Berger, PartheDokMet 74. – 510–500 v. Chr. (Haspels). – H., bärtig, auf seiner Biga in Vorderansicht mit dem Kopf nach seiner R.; über seinem Kopf die Sonnenscheibe. Die beiden geflügelten Pferde neigen einander die Köpfe zu. Zwischen den Pferdefüßen und -schwänzen Fische, den Okeanos andeutend. L., auf einem Felsen kauend, Herakles mit Keule, Bogen und Köcher; seine Hand in Gesprächsgeste zu H.

96.* (= Herakles 2548 mit Lit.) Lekythos. Cambridge, Fitz. Mus. GR 78.1864 (G 100). Aus Athen. – Haspels, ABL 120, 7; Dörig/Gigon 60, 4; Schauenburg, Helios 70 Anm. 320; 84. – 490 v. Chr. – H. bärtig auf Biga in Vorderansicht mit Kopf im Profil nach seiner R.; über seinem Kopf die Sonnenscheibe, schwarz bemalt. Die beiden geflügelten Pferde, bis zur Brust als Protomen gezeichnet, neigen die Köpfe einander zu. Hinter dem r. Pferd zwei parallele, schräge Linien (Pfeile, Kentron?). L. Herakles mit der Keule in der Rechten und dem Bogen in der Linken auf H. zueilend; r. Athena nach r. Im Feld Efeuzweige.

97.* (= Herakles 2549 mit Lit.) Lekythos. Oxford, Ashm. Mus. 1934.371. – Haspels, ABL 120, 8; Dörig/Gigon 60, 5; Schauenburg, Helios 70 Anm. 320 Abb. 23. – 510 v. Chr. (Schauenburg); nicht älter als 490 v. Chr. (Haspels). – H. bärtig auf Biga in Vorderansicht, ohne Sonnenscheibe, mit dem Kopf im Profil nach seiner Rechten. Die beiden geflügelten Pferde, wie Protomen bis zur Brust gezeichnet, neigen einander die Köpfe zu. Die zwei parallelen, schräg gezeichneten Linien hinter dem r. Pferd deuten vielleicht das Kentron und den Pfeil des Gottes an. L. auf H. zueilender Herakles, r. Athena.

98. (= Herakles 2546* mit Lit.) Skyphos. Tarent, Mus. Naz. 7029. Aus Tarent. – ABV 518, 21: Theusmalter; Add<sup>2</sup> 129; Dörig/Gigon 60, 2 Taf. 24c; Haspels, ABL 120, 2; 250, 21; Lacroix 97 Taf. 23; EAA III 1141 Abb. 1458; Philippart, H., Collections de céramique grecque en Italie (1932) 54; Schauenburg, AntK 51. – 505–485 v. Chr. – H. bärtig auf Biga in Vorderansicht, den Kopf im Profil nach seiner Linken. Über dem Kopf die Sonnenscheibe, weiß bemalt. Die beiden geflügelten Rosse, wie Protomen bis zur Brust gezeichnet, neigen einander die Köpfe zu. Die zwei

schräg und parallel zueinander gezeichneten Linien oberhalb des r. Pferdes sind als Zügel und Kentron des Gottes zu verstehen. H. steigt aus dem Okeanos empor, der als breite, schwarz bemalte, im oberen Teil wellenförmige Zone, mit Fischen gefüllt, angegeben wird. R. sitzt Herakles mit Keule und Löwenfell auf einer weiß gemalten Anhöhe und wendet sich gestikulierend H. zu; im Felde Zweige. Dieselbe Szene auf der anderen Seite des Skyphos, nur besteigt hier Herakles die Anhöhe nach r., den Kopf zu H. zurückwendend.

VII. Helios im Sonnenbecher

99. (= Astra 61*) Halsamphora, att. sf. Wien, Kunsthist. Mus. IV 815. – Dörig/Gigon 57 Taf. 23a; Haspels, ABL 120, 5; 213, 177; CVA Mainz, Universität 1 zu Taf. 39, 4–6 (Selene); Schauenburg, AntK 51 (Helios). – 1. Viertel 5. Jh. v. Chr. – H. unbärtig auf seiner Biga in Vorderansicht mit dem Kopf nach seiner R.; über seinem Kopf die Sonnenscheibe mit konzentrischen Kreisen verziert. Im Felde Zweige. Die beiden geflügelten Pferde, als Protomen bis zur Brust gezeichnet, neigen einander die Köpfe zu; sie steigen aus einem rechteckigen Gebilde empor, das als der Sonnenbecher erklärt wird (Dörig). Im Felde Zweige mit Früchten.

100. Parthenon-Ostmetope Nr. 14, pentelischer Marmor. Athen, in situ. – Praschniker 220–221 Abb. 131 Taf. 27; Vian, F., La guerre des Géants (1952) 44. 162; Marcadé 17. 19. 20 Abb. 10; Jeppesen, a. O. 30, 50; Arias, P. E., Problemi di scultura greca (1965) 389; Brommer, a. O. 30, 38. 204. 208 Taf. 77. 79. 80. 82; Berger, PartheDokMet 71–76 Taf. 70–71 mit Lit. – Phidiasisch; 447–439 v. Chr. – H. mit Biga nach l., im «Sonnenbecher» auf seiner Nachtfahrt aufsteigend (Berger a. O. 74–75). Erhalten sind: der untere Teil des Körpers des H., ein großer Teil des l. Schenkels, Reste des Gewandes, vielleicht um seine Arme gewickelt, mit denen er die Zügel hielt, die Rosse, deren Oberfläche stark verstümmelt ist, der «Wannenrand» des Sonnenbeckers, als erhöhte Plattform wiedergegeben, mit im hinteren auslaufenden Zwickel der Wannen-Seitenwand; an der Wandung des Behälters sind zwei Fische zu sehen (Berger a. O.). Nach Brommer (a. O. 204. 206) handelt es sich eher um Poseidon und nicht um H.

VIII. Helios auf Gespann und Herakles im Sonnenbecher

S. auch → Herakles 2550–2552.

101. Lekythos (?), att. sf. Athen, Kanellopoulos-Mus. 79. – Spätes 6. Jh. v. Chr. – Herakles mit Keule im Sonnenbecher; r. H. auf Biga, mit Scheibe, aus den Fluten des Okeanos emporsteigend (?); l. von Herakles eine stehende bärtige Figur.

IX. Helios und Demeter im Viergespann auf einem Schiff

Für H. und Demeter auf Viergespann s. auch → Astra 27 = Demeter 313.

102. (= Demeter 459* mit Lit.) Volutenkrater, apul. rf. Paris, Louvre N 3512. – RVAp II 1023, 39: associated with the Group of Taranto 7013; Hafner, G., Viergespanne in Vorderansicht (1938) 61 Nr. 168; 78 Taf. 3. – Ende 4. Jh. v. Chr. – H. unbärtig und Demeter auf Viergespann in Vorderansicht auf einem Schiff stehend; um den Kopf des Gottes die Sonnenscheibe aus drei konzentrischen Kreisen mit Strahlen bestehend; l. Pan und r. Korybant. H. und Demeter sind auf der Suche nach Persephone.

X. Sonnenscheibe oberhalb des Gespanns ohne Helios

103.* Amphora, att. sf. Paris, Cab. Méd. 220. – Para 248; Add 127; Haspels, ABL 120, 6; 238, 122: Diosphosmaler; CVA 10 Taf. 75, 8–9; 76, 4–6; Pfuhl, MuZ Abb. 291; Schauenburg, Helios 35 Anm. 303. – Sonnenviergespann in Vorderansicht; je zwei der Pferde ohne Flügel neigen die Köpfe auseinander; oberhalb des zweiten Pferdes von l. ein stabartiger Gegenstand, das Kentron des H.; eine Zone aus wellenartigen Strichen, mit drei Delphinen unter den Pferden, deutet den Okeanos an. Über den Köpfen der Pferde die Sonnenscheibe aus drei konzentrischen Kreisen bestehend, die zwei inneren hell, der äußere schwarz behalt und mit weißen Punkten versehen. Auf der anderen Seite der Amphora eilen Hermes und Athena über das Meer mit vier Delphinen. Die Figur des H. bzw. sein Kopf ist, obwohl es mehrfach behauptet wurde, nicht angegeben, im winzigen Raum zwischen dem unteren Teil der Sonnenscheibe und den Pferdeköpfen gibt es keinen Platz für seinen Kopf; die kleinen Spuren von schwarzer und weißer Farbe gehören zu den Zöpfen der Mähnen der zwei mittleren Pferde und den weißen Punkten der Scheibe. So wird das Thema auch in der zeichnerischen Wiedergabe von Dubois-Maisonneuve (Introduction à l'étude des vases antiques [1817]) verstanden. Genauso wird H. auch in Eur. El. 464 geschildert: ἐν δὲ μέσῳ κατέλαμπε σάκει φαέθων κύκλος ἄλιον ἵπποις ἀμπεροῦσαι; vgl. auch Hdt. 7, 40, wo im Zug des Xerxes gegen Griechenland der heilige Wagen des Zeus von acht weißen Pferden gezogen wird, wobei der Wagenlenker ihn zu Fuß führt, ohne ihn besteigen zu dürfen. Cf. Schauenburg, Helios 35, der jedoch auf 103 die Abwesenheit des H. nicht glaubt.

104. Altar, Marmor. Berlin (DDR), Staatl. Mus. Aus Pergamon. – Winter, F., Pergamon VII 2 (1907) 338–339 Nr. 420 Abb.; Schauenburg, Helios 35 Anm. 300; Ohlmutz, E., Die Kulte und Heiligtümer der Götter in Pergamon (1968<sup>2</sup>) 87. – Hellenistisch. – Auf der Mitte der Rundfläche des Altars ist in Relief der Sonnenwagen dargestellt; über dem Wagenstuhl die Sonne als achtstrahliger Stern mit wellenförmig geschwungenen Lichtstrahlen zwischen den Zacken.

Die Pferde mit Brust- und Leibgurt versehen; die Zügel am oberen Rand des Wagenstuhles angebunden.

XI. Helios auf Gespann mit anderen Lichtgöttern

Attische Vasen

105.* (= Astra 3* mit Lit., = Eos 1 mit Lit., = Herakles 1341/2547 mit Lit.) Lekythos. New York, MMA 41.162.29. Aus Attika. – ABV 507, 6; 702: Sapphomaler; Add 126; Haspels, ABL 96. 98. 99. 113. 120, 3; 123–124. 226, 6 Taf. 32, 1; Dörig/Gigon 51. 59. 60, 3; Lacroix 94 Taf. 12; Schauenburg, Helios 70 Anm. 320; idem, AntK 51 Anm. 11; 54 Anm. 40; Boardman, ABFH 148 Abb. 260, 1–3. – I. Viertel 5. Jh. v. Chr. – Im Zentrum der Komposition H. bärtig auf Viergespann in Vorderansicht mit dem Kopf nach seiner Linken. Über seinem Kopf die Sonnenscheibe, aus zwei konzentrischen Kreisen und Strahlen bestehend. Je zwei der Pferde, ohne Flügel, neigen die Köpfe auseinander. Sie sind bis zur Brust, wie Protomen, abgebildet, als ob sie aus dem Okeanos emporstiegen. H. mit dem Gespann ist auf beiden Seiten von je einer schwarz bemalten, wellenartigen Zone umrahmt, die als Wasser oder Okeanos (Haspels) oder als der Morgendunst (Schauenburg) bezeichnet wird. Am oberen Ende der r. Zone Eos auf Viergespann nach r.; über ihrem Kopf eine ähnlich wie bei H. verzierte Scheibe; am oberen Ende der l. Zone Nyx auf Viergespann nach l.; über ihrem Kopf eine schwarz bemalte Scheibe ohne jegliche Dekoration. Der stabartige Gegenstand, den Eos und Nyx halten, kann ein Kentron sein. L. von H. auf einer Anhöhe des Geländes Herakles; er hält zwei Spieße, an denen er je ein Stück Fleisch fixiert hat; er hält sie über das Feuer eines Altars; unter Herakles ein Hund (zur Erklärung der Szene als Abstieg des Herakles in den Hades s. Pinney, F. G./Ridgway, B. S., JHS 101, 1981, 141–144). Alle vier Figuren sind mit Inschriften benannt.

106. (= Astra 8*/19 mit Lit., = Eos 37 mit Lit.) Pyxisdeckel. Berlin, Staatl. Mus. F 2519. – Lacroix 102–103 Taf. 31, 2; Roberts, S. R., The Attic Pyxis (1978) 147 Taf. 86, 3. 87, 3; Yalouris 3 14 Anm. 14. – 430 v. Chr. – H. unbärtig auf seiner Biga nach r.; über seinem Kopf die Sonnenscheibe mit Strahlen. Vor ihm Selene (?) im Frauensitz auf ihrem Pferd; r. von ihr und um den Kopf ihres Pferdes Sterne. Hinter H. Nyx (?) geflügelt auf Viergespann. Zwischen beiden Göttern eine Palme: Anspielung auf kosmische Symbole, Baumkult, Säulenkult (Yalouris).

107. (= Astra 7*/38 mit Lit., = Eos 28 mit Lit.) Pyxisdeckel. Athen, Nat. Mus. 17983. – ARV 1282, 2: Deckelmaler; Add 358; Karousos Ch. und S., Anthologema Thesauron tou Eth. Mous. (1981) 73 Taf. 83a–c; Schauenburg, AntK 53. – 2. Hälfte 5. Jh. v. Chr. – H. unbärtig auf Viergespann nach r.; in seinen Händen die Zügel und das Kentron; über seinem Kopf die Sonnenscheibe mit Strahlen. Vor dem Gespann ein Bogen aus konzentrischen Halbkreisen – die Grenzen des Okeanos eher als des Himmels andeutend (Karousos) – hinter dem Selene verschwindet

(nur der hintere Teil ihres Pferdes sichtbar); über ihrem Pferd Mondsichel mit Sternen. Hinter H. eine geflügelte Figur auf einer Biga, die Zügel und das Kentron in den Händen, nach l. (gegen Selene) zurückblickend: Eos (?); über ihrem Kopf Mondsichel und Sterne. Im Felde Zweige.

108.* (= Astra 4*/21 mit Lit., = Eos 4 mit Lit.) Pyxisdeckel. London, BM 1920.18–21.1. – ARV 1282, 1: Deckelmaler; Add 358; Lacroix 102 Taf. 31, 1; Schauenburg, Helios 57 Anm. 173; Roberts, A. O. 106, 128–129; Walters, H. B., JHS 41, 1921, 144–145 Taf. 6. – Um 430–420 v. Chr. – H. unbärtig auf dem Viergespann nach r.; vor seinem Kopf die Sonnenscheibe mit Strahlen, die Zügel und das Kentron in den Händen. Vor ihm Eos (nach Lacroix) oder Selene (nach Beazley) auf einer Biga nach r. mit der Mondsichel vor ihrem Kopf. Unter einem Bogen aus zwei konzentrischen Halbkreisen Nyx (Beazley) oder Selene (Lacroix) im Damensitz auf einem Pferd nach r. reitend, ihren Kopf nach l. wendend. Walters nennt die Figuren: Helios, Nyx, Selene.

109. (= Astra 22 mit Lit., = Endymion 11* mit Lit., = Eos 110 mit Lit.) Kelchkrater. London, BM E 466. Aus Apulien (?). – FR III 33–36 (mit Lit.) Taf. 126; Lacroix 104. 105 Taf. 34–36; Marcadé 44 Abb. 22b; Rapp 2010 Abb; Roscher, W. H., ML II 2, 3143 Abb. 15. – 420 v. Chr. – H. unbärtig, den Kopf in der mit Strahlen versehenen Sonnenscheibe eingeschrieben, auf Viergespann nach l. aus dem Okeanos aufsteigend, ein Kentron in der Hand, während die Sterne, als Jünglinge verkörpert, sich wie im Bade tummeln; l. droht Kephalos mit einem Stein Eos; der Junge (?) in der Mitte ist Endymion (?) (Furtwängler) oder Pan (Roscher). Am l. Ende der Komposition Selene im Frauensitz reitend beim Untergehen. H. hat die Zügel und das Kentron in den Händen. Sein Kopf ist dem Sonnendiskus mit Strahlen eingeschrieben; seine Rosse sind geflügelt.

110. (= Astra 10*/64 mit Lit., = Eos 27 mit Lit.) Hydria, fr. Neapel, Mus. Naz. RC 157. Aus Cumae. – ARV 1042, 3: Coghill-Maler; Add 320; Schauenburg, AntK 53 Anm. 23. – 430–420 v. Chr. – R. fährt H. nach l. (nur der Vorderteil der Flügelspitze erhalten); l. Selene (?) auf einem Gespann (nur die Flügel der Pferde erhalten), während in der Mitte Nyx (?), geflügelt, auf ihrer Biga mit geflügelten Rossen erscheint; zwischen H. und Nyx die Sterne als Jünglinge, sich wie im Bade tummelnd.

111. (= Astra 23 mit Lit., = Endymion 12 mit Lit.) Kelchkrater, fr. Leningrad, Ermitage O. 13 (St. 1798). Aus Kertsch. – ARV 1337 2: nahe dem Pronomosmaler; Para 481; Add 366; Lacroix 101–102 Taf. 35, 1. – Ende 5. Jh. v. Chr. – H. auf Gespann (?) in einer vielfigurigen Komposition nach l.; nur sein Kopf, in der Sonnenscheibe mit Strahlen eingezeichnet, ist erhalten. Hinter ihm eine weibliche Figur, nur bis zur Brust erhalten; sie eilt mit erhobenen Händen erstaunt nach r. (Nyx?); neben ihr Selene im Frauensitz auf Pferd nach l. (nur ihr oberer Teil bis zum Bauch sowie der Kopf und der Hals des Pferdes erhalten); nahe dem Pferdekopf die Mondsichel, in der die Büste der Göttin im Profil nach l. ein zweites Mal zu sehen ist. Weiter nach r. die Figur eines Jünglings (nur Kopf und Hände erhalten) und ein kleiner Rest eines zweiten nach r. H. ist hier vielleicht im Untergang zu verstehen, während als Hauptperson der Komposition Selene erscheint, die sich im Zentrum befindet und deren Scheibe größer ist als diejenige des H.

Unteritalische Vasen

112.* Nestoris, lukan. Genf, Slg. Ortiz. – LCS Suppl. 3, 61, D 28 Taf. 10: Dolonmaler; Aellen et al., a. O. 21, 31–34 Abb. – 400–370 v. Chr. – Auf dem Hals H. auf Viergespann nach l. Vor seinem Kopf die Sonnenscheibe mit Strahlen (der weiße Überzug ist verschwunden); Beischrift HAIOE. Hinter dem Gott folgt Selene.

113. (= Astra 27 mit Lit., = Eos 21*/283 mit Lit. und Querverweisen, = Demeter 313 mit Lit. und Querverweisen, = Iris 103 mit Querverweisen) Volutenkrater, apul. Neapel, Mus. Naz. 81667 (H 3256). Aus Ruvo. – RVAp II 495–496, 40: Dareiosmaler; Moret, Ilioupersis 155–157, 100 Taf. 81–83. – Um 340 v. Chr. – B: Perserschlacht. Auf dem Hals H. auf Viergespann nach r.; um sein Haupt der Nimbus mit Strahlen. R. die reitende Selene, zwischen H. und Selene Eos auf Viergespann und Tithonos. A: H. wieder auf dem Viergespann nach r., um seinen Kopf der Nimbus mit Strahlen. Hinter ihm ist Demeter im Begriff, seinen Wagen zu besteigen. Hera, Zeus, Gany-med, Poseidon und andere Figuren; am Ende reitet Selene nach r.

114. (= Astra 29/84, = Eos 41 mit Lit. und Querverweisen) Volutenkrater, apul. Neapel, Mus. Naz. 81666 (H 3222). Aus Altamura. – RVAp I 431, 82: Kreis des Lykurgosmalers; White, S., Perspective in Ancient Drawing and Painting (1956) 35 Taf. 6b; Borda, M., Ceramiche apule (1966) 47. 101 Abb. 36; Keuls, E., The Water Carriers in Hades (1974) Taf. 10. – Um 350. – B, Hals: H. auf Viergespann; ihn umgibt in weitem Kreis ein Strahlennimbus; voran fliegt Eros, in der R. die Zügel des hintersten Pferdes haltend; unter ihm Fische. Voraus reitet Selene, von einem weiteren Strahlennimbus umgeben; vor ihr ein großer Stern, von acht kleineren umgeben.

115. Volutenkrater. Ehem. Brüssel, Kunsthandel. (Deletaille). Aus Apulien. – RVAp Suppl. 1, 152, 236 Taf. 26: Baltimore-Maler. – 330–310 v. Chr. – Auf dem Hals H. auf Viergespann nach l.; um seinen Kopf die Sonnenscheibe aus zwei konzentrischen Kreisen mit Strahlen. Vor ihm die reitende Selene; hinter ihm reitende Selene oder Nyx.

116. (= Astra 75 mit Lit., = Hera 391*, = Iris I 74) Skyphos, fr. Ruvo, Mus. Jatta 31. Aus Apulien. – RVAp II 870, 51: Baltimore-Maler. – 330–310 v. Chr. – H. auf dem Viergespann nach r.; um den Kopf die Sonnenscheibe mit Strahlen. Hinter ihm Zeus, Hermes, Hera und Iris. Auf dem unteren Niveau Phosphoros reitend, Dionysos und Ariadne auf Zweigespann, Kephalos (oder Orion) und Hesperos reitend.

Reliefs

117. (= Aphrodite 1172, = Astra 33) Goldrelief an der Basis des phidiasischen Zeusthrones von

Olympia, nicht erhalten. – Paus. 5, 11, 8 (= Overbeck, SQNr. 696); Simon, E., Die Geburt der Aphrodite (1959) 41–42. – H., auf dem Gespann aufsteigend, und die untergehende Selene umrahmen die olympischen Götter bei der Geburt der Aphrodite.

118. Relief auf dem Sockel der phidiasischen Athenastatue im Parthenon, nicht erhalten. – Paus. 1, 24, 5; Brommer, F., Athena Parthenos (1957) 6–7; Leipen, N., Athena Parthenos (1971) 3, 24; (mit Lit.); Liegle, J., Der Zeus des Pheidias (1952) 431; Praschniker, C., «Das Basisrelief der Parthenos», OeJh 39, 1952, 8. – Paus. spricht in seiner kurzen Beschreibung nicht von H. und Selene, doch wird einstimmig angenommen, daß die Erschaffung Pandoras I. von H. auf dem Gespann, das sich nach r. aufbäumt, und r. von der reitenden Selene flankiert war. Die Komposition ist am besten erhalten auf: a) (= Athena 221*, = Athena/Minerva 142a, = Astra 32) Athena Lenormant, Marmorstatue (Basis). Athen, Nat. Mus. 128. – Brommer a. O. 6 Abb. 2; Leipen a. O. 3, 24 Abb. 1, 60, 63 (mit Lit.); Karusu, S., Nat. Arch. Mus., Coll. of Sculpture (1968) 68; Schuchhardt, W.-H., APL 2 (1963) 47 Taf. 36b. – Römische Kopie der Athena Parthenos des Phidias, 1. oder 2. Jh. n. Chr. – Am l. Rand des Basisreliefs (Erschaffung der Pandora) H. im Wagen nach r., während im r. Rand die berittene Selene, ebenfalls nach r., erscheint.

119. (= Iris I 123a) Marmorrelief von der rechteckigen «Tribune» in Sidon, Heiligtum des Echmoun. – Dunand, M., BullMusBeyrouth 26, 1973, 17–20 Taf. 2–6, 1; Will, E., BCH 100, 1976, 565–574 Abb. 1–3; Stephanidou-Tiveriou, A. O. 91, 150; Stucky, R. A., Tribune d'Echmoun, AntK 13, Beih. (1984) 18–19, 39–40 Taf. 4, 1–2; 5, 1; 6, 1; 7, 13, 1; 16, 1–2. – Um 350 v. Chr. (Will); 1. Hälfte 4. Jh. v. Chr. (Dunand). – Die Götterversammlung wird auf der r. Schmalseite von H. auf Viergespann nach r., und auf der l. von Selene auf Viergespann gerahmt.

120.* Weihrelief (zweiseitig), att., Marmor. Boston, MFA 1972.78. – Comstock/Vermeule, SculptBoston 53 Nr. 78 (mit Lit.); Vermeule, C., Greek Art, Socrates to Sulla (1980) 16 Abb. 19–20; Lane, E., Corpus Monumentorum Religiosis Dei Menis I (1971) 1 Nr. 2 Taf. 2; Simon, E., Die Konstantinischen Deckengemälde in Trier (1986) 26 Abb. 10. – Ca. 340 v. Chr. – A: H. mit seinem Kopf in der Sonnenscheibe auf Viergespann nach r.; B: Der kleinasiatische Gott → Men auf einem Widder mit Mondsichel.

121. (= Astra 16 mit Lit., = Eos 42 mit Lit., = Demeter 458* mit Lit.) Tonrelief, fr. Reggio Calabria, Mus. Naz. Aus Lokroi. – Um 475 v. Chr. – Hekate vor Demeter. In der r. oberen Ecke des Reliefs, oberhalb des Halbkreises, der das Himmelsgewölbe andeutet, H. mit Strahlen bis zu den Schultern, nach l. (das Viergespann nicht sichtbar). In der entsprechenden l. Ecke Nyx oder Eos.

Rundplastik

122. (→ Astra 65*) Ostgiebel des Parthenon, Figuren A, B, C, pentelischer Marmor. London, BM (Helios [A] und Pferde [B]); Athen, in situ (Pferde C [die beiden hinteren]). – Berger, E., Parthenon-Ostgiebel

(1959) 60–70 (mit Lit.); idem, Die Geburt der Athena im Ostgiebel des Parthenon (1974) 85 (Lit.); idem, AntK 23, 1980, 59–98 Taf. 17–24; Brommer, F., Die Skulpturen der Parthenon-Giebel (1963) 3–7, 155–156 Taf. 20–25; idem, AM 84, 1969, 103–116 Taf. 40; idem, The Sculptures of the Parthenon (1979) 54–55 Abb. 26 Taf. 132; Harrison, E. B., AJA 71, 1967, 27–58; eadem, in Festschr. F. Brommer (1977) 155–161 Taf. 42, 1; Fuchs, W., Gnomon 39, 1967, 16 (Rez. von Brommer, Skulpturen); Marcadé 18–20 Abb. 12; Lullies/Hirmer, Plastik 84–85 Taf. 153; Schauenburg, AntK 53 Anm. 31. – Phidiasisch, um 432 v. Chr. – In der l. Giebelecke H. auf seiner Quadriga nach r. aus dem Okeanos aufsteigend. Von H. (A) nur Teile des Kopfes und des Halses und die Arme, von den Rossen (B) nur die Köpfe mit den Halsen erhalten. Die wellenartige Oberfläche deutet auf das Meer. In der r. Giebelecke die untergehende Selene auf ihrem Viergespann. Beide astralen Götter rahmen die Geburt der Stadtgöttin Athena.

123. Die Propyläen von Korinth gegen Lechaion trugen zwei vergoldete Wagen, den einen mit H., den anderen mit Phaethon. Nicht erhalten. – Paus. 2, 3, 2. – Wiedergabe dieser Propyläen mit Statuen auf kaiserzeitlichen korinthischen Münzen: NumCommPaus 22 Taf. F 97–100; Papachatzis, Paus. Korinthiaka 68–81 Abb. 72, 1.

XII. Köpfe und Büsten

A. Kopf bzw. Büste des Helios allein (außer auf Münzen)

Apulische Vasen

124. Oinochoe. Baranello, Mus. 149. – RVAp II 974, 164; White Saccos P.; Dareggi, G., Ceramica Greca ed italiota nel Museo di Baranello (1977), 84–85 Nr. 89 Taf. 38. – 4. Viertel 4. Jh. v. Chr. – Auf dem Henkel der Vase der Kopf des H. in Vorderansicht mit Strahlen, die plastisch wiedergegeben sind.

125. Oinochoe. Baranello, Mus. 142. – RVAp II 974, 165; White Saccos P.; Dareggi, A. O. 124, Taf. 37. – 4. Viertel 4. Jh. v. Chr. – Wie 124.

126. Volutenkrater. Ehem. Kunsthandel Deutschland. – RVAp II 915, 39a; Gruppe von Tarent 7013 («Lasimos»-Gruppe). – Um 320 v. Chr. – An den Henkeln H. masken (Mascaroons).

127. (Deutung unsicher) Pyxis. Louvre CA 960. – RVAp I 168, 21: connected with the Black Fury P. – 410–400 v. Chr. – Männlicher Kopf in Vorderansicht (H. ?)

Andere Vasen

128.* (= Helios/Sol 7) Schale, fr. calenisch. Heidelberg, Univ. R 18. Aus Athen. – Courby, Vases à reliefs 229 Nr. 7; Pagenstecher, R., AM 33, 1908, 121 Anm. 2; idem, Calen 9 Taf. 2d. – Hellenistisch, nach Courby 4. Jh. v. Chr. – Protome des H. in Vorderansicht, mit roten Strahlen versehen; sie ist rings von einem Band (Sternma) mit roten Strahlen umschlossen. Ein weiteres breiteres Band, das innere umschließend, ist durch sechs radiale weiße Linien in vier Abschnitte unterteilt. Jede Metope ist mit einem Dreieck aus weißen Punkten gefüllt.

129.* Schale (weißer Überzug). Hamburg, Mus. KG 1936, 3. Aus dem Faijûm. – v. Merklin, E., AA 1940, 4–9 Nr. 5 Abb. 6; Schauenburg, Helios 16. – Hellenistisch. – Im Innern Kopf des H. in Relief, unbärtig mit langen Haarlocken; vom Kopf zum Rand ziehen sich in der oberen Hälfte der Schale fünf schwarze Strahlen.

130. Hydria (Aschenurne), Hadratypus. Kairo, Mus. Egypt. 26232. Aus Alexandria. – Guerrini, L., Vasi di Hadra (1964) (Gr. B 36) S. 13 Taf. 4; Schauenburg, AntK 53 Anm. 27. – 310–290 v. Chr. (Gruppe B nach Guerrini). – Auf dem Bauch der Vase Protome des H. in Vorderansicht, Strahlen auf dem Kopf, von Ranken und Palmetten flankiert.

131.* Skyphios, apul. Gnathiatechnik. Hamburg, Mus. KG 1917.555. – Schauenburg, Helios 13, 16, 25 Abb. 3. – Um 325 v. Chr. – Innerhalb der mit Strahlen versehenen Sonnenscheibe Helioskopf in Vorderansicht. Weintrauben, Weinblätter, Voluten und zwei Sterne umrahmen den Kopf.

132. Stamnos (?). Ehem. Smyrna, verschollen. Aus Westkleinasien. – Schauenburg, Helios 22 Abb. 10 Anm. 157. – Hellenistisch. – Das Gefäß erinnert am ehesten an Hadravasen (Schauenburg). Gesicht des H. mit Strahlen.

Wandgemälde

133.* Wandgemälde (Tondo) im Hause 16, Delos. – Bulard, M., EADélos IX (1926) 45–46, 147 Taf. 22; Bruneau, Cultes 449 Nr. 8 Taf. 5, 4; Marcadé, J., BCH Suppl. 1, 1973, 358–359. – 1. Jh. v. Chr. (?) – Im Tondo H. mit Strahlenkranz, in Dreiviertelansicht nach r.

Mosaik

134. Sparta. – ArchDelt 19, 1964, B 1, 138–141 Taf. 140; BCH 90, 1966, 795 Abb. 4; Waywell, S. E., AJA 83, 1979, 303 Nr. 49 (mit Lit.); 318 Nr. 19. – Kurz nach 267 n. Chr. – H. büste als jugendliche Figur mit Nimbus und Globus in der Hand. In einem anderen Feld (zerstört) war vermutlich Selene dargestellt.

Reliefs

135.* Büste. Schweiz, Privatslg. – Dörig, J., Art Antique (1975) Nr. 300 Abb. – Anfang 3. Jh. v. Chr. – Heliosbüste in Vorderansicht mit Strahlenkranz. Nach Dörig steht das Werk unter dem direkten Einfluß des rhodischen Helios, des Werkes von Chares aus Lindos (334).

136. Reliefbüste im Giebfeld der Vorhalle des Serapeions von Milet, in situ. – Knackfuß, H., Milet I 7 (1924) 206 Abb. 215–218; Hommel, P., «Giebel und Himmel», IstMitt 7, 1957, 16 Nr. 1. – 2. Hälfte 3. Jh. n. Chr. – Die H. büste in Vorderansicht mit Strahlen, das Zentrum des Giebels verzierend.

137. Kopf. Aphrodisias, Mus. Aus Aphrodisias (Stoa der Agora). – Jacopi, G., MontAnt 38, 1939, 124 Nr. 60 Taf. 19–20, 44; Squarciapino, M., La Scuola di Afrodizia (1943) 49. – 14–29 n. Chr. (nach Squarcia-pino). – Der Kopf mit Strahlennimbus verzierte den Fries der großen Stoa der Agora.

138.* Kopf. Izmir, Basmahane. Aus Aphrodisias. – Unpubliziert.

139. (= Apollon 474* mit Lit.) Drei Steinplatten. Delos, Mus. A 2915–2917. Aus Delos, Haus des Opfertisches. – Marcadé, A. O. 133, 357–380 Abb. 37; Bruneau, Cultes 449 Nr. 9 Taf. 5, 3; Bruneau, Ph./Ducat, J., Guide de Délos (1983) 262 Abb. 101. – Hellenistisch. – H. büste in Vorderansicht mit Chiton, Köcher und Strahlenkranz.

140. (= Apollon 507 mit Lit.) Statue, Marmor. Bagdad, Irak Mus. 5676. Aus Hatra, Tempel V. – 2. Jh. n. Chr. – Der Gott Apollon/Nabu trägt einen Panzer, dessen Brustpartie mit der H. büste verziert ist.

141.* Statue eines Camillus, Marmor. Berkeley, Lowie Mus. 8.4241. – Torso: 4. Jh. v. Chr.; Kopf: 2. Jh. n. Chr. – Die Statue, wahrscheinlich einen jungen Camillus darstellend, trägt eine Chlamys und einen Chiton, der mit der Büste des H. verziert ist.

Gemmen

142. Chalzedon. Ehem. Slg. Robinson. Aus Salamis. – Studies Th.-L. Shear, Hesperia Suppl. 8 (1949) 315 Nr. 18 Taf. 41; Schauenburg, Helios 21, 56 Anm. 140. – 400–375 v. Chr. (nach Schauenburg ist diese Datierung zu früh). – H. kopf in Vorderansicht; oberhalb und unterhalb des Kopfes je vier bzw. drei Strahlen.

143. Heliotrop. München, Münzslg. A 2207. – AGDI I Nr. 525 Taf. 56. – Hellenistisch. – H. protome im Profil nach l., Diadem mit Strahlen auf dem Kopf; seine Chlamys mit Brosche auf der Schulter gehalten.

144. Aquamarin. München, Münzslg. A 2206. – AGDI I Nr. 524 Taf. 56. – Hellenistisch. – H. protome im Profil, wie 143.

145.* Amethystartiges Glas. Oxford, Ashm. Mus. 1941.443. – Boardman/Vollenweider, CatGemsOxford I Nr. 323 Taf. 54. – Anfang oder 2. Hälfte 1. Jh. v. Chr. – H. protome wie 143, 144, nach r.

146. Gelbes Glas. Genf, Mus. MF 1593. – Vollenweider, CatGenève II 87–88 Nr. 84 Taf. 34, 2. – 1. Hälfte 1. Jh. v. Chr. (?) – H. protome wie 145.

147.* Sard. London, BM 1167. – Walters, BMGems Nr. 1167; Furtwängler, AG Taf. 33, 30; De Ujfalnij, Ch., Le type physique d'Alexandre le Grand (1902) 141 Abb. 42; Schreiber, Th., Studien über das Bildnis Alexanders des Großen (1903) 210 Anm. 35. – Hellenistisch. – H. protome in Dreiviertelansicht nach l. Um den Kopf Strahlen. Nach Walters und De Ujfalnij könnte es sich um das Porträt Alexanders des Großen handeln; dies wird von Schreiber abgelehnt.

148. Schwarze Paste. Berlin, Staatl. Mus. FG 4851. – Furtwängler, Beschreibung Nr. 4851 Taf. 35. – H. kopf in Dreiviertelansicht nach l. Auf dem Kopf Strahlenkranz.

149. Gemme. Berlin, Staatl. Mus. FG 2378. – Furtwängler, Beschreibung Nr. 2378 Taf. 22. – H. kopf mit Strahlenkranz frontal.

Eine östliche Sonnengottheit zeigen offenbar zwei orientalisierende Gemmen des 6. Jh. v. Chr. (Boardman, AGG 31-33 Nr. 42-43; idem, RA 1971, 200; idem, GGFR 143 Taf. 287: männliche (?) Büste mit Armen und vier Flügeln, mit Strahlen auf dem Kopf (AGG Nr. 43: Helm?, Mütze? mit Strahlen), über einer ebenfalls mit Strahlen versehenen Sonnenscheibe (oder -kugel) emporwachsend (diese ebenfalls geflügelt?). S. die Besprechung von Boardman (AGG: «Clearly we have to deal with a version of the eastern sun god carried on the winged sun disc»); → Helios/Usil, Kommentar; vgl. auch AGG Nr. 40-41 (→ Iris I 5).

Tonreliefs

150. Votivschildchen, Ton. Boston, MFA. Aus Eretria. – L'Orange, H. P., Studies on the Iconography of Cosmic Kingship in the Ancient World (1953) 94 Abb. 66; Schauenburg, Helios 3 Anm. 276; Kleiner, G., Tanagrafiguren<sup>2</sup> (1984) 20. – 3. Jh. v. Chr. – Sechs Schildchen mit H. protome mit Strahlen in Vorderansicht, in Relief.

151. Votivschildchen. Boston, MFA. Aus Eretria. – L'Orange, a. O. 150, Abb. 66 (unten l.). – 3. Jh. v. Chr. – Zwei Schildchen mit H. protome, ähnlich wie 150, aber ohne Strahlen, von zwei Sternen umrahmt.

152.* Votivschildchen. Athen, Nat. Mus. 11728. Aus Eretria. – Kourouniotis, K., ArchEph 1899, 228 Abb. 2. – 3. Jh. v. Chr. – H. wie 150 und 151.

Helios 152

153.* Tonstatuette. Istanbul, Arch. Mus. 430. Aus Myrina. – Winter, Typen I 173, 1; Mendel, G., Mus. impériaux ottomans, Cat. des figurines grecques de terre cuite (1908) 402 Nr. 2740; Schauenburg, Helios 37. – 2.-1. Jh. v. Chr. – Krieger mit rundem Schild in seiner Linken, der mit der H. protome mit Strahlen in Vorderansicht in Relief verziert ist.

154.* Tonstatuette, fr. London, BM C 589. Aus Naukratis. – Walters, BMTerracottas 253, C 589; Schauenburg, Helios 16 Abb. 7. – Hellenistisch (?). – Zwischen den Hörnern eines Stieres die Sonnenscheibe mit der H. büste, frontal wiedergegeben. Um den Kopf schwarze Strahlen: eine Vermählung des ägyptischen Lichtsymbols mit der griechischen Büstenform des H.

Helios 153

155.* Tonschüssel mit Reliefverzierung, fr. Heidelberg, Univ. 6411. – Hampe, R., Kat. der Slg. ant. Kleinkunst des Arch. Inst., Univ. Heidelberg II (1971) 79-81 Nr. 112 Taf. 76, 2. – 2. Jh. n. Chr. – H. mit Strahlen.

156. Täfelchen mit Relief-Verzierung, fr. Çanakkale (Dardanellen), Mus. 33-236. Aus Troja. – Thompson, D. B., Troy Suppl. III, The Terracotta Figurines of the Hellenistic Period (1963) 117-118 Nr. 131 Taf. 28. – 3. Jh. n. Chr. – Erhalten ist die Brust einer männlichen Figur, auf der in der unteren r. Ecke der H. mit Strahlen erkennbar ist.

157. Amphorenstempel, thasisch. Leningrad, Ermitage 550 t. Aus Kertsch. – Grace, V., AJA 50, 1946, 31-38 Abb. 1, 3; Schauenburg, Helios 18 Anm. 100. – Mitte 4. Jh. v. Chr. (Grace). – H. kopf mit Strahlen.

158. Amphorenstempel. Rhodos, Mus. Aus Lindos. – Nilsson, M. P., Timbres amphoriques de Lindos. Exploration arch. de Rhodes V (1909) 1-180, bes. 159, Kat. S. 349-351 und bes. 352-353. 530 und passim; Picard, Manuel IV 2, 520 (dort weitere H. darstellungen). – Um 300 v. Chr. – H. kopf mit Strahlen wie 157.

Lampen

159. Lampengriff, Ton. Patras, Mus. 22239. Aus Patras. – ArchDelt 33, 1978, A, 307 Taf. 86y. – 2.-3. Jh. n. Chr. – Auf dem sichelförmigen Griff der Lampe die H. büste in Relief mit Strahlen.

160.* Lampen, Ton. a)* Athen, Agora; b) Korinth, Mus.; c) Delphi, Mus. – Perlzweig, J., Agora VII 172-173 Nr. 2366-2377 Taf. 37; 196 Nr. 2876 Taf. 45; Broneer, O., Corinth IV 2, 106. 109. 251-253 Nr. 1148-1168 Taf. 16; Perdrizet, P., FDelphes V 190 Nr. 539 Abb. 828. – 2. Hälfte 5. Jh.-6. Jh. n. Chr. – Kopf des H. in Relief mit Strahlen.

Metallene Schmuckstücke

161.* Zwei Goldrollen (Paar). London, BM 2068-2069. Aus Rhodos. – Marshall, BMJewellery Nr. 2068-2069 Taf. 40. – 4. Jh. v. Chr. – Auf der einen Seite H. kopf, auf der anderen Seite Rosette, von konzentrischen Kreisen umschlossen. Der H. kopf erinnert an jenen der rhodischen Münzen.

162. Runde Goldplättchen. Leningrad, Ermitage (?). Aus Taman (Südrussland). – Stephani, R., CRPetersb 1865, 74 Nr. 15 Taf. 3; Reinach, S., et al., Antiquités de la Russie méridionale (1891) 114; Schauenburg, Helios 20. – Frühhellenistisch. – H. kopf im Strahlenkranz.

163. Drei scheibenförmige Ohrgehänge, vergoldete Terrakotta. London, BM 2144-2146. – Marshall, BMJewellery 2144-2146 Taf. 42. – Hellenistisch. – Im Zentrum jeder Scheibe Kopf des H. (oder des Apollo) verziert.

164.* Goldstephane. London, BM 2113. Aus Kalabrien. – Marshall, BMJewellery 241 Nr. 2113 Taf. 41. – Frühes 3. Jh. v. Chr. – Im Zentrum der giebelartigen Formation des mittleren Teiles der Stephane der H. kopf, von Ranken, Voluten und Blumen umrahmt.

165.* Helmzier (Gipsabguß). Hildesheim, Pel.-Mus. 1129. – Rubensohn, O., Hellenistisches Silbergerät (1911) 53-54 Taf. 6, 38; Roeder, G., Die Denkmäler des Pelizaeus-Museums zu Hildesheim (1921) 145. – Hellenistisch. – H. büste mit Strahlenkranz als Reliefverzierung des Helmfragmentes.

166. Goldblatt von einem Diadem oder Kranz. Athen, Nat. Mus. – Lemerle, P., BCH 60, 1936, 453 Taf. 62 A; Schauenburg, Helios 57 Anm. 160. – Hellenistisch. – H. gesicht mit Strahlen in Treibtechnik, in der Mitte einer üppigen floralen Dekoration.

167.* Goldbroschen. Paris, Louvre C 353. C 357. Aus Campanien (?). – de Ridder, A., Mus. Nat. du Louvre, Cat. somm. des bijoux antiques (1924) 83-84 Nr. 962. 963 Taf. 14; Schauenburg, Helios 20 Anm. 129. – Hellenistisch. – Auf dem Kopf der Broschen der H. kopf mit Strahlen.

168. Golddiadem. Athen, Kanellopoulos-Mus. – Laffineur, R., BCH 104, 1980, 408-410 Nr. 97 Abb. 106. – Hellenistisch (?). – In dem giebelartigen mittleren Teil des Diadems die H. protome und auf der Spitze dieses Teiles vier dünne strahlenartige Blätter. Oberhalb der H. protome ein Halbedelstein eingesetzt.

Rundplastik

169.* Kolossalkopf. Rom, Mus. Cap. – Stuart Jones, 341 ff. Nr. 3 Taf. 85; Hoffmann 121-122 Taf. 24 (mit Lit.). – Römische Kopie nach der lysippischen Heliosstatue. – Es handelt sich ohne Zweifel um einen Kopf des H., wie die sieben Löcher auf dem Schädel für die Fixierung von sieben Strahlen aus Metall bezeugen.

170. Kolossalkopf. Boston, MFA 95.88. Aus Ägypten. – Bieber, M., AJA 49, 1945, 425 ff. Abb. 1-2 (mit Lit.); Hoffmann Taf. 25. – Römische Kopie, aus der 1. Hälfte 3. Jh. n. Chr., nach dem lysippischen

Helios. – Statue (Bieber und Hoffmann). Die zwei Köpfe, der von Boston und der Kapitolinische (169) sind sehr ähnlich; sie sind sicherlich Kopien vom selben Original (Hoffmann).

171. Kopf, Marmor. Ehem. Berlin, Slg. Hiller v. Gaertringen. Aus Koskinou, Rhodos. – Graef, B., «Helioskopf aus Rhodos», in Strena Helbigiana (1900) 99-100 mit Taf.; Thimmen, D., AJA 50, 1946, 355 Taf. 21, 20; Neumann, G., «Zum Helioskopf von Rhodos», AA 1977, 89. – Um 200 v. Chr. – Der überlebensgroße H. nach l. gewandt; auf seinem Kopf Löcher für die Befestigung der metallenen Strahlen. Auf der Rückseite eine rechteckige und weiter unten eine runde Vertiefung. Nach Graef (103) handelt es sich um eine Darstellung des H. auf seinem Gespann. Nach Neumann handelt es sich eher um einen selbständigen H., der in einem Medaillon an einer Wand oder in einem Giebeltriëck befestigt war.

172.* Kopf, Marmor. Rhodos, Mus. Aus der Stadt Rhodos. – Merker, B. M., The Hellenistic Sculpture of Rhodos (1973) 29-30 Abb. 42-44; Gualandri, G., ASAtene 1976, 51-52 Abb. 26 Nr. 13; Neumann, a. O. 171, 87 ff. Abb. 1-3; Fuchs, Skulptur<sup>3</sup> 570-571 Abb. 697. – 2. Jh. v. Chr. – Der Kopf, bis zum Hals erhalten, hat auf dem Haar 15 Löcher für die Befestigung der metallenen Strahlen des Lichtgottes. Auf der Rückseite ein Dübelloch. Der Kopf wird mit dem Koloß von Rhodos des Chares (334) in Zusammenhang gebracht (Fuchs), oder er hat zur Dekoration eines Medaillons oder eines Giebeltriëckes gedient (Neumann).

173. Kopf, Ton. Rhodos, Mus. E 327. – Zervoudaki, E., ArchDelt 30, 1975, A, 14-15 Taf. 6-8a. c. – 2. Jh. v. Chr. – Er stellt H. dar, worauf die sieben Löcher auf dem Kopf für die Befestigung der Strahlen schließen lassen.

174.* Büste, Marmor. Cologny (Genève), Fondation Martin Bodmer. Aus Ägypten. – Dörig, J., Art Antique, Coll. privées de Suisse Romande (1975) 7 Abb. – 1. Jh. v. Chr. – H. mit dreizehn Löchern für die Befestigung der metallenen Strahlen.

175.* Büste, Marmor. Athen, Agora S 2356. Von der Agora. – Shear, L., Hesperia 40, 1971, 273-274 Taf. 58b. – Mitte 2. Jh. n. Chr. – Nach Shear handelt es sich um ein Alexanderporträt, und die fünfzehn Löcher auf dem Haar dienten für die Fixierung eines Kranzes oder einer Krone. Viel wahrscheinlicher ist jedoch, daß es sich hier um einen H. handelt, wobei die Löcher eher für die Befestigung seiner metallenen Strahlen dienten (Mitteilung Prof. H. Thompson).

176. Porträtkopf, Marmor. Bologna, Mus. Civ. inv. Rom 1929. – Brizzolara, A. M., Le sculpture del Mus. Civ. Arch. di Bologna, La Collezione Marsili (1986) 56-57 Abb. 17 Taf. 37-38 (mit Lit.). – 2. Jh. n. Chr. – Auf dem Kopf fünf Löcher für die Befestigung metallener Strahlen, was darauf hindeutet, daß es sich um einen H., wahrscheinlich sogar um einen Alexander-H.-kopf handelt (Brizzolara).

177. In Megalopolis standen im Peribolos der Großen Götter Hermen, unter anderen auch die des H. mit dem Beinamen Soter (oder Soter Herakles?) (Paus. 8, 31, 7).

B. Kopf bzw. Büste des Helios allein auf Münzen*1. Auf Münzen von Rhodos

(In diesem Abschnitt ist BMC immer = BMC Caria.)

a) Vs.: Kopf des Helios von vorn ohne Strahlenkrone; Rs.: Rose

GRIECHISCHE DARSTELLUNGEN

178.* AR, Tetradrachmon, Hemidrachmon (attischer Münzfuß), 408–400 v. Chr. – Tetradrachmon: BMC 230, 1 Taf. 36, 1; Babelon, Traité II 2, 1015–1016, 1691–1693 Taf. 147, 1, 2; Berend, D., «Les tétradrachmes de Rhodes de la première période», SNR 51, 1972, 5–39 Taf. 1–10; Hemidrachmon (Rs.: Rose und verschiedene Beizeichen in Quadratum incusum): BMC 230, 2 Taf. 36, 2; Babelon, Traité II 2, 1015–1016, 1694 Taf. 147, 3; Hemidrachmon (Vs.: Ansatz des Halses ist zu sehen: H. scheint sich umzuschauen; Rs.: Rose in Quadratum incusum oder Kopf der Rhodos): BMC 230–231, 3–9 Taf. 36, 3, 4; Babelon, Traité II 2, 1015–1016, 1694 Taf. 147, 3.

179.* AU Stater, AR Tetradrachmon, Didrachmon, Drachme, Hemidrachmon, 400–333 v. Chr. – AU Stater: BMC 231, 10 Taf. 36, 5; Babelon, Traité II 2, 1017–1018, 1695 Taf. 147, 4; Tetradrachmon: BMC 231–232, 11–25 Taf. 36, 6, 7; Babelon, Traité II 2, 1019–1020, 1697–1703 Taf. 147, 6–10; Didrachmon: BMC 233, 26–37 Taf. 36, 8–10; Babelon, Traité II 2, 1021–1022, 1704–1709 Taf. 147, 11–15; Drachme: BMC 234, 38–40 Taf. 36, 11; Babelon, Traité II 2, 1021–1022, 1710–1713 Taf. 147, 11–17. – Rs.: Rose und verschiedene Attribute in Quadratum incusum.

180.* AR Didrachmon, Drachme, Triobol (Hemidrachmon), 333 bis 304 v. Chr. – Didrachmon (Rs.: Rose und verschiedene Attribute, oben Beamtenname): BMC 234–235, 43–48 Taf. 37, 1, 2; Babelon, Traité II 2, 1025–1026, 1722–1726 Abb. 1726; Drachme (Rs.: Rose und verschiedene Attribute; meistens Initialen der Beamten): BMC 236, 56–60 Taf. 37, 4, 5; Babelon, Traité II 2, 1027–1028; Triobol (Rs.: s. Drachme): BMC 236, 61, 62 Taf. 37, 6.

181.* AR Drachme, Hemidrachmon, 304–166 v. Chr. – Drachme (mit Namen von Rhodos auf der Rs.): BMC 244–247, 153–187 Taf. 39, 2–4; Drachme (ohne Namen von Rhodos auf der Rs.): BMC 248–249, 190–209 Taf. 39, 8–11; Ashton, R. H. J., «Pseudo-Rhodian Drachms and the Beginning of the Lycian League Coinage», NC 1987, Taf. 3 (Serie II: Beamter lasos): Karien zugeschrieben; Drachme (Vs.: Adler vor r. Wange des H.; Rs.: Rose mit verschiedenen Buchstaben, Name von Rhodos fehlt): BMC 249–250, 210–218 Taf. 39, 12–14; Ashton, a. O. Taf. 3 A–G: nach Akarca, A., Les monnaies grecques de Mylasa (1959) 92–99 Mylasa in Karien zugeschrieben; Hemidrachmon (wie Drachme 178): BMC 247, 188–197 Taf. 39, 5–7.

b) Vs.: Kopf des Helios mit Strahlenkrone von vorn; Rs.: Rose

GRIECHISCHE DARSTELLUNGEN

182.* AR Didrachmon, 333–304 v. Chr. – BMC 235, 49–55 Taf. 37, 3. – Rs.: Rose und verschiedene Beizeichen, Initialen von Beamtennamen.

183.* AR Tetradrachmon, Didrachmon, 304–166 v. Chr. – Tetradrachmon: BMC 240–242, 118–128 Taf. 38, 1–3; Didrachmon: BMC 242–244, 129–152 Taf. 38, 4–8. – Rs.: Rose und verschiedene Attribute, oben Beamtenname.

184. AU Stater, Hemi-Stater, 189–166 v. Chr. – AU Stater: BMC 251, 229, 230 Taf. 39, 19; Hackens, T./Levy, E., BCH 89, 1965, 503; Hemi-Stater: BMC 272, 230. – Rs.: Quadratum incusum mit Rose r., l. verschiedene Attribute, oben Beamtenname.

185. AR Hemidrachmon, 166–88 v. Chr. – BMC 256, 291–308 Taf. 40, 12–15. – Rs. wie 184.

186.* AR Trihemidrachmon, Drachme, AE, 88–43 v. Chr. – AR Trihemidrachmon: BMC 260, 334 Taf. 41, 1; Drachme: BMC 260–261, 335–341 Taf. 41, 2; AE: BMC 261, 342–345 Taf. 41, 3, 4. – Rs.: Rosenblüte von oben.

c) Vs.: Kopf des Helios mit Strahlenkrone nach rechts; Rs.: Rose

GRIECHISCHE DARSTELLUNGEN

187.* AR Didrachmon, Diobol, Trihemidrachmon, 380–333 v. Chr. – Didrachmon (Rs.: Rose mit Beizeichen): BMC 234, 41 Taf. 36, 12; Diobol (Rs.: Zwei Rosen): BMC 234, 42 Taf. 36, 13.

188. AR Trihemidrachmon, 333–304 v. Chr. – BMC 237, 63–69 Taf. 37, 7, 8. – Rs.: Zwei Rosen und verschiedene Beizeichen.

189. AR Drachme, Trihemidrachmon, AE, 166–88 v. Chr. – Drachme (Rs.: Quadratum incusum mit Rose r., verschiedenen Beizeichen l., oben Beamtenname): BMC 252–256, 235–290 Taf. 40, 1–11; Trihemidrachmon (Rs.: Quadratum incusum mit Rose r. und verschiedenen Beizeichen l.): BMC 258, 309–311 Taf. 40, 16; AE (Rs.: Rose mit Beizeichen): BMC 258–259, 312–326 Taf. 40, 17, 18.

190. AE, 88–43 v. Chr. – BMC 262–263, 346–361 Taf. 41, 5, n; BMC 263, 362, 363 Taf. 41, 7 (Vs.: Büste des H. mit Strahlenkrone?) – Rs.: Rosenblüte von oben.

RÖMISCHE DARSTELLUNGEN

191. AE, Frühe Kaiserzeit. – BMC 266, 287–390 Taf. 42, 9, 10. – Vs.: Kopf bzw. Büste des H.; Rs.: Stehende Nike nach r. oder l.

192. AE Drachme, Frühe Kaiserzeit. – BMC 267–269, 394–413 Taf. 43, 1–6. – Vs.: Kopf bzw. Büste des H.; Rs.: Nike bekrönt Tropaion bzw. Nemesis (?) zwischen zwei Thymiateria bzw. Büste/Kopf des Serapis bzw. stehender Asklepios bzw. Früchte bzw. Thyrsos.

193. AE, Antoninus Pius (138–161 n. Chr.), Commodus (180–191 n. Chr.). – BMC 270, 419, 422 Taf. 43, 9 (Commodus).

2.–5. Auf Münzen anderer Städte*2. Der Kopf des Helios ohne Strahlenkrone

GRIECHISCHE DARSTELLUNGEN

194. AE, Astyra (Karien), 4. Jh. v. Chr. – BMC 60, 8–10 Taf. 10, 5, 6; SNG Copenhagen (Caria) 158. – Vs.: Kopf des H. von vorn. Rs.: Amphora.

195.* AR Drachme, Euthenai (Karien), ca. 350 v. Chr. – Cahn, H. A., NC 1942, 92–94 Abb. S. 92; SNG v. Aulock 2862. – Vs.: Kopf des H. nach l. Rs.: Rose.

196.* AR Drachme und AE, Halikarnassos (Karien), 2.–1. Jh. v. Chr. – AR: BMC 106, 43–47 Taf. 18, 14, 15; SNG Copenhagen (Caria) 367; AE: BMC 107, 54–57 Taf. 18, 19; SNG v. Aulock 2530. – Vs.: Kopf des H. von vorn. Rs.: Büste der Athena.

197.* AR Didrachmon, Knidos (Karien), 2. Jh. v. Chr. – SNG v. Aulock 8111; SNG Copenhagen (Caria) 318–323. – Vs.: Kopf des H. von vorn. Rs.: Löwenkopf.

198. AE, Laodikeia (Phrygien), 2. Jh. v. Chr. – BMC Phrygia 135, 26 Taf. 16, 9; SNG Copenhagen (Phrygia) 279. – Vs.: Büste des H. nach r. Rs.: Füllhorn bzw. Altar.

3. Kopf bzw. Büste des Helios mit Strahlenkrone*a) im Profil

GRIECHISCHE DARSTELLUNGEN

199. AE Triens, Aitne (Sizilien), 2. Jh. v. Chr. – Gâbrici, Bronzo 112, 2 Taf. 6, 10; Auktion Hess-Leu 6, 1973, Nr. 58; SNG Copenhagen (Sicily) 14–15. – Vs.: H. Rs.: Bewaffneter Krieger.

200.* AE, Entella (Sizilien), 2. Jh. v. Chr. – Gâbrici, Bronzo 129, 10; SNG Copenhagen (Sicily) 238. – Vs.: Büste des H. Rs.: Stehende weibliche Gestalt mit Füllhorn.

201. AE, Syrakus, 2. Jh. v. Chr. – Gâbrici, Bronzo 188, 603 Taf. 9, 12 («Artemis»); Head, B., History of the Coinage of Syracuse (1874) Taf. 14, 11. – Vs.: Büste des H. Rs.: Nackte männliche Gestalt im ägyptisierenden Stil.

202. AE, Hephaistia (Lemnos), 3. Jh. v. Chr. – Forrer, Weber II 141, 2487, 2488 Taf. 95; Grose, McClean 138, 4186 Taf. 151, 14; Mouchmoff, N., Anticrit Moneti (1912) 5682; SNG Copenhagen (Thrace) 983. – Vs.: H. Rs.: Weintraube und Thyrsos.

203. AE, Ambrakia (Epirus), 3.–2. Jh. v. Chr. – BMC Thessaly 95, 20–23 Taf. 18, 4; SNG Copenhagen (Epirus) 32–34. – Vs.: H. Rs.: Schreitender Apollon bzw. Zeus.

204. AR Drachme (Victoriatus), Dyrrhachion (Epirus), 2. Jh. v. Chr. – BMC Thessaly 70, 70, 71 Taf. 14, 2; 72 Nr. 109–111. – Vs.: Kuh mit Kalb, Beamtenname, Beizeichen H. Rs.: Blumenmuster im Linienviereck.

205. AE, Dyrrhachion (Epirus), 2. Jh. v. Chr. – BMC Thessaly 77, 180–184 Taf. 14, 5. – Vs.: H. Rs.: Schiffsbug.

206. AE, Makedonien, Philipp V., 220–178 v. Chr. – Gaebler, Makedonia II 193 Nr. 25 Taf. 35, 5; Mamroth, A., ZfN 42, 1935, Nr. 24 Taf. 13; – Vs.: H. Rs.: Blitz.

207. AE, Zakynthos (Peloponnes), 3. Jh. v. Chr. – BMC Peloponnesus 101, 76 Taf. 20, 15. – Vs.: H. Rs.: Halbmond.

208. AE, Achaiische Liga, Kleitor, 3.–2. Jh. v. Chr. – Babelon, Traité III 613–614, 926. – Vs.: H. Rs.: KAH im Lorbeerkrantz.

209.* AR Tetradrachmon (Stephanophor), Abydos (Troas), um 150 v. Chr. – SNG v. Aulock 1453; SNG Copenhagen (Troas) 54. – Vs.: Büste der Artemis. Rs.: Adler, Beamtennamen, Beizeichen H.

210. AE, Myrina (Aiolis), 2.–1. Jh. v. Chr. – BMC Troas 137, 32; SNG Copenhagen (Aeolis) 226. – Vs.: H. Rs.: Amphora.

211. AE, Mytilene (Lesbos), 2.–1. Jh. v. Chr. – BMC Troas 153–157 Taf. 38, 24; SNG Copenhagen (Aeolis) 404. – Vs.: Büste des H. Rs.: Dreifuß.

212.* AE, Halikarnassos (Karien), 2.–1. Jh. v. Chr. – SNG v. Aulock 2531; SNG Copenhagen (Caria) 371–375. – Vs.: H. Rs.: Lyra.

213. AE, Knidos (Karien), 3. Jh. v. Chr. – Imhoof-Blumer, MGr 310, 52. – Vs.: H. Rs.: Stierkopf.

214. AE, Gabala (Syrien), 2.–1. Jh. v. Chr. – BMC Syria 243, 1 Taf. 28, 5; Imhoof-Blumer, F., Zur griechischen und römischen Münzkunde (1908) 236. – Vs.: H. Rs.: Vorderteil einer Triere.

215. AE, Laodikeia (Syrien), 1. Jh. v. Chr. – frühe Kaiserzeit. – BMC Syria 248, 12 Taf. 29, 6; SNG Copenhagen (Syria) 319, 323, 324. – Vs.: H. Rs.: Stehende Artemis.

216.* AE, Soloi (Kilikien), 3. Jh. v. Chr. – BMC Lycaonia 152, 45 Taf. 26, 15; SNG v. Aulock 5882, 5883; SNG Copenhagen (Lycaonia) 244. – Vs.: H. Rs.: Sitzende Athena Nikephoros.

217.* AE, Seleukeia am Kalykadnos (Kilikien), 2.–1. Jh. v. Chr. – InvWadd 249, 4453; BMC Cilicia S. LXV Anm. 1; SNG v. Aulock 5816. – Vs.: Kopf der Athena. Rs.: Büste des H.

218. AR Tetradrachmon (Cistophor), Tralleis (Lydien), 140–133 v. Chr. – Kleiner, F. S./Noe, S. P., The Early Cistophoric Coinage (1977) 72, 73 Series 39 Taf. 26, 6–9. – Vs.: Cista mystica. Rs.: Zwei Schlangen um Köcher und Bogen, Beizeichen H.

219. AR Drachme (Viertel-Cistophor), Tralleis (Lydien), 140–135 v. Chr. – Kleiner/Noe, a. O. 218, 72 Series 39 Taf. 26, 10, 11. – Vs.: Keule mit Löwenfell. Rs.: Weintraube auf Weinblatt. Beizeichen H.

220. AE, Tralleis (Lydien), 2.–1. Jh. v. Chr. – BMC Lydia 337, 72 Taf. 34, 8; SNG Copenhagen (Lydia) 677 Taf. 20. – Vs.: H. Rs.: Selene auf Biga.

221. AR, Olbia (Sarmatien). – Königliche Museen zu Berlin: Beschreibung der antiken Münzen I (1888) 18, 32. – Vs.: Kopf des Herakles, Gegenstempel H.

RÖMISCHE DARSTELLUNGEN

222. AE, Hadrianopolis (Thrakien), Marc Aurel, 161–180 n. Chr. – BMC Thracia 116, 5. – Rs.: Büste des H.

223. AE, Korinth, 50–51 n. Chr. – Amandry, a. O. 42, 198 II Da-h Taf. 31–32 II. – Vs.: H. Rs.: Poseidon oder Melikertes.

224. AE, Korinth, 40–30 v. Chr. – Amandry, a. O. 42, Taf. 45 Db 1–3; Edwards, K. M., Corinth VI, Coins (1933) 26, 88 Taf. 3. – Vs.: H. Rs.: Pegasos.
225. AE, Korinth, Hadrian, 117–138 n. Chr. – Edwards, a. O. 224, 30, 127. – Rs.: H.
226. AE, Prusias am Hypios (Bithynien), Lucius Verus, 161–169 n. Chr. – RecGén I 4, 608, 40 Taf. 104, 24. – Rs.: Büste des H.
227. AE, Bi, Alexandria (Ägypten), Kaiserzeit. – BMC Alexandria Nr. 583, 1257, 1403, 1599 (Taf. 3). 1725, 1771, 1810, 1859, 1946, 2070, 2107, 2155, 2243, 2283, 2308, 2542; Geißel, AlexKaisermünzen II 76, 945 (Hadrian). – Rs.: Büste des H., l. bisweilen Palmzweig.
228. AE, Aphrodisias (Karien), Kaiserzeit. – BMC Caria 38, 82; SNG Copenhagen (Karien) 81. – Vs.: Büste des H. Rs.: Adler.
229. * AE, Apollonia Salbake (Karien), Kaiserzeit. – Robert, L./Robert, J., La Carie II (1954) 268–269 Nr. BF. BG (Taf. 49, 9). BH; SNG v. Aulock 2483. – Vs.: Büste des H. Rs.: Telesphoros bzw. Dionysos bzw. Asklepios.
230. Bi (Tetradrachmon), Emisa (Syrien), Julia Domna, Macrinus, Caracalla, 215–217, 217–218 n. Chr. – Bellinger, A. R., The Syrian Tetradrachms of Caracalla and Macrinus, Num. Stud. III (1940) 62–65, 178–210 Taf. 14, 15, 1–7. – Rs.: Adler mit Kranz, Beizeichen H.
231. AE, Emisa (Syrien), Antoninus Pius (138–161 n. Chr.). – BMC Syria 238 Taf. 27, 10; SNG Copenhagen (Syria) 308. – Rs.: Büste des H.
232. AE, Hieropolis-Kastabala (Kilikien), Faustina minor (138–161 n. Chr.). – BMC Cilicia S. CII; Imhoof-Blumer, GrM 185 Nr. 560. – Rs.: Büste des H.
233. * AE, Briula (Lydien), Kaiserzeit. – BMC Lydia 58, 2 Taf. 6, 6; SNG v. Aulock 2933. – Vs.: Büste des H., bisweilen HAIOΣ Rs.: Stehender Apollon bzw. stehende Kybele.
234. * AE, Tralleis (Lydien), Kaiserzeit. – BMC Lydia 339–341, 81 Taf. 35, 4; SNG v. Aulock 3279, 3280. – Vs.: H., bisweilen HAIOΣ AΠOΛΛΩN oder HAIOΣ ΣΕΒΑΣΤΩΣ Rs.: Verschiedene Darstellungen.
235. * AE, Tripolis (Lydien), Tiberius bzw. Livia (14–37 n. Chr.). – SNG v. Aulock 3317; SNG Copenhagen (Lydien) 743, 744. – Rs.: H.
236. AE, Tripolis (Lydien), Trajan (98–117 n. Chr.). – BMC Lydia 373, 53. – Vs.: Büste des H.
237. AE, Hieropolis (Phrygien), Kaiserzeit. – BMC Phrygia 348, 8–10 Taf. 41, 3. – Vs.: Büste des H. Rs.: Bukranion mit Mondsichel und Sternen.
238. AE, Kibyra (Phrygien), Kaiserzeit. – BMC Phrygia 135, 26 Taf. 16, 9; SNG Copenhagen (Phrygia) 279. – Vs.: Büste des H. Rs.: Weidenkorb.
239. AE, Peltai (Phrygien), Kaiserzeit. – BMC Phrygia 348, 8–10 Taf. 41, 3. – Vs.: Büste des H. Rs.: ΠΕΛΤΗΝΩN im Lorbeerkranz.
240. AE, Arados (Phönizien), Augustus bis Trajan (28 v. Chr. – 117 n. Chr.). – BMC Phoenicia 43, 347–349 Taf. 5, 13; SNG Copenhagen (Phoenicia) 74. – Vs.: Büste des H. Rs.: Korb mit Ähren und Weinzweig.

b) Von vorn und in Dreiviertelansicht

GRIECHISCHE DARSTELLUNGEN

241. AR Hemibolion, Rubi (Apulien), spätes 4. Jh. v. Chr. – Evans, A. J., NC 1889, 84 Taf. 5, 8. – Vs.: H. Rs.: Zwei Halbmonde.
242. AU 1/20 Stater Hemilitron, AU 1/12 Stater, AR Diobolion, AE, Tarent (Kalabrien), 334–330 v. Chr. (Zeit Alexanders I. von Epirus). – AU 1/20 Stater: SNG Copenhagen (Kalabrien) 833; Ravel, O. E., Cat. Vlasto Coll. (1947) 3 Nr. 13–15 Taf. 1; Vlasto, M. P., NC 1926, 154–231; AU 1/12 Stater: Vlasto a. O. 161 Typ 6, 6a, 6b Taf. 9, 10a, 11; AR Diobolion: Vlasto a. O. 163 Typ 8 Taf. 10, 1, 2; AE: Vlasto a. O. 170 Typ Nr. 18 (Rs.: Stern). – Vs.: H. Rs.: Blitz.
243. AE, Metapont (Lukanien), spätes 4. Jh. v. Chr. – Grose, McClellan I 135, 1035 Taf. 35, 29; SNG Copenhagen (Italy) 1266; Stazio, A., XIII ConvMGrecia (1973) 93, 96. – Vs.: H. Rs.: Drei Gerstenkörner.
244. AU Stater, Makedonien, Philipp II., 359–336 v. Chr. (geprägt in Amphipolis). – Babelon, Traité IV (1932) 510 Taf. 308; Le Rider, G., Le monnayage d'argent et d'or de Philippe II (1977) 227, 248–250 Taf. 82. – Vs.: Kopf des Apollon. Rs.: Biga nach r., Beizeichen H.
245. AR Tetradrachmon und Didrachmon, Makedonien, Philipp II. (geprägt in Pella), 354/3–349/8 v. Chr. – Le Rider, a. O. 244, 15–21 (Pella Group I b) Nr. 79–137 Taf. 4–6. – Vs.: Kopf des Zeus. Rs.: Reiter nach l. (Philipp II.), bisweilen Beizeichen H.
246. AR Tetradrachmon, Makedonien, Philipp II. (geprägt in Pella), 348/7–343/2 v. Chr. – Le Rider, a. O. 244, 21–23, 140–152 (Pella Group II A 1) Taf. 6–7. – Vs.: Kopf des Zeus. Rs.: Reiter nach l., Beizeichen H.
247. * AR Äginäisches Hemidrachmon, Achaiische Liga, Kleitor, 350–300 v. Chr. – Babelon, Traité III 613–614, 9201 Taf. 225, 27, 28; BMC Peloponnesus 179, 3–6 Taf. 33, 10, 11; SNG Copenhagen (Argolis) 223–225. – Vs.: H. Rs.: Stier.
248. AE, Achaiische Liga, Kleitor, spätes 4. Jh. v. Chr. – Babelon, Traité III 613–614, 922–924 Taf. 225, 29–31; BMC Peloponnesus 180, 12–14 Taf. 33, 15; SNG Copenhagen (Argolis) 228, 229. – Vs.: H. Rs.: Monogramm.
249. AR Stater, Korinth, 2. Hälfte 4. Jh. v. Chr. – Babelon, Traité II 3, 427 Taf. 213, 3; BMC Corinth 31, 289 Taf. 10g; SNG Copenhagen (Corinth) 83. – Vs.: Pegasos. Rs.: Kopf der Athena, Beizeichen H.
250. AE, Korinth, 4. Jh. v. Chr. – Babelon, Traité II 3, 441; BMC Corinth 56, 465; SNG Copenhagen (Corinth) 175, 176 Taf. 4. – Vs.: Pegasos. Rs.: Dreizack, Beizeichen H.
251. AE Uncia, Atella (Campanien), spätes 3. Jh. v. Chr. – Sambon, A., Les monnaies antiques d'Italie (1906) 409, 1056; SNG München 2, 136. – Vs.: Büste des H. Rs.: Elephant.
252. AR Didrachmon, Neapolis (Campanien), frühes 3. Jh. v. Chr. – SNG Copenhagen (Italy) 461. – Kopf der Parthenope, Beizeichen H. Rs.: Androkephaler Stier, von Nike bekränzt.
253. AE, Neapolis (Campanien), 3. Jh. v. Chr. – SNG Copenhagen (Italy) 495. – Vs.: Kopf des Apollon. Rs.: Androkephaler Stier, Beizeichen H.

254. AE Sextans, Velecha (?) (Campanien), spätes 3. Jh. v. Chr. – Sambon, a. O. 251, 414, 1064; SNG München 2, 431. – Vs.: H. Rs.: Elephant.
255. AR Obol (Hemibolion?), Rubi (Apulien), 3. Jh. v. Chr. – SNG München 2, 507. – Vs.: H. Rs.: Zwei Halbmonde.
256. AE Sescuncia, Venusia (Apulien), 3. Jh. v. Chr. – SNG München 2, 550. – Vs.: H. Rs.: Stern und Halbmond.
257. AE, Tarent (Kalabrien), 3. Jh. v. Chr. – Ravel, a. O. 242, Nr. 1795. – Vs.: H. Rs.: Stern.
258. AE, Istros (Thrakien), spätes 3. Jh. v. Chr. – Babelon, Traité II 4, 1671 Taf. 352, 23; Pick, B., Die antiken Münzen Nordgriechenlands I 1, Dacien und Moesien (1898) 167, 464–467 Taf. II 25 K. – Vs.: H. Rs.: Seeadler und Delphin.
259. AE, Olbia (Thrakien), 3.–1. Jh. v. Chr. – Minns, E. H., Scythians and Greeks (1913) 477 Taf. 3, 11; Pick, a. O. 258, Taf. IX 31 K; SNG Copenhagen (Thrace) 96. – Vs.: H. Rs.: Zwei Pferdeprotomen.
260. AR Tetradrachmon, Makedonien, Philipp III. Arrhidaios, 323–316 v. Chr. – Forrer, Weber II 77, 2157 Taf. 83. – Vs.: Herakles. Rs.: Zeus auf Thron, Beizeichen H.
261. AR Hemidrachmon, Achaiische Liga, Kleitor, nach 280 v. Chr. – Clerk, M. G., Cat. of the Coins of the Achaean League (1895) IV Nr. 180 Taf. 1, 2; Thompson, M., The Agrinion Hoard, NNM 159 (1968) 59 Taf. 42, 543. – Vs.: Kopf des Zeus nach l. Rs.: Monogramm, unten Beizeichen H.
262. AR Hemidrachmon, Achaiische Liga, Kleitor, 2. Jh. v. Chr. – Clerk, a. O. 261, IV Nr. 180 Taf. 1, 2. – Vs.: Kopf des Zeus nach r. Rs.: Monogramm, oben Beizeichen H.
263. AR Tetrolol, Argos, spätes 4.–frühes 3. Jh. v. Chr. – BMC Peloponnesus 145, 117, 118; SNG Copenhagen (Argolis) 50, 51. – Vs.: Wolfsprotome. Rs.: A in Quadratum incusum, Beizeichen H.
264. AR Tetradrachmon, Drachme, Hemidrachmon, Athen, 170–169 v. Chr. – Thompson, a. O. 38, 98–102, 287–314 Taf. 30, 31. – Vs.: Kopf der Athena. Rs.: Eule auf Amphora, Beizeichen H.
265. * AR Tetradrachmon und Didrachmon, Sinope (Paphlagonien), spätes 3. Jh. v. Chr. – SNG v. Aulock 220, 6859; RecGén I 198, 46, 47 Taf. 25, 32, 33. – Vs.: Stadtgöttin Sinope. Gegenstempel H. Rs.: Sitzender Poseidon, Gegenstempel Kopf des Poseidon oder des Zeus bzw. archaisches Standbild des Apollon, Gegenstempel Kopf der Athena.
266. AE, Apameia Myrleia (Bithynien), 3. Jh. v. Chr. – RecGén I 2, 249, 27 Taf. 37, 20. – Vs.: H. Rs.: MYPAEA.
267. AR Tetradrachmon (Cistophor), Ephesos (Ionien), 166–160 v. Chr. – Kleiner/Noe, a. O. 218, 41 Series 2 Taf. 11, 3–5. – Vs.: Cista mystica. Rs.: Zwei Schlangen um Köcher und Bogen, Beizeichen Büste des H.
268. * AE, Erythrai (Ionien), 3. Jh. v. Chr. – BMC Ionia 132, 135, 136, 137 (Taf. 15, 20). 138–140; SNG Copenhagen (Ionia) 667–671. – Vs.: H. Rs.: EPY und Beamtentenne.
269. * AE, Telmessos (Lykien), 2. Jh. v. Chr. –

- SNG v. Aulock* 4451; SNG Copenhagen (Lycia) 134. – Vs.: H. Rs.: Apollon auf dem Omphalos.
270. AR Drachme und AE, Side (Pamphylien), 3. Jh. v. Chr. – AR: BMC Lycia 150, 56 Taf. 28, 2; AE: BMC Lycia 151, 69–70 Taf. 28, 7. – Vs.: Kopf der Athena, Gegenstempel Biene bzw. H. Rs.: Nike.
271. AR Stater, Tetradrachmon, Drachme, Hemidrachmon, Syrien, Seleukos I. Nikator (geprägt in Susa), 305–281 v. Chr. – Houghton, A., Coins of the Seleucid Empire from the Coll. of A. H. (1983) 102, 1026, 1027 Taf. 61; Newell, ESM 110, 298–299; 113, 301; 114, 304, 305, 307, 308 Taf. 23, 1–5, 7, 11–12, 14–17; SNG Copenhagen (Syria) 20, 21. – Büste des H. als Beizeichen auf verschiedenen Münzen.
272. AE, Syrien, Antiochos I. (geprägt in Tigris-Euphrat-Region), 280–261 v. Chr. – Newell, WSM 83, 888 Taf. 13, 16, 17. – Vs.: H. Rs.: Umgekehrter Anker.
273. AE, Syrien, Demetrios I., 162–150 v. Chr. – McDowell, R. H., Coins from Seleucia on the Tigris (1935) 21, 47; 22, 52; 39–41 Taf. 3. – Vs.: H. Rs.: Stehende Artemis bzw. Füllhorn.
274. * AR Tetradrachmon (Cistophor), Tralleis (Lydien), 2. Hälfte 2. Jh. v. Chr. – SNG v. Aulock 3255; Kleiner/Noe, a. O. 218, 74, 75 Series 45 Taf. 28, 1–4. – Vs.: Cista mystica. Rs.: Zwei Schlangen um Köcher und Bogen, Beizeichen Büste des H.
275. AE, Parthien, Phraates IV., 38/37–3/2 v. Chr. – BMC Parthia 116, 111 Taf. 21, 9, 10; SNG Copenhagen (Parthia) 128. – Rs.: H.
276. * AE, Kibyra (Phrygien), 2.–1. Jh. v. Chr. – Imhoof-Blumer, MGr 396–397; SNG v. Aulock 3720. – Vs.: H. Rs.: Protome eines Zebustieres oder Pferdes.

4. Der Kopf des Helios auf der Sonnenscheibe

a) Auf der Sonnenscheibe ohne Strahlen

277. EL Stater und Hekte, Kyzikos (Mysien), 460–450 v. Chr. – Kraay/Hirmer, GrCoins Nr. 72 Taf. 198; Schauenburg, Helios Anm. 22. – Vs.: H. nach l., unten Thunfisch. Rs.: Quadratum incusum.

b) Auf der Sonnenscheibe mit Strahlen

278. AU Stater, Lampsakos (Mysien), Mitte 4. Jh. v. Chr. – Babelon, Traité II 1374, 2551 Taf. 171, 18; Baldwin, A., The Gold Staters of Lampsakos, AJNum 53, 1924, Typus 23, S. 26, 48 Taf. 2, 20, 21; Auktion Bank Leu AG 45, 26.5.88, 46 Nr. 202, Titelbild; Schauenburg, Helios 12 Anm. 21. – Vs.: H. nach l. Rs.: Pegasos-Protome.
279. * AR Drachme und AE, Megiste (?) (Karien), 4. Jh. v. Chr. – AR: BMC Caria 221, 1–3 Taf. 34, 1–3; SNG v. Aulock 2769; SNG Copenhagen (Caria) 913; AE: Babelon, Traité II 1029, 1733 Taf. 148, 6; BMC Caria 221, 4; SNG Copenhagen (Caria) 914. – Vs.: H. nach l. oder r. Rs.: Rose.
280. * AR Didrachmon, Drachme, Nisyros (Karien), 2. Hälfte 4. Jh. v. Chr. – Didrachmon (Vs.: H. nach r.): SNG v. Aulock 2770; Drachme (Vs.: H. nach

1.): Babelon, Traité II 1029, 1735 Taf. 148, 8. – Rs.: Rose.

5. Büste des Helios mit Köcher und Bogen

281. AE, Syrakus, 2. Jh. v. Chr. – SNG Copenhagen (Sicily) 915; Gábrici, Bronzo 188, 603. – Vs.: H. nach r. Rs.: Nackte männliche Gestalt (Heros?).

282.* AE, Magnesia am Maeander (Ionien), nach 190 v. Chr. – BMC Ionia 164, 48 Taf. 19, 6; SNG Copenhagen (Ionia) 854. – Vs.: H. nach r. Rs.: Kultbild der Artemis Leukophryene.

6. Deutung unsicher

283. AR Drachme, Halikarnassos (Karien), 400–377 v. Chr. – Babelon, Traité II 2 Nr. 1668–1670 Taf. 146, 19–20; BMC Caria 102, 3–4 Taf. 18, 3. – Vs.: Männlicher Kopf mit Lorbeerkrantz von vorn; H. oder Apollon. Rs.: Adler.

284. AR Hemidrachmon, Gortys (Kreta), 2. Jh. v. Chr. – BMC Crete 44, 58 Taf. 11, 10; Grose, McClean 497, 7116 Taf. 240, 14. – Vs.: Kopf des H. (?) ohne Attribut von vorn. Rs.: Adler mit Schlange.

285. AE, Kos (Karien), 2. Jh. v. Chr. – BMC Caria 204, 111–114 Taf. 31, 19; SNG Copenhagen (Caria) 657, 658; SNG v. Aulock 8174. – Vs.: Kopf des H. (?) ohne Attribut von vorn. Rs.: Bogen in Kasten und Keule.

C. Heliosbüste von vier Pferdeprotomen flankiert

286.* Heliosbüste in Hochrelief, Marmor. Brooklyn, Brooklyn Mus. 62.148. Aus Behnesa (Oxyrrhynchos). – Hoffmann 117–124 Taf. 20, 1. 2; 21, 3; 22, 6. – 2. oder 3. Jh. n. Chr. – Der Gott trägt einen Nimbus mit Strahlen; es scheint, daß das Relief die Bekrönung eines Giebels darstellte, der wiederum ein Teil eines größeren Monuments gewesen ist. Die Büste des Lichtgottes wurde vielleicht wie auf der Igeler Säule (→ Herakles 2938) von zwei Pferdeprotomen flankiert (Hoffmann).

287. Vergoldete Silberphalerae. a)* London BM 2108; b) ehem. Slg. Nelidow. Aus Elis. – Marshall, BM Jewellery Nr. 2108 Taf. 40; Pollak, L., Klassisch-antike Goldschmiedearbeiten im Besitz A. von Nelidow (1903) 187 Nr. 533 Taf. 20; Schauenburg, Helios 23 Anm. 166. 167. – Um 300 v. Chr. – H.büste in Vorderansicht mit Strahlen, in getriebenem Hochrelief. Vom Viergespann sind nur die Pferdeprotomen dargestellt. Im Segment unter den Pferdeprotomen springen zwei Delphine, das Meer (oder den Okeanos) andeutend, aufeinander zu.

288. Goldplättchen eines Kranzes. Aus Südrussland. – Stephani, L., CRPetersb 1875, 21 Nr. 10 Abb. Taf. 2; Schauenburg, Helios 57 Anm. 160. – Eine Heliosbüste mit Strahlen in Vorderansicht und die Vorderseite der vier Pferde füllen das scheibenförmige Plättchen.

D. Kopf oder Büste des Helios mit Selene oder anderen Göttern

289.* Oinochoe, apul. rf. Birmingham, Mus. and Art Gall. 1617.85. – RVAp II 979, 212 Taf. 383, 7; Stuttgart-Gruppe. – Ende 4. Jh. v. Chr. – H.kopf in Vorderansicht, aus einem Blütenornament wachsend und von zwei Erosen umgeben; vgl. 369. Um den H.kopf die Sonnenscheibe aus zwei konzentrischen Kreisen mit Strahlen.

290. Mosaik. Sparta, Odos Triakosion. – Steinhauer, G., ArchDelt 30, 1975 (1983), 74–76 Abb. 1 Taf. 44; ArchRepts 1983/84, 27 Abb. auf Titelseite. – 4. Jh. n. Chr. – Im zentralen Medaillon Büsten des H. und der Selene, umschlossen von einer kreisförmigen Zone mit den zwölf Tierkreiszeichen.

S. auch 134.

Stein- und Tonreliefs

291. (= Aphrodite [Aphrodisias] 11* mit Lit.) Statue der Aphrodite, fr., Marmor. Athen, Nat. Mus. 1795. Aus Athen. – A Voyage into Time and Legend Aboard the Keryneia Ship, Nat. Mus. Athens (1987) 110 Abb. 140. – 2. Jh. v. Chr. – Das Gewand der Statue ist in übereinander liegenden Zonen mit Götterfiguren verziert (Zeus, Hera, Chariten u. a.). In der zweiten Zone von oben Büste des Helios r. und Büste der Selene l., eine Säule flankierend (die kosmische Säule, Symbol der Grenze zwischen Tag und Nacht). Der Kopf des Helios in der Sonnenscheibe, der Selene in ihrer Scheibe.

292. (= Artemis Eleuthera 2* mit Lit.) Relief. Myra, Theater. – Auf dem Relief in halber Höhe die Büste des H. mit Strahlenkranz über einer Mondsichel. Das Relief beweist, daß das Kultbild von Myra Büsten als Schmuck trug, was auch anhand der Münzbilder zu vermuten war.

293. (= Aphrodite [Aphrodisias] 15* mit Lit.) Statuette der Aphrodite von Aphrodisias. Erlangen, Univ. I 505. – 2. Jh. n. Chr. – Auf dem Gewand der Göttin, das in Streifen verziert ist, sind auch die Büsten des Helios und der Selene dargestellt.

294. Tischfuß (?), Marmor. Istanbul, Arch. Mus. 356. Aus Pergamon. – Mendel, Sculpt I 573 Nr. 251 (356) Abb. S. 574. – 200–150 v. Chr. – Auf der Hauptseite reiches Rankenwerk; darunter l. Kybele auf dem Löwen und r. Dionysos auf einem Tiger. Auf den Nebenseiten je eine Fackel in Rankenornament; auf der einen Fackel die Büste des Helios mit Strahlen, auf der anderen Selene (?).

295. Kugel mit Reliefverzierung, Stein. Cheronia, Mus. Aus Livadia (Böotien). – ArchDelt 20, 1965, Chron. 242 Taf. 287β–γ; v. Hesberg, a. O. 296, 228. – Spätrepublikanische oder augusteische Zeit (v. Hesberg). – Auf zwei entgegengesetzten Seiten der Kugel je eine Büste, die der Sonne mit der Scheibe und Strahlen in Vorderansicht und die der Selene.

296.* Kassettenplatte aus der Gefangenenfassade in Korinth. Korinth, Mus. S. 195. – Stillwell, R., Korinth I 2 (1941) 71 Nr. 18 Abb. 48; v. Hesberg, H., „Zur Datierung der Gefangenenfassade in Korinth“, AM 98, 1983, 228 Taf. 46, 1. – Augusteische Zeit (v. Hesberg). – H. protome in Vorderansicht und Seleneprotome, die Kassetten der Gefangenenfassade verzierend. Strahlen am Haar des Helios und Mondsichel hinter den Schultern der Selene.

297. Giebel des Tempels I (Isieion) des Serapeions auf Delos, Marmor. Delos, in situ wiederaufgestellt. – Roussel, P., Les cultes égyptiens à Delos du III<sup>e</sup> au I<sup>er</sup> s. av. J.C. (1915/16) Abb. 10; Marcadé, a. O. 133, 358 Anm. 54; Bruneau/Ducat, a. O. 139, 228. – 130 v. Chr. (Bruneau). – H.büste (?), sehr zerstört, so daß ihre Benennung schwierig und umstritten ist.

298. (= Asklepios [in Thracia] 22 mit Lit.) Relief, Marmor. – Plovdiv, Arch. Mus. 1021. Aus Plovdiv. – Tsontchev, D., Monuments de la sculpture romaine en Bulgarie méridionale, Coll. Latomus 39 (1959). – 2. Jh. n. Chr. – Götter der Asklepiosfamilie von den Büsten des H. und der Selene, jeweils auf einer hohen Basis stehend, umgeben.

299. (= Dioskouroi 237*, = Dioskouroi/Castores 136 mit Lit.) Tonscheibe. Brindisi, Mus. Prov. 656. Aus Apulien. – Brendel, O., RM 51, 1936, 64 Abb. 10; Wüilleumier, P., Tarente (1939) 544 ff. Taf. 45, 2; Boyance, P., REA 44, 1942, 191 ff. Taf. 4, 2. – 3. Jh. n. Chr. – Im Zentrum in Relief ein Viergespann, darüber zwei Figuren (Semele?, Dionysos?). Das Paar ist l. von einer Heliosprotome mit Strahlen und r. von einer Seleneprotome mit Mondsichel flankiert. Andere Götter und Dämonen, wie auch Götterattribute und Kultsymbole umgeben das zentrale Thema. In der Außenzone der Zodiacus.

300. (Deutung unsicher) Reliefplatten, Marmor, Korinth Mus. Aus Korinth, Odeion. – Broneer, O., Korinth X (1932) Nr. 95–105 S. 114 ff. Abb. 106–110; Schauenburg, Helios Anm. 201. – Ende 1. Jh. n. Chr. – Sonnengesichter (Broneer), oder eher Masken, in einem geometrischen, rein dekorativen Muster (Schauenburg).

Weihreliefs

301. Reliefplatte, Gips. Kairo, Ägypt. Mus. 26.6.20 Nr. 5. – Schauenburg, Helios 21–22 Anm. 144 Abb. 8; Vermaseren, M. J., Cybele and Attis (1977) L 27 Taf. 71. – 1. Jh. v. Chr. – In enger Anlehnung an ein Vorbild, das zwischen 340 und 320 v. Chr. gearbeitet sein dürfte (Schauenburg). – In einem Naikos thront Kybele, von Löwen umgeben und flankiert von Hermes und einer Göttin mit Fackeln. Auf dem Giebelfirst das H.gesicht mit Strahlen; auf beiden Giebelschragen bewegen sich je drei Korybanten mit Rundschilden.

302. Motivrelief, Marmor. Tenos Mus. A 340. Aus Tenos. – AAA 15, 1982, 255–260 Abb. 1. – 1. Jh. v. Chr. – Gelagerte Figur mit Füllhorn (Asklepios?); l. von ihm Hermes, r. Herme und eine weibliche Figur, alle drei auf Basen stehend. Über der weiblichen Figur H. protome im Profil nach l. mit Strahlen. L. oberhalb von Hermes die Mondsichel.

303. Motivstele, Marmor. Bursa, Mus. 1679. Aus Prusa (Bithynien). – Dörner, F. K., Inchriften und Denkmäler aus Bithynien (1941) 108 Nr. 124 Taf. 41; Hommel, P., IstMitt 7, 1957, 19 Nr. d 2. – Kaiserzeit (?). – Im Giebelfeld kleine Büste des H. mit Strahlenkranz und symmetrisch gebildeten Ranken auf den Seiten. Im vertieft eingelassenen Relief die Büsten von Isis und Sarapis.

304. (= Artemis 237) Motivstele, Marmor. Veria, Mus. 249. Aus Stenimachos. – 2.–3. Jh. n. Chr. – Im Feld der Stele Artemis; im Giebelfeld l. Kopf des H. mit Strahlen, r. Kopf der Selene mit Mondsichel.

Grabreliefs

305.* Grabstele, Marmor. Wien, Kunsthist. Mus. I 1082 (früher im Schloß Catajo). – Pfuhl, E./Möbius, H., Die ostgriechischen Grabreliefs (329) Nr. 1372 Taf. 199. – 1. Jh. v. Chr. – Reitender Jüngling l. von Selenebüste mit Mondsichel und r. von H.büste mit Strahlen umrahmt.

306. Grabrelief, Marmor. Aus Eiveili (Türkei). – Pfuhl/Möbius, a. O. 305, 123 Nr. 339. – Späthellenistisch (?). – H.kopf und Mann, in der Hand eine gesenkte Fackel haltend.

307. Grabrelief, Marmor. Ankara, Arch. Mus. Aus Kotiaion. – Pfuhl/Möbius, a. O. 305, 173 Nr. 580. – Späthellenistisch (?). – Kleine H.büste in Nimbus mit Strahlenkranz (?) oberhalb der Protomen des Grabreliefs.

308. Grabrelief, Marmor. Ehem. Slg. Calvert. Aus der Troas. – Pfuhl/Möbius, a. O. 305, 338 Nr. 1424. – 2. Jh. n. Chr. – Zwei Reiterpaare, darüber H.büste mit Strahlen.

309. Grabrelief, Marmor. Bursa, Mus. 100. – Pfuhl/Möbius, a. O. 305, 339 Nr. 1180b Taf. 207. – 2. Jh. n. Chr. – Die Dioskuren oder ihnen ähnliche Jünglinge und zwischen ihnen H.büste.

310. Grabrelief, Marmor. München, Glypt. Aus Kleinasien. – Pfuhl/Möbius, a. O. 305, 503 Nr. 2090 Taf. 300. – 3. Jh. n. Chr. – Im unteren Feld die Büsten eines Mannes und einer Frau. Im oberen Feld die dreileibige Hekate, von Göttinnen umrahmt; über Hekate, unmittelbar unter der Giebelspitze, der Kopf des H. im Strahlenkranz.

311. Grabrelief, Marmor. Istanbul, Arch. Mus. Aus Kotiaion. – Pfuhl/Möbius, a. O. 305, 502–503 Nr. 2089; Rodenwaldt, G., JdI 34, 1919, 78 Abb. 2; Bossert, H., Altanatolien (1942) Abb. 1110. – 3. Jh. n. Chr. – In der Mitte die dreileibige Hekate; über ihrem Polos die Mondsichel, in der sich eine Büste des Helios mit ovalem Nimbus mit Dreieckstrahlen befindet. L. von Hekate Men, zu seiner R. nackter Jüngling mit Doppelbeil. In der unteren Zone die Armbüsten des Ehepaares.

312. Grabrelief, Marmor. Usak, Mus. Aus Kotiaion. – Pfuhl/Möbius, a. O. 306, 503 Nr. 2091 Taf. 301. – Späte Kaiserzeit. – Unter dem Giebel die dreileibige Hekate, über ihr die Heliosbüste mit Strahlen. Unter der Zone der Hekate die Brustbüsten eines Mannes und einer Frau.

313. Bruchstück einer giebelförmigen Grabstele, Marmor. Hasanköy (Phrygien), Mus. Aus Akmonia. – Pfuhl/Möbius, a. O. 306, 507 Nr. 2107 Taf. 302. – 3. Jh. n. Chr. – Im Giebelfeld Büste des Men; über dem l. Seitenakroter Büste des H. mit Strahlenkranz; über dem r. Büste der Selene mit Mondsichel hinter den Schultern.

Gemmen

314. Karneol. München, Münzslg. A 1855. – AGDI 3, Nr. 2177 Taf. 188. – 1. Jh. v. Chr. – Nackte Aphrodite berührt mit einer Hand den Kopf einer bärtigen Panherme, während sie mit der anderen Hand eine Sandale löst oder befestigt. Zu beiden Seiten ein achtstrahliger Stern. Oben die Köpfe des H. mit Strahlenkranz und der Selene mit Mondsichel.

315. Brauner Sard. Berlin, Staatl. Mus. FG 3366. – Furtwängler, Beschreibung Nr. 3366 Taf. 27. – Späte Arbeit. – L. vor einer Säule ein tischartiges Gestell mit Phallos; darauf ein bärtiger Kopf. R. brennender Altar, dann drei Köpfe nebeneinander nach l. Darüber H.kopf mit Strahlenkranz, Füllhorn, zwei Phalloi, Sonne und Mondsichel.

316. Karneol. New York, MMA 1881.6.175. – Richter, MetMusGems 70 Nr. 283 Taf. 39. – Kaiserzeit. – Im Zentrum Artemis, flankiert von zwei Hirschen. Oben H. protome mit Strahlen auf seinem Haar und Seleneprotome (?).

Bronzerelief

317. Bronzetafel. Athen, Nat. Mus. Kar. 608. – Römische Zeit (?). – Auf dem l. Teil zwei übereinanderliegende Zonen mit H. protomen (auf jedem Kopf Strahlenkranz) und Kybeleprotomen. Daneben vier Paare von Kybeleprotomen.

Goldschmuck

318.* Ohrgehänge, Gold. London, BM Jew. 1847, 1848. Aus Kephallonia. – Schauenburg, Helios 20; Higgins, R., Greek and Roman Jewellery (1980<sup>2</sup>) 163–164, e Taf. 47A. – Frühhellenistisch (Schauenburg). – Auf beiden Ohrgehängen hält eine Nike mit beiden Händen eine runde Scheibe über sich, in welcher der von Strahlen umgebene Kopf des H. erscheint.

Münzen

Helios und Selene

319.* AE, Smyrna (Ionien), Alexander Severus (222–235 n. Chr.). – BMC Ionia 293, 432–433; Klose, D. O., Die Münzprägung von Smyrna in der römischen Kaiserzeit (1987) 19 R 4 Taf. 50; MacDonald, Hunter II 385, 247 Taf. 52, IS; SNG v. Aulock 2225. – Rs.: Einander gegenüberstehende Büsten, r. Selene, l. Helios mit Strahlenkranz.

320.* AE, Pergamon (Mysien), Commodus (177–192 n. Chr.). – BMC Mysia 151, 308 Taf. 30, 4; v. Fritze, H., Die Münzen von Pergamon (1910) 56 Taf. 4, 7; SNG v. Aulock 1408. – Stehender Zeus mit Blitz und Lanze, r. Gaia, l. Thalassa. Im Feld l. Kopf der Selene, r. Kopf des H. mit Strahlenkranz nach l.

321. AE, Sagalassos (Pisidien), Trebonianus Gallus (251–253 n. Chr.). – BMC Pisidia 247, 38 Taf. 38, 9; SNG v. Aulock 5195; SNG Copenhagen (Pisidia) 212. – Rs.: Büsten von H. und Selene, hintereinander gestaffelt, nach l., H. im Vordergrund mit Strahlenkranz. L. Mondsichel.

322. AE, Alexandria (Ägypten), Antoninus Pius bis Diocletian, 138–305 n. Chr. – BMC Alexandria 1032, 1287, 1541, 1557, 1727, 1776, 1811, 2042

(Taf. 3). 2480 (Taf. 3); Geißen, AlexKaisermünzen II 390, 1879 (Antoninus Pius); MacDonald, Hunter III Nr. 443 (Taf. 88, 3). 612 (Taf. 39, 15). 705, 805, 854. – Rs.: Büsten von H. und Selene, hintereinander gestaffelt, nach r., H. im Vordergrund mit Strahlenkranz, dahinter Selene mit Mondsichel auf dem Kopf bzw. vor ihrem Gesicht.

Helios und Sarapis

323. AE, Alexandria (Ägypten), Maximian (286–305 n. Chr.). – Geißen/Weiser, AlexKaisermünzen IV 106, 3304. – Rs.: Brustbild des Sarapis nach l., gegenüber Brustbild des Helios mit Strahlenkranz und Chlamys nach r. H. legt Sarapis die Rechte auf die Schulter.

E. Heliosbüste und Zodiacus

S. auch 290, 299, 335.

324.* Granat. London, BM 1168. – Walters, BMGems Nr. 1168; Schauenburg, Helios 62 Anm. 219. – Hellenistisch. – H. protome in Vorderansicht; Strahlen um das Haar; am Rand umlaufend die Tierkreiszeichen.

325. Tonlampe. Patras, Mus. Aus Patras. – ArchDelt 29, 1973/74 Chron. 2, 351 Taf. 218, 6. – Römische Zeit. – Gestaffelte Büsten des H. und der Selene, vom Tierkreis eingefasst.

326. Goldmedaillon. Berlin, Staatl. Mus. (?). Aus Abukir. – Dressel, H., AbhBerlin 1906, 9–10 Nr. C Taf. 2; Brendel, O., Antike 12, 1936, 272–274, Abb. 1; Fittschen, K., Der Schild des Achilleus, ArchHom N 1 (1973) 3. – Zeit Gordians III. (238–244 n. Chr.) (Fittschen); nach einem Original hellenistischer Zeit (Brendel). – Auf dem Medaillon Alexanderprotome mit Schild, dessen Verzierung vom Schild des Achilles (Hom. Il. 18, 478–607) inspiriert ist: H. kopf mit Strahlendiadem, Selenekopf, Nyx (?), Sterne und dem Rand entlang die Tierkreiszeichen.

F. Helios als Sternbild

Münzen

327.* AE, Alexandria (Ägypten), Antoninus Pius, 144/45 n. Chr. – BMC Alexandria 127, 1083, 1084 Taf. 12; Geißen, AlexKaisermünzen II 260, 1495–1497, vgl. 1498, 1582, 1583. – Rs.: Büste des H. mit Strahlenkranz nach r., r. daneben Stern, darunter Löwe nach r.

XIII. Helios in voller Gestalt

A. Stehend (außer auf Münzen)

Relief

328. Reliefplatte, Kalkstein. Rhodos, Mus. 13612. Aus Kamari. – Jacopi, G., ClRhodos V 2, 1932, 24 ff. Taf. II Abb. 15; Merker, a. O. 339, 30 Nr. 65; Maryon, a. O. 334, 72 Abb. 1. – 2. Jh. v. Chr. (Maryon). –

Relief einer jugendlichen Figur, nach Maryon Kopie des Kolosses von Rhodos (334), was von anderen abgelehnt wird.

Gemmen

329. Karneol. München, Staatl. Münzslg. 2647. – AGDI 3, Nr. 2647 Taf. 246. – 3. Jh. n. Chr. – H. nackt von vorn mit dem Kopf nach r., den Strahlenkranz tragend. Seine l. Hand erhoben, seine Rechte die Peitsche haltend.

330. Jaspis. München, Staatl. Münzslg. 2646. – AGDI 3, Nr. 2646 Taf. 246. – Spätes 3. Jh. n. Chr. – Wie 329.

331. Heliotrop. New York, MMA 1881.6.172. – Richter, MetMusGems Nr. 280 Taf. 40. – 1.–2. Jh. n. Chr. – H. mit Strahlenkranz von vorn mit dem Kopf nach r. Er hält in der Linken das lange Zepter vertikal, in der Rechten die Peitsche.

332. Chalzedon. Berlin, Staatl. Mus. FG 2545. – Furtwängler, Beschreibung Nr. 2545 Taf. 23. – Zeus thronend, vor ihm eine Göttin (Hera?) sowie H. stehend. Hinter Zeus Hermes.

Amphorenstempel

333. Rhodos, Mus. – Langlotz, a. O. 336, 149 Abb. 3. – 100 v. Chr. – H. stehend, mit Strahlen auf dem Kopf.

Freiplastik

334. Kolossale Statue des H. in Rhodos, Werk des Chares von Lindos, nicht erhalten. – Plin. nat. 34, 41; Strabon 14, 2, 5, p. 652 (= Overbeck, SQ 1539–1554); Polyb. 5, 88; Hyg. fab. 223; Suda s. v. Κολασσαίς; Gabriel, A., BCH 56, 1932, 331–359; Maryon, H., JHS 76, 1956, 68–86; Roux, G., REA 62, 1960, 5–40; Laurenzi, L., EAA II (1959) 773–774; Marcadé, MusDélös 479–480; Langlotz, E., RendPontAcc 48, 1975/76 142. – Anfang 3. Jh. v. Chr.

335.* (= Helios/Sol 301) Heliosorso, Marmor. Vatikan, Mus. Chiaramonti 592. Aus Rom, Campus Martius. – Amelung, SkulptVatMus I 710 Nr. 592 Taf. 76; Finn, D. J., JHS 32, 1912, 44–45; ML I 2, 2002 Abb.; Schauenburg, Helios 27. – Römische Kopie nach einem Original der 2. Hälfte des 3. Jh. v. Chr. – Der Torso des H. trägt von der r. Schulter zur l. Hüfte ein breites Band, den Balteus, das vorne mit den zwölf Bildern des Tierkreises in Flachrelief verziert ist.

336. (= Apollon/Apollo 59* mit Lit.) «Apollo-Statue», Marmor. Civitavecchia, Mus. Civ. – Mingazzini, P., MemLinc 71, 1974, 49; Langlotz, E., «Eine Nachbildung des Helios von Rhodos», RendPontAcc 48, 1975/76, 141–150. – Römische Kopie nach einem Original um 300 v. Chr. (Langlotz). – Nach Langlotz Nachklang des Kolosses von Rhodos.

337. Kopf einer Bronzestatue. Boston, MFA 64.310. «Aus dem Orient.» – Hoffmann 121 Taf. 27, 15; Vermeule, C., ClJ 61, 1965, 304–305 fig. 20. – 2.–3. Jh. n. Chr. – Kopf des H. mit stilisiertem Strahlenkranz, an dessen Scheitel «Uraeus». Die Anordnung des Haars nach der Tradition der Alexanderporträts.

338. Kultbild im H. tempel am Isthmos, nicht erhalten. – IG IV 203, 13–14. – Römische Zeit.

DEUTUNG UNSICHER

339. Kopf einer Statue oder eines Reliefs. Rhodos, Mus. 13630. Aus Kos. – Laurenzi, L., MemRodi 3, 1938, 22; Thimme, D., AJA 50, 1946, 355 Taf. 21 Abb. 18; Merker, G. S., The Hellenistic Sculpture of Rhodes (1973) 30 Nr. 66 Abb. 45–47 Taf. 19. – Hellenistisch (Merker); 1. Hälfte 4. Jh. v. Chr. (Thimme). – Kopf des H. (Laurenzi); weiblicher Kopf (Merker).

340. Marmorkopf. Kopenhagen, Glypt. 457. Aus Trianta auf Rhodos. – Arndt, P., La Glyptothèque Ny Carlsberg (1912) 166 Taf. 118; Poulsen, CatNyCarlsbergGlypt Nr. 262; Kleiner, G., in Charites, Festschr. E. Langlotz (1957) 102; Merker, a. O. 339, 30 (mit Lit.). – 4. Jh. v. Chr. (frühhellenistisch). – Auf dem Kopf sieben Löcher für die Befestigung der metallenen Strahlen des Lichtgottes. Poulsen bezweifelt, daß die Löcher antik sind; er glaubt, daß es sich eher um ein alexandrinisches Porträt handelt, in dem lysippische und skopasische Züge kontaminiert sind.

341. Kopf, Marmor. Princeton, Slg. Shear. Aus Rhodos. – AJA 20, 1916, 283 ff. Taf. 7, 8 Abb. 1, 2; Laurenzi, a. O. 339, 22. – Frühhellenistisch. – Nicht H., sondern eher ein Athlet.

342. Statue, Marmor. Kopenhagen, Glypt. 623. – Squarciapino, M., La scuola di Afrodizia (1943) 39–40 Taf. 10; Poulsen, CatNyCarlsbergGlypt 366 Nr. 525; Richter, G. M. A., Three Critical Periods in Greek Sculpture (1951) 47–76 Abb. 96. – Zeit der Antonine. – Die Benennung der Statue als H. (Richter) wird von Squarciapino abgelehnt.

343. Bronzestatue. Berlin, Staatl. Mus. 8141. In Venedig erworben. – Furtwängler, A., AA 1881, 123–124 Nr. 8 Abb. S. 123; Picard, Manuel III 1, 53; IV 2, 779 Anm. 1. – Eher Alexander als H.

B. Stehend bzw. ausschreitend auf Münzen

1. Ohne Attribut

344. AE, Nikaia (Bithynien), Lucius Verus (161–169 n. Chr.). – SNG v. Aulock 569. – Rs.

2. Mit einem Attribut

a) Mit Peitsche

345. AE, Hadrianopolis (Thrakien), Gordian III. (238–244 n. Chr.). – Mouchmoff, a. O. 202, 2743 Taf. 19, 19; SNG Copenhagen (Thrace) 574. – Rs.

346. AE, Pautalia (Thrakien), Commodus (176–192 n. Chr.). – Ruzicka, L., Die Münzen von Pautalia (1933) Nr. 236 Taf. 3, 24. – Rs.

347. AE, Serdica (Thrakien), Caracalla, Geta, Gallienus (198–217, 209–212, 253–268 n. Chr.). – Ruzicka, L., «Die Münzen von Serdica», NumZ 48, 1915, Nr. 153–155, 430, 475, 476 Taf. 3 (Nr. 154). – Rs.

348.* AE, Tarsos (Kilikien), Gordian III. bzw. Salonina (238–244, 253–268 n. Chr.). – Gordian III: SNG v. Aulock 6044; Salonina: BMC Cilicia 230, 331 Taf. 38, 6; SNG v. Aulock 6081. – Rs.

349. AE, Apameia (Phrygien), Philippus II. (244–249 n. Chr.). – BMC Phrygia 103, 188–189; SNG Copenhagen (Phrygia) 221. – Rs.

b) Mit Globus

350. AE, Deultum (Thrakien), Gordian III. (238–244 n. Chr.). – Jurukova, J., Die Münzprägung von Deultum (1973) 38. 90, 239 Taf. 15. – Rs.

351. AE, Epiphaneia (Kilikien), Gordian III. (238–244 n. Chr.). – InvWadd 237, 4276 Taf. 10, 12; BMC Cilicia CXXXV. – Rs.

352.* AE, Aizanoi (Phrygien), um 260 n. Chr. – SNG v. Aulock 3337; SNG Copenhagen (Phrygia) 68. – Rs.

c) Mit Fackel

353. AE, Prusias am Hypios (Bithynien), Lucius Verus (161–169 n. Chr.). – RecGén I 4, 608, 39 Taf. 104, 23; SNG v. Aulock 898. – Rs.

354. AE, Soloi-Pompeïopolis (Kilikien), Philippus I. (244–249 n. Chr.). – BMC Cilicia 156, 66 Taf. 27, 7. – Rs.

3. Mit zwei der unter B 2 aufgeführten Attribute

355.* AE, Pessinus (Galatien), Markus Aurelius (161–180 n. Chr.). – BMC Galatia 20, 13 Taf. 4, 6; SNG v. Aulock 6212; SNG Copenhagen (Cyprus) 123. – Rs.: H. mit Fackel und Globus.

356. AE, Hieropolis-Kastabala (Kilikien), Faustina minor (138–161 n. Chr.). – InvWadd 240, 4316; BMC Cilicia 83, 8. 9 Taf. 14, 5. – Rs.: H. mit Fackel und Peitsche, am Boden Fackel.

357.* AE, Tralleis (Lydien), Valerian I. (253–260 n. Chr.). – SNG v. Aulock 3296. – Rs.: H. mit Fackel und Peitsche.

358.* AE, Tripolis (Lydien), Philippus II. (244–248 n. Chr.). – SNG v. Aulock 3325. – Rs.: H. mit Fackel und Globus.

359. AE, Kaisareia (Palaestina), Herennius Etruscus (249–251 n. Chr.). – BMC Palestine 35, 178. 179 Taf. 4, 12; Kadman, L., The Coins of Caesarea Maritima, Corpus Nummorum Palaestinensium II (1957) 57. 58. 59. 76. 132 (Nr. 177) 158. 179 Taf. 15; Rosenberger, M., City Coins of Palestine (1975) 22, 145. – Rs.: H. mit Globus und Peitsche.

4. Helios mit verschiedenen anderen Attributen

360. AE, Korinth, Lucius Verus (161–169 n. Chr.). – SNG Copenhagen (Corinth) 337. – Rs.: H. mit Keule (?) und Kopf mit Mauerkrone.

361.* AE, Philadelpheia (Lydien), Decius (249–251 n. Chr.). – SNG v. Aulock 3085. – Rs.: H. mit Blitz und Thyrsos.

362. AE, Kotiaion (Phrygien), Alexander Severus (222–235 n. Chr.). – BMC Phrygia 171, 64 Taf. 22, 2. – Rs.: H. mit Fackel (?) und Statuette der Kybele.

363. AE, Nomos Heliopolis (Ägypten), Hadrian (117–138 n. Chr.). – Geißen/Weiser, AlexKaisermünzen IV 136, 3392. – Rs.: H. mit Peitsche und Mnevis-Stier.

364. (Deutung unsicher) AR Didrachmon, Drachme und Hemidrachmon, Kaisareia (Kappadokien), Kaiserzeit. – Sydenham, E. A., The Coinage of Caesarea in Cappadocia (1933) 18. 20, passim; BMC Cappadocia passim Taf. 8–12. – Rs.: Berg Argaios. Auf dem Gipfel stehender H. (?) mit Strahlenkrone von vorn, in der Rechten Globus, in der Linken Szepter.

365. (Deutung unsicher) AE, Chalkis (Syrien), Trajan und Hadrian (98–117, 117–138 n. Chr.). – MacDonald, Hunter III 140–141, 3. 7 Taf. 71, 26. 27. – H. (?) mit Strahlenkrone von vorn, auf einem Podest stehend, in der Rechten Palmzweig, in der Linken Speer und kleiner Rundschild.

5. Helios mit dem Fuß auf dem Globus

366. AE, Prusa am Olympos (Bithynien), Julia Domna, 214–217 n. Chr. – RecGén I 4, 587, 86 Taf. 100, 32. – Rs.: H. mit Strahlenkrone nach l., hält in beiden Händen die Fackel; sein r. Fuß ist auf den Globus gestellt.

6. Heliosstatue in tempelartigen Gebäuden

367. AE, Philadelpheia (Lydien), Mark Aurel (161–180 n. Chr.). – BMC Lydia 199, 73 Taf. 22, 10. – In einem Schrein mit zwei Säulen Statue des H. mit Strahlenkrone, nach r. ausschreitend, in der ausgestreckten Rechten Fackel, in der Linken geschultertes Szepter.

368.* AE, Philadelpheia (Lydien), Caracalla und Alexander Severus (198–217, 222–235 n. Chr.). – BMC Lydia 202, 86 (Caracalla); 204, 93. 94 Taf. 22, 15 (Alexander Severus); SNG v. Aulock 3081 (Caracalla); 3083 (Alexander Severus). – Rs.: Viersäulige Tempelfront. Darin Statue des H. mit Strahlenkrone nach r., die Rechte ausgestreckt, in der Linken geschultertes Szepter.

C. Aus Blütenornament wachsend

369. Volutenkrater, apul. New York, Privatslg. – RVAp Suppl. 1, 174, 86b Taf. 33, 2; 34, 2: Virginia Exhibition P. (Nachfolger des Patera- und des Baltimore-Malers). – Ende 4. Jh. v. Chr. – A, Hals: H. mit Strahlen auf dem Kopf, aus einem Blütenornament wachsend.

D. Kniend

370.* EL Stater und Hekte, Kyzikos (Mysien), spätes 5. Jh. v. Chr. – EL Stater: v. Fritze, H., Die Elektronprägung von Kyzikos, Nomisma 7 (1912) 11, 148 Taf. 4, 35; Kraay/Hirmer, GrCoins Nr. 715 Taf. 199; Lacroix, L., Etudes d'archéologie numismatique (1974) 95 Taf. 10, 15. – Vs.: Nackter H. mit Strahlenkrone nach r. über einem Thunfisch kniend, beiderseits je ein Pferd am Zügel haltend. Rs.: Quadratum incusum.

E. Sitzend

371. Kugelstein (sphaera magica), Marmor. Athen, Epigr. Mus. 2526. Aus dem Dionysostheater, Athen. – IG II/III<sup>2</sup> 2787; Svoronos III 673 Nr. 2526. – 1. Jh. v. Chr.–1. Jh. n. Chr. – Auf der Kugel Relieffdarstellungen und unverständliche (kabbalistische) Zeichen: Auf der einen Seite H. sitzend auf einem Thron, bis zur Hüfte nackt und mit Strahlenkrone auf dem Haupte. Er hält in der Linken ein langes Zepter, das in einem Dreizack endet (Blitz?), und in der Rechten eine Peitsche (?). Neben seinen Füßen r. ein Löwe (?) und l. ein Hund (?). Auf der Rückseite ein Löwe, Inschriften und eine Schlange (Drache).

372.* AE, Kaisareia (Kappadokien), Commodus (198–217 n. Chr.). – Sydenham, a. O. 364, 95, 384 (auch S. 18); SNG v. Aulock 6450. – Rs.: H. mit Strahlenkrone nach l. auf einem Felsen sitzend, in der Rechten Zweig, die Linke ruht auf dem Globus, der auf dem Felsen liegt.

S. auch 386.

F. Reitend

373.* AE, Alexandria (Ägypten), Trajan, 110/11 n. Chr. – BMC Alexandria 50, 413 Taf. 3; Christiansen, E., The Roman Coins of Alexandria (1987) 168; Geißen, AlexKaisermünzen I 162, 549. – Vs.: Kopf mit Lorbeerkrone. Rs.: H. mit Strahlenkrone auf einem Pferd nach l. reitend, die Rechte erhoben, in der Linken Szepter.

XIV. Helios in voller Gestalt mit andern Göttern

A. Mit Selene

374. AE, Tralleis (Lydien), 180–192 n. Chr. – Imhoof-Blumer, a. O. 40, 178, 36 Taf. 7, 13. – Rs.: H. und Selene einander gegenüberstehend: l. Selene mit Mondsicheln auf den Schultern, in beiden Händen eine Fackel haltend; r. H., mit Strahlenkrone, in der gesenkten Rechten Fackel (?), in der erhobenen Linken Szepter.

375. Steinernen Statuen des H. und der Selene in der Agora von Elis, nicht erhalten. – Paus. 6, 24, 6. – Der Kopf des H. war mit Strahlen versehen, während Selene «Hörner» auf dem Kopf hatte (Papachatzis, Paus. Messeniaka, Eliaka 404).

B. Mit Pasiphae

376. Bronzestatuen des H. und der Pasiphae (für Paus. Beiname der Selene, cf. RE XVIII 4, 2071 s. v.

«Pasiphae») im Heiligtum und Traumorakel der Ino-Pasiphae bei Thalamai (Lakonien), nicht erhalten. – Paus. 3, 26, 1.

C. Mit Aphrodite und Eros

377. Statuen des H. sowie der bewaffneten Aphrodite (= Aphrodite 642) und des Eros mit Bogen im Aphroditeheiligtum auf Akrokorinth, nicht erhalten. – Paus. 2, 5, 1.

D. Mit einer Göttin

378.* AE, Rhodos (Karien), Nerva (96–98 n. Chr.). – BMC Caria 269, 416. 417 Taf. 43, 7; SNG v. Aulock 2860. – Rs.: Stehender H. reicht einer ihm gegenüberstehenden Göttin die Hand.

E. Im Gigantenkampf

379. (= Gigantes 481*, XVIII) Reliefplatte Nr. 18 von der Skene des Theaters in Korinth. Korinth, Mus. 572. – Sturgeon, M. C., Corinth IX 2 (1977) 14–16 Taf. 29 Nr. 635. – 1. Viertel 2. Jh. n. Chr. – Nackte männliche Figur (H.?) nach r. gegen einen Giganten kämpfend.

XV. Verschmelzung mit anderen Gottheiten

A. Helios-Apollon

S. auch 234 und → Apollon 473–484. 491.

Reliefs

380.* Marmormetope aus dem Athenatempel von Ilion (Troja). Berlin (DDR), Staatl. Mus. SK 71–72. – Jucker, H., «Zur Heliosmetope aus Ilion», AA 1969, 248 ff. Abb. 1–4; Rohde, E., Griechische und römische Kunst in den Staatl. Mus. zu Berlin (1968) 92 Taf. 70; Fuchs, Skulptur 3 423; Hoffmann 120; Thompson, a. O. 156, 143. – Um 300 v. Chr. – H. auf Viergespann nach r., seinen Kopf, von einem mächtigen Strahlenkranz bekrönt, dem Betrachter zuwendend. Jucker (249) hat auf dem Relief Spuren eines der gemalten Räder des Gespanns erkannt. Nach Hoffmann soll die Ilionmetope eine treue Reproduktion des Lyssippischen H. sein. Nach Thompson hat H. eine Kithara gehalten, wie aus dem Vergleich mit 381 hervorgeht.

381. (= Apollon 475* mit Lit.) Weihrelief, Marmor, fr. Delphi, Mus. 9449. Aus der Hermeion-Terrasse. – Frühhellenistisch. – Erhalten sind der Kopf des Apollo-H. mit Lorbeer und Strahlenkranz sowie Spuren einer Kithara, die er wohl sitzend mit der l. Hand hielt.

382.* (= Artemis 911 mit Lit.) Relief, Marmor. Boston, MFA 1977.171. Aus Attika. – 323 v. Chr. – L. von einem Altar vier Sterbliche, r. H. oder Apollo und Artemis-Selene oder Selene (Mondsichel auf ihrem Kopf). Apollo-H. ist mit keinem seiner bekannten charakteristischen Attribute versehen; er hält nur einen Stock in der r. Hand.

383. (= Apollon 480) Altar, Terrakotta. Istanbul, Arch. Mus. Aus Troja, Inv. 36552. – Thompson, a. O. 156, 143 Nr. 297 Taf. 57. – Spätes 2. oder 1. Jh. v. Chr. – H.-Apollon in Relief auf Viergespann nach l., sein Kopf dem Betrachter zugewandt. Er trägt eine vom Wind nach hinten gewehrte Chlamys und spielt auf der Kithara, die er an seiner r. Seite hält. Die Darstellung erinnert stark an die Ilionmetope (380) und scheint ihr sowie dem «lysippischen» H. nahestehen (Thompson).

Rundplastik

384. Bronzestatue des Apollon Parnopios, der das Land vor Heuschrecken rettete, auf der Akropolis von Athen, nach Paus. 1, 24, 8 angeblich von Pheidias. Vgl. dazu Tzetz. chil. 8, 333, der einen ἀνθῆλιος Ἀπόλλων des Pheidias nennt (s. auch die Inschrift einer Statue Konstantins bei Kedrenos hist. comp. p. 296a [Migne G 121, 564 B]: «Κωνσταντῖνος, ἔλαμψεν ἥλιος δίχην, ὃς ἦν ἔργον μὲν Φειδίου, ἤχθη δὲ ἐξ Ἀθηνῶν»).

B. Helios-Mithras?

385. Heliosbüste. Relief, Basalt. Damaskus, Mus. Nat. C 7939. – Zouhdi, B., Cat. du Mus. Nat. de Damas (1976) 88 Abb. 25. – Helios-Mithras?

C. Helios-Apollon-Mithras-Hermes

386. (= Apollon 509 mit Lit.) Statue des H.-Apollon-Mithras-Hermes im Hierotheseion des Antiochos I., des Königs von Kommagene, auf dem Nemrud Dağ. – 69–31 v. Chr. – Vierte Figur in einer Reihe kolossaler Sitzstatuen, alle inschriftlich benannt (s. dazu → Apollon 509).

D. Helios-Hermanubis

387. AE Drachme, Alexandria (Ägypten), Antoninus Pius, 138/39 n. Chr. – SNG Copenhagen (Alexandria) 429. – Rs.: Büste des H.-Hermanubis mit der Strahlenkrone nach r., bekrönt mit Modius und Lotos. Rechts Palmzweig. S. auch → Hermanubis 8g. 10a.

E. Helios-Sarapis

Vgl. 323.

GRIECHISCHE DARSTELLUNGEN

388. AE, Katane (Sizilien), 3.–2. Jh. v. Chr. – Gabrieli, Bronzo 124, 22; SNG Copenhagen (Sicily) 205. – Vs.: Kopf des H.-Sarapis mit Strahlenkrone und Lorbeerkranz nach r. Globus, Hörner und Federn als Kopfschmuck. Rs.: Stehende Isis.

RÖMISCHE DARSTELLUNGEN

389. AE, Magnesia am Maeander (Ionien), Alexander Severus (222–235 n. Chr.). – BMC Ionia 167, 67 Taf. 20, 2; Schultz, a. O. 49, 44 Taf. 19, 255 (R 18). – Rs.: Stehender H.-Sarapis mit Strahlenkrone und Modius von vorn, die Rechte erhoben, in der Linken Szepter.

390. Bi, Alexandria (Ägypten), Domitian, 86/87 n. Chr. – BMC Alexandria 35, 284 Taf. 15; Vogt, AlexMünzen I 55–57; II 18. – Rs.: H.-Sarapis mit Strahlenkrone und Modius, nach l. stehend. Die Rechte ist ausgestreckt, in der Linken Szepter. L. zu seinen Füßen Kerberos. ΗΛΙΟΣ ΣΑΡΑΠΙΣ.

391. Blei, Alexandria (Ägypten), anonym. – Geiblen/Weiser, AlexKaisermünzen IV 200, 3579. – Vs.: Brustbild des Antinoos (?). Rs.: Brustbild des Sarapis-H. mit Kalathos und Strahlenkrone.

S. auch → Sarapis Pantheos.

KOMMENTAR

Im späten 7. und 6. Jh. v. Chr., als das Griechentum reif genug war, sich mit den Rätseln des Kosmos zu befassen, begannen die griechischen Philosophen mit großem Eifer eine neue Erforschung des Weltalls und besonders des H. und der anderen Gestirne, die in engerer Beziehung zum Menschenleben stehen. Das Interesse verbreitet sich sofort auch unter den Künstlern und ebenso unter den einfachen Vasenmalern und anderen Handwerkern. Die Faszination des ganzen 6. Jh. v. Chr. durch den Kosmos widerspiegelt sich in dem dominierenden Platz, den die Darstellung der Gestirne bzw. des H. in der Kunst einnimmt, am anschaulichsten in den unzähligen erhaltenen Werken der Kleinkunst. Deshalb kann man mit Recht sagen, daß das plötzliche Auftreten der astralen Themen in der archaischen und frühklassischen Kunst der Philosophie verdankt wird, welche demnach der Kanal gewesen ist, durch den das Interesse für die Gestirne und besonders für H. in der griechischen Kunst geflossen ist, und die so die Kunst neu belebt und zu neuen Darstellungsarten geführt hat, was auch zu einer neuen Auffassung des H.kultes führte. Dafür haben auch manche Parallelen mit ägyptischen Vorstellungen beigetragen, die unter den griechischen vorsookratischen Denkern geläufig waren, nämlich zwischen Horos und Helios-Apollon (Hdt. 2, 156, 5; s. allgemein auch Hekataios, Diels Vorsokr. 5 73 B 7; Deichgräber, NachGöttingen NF 3, 8, 1939, 284).

Während aber die anthropomorphe Darstellung des H. in der geometrischen Zeit fehlt und in der früharchaischen Zeit selten oder unsicher ist, dominieren stattdessen in diesen beiden Perioden seine Attribute und Symbole: Scheibe (Diskus), Rosette, Kreis, Rad oder Stern, wobei nicht immer zu entscheiden ist, welche unter diesen zu H. oder anderen Lichtgottheiten gehören (Yalouris 313–318). In dieser Beziehung stehen offenbar auch die Scheibenakrotere und die Handspiegel mit Lichtgottheits- bzw. Helios-Vorstellungen in Verbindung (Yalouris a. O.). Die einzige uns erhaltene Darstellung des H. auf dem Wagen aus der früharchaischen Zeit befindet sich auf der theräischen Halsamphora (1), wenn die vorgeschlagene Interpretation das Richtige trifft. S. auch 10.

Gegen Ende des 6. Jh. v. Chr. nimmt plötzlich die anthropomorphe Vorstellung des H. einen dominierenden Platz ein. Seit er in Menschengestalt aufgefaßt wurde, wurde er nicht mehr unpersönlich angerufen (wie αἴγλη, ἀνὰ, λαμπρὸν φάος Ἥελιου); stattdessen wird jetzt der Glanz seiner ganzen Gestalt betont: Φαέθων, Ἠλέκτωρ, πασιφανής usw. In dieser ersten Phase ist er bärtig und wird in Vorderansicht auf dem Gespann, mit der Sonnenscheibe über seinem Kopf dargestellt (2–10. 96–99. 105). Auf diesen Werken ist H. stets bei seinem Aufgang dargestellt; deshalb ist nur der obere Teil von ihm und seinen Pferden sichtbar. Eine Ausnahme bildet 10, wo H., unbärtig, mit dem Gespann in voller Gestalt wiedergegeben wird. Die Rosse sind gewöhnlich geflügelt (2–4. 6–9. 11). Diese frontale Auffassung erscheint auch auf späteren Werken immer wieder (32–34). Unterhalb des Gespannes wird oft die Zone des Okeanos in Wellen- oder geraden Linien, mit oder ohne Fische, wiedergegeben. Die anthropomorphe Vorstellung des H. lebt seitdem ununterbrochen weiter und wird in die monumentale wie auch in die Kleinkunst aufgenommen. Dichter und Gelehrte sind unter dem Zeichen des Lichtgottes, wobei das Bild der Erde nicht mehr flach, sondern als eine Kugel im Universum, von H. und Selene flankiert, den Ergebnissen der Philosophen über den Kosmos folgend, gedacht wird. Die Verbindung des H. mit dem Weltall sowie mit den bedeutendsten kosmogonischen Mythen wird verherrlicht, indem die betreffenden Bilder von H. und Selene umrahmt werden:

Gigantenkampf: 68–71. 100; Geburt der Aphrodite: 117; Erschaffung der Pandora: 118; Parisurteil: 93. 94; Geburt der Athena: 122; Ilioupersis: 30?; Götterversammlung: 116. 119; andere mit Göttern und Heroen verbundene Szenen: 77. 83. 90. 111. 113. 121. 298. 302; H.' Aufgang und Selenes Untergang im allgemeinen: 105–108. 113. 114.

Außerdem wird H. seit dem Beginn des 5. Jh. v. Chr. meistens unbärtig und nach links oder nach rechts bewegt dargestellt. Diese wechselnde Bewegung des H. ist nicht immer mit Sicherheit zu erklären. Wenn seine Bewegung nach rechts wohl den Sonnenaufgang bedeutet (12. 14. 15. 21. 23–25. 27. 30. 36. 70. 72–76. 80. 84. 85. 106–108. 113. 116–120. 122), dann fragt es sich, was die umgekehrte Bewegung, nach links, meinen könnte (16–18. 20. 22. 26. 28. 29. 35. 68–71. 77–79. 81. 89. 93. 94. 100. 106. 109–112. 115. 121). Eine Deutung dafür bieten folgende Werke: Auf 102, wo H. im Becher, allein, oder auf 100, wo er mit Demeter nach links fahrend dargestellt wird, könnte sich diese Bewegung auf die nächtliche Fahrt des H. bzw. auf die winterliche Phase des Jahres beziehen, während welcher Dionysos in Delphi verweilt und die Wiederbelebung der Natur und die Befruchtung der Erde vollbringt. 100 sowie 69–71 (H. im Gigantenkampf) erklären sich dann wohl durch den Befehl des Zeus an H., nicht aufzugehen, solange die Schlacht dauere (Apollod. bibl. 1 [35] 6, 1). In seinem nächtlichen Aufenthalt aufgefaßt, ist also H. deshalb nach links fahrend dargestellt, um den Osten zu erreichen, und dann nach rechts fahrend, um der Erde das Tageslicht zu bringen.

Andererseits entspricht der seit dem frühen 5. Jh. v. Chr. feststellbare Wechsel von der frontalen, strengen, statischen, epiphaniartigen Haltung zu der seitlichen, bewegteren, weltlicheren Auffassung seinem Übergang vom altherwürdigen bzw. bärtigen, ja zeitlosen, unwandelbaren Gott zum jugendlichen, unbärtigen, jährlichen, ja zum täglichen, aktiveren, vom Vater des Chronos und der Horai zum Träger und Verursacher des Tageslichtes.

Diese Änderungen in der Vorstellung des H., die im frühen 5. Jh. v. Chr. stattfinden, fallen auch zusammen mit seiner Identifizierung mit Apollon, die schon in archaischer Zeit spürbar ist und im frühen 5. Jh. v. Chr. oder kurz darauf vollzogen wurde (s. lit. Quellen und unten).

Schließlich sind noch weitere Attribute und Bezeichnungen des H. zu erwähnen: H. wird als das Auge des Tages bezeichnet, während Selene das Auge der Nacht ist: Soph. Ant. 104; Aristoph. Nubes 285; s. auch Eur. Iph. T. 194–195; Orph. h. 8, 14. Im Hinblick auf diese Textstellen müssen vielleicht auch manchmal das Auge als Schildzeichen und eventuell weitere Augendarstellungen auf Vasen als Sonnensymbole verstanden werden (att. sf. Amphora München 1385, ABV 310: nahe dem Schaukelmaler; CVA 3 Taf. 18, 3; um 530 v. Chr.): ein riesengroßes Auge füllt als Zeichen den ganzen Schild, während der Schild eines anderen Kriegers mit einem Pentagramm verziert ist, vielleicht auch ein Sonnensymbol.

Seit der frühhellenistischen Zeit wird H. auch mit der Fackel dargestellt (Münzen 56–61. 353–359. 366), vielleicht unter dem Einfluß des Kleantes, der den H. als «Dadouchos der Mysterien» bezeichnet (SVF I 123 frag. 538); s. auch Simon, Pergamon 53. 57 Anm. 258: «die Fackel stoischer Einfluß».

Nach den obigen Ausführungen scheint es, daß der Kult der Sonne, wie auch der des Mondes, den Griechen nicht als «barbarisch» galt, wie, unter anderen, auch Nilsson (GrRel I<sup>4</sup> 840) behauptete, und daß einzelne diesbezügliche Texte (Aristoph. Pax 406–413) nicht wörtlich, sondern eher als poetisch-literarische Wendungen des Dialogs verstanden werden müssen.

Die ältesten uns bekannten Werke, die H.-Apollon darstellen, stammen aus dem 4. Jh. v. Chr. (380–382); auf allen drei Werken ist er mit den charakteristischen Attributen beider versehen (Strahlenkranz, Kithara, Lorbeer). S. auch 139. 383; Münzen 208. 211. 218. 267. 274. 281–282 und → Apollon S. 244–245. In der hellenistischen und römischen Zeit dominiert die Identifizierung beider Götter weit und breit.

Manche H.protomen wurden früher als Alexanderprotomen erklärt (169 [Stuart Jones, Hoffmann]. 170 [Bieber, Hoffmann]. 147), zumal Alexander in seiner divinisierenden Tendenz und als Verkörperung des Sonnengottes, wie später manche Kaiser, die Züge des lysippischen Helios erhielt (337. 340); aber auch umgekehrt hat die Darstellung des H. (135 [Dörig]. 170 [Hoffmann]. 176. 343) die Züge Alexanders übernommen: cf. Kleiner, G., in Charites, Festschr. E. Langlotz (1957) 101-102; Langlotz, E., RendPontAcc 48, 1975/76, 141; s. auch Berve, H., Alexanders Reich I 86.

Vorbilder für Alexanders Deifizierung sind in Mausolos von Halikarnass zu finden, der seine heroische Abstammung auf seinen göttlichen Vorfahren Mausolos-Helios zurückführte: cf. Buschor, E., Mausolos und Alexander (1950) 55-56; Hornblower, S., Mausolos (1982) 260-261. 268-271. 334-337.

NIKOLAOS YALOURIS;
für den Katalog der Münzen:
NIKOLAOS YALOURIS
und TAMARA VISSER-CHOITZ

HELIOS (IN PERIPHERIA ORIENTALI)

(Accadien Šamaš, araméen Šmeš, arabe Šams) Le Soleil jouait dans les religions anciennes du Proche-Orient asiatique un rôle de second plan; à l'ép. pré-hellénistique, il est surtout invoqué comme garant des serments et comme justicier, et cette dernière fonction est encore attestée à l'ép. romaine.

I. Dans la religion astrale qui se dégage au I<sup>er</sup> millénaire, pour trouver sa forme accomplie au I<sup>er</sup> s. av. J.-C., il est subordonné, comme d'autres planètes, à un dieu cosmique (Ba'alšamîn [→ Baalshamin], → Bel, → Zeus), comme l'expression principale de la toute-puissance du dieu suprême.

II. Il subsiste cependant plusieurs divinités solaires de caractère local, indépendantes des systèmes inspirés par l'astrologie: Yarhibôl (→ Iarhibol) à Palmyre et surtout les dieux recouverts par le nom d'Hélios ou de Šmeš / Sams (écrits l'un et l'autre šmš), qu'il n'est pas toujours possible de différencier. Les cultes arabes, répandus depuis l'ép. hellénistique, contribuent à la propagation de celui du Soleil.

III. Un troisième aspect est celui des cultes solaires. Un tel syncrétisme, considéré jadis comme quasi général à l'ép. romaine, était en réalité limité à des cas précis: → Malakbel à Palmyre, Mercure héliopolitain (→ Héliopolitani dei), Élagabal d'Émèse (→ Elagabalos), Notre Seigneur (Marân) de Hatra, peut-être un dieu mineur d'Arados. Ces dieux sont devenus l'émanation du dieu suprême, distincte ou identifiée avec lui.

Un cas très particulier est celui du culte de Mithras (→ Mithras).

Les dieux solaires se reconnaissent à leur nimbe radié, qui n'est pas cependant leur attribut exclusif. Parfois, ils sont figurés dans un char tiré par des Griffons (→ Gryps). Le symbolisme de l'aigle concerne surtout les dieux cosmiques et l'oiseau n'accompagne le Soleil que dans ce contexte.

SOURCES LITTÉRAIRES: Aristob. FGrH 139 F 56, 11 (cultes arabes); Strabon 16, 4, 26 p. 784 (cultes nabatéens); Philo Byblius, FGrH 790 F 2, 10, 7; Iul. or. 11 (4) (syncrétisme solaire); Macr. Sat. 1, 17, 3.

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Altheim, F., Helios und Heliodor (1942); Altheim, F./Stiehl, R., Die Araber in der alten Welt I (1964) 9. 11; Colledge, M. A. R., The Art of Palmyra (1976); Cumont, F., REV 2 (1905) 2219-2222 s. v. «Elagabalus»; idem, La théologie solaire du paganisme romain (1913); idem, «L'aigle funéraire de Hiérapolis», dans Études syriennes (1917) 35-69; idem, «Il sole vindice dei delitti ed il simbolo delle mani alzate», Mem-PontAcc 1, 1923, 35 s.; idem, Syria 14, 1933, 385 s. (liste d'invocations au soleil justicier); Dölger, F. G., Sol Salutis (1925); Drijvers, H. J. W., The Religion of Palmyra (1976); Marbach, E., REIII A 1 (1927) s. v. «Sol»; Röllig, W., dans Haussig I (1965) 226-231 (pour l'ép. pré-hellénistique en général); Ronzevalle, S., MélBeyrouth 5, 1912, 1-62; idem, «Hélioseiros», Aréthuse 26, 1930, 1-12 (extrait) pl. 2-4 = MélBeyrouth 16, 1932, 3-32; Safar, F./Mustafa, M. A., Al-Hadr madinat ul-Šams (Hatra, la ville du Soleil) (1974); Seyrig, H., Syria 10, 1929, 325. 335 (Mercure héliopolitain); idem, «Le culte du Soleil en Syrie à l'ép. romaine», Syria 48, 1971, 337-373; Starcky, J./Gawlikowski, M., Palmyre (1985) 90-97 passim; Teixidor, The Pagan God (1977) passim; idem, The Pantheon of Palmyra (1979) 64-69; Turcan, R., Les cultes orientaux dans le monde romain (1989) 170-180.

CATALOGUE

I. Hélios comme symbole astral

Accompagnant une autre divinité, souvent avec la Lune (→ Selene) et parfois avec d'autres planètes, il apporte au culte donné une référence cosmique; il est représenté en buste.

1.* Il accompagne l'aigle céleste sur le couronnement des niches votives à Palmyre. a)* (= Aglibol 10* avec bibl.) Linteau en calcaire. Palmyre, Mus. 6850 (B 1906). Du temple de Ba'alšamîn. - Collart, P./Vicari, J., Le sanctuaire de Baalshamin à Palmyre (1969) I 162-164; II pl. 97, 1-3; Drijvers 16. 28 (bibl.) pl. 32. - 1<sup>re</sup> moitié du I<sup>er</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - Bustes d'Aglibôl à g. et de H. (ou Malakbel ?) à dr. - b) Niche aux Griffons. Palmyre, Mus. Du temple de Ba'alshamin. - Collart/Vicari, o. c. I 157; II pl. 95, 1.3; Drijvers 13. 27 (bibl.) pl. 23, 2. - 1<sup>er</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - Représentation comparable. - c-d) Deux niches analogues: cf. Collart/Vicari, o. c. I 157-158; II pl. 95, 2.4.

2. (= Aglibol 18* avec bibl. = Baalshamin 22 avec bibl.) Autel de calcaire. Strasbourg, Bibl. Nat. - Seyrig, Syria 14, 1933, 281-282 = AntSyr I (1934) 130-131 pl. 26; Collart/Vicari, o. c. I, pl. 106, 3; Drijvers 15. 28 (bibl.) pl. 31. - 240 ap. J.-C. - Buste solaire (souvent interprété comme Malakbel) accompagnant, avec celui du dieu Lune, le buste du «dieu anonyme» auquel est dédié l'autel (inscr.).

3.* Bas-relief en calcaire. New Haven, Yale Univ. Y 235. De Doura-Europos, porte de Palmyre. - Perkins, A., The Art of Dura-Europos (1973) 89 pl. 36; Drijvers pl. 12. - 228/29 ap. J.-C. - Buste radié, cuirassé, en haut dans le champ, entre Némésis et le dédicant, le Palmyrénien Julius Aurelius Malochas (→ Némésis [in per. or.]).

4. Bas-relief. Damas, Mus. Nat. De Duweir, près de Sidon. - Bossert, H., Altsyrien (1951) fig. 533. -

295 ap. J.-C. - Bustes du Soleil et de la Lune au-dessus de deux taureaux; un dattier au milieu.

5. Cipe quadrangulaire en basalte. Soueida, Mus. De Aïn Zeman (prov. de Atil ?), Hauran. - Dunand, M., Le Musée de Soueida (1934) 22-23 n° 19 pl. 6. - Buste radié au-dessus d'une tête de femme. Face opposée: l'aigle au foudre.

6.* Autel. Beyrouth, Mus. Nat. Des environs de Tyr. - Cumont, F., Syria 8, 1927, 163 pl. 38. - Côtés: bustes d'H. nimbé, radié, et de Séléné. Face princ.: l'aigle au foudre et deux taureaux (→ Hadad).

7.* Autel. Beyrouth, Mus. Nat. De 'Aqura, près d'Afqa (Liban). - Cumont, o. c. 6, 167 pl. 39. - Répartis sur les quatre côtés: buste d'H., buste mutilé au croissant, foudre, taureau.

8. Autel. Paris, Louvre. De Mašnaka. - Renan, E., Mission de Phénicie (1864) 290 pl. 32, 2. - Buste d'H. flanqué, sur les côtés, des foudres.

9. Statue d'Apollon hiérapolitain (dite d'Aššurbel). Baghdad, Iraq Mus. De Hatra. - Lenzen, H., AA 1955, 339 fig. 2-3; Seyrig, H., Syria 47, 1970, 92-93 fig. 12; Safar/Mustafa fig. 227. - Buste drapé du Soleil sur la poitrine cuirassée du dieu.

10. Base. Du sanctuaire «syrien» du Janicule. - Gauckler, P., Le sanctuaire syrien du Janicule (1912) 160. - Bustes d'H. et de Séléné flanquant un taureau.

11. a) Médaillons de terre cuite, avec bustes solaires de Mercure Héliopolitain. Paris, Louvre, et Beyrouth, Mus. Nat. Trouvés dans les villages de la Bêqa'. - Seyrig (1971) 367-369 fig. 6. - Buste solaire seul, ou avec ceux de Jupiter et Vénus héliopolitains. - b) (= Héliopolitani dei 87*-88* avec bibl.) Disques en plomb. Berlin, Staatl. Mus., et Beyrouth, Mus. Nat. Loc. inconnue pour certains ex. De la fontaine Aïn Djoudj à Baalbek. - Seyrig (1929) 325. 335 pl. 86. - Disques dans un croissant, surmontés d'une tête radiée.

12. Bustes d'H. et de la Lune flanquant les images de Zeus/Iuppiter Dolichenus. - P. ex. Kan, A. H., De Iovis Dolicheni cultu (1901) 43 n° 28a; 103 n° 145a.

13.* Médaillon de terre cuite. Londres, BM 102803. De Palmyre. - Rostovtzeff, M., AJA 37, 1933, 59 n° 1 pl. 9, 1; idem, Caravan Cities (1932) 151 pl. 21, 1. - Autour d'une déesse trônant entre deux lions (→ Atargatis ou → Allath), buste solaire, buste de femme voilée, astre et croissant.

14. Médaillon de terre cuite. Paris, Louvre. - Du Mesnil du Buisson, R., Les tessères et les monnaies de Palmyre (1962) 568 pl. 124; pour le texte, Gawlikowski, M., Semitica 23, 1973, 121-123. - Buste radié et nimbé, au croissant, dédié à Ba'alšamîn.

15. (= Ares [in per. or.] 7 avec bibl.) Relief ornant le plafond du thalamos nord du temple de Bel à Palmyre, in situ. - Drijvers pl. 2; Seyrig, H./Amy, R./Will, E., Le temple de Bel à Palmyre (1975) 83. 182 pl. 7 et Album 58-59. - 32 ap. J.-C. - Buste solaire, avec ceux des autres planètes (→ Planetæ).

16. Relief architectural en calcaire, ornant le propylée de la cella du temple de Bel à Palmyre, in situ. - Seyrig/Amy/Will, o. c. 15, pl. 113-114. - 32 ap. J.-C. - Buste solaire, avec celui du dieu Lune.

17.* Bas-relief, fr. de niche culturelle en calcaire.

Palmyre, Mus. 6534 (B 1734). Du sanctuaire de Nabû. - Colledge 42 fig. 23; Drijvers 19. 32 (bibl.) pl. 50, 3. - 1<sup>er</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - Buste radié, cuirassé, flanqué de deux aigles: → Malakbel.

18. Relief en calcaire. Loc. inconnue. De Khirbet Tannur (ancien pays d'Édom). - Glueck, N., Deities and Dolphins (1965) 454-455 fig. 136. - 1<sup>er</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - Buste solaire ayant décoré, avec d'autres bustes, la façade du temple; radié et nu (sauf un manteau agrafé), deux torches derrière les épaules.

19. Relief. Loc. inconnue. Anc. à Mahay (ancien pays de Moab). Trouvé à l'entrée d'un temple. - Brünnow, R./v. Domszowski, A., Die Provincia Arabia I (1905) 70-75 fig. 71; Musil, A., Arabia Petraea I (1907) 81-82. 367; Glueck, o. c. 18, 59.

20. Deux blocs en relief (fr. de linteau ?) réemployés dans une maison du Djebel Druze. - Glueck, o. c. 18, 472 pl. 138. - Bustes d'H. (radié) et de Séléné (croissant), drapés, avec torches. Celui d'H. était primitivement à g. Autres blocs: une guirlande à masques (à l'origine entre les deux bustes ?), un aigle.

21. Relief en calcaire sur un chapiteau de pilastre quadrangulaire. Qasr Rabbah (anc. pays de Moab, Jordanie), réemployé dans une maison. Du temple de Qasr Rabbah. - Glueck, o. c. 18, 58. 454-455 fig. 137a. - Buste solaire drapé et radié, nimbe en fort relief.

22.* Bas-relief en basalte. Soueida, Mus. 46. De Si'â. - Dunand, o. c. 5, 39 n° 46 pl. 15. - Buste drapé, radié.

23. Relief en basalte. Loc. inconnue. Du fronton du temple de Ba'alšamîn à Si'â. - Butler, H. C., Syria Princeton Expedition II A (1919) 380 fig. 331. 333 G. - 1<sup>er</sup> s. av. J.-C. - Tête radiée. Cf. 22. 31.

24. Relief sur linteau. Loc. inconnue. De Mašhara (Gaulan). - Ben-Dov, M., IEJ 24, 1974, 185-186 pl. 38. - Buste solaire avec croissant, accompagnant ceux d'un dieu barbu et d'une déesse lunaire.

25. Reliefs de frontons. Aïn Hersha (Hermon, Syrie), temple, in situ. - Krencker, D./Zschischmann, W., Römische Tempel in Syrien (1938) 245; Mousterde, R., MélBeyrouth 29, 1952, pl. 4-5. - Bustes du Soleil sur le fronton de la façade, de la Lune sur le fronton arrière.

26. Relief de tympan. Qasr Naus (Liban), temple. - Krencker/Zschischmann, o. c. 25, 12 fig. 20-21. - Buste d'H. provenant du décor du tympan.

27. Bas-relief. Merjiyat (Chouf, Liban), façade du temple, in situ, sur le mur. - Tallon, M., MélBeyrouth 43, 1968, 236 pl. 3. - Buste d'H., autel et orant.

28. Relief de tympan, en calcaire. Dmeir (près de Damas), temple. - Inédit. - Bustes du Soleil et de la Lune sur le tympan.

29. Naos monolithe, en basalte. Soueida, Mus. De Si'â. - Dunand, o. c. 5, 28 n° 30 pl. 11. - Au fronton, flanquant un aigle, à dr. masque entouré d'un nimbe radié, à g. buste drapé de Séléné inscrit dans un croissant.

30. Graffito sur un quartier de roc irrégulier. Loc. inconnue (Damas, Mus. Nat. ?). De Khirbet Abû Dûhûr (Palmyrène). - Schlumberger, D., La Palmyrène du Nord-Ouest (1951) 79-80 fig. 36 et pl. 38, 1. - Daté d'août 147 ap. J.-C. - Dessin à la pointe représentant un temple de Ba'alšamîn (à Palmyre ?) avec le dieu assis, un dédicant, un cavalier. Au fronton, tête radiée entre deux aigles.

31. Relief fr. en calcaire représentant un naos. Damas, Mus. Nat. De Palmyre. - Chabot, J.-B., Choix d'inscriptions de Palmyre (1922) pl. 23, 2; Seyrig, H., Syria 13, 1932, 191 fig. 2 = AntSyr I (1934) 28; Schlumberger, o. c. 30, 91 pl. 41, 3. - 119 ap. J.-C. - Buste du Soleil au centre du fronton (vêtement orné, nimbe radié) entre des rinceaux, au-dessus d'un groupe comprenant une déesse et trois dieux, dont Bel.

32.* AE, monnaies impériales de Tripolis (Phénicie), Élagabal, 219-221 ap. J.-C. - BMC Phoenicia CXXII et 222-223 n<sup>os</sup> 110-117 pl. 28, 3-4; 43, 12. - Rv. Buste d'H. drapé et radié sur le fronton du sanctuaire de Zeus Hagios à Tripolis. Entre les colonnes, de part et d'autre d'un autel, à g. H. debout, radié, main dr. levée (chlamyde), à dr. Séléné debout (vêtement long, croissant, torche oblique). Mêmes figures, mais buste moins net, sur des monnaies de Caracalla et Julia Domna: BMC 215-216 n<sup>os</sup> 73-75. 79-82 pl. 27, 14, 17.

33. Disques avec bustes solaires sur les enseignes (semeia) de Hatra. - Safar/Mustafa fig. 139-140. 171. 293 (avec un aigle). 183 (avec Nergôl [- Nergal]). 303 (avec → Herakles). - Le disque solaire surmonte d'autres disques lisses et des anneaux.

34. Coupe en albâtre. Palmyre, Mus. D'un tombeau de Palmyre. - Fellmann, R., Le sanctuaire de Ba'alšamîn à Palmyre V. Die Grabanlage (1970) 96-99 pl. 13, 10; Colledge 96. 222 fig. 51c. - I<sup>er</sup> s. av. J.-C. - Buste drapé et radié dans un croissant; derrière les épaules, têtes de chevaux empanachées.

35.* Médaille en calcaire dur. Palmyre, Mus. 7955 (2226 B). De Palmyre, temple de Nabû. - Bounni, A., Archéologia (Paris) mai-juin 1967, 44; Drijvers 13. 27 (bibl.) pl. 23, 1. - II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - Buste drapé, cuirassé, nimbe et radié.

36. Petite dalle fr. Copenhague, Glypt. - Ingholt, H., Berytus 3, 1936, 116 pl. 23, 3. - I<sup>er</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - Buste radié dans un cadre.

37. Relief en basalte. Soueida, Mus. De Si'â. - Dunaan, o. c. 5, 36-37 n<sup>o</sup> 41 pl. 15. - Tête radiée (?).

38. Bas-relief en calcaire. Loc. inconnue. De Galilée. - Seyrig (1929) 336 pl. 82, 1, corrigé pour la provenance: MélBeyrouth 46, 1970, 203-205 pl. 1. - Buste du Soleil de face, sur un char tiré par deux aigles.

39. Relief sur une plaque rectangulaire. - Perdrietz, P., RA 1903/1, 398. - Tête radiée.

40. Relief rupestre. Ma'ûla (Syrie), in situ. - Nasrallah, J., AnnArchSyr 9, 1959, 67 pl. 3-4, 1. - Buste d'H. dans une niche; à côté, le buste d'→ Athena dans une autre niche.

II. Le dieu Soleil à Palmyre

(Šams, Ḥaliôs πατρώος) Dieu arabe, associé souvent à Allat, représenté en pied, le plus souvent en habit militaire, et en buste. En militaire, il ne se distingue de rien de Yarhibôl ou Malakbel dans l'une de leurs formes; c'est la compagnie d'Allat qui permet de l'identifier.

41. a)* Bas-relief en calcaire. Damas, Mus. Nat. 5216. De Khirbet Wadi Suwân (Palmyrène). - Schlumberger, o. c. 30, 70-71 n<sup>o</sup> 1 pl. 31, 1; Drijvers pl. 56, 1. - Allat guerrière et le dédicant entourent le Soleil nimbe et radié, en longue robe ceinturée, bénissant de la main dr., une torche allumée dans la g. - b) Fr. de relief en calcaire. Paris, coll. Sauve. De Palmyre. - Seyrig, H., Syria 21, 1940, 327-328 = AntSyr III (1946) 114-115 fig. 35. - Le Soleil n'est pas conservé, sauf la main dr. levée.

42.* Bas-relief fr. en calcaire. Damas, Mus. Nat. De Khirbet Wadi Suwân. - Schlumberger, o. c. 30, 73 n<sup>o</sup> 17 pl. 31, 2; Drijvers 20. 33 (bibl.) pl. 56, 2; Colledge 49 pl. 39. - Le Soleil en cuirasse romaine, nimbe et radié, la lance dans la main dr., accompagné par une déesse casquée au long sceptre, vraisemblablement Allat.

43.* Bas-relief votif en calcaire. Damas, Mus. Nat. 10 417. De Palmyre. - Drijvers pl. 59. - A g. dieu radié et nimbe, en militaire romain, avec lance et palme, accompagnant un dieu nimbe vêtu de même et une déesse armée.

44.* Autel octogonal en calcaire. Palmyre, Mus. De Palmyre. - Michalowski, K., Palmyre II (1962) 134 fig. 150; Drijvers 20. 33 (bibl.) pl. 60, 2. - I<sup>er</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - Trois faces de l'autel étaient ornées des images des dieux debout; le seul conservé est un dieu en cuirasse romaine, radié, lance en main.

IDENTIFICATION INCERTAINE

45. Fr. de relief. Loc. inconnue. De Palmyre. - Michalowski, o. c. 44, 136 fig. 152. - Fr. de buste cuirassé, radié.

46. Fr. de stèle en marbre. Palmyre, Mus. 7971 (2232 B). De Palmyre, sanctuaire de Nabû. - Bounni, A./Saliby, N., AnnArchSyr 15, 1965, 135 pl. 4; Drijvers pl. 50, 1. - Dieu cuirassé, nimbe, radié, avec lance.

47. Autel votif en calcaire. Palmyre, Mus. De Palmyre. - CIS II 3979; Seyrig, H., Syria 18, 1937, 203 fig. 1 = AntSyr II (1938) 100 fig. 38; Drijvers 20. 33 (bibl.) pl. 60, 1. - I<sup>er</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - Le relief représente Malakbel (inscrit) et le dédicant, mais la dédicace s'adresse à Šams «le dieu bon», Ḥaliôs πατρώος καὶ ἐπιχώσιος Θεῶ.

48. Autel en calcaire. Oxford, Ashmolean Library. De Palmyre. - CIS II 3978. - 85 ap. J.-C. - Offert à Šams, «dieu des pères».

49. H. Šams sur les tessères en terre cuite de Palmyre. Loc. diverses. a) RTP n<sup>os</sup> 139. 335. 338. 340. - Buste radié, drapé ou cuirassé, nommé šmš. - b) RTP n<sup>o</sup> 141. - Deux bustes radiés, opposés, inscrits comme Bel et Šams. - c) RTP n<sup>os</sup> 260. 346-388. - Bustes radiés sans inscr. (les autres dieux radiés à Palmyre sont Aglibôl, Malakbel, Yarhibôl, → Arsû). - d) Bustes radiés de profil sur des empreintes de sceaux (types occidentaux): RTP n<sup>os</sup> 13. 202. 586 (avec Séléné); 700-776. 832. 835. 1026. 1031 (surmontant un aigle); 1042. 1044. 1053. 1085 (Soleil monté sur un char).

Dieux solaires de la Béqa'

50. Relief rupestre. Ferzol, près de Baalbek. - Ronzevalle, S., MélBeyrouth 21, 1937, 29 s; Seyrig (1971) 348 fig. 4. - Dieu cavalier radié, près d'un dattier, avec un Génie nu.

51. Petite statue fr. en calcaire. Beyrouth, Mus. Nat. D'Aithenit (Beqa' sud). - Seyrig, H., Syria 28, 1951, 121 fig. 12 = AntSyr IV (1953) 168 fig. 29. - Dieu debout, cuirassé, radié.

52. (= Helioseiros 1*-2*) Hélioseiros sur les monnaies de Chalcis (AE), de Trajan à Commode. - Ronzevalle (1930) 1-12 pl. 2, 1-4 = (1932) 3-14; Seyrig, H., Syria 47, 1970, 94-95 fig. 14; Price, M./Trell, B. L., Coins and their Cities (1977) 166 fig. 294. L'attribution des pièces à Chalcis du Liban (Ronzevalle) ou Chalcis du Bélu (Seyrig) reste en suspens. - Rv. Dieu debout, drapé, radié, tenant une lance et un bouclier dans la main g., une grande palme dans la dr. Ronzevalle rapproche son nom de Σελπιός et d'un théonyme arabe attesté littérairement, pour en faire un «H. caniculaire». Sauf pour la couronne radiée, il s'apparente à la longue série des dieux armés (Seyrig, o. c.).

53. Cultes du Soleil attestés épigraphiquement. Culte arabe à Délos: Bruneau, Cultes 449 n<sup>os</sup> 4-6; ID 1444 Aa, 51 (141/0 av. J.-C.); 2321; Eissfeldt, O., Orientalische Literaturzeitung 44, 1941, 433; Milik, J. T., ap. Seyrig, Syria 42, 1965, 26 n. 2 = AntSyr VI (1966) 142 n. 3. - Gêrasa, avec → Sarapis: Jones, A. H. M., JRS 18, 1928, 172 n<sup>o</sup> 41. - Sôf près de Gêrasa, avec Zeus Beelbôsôros (Baal de Bosra), I<sup>er</sup> s. ap. J.-C.: Sourdel, D., Les cultes du Hauran à l'époque romaine (1952) 58. - Deir el-Leben et Damit el-Alya (Hauran), Zeus Anikêtos Hélios, dieu d'Aumos, IV<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C.: Sourdel, o. c. 54-56. - Bêrytos, H. assimilé à → Kronos, IGRom III 1076. - Qassaba près de Byblos: Ronzevalle, S., RBibl 12, 1903, 409. - Temples d'H. à Smeid et Buraq (Hauran), II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C.: Sourdel, o. c. 53; à Brad (Djebel Zawiyé): Tchalenko, G., Villages antiques de la Syrie du Nord III (1958) 6 n<sup>o</sup> 7.

III. Dieux solarisés

A. Malakbel

Dieu palmyrénien de la végétation; comme dieu solaire, il est presque toujours représenté en cuirasse romaine, nimbe et radié, et ne se distingue de Yarhibôl et de Šams (supra 41-49) que par ses associations à d'autres dieux.

54.* Autel à reliefs, en marbre. Rome, Mus. Cap. Du Jardin Mattei. - Cumont, F., Syria 9, 1928, 101-110 pl. 38-39; Seyrig (1971) 350 n. 3; Drijvers 17. 30 (bibl.) pl. 40-43. - II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. - Représentations des quatre étapes de la course du Soleil (diurne selon Cumont, plutôt annuelle d'après Seyrig), dont l'une figure un buste solaire, inscrit Soli Sanctissimo.

B. Mercure héliopolitain (→ Heliopolitani dei)

Jeune dieu du renouveau et de la végétation, solarisé vers le début du I<sup>er</sup> s. ap. J.-C., comme Malakbel, par l'association du cycle annuel du Soleil et de la nature. - Cf. Seyrig, H., (1929) 353 s, corrigé (1971) 347. Cf. supra 11. Identifié à Malakbel: Waddington, W. H., Inscr. gr. et lat. de la Syrie (1870) 1875 A (Abila, 201 ap. J.-C.).

55. Autel de la triade héliopolitaine, à Antioche. - Seyrig (1929) 328 pl. 83. - Terme de Mercure portant l'image d'un dieu radié, figuré sur un char tiré par des Griffons.

C. Arados et sa pérée

Seyrig suppose dubitativement un syncrétisme solaire concernant un dieu de la végétation, parallèlement à A et B.

56. AE, monnaies d'Arados, Carné, Gabala, Marathos, Zimyra (villes de la pérée d'Arados), Laodicée, I<sup>er</sup> s. av. J.-C. - Seyrig, H., RNum 1964, 9-28 pl. 3, 13.22.c-d-e = Scripta numismatica (1986) 79-98 p. 140; idem (1971) 359-360; Rey-Coquais, J.-P., Arados et sa pérée (1974) 240 n. 4. - Av. Buste juvénile, radié et drapé, de profil à dr. Rv. Divers types: proue de navire (Gabala), épis (Arados), corne d'abondance (Carné), etc.

57. AE, monnaies de Balanée, Élagabal (218-222). - Seyrig, H., Syria 26, 1949, 24; 47, 1970, 97 fig. 20; idem (1971) 359-360 fig. 5. - Rv. Dieu en char, radié, vu de face (quadriga «éclatée»). Avant et après, ce dieu, qui porte une coiffure conique, n'a pas d'attributs solaires: cf. Seyrig, o. c. 56, 40-41 (110-111).

D. Élagabal d'Émèse (→ Elagabalos, in fine)

Le bétyle d'Émèse n'avait pas d'attributs solaires. La solarisation semble un fait secondaire, attesté par l'épigraphie.

58.* AE, monnaies d'Émèse, Antonin (138-161). - BMC Galatia... 238 n<sup>o</sup> 8 pl. 27, 10. - Rv. Buste d'H. à dr., drapé et radié.

59.* AR et Bi, tétradrachmes provinciaux syriens frappés à Émèse sous Julia Domna, Caracalla et Macrin, 215-218. - Bellinger, A. R., The Syrian Tetradrachms of Caracalla and Macrinus (1940) 62-65 n<sup>os</sup> 178-210 pl. 14-15, 7. - Rv. Sous l'aigle qui occupe le champ, petit buste radié et drapé, à g. (n<sup>os</sup> 178-197. 199-210) ou de face sur un piédestal (n<sup>o</sup> 198).

60.* Stèle en calcaire. Damas, Mus. Nat. C 7939. Provenance incertaine (environs de Homs ?). - Seyrig, H., Syria 36, 1959, 58-60 pl. 11, 5 = AntSyr VI (1966) 31-33 pl. 11, 5; du Mesnil du Buisson, o. c. 14, 212-213 fig. 142; Colledge 42 pl. 28; Zouhdi, B., dans Cat. du Mus. Nat. (1976) 88 fig. 25; Drijvers 12. 25 (bibl.) pl. 16. - Daté (inscr.) 30/1 ap. J.-C. - Buste radié de face au croissant, cuirassé et drapé d'un manteau, inscrit Ḥaliôs θεῶς μεγίστων. Dans le champ, serpent; sur la plinthe, sept bustes (planétaires?)

E. Notre Seigneur (Maran) de Hatra

Le culte principal de cette ville était celui de Notre Seigneur (Marân) identifié au Soleil. Les monnaies portent la légende «Hatra de Šams», avec un buste radié: cf. Slocum, J., ANS MN 22, 1977, 37-47. L'identification de Marân au Soleil remonte au II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C. (Aggoula, B., Berytus 18, 1969, 101-102). L'iconographie locale, encore mal étudiée, présente des bustes radiés (Safar/Mustafa fig. 88. 122), des bustes radiés avec croissant (fig. 90), des statuettes debout radiées (fig. 75-76. 268), deux dieux radiés dans une assemblée (fig. 279). Cf. supra 9. 33. Il paraît que la couronne radiée n'est pas l'attribut exclusif de Šams.

COMMENTAIRE

Il y a lieu de distinguer nettement entre les vrais cultes solaires et leur expression imagée d'une part, et le symbolisme astral exprimé en l'occurrence par les bustes radiés de l'autre.

Les bustes solaires (I-14), souvent accompagnés par ceux d'autres planètes, traduisent les doctrines astrologiques dans leur application au culte, et sont de ce fait attribués à des dieux différents (mais surtout aux dieux suprêmes, d'où la fréquence de l'aigle, du taureau, de la foudre comme symboles associés, → Hadad), pour souligner leur caractère cosmique. Ces bustes sont un emblème courant dans l'architecture des temples, en particulier au fronton (15-32). Certains nous sont parvenus dissociés de leur contexte (33-40). Il s'agit d'une représentation symbolique, et non de personnages mythiques.

Les divers cultes particuliers du dieu Soleil proprement dit sont difficiles à distinguer sur le plan iconographique, le même type étant appliqué aux représentations de plusieurs divinités solaires locales. Le type du Soleil cuirassé et armé, le plus courant, relève d'une tendance générale de l'iconographie des dieux de la steppe; il est utilisé indifféremment pour Yarhibôl, Malakbel et Šams à Palmyre. Les images de ces dieux, lorsqu'elles sont anépigraphes, ne sont identifiables que par l'association à d'autres dieux, le cas échéant (Šams avec Allat: 41-49). On ne connaît qu'un seul cas de Šams palmyrénien non armé (41). Sur les tessères, le dieu radié est représenté en buste, comme le sont le plus souvent les autres divinités (49).

Les monuments 50-51 relèvent d'un culte non identifié de la Beqa', peut-être ituréen; la localisation de celui d'Hélioseiros (52) demeure incertaine.

Vers le début du I<sup>er</sup> s. ap. J.-C., plusieurs dieux prédisant au cycle végétal prennent secondairement les traits solaires, par analogie avec le cycle annuel du Soleil, en devenant en même temps l'émanation d'un dieu suprême; ce syncrétisme est démontré pour Malakbel («Messager de Bel») et Mercure de Baalbek, il est possible pour le dieu solaire d'Arados (III A-C).

Deux autres syncrétismes accusent un caractère différent, par lequel Šams arabe s'identifie aux dieux poiliades d'Émèse et de Hatra. Ils apparaissent vers le milieu du II<sup>e</sup> s. ap. J.-C., avec la solarisation d'Élagabal et de Marân (l'attribution du relief 60 à Émèse n'a rien de certain). Après la destruction de Hatra en 240, le culte d'Émèse continue tout au long du III<sup>e</sup> s. au moins. Un cas parallèle, mais cantonné dans une partie du Hauran et attesté seulement par l'épigraphie, est le culte du dieu Aumos, Διὸς ἀννιήτου Ἡλίου θεοῦ Αὐμοῦ, au IV<sup>e</sup> s. (53). Il est abusif de généraliser cette tendance à la solarisation, bien qu'elle soit très prononcée dans les spéculations savantes de l'époque.

MICHEL GAWLIKOWSKI

USIL

(Usil, Usil) Etruskischer Name des Sonnengottes. Der Name U. ist aus drei Inschriften bekannt: Er ist dem Sonnengott beigeschrieben auf den Spiegeln 19 und 20 und erscheint auf der Leber von Piacenza in der Form «usils» auf der durch einen Querstrich in zwei Hälften unterteilten, konvexen Unterseite. Dort steht im anderen Teil «tivs»; er wird also der Mondgottheit Tiv, Tiur zugewiesen. Beide Namen dürfen hier wohl appellativ verstanden werden; sie bezeichnen dann Sonne und Mond oder Tag und Nacht (zur Bedeutung der Unterteilung zuletzt Maggiani, A., StEtr 50, 1982, 77. 81). Von Opfern an Thesan (→ Eos/Thesan) und uslan ist wahrscheinlich die Rede im V. Abschnitt (Zeile 21) der Agramer Mumienbinden (TLE<sup>2</sup> 1, S. 17 V. «thesane. uslane»). Als zweiter Name des etruskischen Sonnengottes wird meist Catha/Cavtha/Cautha angenommen. Ausgangspunkt der Gleichsetzung von Catha und Sonne ist die Dioskurides-Glosse (3, 138; TLE<sup>2</sup> 823), nach der die Römer ἀμάρων, eine Pflanze mit weißen Blütenblättern um eine gelbe Mitte (zu ἀμάρων = σάμψουρον: Dioskurides 3, 39), solis oculum oder millefolium, die Etrusker aber kavthā nannten. Daß kauta gerade mit «solis oculum» zu übersetzen ist, wird allgemein angenommen, ist aber nicht zwingend. Außerdem können cautha (arch. cavutha, kavutha, kavtha, kavthā) und cath(a) nicht ohne weiteres gleichgesetzt werden; aus sprachlicher Sicht ist die Identität der beiden Namen unwahrscheinlich, s. Rix, H., StEtr 55, 1987, «Rivista di epigrafia etrusca» zu der etrusk. Inschrift auf dem att. rf. Skyphos Kopenhagen, Glypt. V 35 = Inv. 2718 (im Druck).

Daß Cautha/Kavtha eine Kultgottheit ist, geht aus Weihinschriften aus San Feliciano del Lago (TLE<sup>2</sup> 622; Cristofani, M., StEtr 43, 1975, 212-213 Nr. 16; hier ist kautha eindeutig weiblich) und Populonia (Cristofani Martelli, M., StEtr 43, 1975, 213-215 Nr. 17) sowie aus ihrer Nennung auf dem Blei von Magliano (TLE<sup>2</sup> 359: cavithas) hervor. Besonders interessant sind drei erst kürzlich bekannt gewordene Inschriften: In Pyrgi ist Kavatha/Kavutha möglicherweise Kultgenossin von Suri (Apollon in einem chthonischen Aspekt?; s. Cristofani, M., Gnomon 60, 1988, 562); die oben erwähnte Inschrift auf dem Skyphos aus Kopenhagen (cavuthas sechis, aus Orvieto) nennt die Tochter der Cavutha. Entscheidende Hinweise auf den Charakter der Göttin Cautha ergeben sich freilich auch daraus nicht.

«Cath» ist auf der Leber von Piacenza zweimal genannt, beide Male in einer ähnlichen Sequenz, zwischen neth(uns) bzw. tinsthneht und fufluns (s. Maggiani, A., StEtr 50, 1982, 56 Nr. 7-9 und 57 Nr. 22-24; 55 Abb. 1; dort auch ausführliche Bibl.; zu neth a. O. 56 Nr. 7; 61). Catha und *Pacha/Fufluns sind auch miteinander verbunden in Kulturen in Toscana und Tarquinia (TLE<sup>2</sup> 190. 131; Cristofani, M./Martelli, M., StEtr 46, 1978, 128-130). Mit Nethuns (→ Poseidon/Nethuns) zusammen sind der Sonnengott Usil und die Göttin der Morgenröte (Eos/Thesan) auf dem Spiegel 19 dargestellt; beide steigen am Morgen aus dem Meer empor. In diesen Zusammenhang paßt Dionysos/Fufluns, der mit Catha ja offensichtlich besonders eng verbunden ist, nicht hinein. Allerdings wird Usil auf dem Spiegel durch das Attribut des Bogens an Apollon/Aplu angeglichen; und deshalb könnte möglicherweise die Verbindung von Apollon und Dionysos auf Catha und *Pacha übertragen worden sein (so Simon 155; zu Dionysos und Helios vgl. auch Koch, C., Gestirnverehrung im alten Italien [1933] 60; schließlich wäre noch die Stelle bei Serv. georg. 1, 5 anzuführen, nach der die Stoiker «eundem Solem, eundem Liberum, eundemque Apollinem vocant», vgl. Maggiani a. O. 81).

Schließlich ist «cath» auf der Leber von Piacenza mit der rätselhaften «Celeritas Solis filia» gleichgesetzt worden, die Martianus Capella 1, 50-51 allerdings an etwas anderer Stelle, in seiner Himmelsregion VI, zwischen «Iovis filii Pales et Favors» und «Mars Quirinus et Genius» nennt; Liber folgt dort im nächsten Abschnitt, VII (cf. Thulin, C., Die Götter des Martianus Capella und der Bronzeleber von Piacenza [1906] 5). Die Feststellung, daß Catha und Fufluns einerseits und Celeritas Solis filia und Liber andererseits jeweils in benachbarten Feldern bzw. Regionen liegen, ist zweifellos richtig; eine Gleichsetzung gerade von catha und celeritas ist aber nicht zwingend, da ja bei Martianus mehr Götter genannt sind, als auf der Leber in diesem Bereich zu finden sind; genauso gut könnte cath etwa mit Pales identifiziert werden (vgl. dazu auch Thulin a. O. 51, der Pales dann allerdings mit dem Sonnengott gleichsetzt).

Ein Hinweis darauf, daß die Wurzel kath- mit der Sonne gleichzusetzen ist, wurde auch in der Weihinschrift auf einem großen Halbmond aus Bronze gesehen, der der Mondgottheit Tiur geweiht ist: «mi tiuirs kathuniasul» (TLE<sup>2</sup> 748; Colonna, G., Santuari d'Etruria, cat. mostra Arezzo 1985, 29 Nr. 1.4; Roncalli, F., in Antichità dall'Umbria in Vaticano, Cat. mostra Vaticano 1988, 78 Nr. 4.5; nach mündlicher Mitteilung von A. Rastrelli auf dem XVII Convegno di Studi Etruschi e Italici «La civiltà di Chiusi e del suo territorio», Chianciano Terme 1989 nicht in Chianciano, sondern zwischen Chiusi und dem Monte Cetona gefunden); doch ist auch dies äußerst unsicher, solange die Wortbildung mit dem Suffixkonglomerat -unias- nicht wenigstens annähernd verständlich ist. Die Abtrennung der Buchstaben ati cath (= Mutter «Sonne») in den Agramer Mumienbinden (VI 18; s. Roncalli, F., in Scrivere etrusco. Cat. mostra Perugia 1985, 37. 51) ist ebenfalls wenig wahrscheinlich, da dann vor ati der Buchstabe c isoliert bleibt (das vorhergehende Wort lautet mit großer Sicherheit acil) und bei dem Stamm cath zumindest ein Buchstabe, etwa a oder s, fehlt (auf den Agramer Mumienbinden wird nicht abgekürzt).

Ein letzter, entscheidend scheinender Nachweis für die Identifizierung von Catha mit dem Sonnengott ist m. E. hinfällig: die Inschrift cathesan auf dem Spiegel 30 (= Catha 1) wurde nach der ansprechenden Vermutung von C. Koch (a. O. 61; ihm folgend z. B. Pfiffig, RelEtr 243-244; Bloch, R., → Eos/Thesan, Kommentar) als cath thesan, d. h. sol matutinus, Morgensonne erklärt. Die sprachliche Problematik zweier unreflektiert aneinandergereihter und verschmolzener Namen wurde freilich auch schon gesehen (G. Camporeale, → Catha). Die Schwierigkeit läßt sich wohl lösen, wenn man thesan hier appellativ als «Morgen» auffaßt (s. hierzu auch Pfiffig, RelEtr 260) und «ca thesan» übersetzt: «Dies ist der Morgen» (s. auch unten im Kommentar).

Aus all den genannten Quellen ergibt sich nur ein konkreter Hinweis auf den Charakter von Catha: ihre mehrfach bezeugte Verbindung mit Fufluns, die an eine Vegetationsgottheit denken läßt. Auch bei Cautha läßt die Verbindung mit Suri auf einen eher chthonischen Charakter schließen. Dagegen müßte, wenn man bei der Übersetzung kauta = solis oculum bleibt, die ja aber keineswegs gesichert ist, für Cautha ein solarer Charakter angenommen werden.

Darstellungen von Catha oder Cautha sind bisher nicht bekannt geworden. Der gesicherte Name des Sonnengottes, Usil, ist von einem anderen Wortstamm abgeleitet; zur Verbindung mit **ausel-aurelii* s. de Simone, C., StEtr 33, 1965, 537-543; Pfiffig, RelEtr 244; zuletzt Rix, H., «Teonimi italici e teonimi etruschi», in I culti stranieri in Etruria. Convegno internazionale di studi sulla storia e archeologia del territorio orvietano, Orvieto 1989, AnnFaina 5 (im Druck).

Für zahlreiche Hinweise und die Diskussion der oben vorgetragenen Überlegungen danke ich H. Rix.

Von der im Artikel → Erus erwähnten Bronzepatera mit der Inschrift «erus» «iuxta imaginem solis» wurde inzwischen eine Zeichnung veröffentlicht (CIE III 2 [1987] 10734). Daraus ergibt sich, daß die Verbindung der Inschrift zum «Bild der Sonne» nicht eng genug ist, um «erus» auf die Sonne beziehen zu können.

BIBLIOGRAPHIE: Arias, P. E., «Una nuova «fiasca da Pellegrino»», StEtr 37, 1969, 27-37; Enking, R., RE IX A 1 (1961) 1084-1085 s. v. «Usil, Usil»; Mansuelli, G. A., StEtr 20, 1948/49, 75; Pfiffig, RelEtr 241-246; Pfister-Roesgen, G., Die etruskischen Spiegel des 5. Jh. v. Chr. (1975) 108-109. 138-140; Schauenburg, K., Helios. Archäologisch-mythologische Studien über den antiken Sonnengott (1955) (= Schauenburg 1); idem, «Zu etruskischen Darstellungen des Sonnengottes», Revista de la Universidad Complutense 25 no. 104, 1976 (= Homenaje a A. García y Bellido II) 175-184 (= Schauenburg 2); Simon, E., «Cavtha/Cautha/Cath» in Gli Etruschi. Una nuova immagine, a cura di M. Cristofani (1985) 155-156; Tirelli, M., «La rappresentazione del sole nell'arte etrusca», StEtr 49, 1981, 41-50.

KATALOG

I. Usil ohne Pferde

A. Kopf oder Büste im Strahlenkranz

a) Als einziges Motiv

1.* Bronzegriffspiegel. Boston, MFA 95.72. Aus der Nähe von Orvieto? – Schauenburg 1, 12–13 Taf. 1; Mayer-Prokop, I., Die gravierten etruskischen Griffspiegel archaischen Stils, RM Erg.-H. 13 (1967) 13 S. 3; 46 Taf. 3, 1; Arias 31 Taf. 13b; Comstock/Vermeule, Bronzes Boston 271 Nr. 391 Abb.; Pfister-Roesgen 32 S. 12; 107–109 Taf. 13; Tirelli 41 Nr. 2 Taf. 15b. – 480/60 v. Chr. – Kopf mit Hals nach l., Binde im Haar. Der Strahlenkranz wird außen begrenzt von einem Flechtband; ihm folgt ein Wellenband mit springenden Delphinen, als äußerstes Ornament ein Efeuzweig.

2.* Bronzephiale. Ehem. Oxford, Ashm. Mus. (ex Bomford Coll.). – Haynes, S., BurlMag 108, 1966, 599 Abb. 2–4; Catling, H. W./Moorey, P. R. S., Ashmolean Mus. Exhibition of Ancient Persian Bronzes and Other Items of Ancient Art from the Collection of Mrs. Brenda Bomford (1966) Nr. 354 Taf. 35; Pfister-Roesgen 108 Anm. 186; 109 Anm. 198. – 2. Viertel 5. Jh. v. Chr. – Kopf mit Hals nach r., der Strahlenkranz von einem Wirbel von drei Flügeln umgeben. Auf der Außenseite der Schale ein Wellenband.

3.* Bronzegriffspiegel. Tarquinia, Mus. Naz. RC 295. – Mayer-Prokop, a. O. 1, 47. – 1. Drittel 5. Jh. v. Chr. – Kopf mit Hals im Profil, Krobylos-Frisur. Über dem Scheitel eine geflügelte Scheibe mit einem sternförmigen Ornament; unterhalb des Halses ein zweites Flügelpaar. Das Ganze umgeben von einem Dreiviertelkreis aus Strahlen, der unten durch ein Wellenband abgeschlossen wird. Im unteren Segment zwei Fische. Die in der Photographie recht unbeholfen wirkende Strichführung mit manchmal nicht ganz verstandenen Ornamenten (rahmendes Flechtband) könnte möglicherweise bedingt sein durch das Nachziehen der Linien auch an Stellen, an denen die antike Zeichnung kaum noch zu sehen war.

4. «Pilgerflasche» aus Ton. Privatslg. Aus Etrurien. – Arias 27–37 Taf. 9–11; Tirelli 46 Nr. 22 Taf. 17d. – 1. Hälfte 5. Jh. v. Chr. – Auf Seite A Kopf mit Hals nach l. innerhalb eines großen Strahlenornaments; auf Seite B Kopf in Vorderansicht, leicht geneigt, von schrägen Linien (= Strahlen) umgeben, Mondgesicht? (Beschreibung und Interpretation von B nach Arias, auf Foto nicht erkennbar).

5.* Bronzegriffspiegel. Florenz, Mus. Arch. 624. – Gerhard, EtrSp I Taf. 71, 3; Fischer-Graf, U., Spiegelwerkstätten in Vulci (1980) 109 V 107; Tirelli 46 Nr. 20 Taf. 17c. – 2. Hälfte 4.–3. Jh. v. Chr. – Kopf mit Hals nach l., vor ihm Akanthus- und Efeuzweig; tropfenförmige Strahlen umgeben Kopf und Zweige.

Ähnlich, Rom, Villa Giulia 12955, Tirelli 45 Nr. 18; vgl. auch Gerhard, EtrSp IV 1 Taf. 287, 1.

6. Bronzegriffspiegel. Paris, ehem. Cabinet Durand 1979. – Gerhard, EtrSp I Taf. 71, 1; Fischer-Graf, a. O. 5, 109 V 105; Tirelli 46 Nr. 19. – 2. Hälfte 4.–3.

Jh. v. Chr. – Ähnlich 5, Angabe eines Gewandes am Halsansatz; Akanthusblatt hinter dem Kopf.

SEHR UNSICHER

7. Giebfeld im «Tablinum» des Volumniergrabes, Perugia, in situ. – von Gerkan, A./Messerschmidt, F., RM 57, 1942, 133 Abb. 3; 166; Schauenburg 1, 33; Tirelli 47 Nr. 24. – 2. Hälfte 2. Jh. v. Chr. – In der Mitte ein Schild, flankiert von zwei Delphinen. Auf dem Schild sind noch Strahlen zu erkennen, deshalb wird meist ein Helios-Kopf im Schildzentrum vermutet. Gorgoneia können aber ebenfalls von Strahlen umgeben sein (→ Gorgones [in Etruria] 66. 66a, s. dort auch S. 344, Kommentar zu 78) und sind als Schildzeichen weitaus häufiger. Auf dem Schild des gegenüberliegenden Giebfeldes ist ein Gorgoneion auf einer Ägis dargestellt (→ Gorgones [in Etruria] 78).

b) Innerhalb mehrfiguriger Szenen

8.* (= Apollon/Aplu 29* mit Lit., = Artemis/Artumes 32) Bronzegriffspiegel. Paris, Cab. Méd. 1300. Aus Etrurien. – Arias 32 Abb. 1; Tirelli 41 Nr. 1 Taf. 15a; Pairault-Massa, F.-H., MEFRA 93, 1981, 139–154 Abb. 4–5. 8e (Heroenkult); Emmanuel-Rebuffat, D., StEtr 53, 1985, 105–113 Abb. 1 Taf. 21 (Aplu-Artumes). – 4. Viertel 6. Jh. v. Chr. – Zwischen den beiden auf altarähnlichen Basen stehenden Gestalten (zur Deutung → Apollon/Aplu 29) ein Kopf (Krobylos-Frisur) mit Hals nach r. in Strahlenkranz.

9. Kelchkrater, rf. Parma, Mus. Naz. C 100. Aus Sommarvilla Sabina. – EVP 37–38: Sommarvilla-Maler; CVA 2 IV B Taf. 1 (2044); Tirelli 47 Nr. 23 Taf. 18b; Gilotta, F., Prospettiva 45, 1986, 3 Nr. 2 (zum Maler). – 380/60 v. Chr. – Im Mittelpunkt des Bildes die Büste des U. in Vorderansicht mit nach l. gewandtem Kopf, umgeben von einem riesigen Strahlenkranz. Fünf Satyrn, unterhalb und zu Seiten der Sonne, reagieren mit Gesten des Erschreckens und Erstaunens auf die Erscheinung. U. ist in apollinischem Typus, mit einem Lorbeerkranz im langen Haar dargestellt; er trägt auf einem reich gemusterten Gewand die Kreuzbandgürtung, die Wagenlenker kennzeichnet.

10. (= Aias II 98*, = Athena/Menerva 148, = Helene/Elina 19) Bronzegriffspiegel. Paris, Louvre Br. 1744. – Tirelli 44 Nr. 10. – Spätes 4. Jh. v. Chr. – Über der Szene in einem nur halb dargestellten, von kleinen, dreieckigen Strahlen umgebenen Reif Kopf mit Hals in Dreiviertelansicht.

11. Bronzegriffspiegel. Orvieto, Mus. Faina. – Gerhard, EtrSp V Taf. 101; Tirelli 45 Nr. 15. – 3. Jh. v. Chr. – Im Hauptbild Parisurteil, im Abschnitt darüber, gewissermaßen im Giebel eines im Hintergrund sichtbaren Säulenbaus, ein von einem auf einer Scheibe aufliegenden Strahlenkranz umgebenes Gesicht in Dreiviertelansicht. Zu beiden Seiten blattartige Gebilde.

B. Usil als Halbfigur

a) Aus Wellen emporstachend

12.* Bronzegriffspiegel. Minneapolis, Institute of Arts 57.14 (früher 57.198). Aus der Umgebung von Orvieto. – Gerhard, EtrSp V Taf. 158; Mayer-Prokop, a. O. 1, 12–13 S. 2; 46–47 Taf. 3, 2; Arias 32 Abb. 2; Tirelli 42 Nr. 3 Taf. 15c; de Puma R. D., CSE USA 1 (1987) 45–46 Nr. 26; 168–169 Abb. 26. – 1. Drittel 5. Jh. v. Chr. – U., frontal, bis zur Brust über den Wellen sichtbar, hält in den ausgebreiteten Armen je einen Ball, von dem Wellenlinien (= Licht?) ausgehen. Hinter seinem nach l. gewendeten Kopf die von einem Strahlenkranz umgebene Sonnenscheibe.

b) Mit dämonischen Zügen

DEUTUNG NICHT GESICHERT

13. Fünf Brönereliefs, a-jour, Beschläge von Wagenkörben? a) Leningrad, Ermitage B 561 (ex Campana). b)–c) Rom, Villa Giulia 51850. 51851. Aus Vulci. d) Vatikan, Mus. Greg. Etr. 12369. e) Sotheby. – Helbig III* Nr. 2672 (b–c); Moretti, M./v. Matt, L., Kunst und Land der Etrusker (1969) 94 Abb. S. 104 (b); Sotheby Cat. Nr. 97, 13.7.1970, Nr. 166 (e); Tirelli 46 Nr. 21 Taf. 18a (a); Haynes, S., Etruscan Bronzes (1985) 275–276 Nr. 81–82 Taf. 173 (a. d.). – 1. Viertel 5. Jh. v. Chr. – Geflügelte, männliche Figur (mit langen Haaren, nackt bis auf eine über Schulter und Oberarme hängende Chlamys) sichtbar bis zum Beinansatz, dort begrenzt von einer bogenförmigen Doppellinie, die Dohrn (in Helbig) als Ansatz von Schlangenbeinen, S. Haynes dagegen als Wellen interpretiert. Auffällig die sehr großen Hände mit gespreizten Fingern. Hinter dem Kopf ein Strahlenkranz.

C. Usil in ganzer Figur

a) allein

14.* Terrakotta-Antefixe vom Dach eines Gebäudes neben Tempel B in Pyrgi. Rom, Villa Giulia. – Colonna, G., NotSc 1970 Suppl. 2, 323–328 Abb. 255–260; Verzár, M., MEFRA 92, 1980, 62–78 (mit abweichender Deutung); v. Vacano, O. W., in: Forschungen und Funde. Festschr. B. Neusch (1980) 463–464 Abb. 1 Taf. 90, 1; Colonna, G., in: Santuari d'Etruria, Cat. mostra Arezzo 1985, 133, 7. 1 D 3; idem, RendPontAcc 57, 1984/85 (1986) 63 Abb. 4. – 510–500 v. Chr. – U. geflügelt, in kurzem Chiton, über Wellen (dargestellt durch zwei volutenförmige Scheiben) nach r. laufend (Kopf in Frontalansicht). Sein Körper ist umgeben von einem Kranz roter, weiß umrandeter Strahlen; zwischen den roten erscheinen die Spitzen schwarzer Strahlen mit weißem Rand.

DEUTUNG NICHT GESICHERT, ABER WAHRSCHENLICH

15.* (= Herakles 2732 mit Lit.) Goldring. Aléria, Mus. Carcopino 62/186. Aus Aléria. – Jehasse, J. et L., La nécropole préromaine d'Aléria. Gallia Suppl. 25 (1973) 195 Nr. 365 Taf. II; Simon 156 Abb. – 2. Hälfte 4. Jh. v. Chr. – U., frontal stehend, nackt, hält in beiden

Händen je eine Kugel, von der Wellenlinien ausgehen (vgl. 12). Ungefähr in Höhe der Hände beginnt eine mit kleinen Kügelchen verzierte Wellenlinie, die bogenförmig Oberkörper und Kopf des U. umgibt (= Licht). Neben und zwischen seinen Beinen Akanthusblätter und andere Pflanzen.

DEUTUNG MÖGLICH

16.* Kyathos, «pontisch», sf. Rom, Ente Maremma. Aus Vulci, Osteria. – Rizzo, M. A., Xenia 2, 1981, 35 Abb. – 530/10 v. Chr. – Flügeldämon in kurzem Chiton, mit Fußflügeln oder Flügelschuhen, nach l. laufend. Auf seinem Kopf sitzt wie eine Kopfbedeckung, das Haar zum Teil verdeckend, eine geflügelte Scheibe.

17.* Halsamphora, sf., La-Tolfa-Gruppe. Florenz, Mus. Arch. 84819. – Lombardo, A. M., StEtr 29, 1961, 311–316 Taf. 39; Zilverberg, M., in Enthousiasmos. Essays... J. M. Hemelrijk (1986) 60 Nr. 39. – Um 530 v. Chr. – Auf beiden Seiten eine mit ausgebreiteten Armen nach l. laufende Gestalt in kurzem Chiton. Möglicherweise soll der Verlauf der Chitonfalten eine weibliche Brust andeuten, doch ist dies nicht sicher. Zu den vier am Körper angewachsenen Flügeln trägt die Gestalt noch Flügelschuhe und oben auf dem Kopf ein weiteres Flügelpaar, über dessen Mitte drei Zacken zu sehen sind (Lotosblüte?). Vor oder auf dem Körper erscheint in Höhe des Brustkorbs die Sonnenscheibe mit einem Kranz kleiner, dreieckiger Strahlen.

DEUTUNG UNSICHER

18. Bronzegriffspiegel. Berlin (West), Staatl. Mus. Fr. 33. – Gerhard, EtrSp I Taf. 36, 2; Zancani/Zanotti, Sele II 246–247 Abb. 53 (Iris). – 1. Viertel 5. Jh. v. Chr. – Eine nach r. laufende Gestalt in wadenlangem Chiton trägt mit beiden Händen eine riesige Scheibe, in deren Mitte ein sechseckiger Stern zu erkennen ist. Ihre von der Taille ausgehenden Flügel biegen sich sichelförmig nach oben, auf dem zurückgewandten Kopf scheint die Figur einen Tutulus zu tragen. Vor ihr eine Blüte, auf der ein Vogel sitzt.

b) mit anderen Figuren

19. (= Eos/Thesan 6* mit Lit.) Bronzegriffspiegel. Vatikan, Mus. Greg. Etr. 12645. Aus Tuscania. – Helbig I* Nr. 735; Colonna, G., StEtr 46, 1978, 110 Nr. 1 (zur Herkunft); Tirelli 42 Nr. 4 Taf. 15d. – Mitte 4. Jh. v. Chr. – Zwischen Nethuns (→ Poseidon/Nethuns) und Thesan steht U. (Usil), frontal, mit leicht nach l. gewendetem Kopf. Er trägt Stiefel und einen Mantel, der, von der r. Schulter zur l. Hüfte geführt, mit der l. Hand gehalten wird. In der erhobenen Rechten hält U. einen kleinen Bogen, hinter seinem Kopf erscheint die Sonnenscheibe ohne Strahlenkranz. Im unteren Segment des Spiegels repräsentiert ein schlangenbeiniger Flügeldämon mit zwei Delphinen in den Händen das Meer.

20.* (= Hyperion 2) Bronzegriffspiegel. London, BM Br. 707. Aus Vulci. – Gerhard, EtrSp IV 1 Taf. 364; Enking, R., REIX A 1, 930 s. v. «Uprium»; de Simone, Entlehnungen I 122; Tirelli 43 Nr. 7 Taf. 16c. –

Spätes 4. Jh. v. Chr. – U. (Usil), frontal stehend, in langem, faltigem, durchscheinendem Chiton, mit Flügeln und einem Strahlenkranz hinter dem Kopf, hält in beiden Händen Kränze, mit kleinen dreieckigen Strahlen. Er wendet sich nach r. zu einem nackten Mann, der einen kleinen Zweig in der Rechten hält. Neben dem Kopf des Mannes die Beischrift Uprum (= Hyperion).

II. Usil mit Pferdegespann

A. Kopf oder Büste des Usil zwischen den Pferdeköpfen seiner Quadriga

Bronzegriffspiegel

21. • Berlin (DDR), Staatl. Mus. Fr. 31. – Gerhard, EtrSp II Taf. 237; Pfister-Roesgen 49–50 S. 29; 108–109 Taf. 31. 32; Heres, G., CSE DDR I (1986) 21–23 Nr. 4 Taf. 78–79. – Spätes 5. Jh. v. Chr. – Im unteren Abschnitt: Büste des geflügelten U. über den vier Pferdeköpfen. Hinter U.'s Kopf die Sonnenscheibe mit Strahlenkranz. Hauptbild: Orest und Klytimestra.

Usil 21

22. (= Alpan 2* mit Lit., = Apollon/Aplu II2 mit Lit.) London, BM Br. 700. Aus Castelgiorgio. – EVP 131 Nr. 10; Tirelli 44 Nr. 12; Cristofani, M., Prospettiva 41, 1985, 5 Abb. 2. – Spätes 4./frühes 3. Jh. v. Chr. – U. im oberen Abschnitt. Hinter seinem Kopf die Sonnenscheibe mit kleinen Zacken.

23. (= Briseis 54* mit Lit., = Chryseis I 3* mit Lit.) Rom, Villa Giulia 12990. Aus Praeneste. – EVP 131 Nr. 7; Tirelli 45 Nr. 13; Cristofani, a. O. 22, 11 Nr. 5. – Frühes 3. Jh. v. Chr. – Im oberen Abschnitt Oberkörper des U. (nackt bis auf Chlamys im Rücken, ohne Strahlenkranz) zwischen den Pferdeköpfen.

UNSICHER, OB EOS/THESAN ODER USIL

24. (= Apollon/Aplu 62 mit Lit., = Artemis/Artemis 44*) Ehem. Florenz, Privatslg. – EVP 131 Nr.

8; Tirelli 45 Nr. 16. – 3. Jh. v. Chr. – Im oberen Abschnitt Büste einer bekleideten Gestalt mit Zackenkranz oder Diadem zwischen den Pferdeköpfen, darunter eine Wellenlinie: Meeresoberfläche.

Nur Kopf ohne charakterisierende Einzelheiten: z. B. → Adonis 7 (= CSE Bundesrepublik Deutschland I [1987] Nr. 39).

DEUTUNG AUF USIL ABZULEHNEN

→ Auri 1* = Tirelli 45 Nr. 17 Taf. 17b; Hauptbild: → Dioskouroi/Tinas Cliniar 58*.

Tirelli 45 Nr. 14; Hauptbild: → Aphrodite/Turan 26* = Dioskouroi/Tinas Cliniar 74: Wagenlenkerin trägt Diadem, also Thesan.

25. Kolonettenkrater, rf. Asciano, Mus. Etrusco 189. Aus Asciano. – Herbig, R., RM 42, 1927, 120 Abb. 1 (Helios?); Schauenburg 2, 177 Anm. 12; Cristofani, M., in CerEtr 330 Nr. 179, 4 Taf. 234–235. – 310–300 v. Chr. – Weiblicher Kopf (Halskette) mit einem aus einzelnen Blättern bestehenden Diadem, zwischen zwei Pferdeköpfen. Die Zügel der Pferde sind an Säulen festgebunden.

B. Viergespann in Vorderansicht, Pferdekörper sichtbar

(Deutung von 29 nicht ganz sicher.)

26. (= Areion 5* mit Lit.) Bronzegriffspiegel, praenestisch. London, BM Br. 695. Aus Praeneste. – Adam, R., Recherches sur les miroirs prénestins (1980) 21 Nr. 3 Abb.; Tirelli 44 Nr. 11. – 3. Viertel 4. Jh. v. Chr. – Im Zwickel der Vorderseite das emporsteigende Gespann, Rumpf der Pferde sichtbar. Der Sonnengott im Chiton ohne Strahlenkranz. Vier Sterne umgeben die Gruppe.

27. Oinochoe, faliskisch rf. Kiel, Univ. – Schauenburg 2, 178–184 Abb. 5–8. – 3. Drittel 4. Jh. v. Chr. – Über dem durch eine weiße, Ω-artig gewellte Linie bezeichneten Meer steigt das Gespann des U. empor. Von den Pferden sind bereits Rumpf und Vorderbeine zu sehen, zwischen ihnen der mit einem großen Stern verzierte Wagenkorb, der den Unterkörper des U. (im Chiton, um sein Haupt ein Strahlenkranz) verdeckt. Zwischen den Hälsen der Pferde Sterne, oben l. eine Mondsichel. Unterhalb der Meereslinie zwei Sterne und eine von Punkten umgebene Scheibe (Spiegelung von Sternen und Sonne?).

28.* Oinochoe, faliskisch rf. Würzburg, Wagner-Mus. H. 5367. – Schauenburg 2, 178–184; Simon, FührerWüzb 274 Taf. 49. – 3. Drittel 4. Jh. v. Chr. – Wie 27, ohne Sterne, Mond und deren Spiegelungen. Chiton des U. mit Kreuzbandgürtung.

29.* Volutenkrater, rf., Vanth-Gruppe. Chiusi, Mus. Naz. 1853. – Erwähnt Levi, D., Il Museo Civico di Chiusi (1935) 124; EVP 171. – 3. Drittel 4. Jh. v. Chr. – Ähnlich 27. 28, aber Wagenkorb nicht zu sehen, sichtbar nur die Deichsel. U.(?) nackt, mit langen, am Kopf strahlenförmig wegwehenden Haaren, ohne Strahlenkranz.

C. Gespann in Seitenansicht

Bronzegriffspiegel

30.* (= Catha 1) Florenz, Mus. Arch. 73798. Aus Orbetello. – Gerhard, EtrSp V Taf. 159; Pfiffig, RelEtr 243–244 Abb. 106; Tirelli 43 Nr. 8 Taf. 16d; Fischer-Graf, a. O. 5, 102–103 V 77 Taf. 28, 3. – 2. Hälfte 4. Jh. v. Chr. – U. (ohne Strahlenkranz), mit einem nur den Unterkörper verhüllenden Gewand, lenkt ein Dreigespann von Flügelpferden nach r. Über dem Gespann ein nach l. gerichtetes Boot, in dem drei männliche Gestalten sitzen: der größte, in der Mitte, wohl U., die beiden anderen etwas kleiner; der rechte bedient das Ruder. Zwischen Pferdeköpfen und Bootsheck am Bildrand ein Löwenkopfwasserspeier, aus dem ein breiter Wasserstrahl fließt. Zwischen dem Boot und den Flügeln der Pferde die Inschrift cathesan.

DEUTUNG AUF USIL ABZULEHNEN

31. Vatikan, Mus. Greg. Etr. 12681. Aus Vulci. – Gerhard, EtrSp IV 1 Taf. 288, 1; TLE 2 Nr. 329; Helbig I<sup>4</sup> Nr. 732; de Simone, Entlehnungen I 35 (25); Tirelli 42 Nr. 5 Taf. 16a; Fischer-Graf, a. O. 5, 93 V 59 Taf. 25, 3; Rea, R., Mon. Mus. e Gall. Pont. Boll. 4, 1983, 49–50 Abb. 13; idem, CSE Vaticano 1 (in Vorbereitung). – 2. Hälfte 4. Jh. v. Chr. – Ein Jüngling mit Chlamys lenkt eine Quadriga von Flügelpferden nach l. empor. Daß die Pferde von der Erde emporsteigen, zeigen verschiedene Pflanzen unter ihren Hufen und ein Baum ganz r. Vom Kopf des Wagenlenkers geht eine Inschrift in einer Kartusche aus: achlei truesi thesthu farce. Die Inschrift muß auf die Szene bezogen werden; dargestellt ist die Apotheose des Achill.

32. Florenz, Mus. Arch. 614. Aus Chiusi? – Gerhard, EtrSp V Taf. 50; Tirelli 44 Nr. 9 Taf. 17a; Fischer-Graf, a. O. 5, 103 V 78 Taf. 29, 1. – 2. Hälfte 4. Jh. v. Chr. – Ein Jüngling mit Schmetterlingsflügeln über einem Pferd, das von einem Flügelpferd im Vordergrund fast verdeckt wird: er reitet auf dem hinteren Pferd oder steht in einem nicht dargestellten Wagenkorb. Neben dem Pferdepaar, ebenfalls nach r., ein Kentaur. Zur Interpretation s. Fischer-Graf a. O.

33. Rom. ehem. Mus. Pigorini (?). – Gerhard, EtrSp I Taf. 72; Tirelli 42 Nr. 6 Taf. 16b. – Spätes 4. Jh. v. Chr. – Jugendlicher Reiter mit Beipferd, über dem eine winzige Nike fliegt. L. ein bärtiger, schlangenförmiger Dämon; am Boden vor den Pferden ein Hund, hinter ihnen eine Eule.

KOMMENTAR

Im letzten Drittel des 6. Jh. wird in Etrurien die von Strahlen umgebene Sonnenscheibe zum erstenmal fest mit menschlichen Figuren verbunden (16. 17). Schon vorher war die geflügelte Sonnenscheibe dargestellt worden: sie wird – sehr klein, vom Umfang eines Armreifs – in den Händen gehalten von einer Frau oder Göttin, die Teil eines Alabastrons ist (London, BM D 4, aus Vulci, «Isis-Grab», Pryce, BMSculpture I 2, 159–161 Abb. 3. 4. 5; Riis, P. J., ActaArch 27, 1956, 25 A 3; frühes 6. Jh. v. Chr.). Die Gruppe der Alabaster-Alabastra ist entweder östlichen Ursprungs oder unter starkem orientalischem Einfluß bereits in Etrurien hergestellt (Diskussion mit den verschiedenen Lokalisierungsvorschlägen bei Riis a. O. 23–33). Ebenfalls von östlichen Vorbildern angeregt ist eine Gruppe von Goldringen aus dem mittleren 6. Jh. v. Chr., auf denen im oberen Feld die geflügelte Sonnenscheibe – allein oder kombiniert mit dem Halbmond – erscheint (1. Rom, Villa Giulia 40876: Becatti, G., Oreficerie antiche [1955] Taf. 72, 277; Boardman, J., AntK 10, 1967, 12 B I 21. – 2. Ducati Taf. 58, 175; Boardman, a. O. 12 B I 20 Taf. 2. – 3. London, Victoria and Albert Mus.: Boardman a. O. 12 B I 9 Taf. 1). Auf dem Exemplar in Rom ist im untersten Feld ein Skarabäus mit vier Flügeln, d. h. in der phönizischen Version des ägyptischen Motivs, dargestellt; möglicherweise ist auch die geflügelte Scheibe durch phönizische Vermittlung nach Etrurien gekommen. Sie wird dort weder, wie in Ägypten, mit Uräus-Schlangen kombiniert, noch hat sie den Vogelschwanz, der in orientalischen Versionen oft zu den Vogelflügeln hinzukommt (zur geflügelten Scheibe im Orient: Moortgat, A., Die Bildende Kunst des alten Orients und die Bergvölker [1932] 49–50; Frankfort, H., Cylinder Seals [1939] 275–278). Die Strahlen, die die Scheibe umgeben, finden sich weder in Ägypten noch im Orient; sie erinnern an ostgriechische Bilder (s. unten).

Auf dem «pontischen» Kythos 16 trägt ein Flügeldämon die geflügelte, mit Strahlen versehene Sonnenscheibe wie einen Hut auf dem Kopf; diese enge Verbindung von Sonnenscheibe und Menschengestalt wird wohl eine Erfindung des etruskischen Vasenmalers sein. Dagegen hat ein Maler der La-Tolfa-Gruppe (17), der die von Strahlen umgebene, flügellose Scheibe mitten auf dem Leib einer Flügelfigur angebracht hat, wohl an ostgriechische Vorlagen angeknüpft, die ihrerseits orientalische Bilder widerspiegeln: auf Skarabäen (Boardman, AGGems 31 Nr. 42–43 Taf. 2. 3; idem, GGFR Nr. 287) erscheint über einer geflügelten, mit Strahlen versehenen Scheibe eine Halbfigur mit Flügeln und einem Kranz kurzer Strahlen über dem Haar. Auf einem Exemplar ist über der Brust deutlich eine Kreuzbandgürtung zu erkennen; dies ist das einzige wirklich griechische Element, das Bildern des Wagenlenkers Helios entlehnt ist; unklar ist – wie bei der Amphora 17 –, ob weibliche Brüste gemeint sind. Eine ähnliche Figur erscheint auch auf phönizischen Gemmen derselben Zeit: Auf einem Siegel der Sammlung Pierides in Larnaka kniet eine bärtige, mit vier Flügeln ausgestattete Gestalt, die mit beiden Händen eine Scheibe hält, über einer Gruppe zweier, von einem zentralen korbartigen Gebilde nach außen galoppierender Flügelpferde. W. Culican, der dieses Siegel und die ostgriechischen Skarabäen besprochen hat (Australian Journal of Biblical Archaeology 1, 1968, 98–100 Abb. 13 Taf. 5c = Culican, W., Opera selecta. From Tyre to Tartessos [1986] 259–261) vermutet m. E. zu Recht, daß hier – in etwas mißver-standener Form der Wagen des griechischen Sonnengottes wiedergegeben werden sollte.

Der etruskische Vasenmaler hat wohl solche östlichen Vorlagen mit dem in der La-Tolfa-Gruppe beliebten Typus eines laufenden Flügeldämons kombiniert. Die Flügel gehören nicht mehr unmittelbar zur Scheibe; diese nimmt aber das Zentrum der Gestalt ein. Die Bewegungsachsen von Flügeln, Beinen und Oberkörper mit Kopf treffen sich in der Scheibe, die ganze Figur ist sozusagen um das Sonnenrund herumkomponiert. Die drei Spitzen, die aus dem kleinen Flügelpaar auf dem Kopf der Figur hervorragen, erinnern an die Blütenblätter einer sich gerade öffnenden Lotosblüte; wenn dies wirklich gemeint ist, müßte der Maler eine Vorstellung von der Verbindung von Sonne und Lotos in der ägyptischen Religion gehabt haben (s. unten). Möglicherweise hat er aber auch ein Motiv orientalischer Sonnenscheiben übernommen; dort wächst manchmal – als Gegenpol zum nach unten gerichteten Vogelschwanz – ein blütenähnliches Gebilde über der Scheibe empor (am deutlichsten auf der Stele aus Sendschirli in Berlin: Moortgat a. O. Taf. 56; Pritchard, J. B., The Ancient Near East in Pictures [1954] Abb. 630).

Die Maler der Vasen 16 und 17 haben die Sonnenscheibe so eng mit der Menschengestalt verbunden, daß sie wesentlich zu ihr gehören muß, d. h. es muß ein Sonnendämon gemeint sein. Unsicher ist dies dagegen bei der Flügelfrau des Spiegels 18; sie trägt schwer an der großen, mit einem Stern verzierten Scheibe und könnte sie jederzeit ablegen. Auch diese Figur hat Vorbilder auf ostgriechischen Skarabäen (→ Iris I 5) und ähnlicher noch in einer Metope von Foce del Sele (→ Iris I 3). Ob allerdings die Etrusker diese griechische Interpretation der Sonnenscheibenträger als Götterbotin und Göttin des Regenbogens nachvollziehen konnten, bleibt fraglich, da erstens Iris sonst in Etrurien kaum bekannt war und zweitens längst nicht alle östlichen Scheibenträger als Iris gedeutet werden können, z. T. sind sie sogar männlich (→ Iris I 11 und Zancani/Zanotti, Sele II 247–248, bes. Anm. 4). Schließlich wäre auch zu überlegen, warum auf dem Spiegel 18 die Scheibe keinen Strahlenkranz hat, wie er für etruskische Sonnenscheiben üblich ist, sondern im Innern mit einem Sternmotiv verziert ist – ganz auszuschließen scheint es mir nicht, daß hier ein Stern und nicht die Sonne gemeint ist (zu Sternen als Scheiben vgl. die als Nyx gedeutete laufende Frau, → Eos/Thesan 12b, aus der Antefix-Serie mit Gestirngottheiten aus Pyrgi, zu der auch 14 gehört).

Dieses Antefix (14) stellt einen weiteren Versuch dar, Sonne und menschliche Gestalt zu verschmelzen: die Figur erscheint vor einem riesigen, doppelten Strahlenkranz. O. W. v. Vacano (a. O. 14) hat bei den schwarzen Strahlen, die den Hintergrund der vorderen, roten Strahlen bilden, an die blaue (caerulea) ägyptische Lotosblüte gedacht, aus der Horus geboren wird. In Ägypten wird dies freilich nie in dieser Form dargestellt. Man kennt nur den auf der Blüte sitzenden Horusknaaben (s. Morenz, S./Schubert, J., Der Gott auf der Blume [1954] passim; Morenz, S., Ägyptische Religion [1960] 188–189; auch Jucker, H., Das Bildnis im Blätterkelch [1961] 178–179). Die farblich variierten Blütenblätter können freilich eine gewisse Ähnlichkeit mit den Strahlen des Antefixes haben (z. B. Pritchard, J. B., The Ancient Near East in Pictures [1954] Abb. 566; Erman, A., Die Religion der Ägypter [1934] 62 Abb. 41); doch sind letztere, die nur Oberkörper und Rumpf der sich schnell bewegenden Gestalt umgeben, kaum als Blütenblätter interpretierbar. Daß der Gott aus der Blüte hervorgeht, hätte wohl anders dargestellt werden müssen, wenn es verständlich sein sollte. Ikonographische Parallelen zu 14 finden sich eher im Orient; neben den schon von Schauenburg (1, 50 Anm. 37) in anderem Zusammenhang erwähnten Sternkreisen, die hinter dem Oberkörper von Göttern zu sehen sind (Ward, H. W., The Seal Cylinders of Western Asia [1910] 199 Abb. 567, 569; 229 Abb. 705; 248–251 Abb. 752–754, 756, 759, 765) ist vor allem der Gott zu nennen, der in der geflügelten Sonnenscheibe erscheint (Rollsiegel: Ward a. O. 224–226 Abb. 676, 679, 682, 684, 685, 687; Relief aus dem Palast Assurnasirpals II. in Nimrud: Ward a. O. 222 Abb. 673; Moortgat, A., Die Kunst des alten Mesopotamien [1967] Abb. 257; Amiet, P., L'art antique du Proche-Orient [1977] Taf. 121) und die Weiterentwicklung dieses Motivs auf einem glasierten Ziegel aus Assur (London, BM 115706: Andrae, W., Farbige Keramik aus Assur [1923] Taf. 8; Pritchard a. O. 314 Nr. 536 Taf. 180). Daß der Gott auf dem Antefix 14 über Scheiben (= Wellen) läuft, dürfte dagegen ein erster Hinweis auf griechische Vorstellungen sein, nach denen der Sonnengott über dem Meer auf- und untergeht.

Die originellen und überzeugenden Bildschöpfungen der Antefix-Serie von Pyrgi, zu der neben Usil und der Frau mit den Scheiben (→ Eos/Thesan 12b) u. a. auch ein hahnenköpfiger Dämon (nach v. Vacano, a. O. 14, 465–467 Abb. 3 Taf. 90, 2 Phosphoros, der Morgenstern) und eine Göttin mit zwei Pferden (→ Eos/Thesan 12a) gehören, haben sich in der etruskischen Kunst nicht durchgesetzt, so wenig wie die anderen, oben genannten Versuche, Sonne und Menschengestalt zu verbinden (16, 17). Durchgesetzt hat sich eine Variante der Gestalt vor der Sonnenscheibe, die im von Strahlen umgebenen Kreis nur Hals und Kopf des Sonnengottes im Profil zeigt. Das seit dem späteren 6. Jh. (8) bezeugte Motiv hat wohl verschiedene Wurzeln: In Griechenland wird Selene manchmal so dargestellt (Schauenburg 1, 14; → Astra 41? 42? 43); die freilich wesentlich jüngere attische Lekythos → Astra 43* erinnert in der Anordnung der Figuren – dargestellt ist die Verehrung der Mondscheibe – sogar an den Spiegel 8. Zu nennen wäre auch ein männlicher Kopf auf einer Scheibe auf einer Elektron-Münze von Kyzikos (→ Helios 277), der manchmal als Helios gedeutet wird. Andererseits ist der Kopf vor der Scheibe einfach die Abkürzung der vollständigen Gestalt; gerade in Etrurien findet man die Darstellung von Kopf oder Büste anstelle des ganzen Menschen ja wesentlich häufiger als etwa im griechischen Bereich. So läßt sich im Kopf vor der Sonnenscheibe schließlich auch ein Nachklang der orientalischen Bilder des Gottes in der geflügelten Scheibe sehen (ähnlich Schauenburg 1, 13), der oft zwischen zwei Adoranten erscheint (wiederum eine formale Ähnlichkeit mit dem Spiegel, vgl. auch Ward a. O. 249 Abb. 756).

Jedenfalls hat das Motiv des Kopfes in der Sonnenscheibe in Etrurien Anklang gefunden. Die meisten Darstellungen stammen aus der ersten Hälfte des 5. Jh. (1–4), wobei es mit dem Motiv der geflügelten Scheibe kombiniert werden kann (2, 3) und ein Wellenband mit Delphinen (1, 3) auf die griechische Vorstellung der aus dem Meer auftauchenden Sonne anspielt. Bild geworden ist dieser Gedanke in der wohl schönsten Darstellung des etruskischen Sonnengottes auf dem Spiegel 12, auf dem sowohl der Gott wie die Sonnenscheibe nur halb über den Meereswagen zu sehen sind. Die Feuerbälle, die der Gott in den Händen hält, meinen wohl die Sterne, die seinen Auf- und Untergang begleiten. Menschliche Figur und Sonnenscheibe sind hier nur ganz locker miteinander verknüpft und wirken doch untrennbar verbunden durch den kompositionellen Rahmen, in den sie eingefügt sind. In einen größeren Zusammenhang hätte sich diese Gestalt schwer übertragen lassen; wenn U. nur Nebenfigur ist, wird deswegen auch später noch oft seine Büste (9) oder sein Kopf (10) in der Sonnenscheibe dargestellt (vgl. auch 5–6, 11, dazu s. unten).

Eine über Wellen (?) auftauchende Halbfigur ist in einer Reihe von Beschlagblechen von Wagenkörben (13) dargestellt, die etwa gleichzeitig mit dem Spiegel 12 entstanden sind. Die übergroßen Hände mit den gespreizten Fingern verleihen diesen Figuren etwas Bedrohliches, das sonst U. nicht eignet. Möglicherweise ist doch nicht der Sonnengott gemeint, sondern ein Dämon, der unter großer Lichtentfaltung erscheint; ein Strahlenkranz erscheint, allerdings sehr viel später, auch hinter der Sphinx auf der anderen Seite des Kraters 9 und sogar hinter Bellerophon auf der Parallelvase (→ Chimaira [in Etruria] 67*). Ein Schrecken erregender Dämon wäre für einen Streitwagen ein durchaus passendes Sujet, selbst wenn dieser nur zu Repräsentationszwecken diente. Allerdings müßte bei dieser Interpretation die den Körper begrenzende Wellenlinie anders erklärt werden. Helios als Wagenlenker würde gut an einen Rennwagen passen, doch ist die Vorstellung des ein Gespann lenkenden Sonnengottes zur Entstehungszeit der Wagenbeschläge noch nicht in Etrurien nachweisbar.

Der griechische Bildtypus des frontal gesehenen Viergespanns ist zum erstenmal belegt auf einem Spiegel des späten 5. Jh. (21), wobei die Flügel des Gottes und die hinter seinem ins Profil gewendeten Kopf erscheinende Sonnenscheibe an ältere etruskische Bildtypen anknüpfen (geflügelt erscheinen in gleichzeitigen griechischen Bildern nur weibliche Gestirngottheiten, → Astra 7–10, und manchmal die Pferde des Helios). Erstaunlicherweise wird hier ein Bildschema aufgegriffen, das in Griechenland vor allem im ersten Viertel des 5. Jh. verbreitet war → Helios 2–11, 95–99, 105; später wird Helios dort nicht mehr in Vorder-, sondern in Seitenansicht dargestellt. Bilder des Gespanns in Vorderansicht sind erst wieder seit der Mitte des 4. Jh. bekannt, vor allem von unteritalischen Vasen (→ Helios 19, 82, 102 sowie → Eos 12 [Helios? oder Eos?], vgl. auch 17, rhodisch, und den Goldschmuck 86–87, 87 wurde in Etrurien, in Bolsena, gefunden; s. auch → Helios/Sol 130, 131). Von Unteritalien her könnte dieser Bildtypus nach Etrurien gelangt sein; allerdings erscheint es auch nicht ausgeschlossen, daß sich im 4. Jh. auf etruskischen Spiegeln, ausgehend von Bildern wie 21, eine eigene Bildtradition entwickelt hatte. Statt wie auf 21 und noch auf 26 erscheint auf jüngeren Spiegeln (22–24) das Gespann – U. angemessener – meist im oberen Abschnitt. Häufiger ist auf diesen Spiegeln im selben Schema eine weibliche Figur dargestellt (→ Eos/Thesan 13–18), die meist als Thesan gedeutet werden kann – am deutlichsten ist dies auf dem Spiegel aus Tuscania (→ Eos/Thesan 13* = Apollon/Aplu 113), wo im Hauptbild die hinter Bergen aufgehende Sonnenscheibe zu sehen ist (problematisch dagegen auf → Eos/Thesan 17 die Deutung der Göttin mit Mondichel und Stern). Da meist nur Kopf und Hals der Figur zu sehen sind, ist oft schwer zu entscheiden, ob eine weibliche oder eine männliche Figur gemeint ist. Für die Göttin sind Diadem und Halskette charakteristisch; U. ist, wenn nicht am nackten Oberkörper (23), nur durch die Sonnenscheibe hinter seinem Kopf (22) zu erkennen (Thesan kann einen Strahlenkranz, aber keine deutlich abgesetzte Scheibe haben; vgl. → Eos/Thesan 22*, 30*, 43, auch CSE Bundesrep. Deutschland 1 Nr. 13). Andere Fälle bleiben unklar (24: Scheibe oder Diadem?, vgl. auch Tirelli 45 Nr. 14; die ganze Gruppe zusammengestellt in EVP 130–131; van der Meer, L. B., BullAntBesch 54, 1979, 58; zur Spiegelgruppe auch Cristofani, M., Prospettiva 41, 1985, 4–14). Da das Motiv des Kopfes in Vorderansicht zwischen Pferdeköpfen aber auch für andere Gestalten verwendet werden kann (25; → Auri 1*), ist in jedem Fall Vorsicht bei der Deutung geboten.

Selbst im größeren Format der Vasen, auf denen mehr vom Körper des Lenkers und von den Pferden zu sehen ist (wie schon auf dem Spiegel 26), ist die Unterscheidung nicht ganz leicht (zur Problematik Schauenburg 2, 183–184). Thesan ist vor allem an ihrer weißen Hautfarbe, an der Frisur und am Schmuck erkennbar (→ Eos/Thesan 2, 3: Ohringe); eine Figur mit kurzen Haaren und Strahlenkranz dürfte U. sein (27, 28). Ein langes Gewand tragen beide, U. den Chiton des Wagenlenkers, Thesan einen Peplos. Auch U. kann allerdings mit langen offenen, wehenden Haaren dargestellt sein (29, wo aber der nackte Oberkörper die Deutung möglich macht). Die langen Haare finden sich vereinzelt auch auf unteritalischen Bildern (→ Helios 131); die nach allen Seiten vom Kopf wegwehenden Strähnen erinnern vor allem an Münzbilder (→ Helios 178, 179, 194). Auf den Kanonen 27, 28 taucht der mit einem Stern geschmückte Wagenkorb gerade aus den Meereswellen empor. Auf 28 begleiten zwei Sterne den Aufgang des Gottes (ähnlich auf 26; derselbe Gedanke in anderer Form auf 12, 15); Sterne und Sonnenscheibe spiegeln sich im Wasser (anders Schauenburg 2, 184: nur Ornamente).

In Seitenansicht, wie sehr häufig auf unteritalischen Vasen (→ Helios 18. 20–29. 77–81. 112–116), ist das Gespann des Sonnengottes bisher nur einmal bekannt (28; häufiger Thesan: → Eos/Thesan 1. 4. 57). Hier ist zwar auch der Aufgang der Sonne dargestellt, jedoch in ganz origineller Weise. Aus griechischen Bildelementen (Sonnengespann, bezeichnenderweise aber keine Quadriga wie in Griechenland, sondern das etruskische Dreigespann) und griechischen (Nachtfahrt über den Okeanos, das fließende Wasser angegeben durch einen Löwenkopf-Wasserspeier) und ägyptischen (Sonnenbarke, besetzt mit dem Sonnengott und Begleitern, nicht mit dem Sonnengespann) Vorstellungen über den nächtlichen Weg der Sonne wird ein Bild eigener Art, das nirgends Parallelen hat: U., begleitet von den uns bereits bekannten Sternen, die hier als junge Männer personifiziert sind, kommt am Ende der Nacht im Osten, am Ursprung (Wasserspeier) des Okeanos an. Er steigt aus dem Boot aus und beginnt mit seinem Gespann den Weg über den Himmel. Die Inschrift bezieht sich nicht auf eine der Figuren; sie steht im Bildzentrum und erläutert die Szene: «dies ist der Morgen.» (zu die Szene erläuternden Beischriften auf Spiegeln vgl. etwa 31 und → Herakles/Hercle 404. In Griechenland treten solche Beischriften schon seit dem 6. Jh. auf, vgl. → Achilleus 491 oder die Inschriften auf der Kypseloslade, Paus. 5, 18, 2–19, 5). Im Bild der Sonnenbarke wird inmitten zahlreicher griechischer Elemente noch einmal nichtgriechisches Gedankengut sichtbar.

Nichtgriechisch, vielleicht originär etruskisch, ist auch die enge Verbindung des Sonnengottes mit vegetabilischen Elementen, die am deutlichsten wird im Bild des Goldrings 15: die Kugeln, von denen Wellenlinien ausgehen, sind uns bekannt von dem Spiegel 12; es sind die Sterne, die U. beim Auf- und Untergang begleiten. Damit liegt die Deutung des Bärtigen auf 15 nahe; die große Wellenlinie, die ihn umgibt, stellt das flimmernde Licht dar, in dem er erscheint (vgl. etwa die Wellenlinie, die hinter dem Kopf des Tinia auf dem Spiegel → Apollon/Aplu 119* erscheint). Auffällig sind die vielen Pflanzen zu seinen Füßen. Ganz ähnliche pflanzliche Elemente sind in das Bild der Spiegelscheiben 5–6 zwischen den Kopf des Gottes und die Strahlen eingefügt; sie erscheinen also sogar im Rund der Sonnenscheibe, die hier durch das Spiegelrund repräsentiert wird. Eine ähnliche Vorstellung wird auch der zwischen Blättern erscheinenden Sonnenscheibe auf 11 zugrunde liegen: Der Sonnengott regt das Wachstum der Vegetation an. Florale Elemente zu Seiten des Sonnengespanns findet man ab und zu auch im griechischen Bereich (z. B. → Helios 25. 164. 166); doch ist die Verbindung nie so eng, daß hieraus auch eine inhaltliche Aussage abgeleitet werden könnte.

Dagegen geht die durch den kleinen Bogen dezent angedeutete Angleichung von Apollon und Helios/Usil auf dem Spiegel 19 sicher auf griechischen Einfluß zurück, und der Graveur des Spiegels 20 hat eine Szene darstellen wollen, in der ihm der griechische Name Hyperion – in seiner etruskisierten Form Uprium – für den Partner des U. passend erschien. Hyperion ist im griechischen Mythos der Vater des Helios; häufig wird Hyperion auch als Beinamen des Sonnengottes selbst benutzt. Uprium wirkt, beschattet von den großen Flügeln des U., gegenüber diesem kleiner und reagiert zögernd, fast bescheiden auf die lebhafteste Gestik des auf ihn zuschreitenden U. Man hat nicht den Eindruck, daß hier zwei gleichrangige Personen einander gegenüberstehen; eher könnte ein unbefangener Betrachter an die Begegnung eines Gottes und eines Sterblichen denken. Wenn der etruskische Graveur wirklich Vater und Sohn gemeint haben sollte, ist schwer verständlich, warum er, als er – mangels griechischer Vorlagen – für Hyperion einen Figurentypus suchen mußte, gerade dieses für eine Darstellung von Vater und Sohn wenig geeignete Schema gewählt hat. Diese Überlegungen haben C. Koch (Gestirnverehrung im alten Italien [1933] 48) zu einer anderen, ihrerseits nicht unproblematischen Deutung geführt: U., im langen Gewand des Wagenlenkers, trete als Gott der Athleten und Zirkusspiele auf und bekränze einen siegreichen Athleten. Der Name Uprium, der den «Athleten» in die Nähe U.s rückt, und die beiden Strahlenkränze in U.s Händen, die demjenigen, der um den Kopf des Gottes schwebt, sehr ähneln, werden aber durch diese Hypothese nicht erklärt: Auch ein siegreicher Athlet konnte wohl kaum durch das Tragen eines Strahlenkranzes U. angeglichen werden; daß U. zwei Kränze trägt, erinnert eher an die zwei Feuerbälle, die er sonst manchmal in den Händen hält (12. 15). Wenn nicht die griechische Genealogie dadurch auf den Kopf gestellt würde, könnte man sich Uprium in dieser Szene eher als Sohn des U. wie Phaethon vorstellen.

U. ist eine der wenigen etruskischen Gottheiten, deren Ikonographie nicht von Anfang an der entsprechenden griechischen Gottheit nachgebildet wurde. Die ersten Versuche, U. darzustellen, lehnen sich eher an orientalische, eventuell auch an durch die Phönikier vermittelte ägyptische Vorbilder an; sehr vieles entstammt auch der bildnerischen Phantasie der etruskischen Künstler, die ohne konkrete Vorlagen Bilder wie das des Spiegels 12 schufen. Der Bildtypus, in dem nur der Kopf des Gottes in der Sonnenscheibe erscheint, wurde für einige Zeit zu einem der beliebtesten U.-Bilder in Etrurien, bis er seit dem späteren 5. Jh. mehr und mehr durch das in seinen Ursprüngen griechische Motiv des mit der Quadriga auftauchenden Wagenlenkers ersetzt wird. Anders als die Griechen bevorzugten die Etrusker dabei die Frontalan-sicht. Fast immer ist der Gott an der hinter seinem Kopf oder seiner Büste erscheinenden, meist mit Strahlen versehenen Scheibe zu erkennen (1–6. 8–13. 20–22. 27. 28; ohne Strahlen: 19); zuweilen ist er auch geflügelt (13? 14. 16. 17. 20. 21; Flügel am Kopf: 2. 3). Immer wieder wird – nach griechischem Vorbild – seine Verbindung zum Meer betont (1–3. 12. 13? 14. 19. 27. 28. 30); doch wird gerade in einem dieser Bilder noch einmal nichtgriechisches Gedankengut sichtbar (Sonnenbarke auf 30). Generell bleibt auch in der späteren Zeit, in der die etruskischen Künstler meist griechische Vorbilder benutzten, die

Ikonographie des U. unabhängiger von der des entsprechenden griechischen Gottes als in den meisten anderen Fällen.

Wir wissen zwar nicht, wie sich der Graveur des Spiegels 30 den Weg der Sonnenbarke durch die Nacht vorstellte; für die Annahme, daß seine Kenntnisse ägyptischer Religion so weit gingen, daß er mit dem Bild der Sonnenbarke auch deren Fahrt durch die Unterwelt assoziierte, ergeben sich aus dem Bild keine Hinweise. Auch sonst haben wir keine Belege für eine in der Unterwelt erscheinende Sonne, wie sie F.-H. Pairault-Massa aus der Darstellung des Spiegels 8 ableiten wollte (a. O. 8, 142–146). Ihre Interpretation geht von der Ähnlichkeit der Basen aus, auf denen die Figuren von 8 und eine heroisierte Verstorbene auf einer Stele aus Marzabotto stehen. Wenn aber gerade durch diese Basis gezeigt werden soll, daß die verstorbene Frau nach ihrem Tode heroisiert, d. h. den Göttern ähnlich, wurde, müssen auch die Götter selbst auf derartigen Basen (zum Typus der Basen s.

Gualandi, G., StEtr 42, 1974, 44–50) dargestellt worden sein; es kann dann die Basisform nicht als Argument gegen die Deutung der Figuren auf 8 als Götter angeführt werden. Andere Anhaltspunkte dafür, daß die Szene auf dem Spiegel 8 in der Unterwelt spielt, gibt es nicht – alle anderen Details (Efeu, Delphine usw.) lassen sich auch ohne diese Annahme interpretieren (s. dazu auch Rebuffat-Emmanuel, a. O. 8, 105–110). Daß der Schild im Giebel des «tablinum» des Volumniergrabs (7) wirklich ein Bild des Sonnengottes trug, ist m. E. eher unwahrscheinlich; selbst wenn das zuträfe, ließe sich U. hier auch «als Symbol des Lebenslichts und Hinweis auf das Weiterleben der Verstorbenen» (Schauenburg 1, 33), vielleicht auf der Insel der Seligen (?), auffassen. Eine Unterweltsfahrt des Sonnengottes oder gar eine «Unterwelts-sonne» neben der himmlischen ist in Etrurien nicht belegt.

INGRID KRAUSKOPF